Members will make the trip upon completion of the business meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Mako, 407. Tuttle parkway, Westfield, at 7:30.

At a meeting last week at the home of Mrs. Harold Tulchin, chairman, the group studying in the area of 'Politics in Public Education' decided the main topic of study this year will be the regional high school system, as Mountainside youngsters are involved in this type of educational set-up. Last year the possibility arose that up: Last year the possibility arose that the eight grade graduates: might be sent to a regional high school other than Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights, which is the present policy. success, fully worthy of any New York concert platform. Artistic Director Paul Kueter has now firmly established the highest artistic standards for the "Pathways" programs.

James Scott (flute) and harpsichordist James Reginald Wilson opened with an E minor flute sonata by Jean-Marie Leclair. They played this rather uninspired baroque music with great competence, although the large tone of the modern style flute did sometimes swamp the harpsichord. And why did they omit a cello continuo, in view of the presence of Westfield's brilliant cellist Alan Scott in the Pathways Quartet?

However, he and violinist Margaret Graves Gilbert did join the duo to perform Bach's lofty C minor Trio Sonata from "The Musical Offering" in a thoroughly musical and carefully wrought conception.

IN ADDITION to Scott and Miss Gilbert, the Pathways Quartet included violinist Irving Nussbaum of Cranford and viola player Stanley Hoffman of New York, Mountainside composer Walter Legawiec must have felt joy to hear such fine musicians perform his "Andante for String Quartet." This brief and unfamiliar modern work captivated the audience with its tart but evocative sounds, reminiscent of the later Bartok quartets.

Timothy Nolen is a fine singer well known to New Jersey opera audiences. He and the quartet performed Samuel Barber's "Dover Nolen sang beautifully and successfully involved the minds and emotions of his audience in this lyrical setting of Matthew Arnold's words.

Dvorak's E flat quartet Op. 51, which concluded the program, was beyond criticism. The performance radiated such a deeply felt insight into this bright and tuneful work that it was wholly delightful.

"Pathways in Music" is to be congratulated on a balanced and excellently performed concert. And at the ridiculously low admission price it was a bargain, too. If you missed this one, the next "Pathways" concert is March 3, 1968, Go!

Nation-wide drive to recover POWs

More than 700 hundred signatures have been collected to date, on petitions circulated throughout the nation by Mr. and Mrs. James T. Egan of Fair View dr., Mountainside, urging the government to make a concerted effort for the repatriation of American servicemen supposedly imprisoned in North Vietnam.

Mrs. Egan stated that a thousand copies of an article which appeared on the front page of the Nov. 9 issue of the Echo were attached to the petitions sent "as far away as Hawaii," and the response has been overwhelming.

Mrs. Egan, whose son, Lt. James T. Egan was listed as missing on lan-1-1966. presumed wounded and taken prisoner, still has had no word from him, or the government. She hopes the petitions will end what she believes to be apathy on their part in allaying the heartache and concern of all parents whose sons are missing in action. Mrs. Egan also stated that an appoint-ment had been made with Senators Harrison A. Williams and Clifford C. Case for late December in Washington, at which time photostatic copies of the petition will be presented.

Mountainside freshmen to spend year at Dayton

By ABNER GOLD
The Regional High School Board of Education will hold a public meeting on Thursday, Dec. 14, at 8 p.m. at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, to "announce our distribution of students and our long-range expansion plan," Avery Ward of Kenilworth, board president, disclosed at the regular board meeting

Tuesday-night at Dayton.

"Basically," he added, "Mountainside freshman students in September, 1968, and September, 1969, will attend Jonathan Dayton. They will spend their sophomore and later years at Gov. Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights, where all Mountainside students now attend. In other words, they will be at Dayton for one year and at Gov. Livingston for their last three years."

Ward declined to give any details of just how the physical plant of the regional schools will be enlarged, He commented, "The whole pro-gram is still under study by the architect and administration. It will be announced on Dec.

Asked whether the plan included an addition to the facilities at Gov. Livingston, he replied, "You can draw that inference if you like. can't say any more." Ward did note that board members were unanimous in their support for the new expansion plan.

