Lt. Herrick testifies in Minn. trial

Dr. Lt. James Herrick of Mountainside traveled to Minnesota last week to testify in the trial of Dallas Evans, 31, of Rosemont, Minn., who was charged with felonious theft, a charge that stemmed from Evans' arrest last October in Mountainside. Lt. Herrick testified for four hours in the pre-trial hearing before a Washington (Minn.) judge to determine if the arrest was legal and if the defendant had been properly informed of his right. The next day, after the judge ruled Herrick's evidence was admissible, Evans pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of theft, which in Minnesota can bring a maximum sentence of five years in jail.

Evans and his father, Kenneth Evans of Hastings, Minn., were arrested in Mountainside's business section last Oct. 20 when Patrolman William Ayres noticed the ear of their car, parked in front of a luncheonette, was dragging close to the ground. Ayres noticed Herrick of the suspicious car and, after instructions from the detective carried out a routine check of the car. That check showed a cache of 422 pound of silver nitrate, valued at $5,000 stored in the trunk of Evans' car. The nitrate, in unmarked plastic bags and containers, had been allegedly stolen from the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. where the younger man had been employed. Evans and his father were both charged with possession of stolen property and bringing stolen property into the state. In municipal court, they were sent to Union County Jail when they failed to post the $5,000 bail set for each. They were later released when bail was furnished.

Musical program set Wednesday at children's hospital

A musical program will be presented for the patients at Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside, next Wednesday evening by Jay Steinberg of Plainfield. Steinberg, a chemical engineer at Celanese Corp., Summit, has for the past several months been presenting a series of musical appreciation programs at the hospital, which serves children with long term illnesses. In addition to playing excerpts from Chopin, Mozart, Beethoven and other classical composers, Steinberg takes simple, well-known melodies and demonstrates for the children the interpretations those masters might have given them. For the entertainment of the younger children, he assumes the role of "Uncle Rudolph," a German music professor who, wearing a battered hat and a long, handlebar mustache, tells musical fairy tales. A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Steinberg received his master's degree in chemical engineering in June, 1966, from the University of Delaware. An accomplished musician, he has also written words and music for several songs.

According to Miss Isabelle Watson, recreational therapist at Children's Specialized Hospital, Steinberg's programs are very well received by the small patients, some of whom are brain-damaged. Many of the children who do not respond to other forms of recreational or occupational therapy are "reached" by Steinberg's music, she says. She describes the programs as a combination of "music therapy, music appreciation and just plain fun."

The dinner is part of the local celebration of Girl Scout Week.

Volkswagen's unique construction keeps dampness out.

For years there have been rumors about floating Volkswagens. (The photographer claims this one stayed up for 42 minutes.) Why not? The bottom of the VW isn't like ordinary car bottoms. A sheet of flat steel runs under the car, sealing the bottom fore and aft. That's not done to make a bad boat out of it, just a better car. The sealed bottom protects a VW from water, dirt and salt. All the nasty things on the road that eventually eat up a car. The top part of a Volkswagen is also very seaworthy. It's practically airtight. So airtight that it's hard to close the door without rolling down the window a bit. But there's still one thing to keep in mind if you own a Volkswagen. Even if it could definitely float, it couldn't float indefinitely. So drive around the big puddles. Especially if they're big enough to have a name.

Dear Neighbors:

Just like in the years past, we again are ready to take care of your shade and ornamental trees. Because this year the destructive scale insects appear to be more plentiful than in the past we urge you to let us spray your oak trees well in advance of first spring leaves. For an early spray during this month, we can then use high viscosity spray oil which is most effective and yet absolutely harmless to humans as well as our birds. The scale insects infect trees which will decay beyond any means of help later on. Don't let this happen to your trees that are the source of enjoyment year after year. They provide you with cooling shade in the summer time, they beautify your home and, yes, then enhance the value of your very home as if they would want to thank you for taking care of them.

We have the most modern equipment, our men are highly trained and skilled for such jobs. Don't delay, call us up and be informed more fully. There is no obligation, of course.

200 at farewell party honoring Mrs. Ahearn

More than 200 pupils, former pupils and friends gathered by Community Presbyterian Church last Sunday to bid farewell to Mrs. Ella Mason Ahearn who has been teaching 25-ano in the Mountainide school system for about 26 years.

