Sacharow quits Council race; Goldberg to run

In a surprise move, Robert Sacharow withdrew early this week from the race for a seat on the Borough Council, Arthur Goldberg of Wyoming trail was nominated by the Mountainside Democrats to run in his place.
The announcement of Sacharow's withdrawal was made by Peter Taussig at a meeting of the local Democratic Party councilmen and women on Sunday.

Sacharow said at the meeting that his withdrawal was occasioned by the press of family and business matters. "I would not have withdrawn, however," Sacharow explained, "unless I believed that there was a qualified candidate to join Jack Palmer representing Mountainside on the Democratic line for Borough Council. Such a candidate is Arthur Goldberg, and I recommend his nomination."

Sacharow said it was his intention to complete his term as president of the local Democratic Club and actively support the candidacy of Palmer and Goldberg.

Note: This is another in a series of profiles of candidates for county and national office.

Music dictionary given to Mountainside library

The latest addition to the reference shelves at the Mountainside Public Library is the 10-volume Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians, presented through the Mountainside Music Association by the piano pupils and friends of Ella Mason Ahearn, At the end of the 1967 school year Mrs. Ahearn moved to Washington, after 26 years of conducting group piano lessons in the schools, a method in which she pioneered.

In March, 1967, the Mountainside Music Association, of which Mrs. Ahearn was a charter member, invited all her pupils and their parents to a farewell reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Ahearn. More than 200 people attended, and many others who had moved away were heard from. She was presented with a gold inscribed pin, along with the promise of a donation of books or records to the library. Grove's Dictionary is the result of

Eight advance to scholarship semifinal stage

Eight students at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, have been named semifinalists in the 1968-69 National Merit Scholarship Program, Frederick Aho, principal, announced this week.

The students are: Harold Shepard of 1630 Larkspur dr., Mountainside, and David Als-berg, Stephen Brown, Louise Carlson, Roger Hale, William Scott Outlaw, Stephen Ross and Glen Sullivan, all of Berkeley Heights.

The 15,000 semifinalists appointed today are among the nation's most intellectually able high school seniors and will compete for some 3,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1969. The semifinalists were the highest scorers in their states on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test, given last February in 17,500 high schools in the nation. They constitute less than one per cent of the graduating secondary school seniors in the United States.

To be considered for Merit Scholarships, semifinalists must become finalists by receiving the endorsement of their schools, submitting scores from a second examination, and providing information about their achievements and interests.

Finalists will be considered for one of the 1,000 national scholarships allocated by state with many others being considered for the fouryear Merit Scholarships provided by some 400 corporations, foundations, colleges, union, trusts, other organizations and individuals. Names of the winners in the 1968-69 Merit Program will be announced by early May 1969. Three Regional graduates were 1968 Finalists schools. His love of athletics began when he was very young and he credits a now retired police lieutenant, who worked with him in the Police Athletic League of Phillipsburg, with influencing his decision to make athletics his life's work.

In high school, young Dick played football, basketball and track and with the help of an alumni scholarship which was awarded for a combination of athletic and academic ability, he entered Rutgers University, where he was graduated with a BS degree in physical education. The following year, he received his master's degree from Trenton State College.

The young coach says with reminiscent pride, "I played my three favorite sports at Rut-gers, too. I was so proud to be a member of Rutgers football teams which won 23 out of 27 games, and very happy to have played on the undefeated team of 1961."

Coach Lawrence's first job was teaching physical education at a Phillipsburg elementary school, where he worked for one year. Then, for the next four years he was affiliated with New Brunswick High School. Here he began as an assistant basketball and football coach, later

Fund campaign gets under way

Tom Phillips, this year's chairman of the Mountainside Community Fund, held his first meeting this past week. He announced that the drive will culminate in a one-day collection

A budget committee has been formed to review the requests from participating agencies to formulate the goal for the campaign.

Matt Bistis will serve as vice-chairman of the drive; John Miller, treasurer; Ruth Gibadlo, publicity chairman; Dot Wagner and Harry Heide, industrial and commercial chair-men; Ed Gibadlo and Dan Grace, captains.

