USING TWO SENSES—Patricia Hannigan combines book and record for a perfect example of audio-visual learning techniques in Mrs. Aletta Bork's fifth grade classroom at Mountainside's Echobrook School.

PATHWAY TO KNOWLEDGE—Allan Zettelbach digs for a card with a study problem for him to solve in Mrs. Aletta Bork's Mountainside classroom, as part of her project for which she was awarded a state grant.

MATTER OF DEGREES—Blair Smith looks well on the way to a Ph.D. as he works on an independent research project at Mountainside's Echobrook School, financed by a state grant to his teacher, Mrs. Aletta Bork.

Jersey 'mini-grant' aids teacher's maxi-ingenuity

A request by Mrs. Aletta Bork for a state "mini-grant" to do something original with the youngsters in her Mountainside classroom struck the right note with educational officials in Trenton -- and no one should be surprised.

Her husband, Casimir Bork, is supervisor of music in the Roselle school system and director of the Union County Summer Music School.

Mrs. Bork, a fifth grade teacher at Mountainside's Echobrook School, was one of 37 minigrant recipients whose names were announced last week by the State Board of Education. The grants ranged from $900 to $1,000. She will use her $1,000 to conduct a "classroom archaeological dig for knowledge." Mrs. Bork said that the students "will be digging into all types of source material for information to pursue their individual interests in topics of all kinds."

The 37 minigrants announced last week were the first under a $100,000 program set up in Trenton earlier this year. The purpose of the program is to give state support and incentive to "creative and innovative classroom teachers in order to better meet the educational needs of New Jersey students, to attract and hold high quality and qualified teaching personnel."

archaeology to set off an area in her classroom "with unbleached muslin curtains, just like those used to protect the site of a regular archaeological dig. Besides stimulating interest, the curtains give a child a place to go and work independently and quietly, away from the rest of the class.

"If a child finishes his regular work, he is free to go to a 'money box' and choose a card with questions to answer or with suggestions of study projects he can handle. I expect to prepare 500 to 1,000 cards and to coordinate these with the audio-visual materials we already have or can obtain through these funds.

"We will use books, film strips, alone or combined with records; commercial tape recordings, slides -- every kind of audio-visual equipment the child can manage on his own."

The teacher's own interest as an amateur archaeologist is one of long standing, and she feels that she can have the greatest impact on the youngsters by utilizing her own enthusiasms. This past summer, Mrs. Bork was able to visit a "dig" in Delaware and examine fossilized remains of Indians thousands of years old.

Mrs. Bork is a graduate of Potsdam, N.Y., State Teachers College and Newark State College. She taught in Mountainside from 1950 to 1955 and then returned in 1960. She has also taught in other communities. During World War 2, Mrs. Bork was an Air Force social hostess at bases in Texas.

She and her husband live in Westfield. They have three children. Lt. Casimir Bork has just returned from Air Force duty in Thailand. Wendy is a sophomore at Wagner College, Staten Island, and Aletta Ann is a third grader at the Washington School in Westfield.

STARS IN PLAY--Art Bundy (foreground) will portray Henry II and Dennis Boutsikaris will take the title role in Gov. Livingston High School's Theatre One production of "Becket" the nights of Dec. 18 and 19.

Innovations slated by Theatre One in version of 'Becket'

Gov. Livingston Regional High School's Theatre One organization will present Jean Anouilh's "Becket" Dec. 18 and 19, under the direction of John Ogle. The cast includes Arthur Bundy as King Henry II and Dennis Boutsikaris as Becket.

Innovations to be introduced by the group will attempt to make the play more appealing to modern audiences. A movie screen and various slide screens, placed in appropriate areas of the stage, will be utilized to assist in the creation of mood, and to expand the consciousness of audience emotional reaction. The symbolic use of costumes is another experiment to make the play even more powerful. The male characters will appear in turtleneck sweaters in symbolic colors to suggest their characters and dispositions.

Conceived by Ogle, this approach to "Becket" will serve to enhance the play and reach the audience in a more timely and exciting manner.

Seek musical instruments for poor children

The Mountainside Music Association will launch a drive, beginning this week, to collect used but usable musical instruments for the use of young people in a deprived area. The collection of instruments will be part of the MMA's program for the coming year as announced by Mrs. Donald Goff, president.

"We are going to emphasize the talents of teenagers," said Mrs. Goff, "and a special program featuring the work of local high school students in the fields of art, music and drama will be presented at Deerfield School on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 9."

Mrs. Thomas Spina will be general chairman of the collection. "We hope our Mountainside teenagers will donate musical instruments they no longer use, and, of course, welcome the donations of adults and children, too," Mrs. Spina said.

Mrs. Thomas Hyde, who is in charge of the collection, has stated that band-leader Lionel Hampton, who appeared at the Flagship, Union, earlier this fall, is interested in the project and has volunteered to have minor repairs made to the instruments where needed. He has also enlisted the help of the Musicians' Union to give instruction in the various instruments. There is special need for saxophones, French horns, double bass and trumpets, but any instrument in reasonably good condition will be accepted.

Calls for pick-up may be made to Mrs. Robert Hose at 232-8608 or Mrs. Stephen Bumball at 232-4590.

An anti-Santa letter Girl doesn't want to believe Serious doubt was cast on the integrity of Santa Claus in a letter directed to the North Pole by a Mountainside youngster, a copy of which was passed on the Echo. The letter, written by 12-year-old Andrea, was mailed in another town.

