Municipal pool expected to be in operation in mid-July

Registration for summer classes lags

Unfilled rolls threaten curtailment of courses

Registration for the Summer School is lagging so badly that one course has already been cancelled and others are in danger of being dropped or reduced to one class, the registrar, Miss Marianne Beckers, announced this week.

Total registration as of last Friday was 308 students enrolled in 404 sessions, well behind last year's figure at this time.

The enrichment reading course for sixth and seventh graders is the cancelled course. Sessions threatened with cancellation or curtailment are French, Spanish, art for sixth and seventh graders and remedial reading from the fourth through the seventh grades.

The threatened curtailment is due principally to the fact that teachers for the courses must be hired very shortly before they accept other summer positions. Many of the courses, originally scheduled for double sessions, have only enough registrants to fill one class.

Registration, limited to borough residents until May 15, has now been opened to out-of-town students.

Fees to Mountainside children are $15 for one subject and $25 for two subjects. Out-of-town students must pay $30 per subject.

The summer sessions will open June 28 and run Mondays through Fridays through July 29, with the exception of July 4 which will be a holiday.

The first periods will run from 8:30 to 10 a.m. and the second from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon.

Basic courses in reading and mathematics are offered to any child who has completed first through the seventh grades. Speech correction classes are also included.

Enrichment courses listed are mathematics, literature, conversational French and Spanish, outdoor science, art, industrial arts, home economics, typing and instrumental music and piano. Post-kindergarten and pre-kindergarten classes are also included.

Faculty members already signed up are: Mrs. Rhoda Gansler, French; Stephen Savell and Miss Dorothy Philip, outdoor science; Mrs. Evelyn Wintringham and Mrs. Helen Sutter, enrichment literature; George Christy and Mrs. Lois Radding, art; George Pierson, speech; William Hummel, principal of Beechwood School, will serve as principal.

3 charges brought against Summit man

Charges of drunken and careless driving were lodged last week in Mountainside against Murdock Merchant of Summit after he was involved in an accident with a car driven by Angelo Senna of 251 Summit rd., Mountainside. He was released on $225 bail for appearance in the local court on June 1.

The drunken driving charge was made after Merchant was given a drunkometer test by Patrolman Jerome Rice.

The accident occurred last Thursday at 2:05 a.m. as Senna was turning into his home driveway. Merchant hit Senna's car in the rear. Merchant was also charged by the arresting officer, Ed H. Hafeken, with not having his license in his possession.

The heavy fog that fell after last Thursday's heavy rains caused two accidents in the borough. Richard Rossman of Irvington, driving on Summit rd. near Tracy dr. shortly after midnight, hit a small tree and a directional sign on the county reservation. Steven Whitman of Summit drove his car into a stone wall in front of 445 Summit dr. shortly after. Both men told the police they could not see through the fog.

John Washuta of 177 Chipmunk hill, Mountainside, and Barry Gray of West End were involved in an accident on Rt. 22 Saturday. Washuta told police he was in the fast lane, stopped for a red light when Gray ran into the rear of his car. Gray said Washuta pulled into the fast lane ahead of him and stopped short. No charges were made.

Summer school study

A detailed study of the four year history of Mountainside's Summer School appears in the May issue of School Board News, the official publication of the N. J. State Federation District Boards of Education. The article, which includes several pictures, was written by Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, School Superintendent.

Holiday deadline

With no delivery of mail scheduled for Monday, Memorial Day, strict adherence to this newspaper's Friday deadline for all news items is advised for next Thursday's issue. All organizational and social news items should be submitted by noon tomorrow to assure publication on June 3.

Here's the pool! Just add water and a lot of work! Heidi, Joseph and Norma Huber do a dry run on the site near the rear of their home on Parkway.

Planners postpone action on Rizzo's subdivision bid

Action was again delayed by Mountainside's Planning Board on the application of Philip Rizzo of Elston dr. for approval of a subdivision on land near Ackerman dr. Rizzo, who seeks to divide a tract of land which abuts a paper street, appeared before the board last month with his original application. The board suggested that new plans be drawn for the property. Rizzo is scheduled to present a profile map of the new plans at the June meeting.

The board also reserved decision until the June meeting on the application of Skypop Farms at 1340 Summit lane to use recently acquired land, which borders on its present property, for the exercising of horses. The board indicated the matter would be discussed with the borough attorney since the land in question is in a residential area.

Final approval was given to Mary and William Klein of 1139 Summit lane on an application to divide their property into two lots. The new lot will front on Prospect st. The Kleins' original application was presented to the board in April.

Barton Precision Parts Inc., now occupying the Truck Door building at 1137 Rt. 22, was granted permission to start business. The firm is taking over an existing machine shop at the location. The application of General Fulfillment Services Inc. for permission to operate its business in a new building now under construction at 250 Sheffield st. was also approved. The firm, which prepares address tags for mailing periodicals, will start operations July 1.

High school pupils will study abroad

Seven students in the second and third year of language study at Governor Livingston Regional High School will study in Europe this summer, August Caprio, coordinator of languages for the Union County Regional District, announced this week.

The students enrolled in French classes will study at the University of Tours in France. They will be accompanied by Miss Sharon Rubenstein of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. The Spanish students will attend classes at the University of Salamanca in Spain. Miss Jill Donnelly of Governor Livingston will be their faculty chaperone.

French scholars from Governor Livingston are Shirley Hunt, Leslie Soellerland, Fran Heller, Melissa Lenard and Shelly Wiehl. Rosanne Price and Jill Ramsey will study in Spain.