Mrs. Ahearn and her husband, Arthur, were scheduled to leave their home on Hillside ave. yesterday and head for Virginia, where they will live. Mrs. Ahearn, a physicist recently retired from Bell Laboratories, Murray Hill, will work in Washington for the government.

At the farewell reception, organized by the Mountainide Music Association, a gold pin was presented to Mrs. Ahearn in recognition of her long service to Mountainide students. It was announced by Mrs. Robert Hose, chairman of the affair, that funds will be given to the Mountainide Library to purchase some equipment for the music room in the new building, now under construction. The gift, which will be selected by library officials, will bear a plaque or name plate saying it was given in honor of Mrs. Ahearn.

8 students at UJC receive tuition aid

Eight Mountainide residents are among 425 Union County residents who are attending Union Junior College, Cranford, this semester under the tuition aid plan adopted by UJC and the Union County Board of Freeholders.

The eight, all full time students in the Day Session, are each receiving tuition aid grants of $240 a semester. Since UJC's current tuition is $440 per semester this has the effect of reducing the tuition to county residents by more than 50 percent.

Mountainide residents receiving the aid this semester are: Thomas H. Brumfield of 357 Creek Bed rd., Irene F. Fabian of 252 Pembroke rd., Carolyn N. Korn of 351 Old Tote rd., Joan T. O'Keeffe of 324 Longview dr., Joseph Perna of 168 Sunrise pkwy., Ilona Rauschenberger of 1429 Woodacres dr., Clement P. Senna of 271 Summit rd. and Bruce W. Tutill of 11 Tanglewood lane.

TENNIS ANYONE?

Our quiz this week concerns one of the all-time greats in tennis, a player who as a boy was bored with the game, preferring instead baseball. He grew up in California, entered his first tournament there (won it) and before age 19 was the best player in his state.

Freckle-faced, tall and red-headed, he reached the pinnacle of success at age 22. The year was 1938. From that year on he couldn't be beaten, winning every coveted prize around, including the Wimbledon championship.

He was the first ever to win the Grand-Slam, four major world's amateur championships in a single year! It was 24 years before another great ever matched his four-pronged triumph.

Precautionary tips offered for Poison Prevention Week

Col. Jacob Eisen of Mountainide's Board of Health reminds residents that Poison Prevention Week starts Sunday. The annual observance, set up to make people, particularly parents, aware of the danger of poisoning from drugs and medicines often found in the home, has been proclaimed by Gov. Richard Hughes and is endorsed by the N. J. Pharmaceutical Association, the N. J. Hospital Association, the Safety Council and the State Department of Health.

Commenting on Poison Prevention Week, Col. Eisen, a past president of the state Pharmaceutical Association, pointed out that the observance will have significance only to the extent that it helps reduce accidental poisonings in the community and the state. It is estimated that there are about 14,000 accidental poisonings yearly in this state, Eisen said. Specialists in poison control report that although less than 100 of these poisonings are fatal many could have been prevented. Eisen offered the following precautions for parent and other adults to take to prevent accidental poisonings:

- 1. Keep medicines and drugs locked up. Keep insecticides, cleaning compounds, turpentine, paint removers, in a place away from children's reach.
2. Never give or take medicines in the dark. Always check carefully.
3. Never pour poisonous or hazardous liquids into bottles which children could mistake for food or beverages.
4. Dispose of unwanted medicines by flushing down the toilet. Never throw them where your children or others may get them.
5. Never tell children medicines are candy even if they are specially flavored.
6. When in doubt about storing any medicine,

HOUSEHOLD INVENTORY CAN SAVE YOU MONEY

"Could you advise me how best to keep an inventory of our household effects for insurance purposes?", a reader writes.

"My four daughters and wife," he explained, "keep accumulating clothing, jewelry, new and antique furnishings and other items without a thought given to maintaining a record of them. In the event of a fire or theft, we would have trouble determining what was destroyed or missing, and this would create problems for ourselves in making our insurance claims."

One effective way to maintain an inventory - without resorting to the tedious method of listing all the contents in your house - is to photograph every room in your home.

