Residents alerted to Fire Prevention Week by Chief Byk

Mountainside Fire Chief Theodore Byk this week released the following reminder to residents of the borough: "Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 6 to 12 is an appropriate time to think about preventive measures ... to reshape our thinking in terms of taking greater care to avoid fires ... to take inventory of our properties and eliminate potential fire hazards ... and to resolve to practice fire prevention actively and regularly in the future.

Oil painting classes for adults will be sponsored again this year by the Mountainside Music Association, it was announced this week. George Christy, art teacher at the Beechwood School, will be the instructor. The program has been divided into two series, with both courses to be conducted on a basis of individual instruction.

The course for men and women who have had some experience with oils or acrylics will be held next Tuesday evening, and the beginners' course will be held on Wednesday nights. Both courses will meet in the art room at the Deerfield School from 7:30-9:30 p.m. and will run for 10 consecutive weeks. composition, light and shade and depth. Each group will be limited to 15 and registrations will be accepted on a first-come-first-served basis. Registration may be made or further information obtained by calling Mrs. Robert Hose at 232-8608.

Christy, who is now in his fifth year of teaching in Mountainside, received his bachelor of fine arts degree in 1960 from Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, and has done graduate work in art and education at Syracuse, Youngstown and Rutgers Universities. His paintings and sculpture have been exhibited at the Hewlitt Gallery, Pittsburgh, the Pittburgh Playhouse, Butler Museum of and the Ever-

Van Blarcom will manage council campaign of GOP

Incumbent Councilmen W. H. Brandt and John E. Hechtle, GOP candidates for election to the Mountainside Borough Council Nov. 5, have jointly announced the appointment of William O. Van Blarcom as manager of their campign this fall.

Van Blarcom, born in Hawthorne, graduated from Tusculum College in Greenville, Tenn., in 1949 and attended the School of Banking, University of Wisconsin. He served with the U.S. Marine Corps during World War II.

Van Blarcom, residing since 1903 at 224 Meeting House lane with his wife Betty and daughters Carol and Gail, is employed as a senior investment analyst by Prudential's commercial and industrial loan department, Newark.

The family belongs to the First Baptist Church of Westfield, where he serves as a member of the board of deacons and as chairman of the social action committee, Van Blarcom also serves as a credit and banking consultant to the Internacial Council for Business Opportunity of Greater Newark, He is a member of the Community Relations Com-mittee of the League of Religious Organizations of the Westfield-Mountainside area, and ot the Westfield Area Senior Citizens Housing Committee.

Van Blarcom was elected chairman of the Mountainside Republican Committee last April, succeeding Walter Duda, who resigned because of in health. He has served as Second District committeeman since 1966.

The candidates said they selected Van Blar-com because of his "vast experience in civic, governmental and political affairs," and pointed out that their campaign manager has served six years in an agency in the executive branch of the federal government and also as Republican chairman of North Branford, Connecticut, in 1955-56.

Van Blarcom, in accepting his responsibility in this national election year, said he did so out of respect for the "long hours our nonpaid publicly elected officials devote to muni-cipal affairs." Recognizing that the "final responsibility for continued good government in Mountainside rests with the electorate," Van Blarcom urged all the electors to "express their confidence in Bill Brandt and John Hechtle Nov. 5. "Line B," Van Blarcom said, "is the key

but fell short by four points. In the entire first half, the Raider defense harassed Gov. Livingston's offense so well they could not manage a single first down. The first quarter was largely a battle of defenses. Twice the Highlanders received the ball deep in Raider, Territory as a result of a fumble and an interception by Doug Lau. In both cases, however, the offense was unable to jell and the ball was given up both times.

After holding Livingston on downs on its own 23 the Raiders, spearheaded by quarterback Bob Cebilskis, moved quickly to the Regional 34 as the first quarter ended.

Here, on fourth and one, Cebilskis swept around a drawn-in Highlander defense to score the game's first touchdown. However, the extra point attempt was wide to the left.

In the second quarter Charley Persson of Scotch Plains blocked quarterback John Pic-cirillo's punt on the Regional 46. A pass from Cebilskis to halfback Chris Graves put the ball on the 19 and Cebilskis scampered to the right. Two runs carried to the one and, on fourth down, fullback Dave Molters was smashed at

PROFILE -- Dr. John B. Duff

Note: This is another in a series of profiles on candidates for county and national office.

Dr. John B. Duff of Livingston is an intrepid man. The Seton Hall associate professor of history is running against champion vote-getter Congresswoman Florence P. Dwyer for the 12th district seat in the House of Representatives.