The seven are among 30 students from the regional school system who will take part in the study-travel project. The trip is sponsored by the American Institute for Foreign Study, a non-profit association of high school teachers and students.

Serves Japanese -style luncheon

Culinary expert entertains gourmet group

Sixteen members of the Mountainside Newcomers Club will enjoy an authentic Japanese-style luncheon today. The menu will include Saki, a light wine served in heated cups; teriyaki, silver thin strips of beef marinated in shuyu sauce and broiled on skewers over a hibachi; tempura, shrimp encased in a batter and fried; sukiyaki, thin strips of beef and vegetables; fresh asparagus sliced lengthwise and cut in pieces, then sauteed in oil; green tea served in the traditional cups and huge, luscious whole strawberries.

The meal will be served in traditional dishes and eaten with chopsticks.

The guests, all members of the newly formed Gourmet Group of the Newcomers, will have an added bonus—a lesson in the precise art of Japanese cookery given by the hostess, Mrs. Francis Fitzgerald of Tanglewood lane.

Mrs. Fitzgerald learned this culinary skill firsthand. She and her family lived for nine months in Japan during 1963-64 while her husband, a chemical engineer with Scientific Design, New York City, was on assignment there.

They lived in the Sendagaya section of Tokyo in an apartment house which catered mostly to Americans, many of them connected with her husband's company. Their daughters, Karen, now 14, and Carol, 9, attended the International School of Sacred Heart Academy, an English-speaking school with a student body drawn from American and other foreign families living in Japan on a more or less temporary basis.

ALTHOUGH THE family had social and business contacts with their Oriental hosts they had little opportunity to learn the Japanese tongue since most of the people they met spoke English. The only steady exposure to the language they received was from their maid and the boy who delivered their daily paper. The paper "boy," a 21-year-old university student anxious to improve his English, made frequent non-professional visits to the Fitzgerald apartment and escorted Karen and Carol on many sightseeing trips around town. (His English improved a great deal; their mastery of Japanese remained slight.)

Mrs. Fitzgerald picked up a few words— the Japanese translations of right, left, stop and go—enough to enable her to direct taxi-drivers so she could get where she wanted to go. She didn't drive well in Japan, since her husband worked seven days a week, the custom in that industrious country, she found she had to depend a great deal on taxi drivers.

She needed the directional translations to guide them since most of them were unfamiliar with those sections of the sprawling city outside their own areas.

Living in faraway spots has been a way of life for the Fitzgeralds for many of the past 10 years. The head of the clan describes his job with Scientific Design as "start-up engineer." The firm designs industrial plants for construction all over the world. When the plant is ready to go into operation, "start-up" Fitzgerald takes over and retains control of the new operation until it has reached the production peak guaranteed by his firm. The assignments usually last from six months to a year.

They were married 16 years ago after they met at the University of Rhode Island, where Fitzgerald was studying for his master's degree and his future wife, a graduate of Simmons College, Boston, was serving as librarian in the U. S. Government Division of the university library.

FOR THE first six years they lived in Westfield. Then came the first move, to Albany, N. Y., where Carol was born. Next they went back to Rhode Island, then on to Illinois for a year, then to Pittsburg for another year, back to Burlington (N.J.) then overseas to Wales, then on to Holland, then out to Texas, and then the Tokyo assignment.

They've had a two-year hiatus, time to relax and enjoy their pleasant colonial home which they bought four years ago. But soon they'll be off again.

On June 1 Fitzgerald leaves for Spain where he will start a new assignment in Barcelona. His wife and daughters will follow later by ship. They expect the Spanish stay to be anywhere from six months to a year.

The family is polishing up on Spanish. Mrs. Fitzgerald studied the language back in high school and college days so she has a little edge there. Karen was introduced to it in last year's summer school sessions and the "start-up engineer" is hitting the books. Carol is depending on the natural adaptability of nine-year-olds to help her gain mastery.

Bright spots on the trip will be vacation jaunts to Wales, Holland, England and Ireland to visit friends they made during their European stay and with whom they still keep in touch.

Doubtless they will bring back many treasures to add to the Toby jugs from England, the Waterford glass from Ireland, the needlepoints of a Dutch windmill and Cardiff Castle in Wales (both executed by Mrs. Fitzgerald), the delicate figurines of Geisha girls, a silk screen wall hanging and countless other cherished reminders of their other homes.

The Japanese china, the Geisha figurines and several other Japanese art objects will be prominently displayed at the luncheon today. "In the Gourmet Group," Mrs. Fitzgerald explains, "we try not only to serve authentically prepared dishes but to learn something about the history and culture of the country."

Mrs. Fitzgerald will be assisted in today's elaborate preparations by three co-hostesses, Mrs. Joseph Huber, Mrs. Wayne Chimit and Mrs. A. Jack Mayor. Mrs. Bruce Linck is chairman of the group.

JAPANESE COOKING will be featured today at the luncheon of the Gourmet Group of the Newcomers Club. Here the hostess, Mrs. Francis Fitzgerald, and her daughter, Karen, check the final details of the table, set with treasures they brought from Japan where they lived for a year.

Contractor starts work on land site

July 15 projected date for end of construction

The municipal pool is scheduled to be completed by July 15 and in operation a few days later. The time schedule was revealed this week by William Ditzel, chairman of the recreation commission.

The contract with E. J. Wagner & Co. Inc. of Darien, Conn., again the successful bidder on the second round, was signed Monday night and preparation work on the site is scheduled to begin this week.