She wrote:

"I hope I'm not taking your time away. I just want to tell you that you're a big fat PHONY!!

"All that time writing letters to you, telling you the toys I want, but I never got those toys.

"Plus those postmen! The nerve of them giving me a postcard which came from them, telling me I'll get them, and I don't like a phony postcard."

"I'm 12 years of age, and mother gives me better gifts."

lucky enough to live in a community where children don't really need Santa Claus. Parents in Mountainside can usually provide everything their children need, at least where toys are concerned.

"The world, as you will learn, is not all like Mountainside. There is no Santa Claus for many children who cannot even dream of having the kind of comfort and security you take for granted in a town like Mountainside.

"Perhaps some day your parents, and your generation when you are able, will have the determination to make Santa Claus a reality for millions of children to whom the spirit of peace on earth to men of good will would be a bitter irony, if they have heard the phrase at all.

"All life, Andrea, is an illusion -- if you think you are being fooled. And Santa Claus will be real, to you and millions of other children, only if the spirit of giving to one another becomes a reality."

Pert Kathy Neubauer is putting some punch in the Christian-education program of the Community Presbyterian Church.

Beginning Jan. 12 in cooperation with Community's Christian education committee, the 25-year-old director will inaugurate a Sunday morning adult education program which will focus on such issues as drug addiction, Vietnam and the right of dissent, the use and misuse of power, violence and problems in education.

That second weekend of the New Year will be especially gratifying for Miss Neubauer. On Friday, Jan. 10, the Senior High Fellowship will open its long-planned Upper Room to local eighth and ninth grade students for three hours of socializing starting at 7:30.

Kathy is the first full-time director of Christian education at the local church. She was recruited out of Princeton Theological Seminary by the Rev. Elmer Talcott, Community's pastor, and came here in July of 1967 after she completed requirements for her MA degree in Christian education. She has a BA in religion from Wittenberg University, Springfield, Ohio.

"The purpose of the Sunday morning adult group," Kathy said as she sat in her spacious, light blue office in the activity-room wing of the colonial-looking church, "is to get together to discuss current issues of Christian

No growth to go for local schools

BY JACK PFANNE

School enrollment has reached its peak in Mountainside and will hover in the area of 1,300 students, according to the results of a 10-year projection made public at Tuesday night's Board of Education meeting at the Deerfield School.

The survey was completed by the long range planning committee under the direction of Walter Rupp, chairman. Rupp has been doing the surveys every two years since 1952.

The projection means that the recently opened addition to the Deerfield School may be the last major school construction project in the borough.

"We are now looking to improve the quality of our system now," Rupp said, "and future development, as far as construction goes, will be limited to new rooms for special programs, such as remedial reading."

Tracing school enrollment growth in Mountainside since 1940 when there were slightly less than 200 students, Rupp said the borough turned the corner in 1960 when about 1,200 K-8 students were registered; hit its peak in 1966 with 1,327, and stands now at 1,289.

At least until 1978, Rupp said, and barring a major change in the borough's single-family dwelling ordinance, enrollment should be around 1,300 students "give or take 100."

Rupp said the leveling off in enrollment is because the "rapid growth in the borough between 1940 and 1960 is now over...we're just running out of land."

second and third grade pupils to begin immediately after the Christmas break.

Proposed by school superintendent Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, the project will enlist a full-time teacher, Mrs. Bonnie Brooks, at a cost of $825.

The program, Dr. Hanigan said, would be conducted during time currently allotted to half-hour recess periods. Although children will be asked to bring or wear loose-fitting clothing, Dr. Hanigan said, no uniforms will be required.

The pilot will be a "two-pronged program," Dr. Hanigan said. The first part will concentrate on bodily development, emphasizing posture and breathing.

The second part Dr. Hanigan termed "creative rhythm." He said children would be given the opportunity to develop their coordination. Balance bars and ropes will be some of the apparatus used in conjunction with music and vocal commands.

There is no physical education program at present for first and second graders, with third graders meeting informally once a week. Fourth and fifth grade students have gym sessions twice a week; sixth, seventh and eighth graders, four times a week, Dr. Hanigan said.

Expressing hopes that the pilot would be continued beyond its six weeks, Dr. Hanigan said parents, members of the PTA and the Board of Education would be invited to observe the sessions.

THE MOST VOLATILE period in the growth of the school system, Rupp said, was between 1952 and 1960, when enrollment soared from 400 students to 1,300.

In other business, the board approved a six-week physical education pilot program for first,

All-state honors for Regional star

Craig Marks, hard-hitting linebacker for the Gov. Livingston Regional High School football team, was named to the second and third all-state, all-group teams announced this week. He was also a unanimous choice for the all-county and all-conference first teams.

Other Highlander stars named to all-county teams included tackle Mike Hiotis, backs Jack McElgum and John Piccirillo and end Eric Wichelhaus.

Retarded children cited by Wilhelms in proclamation

Mayor Frederick J. Wilhelms Jr. has proclaimed the period ending on Sunday as National Retarded Children's Weeks in Mountainside.

The mayor declared:

"The National Association for Retarded Children was founded in 1949 to promote the general welfare of the mentally retarded of all ages.

"The vast national problem of America's five and one-half million mentally retarded is one which should be of deep concern to all American citizens. A vital need exists for extensive research to uncover causes and preventive measures in mental retardation.