If the picture shows works of art, antiques and other valuables, have the articles appraised and keep a report - along with the photograph and inventory - in a vault or other safeplace.

Another way to take an accounting of household and personal effects would be to complete a printed inventory form provided by insurance companies.

If you have one of the popular homeowners' package policies, all your belongings - clothing as well as furniture and appliances - are insured for 40 per cent of the insured value of your home. For example, if your home is insured for $20,000, your household goods would be insured automatically for an additional $8,000.

If you own valuables such as works of art, antiques, furs, and jewelry, it is advisable to consider insuring them under a separate all-risk floater insurance policy.

Local tot drinks wintergreen oil

A two-year-old Mountainide child, Tod Stragis of 1295 Knollwood rd., was taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, last week after he drank oil of wintergreen which an older brother had on hand for rubdowns after playing baseball or other sports. The child was released after a few days. Hospital authorities said this points up the need for keeping such supplies under lock and key when young children are in the home.

Retains state title in Princeton meet

Bob Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Collins of 15 Bayberry Lane, Mountain Side, successfully defended his Group "B" championship diving title last Friday at Dillon Pool in Princeton University...

Collins, who trains under Westfield's diving coach, Bill Cant, seemed to have a slim chance of winning early in the meet when he slipped on the diving board while attempting a half-twist and was awarded no points. This meant a setback of approximately 36 points.

In the remaining seven dives, the Mountain Side contender more than made up that loss. His total points of 295.10 beat second-place winner Alan Frederick of Rumson by seven points.

Wall Street Notebook

The action of the stock market so far this year has been - in a word - breathtaking. The upside strength has been unusual...

In just the first three weeks of this year, the Dow Jones Industrial Average gained more than 60 points. That's an increase of nearly eight percent. And it didn't stop there.

From the 1966 low of 744, the Dow has gained better than 116 points. That's an increase of 15.6 percent. Therefore, at the 860 level, the Dow has recovered about 46 percent of last year's 250 point loss.

Why? Obviously, investors have reacted favorably to the trend toward lower interest rates and increased credit availability. Much of the 25 percent decline in the DJIA last year has been attributed to the Administration's emphasis on monetary restraint...

LAST YEAR, businessmen and investors suffered under conditions of tighter money - and higher interest rates - than at any time in the past 30-plus years. Entire industries were affected. The housing industry is a prime example...

But conditions have changed. The shift in emphasis was first observed last November when the Federal Reserve Board began to ease its monetary policy restraint. During December, the FRB permitted bank credit to expand at the annual rate of nine percent.

Several analysts now are speculating that the Fed may reduce bank reserve requirements - which would ease credit even further. Thus, easier credit and lower interest rates have boosted investor enthusiasm.

Exchange students

They used that fluency to express their delight in this country. Vanja, a bright-faced girl with a delightful smile, had only one complaint - "the time is going too fast!"

"I love it," she sighed, "it's such a wonderful experience. Ooooh, I want to come back to this country."

The Swiss visitor, a guest of a Warren Township family, is delighted with the greater freedom allowed students in his classes in Warren Hills Regional High School. That informality, he feels, creates a much closer relationship between the teachers and students here and he's all for that.

Municipal budget

(Continued from page 1) provides $7,000 for the new fire engine fund, $14,000 for tennis courts near the swimming pool and $4,000 for acquisition of property where a new road is proposed, between Central ave. and Summit rd.

The $14,000 for the tennis courts will be more than offset by a $15,000 surplus appropriated out of capital funds last year for the construction of the pool. Since the pool was planned and constructed as a self-liquidating facility, that amount will be returned to the borough.

The pool has a $62,870 budget for this year which will be covered by a $4,870 anticipated operating surplus and $58,000 in membership fees.

School busing bill draws opposition from ACLU group

The Union County Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union of New Jersey this week called for defeat of a bill which would make it mandatory for school districts to furnish bus transportation for parochial and private school students.

The measure now before the Assembly, which would provide for transportation for parochial and private school students who live more than two but less than 20 miles from their schools, is "an unconstitutional use of public funds," the ACLU chapter said.

Jacques Sichel of Union, chairman of the unit, urged Governor Hughes and the Legislature "to hold public hearings on this bill and to oppose this serious breach of the wall of separation between church and state."