Wagner's bid of $117,500 includes construction of the main pool, the diving tank and the wading pool.

The contract was re-awarded to the Connecticut firm on May 18 at a meeting continued from May 17, the regular monthly meeting of the Borough Council. The original contract, awarded to Wagner in April, was rescinded by the Borough Council when Paddock Pools of Albany, N. Y., one of the unsuccessful bidders, threatened to bring suit.

Paddock based its action on two premises, that all members of the Borough Council had not received proper notice of the meeting at which the contract was awarded and that additional addenda on the specifications had not been received by their firm until the day the bids were to be received.

Mayor Frederick Wilhelm said at that time that the Council had been assured by Borough Attorney Nicholas St. John LaCorte that the contract awarding was legal but took the rescinding action in the interest of getting the pool in operation this summer.

Wagner, Paddock and Lohman Pools of Stroudsburg, Pa., were the only three of the seven original bidders to submit bids on May 16. Wagner's bid as presented at that time was $136,549.00, Paddock's bid was $141,483.00 and Lohman's $108,000. These bids, according to Ditzel and Wilhelm, were base bids and were reduced when "some alternates" were chosen. Lohman's bid was not in order so his bid could not be considered, Ditzel indicated.

Paddock Pools had no representative at the May 18 meeting and no indication has been given that the firm will take any legal action on the second contract, the mayor and Ditzel said.

ROBERT ANDERSON of Wood Valley rd. has been hired as manager of the pool. Ditzel reported Tuesday, Anderson, a teacher at Thomas Jefferson High School, Elizabeth, and head swimming coach there, will be paid a salary of $1,400 for the season. The borough is now in the process of hiring an assistant pool manager. This post will pay $1,100 for the season; the successful applicant will head the Recreation Department's summer program in Deerfield School in the early part of the summer until the pool is in operation, Ditzel said.

The members of the Recreation Department are now interviewing applicants for several other positions in the pool including head lifeguard, $65 per week; lifeguards, $50 per week; swimming instructor, $60 per week—all for a 48-hour week—and pool attendant $30 per week for a 32-hour week.

A public hearing on the salary ordinance for pool personnel, introduced at the May 17 meeting, is scheduled June 21 at 8 p.m. in Echobrook School.

THE APPROACHING construction of the pool wind up an effort which started almost two years ago to establish such a community facility. Delay was principally caused by the difficulties encountered in attempting to buy the present site, the former bird sanctuary adjacent to the playing field of Echobrook School. Tax maps showed that the land belonged to the State Highway Department but that agency said it held instead a revocable permit

Borough to accept bids Tuesday night for paving pool site

Sealed bids for work on the parking area for the municipal pool will be accepted next Tuesday night at 8 p.m. in the Borough Hall, Rt. 22, Mountainside.

Specifications and the form of bids for the proposed work, may be obtained in the office of Borough Engineer Robert Koser on the second floor of the Borough Hall.

Bids must be delivered to the Borough Hall before 8 o'clock Tuesday and must be accompanied by a certified check made payable to the Borough of Mountainside in an amount equal to at least 10 percent of the amount of the bid. Bid bonds are acceptable in place of certified check. Each proposal must be accompanied by a surety company certificate stating that said surety company will provide the bidder with the required performance and payment bond in the full amount of the bid.

The bids must be made on standard proposal form in the manner designated in the specifications, enclosed in sealed envelopes with the name and address of the bidder and the name of the project on the outside and addressed to the Borough Clerk.

The Borough Council reserves the right to waive any defects in any bid and to reject any or all bids. Addenda may be issued by the engineer prior to the opening of bids and will become part of the specifications. Bidders are obliged on their own initiative to determine by contacting Koser as such addenda has been added and, if so, to request permission to examine it.

New bill would provide $1M state scholarships

An administration bill which would make available up to $1,000 in scholarships to qualified students attending public or private institutions in New Jersey was introduced in the Assembly Monday by Assemblymen from Union County Joseph J. Higgins, Henry F. Gavan and Robert E. Henderson.

The new bill, known as the Incentive Scholarship Act of 1966, would supplement the present state competitive scholarship act which has provided up to $500 annually to eligible high school graduates. The total appropriation authorized by the incentive bill would be $750,000 annually.

In a statement issued jointly by the three Assemblymen they explained that until now, "unless a student could supplement his state scholarship with substantial private funds, he could not attend a private institution where tuition, in almost all cases, is higher than that in the state-supported colleges and universities. Thus, no real choice remained for the student except for him to add to the pressure of those seeking admission to public institutions."

"We have no fear," the statement continued,

"that young people of ability will not continue to seek admission to the state university, or other public colleges, in numbers greater than can be accommodated. We must proceed forward with the necessary expansion in that area."

"But this bill will assure that all available places in New Jersey's private institutions will be filled and that these institutions can plan for the necessary expansion that must accompany the growth in public facilities."

The competitive scholarship funds have been given primarily to students attending schools in this state, although 35 per cent of the total allocation is available to students attending out-of-state schools.

The incentive scholarships would be issued to recipients of competitive scholarships who are attending or who will attend schools within the state. They will be administered by the State Scholarship Commission which would take into consideration applicants' financial need, academic qualifications and character references.

Vehicle inspection scheduled June 4 for Derby entries

D-Day is approaching fast for the 24 area boys entered in the 1966 Union County Soap Box Derby on June 5 in Union Township. Prior to the big race down Stuyvesant ave., will be inspection day, on Friday, June 4.

