Only 11 Children From Elizabeth In Foster Homes

No Room In Borough For Five; Two Cancel, One Tot-Hospitalized

Only 11 of the expected 19 children from the port section of Elizabeth arrived in Mountainside last weekend for a five-week "headstart program" initiated by Mrs. Donna Moros, Christian education director of Community Presbyterian Church. Two of the expected visitors could not make it, but more could not be placed in borough homes and another, Michael Conde, was ill and had to be hospitalized.

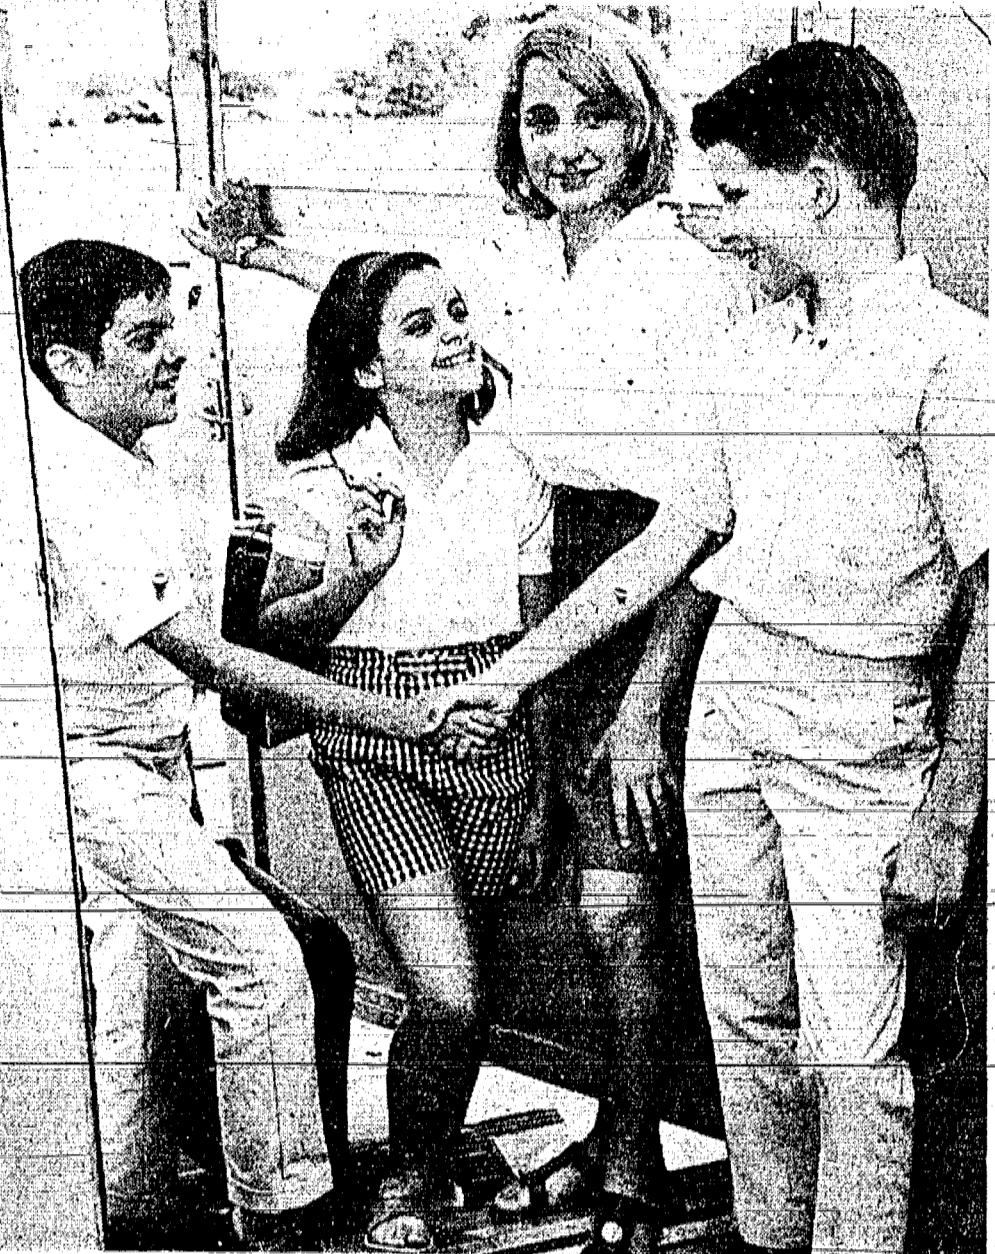

Four-and-a-half-year-old Michael, who had been enrolled in the post-kindergarten class in Mountainside's Summer School, had been placed with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Christoffers of 394 Central ave. His place was filled by his brother, Luis, who will celebrate his sixth birthday Aug. 26. Luis, who is studying art and children's literature in the summer sessions, had not been placed. The Christoffers had offered earlier to take him with his brother if no other temporary foster home could be found.

The boys' sister, Marie, who was ten years old last Saturday, is staying with the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Brackett of 153 Deer path. She is also studying art and children's literature on the fourth grade level.

Another sister, Elizabeth Conde, is staying with Miss Marian Beckers of Westfield, a teacher in the borough school system. Another brother, Moses, is with Mr. and Mrs. Attilio Bisio of 1509 Woodacres dr. All are the children of Mrs. Maria Conde of Migliore Manor, Elizabeth.

Sponsors Pay Tuition

The five are part of a group of Puerto Rican and Cuban youngsters who are staying with Mountainside families for the five weeks coinciding with the Summer School classes. Tuition of $45 per child is being paid by their sponsors or through funds raised for that purpose in the community. An additional $198 is still needed to cover the tuition costs.

WELCOME — Guillermo and Beatriz Huergo, 10-year-old twins who escaped from Cuba last December, are welcomed by Sandy and Stan Juncker, 12-year-old twin children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Juncker of 1138 Sawmill rd., Mountainside. The Cuban twins will live for five weeks with the Juncker family while they participate in an "Operation Headstart" program initiated by a group of Mountainside residents for the benefit of underprivileged youngsters from the port section of Elizabeth.

Cuban Twins Visit Here

Feel At Home In Home Of Twins

By RITA ZEISS

When Guillermo Huergo and his twin sister, Beatriz, came to Mountainside last Sunday (as participants in the summer program for underprivileged children from the port section of Elizabeth) they probably felt at ease in their new suburban surroundings.

For the ten-year-old twins were born ten years ago in Cuba into a similar atmosphere—their family of the upper middle class, their father a coffee exporter. In comfort and luxury their home was, at the very least, equal to any in this community.

