No independent post office for Mountainside

ONLY GOD CAN MAKE A TREE, but the three combined garden clubs of Mountainside are lending a hand in spreading His handiwork. Contributions from the clubs began the landscaping at the Mountainside Public Library. Sears Roebuck hearing of their project, awarded the clubs additional funds which they used to complete the beautification of the grounds. Shown, planting deepso that future generations may share in the beauty, are, left to right, Mrs. Walter C. Jackson, civic chairman of the Mountainside Garden Club, and Mrs. John Suski, civic chairman of the Mountain Trail Garden Club. (Echo photo by Pam Darley)

council of decision

At a time when the government is attempting to cut back appropriations for post offices throughout the nation, it was no surprise that a communication from Sen. Clifford P. Case, at Tuesday night's Borough Council meeting, informed residents that Mountainside would not get an independent post office.

In his communication, Sen. Case enclosed a copy of a letter from J. J. Doherty, regional director, Post Office Department in Philadelphia, advising that a comprehensive study of postal service in Mountainside revealed that service is "adequate" and that no changes could be made at this time. "An independent post office would not improve the service and operational cost would be prohibitive," Doherty stated.

Resolutions adopted by the mayor and council included an authorization for Robert Koser, borough engineer, to file an application in the appropriate state office for financial assistance under the Federal Disaster Act. Koser did not explain what the funds would be used for if they were granted.

John Musumeci, Inc., of Long Valley was awarded a contract for the removal of snow and ice for the winter of 1968-69. The firm had submitted the lowest bid.

Council accepted the resignation of Patrolman William Alder, a member of the Police Department since July, 1966, who resigned to join the state police force. The mayor and council commended his services and authorized a copy of their commendation be forwarded to the commander of the state police academy and to Col. David Kelly, director of the N.J. State Police. In other police business, the appointment of Frederick W. Ahlholm of 355 Princeton ave., Hillsdale, as a probationary patrolman was approved upon the recommendation of Chief Christian F. Fritz.

Allen J. Hambacher of 1117 Mountain ave., and Joseph Dennis Barry of 1376 Rt. 22, both of Mountainside, were approved as members of the volunteer fire department.

A resolution to revoke the license of Teddy's Sea Food restaurant's pool table was approved. A vending machine license was granted to Foremont Vending Co.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, Councilman Don Robertson reported that "while the community pool is the most predominant thing in the recreation area, we are still not operating a full capacity and are behind last year." He said that additional attractions such as shuffleboard and ping pong had been added at the pool and a complete Red Cross water program is being offered. He praised the swimming

THE STATE ASSEMBLY WAS NEVER LIKE THIS, says Charles Irwin as he battles a bevy of gals who know Mountainside's assemblyman-at-large is never "all-wet." The scene took place at the annual Newcomers Club July picnic and swim party last week. The Irwin family play host each year at their backyard swimming pool. Putting pressure on the host are left to right, Trudy Palmer, Terre Noe, Konnie Goldberg, Sus Horner and Gloria O'Donnell. Who won the struggle has been marked "confidential, top secret." The first was last week at Manor Park. This puts Mountainside's pool in the lead in the Union County Summer Swim Club League with a mark of 2-0.

Dick Joyce, swim coach, stated he "was elated with the victory, is proud of these kids and that daily rugged practices made this possible."

The borough swimmers took six firsts in the relay races, 13 firsts in other events, 6 seconds and 9 thirds. The teams hope to chalk up another victory this Saturday when they meet the Cranford Swim Club at our pool, Joyce said.

In the eight and under division, the boys' winning relay consisted of John Irwin, Brian Phillips, Sean Loftus, and Robert Ventura. ## Toland exhibit at library First showing for young artist

The Mountainside Public library is currently exhibiting a small collection of pictures by a young photographer who, although having been interested and seriously engrossed in the work only for the past year, has turned out some unusual reproductions of scenes.

Robert Toland, who is 15 years old and a sophomore at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, inherited most of the equipment he works with, none of which is less than 40 years old. He practices his film at home.

He believes in taking pictures, not of necessarily important items, but rather of that which pleases him. He is also explicit in insisting that he is not interested in photographing "once-in-a-lifetime reproduction, because I would rather create a trend of my own in my own vein." He says that he must express a feeling or a viewpoint towards something before he can "get the results I want."

In explaining one of his pictures, which he calls "My Zenith," he points out that most of the leaves are distorted, except for a few lower branches. With the distorted leaves clearly focused, he said he feels "these represent our knowledge now, compared to what is to be known in the future."

The tower, one of his other pictures on display, is a shot of the new water tower taken from a position which results in the tower's literally "dissipating into the sky," Robert explains that this view gives the best feeling for depth perception.

Robert said that he hopes to increase and continue his use of photography and that he was indebted to Mrs. Emily Hoffarth, director of the library, for "her help and guidance and the opportunity to share my ideas with others, which Mrs. Hoffarth is encouraging by permitting me to use the library facilities to exhibit my work."

Robert lives with his parents on Puddingstone road, and the family have been residents of the community for the past 11 years.

LL opener won by Mountainside against Irvington

A four-run first inning enabled Mountainside to coast to victory in the opening round of the District 9 New Jersey Little League tournament, 5-1, over the Irvington Internationals at Irvington.

Mountainside's pitcher, Bruce Honecker, struck out 12 batters in the triumph. In the big openinginning, leadoff batter Rusty Heitman walked, Fred Vitello singled and both were driven in by Honecker. A hit by Lenny Sjejk scored Honecker. Randy Dusenberry walked and scored when Jeff Knop flied deep to the outfield.

Sjejk slammed a home run with the bases empty in the third inning for Mountainside's fifth run.

Mountainside was scheduled to meet the Clark Nationals in a second round game last night at Clark.

Curricular studies done under Title I

For the third summer, the Union County Regional High School District is carrying out a program of preparation of curricular materials and of in-service teacher education. This work is being done under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1966, and it brings together teachers from the four regional high schools and two parochial high schools for a summer of work.

The group is presently engaged in the preparation of curricular materials in social studies and English for the suburban disadvantaged youth of tenth grade age. Earlier work was directed at the ninth grade in the areas of social studies, English, mathematics and science.

In addition to the preparation of curricular materials, a program of in-service education for the teachers involved is being carried out. David Carl of the Jonathan Dayton faculty is the director of the project.

Rotarians install Dr. Milton Staub as new president

DR. E. MILTON STAUB

Dr. E. Milton Staub, administrator of the Children's Specialized Hospital on New Providence rd., Mountainside, was installed as president of the Mountainside Rotary Club at a luncheon which was held recently at Wieland's Steak House on Rt. 22.

Dr. Staub replaces James J. Capone, superintendent of the Mountainside Post Office, for the one-year term of office. Capone was presented with the past president's badge, pin and Rotary ring.

Other officers installed were: Edmund T. Roberts of Westfield, first vice-president; William Robinson of Mountainside, second vice-president; Otto Schneider of Mountainside, treasurer, and William Hummel, principal of the Beechwood School, secretary.

Mayor Frederick Wilhelms Jr., of Mountainside was named an honorary member, and H.P. Townsend of Westfield and Elmer Sprengel of Bridgeton were honored as permanent guests.

Fun and frolic highlight club's annual swim party

The Newcomers Club of Mountainside held their annual swim party and picnic with a theme of "Please Don't Eat the Daisies" on July 10 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Irwin of 600 Sherwood parkway.

Mrs. Albert D'Amada, day chairman, adorned the picnic tables with specialty dishes prepared by members of the club.

"Picnic Crasher" Charles Irwin came close to being tossed into his own pool by Newcomer officers who could not forget the by-laws of their organization limiting membership to women only. Two members, Mrs. Ned Horner and Mrs. James Fleming provided unexpected humor for the group when they found themselves splattered with mud by a car stalled on the Irwin lawn.

Although dining, socializing and swimming were the order of the day, a short business meeting followed the picnic, in which Mrs. John Palmer, president, presented Mrs. Irwin with a gift in appreciation for her hospitality to Mountainside Newcomers.

In other business, members elected for the nominating committee from the membership at large were Mrs. Albert D'Amada, Mrs. Alan Goldenberg, Mrs. George Scholes, Mrs. Robert Wyckoff and Mrs. Edward Collyer, Committee members also include Mrs. Edward Noe, chairman; Mrs. Harold Ginn, Mrs. Joseph O'Donnell and Mrs. Richard Shuffman.

