Introduce municipal budget Tuesday night

PTA panel studies code for students

Guide lines spelled out on dress, grooming, etc.

"Code of Behavior and Dress for Mountain-side Students" will be the subject of a panel discussion at next Thursday night's meeting of the Mountainside Parent-Teachers Association. The session is scheduled to open at 8:15 p.m. in the all-purpose room of Deerfield School.

Two faculty members, Edwin Sjonell, guidance counselor, and Mrs. Elaine Wetzel, faculty advisor to the Student Council at Deerfield School, will be among the panelists discussing the tentative code. The code which has already been approved by the Student Council and the student body of Deerfield School, spells out guide lines for dress, grooming, deportment, behavior in class (including impertinence and cheating), conduct in hallways, lunchrooms and on the school buses.

It also reaffirms the school's policy of discipline which sets an oral warning to students for the first minor infraction; an oral warning and possible detention for the second infraction; detention and the summoning of parents to the school for a conference after the third offense. Serious infractions can lead to suspension. Expulsion of students will be used only as a "last resort."

Peter Festante, assistant principal at Governor Livingston Regional High School, will also be among the panelists. He will discuss the code of behavior and dress already in effect for Mountainside students attending the regional high school.

Mrs. Leon Salz, representing the PTA, will speak on the role of the parent, and Miss Joyce Agee, president of the Student Council, will present the students' viewpoint.

THE CODE PRESENTLY described as tentative, recognizes in its recommendations for dress "that American youth have been 'fad conscious' for generations." It attempts to make allowances for this tendency by permitting the boys to go tieless and to leave the neck button on shirts unfastened. However it stipulates that otherwise the shirt must be buttoned and shirttails on shirts must be tucked in. Dungarees of any color or type for boys and tight-fitting clothing for girls, particularly sweaters and skirts, are labeled "taboo." Girls are not allowed to wear culottes, extremely short skirts or slacks and tee shirts and athletic shirts are out for boys, except on Field Day. Boys are also required to wear belts unless trousers have a continental waist-band.

It suggests that boy students do not wear tight-fitting trousers as "they inhibit body movement" and that girls wear clothing which

School aspirants praise board; call schools excellent

All three school board candidates had praise for the present Board of Education at the annual candidates night held last Thursday night in Beechwood School, Mountainside. About 50 people attended the forum which was sponsored by the borough's Parent-Teachers Association.

Richard Krebs, an incumbent seeking election to the post to which he was appointed last fall, and Abe Suckno, of Friar Lane, both said that, as parents, their decisions to move into Mountainside were based in good part on the "excellence" of the schools. The third candidate, Anthony Genovese of Deer path, said the present board was doing a "fabulous job."

However, Krebs suggested the expansion of the curriculum to include a foreign language program and a better health education program. He also called for more discipline "for those who break the rules" and a code of behavior for students to include such areas as grooming and social behavior. A study of the advisability of instituting a merit system was also suggested by Krebs.

A desire to serve the community, a realization of the importance of the role of a school board member and his belief that he can make solid contributions to the board were presented by Genovese as his reasons for seeking election.

Suckno, an officer in several construction-related concerns, offered his experience in business and the construction field as possible assets to the board when it embarks on the construction program approved last fall by the voters. He also suggested that his experience in negotiating union contracts for his firm has given him an ability to "look at both sides in any negotiation," an attitude which he felt might be of help to the board.

Krebs, presently operations and book club manager for Grollier Enterprises, New York City, was formerly associated for 15-1/2 years with the American Education Press, Columbus, O., publishers of "My Weekly Reader." He attended evening sessions of Ohio State University and received his degree from Franklin University in Ohio. He is 36 years old.

Suckno, 34 years old, served in the U. S. Army during the Korean conflict. He attended Rutgers University, Newark, and Upsala College, East Orange.

Genovese, a graduate of St. Peter's Preparatory School, Jersey City, attended the University of Vermont. He is currently attending evening sessions of the Institute of Finance in New York City and is enrolled in a training program with Edwards and Hanly, a New York stock brokerage firm. He is 22 years old.

'67 dog licenses past due; hundreds of pets untagged

About 500 dogs in Mountainside have illegal status! Borough law requires that dog owners obtain licenses for their pets on or before Jan. 31 of each year. By the end of last week, only 154 dog tags had been purchased in the Borough.

Borough will vote on regional budget, delegate to board

Mountainside voters will go to the polls next Tuesday to vote on a $5,483,172 budget for the Union County Regional High School system. They will also cast their ballots for the borough representative on the regional school board.

Dr. Milnor C. K. Jones of Far View dr., is running unopposed for his seventh three year term on the board.

Voters in all five districts will cast their ballots in Deerfield School on Central ave. The polls will be open from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. The regional budget includes a proposed salary guide which would raise the salaries of teachers at the four high schools in the regional system. Holders of bachelor degrees would start at $6,000 and advance in 15 annual steps to a maximum of $10,000. Teachers with master's degrees would start at $6,350 and advance to $10,650 in 16 steps. Those with six years of college or the equivalent would start at $6,850 and reach a maximum of $11,450 in 18 steps.

In line with the board's custom for the past 30 years, the board deferred formal adoption of the new salary guide scale until after the budget is approved by the voters. The regional high school system includes six communities, Mountainside, Berkeley Heights, Kenilworth, Springfield, Garwood and Clark.

Clerk's office. This leaves most of the balance of the 650 dogs who were licensed in 1966 outside the law.

Dog owners who do not have current licenses for their pets are liable to fines up to $25. Licenses, now at $3.25, may be obtained at the Borough Clerk's office in the Borough Hall on Rt. 22 Monday through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Employees in the borough office said no effort is usually made to invoke such penalties. So dog owners can still pick up the tags at $3.25 without running the risk of a fine. Borough law also requires that owners keep their dogs on leashes or similarly restrained whenever they are off the owners' properties. Fines of $20 may be imposed for any infraction of this law.

Mrs. Keuler heads heart drive again

Mrs. John E. Keuler has been appointed Mountainside chairman for the Union County Heart Association's February fund drive. Her appointment was announced this week by Matthew J. Rinaldo, of Union, chairman of the county drive.

Mrs. Keuler, who lives at 161 Locust ave., was chairman last year. She is a member of the Mountainside Rescue Squad and the number one killer. Heart disease can be conquered if we can raise the money. She urged Mountainside residents to be generous when Heart Association volunteers make their appeals for funds this month.

Union County Attorney Dominick A. Mirabelli will present his recommendations for the disposition of the now locally famous "bomb case" at an executive meeting of the Board of Freeholders next Monday. Mirabelli declined at press time to discuss the tenor those recommendations would take.

The bombing of the guardhouse at the Nike base in the Mountainside section of the Watchung Reservation, which took place New Year's Eve, came to light last week when Union County Civil Defense Director William J. McBride revealed at a meeting of the Board of Freeholders that four college students had blown it up with a homemade nitro glycerin bomb.

The names of the four students, all of whom are 21 or older, have not been revealed either by the local police, who apprehended them, the Civil Defense office, the County Attorney's office or the Board of Freeholders. No charges have been made as yet against any of them.

One of the youths lives in Mountainside. The others are from Irvington, Jersey City and Lincoln Park. Two of them are students at Newark College of Engineering; one attends Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the fourth is enrolled at Kent State University in Ohio.

A TIP BY a resident who heard the noise of the explosion and took the license number of a car racing off led to the roundup of the four.

Det. Lt. James Herrick of Mountainside said Tuesday that the parents of all four have been notified.

The identity of the four was learned on Jan. 4, Herrick said. A full report was turned into the county, Herrick said. Further action, he indicated, would be up to the county.

Mayor Frederick Wilhelms Jr. and Police Commissioner Charles J. Irwin both upheld the Police Department's conduct of the matter. Mayor Wilhelms said the "police apprehended

Mayor's son stars in high school run of 'My Fair Lady'

"Rick" Wilhelms, 17-year-old son of Mayor and Mrs. Frederick Wilhelms of Mountainside will play Professor Henry Higgins in the production of "My Fair Lady," to be presented next month at Governor Livingston Regional High School. The show opens March 2 and runs through March 4.

"My Fair Lady" is already breaking records at the school—it will be the first musical in the history of the regional high school to run for three nights.

"Eliza Doolittle," the grimy flower girl whom Professor Higgins changes into an English gentlewoman, will be played by Valerie Klein, Colonel Pickering, Higgins' sidekick, will be portrayed by Paul Dimmick. The roles of Eliza's father and wealthy Freddy Einsford-Hill will be filled by George Shulman and Tom Groceman respectively.

A chorus of approximately 50 students will back up the leads. Backstage committee in costumes, scenery, make-up, props and publicity have also been selected. Names will be announced later.

The show is under the supervision of Mrs. Carolyn Forsman, a history teacher at the high school, and Albert Dorhout, director of music at the school.

Serviceman promoted at Vietnam army base

U. S. ARMY, VIETNAM -- Robert P. Pischeda, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pischeda, 356 Short dr., Mountainside, was promoted to Army specialist fourth class Jan. 12 in Vietnam, where he is a member of the Da Nang Sub Area Command.

Spec. Pischeda is a dispatcher in the command's 863rd Transportation Company. He entered the Army in November 1965 and was stationed at Ft. Dix, before arriving overseas in October 1966. The specialist graduated in 1962 from Governor Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights.

No figures released by Council

Hearing slated Feb. 28 in Echobrook School

The 1967 municipal budget will be introduced at a special meeting of the Borough Council next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. No figures have yet been released on either the total amount of the budget or the probable effect it may have on the tax rate.

The Borough Council was scheduled to meet last night to finalize the budget figures, according to Mayor Frederick Wilhelms, Jr.

A public hearing of the proposed budget will be held Feb. 28 at 8 p.m. in Echobrook School.

Even without the final figures, Mayor Wilhelms predicted last week that the budget would go up. He attributed this expected rise to many factors, but principally to the inflationary condition of the economy. He also pointed to the school budget for the 1967-68 year, which is up over seven percent over the current year.

Some of this rise could possibly be offset by the rise in rates. According to the local tax collector's report, rates are up about $1,078,500, based on 50 percent evaluation compared to 1966 figures.

According to figures released last week by the Union County Board of Taxation, the aggregate real value of Mountainside's real estate this year is $88,116,339, a jump of $5,587,685 over 1966. The county figures place Mountainside's assessed value, based on a 46.33 ratio, at $40,824,300.

The mayor said last week that the rise in the 1967 budget cannot be "even guessed at" until the Council has the figures on the county and the regional school board taxes.

The borough's two current projects, the construction of the new library building and the installation of a new storm drainage system in the Summit rd.-Darby lane area, should have little if any effect on the tax rate this year. Wilhelms stated, since financing on both those projects is being set on a short-term basis.

Bathhouse bids now under study

Bids on the bathhouse for Mountainside's pool have been referred to the Recreation Commission for study. Bids on the structure were accepted last Thursday night. Mayor Frederick Wilhelms said last week that the contract would be awarded that evening if the bids were reasonable and uncomplicated.

However, the bids, divided into general construction, plumbing and electrical work, exceeded the approximate figure which the Council and the Recreation Commission had estimated for the job.

The figures, which are still within the budget, according to Wilhelms, range from $64,979 to $78,000 for general construction; from $10,172 to $18,253.50 for electrical work and from $15,387 to $17,379 for plumbing.

Borough learns anguish of loss in Vietnam war

Last week the first death of a Mountainside serviceman killed in connection with the Vietnam conflict was officially announced. This week the mother of a Mountainside marine lieutenant who has been missing since January, 1966, issued an impassioned plea for residents to "deluge their congressional representatives and the press with letters demanding the end of the war in Vietnam."

A memorial Mass was offered last week in Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Mountainside, for Lt. (j.g.) Dennis M. Ehrlich, USNR, of 1508 Rt. 22, Mountainside. Lt. Ehrlich, a radar intercept officer attached to the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk, was killed Jan. 19 during a mission in the South China Sea. He was 25 years old. He was a graduate of Butler High School, Pompton Plains, and received a bachelor of arts degree from Rutgers University in 1963.

