The Senior Citizens Club of Mountainside will meet in the new Mountainside Library on Watchung avenue on Wednesday at 1 p.m. All people 55 years and older are welcome, a

70-day suspension of liquor license reported by police

Det. Lt. James E. Herrick of the Mountainside Police department told the Echo last week that the Mountainside police, as authorized by the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission, had "picked up the liquor license of Teddy's Sea Food Restaurant on Rt. "Lt. Herrick said that the penalty, whch was imposed for 'gambling on the premises,' would be in effect from July 22 to Sept. 30, a period of 70 days. Herrick also stated that the license was confiscated by Chief of Police Christian F. Fritz and Det. Sgt. Walter Betye-

The story began on April 13 when, 'prompted by a tip,' according to Chief Fritz, a three week surveillance of the activities at the restaurant was conducted by the police to determine whether "gambling was going on." The police chief and Det, Herrick, accompanied by officers from the Union County prosecutors office and an undercover inspector from the N.J. Alcoholic Beverage Commission, sent two agents into the restaurant, whose bets on horses were reportedly accepted.

Officials then broke in during the transaction and arrested Theodore (Teddy) Biniaras of 917 Raritan rd., Clark, owner, and Aristoclis Joannide, a bartender who resided on the premises. Biniaras was later fined in Municipal Court, Joannide awaits grand jury

Last month, the borough council lifted the license of the pool table at the restaurant. Herrick said, with the recent closing of the restaurant, the case is now considered closed

More volunteer firemen needed in borough: Byk

Fire Chief Theodore Byk of the Mountainside Foliateer - Fire Department Issued a call this week for more volunteer firemen, who he said were very badly needed in the borough.

Chief Byk said that any male resident between the ages of 21 and 48 who is in good physical condition "and who spends the better part of the day in Mountainside" will be considered for membership in the department. He also said that no previous fire experience is said that no previous fire experience is required, as those accepted will be trained,

Sans Twinkletoes and Wicked Willie, cops still win, 13-3

"Because of the absence of our star players, Twinkletoes Betyeman(Det. Sgt. Walter Betye-man) and Wicked Willie (Sgt. William Lenehan) our saftball game with the Chester Police de-partment was not as easy a victory as the ones we played with the Mountainside Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad," declared a spokesman for the Mountainside Police Department this week.

The nine-inning game, which was played at Chester last Sunday afternoon, ended in a score of 13-3, in favor of the Mountainside depart-

"Perhaps," he went on, "firstly, as a person, I would have to say that the warm welcome I received from the entire community. made me feel at home from the moment I arrived. Why, Mrs. Wilhelms, the wife of the mayor, called me to make certain I had a place to stay. Then Dr. Hanigan, the super-intendent; the principals of the schools and the teachers' cooperation has been amazing. And from my experiences in the summer school, the outlook for the coming year is more than promising.

"I am overwhelmed by the talents of the Mountainside school children, and words are difficult to find to express the cooperation and interest of the parents in the community. I have never experienced interest on the part of parents, anywhere that I have taught before, that can equal that of the parent's in Mountainside."

Upon graduation from high school, Wallace entered Virginia State College in Petersburg, Va., where he was graduated with a B.S. degree in general music education. He received his master's degree at Southern Illi-nois University, Carbondale, Ill.

"MY FIRST JOB," he recalls, "was at the E.J. Moore Senior High School in Disputanta, Va. Then I went on to teach vocal music on the elementary and junior and senior high school levels for four years in the Prince George County, Va., school system. Last year I was appointed music supervisor and might well have continued, excepting for an offer from Mountainside. You see, I received a call from the placement service at Virginia State College which recommended the Mountainside school system very highly. I contacted Dr. Hanigan, and within 14 days, the doctor and I were discussing a contract. I have replaced Mrs. Evelyn Bleeke, who resigned, and I will be teaching vocal music in the middle school (grades 6-7-8), all sing-ing activities such as the choir and glee clubs, and general music classes."