Like most Cubans, their father, Miguel, had at first welcomed the Castro regime—he looked on it as deliverance from the tyrannical rule of Batista. Again, like his countrymen, he soon became disillusioned with the self-styled deliverer of the Cuban people. About 18 months ago he came to this country, planning to send for his family as soon as he was established.

Last December he hired the services of a fisherman who agreed to take his family, along with other escapees, the 90 miles across the open seas from Cuba to Florida. Guillermo and Beatriz were accompanied by their mother, their older brother, now 19, a sister, now 14, an aunt and seven others.

They began their trip on a moonless night to try to escape the ever-watchful eyes of the guards. They huddled, fear-stricken, in the bottom of the 20-foot open boat so the glaring lights that sweep each night from the shore in a broad, piercing arc could not find them. To make their trip more harrowing, they were all well aware of the radar traps that were set in the off-shore waters to prevent just such escapes as theirs.

One of the men went raving mad and was hospitalized when the boat finally reached Florida.

MR. HUERGO brought his family up to Elizabeth for he was determined that he would earn a living for his family. A friend, a former employee of his in Cuba, had helped him to find a job as a factory hand in a plastics plant. His training and experience had all been in the executive end but he was grateful for any job.

The family now lives in a three-room apartment in a slum section of Elizabeth. Mr. Huergo, who like all well-bred Cuban women had never worked before, is now employed in a dress factory. The 19-year-old son is also working. The Huergos are all working together trying to save a little money for a down payment on a house.

Mr. Huergo, a proud self-respecting man of about 50, is determined that "we will make our own way."

He and his wife welcomed the opportunity to have their two youngest come to live in Mountainside for five weeks as part of an enrichment program initiated by Mrs. Donna Moros, Christian education director of Community Presbyterian Church.

The Huergo family has made several visits to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Juncker of Saw Mill rd., who are serving as the foster parents of the twins during their visit here. Mrs. Juncker describes them (the Huergos) as "very cultured, very nice people."

Both families enjoyed the visits. Guillermo, whom the Junckers call Willy, and Beatriz (Betty to the Junckers) felt quickly at home with the Junckers' younger set of twins, 12-year-old Sandy and Stan.

The Junckers also have another set of twins, Charles and Charlotte, 22. Charles, now in the Marine Corps, is piloting a helicopter "somewhere in the Pacific." Charlotte, now Mrs. Mahi, lives in Mountainside with her husband.

Named To UJC Board

Orlin Johnson of Far Hills, formerly of Mountainside, has been appointed to the ways and means committee of the Board of Trustees of Union Junior College.

Crainford Johnson, former mayor of Mountainside, is vice president of Bristol Meyers Products, Hillside.

Mrs. Robert E. Torborg of Westfield, Torborg's mother, said the exact time of the move depends upon whether the "Dodgers win the National League pennant this year." In the latter case, Torborg would play in the World Series and would not be back to New Jersey until October. The regular playing season ends in September.

The Torborg home is one in the Chapel Hill development. It is a ranch-style house his mother said.

Dodgers' Torborg Will Move To Chapel Hill Section In Fall

Los Angeles Dodger catcher Jeff Torborg and his wife, who was "Miss New Jersey, 1960," will be moving into Mountainside in the fall.

Torborg played baseball for Westfield High School, and was an all-American collegiate catcher while attending Rutgers University in New Brunswick. He also won a national batting competition with an average of .397.

Jeff is married to the former Suzie Barber, daughter of Mrs. B. D. Barber of Westfield, and winner of the state beauty pageant in Wildwood in 1960.

Jeff was signed with the Dodgers upon his graduation from Rutgers in 1963. He played one year on a farm team before beginning big league play last season.

Torborg was first signed with the Dodgers for a bonus reportedly as high as $100,000. In his season on the farm team in Albuquerque, N. M., he had a batting average of .233 in 64 games.

Jeff said recently he was disappointed with this performance.

Last season, in big league play, Jeff was used in 28 Dodger games. His batting average this year has hovered around .250.

The six-foot tall baseball player and his wife will be moving to their Mountainside home with their seven-month-old son, Douglas Todd.

Master Plan Is Adopted; Add One Recommendation

Wilson Rezoning First Target For Implementation

Pending Suit Forces Quick Action On Controversial Tract

The rezoning of the A. A. Wilson tract on Rt. 22 and another tract between Central ave. and Summit rd. will be the first step in the implementation of Mountainside's master plan which was adopted Monday night, reliable sources indicated this week.

The master plan calls for the rezoning of both tracts from residential to "preferred restricted commercial," a new zoning classification established in the master plan.

Mayor Frederick Wilhelm Jr. said Tuesday that speedy action on this portion of the plan "will have to be soon" in view of the court action now pending. Judge Milton Fetter has postponed decision in a case brought by Wilson against the borough in which Wilson seeks reversal of the local Board of Adjustments' refusal to grant a variance to erect a 150-unit garden apartment and retail store on the tract.

Wilson and the borough have a ten-year history of litigation over the use of the tract which fronts on the westbound lane of Rt. 22 almost directly opposite Borough Hall.

The proposed rezoning would allow low density occupancy of offices, research laboratories and home or "similar use" on the Wilson tract and the other site, a 10-acre tract between Summit rd. and Central ave., in the rear of a commercially zoned area which fronts on the westbound lane of Rt. 22.

Little mention of the rezoning classification for both areas was made at Monday night's meeting although Harry Swenson, president of the Boro-Civic Association, said after the meeting that his group "will stand on its record" and that "steps will be taken" in opposition to such rezoning.

Swenson said that at this time he could not define what those steps will be. The civic group will meet soon to map plans for the opposition, he indicated.

The rezoning of the Wilson tract was the principal target of irate citizens at the two public hearings on the plan. About 150 residents attended the first hearing held April 14 in Deerfield School and the great majority of those who spoke were strongly opposed to any rezoning of the Wilson tract. The second hearing on May 19 brought equally vociferous opposition to the proposed rezoning.

The Pembroke Civic Association joined last summer with two other civic groups, the Concord Estates and the Sherwood Forest, to fight the threatened inclusion in the master plan of rezoning which would allow multiple-dwellings on the Wilson tract and other sites in the borough. That recommendation was included in the report submitted by the Herbert H. Smith Associates, Trenton planning consultants to the local Planning Board last summer.

Albert E. Hartung, then chairman of the board who has since resigned, publicly opposed such rezoning. The Civic League Association collected 1,600 signatures on a petition against multi-

Cancer Crusade Tops $3,000 Goal Set For '65 Drive

Mountainside has passed its $3,000 goal for the 1965 Cancer Crusade, the chairman, Mrs. J. Brook Gardner, announced this week. A total of $3,192.01 has been collected in the community, Mrs. Gardner said, $2,347.01 in envelope donations and $845 in private donations given in memory of relatives or friends.