"The National Association for Retarded Children has, since its inception, sought the establishment in all communities of well-rounded programs for the mentally retarded including religious training, recreation, education and guidance toward useful adulthood.

"The Union County Unit, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children, Inc., as a member of the National Association for Retarded Children, has been at work in our community since 1949 to reach these goals and

"At this time, the Union County Unit, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children, Inc., is seeking public support and understanding for its program in behalf of the mentally retarded who live in our midst and who need our help.

"Now, therefore, I, Frederick Wilhelms Jr., Mayor of the Borough of Mountainside do hereby proclaim the period of time from Dec. 1 to Dec. 15, 1968, as National Retarded Children's Weeks in this borough, and urge every member of this community to give support and understanding to this program which will strengthen and enrich the lives of the mentally retarded."

Holiday deadlines

Careful adherence to this newspaper's Friday news deadline is urged for the issues of Dec. 26 and Jan. 2, which will be printed early to avoid conflict with the Christmas and New Year's holidays. All organizational and social news for the Dec. 26 issue should be submitted by Dec. 20, and all material for the Jan. 2 issue, by Dec. 27.

responsibility. I'm expecting about 20," she said, "but I'm hoping for more. Senior high school students will be welcomed, too."

THE FRIDAY NIGHT Upper Room series is the result of an idea which surfaced last spring when students complained of the need for a meeting place. The room has since been repainted, carpeted and, to an extent, furnished by the fellowship. There will be refreshments and music, and Kathy emphasized that the Upper Room is interdenominational.

Except for a pause on Friday, Kathy's week is styled along the lines of that of a professional football coach—day and night meetings with the staff of 27 teachers Monday through Thursday, last-minute preparations on Saturday and finally the big climax on Sunday when 275 students descend into the red-brick structure at Deer path and Meeting House lane.

Intertwined in her busy schedule Kathy finds time to set up such activities as dialogues among mothers about the parent-child relationship, ecumenical sessions among Protestants and Roman Catholics and a weekly nursery to grade-school level program of classes.

Kathy is also involved now in an attempt by Community and the United Church of Christ in Westfield and Plainfield to establish a cooperative teacher training program.

There is also a movement under way among the Senior Fellowship which would take them next summer, under Kathy's guidance, to an Appalachian work camp for a week or more of hard labor.

side Teachers' Association for the 1969-70 contract had been concluded. "We have made the teachers an offer," a spokesman said, "and they have it in committee."

Also, regarding the construction of four tennis courts proposed by the Recreation Department on Deerfield School property, board president Grant Lennox said a decision to allow the use of the land would be forthcoming "in a month or a month and a half." The Recreation Department already operates four heavily used tennis courts at Echobrook School.

In response to questioning from a member of the audience, the board dispelled a rumor regarding the busing of children from other towns into the borough.

Smacking of the Verona-Newark arrangement, the rumor was flatly denied. Board president Lennox said, with the affirmation of superintendent Hanigan, that "there are no such plans or agreements, or are any contemplated, on the busing of students from another community into Mountainside."

Board members said the rumor may have started with the successful summer exchange program this year with Plainfield, which board members indicated may be continued in 1969.

Other board members said the rumor may have emanated from the proposed state-wide consolidation of school districts, which, they said, is in the far future if it ever comes to pass.

Local agent

Anthony Marchitto, general agent of the Mountainside branch office at 608 Sherwood pkwy., was among the Eastern regional branch office executives attending a planning conference of American National Insurance Co. this week at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Raleigh, N.C.

Topics discussed included new products, services to policyholders and sales management principles. American National is a major life and health insurance company with home offices in Galveston, Tex.

"I'M ESPECIALLY PROUD of this senior high group," Kathy said. "On Saturday, Dec. 21, they're going to follow through on a program we had last summer with underprivileged children from Graystone Presbyterian Church in Elizabeth." Last summer, Kathy explained, the Senior Fellowship took the children on "Travel and Learn" trips to zoos, the Morristown historical area, a TV studio and a dairy farm. They will renew acquaintances at a Christmas party here.

There are also other moves underfoot by the ebullient little leader to extend her Christian education program. This spring may see an acceleration in the women's adult activities; in the summer there may be a day camp for nine-, 10- and 11-year olds, and in the meanwhile plans continue for a discussion group involved in the relationship of the arts to religion.

THE LATTER WOULD involve trips to New York City theaters and museums, something that Kathy, herself, enjoys on her free days and evenings.

Kathy was, in fact, an English and education major at Wittenburg until her junior year there, when she changed to religion and psychology.

"I had thought about social work until I met Mr. Talcott at Princeton, and he told me his plans to develop the program here," Kathy said. "He's very creative and current," she said, "and because of the program I knew then I would have the opportunity to grow with the situation."

Kathy said that she was also interested in staying in the metropolitan area, which she finds somewhat more electrifying than her Childersburg, Alabama, home where she attended grade and high school. Kathy retains more of a Midwest accent than Southern, though, a throwback to her pre-Alabama days in Neenah, Wis., where she was born.

Neenah is also the Neubauer family seat, and that's where Kathy will be spending her Christmases.

She may also get a chance to visit Neenah again in February, when as secretary of the Directors and Ministers Christian Education Synod of New Jersey, she hopes to attend the national convention in Chicago.