2 youths arrested in alleged attempt at 'party crashing'

Mountainside police last week filed a variety of charges against two youths from South Plain-field who allegedly created a disturbance when denied admittance to a local party. Detective Sgt. Walter Betyeman identified the two as Mark

A. Holmstrom, 20, and Tony Del Vecchio, 19, He said that they attempted to "crash" a party last week at the Harry Fordhome at 1128 Peach Tree lane. After they were turned away, the report continued, they began to fight each other in the back yard, and neighbors called police. Chief Christian F. Fruz dispatched Betyeman to the scene, and the sergeant brought the pair back to headquarters. Both are scheduled to appear before Judge Jacob R. Bauer in Muni-cipal Court next Wednesday. Holmstrom was released in $100 bailto face charges of being a disorderly person, creating a disturbance while under the influence of liquor, resisting arrest by a police officer in the performance of his duty and using loud and obscene language to a police officer.

Del Vecchio was charged with failure to give a good account of himself, being a disorderly person and resisting arrest. He was released in $25 bail.

The police also disclosed that state authorities are seeking to discover where the two had purchased their liquor, "since they were under the legal age for the purchase of intoxicants."

EUROPEAN VIEWPOINT Robert Jaffee of 350 Summit rd., Mountainside, who is traveling in Europe, sent the following letter on the impressions about Americans he has gathered from "the man on the street" in the countries he is visiting.)

The fact is, people in Europe are tremendously interested in our election and whom we elect to represent our government, Part of this interest is the fact that Europe does look to the United States for leadership. And it is keenly disappointed when we put up for office what they consider, inadequate personalities. Europeans think Humphrey is a boob--up for the position of president. As to the Republican side, they admire Nixon for his political comeback, but do not seem to understand how it happened. Their preference on the Republican side is definitely Rockefeller, but there are reservations on their part, due to what they consider was apparently a hesitant manner in which he approached running for the office.

Thus, with the death of Robert F. Kennedy. Europe is generally now more pro-McCarthy than I am, or as enthusiastic as the McCarthy supporters I could see who had sort of a dull hope, prior to my trip.

Speaking to Spaniards and Italians, I heard the same thing. This, was especially noted among the young people, but was reflected in even the conservative circles. Senator McCarthy strikes them most of all as a gentlemanand there is a lingering admiration of gentility that must go into their preference.

As to New Jersey, more persons know of it by its identification with the Newark riots than anything else except its close proximity to New York. This points up another interest of the Europeans -- a desire for America to solve its own domestic problems so that it can resume full attention and prestige to its position as the leader of the West.

From my travels, I find Europe is definitely on an affluent swing. The amount of housing being built around Rome rivals New York. But, as so much of this prosperity is dependent on the stability of the dollar, you can imagine the urope when

EAST BERLIN How things have changed in East Berlinl The first time I saw this half of a city was in 1960 before the wall, then again in 1961 one month after the wall, and now for the third time in 1968 with a refurbished wall still

Each time it has changed. In 1960 it was drab but "open", in 1961 in the months after The Wall it was drab but "closed", and now in 1968 it was still "closed" but it was not drab. So, in seven years, Communist East Berlin has turned from quite an ugly duckling into quite a bit of a swan. At least by comparison.

The explanation is fairly simple. While the rest of the world may deplore the Wall, it has been a great success for East Berlin, it has been estimated that 30,000 people a month on an average, were coming over to the West before the Wall was erected, and in the weeks just preceeding the Wall, 3,000 a day. This meant, for example, that a factory could have a full force of workers on Friday and by the time Monday came around—none. There was never a steady work force to build new struc-tures, restore old ones, manufacture products, etc., or build professional or clerical groups. Now there is. AND IT SHOWS.

It is only fair to point out, however, that this is the personal view of this writer. There were those on this trip who thought it was pretty dim. But it is also only fair to point out that these were the people who had never seen East Berlin before in order to make a com-parison. There is also the fact that every tourist is told repeatedly how dingy East Berlin is and how sparkling West Berlin is. You are told time and time again that East Berlin is falling apart and "is a mess", while West Berlin is a great big beautiful new paradise. The poor tourist is so indoctrinated that many times that is the only way he sees it.

Actually, as is true of all large cities, there is a little of good and bad, old and new, in both.
And there is no contest between which city is better. West Berlin undoubtedly is. But East Berlin is so much improved over its forme-olf that is alarmingly impressive. Even the statistics show it. According to our American informants in West Berlin, the standard of living in East Berlin is higher than anywhere else in the Communist countries (having just returned from three weeks in the USSR, I can attest to that with gusto) but still, that standard is 25 percent lower than in the Western-oriented countries.

