PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH MICE --- Their little feet may pitter-patter but their sweet tones come out loud and clear as they lift their voices to sing of Yuletide to shut-ins and patients

PTA safety committee requests study, Council raises remedies by mayor, Borough Council

The Mountainside PTA safety committee has called upon Mayor Frederick J. Wilhelms Jr. and the Borough Council to study and act on safety problems affecting school children. In a letter dated Dec. 11, and signed by George G. Crane, chairman, and the other 11 members of the committee, an appraisal of existing conditions and certain critical areas was cited. Immediate and long-term remedies, including limited sidewalks, more control of vehicles and pedestrians, placement of special signs and pursuit of the curb-ing program to allow for the expansion of county roads, were suggested.

The letter, in its entirety, reads as follows: "In response to generous interest accorded the Nov. 16 PTA meeting on safety, and as a service to our community in general, we as concerned citizens have made further surveys, and would be most grateful for your assistance.
"While reportable fatalities or accidents

here in Mountainside are relatively few, the borough is confronted with possible serious disaster each day of the school year. The situation is best described as only "hazardous" during the summer months, merely because concentration of children in restricted areas is diluted during this period. 'Like any other small community, we have experienced growth in numbers of children, and in numbers of vehicles - of every variety! That we anticipate further such evolution is acknowledged by our present school expansion program and long-range planning. Yet, municipal roads ranging from 25 to 30 feet wide have been and currently are expected to contain this ever increasing burden, the focal points of congestion being our four grade schools. With frequent intense concentration of children and vehicles (including bicycles) in these areas, there is constant danger and probability of injury to whatever moves. Children are not easily repaired, if at all.

"Of 606 children enrolled at Deerfield School, only 197 are bused, leaving 409 to travel on foot, by bicycle or by auto. In addition, only 85 of 249 students attending Our Lady of Lourdes School are bused, the balance includ-ing 87 walkers and 44 bike riders. By actual count on four successive school days, an average of 83 cars, plus school buses enters or passes through that section of Central avenue between Wyoming drive and School drive, just prior to and immediately following regular school hours. As shown on the en closed map, the width of this pavement is 27' 8" at School drive, 27' 6" at Wyoming drive - and only 27 feet at Wood Valley road. That stretch of roadway, then, must digest a mini-mum of 623 articles of humanity and machinery within a 20 to 30-minute span, twice daily, five days per week. It is realized that the present degree of difficulty at Deerfield is only temporary, but these odds are so overwhelmingly in favor of accidents that completion of school construction will not eliminate them.

"SIMILAR PROPORTIONS exist at Beechwood School, although the general terrain and smaller enrollment offer some relief. Here we have 293 bused out of 456, with traffic containing an average of 52 autos, plus buses in corresponding time periods, it is signifi-cant, too, that at Meeting House lane and Partridge run, an important school traffic intersection, the road is only 24'8" across. Furthermore, there are no 'enforceable' speed signs on Meeting House lane, Woodacresdrive or Whipporwill way, all major arteries to Beechwood. The map provides greater detail in these respects. 'The footbridge across Route 22 is aneces-

sary asset to Echobrook School, the vehicle situation having been recognized as inferior salaries for 2 of borough staff

BY PAT DONALDSON An ordinance to provide an increase in salary for two Borough Hall office employees was adopted at its final reading at a meeting Tuesday night of the Mountainside mayor and borough Council at Echobrook School.

Also approved was an ordinance to create the position of business administrator of the borough. The ordinance had first been proposed to incorporate the many positions Elmer Hoffert, borough clerk, now holds. Hoffertwas named to the position, but Mayor Frederick Wilhelms Jr., stressed the fact it was a title only and it would be non-salaried,

The mayor and council voted to appoint William A. Adler of 16 Washington st., Clark; Allen J. Kennedy of 270 Bridle path, Mountainside as volunteer firemen. They also authorized payment of uniform allowance to authorized members of the fire department; authorized extension of existing agreement covering reimbursement for highway lighting between the N.J. Department of Transportation and the borough; authorized the borough clerk to request Public Service Electric and Gas Co. to install a street light.

The council approved preliminary and final sub-division plats of Lot I, Block 2, submitted by George D. Chaddon, with the provisos for the provisor for use of the remaining 25-foot width of Lot I after sub-division for widening and improving Sylvan lane, within a 50-foot right-of-way, removal of the present house and frame shed within six months from Nov. 13 and construction of a temporary cul-de-sac at end of the paved protion of Sylvan lane with proper reflectorized sign posts and dead end signs at entrance of Sylvan lane and elimination of the barrier as shown on the sub-division plans.

Other conditions included a payment of sanitary sewer fees in the amount of $160, the filing by applicant of signed contracts for complete installatin of gas, water at hydrant locations approved by the borough and the posting with the borough clerk of a performance bond and a cash deposit in the total amount to (Continued on page 3)

Assembly_to_name Irwin to two posts

Charles Irwin, a Mountainside Republican who was elected a Union County Assemblyman-at-large in the November election, was recently appointed to two posts by the Republican leadership in the Assembly. The action came when, in an effort to carry out campaign platform pledges, the House Appropriations Committee was revised.

Irwin was named to the new sub-committee on capital construction and state aid and will also serve on the Appropriations Committee. He will begin his term in January.

Expansion plans high schools

BY ABNER GOLD
Plans for a large-scale building expansion program of the Regional High School Board of Education were announced by Avery Ward, board president, at a special public meeting last Thursday evening at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield,

Ward placed a "rough estimate" price tag of $3,500,000 to $4,000,000 on the additions, which will be constructed at all four high schools within the regional district -- if the proposal is approved by the voters in the district -- if the proposal is approved by the voters in the district's six communities on March 15. The work is scheduled for completion by the opening of school in September at the end of the session came from Springfield residents seeking details on the con-struction planned for Dayton Regional, and from Mountainside parents critical of the board's previously announced plan to send the next two groups of Mountainside freshmen for a year each to Dayton rather than to Gov. Livingston Regional, Berkeley Heights.

Ward commented that the construction would permit the district to move toward a "community school" concept, with specific schools designated to meet the needs of specific communities, although special vocational and other courses would continue at individual schools to serve the entire district.

He said that the work at Dayton would cost approximately $650,000. Ward noted that the school's present "functional capacity" is 1.270 students, and that it would be renovated for an expected 1974 enrollment of 1,000 plus administration facilities and "educational reconstruction and redevelopment." The latter phrase applies to modernization of some facilities. Dayton, oldest school in the district, was opened in 1937. An addition was built in 1953. The school would serve primarily in 1953. The solution Springfield students.

