Supporters of McCarthy elect board

Volunteer organization forms campaign plans

The Mountainside Volunteers for McCarthy elected an executive board at an organizational meeting held last week in the Community Presbyterian Church.

Robert Jaffe and Mrs. Richard Fork were named co-chairmen of the organization, which was formed to rally support for Senator Eugene McCarthy in the June 4 primary for the November presidential election.

Also named to the executive board were Sam Seager, Eli Hoffman, Bernard Sellgman and Harry Nash. Membership in the organization and the board is still open to interested persons, officers reported.

At the organizational meeting, plans for a voter registration campaign were discussed. It was reported that a mailing has gone out to all Mountainside homes describing registration procedures for new residents and others eligible to vote in the Democratic primary.

Plans also were discussed for support of Democratic convention delegates pledged to McCarthy. These are:

Delegates at large--C. Willard Heckel, Jeanette W. Cascone, Morton Stavis, Rev. Homer Tucker and Dr. George Yevick; alternate delegates at large--Rev. Ivan Backer, Mrs. Milton Lapidus, Joseph Magliacanno, Dr. Ashley Montague and Dr. Theodore Trapp.

Twelfth Congressional District delegates--Mrs. Barbara Grunther, David K. McGuire, David Rothschild, Rev. Elmer Sullivan and Rev. Jacob Trapp; and alternate district delegates--Mrs. Lorrie Lewis, Richard Samuel, Catherine K. White, Frank Witkus and Marshall Brown.

Mrs. Barbara Jamieson and Mark Seglin were the principal speakers at the meeting. Other speakers were Seager, Mrs. Fork and Jaffe.

The co-chairmen asked anyone interested in further information on the organization to call Mrs. Fork at 233-5156.

Youths bound over for grand jury on narcotic charges

Dennis G. Cannarella, 18, of Elizabeth and Clifford Gunderson, 20, of Cranford were bound over for the Union County Grand Jury by Judge Jacob R. Bauer at a preliminary hearing last Wednesday night in Mountainside Municipal Court.

The youths, who were apprehended on March 26 by Patrolman Joseph Loh, on a road leading to the Nike Base, were arraigned before Judge Bauer the following night on charges of the possession of narcotics (marijuana) and were free on $200 bail.

William Fischback of Elizabeth, who was reportedly in the car when the defendants were apprehended and who had been fined by Judge Bauer on disorderly conduct charges, at the arraignment, appeared as a witness against the two. The fourth member of the quartet, a 15-year old juvenile, had been turned over to the juvenile authorities. The man was defended at the hearing by Philip Dean Cohen of Elizabeth, public defender.

In traffic cases, John E. Jessop of South Plainfield was fined $15 plus $10 for contempt, for riding on the right shoulder. Donald J. Smith of Nutley was fined $130 for driving while under the influence of alcohol and had his license revoked for six months. He also received a suspended sentence for careless driving.

Eugene Richardson of Newark was fined $35 for leaving the scene of an accident and had his sentence suspended for failing to report an accident to the police. He was found not guilty on a third charge of mis-statement of fact, in that he allegedly claimed to be covered by insurance. Found guilty of careless driving charges, Robert W. Stolz of Fanwood, Dennis J. Carlson of Summit and Joseph Andrade of Cranford were fined $15 each.

Also, Walter J. Jenness of Annandale paid a total of $30 on charges of speeding 65 m.p.h. in a 50-mile zone and having no driving license in his possession. He also had his driver's license revoked for 30 days.

CHURCH FLAPPERS -- The Methodist Men of Springfield Emanuel Methodist Church, including many Mountainside residents, will serve flapjacks and sausages at the church, Main street at Academy Green, Saturday from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Shown warming up the hotcakes are, from left, Fritz Kleine, Alex Ferguson and Le Roy Mumford. Tickets are available from Mumford at 376-1291, or Stanley Lord, 376-5254.

Summer school will open June 26 at Beechwood for 25-day session

The summer school schedule for Mountainside has been announced. The 25-day session will run from June 26 through July 31 (except for July 4) with periods scheduled from 8:30 to 10 a.m. and 10:30 to noon at the Beechwood School, Woodacres drive.

Details were provided in the following Board of Education statement:

Any child who has completed kindergarten through grade 7, or who is registered to begin kindergarten in September, is eligible. Priority will be given to Mountainside children. Transportation must be furnished by parents. Class size will generally be limited to 10-15 children. Registration forms, available at all schools and at the office of the superintendent of schools, should be submitted not later than May 1 through any school office. After May 1, out-of-town children will be accepted. Registrations must be accompanied by a check for the full tuition (payable to Mountainside Board of Education.)

New construction at Deerfield School requires that the summer school be held at Beechwood School. The program will be sharply curtailed, because of limited space. Priority will be given to basic courses, with the focus on preschool through grade 5. However, some basic and enrichment courses will be available for all children.

PARENTS OF CHILDREN being recommended for basic courses will receive notification and registration forms by mail. The basic courses in reading and mathematics are not designed for children who have failed or not been promoted. They are designed to eliminate or reduce reading and math skill deficiencies.

Small class groups (maximum 15) and sessions of 1 1/2 hours make it possible for experienced teachers to give more individual instruction, tailored to individual needs.

The enrichment courses are designed for those children who are interested and challenged by new, additional or unusual school experiences.

The outdoor science course, open to fourth, fifth and sixth graders, will be scheduled for a double period (8:30 - 12:00). The increased time is necessary for field trips to the Great Swamp, the seashore area, the Newark Museum, farms, ponds, rivers, quarries, etc., to collect all kinds of specimens. Some days will be spent in the classroom but most of them will be outside. This is a real opportunity for "budding scientists."

It is hoped that two art sections can be set up -- one for first and second graders, and one for third, fourth, and fifth graders. Each child will work from the background of his own experiences, and various media (ceramics, textiles, tempera, etc.) will be explored. All children, not only those particularly gifted in art, can benefit.

Two sections are anticipated in children's literature -- one for first and second graders, one for third, fourth, and fifth graders. Children will be given the opportunity to read

Pool opening set for Memorial Day; concession added

William Ditzel, chairman of the Mountainside Recreation Commission, announced yesterday that "the Community Pool will open officially Memorial Day and be open weekends until the Mountainside schools are dismissed for the summer. After that, the pool will be open for its regular summer schedule."

A major change was noted for the convenience of the membership. "A concession will replace the dispensing machines, which should prove more efficient and enjoyable for adults as well as children," he reported. "Sandwiches, coffee and hot dogs will augment the usual ice cream and soda."

Harold Nelson, chairman of the pool committee, announced that "we are very happy many of last summer's personnel will return. We believe the new staff we have employed is of very high calibre and will make a safe pool program."

Robert Anderson of Mountainside is returning for the third year to serve as pool manager. "So that he can devote more of his time to overall administration, he will have two assistant managers this summer," Nelson said. "Dick Joyce will return and assume responsibility for the instructors and the guards and direct the swim team. Our new assistant manager is Joseph Leonzi of Westfield, responsible for all maintenance of our very large operation."

Terry Goss returns to guide the diving team and instruct. Returning instructors are Renee Dorfman, Sue Hartnett and Barry Bistis, and Carol Dawson will be new. Gary Shiffer returns as a guard, and Kevin Leist, Dan Pastore, Nancy Memford and Bob Munch will fill out the guard team. Pat Windell has been hired as a guard and to work with the swim team.

Hunt Foster and Glen Savarese will again carry out the maintenance, and Ralph Cognetti will be a third member of the staff. Kathy Barry will carry out the business management and work at the gate control with Chris Kelly.

