Borough Learns It Can't Use Land Near Echobrook

the only member of the fourth generation, and Dob Dob, another third-generation model. The canine version of the Forsythe family is the property of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Griffing of 1470 Rt. 22, Mountainside.

600 Dogs Entitled To Free Shots

Griffings' Six Lhasas Apsos! Most Unusual Breed

By RITA ZEISS
Close to 600 dogs in Mountainside are entitled to receive free anti-rabies shots next week at the annual dog clinic in the Firehouse. Last year exactly 286 of the canine pets were led in for the free shots. This year a greater number of residents are expected to present their pets at the annual dog clinic which will be held at the Firehouse May 24 from 2 to 4 p.m. and on May 28 from 7 to 9 p.m. Dr. C. J. Chahay, a Westfield veterinarian, will do the honors.

Only dogs sporting 1965 licenses are entitled to the treatment. As of Friday of last week exactly 553 dog tags had been issued at Borough Hall. Owners of tagless dogs can (or must) — it's required by law) pick up the $3.25 license at Borough Hall Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Dogs of all sizes, shapes, breeds and mixture of breeds show up each year. Even in their choice of house pets, Mountainside residents reflect their wide variety of tastes and backgrounds.
They own huge boxers and tiny chihuahuas, quiet collies and noisy terriers, toy pinks and huge dalmatians, Labrador retrievers and English setters, miniature poodles and great danes, and countless other breeds. But probably the most unusual (with the exception of some astounding looking mongrels) are the six Lhasa Apsos, the house pets of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Griffing of 1470 Rt. 22.

Democratic Candidates Clash With Council On Plans For Pool

A progress report on Mountainside's proposed pool and the planned change of posted speed warnings on Summit rd. embroiled a few Borough Council members in a rather heated debate Tuesday night with the Democratic aspirants for the mayoralty and two council seats, who were in the audience.

Completed findings of his pool committee and to request the governing body to retain an architect for initial work on planning the facility. Ditzel also said that town meetings will be held before the end of June to present the plans and to solicit members for the municipal facility. Initial financing for the pool would be obtained, he indicated, through state funds that are available for such self-liquidating community projects.

In reply to Helmut Grimm of 383 Summit rd., who said that the speeders now traveling on Summit rd. made it "worse than living near a jet port," Wilhelm explained that the Council did not set the 40-mile limit. That limit is set by state statute and (Continued on Page 3)

The Griffings six Lhasas represent four generations of the breed which was first brought to this country from Tibet in the early 1930s by a Gladstone (N.J.) couple who had received a pair as a gift from the Dalai Lama.
The Griffings acquired their first pair in the 1930s when they were extremely rare. Only 146 Lhasas were registered in this country by 1957; last year's count was 598.
"Cuddles," a member of the third generation at the Griffings, is about to up that population. Her second litter was due Tuesday and will in all probability be born before this story is released. Mrs. Griffing expected a litter of no more than three, the same as Cuddles' last, and says that for Lhasas the top number in a litter is five.
Cuddles should have plenty of help with babysitting chores. Her mother, Cutie, and her grandmother, Nola, are still with the Griffings.
"You get so attached to them you can't give them up," their owner explains.
Cuddles, her sisters, Whitey and Dob Dob, and her nephews, Happy, like all their ancestors, have impressive Tibetan names to denote their royal ancestry. For instance, Cutie's real name is Champion Linga Drug Fro, which means Little Friend.
All of them except frisky little Happy, who is almost entirely black, have a fur that's light in color, ranging from a soft apricot to a golden sand. Their hair is heavy, quite long and very dense and straight — very straight. It hangs straight over their eyes. (Continued on Page 6)

Livingston Wins First In Festival

Governor Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, won the festival grand award at the fifth annual Rider College High School Drama and Arts Festival, held last week in Trenton. Governor Livingston won the top award for its performance of the last act of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town."

William Seeds, the Democrats' mayoralty candidate, asked if the Borough Council were endorsing the pool as a public project and if it had committed community funds to the project. Ditzel replied that "some monies would be necessary to purchase the land" (the four-and-a-half acre tract fronting on the east-bound lane of Rt. 22 adjacent to the playing field of Echobrook School) but that the borough would be reimbursed. To Seeds' question on whether the borough's credit must be extended to gain funds, Ditzel replied that the utility bonds issued for such self-supporting projects do not hamper the borrowing capacity of a community.

Library Meeting Is Rescheduled

The second borough-wide meeting of the proposed new library for Mountainside has been postponed until next Wednesday evening. The postponement was announced at Monday night's meeting of the Library Trustees by Gene Simpson, chairman of the library redevelopment committee. The change was made, Simpson said, because of the conflict with the public hearing on the master plan scheduled last night in Deerfield School.

Domareki Among National Artists Selected For Exhibit In Missouri

Joseph Domareki of 1482 Fox trail, Mountainside, is among the limited number of artists whose paintings have qualified for showing in America's largest exposition of its kind, Watercolor U.S.A., at the Springfield, Mo., Art Museum.

Representatives of 16 borough organizations attended the first meeting held two weeks ago, Simpson and Harry Devlin, vice-president of the Library Trustees and co-chairman of the redevelopment committee, presented at that time general plans for raising funds for the library construction. All organizations in the borough are urged to send representatives to Wednesday night's meeting.

Deed Restriction Limits Building To One-Families

Deed restrictions on a tract of Borough-owned land near the intersection of Rt. 22 and New Providence rd. prohibit the erection of anything but one-family homes there, it was learned this week. That fact was a major element in the decision of the Planning Board to recommend in its master plan the use of Echobrook School as a municipal center.

Weppler Resigns Adjustment Seat; 2nd To Quit In '65

Wilfred W. Weppler, who has served on Mountainside's Board of Adjustment since 1960, resigned Monday night from that body. Weppler's resignation is the second submitted to the Board of Adjustment in the past month. Albert Lueddeke, whose term would have expired at the end of this year, announced his resignation a few weeks ago.