The ACLU statement said:

"The argument that busing is a child benefit, not an aid to religion, is misleading. A child attends a private or parochial school for a private reason, often a religious one. If-busing is constitutional as a benefit to the child, then it can be argued that the public should also pay for the heat in the school building, the building itself, and even the salaries of the teachers, as these latter items also benefit the child.

"But clearly, these latter items cannot be financed with public funds without violating the First Amendment. Thus we believe the use of public funds for busing parochial and private school students is likewise unconstitutional."

Tickets for Scout-O-Rama distributed at kick-off dinner

More than 15,000 tickets to the Union Council, Boy Scouts of America, Scout-O-Rama were distributed Tuesday night at a kick-off dinner held in the auditorium of Holy Spirit Church, Morris Ave., Union.

Approximately 200 adult scouting advisors attended the dinner which launched official preparations for the biennial Scout-O-Rama, to be held April 21, 22 and 23 in the Elizabeth Armory. Response thus far from scouting units in Union Council has been outstanding, according to Victor W. Clark, executive vice president of the Clark State Bank and Trust Company and Scout-O-Rama general chairman.

"This year's showcase of scouting," he said, "is shaping up to be the greatest ever."

One of the highlights of the evening was presentation of an award of appreciation to Willard Wood of Glen Ridge, a well-known artist and industrial designer, who designed the symbol being used to represent the event.

Attractive in gold and black, it portrays the four boy scout symbols being held together by a gold rope. The theme of the 1967 Scout-O-Rama is "Tying Youth to Manhood."

The group was also shown a slide presentation of an award of appreciation to Willard Wood of Glen Ridge, a well-known artist and industrial designer, who designed the symbol being used to represent the event.

Exhibit of fine arts by NSC professor featured at gallery

Water colors and drawings by Dr. Margaret Kirkpatrick, a professor in the Fine Arts Department at Newark State College, Union, are being shown in an exhibition at the Blondelle Gallery, New York City.

Dr. Kirkpatrick of East Orange has studied at the Bauhaus Institute of Design in Chicago, Illinois, the University of Michigan, and London University, and had the distinction in 1959 of being the first recipient of the doctor of education in the creative arts program of New York University. Her water colors, oils, and drawings—primarily abstracts—are represented in permanent collections at N.Y.U., the Delaware Art Center and private galleries.

She has been represented in juried exhibitions in the Baltimore Museum of Art, Chicago Art Institute, Delaware Art Center, Montclair Museum, Newark Museum, Hunterdon County Art Center, and other New Jersey exhibitions. She had also had her work exhibited at Artist's Mart, Washington, D.C.; Westhampton Beach, Long Island; New York University; Montclair State College; Argus Gallery, Madison; Metropolitan Hospital Gallery, Detroit, Michigan; Flemington Studio of the Arts, and Shrewsbury Guild of Creative Arts.

Dr. Kirkpatrick describes her work as a study of "growth processes and forces of nature," influenced by "linear striations that give the illusion of growth and movement." Poetry and mythology provide thematic references.

FOR THE BIRDS

By FARRIS S. SWACKHAMER, professor, Union Junior College

"In March the door of the seasons first stands ajar a little," is the way John Burroughs phrases it. The bright red cardinal phrases it somewhat differently when he whistles from the top of the oak across the street at children going to school. Maybe it's my imagination, but the goldfinch seems to phrase it in color when the first hint of bright yellow starts to peep from beneath his winter feathers of olive gray.

Soon the northward flow of migrants will engulf New Jersey and bird watchers will be out in force to add to their life list. Two new books have appeared recently which should be of considerable help in finding and identifying their avian friends. "Enjoying Birds Around New York City" by Robert S. Arbib, Jr., Olin Sewall Pettinelli, Jr. and Sally Hoyt Spofford for the Laboratory of Ornithology, Cornell University (Houghton Mifflin Co., Boston, 1966, $4.50) guides the birder to the best spots on Long Island, Staten Island, in southern Connecticut, the southern counties of New York State and the northern counties of New Jersey.