BERLIN LIES 110 MILES DEEP into Communist East Germany, like an island in a dry lake, and its west portion, or West Berlin which is run by the U.S. and Britain and France, is literally a democratic islandin a communist sea. It is completely surrounded by The Wall or its barbed-wire portions, and by a Communist country all around it.

There are slightly over two million people in this isolated dot of western-oriented West Berlin and slightly over one million in the Communist-oriented other portion of the city called East Berlin which is run by the USSR.

According to a briefing we attended in West Berlin, there are also 6,000 U.S. military men and some British and French forces in West Berlin, but in East Germany which includes East Berlin, there are 300,000 Sovietforces. It

According to the law of averages, you may well be one of the many senior citizens who will finally get around to making a will this year. If so, you'll have to do some thinking about your estate, and what you want done with it.

Your house, car, bank account, stocks and bonds, personal possessions, family heirlooms - all have to be taken into consideration. Or at least, the items to which you happen to have a claim as their rightful owner. No matter what the size of your estate, you need a will to ensure its proper disposal.

On the other side of the legal fence stand your heirs, those among whom you intend to distribute your goods and chattels. Or, rather, have them distributed. That's the vital distinction.

All of which brings me to the connecting link between your estate and your heirs. He's the executor, the individual or institution upon whom devolves the responsibility of seeing that your wishes, as expressed in your will, are carried out.

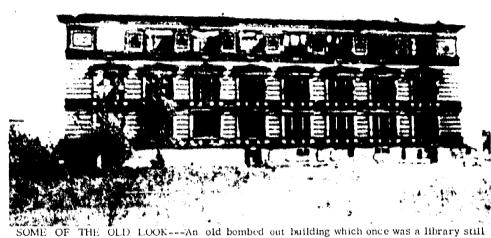

The first duty of an executor is to see that the will is produced in court for probate. He has to present proof of its validity, and convince the court that it's actually all comes out to a three-to-one ratio of superior military force by the Soviets in the area, "but we feel secure," our American speaker added comfortingly, when he noted that we had all turned a little pale.

WHILE THERE MAY BE MORE SOLDIERS in the East, and more civilians in the West, it is East Berlin that seemingly will have a more stable civilian population in the future. And for a very unusual reason.

West Berlin does not have a population explosion problem.

It must be the only place in the world that does not. It has, rather, the opposite problem. There are not enough babies! The ans-wer again is simple. Every fifth person in West Berlin is over 65. There are not enough young people. Young people do not want to be all that 'imprisoned.' And West Berlin IS imprisoned. The Wall separates it from East Berlin and then a barbed wire fence and "death-strip" go all around the rest of it.
There is no where to go on a weekend or a day, once you are in West Berlin except to take a plane out, a train, a car or a barge over a designated route with permission... and it is 110 miles out. That is a long way and it is expensive to do often. There is no sea shore excursion, or a lake side picnic, or a ride out into the country to take.

Because of this "confinement" West Berlin looses an average of 6,000 workers a year and by 1980 officials estimate that some 200,000 workers will have left. "We'll be a fully subsidized senior citizen's home at that rate" one German official said "We'll one German official said. "We need 16,000 people a year to make up for old people not contributing, he said.

Once upon a time, before the Wall, West Berlin's population was swelled by several thousand every month by East Berliners defeating to the west but in the entire year of fecting to the west, but in the entire year of 1967 only a little over 500 managed to get across. So West Berlin is not getting new inhabitants from that quarter either.

East Berlin, on the other hand, is not isolated but within its own country, its people are younger, and they are no longer escaping out. So it now maintains a fairly steady population.

That population is apparently working full hilt and having a good go of it too. Every-where we looked thre were signs of activity. Giant cranes poked all over the landscape building-building-building. I never saw such a forest of cranes in my life.

THERE ARE MANY NEW BUILDINGS whereas in 1960-61 there were hardly any. What new ones there were then, were badly made and falling apart. Some only had good fa-cades. Now the buildings have style, some beauty, and are good all the way around and inside. The old landmarks are being restored and others are being planned. In 1960-61 they were all just bombed out hulks.