According to figures released this week by the Union County Cancer Crusade, Mountainside is one of only seven of the 21 county communities participating in the 1965 Crusade who have exceeded their goals.

The local chairman attributed the success to the excellent cooperation of the residents and to strong support given by the co-chairman, Mrs. Fred G. Ladd, and the district captains, Mrs. Gardner and Mrs. Ladd both expressed their gratitude to the following district captains: Mrs. J. J. McGovern of 148 Parkway; Mrs. Thomas G. Kierim of 1476 Deer path; Mrs. Raymond A. Leach of 1490 Fox trail; Mrs. George Crane of 372 New Providence rd.; Mrs. L. B. Farrell of 1170 Foothill way; Mrs. George Ramsey of 1101 Sylvan lane; and Mrs. James H. Carroll of 1039 Sunny slope.

A few envelopes have not yet been returned, the chairman reported. She urged all residents who now have the envelopes in their possession to pass them on to the designated place.

With the celebration of the Fourth of July scheduled for Monday, strict adherence to this newspaper's Friday noon deadline for news items will be necessary to insure publication in next week's issue.

Rezoning Of Area Near Echobrook Called Possibility

School Abandonment In Future May Make This Action Advisable

Mountainside's master plan, which was first introduced at a public hearing April 14, was adopted Monday night by the Planning Board with only one alteration. That alteration concerned the possible future use of the present sites of Echobrook School and Borough Hall and all the remaining land on the south side of Rt. 22 between New Providence rd. and Mountain ave.

The addition to the plan recommended that "if either the Echobrook School site or Borough Hall or both are relocated, land fronting on the south side of Rt. 22 from Mountain ave. westerly to New Providence rd. should be devoted to compatible uses other than residential."

Both Robert Garrett, chairman of the Planning Board, and Mayor Frederick Wilhelm Jr., who is a member of that body, stressed after the meeting that no definite rezoning was recommended. Wilhelm also stated that the addition was a "recommendation" not an amendment.

Land Purchase

Garrett said that the recommendation was added because of the Borough Council's move to purchase additional land on the northeast side of New Providence rd. and Rt. 22 to add to its present holdings there. Since this planned purchase will make available an alternate site for Borough Hall facilities rather than the Echobrook School location recommended in the master plan, the board felt it necessary to include that area in its recommendations, the chairman stated.

Garrett also indicated in his opening statement Monday night that there was a "strong possibility of the future abandonment of the Echobrook School site by the Board of Education."

Such abandonment of the school site or the relocating of Borough Hall would "leave a void" in this area, the chairman stated, since it is not probable that anyone would build private homes fronting on the highway. The section involved in the recommendation is now zoned residential.

The locating of borough facilities in Echobrook School and its abandonment by the Board of Education was included in the master plan, Garrett said Tuesday, because at the time the plan was submitted to the public deed restrictions on the alternate site had seemed to "rule out" that location. Mayor Wilhelm stated a few weeks back that the restrictions had proven "not insurmountable" and that he was confident they could be lifted.

There was standing room only at the hearing held in Borough Hall with most of those attending voicing strenuous objections to a suggestion submitted by five industrial plants in the Sheffield rd. area that a proposed road extension on the master plan be changed. The master plans calls for the extension.

Plan Fireworks Sunday Evening

The Mountainside Volunteer Fire Department announced this week it will sponsor a fireworks display Sunday at 9 p.m. in the field of Our Lady of Lourdes School, Central ave.

A spokesman for the fire department said the display is being given in appreciation for the funds collected from Mountainside residents in annual drives.

The display, the fire department's second, will include at least one-half hour of aerial fireworks. The shooting area will be roped off, and viewers will be able to watch from the Deerfield School yard which adjoins Our Lady of Lourdes property.

The fireworks display is being handled by Ernest Kuffor and Ronald Huter.

ECHO PROFILE — Ronald Farrell

The three "Bs," baseball, bunnies and boys, take a huge slice each week out of the spare time of Ronald Farrell of 298 Timbeline rd., Mountainside.

Farrell, who served as a Councilman from 1955 through 1959, has been involved in the borough's Little League since he helped organize it in 1953. The Farrells' oldest son, Ronald Allen, now 21, played in the league at that time and their two youngest sons, Gary Thomas, 13, and Thomas Wayne, 10, are still enthusiastically involved in it. Gary plays with the Twins in the senior League and Tom with the Mustangs in the Major League.

Farrell, who has held just about every position in the league in his 13 active seasons, is now manager of the Mustangs.

The Farrells' second son, Douglas Gene, 16, who has just completed his second year at Governor Livingston Regional High School, had his years too of playing with the borough league.

Farrell figures he has two more years to go with the League — 15 years should make a good stopping point, he feels. That added to his five years on the Council makes a full score of years in civic service.

The league activities are just closing but that doesn't mean that Farrell will have too much spare time. He is now in the process of building a huge hutch for the family bunnies, three pedigreed rabbits who bear the undistinguished names of Gypsy, Dollie and Louie.

The rabbits are American Standard Chinchillas and that is not a breed you will find in any ordinary warren. These are no ordinary rabbits, they have papers attesting to their forebears, they are judged by points in rabbit shows — in

The Farrells acquired the rabbits about a year ago at the Morris County Fair. They traded a pair and their brood from a lesser breed (Black Dutch) at that fair as partial payment on the grey-furred aristocrats. The head of the Farrell clan purchased the Black Dutch pair about two years ago just "to give the boys another interest." Now he finds himself driving the two younger boys up to Morristown for meetings of the New Jersey Rabbit Association, a group dedicated to the care and improvement of the breed. The road to Morris town is a well-known one to Farrell. He drives it every weekday since the firm he works for, Beneficial Management Corp., is located there. Farrell has been with Beneficial, the management company of Beneficial Finance Co. for 30 years and is now serving as treasurer.

He attended Rutgers University and served for four years in the U.S. Navy during World War II. Assigned to a repair ship, he was with the group that established the naval base in Argentina (pronounced Ar-jen-sia) in Nova Scotia. The Farrells were in the process of buying their present home when the Korean conflict broke out. Ron was still in the reserve and they had some uneasy weeks while waiting to hear if his unit was to be reactivated. When it was not, Farrell heaved a sigh of relief and turned around and donned another uniform. The original Cub Scout Pack in the borough, sponsored by the P.T.A., was organized just about that time. Farrell, who helped in the organization, found himself serving as Cubmaster. Young Ronald was a member of the pack and where else would a father like Farrell be.