He leaves his wife, the former Carol Ann Kordys of Mountainside; a son, Michael, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Ehrlich of Pompton Plains.

MR. AND MRS. James T. Egan of Far View dr., Mountainside, received word that their son, Lt. James T. Egan Jr., was listed as missing Jan. 21, 1966. They were informed that his patrol had been ambushed in Vietnam and that he was "presumed wounded and taken prisoner."

"The ominous silence (since then) is well-nigh unbearable," Mrs. Egan said this week.

In a letter to the editor of the Echo, Mrs. Egan pleaded with people to besiege their representatives with letters of protest about the Vietnam war before it is "too late for the sacrificial lambs in Vietnam and the families and friends who wait out the heartache and fear the doorbell at home."

Mrs. Egan has continued to write to her son, at least once a week, ever since the family was notified that he was missing. She writes to his service address, to addresses in countries adjacent and distant to Vietnam, anywhere where she hears, through various sources, that American prisoners are possibly being held. She never gets an answer but at least, she says pathetically, "I haven't gotten any back—maybe some of them are reaching him somewhere."

Lt. Egan, a graduate of Pingry School, Hillsdale, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps after graduation from Notre Dame University in June, 1964. He was sent overseas to Vietnam in May 1965.

The full text of Mrs. Egan's letter follows:

"Would it could be true that the 'pen is mightier than the sword,' but the latter seems to prevail today!

"Following the American way of mass production, perhaps all we who would like to see the words of Pope Paul, U-Thant, many of our own clergy and countless citizens headed, must fall in line with the pen and achieve sufficient 'mass production' to be headed before it is too late. Too late for the sacrificial lambs in Vietnam and the families who wait out the heartache and fear the doorbell at home!

"It rang for us on Jan. 21, 1966, to tell us that our Marine Lieutenant son's patrol had been ambushed (in Vietnam), he was missing and presumed wounded and taken prisoner. The ominous silence is well-nigh unbearable.

"Don't let this go on happening to other American parents and their sons.

"Write, write, write to your representatives and the press. Let us try to stop this slaughter and restore the 'right of self-determination' (Mr. Humphrey) to the youth of our OWN erstwhile great nation."

29 senior citizens signed up for club; second meeting set

Twenty-nine Mountainside residents signed up for membership in a proposed club for senior citizens at a meeting held last week in Deerfield School, Mountainside. The group, which will be sponsored by the Recreation Commission, will meet again Feb. 15 at the school.

Harold Nelson, a member of the commission, introduced Joseph Walsh of Cranford, a member of the National Council of Senior Citizens Inc., at the first meeting. Walsh outlined the program of senior citizens clubs and suggested ideas for organizing the Mountainside group. Mr. and Mrs. George Guba and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Perkins are in charge of arrangements for the second meeting when attempt will be made to formally organize the new club.

All interested older residents are urged to attend the Feb. 15 meeting. No age requirement has been set but it is expected that the group will be composed primarily of retired people and their spouses and older single people.

The push for such an organization was started by the Christian Family Movement of Our Lady of Lourdes Church. In an effort to make it a borough-wide movement, announcement of the planned organizational meeting was made simultaneously in all three churches in the borough, Community Presbyterian, Mountainside Union Chapel and Lourdes Church.

The Christian Family Movement also asked and received the support of William Ditzel, chairman of the Recreation Commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet White and other members of the Christian Family Movement served refreshments at last week's meeting. The group has also offered to provide transportation to the meetings for any senior citizens requesting it.

County hikers rambling along

The program committee of the Union County Hiking Club has scheduled three hikes for its members and guests over the weekend.

On Saturday, Robert Gasser, Amundale, will lead a 10-mile hike along the Piermont Trail in Blauevelt Park near Nyack. The group will meet at the Administration Building of the Union County Park Commission, Warinanco Park, Elizabeth, at 8:30 a.m.

Also on Saturday, Miss Irma Heyer, Elizabeth, will lead an afternoon ramble in the South Mountain Reservation. The group will meet at 1:30 p.m. at the Elmdale picnic area which is the first picnic area on Brookside Drive in the Millburn section of the Reservation.

On Sunday, Gerald Harris, Stirling, will lead an eight-mile hike in the Schiff Reservation, located near Mendham. The hikers will meet at West End ave., and Rt. 22, North Plainfield, at 9 a.m.

Trust officer named

Bernard F. Cimo of Jersey City has been appointed an assistant trust officer in the corporate trust department of the Summit Office, National State Bank of Elizabeth, it was announced this week.

17 county bankers will attend meeting

Seventeen Union County bankers have registered to attend the 18th annual Consumer Credit Conference of the New Jersey Bankers Association which will be held at the Berkeley-Carteret Hotel, Asbury Park, on Tuesday and Wednesday. More than 225 bankers from banks throughout New Jersey are expected to attend.

Union County bankers registered are: Raymond W. Bauer, treasurer of the New Jersey Bankers Association, and president, Union County Trust Company, Elizabeth; Alfred L. Schrama, Walter P. Yost, and Robert T. Burns, also of Union County Trust Company; Daniel J. Carney, Joseph W. Hely, and John L. McEntee, Summit and Elizabeth Trust Company, Elizabeth; Davis S. Morrison, Community Bank of Linden; Kenneth N. Norman, Charles H. Landratn, and James F. Freeman, Plainfield Trust State National Bank; Edward Smith, First State Bank of Union; Gerard F. Coleman, National Bank of Westfield; Otto F. Fiedler, Michael R. Valinoti, Christopher R. Wemple, and Raymond Palmer, Suburban Trust Company, Westfield.

Personnel problems, bank credit cards, cost controls, credit information, data processing, and the economic outlook, as well as a workshop on installment lending will highlight the discussions at the two day conference.

Bill aims at preserving historic sites

State Senator Mildred Barry Hughes (D-Union), said this week she is preparing a bill to intensify New Jersey's preservation of historic sites and to encourage private donors to join the effort.

Senator Hughes, who said she has been interested in projects to protect the state's traditional ties to its early days, said today that the measure will be designed to produce the most effective program yet devised to save and properly maintain New Jersey's historic properties.

Her proposed legislation would set up a historic Council composed of specialists in the field and would establish a Historic Trust to enable citizens to have a part in the preservation of properties with historic values. A key provision of it would permit private individuals and agencies to donate money to the Trust, Senator Hughes noted.

"Money has been a big problem in saving and maintaining historic properties in New Jersey," Senator Hughes said. "While the state, as one of the original 13 colonies, is rich in history, it has not been exactly lavish in providing for the properties which link the state to its colorful past. Budgetary limitations have been an obstacle to the efforts of the State's Historical Sites Office."

"Many New Jersey citizens interested in preserving historic sites have indicated that they would contribute financially to this effort but are reluctant to do so because they fear their donations might wind up in the state's general treasury and would be diverted to use for some other purpose. My proposal would make sure that such gifts would be used only for the preservation and maintenance of historical properties."

Senator Hughes pointed out that one of her earlier bills became legislation which permits foundations to preserve historic sites without being burdened by property taxes on them. For example, it was under this law, she noted, that the Delcher Mansion in Elizabeth has been restored as a historic showplace.

The council under her new bill would comprise 11 members "known for their competence and experience in this field," Senator Hughes explained. It would be authorized to select sites, develop a broad program for their preservation and design a comprehensive plan for their management.

The council would be empowered to apply for and accept Federal funds. The Trust would be authorized to accept gifts, legacies and endowments offered by private individuals, corporations or organizations.

"The specialists would assure donors that their money would be spent on historic properties and nothing else," Senator Hughes emphasized. "They would make certain that there is a compatible working relationship between the state government and the citizens who are interested in giving financial support to that government's efforts to save much of its historic property before it is too late."

Camp Wawayanda registration opens

It's not too early to think of summer as the YMCA reminded this week. According to George W. Hoffman, branch executive for the Five Points YMCA, registrations, which "always fill quickly," are now being accepted for the 1967 Camp Wawayanda season.

Camp Wawayanda, for boys and girls, is for children who are at least nine-years-old of who have completed the third grade by the camping season. There is also an advanced program, according to Hoffman, for 13 through 16-year-old campers.

Camp Wawayanda is located in the heart of the Catskill Mountains in New York State on over 2,200 acres of land. The camp is also surrounded by thousands of acres of state reserve land "providing the most ideal camping conditions," Hoffman said.

This year's 10 cabins will be added in the camp for girls. Camp facilities now include, according to Hoffman, 45 cabins, two dining halls, a 10-acre lake and many buildings for special programs.

Additional information and brochures, said Hoffman, is available by calling the Five Points YMCA, 687-5570.

County secretaries initiate 2 members

Two new members were scheduled to be initiated last night at the meeting of the Union County Chapter of the National Secretaries Association. They are Mrs. Gloria Midura of 413 Dietz st., Roselle, and Miss Eleanor Paradowski of 1105 Wheatstheaf rd., Linden.

The meeting was held at the Winfield Scott Hotel in Elizabeth. Speaker was Miss Hazel Elks of the Elizabeth Public Library who discussed "Your Library -- How is it Stocked?"

Miss Theresa L. Keehn, chapter president, said the discussion topic is part of the national association's emphasis this year on the promotion of well-stocked and well-staffed libraries.

State Legion aide will visit county

Albert J. Moeller, of Westfield, Department Commander of the New Jersey American Legion, with members of his staff, will make an official visitation to Union County next Thursday, meeting with officers and members of the County's 24 Legion Posts at the Home of Connecticut Farms Post No. 35, Rosemont ave., Union, at 8 p.m.

Moeller, a World War II Army veteran, served in the European Theatre of War as a Captain in Infantry. He is a Past Commander of Martin Wallberg Post No. 3, Westfield, a Past Commander of Union County, and served as a Department Vice Commander for the year 1963-64.

Moeller will address the County Legionnaires on the Legion's state and national programs for 1967, including the membership drive now being conducted in the State.

Calvin E. Walck of Kenilworth, Union County Legion Commander, will preside at the meeting.

Film on Louisiana at Trailside Center

"This is Louisiana," a color, sound film will be shown at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, Mountainside, on Sunday, at 3 p.m.

The movie, a travelogue, takes the viewer on a tour of the State of Louisiana from the old French Quarter of New Orleans to modern cities. The audience will see new industries being developed as well as the harvests of sugar cane, cotton, strawberries and yams. A visit to the Mardi Gras is included.

At 4 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 9, Dr. Harold N. Moldenke, director of Trailside, will conduct one-half hour nature talks for children. The topic selected for the four days is "Local Songbirds."

Retirement announced

Alfred De Lorenzo, of Elizabeth, who passed up a career in baseball for one in the telephone business, retired from New Jersey Bell Tuesday, after nearly 50 years of service.

De Lorenzo, who was supplies manager in the company's Union office, joined the Bell System as an installer's helper in May of 1918.

"Before that," said De Lorenzo, "I played catcher with semi-professional baseball teams in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania." He tried out with the Newark International Baseball Club in 1920. "They offered me a professional contract with one of Newark's minor leagues," De Lorenzo recalled, "but I decided to stay with the telephone company."

For his outstanding performance and contribution to baseball, De Lorenzo was elected to Union County's Baseball Hall of Fame in 1960.

He likes golf, too, and expects to get in a lot of games, following retirement. He is past president and a member of the Roselle Golf Club and holds memberships in the Union County and State Grand Jury Associations.

He and his wife, the former Mabel Anna Bellis, have a daughter, Lois Ann, employed with New Jersey Bell's Commercial Department. Their son, U.S. Army Major William A. De Lorenzo, is currently stationed in Okinawa.