Applying for the job, he was hired as head football and track coach and also teaches classes in physical education. Dick says that he is very proud of his athletes who, last year, were co-champions with Westfield High School in the Watchung conference. "These kids are a great bunch," he says, "and I am fortunate have a good nucleus to work with this year. intend to emulate the success Jack Bicknell had-indeed, am looking forward to it. If we can stay free of injuries, I know we will do very well."

Richard Lawrence will do his best-that one ascertains by talking with him. At the same time he speaks freely of a tragedy that has entered his life and that of his family. Lawrence has a brother (his sister is the eldest of the family) just two years younger than himself. The younger boy followed in the footsteps of his brother in the field of athletics. He too, was the recipient of the Phillipsburg Alumni Award and he, too, went on to Rutgers where he was the co-captain of the 1965 football team.

"But, you know," Dick says, "even though both of us received these awards, my dad, who was employed by the Ingersol Rand Co. in Phillipsburg as a machinist for 25 years, worked seven days a week to put us through college."

Embittered, he goes on to say, "Then my brother joined the U.S. Air Force, where he became a fighter pilot. He was lost last July 4 over Vietnam, and no one seems to care but us. Outside of the information that he and his plane were missing, we have been unable to find out another thing about him, nor have we received any word from him. Our family is grief-stricken, we were so close, and I am so disgusted about the treatment our government hands out regarding all men missing in action, and their seeming inability to do anything about

Y schedules fall campout

An extension of summer vacation fun will be a possibility for Westfield Area families who participate in the YMCA's annual fall campout using the Camp Wawayanda facilities at Frost Valley in the heart of the Catskill Mountains, according to Edward C. Ewen, Y executive director. The weekend will take place Oct. 11-13, with families arriving after supper Friday evening or during the morning

"The weekend junket comes during the heart of the fall season when autumn has turned the foliage into most majestic colors," Ewen said. "For this reason, the auto trip to the camp and the planned hikes along several picturesque trails will prove to be a most rewarding experience.

Other activities will include boating, archery, riflery, and games in the new play area. Brian Hinman, Y assistant physical director and former member of the Frost Valley staff, will direct the program.

Camper cabins will accommodate up to 10 persons. Each has hot and cold running water, lavatories, shower and electricity. Registrations are now being received in the Y office, 138 Ferris pl., Westfield. Further information may be obtained by calling 233-

Junior troop lends trophies, uniform for window display

Troop B of the Junior Essex Troop of Cavalry has lent some of its trophies, ribbons, photographs and a complete uniform for display in the windows of Barrett & Crain, Inc., real-tors, at 43 Elm st., Westfield.

The Junior Essex Troop, founded in 1931 as a cadet Auxiliary unit sponsored by the National Guard, is a non-profit organization chartered "to encourage patriotism, to foster the love of horses among boys and to train boys in horsemanship, cavalry drill, marksmanship, military training and discipline." Troop B is based at the Westfield Armory and uses horses at the Watchung Stables in Mountainside. It is composed of junior members (active cadet troopers) and senior members (parents of troopers and other interested adults). It offers opportunities to boys between the ages of nine and 18 who are interested in horses and horsemanship.

The enrollment in Troop B ranges from 50 to 60 boys. It draws its membership from the communities surrounding Westfield, Mountainside and Summit. The cost is moderate because the troop, although self-supporting, is a nonprofit organization. There are some openings for membership to qualified applicants in September. Further information is available from Herbert W. Vatter at 233-1800 (during the day) or at 233-2881 (evenings).

control of the commission by the board, Caldwell added he would like to see the registrar, county clerk and surrogate come under tighter control of the Board of Freeholders.

WHILE POLITICS IS Caldwell's hobby, labor is his business. The freeholder is an international representative of the United Auto Workers, a position he has held for 25 years. In the past he has been first vice president of the CIO for 10 years and president of the Essex-West Hudson Council of the ClO for 10 years.

He entered union organizing in industry when the Wagner Act was passed in 1936. The bill, sponsored by the late Sen. Robert F. Wagner Sr., insured labor the right to collective bargaining with industries. At the time Caldwell organized steel workers at Crucible Steel in Caldwell has served on many of the Board of Freeholders' committees, including finance, public welfare, administration, roads and bridges, and educational. His particular field of interest is higher education.