Chief Fritz Wins Scholarship For Week's Study At Michigan

Police Chief Christian F. Fritz of Mountainside is attending the Institute of Police and Community Relations in Michigan State University this week under a scholarship awarded by the New Jersey Region, National Conference of Christians and Jews. Chief Fritz was one of nine New Jersey men selected for scholarships to the annual institute which opened last Sunday.

That fact was a major element in the decision of the Planning Board to recommend in its master plan the use of Echobrook School as a municipal center.

The restricted tract has been prominently mentioned as a possible site for the proposed library and/or a new municipal center which would house borough offices and meeting rooms, the police department, the engineer's office, etc.
It is bounded by New Providence rd., the rear of yards on Birch Hill rd. and a strip of land fronting on the westbound lane of Rt. 22, which is owned by the County Park Commission. They are shown on the tax map as Lot 2 and Lot 3. Lot 2 was obtained in a tax sale and Lot 3 was purchased from a private owner named Deitz.

CONGRATULATIONS — Mayor Frederick Wilhelm Jr. of Mountainside, right, congratulates Police Chief Christian F. Fritz who received a scholarship to the 11th Annual Institute on Police and Community Relations which opened Sunday in Michigan State University. Waiting to add their congratulations are Councilmen George Coughlin, left, and Gilbert Pittenger. The scholarship was awarded by the New Jersey Region, National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The restrictions were brought out by Mayor Frederick Wilhelm Jr. at a special meeting of the Planning Board held February 17 in Borough Hall. To overcome these restrictions over 257 property owners who live in the Birch Hill section would have to sign releases, Mayor Wilhelm said at that time. For this reason it was decided at the meeting which was attended by Councilman William McCurley, George Stillwell, William Dietzel and George Coughlin in addition to Wilhelm and members of the Planning Board, that the master plan would recommend the "ultimate use of Echobrook School as a municipal center."

bestowed on Chief Fritz. It reflected, Pittenger indicated, the qualifications which Chief Fritz brings to his job.
Fritz, who has served for the past seven years as police chief, left last Saturday by plane for Michigan. The course runs through tomorrow.

Minutes of a special meeting held Feb. 17 by the Planning Board stipulate that unless Wilson would make such a surrender in writing, his tract would be shown on the master plan map as residential, its present classification.
The minutes also show that the new zoning classification had to first be "approved by the Court and Mr. Wilson."

Mrs. Charles Brackbill of Deer path will be re-installed as president of Mountainside's PTA tonight in Deerfield School. The evening's program, a presentation of the operetta "Cinderella" by the students of Echobrook School which will follow the installation, is a particularly appropriate one, one that will delight the PTA prexy.

She is proud that during her first term as president, the PTA, under its cultural arts program, brought an outstanding musical group to the borough schools, providing the children not only with exposure to "good" music but close contact with the performing artists.

The Brackbills introduced their only child, Lori, 10, to music over three years ago. Lori has been taking piano lessons twice a week for the past three years and her interested mother has attended every lesson.

"By national standards," said Shuck, "we are a small museum with great ambitions. The quality of the work submitted has increased with each passing year, and it is the artists themselves who have brought Watercolor U.S.A. to its present position of prominence."
The exposition, free to the public, continues seven days a week through Sunday, June 13.

The library director, Mrs. Emily Hoffarth, announced that 4,254 books were circulated during April and 228 books added to the shelves. Thirty-seven new cards were issued in April bringing the total number of library registrants to 2,566.

Mrs. Hoffarth also reported that the Literacy Department of the Woman's Club of Mountainside had donated $15 for the purchase of new books. The presentation was made by Mrs. Stephen Pida.

Sylvan Pool Treat dissolves instantly in swimming pool water to kill bacteria, can be used just before swimming, never leaves a color or odor, doesn't irritate eyes or skin, is harmless to pool finish and equipment, and comes in breakproof containers. So do many other pool chlorines.

BUT, Sylvan Pool Treat, a lithium base chlorine, doesn't leave a chalky residue that other calcium base chlorines leave. That's what makes it the most important thing you put in your pool. Besides yourself.

Stabilize your chlorine with Sylvan Pool Treat Booster. Cuts chlorine loss to sun and heat, slashes chlorine expense.

Senator Williams Reports

By Sen. Harrison A. Williams

MORE $ FOR FISH RESEARCH

I'm happy to report that the Senate Appropriations Committee has more than doubled the appropriation for operation of the Sandy Hook Marine Gamefish Laboratory.

The House Appropriations Committee recommended only about $400,000 for operation of the laboratory. In March, after the House committee reported, I wrote Senator Carl Hayden, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, recommending the inclusion of additional funds and citing the reasons the money was so urgently needed.

The Sandy Hook laboratory is the nation's chief facility for investigating the life cycle of the salt water sport fishes.

It is staffed by a dedicated crew, headed by Dr. Lionel Walford. But, they have been hamstrung by lack of operating funds.

For instance, a couple of years ago, I helped obtain a surplus vessel to be fitted out as a research ship. The ship is admirably equipped, but it has been tied up at the dock more than half the time for lack of operating funds.

The biggest portion of the money added by the Senate Appropriations Committee—$360,000—provides for operating the research vessel full time.

The Senate Committee also added $45,000 for increased use of the fish behavior tank. This tank permits close-up study of the habits of various species of fish.

And there also was $100,000 added for repair and rehabilitation work at the laboratory.

The two versions of this appropriation must now go to a Senate-House conference. But I am hopeful there will be no compromise on the appropriation.

The total amount of money we are talking about is less than a million dollars. This is to finance our chief research effort into a field which provides untold hours of recreation for eight million salt water sportsmen, including many thousands of New Jerseyans.

I might add that these anglers spend an estimated $800 million a year and thousands of Jersey shore residents depend upon this angling trade as their chief source of income.