Maas said that when Mrs. Ella Ahern, who came-to Mountainside to teach piano to school children 21 years ago, retired last year, and the Board of Education was unable to replace her, the association's determination to work for a music education program for the children so impressed him he "just had to join them."

In glowing terms, Maas spoke of the accomplishments of his organization, which is open to adults as well as children and includes all cultural activities. Painting and modern dance classes are sponsored, and classes in sculptor are planned. Well known singers and singing groups are brought in and musical comedy shows presented. Mass stated that the

IT PAYS TO BE A GOOD YOUNG DRIVER

"My son is nearing the age when he will be able to receive a driver's license. But from what I hear of the high accident rate among teenage drivers, I am somewhat reluctant to let him use my car. How can I instill in him the need to be a safe driver, not an acci-dent statistic?"

This is a frequent question from parents of teenage youngsters. It is true that the under-25 driver has a poor safety record. In 1966, this group, representing about 19 per cent of all licensed drivers, was involved in almost 32 per cent of the total fatal accidents. The high fatality rate among these young people, just entering the prime of life, is a particularly unfortunate record.

Insurance companies have come to distinguish the good from the poor youthful driver in two ways. The good young driver is usually the graduate of an approved driver education course and his school grades show him to be a superior student.

In some states, many leading insurance companies are rewarding these good drivers by offering premium discounts. Thus, for those taking and successfully completing a driver education course from an accredited school, a discount from the standard premium rate is given.

The "good student" discount is the newer of the two types of discount. To qualify, a student must, in general, be a full-time high school or college student, ranking in the top 20 per cent of his class with a "B" or better grade aver-

A number of authorities believe that trained, responsible drivers are the key to lowering traffic fatalities and accidents. In recognition of the good young driver, insurance underwriters hope these discounts will provide a spur to safetyconscious driving by motorists under 25.

Overlook planning new unit for diseases of lung and heart

The young mother who learns that her new baby is a "blue baby" can take heart today, thanks to delicate new techniques of the cardio-pulmonary laboratory, like the new unit Over-look Hospital is establishing.

With intricate instruments made possible by modern technology, the baby's blood oxygen content can be monitored, the seriousness of its condition evaluated, congenital defects determined, and, if necessary, corrected by heart surgery at a carefully determined stage in the child's development. Or the college boy, ailing from a difficultto-diagnose form of viral pneumonia, is saved from possible later and severe complications of lung disease through the precise determinations of cardio-pulmonary diagnosis.

The older patient, suffering emphysema, gasping for breath, or the asthmatic - both can be carried through critical peiods with the aid of modern respiratory techniques.

FROM THE NEWBORN to the elderly, patients of all ages and many conditions of heartlung related diseases will benefit from the new cardio-pulmonary laboratory at Over-look Hospital -- one of the major goals of the Overlook Hospital 1967 campaign, which was launched this week with a community-wide mailing to residents in towns served by the

The new laboratory, with its highly specialized diagnostic equipment, is under the direction of Dr. Albert G. Vitale, a noted New York specialist and Summit resident.

You must breathe to live. The lungs are like a bellows, while the heart is like a pump -- both must work together to circulate life-essential oxygen throughout the body.

Gov. Livingston. The group, some 150 young-sters, would have remained at Dayton for the full four years, if that part of the plan had been put into effect.

Two other changes proposed at that time are now in effect. This year's freshmen from Garwood are at Brearley, rather than at Johnson. Older students from Garwood have a choice of whether to attend Brearley or remain at Johnson. Garwood parents have been assured by the board that all Garwood students will enroll at Brearley for the foreseeable future.

Freshmen from the Baltusrol Top section of Springfield now attend Dayton, although they would have studied at Gov. Livingston in past years. Older boys and girls from this area were given a choice of schools, whether to re-main at Gov. Livingston or transfer to Dayton.

When the plans were announced last spring regional officials expr. ssed some concern over the need for approval of any expansion plans by the state Department of Education. Even though two schools are overcrowded, they said, Trem ton officials might hesitate to endorse any capital expansion plan while space remains in the other two high schools. No information was available at Tuesday's meeting on how, or whether, this problem had been resolved.