But more immediate than that, there are cars in the streets, new clothes in the well-dressed shop windows, and the avenue called "Unter den Linden" is once again under the lindens since new trees have been planted to replace the old ones that were destroyed for fuel because of war. There are new office buildings, new apartment-shopping complexes, lively night clubs and new hotels. Inside one new hotel we sauntered through the pleasant lobby and nibbled on deviled eggs and caviar and vodka for a snack, and found that the little gift shop was selling Kents, Pall Mall filters, Nescafe and Maxwell House powdered coffee among other things! The coffee was about 80 cents for a small jar and the Pall Malls

BET. MORRIS AVE. & VAUXHALL RD. UNION ON SPRINGFILD AVE.

The recently organized Northern New Jersey Chapter of the Leukemia Society of America is making plans to open a chapter office at 1551 Stuyesant ave., Union, in September.

State Director James F. Erickson, who will be in charge of the office, reported that at present leukemia patients in the northern section of the state are being served by the Southern New Jersey Chapter with headquarters at Cherry Hill.

When the Union office is opened, it will offer patient aid to residents of the northern part of the state. This aid includes assistance in paying for drugs, laboratory fees and blood processing; coordinating services to refer patient aid to residents of the northern part of the state. This aid includes assistance in paying for drugs, laboratory fees and blood processing: coordinating services to refer patients to other resources, and public information and education.

The office will be staffed from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily by Erickson, a full-time secretary and volunteers.

ERICKSON SAID WOMEN's clubs in the area to be served by the new office will collect information on what services are available in their own communities. This information will be coordinated at the new chapter office as one of the services to be offered.

The Northern New Jersey Chapter of the Leukemia Society also will conduct annual campaigns to raise funds for the operation of its office, patient aid and research. The first campaign in Union County will probably be held next spring, Erickson said.

He reported that research grants of $546,000 made by the national organization this summer bring the society's current and future research support committments to more than $1,500,000.

Dr. Gerald S. Borman of the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry in Jersey City is currently working on a research grant of $68,172. This grant covers a five-year period of leukemia research.

Knauer recommends cancer article

"Every adult in the nation could benefit from the short article on cancer in the July Reader's Digest," Dr. Warren H. Knauer of the Union County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, New Jersey Division, Inc. said this week. "And by every adult, I mean doctors and others in the medical profession, as well as the general public."

Fitled, "Time to Change our Attitudes Toward Cancer," the article was written by Lawrence Galton. The author and the Digest worked with the American Cancer Society in preparing this piece.

Or. Knauer said that he wanted to call the attention to this "timely article" because he felt that too much unreasoned fear of cancer exists today. He added that such vents people from going to their doctors with symptoms that could, but not always mean cancer, "The Reader's Digest article," said Dr. Knauer, "provides a positive approach to this problem of fear, by stating that cancer is not hopeless today, and gives concrete examples of the marked progress made against such individual cancers as leukemia, cervical cancer, cancer of the colon and rectum and others. Doctors, too, are urged in the article to change their own sometimes pessimistic attitude toward cancer, and not only to encourage their patients to have regular checkups, but to have them themselves. Glaton cites a study by New York City cancer specialist, doctors and scientists, found that only 70.8 percent of those questioned had ever had an xamination to detect symptomiess disease. "It is hardly surprising," the article quotes Dr. Pack, "that the public has not been spurred into action by efforts of health educators."

"The big hope in the fight against cancer, Dr. Knauer quotes the article, "is in detecting cancer early, when it is most readily curable. It's not easy for doctors busy with the ill to conduct routine cancer detection examinations of symptomiess patients but it can be done. All that it requires is the conviction on the part of both doctors and patients that such examinations are important.

Social security cash benefits at $6 million mark in county

A record $6,148,903 was paid out in social security cash benefits to 63,306 residents of Union County for February, according to Ralph W. Jones, Elizabeth Social Security District Manager.

"February 1968 was the first month in which increased benefit rates provided by the 1967 Amendments to the Social Security Act were payable." Jones noted.

Nationally, the amount of monthly benefits exceeds $2 billion, an increase of more than $360 million above the December 1966 figure. More than 24 million men, women and children, or nearly one out of every eight Americans, are now receiving some type of monthly benefits at the end of February were 62 or older. An additional 2.2 million were disabled workers under 62 and their young dependents, Jones About 3.4 million social security beneficiaries were young widowed mothers and their children, the district manager said, noting that a total of $19 billion has been paid to orphaned children and their mothers since January 1940, when monthly survivors benefits first became payable.

In the past six years alone, benefit payments to this "younger group" have amounted to 1-1/4 times as much as the amount paid out in this category during the preceding 21 years, Jones said.