And yet, it is a beleaguered industry. Pollution and the disappearance of coastal marshes are destroying breeding and feeding grounds. Many of the most important species of salt water gamefish are in a severe decline. And we know next to nothing about how many of them are born and grow to maturity.

The research at Sandy Hook will bring a many-fold return, not only in dollars and cents, but in a recreation resource for our rapidly increasing population.

BIRDS IN HAND

If a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, what are two birds in the hands of Mrs. Muriel Humphrey, wife of the Vice President worth?

They are priceless, at least in this case.

The birds, actually a porcelain figurine of two goldfinches resting on a Scottish thistle, were presented to Mrs. Humphrey recently by the 86th Congress Club.

The club is composed of the wives of members of Congress who first came to Washington in the 86th Congress. It is the custom of the club to hold a luncheon every two years for the wife of the Vice President.

The luncheon was held in May this year and there were several gifts presented, but the presentation of the birds highlighted the affair.

They were made by Edward Marshal Boehm of Trenton, who is world-famous for his bird sculptures. He sculpts the birds in clay and then makes a mold from the sculpture. The birds are cast in porcelain.

Mr. Boehm has sculpted 70 different birds over the past decade and the porcelains are exhibited in the Vatican, Buckingham Palace and many of the world's greatest museums, including the Smithsonian.

The gift for Mrs. Humphrey was very graciously donated by Mr. Boehm when my wife called to inquire about the possibility of obtaining the goldfinches. I came to the Senate in the 86th Congress, of course, and Mrs. Williams is a member of the 86th Congress Club.

The flame that cooked your egg today will light this bulb tomorrow.

The hard-working gas flame you know so well will soon be taking on another job. The creation of electricity for your home. The principle is well known and simple: a small gas-burning turbine will drive a generator which, in turn, creates electricity, while providing heat and air conditioning as a byproduct.

We call it GAS TOTAL ENERGY, the concept of one abundant, dependable fuel providing all the energy we need.

Now it's yours. Use oil or high velocity in produced by the turning of a turbine. This oil causes a carbon generator to receive which produces electricity. The exhaust hot air produces steam for heating and cooling.

for homes, offices, factories, hospitals. Natural gas is so dependable that it backs up electricity now in many areas such as hospitals, police stations and fire houses. When the electrical power goes off an emergency natural gas powered generator goes into action immediately to provide power for lights and equipment.

The new Elizabethtown Gas Company building, now under construction in Elizabeth, will feature GAS TOTAL ENERGY. Except for telephone lines, there won't be a single wire entering the building. All energy for heat, hot water, air-conditioning, illumination, appliances, office equipment and elevators will originate from a miraculous blue flame.

TOTAL ENERGY is not science fiction. It is proven and in use today. It will provide absolutely foolproof, economical power for your home tomorrow.

What will those Gas Company people think of next? You. As always.

Soloists Named For Royal Ballet

Svetlana Beriosova, ballerina of the Royal Ballet, will appear in the tragic title role of

Library Accepts Gift Of 'Monitor'

A subscription to the Christian Science Monitor was presented recently to the Mountainside Public Library by a reading group comprised of members of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Summit.

In expressing her thanks for the subscription, Mrs. Emily Hoffarth, library director, said that in her opinion the Monitor is a dependable, responsible source for national and international news, particularly for the students. This opinion was supported, Mrs. Hoffarth indicated, at a seminar on newspapers which she attended where it was pointed out that the many signed articles, particularly those dealing with international news, "gives more credence to its (the Monitor's) news."

Rutgers Man Wins ROTC Band Award

U. S. Air Force Cadet Henry H. Haase of 1437 Orchard rd., Mountainside, won a Rutgers University ROTC Band Award at the 71st annual Military Field Day at Rutgers Stadium recently.

He is one of the university's 1,700 Army and Air Force ROTC cadets.

Cancer Crusade Extended; Goal Not Yet Attained

MRS. J. BROOKE GARDINER

The Mountainside Cancer Crusade, which was originally scheduled for the month of April, has been extended to allow time to reach its goal of $3,000, the chairman, Mrs. J. Brooke Gardiner, announced Tuesday. The crusade was almost $800 below the 1965 goal as of Tuesday, Mrs. Gardiner said.

Exactly $2,218.51 has been collected within the community at that time. However the chairman expressed no doubt that the goal would be reached. She also said the "cooperation and generous response" to this year's drive is greatly appreciated by the Mountainside cancer committee.

All residents who still have the cancer collection envelopes in their homes are urged to pass them on to the next designated place. A speed up of collections is all that is needed to send the drive over the top and duplicate last year's success, Mrs. Gardiner said. Last year's goal of $2,600 was passed when $2,876.25 was collected.

A breakdown of the manner in which the collected funds are spent was supplied by the local chairman. Sixty percent stays in New Jersey to support local programs of research, education and service. The remaining 40 percent goes to the national office to sponsor medical research programs, provide funds for advanced clinical fellowships, research fellowships, statistical research and the development of educational materials.

NY Chamber Elects Mark Richardson

NEW YORK — Mark E. Richardson of 1059 Sunny View rd., Mountainside, was re-elected last Thursday as executive vice president of the New York Chamber of Commerce. Richardson, a former partner of Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery, is also a past president of the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants.

An expert in local, state and federal taxation, Richardson was a member of the Advisory Committee of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. He has also been an advisor to the Subcommittee on Internal Revenue Administration of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives.

He is a member and past vice president of the Federal Tax

Forum, a member of the National Tax Association, and a member of the Advisory Council of the Tax Institute of America.

An alumni fund trustee of Girard College, from which he graduated in 1922, Richardson is the 25th executive head to be elected since the inception of the Chamber in 1768.

Lhasa Apsos

"That's the only way you can tell one end from the other." Trained as watchdogs for dwellings in Tibet, where they are known as "Abso Seng Kye," meaning "Bark, Sentinel Lion Dog," they are a little wary of strangers but are gay and frisky and the Griffings say they are easily trained.