Certification for Runnells

John E. Runnells Hospital for Chest Diseases, Berkeley Heights, has received another three year accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. It was announced this week. The Joint Commission surveys and requires Hospitals it approves to meet the highest standards of medical care.

The representatives of the Joint Commission review the Hospital's standards and procedures in respect to physical plant, Medical Records, Dietary Service and particularly patient care, in addition to other areas, a spokesman said.

The commission's comment to Dr. Eugene Nargiello, superintendent and medical director at Runnells stated: "The Commission wishes to commend you for maintaining standards deserving of accreditation and for your constant effort to improve the quality of patient care." The Joint Commission added, "The staff and Administration are commended for the evidence of good care given the patients."

Committee results

NEW YORK (UPI) -- If you're a clubwoman, probably you've been on something that, according to a new definition, reduces tranquility, increases dissatisfaction, divides responsibility and staves off action. That definition of a committee appeared in "The Nation's Schools," a journal for school administrators.

Unit will sponsor two delegates to 1967 Girls State

Two delegates will be sent this June to the Girls State at Douglass College, New Brunswick, under the sponsorship of the American Legion Auxiliary, Blue Star Unit of Mountain-side. One delegate will be chosen from among students at Governor Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, and the other from Union Catholic High School, Scotch Plains.

The delegates will be selected from the junior class by school officials and a committee from the unit, headed by Mrs. Ruth Kubach, Girls State Chairman.

The decision to sponsor two delegates was announced at the unit's January meeting held at Mrs. Kubach's home on Central ave.

Mrs. Kubach, who also serves as rehabilitation chairman, discussed plans for a ward party to be held Feb. 22 at Lyons Veterans Hospital under the sponsorship of the unit.

The membership voted to send donations to the Claire Oliphant Scholarship Fund, the "year-round" fund, CARE, the Menlo Park Soldiers and Sailors Home.

Mrs. Ernest Kuffer presided. A social hour closed the session.

Community joins 11 area churches in Day of Prayer

Community Presbyterian Church of Mountain-side in the World Day of Prayer observance to be held Feb. 10 at 1 p.m. in the Presbyterian Church of Westfield.

Mrs. W. R. Fulshaw is representing the Mountain-side church at the observance in which 11 other churches from Westfield, Garwood and Scotch Plains will participate.

The guest speaker will be the Rev. C. Shelby Rooks, a member of the executive board and the Commission for Higher Education of the National Council of Churches. Mr. Rooks, a graduate of Virginia State College and Union Theological Seminary, is the author of several published articles and has lectured at many churches, colleges and universities throughout the country.

The Rev. Richard Smith will officiate with Mr. Rooks in the service of worship. They will be assisted by Mrs. Frederick Christian, Mrs. Stanton Harris and Mrs. William Coker.

All area residents are invited to participate in the service, the 81st annual observance of the World Day of Prayer.

RICHARD ENGLISH

Appointed director of Elizabeth bank

Richard English of 579 Hillside ave., Mountain-side, has been elected to the board of directors of the Central Trust Co., Elizabeth.

Now vice-president in charge of the bank's mortgage department, English joined the Central Home Trust Co. in 1952.

A graduate of Pingry School, Hillside, and Bucknell University, English served in the U.S. Army for three years with the Second Infantry in Europe.

He is president of the Westfield Glee Club, a director of the Pingry Alumni Association, a director and treasurer of the Urban League of Union County and second vice-president of the Elizabeth Lions Club.

His father, the late Frank A. English, was a director of the bank and state supervisor of inheritance taxes in Union County.

English, his wife, Valerie, and their two daughters, Devon and Gwyn Annin, moved to their Mountain-side home, "Hidden Hill," recently from Westfield.

Mrs. English is a professional artist.

Nielsen selected by AF for specialist training

Airman Steven M. Nielsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erik C. M. Nielsen of 219 Glen rd., Mountain-side, has been selected for training at Amarillo AFB, Tex., as an Air Force supply specialist.

The airman, a 1966 graduate of Governor Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Colorful fashion show helps AAUW's scholarship fund

"Fashion flair," featuring "apple green, hot pink, golden yellow and bright, orange" will be spotlighted at the "Mountain-side Color Boutique" to be held Feb. 16, under the sponsorship of the local branch of the American Association of University Women.

The colorful quotes were supplied by Brooks of Summit, the firm which will present the spring fashions at the AAUW's seventh annual luncheon-fashion show. The affair is scheduled to open at noon in the Chanticleer, Millburn.

Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. John Miller, 232-8457, or Mrs. Louis Parent, 232-6467.

Proceeds from the event will be used to boost the local club's scholarship fund. For the past several years, the club has raised approximately $1,000 each year to support its local and national scholarships. It is currently accepting applications from Mountain-side residents for its 1967 award.

On a national scale, the American Association of University Women, founded in 1862, awards approximately $300,000 a year to gifted women scholars. Half of the scholarships are awarded to American scholars and half to women from other countries for study in the United States.

Lenten sermons slated at Westfield Baptist

Major concerns of people of faith will be themes of Wednesday night services at the First Baptist Church during Lent. The first of these services will be held next Wednesday, Feb. 22, at 8 p.m. It will be focused on penitence and pardon.

The theme of the service on Feb. 15 will be world peace. The service Feb. 22 will emphasize family relationships. March 1, the service will be worship in contemporary language; March 8, the theme will be healing. These services are open to the public and will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. William K. Coker.

Volunteers sought for Rescue Squad

New volunteers are needed to help man Mountain-side's Rescue Squad, particularly during the nights and the weekend, the president, Joseph Farley, announced this week.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. J. B. Gardner, 233-5270, or Tom Kuterim, 233-0588.

Farley was elected president of the squad at the January meeting. Other officers serving with him are: secretary, Mrs. Joseph McCaffrey; treasurer, Gordon Batten; captain, Charles Shomo; lieutenant, Edward Gibadlo.

The annual report, presented at the January meeting, showed that during 1966 the squad answered a total of 288 calls, 221 emergency calls and 67 transportation calls. Among the emergency calls were 66 auto accidents, 47 heart cases, 29 home accidents and 11 maternity calls.

The Rescue Squad also responded to six motorcycle accidents in 1966, which represents a sharp increase over the previous year.

The volunteer members served a total of 1,084 man hours and the squad's ambulance travelled 3,541 miles.

County clinic head talks to local group

The annual public meeting of the Mountain-side Committee of the Union County Psychiatric Clinic will be held Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Peter Metz Jr., 1309 Summit-lane.

Dr. Benjamin H. Haddock, the clinic's executive director, will give a short talk on the function and operation of the clinic and then present, in detail, an actual case study. Dr. and Mrs. Stuart Baron will be welcomed as new permanent members of the Mountain-side Committee of the Clinic.

This meeting provides an opportunity for the public of Mountain-side to become more familiar with the procedures, functions, and results of this important community agency. The public has been urged to attend this meeting. Anyone interested may call Mrs. Metz at 232-5124.

Sherwood Forest elects new officers

Gary Postell of 1646 Nottingham way, Mountain-side, was elected president of the Sherwood Forest Civic Association at the group's annual meeting.

Other officers for the year are: Abe Suckno of 289 Friar lane, vice-president; Mrs. Janet Wingard of 1634 Larkspur dr., secretary; Harold Simon of 1621 Nottingham way, treasurer.

The membership voted not to hold the annual Founders Day dance, usually scheduled in February, and instead attend, in a body, the spring dance of the Foothill Club. That event will be held April 22 at Ciro's.

SIMPLY DELICIOUS FRUITS
Heavy wintertime meals often call for a light dessert: fruit. Small flourishes make them festive without taking much time.

Canned figs or light sweet cherries take a bit of orange juice. Sprinkle the top with silvered-toasted almonds.

Canned, drained or fresh orange and grapefruit sections start a delicious fruit cup. Add to this some sliced bananas and sprinkle with coconut which has been tinted with maraschino cherry juice.

Whipped cream topping for cake or gingerbread? Top with bits of candied fruit from holiday bakings.

Canned pears, drained, can go atop thin slices of pound cake. Serve with not fudge sauce or peppermint-flavored chocolate sauce.

Place contents of a can of cherry or blueberry pie filling in pie pan. Top with 1 cup yellow cake mix, then drizzle with 1/4 cup melted butter or substitute and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Bake in hot (400 degrees F.) oven for 30 minutes. Serve a la mode.

HELEN'S FAVORITE:
CHERRY ICE CREAM PIE (Makes 1 9-inch pie)

1 quart cherry vanilla ice cream
2/3 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup toasted coconut
1 cup ground walnuts

Melt chocolate pieces and butter over hot water. In a deep bowl, combine coconut and walnuts. Add the chocolate mixture to the dry ingredients. Blend well. Press mixture into 9-inch pie pan. Freeze at least two hours. Fill with scoops of ice cream. Cover and freeze until serving time.

Program at Baptist Church explains purpose of missions

A special program will be presented this weekend at the First Baptist Church of Westfield to explain the function and purposes of mission work. The program, arranged by the missionary and stewardship committee, will feature Latin America, as it is represented in mission work going on in Haiti.

For the past several years, the Westfield church has contributed directly to the support of a minister, hospital personnel and a library at the seminary school in Haiti.

On Saturday at 6 p.m. there will be a Haitian-style dinner for youth and adults which will be followed by a talk and discussion period led by Serge Borgi, who represents the Delegation of Haiti as press attache to the United Nations. Also to be included in the evening are special entertainment and a display of native-made articles.

At the Sunday morning worship services, the Rev. and Mrs. Aaron Webber will speak in dialogue about the missionary work being done in Haiti and its neighboring Latin American countries. The Rev. Mr. Webber, administrative associate, Division of Latin America, of the American Baptist Home Mission Societies, was appointed to his present position in 1963 and has served as field representative for Latin America from 1958.

Mrs. Webber has written and edited the three-year kindergarten course of the Spanish Sunday School curriculum which is widely used in Latin America by churches of several denominations. She has also written a booklet in Spanish on teaching children to pray. During the Church School session on Sunday, the Children's Division will be shown slides taken in Haiti and hear a talk by Miss Carol Stifler of the American Baptist Home Mission Societies. Miss Stifler is Director of Publications for the Department of Communications in the Division of Support and Interpretation of the Societies.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Oscar Morong are co-chairmen for this Missionary Weekend program committee. Other members of the committee include: Mrs. Frederick Banes, deco-

SOMERSET TIRE SERVICE'S Weekly Feature By GARY LESSING, Manager

It took him twenty-five years, but he did it!

Albert Nicholas, a 56-year-old plumber always wished when he was a kid that he would someday own a pair of motorized skates. He waited a long time for the day when a man factorer would invent a pair. But that day never came. Finally, when he was thirty-one years old, he decided to make his own.

Today he has a pair of motorized skates, each with a .85 HP gas engine which can reach speeds of up to 50 MPH. The engines are started by means of a pull-rope, and operated through a centrifugal clutch by squeezing a hand control.

Considered too dangerous for general use, the inventor does foresee a use of his product as racing skates.

Racing cars... not skates... have been the concern of our people who manufacture top tires for this sport. World known, the Firestone "500" is the Champion of Champions. The tire that wins at Indianapolis races on Memorial Weekend is on display in our showroom.

PROFILE--Abe Suckno

ABE SUCKNO

Abe Suckno, one of the three candidates for Mountainside's Board of Education, is not worried about the number three spot he drew on the ballot. His wife, Sonnie, considers it a good omen.

"We met on March 23, we became engaged the next month, April 23, and we were married Aug. 3."

Their son Les, 7, was born on July 23 of the following year. Their daughter, Marci, 3, made her debut into this world on Oct. 6--but, asks Mrs. Suckno, "what is six except two times three?" Her faith in the magic Suckno number was so touching we didn't suggest that six is also six times one, five plus one, seven minus one, four plus two, etc., etc., etc.

The Sucknos have that quality--as though they have a magic lantern. And a guest finds himself wanting to help them shine it.