Many younger people also receive benefits due to disability. More than $176 million is being paid each month to more than 2.2 million workers and their dependents -- a worker total that is 10 percent higher than that of December 1966.

"Most of the changes in the 1967 social security amendments provided more protection for younger people," Jones noted, For instance, some 175,000 children are now eligible for benefits based upon the earnings of a mother who has died or is entitled to disability or retirement benefits. Previously, women needed to have worked for at least one and a half of the last three years, How-ever, that requirement has been removed. Payments can now be made to the children of a woman worker who has died, become disabled, or retired if she has enough work credits -- earned at any time -- to be "fully insured."

Another change made 100,000 younger persons -- disabled workers and their dependents -- eligible for benefits. The amount of social security work credits required for the payment of benefits to workers who become totally, disabled before they reach 31 years of age has been reduced substantially those below 24 years of age, to as little as a year and a half of coverage.

Some 65,000 widows, unable to work because of severe disability, were able to get monthly benefits as early as age 50. Dependent disabled widowers also became eligible for payments, and in some cases, so did divorced wives of deceased workers, Jones

Lightning storms, protection listed by Extension unit

"Did you know that the average American community has 40 thunderstorm days per year?" asks Mabel G. Stolte, County Home economist. Lightning generally strikes to the ground once or twice per storm with the peak danger period being just before the rain. The clouds may be miles away.

There are many common misconceptions about lightning and lightning protection. Some people think that a tall tree adjacent to their house will protect against lightning. A survey by the Lightning Protection Institute, however, proved this to be false. About 10.1 percent of the bolts that damage houses first struck a tall tree, then crossed to the house.

Another idea is that a grounded television antenna acts as a lightning rod. Television antennas were struck in about 89 percent of the home losses studied. An antenna should have a lightning arrester and be tied into a complete lightning protection system to be Modern homes are more vulnerable to lightning damage than those 30 years old or older. This is true because today's houses are larger and contain more metal. Then, too, the houses are located in exposed areas.

Do you know the purpose of lightning protection? Air terminals (rods) are located so as to absorb any lightning bolt, and a heavy conductor cable carries the stroke to the ground rods. These rods carry the lightning into the moist earth where the charge dis-

Be on the lookout for persons selling faulty lightning protection systems. To be assured that your home lightning protection has proper materials and is correctly installed, it should have a U L Master Label. This means that the system is backed by both the manifacturers and fire insurance underwriters.

CLOTHES CARE COMMENTS by SAM MANN (Diamond Cleaners)

PRESSING PROBLEMS Rumpled, wrinkled and wilted! Too often that's the description of a smart summer cotton you want to wear. So you go to work with an iron Unfortunately, if your dress or suit is wrinkled, you have probably worn it before. That means it's soiled and ironing may bring out stains which were not visible before . . . and set them permanently. The best and wear something else. Chances are you won't want to, however, so let me give you a few tips about ironing:

thing to do is set the garment aside

If heat makes your iron stick or move in' spurts, stop before you damage the fabric.

Protect your garment from shine and glaze by using a press cloth or pressing on the wrong side.

Clean the soleplate of your iron with a warm, damp clothe and a nonabrasive detergent. If it doesn't glide smoothly, run it over wax paper several times.

Of course, you can avoid all this work and unnecessary heat by entrusting your wardrobe to DIAMOND CLEANERS. It's the safe -- and economical way to smart good looks.

TRY WAS STARTED at Montclair State in the fall of 1967, and through its recruiting program has secured college admission for nearly 200 young people who would not have qualified under traditional admissions standards. Fifty of these will be enrolled at Montclair, and the remainder at other cooperating colleges. During the coming year, TRY will cover the North Jersey area in a cooperative state-wide effort to identify worthy students qualifying for college assistance under the New Jersey Educational Opportunities Act of 1968, Dr. King said.

A graduate of Montclair State, Dr. King returned to his alma mater for his master's degree and received his Ed. D. degree from Rutgers. He taught in Rumson and Long Branch and served as director of guidance and assistant principal at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, before joining the Mont-clair State faculty in 1960. The following year, he was made admissions director. He has maintained an intrest in programs for the disadvantaged and for several years has made a practice of admitting a selected number of disadvantaged candidates. TRY is an outgrowth of this practice.