(Our photographer who had his own troubles lining five of them up for a picture, has some other views. But he thinks they're cute too.)

Mr. Griffing, who retired last year from Woodward-Baldwin Co., New York City, is now president of the American Lhasa Apso Club, a group formed for the purpose of encouraging the "breeding and owning of more and better Lhasa Apsos."

The club secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Benitez of South Plainfield, is the owner of "Le," the surviving one of the last pair of Lhasas Apsos sent to this country directly from Tibet. "Le" and his traveling mate arrived in this country in 1950 after being carried by yak-over-the-Himalayas-to-India and then by plane to the United States.

Those Lhasas get around — and with all that fur in their eyes!

Boy Scouts, Dads Attend Camporee Over Weekend

Members of Boy Scout Troop 76 of Mountainside and their fathers will participate this weekend in the annual Father and Son Camporee in Camp Watchung.

The troop, which is sponsored by the Mountainside Kiwanis Club, has received a certificate of appreciation from District 4 in recognition of their "outstanding presentation" of the flag at the District's annual meeting, ground-breaking ceremonies for the Council dinner and the Temple Emanu-El of Westfield.

"The troop's color guard, which features Richard Stelzinger dressed in kilts and playing the bagpipe, participated last week in the annual dinner for the Watchung Area Council. Other members of the color guard are Dick Ross, Peter Saloom, Nell Daubler and Mark Kimak.

Weppler Resigns

(Continued from Page 1) reliably reported that he is moving out of the borough and selling his home at 7 Tanglewood lane. His wife, Virginia, did not seek re-election to the Board of Education last February when her first term on that body expired.

The Board approved two applications before it Monday night. Edmond P. Rochat Jr. of Westfield was granted a variance to build a house on 480 Bayberry lane on a lot under the minimum size. A variance on silline requirements was given to John Schierle to enable him to make additions to his home and garage at 875 Hillside ave.

Echobrook

(Continued from Page 1) that meeting report "there has been some change in thinking since our (the Planning Board's) meeting with the Board of Education on Aug. 17, 1964, however nothing definite."

Last September, the Planning Board, then headed by Albert Hartung, who resigned last February, and the Board of Education, then headed by Dr. Edward Nolan, issued a joint statement that Echobrook School would "not be vacated in the foreseeable future."

After the release of the proposed master plan in April the Board of Education said it would vacate Echobrook but only for a new facility. The Board of Education emphasized that it would seek to retain three public schools in the borough.

Selig Weinberg, who has been blind for the past several years, owns and manages Trans Travel, Inc., at 1966 Springfield Avenue in Maplewood.

A true story about an original idea—combining Braille with a telephone

Until recently Selig Weinberg had trouble trying to remember the many phone numbers that he calls frequently. It was a problem that he mentioned to Jack Slattery, one of our Customer Sales Representatives.

Slattery had an idea: combine Braille with the Card Dialer phone—the telephone that automatically dials a number when a punched card is inserted into a slot. On special tape Slattery punched out in Braille the names and addresses of the most frequently called numbers. Then he attached the tapes to the backs of the Card Dialer cards. It was a simple-but-ingenious solution.

These punched cards are now at Mr. Weinberg's fingertips—making it possible for him to telephone more conveniently.

Working out individual solutions to individual telephone problems is a big part of what we do at New Jersey Bell. New Jersey Bell

Standard Oil Donates Oil Paintings To State

Eight original oil paintings of places of interest in New Jersey were presented to the State of New Jersey by Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) at a luncheon recently at the Nassau Inn, Princeton. Gov. Richard J. Hughes, on behalf of the State of New Jersey, accepted the paintings which are the work of Harvey Schmidt, a young Texan now living in New York. Photographs of the paintings appeared last year in 'The Lamp,' a publication of Jersey Standard.

Young Man In A Hurry May Spoil Things

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am sixteen years old and do not go out with any girl. I would like to go out with a very beautiful girl in my school. I asked this girl to dance with me a few times, but she refused. I love her very much and I would like to date her. I look at her as much as possible. She will look at me, but if she sees me looking at her, she'll turn around and pretend she didn't see me. I have never told her that I love her. Should I write and tell her that I do, or should I wait until she gets to love me?"

OUR REPLY: It isn't wise to tell a girl that you love her when you really do not know one another. And you cannot just wish for something to happen and expect it to happen. The girl is certain to know that you like her. This does not guarantee that she will like you as well as you like her. She may even object to the fact that you look at her so much. Make another start. If you have never been formally introduced to the girl, arrange it through a mutual friend. Get to know her and give her the opportunity to know you. You.

Training, Desire Aid Larynx Cancer Patients

Ardrey - Patient Turned Instructor - Leads Rehabilitation At Clinic

Eleven years ago Robert F. Ardrey, immediate past president of the Union County Chapter, American Cancer Society, came into contact with the work of the organization for the first time—as a patient.

Ardrey is a laryngectomee, surgery having been performed for cancer of the larynx in 1954. Two years later, having been completely rehabilitated and having returned to his position as administrative manager with American Type Foundry in Elizabeth, he decided to put a major effort into the rehabilitation of others with the same malady.

"Laryngectomization," the affable volunteer worker explains, "renders the patient voiceless. At first I was scared that I would never speak again, but the doctors assured me and my wife and son, that with proper training and a strong desire I would speak again."

School Drop-Outs Is Topic Of Talk

Five of the six major recommendations of a state-wide Youth Employment and School Drop-Out Conference are provided for in legislation which he sponsored, Assemblyman Peter J. McDonough, of Plainfield, reported in a talk prepared for today's meeting of the Summit Area Women's Republican Club. These pertain specifically to the interrelated fields of education, idleness and waywardness.

Assemblyman McDonough—who is chairman of a commission working on two phases of the general condition.

"Both in the commission studies and in the legislation we have drafted," said Mr. McDonough, "we are reaching for measures and methods to induct our teen-agers to remain at their books until they have completed their basic schooling. We want those who cannot go on to college or do not thirst for more education, to be fitted nevertheless for gainful employment—or at least to be headed in that direction."