THE SUCKNOS' HOME at 289 Friar lane is their first home. Before moving to Mountainside four years ago they were apartment dwellers. They are still completing the furnishings of the wide, spacious rooms. They are finding the homeowners' role an exhilarating one. Sonni, who claims she didn't know the first thing about gardening, has planted and tended a rock garden that is now the joy of her heart--and the envy of some of her less green-thumbed neighbors.

Suckno has been deeply involved in community affairs. He is currently vice-president of the Sherwood Forest Civic Association, a member of the borough P.T.A., treasurer of the Indian Guides of Mountainside, and, most recently, Assistant Cubmaster of a newly-formed Cub Pack, sponsored by the P.T.A.

Thirty-four-year-old Suckno was born and grew up in Newark. He is a graduate of Weequahic High School in that city and attended Rutgers University, Newark and Upsala College, East Orange, both in evening sessions.

He served as a sergeant in the U.S. Army during the years of the Korean conflict. His college studies followed his stint in the Army.

FOR THE PAST 10 years he has been a partner in the family business, Stair-Pak of Union. He is also president of Cedar-Knoll Development Corp. and secretary of Force Industrial Park, an industrial building organization. He has also had field experience in home building and industrial construction.

Since he heads the personnel department in these varied enterprises, he has had considerable experience in negotiating through labor unions and similar organizations.

It was mainly his experience in business, particularly the construction field, which prompted him to enter the race for the school board, Suckno says. The board will shortly be embarking on the construction program which was approved last October by the voters. He feels that his knowledge of construction may be of some help to the school officials in carrying this project to a successful conclusion.

"Also," he says with deep sincerity, "I have the most important reason of all for wanting to serve--my two children." Les is now in the second grade in Beechwood School. Dark-eyed Marci will enter kindergarten in September, 1968.

"OUR CHILDREN WILL grow up here, they'll go through Mountainside schools. I want to do my share to help maintain the excellent quality of our schools and, if possible, assist in making plans that will make them even better."

The Sucknos' decision to purchase a home in Mountainside was made only after a careful investigation revealed the excellence of the school system, the head of the clan claims. Music, the Sucknos' feel, should be an important part of every child's education. Although he is not studying formally yet, small Les has demonstrated musical and theatrical ability.

"He's a born ham," his mother says cheerfully.

Her husband phrases it differently. "I think he takes after my brother, Morton," he says mildly.

His brother, known professionally as Morty Stevens, is presently a music director on the west coast for CBS-TV. Now 37, he has a long string of credits both as a musician and a composer. Proudly displayed on the shelves in the Sucknos' study is a copy of Sammy Davis' "Yes I Can." One of the pictures in that book shows Davis and Suckno's brother when they were appearing on the same bill at Bill Miller's "Riviera."

MRS. SUCKNO HAS a small flair for theatrical herself. She is a member of the players group of the Greater Westfield Section of Jewish Women and is currently appearing as the Good Fairy in 16 benefit showings of "Cinderella." She also serves on the PTA library committee.

The whole family enjoys ice-skating, a sport which they regrettably have confined so far this year to the indoor county rink in Warinanco Park.

Suckno shoots a fair game of golf and is out on the links whenever business and family duties permit.

A member of the Westfield YMCA, he is past master of Columbia Lodge F & AM, president of Craftsmen's Club, a Masonic organization, and past president of Chechanovitzer K.L.U., a charitable and beneficial organization.

His business associates include the National Home Builders Association and the Home Builders Association of Morris County and Shore Area. He is also a member of the Chamber of Commerce of Union.

The family attends Temple Beth Ahm in Springfield.

A MUSING from the desk

The 1967 edition of the New Jersey Legislature is underway and the elected representatives of the people wasted little time before they began shoveling bills in the hopper.

The Education Committee of the Senate is looking for some bi-partisan harmony in finding THE State Song. Several are already gathering dust in committee. The latest is one composed by Franklin and Elsie Fisher of Toms River. It is called appropriately enough, "New Jersey."

Union County's own Mildred Barry Hughes has introduced a real spell-binder. It provides that any person who hypnotizes or attempts to hypnotize another person for the purpose of entertainment is a disorderly person.

One that is sure to get the vote of any working man is a proposed bill that would grant every employee two hours leave with pay to vote on election day. Eight Assemblymen are co-sponsoring that one.

You wives who dash into the supermarket and leave the key in the car ignition had better watch this bill closely. It would prohibit any person from leaving an ignition key in an unattended motor vehicle parked on a highway, public place or in any new car or used car lot. Violators would be subject to a fine.

TWO ASSEMBLYMEN HAVE introduced a bill that would permit a marriage license to be issued to a minor under the age of 21 without parental consent, when he can demonstrate that he is responsible for the pregnancy of the female.

There's possibly a little status in store for municipal magistrates. The Judiciary Committee is pondering a bill that would provide that the magistrate in each municipal court shall be known and referred to as the judge of the municipal court. There's no better way to get on the good side of a municipal magistrate than addressing him as judge. Man, that's staus!

Whether you know it or not, it is now illegal for a vehicle to pass another vehicle on the right when the vehicle overtaken is making or about to make a left turn. A bill in the hopper, if passed, would make it legal.

Now, when you get sentenced to 30 days in jail, you serve those 30 days--consecutively. To make it a little easier on the guilty person, a bill would permit a magistrate (it may soon be judge) to order and direct that a sentence of imprisonment for 30 days or less be served periodically, "during the periods of time between Friday at 6 p.m. and Monday 8 a.m."

THIS BILL HAS many possibilities. It's one good way to get away from the wife and kids for a few days and spend the weekend in a nice warm jail. ("Where are you going daddy?" "So long kids, I'm going to spend the weekend in jail.")

Attempts to get a veterans bonus through continues. A bill that is sure to die authorizes a veterans bonus payable by notes redeemable by Jan. 1, 1973, "provides for $150 million bond issue, sinking fund and amortization from revenues from four extra days of racing; provides maximum grants of $250 for domestic service and $450 for mixed domestic and foreign service. The bill would be put on a referendum in the November general election.

The legislative hopper is overflowing. One thing is sure. Only a trickle of bills will find their way to the floor and to a vote. Imagine, going to jail on weekends. What happens during football season?

Tips for Today's Homemaker

From Anne L. Sheelan, County Home Economist

DRY BEANS AVAILABLE IN RECORD QUANTITY

Looking for a hearty, nutritious, and economical menu suggestion? Recipes using dry beans will meet these requirements.

At present, the largest crop of dry beans on record is now coming to the market. The leading varieties include pea beans, pintos, Great Northern, and red kidney beans. The large supply of these legumes will result in favorable prices to the consumer.

Regardless of the variety, dry beans are high in protein and iron. They also provide B vitamins, being especially rich in thiamine and a substantial amount of calcium. A cupful of cooked beans contains about half of a day's requirement for iron.

Dry beans and whole peas should be soaked before cooking so as to replace part of the water lost in the drying process. Short cuts to the soaking procedure have been developed which are rather quick and effective. For the easy method, begin by boiling them in water for two minutes. Remove from heat, soak one hour, and they will be ready to cook.

A shorter cooking time, for beans that require an hour or longer to boil, can be obtained by adding baking soda to the soaking water. The quantity added depends upon the hardness of the water. With most tap water, adding 1/8 teaspoon of soda to the water allowed for 1 cup of dry beans will shorten the cooking time about one-fourth. Measuring the soda carefully is most important because too great a quantity will affect the flavor and nutritive value.

One who is experienced in cooking beans will accurately remember that some varieties foam up during cooking. You can keep down the foam when cooking Great Northern, red kidney, pinto, or pea beans by adding one tablespoon of fat to the cooking water for each cup of beans. This method is especially recommended when using a pressure cooker.

Rapid boiling and frequent stirring cause bean skins to break. Therefore, boiling beans gently and stirring very little is a good rule to follow.

For further information on dry beans, write to the Home Economics Extension Service, 1106 Elizabeth Ave., Elizabeth, or call 353-5000, for the free bulletin, "Dry Beans, Peas, Lentils - Modern Cookery."

U.S. Senator HARRISON A. WILLIAMS Reports

Washington--A public hearing last week and another one to be held in July will set the stage for a unique and dramatic attempt to clean up a major American river.

The hearings are being held by the Delaware River Basin Commission, the four-state body charged with guiding the regional planning, development and management of the valley's water resources.

Last week's hearing was aimed at setting enforceable water quality standards for the Delaware River from Trenton downstream to the sea. This is, far and away, the worst polluted and, in every way, most difficult stretch of the river to deal with.

Upstream from Trenton, while the river is by no means completely pure, it is relatively free of the massive human and industrial waste which pollutes the lower reaches.

In my judgment, water quality standards ought to be set for the Delaware River which are as high as is technically feasible.

At our present level of technology, this would mean removing approximately 90 to 95 per cent of the municipal and industrial waste from the stream and restoring 90 to 95 per cent of the dissolved oxygen content.

ADOPTION OF THESE standards for dissolved oxygen and other elements of clean water will not return the Delaware River to its original state. As a matter of fact, it still will not make some parts of the estuary fit for public water supply.

But it will represent a significant improvement over the present condition which can, perhaps, best be dramatized by the plight of the "sad shad," symbol of polluted waters.

The shad is an anadromous fish. That is, he is born in fresh water, spends most of his life in salt water and returns far upstream to complete the cycle of life by spawning where he was born.

It was only last summer that shad were blocked from making their spawning run in the Delaware River by pollution in the estuarine section. A few got through, but, according to the reports I received, most were either blocked off from the spawning run or died in the attempt.

With the adoption of proper water quality standards and their enforcement--the sad shad would be made happy, and so would a great many sport fishermen, and others who wish to use the Delaware for boating, bathing, and a great many other recreational uses.

The Delaware River Basin Commission is uniquely fitted to do this clean-up job. It has an excellent working arrangement with the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration and will certainly do everything I can to see that every possible federal assistance is given.

NEVERTHELESS, IT IS going to cost an estimated $270-million to do this job.

Are the people of the four states willing to pay the price? Yes they are.

The State of New York, our upstream neighbor on the Delaware, recently voted a one billion dollar bond issue to finance the cleaning up of its waters.

The federal government recently held hearings on air pollution in the New York metropolitan area and indicated that the states were going to be given a last chance to clean up the foul air themselves. If it isn't done by the states, the federal government, under authority voted by Congress, will move in and do the job.

These two facts alone, not to mention numerous other evidences of public sentiment, say to me very clearly that the people of the Northeastern States are sick to death of living in a poisoned atmosphere. They demand that it be cleaned up and they are willing to pay a very high price to do it. If that price includes, in addition to money, yielding a bit more sovereignty to the federal government, they will pay it. If that price includes standing up to the blackmail of industries which say they will move out rather than stop poisoning the environment, they will pay that, too.

Glassboro professor suggests ways to judge candidates for school board

Editor's note: The following article dealing with education was written by Rinehart Potts, assistant professor of Library Science at Glassboro State College. Potts is a former school board member.

Who are you voting for in this school board election?

Do you know who the best qualified people are?

Do you feel satisfied to entrust the community's future -- and in some cases your children's future -- to unknown candidates?

You know the law doesn't narrow the field very much as far as candidates go. It's easy to run for the school board in New Jersey. You only have to be 21, able to read and write and so on.

So, what happens if 10 people are running for five positions and you don't know them personally?

Have you yet run into the man who wants to be on the school board because he has some pet ideas on how to reform all of American education? All he wants is for you "to give him a chance." How about the candidate who used to be a teacher and has hated school boards every since they didn't raise his pay--and wants to get even?

I know several who run so they will get better known in the community, and thus increase their sales of insurance or real estate. Nothing would horrify them more than winning.

One man ran--and won--term after term because his wife enjoyed the prestige she gained in her circle of friends.

I knew a woman who ran because she wanted a job with the local school system. She wasn't qualified for it, so she was determined to get on the board and then "get" the superintendent.