ALL-OUT SAFETY EFFORT

State Police Gird For Traffic On Fourth

In preparation for the long Independence Day weekend, Colonel D. B. Kelly, State Police Superintendent, this week issued orders to his troop commanders and Headquarters supervisors to have all available personnel assigned to traffic patrol duty. He noted that traffic deaths in New Jersey are up 5.9 percent over last year at this time. Considering this in the light of the famous record set in 1964, every motorist should realize that driving is a life-or-death business. The new Highway Traffic Patrol Bureau, established within the Division of State Police by special legislation, comprises the spearhead of an all-out attack on the mounting death toll. The bureau, composed of traffic specialists assigned to task force, radar, drunkometer and truck units, will concentrate on known trouble spots throughout the state. All station personnel, backed by detection and other specialists, will provide maximum patrol strength on the state highways. This stepped-up enforcement program will continue throughout the holiday period with special emphasis on the critical hours between 5 p.m. and 3 a.m. when most fatal accidents occur. Colonel Kelly, reminding all motorists and pedestrians of Governor Hughes' safety slogan, "Keeping New Jersey Safe is a Job for Everyone!", emphasized the need to be mentally and physically alert. Of the 446 fatal accidents so far this year, 37.4 per cent involved only one car and 29.4 per cent involved pedestrians. Driver and pedestrian inattentiveness is the most prevalent cause of accidents. It is also noted that the alcohol factor is present in over 50 per cent of all fatal accidents, Kelly said.

Troopers will concentrate on the drinking driver and the following accident-producing violations: Driving too fast for conditions; driving on the wrong side of the road; disregarding stop signs; failure to keep to the right; and failure to yield the right-of-way, he said. "But enforcement is not the only means of traffic fatality control. Information, if heeded by the public, can play a big part in the campaign. All radio stations will cooperate in broadcasting periodic bulletins as reported by the State Police in an effort to keep the motoring public advised of road and traffic conditions. Helicopter patrols, provided by the Department of Conservation and Economic Development, will coordinate with ground patrols in reporting conditions for a rapid relay via wire services to all radio stations," he added. Colonel Kelly urged all motorists to allow ample time for their trips and keep car radios tuned in for traffic condition reports.

BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy: I have received five announcements this week from acquaintances announcing their daughter's sweet sixteen and the week isn't over yet.

What's this supposed to mean? Is this some new idea for the purpose of receiving gifts? I can't see why announcements are in order just because a girl reaches her sixteenth birthday, nor do I see that the accomplishment calls for anything more than "Happy Birthday."

Mrs. Easy Mark: Dear Mrs. Easy Mark: You're quite right. Never mind what they mean; you play it smart and play dumb!

PUBLIC SERVICE ELECTRIC AND GAS COMPANY

Dear Amy: As the very warm weather approaches, I would like to comment about the men who walk around in shorts just about everywhere.

Short shorts at that! It is revolting to see hairy legged men making a spectacle of themselves in public. It is already apparent in the restaurants, shopping centers and the like.

I do hope these idiots read this column, and I'm not adverse to signing my name.

Carole Ann Walters

Dear Amy: I am in the 8th grade and I would like your advice on a boy in the same grade as I. He thinks he's hot stuff and he shows off. Hardly any of the kids like him. He makes me so mad I could beat him, up and knock all his teeth out. If he keeps on being stuck up and acting too big for his pants, should I beat him one?

Plus all this, he picks on all us girls. Robert, one of the students in school, was going to defend us and beat him up, but I said, "No." If there's any defending to do, I'd rather do it myself.

Angered

Dear Amy: It is highly improper for a girl to strike a boy for the reasons you mentioned. Give him the cold shoulder which may make him wise-up. But for goodness sake, don't belt him. He sounds like the type who might belt you one back!

Dear Amy: We read the letter from the New Jerseyite about the cat problem. We just want to say that we had to sell our home and get out of the neighborhood over a similar pet problem.

People just shouldn't have pets of any kind if they don't care for them and feed them properly. All they do is cause hard feelings and burden nice people with their obligations. But we are not vindictive. We would rather live in a community where neighbors love their pets . . . not just own them! Just sign us.

The Greits

Dear Amy: I do hope these idiots read this column, and I'm not adverse to signing my name.

Elks Post 11-4 Record To Win Baseball Crown In Mountainside

The Elks team, with a season of 11 victories and four losses, took first place this season in the Mountainside Little League. Thomas Ricciardi, league president, presented the summaries this week.

Ricciardi said there was a three-way tie for second place. The Chiefs, Mustangs and Mountaineers were each credited with eight victories and seven losses. The Pioneers and the Blue Stars were tied for last place, each having a season of five victories and 10 losses.

In a drawing sponsored by Woody's Flying A Service Station, bats and gloves were presented to Danny Martin of the Mustangs, Curtis Carnes of the Blue Stars, John Jones of the Chiefs and Joseph Vitolo of the National League Braves.

The six team managers in the Little League selected a 14-member all-star team from among 12-year-olds in the league. This was the last season for the 12-year-olds to play.

All-star team members are: Larry Mohns of the Blue Stars; Robert Shomo of the Chiefs; Richard Willon, Robert Honecher and Richard Collins of the Elks; Dan Kelly, and Gary Sauerborn of the Mountaineers; Richard Knopf, Mike Cleary, Tom Zemla and Richard Krebs of the Pioneers; Kevin Korley and Don Winecky

The Huerigo twins and Sandy and Stan Juncker are spending each morning in the summer school sessions at Deerfield School. The tuition for the visiting twins, like that of all the visiting children from Elizabeth, is paid for by their foster parents or by other interested residents.

BUT THE COURSES at the summer school are by no means all the enrichment the two families are receiving. Mrs. Juncker points out. Both families, through the mere act of reaching out to each other in friendship, have enriched their lives, broadened their understanding and increased their compassion and concern for all men, she says.

"Circumstances may change things but they do not change people," she says quietly. "It is not material things that count — you cannot judge people by material things. Birth or opportunity, disaster or good fortune set a person's circumstances — they do not alter a person's worth."

Mrs. Juncker, who served as placement chairman for the foster program, expressed her gratitude for the support given the experimental program, for the responsible, realistic attitudes taken by the temporary foster parents.

And, in a voice soft with compassion, gentle with troubled understanding, she hoped the five-week visit of the Elizabeth youngsters would help dissolve the objections of a few residents who have expressed rather violent opposition to the program.

"We'll pray that it does," she ended softly.

Sweeney said Tuesday that he could not say at this time whether the fight against the present rezoning would be as vigorous as that conducted against multiple-housing. His group's action will depend on the steps taken by the Council to implement the plan, he indicated.

son of Bristol rd. to Sheffield st. In letters sent to the Borough Council in June, the industries urged that instead Willow rd., a residential street which dead-ends, be extended to Sheffield st.

The board left this portion of the plan unchanged. It also made no change in the plan's present recommendation that Echobrook School be vacated for educational purposes and borough facilities be relocated there.