"To achieve this end we must improve their training, encourage the creation of jobs they can master, make their instruction more specific, permit them, regardless of age, to work at trades they have learned, and put them within reach of opportunity," he said.

5 Non-Credit Courses Offered This Summer

Five non-credit courses in French and Spanish refresher, English review, introductory algebra, and trigonometry will be offered at Union Junior College's Summer Session, it was announced this week by Prof. Walter B. Matimore, director.

The Summer Session will open on June 28 and continue through Aug. 6. Registration will be conducted on June 23 and 24 from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

that luckily for me they didn't hold too strictly to their resolution for the first few weeks. I did indeed learn to speak again in approximately three months." According to Ardrey, three to four months is a normal length of time with the proper instruction.

After three years of volunteer work, Ardrey, Westfield resident, was motivated to work specifically with Union County residents — his amounts to—would be great. But I don't think it's good policy or courageous statesmanship to go around imposing nuisance taxes for their alleged "psychological" value while refusing to take those steps which the experts tell us could really straighten out our balance of payments problems.

An Economic Revolution

Driving past the Newark Airport on the N. J. Turnpike at 60 m.p.h. doesn't allow much opportunity to observe what's going on across the highway at Port Newark and Port Elizabeth on Newark Bay. But an economic revolution is taking place there—of particular importance to the economy of Union County, within the boundaries of which Port Elizabeth is located.

The construction of these two new international shipping terminals is shifting the focal point of trade in the giant New York Harbor to the New Jersey side of the port. By the time they are completed, Ports Newark and Elizabeth will handle 40 percent of the shipping of the entire port, the world's largest. Already, Newark Bay carries 10 million tons of cargo annually, valued at more than $6 billion, and the Kill Van Kull (a major entrance channel to Newark Bay) is used by 50 percent of the waterborne commerce of the port; a greater volume of traffic than any other coastal port in the U.S.

The Port of New York Authority is investing hundreds of millions of dollars in the two N. J. terminals, and at Port Newark employment now totals more than 4,500 and annual payrolls over $25 million. At Port Elizabeth, construction workers alone are earning more than $2.6 million a year. When completed, the Elizabeth terminal will handle five million tons of cargo annually, employ 9,500 people, and provide payrolls exceeding $32 million.

These are some of the facts which I presented last week to the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Public Works as a way of emphasizing the importance of our request for funds to widen and deepen the navigation channels in Newark Bay and Kill Van Kull. The provision and maintenance of these channels is historically the responsibility of the Federal Government, and improvements in our area have been too long delayed. The bigger ships, for instance, cannot negotiate the narrow channels while fully loaded. As I explained to the committee, the future growth of the port depends on its ability to meet the needs of larger vessels—and increased trade.

Some Experiment
This year's housing bill, which our Housing Subcommittee has just finished reworking and sent to the full Banking and Currency Committee for consideration, will present some thorny questions for those of us who want to support good housing legislation.

In most respects, our subcommittee greatly improved the Administration bill. We removed the "new towns" program under which the Government would supervise and subsidize the building of entire new communities. We incorporated our own rent certificate plan as a less expensive substitute for a portion of the conventional public housing program. We improved the housing for the elderly, college housing, FHA and FNMA programs. We provided greater assistance and more equitable compensation for families and small businesses forced to relocate because of housing or urban renewal projects. We tightened up the urban renewal program, encouraged rehabilitation rather than destruction of existing houses, stimulated better use of building and zoning codes as a means of preventing slums, and assisted communities with their water supply and sewerage disposal problems.

The big flaw in the bill, however, is the rent supplement plan under which the Government would subsidize both the building of new apartment houses and the rental payments of middle-income families. Though the program is labeled "experimental," it would involve construction of 500,000 housing units and payment of $8 billion over a 40-year period. Some experiment!

To me, however, the most disturbing thing about this Administration proposal is the total absence of any scale of values or sense of priority. While the Government has just determined that family incomes of $3,300 or less are in the poverty class, and has reported that the median family income is now $6,200, it proceeds to recommend subsidizing rents for families well above the $6,200 income level—and this at a time when we have just begun the mammoth job of fighting real poverty, and millions of people are in serious need.

FLORENCE P. DWYER
(6th District N. J.)

Some thoughts, questions and observations about what's going on in Congress, hopefully of special interest to the people of Union County:

Whatever happened to the Drug Abuse Control Act? The Senate, you may recall, passed this important bill without opposition late last session—after which some of us who were sponsoring the legislation redoubled our efforts to get action in the House.

The House Commerce Committee and the leadership gave the bill first priority in this new session and by March 10 it had been passed 402 to 0 and sent to the Senate. And there it still sits in the Labor and Public Welfare Committee—with nothing done and nothing scheduled.

Meanwhile, the illicit makers and peddlers of "pep pills" and "goof balls" and other dangerous drugs continue to operate their hundred-million-dollar racket relatively unbothered by tough laws and strict enforcement, and teen-age kids — easy prey for those who exploit youthful emotions and insecurities—take the first long step to delinquency, addiction, ruined lives.

"Psychological" Legislation

The House Ways and Means Committee, usually the most sober and responsible of legislatures as they ponder the thorny problems of tax policy, made themselves look rather silly last week when the committee voted to reduce the amount of duty-free purchases which American tourists can bring back from abroad.

This action, if approved by Congress, would limit to $50 (its now $100) the retail value of goods which can be brought to the U.S. by returning tourists without paying the duty charged on commercial imports. The Administration asked for this change as a part of its program for reducing the deficit in our international balance of payments, but most critics strongly doubt it will have an appreciable effect.

What it will do, unfortunately, is penalize those Americans who have been saving for years to spend a few weeks in Europe and bring back some inexpensive presents for their families—for these are the people, not the wealthy, who comprise the great majority of American tourists. The net cost of a cut in the duty-free allowance could vary from $5 to $50 per tourist, depending on the things he brings home, so this proposal would not be likely to discourage our people either from traveling abroad or from making some purchases there.

