

'...stands our noble Alma Mater built by Ballantine'

At the Newark campus of Rutgers, the Bi-centennial Year will be remembered as the time when the State University began its long-awaited move into new buildings designed for educational purposes.

Six new buildings, constructed with the aid of federal and state funds in one of the first university-centered urban renewal programs in the nation, are presently in various stages of development.

BRAND NEW—New Rutgers' campus is under construction in downtown Newark. University officials say it is the first campus in the country to be constructed entirely on urban renewal land.

Last fall Rutgers School of Law students began attending classes at Ackerson Hall, a handsome three-story building which is the first unit of the complex in downtown Newark to be completed. Other new buildings will include a student center, classroom building, laboratory building, a library, a physics and mathematics building and a dormitory for graduate and professional students.

Ackerson Hall, named in honor of retired State Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Ackerson, includes the most up-to-date physical facilities for the study of law, and is considered one of the finest buildings of its type in the country.

The proposed physics and mathematics building also will house the Institute of Animal Behavior, whose director Dr. Daniel S. Lehrman, is a world-renowned authority in this field of psychology. The new facilities will enable the Institute to expand its research, which has been aided in recent years by a number of substantial federal grants.

The previous history of Rutgers in Newark and its predecessor, the University of Newark, is replete with instances when buildings were adapted to educational use and classes operated in a cobweb of addresses spread through the city. Since 1946, when the old university was incorporated, Rutgers has grown to have 24 distinct addresses, including a former razor blade factory, a barn, an insurance building and, for a time, the ballroom of the Military Park Hotel.

Second-hand quarters, however, are not entirely an unpleasant memory to many old graduates of Rutgers-Newark.

THE MAIN BUILDING of the Newark College of Arts and Sciences since 1946--first purchased by the New Jersey Law School in 1927 to house the pre-legal department--is a former brewery. Many students fondly recall the smell of malt on humid afternoons in the building, at 40 Rector st. That situation, combined with a prolonged discussion about what to call the Newark branch of Rutgers, evoked the following suggested college song, written to the tune of "Far Above Cayuga's Waters."

Down beside Passaic's water
With its brackish brine
Stands our noble Alma Mater
Built by Ballantine.

Show our rapture, toll it loudly
In a chorus great;
Hail to thee which stands so proudly-- Hall, all hail, Newark College of Arts and Sciences of Rutgers University, of the University of the State!

That attempt to confer immortality on Newark-Rutgers may not be as long-lasting as Philip Roth's novel "Goodbye, Columbus," in which the main character is a student at Rutgers in Newark. Some critics believe the novel will be read for years to come.

At the time of the merger in 1946, the three divisions of the University of Newark--the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Business Administration and the New Jersey Law School--had an enrollment of about 1,000 students. In September of 1946 the enrollment doubled. A decade later it had reached more than 6,000 students (including evening classes) and in September of last year 8,600 students showed up for the first day of class.

The Rutgers College of Pharmacy had been part of the State University since 1927; after the merger it became the fourth unit of the University of Newark campus. A two-year nursing program that began in 1952 grew into the College of Nursing within four years and increased the number of units--not including the University College division--to five.

The business school began to emphasize graduate study and in 1964 became exclusively devoted to it. Ten years ago the Division of Public Accounting was formed as the first in the nation to prepare liberal arts graduates for careers in public accounting.

Says classroom shortage creates 'academic DPs'

Young people from New Jersey who are driven out of the state in pursuit of higher education are "displaced persons" or "academic refugees," according to Dr. Robert Fidler Oxnam, president of Drew University, who was the speaker at the Newark State College commencement, held on the Union campus last Thursday.

Because there are not enough places for them in this state's institutions of higher education, young people are forced to attend college and universities in other states at a "gigantic cost to their parents, who pay taxes in New Jersey," Dr. Oxnam said in his address, "New Jersey and the Academic Refugees."

The occasion was also marked by the conferring of honorary doctor of letters degrees upon two alumni of the college, as 603 graduating seniors were awarded bachelor's degrees and 194 candidates were awarded master's degrees. William A. Sutherland, a member of the State Board of Education, conferred the degrees.