"We will not have a summer program at the school as in previous years," Ditzel reported, "but we are planning three or four day-trips during the summer that will be open to the children of the borough on a sign-up basis, similar to the ski trips we conduct in the winter. Anyone with good suggestions should contact Edward Moore on Stony Brook Lane. We found that with the excellent summer school programs, tennis courts and the town and club pools, interest in a special program was practically non-existent last year, except for the special trips."

New nets have been ordered for the tennis courts and passes for the use of the courts by Mountainside residents, and the rules and regulations, can be secured at the Borough Hall.

Kick-off parade to open year for Little Leaguers

The assembly for the Mountainside Little League parade will be held at the corner of Wood Valley and New Providence roads, between 8:30 and 8:45 Saturday morning, Edward Gibaldo, president of the Major League and the Mountainside Little League, announced this week.

Gibaldo also stated the route of the parade, which will leave Wood Valley road at 9 a.m., will continue to Central avenue, bearing right on Central to Wyoming avenue, left to Longview drive, right on Longview to Sawmill road, then continuing on Sawmill to the entrance of the Little League field, which is behind the Deerfield School. The Gov. Livingston Regional High School marching band will play for the parade.

Teams will play the first game of the season at 10 a.m., with Mayor Frederick Wilhelms Jr. throwing out the first ball.

The opening day ceremonies, which will be conducted on the blacktop behind the school, will include as speakers Mayor Wilhelms, Fire Chief Theodore Byk, Police Chief Christian Fritz, Grant Lennox, president of the Board of Education, and Charles Shomo, chairman of the Little League. Other members of the Board of Education and of the executive committee of the league are expected to attend. James Fotes, National League president, Robert Van Buskirk, American League president, and Gibaldo will also be on hand. Presentation of trophies will be made to last year's winners.

In case of rain, the parade and ceremonies will be conducted on the following Saturday, May 1.

Mountainside plans set for observance of Library Week

National Library Week is being observed this week in the Free Public Library of Mountainside. The theme is, "Be all you can be -- Read." Colorful streamers, mobiles and posters depicting the many professions give a gala atmosphere to the library. Bookmarks will be presented to all who visit the library.

The project, sponsored by the National Library Week committee of the New Jersey Library Association, is "Librarian for a Day." This is a form of vocational exploration whereby the high school student chosen may be motivated to choose librarianship as a career. Cathy Dawson, Berkeley Heights, a student at Governor Livingston Regional High School, has been selected to spend April 23 at Mountainside Public Library. Cathy will have a brief orientation, meet the staff members, tour the library and, under supervision, be "Librarian for a Day." At 1 p.m. Cathy and Mrs. Elmer Hofarth, librarian, will join the area "Librarians for a Day" at the Berkeley Heights Public Library to view a recruitment film, "Key to a Future." The students will exchange ideas. It is hoped they will be stimulated to follow a career in library science, where there is so great a need, Mrs. Hofarth stated.

The nursery school students from the Community Presbyterian Church will visit the library under the supervision of their teachers. The children's librarian will guide them through the children's department. A story hour will follow.

PROFILE--Loretta P. Jankowski

With all the unpleasant publicity about the youth of our nation, one becomes reassured upon visiting with 17-year old Loretta Jankowski, that ability, intelligence, modesty, potential and all the positive things that can be found, and have been found throughout the ages, among our teenagers today. Those who are tuned in far, overshadow the small minority who are tuned out.

Loretta, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Jankowski of 291 Ravens Wood, is a wholesome, unassuming youngster who has been gifted with a talent for composing music. As a child, she began to compose small pieces of music before she knew how to write the notes down.

"My grandfather gave me an old upright piano when I was 10 years old," Loretta says, "and I just fell in love with it. I began right away to get ideas in my head, and I tried to set them down to music."

"Yes, that is true," her mother breaks in, "I used to holler at her because I thought she was fooling around instead of practicing, until, suddenly, the realization came to me she was composing melodies."

When grandfather saw the intense and serious interest the little girl portrayed and as she progressed, "he bought me my Mason and Hamlin grand," Loretta reminisces.

Resolution extends sympathy to family of Edmund Frey

The Board of Education of Union County Regional High School District No. 1 has adopted a resolution of condolence to the family of Edmund Frey Sr. of Mountainside, a member of the committee which established the regional district, who died March 26 at the age of 68.

The resolution pointed out that, in addition to assisting in the establishment of the district, Mr. Frey served as a member of the board, as custodian, as head custodian and as superintendent of buildings and grounds.

In these capacities, the resolution noted, "Mr. Frey was...associated directly with the Union County Regional High School District for a longer period of time than any other person in history, namely from October 22, 1935, until his retirement in June, 1963." It added:

"Mr. Frey continued to bring renown to the Regional District even after his retirement through his discoveries in the field of mineralogy."

The resolution expressed the "deep sense of loss" of the board and extended "deepest sympathy to the bereaved family" of the former board official, whose home was at 291 Summit rd., Mountainside.

Council hopefuls praised by Dems

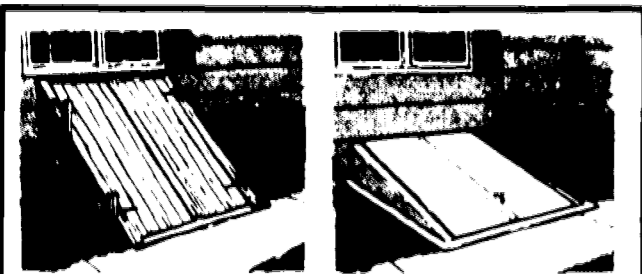

The selection of John Palmer and Bob Sacharow as Democratic candidates for the Borough Council "offers the voters of Mountainside two candidates whose qualifications and sense of purpose merit the support of all citizens who hope to bring about the two-party system," says Joseph Stype, chairman of the screening committee.

Palmer and Sacharow are long-time residents of the borough, and, both are independent insurance agents. Sacharow bid unsuccessfully for a council seat last year. This will be Palmer's first campaign.

"The enthusiasm which greeted the announcement of the candidates foreshadows the enthusiasm with which the campaign will be undertaken," added Stype.

Peter Tausig, chairman of the borough Democratic committee, said, "We plan to work a lot harder to assure success this year. John and Bob are themselves prepared to work hard toward this end, and we have the growing support of many members of the community who are willing to pitch in and help."

Both candidates pledged their efforts "to bring to the attention of the residents of the borough the many issues which must be aired and acted upon. Our platform will be announced at an early date for consideration by the voters," they said.

Borough resident attends NCJW session program

Mrs. Leon Salz of 1175 Foothill way, Mountainside, recently attended the National Council of Jewish Women's Washington leadership conference. Mrs. Salz is the treasurer of the Mid-Atlantic District of the National Council.

According to a spokesman for the Greater Westfield Section, NCJW "Council women today are deeply committed to the fight against poverty to the struggle for equality of all people and to improved education and peace for all mankind. More than 5,000 NCJW volunteers in this state are engaged in dynamic programs of community service, education and social action to accomplish these objectives."

Annual programs planned for Scouts by district leaders

Twelve months of activities and variety will be built into the program of approximately 25 Cub Scout packs, as annual planning conferences are being held this month in the Colonial District, Watchung Area Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Adult leaders in each pack will select monthly themes for the period from May through next April, according to Lester Friedman, district scout executive of the Watchung Area Council.