With more Americans than ever planning to go abroad this year, the nuisance value of this new tax—for that is what it neighbors" as he calls them—who had undergone the same operation.

"We started out modestly at first," Ardrey recalls, "with seven or eight Union County residents transferring to our clinic at Elizabeth General Hospital." Ardrey, 53, went to school to study the very delicate art of teaching laryngectomees to speak. He is today a recognized instructor, having been certified by the International Association of Laryngectomees to speak. He is 75 in the United States.

The clinic has grown since 1958. Today it has a class of 35 and two staff speech therapists.

In addition to his regular vocation at ATF and his 10 hours a week at the clinic, Ardrey spends countless hours counselling laryngectomees and those who face the operation. "If a patient faces the operation with the knowledge that he will be able to speak again and that he will be able to lead a perfectly normal life," Ardrey explains, "he will be ready psychologically for rehabilitation." And who is in a better position to convince them than myself?

Of the hours of his personal life and his unselfish devotion toward this goal, Ardrey doesn't speak—probably because he considers it something he must do for his fellow man. Records show that thousands of Union County residents have been rehabilitated and given new hope through the clinic he helped found six years ago. Support for the clinic comes from annual Cancer Crusades, one of which is being conducted now.

Perhaps the best way to sum up Robert Ardrey's goals and the way he feels about volunteer work with Cancer patients is to repeat the words of his final message as outgoing president of the Union County chapter:

"In this my second and final report to the public, it is a pleasure for me to honor the

ROBERT F. ARDREY

10,000 volunteers who have given generously of their time, efforts and funds in the fight against cancer. With their leadership and assistance we have accomplished much during the past year, but there is still much more to be done.

"We, as volunteers of the American Cancer Society must endeavor to bring to the attention of our relatives, friends and neighbors, the basic programs of the society. We must let them know what is being done in cancer research; how our education programs are saving lives; and what services we offer to the cancer patient and the community. When we have completed this task we can be assured that the public will derive the maximum benefits from our programs, and that new support will be developed from the newly informed."

"In closing, I want to express my sincere appreciation to everyone for giving me the opportunity to serve as president of this worthy organization. I hope that all of you are as proud of being a volunteer of the American Cancer Society as I am."

"Meet our friend... Harry, the local plumber."

Most people don't get emotional about their local plumber. We just happened upon Harry. Needed a plumber in a hurry one day and while he was at the house he talked about modernizing our heating system by changing over to Gas Heat. Told us gas heat was clean, quiet, dependable. Easy to install. He told us everybody's making the change. That builders are putting Gas Heat in almost all the new houses. To make a long story short, we switched to Gas Heat and made a friend... Harry. It's the latest story in every neighborhood. Smart people are changing to Gas Heat. Call

Ask Amy
 BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy: I have a simple problem but I'm at my wit's end trying to solve it.

I have a little boy for a neighbor (eight-years old) whom I shall call Jimmy. He's a spoiled, self-centered, mean only child of a prominent business man (who's well to do). Jimmy comes over every single day to play with my four-year old boy, Craig. He gets on my nerves until I could just scream. Among other things, he doesn't ask permission but comes into my kitchen and fixes himself something to eat.

I've told Jimmie time and time again to stay out of my kitchen. He has broken practically all of my children's toys and leaves my house a total wreck. And the worst part of it is that my little boy idolizes him.

 What can I do? It's getting so I can't be half way decent to him. I just grit my teeth and bear him.
 Sign me . . .

Desperate
 Dear Desperate: Don't indulge your son's likes at your own apparent hysteria. Do speak to the boy's mother about her son's behavior. Until he learns to behave as a guest in your home, do not permit him your son's friendship or your hospitality.

Dear Amy:

I will certainly appreciate it very much if you could help me by putting this in your column. We are people who mind our own business and do not permit our animals to annoy our neighbors in any way. We made a hole in our cellar door so our two cats can come into the warm cellar. They sleep on a warm couch, and I feed them at the top of the stairs landing. Our neighbors (on each side of us) have cats also. Since we are in the middle, we can't keep them out of here. They follow our cats in and eat and sleep here. If they were fed properly, we would not be so annoyed and upset all the time. We don't want to hurt them as we are very good people and humane to animals. But we can't keep getting excited nor can we afford the cost.

We hope you can understand our problem and that you will inform these people to feed their cats . . . and then they will stay where they belong.

Dear Mrs. J.B.: I pass. Your letter speaks for itself!

Dear Amy: My sister is 12 years old and I'm 15. Mother lets my sister wear make-up—and real-high heels, but I can only wear flats. Sis also is permitted to go on dates. Mom won't let a boy come near me. I have to do all the work around the house, but not my sister. My sister is permitted to go to the hairdressers, but not me. She also gets two new wardrobes every year, but I get mom's hand-me-downs to wear.

What does my mom have against me?
 Very Upset

Dear Upset: Who don't you ask your mother? And if there are no answers forthcoming, speak to your father. Your gripe is justified.

F. S. Where does a 12-year-old come off to be permitted such liberties!

Dear Mother: The raising of five children properly is indeed a full time job and my hat's off to you. But strictness in itself, is not the perfect answer to children's problems. Along with firm rules must go an understanding heart and real friendliness.

A parent must think in terms of the effectiveness of the discipline rather than being overly strict to soothe their own hurts or disappointments. Permit her to wear the nylons for this school function. It could pave the way for a better understanding between mother and daughter.

She, too, is going through a difficult time. Children who love their parents are guided on conduct by parental judgments if these judgments are given reasonably and in a kindly fashion.

ADOLESCENT CRITICS

Mrs. Smith was close to tears as she said, "John used to like me, but now that he is in high school all he does is criticize. One time it is my clothes. Another time he is critical of our friends, or the books we read, or the house. There is always something wrong."