New members introduced by the membership chairman, Mrs. Edward Noe, included Mrs. L. Cameron Hyers, Mrs. James Demarest and Mrs. Irvin Krause.

Mrs. Shulman, social chairman, advised members that a few tickets were still available for the candlelight bowling party and for the theater party, to see "Dear World" on Jan. 18.

Members interested in attending an evening pool party at the Mountainside Community pool on July 27 were asked to contact Mrs. Robert Greeley at 233-8048.

It was also announced the club will not meet during the month of August, but will begin the fall season on Sept. 11, with a fashion show, entitled "Animal Farms," to be given by Flemington Furs.

PROFILE -- Mary E. Kanane

(NOTE: This is another in a series of profiles on candidates for county and national office.)

Once upon a time—a year ago, in fact—the smart money among politicians regarded Union County's three distaff office-holders as unbeatable. Congresswoman Florence P. Dwyer, State Senator Mildred Barry Hughes and Surrogate Mary E. Kanane were considered impregnable at the polls. Last November, the number was reduced to two, as Mrs. Hughes was upset in a tidal wave of Republican votes. Mrs. Dwyer simply goes on and on and on.

To make sure that next November they won't be saying, "and then there was one," Surrogate Mary E. Kanane is campaigning as if her life depended upon it. The redoubtable Miss Kanane is a formidable and indefatigable opponent, as her trail of victims would testify. First elected freholder in 1959, she was re-elected in 1962 and probably could have remained on the county board for as long as she wished.

Four days after she had been elected freholder, Miss Kanane was suspended from her position as special deputy surrogate and presented with a list of three charges containing a total of 19 specifications. The charges were filed by her then-boss, Surrogate Eugene Kirk, who had been elected in 1958.

A well-known and popular figure in the surrogate's office, where she had worked for 32 years, Miss Kanane had been devoted to long-time GOP Surrogate Charles Otto, the man whom Kirk had defeated in 1958. Attorneys from both parties rallied to Miss Kanane's cause, and the charges were tossed out by Civil Service after a brief hearing.

BUT A WOMAN scorned can be a potent enemy, as Kirk learned painfully. Miss Kanane easily won her 1962 bid for re-election as freholder and GOP leaders began eyeing her as a logical choice to oppose Kirk. Although her candidacy was a natural, Miss Kanane insists that she had no intention of opposing

MISS MARY E. KANANE

Kirk in 1963—until the party asked her to make the race. "I certainly did not run to get revenge on Kirk," she explains. "But when the party asked me, I just couldn't refuse."

Although she was to the political manner born, Miss Kanane never dreamed of running for any office until 1958. Her difficulties with Kirk made her receptive to long-standing GOP overtures to run for freholder.

A native of Kenilworth, Miss Kanane is the daughter of the late John T. Kanane, who served

Seton Hall president appoints Dr. de Crenascol to new post

DR. LOUIS C. DE CRENASCOL

Dr. Louis C. de Crenascol of 1470 Force dr., Mountainside, has been named chairman of the new department of arts and music in the College of Arts and Sciences, according to an announcement by Bishop John J. Dougherty, president of Seton Hall University, South Orange.

Dr. de Crenascol was born in Italy and is a graduate of the Institute of Archaeology and Art History of the University of Rome. He was awarded his doctorate by the Pontifical University of Rome and served as the director of the Museum of Fine Arts of Lodi-Milan. He also saw service as an inspector for the Italian government for antiquities and fine arts in Lombardy. From 1953 to 1956, he was director of the archaeological excavations of Laus Pompeia. He served as a Fulbright scholar at the American University, Washington, D.C., and served at Rutgers and Harvard universities.

He has been an associate professor of art at Seton Hall since 1961, and is the first director of the Seton Hall Gallery. Under his direction, the gallery has held over 50 one-man and group exhibitions in all media. He is the author of numerous books and papers on criticism and history of art. His new department will have a faculty of eight and will accept its first students in September of 1969.

Dr. de Crenascol said that the new department has been structured to satisfy two goals. "The first will be to acquaint the student with the artistic legacy of the Western world and to stimulate and develop his own creativeness and performing skills. This objective will concern itself with a careful study of the significant styles in art and music during their long evolution over many centuries. Our principal thrust will be to expand the student's perception, develop his aesthetic sensibility and utilize his critical faculties.

"Our second objective will be to provide limited instruction in the fundamental techniques of art and music which will prepare the student for active careers in these fields or lead to graduate studies in art history or musicology.

"We hope to provide undergraduates with opportunities in museum work, art galleries, editorial positions with publishers of art books and periodicals, concert management, music publishing, the recording industry and television and radio."

Area Witnesses delegates to attend 4-day convention

Jehovah's Witnesses of the Mountainside area are completing preparations to form a delegation to a four-day convention of the group in Washington, D.C., according to a spokesman.

Under the direction of Michael Jakubowski, of 218 Summit rd., Mountainside, who serves as a Bible research conductor, the local Witnesses will be among 50,000 or more persons attending the "Good News for All Nations" District convention to be held at D.C. Stadium and nearby Armory, today and tomorrow. He said that many of the local group have arranged their vacations so they can attend the entire convention.

"Most people vacation at the shore or in the mountains and they cannot conceive of families using their vacations to attend sessions of Bible talks," Jakubowski said. "It is even more difficult for them when they learn that sometimes the delegates volunteer to work in one of the convention departments. Yet to us, the annual assembly is the highlight of the year--something we really anticipate."

Jakubowski also noted that some members of the congregation may be attending conventions scheduled in other states and volunteering their services there also. He indicated that upwards of a thousand from the Watchtower headquarters will be represented at the D.C. convention.

as postmaster in that borough during the presidencies of Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft. Mr. Kanane, who like his daughter was a Republican, was bounced when Democrat Woodrow Wilson became Chief Executive. "There was no civil service protection for postmasters then," Miss Kanane explains.

SHE WAS REARED in Kentworth and graduated from Roselle Park High School. Subsequently, she went to work for the late George Johnston, Mr. Otto's predecessor as surrogate. Miss Kanane was active in the Union Council of Civil Service workers and chairman of a committee responsible for installing the public employees retirement system in the courthouse.

Miss Kanane is a lifelong Republican who takes pride from having been a GOP district leader at the age of 21. She is a member and a former president of the Union County Women's Republican Club. In addition, she served as the Union County representative of the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs.

One of the strongest planks in her base of political support has long been her activities in the Catholic Daughters of America. Presently, national vice regent and national legislation chairman, she served as state regent from 1950 to 1960. In addition to talks to the Catholic Daughters on the duties of her office, Miss Kanane has addressed a host of organizations. Her audiences have included members of B'nai B'rith, the Masons, the Knights of Columbus, parent-teacher organizations and virtually all denominations in the religious spectrum.

She is judge of the surrogate's court and clerk of the probate division of the Union County Court. She is responsible for admitting wills to probate, granting letters of administration where there is no will, granting letters of guardianship for minors and issuing letters of testamentary trusteeship. The surrogate also issues certificates to permit the transfer of checking accounts, savings accounts, building and loan shares and credit union deposits.

THE SURROGATE'S OFFICE has been a busy place. According to Miss Kanane's annual report for 1967, the office collected receipts of $143,385.42, a jump of $6,027.29 over 1966. The largest single source of revenue was the probate of wills, which brought in $38,970.78.

LIGHT UP FOR SAFETY

Accidents don't have to happen. Especially the kind that happen at home after dark. Good lighting is one of the most important--and least expensive--ways you can insure your family's protection. For example, a post lantern like this, which also adds large measures of beauty and gaiety to your home, can be kept lighted all night at an average cost of under two cents. And that's plenty of protection for so little.

ETERNAL VIGILANCE IS PART OF COST OF BACKYARD POOL
 "We are planning to build a small swimming pool in our backyard," writes a father of two boys. "Since our two lively young sons seem to attract friends almost as easily as they do hungry mosquitoes, we would appreciate any information you can give us so that we can properly insure ourselves and at the same time take the best possible precautions against accidents."

The growing acceptance of home swimming pools has pointed up the need for a careful re-examination by pool owners of their property and liability insurance protection.

Most pools today are covered under homeowner's package policies. At one time, home pools more than 30 inches deep had to be reported to the insurance company, and an additional premium was paid for liability protection and coverage against property damage.

Today, most homeowners policies provide a minimum of $25,000 personal liability protection. This is given to owners of both the portable wading pool and the permanent pool at no increase in premium.