SOME OF THE PEOPLE I described above are well-dressed, speak pleasantly, and sound rational -- but you would agree they don't belong on the school board. How can we find out which ones really care about the schools and the children we send to them? How can we find out which candidates have some common-sense up top, not just hot air?

In many towns, the PTAs and women's clubs get together and sponsor a "candidates' night," at which everyone running for the school board explains his reasons for running and his background, and then answers questions from the audience. If this is well-done, nothing can beat it. The League of Women Voters will help in many areas. If no organization does this in your town, maybe one should be encouraged to do so in the future.

If your town has a candidates' night or something similar, fine. But don't waste the chance to really get at what the candidates' believe in and mean. General questions like "What are your views on education?" should be avoided. Ask specific questions instead.

Ask each candidate -- if the organizing committee hasn't already done so -- if he or she supports the list of aims, and code of ethics for school board members, approved by the New Jersey State Federation of District Boards of Education; The League of Women Voters and the national PTA also have lists of principles each school board member should follow.

Then, ask about specific local problems. "What do you intend to do about the overcrowding in the John Smith Elementary School?" "Are you in favor of the budget proposed for this year?" "Why?" "If you believe it is too much, tell us exactly where you would cut it (not just generalities) and why these cuts can be made safely."

THERE ARE SOME other clues. Listen carefully while each candidate tells what he will do if you elect him. Does he think the school board runs the school? If it will get in trouble, and violate the law too, if it does.

Does he understand that the board sets up the principles and policies for the school system, then sees to it that that the superintendent follows them? Does he think he will be doing the hiring of teachers and other staff members? He won't.

Has he ever worked in community organizations before, to prove he understands working around a table with others, to solve difficult problems? He shouldn't be a yes-man for others, but he can run the school board if he can't give and take on issues where honest men differ.

Try to get the feel of each candidate. Does he seem evasive, or direct? Would you trust him to handle your business affairs? As a former school board member, I've found being on the board one of the hardest jobs I've ever done.

Your children and mine will thank you if you do a good job of picking men and women to serve on the school board.

Simple way to compute interest rates

EDITOR'S NOTE: Consumers are constantly being advised to beware of excessive interest charges on installment purchases. But how can a person tell -- without a slide rule -- the amount of "carrying charges" on a time purchase? The following dispatch reports on a simplified new method.

By BERNARD BRENNER WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Agriculture Department economists have developed a simple method which consumers can use to check the interest rates involved in installment credit purchases.

The new formula is the work of Dr. Emma G. Holmes and Carol M. Jaeger, specialists in family economics.

While the simplified method admittedly is not as precise as the traditional complex calculation, it is "accurate enough for comparison shopping," the developers said in a report in the Agriculture Department's Family Economics Review.

"Consumers using installment credit are usually advised to shop around and compare costs, so they can take advantage of the best deal," Dr. Holmes and Miss Jaeger said. On Capitol Hill, Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., has said -- that installment interest rates can range in extreme cases from 5 to 500 per cent.

The department specialists said the ideal way to compare credit costs is to compare annual interest rates. "But merchants selling goods on the installment plan usually do not quote interest rates and lenders making cash loans are likely to quote add-on, discount, or monthly rates rather than true annual interest rates," they said.

To convert installment charges of various kinds to annual interest rates for comparison purposes, the Holmes-Jaeger method uses a simple arithmetic process in combination with a set of "payment factor" tables.

The tables, given below, furnish a "factor number" which can be multiplied by the number of payments in any installment contract.

A consumer using the formula simply picks from the table the factor number which applies to the installment deal he or she is considering. Then, the consumer combines the factor number with two pieces of information and finds the interest rate in a process which involves multiplying once and dividing once.

Here's how it works:

First -- Write down the "credit charge." This is the amount of money you would pay out for interest, or the fees or charges collected on your loan or installment contract.

Second -- Write down the "cash or credit received." This is the amount of money the lender actually gives you, or the price (minus down payment) of the merchandise you buy on credit.

Third -- Multiply the credit charge by the factor number given for your deal in the payment factor table. Take the result and divide it by the cash or credit received. The result of that second calculation is the approximate annual interest rate on the installment deal.

Suppose, for example, you buy a refrigerator priced at $310 for $10 down plus payments of $14.50 monthly for 24 months. In this case, the "credit received" is $300 and the "credit charge" is $48 since the payments add up to $348.

The Holmes-Jaeger table then shows a factor number of 96 for 24-installment monthly payments.

So, the consumer can: (1) multiply the credit charge of 48 by 96 to get 4,608; then, (2) divide the 4,608 total by the credit received figure of 300.

The answer is 15.36 which means the annual interest about 15-1/3 per cent.

Following are part of the factor number table produced by Holmes-Jaeger for use in contracts with monthly and weekly payments: -- Monthly Payments --

AIRLINES 1967 In my opinion, the airlines are headed for new peaks in 1967. Since last summer's strike setback, this group has made a strong recovery and current operations show big gains over year-earlier levels. Increases averaged 22% in September, October and November. December volume grew substantially above the corresponding period of 1965. Earnings in 1966 for the U.S. trunklines (domestic and international) are expected to be approximately 10% above 1965's level despite the long strike.

Business is flourishing. Airline ticket offices are busy with customers booking winter vacation plane reservations. This means higher traffic in the weeks ahead. Additionally there is a substantial business in military personnel and youth to fill plane seats. Stand-by coach fares at 50 percent reductions are available to some three million servicemen on furlough and to more than 33 million youths between the ages of 12 and 22.

Special family fares, low group excursion rates and a greater selection of economy tours will provide additional stimulus to air travel. These reduced fares mean substantial savings. Last year people took advantage of these reductions saved over $250 million in comparison with 1962 fares.

This year should bring more incentive to get people to fly. Businessmen, the airlines' best customers, will have a wider choice of service, to more places as the carriers acquire more jets.

Next summer should show substantial increases over strike depressed levels in 1966. It does appear that the airlines are headed for new peaks in 1967.

Famous wood engraver speaks to art members

BERNARD BRUSSEL-SMITH

Bernard Brussel-Smith, internationally famous artist, will address the Westfield Art Association next Thursday night. The program, arranged by Harry Devlin, a Mountain-side artist, is scheduled to open at 8 p.m. in the Wateunk Room of the Westfield Library.

Brussel-Smith, who has gained wide acclaim for his wood engravings, will display some of his work at the meeting.

The recipient of many honors and awards, Brussel-Smith's work is included in the permanent collections of the Carnegie Institute, the Philadelphia Museum of Art, the University of Illinois and many others. His work is also included in the "American Prize Prints of the 20th Century."

Author and co-author of several published works, he is also the subject of critical studies such as "Bernard Brussel-Smith, Wood Engraver," published in the American Artist, "Four Great Masters of Printing," published by the Printing Review, "Bernard Brussel-Smith," in Better Impressions and others.

Currently on the faculty of the National Academy School of Fine Arts and City College of New York, he has also taught at Cooper Union, Brooklyn Museum, and the Philadelphia Museum of Art. He has lectured at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Rhode Island School of Design, Hartford Art School of the University of Hartford, and others.

In announcing the Brussel-Smith's appearance at the area art meeting, Devlin pointed to the "rare opportunity for residents to meet such a consummate artist and to view at close hand some of his work."

Friends of members and other guests are invited to attend.

Code for students

will enable them "to sit comfortably--in a ladylike manner."

GROOMING
Boys will not be allowed to wear "extreme hair styles or long hair." If the hair "interferes with vision," they will not be allowed to use power machinery during industrial arts classes and may not be allowed to participate in athletic activities, according to the discretion of the coach in charge. Hair brushes are "verbotten" for the boys and combs are "limited to a five inch length."

Girls' hair gets less lengthy discussion in the code. They are not allowed to wear bangs that fall below the eyebrow or hair clips and curlers in school.

DEPARTMENT
NO SMOKING IS allowed at any time on the school grounds. Students are warned that any damage to school property may result in a financial penalty being imposed on their parents. They are also instructed to avoid the brook that winds through school property, not to trespass on private property while going to or coming from school, and not to ride bicycles on school grounds during school hours.

Fighting for any reason on school property "will not be tolerated." Neither will impertinence to any member of the school personnel. Cheating "will never be condoned," the passing of notes or keeping of slam books is not permitted nor is gum chewing.

The tentative code also spells out other conduct requirements, rules governing attendance and the academic responsibilities of the students.

Copies of the proposed code have been sent home to the parents of the students over the signature of Herbert Brown, principal of the school.

The PTA will observe the annual Founders' Day at the meeting. Mrs. Thomas Burgess, Founders' Day chairman, will introduce the past presidents. Refreshments will be served. The opening flag ceremony will be conducted by Den 9 of Cub Pack 70, which is sponsored by the PTA.

Mrs. John Hechtie will preside.

Report on bombing

the culprits, turned in a full report to the county and discharged their duties well."

Commissioner Irwin also stated that the local police "acted very well, very quickly." He also said that he felt, particularly in view of the fact that the bombed area is in county park land, that the police action in referring the matter to county officials was a wise step particularly since the bombing is a "potentially indictable offense."

Police Chief Christian Fritz could not be reached for comment.

The guardhouse, a five by eight-foot structure, stood directly behind a guard fence, about seven feet high, which is topped by about three rows of barbed wire. It is totally demolished. The gate on the fence is locked; the fence itself had been pushed in enough to admit a body and the barbed wire over the fence had been cut.

The local Nike site, which was once used by the federal government to store missiles which would be fired from the control Nike station in Berkeley Heights, has been turned over to the County Civil Defense.

McBride has been trying to prod the County Board of Freeholders into converting the abandoned pits, some of which are 35 feet deep, into central headquarters for CD and a possible work house for county jail prisoners.

James S. Osvath, 53; was automobile dealer

James S. Osvath, 53, of 319 Timberline rd., Mountain-side, died at his home Monday of a heart attack. Mr. Osvath, who was born in Hungary, lived in Mountain-side for the past 10 years. He owned and operated James Auto Sales Co., Union, for the last five years. He was a Marine Corps veteran of World War II.

Mr. Osvath is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jean Blazak Osvath; a son, Daniel, and a daughter, Deborah, both at home; a brother William, of Perth Amboy, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Wisniewski of Woodbridge. Funeral services will be conducted today at the Dooley Colonial Home, Westfield.

KARL HEINZE

Democratic Club elects new officers

Karl Heinze of Wyoming dr. has been elected president of the Mountain-side Democratic Club. Other officers elected at the annual reorganizational session include: vice-presidents, Robert Birnbaum of Blazo dr. and Frank Magnolia of Central ave.; secretary, Mrs. Ethel Rosner of Deer path; treasurer, Russell Cardoni of Short dr.

Trustees include William Seeds of Short dr., Chester Allen of Sherwood pkwy., Steve Sussko of Old Tote rd., Harry Nash of Saddle Brook rd., Robert Sacharo of Force dr. and Heinze.

Heinze, Sussko, Nash and Peter Taussig of Whipperwill way ran unsuccessfully on the Democratic ticket last fall for seats on the Borough Council. Seeds was the Democrats' mayoralty candidate in 1965.

The membership approved a motion to hold meetings the fourth Tuesday of each month.

Library memorial for Captain Blume

Friends and neighbors of the late Captain P. Blume of Mountain-side, who was lost at sea last December, have started a memorial fund in his name. The fund will be used to purchase an as yet unspecified gift for the new public library.

Donations may be sent directly to the library, in care of the director, Mrs. Emily Hoffarth, or to Mrs. Lyle O. Brown of 1634 Nottingham way or Mrs. Morse A. Shepard of 1630 Larkspur way.

Captain Blume was washed overboard Dec. 15 in rough seas while taking a merchant ship across the Pacific Ocean from Portland, Ore. to Bombay, India.

His widow, who lives at 1631 Larkspur dr., was officially notified of his death last week after an inquest was held in Singapore. He also left a son, Peter, 15.