Pullen lauded by Elks lodge; deputy grand ruler of district

Mountainside Lodge 1585 of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks honored the deputy grand exalted ruler of the central district, Richard Pullen, at his homescoming by presenting a rendition of the Elks ritual by the lodge officers. After the ritual, exalted ruler William McDonald gave Pullen a gift certificate on behalf of the lodge. The presentation of the district deputy jewels was made by past district deputy and state ritualistic chairman, Francis W. Kaiser of Union.

The district deputy has been active in the order since his initiation 11 years ago, serving as exalted ruler of Mountainside Lodge and chairman of the crippled children's committee for the past nine years. He also is secretary of the lodge. In the state association, he served as tiler for two years and was secretary to the vice-president of the central district and two district deputy grand exalted rulers. The past year, he was vice-president of the central district. As district deputy for the central New Jersey district, Pullen has jurisdiction over 19 lodges with a total membership of 8,000 Elks.

Visiting dignitaries paying tribute to Pullen were the vice-president of the central district, Steve Cymbalik of Iselin; state president, Ed Hanlon of Red Bank; past state president and grand lodge new lodge committee chairman, Harrison Barnes of Elizabeth; past district deputy and state ritualistic committee chairman, Francis Kaiser of Union; past district deputies Charles Marosi and Louis Blanchard of Perth Amboy.

Pullen resides in Roselle and is employed by the U. S. Postal Department.

How to submit news releases for publication

A "news release" is just what the words imply — news, released to the newspaper, the writer of a news release, usually the publicity or public relations chairman of a group, simplifies the job for himself and the paper by preparing a "model news story" about the subject or event he wants to publicize. The publicity chairman can't expect it to appear exactly as written, of course, but a properly prepared release SHOULD be able to be used "as is."

Your news release, therefore, should "sound" like a news story and not like the secretary's minutes of a club meeting. This isn't as tricky as it sounds. It's mostly a matter of putting the most important things first in your story (the five W's of journalism — What, When, Where, Who and Why) and avoiding the use of flowery, personalized descriptions (editorializing, we call it).

You don't have to take a course in journalism to write a good release; anyone who ever learned to write a business letter can learn to write a news release. Let's begin with lesson one, the FORM of a "news release."

FORM

1. Release must be TYPEWRITTEN. If you can't type your release, have it typed for you. The reason for this is the need for accuracy. Newspapers don't want to risk misquoting people's names in print, which is likely if the names are submitted in handwritten cursive or even in bold block printing. We'd much prefer a sloppy typewritten release to a pretentious display of penmanship. Some papers will accept any handwritten release and no paper will accept them regularly from the same source.

2. Use a plain sheet of paper, not letterhead stationery cluttered up with a lot of printing. Type on one side of the paper only. Double space, leave plenty of room at the top, sides and bottom for editing by the newspaper staff. DO NOT WRITE IN CAPITAL LETTERS, LIKE THIS. The newspaper doesn't print stories in all capital letters so why submit them that way?

IDENTIFY YOURSELF

Type your name, the name and address of your organization, and the phone numbers at which you can be reached in the sheet. Be sure to include the upper left hand corner of both home and business phones so that the newspaper can reach you if it has any questions.

YOUR "STORY"

Put the most important facts in the first paragraph, and lesser facts in later paragraphs, in order of their importance. A release should be written so that later paragraphs may be chopped off if necessary. A trite, perhaps, but tried and true guide for importance is the "Five Ws of Journalism" — What, When, Where, Who and Why (or How). All five Ws should be answered in the first paragraph, though not necessarily in any particular order. Here are some examples:

Dr. James Smith, child psychologist at Newark State College, (WHO) will discuss I.Q. testing (WHAT) next Thursday at 8 p.m. (WHEN) in Hamilton School (WHERE) as members of the PTA assemble for their first meeting of the new term (WHY).

In itself, that paragraph is a complete story. The reader knows all he needs to know if he wants to attend. If the publicity chairman wishes, however, he or she may add other paragraphs giving more details.

The second paragraph might offer more information about Dr. Smith:

A member of the Newark State faculty for 10 years, Dr. Smith has also served as a testing consultant in the Cranford school system. He is the author of several professional articles on testing procedures.

Then, more about the meeting:

Mrs. Benjamin Brown, of 1 Baltusrol way, program chairman, will reveal plans for forthcoming meetings. Mrs. Ronald Jones of 200 Forest St., chairman of the ways and means committee, will discuss plans for the usual winter hot sale to be held in December. New members of the PTA will be introduced by Mrs. Milton Green, president, of 41 Morris ave.

NOTHING BUT THE FACTS

You've probably concluded that our fictional Dr. Smith is an "expert" in his field, though nowhere in the release did it say he was. His

Symphony boys chorus to be heard on radio

The Boys Chorus of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra will broadcast a Christmas program on Radio Station WEGO in Newark Monday, at 1:15 p.m.

Selections will include Britten's "Ceremony of Carols." They also will offer some folk music and a traditional arrangement of "Loch Lomond."

James R. McCarthy is choral director of the Symphony.

The Boys Chorus, one of five youth-training organizations maintained by the Symphony, has a broad background of concert experience since its organization two years ago. The approximately 45-member chorus has appeared at Newark's Symphony Hall on several occasions, at the Garden State Arts Center, the Waterloo Music Festival, and in New York.

