NEIGHBORHOOD MUSEUM: The mineral collection of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Pfeuffer of 295 Central ave., Mountainside, is a drawing card for many neighborhood youngsters, many of whom have started collections of their own from the Pfeuffers' discards. Mrs. Pfeuffer, who is known as

"The Rock Lady," shows a specimen to Jeff Craigie while Mary Jane Simpson and Mr. Pfeuffer wait their turn to examine interesting specimens under the microscope.

Her Highness 'The Rock Lady' Holds Court In Cellar 'Museum'

By RITA ZEISS
The neighborhood children call her "The Rock Lady," a title which Mrs. John Pfeuffer of 295 Central ave., Mountainside, wears very proudly. Pre-school children often come knocking at her door to ask: "Are you the Rock Lady?" Mrs. Pfeuffer answers graciously that she certainly is and more times than not invites the young visitor in to view the museum that gained her that rather royal title. The "museum," which contains rock and mineral specimens, many of them rare and costly, from all over the world, is housed in the Pfeuffer's cellar. All the specimens are carefully catalogued as to their specie and place of origin. Many of them are arranged behind glass, in old-fashioned china closets, the rounded sides of which allow unrestricted view of the exhibits. Others are displayed on shelves in a dark, windowless room where Mr. Pfeuffer enchants the neighborhood children by turning on his ultra-violet lamp to bring out the phosphorescent beauty hidden in their depths.

THE PFEUFFERs, who will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary this year, never had children of their own but both of them love to have children around. Many children in the neighborhood, intrigued by the Pfeuffers' hobby, have started collections of their own. Their initial specimens were gathered in the stockpile of discards which the Pfeuffers carefully place in the rear of their yard for just that purpose.

All the neighborhood children know that anything in that pile can be toled home to be displayed, admired and saved. Many mothers in the area have expressed their delight with the interest the Pfeuffers have awakened in their children.

Working with children is not new for either of the Pfeuffers. A school teacher before her marriage, Mrs. Pfeuffer has for over 15 years served as merit badge counselor in stamps and coin collections for area Boy Scouts. For many years she conducted a stamp club for children, holding the weekly meetings in her home.

Borough To Answer PBA's Suit In Court

Mountainside's Borough Council has authorized Borough Attorney Nicholas St. John LaCorte to file an answer to a writ filed in Superior Court by the Mountainside local of the Policemen's Benevolent Association. The writ asked the Court to rule null and void a police sergeant's examination given Dec. 21 in Deerfield School by the Union County Police Chiefs' Association. As a result of that examination, Patrolman Walter R. Betyeman was promoted to sergeant's rank.

LaCorte said he will file the borough's answer before that date and will defend the case in court. According to John Zamboni, president of the local PBA, the suit is based on the fact that certain sections of the local ordinances were bypassed in the selection of the sergeant and that the Council in making the appointment "did not take into consideration seniority, service record and general qualifications."

The PBA submitted a letter stating its objections to Betyeman's promotion prior to the special meeting held Dec. 28 for the specific purpose of making the appointment. Despite the objections, the Borough Council, which had reviewed the letter in caucus, voted unanimously to appoint Betyeman a sergeant.

Zamboni said at that meeting that the PBA was instituting legal proceedings.

Leaves Position In Borough Hall For Private Post

Mrs. Marguerite Becker is resigning from her post as Assistant Borough Clerk of Mountainside after eight years in the job. Her resignation was submitted last Friday and becomes effective Jan. 22. Another borough employee, Mrs. Jane May, who serves as secretary to Borough Engineer Robert Koser, has also given notice that she is leaving.

Mrs. Becker has accepted a position as secretary to the plant manager of Bristol Myers Co., Hillside. She will begin her new duties Jan. 25. Job security, pension and other benefits were the reasons she gave for making the change.

In going to Hillside, Mrs. Becker will be returning to her old home grounds for she grew up in Hillside and is a graduate of Hillside High School. She and her husband, the late Lewis Becker, moved to Whipoorwill way, Mountainside, in 1938, three years after their marriage. She has lived in the borough ever since with the exception of a few years during World War II when she accompanied her husband to Maryland where he was stationed with the U. S. Army. While in Maryland, Mrs. Becker worked in the Edgewood Arsenal.

Headed Squad
A long time member of Mountainside's Rescue Squad, she was elected captain at the January meeting of that group, the first woman elected to that position. (Continued on Page 7)

Top Spot On Ballot For Wroblesky

John A. Wroblesky drew the first spot on the ballot for the Feb. 9 Board of Education election. It was announced at Tuesday night's meeting of the Mountainside board. Walter H. Rupp, the only incumbent among the six candidates who are vying for three open seats on the board, is in the second slot.

Sidney H. Reiter and Charles Dickinson French are in third and fourth place respectively and Mrs. Mary K. Rosenquest, the only woman on the ballot, drew fifth place.

Robert H. Britton, Superintendent of Schools, presided Tuesday evening that since the election coincides with the regular February meeting of the board, a program on team teaching will be presented that evening. Mrs. Ingrid Singer and Mrs. Joan Krysnowski, who are currently conducting a team-teaching pilot program for two third grades in Echobrook School, will conduct the session.

Parents waiting for the results of the board election are also approved. Mrs. Kern holds a B.S. degree in home economics from Douglass College. Dr. Edward J. Nolan, president of the board, presented a citation to Dr. Hanigan from the N.J. Federation of School Administrators, the District Board of Education and the local board in recognition of his "record of selfless service" to education. Similar citations are scheduled to be presented this month to other administrators throughout the state.

6 Board Hopefuls Accept PTA's Bid To Annual Forum

Residents Invited To Attend Meeting In Deerfield Gym

All six candidates for Mountainside's Board of Education are scheduled to appear Jan. 21 at the annual Candidates' Night—sponsored by the Mountainside Parent and Teachers Association. The program will open at 8:15 p.m. in the gymnasium of Deerfield School.