The honorary degrees were awarded to Leonard C. Johnson of Princeton, president of the New Jersey Manufacturers' Association, and Dr. Lenore Vaughn-Eames of Stockton, professor emerita of English at the college.

Dr. Eugene G. Wilkins, president of Newark State, presented an award for distinguished service to education to the New Jersey Congress of Parents and Teachers. It was accepted by Mrs. Oakford Schallck of Elmer, president of the congress.

Dr. Oxnam warned that "soon the state's academic refugees will have no place to go." He pointed out that state colleges and universities are designed primarily for their own young people. "More and more New Jersey residents are being told that there is just no room for them in the colleges and universities of other states," he said. "It takes but little imagination to look ahead five years, when the situation will be not only critical but ridiculous."

He pointed to a prediction by the Citizens Committee for Higher Education in New Jersey, which last month released a recommendation to Governor Hughes to strengthen the state's higher education system, that "failure now to provide an adequate system of public higher education will be counted a disaster in the years ahead."

"In public higher education we have been worse than timid in New Jersey; we have been negligent. Too long we have been content to export our college youth to other states. Too long other states have been patient and gracious in carrying the fiscal burden we should have borne."

"If we were poverty stricken, the situation would be difficult but more understandable. But that is not the case. A state which is seventh in per capita income but 48th in per capita expenditures for higher education had better listen to its Governor and its citizens committee with care," Dr. Oxnam said.

Dr. Oxnam was elected the eighth president of Drew University in Madison in 1960. He had been president of Pratt Institute in Brooklyn since 1957 and continued as president there until June 1961.

Dr. Vaughn-Eames, who was awarded the other honorary degree, served as a member of the college faculty for 38 years before her retirement in 1960. Holding the rank of full professor, she accepted in 1951 the position of chairman of the graduate program, a post she held until retirement.

Today she is chairman of the Advisory Council for the implementation of the Beadleston Act for the Emotionally Disturbed, a member of the State Commission on the Handicapped, a consultant to the State Department of Education, chairman of the Educational Planning Committee of New York University's School of Education, chairman of the Out-of-Town Clubs of NYU's Alumni Federation and secretary of the Hunterdon County College Study Committee.

Following her graduation from Newark State in 1919, Dr. Vaughn-Eames earned BS, MA, and EdD degrees from NYU. She began her career as a teacher in Scotch Plains and Union schools and joined the Newark State faculty in 1922.

The New Jersey PTA Congress was cited for "promoting the welfare of children and youth and working tirelessly to secure adequate laws for their care and protection." It was commended for its role in linking home and school and serving as interpreters and intermediaries between educators and the general public. Its stand supporting a broad-based tax was termed an example of the "principled stands (it has) taken over the years in the drive to secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, social and spiritual education."

Swimming lessons at Wheeler Park begin on June 27

The swimming pool operated by the Union County Park Commission, located at John Russell Wheeler Park, Linden, will begin operating at the fulltime summer schedule on Saturday.

The pool will then open on weekdays, including Saturdays and holidays, at 10 a.m., on Sundays the pool will open at 11 a.m. The pool will remain open on weekdays until 8 p.m. and on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays until 7 p.m., weather permitting.

The Railway River Park swimming pool will begin the above full-time summer schedule on Saturday, June 25. Children, 13 years of age and under, may swim free of charge from 10 a.m. to noon, each Monday, except holidays.

Boys and girls, eight to 14 years of age, may now register at either pool for the annual "learn to swim" school which will be conducted daily from 9 a.m. to 9:45 a.m., beginning Monday, June 27, and continuing to Friday, July 1.

Union County residents may take advantage of the "Family Membership Plan" now being offered at both pools. A family may apply for a special rate of $25 for the entire swimming season and this will entitle husband and wife and all their children, 18 years of age and under, to swim in the pools without additional charges during the summer. Applications are now available at both pools. Each pool has a sand beach and a refreshment stand.

Honor list includes eight area people

Eight area residents were graduated from Rutgers and Douglass Colleges June 1 with honors. It was announced this week.