A girl for Goldbergs

A daughter, Wendy Lynn, was born Jan. 16, 1967, at Overlook Hospital, Summit, to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Goldberg of 1111 Wyoming dr., Mountain-side. The six lb. 15 oz. girl joins a sister, Kerry Meredith. Mrs. Goldberg is the former Veronica McTernan.

Geisslers welcome son

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Geissler of North Plainfield are the proud parents of a son, Scott Donald, born Jan. 20, 1967, at Overlook Hospital, Summit. The seven lb. boy is the Geisslers' first-born. Mrs. Geissler is the former Leslie Cleveland of Mountain-side.

Three to receive top scout award

Three members of Boy Scout Troop 76 of Mountain-side are scheduled to receive Eagle Scout awards tomorrow evening. The three, Glen Warkala, Jeff Williams and Mike Hart, will receive the awards, the highest honor in Boy Scouting, at a special meeting which will open at 7:30 in Deerfield School.

The troop, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Mountain-side, has scheduled "parent's night" tomorrow evening also. A court of honor will be held and advancement and achievement awards will be presented to other members of the troop.

Refreshments, which will feature submarine sandwiches, will be served.

The troop this week issued an appeal for storage space to house its scouting equipment. Anyone who has a spare garage or room in the basement for such storage is asked to contact R. A. Pannullo, 232-5852, or David Hart, 233-4036.

Dear Amy:

I am happily married to a swell guy and we have three lovely children. Our problem is this: How do you plan one weekend with your husband and children when the in-laws come early every weekend?

We love these people very much and do not want to hurt them. Yet, we still want and need a free weekend to fulfill the promises we make to our girls for trips to the shore and other places.

How can one be nice about this and still be friends?

"Tired"

Simply by telling your in-laws of your plans . . . as nicely as you know how. Every family needs a weekend (at least once a month) to fulfill their desires. I think you will find that your in-laws will not create a hitch when they hear your pitch.

Dear Amy:

Can you please tell me on the little finger of which hand a man should wear a 'pinkie' ring? My husband says the left and I say the right. He has his ring on the left hand and says that's why he can't wear his wedding ring. So, if you can answer this question, he said he would take your advice.

Question

Dear Question:

There is no set rule on which 'pinkie' a ring is to be worn. But since a wedding band takes precedence over a 'pinkie' ring, he should wear the ring on the right.

Dear Amy:

I am 12 years old, going on 13, and I am in Junior High school. There is a boy in my home-room class who always talks to me, and I answer him. Everyone sees this and they think that we both love each other, so they spread a rumor that I love him. Now almost the whole school believes that, and everywhere I go, they keep singing a love song about us. But I don't love him! And he doesn't love me! We just like each other.

Frightened

Dear Frightened:

Teasing is a common pastime for your age set. Continue your friendship if you desire, and let your classmates sing. It's excellent exercise for the vocal cords when one has nothing else to do.

PERSONAL TO Buddy:

A dean is a person who doesn't know enough to be a professor but who is too smart to be president!

Invention detects water in fuel lines

DONALD A. CALDWELL of Mountain-side is shown using his invention to siphon fuel from a jet fuel line at Newark Airport.

Donald A. Caldwell of 1263 Knollwood rd., Mountain-side, has invented a portable device capable of detecting minute amounts of undissolved water in jet fuels. The device has been developed by the Esso Research and Engineering Co. of Linden. Caldwell is a chemical engineer with the Linden plant.

His invention, which is self-contained in a five-pound package especially designed for field use, is being manufactured by Gammon Technical Products Inc. of Newark with a licensing agreement with Esso Research. It is being marketed under the name "Aqua-Glo."

Caldwell received a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute. He and his wife have two children.

Represents class on student council

Miss Terry Lee Drensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Drensen of 257 Holly hill, Mountain-side, has been elected secretarial representative of her class to the Student Council at Katharine Gibbs School, Montclair.

A 1966 graduate of Governor Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, Miss Drensen is in her first year at Katharine Gibbs. She is enrolled in a liberal arts-secretarial course.

Baptist Mission Circles to meet next Thursday

The circles of the Woman's Mission Society of the First Baptist Church of Westfield will meet next Thursday.

Circle 1, led by Mrs. Gilbert Rust, will meet at 1 p.m. at the home of Miss Ellen Doughty, 552 Arlington ave., Westfield.

Circle 2, under the leadership of Mrs. Charles E. Kelley, meets at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. C. Ray Crispin, 639 Glen ave., Westfield.

Circle 3, with Mrs. Wilbur Brumfield as leader and Circle 4, under Mrs. G. Albert Smyth, will convene at 9:30 a.m. at the church.

Circle 5, led by Mrs. Fred Hoffman, will meet at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Roy E. Angstrom, 1393 Winslow ave., Union.

Newcomers skiing this weekend; many other events slated

Nine members of the Mountain-side Newcomers Club and their husbands will leave tomorrow for a ski weekend at Elk Mountain, Pa. The club's "ladies ski day," scheduled last month at the Snowball, was postponed because of weather to next Thursday.

"Secrets of Diamond Experts" will be discussed by a representative of a Westfield jeweler at the club's February meeting in the Mountain-side Inn.

At a recent meeting of the executive board, the social activities chairman, Mrs. Robert Cushman, announced the beginning of several additional club-sponsored activities, including canasta, tennis and golf.

The board meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Fillipone, 1079 Sunnyside rd. Mrs. William Cleary was co-hostess. Mrs. Charles Irwin presided.

Next Thursday Mrs. Joseph D'Altrui will host a luncheon for the club's Gourmet Group. Southern dishes will be featured.

The antiques group recently toured the Boudinot Mansion and the newly restored Belcher Mansion, both in Elizabeth.

Maines-Carson troth told; June wedding planned

Mr. and Mrs. Ellwin R. Maines of Casco, Me., announce the engagement of their daughter, Judith A. Maines, to Charles E. Carson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carson of Mohawk dr., Mountain-side. A June 24 wedding is planned.

Miss Maines, a graduate of Casco High School and Northeastern Business School in Portland, is employed by the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. in Portland, Me. Mr. Carson is a graduate of Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, and Muskingum College in New Concord, O. He is a teacher of physical education at the Deerfield School in Mountain-side.

B'nai B'rith women plan theatre party

The Westfield-Mountain-side chapter of B'nai B'rith Women will hold a theatre party Feb. 22 at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, for a special showing of "A Night with Pearl Bailey."

Pearl Bailey, a world-renowned entertainer, will star in a one-woman show. The proceeds of the theatre party will be used to aid the many philanthropic services that B'nai B'rith supports.

Tickets for this special showing are available through Mrs. Eugene Barry, 233-2382, or Mrs. Herbert Ross, 232-2867.

Weich advanced by chemical firm

GEORGE H. WEICH

George H. Weich of Mountain-side has been appointed industry manager for Heyden's Synthetic Resin Chemicals, New York, N. Y. Heyden is a division of Tenneco Chemicals, Inc.

Prior to joining Tenneco Chemicals, Inc. Weich was affiliated with Celanese Chemical where he served in various marketing and technical capacities.

A graduate of Harvard College, Weich is the official representative to the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association. He is also a member of the American Chemical Society, American Oil Chemists Society, and the Harvard Club of Northern New Jersey.

CHARLES J. IRWIN

Councilman Irwin named partner in Newark law firm

Councilman Charles J. Irwin of Mountain-side has been named a partner in the law firm of Arthur L. Abrams of Newark. The firm's new name will be Abrams and Irwin.

Irwin, a graduate of Syracuse University and Harvard Law School, has been with the Newark firm for about a year. He was previously associated with Carpenter, Bennett and Morrissey, also of Newark.

He was admitted to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court last year.

Irwin was appointed to the Borough Council last year to fill the seat left vacant by the resignation of former Councilman George Coughlin. He was elected to the one-year unexpired term last November.

He and his wife, the former Diane Dann of Mountain-side, live at 600 Sherwood pkwy. They have five children.

'Sweet Heart' ball scheduled Feb. 18 by woman's club

The Mountain-side Women's Club will hold a "Sweet Heart" benefit ball Feb. 18 in the Virginia Room of the Manor, (formerly the Bow and Arrow Manor), West Orange. Festivities will start with dinner at 7 p.m. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served from a rolling bar.

The general public is invited to attend. Reservations may be made with the chairman, Mrs. D. Wallace Alcott of 326 Rolling Rock rd., 232-3651, or anyone of the committee members: Mrs. Melvin Lemmerhirt, Mrs. Arthur Winters, Mrs. Charles MacKay or Mrs. John Susski.

The ball is held annually to supply funds for the various philanthropies which the club helps support both locally and through the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Foothill members presenting show

Members of the Foothill Club will present a musical variety show entitled "Holiday in the Sun" at this afternoon's meeting in the Mountain-side Inn. In native costume, they will perform songs and dances of Brazil, Mexico, other Latin American countries and Hawaii.

Mrs. G. W. Simpson and Mrs. Thomas Root are program chairman.

Tickets for the club's "Crystal Ball" are now available from the chairman, Mrs. Frank Balazik. The dance will be held April 22 at Ciro's on Echo Plaza.

Chansonettes seek bookings for spring

The Chansonettes of Westfield, a women's singing group under the direction of Mrs. Ruth P. Lutz, are booking engagements for the spring season. The group sings showtunes, old-time favorites and folk songs in four part harmony. Civic groups and religious organizations interested in such programs may obtain additional information from the business chairman, Mrs. C. N. Thorn, 232-4246.

The group has a new accompanist, Mrs. Shirley Bennett.

Anyone interested in joining the Chansonettes may contact Mrs. C. A. Meyer, 233-6156. Rehearsals are held twice monthly at the Westfield Rescue Squad.

Scholarships open to N.J. students in creative arts area

Rules for the ninth Annual New Jersey Student Fine Arts Scholarship Awards were announced this week by Mrs. Albert C. H. Bashaw, Sr., Roebling-Boehm Art and Sculpture Chairman of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs. This year there will be a scholarship for poetry and one for piano in the competition.

The scholarships represent money awards credited to the winners' account at the school of his/her choice. They are presented in cooperation with the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs and the State Museum Division of the Department of Education of New Jersey for the encouragement and recognition of student achievement in the creative arts. Each scholarship award will be paid directly to a recognized school in which the student has been accepted to further his/her fine arts education, either professional or as a teacher.

Students interested in these scholarships may request the competition rules from any high school, public, parochial or private, in New Jersey.

The Board of Directors of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs voted to be a cooperating sponsor of the New Jersey Consumer Conference 1967 at Rutgers University on March 14.

Summit YMCA awards certificates in lifesaving

The Summit YMCA this week awarded senior and junior YMCA-Red Cross lifesaving certificates to swimmers who completed 24 hours of instruction under the direction of the Y aquatic director, John Bennet.

Among those receiving senior certificates were Steve Solomon, Russell Hahn, Patty Foties and Rita Einstein of Mountaintide and Pat Schuyler of Union. Junior lifesavers include Eric Bergman of Springfield and Barbara Crow and Joanne Holcombe of Mountaintide.

Medicare now providing nursing care for elderly

A new part of the medicare law started on Jan. 1, Ralph W. Jones Social Security district manager in Elizabeth, said this week. This is the part that pays for skilled nursing care provided elderly people following their discharge from the hospital.

Medicare will pay for up to 100 days of skilled nursing care in an "extended care facility" following a hospital stay of three days or more, Jones said. An extended care facility can be a skilled nursing home, or it can be separate but distinct part of an institution, such as a ward or wing of a hospital.

"Extended care," Jones explained, "is a cross between hospital care and the traditional nursing home care." Care in an extended care facility will combine the quality of medical treatment ordinarily given in a hospital environment with the opportunity for the patient's increased activity and self-reliance during the recuperation period.