All of the candidates, including incumbent Walter H. Rupp of 359 Dogwood lane, have already accepted the invitation to appear at the annual forum, Mrs. Herbert Seidel, PTA program chairman, said Monday.

Other candidates, all of whom are seeking election for the first time to the local board, are:

Mrs. Mary K. Rosenquest of 285 Tippleline rd., Robert H. Britton of 3 Mountainside dr., Charles Dickinson French of 1217 Wyoming dr., Sydney H. Reiter of 3 Clearview rd., and John A. Wroblesky of 1120 Saddle Brook rd.

Allen Dehls of 1491 Deer Path rd. will serve as moderator for the program.

Each of the candidates has been asked to prepare a speech, which will run no longer than five minutes, outlining his rea-

Air Budget Tonight

A public hearing on the proposed budget for the Mountainside Board of Education for the 1965-66 year is scheduled this evening at 8 o'clock in the all-purpose room of Deerfield School. The $1,007,179.50 was tentatively adopted at the December meeting of the Board of Education. The board will officially adopt the budget at tonight's session. That portion of the budget which must be raised by taxation will be put to the voters for approval in the Board of Education election on Feb. 9.

Residents for seeking election to the board. The program will then be opened for questions from the floor.

Mrs. Seidel urged all residents to avail themselves of the opportunity to meet the six candidates who will be competing for the three seats on the Board of Education in the Feb. 9 election.

The PTA spokesman also pointed out that this is the only borough-wide meeting at which voters will have the opportunity to meet and hear all the Board of Education candidates.

Ricciardi Heads Zone Board; Make-Up Of Planners Changes

Thomas J. Ricciardi, the newest member of the Board of Adjustment of Mountainside, was elected chairman of that body at its organizational meeting held Monday night in the Borough Hall. Ricciardi succeeds Everett Perkins as chairman of the board. Perkins, who has served on the Board of Adjustment for 10 years, was not re-appointed.

to replace the late Harry Lake. Councilman William Ditzel is the Council's representative on the board.

There was also a reshuffling of assignments at the organizational meeting of the Planning Board. Robert Garrett, whose term on the board expires Dec. 31, 1967, was elected chairman. He succeeds Albert E. Hartung who was named vice-chairman. Councilman William McCurley, who was elected last November, replaces Councilman Gilbert Pittenger as Council's representative.

The completion of the master plan, which Hartung said last fall would be finalized by late February, may be conceivably delayed by the new make-up of the Board.

The 1964 board had announced that the new Master Plan would not include rezoning for multiple-dwellings. That decision was arrived at, Hartung said at the time, because the board considered it had "received a mandate from the people" at the public hearing in September when approximately 160 residents voted unanimously to keep multiple-dwellings out of the borough.

Golden Keys Blossom

Golden keys will blossom out all over the borough next week! Members of the Mountainside Music Association will be wearing them on their lapels to advertise a special contest which the club will sponsor. Full details will be announced next week, a club spokesman said. Watch for them!

Previous to the public meeting three of the largest civic groups in the town had banded to form a civic league association to "keep Mountainside a one-family residential community."

Mary K. Rosenquest - - - PROFILES ON SCHOOL BOARD CANDIDATES - - - Robert Britton

Tall, lark, slim Mary "Kay" Rosenquest looks like a magazine's picture of a typical suburban wife and mother — alert, confident, outgoing, sure of her place in the world.

And right now her friends have convinced her that her place is on Mountainside's Board of Education. If the voters feel she can do a good job, she says, ready to serve. She fluffs off any pre-emptive phrases like "civic duty" in trying to analyze her reasons for entering the race for the school board.

"That sounds so pompous and stuffy," she says, her bright vibrant face puckering in distaste. She and her husband, John K. Rosenquest Jr., a sales engineer, both feel they owe something to the community in which they have lived for 12 happy years, she explains.

Their oldest child, Kathryn (nicknamed "Muff") started kindergarten the September after they moved to their present home at 285 Timberline rd. School was a happy place for "Muff" as it was for her brother, John B. III, now 15, Nancy, 13, and Jill, 10. All of them, their mother feels, had their interest in learning awakened in borough schools.

That awakening, Mrs. Rosenquest emphasizes, was not just a happy accident but the result of Mountainside's excellent school system, its wonderful teachers and its outstanding educational program.

"Muff," now 18, is a freshman at Skidmore College, the first graduate of the relatively new Governor Livingston High School to be admitted to that leading women's college. Their son, now a sophomore, and a scholarship student at Mt. Hermon School in Massachusetts, received in borough schools the solid grounding

MARY K. ROSENQUEST

Robert H. Britton is a long, lean, angular man. His facial features are sharp, chiseled, but they are softened by small-laughter lines that wrinkle the corners of his eyes. He has a quiet air of authority, an assurance that marks him as a man used to dealing deftly with problems, making decisions quickly and correctly.

An infantry officer during World War II, he was wounded in the bloody "Battle of the Bulge," the Germans' desperate, last-ditch penetration of the American lines during the final months of the European holocaust. He was awarded a Purple Heart and a Bronze Star for that encounter.

A 1944 graduate of Lafayette College, where he majored in economics, he became associated with Briggs, Shaefer and Co., of New York City in 1946. He is now executive vice-president of the firm, an investment securities company.

It is his experience in investment banking and financial counseling which he feels qualifies him to serve on Mountainside's Board of Education. This experience, he thinks, would tend to "lend a balance to the board," and would help him to serve effectively in the areas of financial management and long range planning.

He has no criticism of the present Board. He believes Mountainside has an excellent school system; he thinks as a member of that board he could help to continue and expand that excellence.

He and his lanky-haired wife, the former Helen Christensen, moved to the borough 14 years ago. Their two children, crop-topped Bruce, now a sixth-grader at Deerfield School, and blonde, lady-like Pamela, a fifth-grader at Echobrook, grew up here. When the Brittons outgrew their

Training Opens Next Week For YES Volunteers

Training sessions will be conducted next week for volunteers who will man the office for the newly organized Mountainside unit of Youth Employment Service, according to the vice-president, Mrs. William Gutman. Exact time and place for the sessions, which will be conducted by Mrs. Reuben Ackerman of Cranford, will be announced shortly.