It has the usual first chapter telling how to recognize and watch birds and then a section on some familiar birds around New York City. There are similar paragraphs in most bird guides. But the most useful part of the book for me is a series of maps showing the best spots to find the seldom seen birds. Parking areas and paths are clearly marked. In our state the book describes Troy Meadows, Hatfield Swamp, Black Meadows, Hackensack River and Firstatching Mountain. Later chapters have what might be termed an almanac of birds, suggesting what to do and see each month and containing a graph indicating when the birds are with us and a check list.

The other book will give the birder's bible, Peterson's "A Field Guide to the Birds," considerable competition. It is "Birds of North America" by Chandler S. Robbins, Bertel Bruun and Herbert S. Zim, illustrated with beautiful color plates by Arthur Singer, (Golden Press, 1966, $2.95). Although it has the appearance of a paper back, the cover is cloth-like and the binding should stand up under hard usage for many years.

One advantage of this new guide is the inclusion of birds from all over the North American continent. Now if a western wanderer shows up at your feeder it will be pictured in color. About 645 species of breeding birds are included together with 30 regular visitors and 25 casual visitors. The criteria used is five sightings since 1900.

Water safety class set by Red Cross

A water safety instructors' course to prepare qualified young men and women for summer positions as swimming instructors, lifeguards, and counselors at camps, pools and lakeside and seashore resorts is being offered by Eastern Union County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Sessions are scheduled from 7 to 10 p.m. on Tuesdays at the Eastern Union County YMCA, 135 Madison Ave., Elizabeth, for 10 weeks. To be eligible, applicants must hold a current senior life saving certificate from the Red Cross.

In addition to different rescue techniques, the course will include practice in rescue work, small craft operation and skuba diving on visits to campsites and oceanfront locations.

Bernard J. Saks, director of safety services for Eastern Union County Chapter, may be contacted at the Red Cross headquarters in Elizabeth.

Film on 'Wetlands' scheduled Sunday

"Nature of the Wetlands," a color movie, will be presented and narrated by Roy Puckey of Cranford, president of the Westfield Bird Club, at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, Mountaintide, at 3 p.m. on Sunday.

The film, prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Puckey, depicts the beauty of birds, flowers and scenery in swamps, marshes, brooks, lakes and the seashore. The Puckeys visited various areas of the State of New Jersey filming the sequences shown in the movie, a spokesman said. Puckey, also a member of the New Jersey Audubon Society, is a retired engineer formerly employed by the Weston Electric Co.

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, March 22 at 4 each day, Dr. Harold N. Moldenke, director of Trailside, will present one-half hour nature talks for children. The topic selected for the four days is "Local Wildflowers." The lectures will be illustrated with color slides.

The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public each weekday, except Friday, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m., and on Saturday, Sundays and holidays from 1 to 5 p.m.

Honor society chapter at NSC believes in helping Kappa Delta Pi publishes Study Guides for freshmen Honor students at Newark State College, Union, believe that study techniques are among the good things in life that are meant to be shared.

Members of the Delta Rho Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national honor society for the teaching profession, are now engaged in that group's periodic revision of "Study Guides," a booklet they have prepared for distribution among incoming freshmen.

The booklet, originally published five years ago, is now in its third printing. This year the honor group combined its distribution with 15-minute talks on the importance of good study habits and a description of the chapter's tutoring service. Presentations are delivered by individual members during regularly scheduled freshmen classes in the fall.

"We feel that through our tutoring program we can help students get a good start in college, because most of us have had the same problems they have," said Marcia Berman Kendler, chapter president. "We've taken the same courses and had many of the same professors. In fact, when students are referred to us, usually by the counseling office, they are carefully matched with tutors who are taking the same or similar programs. Mrs. Kendler, formerly of Union, lives in Edison.

"Some students," she said, "wait until final exams are upon them to discover they need help, and then it is often too late—at least for that course." Judi Nusbaum of Elizabeth, vice president of the honor group and chairman of the tutoring program, concurs with the idea that freshmen should master their study problems early, expressing the willingness of Kappa Delta Pi members to do just that.

Members feel that freshmen often prefer to be tutored by their fellow students than by a professional tutor. Kappa Delta Pi members are elected in their junior year on the basis of academic averages, which must place them in the upper portion of the top fifth of their class.

As each of the 125 honor members on campus is assigned to a freshman, he works with that student once or twice a week for as long as he needs help.