At least there is one consolation in his uphill battle against the incumbent: He helped design the district.

Dr. Duff was a delegate to the 1966 New Jersey Constitutional Convention, which decided the district lines for Congress. The teacher said he would "have preferred more of a connection between Union and Essex Counties than Union and Hudson as it is now, There's more of an historical connection between Union and Essex."

He is well aware of Mrs. Dwyer's electoral successes during the past 13 years. Dr. Duff said he is "not unmindful" of the Democrats in the past who have fallen at the polls against her, including Harrison A. Williams, now U.S. Senator.

The 37-year-old candidate is not quite the newcomer to politics Mrs. Dwyer's last victim, Dr. Robert Allen was, Dr. Duff has been a member of the Essex County Democratic County Committee since 1958 and has actively served the party during the past 10 years.

4 held in break-in after police chase and a good hunch

Mountainside police were busy again this week when they apprehended a Newark man and three Newark juveniles who allegedly had just broken into Echo Lanes, Police Chief Christian F. Fritz told the Echo that last Tuesday at 3:40 p.m., Patrolmen Jack Yerich and Fred Ahlholm, while on patrol, noticed a car going south on Mill lane toward Glen road. The patrolmen, who thought the driver was acting suspiciously, followed the car which finally drove to the Echo Lanes and pulled up in front of the building.

Apparently spotting the police car behind him, the driver took oft at high speed from the parking lot and jumped the curb, with the officers right behind him," the chief stated, red lights flashing and siren wailing. At the Springfield avenue overpass, the driver made a right turn, struck the curb, and the car turned over. As the officers prepared to investigate, the door flew open, and the driver took off on foot through a cornfield. In the meantime, the Westfield Police De-

Simmons heading campaign for GOP

Peter M. Simmons has been named Mountainside chairman of United Citizens for Nixon-Agnew, it was announced this week by Robert E. Scott, Union County chairman.

Simmons is directing a local committee of Republicans, Democrats and independents who are working for the election of Richard Nixon, Scott said.

Simmons, a sales manager for United States Gypsum Co., has been active in state, county and local GOP affairs. An Air Force veteran, he is a native of Maryland and attended Southwest Texas State College. He resides with his wife, Marleen, and three children at 1570 Brookside rd.

some in the future. We proposed to correct these areas, too, before they began to become an added problem."

The councilman went on to say that, after the report has been received, the consultant, the council, police and the various interested committee groups will discuss the program recommended by the consultant and final decisions on the matter will be made.

In another matter regarding stop signs in the borough, Ruggiero said that the council, police and interested committees have agreed that where borough roads cross or intersect county roads, stop signs must be installed.

"We are going to install those stop signs," the commissioner said, "and they will be duly incorporated into the new code. No county approval is required, but the program, when adopted will necessitate the changing of several existing ordinances, which in our determination to make Mountainside a model community of traffic and pedestrian safety, will be accomplished.

The extra point attempt again failed, this time when tackle Ed Painter came crashing through to block the kick.

After Frank Burns returned the ensuing kickoff to the 44, a Picci cillo pass was picked off Joe Lanza and returned to the regional 47. A deep pass to Graves put the ball on the 19 with time running out. Three incomplete passes followed. On fourth and ten, Cibelskis again failed as the first half ended.

A motorist asks, "Am I covered under my auto liability policy if I lend my car to a friend and he has an accident with it? Am I covered if I have an accident while driving someone else's auto?" Generally speaking, the answer to each question is yes.

The popular family auto policy covers the person named in the policy - called the "named insured" - who in most cases is the owner or principal operator. With respect to the owned automobile, it also covers any other drivers who live in the policyholder's household. These may or may not be relatives.

In addition, the policy covers any person given permission to use the car by the policyholder. The person who receives permission is called the "permittee." It is generally understood that a permittee given an auto for a stated purpose should not use the car for any other purpose. Strictly speaking, a member of the policyholder's household — including a son or daughter — is not authorized to give permission to a third person.

As for driving someone else's car, many standard policies contain provisions extending liability coverage to the named insured -- and relatives residing in his household -- while driving someone else's auto, with the owner's permission.

But the liability insurance of the automobile owner is generally considered "primary," and that of the borrower maybe held inapplicable unless the owner for some reason does not have liability protection.

To be certain about the specific terms of your policy, or for further information about various forms of automobile coverage, you would be wise to consult your independent insurance agent or broker.