"This is the only county in the state," he says, "that has done nothing for its children. Our children are being short changed."

The freeholder wants the county to take over Union College, a private two-year institution known until the beginning of this year as Union Junior College. According to a state survey, Caldwell said, 5,000 places will be needed for students in Union County. "Right now Union College claims to have 1,600, and that," adds Caldwell, "is stretching it to include part time students."

WHILE UNION COLLEGE has "done a wonderful job over the years," he said, "they have reached the end of the line."
Caldwell said "financially, Union College cannot expand. The county has the funds," claims that Essex, Somerset and Middlesex Counties have instituted two year college programs that will provide adquate facilities to take care of future needs. Middlesex, he said. is planning for 10,000 in 1975. "Union County, on the other hand, has placed all its eggs in the basket of independent Union College, an institution that is absolutely incapable of handling the present needs of the county and will find it impossible to take care of its future needs."
A personal study conducted by Caldwell claims that Essay Somewhat and Middleser.

Caldwell noted that Union College, with its financial and property restrictions, "will never be in a position to meet the 1970 require-

While the county is discussing plans for a new jail "costing millions of dollars," spending millions of taxpayer's money for welfare and supporting a hospital, Caldwell feels the college student is the 'forgotten man" in the county institutional budget.

"If we feel that it is necessary to spend millions of tax dollars to house criminals, automobiles and finance the tremendous cost of welfare, why can't we find the necessary money to insure a decent future for our children by providing them with an adequate education?" his report asked.

The answer he suggested could be met in two ways. One was for Union College to "recognize the fact they have reached the end of the line expansion-wise and financially, and turn over its facilities to the county, who in turn can provide the money and property necessary for expansion." The second alternative, if the college refuses, said Caldwell, is to "begin immediately the erection of a new Union County two-year college."

Hoechst is moving HQ to Bridgewater

The corporate headquarters of American Hoechst Corp. will move this month from Manhattan to Bridgewater Township (Somerset County).

Headquarters for the chemicals and plastics division, as well as the dyes and pigments division, will remain at Mountainside for the time being.

He has served on the Union County Planning Board, Union County Mental Health Association, the cripple children's committee of the Elks and Plainfield's Charter Study Committee and Public Works Committee.

While Caldwell, who speaks with a slight trace of Eire, is a politician who started out the "old" way, his reasons for being involved in the political process are perhaps the key to the "New Politics."

"Politics," says Caldwell, "is something I enjoy, it's very rewarding. It gives you a satisfaction of being part of the community." If the voters agree with him in November, Caldwell will have three more years of satis-

PREVIEW INSURANCE NEEDS BEFORE BUILDING NEW PLANT

"I'm thinking of expanding my plant or else building a new one," writes a man-ufacturer, "Is there any point in reviewing my insurance program before we start construction?" Simply stated, it's very important,

Measured in terms of savings to you later in time, money and production, a discussion with your independent insur-ance agent or broker -- before you build, rather than after -- can bring you substantial benefits. They include:

- Better construction and planning --An examination of building plans by a qualified insurance engineer -- brought in by your insurance man -- may lead to construction changes and layout improvements that will result in reduced insurance costs. It could also result in safer facilities that will be reflected in fewer accidents and less production time

- Reduced insurance costs -- Since insurance costs reflect how susceptible a building is to fire and other perils, insurance savings will depend on such factors as the type of floors, walls and ceilings, the sprinkler and blower systems, the accessibility of water, water pressure, and the proximity of fire-fighting apparatus. The insurance engineer will review these and many other elements in the planning of your new facilities.

- Wider insurance protection -- Your local agent or broker can also advise you on the relatively new "all risk" package policies that provide broader physical damage and liability coverage to real and personal property at premium savings.

These are but a few of the benefits you can reap throough a review of your insurance requirements before you build new plant facilities. Your independent agent or broker can advise you about

The inimitable, the master of unsurpassable music, Jackie Gleason, has combined the Gleason strings with the sitar, tabla, dharma bells, Gamelan Gons and other ancient and exotic instruments, and has come up with a sound that couples the balm of today's love music with the sounds of the undying past.