The graduates, home addresses and types of honors were: Mrs. Barile Hochberg, 2012 Orchard ter., Linden, general honors; Thomas Kennedy, 208 E. 1st ave., Roselle, distinction in English; Paul McFarlane, 149 West 5th st., Roselle, honors and high distinction in sociology; Neil Brooks, 219 Washington ave., Union, high honors; Peter Gordon, 1823 Manor dr., Union, honors; Barry Love, 472 Twin Oaks rd., Union, honors.

Also, Gary Kasnick, 723 Walker ave., Union, honors, and Thomas Sitzmann, 43 Franklin st., Union, high honors and distinction in political science.

How do you own a stack of Savings Bonds when you're older?

Start young.

Start small, if you want to, but start steady. The important thing is to have a regular program of setting something aside every payday.

What's most important: it's never too early to begin. You say that takes more will power than you can muster up on a regular basis? Then use the easy, automatic way: join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

This way your employer saves your money for you—puts it toward the purchase of a U. S. Savings Bond.

Pretty soon you won't even miss the money. In fact, you'll probably forget how fast your savings are growing.

Here's a for-instance: just $4.33 a week adds up to the $18.75 you need to buy a $25 Bond every month. That's $300, maturity value, a year. Not bad for a former spend-thrift! What's more, those few dollars you're tucking away to grow will be working all the time to help keep our country strong and free.

So start now, start young, building up the savings that count so much later on. Join the Payroll Savings Plan before next payday.

TWELFTH IN A SERIES TUNISIA

There is something special about Tunisians. That is what they said at the American Embassy.

Only seven percent foreign blood is in their Berber background veins—and they have Bourguiba and Bibi.

Habib Bourguiba, the president, and Habib Bourguiba, the Foreign Minister, are father and son and they seem to be doing very well with Tunisia. The 64-year old father is called simply "Bourguiba" and the 43-year old son is called fondly "Bibi." While some visitors raise their eyebrows at the beautiful Tunisian palaces, particularly the new one at Carthage, the people of Tunisia are not suffering because of them.

Tunisia is developing slowly but surely and is taking the famous 1,000 Bourguiba steps in the positive direction and improving all the time. The people are industrious and progressive and have good technical training. When once 70 percent of the population was illiterate, now, a 30 percent budget to education, is reducing the figure each year. Only seven percent of the national budget goes to defense and much of that is in civil training (police). Add to this the fact that there is no corruption in the government and foreign aid is NOT misused, the people have unusual good fortune. In many countries the upper classes siphon off aid benefits and the people do not feel it, but that is not the case in Tunisia, and Tunisia receives a bountiful amount of aid.

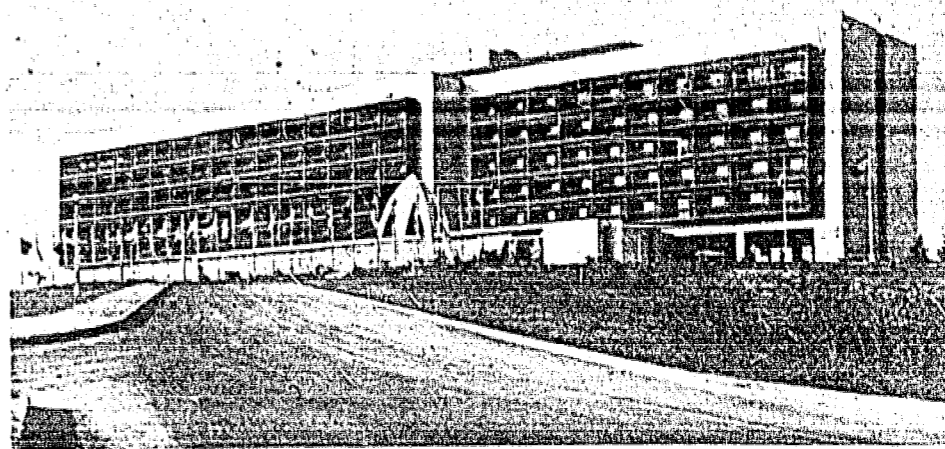

Two-thirds of all United States foreign aid goes to seven countries and Tunisia is one of them. It received 35 million dollars last year in United States aid and more from other countries and the World Bank as well. But Tunisia has hardly any natural resources, only phosphate is important, so the heavy foreign aid is almost a necessity for the development of the country. There is hope for oil in the dry regions and much research and progress is being made in the agricultural field, which is the basis of the country's economy. One American official said "Tunisians are more cultured and civilized because Tunisia has always been an agricultural center and as such has had stable things such as markets, towns, schools, etc."