Ross Todaro of Union, derby director, said the boys will have their vehicles inspected next Friday at 7 p.m. at L&S Chevrolet on Morris ave. in Union. The inspections are conducted to check cars for safety and conformity with official Derby rules. Todaro and chief inspector Alex Oleky, will supervise.

Todaro, noting that there have been several rule changes for this year, urged Derby entrants to double check their cars with the 1966 Soap Box Derby Rule Book.

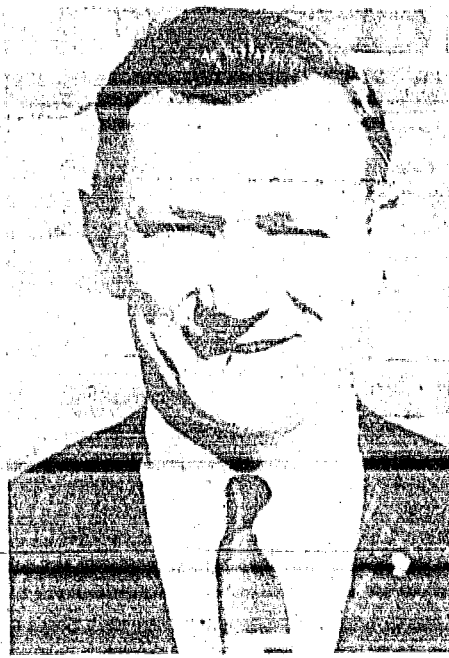

"The rules guarantee safety and fair play," he said. "So every boy should make sure that his car precisely follows the rule book. We want every boy to pass inspection and give his car a real test on Derby Day," Todaro said.

After inspection, all racers will be placed in the care of Derby officials and their owners won't be allowed to touch them until race day on June 5.

The Union County winner will receive a $500 savings bond, trophy and an expense-paid trip to Akron, O., to compete for $30,000 in college scholarships offered by Chevrolet, national Derby sponsor.

Some 250 local champions are expected to participate in the 29th running of the national finals on Akron's historic Derby Downs. The top prize, a $7,500 scholarship, goes to the first-place winner.

The Union County Soap Box Derby is sponsored by the Optimist Club of Union, L&S and the Union Leader.

To protect against fires frequently caused by open candles, Colonists often placed glass shades around their candle holders. Responsive Reading will include these verses from Ephesians: "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather prove them...Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is." The theme is explained in detail in selections to be read from the Christian Science textbook, including these: "In a world of sin and sensuality hastening to a greater development of power, it is wise earnestly to consider whether it is the human mind or the divine Mind which is influencing one...No person is benefited by yielding his mentality to any mental despotism or malpractice...The truths of immortal Mind sustain man, and they annihilate the fables of mortal mind, whose flimsy and gaudy pretensions, like silly moths, singe their own wings and fall into dust." "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. Subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced."

SUNDAY'S SERMON

There are many ways in which an individual can illustrate the quality of self-concern. There are, for example, sayings to the effect that "It's not my ox that's being gored" and "I am not my brother's keeper." In truth, our reaction to any event or happening usually depends upon the matter of self-involvement. Even if we are not directly involved, our response to something usually depends upon our attitude toward the individuals who are involved. If we dislike someone, we condemn their actions indignantly. If we like someone, we try to convince ourselves and others they had "good reason" for acting as they did. Circumstances may alter individual cases, yet we are not being fair to ourselves and to others unless we give every man his due, unless we exercise forbearance and mix love with mercy and justice. It's an old suggestion, but it helps our understanding, if we forget about self-concern and try to put ourselves in the other fellow's place.

FAMILY POT LUCK BY HELEN MALE

There's no easy way to lose weight, but it's not an impossible task either. Here are some basic tips which may help. Skip a meal and you may not wait until the next meal. Often dieters skip breakfast. Before lunch they will have eaten sweet rolls or candy bars which will total more than a sensible breakfast. Make up your mind to write down everything eaten for a period of three days. Those who say they don't eat anything will have a surprise if they make a count of the calories consumed on this so-called "nothing". Cut down on how much you eat. You can then eat what others have and not feel deprived which is often devastating. Helen's Favorite: Cream of Corn Soup (6 servings) 2 cups corn (canned or leftover) 2 cups boiling water 2 cups milk 1 slice onion 2 tablespoons butter 2 tablespoons enriched flour Salt and pepper Place corn, boiling water, milk and onion in saucepan. Simmer 20 minutes. Rub through a sieve. Melt butter and flour and blend until smooth. Stir in corn mixture. Simmer 5 minutes.

Seek values in first home

Before you start establishing a home base, a place that you can call your own, sit down with your "to-be" and talk over frankly what is really important to each of you. Examine each of your values for those that will influence your choices.

Traditions are an important part of your lives, but now is an appropriate time to determine whether or not your values will enrich your lives at this stage of getting established, says Gena Thames, extension specialist in home furnishing at Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science.

You'll each be starting a new pattern of living. Conventional attitudes about furniture and furnishings very often keep you from achieving effective, attractive, livable and low-cost and less back-breaking solutions to the problem of comfortable living.

They keep your thinking running down narrow channels. Some of the questions you might ask yourselves are these:

Are we going to think of our home as a "gallery for exhibiting taste" or as a living environment that will provide a place to think to make decisions, and to "catch up with ourselves"?