The NJEA'S view on schools

N.J. MAY CATCH UP IN EDUCATIONAL TV

If New Jersey hurries in educational television, it may soon catch up to Wyoming - but only because the Cowboy State hasn't done much about it either.

Although New Jersey and Wyoming sit about 2,000 miles apart and vary greatly in size, ETV developments in the two states have been strikingly parallel, says the New Jersey Education Assn. Wyoming has a feasibility study for es-tablishing a statewide ETV network along with a timetable for getting it built and operating. The recommendations came from a citizens' committee named by the Govenor. In New Jersey, a citizens' committee ap-pointed by Gov. Richard J. Hughes has completed a feasibility study and recommended a timetable for getting it built and operating. The airwaves of New Jersey and Wyoming carry ETV from out of state but get little value from these transmissions. Educators in Both New Jersey and Wyoming feel that homestate coordination is needed to serve school needs in their own state, NJEA reports. The Cowboy study showed that four ETV stations, if carefully located, could reach every community, school, and home in the state. The New Jersey proposal also calls for four stations — two production centers and two microwave relay stations. The Wyoming plan calls for construction to start in 1968. So does the New Jersey proposal. All that Wyoming needs to get started is money -- an appropriation from the State Legislature. New Jersey hasn't appropriated any money, either, but voters this November get the chance to approve an educational bondissue, containing $7.5 million for public broadcasting, probably enough to implement the proposal.

The need for ETV is about equal in both states. Neither has prize-winning scientists giving guest lectures in every school. Neither has famous poets reading their own works in every English class. Neither has many noted actors giving dramatic readings in the schools. Neither has the Royal Ballet performing in every auditorium. Until every school has attractions of this caliber available every day -- or every period -- they can use ETV. Asks Dr. Ralph G. Molinari, executive secretary of the Wyoming ETV Commission:

"By what better method can virtually the whole world be brought into the classroom?"

Points out theater's potential power Springfield actress finds it challenging

"Theater is potentially the most powerful of all the arts," exclaims Pamela Blafer, 22year-old professional actress, who hails from Springfield, "Especially today," she continues, when there are a lot of new playwrights and new theater projects. The actor's job is to make people feel the other's problems, to run the gamut of emotions with the actor. I just think it's a peautiful thing for people to believe in the make-believe. It happens to me whenever I go to the theater or to the movies. And when I'm on stage, I try to make it happen to the audience."

Miss Blafer, who has been doing professional work in plays staged by the Upsala College workshop Playhouse 90, is appearing this week on the East Orange stage in the role of Nancy in "The Knack." The play will run through Sunday.

The young, attractive, dedicated actress, who was born in Newark, was brought up in Springfield. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Blafer of Springfield (her father is advertising manager of R and S Home and Auto Stores, a chain of stores throughout New Jersey with home offices in Union and Irvington). Miss Blafer was grad-uate from Springfield public schools, Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield and from Boston University. She majored in appeared in a featured role with a Canadian group of actors in John Osborne's "Inadmissible Evidence," Last March, Miss Blafer says, she was nominated for a program for the Theater Communications group.

"It is based in New York. The organization was established to improve the regional theater in the United States, You see," she explains, "the colleges in the United States nominate people. There is a preliminary audition, and representatives from the TCG selects the players. In March auditions are held and all the directors from the repertory companies are there. Actors do two scenes from plays in four minutes. I had been chosen also, and as a result, I've had some good offers, Right now I'm deciding. There is the Long Wharf Theater in New Haven, Conn. and the Charles Playhouse in Boston, which I'm seriously considering, and the Studio Arena in Miss Blafer explains that there are seven actors in the Playhouse 90 group. "The theater, which is located on Prospect street, provides apartments in East Orange for us," she says. "It's kind of hectic doing one play a week. We rehearse next week's play from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Then we rest until 6 p.m. During suppertime, we go over our lines; at 7 p.m. we get ready for the evening's per-formance, 7:30 is make-up time, and the show begins at 8:15.

'We play Wednesday through Sunday evenings. My time off is noon on Monday to 9:30 Tuesday morning, during which time I learn lines."

This is Miss Blafer's second summer with the group, and next summer she plans to go on a trip to Europe.

"But before I go, I want to go to Tanglewood. I was offered a scholarship there this summer and didn't take it. Maybe I will next Miss Blafer appeared in a television doc-umentary show in Boston not too long ago. She likes television, but would prefer appearing on the stage or in the movies. "I have a special interest in the movies," she says enthusiastically. "You see, my brother, Richard Blafer, is a film director in Hollywood. He's 24 years old and he recently finished his first film, "The Time of Passage.