It is possible for your independent agent or broker to provide you with liability coverage above that amount, if you should desire it, at a reasonable additional cost.

Many communities require that pool owners take special precautions, such as building special fencing, employing heavily insulated electric wiring and other safeguards. Local authorities and your insurance agent will be happy to assist you in ascertaining community requirements.

But above and beyond any insurance protection and special construction stands the overriding need for eternal vigilance. Any time that children use any pool of any depth without adult supervision, there is danger of an accident. For safety's sake, take every possible precaution.

Hospital receives $1,400 from drive held by Lions Club

The Westfield Lions mailed their fear to a gentle purr last week for the benefit of young people suffering from long-term illnesses.

After two months, the Lions ended their third annual fund raising campaign with a total of $1,400 collected for the benefit of Children's Specialized Hospital, Westfield-Mountain-side.

Albert H.C. Wiegman, president, and Robert Vreeland, fund raising chairman, presented the check to young Maureen Clelland, a hospital patient, and Dr. E. Milton Staub, the hospital's medical director and administrator.

The 60 members of the Westfield Lions all pitched in to help raise the money. Last year their contribution to Children's Specialized Hospital helped remodel one of the speech therapy rooms.

"Actually, we have sort of adopted the hospital as a Lions activity," Wiegman said. In addition to the fund raising campaign, we hold a Christmas party for the children with one member as Santa Claus, and we make sure the young patients receive the same candy and gifts we buy for the Easter Egg Hunt in the Westfield park.

"Once a month, we show a children's movie in the hospital wards, and spend the remainder of the evening visiting with the children. Each Lion has adopted a child in whom he takes a special interest."

The Lions have held their Christmas morning party at the hospital "as long as I can remember -- well over 15 years," said Dr. Staub. Their interest in Children's Specialized Hospital was intensified three years ago when they began their fund raising campaign.

"We feel we are very lucky to have the opportunity to support Children's Specialized Hospital," Wiegman said. "It has given a personal as well as financial goal to our campaigns -- and an unmeasurable sense of satisfaction to each Lions Club member."

Children's Specialized Hospital was founded in 1891 and has been situated in Westfield-Mountain-side ever since. Until 1962, when its name was officially changed to Children's Specialized, the hospital was known as the Children's Country Home.

During the 1940s and 1950s, it gained an international reputation as a rehabilitation center for youthful polio victims. When advances in medical science all but eliminated that disease, Children's Specialized expanded its services to include highly-specialized treatment of any long-term ailment in a child--and occasionally in adults.

That service has been expanded slightly each year since. Today, Children's Specialized is a fully-accredited hospital with complete facilities for 50 bed-ridden patients. Services also are available at the hospital for outpatient treatment.

Y to hold course on college study

In discussing the Westfield YMCA "How to Study in College" course, to be offered in August, John Vernon, youth director, this week released the following statement:

"People sell insurance for practically every type of possible calamity and the Westfield YMCA's 'How to Study in College' course, Aug. 5-9, is aimed at high school graduates uneasy about entering college. In college, as in insurance circles, there is talk of a high mortality rate; the ratio at which students flunk out of school. There is no guarantee that a person taking the 'How to Study Course' will do well in college, but if the advice is taken, a student should be well-prepared for coping with college anxieties.

"Prof. Everett Lynch, who will be instructing the 7-9 p.m. weekday course, demonstrated last year a genuine sympathy for the apprehensive student and a skill in delivering his 'message' through course materials, handouts and anecdotes. As an assistant professor and student advisor at Purdue, he is well-equipped to cope with most questions about college academics."

Registration forms are available at the Westfield YM or YWCA, or information can be obtained by calling 233-2700.

Borough to benefit from contributions

The Mountain-side Community Fund has been designated among the Union County community beneficiaries which will receive funds from the Bell Laboratories, annual employee's service fund drive, it was announced by the company this week.

The drive, which gives employees the opportunity to contribute to local united giving programs serving their home communities and to Red Cross chapters that conduct blood donor programs at major company locations, totaled $83,000 more than last year's drive. More than 6,538 people gave a record $192,000 to 32 federated campaigns in nine New Jersey counties, the Greater New York Fund and three Red Cross chapters in the metropolitan area.

The $42,631 earmarked for Union County will be divided among 12 community and county service organizations.

2 students attend orientation course

Two Mountain-side Gov. Livingston Regional High School graduates are among the 83 students who have enrolled in Union College's seventh annual College Readiness program which opened in Cranford on June 26. They are Timothy O. White of 1491 Fox-trail and Glen Kakol of 336 Forest Hill way.

Prof. Gumars Salins, director, said the college readiness program will run for four weeks and classes are held mornings, Monday through Friday. The program is open to all high school graduates who plan to attend the college of their choice and while it carries no college credits "it features an orientation to college life, tips on how and under what conditions to study, how to budget time for maximum results, how to use a college library and a quick review of the basic skills, supplementing what the high schools have done," the professor stated.

White plans to attend York Junior College in York, Pa., and Kakol plans to attend Union College.

McGovern-Rose engagement is told

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edward McGovern of 1494 Fox trail, Mountain-side, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to John James Rose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Rose of New Haven, Conn.

Miss McGovern is a graduate of Gov. Livingston Regional High School and of Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa. For the past three years, she has been attending Rutgers University graduate school.

Mr. Rose is a graduate of Fairfield University, Fairfield, Conn. He is also a student at Rutgers University graduate school.

A fall wedding is planned.

Student to engage in research project

Barbara J. Harris of Mountain-side, a senior honors student at Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., is among the 12 select students who are working in biology research at the college, according to an announcement this week.

A National Science Foundation grant and funds from the Trexler Foundation are financing the 10-week research projects at the liberal arts college in biology, chemistry and physics. Dr. G.N. Russell Smart, head of the chemistry program, stated that the programs are designed primarily to "develop the students' capacity for independent research."

Suspect is bound over to grand jury by judge

Two of the three men who were arrested by Mountain-side police on June 28 were arraigned before Judge Jacob R. Bauer in Municipal Court last Wednesday night.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Clayton Jerome McKeever, 19, of Newark, who had been released at the time of the arrest on his own recognizance, and who failed to appear at the preliminary hearing.

Samuel Laing, 20, also of Newark, the oldest of the trio, had been charged by police with receiving stolen goods, breaking and entry with intent to steal and purchasing gasoline with a stolen credit card. He was released on $500 bail to await grand jury action, on the plea of the public defender, Philip A. Cohen of Elizabethtown.

Patrolman Steven Semancik testified that on June 28, when he and Patrolman Joseph Lobl checked Gimber's Service Station on New Providence road and Route 22, everything was in order. Minutes later, noting a parked car in front of the closed station, the officers said, they checked and, found the three men on the premises. Further investigation revealed a window had been broken in the building, and Laing was observed throwing a screwdriver under the rear of his car, the report added.

Police also stated that Laing is out on bail imposed by the East Orange Police Department on a charge of tampering with a vehicle. Abraham Madison, 18, of Alexandria, Va., the third member of the trio who had been released on $100 bail for failing to give a good account of himself, and was charged with disorderly conduct, was fined a total of $55 by Judge Bauer. Not having the money to pay his fine, he was ordered to return to the court with the money as soon as possible or face further penalties.

IN OTHER CASES, Charles Kuell of 123 New Providence rd., Mountain-side, was fined a total of $15 on a complaint signed by Sgt. Det. Jerome Rice that the defendant had stored two inoperable vehicles on his business property located at 1121 Rt. 22 for a period of 60 days. John M. Godenick of Plainfield was also fined a total of $15 on a complaint by Det. Rice that he had also stored a inoperable vehicle on the same premises for more than a period of 60 days.

In traffic cases, Paul C. Winget of Mountain-side was fined a total of $20 for careless driving which caused an accident, and Nelson Serrano of Queens, N.Y., was fined a total of $20 for passing on a right shoulder.

Zoo denizens perking up despite missing snooze

When this past spring rolled around, the animals at the Turtle Back Zoo in West Orange were a mighty sleepy lot.

The reason was that they had missed out on the long winter hibernation enjoyed by their wilder colleagues and they were a bit sluggish from the lack of sleep.

As a matter of fact, the Turtle Back tenants didn't really begin to wake up and become active until the warm days of late June and early July.

"The lack of sleep doesn't harm them," Zoo Director Richard Ryan explains. "They actually grow faster, and when the warm weather comes they're just as friendly as their untamed friends."