Suggested monthly themes to be considered by the Cubmaster of each pack, his assistants, den mothers and pack committee members are: May, "Davy Jones' Locker," June, "When Dad Was a Boy," July, "Cub Scout Olympics," August, "Mystery Month," September, "Doorway to Adventure," October, "Ghosts and Goblins," November, "Showboat," December, "Winter Wonderland," January, "Fit for America," February, "Cub Scout Spirit," March, "Indian Lore," April, "Hobbies and Pets."

Scout council and district activities for the coming year will include "Great Canoe Race" on May 4, father and son on May 18 and 19, Cub Olympics on May 11 and "Panorama '68" on June 8-9 at North Branch Park.

Webelos Scouts, who are 10-year-old boys, will have a selected activity badge each month on which to base their Webelos den program. Suggested for 1968-69 are forester, geologist, outdoorsman, aquanaut, sportsman, scientist, showman, craftsman, athlete, artist and engineer.

Friedman also explained that "the program of the Cub Scout pack also has a depth of purpose that has lasting values that help a boy long after his Cub Scouting days. The variety, action, and purpose," he said, "must also be fun not only for the boys but also for the whole family."

Four Mountainside residents who have recently been elected to serve as members-at-large of the area council are Byron Dimnick, Ellis Peak, Edward Steel and Robert Van Vorhees.

FAMILY LIFE TODAY
By Mabel G. Stolte, County Home Economist

SEX EDUCATION IN SCHOOLS AND HOMES

About a year ago, the New Jersey State Board of Education, aware of the great need of both student and parent sex education to improve the mental health of it's people, started making plans. Plans were developed to help each local community become aware of the urgent need and then supply educational tools designed to be fitted to individual community requirements.

Since last fall (1967) many of your PTA school and home discussion groups have been encouraged to start programs by local school faculties, as well as religious groups, the Home Economics Extension Service and Rutgers' Cooperative Extension Service Human Relations Specialist, Mr. Andrew Anderson. Although parents may differ in their views of the school's responsibility, none have denied the importance of their children developing a healthy, mental attitude towards sex. Most parents want their children to receive adequate and helpful information about sex.

Some community educational systems start sex education as early as kindergarten, or first grade, and continue their program right through to twelfth grade. The main goal of many of these school programs has been, and will be, to give youngsters the knowledge that sex is much more than sexual intercourse and the steps leading to it. Sexuality is maleness or femaleness. It influences the way we react to situations throughout our lives and has been a part of each of us since birth.

MORE AND MORE families each year live in more urban communities with both parents rushing off to work after taking their children to a day nursery or school. Thus, less and less time is being devoted to important added ingredients of "tender-loving care," "motherliness," and "fatherliness."

Plan benefit exhibition May 8 and 9 of Davies' American art collection

Area residents are again being given the opportunity to view the traditional American painting collected by George O. Davies. The showing will be held on two days, Wednesday and Thursday, May 8 and 9, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. at the Davies Home, 17 Bennett pl., (off Wychwood road) in Westfield.

The collection ranges from James Cropsey (1823-1900) and John Frederick Kensett (1816-1872) of the famed Hudson River School of painting, to Tom Nicholas, one of this country's outstanding young artists. Davies has recently acquired paintings executed by Nicholas during his Autumn 1967 visits to Greece and Italy. Nicholas is represented in the collection by three large water colors, three small water colors and three small oils.

Royal Doulton figurines, collected by Mrs. Davies, will also be exhibited. This is considered the finest collection of Royal Doulton in America outside of a museum. Since the 1967 showing, the new Doulton piece of an Indian Grave and his horse has been added. This contrasts with the famous "Matador," as it has a matte finish rather than the customary glaze. The "Matador" was one of the highlights of the 1967 showing.

The exhibition is being co-sponsored this year by the Youth and Family Counseling Service, 233 Prospect st., Westfield, and the Westfield Art Association. The YFCS will devote its benefits from this showing to increase the services it renders to the people of Berkeley Heights, Cranford, Clark, Garwood, Mountainside, Scotch Plains, Rahway and Westfield. Tickets are $1 (tax deductible) and will be available at the door or from board members.

WHEN LORETTA was 13, she became interested in the bassoon and has become so accomplished that she plays the instrument in the Gov. Livingston Regional High School Symphonic Band (of which she is also vice-president) and has composed works for that instrument. She has also played the bassoon in the All State Band and in Young Artists Chamber Orchestra of N.J. of Short Hills, an organization composed of artists from the seventh grade to college graduates. She participates in the two or three concerts a year that are given in the Children's Museum in Morristown and at Fairleigh Dickinson College.

And she still finds time to attend the Saturday classes she began six years ago at the Juilliard School of Music in New York City, where she studies composition theory and keyboard harmony, and as her mother says, "gets exceptionally high marks", accompany her high school choir on the piano and play the organ at the 12 o'clock Sunday mass at Our Lady of Lourdes Church.

A senior now at Gov. Livingston High School, Loretta maintains a B average and is a member of the National Honor Society.

Although her world revolves mostly around music, this young lady likes to go to social affairs and engage in teenage activities. "Of course," she remarks, "my friends are mostly kids interested in music and art, but I realize that I must get to know the world outside of music, because how can I ever write about that world if I don't know anything about it." Loretta credits her friends and teachers "for encouraging me to go on." "You see," she says, "I had not made up my mind definitely about going into the field of composing, until I was a junior in high school. I owe much of that decision to my friends and teachers who encouraged and helped me.

"Music is a time-consuming thing, I get an idea and I have to apply myself for long periods of time to develop the idea before anything is created out of it. I know how difficult it is to break into the field of composition, and without the help of my friends and wonderful teachers, I could have easily become discouraged."

Thus this practical-minded young lady decided to apply for entrance to the Eastman School of Music, which is a part of Rochester University. "I love Juilliard," she says, "but I thought it would be a change and I could broaden my scope, meet new friends and go to a different place."

"WHEN I GRADUATE," she goes on, "I will be qualified as a music teacher, but I don't intend to make teaching my life's work. It will serve as my backstop to the field of composing. As a teacher, I will be able to support myself while trying to break into that field. I hope to teach talented children, because I believe I can learn from them too". "Also," she continues in a confident voice, "I intend to keep on playing the bassoon and perhaps I can get good enough to play with a big-name orchestra."

Loretta's compositions already include three short pieces for the flute and piano, which a "flutist friend has publicly played and which has been favorably received," her mother says. "Evanescence Essay," which was performed by the Gov. Livingston Band at an exchange program at a high school in Warwick, R.I., and for which Loretta received recognition by way of flowers, and congratulatory telegrams: "Rhapsody for Piano and Band", which was also performed by the Regional Band at another exchange program at Alexandria, Va., and "The Listeners," a musical composition based on a poem by Walter De LaMare, and which is now in the process of being copyrighted.

As a result of her work, Loretta is one of two high school students this year to receive Lincoln Center Awards. The award entitles her to attend two "by invitation only" New York Philharmonic concerts, one opera, a ballet and a play each year.

While hoping for a scholarship at Eastman, where she has been accepted, levelheaded young Loretta is taking no chances. She works in a restaurant after school and "I will work there this summer."

When Mrs. Jankowski was looked at, with almost a bewilderment by this reporter, and asked what she and Loretta's father, who is an inspection supervisor with the Accurate Bushing Co., in Garwood, thought about this amazing young lady, she shook her head and said in a low, humble voice, "We have no idea where Loretta got it. We only know we are very grateful and very proud."

SOMERSET TIRE SERVICE'S Weekly Feature

By GARY LESSING, Manager

Leg's mix 'em up in today's baseball column. Let's see how well versed you are in a variety of sporting activities. For instance, what famous baseball manager was known as the "Patriarch of the Dugout?" He spent 67 years in baseball. He died at age 93. He was manager-owner of the former Philadelphia Athletics.