Rally for Palmer, Goldberg planned for Tuesday by campaign committee

The committee to elect the Democratic Borough Council candidates, John H. Palmer Jr. and Arthur Goldbery, will hold a public meeting Tuesday night at 8:30 p.m. at the Mountain:ede Inn,

The trank alm of this committee is to or-ganize the large independent and liberal Republican voters in Mountainside behind the new faces of our candidates," said Robert II. Jaffe, campaign manager, "We hope that next Tuesday's meeting will serve to broaden the growing opposition to 'Boss' Wilhelms, allowing all who are interested in good municipal government to ask questions of our candidates in an atmosphere without political labels."

Topics at the meeting will include a discussion of the continuing problem of burglaries in the borough, a critical review of the $760,000 Borough Council budget for 1968, presentation of new programs for recreation for Mountainside youth, and proposals for a revitalized safety program. An enlarged campaign organization for the candidates will be announced at the meeting. The selection of Jaffe as campaign manager

Many road, rail projects provided by bond issue

Every section of New Jersey will benefit directly from the 16 already-approved major freeway projects that would be completely or substantially constructed under the proposed $640 million Transportation Bond Issue, the New Jersey Bonds YES Committee said this week.

And every one of the 62,000 daily passengers on New Jersey's four principal suburban rail-roads will be commuting on a "clean, modern, largely electrified and interconnected commuter system."

These reports on how bond issue funds would be spent, the Committee said, are based on analyses received from the Department of Transportation. But they are only part of what will be done to improve now "sadly-inadequate public transportation" in the Garden State with funds provided by the bond issue, up for voter approval Nov. 5. Bonds YES Co-Chairmen Mark Anton and John T. Conner issued the reports. Included among the 16 major freeway projects on which alignments have already been approved are: Route 440--Route1-95 to Outerbridge Crossing. Design plans for this link are nearing completion and construction contracts are ready.

McCarter series on `New Cinema'

The appearance of three leading independent filmmakers in person to introduce and comment upon their work will highlight a major new film series at McCarter Theatre this season. Entitled "New Cinema," the series will offer 10 programs of both feature-length and short film from America's underground, independent and avant-garde cinema. Full subscription information is now available at the box office.

The New Cinema series will open on Tuesday, Oct. 22, at 8 p.m. when critic, author and filmmaker Jonas Mekas will host a program of his works, including the feature-length film version of "The Brig," the controversial play about life in a Marine Corps jail which was originally produced on stage by The Living Theatre.

ences and fans, cannot sing, but stars in "Sweet Charity," a stage musical currently being presented at the Meadowbrook.

He talks, more than sings his songs, and he is charmingly effective (Move aside, Rex Harrison). Particularly good in this show about the adventures (and dreams) of a dance hall girl named Charity, who always gives more than she gets, is Luba Lisa, in the title role. This versatile young actress, known to Johnny Carson TV viewers, can dance, sing, play comedy, tragedy---she can do 'most anything, with a verve and a professionalism rarely found in "new" show people. She's an asset to the musical, Cummings and the Meadowbrook. An excellent supporting cast works hard in making "Sweet Charity" a success. Among the players are Carmen Morales, Robert Gorman, La Rue Watts, Joan Jaffe and Elaine Cancilla. The songs are good, but not significant. But there's entertainment in "Big Spender," "Rich Man's Frug," "If My Friends Can See Me Naw," "There's Gotta Be Something Better Than This," "Where Am I Going?", "I'm a Brass Band," and of course, the title song, "Sweet Charity."

"Prudence and the Pill," 20th Century-Fox's domestic comedy, starring Deborah Kerr and David Niven, begins its first week at the Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair. The picture, which was directed by Fiedler Cook, and produced in color, features Irina Demick, Judy Geeson and Dame Edith Evans.

Employment rises slightly in state on seasonal jobs

Nonagricultural payroll employment in New Jersey rose by 1,000 between July and August to a total of 2,471,600. This estimate, prepared by the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry on the basis of a sample survey of employers in the State, excludes farm, domestic, and self-employed workers.

Employment growth in August was field largely to seasonal hiring by manufacturers of apparel, leather goods, and cosmetics, and the transfer into the State of a large group of employees by a firm in chemicals. Manu-facturing as a whole rose by 2,800 -- a smaller than usual increment for the Julyto=August period.

Factory jobholding would have been sub-stantially higher, except for a major strike in food processing and temporary layoffs by auto makers during the model-changeover period. Nonmanufacturing employment was down about as expected. The nonfactory seg-ment fell 1,800 in August to 1,607,700, prin-cipally because of a drop in retail trade employment.