The ground squirrels, prairie dogs, box turtles and snakes at the zoo would all normally spend the winter with their toes curled up in deep burrows, sound asleep until spring arrives.

Because the zoo lacks the space for such burrows, it brings the animals inside to heated quarters, where they stay awake, if drowsy, throughout the cold months.

"Not all the animals in the zoo would normally hibernate," Ryan said. "For example, the zebras and camels are really used to cold weather, although everyone thinks of them as tropical animals."

Because they are conditioned to low temperatures at night in their native lands, those animals stay outside all winter with only a weather shelter to protect them from storms.

The Turtle Back Zoo has gone to some ingenious lengths to make sure its inmates survive the bitter weather.

The ducks in the zoo, for instance, are not bothered by cold, but they are upset when their pond freezes in cold weather. So zoo officials have rigged a special heat lamp suspended over a tank of water to keep the ice away.

The tropical birds, who require a constant 75 degree temperature, have carefully regulated heating apparatus in their cages. In the summer they switch over to air conditioning — just like the rest of us.

The snow leopards and the spotted leopards are actually more at home in snowy weather than at any other time, and probably find winter the most comfortable season of the year.

"So do the yaks, the llamas, the elk," Ryan points out. "We give the deer weather shelters, but these animals all like the cold. It's the hot summers they find hard to bear."

"Sometimes children who have a favorite animal here worry about how their friend will get through the winter. When they come back next spring, they'll find the animal as good as new even if he missed his long winter nap."

A 'sound institution'

Rock combo finds investors

The Institution would like to become an institution. Six area youths, four from Union and one each from Kenilworth and Cranford, have been performing for three years as the rock and roll group The Institution. More recently, however, the six members have organized themselves on the lines of a giant corporation, complete with investors. Richard Lester of 1436 Burnet ave., Union, lead singer of The Institution, explained that the group is now looking itself for its own profit, with no middle man, Friday, July 26, the group will play at the VFW Hall on Orange avenue in Kenilworth. Normally an organization hires a band, but The Institution has in effect hired itself. The group found 10 investors willing to provide the capital for them to rent a hall and cover other expenses connected with preparing a dance. They are promoting the event by strategically-placed posters designed and made by group members.

Howard Duff, 18, rhythm guitar, Marvin Coopersmith, 18, lead guitar, Jean LaMond, 17, drummer, all of Union, Pat Moast, 17, bassist, of Kenilworth and Jeanette Greenwald, 17, organist. Lester said that only now "is our sound getting tight, inventive and original." The group is certain that its efforts will meet with success. "We are relying on the same visually exciting live performance that we are best known for to bring us the 400 people necessary for a sizable profit," Lester said. "We do not feel that this is impossible since we have done it on occasion before. At Railway's Hub-Baloo Club, where we were the only band ever to be hired on sight and without an audition, better than 400 turned out."

FINANCES WERE THE most carefully planned part of the venture, Lester said. "The group realizes that dealing with money matters in any business undertaking has its dangers." A $1.25 will be charged per person at the dance, which will feature psychedelic lighting created by the group. The funds received will first go toward meeting costs and returning money, hopefully with profit, to the "angels" of the project. Members of The Institution are: Lester, 19,

Auditions planned for amateur show

All boys and girls, 18 years of age and under, living in Union County, who can sing, dance, play musical instruments, display magic, or can act are requested to audition for the finals of the Amateur Night program. Applications for auditions are now available at the part commission office and must be submitted no later than Wednesday, July 31. The auditions will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 7, and Thursday, Aug. 8, at 7:30 p.m. in Warrinanco Park, Elizabeth, and the public performance of the Amateur Night program will be held on Thursday, Aug. 15, in Warrinanco Park. Additional information is available from Leo Spirito, The Union County Park Commission, Elizabeth.

The month's maximum temperature was 94 degrees on June 30, and the minimum temperature was 47 degrees on June 21. The highest June temperature recorded at the Union College Meteorological Station since it was opened on January 1, 1960, was 98 degrees on June 30, 1964. ## Y campers keep busy

As a special summer service project, Teen Caravan campers of the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA, ninth and tenth grade boys and girls, are serving as hospital volunteers each Monday during the seven-week camping season. Ten campers are assigned to the Elizabeth General Hospital, six to St. Elizabeth's Hospital and four as aides at the Lizmora Nursing Home, all in Elizabeth. Four others have been assigned to the Y's nursery camp and two as aides in the arts and crafts program. Six other campers are planning a puppet show for the nursery department; five are preparing two editions of a newspaper; six are shaping a play for campers of Y-HO-CA.

The summer service project is directed by Rabbi Joseph Lichtman, assisted by Mrs. Howard Halperin and the Teen Caravan staff. Highlights of the Teen Caravan season will be a four-day trip to the Niagara Falls-Buffalo, N.Y., area, a three-day trip to the Pennsylvania Dutch country and a three-day program with the local camp acting as host to the Teen Camp of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Now. A car with a computer in it.

Every Volkswagen Squareback now comes with a computer. It looks like a box, about a foot wide, and is connected to the engine in 9 places. Let us explain. (Or try to.) The Volkswagen Squareback is one of the few cars in the world with a fuel injection system. A computer was designed to control this system. To think for it. For instance, the computer figures engine speed, engine load and engine temperature. Then sends precise amounts of fuel and air to each cylinder. Fuel waste decreases; mileage increases. And you'll get about 27 miles to the gallon. What you won't get are carburetor problems. There is no carburetor. Nothing to adjust, nothing to clean, nothing to ice. Only the VW Squareback (and its sister car, the Fastback) has a fuel injection system and a thinking computer. Volkswagens always made sense. Now they have sense.

Historic Council organizes to protect Jersey's heritage

New Jersey's Historic Sites Council, recently appointed by Governor Richard J. Hughes, has named Harold G. Hoffman of Elizabeth as its first chairman, according to Thomas A. Hyde of Mountaineer is a member of the council.

Hoffman, trustee officer for the First National State Bank of Millburn, is an ardent historian and preservationist, and a member of several state historical organizations.

"New Jersey has a unique historic heritage," stated Hyde, in opening the initial meeting of the council, "and it is vital we preserve and interpret it for posterity. The State of New Jersey, through this department especially, is deeply involved in a wide variety of historic programs from Skylands and Ringwood Manor in the north to Hatfield and Hancock House in the south."

"The scope of the task that lies before us includes not simply saving a house, but consideration for its environment. It must be interpreted, and related to history so that the citizens of our state may better appreciate its significance through a graphic portrayal of its past."

Chairman Hoffman commented on the interest of private groups in history. "Citizens and independent historical organizations in New Jersey have long been noted for their wonderful and tremendous contribution to historic programs."

"We are fortunate the membership of the council is drawn from the four corners of New Jersey," continued Hoffman in his remarks, "For historic preservation is not exclusive province of any one corner of our state or people, but is a cause for total concern. We of the Historic Sites Council acknowledge our responsibility to serve as a focal point between the state and private historic interests, and to serve the State in every way possible to insure the preservation of Jersey's past."

Mrs. John Kean, also of Elizabeth, was elected to the post of Vice-Chairman, and Hoffman designated an ad hoc committee to oversee development of the council's policies and by-laws, and review the achievements of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Also created with the Historic Sites Council was a companion board called the "New Jersey Historic Trust". Both were established by the passage recently of senate bill 321, introduced by Senators Hughes, Lynch, Forsythe and Hillery.

The trust will be comprised of 17 persons, including the 11 members of Council plus a member of the State House Commission, and, by virtue of their offices, the State Treasurer, Commissioners of the Departments of Conservation and Economic Development and Education, the Chairman of the Parks, Forestry and Recreation Council and the State Librarian.

The trust, patterned after the National Trust for Historic Preservation, will have wide authority to acquire, hold and dispose of properties, real and personal, monies through grants, gifts or bequests, and generally assist in the administration of matters relating to historic preservation.

What to do in case a hurricane hits

-Thursday, July 18, 1968

Weather experts from the Commerce Department's Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA) have issued their annual hurricane advisory information, as relayed this week by U.S. Senator Harrison A. Williams, Jr. (D-NJ).

New Jersey communities have been hard-hit from these savage mid-year storms. Each year, hurricanes account for enormous property damage and loss of life. In an average year, says ESSA, the national toll may reach 75 lives and $100 million damage, Williams said.