What makes a good manager? We had quite an interesting chat the other afternoon with a friend of ours who stopped by our shop and as pointed out in our discussion, managing today is more than just a technique or something derived from a book, It's an art of many facets, and it holds for a key manager many special rewards. The world is so short on good managers that it's a real privilege seeing a top man in action. "South Pacific," starring Gale Storm, will end its musical run at the Meadowbrook Dinner Theater, Cedar Grove, Sunday night,

'Eden' challenged director of 'Bible'

The story of Adam and Eve provided a special challenge for a realistic medium like film. The idyllic atmosphere of Eden for "The Bible," Dino De Laurentiis' film spectacle at the Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair, was acheived by pre-exposing the film in a room painted yellow-gold-brown. The preexposed negative upset the normal sensitivity of the film and produced a green-gold haze which softens the beauty of the garden.

Director John Huston says: 'I had to design a garden that everyone knows about but no one can describe. Yet I had a fashion it in such a manner that it would be acceptable to all."

$1,250,000 library building recommended to UC board

A special faculty committee has recommended to the board of trustees of Union College the construction of a $1,250,000 library building containing 40,000 square feet, it was announced this week.

The report was submitted by Prof. George P. Marks. III, of Roselle Park, college librarian and committee chairman. The faculty committee's recommendations were referred to the board of trustee's building and education committees for review.

Dr. Kenneth C. MacKay, president, told the trustees a library is the college's "most urgent need." He said a library might be combined with the need for additional faculty and administrative facilities. Dr. MacKay pointed out that several classrooms are now being used for administrative purposes, because of a lack of office space.

With the start of the academic year, Union College opened a new $1 million Science Building, and last spring opened the William Miller

Sperry Observatory.
Dr. MacKay said the Arthur L. Johnson Memorial Library in the Nomahegan Building is already too small for the present enrollment of

He said the faculty library committee recommends that space also be provided for periodicals and microfilm, audio-visual aides, a language laboratory, speech room circulation desk, card catalog and bibliography area, large reference room technical services, receiving area, 40 faculty offices, faculty reading room, reserve reading room, lounge area, library staff room and librarian's office.

THE ROAD TO NAIROBL There is a saying in West Africa or a jocular expression if you prefer that says

WAWA, in other words, stands for "West

Resort business 2nd only to '66

The 1967 travel and resort business in New Jersey registered the second hest year in history, in spite of the inclement weather which prevailed during most of the summer resort season, according to Robert A. Roe, commissioner of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development. The estimated generated dollar volume of business was $2,305,014,000 for 1967 as compared to $2,424,184,000 during 1966, an estimated loss of $119,170,000, or 4.9% for the season. Nearly all resorts reported bad weather as the numher one factor affecting business, but even so, a few areas registered a net gain or estimated business about to stay in Zambia one hour. three or four days later, when our Rhodesian plane landed in Zambia to get a Zambian name-strip on its side in order to fly into Kenya, we had to get out to go through customs. But what for? We were not staying in Zambia, we were in transit! Nevertheless we still had to go through customs and it took three hours to do that even though this time we already had visas in our hot little fists.

Well, CAWA. Maybe even some EAWA. However, we did finally arrive at Nairobi, and despite the airflight mish-mosh and the fact of the history of Mau Mau, Kenya is beautiful.

THE BIG HIGHLIGHT of any trip to Africa, of course, is the viewing of the wonderful animals, and Kenya is big on game parks. For the average tourist it is East Africa where the animals are seen. There are considerably fewer parks and fewer species on the west coast and animals are seldom seen wandering about. On the east side, on the other hand, and particularly in Kenya and then Tanzania and Uganda, there are many game parks, and even before arriving at one of them, many animals can be seen grazing in the areas off the roads.