Compared with August 1967, nonfarm em-ployment was up by 31,300, or 1.3%. Trade, government, and services all made significant contributions to an estimated 47,900 additional nonmanufacturing jobs in New Jersey. Factory employment, however, fell by 16,600 over the year. Layoffs in the electrical machinery industry caused a sizeable portion of the loss.

Weekly earnings of factory production work-ers averaged $125.05 in August -- down slightly from the July estimate. Average weekly hours were unchanged at 40.6, while hourly earnings dipped one cent to $3.08. Earnings in August would have been higher, but automobile model-changeover periods during the mid-August survey week cut paychecks in the motor vehicle segment of transportation equipment sharply. Compared with August 1967 weekly earnings rose by $7.37, or

Students cook to cut college costs 40 young men find economy in community

Looking for a prospective husband who is college educated, cooks, cleans and hangs curtains on the boiler room windows? Your search might turn to Helyar House, a coopera-tive living group on the campus of the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science.

At Helyar House there are 40 young men, short on cash but long on initiative and skill, who do all their own cooking and cleaning and manage to eat heartily as well for $5 each per week.

The idea of young men banding together to cut living costs while at college goes back 40 years at the agriculture college, but brand new this year is the new Helyar House itself, a $350,000 living memorial to Frank G. Hel-yar whose concern for dollar-shy students led to the growth of the cooperative living plan in the first place.

The two-story brick building in a college woodlot not far from Route 1 is very different from the little old farmhouse -- since torn down -- where "Prof" Helyar and his special under-financed students began their unusual project. Later he found room for needy boys in' unlikely places such as attics of classroom and office buildings.

"Although we made those rooms in the eafters of our home, these new quarters are fourteen times better," says jumor Ralph Hundley of Hammonton, a house chairman. "There's a lot of in-group pressure on to keep this building immaculate. That means no more beer or pudding fights, and anyone who puts a fingerprint on a casing gets dirty looks.

STUDENTS AT HELYAR HOUSE do their own housekeeping and cooking in return for a reduced room fee. The building is designed to make these chores easy. The kitchen, for example, has two freesers, two refrigerators, a three-minute dishwasher, two stoves and ovens, a steamer that will cook a 25-pound turkey in 50 minutes, an icemaker and a foodwarmer.

The freezers and refrigerators are im-portant to Helyar House because the boys buy their food in bulk to cut costs. "We've set up a position of food coordina-tor," explains Carl Frey, a senior from Murray Hill, another house chairman. The coordinator plans the meals with the help of the crew year the food coordinator went for some reluctant dips in the compus pond after disliked dinners.

The boys try all the angles to get their tool cheaply and then some. They're hoping to get some food through university suppliers, and they work other deals too.

"We're blessed this year with a freshman whose father is in the wholesale meat busi-ness," continues Frey, "Ten, too, we'll probably continue our tradition of going to supermarkets and wiping them out of their advertised specials."

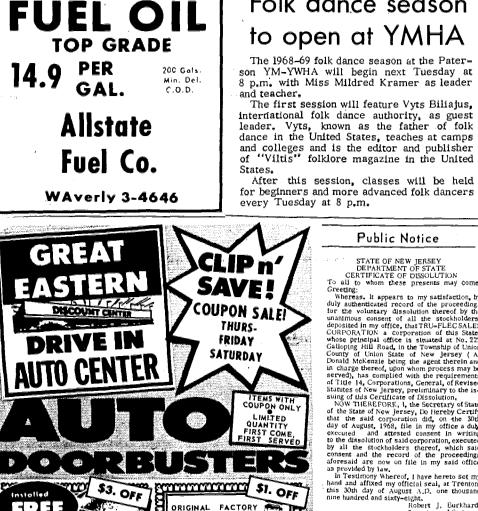

THE 350 COLLEGE ALUMNI who had lived in "Prof" Helyar's cubbyholes and houses formed the Helyar House Association and began raising money for new quarters in 1963. The building will be dedicated Nov. 2 in a ceremony to be attended by, among others, Dr. Mason W. Gross, president of Rutgers; Phillip Alampi, N.J. secretary of agriculture, a 1934 living group graduate, and many of "Prof" Helyar's "boys."

IN ADDITION TO being a constitutional convention delegate two years ago howardirector of research and consultant to thebasex delegation to the glate assembly and is currently vice president of the Livingston Democratic Club. While working for the Essex County leyislators he researched the sales tax and congressional redistricting among other subjects.