In his opening statement, Garrett emphasized that the master plan is general so that adjustments can be made to meet changing conditions and "redefine community objectives." The plan will be implemented, he said, in "discrete stages or steps" by the Borough Council on recommendation of the Planning Board. The official map, he said, would start as a "duplicate of the present zoning map and from then on be modified as conditions warrant to a point where it would essentially resemble the master plan map."

Digest Salutes Deerfield School Valedictorian

Donald L. Kuehne, valedictorian of the graduating class at Deerfield School, MountainSide, has been given the annual award of the Reader's Digest Association for students who by their successful school work give promise of attaining leadership in the community, it was announced this week by Herbert Brown, principal.

Kuehne will receive an honorary subscription to the Reader's Digest for one year and a personal certificate from the editors "in recognition of past accomplishment and in anticipation of unusual achievement to come."

The Reader's Digest Association is presenting these awards in selected schools throughout the United States and Canada to the highest honor student of the graduating class. Brown said. The award to Kuehne, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Kuehne of 1623 Larkspur dr., was made possible through the cooperation of Brown and his teaching staff. They selected him to receive the award, "designed to stimulate scholarship citizenship and continued contact with good reading after graduation."

"We believe, also that no resident of MountainSide is immune to the effects of this plan if it should be implemented. Any change that injures the reputation of the community, injures all of us. We intend to fight this plan as far as we can go, and request that all citizens who feel the way we do join us in the fight. Property values do not carry party labels."

Boy In Service Doesn't Believe Her

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I was engaged to a boy in the Marines until he wrote to tell me that we were breaking up. I wrote and asked him to give me some reason and he replied that it was because I 'went out' on him. This is not true. Some of the kids wrote him that I was dating someone else and he chose to believe them. I have told this boy how I feel about him. My friends say that we will get back together again. I don't see how, if he refuses to believe me."

OUR REPLY: There are several possibilities. Perhaps the boy feels, for the good of both parties, it is best to not go steady, while you are separated. He may have selected a convenient "excuse" for calling it off. Or, he finds it difficult to believe what others write to him.

Going steady with someone in service is a sacrifice to be made only by the girl who has really made up her mind. If you are still in your teens, and not ready for marriage, don't "chase" after the Marine. Tell him that he made a mistake, that you were not going "out" with anyone else, and let it go at that. Then, don't penalize yourself. Go out with your friends, pursue your hobbies, keep busy. You just can't go "steady" with someone who is hundreds-of-miles-away.

SEN. WILLIAMS

Sen. Williams Racing Against July 8 Deadline

In a race against a July 8 deadline, US Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr. said this week he is seeking to obtain approval of four federal agencies for a $12,200,000 Elizabeth River flood control project.

If the deadline is met the project will be considered in this year's river and harbors bill. If it is not, the project will be in limbo until next year, he said.

He said no provision is made in the Senate's river and harbors bill for the Elizabeth River project, because a report from the Corps of Army Engineers was not complete when the Senate Public Works Committee considered the bill. Williams said there has been no action in the House on a rivers and harbors bill.

The N. Y. District of the Corps of Engineers, which did the field survey reported favorably on the project in May and the Board of Engineers, the Corps' reviewing body, subsequently reviewed the project. However, the state of New Jersey and all federal agencies which have any concern or responsibility for the project must review the report and submit their recommendations or comments to the Bureau of the Budget, he said.

The budget bureau then submits a report to the Congress and the Public Works Committee of the two Houses to consider whether to include the project in the omnibus rivers and harbors bill. Sen. Williams said he is attempting to hurry along the "bureaucratic process." He has written the Department of Interior, Commerce, Agriculture, the Public Health Service and the Bureau of the Budget, explaining that the Senate Public Works Committee must have all documents by July 8 when it goes into executive session to consider what projects will go into this year's bill. The letters have been followed up by telephone explaining the urgency of the project.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes also has been alerted and the state is cooperating in expediting its review of the project. Periodic flooding of the Elizabeth River has caused millions of dollars of damage in recent years. The army engineers found that the economic benefits to be derived from a flood control project more than justify the $12,200,000 cost, Williams said. And the engineers recommended improving the channel and building a complex of levees, flood walls, interior drainage facilities, an open flume, a bridge and other appurtenant work between North Ave. in Union and the mouth of the river at Arthur Kill.

The report of the New York office of the Corps of Engineers recommended that $2,125,000 of the cost of the project be borne locally. The Board of Engineers changed the recommended local share to $2,437,000. However, only $542,000 of that would be in cash. The rest would consist of easements, rights of way, re-location of facilities along the stream bank and similar items, Williams added.

Amateur Astronomers, Inc.

By L. J. MYERS
Amateur Astronomers, Inc.
There has been probably more speculation and romantic literature about the planet Mars than any other object in the heavens. From the days of Edgar Rice Burroughs' "A Princess of Mars," written some fifty years ago, until recently, science fiction and Sunday supplement writers have made Mars the stage for hundreds of stories and articles. Why such interest?

It is because of all the planets in the Solar System other than the Earth, Mars seems the most likely to be able to support life.

"Is Mars inhabited?" is a question inevitably asked of astronomers by visitors entering an observatory for the first time. There are many things about Mars to encourage such a belief: the same sort of rotation producing day and night, the same cycle of seasons, the same permanence of surface features which have been recorded on maps, what appear to be clouds in its atmosphere and ice caps at its poles—all just like the Earth.

In 1877, the astronomer Schiaparelli saw, or thought he saw, an arrangement of lines on Mars' surface, which he called canals, which were so geometrically regular that they could have been made only by intelligent beings. Thus the legendary Martians found their way into our literature.

More modern astronomical research has discouraged such speculation. Modern high-powered telescopes show no canals. Spectroscopic examination indicates the atmosphere of Mars contains practically no oxygen to support life as we know it. Further spectroscopic measurement shows so little water vapor in the atmosphere that the polar ice caps can be calculated to be nothing but hoar frost no more than an inch thick, and practically all the water on the planet is concentrated in these deposits of hoar frost. Thus the water necessary to support life is practically non-existent.

As for temperature, thermocouple measurements indicate that a thermometer in the shade on Mars' equator at noon would read about 30 degrees Fahrenheit, whereas at night it would go down to about 75 degrees below zero.

It is really rather amazing that so much information is available about Mars. It is close enough to Earth for good study for only a couple of months every two years. During these periods of opposition, as they are called, the distance to Mars can be no closer than 35 million miles. That so much information about an object so far away has been gained by telescopes sitting at the bottom of 20 or more miles of turbulent, cloudy, dusty, rolling atmosphere is a tribute to the dedication of generations of astronomers.