Anyway, as the wine slowly sank beneath our throats, we approached the capital of Yugoslavia, it was raining. It was dark. It was hot. It was good we had had the wine.

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA, or Beograd, Jugoslavija, is a rather tamished looking city with not too much chic about it or its people. Yet it was here that we saw a most un-tarnished and ever glitteringly beautiful presentation at the opera on our first visit, and this time saw some sleekly handsome government buildings, office buildings, and restaurants, and were entertained with charm and humor and friendliness. So I take it all hear him—and we did with joy. First row center club chair seats didn't hurt either, and didn't feel a bit "tarnished," so I do

This visit we did not attend the opera because it was off, and we were keenly disappointed, but we had a ride into the lovely soft countryside to a famous restaurant overlooking the Danube, and it, in its way, was a joy too.

From the train the scenery had consisted mostly of rolling green hills, farms and patch after patch of brilliant red poppies growing wild, and here too, on the way to Grocka where the Vinograde Restaurant was located,

However, the half-misty rain gave a rather special mood to the Danube, the countryside and the quaint restaurant, so that it was, after all, quite beautiful. The restaurant garden itself was flamboyantly beautiful with hundreds of glistening roses, and inside the restaurant, a cheery roaring fire in the great fireplace made us all feel warm and welcome. A whole lamb was roasting on a spit in the fire place, the company was good, the wine was excellent, the glasses—ahem—were glasses

On our return, we visited Mt. Avala, an impressive monument to the Unknown Soldier, situated high on a hill and deep in the woods But by now, the rain had changed to fog and it clung around us like private clouds.

We could not see more than five feet in any direction. Where was the monument? Where was the view? Where was the forest? We groped for the steps leading to the monument and climbed in a trance. Silently, muffled like ghosts, we reached the top. We moved like spirits around the grey marble monument and felt like characters in a mystery novel of the Scottish moors. But somehow it suited the monument and it was rather splendid just that way. I remember it more poignantly

FUN IN YUGOSLAVIA

From the capital city of Hungary to the capital city of Yugoslavia is something life 250 miles, and our Study Mission Group got to know those miles rather well. We took a train.

It was an amusing train. It had old elegant red plush cars, and spanking brand new steel cars, and coach cars, and first class cars, and sleeping cars-but no water. No water to drink anywhere. No diner car either, and what's more, no parlor car either. So we couldn't even take the advice: "If you can't drink water, drink wine!"

And it was an eight-hour trip,

The train had been late in starting so we were all thirsty and hungry before we left, which didn't help matters. But because the train was so late, and we were suffering, we organized a pool to amuse ourselves. "What time would the train pull out of the station?" was the question, one dollar was the price, and there were 14 of us so the pot was worth $14. And guess who won. No. not this writer. The tour director, Ed Schwenn, editor-manager of the American Press Magazine of Wilmette, Ill, He was so excruciatingly embarrassed that he promptly gave it all back as the train slowly pulled out of the Budapest station.

But four hours later he gave more money back in another way. We arrived at the border of Yugoslavia at Subotica and while the train did some hanky-panky and while we still thirsted away and pecked at an unimaginative dry lunch box meal which the Budapest hotel had supplied, the call came for passports. An official collected them all and disappeared with them all, which worried some of our passengers. Then came a call for all the "big" Hungarian money that we still had. (Large paper sums are not permitted out of the country and must be exchanged before leaving or declared at the border. You are well warned in advance to change it or use it for the small border towns do not have the means to convert it, or a selection of goodies to buy to use it up, so actually, if you are there with lots of paper bills, it is very much your own misfortune. Small change doesn't count, but paper money does.) So Ed, our gallant leader, collected what leftovers we had in order to handle it for us, and when his fist was full, along came another official and collected Ed and disappeared with him off the train. That considerably worried with all the Hungarian-Yugoslavian officials, thinking all the while how hilarious it was and that the train would back up in a second.

And the first official came back with the passports and Ed's was the first one he wanted to return. "But he's not on the train!" his baby blue eyes.