Williams offered these guidelines for hurricane protection as compiled by ESSA officials in Washington:

1. KEEP ALERT FOR SEVERE WEATHER BULLETINS - A hurricane watch means that you need to think ahead, plan for emergencies, and keep posted...a hurricane warning means that a storm will hit your area, usually within 24 hours.
2. BE PREPARED FOR HURRICANE EMERGENCIES - From June through November, check your tools, batteries, non-perishable foods, and other supplies you might need in an emergency.
3. STAY CALM, AND CAUTIOUS, WHEN THE STORM HITS - Get to secure shelter, board up or protect windows, store drinking water, secure loose objects, keep your car fueled, monitor the storm's progress.
4. BEWARE THE EYE OF THE HURRICANE - The calm center of the storm is only a lull, and hurricane-force winds will return.
5. TAKE QUICK ACTION AFTER THE STORM HAS PASSED - Report loose wires, dangerous debris; check refrigerated food for spoilage in case of power failure; stay out of danger areas unless qualified to help.

Arts Center is planning talent hunt

The Garden State Arts Center announced it will soon launch a search for performing talent among the youth of New Jersey with a September drive to feature the statewide finalists.

Preliminary plans for the quest, to be known as "Talent Expo I", were announced by Executive Director D. Louis Tonti of the Garden State Parkway, which built and administers the roadside Arts Center at Telegraph Hill Park.

The purpose of the competition, Tonti said, is "to search out, stimulate and present in showcase form the massive talent existing among the youth in New Jersey."

He said tentative plans are for a series of auditions in six counties during August leading to semi-finals on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 15, and competition finals Saturday night, Sept. 21 both at the Arts Center.

While the auditions are proposed to be held in Essex, Mercer, Monmouth, Atlantic, Passaic and Camden Counties, the dates, places and entry details are to be announced later this month. Clinton C. Crocker, special assistant to Tonti for the Arts Center administration, heads a committee arranging the statewide talent program. He said it aims to enlist the cooperation of existing community groups to encourage as wide participation as possible on local levels.

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy: My girl and I have been dating now for 8 months. We're both in our early twenties and see each other Friday night, Saturday night and Sundays. Sometimes, we even see each other during the week.

night occasionally, then I won't. I don't want to hurt her or lose her. It took me too long to find a girl like mine. Jim

A couple of girlfriends of mine asked me to go out with them on a Saturday night and I said no because I see my girl. Well, they asked again recently (and I felt funny always saying no) so I told them I would.

Dear Jim: Saturday night is date night with me and my single, but with the fellows, keep the peace, buddy, and see the boys on Friday night.

When I told my girl, she hit the ceiling and would hardly talk to me. She said that Saturday nights a guy spends with his girl, not with the guys. If it were Friday, she could see it, but not Saturday night. She also said that if I would prefer to be with these guys on a Saturday night, then I could just find another girlfriend.

Dear Amy: I am another girl in the group of "Social Rejects." I'm 20. Upon reading other girls' letters in your column, it wasn't surprising to learn there are very many girls who cannot find boys interested in dating good girls.

Well, I'm now here. I know she's still hurt. I told her I wouldn't go if it upset her so much, but she said to go and do whatever I wanted to do and that she couldn't care less. When I told my girl, she hit the ceiling and would hardly talk to me. She said that Saturday nights a guy spends with his girl, not with the guys. If it were Friday, she could see it, but not Saturday night. She also said that if I would prefer to be with these guys on a Saturday night, then I could just find another girlfriend.

It pleases me to know there are good boys still interested in good girls. Boys of that caliber are the kind I like. A.W.

The letter which you read in my column from the "Social Rejects" was, in my opinion, such a growing problem with young girls today that I chose to print it in an effort to show these girls that they were wrong.

The letters I received from the boys, which you read in my column, proved my point. Frankly, I do not have hundreds of nice boys hidden away to fill the requests of requests received through the mail, but they are all around you. It's up to you to continue to be discriminating and find them!

Teacher-student ratio best available Hospital school: one pupil for each instructor

One pupil, one teacher! Sound too good to be true? It may, but that's exactly the kind of attention being given to severely handicapped youngsters in a unique program being conducted at Children's Specialized Hospital in Westfield-Mountainside.

It is designed for children six to 10 from Union, Middlesex and Somerset counties, all of whom have physical disabilities so severe that their normal attendance in a regular school setting has been curtailed.

Hot plates join hot metal Food course at trade school

Hot plates will join hot metal at the Union County Vocational-Technical School in Scotch Plains this September.

A new curriculum in culinary arts-food preparation will be opened in the fall, according to Leslie N. Kiray, coordinator of the vocational center. The school currently offers courses in a variety of fields from welding and maintenance mechanics to appliance servicing and graphics.

Kiray also announced the appointment of Paul Caruso, gourmet master chef and instructor, to teach the course.

Caruso is the eighth generation master chef in his family and served his apprenticeship under some of the most famous and talented chefs in New York City. He attended Brooklyn College for two years, Drake's Institute for one year and Rutgers for three years. He is the only known gourmet master chef in New Jersey certified for teaching gourmet culinary arts. He has taught and lectured at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster, Pa. and at McGill University in Montreal.

IN AN EFFORT to gain more knowledge of culinary specialties Caruso has "lived with the cannibal aborigines of New Guinea and the Eskimos and Mohawks of Canada in the Hudson Bay region studying their dietary habits," a spokesman said.

instructor of culinary arts and director of the food program at the Newark Manpower Training Skills Center.

Kiray said some of the most modern and finest kitchen equipment in the state will be used in the food course. The students will use a new 350-seat cafeteria.

Students will be trained in all aspects of food preparation: handling of foodstuffs, food serving, preparation of vegetables, fruits, meats, fowl, fish, salad making, soups, sauces, beverages, purchasing and menu planning. They will also be instructed in counter, restaurant, waiter and waitress training and the preparation of American as well as European foods.

THE TWO-YEAR course is designed to train young men and women in the food servicing area for jobs in catering and allied fields after successful completion of the curriculum. The school, which currently has offices and classrooms in Union, Scotch Plains and Mountainside, will vacate the Union and Mountainside facilities in August and move to the Scotch Plains location.

High school and post high school students may register for the course, Kiray said that further information may be obtained by calling the school at either 687-2899 or 233-3910 or writing to Union County Vocational-Technical Schools, 949 Ball Ave., Union, or 1160 Globe Ave., Mountainside.

"However, because of their multiple disabilities, they have not been able to attend classes on a normal basis. This program, under the government's Title VI plan for the summer, provides for these children."

The children currently are being evaluated by teachers, doctors, a psychologist, social worker and speech, physical and occupational therapists.

When the testing is completed, individualized programs will be set up for each youngster, with emphasis on his strong points as well as his weak points.

"In fact," said Dr. Hannigan, "we try to emphasize the strong points even more than the weak points. We want the child to use all his resources. We try to concentrate on making him a productive person, able to support himself without being a burden on the taxpayer."

Coordinator of the summer program is Dr. David Blowitz, professor of special education at Newark State College, who will be aided by Dr. Hannigan.

Teachers for the program will be Edward Hartnett, a 22-year-old graduate of Jersey City State College, and Miss Carolyn Lacorte. Miss Lacorte will teach on a part-time basis because of a prior commitment.

Hartnett, in his first year of teaching, said the summer classes will be broken down into morning and afternoon sessions, and will run for five weeks.

Most of those attending the summer classes will go on to a similar program scheduled from September to June. Classes will be held at the hospital which is providing space and all necessary facilities.

Children's Specialized Hospital is a non-profit hospital exceptionally well-equipped to treat patients who are restricted by a physical disability requiring long-term treatment.

Acts to prohibit kin of Viet casualties from battle service

Rep. Florence P. Dwyer (R-12th Dist.) introduced legislation this week prohibiting the assignment to combat areas of any member of the armed services whose father, brother, or sister has died or been permanently disabled as a result of service in Vietnam.

"I know from personal experience," Mrs. Dwyer said, "that the Defense Department's 'sole surviving son' policy does not provide adequate protection to families which have suffered the ultimate loss."

"Many of my constituents, even after the death of one member of the family, have been forced to send another son to Vietnam, a sacrifice which should not be required aside from a total national emergency."

The DOD "sole surviving son" policy presently excuses from combat assignments only those members of the armed forces who are the last remaining sons in a family which has lost a father or one or more sons and daughters as a result of death, capture or permanent disability sustained on military duty.

Under Mrs. Dwyer's bill, the loss of one member of the immediate family would exclude from combat service any others who may be in the armed forces.