NEW FACILITIES at Gov. Livingston will cost some $1,660,000, Ward added. They will raise the school's capacity from the present 1,420 to handle an anticipated 2,200 young-sters by the fall of 1974, an increase in capacity of 780 students, Gov. Livingston would be for students from Mountainside and Berkeley Heights.

The addition at A.L. Johnson Regional at Clark would cost approximately $1,335,000. It would raise the capacity from the present 1,346 to 1,800 students. This school would be designated primarily for students from

The capacity of David Brearley Regional in Kenilworth would be increased from 990 to 1,050, for students from Kenilworth and Garwood. The cost was estimated at $60,000, and Ward noted that this project would have a "lower priority" than the work at the other three high schools. Ward declared: --'The building construction plans will provide the following additional facilities and reconstruction and redevelopment of existing facililic schools. The complete text of the article follows:

Parents should be the recipients of a warm welcome at the school and in the classés. This is necessary to develop and maintain a spirit of mutual support and cooperation, Parents need to feel that they are respected, valued, and needed. The atmosphere of the school should reflect these attitudes.

The parents should feel that the principal is the leader of the school, and the person to whom they should direct their inquiries, concerns, and requests. This does not mean that parents should bypass the teachers of their children. To them should go their first questions about their children and their progress in school. If they are not satisfied with the answers they receive, they should contact the principal. It is his job to administer the school in such a way that the strongest educational program possible can be offered to the children. More than that, he should listen to the comments of parents, check with criticisms, help to strengthen parent-teacher communication, and be well informed about everything that goes on in the classrooms under his jurisdiction.

From teachers, parents should expect a reasonable knowledge of each child and an expert diagnosis of his potential and problems. They should see ample evidence of a professional approach to teaching and an attitude that features fairness, justice, regard for the individuality, and dignity of each child, and modern methodology, that includes echnological devices, in classroom activities that involve children in doing as well as listening. Homework assignments should be appropriate and meaningful, and they should provide practice in skills and concepts already presented and clarified. For the more capable children independent work that utilizes television, radio, field trips, explorations, projects, and written materials of all kinds can be classified as homework.

For those children who need individual or small group instruction before or after school, the teachers should be prepared to provide it. In addition, parent-teacher conferences that keep parents informed of the children's progress and problems should be expected. This ls, however, a two way street because parents should not expect teachers to beg them for conference appointments. The initiative for these may, at time, come from parents who desire more information.

Our teachers try to do all of these things. because they are convinced that their profession demands such performance. If they do not, ask for reasons. If they do, let them now of your satisfaction with their work.

Born in Newark, he moved with his family, at an early age, to Mt. Tabor, a community he credits with the shaping of his life. "Neighbors and friends socialized, helped each other out in time of trouble, went to school together, played together and all our lives re-volved around the church," he reminisces.

'All we kids were of the same mind when it came to deciding what we wanted to do with our lives. We all were dedicated to the idea of somehow serving our fellow man -- my brother and some of my friends became ministers -- the challenge and the potential of helping children led me to this field.

After graduation from Boonton High School. young George entered Montclair State College intent upon studying public speaking, which he feit would stand him in good stead in whatever fleid he chose. Required to take a course in speech disorders which included investigation of the work being done in hospitals, he swiftly discovered he had found his life's work. Changing his major to speech correctionist, he was graduated with a BA in speech pathology.

SEEKING MORE KNOWLEDGE in his field, Pierson attended night school at Montclair State for five years to attain his MA in speech pathology. In the summer of 1963, while on a vacation trip with his wife, he stopped off in Denver to take a summer course in communications disorders at the University of Denver. He holds a permanent New Jersey certificate in speech correction and a certificate of clinical competence in speech pathology of the American Speech and Hearing Association, an organization comparable to the Amer-tran Medical Association, which entitles him to engage in private practice. To earn this certificate Pierson had to work 300 hours in hospitals under medical tutelage. Never satisfied with "just the requirements," he has

Irwin also said a request had been made by Our Lady of Lourdes Church to amend their bingo license. Prizes of $1,000 had previously been approved, but because attendance was often limited because of weather and other conditions, the church asked that the schedule of prizes be henceforth known as, A-$1,000, B-$800 and C-$495. The amendment was approved. Also a contract was awarded to the Sinclair Refining Co. of Montclair on its bid to supply gasoline for municipal services. Mayor Wilhelms announced that organization of the Borough Council will be held on Jan. 2, at 7 p.m. the Echobrook School, and a motion to hold 1968 Borough Council meetings in the Beechwood School will be approved. He also noted that Lou Parent, councilman-elect, had been present at all meetings since his election and was "rapidly learning the ropes and learning to stay up late."

George G. Crane, a member of the PTA committee, who was in the audience, stated the reason for writing an open letter to the mayor and council was that there was so much general concern on the part of the public because of accidents, and that appeals had been made to the PTA'.

Crane also said he wished to make a correction in the letter, which had said "a sign read 35-miles-per hour," because the sign now reads "25-miles-per-hour."

The mayor told Crane that arrangements had been made for the police and the public works committee to meet with the PTA to discuss the matter after the first of the year.

piled up 340 hours of intern instruction in speech and hearing.

Pierson came to Mountainside in 1961 when he was chosen out of eight candidates by Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, superintendent of schools, who came to the college seeking applicants capable of setting up a first full-time speech correction program in the community. Pierson says his interest was due to Dr. Hanigan's dynamic personality, "his zest in seeking forward-looking programs for the public schools and instituting the best in educational values in any field which would benefit the students. My first evaluation of this man has been personified in the years of my association with him. In my opinion Dr. Hanigan knows more about education than any man

l have ever known.' Averaging approximately 100 children per school year, Pierson works with mirrors where his pupils watch themselves while speaking, and with a language master machine, a type of record player in which cards with pictures are inserted, making it possible for the children to hear and see and make comparisons when it is played back. He also uses an amplification Audiometer machine, which evaluates hearing, and a video-tape recording machine which embodies speech, sight and

HIS PROGRAM includes an every-afternoon parent counseling session which helps parents of children with these disorders to deal with emotional or any other problems the child might have. He is a member of a study team made up of two remedial instructors, a psychologist, a social worker and a consulting psychiatrist.

He aids regular teachers to organize and conduct lessons in poetry, reading, public speaking and school play productions. He also meets with members of the Board of Educaand the PTA to discuss the needs of his students and has the responsibility of appearing on an occasional radio program to acquaint the public with the aims and accomplishments of speech therapy programs in public schools.