The upshot of the matter was that after about ten minutes, the train did stop and did back up, and as we rolled back into the border station again, there was, thank goodness, our Ed. sources Planning Project of the State Community Affairs Department's Division of State

A total of 421,000 housing units in New Jersey--one-fifth of all housing in the State-tailed state study released today.

In addition to the figures on substandard housing, the study said an additional 242,000 housing units in New Jersey are "individually sound but are threatened with blight by their location in neighborhoods which are envi-ronmentally substandard." This includes housing surrounded by dumps, noisy industry or major highways; those without adequate municipal services, and housing built on overcrowded sites.

To overcome this, the study said, 200,000 substandard units should be demolished and cleared, 221,000 units should be substantially rehabilitated and the remaining 242,000 could be improved through repairs or neighborhood upgrading. Estimating the current production of new housing units in New Jersey at 40,000 to 45,000 units a year, the study concluded that population increases alone require a production increase of 5,000 units annually.

Senior citizen tax credit date nears

Mrs. Eone Harger, director of the Division on Aging, New Jersey Department of Community Affairs, this week reminded homeowners age 65 and older that applications for senior citizen property tax exemptions must be filed with municipal assessors by Nov. 1 for the 1969 tax year. They may be filed on or after Oct. 1.

Applicants who have been granted the annual deduction of $80 previously must file statements of estimated income for 1969 in order to continue receiving the deduction.

A senior citizen applying for the first time must furnish proof that he is 65 or will be by Dec. 31, that he owns and resides in the dwelling on which the deduction is requested, that he has been a resident of the state for three years, and that he and his spouse will not have a combined income exceeding $5,000 in 1969. The same applies to a woman, Mrs. Harger said.

HAPPINESS IS ... a Greek Island cruise, one of the very bright spots on the newspaper study mission in Mid-Europe this spring, as evidenced by the smiles on Trudina Howard and fellow traveler, Major L. $7,000 minimum for state teachers wanted by NJEA

The rising economy this year will force teachers to insist upon sharp salary increases for 1969-70, the New Jersey Education Assn. is informing local education associations.

"In the poorest New Jersey community, $7,000 should be an absolute minimum demand for a beginning teacher," says Dr. Frederick L. Hipp, NJEA's executive secretary.

Dr. Hipp said he is advising leaders of local teacher associations to seek raises of at least $1,000 in beginning salaries and at least $2,000 at the top of teacher salary scales.

"Any district which asks for less will be making a mistake," he said. "The average salary for the beginning teacher in New Jersey this year -- $6,000 -- is already low in comparison to wages being paid to his college classmates." says the NJEA executive, citing these statistics:

*The average starting salary for men in general from the college class of 1968 is $8,280 -- going to an estimated $8,850 next

*The average starting salary for women in general from the class of 1968 is $7,428 -- going to an estimated $8,100 next year.
*1968 graduates working for the New Jersey State Government are averaging $6,684 going to an estimated $7,002 next year.

"Since education is the single most important service that society provides," Dr. Hipp comments, "teacher salaries should head the list, not bring up the rear."

Hurricane knowledge presented

During hurricane season -about now -- you may feel somewhat safer if you know what's goind on out there.

Just in case you don't remember the last hurricane to hit the Garden State in 1967 and named "Doria" or you are new to hurricane country, a professor of meteorology at the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science tells what to expect. Mark D. Shulman explained that a hurricane is a storm of tropical origin with very strong winds moving in a coun-terclockwise direction around a calm center or "eye." A hurricane follows a path that curves first west-northwest and then northeast, Dr.

Shulman continued. Most hurricanes that eventually pose a threat to New Jersey often originate in the southern part of the North Atlantic Ocean in the tropics north of the equator and from the coast of Africa to the Gulf of Mexico.

They then track to the west. Between about 70 or 80 degrees west longitude, they often begin to move in a northerly direction. Rain will fall in the inner central area of the storm, but not in the relatively clear and calm eye. This rain is very heavy in the ring of clouds surrounding the eye -- sometimes like a sheet of water -- and is often accompanied by lightning and thunder, Dr. Shulman said.