With luck, however, we will soon learn a great deal more about Mars. Mariner 4, a space probe launched from Cape Kennedy last Nov. 28, is due to fly by Mars during the evening of the 14th of this month (July). Hopefully, its trajectory will carry it to within 5400 miles of the planet's surface. As it passes, thousands of observations will be made. A series of 21 pictures of a portion of Mars' surface are planned, which will be recorded in digital form on magnetic tape. After Mariner has gone past Mars, it will play back the tape and relay the pictures to Earth in a manner similar to television. Because of the great distance at that time, about 134 million miles, it will require 8 1/2 hours to transmit each picture. These pictures should show us Mars as clearly as a good small telescope now shows us the moon, and combined with other data to be radioed, will advance the knowledge of Mars in one tremendous bound.

The proposed debentures will bear interest at the annual rate of 4.85 percent and will mature June 1, 1990. Debenture terms provide for no principal payments during the first five years but require an annual sinking fund payment of $130,000 in each year beginning June 1, 1971.

A total of $1,030,000 will be due and payable on final maturity of the notes, if not previously prepaid by the bank. The capital debentures will be subordinate to deposits and to all other obligations incurred by the bank in the ordinary course of business.

UJC Program Readies Graduates

An early taste of college life awaits 104 recent high school graduates who are enrolled in the College Readiness Program which opens today, Thursday, July 1, at Union Junior College, Cranford.

In the non-credit College Readiness Program, the students get a taste of college life without having to pay any penalty if they are unsuccessful, says Prof. Gunars Salins, director.

"The main goal of our program is to help the recent high school graduates make the great leap from high school to college. The change often seems insignificant to the students, but it is vast. It is a transition never made by some," Prof. Salins said.

He added that the College Readiness Program provides an orientation into how colleges operate, including tips on how and when to study and under what conditions, how to use the college library, how to take examinations, how to take notes, and how to budget time. The program also provides a quick review of the basic skills—reading, English composition, and problem solving—to supplement what the high schools have done in those areas.

Classes will meet daily, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 11:40 a.m. until July 28.

He stated that it may very well be that the supervision should come from the County level, based on statistics. He pointed out that if we can maintain these facilities for both Park that there is no reason why the Park Commission should not be willing at this point, to delay their decision, not to support the Passaic County Park Commission, but to request, not demand, that they be able to collate some of this statistical data. He stated that he would move a resolution at this time that we request, not demand, that the Park Commission to defer this decision until after the summer months are over, but to request, not demand, that they be able to collate some of this statistical data. He stated that he would move a resolution at this time that we request, not demand, that they be able to collate some of this statistical data.

Freederick Stimmer suggested that some of the Members here, should arrange to have a meeting with the Commission to discuss this with them, as they may have points, statistics, or information that we at the present time do not have.

Summit YWCA Plans Campaign To Expand Building, Services

A long-range development program to provide expanded services for residents of the Summit area was announced last week by the Young Women's Christian Association of Summit.

This development program, which could extend over the next decade, may total as much as $725,000 when completed, a capital campaign for the immediate needs of the YW is now planned for early in 1966.

"When our building plans are completed later in the decade," said Mrs. F. W. Amberg, president of the YW, "we will be able to offer a complete indoor health, physical education, and recreation program including swimming. Our education and group programs will be able to schedule additional teen-age and adult clubs and classes in such subjects as arts, crafts, music, and dramatics."

"In addition," she added, "we will be able to increase substantially the number of people who can attend classes and activities in other subjects for which we presently have no room. The new building — which will double our present floor space — will also be available for a wide range of family activities and community meetings throughout the year."

A committee to develop community support for the forthcoming capital campaign has been formed under the chairmanship of Mrs. Robert M. Dunsmore, of Summit. Consultation on all aspects of the program is being maintained with the United Funds of Summit, New Providence, and Berkeley Heights, in which the YW participates as a member agency.

The new facilities for the YW will be an annex to the YW's present headquarters on Morris ave., Summit. Chief features will be two floors of additional club and class rooms, activities areas, and a nursery; an indoor swimming pool; and larger administrative and service facilities. The design of the building will be by Ludlow and Jefferson, architects, of Summit.

According to Mrs. Amberg, the development program has been under study since 1962. The plans, now formulated are based on an extensive survey of the needs of the communities served by the YW, as well as a careful evaluation of the present YW facilities. Suggestions and counsel were also obtained from other YW's in New Jersey with similar needs, and from the national offices of the YWCA.

The Summit YWCA has a membership of 22,000 women and girls from Summit, and other near-by communities. Three full-time and two part-time professional program staff, as well as several hundred volunteers, plan and conduct activities for pre-teen, junior and senior high, and adult groups.

The agency was founded in Summit in 1919. For the first period of its history, it was housed in the former Presbyterian Parish House on Maple Street in Summit. A capital campaign by area residents in 1946 made possible the YW's present home.

The YW seeks to "integrate education and recreation for the enrichment of the individual. It strives for an interchange of ideas, friendships, and understanding among people of all faiths and races in the community," the statement added.

IS BABY TALK CUTE?

"Mommy... get zinger!" cried three-year-old Sally. Her mother understands that Sally wants the zinger. The family laughs and encourages Sally to say "zinger" over and over again and from then on, they say "zinger." They also tell their friends about little Sally's new word. Sally is quick to realize she has found a way of getting everyone's attention. And she capitalizes on it by coming new words with abandon. She revels in being the center of the stage.

But when Sally begins school, she finds that the baby talk that was charming for a three-year-old is definitely a hazard for a six-year-old. The teacher doesn't laugh and encourage her. The other children tease and irritate her.

Sally makes very slow progress in reading. She doesn't understand the words and she finds them difficult to pronounce. Learning to spell is an almost impossible task.

When parents encourage baby talk, they forget that this poor speech becomes a habit. A child with speech difficulties cannot achieve real success in his attempts at learning. The task of learning to read and to spell is made easier by mature speech.

CORNED BEEF WINTER OR SUMMER
Canned beef has long been a favorite of many Americans. Food researchers tell us that

CANDY by Tom Dorr

Tips for TODAY'S HOMEMAKER

From MARY ARMSTRONG, County Home Economist

The early settlers of our country preserved meat by corning, long before canning was discovered. To make corned beef, pieces of brisket, rump, round, or plate of beef are trimmed and put in a solution of salt, nitrates and nitrites, sugar, and spices for 10 to 14 days or longer. This process cures and preserves the beef, gives it a special flavor, and a rosy-pink color.

Preparing and cooking corned beef used to be an ordeal; now it is much simpler. Often more tender cuts are now used.

Corned beef may be found in transparent film packages from 1 1/2 to five pounds in weight. The label may tell you from which primal cut the corned beef came. Corned beef from the round and rump will cost more per pound but will be more tender and have a higher proportion of lean meat than corned beef from the brisket and plate sections of beef.