Despite this continuous activity, Pierson, with his wife acting as his secretary, conducts a private practice in his home.

Pierson, who played the drums in high school and with his brother and childhood friends formed a dance band, says he loves music and carpentry "next to teaching children." He built a sleeping and eating addition on a pick-up truck which the family uses for camping-out trips. He is currently engaged in making Christmas toys for his two-and-a-half year-old daughter, Anne.

THE RELIGIOUS TRAINING of his youth has never left him, and he is very active in the First Methodist Church of Plainfield where he sings in the choir and teaches ninth graders in a Sunday school class.

Asked if he could name the most gratifying result-of-his-work in speech therapy he says, When I see the whole pattern of a life changed because a child has been fitted with a hearing aid, when former patients of mine win speech contests at Deerfield School and two others have the leading roles in high school plays, I know no man could ask for more, and it makes everything I try to do, worthwhile."

He is a member of the American Speech and Hearing Association and the New Jersey Speech and Hearing Association, vice-president of the Union County Speech and Hearing Association, New Jersey Education Association and chairman of the professional relation and chairman of the professional relations. tions committee of the Mountainside Education Association.

and nearly hopeless. Yet 105 of the 236 children here are not transported by bus - and an average of 36 cars, plus buses must pass along a driveway used as a parking and waiting zone, as well as by about 20 walkers to and from Mountainside center.

'Our purpose in the foregoing is to present a rational and factually balanced picture of our local travel environment with emphasis upon the dangers to which a great many school children are exposed.

'You are certainly aware of the many physical factors, probably several we have not considered. While we thoroughly endorse the theory that children are first taught about 'rules of the road at home, it is not always possible for them to remember instructions, especially when cast into special situations. We feel that the protection of these innocent people must be provided by more rigid control of surrounding elements, as well as by better direction of the children themselves, e.g., improved traffic supervision and additional walking area. "Of basic importance are the so-called 'high-density' sections, immediately adjacent to or fronting the schools, which are subject to massive congestion. Only slightly less criti-in high-density sections. "TOGETHER WITH a reference map, and traffic and enrollment data, we submit the following suggestions toward both immediate and future relief of these severe conditions. We believe these are worthy of prompt and cal are the more remote 'feeder' roads, treatment of which should complement action sincere consideration: "1. One-Way Traffic - Top Priority: With the possible exception of school buses, which may travel in either direction, all automobiles to be detoured so as to pass through the congested areas in one direction only, single line. or control purposes, portable one-way signs to be placed in the road (attended if necessary) at key points. Only in effect from 8:30 - 9 a.m. and from 3 - 3:30 p.m. on school days. Will minimize the traffic endangering pedestrians and bike riders until children and autos begin dispersing. Not possible at Echobrook.

2. Walker protection - top priority: a. Walking area - immediate: In conjunction with the above one-way routing, an expanded walking lane on that side of the street remaining clear due to more exacting traffic control. Such area to be five to six feet wide and separated from open roadway by traffic cones, placed by crossing guards during periods when special traffic control is in effect. Although primary application would be at Deerfield, between School and Wyoming drives, this may be considered for the Beechwood district, should one-way traffic also be instituted there. It is understood that this special walking area would be a temporary measure - until b and c below should take

"b. Partial sidewalks - immediate: Locations: East side of Central avenue from School drive to Wyoming drive; pedestrian exit points at Beechwood School, Will remove most walkers from driving and bike-riding surface, at least until groups separate into side streets. Cost, after base preparation, about $3 for black-top and about $5 for concrete, both per square yard. Borough Council to determine and evaluate final investigation as to exact location, size, maintenance responsibility, property owner liability.

c. Permanent Sidewalks - long range: We feel that permanent sidewalks are an absolute necessity in all areas surrounding schools, and wherever there is heavy pedestrian concentration. For example, the speed zone along Mountain avenue, between the pool entrance and New Providence road, It is suggested that a feasibility study be initiated without de-lay, to determine locations, legal implications, cost, etc.

"3. Speed and warning signs - top priority:
Meeting House lane, Woodacres drive and Whipporwill way have no speed signs. There are only two markers on Central avenue - the southbound stating 25 MPH and the northbound 35 MPH (this has been verified). Installation of school warning ..ashers (15 MPH) on Central avenue, Whipporwill way (hill), Woodacres drive and at intersection of New Providence road and Dunn parkway. Approximate cost per individual unit - $500. Additional speed signs (permanent), painted pavement warnings and yellow 'children' signs to attract driver attention. It is our educated opinion that various yellow children warning signs shoul be liberally dispersed and that they do not engender a false sense of security. Such signs cost between $20, and $25, installed.

'4. Curbing: This would allow for widening and/or improvement of county roads, particu-larly on Deer path and New Providence road. Children (anyone) at the complete mercy of traffic on these roads, which are difficult for drivers as well. Vehicles often move at high speeds here. We believe action was at one time intended on this, but with no visible results. Cost of Belgian block - $1.75 to $3 per lineal foot.

'Although it remains for you to establish or define specific areas of responsibility and control in various cases, we feel that the obligation of recognizing and alleviating local problems-ultimately belongs to all concerned. Thus, it is in the spirit of public interest and accomplishment through teamwork that we seek your aid and judgement. As we see it, the present situation demands corrective action. "We request your review and evaluation of these urgent matters, keeping in mind that we will be happy to assist wherever possible. "A reply by Jan. 30 is needed, in order that the PTA communicate with the originator of these inquiries - the public."

Expansion

(Continued from page 1) not only far too small, it is also totally unsuitable for use in the modern sense, in that the materials center has become the hub around which the school operates. This materials center will include the library, the audio-visual materials, study carrells, and appropriate conduit so that regardless of future development in instructional television or computer science, this center will be able to care

"A field house, built as an extension of the present agriculture building will be designed to permit the students at Jonathan Dayton to have appropriate facilities for implementing their athletic program. The agriculture building itself will be completely modernized and adapted to industrial arts-at-vociational work, with the strong probability that it will house printing and fine arts.

The various instructional areas of the building would be remodeled to include an additional chemistry laboratory, some large and some small teaching stations developed within the present building, and a rebuilding of the heating distribution system.

"A new vocal music room, developed in connection with the instrumental center, would give a needed facility as well as an addicional room. Minor items such as locker replacement, already begun, and equipment replacement would be carried out.