"Another advantage our program offers," Mrs. Kendler added, "is that it's free." There are 125 student members and 50 faculty members on campus. Other officers are Fern Dansereau of North Arlington, historian; Nancy Rodino of Tawood, secretary and Linda Frey of Manasquan, treasurer. Dr. Regina Garb, professor of mathematics, is counselor.

In addition to its program of discussing good study habits with freshmen, the honor group holds monthly meetings, conducts a reception for Dean's List students and helps with Newark State College Theater Guild productions on campus.

Asked how they find time for such an ambitious service program in addition to maintaining high academic averages, Kappa Delta Pi members point to techniques described in their own booklet. "Study Guides" covers such topics as planning and organizing time, reading special subject material, marking books, taking notes, studying for examinations, and comments about textbooks. It includes a bibliography, blank pages for notes, a weekly time chart, and the following "10 tips for study!":

1. Study in a quiet place.
2. Gather all the equipment you need before you start to study.
3. Study in a comfortable—but not too comfortable—position.
4. Study in a ventilated, slightly cool, room.
5. Be sure the lighting is adequate.
6. Study when you are fresh.
7. Don't daydream.
8. Study periods should be long enough to permit learning, but short enough to avoid fatigue.
9. Make a schedule and stick to it.
10. Keep your study area organized.

Cite efforts to combat water pollution

Roe praises state unit's report to U.S.

Intensive efforts to combat water pollution in New Jersey are being undertaken by the Fisheries Pollution Unit of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development, Commissioner Robert A. Roe said this week.

He praised a recent progress report submitted by the Unit to the Water Pollution Control Administration of the U.S. Department of the Interior. The report covers 29 months of operation under a federal demonstration grant. Activities included: cooperation in setting quality criteria for all State waters; investigations of fishkills, pollutions and potential pollution sources; institution of prosecution and/or remedial action resulting from investigation of fisheries pollution; special studies involving industrial wastes, sewage treatment plants, pesticides and natural pollutants; and utilization of modern scientific equipment.

Water quality criteria for all surface waters in the State are being prepared by the Inter-departmental Committee on Surface Water Quality. Classifications of four major drainages have been adopted by the State Health Department following public hearings, and adoption of criteria for all surface waters is expected within the current fiscal year. Measures to upgrade the quality of classified streams have been initiated by the State Health Department and the Conservation Department's Division of Water Policy and Supply.

Nearly 350 reported pollutions were investigated by the Fisheries Pollution Unit in cooperation with Fish and Game Conservation Officers. The officers were furnished with kits to permit prompt taking of necessary water samples. Almost 400 routine inspections of potential pollution sources were conducted as a preventive measure.

Remedial action was recommended in all cases. Where a loss of fish could be proved, efforts were instituted to prosecute and recover damages. The Health Department and other interested agencies were kept informed of all pollutions.

Special studies included: effects of the effluents of five industrial plants on fish and their habitat, including surveillance of the companies' efforts to improve; cumulative effects of sewage plants and industrial effluents on three river systems; effects of four sewage disposal plants; effects of various pesticides and surveillance over the timing and dosage used by cooperating agencies so as to prevent detriment to fish life; and effects of natural pollutants, including aquatic weeds, algae and minerals on fish life. Most of these studies are continuing.

Laboratory work included performance of over 600 bioassays and more than 7,500 chemical analyses of water samples. Modern scientific equipment has been obtained in an effort to pinpoint specific causes of pollution. This equipment includes a stream current meter, carbon filter, infra-red spectrophotometer, gas chromatograph and co-distillation apparatus. Staff personnel have been specially trained in the use of this apparatus to facilitate their efforts to protect New Jersey's fishery resources.

BE CAREFUL

When revarnishing furniture, beware of dust, lint, and cold or humid air. These four culprits can sabotage your most well-meaning efforts. Choose a warm, dry, well ventilated work area. Sand furniture surface before each coat of varnish, removing all dust with clean, lint-free cloths.

CARE CHOICE

Teenagers benefit from life insurance as a cash reserve

"Well," says Jack, "I have three dollars left for entertainment after carfare, life insurance and all the other expenses are deducted." "Life insurance," says his friend Bill, "do you mean you are paying life insurance?"