Perhaps this case is extreme, but many parents of adolescents are disturbed by their youngster's expressions of dissatisfaction. It is hard for parents to understand this change. It seems such a short time ago that Johnny wanted to be exactly like his father, or Susan wanted to do everything done by mother.

But Johnny and Susan are growing up. This artificial phase of adolescence is a part of the process. Their criticisms may be their way of striving for independence. They may want to impress upon their parents that they have ideas too; that their standards are no longer the same as their parents'.

 There is always a possibility that the youngster may be right. Perhaps mother does look unkempt or poorly dressed. It never hurts to take an objective look at oneself. Your child is likely to be overly concerned about you, however. With the adolescent need for conformity, he may want you to be exactly like the parents of his friends.
 The adolescent struggle for self-confidence and independence expresses itself in many ways. Parents must realize their youngster is going through a difficult period, and they must prepare to stand by with love and understanding to help him develop into a mature adult.

THE FEMININE LOOK

Commentary on a recent National Editorial Association Study Mission Around South America

By TRUDINA HOWARD

12th of a Series
THE CHILE STORY
The women did it.

At least that is what some people say in Chile about the presidential election. In the last presidential election in September 1964, a man by the name of Allende, who was considered pro-communist, and a man by the name of Frei, who was considered pro-western, both were running for president. In Chile the women's voting booth is separate from the men's, which allows a pretty good tabulation on the vote, and in Chile it seemed that many of the men were voting pro-communist and the women were voting for Frei.

Eduardo Frei Montalva, of course, had something to offer. His program for solving Chile's particular economic inflationary and social ills was both vital and ambitious, and he is a young and handsome man. At a briefing in Santiago for our National Editorial Association Study Mission Group which was visiting through South America, we learned that President Frei ranks top among leaders, and is judged to be a politician in the best sense of the word and is an astute parliamentarian, although some question his legislative procedures. "He is candid," we were informed, and will stand for no "hanky-panky." While he is a "simple man" and lives in a simple, middle-class house, "he is an extremely high class gentleman."

With all these attributes going for him, however, President Frei had a big problem. He came into office with a congress that was not with him and at every turn his plans and his proposals were blocked. The cooperation was so poor that Frei almost completely shelved his entire program and waited for the congressional election which was due in March and concentrated on campaigning. The election, was for a full Chamber of Deputies and half of the Senate and Frei campaigned steadily and hard, traveling up and down his country talking to people and appearing on radio and television, in order to get "a parliament for Frei."

Sure enough, in the election his Christian Democrats (no connection with the German party) came up roses. It all was a bit of a surprise, for the Christian Democrats were not particularly favored to win even the presidential election, let alone the congressional election. There are about 12 good reasons for it. There are about 12 parties to compete with and a powerful communist-dominated leftist group, but apparently President Frei's forceful personality and hard work off-set them all.

ONE OF THE PRESIDENT'S most ambitious plans concerned the copper industry which is one of Chile's largest economic resources. The plan generally called for the government owning 51 percent of a large U. S. mining company and 25 percent of two others, with certain payments for the percentages and a promise of stable taxes to the companies. The unrealistic and fluctuating taxes, and failure by Chile to pass legislation on this matter, were choking the copper industry and bringing it to a standstill.

The largest U. S. copper company in Chile is Kennecott's Braden Copper Company. Under a proposal by President Frei before the March election, Kennecott was to transfer the business to a new Chilean company to be known as "Sociedad Minera El Teniente, S. A.," and the government would purchase from Kennecott for 80 million dollars a 51 percent interest in the new Chilean corporation. El Teniente would then proceed with a program to expand copper production capacity from 180,000 tons a year to 280,000 tons taking about five years to complete the expansion program.

The agreement also provided for a Chilean tax rate lower than the one applicable to Braden currently which is 80 percent. For the new company, El Teniente, the income tax rate would be 20 percent and the agreement guaranteed, for 20 years, full stability of tax rates and exchange agreements.

However, as usual with the lame-duck congress, the plan was rejected. Failure to pass legislation on the copper tax matter has delayed Chile in its economic progress. As one official said, "every day that the dirt doesn't fly, delays Chile." This delay, of course, was purely political, for all parties, reportedly, agreed on the necessity for a tax revision law, but all parties were waiting for the March elections.

There is not much other foreign investment in Chile. Nichil Sewing Machine and some English companies are represented, but not many. "There are no economic pirates here," we were told by an American economic specialist, "it is too far and too expensive to justify exploitation."

IT IS TOO FAR for good press coverage too, it would seem. Again we heard that complaint. Chile is so far from the world and the U. S. that there is a great deal of ignorance and misinformation, on both sides, we were told. "But it is a heck of a lot better than it was 18 months ago!" an American official said. "Is Chile pro-American?" we asked. "Well," came the answer, "you can't say Chile is pro-American. It is pro-Chile!"

The government is a very clean government with very little graft, we learned, except in customs, and THAT "is horrendous".... Goods are outrageously stolen as they come in. The social security system "is murder" complicated overlapping, unequal. Early retirement and high pensions have stifled initiative. Chileans, however, have been comparatively free of militarism in government and have a natural respect for law and order.

If Chile is too far for quick millionaires or hurried reporters, it is not too far for the dedicated Peace Corps. There are 260 members in Chile with 500 expected by September. We went out to the country to an old finca (big ranch) with the Peace Corps Director for Chile, William Moffat of Texas, to see the Peace Corps workers teach Chilean farmers how to work the ranch. On the way, Mr. Moffat told us that his biggest problem in Chile was that "volunteers are not put to work right away, but given lectures to learn the case," and having had training and lectures already, "they are chafing at the bit to work." His next biggest problem he said, was personality clashes and psychological doldrums. If a volunteer always complains that he has "bad neighbors" he is sent home. He can resign at any time also, of course. About 12 percent do not work out. The biggest health problem, believe it or not, is colds. Tummy "adjustment" is next.