Will there be an opportunity for self-expression, for the development of respect, integrity, and a feeling of well-being so that we can withstand stresses and strains? Is our home to be tuned to a busy whirl and require minimum effort and time in care and maintenance? And is it to reflect freedom in displaying work and hobbies without apology?

Talking over what you both want your home to do for each of you will reveal your concerns. Here's where you may have to compromise.

To be completely satisfying and functional to you, space and equipment for living must be in step with your ways of living.

Barison raps opinions of Case about Viet Nam

David Barison of Elizabeth, independent candidate for election to the United States Senate, this week attacked U.S. Senator Clifford P. Case's opinions about the Administration's Viet Nam policy, Communist China's admission to the United Nations and inflation, declaring that Case's views were contradictory. Barison, who classifies himself as a liberal Democrat, stated that he has "promised to raise the issues and questions in the forthcoming campaign and make out the answers from Mr. Case." New Jersey deserves a senator, "who knows what's going on and why," Barison commented.

Sen. Case, whom Barison calls "the positivist on vagueness," has always had something to talk about but has yet anything to say, according to the candidate who has his office at 204 N. Wood ave., Linden.

Barison pointed out that Sen. Case, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, defers to President Lyndon B. Johnson on most foreign policy, including that pertaining to Viet Nam, but questions the Administration's lack of candor. "In discussing Viet Nam and the Pentagon's 'stupidity' in putting too-optimistic a face on the military situation, Barison also declared that Case 'has surrendered his constitutional duty of consent and delegated authority to the President.'"

Referring to question of China's admission to the United Nations, Barison said Case favors probing to see whether China could be admitted and that Case has stated that the real problem of making China a "responsible member of the family of nations" would not necessarily involve U.N. membership. "Case's additional probing on the question of China but see no solution that can be reached," Barison commented. "Case's not for war with China or Russia, but who is?"

"How does Case reconcile his party's call for more and more escalation of the war in Viet Nam with the charge that the Democrats are the war party despite the fact that the only opposition to the war is from the Democratic side of the aisle?" Barison asked.

The question of inflation was another subject included in Barison's statement. "Case is not for increased taxes, for the moment, but is watching things closely," Barison stated. "Case's not for a cut in spending, for the moment, but is waiting to see."

Barison declared that the present inflation "is undoubtedly caused by expanding economy coincidental to the increased spending by war requirements." The Elizabeth man said that during the six years in which there has been no business recession the Administration has had "countless opportunities to reduce the national debt."

Just one scholar handed his diploma back in 1774

Something around 2,700 members of the Bicentennial Class at Rutgers University will receive bachelor's degrees this spring, and about 1,500 graduate and professional degrees also will be awarded at the 200th Anniversary Commencement in Rutgers Stadium on June 1. The first class to be graduated from Rutgers, then known as Queen's College, consisted of just one scholar.

He was Matthew Leydt, the 19 year-old son of a New Brunswick minister of the Dutch Reformed Church, John Leydt, and member of a family that played a prominent part in the affairs of the fledgling college. The younger Leydt was graduated in a ceremony held in New Brunswick on October 14, 1774.

The New York Gazette and Weekly Mercury of Oct. 24 that year related that one of the leading spirits in the founding of the college, the Reverend Jacob Rutsen Hardenbergh, officiated by appointment of the Board of Trustees as president for the day.

"MR. MATTHEW LIGHT, of New Brunswick," the Gazette and Mercury continued, "was the only candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and delivered orations in Latin, Dutch and English with high applause."

Young Leydt four years later was licensed as a minister in the Dutch Reformed Church at a general meeting of ministers and elders in New Brunswick and was a pastor in Belleville and Ganssegt (now Fairfield) from 1779 to 1780. He was also a minister at Northampton and Southampton in Pennsylvania from 1780 to 1783.

Matthew Leydt became the first graduate of Queen's College to serve on the Board of Trustees when he was elected a member in 1783, but his service was cut short by his death on Nov. 24 of the same year.

His father, John, was a trustee at the same time and had played a major role in the founding of Queen's -- so much so that he was named to the Board of Trustees in the charter, granted on Nov. 10, 1766.

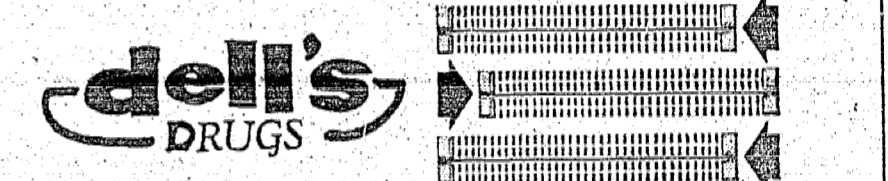

A short, dark and affable man, he was a notable patriot during the Revolution, served well as a pastor-in New Brunswick and Six Mile Run, and retained a strong interest in the affairs of Queen's until his death in the same year as that of his son.

Matthew's brother, Peter Leydt, is sometimes known as the father of the Rutgers library. Before Peter's death in 1791 he became the first benefactor of the Rutgers library by willing "to the trustees of Queen's College in New Jersey all my Latin, Greek and Hebrew books." The books were received by the college the next year.

Matthew Leydt was buried in Pennsylvania in the old graveyard of the place once familiarly known as "The Buck," near where the first church building of the Dutch Reformed congregation of Northampton once stood.

Tempe Wick Community Offers 4 Models in Scenic Hills Of Mendham

TEMPE WICK shows this model home, "The Madison" colonial farmhouse ranch, on Tempe Wick Road, off Route 24, in Mendham. Three other models priced from $32,490 are featured at the new community.