The volunteer chairman, Mrs. Charles Jerome, will contact those residents who have already volunteered to staff the Y.E.S. office, Mrs. Gutman said. Others interested in serving in this area are invited to contact Mrs. Jerome at 300 Partridge rd., AD 2-6688.

Y.E.S. hopes to open its office in Borough Hall by the end of the month, Mrs. Gutman stated.

The date for general registration will be announced within the next 10 days, she said.

Plans for the opening will be finalized at an executive board meeting which will be held within the week.

Rabbi To Speak At Joint Meeting

Rabbi Bernard M. Honan, spiritual leader of Temple Emanu-El, Westfield, is scheduled to speak tonight at a joint meeting of the Westfield ORT and the Greater Westfield Chapter, National Council of Jewish Women. The meeting will be held in the temple social hall at 8:15 p.m.

Rabbi Honan will discuss "Conviction versus Convenience," which he said "is one of the major spiritual struggles faced every day by individuals in modern-day societies."

HONOR ROLL AT MT. VERNON MOUNT VERNON, Mass. — John B. Rosenquest, III, of Mountainside was named this week to the Mount Hermon School Honor Roll for the fall term in recognition of his high scholastic standing. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Rosenquest Jr., of 285 Timberline rd.

Echo Profile - Britton

(Continued from Page 1) former home on Old Tye rd. a few years ago they did all their house-shopping right in Mountainside. They wanted a bigger, better house but they felt they couldn't be a better community for family living.

Their present home, at 3 Mountainside dr., is a spacious one but it has a relaxed, home-like atmosphere. Neighborhood children troop happily across the carpeted floors while the family pet, a toy poodle named Rickey (short for Riechochet which aptly describes his methods of charging around the house) streaks happily behind them.

The only other family pets at the time are a family of angel fish which Bruce received as a Christmas present. The new angel fish are now happily established in the family aquarium, a bowl which has housed an endless number of other fish over the years.

New fish, Mrs. Britton explained in a somewhat mysterious manner, never increase the marine population—in their household, one batch always eats the other hatch. This is contrary to all the rules of nature, the pet store owner insists, but the Brittons' fish obviously have never read those rules. They continue to eat each other.

An old steeple clock that ticks away happily on the fireplace mantel was refinished by the head of household, Furniture Finishing is a hobby he indulges in during the winter months when lawn mowing, Little League activities and other summer chores are not demanding his attention. The Brittons also enjoy golfing "when they get the time."

A charter member and Elder of the Community Presbyterian Church, Robert served as chairman of the building committee for the congregation's new Christian Education building. He served as Little League manager for three years, worked on the Community Fund for four years and is presently assistant committee chairman for Boy Scout Troop 177.

THE FOUR BRITTONS spent a wonderful vacation this past summer in Europe. High spot of the trip was their visit in London where they became acquainted with many of Helen's relatives, whom she had never seen before. On the wall of their living room hangs a painting of a Danish water scene, one which Helen's parents brought back to them as a gift from one of their European trips. They located the exact spot depicted in the painting during their travels and Robert tried to capture it on his camera. However, the rain washed out his attempt.

The trip really began for the Brittons here in the fall of 1963 when they had definitely decided to make the trip the following summer. During the months preceding the trip, "studying Europe" became a dinner time game for the whole family. Each month they picked a different country to study; dinner conversation centered around the country, its geography, its history, its customs and its art. The adult Brittons are not quite sure how much the children learned from that effort but they confess, laughingly, they both picked up a lot of information they never had before.

Helen, whose parents were born in Denmark, speaks the language fluently, an accomplishment that smoothed their travels in the homeland of her ancestors. Robert's rather shaky command of French aided them somewhat, he reports doubtfully, in some of their other travels.

BRITTON'S DECISION to enter the Board of Education race was prompted in large part, he says, by the shortage of candidates which existed until the last two days before the closing date for filing.

Many friends had asked him to run despite their urging he had not reached a decision until it seemed that not enough candidates would file to fill the three upcoming empty seats on the Board.

Far from being disturbed about the rush of candidates who just beat out the Dec. 31 deadline, Britton is delighted that "such qualified people" are willing to seek selection.

"This way, Mountainside's bound to get a good Board... again!" he commented.

Borough Ploughs 27 Miles Of Snow

Four trucks and two jeeps spent approximately 21 hours clearing Sunday's snow from Mountainside's streets. Borough Engineer Robert Koser reported Monday. The equipment, owned and operated by Muesel Inc. of Long Valley, started the clearing operation at 11 a.m. Sunday and worked through the night until Monday at 8 a.m. An average of 10 inches of snow fell in the borough during Sunday's storm, Koser said. Approximately 27 miles of borough roads were ploughed during the clearing operation.

RUMORS HAUNT AGENCIES

Hours Of Honest Labor Wasted On Cruel Hoax

Trudging up the narrow stairway, a loaded shopping bag in each hand, the rotund member of the fraternal organization pushed open the door of the meeting room and with a broad smile laid the giant bags on a round card table. "I've collected over 5000 tea bag labels," he proudly blurted out as he seated himself on a folding chair. "Think that's enough to get the guide dog?" he questioned. The others in the room smiled approvingly. Within a few minutes the enterprising young man was on the phone inquiring of the Tea Council of the United States where he should send the tea bag labels so that he could pick up the guide dog for his brother member, who recently had gone blind. The agent on the other end of the telephone was speechless. Thousands of horrifying thoughts went through his mind. What was this man talking about? Was this a practical joke? Was someone literally taking the slogan, "Take Tea and See," to heart. Still somewhat dumbfounded, the Tea Council representative asked the club member to call back the next day, so that he could have time to check with the tea companies.