Who was "Little Napoleon?" He was manager of the former New York Giants. How about naming "The Flying Dutchman" who roamed the infield of the Pittsburgh Pirates for 21 years. Can you name baseball's greatest clown? Many will name Al Schacht, but the chap we have in mind was the old-timer who used to chase fire engines, turn hand-springs for kids, disappear during ball games.

Did you name these greats: Connie Mack, John McGraw, Honus Wagner and Rube Waddell.

Trouble-free bicycling? Now's time to prepare

Now is the time of year when preparation for the bicycling season is in order and Bob Tansey of Benninger-Tansey, 854 Mountain ave., Mountainside suggests a three-part approach for a safe and trouble-free season of fun on bicycles, particularly for the youngsters who do most of the riding.

A thorough check of the bicycle itself to insure that all parts are in working order, proper registration of the vehicle with local authorities, and a review of the safety rules governing bicycle riding are the three important steps to be taken, according to Tansey.

A season in storage almost automatically guarantees that the bicycle must be adjusted before use again. The youngster's legs may have grown over the winter months, so an adjustment of the saddle probably is in order. The same holds true of the handle bars. A comfortable position is essential to full enjoyment and safety.

Other points to check should include the brake, pedals, spokes, tires and chain. Worn or poorly functioning parts should be replaced. The chain in particular should be checked for damaged links and a snug fit. A cleaning and lubrication of the chain will avoid problems later, perhaps when the youngster is a way from home and unable to remedy the situation on his own, Tansey pointed out.

Tires often show defects after long periods of idleness and these also require careful investigation. At the same time, tire valves should be checked.

Safety equipment is every bit as important as a properly functioning bicycle. A reflector that is visible at least 300 feet away and a light that throws a good beam are two safety features every bike should include.

Normally, insurance policies already carried by most families cover bicycle riders. A homeowners' or tenants' policy provides liability protection up to $25,000. Larger amounts can be obtained if desired.

Most medical policies provide coverage for injury to the rider himself. Protection against damage to or theft of the vehicle can be secured.

Proper registration with local authorities should be impressed upon the youngster who owns the bicycle. Not only does it indicate the need for cooperation with local authority, but registration is important to ownership claims when theft is involved.

Tansey emphasized the need for a thorough understanding of the rules of the road.

"The key to such rules, as pointed out by law enforcement officials and bicycle safety organizations, is that a bicycle is considered a vehicle and should be ridden on the right hand side of the road.

"The fact that it is considered a vehicle means that traffic regulations apply. One-way streets and red and green traffic lights are requirements that must be observed," he commented.

Pedestrians have the right of way over bicycles as well as automobiles. Many injuries occur when this rule is violated.

When bicyclists are riding in a group, the single-file method should be adopted. The last rider has the responsibility of keeping the others in line.

BIG DRINKERS — Rats are making pigs of themselves in brain research experiments conducted by Dr. Joseph Mendelson of the Rutgers College psychology department. As long as water is available, Dr. Mendelson's rats continue, even when bloated, to press levers which induce thirst. The psychologist says they keep on drinking just for the fun of it.

Rats are making pigs of themselves

Their cups runneth over in brain experiments

"You can lead a horse to water," goes the adage, "but you can't make him drink." This bit of our forefathers' wisdom may be in need of revision as a result of brain research experiments conducted by Dr. Joseph Mendelson of the Rutgers College psychology department.

Laboratory rats (they're easier and cheaper to work with than horses) not only have been led to water, but have learned to induce thirst in themselves so that they can enjoy more water, even though they may be loaded to the gills.

Psychologists have found it easy to train rats to press a certain lever to get a drink when they're thirsty. But Dr. Mendelson wondered how the rats would react to an induced thirst if they had plenty of water, and were, in fact, satiated with the stuff.

The rats were outfitted with stainless steel electrodes in their brains to stimulate the part that regulates thirst. When they tripped a lever they would get a mild charge that made them thirsty.

AFTER NUMEROUS EXPERIMENTS, Dr. Mendelson discovered that the rats would not press the thirst inducing lever when water was unavailable. They got no kick from the thirst stimulation alone. The same rats, however, would continue to press the lever, even though bloated, when water was available to them.

From this, Dr. Mendelson concluded that the combination of the two, thirst and availability of water, produced in the rats a sense of reward that they themselves could control.

In other words, says Dr. Mendelson, the rats discovered that by repeatedly pressing the bar they could take advantage of the availability of water; that is, they could enjoy the reward or "fun" of drinking.

It is the fun or reward idea that is the significant part of Dr. Mendelson's findings. The classical view of motivation holds that thirst is the primary thing that motivates rats to seek water. But, Dr. Mendelson says, this view must be re-examined in the light of the results of his current research.

"To say that thirst motivates rats to press the lever to obtain water is no more meaningful than to say that water motivates rats to press for thirst," he says. "It is the availability of both thirst and water that induces the rats to literally take steps to get both."

"In the same way," Dr. Mendelson says, "the availability of food to satiated animals would probably motivate them to seek hunger."

The 29-year-old psychologist began his research at M.I.T. and continued at the University of Michigan. Now, with the aid of $82,000 from the National Science Foundation and the National Institute of Mental Health, he will continue his research at Rutgers for three years.

"IN PREVIOUS INVESTIGATIONS I have found that hunger and thirst are not necessary to induce rats to seek food and water," he says. "My present objective is to show that moderate hunger and thirst do not even contribute to a rat's desire to find food and water. Rather these drives tell the rats that eating and drinking can now be rewarding."

With two research assistants and three other members of a team, Dr. Mendelson is expanding his experiments to include other aspects of rat behavior, such as nest building, hoarding and mating.

Much of the research will be aimed at determining the relationship between electrical stimulation and the rats' natural environment and how the two govern behavior.

It's all designed to find out more about what makes the furry little creatures run, and like most psychological research it will hopefully find a place in studies of what makes a complex human being run.

Dr. Mendelson hasn't suggested that there are parallels between the rats and humans in his initial experiments, but the results are suggestive.

After all, well-fed humans have been "pressing the lever" to induce hunger for years. How about that cocktail before dinner?

Meadowbrook musical is lively, bouncy, 'funny'

By BEA SMITH
"Funny Girl," the sad-funny musical biography of Fanny Brice, has many things in its favor on stage at the Meadowbrook Theater-in-the-Round in Cedar Grove. Its music is lively, bouncy, quiet and lovely; its scenery is beautiful and colorful, and its cast is entirely entertaining.

It lacks one thing, however, "Funny Girl" at the Meadowbrook lacks a "funny" girl. The beautiful Denise Lor, try as she might, cannot convince an audience that she's homely, unattractive and "unsexy."

After a while, however, when the Jule Styne-Bob Merrill show gets on the road, and the music livens the theater with such numbers as "People," "Don't Rain On My Parade," "Sadie, Sadie," "I'm the Greatest Star," and "Rat-Tat-Tat-Tat," the audience begins to accept the fine performance of Miss Lor and the equally fine performance of her co-star, Johnny Desmond and their supporting cast, particularly Thelma Lee, La Rue Watts, Ronnie Cunningham, Art Barnett, Frank Birt and Ray Becker.

There are lots of sharp, funny lines, when the case is not singing and dancing. The musical is very well directed by Marvin Gordon.

'Battle of Bands' slated Saturday

Four bands will compete Saturday night at Union High School in the Battle of the Bands, sponsored by Youth-in-Action of Union.