Under Bourguiba several cooperative farms have been built and here hundreds of farmers learn latest crop methods and the use of new farming equipment etc. Our Study Mission Group visited one such co-op and there, in the fields was some of our foreign aid—tractors!

TUNISIA IS SPECIAL in still another quality. It is oriented to the west—and says so. Bourguiba has voiced his support of United States actions when his was the only voice to do so. He has stood by the United States at the United Nations. At the Casablanca Conference for Arab leaders in September, 1964, Bourguiba would not go unless Nasser agreed to speak only for Egypt as one country in the Arab League and not as though it was the entire Arab League itself. He has been so outspoken within the Arab League, speaking up for some Western actions, recommending dialogue with Israel and other individual opinions, that Tunisia is no longer a member of the Arab League. But almost the most special of all, is the fact that there is no corruption in the government. Not many countries can say that. But the Tunisians didn't even say it. To make all this information more special these facts did not come from the Tunisians speaking about themselves. It came from the Americans. And not every country can say THAT.

EVEN WITH ALL THIS, Tunisia has some-

HOTEL—The beautiful Hilton Hotel in Tunis, Tunisia. The balconies are hand carved wood and the hotel overlooks the entire city.

thing special for the tourists too. Usually a Hilton Hotel is a Hilton Hotel no matter where you go: It is comfy and warm and a weary traveler's haven for soap and Kleenex and equipment, but once you are inside, you cannot tell WHERE you are. There usually is no tell-tale atmosphere. They are modern, clean and sterile.

But the Tunis Hilton (and also the Athena Hilton I must admit) are special. Both hotels have all the above plus personality.

The Athens Hilton offers a view of the Parthenon from every room and certainly no other hotel can make that statement. The Tunis Hilton offers a view of the entire city from hand-carved wooden balconies at every room. Besides this "instant" decor of both hotels, there are restaurant night clubs in each that boast orchestras that no one can sit still to and food no one can resist. At the Tunis Hilton the restaurant club is at ground floor but it is softly lighted and elegant with windows walls viewing out to the starry night. At the Athens Hilton it is sky high on top of the hotel and absolutely beautiful.

Add to this the fact that the rooms are large and delightfully decorated and fresh fruit and flowers arrive every so often, it is almost worth a trip to Tunis and Athens just to stay at the Hiltons.

Special group rate to get in the swim

Special group rates for swimming in the pools operated by The Union County Park Commission, located at John Russell Wheeler Park, Linden, and Rahway River Park, Rahway, were recently announced by the park commission.

Union County groups with a minimum of 40 persons may use the pool facilities on weekdays, Monday through Friday, except holidays, for a fee of 25 cents per person. Group reservations are now being accepted at both pools.