"The people of the 12th district," he said, "are entitled to more effective leadership than they've been getting" with Mrs. Dwyer. He said they would "like a representative who would take a more active role in section answers to the problems of the day.

The incumbent has proved adequate in answering mail," the historian said, but hasn't done much to provide leadership, "Throughout the nation there is dissatisfaction with the old ideas, And she represents the old order," Dr. Duff said.

One of the reasons he is running is to provide voters with a candidate agreeing with the views of the minority plank offered to the Democratic platform in Chicago last month, "The people of the 12th congressional district should have a chance to vote for a peace candidate," he said. Although Mrs. Dwyer's position has "wavered" since the last congressional election, he noted, she took a "hawkish" position in 1966.

Dr. Duff is in general agreement with the minority plank presented by the McCarthy and McGovern forces at the Chicago convention, particularly the cessation of the bombing. He testified at platform hearings in Trenton before the convention in favor of ideas later embodied in the minority document.

Nevertheless, he supports the Democratic candidate, Hubert H. Humphrey, and the Demo-eratic plank. "The majority plank is superior to the Republican plank. The GOP plank doesn't even mention the possibility for cessation of the bombing. They say military victory should still be sought in Vietnam."

The Democrats, stated Duff, "had a very open and perhaps divisive convention. But that has happened before and the party's always been put together again."

While there were riots in Chicago, he noted, no one was killed. He was quick to point out that three persons died in riots at Miamiduring the Republican session last month.

STUDENT SUPPORT, he hopes, will help him in his effort to unseat Mrs. Dwyer. About 100 students, he said are working "for us in a McCarthy-like campaign."

His campaign has consisted of house gatherings, civic group talks, meetings with the League of Women Voters, political organi-zations, church groups and coffee parties. He said his campaign could use a bit more money in the tills, much as McCarthy's campaign could have used more funds. "The history of the district won't be affected too much by national results," Dr. Duff said. "While Humphrey will carry the district," he said, "it will only help me a little. I've got to run ahead of the national ticket to win. "A lot of people are looking for more sensible answers to the war, more progressive answers to the problems of the cities," he observed. He has proposed an "urban-suburban" coalition of congressmen to deal with the problems of the cities similar to the farm and Southern blocs in Washington.

"Survival of the cities tremendously hinges on the people of the suburbs who work in the cities," he stated, discounting possible antagonism between some suburban areas with their urban centers. "It's about time we subsidized the cities much like government now subsidizes agriculture in rural areas."

HE REFERRED to the proposals of Daniel P. Moynihan, former assistant secretary of labor, in assisting urban areas. One of Moynihan's suggestions, Dr. Duff said, was federal job guarantees for the urban unemployed, "Go back to twice a day mail deliveries. You could put 50,000 people to work on this at a decent salary that would still be less than training one Job Corpsman for a year. You'd strike a blow at degrading and inefficient welfare system" at ing to groups, meeting people and answering questions," believes this year is congregational electrons to be of special importance since the providential race may yo to the House it no. candidate gets a major fry of the elector al votes. There is a real possibility of the election being thrown into the "new House" (the one elected in November) "it Wallace is given five or fix Southern states where he's currently leading in the polls," he observed.

"If Hamphrey carries most of the industrial states which Kennedy carried and loses one or two like Illinois or New Jersey to Nixon, then you could very well have such a situation," Dr. Datt, who is a member of the Academy of Political Science, eard, ANOTHER TEGISLATIVE, interest of his, bosides the war in Vietnam and urban problems, higher education. He said it now costs $10,000 for parents to give four years of a college elucation to a student, "If a family has two children in college at the same time, even with an above average income, they would become financially strapped." He suggests income tax incentives whereby "families could deduct large portions of college ex-penses." He also suggested broader federal college loans and federal assistance to state conpromise." But he added some issues, like equality, cannot be subject to compromise. Nevertheless, he said, "you cannot become too rigidly attached to an ideology,"

As a historian Dr. Duff is well aware of problems in ideology. He noted the defeat suffered by Woodrow Wilson in 1919 on the Versailles Treaty because of his refusal to compromise with Congress.

THE ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR earned his bachelor's degree at Fordham University in 1949. After discharge from the Army in 1955 he started work toward his master's degree in history at Seton Hall. In 1964 he was awarded his Ph.D. from Columbia, His dissertation dealt with ethnic opposition to the peace policies of Wilson by Italian, Irish and German Americans.