A psychedelic light show will be one of the highlights of the evening. The display has been donated by Rondo Music, Route 22, Union.

'Wind's 17th week

"Gone With the Wind" is currently in its 17th week at the Clairidge Theater, Montclair. The David O. Selznick production, which won 10 Academy awards, is being shown in 70 mm. wide screen, stereophonic sound and Metro color, and stars Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, Olivia De Havilland, Leslie Howard and Hattie McDaniel.

Hoffman, Bancroft movie in 12th week

"The Graduate" began its 12th week yesterday at the Millburn Cinema in Millburn. The picture, which won several Oscars, tells an adult story of an awkward young man who rebels against his elders' way of life.

'Carmen, Baby' is held on Art Theater screen

"Carmen, Baby," the controversial adult picture updating the "Carmen" theme, began its second week yesterday at the Art Theater, Irvington Center.

Douglass begins expansion program

Will permit 3,599 student enrollment

ABOVE THE BANKS — The Douglass College campus is composed of a main academic area surrounded by three residential areas.

Students frequently use bicycles to get from one spot to another on the sprawling, well-landscaped grounds. This is the 50th year since the founding of Douglass.

Douglass College is in the early stages of a building expansion program which will eventually allow student enrollment to reach 3,500. This 700-woman increase will make Douglass one of the largest women's colleges in the nation.

The long-range expansion program is under way as Douglass marks the 50th year since its founding as a unit of Rutgers University in New Brunswick.

Additional dormitories already are being constructed at Gibbons Campus. The over-all construction program is scheduled for completion in the next six years, depending on the availability of funds.

The university can borrow a large part of the cost to build income-producing facilities such as residence halls and dining rooms, but the state is being asked to provide funds for classroom, office and other educational facilities. The total financing package of about $20 million will include loans, state and federal grants and private funds.

The college has had to restrict enrollment in recent years because of a lack of space. The new construction is designed to bring Douglass to its peak capacity.

THE BUILDING PROGRAM includes the new Gibbons dormitory and dining hall complex now under construction, an office-classroom building, replacement of the Cooper dining hall, an addition to the Jameson residence quadrangle, completion of the Leonor F. Loree Gymnasium, additions to the music building, library and home economics-psychology building and renovation of the Little Theater.

A total of 450 students will be housed in the new residence hall complex on Gibbons Campus, which eventually will replace the original wood frame houses built there in 1926 and housing 400 students. Temporarily some of the frame houses will also continue in use to enable all students who wish to live on campus to do so in the fall of 1968.

The project, scheduled for completion by next fall, consists of two quadrangle-shaped complexes. Each will house 225 young women in seven, three-story units resembling town houses.

Eight existing houses on Gibbons will be renovated during the summer to provide 120 beds for a total expansion of 170 at Gibbons.

A new Gibbons dining hall will permit the Cooper and Neilson dining halls to serve the numbers for which they were originally intended.

EXPANSION AND IMPROVEMENT of the college began soon after it first opened its doors in 1918 as the New Jersey College for Women. NJC then had two buildings and 54 students.

The first two buildings were College Hall, originally the home of John N. Carpenter, and the former Drury Cooper home. In the next few years, the College Hall carriage house became the physics building, now the honors house. The girls' gym (still in use) was constructed from World War I surplus packing boxes originally intended for use as crates for airplane motors.

Growing enrollment resulted in the construction, a few years later, of the first "horseshoe campus," consisting of cottages arranged in a semi-circle. It later was named Corwin Campus in honor of the second dean of the college, Margaret T. Corwin. In 1926, Gibbons was constructed as the second horseshoe campus. In 1928, construction started on Jameson Campus and, in 1959, Neilson Campus opened.

Federation Hall, completed in 1922 with funds from the State Federation of Women's Clubs, was the first building built only for academic purposes. It now houses the admissions office. Three consecutive appropriations by the State Legislature, starting in 1923, resulted in construction of three classroom buildings—science, recitation and botany—now renamed chemistry, arts and biological sciences.

VOORHEES CHAPEL and the music building also were built in that period. The student center opened in 1953. An addition, approximately doubling its size, opened in 1966, when the building was renamed College Center.

The library-study center, opened in 1961, was made possible by state funds, as were the gymnasium, home economics-psychology building, opened in 1963, and Hickman Hall, which opened in 1964.

It is now planned that the college's enrollment will increase to 3,500 young women and then be held at that point to enable the college to maintain the traditional close bond between its faculty and students which continued expansion might threaten. The University will expand by adding new colleges rather than by indefinitely increasing the size of the present ones.

On-job rate of injuries sets record

WASHINGTON -- Although highway dangers make the headlines, a 10 per cent increase in on-the-job injuries since World War II makes today's factories and shops an even greater threat to life and limb.

While 1.9 million were disabled in 1966 from automotive accidents, 2.2 million suffered disabling work injuries that year. Many of them will never work again.

"Time in working today not as the ally, but as the enemy, of occupational safety," Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz said before the Congress on behalf of the proposed Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1968.

During the 1940s the strain on production capabilities resulted in high accident rates in manufacturing. Improvement came and by 1958 a record low was reached of 10.8 disabling injuries per million man hours worked. Now the rate is beginning to climb again. It has moved up steadily since 1958 and reached a record of 13.2 in the first half of 1966."

Wirtz outlined the need for a law which would establish enforceable federal safety and health standards throughout the country, would aid the states to establish programs for protecting workers and would provide for information gathering, research and training programs on work accidents and occupational diseases.

Each year, 14,000 to 15,000 working men and women are killed on-the-job. This toll is one reason that the accidental death rate in the United States is higher today than that of 40 other nations -- including the industrialized countries of England, Japan, Sweden, Hungary, the Netherlands and Italy.

McCarthy far ahead of field at Drew

A student poll at Drew University, Madison, projects 40 percent of the student vote favoring Minnesota Senator Eugene McCarthy for president.

Running a far second is New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, with just less than 16 percent.

The poll was taken as a preliminary reading of sentiment on the New Jersey campus prior to the April 24 "Choice 68" national student election, in which Drew's College of Liberal Arts students are participating.

Colleges and universities in all 50 states are participating in the "Choice 68" election, choosing from a field of 14 candidates for the presidency.

Some 10 per cent of Drew's 1200 liberal arts undergraduates were polled in the preliminary reading. Senator Robert F. Kennedy and former Vice President Richard Nixon tied for third, with slightly better than 10 percent each.

President Lyndon B. Johnson received about five percent of the student vote. California Governor Ronald Reagan picked up slightly more than two percent, and Michigan Governor George Romney gained slightly less than two percent.

Approximately 15 percent of the students polled had not yet made up their minds.

Vanti as lago. Armen Boyajian, director, will appear as narrator and accompanist. The concert is sponsored by the Polish Arts Club and Mrs. Stanley Jaworski of 575 Golf ter., Union, is co-chairman.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

This is the season when we look forward to the perfect days of spring. There is no price tag on a beautiful day. It is a gift, a present from the Giver of all good things.
The beauty of the season can gladden the eye. Let it. Admire the blooms and the redwoods, touch the petals of a redrose.
If your troubles seem overwhelming, look for the beauty of the world that surrounds you. Find time for a peaceful walk in the park, or the woods. If neither is near, substitute a silent prayer in the church on the corner.
Simply refuse to give in to despair. Remember above all things there is hope. If you can see no end to a worry that is yours, take the time to consider the lilies of the field and how they grow. The worry will not be resolved, but it will be softened, and within your heart you will know that there will be a better tomorrow.

3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
5. Hoarseness or cough.