In one sense, Jones said, the stay in an extended care facility will be a substitute for time that before would have been spent in the hospital. For example, a medicare patient who before might go into a hospital and spend 15 days may now stay in the hospital for only 10 days and then be transferred to a qualified extended care facility for continued treatment.

In accord with the purpose of the extended care benefit, only persons who have been treated in a hospital for at least three consecutive days and enter the extended care facility within 14 days of hospital release for treatment of the same illness, are eligible for this special benefit, Jones said.

As an extension of hospital treatment the skilled nursing home stay will normally be fairly short, Jones noted. Medicare will pay the full cost of the first 20 days in the extended care facility and all but $5 a day for an additional 80 days. He emphasized that medicare will not pay for long-term care in a custodial nursing home.

New passport office

WASHINGTON (UPI) --The State Department announces the first U.S. Passport Agency in Philadelphia will be opened in February to help speed operations in the area.

In the past, Jones pointed out, this special kind of care in an extended care facility has not been readily available and, therefore, very few people have really experienced it. The skilled nursing benefit under medicare will encourage the development of skilled nursing homes and support a new and important trend in medical care.

In the future, a patient who no longer needs the intensive treatment provided in the hospital, but does need continued care, can receive this medical attention at less cost in an extended care facility. Furthermore, his moving on will release a hospital bed for someone who may be acutely ill. The increased use of extended care facilities, Jones said, will mean better utilization of hospital facilities and medical manpower.

Since this is a new idea in medical care there are now very few institutions equipped to offer extended care. Most existing nursing homes will have to upgrade their facilities and the care provided to meet the required standards under the medicare law.

Article outlines powers given by law to schools

Learning requires a classroom atmosphere of order and control. So state law and court decisions give schools strong powers in dealing with students.

The legal description of the school's position is "in loco parentis," reports the current issue of the N.J.E.A. Review, the monthly journal of the New Jersey Education Association. In English, that means "in place of the parent."

School authorities, for instance, may make reasonable rules and regulations governing the right to regulate the attire and personal appearance of pupils, says the Review article, written by Dr. Arthur J. Muniz, assistant school superintendent in South Plainfield.

"They can forbid the use of certain cosmetics, the wearing of transparent clothing, low-necked dresses, or any style of clothing which tends toward immodesty."

An Indiana parent lost a suit seeking to outlaw after-school detention. The court denied that detention is "false imprisonment."

Courts have been lenient about careless destruction caused by children. An Indiana decision held that children are careless by nature and should not be punished or held liable for acts which are merely characteristic of them.

However, in New Jersey and South Dakota, parents are responsible for school property damaged by the child.

The power to control pupils extends beyond the school grounds and final bell. Authorities may punish children "when the acts they commit out of school are detrimental to the good order and best interests of the school or its personnel," Dr. Muniz reports. "And if such acts adversely affect the discipline of the school."

In Wisconsin, two high school pupils published a poem offensive to the school board. A court later ruled the board had been within its rights in suspending the pupils from school—even though the board had never adopted any rule or regulation prohibiting critical poetry.

Another example of out-of-class control is the school's power to bar students from fraternities or sororities, even when all activities are conducted away from school.

New Jersey prohibits the use of corporal punishment on students. But a recent law permits "such amount of force as is reasonable and necessary" to (1) quell a disturbance, (2) obtain possession of a weapon or dangerous instrument, (3) act in self-defense, or (4) protect persons or property.

Pupils, of course, have won court decisions, too. The U.S. Supreme Court has said the school cannot compel a child to salute the flag if doing so interferes with his religious beliefs. New Jersey law now requires that a non-saluting pupil show respect for the flag by standing at attention during the pledge of allegiance.

Courts have generally upheld the right of a student to refuse to wear cap and gown at graduation exercises, Dr. Muniz reports. The courts also have said a school cannot withhold a diploma just because the student did not take part in the graduation ceremony.

Completion of the prescribed course of study is what makes the pupil eligible to receive the diploma.

Westfield Chansonettes booking engagements

The Chansonettes of Westfield, a women's singing group under the direction of Mrs. Ruth F. Lutz, are booking engagements for the spring season. The group sings show tunes, old-time favorites and folk songs in four part harmony.

Civic groups and religious organizations who are planning programs may obtain additional information about the Chansonettes from the business chairman, Mrs. C. N. Thorn, 232-4246. Anyone interested in joining the Chansonettes may contact Mrs. Charles Meyer, 233-6156.

Recording groups to present concert

Two popular recording groups—the "Young Rascals" and the "Happenings" will be featured in concert tomorrow at Drew University, Madison. Responsible for such hits as "I Ain't Gonna Eat Out My Heart Anymore," and "You're Coming On Strong, Babe," the groups will perform at 8:30 p.m. in the Baldwin Gymnasium.

Photo show to be held at Mall in Short Hills

Miss Union County Pageant slated

The Miss Union County Pageant will be presented this year by the Fanwood-Scotch Plains Jaycees on April 15 at the Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School. Ten young ladies will be selected as finalists from those interviewed. To be eligible a girl must be between 18 and 28, single, a senior in or a high school graduate, and residing in or going to school in Union County. She should possess beauty, intelligence, and talent. She will, as Miss Union County, compete for the title of Miss New Jersey and a $1000 scholarship award, and as Miss New Jersey compete for the title of Miss America of 1968 and a $10,000 scholarship award.

Anyone wishing to enter the contest or would like to nominate a young lady may contact either Douglas L. Lud, 351 No. Drive, No. Plainfield (755-8981) or Richard Payne, 1221 Christine Circle, Scotch Plains (233-5895).

Late '67 may trigger big housing boom in U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The biggest housing boom in American history is likely to start in the latter part of 1967 and continue at least through 1969, believes Eli Broad, chairman of Kaufman & Broad, one of the three top national builders of homes.

In the face of the big housing slump in 1966, Kaufman & Broad had a 58 per cent sale increase to $43 million for the 12 months ended Nov. 30 and a 125 per cent rise in profits to about $1.5 million or $2.45 a share — "and we'll do better this year," Broad told a recent luncheon meeting of New York security analysts.

Broad's company operates in Detroit, Chicago, Phoenix and Los Angeles. Broad and Donald Kaufman began business with $25,000 borrowed capital in 1957 and today the firm has a net worth of $6 million.

There is a genuine demand in the United States for at least two million housing units this year yet a maximum of only 1.3 million starts are scheduled," he said. "The reason—tight money. The answer is to treat housing as essentially a manufacturing business."

He predicted that more homes will be built by large companies such as Levitt & Sons, Inc., and Kaufman & Broad and fewer by small traditional developers in future.

"Marginal operators will fall by the wayside," Broad said, "because they are too dependent on the savings and loan associations for financing and cannot provide a stream of innovations to please the discriminating customer in the popular price field, offer sufficient sales inducements, such as money-back guarantees, or obtain choice sites."

Broad said the 1966 housing slump hit the builders who were dependent on S. & L. financing hardest. Kaufman & Broad, on the other hand, was able to obtain interim and permanent financing from banks, pension funds and other institutions and to issue mortgages conforming to Veterans Administration and FHA requirements through various mortgaging companies.

"Recently," he said, "the real estate market in the Los Angeles area has been demoralized by tight money, but we have been able to sell new $20,000 to $30,000 houses there pretty well. We are seeking to counteract the tight money by offering an iron clad agreement to refund the buyer's down payment plus a profit or $1,000 on the house after one year. We don't expect to have to take back any houses but we stand ready to do so."

By operating like a manufacturer, Broad said, his company, for example, looked on land "as just another raw material." "We don't speculate in land; we won't buy it until we need it and we are satisfied with a processing and financing profit on land. We build our houses with many innovations and improvements and, like a maker of automobiles or appliances, we expect to — and do — sell nearly all of them from the plans. We don't carry any expensive inventory of completed houses."

And, Broad said, that's the kind of fast turnover of merchandise and money the housing industry must practice in order to bet tight money.

TURNTABLE TREATS (good listening) — HOW TO AVOID PROBATE by Norman Dacey. This is undoubtedly one of the most unusual albums to come along in a long time. Mr. Dacey is an expert in the investment business, and an expert accountant. This LP is an addendum to his best selling book, "How To Avoid Probate", and answers questions most recently asked of him. He describes to the layman, how to plan his own estate, and how to avoid the ravages of probate. (PHILIPS PHM 200-229)... MORE THAN MUSIC by The Mystic Moods Orchestra. The Mystic Moods are back for their third album, with selections from the current crop of cinema soundtracks. In each case the music reflects the environment of the film for which it was written. Selections include: "Wednesday's Child" (The Quiller Memorandum), "Theme From 'Grand Prix'", "Born Free" (Born Free), "Paris Smiles" (Is Paris Burning?), "Theme From 'The Sand Pebbles'" and seven more just as good. (PHILIPS PHM 200-231)...

Also on the PHILIPS label, HIGH PRIESTESS OF SOUL by Nina Simone. This new LP is a complete departure from Nina's most recent albums, and features Nina at her vocal best. She is supported with a big orchestra to a small group, from driving brass to samba rhythm, to soulful organ. Selections include: "Don't You Pay Them No Mind," "Brown Eyed Handsome Man," "I'm Going Back Home," "I Hold No Grudge," "Love My Baby," and seven more. PHM 200-219)... COLORS by Ken Nordine. Ken (famous for his WORD JAZZ) describes in his far out manner to the intriguing sound of a jazz background, every color you have heard of, and some colors none of us have ever heard of. (PHM 200-224)...

Pussycats go where tigers fear to tread.

Fancy cars with ferocious names are apt to do some un-fanciful things in snow. Like get stuck.

Then there's the Pussycat: the Volkswagen Karmann Ghia. It's a little less ferocious, a little more domesticated.

For example, it can spend an evening out in temperatures that reach 20 below and yet zip you through six inches of snow come morning.

That's because the Karmann Ghia engine doesn't need water or antifreeze. It's cooled by air.

And it's located in the rear to give the rear wheels much better traction.

Its bottom is fully sealed. So the outside takes a beating from bad weather instead of the inside.

Its front brakes are disc (the kind that won't fade).

And although it's not as powerful as a man-eating tiger or as speedy as a wild horse, at least it knows how to find its way back home.

Shop, compare before deciding on 'package' tour

NEW YORK (UPI) -- Shop and compare before deciding which "package" vacation you should buy. Naturally, your decision will have to be based on where you want to go, how much time you have, and how much money you plan on spending.

The travel industry is a highly competitive business and there is no doubt that you will find scores of "All-inclusive" vacation tours that will meet your requirements.

Just look at the travel advertisements in newspapers offering "Eight Glorious Days in Romantic Erehwon" or "See Europe (or Asia, or South America) on a Fun-Filled 14 day (or 21 or 30 day) Holiday" at different price ranges.

But comparing tours is not merely a matter of checking prices. It is what is wrapped up in the package that counts.

Reliable travel agencies will spell out precisely what is included in their tour brochures. Anyway make sure you read the small print in the contract so you will know exactly what you are entitled to.

Some Questions Here are some questions that should be answered before you decide which tour offers you the most for your dollar:

How about getting there? Does the price include all transportation costs from your home town to your destination, or only travel arrangements when you get there? Do you travel by plane, ship, train, or bus -- first, tourist or economy class?

What kind of hotel accommodations are provided -- deluxe, first or standard class? If it is a seaside resort, is it a shore front hotel or will you have to walk or ride to the beach? Do you get a room with private bath or shower and toilet facilities? If you are traveling alone, will you get a single room or have to share a double?

How about meals? Does the package specify American Plan (AP), or three meals a day; modified American Plan (MAP), or two meals; Continental Plan (C), breakfast usually of rolls and a beverage; Bermuda Plan (BP), American-style breakfast; or European plan (EP), no meals. AP sometimes is called, particularly in Europe, Full Pension, BB (bed and breakfast) is the same as CP. Can you order a la carte, without additional charge, or must you stick to the menu?