Congresswoman Dwyer said she understood the total number of servicemen affected by the bill would not be great.

"But," she added, "the bill would provide an important measure of reassurance both to those families who have already lost a father, son or daughter in the war and to those families who have members now fighting in Vietnam."

Flood-damage loans in state get approval

Rep. Florence P. Dwyer (R-12th Dist.) announced this week that the Small Business Administration Regional Office in Newark has approved 68 disaster loans totalling $272,905 as a result of the recent flood damage in a seven-county disaster area in northeast New Jersey.

An additional 77 loan applications totalling $777,894 are presently being processed by the Newark SBA office, she said.

Congresswoman Dwyer said she obtained the information from Andrew P. Lynch, SBA Regional Director in Newark.

Mrs. Dwyer, who requested the Federal disaster area declaration under which long-term, low-interest-rate SBA loans are made available to homeowners and small businessmen, said that the agency received a total of 1,178 inquiries at its regional office and its emergency field offices in the disaster area.

Of this total, she said, 150 applications have been filed and only two, totalling $7,600, have so far been denied.

Cyclists make use of Sunday car ban

Sunday morning bicycle riding in Warinanco Park, Elizabeth and Roselle, has been encouraged to the Union County Park Commission with an average of 60 cyclists taking advantage of a morning ride through the parks without the interference of motorists.

The Park Drive in Warinanco and Cedar Brook (Plainfield) Parks, as well as the Park Drive around the Township of Winfield are closed to motor vehicle traffic on Sundays from 7 to 10:30 a.m. This program began on Sunday, April 7, and will be continued through Sunday, Oct. 20.

The park commission noted with a certain amount of concern that the interest in bicycle riding has not developed very well in Cedar Brook Park and on the Park Drive around the Township of Winfield.

Seeks public hearings on program information

Rep. Florence P. Dwyer (R-12th Dist., N.J.), senior Republican on the House Government Operations Committee, this week called for public hearings as soon as possible during the present session of Congress on the "Program Information Act."

The legislation, which would require the publication in usable form of comprehensive and accurate information on all Federal programs, was introduced by Rep. William V. Roth, Jr. (R-Del.) and co-sponsored by Congresswoman Dwyer and 72 other House members of both parties.

In letters to Rep. William L. Dawson (D-Ill.), chairman of the Government Operations Committee, and Rep. John A. Elinski (D-Min.), chairman of the Subcommittee on Executive and Legislative Reorganization, to which the bill has been referred, Mrs. Dwyer urged that "our committee should move it as far forward toward enactment as time permits."

Describing it as "one of the most constructive and basic legislative proposals introduced in some time," she told the two chairmen the bill deserves "special attention" for two major reasons:

"First, in order to utilize effectively the many programs Congress has authorized, officials at all levels of government need full and accurate information, information which has not yet been adequately assembled but which the bill would provide; and

"Second, the same kind of comprehensive information is essential to permit Congress to do an intelligent job of considering proposals for new programs and extensions of old ones, evaluating program effectiveness, appropriating funds, and assessing the need for and means of reorganizing the structure, functions and programs of the Executive Branch for which several important bills are presently pending before our committee."

N.J. Humane Society backs gun control laws

The Directors of the New Jersey Branch of the Humane Society of the United States this week announced the adoption of a resolution in support of gun-control legislation at their recent Board meeting in Elizabeth.

Jacques Stichel of Union, president of the N.J. Branch, said copies of the resolution have been sent to President Johnson and to each of the Congressmen and Senators from New Jersey.

The Volvo seat was designed by doctors for fast, effective relief of nagging backache.

If you're an average driver, you spend the equivalent of seven working weeks sitting on your front seat every year.

This time can pass very slowly and painfully if the seat you're sitting on doesn't fit you.

The Volvo seat does. A team of orthopedic surgeons designed it. Consequently, the seat of a Volvo can be adjusted to 5,280 different positions—forward and backward, up and down, angle of the seat, angle of the back—even an adjustment for firmness and softness at the small of your back, where nagging backache most often strikes. The result of all this is a seat that will fit you. A seat you can sit in a long time without getting uncomfortable. After all, people sit in Volvos for 11 years in Sweden. The least Volvo could do was make them feel at home.

Rug investments require thought prior to purchase

By CAROLYN F. YUKINS Senior County Home Economist

Buying a rug or carpet is usually a good size investment which requires careful consideration before you even go shopping. Aside from the fiber, there are other factors that have a direct bearing on the performance and appearance of a rug or carpet.

The first consideration is that of the initial impact. The floor is apt to be the largest noticeable area in a room, sometimes called the fifth wall, and serves as a background for people and furniture.

With this in mind, one must first decide whether to leave a hardwood floor bare, add area rugs, a room-size rug or wall-to-wall carpeting. In making this decision, it is important to choose how you want a floor covering to function.

Some important functions of rugs or carpets to consider are that they reduce sound reflection from heels on bare floors, from large glass area, from noises of children and outside. They are good insulation for drafty floors. They act as shock absorbers, thus making walking and working easier. They cushion falls and reduce slipping, if well anchored.

The next consideration that is intertwined with all other decisions is that of cost. The initial cost of a soft floor covering may be the largest single item in a home furnishing budget. There is a wide range of retail prices both with and without padding or carpet installation.

The following range of prices is merely a guide and includes only the carpet or rug; budget quality $6 to $9 per square yard; medium quality $9 to $12; and high quality $12 and up per square yard. Add to any cost the price of padding, installation and upkeep.

foiled and then fill it with cracked ice. The watermelon can be placed right in the ice. Another advantage to this method is that it is easily moved if it should suddenly be in direct sunlight.

Though watermelons contain some vitamin A and C, their chief nutritional attraction is that they are low in calories. Even though a good watermelon is sweet to the taste, a 3/4 by 10-inch wedge contains only 45 calories. Watermelon, therefore, is a wise snack or dessert choice for the weight conscious individual.

When buying watermelon, look for firm, bright red meat and dark brown seeds. If you are planning to purchase an uncut melon, there is no mistake-proof way to judge it. One which is symmetrical with a dull finish and a pale yellowish underside, however, is a pretty good indication of quality.

To be at its best, watermelon should be thoroughly chilled before it is eaten. If you would like to take one on a picnic, keep it refrigerated until you are ready to leave the house and wrap it in newspaper for traveling. Watermelon lends itself to great versatility when serving time comes. The most popular method is to cut a great big chunk and just wade in. Cut into small wedges and cubes, however, watermelon can be teamed up with other foods for delightful appetizers, salads, and dessert ideas.

If you are planning to have a backyard party this summer and would like to serve watermelon, try to determine the easiest way to serve it and keep it cool. One suggestion is to line a wheelbarrow with REST PERIODS Check your work habits if you suffer from fatigue and occasional backaches. Stop for short rest periods during the day and change your pace.

MOVING? Find a reputable Mover in the Want Ad Section.

It is important to determine the approximate price range you can afford or expect to spend before you start looking. This will help you analyze carefully advertisements and sales that feature for example, wall-to-wall carpet and padding completely installed for the total price of $9 a square yard. To determine the type of carpet this offer includes, one must deduct the rather standard price of padding and installing, which in approximate figures is $3.50. Thus, on an offer of this kind, you are perhaps getting a rug or carpet that is of $5.50 value.

silks are important as fashion accessory. All at once, the silk square has become one of the most important fashion accessories of all time, states the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. They've been brought into service to brighten the plain "look" of the turtle-neck when worn with a tank shirt or jacket; to fill the gap of an open-neck sport shirt; to wear as an ascot over a knit shirt and under a blazer; or to wear in French apache style knotted around the neck, or in American Indian Apache style tied around the forehead!

1969 fishing code public hearing set in Trenton Aug. 13

New Jersey 1969 fishing regulations were introduced at last week's meeting of the State Fish and Game Council, according to Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development. A public hearing on the proposed fish code will be held at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 13 in the 13th floor auditorium of the State Labor and Industry Building, Trenton. Texts of the proposed code are being distributed to outdoor writers, and copies will be available at the hearing. The council also acted on hunting seasons for rull, woodcock, snipe and sea ducks, described in another release.

Waterfowl hunting seasons will be set after announcement of the federal framework for these migratory species next month. The Bureau of Wildlife Management predicted that the framework for the Atlantic Flyway may be more restrictive than last year because of adverse conditions on Canadian breeding grounds. Spring trout distribution totaled 614,495 adults fish, including 144,000 obtained from National hatcheries and the balance reared at the Charles O. Hayford State Hatchery in Hackettstown. The council urged extensive continued production of quality trout. A special appropriation under consideration by the State Legislature would provide a modern, efficient fish-rearing facility that would also be an educational and recreational showplace.