Books published by him include a general survey of American political philosophy and "The Immigrant's Influence on Wilson's Peace Policies," a scholarly work of more specific interest. He is also American history editor of the Columbia-Viking Encyclopedia and a contributor to the Columbia Encyclopedia, He has had numerous articles published in historical journals, While working for his graduate degrees Dr. Duff was a sales representative for Remington Rand, a division of Sperry Rand, manufacturer of computers and business machines. There, he said, he gained "a background and insight into business.

His education interests extend outside of Seton Hall's South Orange campus. He is vice president of the board of trustees of the new Essex County College, now in its first year of operation. He is currently a consultant to the Essex County Youth and Economic Re-habilitation Commission, Newark Office of Economic Opportunity.

During the last academic year hewas presi-dent of the American Association of University Professors at Seton Hall, He is also a member of the university's faculty senate.

HIS PRIME HISTORICAL interest is American immigration. "We are a nation of im-migrants," he said. "I've always been in-terested in the movement of people. American immigration dwarfs all other migrations in history. Much of the history of the United States is the history of its people." He asked rhetorically: "Can you understand the history of Union without understanding the history of its German residents?"

When not preparing for c'isses Dr. Duff reads "at least three books a week." His preferences are history, biography and detective novels.

For the past few years he has coached Little League baseball and junior football. Two years ago both teams placed first in their leagues. The next year, however, they both finished last. Usually historians limit themselves to research and historical interpretations of the past. With a lot of hard work and even more political luck, John B. Duff might upset Mrs.

Dwyer. If he does, the history professor will

Troop 76 opens new season with an overnight hike

Boy Scout Troop 76 of Mountainside began its new season with an overnight hlking trip to the Watchung Reservation last Friday and Saturday. According to the committee chairman, Walter Harris, this is the first of many outdoor scouting activities planned for the coming year.

In October, Troop 76 will participate with other troops in the Colonial District in a camporee at Washington Crossing State Park located along the Delaware River at Washington Crossing, Pa.

Last season's activities were climaxed by a week's camping in August at Sabattis Wilderness Camp at Tupper Lake, New York. Twenty-two boys, accompanied by Assistant Scout-master Jacob Maddox and by Harris, attended. Although the camp provided the groceries, the scouts were required to do their own cooking and cleaning. Many of the boys worked toward higher rank and merit badges while Troop 76, sponsored by the Mountainside Kiwanis Club, holds its meetings each Monday at 7:30 in the All-Purpose Room of Deerfield School, Any boy of 12 or older who is interested in joining scouting is invited to attend, the announcement added.

United Rent-All set for grand opening

Grand opening ceremonies for a new United Rent-All center at 719 Central ave., Westfield, are scheduled all day today, according to John Campbell of Scotch Plains, owner of the franchise.

United Rent-All is a service business which offers short and long term rental of party supplies, power tools, garden tools, household maintenance items and sick room needs and myriad subsclassifications.

Campbell and his wife, Faith, attended an instruction course at the company's headquarters in Los Angeles and had on-the-job training in operation of a unit prior to opening in Westfield. "The training was extremely impor-tant," Campbell said, "because we must know how to repair and operate everything we rent as well as have the knowledge to give advice on customer needs."

Thrailkill will serve also as an official delegate to the World Consultation from the National Committee on Physical Education for $\ensuremath{\mathsf{YMCA}}\xspace$, as announced by Gordon Fischer of Greenwich. Conn., chairman of the committee. The World Consultation on Health and Physical Education is part of the Olympic Program every four years and is sponsored by the World Alliance of the YMCA, headquartered in Geneva, Switzerland. The theme for the 1968 meeting will be "Character Development Through Sports and Games," and will be developed by the presentation of papers from world renowned physical educators.

An exchange of viewpoints concerning the reports will take place among the 36 international delegates. The actual performance of the athletes during the games will provide research for discussion by the group as well. Countries participating in the World Consultation will be: Brazil, Canada, Chile, Republic of China, England, Germany, India, Japan, Mexico, Sweden, Switzerland, United States and Uraguay.

In addition to the consultation, Thrailkill will be involved with the Summer Olympics, concentrating on the track and field, swimming and gymnastic events. He will witness the semi-finals and final-matches in basketball, wrestling, weightlifting and volleyball.

Mrs. Thomas Keis, civic representative for the Mountainside Newcomers Club, has announced that the 1968 edition of the historical booklet entitled "Mountainside" is now available for distribution.

"As there have been numerous changes in the township since the last printing of the booklet in 1964, Mountainside residents and friends will be interested in reading not only about the growth of the community, but also about the many additions, including the library, the community pool and the tennis recreation area," Mrs. Keis said. Copies of the booklet may be purchased at the Mountainside Public Library, the Bayberry Gift Shop, Mountain ave., Mountainside, or by contacting Mrs. Keis at 233-8773.