Disinayed that the Council wasn't able to give an immediate answer, the man reluctantly hung up the phone and explained what had transpired to the group gathered around him.

At the Tea Council frantic telephone calls were put in to each of the tea packing companies. All categorically denied that they were promoting such a project. They advised the Council to initiate necessary steps to correct the situation, before it caused any embarrassment.

Early the next morning the phone rang at the Tea Council, New York Office. After a few minutes of conversation the caller hung up the receiver. He slowly turned to his friends, who were eagerly awaiting the news, and sadly whispered, "No guide dog for tea bag labels. They never heard of such a proposition. And whoever told us such a thing started a cruel and callous rumor."

The American Foundation for the Blind was informed of this new hoax by an irate woman who, along with many friends, had saved thousands of tea bag labels with the hope of getting a guide dog for a blind friend. The AFB, which recently ended a two-year campaign against the saving of cigarette pack bands for guide dogs, told the woman that any blind person wanting a dog had only to contact one of the agencies offering them, where a visually handicapped person could receive one free. Many hoaxes crop up every week. Some are put to rest immediately, others run wild for months, even years. The AFB advises people to contact them or any local agency for the blind if in doubt about any rumor they hear.

The Foundation, with headquarters in New York, is a national, non-profit educational, research and service agency acting as a clearing house for problems affecting the nation's estimated 355,000 blind people. Constantly on the alert to dispel ugly and cruel rumors that do harm to the fine job health and welfare agencies are doing for blind people throughout the country, the AFB is hopeful that this new hoax will not haunt these agencies for long.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy: I am now attending the University of North Carolina. My friends think that I am a rather pleasant fellow with a fair amount of charm and looks. Not long ago I was looking through my roommate's yearbook when I happened to see an exceedingly good looking girl. Somehow I was determined to meet her.

I wrote a letter to her home address so that it could be forwarded. This letter contained an invitation to Carolina's biggest football game—the Duke game. I am not exactly sure how this letter was taken but I had the best intentions. Even if she could not come, she very easily could have written me. What am I to do? Forget her?

Dear A.C.: A letter from a stranger didn't cut any ice with this gal because she is probably a lady. Before a lady answers a letter, she expects a proper introduction. You should have had your friend do the ground work for you. But it's not too late. Try again... the right way. If the girl isn't already taken, you just may hear from her. Good luck!

Dear Amy: What would you do in my case?—On our vacation trip, we were going to visit my brother who lives in another state. I wrote him and his wife and told them we would arrive. They have no children and neither do we. I received a letter in return from them saying he (my brother) was not able to have any company this year, that he was in debt and they used up all the money they had. Also, that my nephew had been there to see them and my elder brother and his wife had spent time with them. His wife said she was not up to being bothered with anyone else.

I haven't written to my brother since I received that letter which has been five months. Shall I send him some money? Do you think I should write to him and visit him anyway? He lives 900 miles away.

Dear B.E.M.B.: Of course you should visit him. Not as a boarder, but as a guest. His wife made it plain that they couldn't stand the expense of stay-a-while visitors, but I doubt that she meant it personally. Take accommodations at a nearby motel when you arrive and see that they don't have to foot the bill for food or other expenses on your behalf. They are having their problems.

Hours Of Honest Labor Wasted On Cruel Hoax

Trudging up the narrow stairway, a loaded shopping bag in each hand, the rotund member of the fraternal organization pushed open the door of the meeting room and, with a broad smile, laid the giant bags on a round card table. "I've collected over 5000 tea bag labels," he proudly blurted out as he

seated himself on a folding chair. "Think that's enough to get the guide dog?" he questioned. The others in the room smiled approvingly. Within a few minutes the enterprising young man was on the phone inquiring of the Tea Council of the United States where he should send the tea bag labels so that he could pick up the guide dog for his brother member, who recently had gone blind. The gent on the other end of the telephone was speechless. Thousands of horrifying thoughts went through his mind. What was this man talking about? Was one of the Tea Companies offering a dog for tea bag labels? Why hadn't the Tea Council been informed? Was this a practical joker? Was someone literally taking the slogan, "Take Tea and See," to heart. Still somewhat dumb-founded, the Tea Council representative asked the club member to call back the next day, so that he could have time to check with the tea companies.

Dismayed that the Council wasn't able to give an immediate answer, the man reluctantly hung up the phone and explained what had transpired to the group gathered around him. At the Tea Council frantic telephone calls were put in to each of the tea packing companies. All categorically denied that they were promoting such a project. They advised the Council to initiate necessary steps to correct the situation, before it caused any embarrassment.

Early the next morning the phone rang at the Tea Council's New York Office. After a few minutes of conversation the caller hung up the receiver. He slowly turned to his friends, who were eagerly awaiting the news, and sadly whimpered, "No guide dog for tea bag labels. They never heard of such a proposition. And whoever told us such a thing started a cruel and callous rumor."

And so a new hoax was born! The American Foundation for the Blind was informed of this new hoax by an irate woman who, along with many friends, had saved thousands of tea bag labels with the hope of getting a guide dog for a blind friend. The AFB, which recently ended a two year campaign against the saving of cigarette pack bands for guide dogs, told the woman that any blind person wanting a dog had only to contact one of the agencies offering them, where a visually handicapped person could receive one free.

Many hoaxes crop up every week. Some are put to rest immediately, others run wild for months, even years. The AFB advises people to contact them or any local agency for the blind if in doubt about any rumor they hear. The Foundation, with headquarters in New York, is a national non-profit educational, research and service agency acting as a clearing house for problems affecting the nation's estimated 355,000 blind people. Constantly on the alert to dispel ugly and cruel rumors that do harm to the fine job health and welfare agencies are doing for blind people throughout the country, the AFB is hopeful that this new hoax will not haunt these agencies for long.

BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy: I am now attending the University of North Carolina. My friends think that I am a rather pleasant fellow with a fair amount of charm and looks. Not long ago I was looking through my roommate's yearbook when I happened to see an exceedingly good looking girl. Somehow I was determined to meet her.