According to the Institute of Life Insurance, says Mabel Stolte, Union County Home economist, more than half of all youngsters under 18 owned some form of individual life insurance. Many teenagers like Jack are being encouraged to pay at least part of the premiums themselves as a forced savings.

Life insurance premiums have been purchased for children for many years. However, a definite change in the thinking and use of life insurance has developed among families. Life insurance policies are now being purchased as a form of cash reserve as well as a permanent life insurance policy.

For teenagers, a permanent life insurance policy may serve as a cash reserve in two ways: It keeps the premium from rising as the teenager gets older. Then, too, in the event of some need or emergency, the teenager can borrow on his policy and pay back later. If the aim of the family is to protect the family's income, then, Dad's insurance may be increased instead of having a teenager insured. Extra life insurance for the breadwinner will provide additional protection for the whole family in an emergency. It can, also, provide a cash reserve to use for your youngster when he or she enters college.

A five-pound, eight-and-a-half-ounce daughter, Debra Ann Gudelis, was born March 2, 1967 at Memorial General Hospital, Union, to Dr. and Mrs. John R. Gudelis of Scotch Plains, formerly of Union. She joins a brother, John Michael, 2 1/2. Mrs. Gudelis is the former Marilyn F. Symco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Symco of 710 Knopf st., Linden. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gudelis of Astoria, Long Island.

Add design to furniture with stencil

Some painted or even natural finished furniture can have added charm by stenciling an appropriate design, says Carolyn F. Yuknus, Senior County Home economist.

The art of stenciling is not difficult but a few practices first are suggested for the beginner.

Pre-cut stencils are available in many art supply stores or you can make your own designs.

A one color stencil may be the easiest for the beginner. First draw or use carbon paper to get the design on stencil paper. Next use a razor blade or mat knife to cut out the parts of the stencil where the paint will be placed.

If the design requires more than one color, then cut a stencil for each color, making certain that additional stencils match perfectly with the first one.

Make sure the surface to be stenciled is clean, free from wax, grease, or old finish. For a high gloss natural finish, remove the gloss with fine still wool in the stencil area.

Hold the stencil in place with two or three strips of masking tape.

Use colors in oil to mix the desired shade of paint. Add turpentine and Japan drier until the paint is the consistency of thick cream.

In stenciling, a little paint goes a long way. Paint that is too thin or too heavy will spoil the design.

Use a cylindrical stencil brush and dip it into the paint. Wipe the loaded brush on paper toweling until it is almost dry.

Hold brush as though it were a pencil and dab over the design in a circular motion. Brush paint from the outer edge to the center when possible.

Do not allow paint to pile up at the edges of the design because this causes dribs and runs the outline.

When all parts of the design are painted, lift the stencil directly up from the surface. Do not slide it off.

After thoroughly dried, coat the design with an antique glaze or transparent natural finish.

Secretaries hold fashion-luncheon

The third annual "Showers of Flowers" fashion show and luncheon sponsored by the Union County Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) was held at the Manor in West Orange, Saturday.

Fashions for spring and evening wear were among those presented by Mahne and Company. Proceeds went to the Chapter's scholarship fund.

Since its inception in 1959, the fund has aided high school seniors in Union County who plan to further their secretarial training by attending a business school. This year's winners are Miss Ann Romano of Summit High School and Miss Anita Steiner of Union High School. Each will receive a scholarship in the amount of $250.

Triluminar Link to hold election

The agenda will include election of officers for the ensuing year. A social hour will follow. Mrs. Rhoda Ganster, worthy matron and Fred Katz, worthy patron, will preside.

MATCH PAINTS

Latex paints do not blend with oil based paints. Don't try to tint a latex paint with colors in oil. Use colors designed for latex paints instead. Your paint dealer will be happy to give you sound "mixing and matching" advice.

Wishes for St. Pat's Day range from classic to beat

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) -- It's a day for wishing friends "the top of the morning" with a "wee bit of blarney," according to one poet's definition of St. Patrick's Day. And indeed that's what the greetings for March 17 convey, says an expert here on St. Patrick's Day cards.

But this year the wishes aren't always the ones recorded in Irish folklore. There's just a hint that the were great wishers. O'Leary contends, because wishes were cheap and they couldn't afford much else in most periods of history.