Just a scant five miles from the city center of Nairobi there is even a game park. It is for camera shooting, not gun shooting, and giraffe wander about there, baboons, zebras, wildebeests, gazelles, ostrich--and lions, to mention only some. There is an outdoor movie not far away and it is said in Nairobi that the fence around it is not there to keep the unpaid customers out but the lions!

Yes, Kenya is exciting. It is beautiful. It is romantic. Just look at the names: Nairobi, Mombasa, Mr. Kenya Safari Club, Lake Victoria, White Hunter Safaris Ltd., Kilimanjaro, Serengeti, Ngorongoro Crater, Pure Gregory Peck, Susan Hayward, Clark Gable stuff. And you can do-it-yourself too.

You can walk down one of Nairobi's main streets and go into any one of many agencies. say Bruce Travel Limited, and rent a Land Rover and guns and the whole outfit to go on a shooting safari. Or, you can hire a Chevy or a Ford or a Volkswagen type van with an open top and go on a picture shooting safari. You can choose any of nine national areas. four locally operated game reserves or several privately owned clubs, and pick your style.

You can rough it in a tent camp at Amboseli and see the snows of Kilimanjaro with your own eyes, sleep in a tent or a hut there with mosquito netting around the bed and kerosene lamps for light, for there is no electricity, eat a meal that a cook prepared over an open fire because there is no gas either, and wake up in the middle of the night and see hyenas and monkeys scamper past the fire--all in the camp where the movie, "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" was made.

Or, you can go to the fashionable, modern, Mt. Kenya Safari Club which is part-owned by a movie star, or to "Tree Tops" where you can sleep in a house in the trees and

In our travels we went to Amboseli three years ago and Teevo this time. Of the two, Amboseli was far superior. Amboseli offered a seemingly limitless view of all kinds of animals and good amounts of lion and cheetah, but at Tsavo we saw only elephant and some rhino and those at a great distance. Isave however, is currently at the end of three years of draught and much of the food supply is gone.

YOU CAN ALSO BE 'CITIFIED' in Kenya, and dance to a dangerous orchestra in the notso-new-anymore New Stanley Hotel in Nairobi wearing your best bib and tucker for the company, at least, is shiny and sophisticated: or sit at the hotel's sidewalk cafe under the thorn tree and watch the world go by.

It is amusing to watch the safaries take off all bright-eyed and bushy tailed with spanking new clothes, and then notice those in, all seasoned and seedy with dusty wrinkled clothes. Or--you can simply watch the moon. But beware, It is true what they say about the African moon, particularly in tent camp around Kilimanjaro wilderness. It is powerfully romantic.

'OUTSIDE" THE SAFARI VAN AT Tsavo National Park, Kenya, Study Mission Group members excitedly respond at the first cry of "elephant!" But he was so far away, we could

Which is just what our National Newspaper Association Study Mission Group did. Three years ago we took Chevrolets and Fords and went to Amboseli and this year we took vans with open tops and wound our way to Tsavo for two days. On a third, we took the same vans and looked at the beautiful animals in the Nairobi National Park which is the one five miles from the center of town.

Jersey's highway needs to be outlined at seminar

State Transportation Commissioner David 1. Goldberg will outline the state's highway needs over the next several years at a highway seminar sponsored by the New Jersey Highway Users Conference Dec. 1 at the War Memorial Building. The event is co-sponsored by the New Jersey Press Association which has invited newspaper editors and writers from all parts of the state to attend the seminar.

Leonard H. Ruppert, secretary of the highway users conference, said the press briefing will be the most ambitious attempted by a state highway or transportation official in many years.

"Commissioner Goldberg has graciously consented to give us a detailed look at the state's highway needs," Ruppert said. "He and his staff are preparing documentation and cost figures for the briefing and he will tell us exactly what it will cost to give New Jersey the highway system it must have. Ruppert pointed out figures released this week by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads peg New Jersey in 47th place among 49 states in completing its share of the Federal Inter-"And when you realize that most of the state's effort in road building in the past

you can gauge the extent of the deficiency in our non-interstate highway network," he said. our non-interstate highway network, A preliminary report prepared for the Transportation Department earlier this year Wilbur Smith and Associates called 695 of the states 1,957 miles of stare roads "critically deficient" and estimated it would cost $811 million to put the present system

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a problem. I find that some of the people I thought were my friends really are two-faced. They talk behind my back. I wouldn't care if the things they are saying were not as bad as they are. I don't see why they should even talk and I can't tell them not to talk because I don't know what to say. Please help me find a way to tell them to shut up those awful things they are saying because they aren't true and it is ruining my reputation."