'Remodeling a portion of the present building to care for the central personnel of the district will be accomplished.

"In the Arthur L. Johnson building, it will be necessary to make a major expansion to care for some 450 additional students, including the addition of 18 classrooms. In addition, a new library and instructional materials center is a necessity. This would be similar to the facility at Dayton, There is need for an instrumental room and a vocal room and for a better student traffic pattern. Two added industrial-vocational shops are needed. An additional science laboratory is required.

The student dining area needs to be enlarged, together with an enlarging of the kitchen. Guidance and central office facilities must be expanded to care for the increased student population.

"THE GOVERNOR LIVINGSTON building must have a major expansion of approxi-mately 24 classrooms, together with an instructional materials center similar to those at Dayton and Johnson. The area now used by the library must be converted into science laboratories. The food preparation and food service must be expanded to care for a school of approximately 2,200 students. The area for administration and guidance must be expanded,

"There is need for an additional home economics-room,-an-industrial-arts laboratory, a drafting room, a general music room, an art room and an additional typing room. Additional faculty accommodation must be pro-mas to the week following New Years, a plague of fires rages up and down the country. Many of our traditional Christmas customs -- trees, colored lights and decorations -- are but a few that add to the fire hazards during the holiday season, and carelessness abounds which would not be tolerated at any other time. "Little careless acts, which seem so unimportant at the time, cause these holiday tragedies. Someone lights a match; the burning head flies into a Christmas tree; a neglected toy electric train ignites a tree; the simple re-placement of a frayed electric cord on a Christmas tree, which wasn't corrected makes for more tragedies and more statistics.

"Small children and fires are synonymous. Children are curious about and fascinated with matches yet they are helpless when fire strikes. Never leave them alone, not even for few minutes."

"If you want to exchange a gift with your neighbor, run a quick errand, do it, but take your children with you. Always remember, one child out of every three who die in fires was a child left alone."

administration and management, our architect, and our board in order to complete the plans and present the proposal to you, the voting public, on March 15, 1968. And then, if approved, the detailed, finished plans and specifications should be completed by Dec. 15,

"Contracts for construction may be timed for March 15, 1969 and the construction should be completed for school opening in September

"As mentioned, it will take time to develop all the details and complete the plans, and we therefore, at best, can only estimate very roughly, at this point, what the cost of this expansion project will be. That rough estimate is between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000 which should cover construction, as well as equipment, ground work and all other costs as well as a normal cost factor increase due to our national rising economy over the next two years.

"From time to time as the plans and details develop further, we will announce the information to keep you abreast of the situation.'

LEAF BURNING

Now that the leaf burning (pollution season) is over, I can say that the number of people burning has reduced, an improvement has been noticed. However, like a sick patient, an improvement is not a cure; 'so let it be with air pollution.

There are still those that are uninformed, ignorant or uncooperative that are still burning, belching big clouds of smoke (filth) into the air and ultimately our lungs. Fifty thousand people die each year from lung cancer. Air pollution is a contribution to their death, not to mention the harm from emphysema, allergies, heart disease. The good Lord gave us only one atmosphere, no refills available. JOSEPH C. CHIEPPA

My wife and I are movie buffs. Often we'll travel to distant towns to see a film we might otherwise miss. And so this Christmas week during our round of family shopping, we were especially delighted to discover so fine a selection of new books on movies and movie makers.

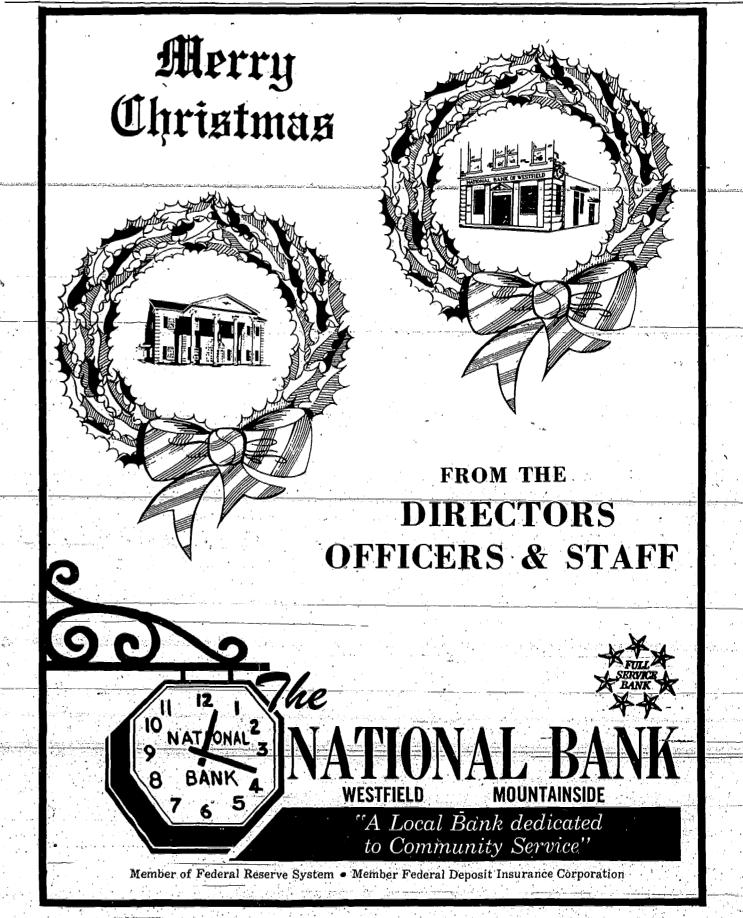

The one we had wrapped for putting under the tree this year was a big handsome volume by Bosley Crowther called "The Great Films.

Crowther, film critic for the Times, named the fifty films he considered the best in cinema history. He called them the "breakthrough" movies, and they ranged from "Birth of a Nation" to "Ulysses," a span of 52 years.

The beautiful thing about a book of this type is that it offers so many debatable points. The book will land under our tree December 25, but will be used for a long, long time as a point of reference. We agree with Mr. Crowther on many of his choices. and disagree with many more. We're sure our wife will have her special list of 50 film greats, as will our many friends who are also addicted to movies. ...

But that's the very point we like about this book. That and the memories it moved in us, the opinions, and the illustrations. It's a handsome book and we say thanks to Mr. Crowther for making our Christmas shopping a lot easier and more pleasant

Speaking of making things a lot easier and more pleasant reminds us to remind you that your driving will be just that with FIRESTONE TIRES on your car during these cold, snowy days. "The Human Element," a color, sound film will be shown at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, on Sunday, at

The film depicts man's unceasing struggle to control the forces of nature and improve his way of life. It demonstrates that human progress is a result of man's eternal curiosity and inventiveness, a spokesman said.