What about sightseeing? Will you have an American or an English-speaking local guide? Are admission and other fees or museums and similar points of interest on the schedule included? Who picks up the tab if the itinerary includes visits to the theater, opera or night clubs?

How about tipping? Does the price include ALL gratuities to porters, bellhops, waiters, etc. or do you take care of some of them yourself?

What about taxes? Does the tour operator include them in the package? It can make a difference. Some governments impose special "head" taxes on tourists and it can add up to a tidy sum if the itinerary includes a number of different countries. And who pays the fees for tourist cards and/or visas, if required?

Another point worth checking is baggage -- whether there are any restrictions on the number of bags and who handles transfers between cities. And if you are taking a cruise, find out whether the fare includes sightseeing excursions ashore.

USY regional director to speak to Sisterhood Harold Wisna, regional director of United Synagogue Youth, will speak on "Needs for our Youth in a Modern Society" at a meeting of the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield, in the temple at 8:30 p.m. Monday.

A film on USY activities also will be shown at the meeting, according to Mrs. Phillip Meisel, program vice president. Mrs. Bernard Sanders will preside.

"The unknown is always a fearful thing."

The comment came from Pericles "Bill" Gianakis as he spoke of the work and goals of the American Cancer Society.

Gianakis, a Roselle resident and ninth grade social studies teacher at Scotch Plains-Fanwood schools, has a special role in the fight against fear of the unknown which is being waged by the Cancer Society. He is chairman of the education committee of the Union County Chapter of ACS.

As head of the education committee, he is responsible for a three-fold program: bringing the work of the Cancer Society before the general public, with particularly emphasis on its call for early detection; helping interest young people in careers in scientific research; and sponsoring in-service programs for teachers and nurses.

The most extensive of these three is the program offered to the general public. "We present programs for all kinds of clubs--service, social, church groups--any organization that invites us," Gianakis said.

These programs include a short address by a volunteer lay speaker, showing of a film, distribution of Cancer Society literature and answers to questions from the audience by a doctor, also a volunteer.

Gianakis' education committee, working out of County Cancer Society headquarters on Westminister ave. in Elizabeth, now has a roll of about 20 lay speakers, among them housewives, businessmen, members of service groups and others "who just heard about us by word of mouth."

With training in setting up and running film projectors and guides to help them outline their talks, these lay speakers describe the functions of the Cancer Society, the services it offers to the public and the uses it makes of its funds.

They explain that, among its services, the Society furnishes transportation, dressings and sickroom equipment for home use to any cancer patient. It operates a clinic for cancer victims who have lost their voice boxes. For the medically indigent the Society provides assistance with such things as nursing care and medications.

Doctors, who assist through a county-wide physician's bureau, handle "the technical questions," Gianakis said. He added:

"Essentially, they are there to alleviate fears. They try to get people to face the facts of cancer reasonably, without anxiety."

In addition to offering programs to clubs and organizations of various kinds, the committee headed by Gianakis also works closely with schools, sending literature, film strips and, if requested, speakers.

Much of the emphasis in the school programs is on the dangers of smoking.

Although these programs are now aimed at junior and senior high school students, Gianakis took note of the fact that many boys and girls are now starting to smoke at an earlier age.

"Increasingly we've come to believe that we have to work at lower levels than the secondary schools," he mused. "We're thinking of the lower grades--if we could develop such things as coloring books that carry a 'message'."

The great advantage of school programs on cancer is that "getting to the student is a good way of getting to the parent," Gianakis commented.

He recalled receiving "a touching letter" some time ago from a boy who had heard one such program and had become concerned "because his father was smoking too much."

His committee's efforts to arouse interest in research careers also are focused on young people.

To accomplish this, literature such as laboratory manuals is distributed to high schools throughout the county.

In addition, the committee arranges for field trips by students to the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York City, described by Gianakis as one of the foremost research and detection centers for cancer, and to the microbiology building at Rutgers University.

For adults, there are in-service programs for teachers and nurses. The committee sponsors attendance by teachers at bi-annual cancer institutes in Atlantic City as part of its work.

But the primary emphasis is on the work done by the volunteers, who answer from 10 to 15 requests for talks per month.

Cole Porter tunefest musical is delightful revival on stage

The delightful Cole Porter tunes in "Kiss Me Kate," a Broadway stage musical of nearly two decades ago, are being revived on the theater-in-the-round stage at the Meadowbrook these evenings, and are reviving audiences to the better music of any era.

In the Carl Sawyer, Gary Melhugh and John H. Beaumont production in Cedar Grove, an efficient cast, from top to bottom does justice to a vehicle, difficult enough to perform and choreograph on a regular stage; and twice as difficult on a confining round one. Exceptional credit must be given to Billy Mathews, who serves as director of this version of "Kiss Me Kate."

Earl Wrightson's smooth, resonant voice, mingled with that of Lois Hunt's equally semi-operatic one, in such tunes as "Wonderbar," "We Open in Venice," and "Kiss Me Kate," enhance the old familiar story of a modern stock company, who performs Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew." Both the modern story and The Bard's play are so cleverly intermingled by the famed Bella and Samuel Spewack, that it is difficult to tell where one leaves off and the other begins. But that's the real magic of the show, and it's brought up to date from time to time with quips about air pollution, George Hamilton and President Johnson.

In a stellar role and showing a great deal of promise, is provocative, sexy, blonde, Sherri Spillane, wife of the noted mystery writer, Mickey, Sid Raymond and Zele Kessler, who portray the two comical gangsters, very nearly run away with the show, whenever they make

'Is Paris Burning?' on screen at Regent

"Is Paris Burning?" starring Charles Boyer, Leslie Caron, Alain Delon, Kirk Douglas, Gert Frobe, Orson Welles and a large international cast, opened yesterday at the Regent Theater, Elizabeth.

Producer-director Rene Clement brought the best-selling book to the screen. The story concerns Paris, France in World War II.

The companion feature at the Regent is "Red Tomahawk," a western picture in color, starring Howard Keel and Joan Caulfield.

'Fistful of Dollars' now on screen at 3 theaters

"A Fistful of Dollars," United Artists' unusual Italian-made Western, opened yesterday the Millburn Theater in Millburn, and the Hollywood Theater, East Orange, on a single bill; and at the Ritz Theater, Elizabeth, with "Candidate for Murder," as the associate feature.

"Dollars," which was photographed in color, stars Clint Eastwood. The Ritz Theater will have a closed circuit TV screening of the Clay-Terril championship fight on Monday evening beginning at 10.

Symphony group to hold auditions

The New Jersey Symphony is auditioning male voices for its Chorus in preparation for an April 1 performance of Stravinsky's "Symphony of Psalms" at Symphony Hall. This grouping of adult male voices will join with the NJSO Boys Chorus and the symphony orchestra in performing this work under Kenneth Smermerhor's direction.

The NJSO Chorus is auditioning on Monday evenings. Appointments may be arranged by phoning the Symphony office at MA 4-8203. "Symphony of Psalms" will highlight the April concert, which also features a guest appearance by Millburn soprano Eileen Schauler, principal artist of the New York City Opera, singing selected arias. Works of Mendelssohn and Rimsky-Korsakov complete the program.

State, VA discuss widow's pensions

Active liaison and discussions are being conducted by the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development with officials of the Veterans Administration to determine whether veterans' widows receiving pensions or annuities from the Police and Firemen's Widows Association of New Jersey may waive a portion of such payments in order to comply with income limitations of the federal agency.

Conservation Commissioner Robert A. Roe said this week that Assembly Bill A-336 enacted into law by the State Legislature this month increased the Association's payments and annuities from $1,200 to $1,600 annually. "The effect of this increase will undoubtedly result in the loss or reduction of VA widow pensions received by some members of the Association. This is of deep concern to the Department and is receiving top priority."

Commissioner Roe said, Anthony J. Volpe, director of the Conservation Department's Division of Veterans Services, recently conferred with Mrs. Antoinette Morrissey, president of the Association, and appraised her of the Department's efforts to resolve the matter.

The New Jersey State Division of Pensions, under Chapter 137 Laws of 1935 and under State Revised Statutes 43:16-20, provides that any state pension or annuity to which she or he may be entitled.

NEEDS LESS FOOD
Labor-saving devices mean that the homemaker spends less energy for her usual work. That's why she needs less food. It used to take 240 calories to do the family wash plus 50 to hang the clothes on the line.

Swimmer braces for the plunge

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI)—A back brace doesn't keep pretty Janice Strubbe from working toward her dream—swimming in the 1968 Olympics.

But three months after the brace was on, she joined a local swim team and won the "best swimmer" award for her age group. The brace can be removed for an hour a day.

"Swimming is a way to relax," she says. "I enjoy it very much."

She also plays flute, tennis and paints.

GIVE...so more will live HEART FUND
The heart problem is more than just heart attack. It is a broad complex of heart and blood vessel diseases, including stroke, a major killer and disabler. Among other disorders are high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, rheumatic fever, inborn heart defects and congestive heart failure.
Together these diseases kill close to a million persons in the U.S. each year. They are no respecters of age or sex. They cost our economy an estimated $6.2 billion a year. The cardiovascular diseases strike in many ways. One effective way for you to strike back is with a gift to your Heart Fund.

COLLEGE FUND—Looking over plans for the college fund are, left to right, Jesse A. Gibson of Roselle, assistant director of the United Negro College Fund's fund-raising division and national director of Alumni Affairs; Mrs. C. Delmar Williams, vice-president of the National Alumni Council, board member of U.N.C.F., and chairman of the Greater New York Alumni Chapter, and Mrs. De Vera Edwards, consumer service coordinator of Pharmaco, Inc., which is presenting the Artra Scholarship Award.

Negro College unit establishes award, first scholarship

Donald L. Hollowell, president of the National Alumni Council of the United Negro College Fund, this week announced the establishment of the Artra Award, the organization's first scholarship.

Financed by Pharmaco, Kenilworth, pharmaceutical firm, the scholarship provides $1,200 for the winning student and $300 for his college or university. Announcement of the student winner's name will be made during the 21st annual conference of the Council, Feb. 9-12, in the Queen-Charlotte Hotel, Charlotte, N.C.

The purpose of the scholarship is to promote participation among college students in off-campus as well as on-campus activities, and to instill a desire to continue participation in civic and community affairs after graduation, Hollowell said.

F. M. Schwemmer, president of Pharmaco, said, "We are honored to have the opportunity to establish this award and hope that it will stimulate students in the schools affiliated with the National Pre-Alumni Council to become better citizens."

Hollowell said that to be eligible for the award, a student must be above average scholastically, be active in Pre-Alumni Council activities, and have demonstrated leadership qualities on and off-campus.

The National Pre-Alumni Council is composed of students in 33 colleges and universities. The student may use the scholarship in a college or university other than the one in which he is enrolled at the time of his selection.

Vocational Center offering program on electrical appliance maintenance

A program on repair and maintenance of electrical appliances is being offered by Union County Vocational Center at 957 Ball Ave., Union, to area high school pupils who are attending their local schools for academic study for half of each day and the vocational school for the other half.

Leslie N. Kiray, director of the program, said it gives students experience with different brands of appliances and trains them to analyze and troubleshoot before repairing. He said industries in New York, Connecticut and Virginia have already made inquiries about hiring future graduates, who will receive a diploma from their high schools and a certificate from the vocational school.

Some students have already obtained part-time employment in the area after four months of study and shop practice in the course. An advisory committee composed of representatives of Sears, Roebuck & Co., General Electric Co., Westinghouse Electric Co., Hotpoint Co. and Maytag Co.

Looking into wines

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's Board of Trade is investigating charges that some wines being sold in this country under French labels are not what they are said to be. Principal complaint was that wines sold as Beaujolais, burgundy, sauternes, etc., aren't from the wine districts claimed. Blending of inferior, named wines and labelling them as something special was another complaint. The Sunday Times, which reported on the matter, said some of the "blended concoctions are perfectly decent wines and often good value (but) not what the label says."