Some packages of corned beef include spices for cooking, such as bay leaves, peppercorns, and thyme. The label of the package will often give cooking suggestions. Cooking corned beef at a slow simmer will give the best results. When cooked with cabbage wedges, onions, carrots, and potatoes, as a New England dinner, corned beef makes a nutritious and appetizing main dish.

But cold corned beef is a real joy for cool summertime meals. It need not have excess fat and it is always flavorful.

Even those who don't wish to cook their own corned beef can enjoy it from the can or the delicatessen store. Canned corned beef should be thoroughly chilled—frozen is better—and sliced with a sharp knife for even slices. The cost per pound for the canned product is somewhat more than for the uncooked meat but every ounce is edible. Canned corned beef has been precooked in air-tight sanitary containers to prevent spoilage and generally does not require refrigerated storage unless otherwise stated on the label.

Canned corned beef may be served hot, baked with potatoes, or in haste, with poached eggs. It's good to have on the emergency shelf.

THE FEMININE LOOK

Commentary on a recent National Editorial Association Study Mission Around South America

By TRUDINA HOWARD

While most South American countries broke out in a rash of inflation and militarism in recent years and were subject to military coups and fears of military bids for power, the country of Colombia had yet an added ailment: banditry.

The current president claims he has quelled it by 80 percent, but when our National Editorial Association Study Mission Group got to the airport to leave Bogota, the capital, and found a $7.50 airport tax inflicted upon each one of us, we felt that that was highway robbery too and that perhaps he was only bragging.

"Why so high?" someone asked the President of Colombia, Doctor Guillermo Valencia Leon. (Usual rates are $1 to $3.) "Oh," he replied, "we need that to buy more American goods."

Well, the president may have a cute answer to a bunch of American tourists, but whether he has a good answer to a country full of Colombians, may be a moot question.

The country still was ridden with epidemics of banditry when we visited there in February, and even more alarming, while the affliction began in the countryside, late reports state that there have been outbreaks in the city as well. Kidnapping is the main trouble in the city. However, in a talk with President Valencia, he still maintained that he hopes to eliminate it all by the end of the year. "Colombia will go the legal limit to fight it," he said. The biggest problem, the president claimed, was "to fight the notion that kidnapping is good business."

FROM BACKGROUND notes on Colombia, it appears that President Valencia is not considered to be the best specimen in the world to wage the ailment, however. Another matter of fact, there is concern whether he will even last his term out or succumb to a military coup.

Apparently he has been an ineffectual executive, and the country may be stricken with another military stroke at any time. It is hoped that the president will hang on until the elections in August 1966, thus fulfilling a four-year elected term without change and bringing up the presidency Carlos Lleras Restrepo, a man considered to be one of the most capable and respected men in public life, and who is "due to be elected" as the next president. The nation could then re-evaluate its political system and perhaps make changes for the better. It is felt in most quarters that this Colombia IS COLOMBIA. Due to printing errors, the country of Colombia was frequently spelled as "Colombia" in last week's Feminine Look. With all due apologies to Colombia, we reiterate that it is "Colombia" with NO "u".

Further mistakes appeared too numerous to mention, but the Travel agent's daughter did NOT marry Air France as the printing came out in the column. I can vouch for it, T. H.

It would be the medicine that would help Colombia, and all of Latin America for that matter, the mola. Certainly not another military coup.

The political system in Colombia is, to say the least, eccentric. Called the "National Front" system, it was begun in 1957 for a five-year period and renews that the two major parties, the Liberals and the Conservatives, alternate in the presidency with four-year terms. It also provides that elective offices at the national and departmental level be equally divided between Liberals and Conservatives. In practice, the Cabinet, Supreme Court, governments of 19 "departments" (there are no states) and other appointive posts also have been equally shared.

THE FIRST PRESIDENT under this unwieldy coalition was a Liberal and a highly regarded statesman, Alberto Lleras Camargo, and he began it well; President Valencia, a Conservative, became the second, and the aforementioned highly regarded, Senator Lleras, a Liberal again, is "due to have his turn" next year.

Colombia could endure four years of presidential weakness better if its economic symptoms were better. As even the president says, "Wages go up the stairs while prices go up the elevator." Also, if the people liked the dual-political situation better, things would be easier. As it is, 70 percent voter abstention in the March 1964 elections showed the growing lack of enthusiasm for the National Front.

The endurance would also be ameliorated if the social handicaps were better. Wealthy bankers, businessmen and landowners, consisting of both Conservatives and Liberals, have been ruling the country for generations; and a president from one party or the other makes little difference to the man in the hills. But there is a discontented middle-class that is causing most of the fever which the president is now trying to subdue.

Colombia does not have a completely developed sense of national consciousness, either; and this must be difficult for a president also. There are no states, it is a mountainous country with little communication, and all roads lead to Bogota—what roads there are. Regional feelings are strong and there is no strong overlay of national purpose.

"The Violence" however, is something all Colombians know about. Beginning in 1948 and lasting until fairly recently, a form of rural civil war broke out in which people began killing each other for political policies. The Violence took place mainly in the rural areas and cost an estimated 150,000 to 180,000 lives, including women and children. The organizing of the National Front, the energetic action of the present government and better police and guards have reduced the problem by two-thirds, but "rural banditry and violence is part of Colombia and will be present for a long time," an American observer said.

WHILE PRESIDENT Valencia's regime also may seem to have bandit-habits at the airport, the president himself was quite generous in an offer he made to us when we met with him one day for a briefing. As we all sat around a large, dark-paneled room with ivory and gold-leaf ceiling, parquet floors, Colombian rug, TV cameras, news cameras and the president and an interpreter sitting in the center, he offered us two governmental aircraft to take to other Colombian cities for a two-day inspection tour. He welcomed us warmly, and while he said that the United States was held in great esteem in his country and that "our common tie was to fight communism," he also felt there was some distortion of facts in the United

Election Tomorrow Of Boys' State Head

The highlight of the week 1 New Jersey Boys State on the campus of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, will be the election tomorrow of a governor. The victorious candidate will be inaugurated by U.S. District Court Judge Arthur S. Lane. The Boys State program includes 60 high school juniors from all over the state. Seven days of intensive training in citizenship and government was begun at Rutgers on Sunday.

States of some news versions of Colombia. He therefore offered us the two aircraft to see our country.

He also added that Colombia, however, could use an impetus in economic development and certain investment would be welcome, but a bad press has scared away investors. "Small newspapers are more influential because they are not under intrigue of business influences," the interpreter said, so the president would "like us to take up the invitation to use the planes."