As most New Jersey schoolchildren know, Tempe Wick was a young girl who, according to legend, hid a horse in her bedroom at one time during the Revolutionary War to safeguard it from marauding Colonial troops. The reconstructed "Tempe Wick House" in Morristown Nations Historical Park at Jockey Hollow has been a landmark for many years.

A few miles down Tempe Wick Road off Route 23 in Mendham, approximately five miles west of Morristown, is a new community of custom-styled homes called Tempe Wick. Although "horse-sized" bedrooms aren't among the features, the charm and graciousness of Colonial times is apparent in the styling of Tempe Wick homes.

The tract lies nestled in the scenic, rolling hills of Mendham offering country estate living in a prestige location preserving the rich colonial heritage of the historic Morristown area.

Brounell & Kramer, Union realtors, are the sales agents for the project where plans call for the construction of 106 homes on estate-size, half and full-acre sites.

Buyers are offered a choice of 4 models prices from $32,490. They are "The Adams" colonial split level; "The Jefferson" colonial 2-story split; "The Madison" colonial farmhouse ranch; "The Washington" 2-story colonial.

The homes are distinguished by authentic colonial architectural design and have 4 and 5 bedrooms, 2 1/2 and 3 bathrooms, large living rooms, formal dining rooms, paneled family rooms, wood-burning fireplaces, ultra-modern kitchens with all built-ins, including automatic dishwashers, and oversize 2-car garages. City sewers and all utilities, paved roads and curbs are being installed by the builder.

The developer is Frankfar, Ltd. of Elizabeth whose other building projects include Druid Hill, Parsippany, Elkwood, New Providence; Drexel Hill, Clark; Runnymede Estates, New Providence; Chandler Hill, Edison; Bromley Park, New Providence; Westfield Estates, Westfield; Woods Mall, New Providence; Royal Woods, Parsippany. The company also has built many one and two-family homes in New York and Long Island.

"On the Banks"

On the banks of what? Raritan wins over Hackensack

"On the Banks of the Old Hackensack, My Bay..." That's how the famous Rutgers song might have sounded if two votes had been cast differently in a balloting that took place in Hackensack 195 years ago.

Soon after Queen's College (later Rutgers) obtained a Royal Charter in 1766, a sharp division appeared in the board of trustees over the location of the college.

Rev. John H. Goetschius led the Hackensack group. Sometime prior to 1771 he had established his own academy at Hackensack and wanted the new college to build upon it. Those who favored New Brunswick were militant, remembering the city's loss of an earlier charter to Princeton because of the larger subscription which the successful community had been able to raise.

The meeting for a decision was held in Hackensack on May 7, 1771. Since Rev. Goetschius' academy was well-established there, the Hackensack faction appeared to enter with the advantage.

Remembering the lesson of Princeton, the New Brunswick faction had an ace in the hole -- subscriptions to the college that apparently outbid whatever the Hackensack boosters had been able to muster.

"Those in favor of Hackensack," according to minutes of the meeting, "complained that they had not had sufficient time and opportunities for taking in subscriptions, if they had they were of opinion, their subscriptions would have been as high or higher than those for New Brunswick."

Frederick Smyth, last chief justice of the province, was presiding at the session. He pointed out that since those in favor of Hackensack were "gentlemen of probity and honour," it should be taken for granted that they could have produced the necessary funds if given more time. Smyth voted in favor of Hackensack.

New Brunswick, however, won the vote 10 to seven. Queen's College, later to become Rutgers - The State University, came to central New Jersey. And when Rutgers men meet, they sing "On the Banks of the Old Raritan" -- not "On the Banks of the Old Hackensack."

IF YOU PAID FIVE DOLLARS MORE... WOULD YOU GET A BETTER PAIR OF SLACKS?

One of Robert Hall's outstanding values in men's clothing are these 55% Dacron-45% Worsted tropical slacks tailored from fine J. P. Stevens and Deering Milliken fabrics.

They are tailored with the quality details that insure comfortable fit, good looks, and long wear, details that you should look for wherever you are presently buying your slacks. Details that include smooth, lustrous, high count cotton inner waistbanding and pocketing. Inner waistbands are pleated and pliable for comfort at your waist. The inner pockets are "booked" - if you lift them up and look underneath, you will see no raw edges. The inner fly is lined. The inner crotch assembly is lined smoothly and sewn neatly so that it looks flat and feels comfortable. The outer waistband is sewn smoothly and pressed flat. The belt loops are cut straight, blind stitched and tacked straight on the trouser. The back pockets are deep and finished with double besom openings so that they will not sag. The inner side seams are pressed flat, so that no unsightly ridges show outside. The slacks themselves are carefully under-pressed many times for a smooth, trim look.

They are priced at $7.88

THESE SLACKS ARE NOT PRE-CUFFED to a set inseam length that could be 1/2 inch too long or too short for you. They are expertly fitted and altered to your individual measurements at no additional charge. You may have them finished with cuffed bottoms or plain bottoms, as you wish.

See if you can remember what you paid for the last pair of quality tailored Dacron-Worsted slacks you bought at a store that offered free alteration service. Not Dacron-RAYON. Dacron-WORSTED. Chances are it was a lot more than $7.88.

Probably at least five dollars more:

Men's 55% Dacron* polyester-45% worsted tropical slacks in slim plain front model. Sizes 29 to 42 waist. $7.88, including alterations, at your Robert Hall store.