"May the road rise with you, and the wind be always at your back" is another, and "May the face of every good news and the back of every bad news be towards you" is the longing in a third.

But perhaps the contemporary Irish lad or lass may prefer this wish: "Walls for the wind, and a roof for the rain, and tea beside the fire; laughter to cheer you and those you love near you, and all that your heart may desire."

O'Leary's personal preference, he says, is for two St. Patrick's Day wishes: The first: "May your heart be as light as the breezes of Erin, and your day just as bright as the smile you'll be wearing."

Homebuilding increase foreseen for last of '67

WASHINGTON, (UPI) -- Don't look for any sudden recovery in homebuilding this year. The Johnson administration's policy is designed to produce a very gradual increase in new construction during the first half.

The industry won't be gaining much momentum before the second half of the year, according to administration plans.

As President Johnson put it in his economic report, the government hopes to have housing "moving smartly forward by the end of 1967, and ready for one of its best years in 1968."

Johnson has proposed a tax increase, designed partly to get the Federal Reserve Board to ease its monetary policy even more than it has in recent months. The President said he was "fully confident" that if Congress agrees to raise taxes, the FED will agree to provide more money and to reduce interest rates.

Administration economists estimate that tight money cost the construction industry $8 billion in 1966--equivalent to a 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes--but all concentrated on one industry.

Now with interest rates on treasury bills and other money

-Thursday, March 16, 1967-
Bank Board and the Federal Nation Mortgage Association expect to be pumping additional funds into housing this year.

Even so, Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers estimates that residential construction outlays this year will fall $1 billion short of 1966. Which just shows how deep a pit housing has to climb out of.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

SPRING
No matter what the thermometer says, spring arrives each year on March 21. If winter hangs on, the "real" spring waits a short while. Robins, boys playing marbles, baseball and climbing trees, freshly-plowed earth, and green valleys and hillsides. Spring comes again, assurance that life is immortal and creation normal and abundant. Look well at the marvels and the wonders of spring. Wonder, perhaps, as you must about the mystery of budding flowers and greening leaves. There is a master plan. Winter is gone. Summer will soon be here again. With all the beauty of spring surrounding you, think but for a moment, and you will perhaps believe that God has reached out to touch the hand of Mother Nature.

Meeting set on state aid

In order that county and municipal government officials may be aware of the various federal and state assistance programs, the Rutgers Bureau of Government Research, Urban Studies Center, and University Extension Division are conducting a Conference on Assistance to Local Government in New Brunswick, Thursday, March 30.

The all-day informational meeting will be held in the Lewis M. Herrmann Education Center on Ryders Lane, beginning at 9 a.m. and concluding by late afternoon.

Commissioner Paul Yvissaker of the New Jersey State Department of Community Affairs will open the conference with a discussion on the new trends in assistance to local government.

He will be followed by two municipal administrators who will suggest ways in which large and small local governments can make the best use of state and federal aid. Speaking from the large city's viewpoint will be John N. Matzer, Trenton business administrator, and from the small community Dana Miller, Mount Holly Township manager.

POISONINGS IN MY HOME? IMPOSSIBLE?

A Million A Year Most of Them Children

Before you say it's impossible for a child to be poisoned in your home, think about how many times you have known children to accomplish the "impossible." Don't underestimate their ability to crawl, climb, or reach almost anywhere.

Don't just say you're sure. Be sure. Allow for the "impossible" when handling and storing aspirins and other medicines, as well as all commonly-used household products.

announces the car that wasn't there.

Until now, there was no U.S.-built compact list priced between $1800 and $2000. Now there is.

Rambler American $1839*

What we've done is fill the gap between the small-size imports and the large-priced U.S. compacts. Filled it with an American-built compact car at the right price. And with not a single compromise in value. Rambler American is a full six-passenger car. It still has the strongest standard Six of any compact (128 hp.). It's available with a full line of options (including a 280 hp. V-8). And it's the only company that offers you a full line of body styles. It's only when you see the way it parks and the way it's priced that you might confuse it with an import!

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for Rambler American 270 2-Door. Federal tax included. Destination charges, local taxes, transfer fees and optional equipment included.