The winds of the hurricane are the most destructive forst, along with the tides and waves they cause. The wind is most violent from the edge of the eye to about 30 miles outward from it, From then on, depending on the size of the storm, wind speeds may average from 75 to 100 miles an

The eye of the hurricane is a region about 10 miles in diameter. It is relatively calm, but after the eye passes, the violent winds will return from the opposite direction from which they originally blew. When hurricanes enter continents, they generally weaken very quickly and dissipate -unless they recurve out to the

New attitudes required for 'first job' or college

By: CAROLYN F. YUKNUS Senior County Home Economist

September is the month of change for either the 'first job' or "college bound"girl. Either situation is going to be exciting and challenging and a whole array of new adventures lie ahead.

Normally, a small wistful regret lurks in the background with the realization that no longer can you wear some of the clothes or fads you have enjoyed in the past.

Either new way of life will require a new approach in your thinking for clothing selection, coming and manners. Gone are the days when you got away with shoddy grooming because you were young and didn't

Some of the following tips will help you build your as-surance that you look well and can devote all your energies to the job at hand.

For new clothes the overall words are basic, practical and classic. The extreme raddish or fun clothes are for private hours and are not suitable-for the glaring public.

Now, the responsibility of care of your clothes should rest solely with you. And you will make a better impression in this new way of life if you make sure everything you wear is immaculate and pressed. Small things will make a difference now, too. For example, the handbags can no longer be the droopy, faded, worn suitcase your carried. Now it should be smaller, neater, coordinated to the costume, and organized so that things can be found quickly. The hairdo that was cute and fussy in high school will have to go; that is, if you want to look the part for your new life. A new, attractive, easy-to-keep hairdo will help convey the impression you want. Long fingernails, heavy makeup, jangling jewelry and other small details will not help make the impression you

Manners and attitudes may have to change, too. The icy, dull look, carefully practiced by many high school girls, must give way to an alert, interested and friendly at-

It may not have been so necessary to have good table manners, stand up when an older person enters a room, or write a thank-you note in high school. But now if you to make the grade or get a raise, these practices pay off.

Budget your meals is topic of series

Menu planning and meal preparation on a tight budget will be the emphasis of a special series to be conducted by the Union County Home Economics Extension service. "Feeding Your Family" is the name of the program to take place on Sept. 26, Oct, 3, 10, 17 and 24 in the Home Economics auditorium. 7 Bridge st., Elizabeth, from 1:15 to 2:45 p.m. Miss Anne L. Sheelen, County Home economist, has announced that the sessions are free of charge and open to anyone who wishes to attend.

SUNDAY'S ★ SERMON

A GOOD CHRISTIAN

It is not easy always to be a good Christian. Those who choose to do so find that the road is sometimes hard and difficult. It is simple enough for those who merely go through the motions. Church one hour of one day each week, That isn't much. But, when it comes to really putting sin underfoot, turning away from an idle temptation, doing right even when no one is keeping the score . . . well, that is something else again.

The challenges of modernday living are often subtle. So many "wrong" things appear to bear the stamp of public approval, are made to appear more "right" than "wrong" because, "everybody does it."

The good Christian is not a ''loner.'' But he will stick to the straight path even if he isn't following the crowd. The good Christian will not turn back, and will not be lonely,

The true Christian follows a path that leads ever upward, straight to the pearly gate of the City of God.

Quit Stewing.

Sure there's a lot to stew about.

Crawling in traffic going to work or coming home . . . trying to afford a son or daughter in college out-of-state because there's no room in Jersey . . . knowing over a thousand people a year are being killed on dangerous roads we haven't modernized in more than 30 years... commuting in dreary, crowded trains with old engines that often conk out . . . putting our mentally sick on waiting lists because institutions are jammed . . . watching slums crumble when private enterprise could do a bigger rebuilding job.

All true. But we don't have to vote for more taxes to build ourselves up. We can turn to BONDS, THE MASTER BUILDER. Come November we'll be voting on three bond issues: $640 million for transportation, $337.5 million for education and institutions; and $12.5 million to spur private building of inner-city housing.

VOTE YES ON NEW JERSEY BONDS.

What can you do besides vote yes? Join the New Jersey Bonds Yes Committee, Suite H, Hotel Robert Treat, Newark. You'll be part of a citizens team working to build a better New Jersey.

Yes, I want to join the Bonds Yes Committee.