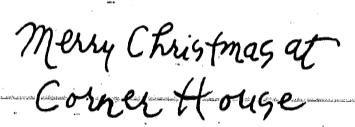

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 28, at 4:00 p.m. each day, Donald W. Mayer, director of Trailside, will conduct one-half hour nature talks for children. The topic to be discussed during the three days is 'Local Plans and Animals.'

Plainfield, Overlook Hospital, Summit, Elizabeth General Hospital, and at offices in Linden. During a recent 30 day period, according to Haddock, the staff saw 407 children and 194 adults, providing 1,444 hours of service.

Dr. Jay W. Fidler, medical director, explained that the clinic is asking additional funds from the Union County Board of Freeholders to provide extra staff personnel to reduce the waiting list. He expalined that a considerable amount of federal funds, heretofore provided for the clinic's use, is no longer available, which calls for new sources of revenue to continue to handle the growing demand for the clinic's services.

Fields is an old hand in the supper club arena having had 15 years in the Mermaid Room of the Park Central Hotel in New York, a goodly number of tours on the borscht and asthma circuit, and, in more recent years, in Florida and the antercoms of the Vegas hotels. During these years he has developed an intimacy with the muscial tastes of the habitueies of these establishments and plays always the best accompaniment for a Steak au Poivre (crocked whole peppercorns pressed into prime steak, broiled and flambed with cognac) at $7 from the cuisine or Scampi alla Lombarda (shrimp in delicate garlic butter sauce) at $4.75 from the cuccina, both from the international kitchens of The Encore.

Irving Fields has patterned his piano style after the pianism of the earlier radio orchestras. The influence of Duchin and others of that period is apparent. However, with his own inventiveness and improvisations his attack on the standard repertoire of show tunes, rhumbas and popular songs is a wonder and a sheer joy. Fields' influence on these latter day saints of the keyboard, Roger Williams and Peter Nero, is just as apparent.

A composer in the popular field his "Miami Beach Rhumba" answered the need for a definitive classic to which to teach this rhythmic dance. A 78- year-old woman named Virginia still believes

The eight-year-old girl named Virginia, who was assured just 70 years ago thar 'Yes, there is a Santa Claus," still believes it.

"When I was eight, Santa Claus was the spirit of fun and play. Now that I'm nearly 80, his aspect has changed and he's the example of love and giving." says Mrs. Laura Virginia Douglas.

Her words are in a message of greeting to the undergraduates of Columbia College, who invited her to take part in their traditional Yule Log Ceremony, an annual celebration of the Christmas season at Columbia University. She is a graduate of the University.

Unable to attend the ceremony, Mrs. Douglas, who is now 78 years old and a widow living with her family in North Chatham, N.Y., reassured the students that she still believes in Santa and

Come in Today to

Christmas as always.

IT WAS 70 YEARS ago in 1897, that Mrs. Douglas, then Virginia O'Hanlon, wrote a letter to the editor of the New York Sun, saying, "1 am 8 years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says 'If you see it in The Sun it's so.' Please tell me the truth: is there a Santa Claus?"

An eloquent reply was written by the editor. Francis P: Church, an 1859 graduate of Columbua College who also received his Master's degree from the University in 1862. His answer appeared on the editorial page, printed beneath her letter, and has since been reproduced throughout succeeding Christmas seasons in every conceivable form, in every quarter of the

Termed one of the most famous editorials ever written, it is best known by the one line:

'Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus.' Mrs. Douglas, who was granted an M.A. from Columbia in 1911 and who is a retired New York school principal, said in her message to the Columbia students that she did not know if she would write such a letter today if she were eight years old.

Children were less sophisticated when I was a child," she said, "family life then was the fact and the boundaries of a child's life. It seems that Santa Claus was more accessible in those circumstances, as perhaps he might not be in today's world, which is less leisurely and filled with more outside distraction.

MRS, DOUGLAS DESCRIBED the Christmas she will celebrate this year at her home in North Chatham as "traditional in mood and centered around my children, my children's children, and their children -- for in our home it is now a time when agreat-grandmother and her great-grand-children may lean across so many, many years of Christmas to each

"I still hang up my Christmas stocking over the fireplace," she continued, "we all dol Even my daughter, who is now closer to my age than to yours, puts her stocking up over the fireplace - and every year she vows she has hung her stocking up for the very last time!"

'This Christmas,' said Mrs. Douglas, 'will be a quiet day spent with the family. But perhaps more than that, for me it will be a day that holds to it more than any other the classical expressions of kindness and good will that were in effect when I was a child. It's a time when best wishes of joy are extended to all, as I extend them to you at Columbia."

Mrs. Douglas' Santa Claus, a plump and jolly old elf dressed in fur and travelling by reindeer-drawn sleigh over the rooftops, his pack filled with toys, came into being just 145 vears ago this Christmas Eve. It was Dec. 24, 1822, when Clement Clarke Moore, a member of the Columbia College Class of 1798 and a Trustee of the College at the time, wrote the beloved fantasy, "A Visit From Saint Nicholas" A reading of the poem is a traditional part of the Columbia students' annual Yule Log Ceremony.

WRITTEN FOR THE pleasure of his children, the inspiration for the poem came to Dr. Moore as he was returning home from delivering Christmas presents to friends in Greenwich Village.

Driving to his snow-covered 90-acre farm in what is now the Chelsea, West 20s section of New York City, Dr. Moore remembered a promise to write a Christmas poem for his children. He was the father of nine. Suddenly he got an inspiration for his image of St. Nicholas while looking at the face and figure of his old Dutch handyman, Peter, driving the horse and sleigh, and silhouetted by moonlight. When he reached home he went to his desk and penned the immortal lines beginning with: Twas the night before Christmas When all through the house Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse... Until that time, jolly old Saint Nicholas was merely a generous phantom without a standard appearance. He could be tall or short, friendly or austere - whatever might be conjured up within a child's imagination.

Dr. Moore set the pattern, and Santa Claus has since looked exactly like Santa Claus, gradually, as with most bits of fantasy, growing into the consciousness of people everywhere. While the poem found its anonymous way into Boy Scout Cub Pack 73 of Springfield presented a skit entitled "Around the World" at its last meeting. The skit incuded from India, the United States, Italy and Africa.