"So, I'm also considering a film career in the future. It's all very important, but the most important thing to me is to be a good actress."

`Wonderful Town' set Tuesday at Gristmill

"Wonderful Town," musical-comedy production, will open at the Gristmill Playhouse in Andover Tuesday and will run through Aug.

Zauanne Henriot and Maureen Maloney will star in the leading roles. The musical is based on the stage comedy, "My Sister, Eileen."

'Ink Spots' return to Flagship, Union

Joe Boatner's Ink Spots returned yesterday to Larry Dixon's Flagship Dinner Theater, Route 22, Union, for a limited two week engagement. Shows are nightly from 8 p.m. and

The group, who appeared last month at the Flagship, recently returned to the United States from an international tour which included the London Palladium, the Maison Blue in Montreal, Canada and the Intercontinental Hotel in Puerto Rico. The Ink Spots combine the facets of show business — dancing, comedy and music in a 90-minute revue.

`Gradutae' popularity continues among public

The Millburn Cinema manager, Fred Dressel, recently explained that one of the reasons his theater has been so "populated" during the current run of "The Graduate", is because people like the film so much they come to see it over and over again.

The Millburn Cinema is still being filled even though "The Graduate" is in its 27th week in Millburn.

This also is the reason why the Regent

Theater in Elizabeth is being "populated" and the Route 4 Drive-In in Paramus. "The Graduate" started its eighth week yesterday

10 p.m. with the exception of Monday.

3:55, 6, 8, 10.

8, 10:25, 12:15,

Sun., 1:30, 4:15, 6:45, 9:10.

`Doctor Dolittle' picture begins its seventh week

"Doctor Dolittle," the musical film based on the Hugh Lofting stories about a doctor who talks to animals, continues at the Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair, for its seventh week beginning yesterday.

The animal-people adventure picture, in color and widescreen, stars Rex Harrison in

`Bedazzled' now on screen at Art

"Bedazzled," adult comedy about a London restaurant worker, who sells his soul to the devil in exchange for becoming a man of the world, opened yesterday at the Art Theater, was directed in color by Stanley Donen. The associate featue at the Art is Michael-angelo Antonioni's "Blow-Up," award-winning film about a London fashion photographer. whose imagination runs away with him. David Hemmings, and Vanessa Redgave star in the color film, and Sarah Miles and Verushka have stellar roles.

The picture, which stars Racquel Welch Peter Cook, Dudley Moore and Eleanor Bron,

Your eyes are the windows of your brain. Protect them. New drugs, new surgical techniques, and a better understanding of the eye have brought many potentially blinding disorders under control during the past few dec-ades. Even so, at least 30,000 Americans lose their eyesight every year.

Some of the most exciting accomplishments in the field of eye research have resulted from the study of the cornea. The cornea is a transparent membrane which is situated in front of the iris or colored portion of the eye.

Similar to the crystal of a wristwatch, the cornea acts as a protective window through which light rays pass on their way to the retina. The cornea also helps to bend and focus light rays.

When corneal diseases are not treated promptly, they may destroy the cornea's transparency, blocking the passage of light and resulting in poor vision or blindness.

Sometimes, however, a corneal transplant operation can restore sight by substituting a healthy donor cornea for the diseased one. Unfortunately, contrary to some popular belief, the whole eye cannot be replaced. Until recently, the cornea was the only part of the body which could be replaced by tissue from another person. This is because the cornea has no blood vessels and therefore the eye is less likely to develop an immune reaction (rejection of tissue foreign to the body -- a natural defense mechanism.)