Paid for by New Jersey Bonds YES Committee, Albert H. Acken, Treasurer, Hotel Robert Treat, Newark, N.J.

Educators will take part in Leadership institute ministrators will participate in a 15-session Arts Humanities Leadership institute to be conducted at the Little Theatre, Newark State College, Union, beginning Friday, Sept. 27.

The Institute, designed to keep educators abreast of the latest developments and teaching techniques in the arts, is sponsored by Classroom Renaissance, a state-wide project in the arts conducted by the New Jersey State Department of Education and the New Jersey Art Education Association.

According to Dr. Thelma R. Newman, executive director of Classroom Renaissance, 15 full-day sessions have been scheduled for the Institute beginning Sept. 27 and ending Jan. 31, 1969. Participants will include classroom teachers and administrators from Hillsborough, Roselle Park, East Orange and

Patton to address Nixon Youth rally

John Patton of West Orange, chairman of the speaking bureau of United Citizens for Nixon-Agnew, will address the Union County Youth for Nixon on "Why Vote for Nixon?" at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, in the Cranford Municipal Building, 8 Springfield ave., Cranford.

The following officers were elected at a meeting last week: Robert E. Rooney Jr., of 428 Durling rd., Union, first vice chairman; Bruce Fuchs of Elizabeth, assistant treasurer; Miss Theresa Rotolo of Elizabeth and Miss Miriam Stash of Fanwood, assistant corresponding secretaries; Rick Townsend and Miss Stephanie Owen, both of Summit, assistant county teen-age coordinators, Townsend was the pre-Convention chairman of the Union County Youth for Rockefeller.

"The overall aims of the Arts-Humanities I eadership Institute," Dr. Newman said, "are to instruct leadership concepts and their application to school situations; develop greater awareness and sensitivity to environment and stimuli; create a better under-standing of the 'posture' of the arts and humanities: seek out new methods of organizing materials and new ways of knowing and learning; to experience new communication techniques, and above all, to emphasize human values."

PROGRAM EXPERIENCES WILL include leadership training workshops in communication, problem solving and perception, Dr. Newman said, Educators enrolled in the institute will study the inter-relationship of the arts -- an integrated program relating drama, dance, fine art and music. Other highlights of the sessions will include visitations to exemplary school systems and creative evaluation of these visitations; use of the camera as an alter eye, and more specific experiences in the arts.

According to Dr. Newman, guest speakers in the Institute program "will include some of the country's foremost experts in the field of arts-humanities education."

Classroom Renaissance, headquartered at 930 Stuyvesant Ave., Union, is responsible for bringing interesting and innovative programs in the arts to potentially all classrooms in the state,

A "package" of activities made available to schools through Classroom Renaissance includes: dynamic introductory programs; demonstration projects led by part-time art teachers; in-service after school programs for teachers given by master teachers; exhibitions for students, teachers and community, and use of newest resources, media and materials.

Cancer drive chairman, points to 'air of hope'

There is an air of hope throughout cancer research laboratories these days. Herbert W. Samenfeld, Crusade chairman of the Union County Chapter of the American Cancer Society said this week.

Samenfeld said that he believed much of the new atmosphere could be attributed not only to opening fields of discovery, but also to a new dimension added to the American Cancer Society's research program itself.

'Under our reorganization, there will be an emphasis on the development of what might be called 'research strategy.' That is, the Society will be laying stress on the focusing of attacks on certain key objectives. In addition, we've set up a new department which will review previous studies, and unearth significant leads, which, for one reason or another were previously overlooked. If there seems good reason to, these leads will be followed up, carefully and thoroughly."

In slightly more general terms, the new research group will examine some of the broad areas of research effort in which progress has been disappointingly slow thus far, he

"A few examples of questions still unanswered," Samenfeld went on, "are those such as the following: How can we find a true chemical cure for leukemia, rather than simply life-prolongers such as we already have? Will we be able to find a virus, or viruses in human cancer, thereby making development of a vaccine at least a possibility? Will it prove possible to mobilize the body's immune defenses to counteract cancers? How can we persuade more people to avoid or give up smoking, so as to reduce the toll taken by lung cancer and other cigarette induced