Awards were presented to John Laurencelle, Steven Lalor, Neil Patrone, Pat Cantarella, Billy Murphy, John Grassele, Michael Thomas, Thomas Wisniewski, Richard Sergi, John Mc-Govern, Peter DeMarco, Phillip Adam, Thomas Bamburack, Frank Rebel, Joseph Corrigan, Thomas Conte, Robert Laurencelle, Wayne Dostal, Greg Johnson, Stephen Ross, Mathew Polewka, Peter Parducci, Leonard Dolan, Steven Eckman, Paul Weingartner, Joseph Ragucci, Martin Piedl and Thomas DiFranco.

various newspapers during the Christmas seasons, it didn't appear with the author's name attached until 1837.

IT WAS THEN included in a book entitled 'The New York Book of Poetry." Moore included it in one of his own books in 1844, with a half-apologetic introduction defending "a good, honest, hearty laugh which conceals no malice."

By the 1850s the poem became a permanent literary fixture, yet while the poem was printed by the tens of millions, its author never received a penny of royalty.

Moore probably would have refused to accept royalties, for he considered writing verse to be just an avocation not to be compared with his scholarly works that now have faded into obscurity. In addition, he was financially independent. Born in New York City in 1779, Dr. Moore died at Newport, R.I., July 10, 1863, five days short of his eighty-fourth birthday.

The Saint Nicholas who inspired the then 43year-old Moore to write his famous poem was a fourth century bishop of Myra, in Lycia, Asia Minor, who became the popular subject of many legends. One of these associated his name with the giving of presents. That legend endured through the centuries in response to the desire of the human spirit for generosity.

Then in the 19th century Dr. Moore transformed him into jolly old Santa Claus to enter the holiday dreams of 8-year-old Virginias everywhere wishing: "Happy Christmas to all, and to all a good night."

Following is Francis P. Church's editorial reply to Virginia O'Hanlon:

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge. Yes, Virginia, there is a Sunta Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alasi How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Clausi it would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no child-like faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished,

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the Chimneys on Christmas eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory be-yond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Clausi Thank God he lives and he lives forever. A thousand years from now. Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

SUNDAY'S A SERMON LUTHERAN CHURCH

CHRISTMAS Have you been looking these past few days for the spirit of Christmas?

Some say they find it in the stores and on the streets, or in the merry sounds of Christmas carolers.

We wonder, perhaps, if these individuals are not somewhat confused about the real meaning of the spirit of Christmas. It is not merely a feeling of joy and happiness ... of contentment with one's self, and the world about. It is much more.

The spirit of Christmas is a realization. It is an awareness. It is a sense of the reality of our existence. It is the truth of life.

You can find the spirit of Christmas on the loneliest mountain in the world. Look within your heart. Recognize the "why" of your existence and remember why Christ was born in Bethlehem.

You are a child of God and God so loved his children that he sent forth a Son to bring the promise and to show the way to eternal salvation. Remember this always and Christmas will live forever in your heart.

Poor teaching, increased need noted Rutgers prof cites shortage of physicists

"THERE IS A GROWING tendency today," he said, "for students to become interested in sociology or psychology, for example, as these fields deal with people rather than the inanimate world of the physicist."

Recognizing these problems facing the physics community, which were spelled out in a survey published last January by the American Institute of Physics, the Department of Physics at Rutgers College has altered some of its reaching concepts.

'We rotate our faculty through the various courses so their outlook and presentations of course material are fresh," Dr. Weiss explained, "Hopefully, we show our students that physics is a dynamic field in which ideas are proposed, considered, studied, refuted, de dent. Dr. Weiss says many students are going fended and sometimes discarded. physics instead of the more traditional fields of that students make the basic decision to be come physicists.

"If this is so," said Dr. Weiss, "then we must actively encourage potential students to take courses and expose themselves to physics education early in their undergraduate days. We can do this by making undergraduate instruction interesting as well as informative.'

HELPING TO IMPLEMENT the changes in the program at Rutgers is a grant of $2.7 million given to the Department of Physics over a year ago by the National Science Foundation as part of the federal agency's Science Development Program, One million of these "Centers of Excellence" funds is being spent for faculty recruitment and for fellowships and scholarships to aid the graduate program and the remaining $1.7 million is devoted to equipment.

At Rutgers, as at most other universities.

the shortage of physics teachers is already being felt. Dr. Weiss said instructors are forced to teach inordinately large numbers of students, who, in turn, often are forced to seek answers to their questions from other students. The help or advice given may or may not be correct, he said.

When asked about financing of graduate and post-doctoral education, Dr. Weiss said that the federal government is the only sourceable "to match the challenge posed by the high cost of education today." He pointed out that it takes about four years of post-bachelor's work for a

Forecast for flurries of heart attacks

Although winter is a season of joy and almost everyone looks forward with excitement to the first flurries of snow, the fluffy white stuff is a danger to be reckoned with, Dr. Harold Wasserman of Westfield, president of the Union

EARLY VISIT -- Santa Claus portrayed by Dennis Thome of Westfield made an early visit last Wednesday to the Cerebral Palsy Center in Cranford where 25 children between the age of 2 and 7 were guests at a Christmas party given by students of Union College, Cranford. With Santa are five-year-old Kathy Murray of Rahway, and four-year-old Joey Damiano of Linden, students at the Cerebral Palsy Center, and Miss Rita Hawkins of Cranford, party chairman. The Cerebral Palsy Center is in the old Grant School, the former home of Union College. The Christmas party for these children has been a tradition since the college moved to its new campus nine years ago.

Job data youth program expanded to six counties

An informational program to make more youngsters aware of the merits of vocational education is being expanded in the state, it was announced this week. The project is aimed especially at directing attention of students to the widening job market in service occupations, such as office work and distributing and marketing goods, a spokesman said.

Designed by the Division of Vocational Education of the State Department of Education and Rider College, the project in the last school year, reached some 13,000 junior high students in 38 schools in Mercer County.

This year, the program has expanded to the neighboring counties of Hunterdon, Somerset, Middlesex, Monmouth and Burlington.

While concerned with all aspects of vocational education, the project has placed its emphasis on the distributive and business education fields. Business education prepared students to assume office occupations, while distributive education provides training in distributing, marketing and sale of merchandise, the spokesman said.

"These are fields of rapidly increasing importance," said Rodney G. Jurist and Edward B. Brower, co-directors of the project. "Indications are that the future's expanding job markets will be in services. While automation may reduce the number of people needed to produce goods, it will increase the number needed to distribute them and to handle many kindred jobs, including the necessary office work."