6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.

Family open house Sunday afternoon at Five Points 'Y'

The Five Points YMCA will hold its family open house program at the YMCA building at 218 Salem rd., Sunday from 2 - 4 p.m. Warren Rorden, chairman of the public relations committee, is being assisted by Mrs. Doris Morrison, Mrs. Audrey Kranski, Mrs. Mary Merrick, Mrs. Virginia Rorden, Lester Pelkington and others.

Displays, demonstrations, fellowship and free refreshments will be offered to the families present, Howard Merrick, Branch Executive, said.

Displays being planned include an exhibit by the family camping group of tents, trailers, stoves, kitchen units, and a family camping information center with brochures of places to camp. There will also be displays of the Nursery School, Summer Fun Club, Aquatics, Camp Wawayanda and the 'Y' Indian Guides.

Demonstrations will include trampolines under the direction of Neil Frigand, gymnastics under the instruction of Henry Kratz, baton twirling led by Miss Alice Kennedy. These will be done by members of the regular class.

"This open house program will be an opportunity for those who are not acquainted with the YMCA programs to get a glimpse of what goes on at the YMCA. Members, too, will see what other programs the YMCA offers and all will have a chance to meet the board of managers. This is the YMCA contribution to the youth week events in Union," Merrick said.

Clergy challenge suburbs on 'crisis' in cities

Clergymen of three faiths called on white, suburban America to do what is "morally right" as they discussed "The Spiritual Crisis in the Urban Community" at Newark State College in Union Friday.

The workshop session was one of a series held at the college Friday and Saturday during a "Conference on Urban Affairs." The keynote address was given Friday night by Paul N. Yivisaker, state commissioner of urban affairs, who urged a "massive commitment" to solve the problems facing the state and the nation.

At the workshop on "The Spiritual Crisis," the Rev. Thomas G. Fahy, vice president for instruction at Seton Hall University, described the problem of urban blight as beyond the powers of the cities themselves to solve.

"The real power today rests in suburban America," he said. "As long as suburban citizens remain hostile to the city's problems, these problems will be unresolved."

NOTING THAT THE nation's "largest and most influential" churches and synagogues are located in the suburbs, he said the suburban clergyman should have great opportunities "to wield an influence for good."

But when the suburban clergyman gets up in front of his congregation on a Saturday or Sunday morning and discusses the racial issue or urban blight, he can "almost hear the tension" in the congregation, Father Fahy said.

He suggested that clergymen consider "an older approach" to their religious congregations and "use the word 'God' itself," adding: "We have a tradition to prove that before God all men are equal."

The "doctrine of equality" also was emphasized by Rabbi Irwin Fishbein of Elizabeth. He said that this doctrine of equality, "that you shall love your neighbor as yourself," has not been taken seriously over the years by religion.

The real spiritual crisis of our nation is that we do not regard all of our fellow Americans as total human beings," the rabbi said.

HE ALSO CHARGED that there is a "lack of feeling" in the cities today and called on organized religion to play "a more definitive role in this crisis of feeling."

The Rev. William Fox of Newark, the only Negro on the panel, described the spiritual crisis as "essentially a problem of will on the part of an affluent society to do what it morally knows to be right."

The suburb has a moral responsibility to the city, he said. It must see the city as related to the whole metropolitan complex— "one social fabric." This means a need for better schools, better services, more taxes, he added.

He urged "self-determination" for the core city, explaining that this means that whites must "share power" with the black community.

He added:

"The April 7 Walk for Understanding in Newark dramatized how life quality can be enriched and how a new social force can be engendered in a community."

Other workshop sessions Friday discussed "The Politics of Urban Education," "Urban Immigrants: New and Old, a Comparative Study," and "The Policeman and the Community."

THE CONFERENCE CONTINUED Saturday with workshops on "The Air We Breathe and the Water We Drink," "New Careers for the Poor: The Role of the Urban School," "Strangers in the City: La Vida," "The War on Poverty: Success or Failure," "The Urban Crisis: The City and Transportation," "Compensation or Integration: The Dilemma of the Urban School," "The Search for Identity: The Urban Negro," "The Welfare Dilemma," "The Shape of the City to Come," "The Role of the University in the Urban Environment," "Property Rights and Human Rights: The Debate on Open Housing" and "The Riot: Symptom or Sickness."

Three speakers on "The Riot" panel agreed that the prospects for Newark this summer look no better than last summer, when rioting tore the city. The speakers, who said nothing has been accomplished there in the past year, were Sanford Jaffee, director of the Governor's Commission on Civil Disorder; Kenneth Gibson, former Newark mayorality candidate; and Eric Mann, who was a member of the Students for Democratic Action in Newark.

Toolmaker training outlined to Union Chamber committee

Frederick J. Worley, executive secretary of the New Jersey Tool, Die and Precision Machining Association, addressed a meeting of the management-labor relations committee of the Union Township Chamber of Commerce last Wednesday at the Town & Campus Restaurant. He spoke on "On the Job Training."

Worley discussed recruiting, testing and training of four-year toolmaker apprentices and others receiving shorter periods of training as machine tool specialists.

He was introduced by Bernard C. Grable, personnel director of the Breeze Corp. of Union.

The state tool and die association has its headquarters in Union. Local area affiliated firms include William T. Hutchinson Co. of Springfield, Universal Manufacturing Co. of Irvington, S. F. Metal Products Corp. of Linden, Progressive Die & Mold Corp. of Mountainside, K. & R. Tool Co. of Roselle, Accurate Machine & Tool Co. of Roselle Park, All Tool Co. of Union and Klemens Tool & Die Co. of Kenilworth.

SMOKING SAFELY

Set up rigid family smoking rules for safety's sake, advises the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company. See that they are obeyed. Thoughtless family and guest smoking habits account for the largest number of residence fires each year. Rules should include no smoking in bed, and safe disposal of cigarettes and matches.

At the meeting, which will be open to the public, an American Cancer Society film will be shown, and a lecture will be given by a prominent physician on methods of breaking the smoking habit, and the effect of smoking on general health. Information on the organization's future programs, and registration of new members will be made at the same time.

Senator Williams offers 'Summer Scholarships'

U. S. Senator Harrison A. Williams (D-NJ) announced this week that for the tenth consecutive year, he is offering three "Washington Summer Scholarships" to New Jersey high school seniors.

The competition is open to graduating seniors in New Jersey High Schools, and three winners will be chosen from the state—one each from North, Central, and South Jersey.

As winners of the scholarship, the three high school graduates will get a look "behind the scenes" in Washington, as guests of Senator Williams. They will spend ten days in the nation's capital, touring key government departments and talking to high-ranking Washington officials.

Sen. Williams noted that this year's contest winners will be arriving at a time "when Washington has really come alive with a vibrant political and social climate." He pointed out that an election year, coupled with the urgent business of both houses of Congress, makes 1968 an excellent year for the interested student of American government.

DEADLINE FOR ENTRIES in the Summer Scholarship contest is May 20. Notices of the competition, and application materials, have been sent to every high school in New Jersey.

Sen. Williams said that several factors weigh in the judging of entries: academic achievement of the entrant; participation in extracurricular activities; and the quality of a 500-word essay on "The Student's Role in Government and Politics."

Sen. Williams said that a full schedule is being planned again this year for the scholarship winners. "I believe that the variety of experiences we make available to the scholarship winners gives them a thorough grounding in the complexities of modern government," he added.