I wrote a letter to her home address so that it could be forwarded. This letter contained an invitation to Carolina's biggest football game—the Duke game. I am not exactly sure how this letter was taken but I had the best intentions. Even if she could not come, she very easily could have written me. What am I to do? Forget her?

Dear A.C.: A letter from a stranger didn't cut any ice with this gal because she is probably a 'lady'. Before a 'lady' answers a letter, she expects a proper introduction. You should have had your friend do the ground work for you. But it's not too late. Try again... the right way.

If the girl isn't already taken, you just may hear from her. Good luck!

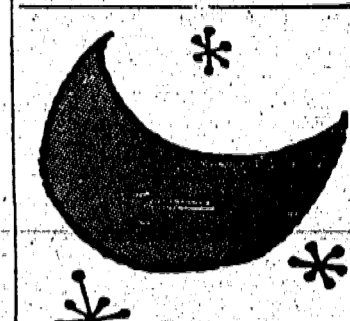

Dear Amy: What would you do in my case? On our vacation trip, we were going to visit my brother who lives in another state. I wrote him and his wife and told them we would arrive. They have no children and neither do we. I received a letter in return from them saying he (my brother) was not able to have any more. So be as helpful, kind and considerate as you can.

Dear Amy: I'm curious to know what you do in your spare time? A Research Chemist. Spare time! What's that? If you ever come up with the formula, package it and I'll be your first customer.

DEAR FRIENDS AND READERS: I welcome this opportunity to wish you all a happy Holiday Season and best wishes for the New Year!

The spiritual demands of "Sacrament" will be brought out in the communion service to be held this Sunday at all Christian Science branch churches and societies.

Bible verses to be considered include the "new commandment" given by Jesus: "as I have loved you, that ye also love one another" (John 13).

Related passages from the Christian Science textbook will speak of Jesus' complete obedience to God's will: "This is the new understanding of spiritual Love. It gives all for Christ, or Truth. It blesses its enemies, heals the sick, casts out error, raises the dead from trespasses and sins, and preaches the gospel to the poor, the meek in heart" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 33).

10 Weathermen Wind-Up Term At Rutgers Agricultural School

Ten experienced weathermen, including one of the nation's top forecasters, are winding up an advanced course in agricultural meteorology at the Rutgers College of Agriculture, New Brunswick, the administration announced this week. The course ends late this month.

The full semester of training includes courses in micro-meteorology—the weather down near the soil level where plants grow—physical climatology; statistics, and soil physics.

According to A. Vaughn Havens, chairman of Rutgers' Department of Meteorology, the U. S. Weather Bureau prescribed the special training for the hand-picked group as a means of strengthening its agricultural advisory service.

The students range in age from the late 20's to about 50. Some will return to their former stations, while others will have new assignments after they receive certificates at the end of this month.

Course work also includes a seminar conducted by Dr. Lawrence C. Ranieri, who runs such an advisory service in New Jersey under a cooperative arrangement between the weather bureau and the college of agriculture.

One of the 10 weathermen, Donald T. Rowland of the weather bureau station in Port Arthur, Tex., won special distinction among his colleagues in 1963 by placing first in the eastern, mid-western and western zones in the bureau's own practice forecast program. He also made the highest score on record.

Chairman Havens said that the practice forecast activity is part of the weather bureau's internal system to check the accuracy of its men.

Those teaching the course at Rutgers also have six graduate and approximately 300 undergraduate students under their wing. Weather courses at the college of agriculture attract about half of the undergraduates, Rutgers reported.

County Mental Health Honors

The second annual citation for outstanding leadership in the field of Mental Health will be awarded to Dr. V. Terrell Davis, director of the Division of Mental Health and Hospitals in the State of New Jersey, by the Union County Association for Mental Health. It was announced today by Thomas P. Prout Jr., president of the Association. This award will be made at the annual dinner meeting of the Association on Monday evening, Jan. 25, at Mountainside Inn, Mountainside.

In making the announcement, Prout stated that the citation is in recognition of the achievements of Dr. Davis in the field of psychiatry and public health. "The award carries with it the grateful appreciation of the citizens of Union County for the work being done by Dr. Davis in his present capacity as the head of one of our important departments," Prout said. Dr. Davis has held the position as Director of the Division of Mental Health since 1956.

He came to the State of New Jersey from Madison, Wisconsin, where he was Clinical Director of the Wisconsin Diagnostic Center. Previous to this assignment, Dr. Davis was Chief of Psychiatric Services for the U. S. Public Health Services in New York.

Her Highness 'The Rock Lady'

Holds Court In Cellar 'Museum'

(Continued from Page 1) that as a child she was "always collecting rocks" but it wasn't until about 15 years ago that she developed her present consuming interest in mineralogy. She took basic courses in it at the Westfield Adult School, both she and her husband learned a lot from their neighbor, Edwin Skidmore, a recognized authority on mineralogy; they studied on their own and went on many field trips.

Four years ago, John Pfeuffer retired from the wholesale florist business he conducted since 1929 in the rear of their property. Since then he has gradually become as absorbed in mineralogy as his wife. He has rigged up an intricate system of lights to display the exhibits in the cellar. He has collected a variety of hammers, chisels, sledges, crow-bars and shovels which they use on their field trips.

"THE BEST part of this hobby," John points out, "is that it doesn't need constant tending. If you garden, raise dogs or become interested in some similar hobby, you have to stay with it, tend it all the time. With this hobby, you can put it down whenever you want, pick yourself up and go off somewhere and when you come back pick it up and no harm done."

The Pfeuffers have picked themselves up and taken off to many places in the four years since John's retirement. Their trips took them all over the United States, into Canada and Mexico. This year they plan to take a Caribbean cruise.