ROBERT D. JOY, director of Distributive Education in the State's Division of Vocational Education, reports that the growth in distributive education in New Jersey has been phenomenal. "During the last three years, the enrollment of students in distributive education programs has risen from 1,860 to almost 8,000." he says.

With such growth, why does distributive education, business education and the rest of the vocational education fields need a public information program?

According to Jurist and Brower, there are still many people who think of vocational education as a dead-end course.

"Some picture the vocational education graduate going from high school to a lifetime in the back corner of a shop," they say, "This just isn't so. Not only does vocational education lead to a variety of careers, but it can also lead to college,

"We found in a survey of New Jersey colleges that more than half of them will accept vocational course graduates." they say.

Members of the Department of Business Education faculty in Rider College's School of Education, Jurist and Brower are working to eliminate these misconceptions. Their project is supported by a $26,000 grant made under the provisions of the Vocational Education Act of 1963.

The project started in September of 1966 under Jurist's direction. Brower became co-director this fall.

Library has busy season

Students using the Newark Public Library during the Christmas holiday period can avoid the peak-hour rush by coming at 9 a.m., when the library opens, or after 5 p.m., when the peak is over, according to James E. Bryan, director.

Pointing out that Christmas vacation is one of the library's busiest times, he advised students to get references from indexes and other guides in local libraries whenever possible for coming to Newark Public Library for the materials. This will help avoid delays, he said.

LAST WEEKS

He announced that the library will be closed this Saturday, Monday and Jan. 1. During the remainder of the holiday period, the library will be open for regular hours. At the Main Library, 5 Washington st., these are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to 5p.m. Saturdays.

Cemetery's use as park suggested

Your local cemetery might become somewhat of a community center in the future. Don't be surprised to see groups of school children there with guides pointing out the different trees shrubs and birds. Or flower displays for the public, with special members. You might be able to buy post cards showing a picturesque spot in the cemetery -maybe to send to friends to invite them to join you at Easter sunrise services there.

These were some of the suggestions for improving a cemetery's service to its community and enhancing its own image heard during a meeting at the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science last Thursday.

Vandalism was said to have decreased in cemeteries where school tours had been

About 130 persons from New Jersey, New York and Pennsy-Ivania attended the conference on cemetery beautification and maintenance held at the request of the New Jersey Cemetery Association. It was the first such session in the state.

College faculty members gave instruction on turf maintenance and the selection and care of trees, shrubs and flowers. The group then discussed these subjects as well as ways of serving the public better, land use and selling

Varied portrait approaches on display at State Museum

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder. So is personality, and every artist sees his subject in his own way. How does the 20th century artist see his subject?

'Portraits by Contemporary American Artists: their many expressions," which opened at the New Jersey State Museum on Dec. 9 and will continue through Feb. 11, in the Main Galleries, illustrates 20 different ways in which 20 different artists see 20 different subjects.

"This exhibition aims to show the many expressive approaches to portraiture which have been tried by living American artists," says Leah Sloshberg, curator of arts.

The artists represented are Will Barnett, of New York, with "Ona;" Mark Berger, of Rut-gers State University, with "Portrait of Stephen Joy: James Chapin, of Glen Gardner, N.J., with "The Marvin Family;" Harvey Dinnerstein, of Roosevelt, N.J., with "Mother and Child: James Kearns, of Dover, N.J., with 'Picasso;" Kirstein Kraa, of New York, with "Three Portraits;" Argentinean born Mauricio Lasansky, of lowa City, with "La Jimena;" Marcia Marcus, of New York, with "Self Portrait;" Stefan Martin, of Roosevelt, with "Self Portrait;" Robert Andrew Parker, of New York, with "Sailor."

Tool group slates training program

A three month pre-apprenticeship training program for positions as toolmakers, diemakers and machinists will be conducted by the New Jersey Tool, Die and Precision Machining Association.

The program, open to high school graduates and others will take place in the technical and vocational high schools of Essex, Passaic and Union counties beginning the latter part of June 1968.

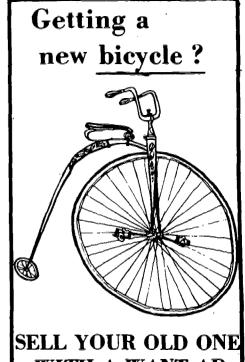

Applicants should address their inquiries to Frederick J. Worley, executive secretary, New Jersey Tool, Die and Precision Machining Association, Room 21, 2165 Morris ave., Union 07083.

"Portrait of Mrs. F.;" Andy Warhol, of New York, with "Jacqueline Kennedy." Beside oil on canvas, media used on the 20 portraits include acrylic, charcoal, oil on masonite, etching, watercolor, gesso and oil on canvas and serigraph.

While Berger's "Portrait of Stephen Joy." sprayed acrylic, shaped canvass of the man of tomorrow, is seen in a "Pop, new realign style," Barnett's "Ona" is flat and decorative. Chapin's "The Marvin Family" marks back to the social realism of the late "20s and early "30s; Man Ray's Juliet," painted in 1940, has overtones of Modigliani; Warhol's "Jacqueline Kennedy" personified pop, and Porter's "Portrait of James Schuyler" is reminiscent of the impressionists.

State Museum bours are 9 to 5 Mondays through Saturdays; 2 to 5 Sundays.

A FEMININE LOOK ... At AFRICA 1967

(Commentary on a National Newspaper Association Study Mission to eight African countries south of the Sahara.)

Thirty-first In A Series AMBOSELI WONDERLAND FOR SAM WHO SHARED THE BEAUTY OF THIS ADVENTURE

The Amboseli Masai Reserve for wild animals in Kenya is famed for its rhinoceros population. As far as I am concerned it can be famed for its lion, and girafte and gnu. The rhino is a frightening, petulant pill, but the lion is elegant, the giraffe is adorable and the gnu is all over the place. To be able to see them close at hand, though, is the un-

what a perfectly glorious experience it is

You would never believe that you could be about five feet from a lion, and could sit there and stare at him without running for the nearest tree. But it is true, You can.

In Amboseli, and in game reserves like it, you can come face to face with a lion or a cheetah or a leopard, watch a new life come into being without fuss or pain, see the loving care given to the little ones of each species, and be in on a courtship in full bloom.

It is like being in the Garden of Eden without the Garden knowing you are there. It is a private dream world set in any age you wish. You could take a chapter out of the Old Testament or a chapter out of Hemingway, and the scene would be the same. The animals live and die, play and fight, in much the same manner as they did thousands of years ago. The sun rises and sets on much the same mountains, grasslands and forests.