Last year, the three winners toured the Supreme Court, U. S. Information Agency, the Goddard Space Flight Center, and a number of other Washington agencies. The three New Jersey graduates were greeted by senators, congressmen — and by Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

Sen. Williams singled out what he called the "refreshing interplay of ideas" during the scholarship program. He said: "All parties—the scholarship winners and all of us in my office—benefit from the program. I like to think of this annual scholarship as a unique give-and-take between those of us who work year-round on really perplexing issues, and three high school seniors who bring a new perspective into the discussions."

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS
Dear Amy:
The problem is my 20 year old sister who never lets me wear any of her clothes. Once I wear her cranberry dress to school, and when she found out, she blew her stack. She sometimes wears my clothes and then she says, "Well that's different." I never ruined any of them. I always hung them up again. We also have arguments about makeup, even hair spray. If I run out, she wouldn't dare let me have a little spray of her's. She's a real nut. How should we end this stupid problem?

L.A.G.
Dear L.A.G.:
Your sister has not learned how to share, only to borrow. End the problem by not borrowing what's her's and not lending what's your's.

Dear Amy:
My husband had been receiving letters from my boyfriend, due to the fact that I work in the morning and my husband works in the afternoon. He receives all the mail in the morning and some of this mail is from my boyfriend (love letters). Because I'm ashamed to tell my husband frankly we have begun to quarrel though I know that my husband really is not fooling around and he is jealous. To hide my mistake, I drove my husband away from home and I filed for a divorce. My husband is living with his mother, but my children, two girls, are not happy that their Daddy is not living with us anymore.
What shall I do to make my two girls happy and understanding that I love this other man?
Mrs. Confused

Dear Mrs. Confused:
If you think you can have your cake and eat it, too, without causing unhappiness to your family, you are sadly mistaken.
There is no way that you can make two little girls happy, when you have literally thrown out their father and insist on bringing in another man to take his place.
If your husband loves you, has been good to you and his children, you are making a horrible mistake to throw away bread and look for crumbs.
The decision is yours!
Mrs. M.C.

Dear Amy:
Enclosed is this little poem my grandchild wrote in all sincerity, and if her poem is worth reading, I'd like her to receive some recognition for her efforts, either in print or by mail.
Perhaps you may know to whom to direct it to on your staff. Hoping you will think it well worth reading and any consideration given it will be greatly appreciated by a regular reader of your column.
Mrs. M.C.

Dear Mrs. M.C.:
Your granddaughter's poem was well worth reading. She has demonstrated great thought, talent and sensitivity for one so young. I submit it with pleasure for everyone to read. ...From the mouths of babes...

On-job accidents exact frightful toll in life, limb

WASHINGTON -- Every working hour the United States economy loses $3.4 million from on-the-job accidents. The eight-hour work day costs $27.2 million - a whopping $6.8 billion every year. Industrial accidents are even more costly to the American working man and woman -- a life, a limb, an eye.

Each year 14,000 to 15,000 die in on-the-job accidents, over 2 million are disabled -- many permanently, and 7 million plus are injured.

The American worker loses $750,000 in wages each working hour -- $6 million each eight-hour day.

In recent testimony before the Congress on behalf of the proposed Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1968, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz declared:

"We can only determine the economics of industrial accidents by asking ourselves what price we put on a life, or a limb, or an eye... and that price the same for every member of the family of America as it would be for a member of our own families?"

The Labor Secretary outlined the need for a law which would establish enforceable federal safety and health standards throughout the country, would aid the states to establish programs for protecting workers and would provide for information gathering, research and training programs on work accidents and occupational diseases.

In addition to the $1.5 billion in wages lost annually from work accidents, $3.8 billion is lost in production and in destroyed property, and $1.5 billion in medical expenses and insurance fees.

U.S. Savings Bank name two
William B. Licklider, president of the United States Savings Bank announced this week that Arch Blickenstaff of Summit, executive vice-president of the Continental Insurance Companies, and G. Patterson Littell of Chatham, vice-president of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co., had been elected members of the board.

Blickenstaff started with the Loyalty Group in 1941, became vice-president in 1958 the same year that the Loyalty Group became affiliated with The Continental Insurance Companies and upon affiliation was made a vice-president of Continental. He was elected executive vice-president in 1966.

Littell entered the United States Army as a private in 1941 and was a major in the 101st Airborne Division, when he was discharged in 1945. He was Sunday editor of the Indianapolis Star from 1948 to 1952, before he became associated with Indiana Bell Telephone Co. He transferred to the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. as vice-president in 1961.

The bank has six offices, including one at 72 Mt. Vernon pl., Vailsburg.

Wirtz urges steps to aid employment

WASHINGTON -- There exists a pressing need for an examination of our basic institutions which society has developed for moving youth into adulthood and into employment, Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz has declared.

In testimony on Learning and Earning Act (S. 3099) before the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare, Wirtz stated that "by October of 1966, those who had graduated from high school in June of that year endured an unemployment rate of 14.2 percent, and those that dropped out of school that year, 17.4 percent."

"The irony of this tragic situation is that it occurred and is still occurring in a period of high employment and skill shortages," Wirtz continued.

It is this situation which Title I of the Act hopes to alleviate, Wirtz explained, by creating new ways to bridge the gap between public education and manpower agencies.

Under the bill, he said, "new and exemplary programs can be tried out at the local level with Federal financing and with particular emphasis on full cooperation and participation by the schools, employment service agencies, and employers."

"If the educational system is failing a significant portion of youth, those youth who do not go on to college, its failures must be openly recognized and fundamental changes be made," Wirtz continued.

"If the employment service system is not reacting and serving in those youth who need its help, the most, its shortcomings must be recognized and acted upon."

"If private industry and employers are establishing policies against the hiring of youth, a way must be found to change these policies."

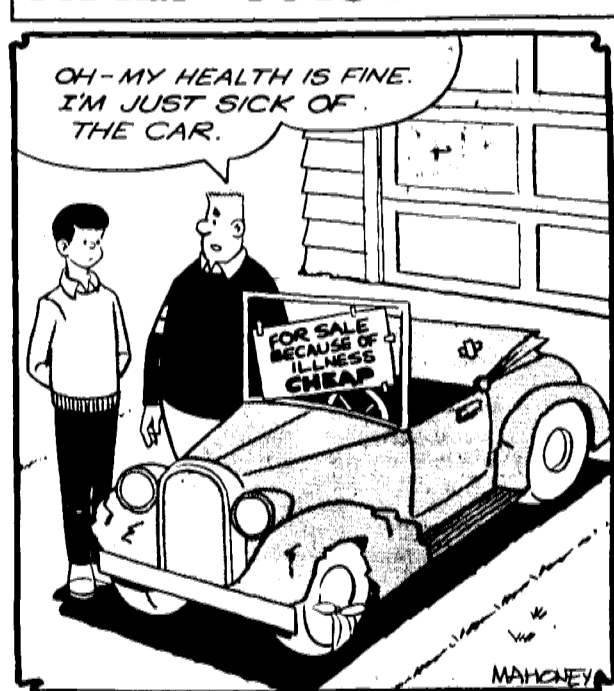

"If all those institutions are not doing enough to prepare noncollege-bound youth for the world in which they will spend most of their lives, the world of work, they must band together in every effort to do so."

Most current shortcomings, Wirtz pointed out, in one way or another involve a failure of institutions to pull together to serve the interests of youth.

Wirtz stated, for example, that while Government manpower and employment services and business have begun to recognize the importance of their role in education, there is not yet the counseling needed to reach the young people while they are still in school.