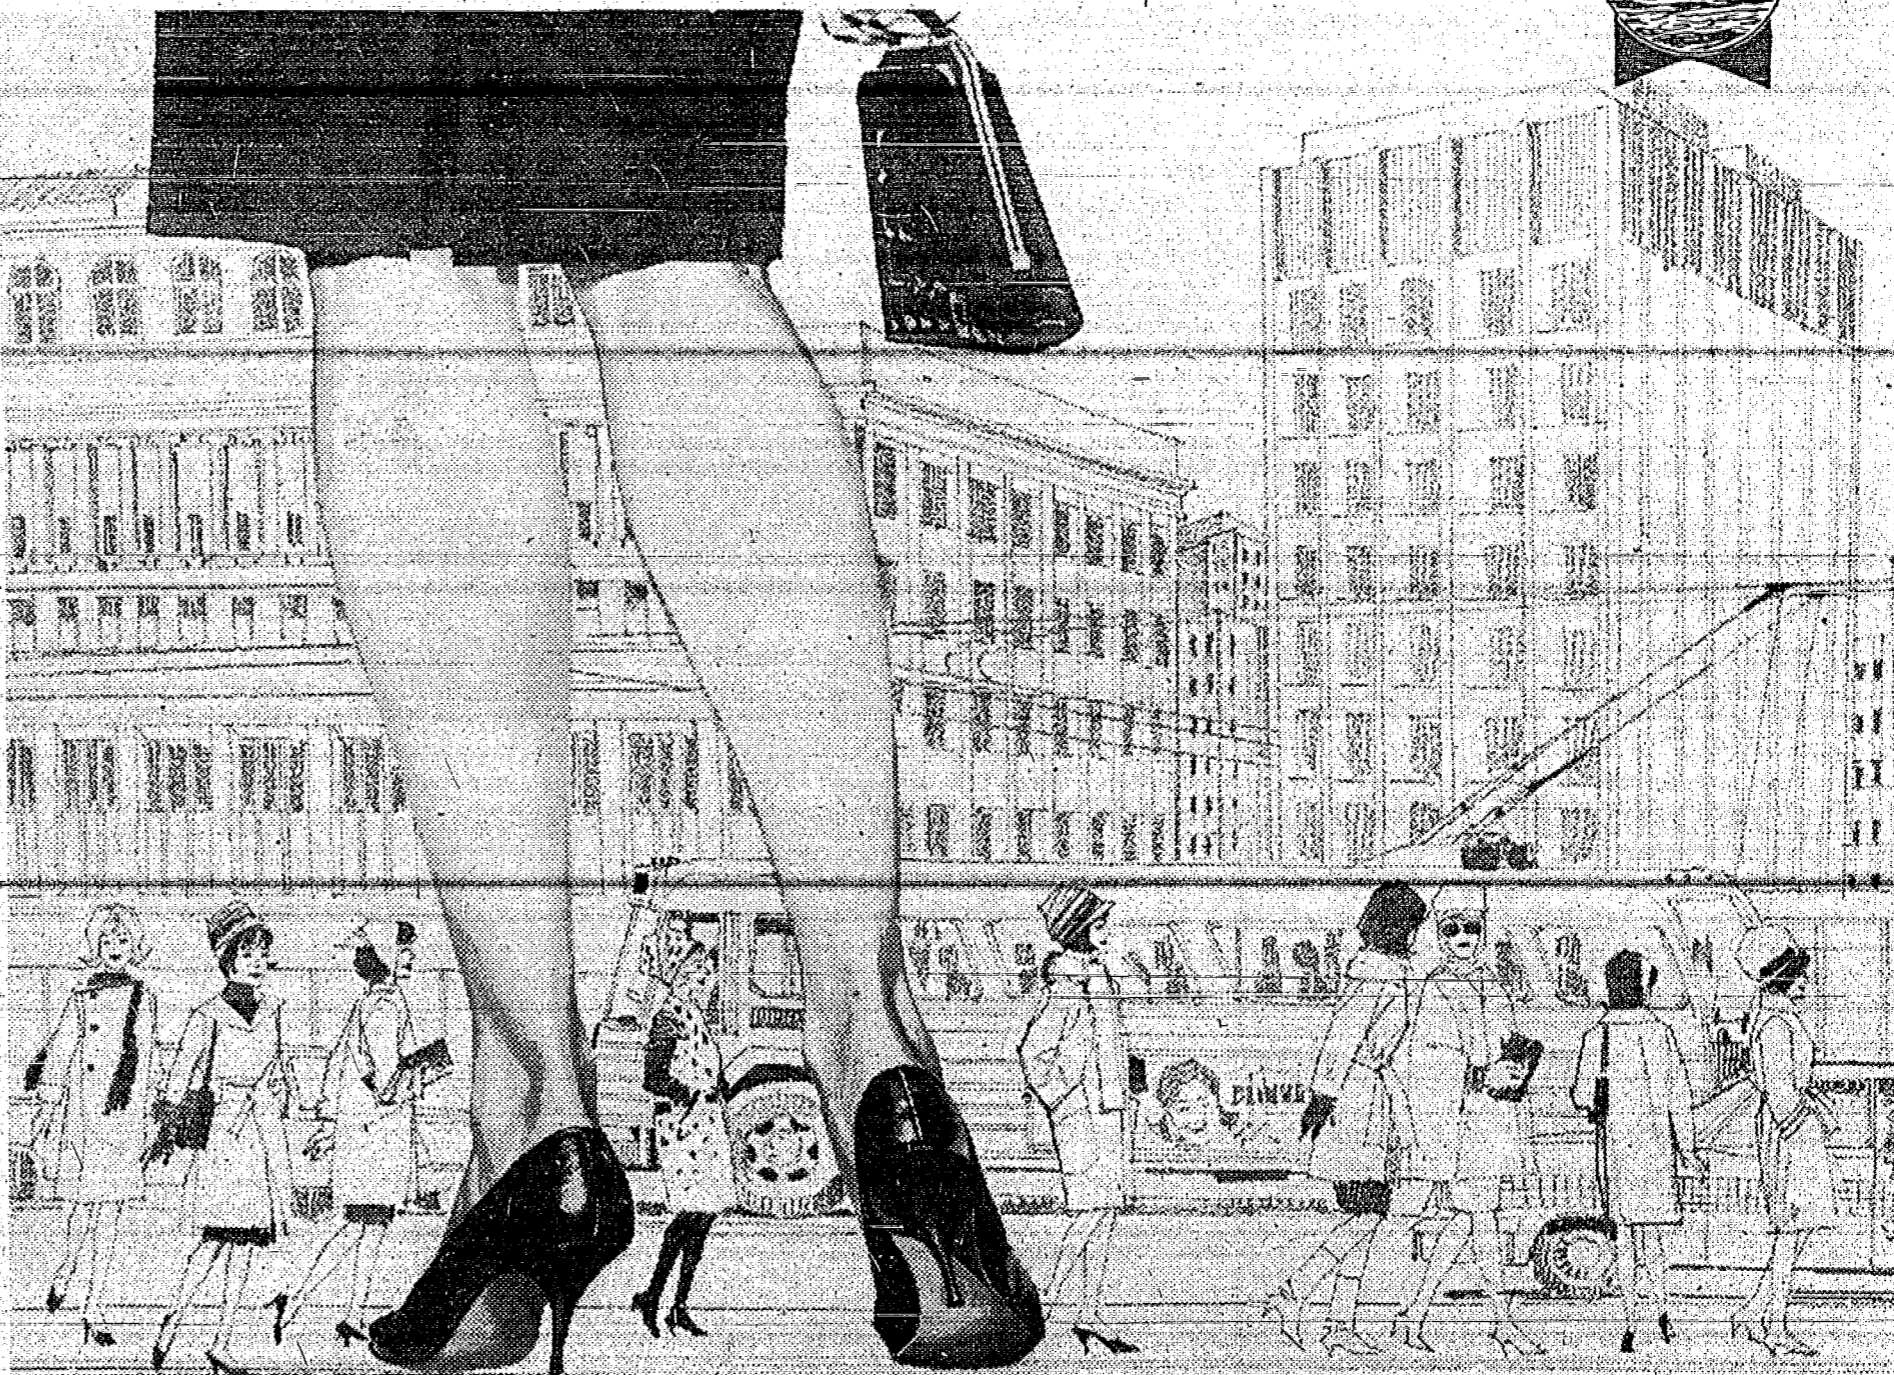

Union County groups may also rent the pool facilities with exclusive use for a two-hour period for "splash parties" at a fee of $50. The pool may be reserved from 8 to 10 p.m. on weekdays, Monday through Friday, and from 7 to 9 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays for group use. Reservations for this service are being accepted at both pools.

The purpose of the above swim plans is to encourage Union County groups to visit and use the swimming facilities, sand beaches, and refreshment stands, as well as large parking areas. The pools are supervised by qualified life guards certified by the American Red Cross.