The only difference is in the vehicle you yourself have come in, and in the small, inconsequential camp modern man has made for himself to stay in while he views how it for himself to sees, was through the ages.

hangs over the trees in cobweb drapes, It clings to the tree tops without coming to the ground, like a curtain at a play that gets caught on the way down. It hovers over the grassland and the dry lake but doesn't come down to that either. A filtered sun seeps through with grey shafts of light illuminating the ground like a stage. At that point you are in a primeval forest, and sure enough, through the mysterious light a huge shadow forms.

A crashing sound of twigs and bush reaches you and before your startled eyes, a giant elephant looms. And he is not alone! There are 15 more, Fifteen mastodons for all you know, right in front of you and nothing between you and them, but the deep green grass ... and some trees. It is an earth-shaking moment to say the least. But luckily, they are not at all interested in you. They have better things to worry about then some gaping homo sapiens. Each elephant ears up to 600 pounds of grass aday, and needs water to drink, and to cool off in for he minds the heat, so he is busy. Luckily too, the herd is going past you in single file and not toward you all bunched up. They are on their way from a water-hole just as they must have been thousand years ago and you might as well not be there for all they care.

As you look, a small thrill goes up your arm, for despite his size and tired leather looking skin, the elephant is a majestic thing, He has a bearing. And right in the middle of the long line, lo and behold, there is a baby. "tiny" dent in the tall silhouetted line

You can also see a lone elephant here and there vacuuming up the grass in a small wooded area but you have to look close for it is amazing how hard he is to see. The ranger has to point him out, he is so well camouflaged. There are many dead, upright trees and stumps that are grey, and the elephant here is grey and his legs are "stumpy." so he is difficult to spot.

You may also see an all-white one and think you have a special deal brewing, but the ranger will quickly calm you down by telling you it's just an ordinary elephant -- caked with mud.

ALL THIS IS SEEN, as I said, from an automobile. You are not allowed to get out of the car at any time, and, as a matter of fact, you are not even permitted to roam from the marked confines of the camp except in a car.

There are usually four tourists to a vehicle with a chauffer out of Nairobi. A "game warden" joins you at the camp site and then he is captain of the car. This "warden" or "ranger" has no gun, but a sharp eye to scan out the game. He is trained in the habits and habitats of the animals so he can find them to view, and he is usually a Masai.

The cars roam all over the brush, woods and meadows without benefit of roads and you may just as likely see a Ford come out of the bushes as an elephant or a cheetah. You may hear a noise in a cluster of trees, and out may come a Chevy Impala instead of a fourlegged impala,

THERE WERE TWO CAMP SITES within the game reserve, and our group was split between them. The camps were separated by only a scant 150 yards or so, but it might as well have been 150 miles, for all the isolation between us. We were not allowed beyond resittle row of stones which circled each camp because of the animal danger, and so we couldn't visit each other.

One camp was composed of tents and one of hardier stucco type huts with thatched roofs. The hut camp consisted of a cooks hut, a mess hut, a bath-and-shower-"etc." hut and seven little huts each with a pair of mosquitonetted cots, a jug of water and a kerosene lamp. No electricity. Despite the meagre sound of it all, we felt pretty glamorous for it was the same site that was used by the film com-pany of the 'Snows of Kilimanjaro''. And despite the meagre sound of naving dinner cooked over an open camp fire and served in a thatched-roofed, open-sided but, we felt pretty lavish when we looked around.

Killimanjaro, with the sunset on it and then the moon flirting with the anows on top of it, was our decoration on one side, and a technicolor forest with a movie-script campsite, was the decor on the other side. Directly inside, we are by the light of the moon and Coleman lamps. These are some of the things you never forget, Besides all that, we had a delicious, very un-meagre dinner. The native cook had prepared a great batch of goodies despite the fact that almost everything was out of a can.

There was fresh bread, fruit salad, soup, liver, potatoes and the best cooked cabbage you ever tasted. Then coffee or tea and bread pudding. The pudding and breads were made in a kerosene portable type oven. There was absolutely no ice and no bar, but again, there was beer. I have come to the conclusion that you could go to Mars and find beer. In the morning we had fruit, bacon and eggs and coffee

At high noon we left the ageless wonderland and drove back to the heart of 1963 to Nairobi.

FAMILY POT LUCK

FAMILY POT LUCK Here's a good combination for a fruit compote: banana slices, chopped dates and orange or tangerine slices. Pour a little organge juice over the fruit for added juiciness and to reduce browning of the bananas. Between the big holiday meals, snacks are often welcome. Date-nut biscuits are a perfect hot bread to go with a light soup and salad menu. Just add chopped dates, nuts and a little grated lemon rind to your favorite biscuit recipe. Bake as usual and serve piping hot.

When the thermometer drops, appetites soar, Here's a recipe, nutritious as it is tasty, made to order for hearty appetites. To regular cream ce add one fourth cup break crumbs and two chopped hard cooked eggs. On buttered slices of whole wheat toast arrange contents of a can of drained Norway sardines. Cover with cream sauce and serve piping hot.

Besides being a favorite for the cold cuts platter, salami-tastes-good and adds nutritive value to salads, soups and quick-main-dishes.

The Chrismon project was discussed at Thanksgiving of 1966, but because of the time element involved, it was postponed to February, when the group started meeting Wednesday mornings. Nearly a year was required to complete 102 of the ornaments.

'Most people don't realize how much work goes into the making of Chrismons," Mrs. Lundberg commented. "None can be made in less than two hours, and the more elaborate ones, such as the crown and the fish, took more than 15 working hours to complete."

The ornaments are made of various size pearls, gold beads, artificial flowers, styrofoam, sequins, vinyl festooning and gold glitter. The colors, white and gold, have symbolic meaning. White, a color signifying both joy and purity, is the liturgical color for Christmas. Gold is the color of royalty and suggests the Christian belief in the Kingship of Christ.

The tree was explained at a children's service at the church last Sunday afternoon. A booklet on the Chrismons, prepared by Mrs. Lundberg's husband, an executive in a law book printing firm, was distributed,
"The Chrismon tree will be an excellent means of teaching Christian symbolism in addition to its stunning beauty in the chancel," Pastor Englund remarked. "I'm already planning to use Chrismons as visual aids in talks to our Sunday Church School and pre-kindergarten school."

The tree will remain in the church through Jan. 6, which is Epiphany, the Feast of the Wise Men and traditional end to the Christmas