Slide for indoors is long-lasting gift

For a wonderful, long-lasting Christmas gift that is practically indestructible, the pre-school or first or second grade child will enjoy a simple slide.

Dad can make a framework of 1x12-inch lumber 5 feet long and 15 inches wide, with cross braces at 20-inch intervals. To this he will fasten with nails or a new cartridge-type adhesive a piece of smooth, splinter-free Masonite 1/4" Tempered Presdwood, countersinking the heads.

He'll round the corners and bevel the exposed edges with a file or sandblock.

For the smallest youngsters, prop one end of the slide against a bottom step. Wax the surface to make it slick. Older children will be more daring; they can prop the slide on a sofa.

When not in use, store the slide in a closet.

completions, which are EASY to do, speak for themselves. Your release should, too.

Leave the final description and personal opinion out of your release. Never say a meeting was "interesting." Tell what the topic was and let the reader decide for himself. Be sure that a singer was "in good voice," report instead that he was applauded for five minutes and called for ten encores. The hall was not "beautifully decorated" but rather decorated in shades of violet and lavender.

ALL THE FACTS

Your release should send the newspaper staff scurrying for the phone or the city directory to get the information you forgot to include. Give complete details. Make sure that names and addresses are accurate and complete.

HERE ARE SOME POINTERS:

FULL NAMES Use full names. In the case of a woman, always identify her as Miss or Mrs. You may use either the first name or TWO initials, never one (John Smith or J. E. Smith, but NEVER J. Smith). (Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. J. E. Smith, but NEVER just plain Mary Smith or Mrs. J. Smith).

AGE It isn't necessary to give a person's age unless it's vital to the story. If John Smith is honored as your oldest member, naturally you should mention that he's 88 years old. When writing about children, always mention their ages, and possibly the grades they are in.

ADDRESS When writing about local people, include their addresses. If the paper doesn't want the address, it can always cross it out. If the address is wanted and you haven't given it — then someone must look it up for you. When writing about buildings where meetings will be held, the address is imperative. Use a number such as "555 Colonial avenue" not "Colonial avenue" or "Colonial avenue near Morris avenue" or "corner of Colonial and Morris avenues."

NAME YOUR ORGANIZATION so that the readers know what it is. You may know that N. O. M. A. means National Office Machine Association, but we don't and neither will our readers. Use the full title in your release. Don't identify troops, branches and units by numbers or the names of their founders. Call your group the Springfield branch (Irvington, Vauxhall, Essex, New Jersey or whatever) branch of the National Fish Fanciers' Association — not unit No. 29457, or Jerome S. Smith Memorial chapter.

Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops should be identified by the name of the school in which they meet, the neighborhood they serve or the organization that sponsors them — not by long, meaningless numbers. Fraternal organizations should be identified by the name of the town — NOT the council number.

QUOTES AND OPINIONS

The only place for opinions is inside quotation marks. Your release should not say that a new branch library is needed, but rather that Mrs. John Smith, president of the James Caldwell School PTA, said that "A branch library serving the western section is a definite necessity."

In other words, all opinions should be attributed to somebody, preferably in a direct quotation. When you quote someone directly, make sure that he is willing to be quoted with the words you ascribe to him. Pick the punchiest and most important things your speaker said. Keep your quotes brief and significant.

DEADLINES

The deadline for organizational publicity is the Friday preceding the issue in which you want it published. If your release arrives later than that, very likely it will be thrown out or pushed aside until next week.

Monday and Tuesday of the editor's week are reserved for "spot" news. He's busy with the political campaign or the big accident and doesn't have time to give proper attention to what happened at the PTA last Wednesday.

You can eliminate most of your deadline problems by doing ADVANCE stories, appearing in the paper before the event occurs. If the election is on a Monday night, what do you do?

Advance news, information about an event which will happen, is usually more important than a report on a meeting which was held. Please bring your article with news which will happen. Then report on what has happened.

Do you know who is going to win? We're not referring to a good guess, of course, but the sort of election where the state of officers is selected by a nominating committee and the "election" is a formality.

If you KNOW what's going to happen, write your release as if it already did and put this sort of note at the top:

Editor: This meeting will take place Monday night, November 15.

Of course, if anything happens and the expected fails to happen YOU MUST PHONE THE NEWSPAPER IMMEDIATELY.

LOCAL NEWS ONLY

News is local when it happens here, involves local people or groups or when it specifically concerns the readers. If John Featherworth of Tarrytown, N. Y., is elected president of your group and Jacob Farnsby who lives in town, is appointed to the executive committee, your story is about Farnsby, not Featherworth. Farnsby's neighbors care about him, but who ever heard of Featherworth. If your charity group is conducting a two-month clothing drive in Northern New Jersey, your story to the local paper should be that the week-long campaign in town will be held Monday to Friday. The readers want to know when they should have THEIR discards ready. The local paper wants to know, for example, how the local March of Dimes campaign is going, but isn't much interested in the results of a national telethon. It wants biographical backgrounds of the local volunteers, not the national campaign chairman. It wants to know what the charity does for local people, not the

POINTS TO PONDER

1. The newspaper WANTS your publicity.
2. The newspaper is the final judge of the material it accepts and rejects and the fashion in which the material will appear.
3. Keep your eyes open for "real" news. You can endeavor yourself (and your group) to any editor by letting him know what's going on, even if it doesn't concern your group. If you know of somebody or something that would make a good feature story, let the editor know about it.
4. The newspaper staff will be very happy to talk with you about publicity plans or problems of your group.