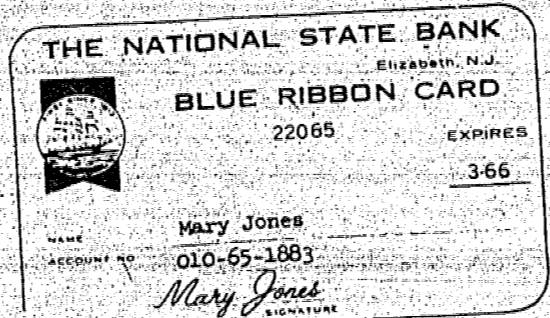

PANDA BEARS

Giant panda bears, despite their gentle appearance, don't flourish in captivity. Only eight are known to live in zoos scattered around the globe—four in Communist China, one in England, one in Russia and two in Korea.

Civil Defense unit planning campaign for school courses

In cooperation with the U.S. Public Health Service, State Office of Civil Defense, the Union County Civil Defense and Disaster Control will conduct an all-out campaign before school closing for the inclusion of the Medical Self-Help Program in the curricula of all the secondary schools for the coming fall semester, it was announced.

A Medical Self-Help Training Course, designed to prepare people to meet their own health needs if disaster strikes and no doctor is available, will start in the Linden Public Schools in September. The course, sponsored by the Union County CD-DC, will consist of 11 training sessions to be held in Linden Public Schools.

Dr. Jack R. Karel, deputy coordinator, announcing the course, said it consists of 16 hours of instruction in healthful living in emergencies, artificial respiration, bleeding and bandaging, fractures and splinting, transportation of the injured, and infant and child care. The lesson content covers situations which might be encountered in day-to-day emergencies, natural disasters or even a nuclear attack. At least one person in every family should be trained in medical self-help, he added.

The program, developed by the U.S. Public Health Service with the cooperation of the Office of Civil Defense, is endorsed by the American Medical Association and other national health organizations. Persons interested in taking the course may contact local civil defense offices for further information or health departments.

A TEACHER'S ROLES—Dr. Emery Battis, associate professor of history at Douglass College of Rutgers University, is surrounded by views of Emery Battis the actor. He is shown, left, as Sir

Combines acting, teaching careers

Dr. Emery Battis brings the actor's dramatic imagination to his work as a Rutgers history professor and the teacher's educational purposes to his successful acting career.

While his students at Douglass College, the women's unit of Rutgers, were honing up for their final exams recently, Battis was also studying — learning lines of one of the most demanding roles in the theater, Shakespeare's "King Lear."

Battis will portray Lear this summer in Area graduates get special honors

Area students who were awarded special honors at Newark College of Engineering's 50th commencement exercise on June 9 include: James H. Hand of 1048 Falls ter., B.S. in chemical engineering, magna cum laude; Daniel R. Kahn of 2736 Academy rd., B.S. in chemical engineering, magna cum laude; Richard D. Lerner of 1075 Susan pl., B.S. in civil engineering, cum laude; Mark H. Rakin of 543 Olive ter., B.S. in electrical engineering, magna cum laude; and Rudolph H. Trink of 1675 Edward ter., B.S. in chemical engineering, cum laude; all of Union. Charles Cameron of 15 Tower dr., Springfield, received a B.S. in civil engineering, cum laude.

Special honors were awarded to 81 of the 821 men and women who were granted M.S. or B.S. degrees at the graduation exercises.

the Great Lakes Shakespeare Festival in Lakewood, O., just outside Cleveland. He will also play Camillo in Shakespeare's "Winter's Tale" and the Rev. Chasuble in Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest."

This will be the fifth consecutive summer that Battis has been the leading character actor at the Great Lakes Festival, and he has received unanimously favorable personal reviews in the 22 parts he has played during this period.

But it is not only during the summer that the professor becomes an actor. Dr. Battis is a regular member of the acting troupe at the McCarter Theater in Princeton, where he appeared this season in plays by Sheridan, Shakespeare, Shaw, Wilde and Boucicault.

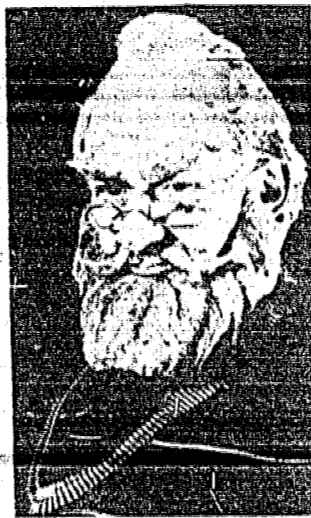

"I HAVEN'T found much conflict between my life as an actor and my life as a professor," Battis says. "I feel I'm being an educator when I can communicate my enthusiasm for a great play to an audience and dramatic skill undoubtedly can help a teacher enliven his classroom. Both jobs can give the innate satisfaction of working before an audience."