Unfortunately we had to leave for Miami instead. He was gracious again on another day when he invited us to the presidential palace that once was Bolivar's and he escorted us through it and showed us the art treasures.

The fire-eyed president is a widower and as such is probably a treasure in Bogota himself. He has iron grey hair with a receding hairline but it is rather long in the back. He wears a brush-type mustache, has dark flashing Spanish type eyes and a stucky build.

AT THE BRIEFING someone had asked him what he thought of countries (meaning the USSR in particular) who do not pay some dues at the United Nations. "Should they lose their vote?" he was asked. He answered that in this case the UN would have to follow the Charter closely—and he understood the Charter did say that countries lose their vote if they do not pay. "If you tolerate one legal violation, this will be only the beginning of many violations," he said.

"What about a sea-level canal instead of the Panama Canal and would Colombia be interested in getting it?" someone else asked. He replied that he had the pleasure of meeting with Under-Secretary Thomas Mann on the matter and they agreed on these points:

1—Such a canal would be open to world trade.

2—Such a canal would be built by a pool of funds. Sort of a Canal United Nations.

3—There would be absolute respect for the territory of the country through which the canal was routed. As president, he expressed the hope that the route might go through Colombia, but he added, "there should be no political overtones, as there are in Panama, in selecting the route." If a canal is built in Colombia, which the people are not particularly sanguine about, Panama would have to have some benefit too. Colombians are not vindictive about Panama declaring its independence from Colombia in 1903. "As for the attitude of Colombians on the Panamanian attack on the U.S. last year—"It serves you both right," they say.

Then someone asked, "Is there a faction of people in Colombia opposed to cruel bullying?"

At that, the president almost seemed to sit straighter, but his rebuff was that "it is a result of Spanish heritage... but yes, there are some states who say it is a brutal spectacle. BUT, that is precisely why people go—because it IS brutal."

He had glowing reports on the Peace Corps. "The Peace Corps will do more good in a few years than 100 years of political declarations," he said. "This has been one of the most successful of U.S. foreign policies." But then he should know. Colombia has the largest contingency in the world of Peace Corps members, 670.

Coffee and Cuba also came up. Coffee of course is Colombia's main product and in fact, the problem is that the nation relies too completely on the one industry and needs diversification in this matter. The country has unparalleled natural resources of climate, soil and people and could produce just about anything that there is adequate planning, a backward agricultural system, insufficient educational facilities and poor transportation to mention only a few reasons. Even so, Colombian coffee brought 50 cents per pound on the New York market in early February and Brazilian coffee only 25 cents. SOMEBODY must be doing something right!

As for Cuba, the president said Castroism as a political experiment has produced many disenchanting people. But some baric ideas are finding followers. (Left-wing extremists.) At the U. S. Embassy we learned that Colombians generally look down on people of the Caribbean and are "staunchly anti-Fidel," taking the attitude that Cuba is a hemispheric disgrace.

ONE MORNING we visited with the handsome young Minister of Finance, Diego Calle, who is considered a key man in Colombia. I missed the "special," but which took our group from the hotel to his offices and had to take a taxi. But that wasn't the real problem. The real problem was to find the building and the right office. The minister's offices were distantly and "esoterically" located at "Edificio de los Ministerios, Carrera 8 No. 6-40" and the driver spoke no English and I spoke no "Bogotanes." So it wasn't going to be easy.

But as an example of South American politeness, here is what happened: The driver could read, luckily, so he understood the address and when he found the huge office building, he gallantly LEFT his car and escorted the building for a full 20 minutes until he found the room. That's South American service for you.

At another meeting, this time with the American Ambassador, Covy T. Oliver and his staff, we heard again the dissatisfaction with reporting. "Reporting is exceedingly sketchy and frequently inaccurate," we were told here, too. But the speaker added, "This is true of all countries but most do say it is getting better. Many experts feel, however, that Panama was grossly distorted. Nevertheless, Americans are well-received in Colombia. There are no suspicions, no recriminations and Colombians accept Americans for what they are in the best sense of the word."

See, somebody down there likes us. Next: Concluding Thoughts

Fireworks Show To Climax Fourth At Olympic Park

Fireworks at 10 o'clock Monday night will wind up the Fourth of July weekend at Olympic Park, Irvington-Maplewood.

Free shows, afternoon and evening band concerts and fireworks are traditional at the amusement park, now marking its 50th anniversary.

A new circus bill is due Monday, headed by Los Argentinos, an aerial act. Also on the program at 4 and 9:30 p.m. daily will be the Two Liners, tight-wire performers, and Lemke's educated chimpanzees.

The Marcos, a trapeze team, head the three-act circus current through Sunday.

For the holiday weekend, Basie's Olympic Park Band will scatter marches and patriotic numbers among the light, popular melodies which mark its concerts.

Newark Red Cross swimming instruction will begin at the park pool Tuesday. Registration for young people, no younger than fifth graders, will continue through the week.

IN CASE YOU FEEL LIKE IT - A RETIREMENT PRAYER

"If I were a member of the retirement set or were about to join it," the man said, "I think I would want to say a prayer. To Whom? I believe in... Or Whom? Or maybe just to the sky."

"Grant me the realization that goodness, if I am ever to achieve it, must come now. It is not later than I think. At age 65 I have still some potent years to be good. To discard the shadowy techniques I employed to mold my career and keep my job, to kill the striving at somebody else's cost, to end the envy, the jealousy, the distrust, the vanity, the bitterness, the hate, I pray that these ugly things which can give nothing to the power and glory of retirement be cast from me. And that I come, at long last, to be simply a good person."

"Grant me, I pray, the curiosity to investigate at this late time, the great religions of the world. Surely there is more to them than the Medicine Man and the ritual, more than consolation from thunder and the mysteries of the Great Beyond, more than a swap of battered asphalt for Streets of Gold. What? Surely the religions that have served mankind so long have something more meaningful than all this, more important than being usher next Sunday or being elected to the board of deacons. What? Grant me the curiosity to find out."

"Grant me the power to believe. In my retirement years it is not sufficient that I believe in the stability of the U. S. dollar, the survival of the insurance company that issues my pension check, the reliability of the U. S. postman that delivers the check, and the price of cabbage at the grocery store."

"Grant me the understanding to smile at the youngsters who move in to take over the job or career I have mastered so long. They know what they do... they claw desperately for success and the money and glory it brings. So, no less, did I."

"Grant me the common sense to know that the company of which I have worked so long is dedicated to profits, not to me. That the institution to which I have given my best so long is dedicated to its advancement and its prestige, not to me. Either the business or the institution believe. In my retirement years it is not sufficient that I believe in the stability of the U. S. dollar, the survival of the insurance company that issues my pension check, the reliability of the U. S. postman that delivers the check, and the price of cabbage at the grocery store."