Their trips, with the exception of field expeditions, are not planned specifically to areas where they are apt to find additional treasures for their collection. However they always manage to squeeze in trips to nature museums, even when traveling in pre-arranged tours. Mrs. Pfeuffer remembers that back in 1953, while she was travelling in Europe on a trip sponsored by the Horticultural Society, she saw a diamond cutter in Holland working on stones that were to be presented to Queen Elizabeth of England on her coronation.

Although, as Mrs. Pfeuffer puts it, "we are retired," the household at 295 Central ave. is a very busy place. Taking care of their collections, which also include stamps, coins and beautiful rare shells, takes a good deal of their time.

But the "Rock Lady" and her husband are never too busy to regret the children who come to see their museum. They are never too busy to pause to watch a child's face reflect his awe at the wonder of the universe as the ultra-violet lamp reveals the secret beauty of many lowly rocks.

Four new members, Mrs. Joseph D'Adamo, Mrs. Anthony Poma, Mrs. Walter Lapple and Mrs. Frank Torma, were welcomed into membership of the Foothills Club Mountainside at the January meeting held in the Mountainside Inn.

In introducing the new members, Mrs. Lyle O. Brown, membership chairman, pointed out that enrollment in the civic and social club has now reached 172.

Because of the large membership, several "coffees" will be held at the homes of various board members on Jan. 28 from 12 noon to 3 p.m. The social activities chairman, Mrs. Harold Nelson, announced that each member will soon receive an invitation to one of the "coffees." # Echo Profile - Rosenquest that enabled him to qualify for the scholarship. Nancy, an eighth-grader in Deerfield School, has found learning fun and is now, like Kathryn was, a member of the "Larkettes," the young singing group which has gained much recognition for its excellence. The youngest, Jill, in the fifth grade in Echobrook and finding school an exciting place to be.

Mrs. Rosenquest says her entrance into the Board of Education race is like her former participation in P.T.A., a way of saying "thanks" for the wonderful opportunities afforded her children. Her decision has the enthusiastic support of her husband who also has taken an active part in P.T.A. affairs.

She has the time; there is, she says, no place such a rather busy mother. She also believes that time should be at least one woman on the local board of education. A woman usually approaches a problem or a decision from a different angle than a man does, she thinks. The board needs both types of thinking to help it maintain its overall excellence. Then again, she points out, unlike most of the male members, whose business takes them out of town during the day, a woman member is "available during the day" to handle small emergencies.

THE ROSENQUEST'S HOME, a Cape Cod that snugly on the crest of their property, has a warm, lived-in look. A pine dining room table that belonged to Mrs. Rosenquest's family, and an old corner cupboard help establish the soft, mellow, unintrusive general decor that evokes a feeling of close family living.

Kathryn and young Jack were both home for the holidays and the noise bulged as young friends stopped into visit. The Rosenquests have found Mountainside a wonderful place to live. The children always had room to run and play; they all made close and lasting friendships; neighbors have been all neighbors are supposed to be. "You know smaller and I'd get held up somewhere, all I had to do was call a neighbor and ask her to gather them in after school. We have loved every year we've been here." — There is gratitude and sincerity in Mary Rosenquest's voice.

A graduate of Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass., Mrs. Rosenquest has travelled the usual routes of the average suburban mother. — The P.T.A. executive board for two years (vice-president for one year), den mother for the Cub Scouts, Brownie leader and Sunday School teacher for three years in Community Presbyterian School.

Community Presbyterian church was just in the planning stage when the Rosenquests moved into the borough. They were in on the planning stage of the church—which recently celebrated its tenth anniversary.

The kids are out of Brownies, out of Cub Scouts and their mother breathes happily, even "out of braces," so no more trips to the orthodontist.

But time still does not hang heavily on Mary Rosenquest's hands. She teaches three mornings a week in a private nursery school in Mountainside, she drives Nancy to her piano lessons after school and Jill to swimming lessons. She and her husband were as disappointed as the children when the promised heavy snowfall failed to appear during the recent holidays. The whole family enjoys skiing and they try to get away at least one weekend for a session on the slopes. But so far this year — not enough snow.

Moms Plan Party To Keep Em Coming

"Keep Them Coming" will be the theme of the second annual card party scheduled Jan. 26 at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium of Deerfield School, Mountainside. The affair is sponsored by mothers of boys in Boy Scout Troop 76. Proceeds will be used to provide additional camping equipment for the troop.

The price of admission includes refreshments. Many prizes will be awarded.

During past summers the family has vacationed in New England but this past year they went to Long Beach Island on the Jersey shore. All of them enjoyed the ocean swimming, sailing their small boat in Barnegat Bay and just "loafing on the beach."

Music is another interest shared by the family and Mrs. Rosenquest admits to serving as pianist "in a vague sort of way" at the nursery school.

But there is nothing vague about her love of reading. She hasn't time, she admits, for all the reading she does but she manages to find the time. It is, she confesses without looking a bit guilty about, her housekeeping that suffers since she is "not a spit and polish housekeeper."

She doesn't event want to be a housewife, she believes firmly, are for enjoying and relaxing. And the busy, happy Rosenquests enjoy theirs.

Tips for TODAY'S HOMEMAKER

From MARY ARMSTRONG, County Home Economist

PORK, A HEARTY WINTER MEAT

Pork is usually a good meat choice. It's second in popularity to beef—and usually somewhat lower in price. While pork marketings increase seasonally in the late fall and winter, the low prices of last year are not expected this season. However, a fairly new pork product seems to be gaining in volume offerings.

More and more smoked pork loins is available at retail food stores. Usually sold as chops or roasts, these pork loins have undergone a curing process which is similar to that used for ham, and the flavor is comparable. Though cooked partially during processing, the product requires cooking at home for safety and to develop best flavor and texture. Curing methods may differ among companies, thus, some products may differ in flavor.

As with other processed pork products, the retail price of smoked pork loin does not fluctuate to the same extent as the price of fresh pork. The curing process makes the product less perishable than its fresh counterpart, thus lengthening its market period. Smoked loins must meet the same New York State or Federal regulations for safety and water content as other cured meat products.