Mrs. Keis also said that Newcomer His-torical Scrap Books are available for browsing purposes at the Mountainside Public Library. These books contain newspaper accounts and pictures of club activity since its inception in September, 1954.

partment had been alerted and had dispatched Sgt. Richard Shovlin and Patrolman John Wheatley to the scene, They apprehended the fleeing man and turned him over to the Mountainside department. Brought to headquarters, he was identified as Hector Rivera, 22, of 104 South Orange ave., Newark.

"Patrolmen Yerich and Ahlhoim, believing that because of the way Rivera was acting, he was the man in the getaway car, and there must be others involved. Returning to the area, the officers apprehended three juveniles who were covered with brambles and thorns, an indication that they had been lying in a field at a root beer stand in the vicinity of Echo Lane," the chief recounted.

A search by the officers turned up a metal box, behind the bowling lanes, which contained $362,75 in change allegedly pilfered from machines in the building. Further investigation by the officers showed that a small rear window had been broken and used as the point of entry. Inside the officers found that nine vending machines containing cigarets, candy and a ball cleaning machine had been smashed and the money taken, The chief said that damage to the machines alone was $2,000.

Rivera was charged with breaking and entry, larceny, possession of a stolen car, stolen license plates, and driving on the revoked list. He was scheduled to be arraigned before Judge Jacob R. Bauer in Municipal court last night. Chief Fritz said that complaints have been filed against the juveniles charging them with breaking and entry, larceny and malicious damage to property. He also said that he did not want this story published without publicly paying tribute to the "alertness and dedication to duty of the two arresting officers particularly since Patrolman Yerich has just been with this department since March 1, and Patrolman Ahlholm only joined the force on July 1 of this year."

volunteer firemen and he is hopeful, now that summer has ended and vacations are over, that men in the community will find the time "to at least stroll into fire department headquarters any Monday night, even if it is only to see the role these volunteer firemon, who give of their time and effort, play to preserve the safety of people and property in the borough. Why, after a visit with us, they could well be moved so much, they might conceivably join in this community cause and service," the chief concluded.

Newark College of Engineering announced this weet the opening of a new research laboratory devoted to deep water research, The new laboratory, called "HIPOL" fo "High Pressure Oceanographic Equipment," is expected to be the nucleus of long-range plans the college has developed for extensive work in ocean engineering and related scientific study. The initial installation can develop pressures in its test chambers of up to 10,000 pounds per square inch, an equivalent of diving to 20,000 feet below the surface of the sea. It will offer unique investigative facilities for NCE faculty and graduate researchers to inquire into the actions of the ocean on manned and unmanned submersibles and to develop instrument packages for sensing the particular phenomena of the depths.

NCE's new lab will be directed by Dr. Jeffrey Schram of the College's mechanical engineering department. Eight other experts from physics, the chemical, electrical, and mechanical engineering departments and the College's research organization will be participating in the project, creating an inter-disciplinary approach to oceanographic research.

ACCORDING TO SCHRAM the HIPOE Lab is starting operations with three research projects to investigate. The lab is currently concerned with a physics study of crystal growth.under intensive pressure; with tests of electrical instrumentation under deep-water conditions; and with the corrosion of metals under high pressure.

Schram says a large number of research proposals are now being studied and that research will probably increase substantially by the end of the academic year. Support for such research probably will come from several of the federal agencies, from private non-profit sources and from private industry. The versatility of the new lab at NCE is a principal factor in expecting a broad range of outside support.

Many scientists believe that the exploration of the oceans will provide more benefits to mankind than the exploration of space, Within the NCE lab, existing instruments and 20,000 feet under the sea to be duplicated in NCE lab new remote sensing systems can be tested with great accuracy, making the eventual exploration of the oceans more efficient. NCE: also anticipates studies in underwater sound, which when coupled with temperature, salenity and pressure profiles, could aid in improvement of sonar communications, Materials testing will also be conducted under high pressure conditions.

> BASIC EQUIPMENT AT the NCA laboratory includes eight test chambers, each having an inside diameter of three inches and a length of 12 feet. Dozens of electrical leads can be fed into each chamber, allowing for a great variety of detailed sensing and electronic comparisons.

Final designs for additional test chambers. one having an inside diameter of about two feet, are now being completed. When installed this larger chamber will have portholes, allowing photographs to be taken of the materials under pressure. The structural strength and re-design of submarines can then be studied at NCE, allowing the engineers to see and photograph predicted areas of stress and strain. Such testing might increase the safety factors involved in underwater travel.