Salt water research efforts of the Bureau of Fisheries Management were commended. Accurate prediction by State Biologists of a decline in fluke populations, good return of tags from shad marked and released this spring and commencement of fish population studies in major estuaries were especially noted. Freshwater biologists have been active in pressing for high water quality standards in Garden State streams.

A trophy deer recognition program will be instituted this fall, possibly in conjunction with the State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs. In addition to developing this program, the information and education section of the department kept busy with outdoor education efforts, and personnel gained fresh insights from interstate meetings of the American Association for Conservation Information and the Outdoor Writers Association of America, according to Roe.

The council praised the State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs and the Sears Roebuck Foundation for again sponsoring a Conservation Awards Program in conjunction with the National Wildlife Federation. They agreed to cooperate in disseminating further publicity to encourage citizen participation in this endeavor.

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

By Mabel G. Stolte, County Home Economist

Have you ever been called upon to guide your family through a crisis, such as a home accident or serious illness? Have you panicked or been calm?

Your own emotional stability is rooted in self confidence to meet any emergency that might arise. If you can apply your past knowledge and experience in controlling your emotions, it will not only aid you but those around you.

Fear can often be useful if we let it work for us. It can set us up for all-out action and spur us on to do things that would seem otherwise impossible. On the other hand, when we are very fearful we can be prevented from thinking clearly. Planned repeated drilling during our daily life, while our minds are still clear, will help us to act automatically even under conditions of extreme stress.

As you strive to meet the everyday stresses of life, you are training yourself to build a steadier emotional framework that will carry you through a crisis and may even rub off onto your family.

Prepare now for the emotional security of your family. Pointless, needless emotional strain can often be avoided by evaluation how you and others have reacted to current everyday situations and other family's emergency situations.

Plan at least one night a week to sit down with your family in a quiet atmosphere to discuss and determine in advance, what you would do in an emergency, such as a sudden illness, fire, flood or accident.

Allow for the fact that one or more family members may not be able to help in a crisis. What would you or the others do? Who would you call for help? Where would you go? Answers to these questions are vital to each member. Make a list of telephone numbers and outline for action. Finally, why not make a game out of a situation; and challenge your family to react. Then get together and evaluate how everyone could have improved their actions.

If you plan now, some future personal tragedy may be averted when your family faces a special situation.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "My problem is my boyfriend. He says he wants me to go steady with him and I do, and he says he better not catch me with another boy or he will kill him. I don't go out with other boys, but he thinks I do and he never believes what I tell him. The other night I found out that he is going out on me. What can I do. I am really serious about him. Please reply at once."

OUR REPLY: You've got to be kidding yourself. You aren't going anywhere but to troubleville with this boy. If you want to be "his girl" just do everything he says, don't date other boys and pretend that you don't know anything about the fact that the going steady bit is a one-sided proposition - you don't go with anyone and everyone. You don't want this kind of advice, but it's the best there is: get yourself another boyfriend - or - stand up to this one. Let him know that you are not so dumb and that you don't intend to sit around and wait for him while he decides when he wants to see you and goes out with other girls anytime he so decides.

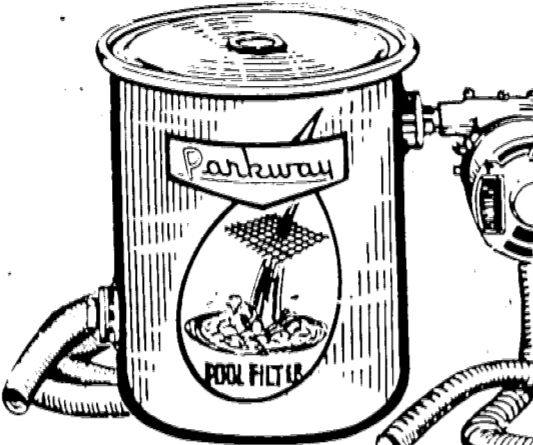

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

New school is established in Linden by Institute of Computer Professions

Theodore S. Garfinkle, president of National Institute of Computer Professions, Inc. headquartered in Silver Spring, Md., has announced that the board of directors of the corporation voted unanimously to locate a new training facility on the second floor of 411A North Wood ave., Linden, directly opposite the post office.

chosen as an ideal location for our new school," Garfinkle said, "following a five-month survey of the Union County area. We were temporarily located at 1201-1703 East Grand st., Elizabeth, while our staff tested juniors and seniors at the majority of high schools in Union and Middlesex counties as well as a few schools in Essex and Mercer counties. At the same time, comprehensive analysis was being made of the various communities in these areas to determine the best possible location for a centralized headquarters for the direction of the proposed expansion of other facilities to be managed by National Institute of Computer Professions, Inc."

Partial indication of the rapid expansion anticipated by National Institute of Computer Professions was the recent merger with Patterson-Smith Inc., a consulting, programming and computation ser-VICES company with offices in Neptune and Silver Spring, Md. In addition, a subsidiary company has offices in New York City. At the Neptune office the Honeywell 200 medium-sized Honeywell 200 computer systems, a Control Data Corporation 915 Optical Scanning system, and a variety of IBM machines. A third computer, an IBM/360 system, is located at Silver Spring.

The Linden school is air-conditioned and all classrooms are well-lighted and equipped with up-to-date instructional devices and training aids necessary for proper education of "third generation" computer programmers. Class size will be limited to a maximum of 16 students to permit individualized attention. All instructors are experienced not only in teaching but also with the most sophisticated applications of computers.

Through its affiliation with National Computer Staffing Association, each graduate is assisted by the Institute in obtaining employment with major corporations throughout the United States as computer programmer/trainers or keypunch operators, depending on the course completed. No prospective student will be permitted to enroll until he has passed a Programmer's Aptitude Test, devised by IBM. Testing is done free of charge, only at the school under closely supervised conditions. Interested persons can make an appointment for testing, without obligation, by stopping in at the school or telephoning 925-4854.

Classes transferred from the Elizabeth location began Monday morning, July 15, and evening classes for new students will begin shortly thereafter. Enrollment is scheduled to be heavier beginning Sept. 3 when the school will be in full operation. ## King scholarship at Rutgers started

The Black Organization of Students at Rutgers in Newark announced the kickoff of a campaign to seek public support for its Martin Luther King Scholarship Fund.

Harrison Snell of Newark, president of BOS, said that the goal of the fund is to raise $25,000 for the purpose of assisting black students who wish to attend the State University and demonstrate financial need in obtaining a college education.

Snell, a sophomore at the State University's college of Arts and Sciences in Newark, noted that the University has recently undergone a change in many procedures and policies relative to the enrollment of black students, and has begun actively to seek qualified black candidates for admission. "BOS is aware that the University's faculty and staff is in accordance with these changes and supports more flexibility in the school's admissions policy with regard to black students," Snell said.

Harrison Snell and Mrs. Diane Scott, coordinating the fund, can be reached through the University's Financial Aid Office in Newark. BOS will handle recruitment of candidates for scholarships and will refer applicants to the Financial Aid office. Individuals and organizations interested in contributing to the fund should make checks payable to the Rutgers Financial Aid Office, and mark them "for the Martin Luther King Scholarship Fund." The mailing address is Rutgers, the State University, Financial Aid Office, 53 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey.

CLOTHES CARE COMMENTS BY SAM MANN

(Diamond Cleaners)

GRASS STAINS
With outdoor living at a peak, it's no wonder we've been getting so many inquiries about how to remove grass stains.

As with any stain, handling depends to a great extent upon the fabric involved. For washable fabrics, work a detergent into the stain from the wrong side of the material, forcing the stain out instead of in, then rinse. Or, if you are sure the material is dye-fast, sponge with rubbing alcohol.

For acetate, dilute the alcohol with two parts water, but don't forget it is flammable and poisonous. If the stain is stubborn, use a chlorine or sodium perborate bleach, or hydrogen peroxide. Work gently, of course.