Pork is a wholesome and nutritious food if properly cooked. Because of cases of trichinosis reported in New Jersey in 1961, the New Jersey State Department of Health issued a bulletin, "Cook Pork Thoroughly — Prevent Trichinosis!"

To kill trichina, the internal temperature of pork must reach 137 degrees Fahrenheit. Roasting at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 30 minutes per pound is a dependable guide for home cooking.

Use of a Roast Meat Thermometer is recommended, particularly for institutions. Insert the point of the thermometer into the center of the thickest part of the meat, not touching bone. At the meat roasts, the thermometer will indicate the internal temperature of the meat.

Although only a small percentage of pork sold is infested with trichina, such pork cannot be recognized by sight. Thorough cooking provides the only safe means of prevention.

There's nothing much better than a hot, crispy, tender loin pork chop or slice from a roast. But cold pork is good alone and in combination dishes. This American Pork Chop Suey is recommended:

American Pork Chop Suey
 1 pound pork (lean), cut in 2-inch strips
 1 1/3 tablespoons fat or oil
 1 2/3 cups celery, cut in 1-inch
 1/2 cup onions, sliced
 1/2 cup bean sprouts
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 dash of pepper
 2 teaspoons sugar
 1/4 cup cornstarch
 2 tablespoons cold water
 2 1/2 tablespoons soy sauce
 Brown pork in fat or oil. Add water and liquid from bean sprouts and simmer for 30 minutes. Add celery, onions, bean sprouts, salt, pepper, and sugar. Blend cornstarch with cold water and stir into the mixture. Simmer for 30 minutes, stirring frequently. Add the soy sauce. Serve over rice and with crisp chinese noodles. Makes eight full 1/2 cup servings.

GROWING INDEPENDENCE

Independence is not, as some people think, freedom to do what you please. It is freedom to assume responsibility for your conduct.

This involves, at the same time, freedom to make decisions. It means you do not depend entirely on somebody telling you what to do. It also means you have a "mind of your own" and are able to reason out things using previous experience as a guide.

The child who has had little experience is not ready for independence. People have to grow into independence. Growing up is much more than acquiring skills and knowing how to do things. It involves feelings — about yourself and other people. These feelings often make growing up complicated and a real struggle.

Babies are completely dependent. But with growth comes the desire for independence.

This is shown in the early stages when the baby wants to feed, and dress himself, and say "NO" to everything. As he grows he needs increasing opportunities to learn independence and responsibility.

Developing independence is necessary for maturity, but it is a gradual process. Parents can help by understanding and welcoming the growth of independence as well as by providing experiences to encourage the development of independence.

Report to the People

From Your Congresswoman

FLORENCE P. DWYER (6th District N. J.)

A NEW CONGRESS—BOTH NEW AND OLD PROBLEMS
 "When an election is over it is altogether fitting a free people... that until the next election they should be one people."
 —Abraham Lincoln

Lincoln's words — better than any I have seen — point the way ahead for responsible public officials and private persons alike, especially here, in the legislative branch of government, as we begin a new Congress, the 89th, and inaugurate a new President, Lyndon B. Johnson.

The Civil War President's appeal for unity, for "one people," has become a basic part of the American political tradition ever since that tragic time when the American people allowed their sectional, economic and ideological differences to transcend the things that united them — and to end in the bloodiest war of our history.

The hundred years that have followed have proven the wisdom of Lincoln's words. Free and honest elections have been the way we settle our differences, and regardless of disappointments our people have accepted the results as loyal citizens and worked together in the best interests of the nation.

Unity, Not Conformity
 Our theory and practice of unity, nevertheless, should not be mistaken for colorless conformity or an empty neutralism. The principle of "one people" was never intended to obscure diversity or prevent disagreement or stifle debate. Through such devices as our two-party system, the separation of powers between the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government, and our Federal-State-Local system for sharing governmental power, we have developed ways both of expressing differences and reaching agreement and without tearing our country apart in the process.

Lincoln's words, therefore, mean just as much in 1965 as they did in 1865. As I interpret them they are an appeal to our country first and politics second, to consider legislative proposals on their merits rather than in terms of political gain, to seek ways of bringing people together instead of dividing them. In my experience, because people today more than ever before expect from politics and politicians not just a struggle for power but a competition of public service and responsibility and sound progress.

It is on this understanding of my job as public servant-politician that I begin my ninth year as your Representative in Congress. And it will be on this basis that I shall study, problems; make decisions and consult with my constituents.

Congress Gets To Work
 As I write this report, the first week of the new Congress is drawing to a close. In these first few days, we have heard the President evaluate the state of the union as he sees it and outline the direction he intends to follow. We have voted on key organizational questions and introduced some of the bills that initiate the long and complex process of enacting laws.

The President's message was significant in several respects. It was unusually general, especially as it dealt with foreign affairs. It failed to suggest any new approach or purpose any new effort to deal with the grave crises we face abroad. It avoided any meaningful reference to our delicate position in Vietnam, to our increasingly serious difficulties with Western European friends, to our lack of a rational and effective policy for dealing with such arrogant and aggressive rulers as President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, or to the need for the long-delayed reform of foreign aid — among many other foreign policy problems.

As it concerned domestic and social problems, the President's tone was very different. Though still marked by generalizations, the message brimmed and bubbled with the President's vision of the Great Society where, somehow, every man's dreams come true. It reflected, in its explicit appeal to all groups and all sections, the President's preoccupation with building an American "consensus."

First Things First

As my own contribution to the log-jam of legislation introduced on the first day of the new Congress, I concentrated on what seems to me to be the principle items of unfinished business from the old 88th Congress — the need to redeem our bi-partisan promises of an overdue increase of benefits and other improvements in the Social Security system for the retired and disabled persons, widows and dependent children who rely so heavily on Social Security, and the importance of freeing consumers and small businessmen from the outmoded, unnecessary and burdensome 10 percent excise tax on such things as toilet articles, cosmetics, handbags and luggage.