'Twas a cloudy, rainy November

Only one clear day was recorded in November at the Union College Meteorological Station, according to the monthly report of Harold Dufloco, meteorologist, to the U.S. Weather Bureau.

There were 17 cloudy days and 12 partly cloudy days in November, Dufloco reported. Precipitation in November totaled 4.83 inches, which is 1.58 inches above the normal rainfall. The greatest amount of rain in a 24-hour period was 1.26 inches on Nov. 11 and 12. This year's total compares with 7.12 inches in 1963, which is the highest total recorded at this station, and with 1.68 inches in 1965, which is the lowest total recorded. Precipitation in 1968 through Nov. 30 is 37.39, while the total for the same period a year ago was 41.54 inches.

Temperatures in November ranged from a maximum of 73 degrees on Nov. 2 to a minimum of 27 degrees on Nov. 21. The average temperature was 45 degrees, which is 0.4 degrees below normal. The maximum average temperature was 52.7 degrees, while the minimum average temperature was 37.3 degrees. Nov. 29 was the warmest day of the month when the average temperature was 59 degrees.

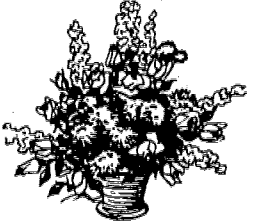

During the month, 591 degree days were recorded, as compared with 722 in 1967. Since the heating season began on Sept. 1, 874 degree days have been recorded, while 1,133 were recorded during the same period in 1967.

A severe coastal storm was recorded on Nov. 12. Light snow fell the same day.

The lecture-demonstration is presented under the auspices of the Adult Education Resource Center based at the college.

Medicare urges filing of past service claims

Ralph W. Jones, social security district manager in Elizabeth, this week urged everyone enrolled in the doctor bill insurance part of Medicare, to devote some time between now and the end of the year in reviewing whether the program owes them some money.

He said that this is most important for those older people who incurred expenses for covered medical services between Oct. 1, 1966 and Sept. 30, 1967. If a claim is not made for reimbursement of these expenses by Dec. 31, 1968, it will not be possible to make a payment.

Jones pointed out that, in the past, some Medicare beneficiaries postponed making a claim because they thought that if the doctor declined to take an assignment, the patient had to submit a receipted bill with his application. Unable to supply evidence of having paid the doctor or the medical supplier, they failed to file a claim, he added. "These people are in danger of short-changing themselves," Jones said.

"The 1967 amendments to the Medicare law eliminated the requirement that a bill submitted with a claim must be receipted to show that it was paid in full or part. Starting in 1968, an itemized bill showing the services or medical goods received and charges for them, even if unpaid, is now sufficient." He reminded those thousands of other persons in the Union-Somerset County area who have signed up for voluntary medical insurance that Medicare pays for 80 percent of the reasonable charges of the covered services and medical goods, less an annual $50 deductible that the patient must pay.

If the expenses of the last three months in any year do not come up to the amount of the deductible, they can be carried over to the following year to reduce the deductible for that year.

All social security offices are prepared to help people make claims for doctor bill insurance payments. Those who still have not applied for reimbursement for medical services and goods received between Oct. 1, 1966 and Sept. 30, 1967, are urged to apply before Jan. 1, 1969. Beginning with that date, it may be too late.

Anyone wishing speedy and efficient service on one of these claims should bring to the office evidence of the services received, either in the form of an itemized bill from the doctor or the supplier of medical goods, or the same information on the "Request for Medicare Payment" form supplied by the Social Security Administration. Another "must" is the older person's Medicare card or other official document showing his health insurance claim number.

The Elizabeth district office is at 268 North Broad st. The telephone number is 351-3200. Interviewing hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily Monday through Friday, and on Thursday evenings from 5 to 8 p.m.

Santa Claus isn't the only one with great ideas for Christmas. We thought up the Trimline* telephone.

The Trimline telephone is beautifully designed. When you pick up the handset, ten Touch-Tone* pushbuttons, which let you "dial" twice as fast, come to you.

There's a new recall button, too. When you want to make a second call, don't hang up—just push the convenient recall button.

The cost of a Trimline phone is nominal—only pennies a day. And there's no extra charge for color.

If you want Touch-Tone service, the additional Touch-Tone charge covers all the phones on your line.

Maybe you'd like to play Santa Claus with our idea. You can. To order Trimline phones in either wall or table models for Christmas, just call your Telephone Business Office.

Also available with standard dial in new compact design.

Weather film at Trailside

"Unchained Goddess" a color, sound movie will be shown at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, on Sunday at 2 p.m.

The film reports on what our scientists have learned about the weather and how this knowledge benefits mankind.

One-half hour nature talks for children will be conducted by Stuart Faber, a nature guide at Trailside, at 4 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Dec. 19.

The topic selected for the four days is "African Animals." These talks will be illustrated with color slides.

The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public on weekdays, except Fridays, from 3 to 5 p.m., and on Saturdays, and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. The public is invited to visit the Center to view the live animals and thousands of indoor exhibits and to participate in the scheduled programs.