OUR REPLY: People who say bad things about you, even if there is a glimmer of truth in what they say, are not your friends. Those who lie about you are much worse. Where friends are concerned, there is no positive way to handle the situation except to discuss it with them. It is possible, you know, that the people who tell you they are saying things about you are not quoting them correctly, or perhaps even misrepresenting their remarks in some way. People who are inclined to gossip are not overly concerned with truth and usually put a little extra polish on any story they hear. You won't lose any friends by asking someone you consider a friend if it is true they made certain comments about you, If someone pretands to be your friend and is not, let them know you realize they are not a friend and find yourself a better friend. If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letters to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SER-VICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

'Becket' in 4-day run

at St. Benedict's Prep The title role plus two other major parts will be played by young people from Union County when the St. Benedict's Preparatory School Drama Guild presents a four per-formance run of Jean Anouilth's "Becket," starting this Wednesday, in the Newark school's Conlin Auditorium.

Performances will be at 8:30 p.m. this
Wednesday, Friday and Saturday with a 2:30 matinee on Sunday. There will be no performance on Thanksgiving.

PS lights up for Yule An electrically illuminated Christmas display covering the facade of Public Service Electric and Gas Company's Terminal Build-ing on Park Place, Newark, will be turned on Monday to herald the start of the holiday season. The decorations will be lighted nightly until Jan. 1.

REINFORCED CHAINS For dependable starting in deep snow and safe stopping on slick ice, reinforced tire chains are your best bet. Drivers realize they should have chains for severe snow and ice conditions, yet mant try to get by without them and then get stalled or have skidding accidents. It's all very hard to explain-especially to one's self.

analyze the latter. From the work, a total picture of the amino acid pattern in seed plants is emerging. Since seeds from the same plant family were generally found to have similar amino acid composition, the amino acid composition of an unanalyzed species can be reasonably predicted from the known amino acid composition of a related species. Comparison of the amino acid composition of each species with the standard for optimum growth and well-being offers a means of evaluating the potential species. Lysine and methionine are the two amino acids in which plant seeds are most deficient, Van Etten reports. More than half the 379 species contained adequate lysine but only 10 to 15 per cent contained adequate methionine, he says. Cereals were found low in lysine and average or high in methionine, while legumes (pod-bearing plants such as peas and beans) were high in lysine but low in methionine Thus, a combination of legumes and cerals provides a better balanced protein diet. For the first time, snow-fighting equipment will utilize a limited number of tungsten-carbide snowplow blades. The Department will be experimenting with six of these in each of its four maintenance dis-Tungsten-carbide blades are reported to last about 30 times as long as steel ones.

The Department has had to postpone another planned experiment, use of colored rock salt in selected areas, when the lone supplier of the vegetable-dyed chemical was unable to deliver because of a strike. The colored salt had been sought to identify test areas for an all chemical mixture to combat snow

THE DEPARTMENT HAS performed limited testing in the past two years of an all-chemical mixture which has proved 15 to 20 percent more effective in melting ice and snow than conventional mixtures. Normally, the Department uses varying mixtures of rock salt and calcium chloride with such abrasive materials as sand, cinders, stone grits and crushed slag.

To minimize drifting, more than 180 miles of snow fence has been erected in most vulnerable highway areas. New plantings by the Department's Landscape section also help block snow from sweeping onto highways.

The Department keeps a very close watch on weather conditions from its "Snow Room" at his headquarters here where a private weather service and the U.S. Weather Bureau furnish advisories.

When weather threatens, an alert is sped swiftly around the state through the Department's communications network consisting of 435 two-way mobile radios, 11 base radio stations and a teletype system. Each main-