Successful cornea transplants have been common for almost 20 years. These transplants are performed with corneas taken posthumously from people who arranged before death for the donation of their eyes to eye banks. Not too long ago, a scientist working under a grant from the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness (NIND3) developed a process for dehydrating and preserving the corneas which had been donated. His procedure was an invaluable step in aiding countless blind peo-

While fresh corneas must be used shortly after removal from the donor, the preserved corneas can be kept indefinitely, shipped anywhere, rehydrated, and then made ready for grafting in just a few

These preserved corneas can be used for lamellar or partial-thickness transplants, but about half of all corneal operations require full-thick-ness transplants for which fresh tissue is a must. Institute studies have re-vealed that a method of freezing the cornea (at a precisely controlled rate to minus 190 degrees) has kept corneal tissue alive (in suspended animation) over considerable periods of time. Tissue preserved in this way has been suitable for performing fullthickness transplants, and has greatly extended the use of corneal transplants. Intensive studies of corneal tissue are being made to determine why the transplant sometimes becomes cloudy several months after the operation. This clouding appears to be partly because of an immune reaction of the eve to the foreign tissue, and to other factors connected with the freezing or preserving processes. For some individuals new hope is offered in the use of plastic implants to replace scarred corneas, a procedure now under study by NINDB. For more information, write to Research for Health, NIH, Bethesda, Maryland 20014, for a free copy of 'Eye Research,' Publication No. 1502.

Hospital services demand changing

A marked change in the public's demand for services has been experienced by the nation's hospitals in the past two years, according to the American Hospital Association's 1967 Annual Survey of all registered hospitals. Survey findings, released this week, show that from 1965 through 1967 hospital outpatient visits across the nation have been steadily increasing, reaching a national average last year of 749 visits per 1,000 population. The total of such visits in 1967 was 148,229,113. patient visits across the nation have been

French family next door to us. The parents can't speak a word of English. Their children throw trash on our property behind our garage. We tell them not to do it, but they take no notice of what we say.

We are past 65 years of age and are quite upset over this ... and we can't afford to move. A Nervous Neighbor

Dear Neighbor:

The total disregard for another person's property is breaking the law in any language! Perish the thought of moving. Rather contact your local Dept. of Public Health and make a formal charge against these people. I can assure you they will then get the message. Dear Amy:

This is addressed to the "Mother" of the 14 year old girl who is flippant and stays on school nights beyond her time limit. I have just one question: Why is a 14 yearold allowed out on school nights?

Two nights a week, Friday and Saturday, is more than enough time to get into trouble Mother of 3 Girls (Goffstown, N.H.)

Dear Amy: In regard to the "Mother" wanting advice and opinions of adult readers about her having a problem with her 14 year old daughter; when

A Divorcee (Lyons, III.)

Dear Amy:

Who does that 14 year old boob of a girl think she is? I'm a 14 year old boy and I'm lucky if I stay out till seven. I'm an average type of boy. I'm not the cutest thing around but I consider myself very lucky. Oh, yes, I'll go to bed at nine on school nights when school reopens.

This girl better keep herself cool before This girl better not she blows a good thing.

PERSONAL TO Troubled Parents:

Your daughter is a problem child. Unfortunately you cannot help her without professional advice. She is too young to do as she pleases and too old to spank. I urge you to seek help from the Family Counselling Service in your community without delay.

Crandon Lakes High In Sussex County

High in the mountains in Sussex County, New Jersey, far removed from city dirt, noise and air pollution, lies the beautiful, private club-plan community of Crandon Lakes with all the enjoyments of year round country club living.

Two continuous, spring fed lakes, ringed by towering trees, form a dawn to dusk playground for the entire family. There is swimming and boating, and both lakes abound in fish to appeal to freshwater enthusiasts of all ages.

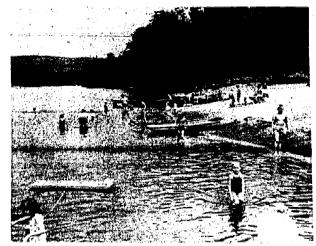

Four guarded beaches, playgrounds for youngsters, a baseball field and tennis court round out the many opportunities for fun in the sun.

A recently built club house, accomodating over 500 persons, is the focal point of the community's full schedule of social events. Many of the homes now on Crandon Lakes are lived in all year, and with the superb highways that lead right up to Crandon Lakes, more and more families are moving to Crandon Lakes for full time residence.

Choice building sites on Crandon Lakes are priced as low as $365 per lot and can be purchased for $50 down, $5 per month per lot. Special summer homes, even 3-bedroom models, only $4,975.

Crandon Lakes is easily reached from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania over routes that make even midsummer weekend driving pleasurable.

Crandon Lakes is easy to reach by car. From Newark and No. Jersey: Take Route 80 to 46 past Denville to new Interstate Route 80 (thru SPARTA) into Route 15, thence into Route 206 and north to McKeown's Restaurant at Culver Lake. Turn left on Route 521 and follow signs