We had a bit of another kind of adjustment that day ourselves. On the return trip to Santiago we stopped at the vineyards and wine-cellars of the Undurrago family to have lunch in the garden and under the eucalyptus trees and inspect the cellars. The winery produces 10,000 bottles of red and white wine per day--and we had a number of them.

That very night there was also a gala reception at the home of the youthful and handsome U. S. ambassador, and while he didn't produce 10,000 bottles of wine, he did produce some heady martinis. Ambassador and Mrs. Ralph A. Dungan live with their six children in a marvelous modern house on one of the high hills of Santiago. We arrived at sunset time and the view was also heady.

IN A CHILE WINE CELLAR near Santiago on a tour through the winery with one of the eight-brother owners, Pedro Undurrago, who has eight children himself. The vineyards consisting of 400 acres, the wine cellars and the home of the Undurragos, are all on one piece of land. The Undurrago winery produces 10,000 bottles of wine a day of red and white wines only and they are available in New Jersey. (Don Pedro also has four sisters!) With him is Trudina Howard who was on a National Editorial Association Study Mission tour of South America.

Some of our people only saw the view from our Hilton Hotel, however. There was a pool and a pool-side restaurant on the 17th floor, and the men could look at all the girls, of which there were many--in teeny tiny things too--and the women could look at all the Andes.

ALL MY LIFE I had envisioned Santiago as one of the beautiful cities of the world--yet I came away from it, remembering it the least of any of the South American cities. It was a thrilling flight from Asuncion, Paraguay, to Santiago because of flying over the Andes: We were only over the mountains for the last ten or 15 minutes in the total three-hour jet flight, but they were snow-covered and rugged and an experience to see.

Santiago is nestled up against the western side of the Andes with the ocean some 30 miles away. Vina del Mar, the glamorous and famous seaside resort, is 100 miles to the northwest, but while the setting is beautiful, Santiago seems strangely grey. The buildings look square and concrete grey, the streets are wide and look concrete grey, the traffic is monstrous and monotonous and looks as though it consists of all grey Citroens. This peculiar breed of car is so abundant here it was suddenly very noticeable. Made by the French Citroen Company it looks like a tin baby carriage. Possibly it was inexpensive. That could be the reason for such a rash of them. Ah but no. The frail little tin box is 3,000 U. S. dollars. But then a 24-inch, table model TV set even cost $1,000 in Santiago.

It is true there are many

Some of our people only saw the view from our Hilton Hotel, however. There was a pool and a pool-side restaurant on the 17th floor, and the men could look at all the girls, of which there were many--in teeny tiny things too--and the women could look at all the Andes. But the highlight view of all was in Peru at the uncommon level of 11,000 feet--which was Cuzco.

Let's make it a little warmer in the living room, cooler in Junior's room, and leave the kitchen just as it is...

Could you do this in your home? Very unlikely, unless you have modern, delightful Electric Heat with room-by-room temperature control. Electric Heat gives you a thermostat in every room so you can select your own comfort level, exactly, no matter where you are in your home. This kind of on-the-spot control also lets you use heat only when and where you need it. Where rooms are unused the heat can be turned off completely.

Room-by-room comfort control is only one of a long list of advantages you get with Electric Heat. Its steady, even warmth is clean and quiet. Now, thanks to the special low rate for heating your entire home electrically, Electric Heat is more economical than ever before. Call Public Service right now for full details. We'll also be glad to help you plan your new Electric Heat system, without charge.

GOP Conservatives Elect Butler Prexy

Dr. Peter E. Butler of 313 Partridge run, Mountainside, has been elected president of the Union County Republican Conservative Action Club. Dr. Butler is currently running as a Republican Organization for the Republican committee post in District Two in Mountainside. He is opposing the incumbent, Hedley Weeks, in the only local district contest in either the GOP or Democratic ranks.

Dr. Butler and the other newly elected officers of the County GOP Conservative Action Club unanimously adopted a resolution backing President Lyndon B. Johnson for his "strong anti-Communist" stand in South Viet Nam.

Saying that the organization he heads will "stand behind our president when he stands up for freedom," Dr. Butler declared that "it is ironic that the assortment of beatniks and bums, who have paraded for civil rights in this country have now switched to demonstrating for appeasement of communist terror and the brutal suppression of human rights halfway around the world."

Dr. Butler was a prominent supporter of Barry Goldwater in the last presidential election.

The Conservative Action Club will hold its annual political seminar June 19 at the Chi-Am Chateau, Mountainside. Principle speakers will be Clarence Mannon, former dean of the Notre Dame Law School, and Robert Morris, former Republican candidate for the N. J. State Senate.

Holy Spirit Holds Its Final Meeting

The final meeting of the Holy Name Society of Holy Spirit R. C. Church, Union, was held May 11 at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Jeanete ave., Union.

ness meeting new officers were installed by Rev. George D. Drexler, moderator of the society.

Thomas Ehrhart, new president, pledged to continue the good work of his predecessor.

Father Drexler presented an inscribed gavel to Joseph E. Schmitt, retiring president, and an inscribed plaque to each of the other retiring officers. A meal of fried chicken, cole slaw, and other snacks was served.

JULIUS R. POLLATSCHER

League Reelects J. R. Pollatschek

Julius R. Pollatschek, a member of the Union Law firm of Keim, Scotch, and Pollatschek was recently reelected president of the United Cerebral Palsy League of Union County. It will be his 17th term.

Other officers elected were Dr. Leon Grossman of Elizabeth, first vice-president; Mrs. Jerome D. Miller, Union, second vice-president; Mrs. Norman Rauscher, Summit, recording secretary; Raymond F. Obrock, Westfield, corresponding secretary, and Robert P. Ostertag, Union, treasurer.

The League, with administrative offices at 1000 Stuyvesant ave., Union, maintains a Center for diagnosis, evaluation, education, guidance and treatment of Union County children who are victims of Cerebral Palsy, at 216 Holly st., Cranford.