Five Rutgers grads have served as N.J. governor

Five of the 44 men who have been elected governor since New Jersey became a state in 1776 have been Rutgers graduates. All made their mark in New Jersey history in one way or another.

One was the last member of his party to serve as governor; one, elected by the smallest majority in state history, was at least half a century ahead of his time in his vision of the needs of New Jersey, and another was acclaimed in his day as the greatest benefactor New Jersey had ever known.

The present governor, Richard J. Hughes, won his second term in 1965 by the largest majority in the history of the Garden State, more than 350,000 votes. Hughes is also the only one of the graduates of the State University to serve two terms as governor.

A 1931 graduate of the Rutgers Law School, Hughes was named "Alumnus of the Year" in 1963 and is a strong supporter of public higher education.

He is the second of the two Democrats among Rutgers graduates who were elected governor. The first, George C. Ludlow, served from 1881 to 1884 and was the governor with the dubious distinction of election by the smallest majority.

Two of the other Rutgers men to become governor, William A. Newell (1857-1860) and Foster M. Voorhees (1899-1902), were Republicans, while Charles C. Stratton (1845-1848), was a Whig.

STRATTON, A member of the Rutgers (then Queen's) class of 1814, was the first Rutgers man elected to the highest office in New Jersey, and he was also the fourth and last Whig to be governor.

A prominent farmer in the Swedesboro area, Stratton served an uneventful term as governor, and indeed attracted more public attention between his terms as a Congressman in 1837-39 and 1841-43 than at any time when he held office.

Stratton was one of 10 men who appeared before the House of Representatives Committee on Elections in 1840 in a dispute over the five New Jersey seats. Stratton actually produced the Great Seal of the State of New Jersey given in those days when the governor and privy council cast up votes and declared winners.

Trailside presents lecture on reptiles

On Sunday, at 3 p.m., Lloyd Rich, former assistant director of the Trailside Nature and Science Center, will present a lecture and exhibit on "Reptiles of New Jersey" at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation, Mountainside.

Such plans to supplement his talk with live specimens and color slides. He will describe the life and behavior of many species and expose superstitions and mistaken beliefs pertaining to snakes.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, at 4 p.m. each day, Dr. Harold N. Moldenke, director of Trailside, will conduct one-half hour nature talks for children. The topic selected for the three days is "African Mammals." The talks will be illustrated with color slides.

The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public each weekday, except Friday, from 9 to 5 p.m.; and on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays from 1 to 5 p.m. The public is invited to visit the Nature and Science Center, tour the live-animal area, and view the thousands of indoor exhibits, and participate in the scheduled programs.

New fee announced for uninsured cars

June Strellecki, director of the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles, this week announced that beginning June 1, every person registering an uninsured motor vehicle will be required to pay a fee of $25. In addition to the normal registration fee, the fee, which had been $15, is the uninsured vehicle owner's contribution to the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund.

Director Strellecki emphasized that the $25 fee does not provide motorists with insurance protection. Some vehicle owners have had the mistaken impression that the fee was for "State insurance."

If an uninsured vehicle is involved in an accident, the driver may possibly lose his driving privilege and the owner his registration privilege, under the Security Responsibility Law. In addition, the motorist will be required to repay the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund, if a claim against the motorist is paid from the Fund. His driving and registration privileges would remain suspended until the Fund has been repaid, Miss Strellecki said.

Chemists from industry address UJC students

Chemists from Bristol-Myers Products, Merck & Co., Inc. and Shell Chemical Co., were recently guest lecturers before organic chemistry students at Union Junior College, Cranford.

The speakers and their topics were: Norman Shupe of Bristol-Myers, Hillside, "Infrared Spectroscopy"; Dr. Carl Back of Shell Chemical Company, Union, "Applications of Organic Chemicals to Textiles"; and Dr. Thomas M. Devlin of Merck & Co., Inc., Rahway, "Enzymes in Bio-chemistry." The special lectures were arranged by Farris S. Swackhamer of Cranford, chairman of the chemistry department.

ners, but Congress was unimpressed and declined to send him.

The next Rutgers man to become governor of New Jersey was probably the most colorful, and he was undoubtedly the most versatile.

William August Newell was a man of many parts by almost any standard. A member of the class of 1836 at Rutgers, Newell was three times a congressman, governor of New Jersey, governor of the Washington Territory, examining surgeon for New Jersey during the Civil War, a practicing physician and creator through congressional legislation of the U.S. Agricultural Bureau. He was also the only governor of New Jersey to walk some 12 miles to his own inauguration.

However, Newell is chiefly remembered today as the creator and superintendent of the United States Life-Saving Service. This achievement alone was enough to see him hailed on his death as "the greatest benefactor of New Jersey in the history of the state."

Newell was elected governor in 1856 on the Republican-Know-Nothing ticket. On the day of his inauguration in January, 1857, Newell and a one-time fellow member of Congress, John Van Dyke, walked the entire 12 miles or so from Allentown to Trenton after a blizzard had blocked the roads. On his death he was eulogized as "the personification of American grit."

Governor of one of the original states of the Atlantic coast, and of the last territory on the Pacific coast.

GEORGE C. LUDLOW, one of the two Phi Beta Kappas at Rutgers who later became governor, was elected to office in 1881 by a margin of only 651 votes, but once in office proved to be at least 50 years ahead of his time. His administration is of particular interest because he was the first governor to urge preservation of the state's water resources, a problem that is now of urgent concern.