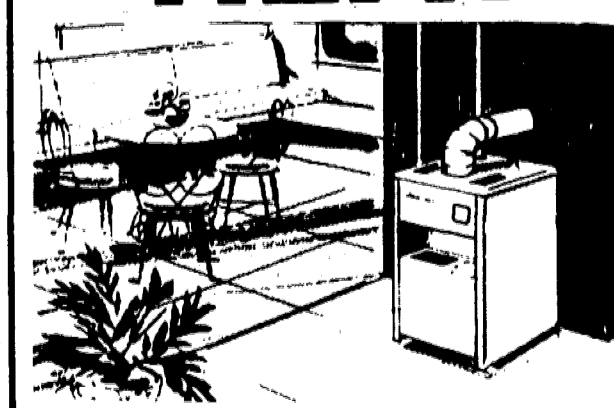

"The Department of Labor and its related manpower agencies at the state and local levels," he stated, "particularly the 2,000 local employment service offices, must be more intimately involved on a day-to-day basis with the youngsters while in school."
All in all, Wirtz concluded, "Title I of S. 3099 will open doors for us to come to grips with the quality of the basic institutional arrangements that society has created for young people to help them prepare for their life's work."

remember when you stopped driving home a point?

Opening a can is safer and easier when you do it with electricity. But hasn't the cost of electricity skyrocketed, like everything else? Definitely not! While the cost of living has risen 120% in 25 years, the average cost of electricity has gone down 45%, thanks to increased usage and rate reductions. Of course, electric bills are higher. But when you think how many modern electrical appliances you use in your home today, you'll realize that it's still your best bargain.

UC counseling internship for Seton grad students

A counseling internship program for graduate students has been set up on a pilot basis during the current spring semester by Union College, Cranford, and the Department of Counseling and Special Services of the School of Education of Seton Hall University, South Orange.

The program is designed to give the graduate students actual counseling experience at a two-year college. Dr. Paul V. Buonaguro, chairman of the Department of Counseling and Special Services, said.

Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president of Union College, said the program will be expanded in the future if the pilot program proves to be successful and beneficial.

"We view this program as being mutually beneficial to the two institutions and to the participating graduate students," Dr. Iversen said. "It provides an opportunity for them to gain actual experience in counseling at the two-year college level, while it enhances the scope and depth of our counseling program here at Union College and brings new ideas and new concepts from the Graduate School at Seton Hall to our campus."

Dr. Iversen said programs like this are especially valuable at this time because of the great shortage of experienced people in the two-year college field.

"Since the two-year college movement in the United States is growing at a rate of more than one new institution a week, there is a crying need for experienced people to fill all kinds of administrative and teaching positions," Dr. Iversen said. "More programs like this must be developed here in New Jersey and across the nation if our two-year colleges are to provide high quality programs."

"This program is designed to give the graduate students a look at an experience in all phases of the student personnel area," Dr. Iversen said. "This knowledge and experience will be extremely valuable to them when they join a college counseling staff upon completing their studies at Seton Hall University."

Memorial General receives intern training accreditation

Memorial General Hospital has been accredited by the American Osteopathic Association to provide intern training, it was announced this week by Murray Rubin, hospital administrator. The accreditation makes Memorial General the only osteopathic institution in northern New Jersey to have been approved for this specialized program, he said.

A special selection committee will interview candidates for the six approved intern positions. The training program is scheduled to begin July 1, Rubin added.

According to the American Osteopathic Hospital Association, there are 283 osteopathic hospitals, less than half of which--or 124--are accredited. Of the 124 accredited hospitals only seven were approved in 1967 for intern or residency training.

The AOA accreditation committee evaluates hospitals and their professional staffs to determine that they are providing the proper type of medical care. In addition, the committee reviews non-medical departments, such as dietetics, before making a final decision. Memorial General, which was opened in April, 1962, added a $1.75 million wing in July, 1966 that double patient capacity. After it had received its annual accreditation review in June, 1967, the non-profit hospital applied for permission to begin conducting intern training starting this July.

RUBIN SAID THE ACCREDITATION for intern training was based on two factors: the ability to provide quality medical care as determined in the regular hospital accreditation review and the capability of the medical staff to provide the level of teaching required for an intern program. "The opening of the Leeberg Pavilion two years ago added 43,500 square feet of floor space and increased our patient capacity from 90 to 190 beds, thus giving us the physical plant requirements to support effective training programs. This also enabled Memorial General to improve patient care and service to the community. Another advantage of the expansion was that it allowed us to augment our professional staff and to improve the efficiency of staff committees."

From an operating standpoint, the new wing made possible the renovation and expansion of entire departments in the original building, in some cases doubling and even tripling the sizes of such areas as the emergency room, the laboratory complex and the radiology department. The hospital also purchased a considerable amount of the latest and most sophisticated equipment for the expanded departments, Rubin added.

Dr. Herbert Goff of Westfield, Memorial General's medical director, and an intern committee chaired by Dr. Raymond Poggioni of Clark will supervise the intern training and coordinate the curriculum and schedules with all departments.

Wall Street Notebook

By ARTHUR POLLACK

Peace in Vietnam would be the greatest imaginable blessing. In addition to the obvious benefits resulting from an end to any war, I believe there would be substantial economic benefits.

Pressure for a tax surcharge would be lessened and perhaps replaced by pressure for tax reduction. While the U.S. cannot discontinue its defense program, a cut in defense spending could reduce the Federal budget deficit, thus reducing Federal borrowing and the upward climb of interest rates could be reversed. War-time spending which is non-productive would be replaced by productive spending on education, housing, highways and the war on poverty.

Although tight money for the building industry (as a result of the rediscount rate boost) is not automatic -- and particularly since savings & loan associations have been accumulating funds in anticipation of this move -- the possibility of a reduction in available mortgage funds must be considered.

In no event would I expect a credit famine of 1966 proportions, since the heads of both the FNMA and the Federal Home Loan Bank have pledged their assistance in an emergency, even if they should have to contravene Washington's monetary policy.

WHETHER OR NOT the Fed's current strategy will hurt construction activity is, therefore, uncertain. But this much I know: It can't possibly help. Accordingly, near-term weakness in this industry's securities is a distinct possibility...despite the fact that nobody really invested in these issues for their 1968 potential.

Because an eventual building boom remains inevitable--although its timing is uncertain--declining market prices merely would present a better-than-ever opportunity to acquire the building issues.

Bank earnings this year should rise at least eight per cent -- and if there is another increase in the prime rate, a gain could be somewhat greater. Not only are the banks still benefiting from last November's increase in the prime rate to six per cent, they also are in a strong and more liquid position than in 1966 to meet the expected and increasing demand for funds. Deposits of large city banks increased more than 10% on average last year, and much of this increase is still in the form of cash and short-term Government securities.

For a list of investments at this time, write to Arthur S. Pollack in care of this newspaper, Arthur S. Pollack is a stockbroker at Faine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

The Volkswagen for people who refuse to drive Volkswagens.

If you refuse to drive a Volkswagen because it's ugly, we can't help you.
If you refuse to drive a Volkswagen because you have eight kids and it isn't big enough, you have our sympathy.
If you refuse to drive a Volkswagen because it isn't fancy enough, that's for you to decide.
But if you refuse to drive a Volkswagen because you're used to an automatic transmission, listen carefully.
Now you can drive a Volkswagen all over town without shifting.
We call this new option the automatic stick shift.
And in true Volkswagen fashion, a bug with an automatic stick shift will deliver up to 25 miles on a gallon of gas, use very little oil, and nary a drop of water or antifreeze.
But just because we've made it easy to drive, doesn't mean we're about to make it any prettier, or any bigger, or any fancier. So we imagine some people will still refuse to drive Volkswagens.
You can't win them all.