The pressure chambers of the HIPOE Lab are separated from an adjoining instrumentation control room by a safety wall to assure against the possibility of an unexpected pipe rupture during high pressure experiments. Awindow-mirror arrangement will offer researchers a kind of periscope viewing of their apparatus.

Separately, Newark College of Engineering has already constructed a Free Surface Water Tunnel for the new laboratory, enabling researchers to conduct experiments showing the interaction of various solid shapes with the ocean.

VOne ranking NCE administrator has indicated there will be vast opportunities and rewards for engineers who become wellversed in ocean engineering. Government and industry are just beginning to tap the ocean's resources for power, mineral recovery, water and food, that source said, and the next ten years should bring about much greater attention.

Teachers' group backs state TV

Teachers are rallying behind New Jersey's plan to establish a State educational-television network. As one supporter said: "FUV can bring virtually the whole world into every school."

The State plan -- stemming from the recom-mendations of a commission named last year by Gov. Richard J. Hughes -- calls for a fourchannel UHF system to send instructional programs into public-school classrooms and news, documentary and cultural shows into New Jersey homes. The Public Buildings Bond Issue, which goes before New Jersey electorate Nov. 5, includes $7.5 million to establish the ETV network.

Support for the proposal came this week from:

William Liess, president of the N.J. Audio-Visual Council, composed of school super-visors who would direct the use of instructional TV; Dr. Herbert E. Scuorzo, president of the 10,000-member N.J. Audio-Visual Education Assn., composed mostly of classroom teachers, and John Melchior, audio-visual coordinator for Parsippany-Troy Hills Schools and chairman of the New Jersey Education Assn.'s Radio=TV Committee, which recommends ETV policy for the State's schools and teachers, "'bilv," said Melchtor, "can place prize-winning physicists in every science classroom; experiments on the atom and the secrets of life in every school laboratory; animated reading instruction in every primary grade, It can send classical performances by famous actors and dramatic readings by poets and writers, It can bring the President of the United States, the Nobel Prize winners, the nation's best teachers into every classroom,

"ETV can bring virtually the whole world into every school. In a broader sense, it can enhance the educational awareness of the total community."

Liess, coordinator of instructional aids at Clifton H.S., is concerned that New Jerseyans -- with no public or educational television for their own state -- "are the victim of whatever is transmitted from New York and Philadelphia," "This proposed State ETV network," he said,

"for the first time would provide programs about State and public functions as well as instruction specifically designed for educational purposes. Adults could earn college credits by taking televised courses. The underprivileged and unemployed could receive ETV training to help them get jobs. "This is the first and only facility ever proposed to the this State together, Without II, we have no identity of our own," Dr. Scuorzo, principal of Newark's Burnet Street School, said instructional television ---programming "intended for direct use with students in providing basic instruction -could lessen the effects of the continuing shortage of trained teachers. At low cost per student, he said, ETV could serve as "lending libraries with videotapes of complete courses of instruction."

The proposed New Jersey ETV network would use four idle UHF channels which the Federal Communications Commission has long reserved for State educational use but which now are being sought by commercial interests. Under the plan, channel 52 in Trenton and channel 19 In New Brunswick would produce educational, instructional, and public service programs, Microwave relay towers would pick up this programming for transmission on channel 77, Glen Ridge, and channel 18, Atlantic City, This system would make ETV available to every home and classroom in New Jersey. The only cost to school districts would be buying television receivers, NJEA says, and federal funds could be used for this purpose. The State would produce the programs, on operating costs estimated at $2.8 million a Year.

Vieser named chairman of $100 a plate dinner

Milford A, Vieser, a Newark financial executive, has been named chairman of a $100 per plate fund raising dinner in Newark on Oct. 30 sponsored by the New Jersey Republican Finance Committee, Announcement of the event, to be held in the Hotel Robert Treat to help underwrite the GOP Presidential campaign, was made by Edward R. N. Douglass, chairman of the state Finance Committee.

College offering voter information

Information about the New Jersey bond issue to be voted on in the Nov. 5 general election and speakers on the subfect are now available through the Montclair State College Bond Committee, Inquiries should be addressed to the Office of Public Information at the college.

Speakers will be prepared to answer questions on all three bond issues appearing on the ballot, according to Dr. Frank Cordasco, assistant to the president, but will emphasize the institutional bond issue and its implications for the future of higher education in the state.