The reasons for his narrow victory in the gubernatorial campaign of 1880 are hardly obscure. Strong efforts were made to picture Ludlow as a labor-baiter and the fact that he was a corporation lawyer also did not escape attention in pro-labor circles.

However, on becoming governor, Ludlow dropped all his clients. He also immediately announced his opposition to any scheme to surrender public rights to the water of New Jersey. He emphasized "the importance of broad and comprehensive consideration of the probable demand and supply of water for domestic purposes for the future" and appointed a commission to prepare plans for preservation of the water supply.

Although he was sometimes described as austere in manner, a somewhat different side to Ludlow's character began to appear in print some years after his death. It was broadly hinted that George Craig Ludlow was somewhat of a convivial soul. He was described as a regular patron of the Cheesequake Tavern at Morgan. A proprietor who came into possession of the tavern later said he understood that many times when the governor's signature was wanted on a legislative bill, a messenger was sent down to the tavern. He added that this was only hearsay.

A man of quite a different stripe was Foster M. Voorhees.

THE FIRST acting governor of New Jersey, Voorhees was a man much admired in his own day.

The Spanish-American War administration of Voorhees, once he was elected on his own, had almost all the standard textbook virtues. It was prudent, cautious, economical and mildly progressive.

Voorhees, a Phi Beta Kappa member of the class of 1876, was a life-long Republican who served in both houses of the state legislature. As senate president he became acting governor in 1898 when Governor John W. Griggs resigned to become attorney general in the McKinley administration. He was elected governor in 1898.

His inauguration was simple in the extreme. The Republican party managers had hoped to make the ceremonies as elaborate as possible but, according to accounts at the time, "the natural modesty and retiring disposition of the governor-elect made any ostentatious display distasteful to him, and at his request the ceremonies were simple and informal."

Voorhees' program as governor was highlighted by "human reclamation," prison and welfare reform. He pushed through completion of the reformatory at Rahway and cleaned up the notorious Shake Hill almshouse.

A year after Voorhees died, at home on his farm near High Bridge in 1927, Governor Edward C. Stokes remarked in paying tribute to the former governor that "his gubernatorial term was Coolidge-like in its simplicity, its modesty and devotion to the Commonwealth, economical and conservatively progressive."

Mrs. Marce Shepard of Mountainside was elected recently as vice-president of the Union County Brandeis Women's committee to serve as chairman of membership.

"The goal of this committee for the coming year," Mrs. Shepard has stated, "is to strengthen and increase the membership of the county. This will enable the organization to enlighten residents of the various communities in Union County to the important role of Brandeis University," a non-sectarian institution, in the field of higher education.

The National Women's committee, with which the Union County committee is affiliated, is dedicated to the support of the library of the University.

The committee also sponsors study groups in the various communities for its members. Groups are presently operating in Mountainside-Westfield, Union and Scotch Plains. Today the Society supports 22 such research professors. Your contribution to the 1966 Cancer Crusade will help to expand this research attack.

New blinds have no tape

The newest venetian blind has slats only one inch wide, nylon cord of amazing strength and durability, and no tape.

Its slender, petite slats permit greater "see-through" when opened and lend an airy appearance. The inconspicuous nylon cord, which is invisible from a distance, replaces the usual tape.

However, if tape is preferred venetian blinds will be of the usual width slats with a new type of plastic tape reinforced with glass fiber, says Gena Thames, extension specialist in home furnishing at the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science.

This new tape will not stretch, shrink, tear or fade, is fire and dust resistant and a plastic and glass fiber combination tape stays clean longer and may be washed very easily.

Fortieth Season Opens At Beach Haven West

This lagoon scene shows how the man-made waterways at Beach Haven West are an integral part of life at the community. Homes, all on waterfront sites, at the vacation and year round community are priced from $6,190.

The opening of the 1966 season marks the 40th anniversary of the original "summer colony" at Beach Haven West, the 2,000-acre, 6,600-home community situated on Route 72, just nine minutes from Exit 63 of the Garden State Parkway.

The community -- the first waterfront-lagoon tract ever built in the United States outside the State of Florida -- was founded in 1926 by M.L. Shapiro, whose sons Jerome and Herbert, have expanded the original 61-acre summer colony into a massive, self-contained city with nearly 1,700 homes already built and occupied. These homes are all situated on lagoon sites totaling more than 48 miles of waterways, all of which are deep enough to provide navigation for craft up to those classified as sea-going yachts.

Homes at New Jersey's largest "second home" community are available in 10 different models -- ranging from Floridian-type homes to year round retirement villas. The prices range from $6,190 to $14,590 with terms including down payments starting at only $390.

Because of the builders' program of working through the winter on the dredging operations, thus allowing for a land

"inventory," homes can be purchased in the spring for summer delivery so that the buyer gets the immediate advantage of his home for use this year.

Beach Haven West is located along the protected shores of Little Egg Harbor on the Intercoastal Waterway. The area has long been known as a setting for fine fishing, swimming and other vacation activities in a very casual, informal atmosphere "away from it all."

In addition to the aquatic activities here, the area is fast becoming a summer art and cultural center. An art school, several art galleries, two libraries, a summer stock theatre and three motion picture theatres are all within a few minutes drive from Beach Haven West.

Parents desiring to have their children take special courses during the summer months may enroll their children at the Beach Haven High School where 750 students from 37 states attended summer classes during 1965.

When completed, Beach Haven West will comprise more than 200 miles of waterways as well as a completely self-sufficient community with its own shopping and community centers, private sand beaches, playground areas, etc.