Battis was educated at the Leland Powers School of the Theater, Harvard College and Columbia University, from which he received both his master's and doctor's degrees.

Douglass students have consistently ranked Battis among the best liked members of the faculty since he joined it in 1948. Next year he will administer and teach the American Studies program at the college. In this connection he is preparing a course, about which he is currently most enthusiastic, which will center on Negro music and its place in American cultural history.

"I don't quite know why," Battis says, "but I can get up in front of an audience of a thousand at the Shakespeare festival and enjoy it, yet a while back I had to give a paper before the Southern Regional Historical Conference and I was so scared I shook."

Attack Rep. Dwyer on Viet Nam stand

The Union County Chapter for a Sane Nuclear Policy in a statement released this week sharply criticized Representative Florence P. Dwyer for failure to take action to end the Viet Nam war. In a letter directed to Mrs. Dwyer, Jack Greenspan, chairman of SANE, stated:

"Our Committee noted with great interest the results of your poll published in the press last week indicating more than 30 percent of those polled in your district urged withdrawal of our troops from Viet Nam. Your poll also noted that a substantial majority were dissatisfied in one way or another with the President's handling of the Viet Nam situation. We have not, however, noticed your part in any action in Congress, based upon the obvious desires of your constituents for a termination of this inhuman and vicious war which is rapidly becoming a war against the very fabric of American life. Quite frankly, we believe that it is comparatively easy for a legislator to make statements in the press or in Congress — indicating 'concern' or indicating what constituents have to say.

"It is, we believe, much more to the point for a legislator to directly give leadership and representation of the constituency by acting upon this concern. We urge, therefore, that you translate what amounts to a mandate from your constituents into specific action in the Congress by joining with those few courageous Congressmen who in one way or another oppose the Vietnam war and propose specific steps to get us out of it."

Bob Baker wore this shirt to the plant 8 times.

Mrs. Baker never ironed it!

Her automatic gas dryer did!

And it came out a whole lot better than the "old-fashioned" hang-dry-sprinkle-and-iron method. New "permanent press" garments are made to order for automatic gas dryers. The gentle heat (about 130°F) maintained in a gas dryer activates shape-holding chemicals in permanent press fabrics. Gas dryers tumble out wrinkles that even outdoor drying and cold-water injection cycles leave in!

Gas dryers fluff up all your wash sunshine bright in any weather... dry them cleaner than outdoors (there's no dust and dirt blowing around in a gas dryer). Gas dryers are fast, dependable... cost less... to use than other dryers... too.

Holiday Poconos Community Guarded By Electronic Gate

Electronic gate and reception office at Holiday Poconos, vacation year 'round community in Albrightsville in the Pocono mountains. Wooded homesites sell from $995 to $5000 with facilities of two large lakes available to landowners and residents.

Now a man can carry in his wallet a magic card which acts as a wand to open the gate to a forest-hidden resort and retirement community in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania.

Holiday Poconos, a vacation and year 'round' community in Albrightsville just off Route 903 in the Poconos, is believed to be the first community on the East Coast and only the second one in the United States, to have this trespasser-proof arrangement.

Holiday Poconos is entered through a stone and wrought iron gateway. There is actually no gate in the old fashioned sense, but an electronic barrier which is raised and lowered automatically.

Every land owner and resident of Holiday Poconos receives a one-of-a-kind card impregnated with a magnetic code which is his key when he buys a homesite there.

When the card is inserted in a slot in the gateway convenient to the driver's side of the automobile, lo! The gate rises and he can pursue the noiseless tenor of his way through wooded and laurel-bordered paved roads to his snug, secluded retreat.

This is the only way an automobile can enter Holiday Poconos. Visitors and casual passers-by must apply at the reception office by the entrance to inquire about homesites or seeing friends.