CRASH COST SOARING
NEW YORK -- The annual dollar cost of the nation's traffic accidents has about doubled in the last decade, according to the Insurance Information Institute. The 1967 economic loss figure of $12.44 billion averaged out to a bill of $62.14 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

PRECISION INSTALLATION/MAINTENANCE

MAXON PONTIAC offers an important service which we hope you'll never need. But we think you'll want to know about it anyway. Our Tire Department — as an authorized Goodyear distributorship — is ready at all times to make immediate pro-rata adjustments for all Goodyear Tires — (no matter where they were purchased) under the terms of the Manufacturer's Warranty protection against tire damage due to road hazards or tire failure due to materials or workmanship. But above and beyond that routine service, we also assume the responsibility of replacement and adjustment for all MAXON PONTIAC owners for all brands of tires which come as standard original equipment on their new cars. If you've had any experience with tire adjustments under warranty provisions, you know that the car owner is expected to go to a franchised distributor of the particular brand of tire, not to the new car dealer. So you can see that MAXON PONTIAC is providing a service that is not only extraordinary, but exclusive in the entire area.

And that's still only one phase of the MAXON PONTIAC TOTAL Tire Service policy. The brand of tires that we represent — Goodyear Double Eagle Tires and the full Goodyear Line — is the one we are convinced we can recommend unconditionally for greater safety, performance, endurance and competitive value.

The three points add up to one point to remember: The MAXON PONTIAC Service Division (which includes the Tire Department) means finer automotive maintenance service — from the ground up.

Lighting director's tips untangle tree problems

Long before the invention of light bulbs it was common to light the Christmas tree with candles. And it was not an uncommon sight to see a mama or papa suddenly toss the tree out the window when it caught fire from a misplaced candle.

With the introduction of electric Christmas bulbs, the danger of fire has eased but the confusion involved in lighting a tree is as commonplace as ever. But don't give up. Rita Harold, a resident lighting director for Westinghouse, has some hints on decorating your tree which will prevent you from becoming hopelessly entangled in the strings and tree.

Strings come in varying lengths containing from seven to 30 bulbs. Miss Harold points out, for an impressive, full look, a six-foot tree requires about 30 bulbs. An unattractive, spotty-lighted appearance usually results when you skimp on bulbs. Here is a table which will guide you in determining how many bulbs you require:

Tree Height (feet)	No. of Tree Lights
4	38
5	50
6	72
7	102
10	210

Straighten out the strings of lights (the floor is a good place to do this) and remove all kinks before you start to trim the tree. Miss Harold suggests: Make certain that all bulbs are burning brightly and that none of the cords are frayed or sockets damaged. Then disconnect the strings. If you plan to have a multicolored tree, arrange the colors alternately. For a contemporary look, use bulbs of all one color.

For an unusual effect, try the flashing bulbs. Pearl-essent bulbs, which have a beautiful pearl coating, add a striking finish to your Christmas tree. Make sure you have ample bulb replacements on hand no matter what size or type you use. Remember, the stores are usually closed when those bulbs burn out.

Start at the top and work down when you string your lights on the tree. Place the lights on the inside bulbs first, and work from the trunk outward to the tips of the branches. After each string is in place, light it and stand off to check your work before proceeding with the next string. For tall trees, strings may be hung straight-down from top to bottom on the outside branches giving vertical lines of light.

After all the strings are in position, disconnect them beginning to hang your ornaments. Again, work from the top down. These rules, Miss Harold says, also apply to outdoor trees where symmetry and charm are just as important.

Something else you may wish to try—white or colored spot or flood light bulbs can be used to advantage to dramatize, accent, or highlight a tree, indoors or outdoors. Use a 25 or 150 watt clear flood lamp behind a revolving, color-wheel to project changing, tinted light patterns on tree, doorway, window, or house, to call attention to these areas.

Revolving color-wheels, to accommodate flood bulbs, are made for indoor use and for outdoor use. Some of those designed for outdoor use come with a spike to put in the ground and are about 30 inches high to keep the color-wheel out of the snow. One caution: To prevent breakage from rain or snow, be sure to use outdoor projector (PAR) spot and flood bulbs with a color-wheel and for all outdoor Christmas lighting.

The variety of tree selected and the manner in which it is to be lighted and trimmed are as personal as the clothes one wears, Miss Harold admits. Through the years numerous ways of decorating and lighting the indoor Christmas tree have been tried as well as a variety of colors and materials for trees. Interestingly, the traditional natural evergreen tree continues to be the favorite although artificial trees are extremely popular today because of their convenience and safety.

The favorite decorations

even in today's space age are still multicolored lights, sparkling ornaments, icicles, swags of tinsel, and scenes under the tree.

Museum talk on Yule art

A gallery talk will be given at the Montclair Art Museum Sunday on the current exhibition, "Christmas Story in Art." The talk will be given by Ann Rogerson, museum curator.

Miss Rogerson has designed a special setting for the early European paintings and sculptures which tell the story of the Nativity. The works are shown against a background of panels decorated with handmade Italian papers arranged in patterns of Romanesque and Gothic arches. Fourteenth to seventeenth century Spanish, French, German and Flemish works from the museum collections are on view.

Three additional exhibitions are being shown at the museum during the same time, through Jan. 5: "William S. Horton, American Impressionist," "Influence of the Academy" and "Arabian Motifs."

Maybe this is the winter you'll want to learn to ski

Skiing was once the province of the very rich or the out and out fanatic—but no more. Not so long ago, if you skied, you wore either an old-fashioned "jet-setter" or you wore a ski jacket. Now everyone has one. From the youngest tot to the oldest grandfather, the sport has boomed. It wasn't always like that.