Early action in both these areas is a must. The Social Security bill I introduced is identical to the legislation endorsed last year by the Administration and approved by big majorities of Republicans and Democrats in the House. Congress' failure to complete action on the Social Security bill last year has already cost many of our neediest people three months of benefits they should have received.

The same principle applies to the repeal of excise taxes. The consumer excise taxes my bill would repeal are widely recognized as being among the most objectionable. We tried to get rid of them last year; we can and should do so this year without delay.

Service to Constituents

With the inauguration of President Johnson close at hand — Wednesday, Jan. 20 — I want to repeat an invitation I extended four years ago to Union County residents who expect to attend. My office will be open; my staff and I will welcome you; there will be hot coffee to warm you and comfortable chairs to relax you — so please pay a visit if you're in the neighborhood of Capitol Hill. It's your office!

To all of you in Union County, let me remind you that this Report to the People is intended as a service to the people I am privileged to represent. If you know of anyone who would like to receive it regularly, if you have questions or comments about the material it contains, or if there is a change of address to report, I shall welcome hearing from you.

I also invite you to call on me whenever I can be helpful in anyway — by letter or phone — either here at my Washington office, at my District office, which is open 5 1/2 days a week for your convenience, or at home. When Congress is in session, I remain in Washington. On most weekends, I can be reached in Elizabeth. Please don't hesitate to write or call.

GROWTH

Union, 8 Other Counties In Rutgers Study

Predictions on the financial future of municipalities in a nine-county area of New Jersey are made by the Rutgers Bureau of Government Research, New Brunswick, in a study published recently by the state.

Titled "Fiscal Capacities of Municipalities, 1960-1970," the 103-page study was made in an attempt to measure the current economic position and forecast the financial future of municipalities in Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Middlesex, Monmouth, Morris, Passaic, Somerset and Union counties.

The study measured three main aspects of community finance: How much taxable property per capita exists in the community; what is the current property tax burden per $1,000 equalized valuation, and what is the community debt?

It divided the communities into five population categories, ranging from central cities like Newark, Jersey City, Elizabeth and Paterson to outer ring areas such as Cranbury, West Milford, Mahwah and Boonton.

The central cities were found to have the lowest amount of taxable property per capita. On the average, they have only about $3,500 taxable property per inhabitant. Outer ring areas have about $6,400 in rates for each resident.

Property tax levies were found to be much higher in the central cities than in any of the other areas. The central cities averaged a tax of $47 per $1,000 real value, compared to only $21 in the outer ring communities.

The only bright spot for the large cities, the report stated, was in their debt-rates. While the central cities have the highest level of current debt, their rate of debt was found to be declining. In contrast, the outer ring areas which are beginning to undergo population expansion, now have the lowest debt, but their rate of debt is increasing most sharply.

The report cited that the relative financial positions of the various categories of municipalities will change only slightly during the next 10 years.

The report attempted to establish a recommended practical limit on property taxes. Based on 1955-58 figures, it estimated that a tax beyond $33 per $1,000 valuation tended to stop the growth of a community. It forecast, however, that as the general level of taxation moves upward, this 33 figure will also move upward, and that it should not be utilized as a hard and fast tax ceiling.

The study suggested that cities in the classification "Core B" — places immediately outside the main central cities, such as Lyndhurst, Belleville, Montclair, Highland Park and Red Bank — seem to be in advantageous financial positions.

These communities have built most of their needed public facilities and it is unlikely that they will undergo any great population increase. As a result, they have relatively stable tax levies and low debts, and they can expect a favorable financial future, according to the report.

A large selection of the study covered the development of a number of measuring devices by which municipalities can predict their own future fiscal capabilities.

The study was Technical Report No. 7, prepared as part of the Northeastern New Jersey Regional Urban Renewal Survey. However, it was actually the first of the technical reports which has been

Mayors Support County College Opportunity Unit

The mayors of Union, Springfield, Linden, Roselle, Roselle Park, Kenilworth and Mountainside are among the 18 Union County mayors who have joined the Union County College Opportunity Committee, it was announced this week.

Their acceptance of invitations to join the new group which is working for the establishment of a county-financed scholarship plan for all full-time county residents who gain admission to Union Junior College, Cranford, was announced this week by former Assemblyman James M. McGowan and Richard P. Muscatello, former assistant prosecutor, both of Elizabeth.

Among the mayors of the county who put their names behind the effort are, F. Edward Biertumpfel of Union, Henry W. Decker of Roselle Park, Warren C. Stadden of Roselle, William F. Koonz of Springfield, Alexander Wiley of Linden, Frederick Wilhelm Jr. of Mountainside and William J. Ahearn of Kenilworth.

"In my discussions with many of our mayors, I learned that they were most impressed by the economy and efficiency of this plan to assist Union County students attending Union Junior College," McGowan said. "They realize that the choice facing Union County now is really this plan costing $80,000 in 1965, or a new community college costing millions of dollars to establish and operate."

"They realize that this coming September we will face the greatest crisis in higher education in the history of New Jersey and they have indicated their willingness to do their part to meet this challenge," he said.

Pitts Appointed At National State

Lehr W. Pitts of New York City has been appointed vice-president and trust officer of the National State Bank, Elizabeth. He will be associated with the Summit office of the bank, according to W. Emilen Roosevelt, president.

Pitts, a native of Douglas, Ariz., attended schools in Tulsa, Okla. He formerly was associated with the Chase National Bank, New York City, and the first National Bank, Jersey City, among other banking institutions.

The dinner is open to all county teachers, board of education members, PTA members and city and town officials will be invited to attend, according to Miss Mary E. Froustet of Union, general chairman. Norman T. Howard of Roselle Park Junior High School, is president of the conference.

Among those serving on committees are: Mrs. Doris B. Wilson of Roselle Park, entertainment; William Tetley of Mountainside, favors; and Mrs. Ruth Minor of Roselle, programs.