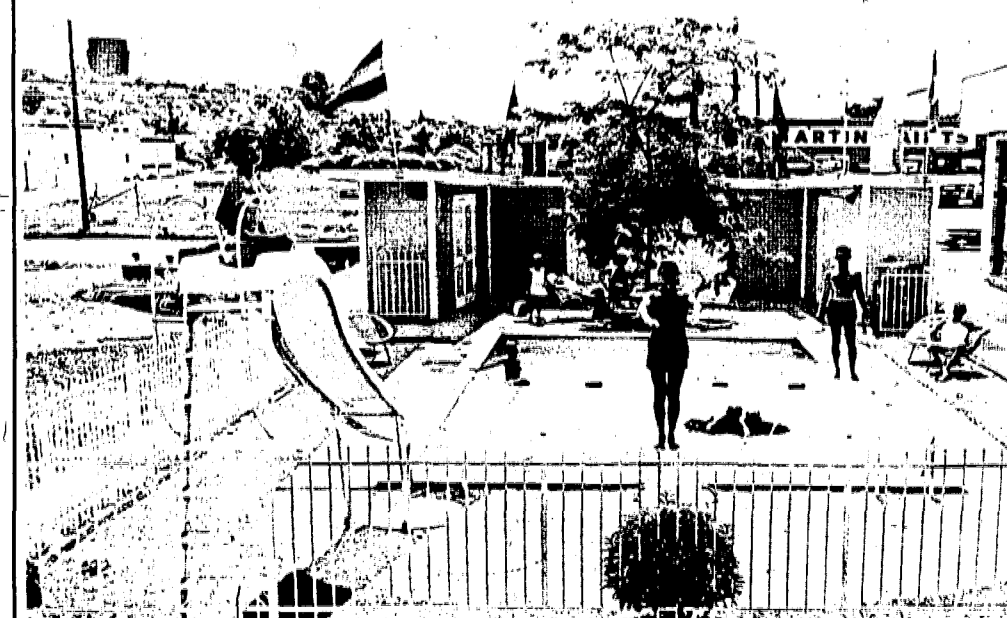

And by all means, don't take chances if you are doubtful about the fabric or the stain in question. The sooner you get the stained garment to a reputable dry cleaner, the better your chances of safe, thorough stain removal. You can always be sure of expert stain removal with Diamond Cleaners care. Just bring it in or call for prompt pick-up delivery.

Bellevue screen features 'Dolittle'

The character of Doctor John Dolittle was born in the mind of Hugh L. Brown in France during the heat of the battle of World War I. He emerged on paper for the first time in a series of letters Lofting wrote to his children and it was the doctor's adventures in tending to the sick and injured animals which helped take the Lofting children's minds off the horrors of war.

Returning home, Lofting discovered that his wife kept all his letters and persuaded him to put them into book form. This was the beginning of the first Dolittle novel published in 1920. The books, 12 in all, were translated into many languages and Lofting won the coveted Newberry Medal for literature for his work.

Now the books have become a motion picture, through 20th Century-Fox called "Doctor Dolittle," and it is being held over for a fourth week at the Bellevue Theater, Upper

Tuneful eye-fuls featured on Flagship's main deck

BY BEA SMITH
There's a real variety of entertainment at Larry Dixon's Flagship on Route 22 in Union, in his second presentation of the season which will run through Tuesday, July 23.

In the "Broadway Tonight" cavalcade, a group of six talented entertainers (four gals and two guys) headed by Linda Tidel, whose voice is slightly reminiscent of Julie Andrews, provide musical numbers from Broadway musicals, 1918 through 1968.

Songs from "Showboat," "West Side Story" to "Hello Dolly" to "No Strings," and other shows, stir the memories of a theater-goer. A burlesque-type spoof on "Bye Bye Birdie" highlights the musical revue and although this reviewer didn't count the costume changes, we'll take the Flagship management's word that there were 67. Anyway, the costumes are colorful and attractive, the six performers, anxious to please and pleasing, and the array of melodies, a joy to hear.

Joe Boutner's Ink Spots, as the Flagship's added attraction, are real pros. Even if none of the original crowd is left in this group, the five men certainly sound like the Ink Spots of yesterday. (Could it have been 20 or more years ago?) Their renditions of "If I Didn't Care," "I'll Never Smile Again," "Paper Doll," "We Three," "You Always Hurt the One You Love," "It's a Sin to Tell a Lie," "You'll Never Know," "It's All in the Game," and the inevitable (with audience response) "When the Saints Go Marching In," have the audience sighing, humming, singing ... and remembering....

Student from Brazil will miss U. S. Joins American friend in loving other's home

Rutgers University and a remarkable young Brazilian are about to part company, and it appears that each will sorely miss the other. When Jose DeLima of Alagoas, Brazil, had been in the United States three months an American friend who had once lived in Brazil wrote to him.

"I hope you learn to love my country as much as I have learned to love yours," the friend said.

DeLima replied: "Your letter was too late, I've already fallen in love with your country."

DeLima will soon return to Brazil after a year spent in research and study at Rutgers in New Brunswick and Newark. He has been in this country on a scholarship from District 751 of Rotary International, as part of the Partners of the Alliance program.

Partners of the Alliance is a privately financed program in which individual American states "adopt" a South American state or province and provide a variety of material aid and consulting skill.

At age 24, Jose Duarte DeLima has his law degree from the federal university of Alagoas, New Jersey's adopted state, and is head of personnel for the municipal government of Maceio, the capital of Alagoas. He also worked as a newspaper reporter and is the author of a book on the social and political life in Alagoas, concentrating on the conflict between generations.

On his American sojourn, DeLima has had a chance to travel to Florida, Maine and Niagara Falls. "I needed the trip to Florida because of the cold," he said.

The American winter was DeLima's major hurdle.

"In Alagoas, the winter temperature is between 60 and 70," he said. "Here I found that my hands were always cold and my voice hoarse. One student from Alagoas had to return home in a couple of weeks because of the weather."

"One has no idea how powerful the United States is until you have seen it," he said, describing his impressions of places like New York City. A favorite spot was Maine which, he said, reminded him of his own country in its lonely countryside.

But people were DeLima's main interest. "I wish the representatives of your country in Brazil were more like the people I have met here," he said, noting that there is a fair amount of anti-American feeling in his country.

During the past year, DeLima has done research on administration in various units of the State University and has taken courses in government organization and economics at the New Brunswick campus and in business policy formulation and administration at the Graduate School of Business Administration at the Newark Colleges of Rutgers.

Many New Jerseyans were touched by Jose's spontaneous warmth and good humor as he made himself available for constant speaking engagements before Rotarians and other groups.

Unlabeled bottles holding pesticides dangerous, illegal

"A dangerous and illegal practice" were the words used today by Delmar K. Myers, State Chemist, to describe a current problem involving the misuse of pesticides.

Reports have reached the New Jersey Department of Agriculture that, in some areas of the state, mosquito control chemicals and weed killers are being sold in unlabeled jugs and bottles.

The materials are being dispensed from large wholesale containers into smaller containers furnished by the purchaser. Myers pointed out that after the initial usage, the person who bought the pesticide may set the container aside and forget what the chemical is or what it is to be used for.

Often the unmarked containers are attractive to children, Myers continued, and if the chemical spills or is drunk, consequences may be grave. Moreover, there is no clue available to the doctor as to the proper treatment.

CONFUSING CODES
If you are going to make a telephone call to either New York or California, be careful. Those two states have seven area codes each.

LATIN LOOKS AT LAW—Jose DeLima of Brazil, who has been studying for a year at Rutgers University under the Partners of the Alliance program, visits Willard Heckel, dean of the Rutgers School of Law in Newark. Head of personnel for the municipal government of Maceio, Brazil, DeLima spent part of his time at Rutgers doing research on administration in various divisions of the university.

FAMILY POT LUCK

BY HELEN MALE

A good casserole can be the hit of the family picnic. Mix canned beans with catsup and brown sugar and place in casserole. Top with pork sausage links, placed like the spokes of a wheel, and add apple wedges alongside. Heat, cover until served.

Plan your outdoor cookery so you will have time to entertain and visit with your guests while the food is on the grill. If spare ribs are marinated first under refrigeration and broiled or roasted on the spit, little basting is usually necessary.

You can use cinnamon candies with sugar and water to make a syrup in which to cook small whole pears or pear halves. These make an ideal garnish for meats.

Looking for a different main dish? Try creamed eggs and ham with mushrooms and pimento served on hot biscuits broken gently apart.

Meatloaf mixture can be baked in muffin buns with a frosting of chili sauce or catsup for a quick main dish.

Helen's Favorite:
Chocolate Nut Drops
(Makes 36)
6 ounces semi-sweet chocolate bits
2/3 cup condensed milk
1 cup oats, quick or regular
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