Thirty years ago, when a Swiss named Hugo Mury put muck on a slope so he could ski better it wasn't unusual for him to warn neighbors to keep their cats off his slope—they made footprints. And if you were prone to falling, you had a good chance of being thrown off the slope for marring the surface. This was the beginning of Craigneur Ski Area, the first and nearest skiing in Northern New Jersey, located on Green Pond Road just off Route 23, and only 30 miles north of Newark. But times have changed; the sport itself has changed. So many people now ski that you often hear the question: "You mean you haven't learned to ski yet?"

The ability to produce man-made snow had a lot to do with the increase in skiing's popularity. The compressors are already in this year at Craigneur. When the temperature drops below freezing they squirt a fine mist of water into the air that falls as snow. It lends continuity to the sport, and makes possible the profitable operation of many ski areas. From now on, when it gets cold at Craigneur, it snows.

Improvement in equipment has been another major reason for the skiing boom. The introduction of metal skis requiring less maintenance, and the development of release bindings to prevent injury, has taken the dull parts out of skiing and made it possible for whole families to ski together. Clothes are now warmer and lighter, and there is the added fashion appeal of stretchpants and other ski regalia. Few women can resist it. So if you've thought of learning to ski this year, you're not alone; there are thousands like you. But how do you go about it? Where do you start?

"Skiing is easier to learn than most people think," says Ray Dietrich, head of Craigneur's Ski School. "Our learn-to-ski plans consist of five meetings with 10 hours of instruction, and are held not only during the day, but every night. It's surprising how quickly people learn."

Craigneur features evening

skiing under the lights every night of the week. Their night club ski plan allows you to play your night of the week and learn or improve your technique after hours. Craigneur rents full equipment—skis, poles, and boots—plus does almost every other ski area. "The fun begins the first night out," adds Dietrich.

What about the social prongs-on connected with skiing that we all hear so much about? "Skiing is entertainment to most people," says Dietrich, "and at Craigneur we are uniquely set up to provide it close at hand, without a long trip. Our lodge with picture windows overlooking the slope, our cocktail lounge and dance floor all add to the basic pleasure of skiing."

Craigneur owner Stan Udell tells us the entire lodge has been redecorated in candlelit red and gold, and a new dance floor added on the upper level. "We will be featuring dancing every night at Craigneur this year," he said.

Craigneur will hold a kick-off dance tomorrow night to open the season. In addition to dancing and ski talk in the lounge, the evening will be a school registration night. "We invite every skier to come on up for a night of fun," says Udell. "Non-skiers, and those interested in learning will particularly enjoy it; it's a chance to find out what skiing is all about."

So if you've been holding back because you don't know how to take the first step, Friday night at Craigneur could be just the opportunity you're looking for to talk to ski instructors, ask questions of other skiers, and have an evening of fun and dancing at Thursday, December 12, 1968—the same time. Their phone is 697-4501 for further information or questions.

It just might be that in a couple of months you'll be the one that can go around saying, "You mean you haven't learned to ski yet?"

Costa Rica gets UN disaster aid

Costa Rica, the July victim of a Vesuvius-type rain of volcanic ash, has become the tenth recipient of emergency assistance under the United Nations natural-disaster fund.

The recently authorized $20,000 will be spent to repair 500 homes whose roofs collapsed when, like Pompeii, villages were showered with ash by a near-by volcano. Inhabitants are racing to re-roof their homes before the forthcoming rainy season strikes.

Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

The latest aerial waterfowl survey, conducted by Wildlife Biologists Nov. 24, found an estimated 341,930 waterfowl in the coastal census area. This is about 13,000 more than the estimate of two weeks earlier.

Although this total is about 43,000 below the comparable flight of last year, several of the most desirable duck species showed a marked increase over both last year and the Veterans Day survey. Black ducks, the "bread and butter" duck of New Jersey hunters rose to a substantial 67,570, 14,000 more than both last year and this year's previous flight. Scaup stayed at the same high level, 73,180, as the previous flight, 50,000 more than last year, and green-winged teal with 20,450 remained 9,000 above last year. Pintails rose notably above both flights, and mallards increased sharply from early November and slightly from last year.

The drop from last year is more than accounted for by brant and scoters. Brant maintained a high 122,500, some 60,000 below last year, and scoters dropped by 35,000. Neither species is among those most prized by hunters or bird watchers. Snow geese, baldpates and canvasbacks also dropped from last year, but good numbers of the first two species were present.

Estimates by species are as follows: brant, 122,500; scaup, 73,180; black ducks, 67,570; green-winged teal, 20,450; snow geese, 12,300; baldpates, 9,940; mallards, 8,760; buffleheads, 7,980; mergansers, 3,950; pintails, 3,780; ruddy ducks, 3,500; Canada geese, 2,680; shovellers, 2,050; scoter, 1,750; gadwalls, 720; canvasbacks, 485; redheads, 220; coots, 200; swans, 155; goldeneyes, 10; unidentified ducks, 50.

Linden Pathmark newest chapter in story of progress

Progress came full circle yesterday with the opening of a new Pathmark supermarket at 1111 St. George Ave., Linden. The store replaces the first supermarket operated by Supermarkets General Corp., the Linden Shop-Rite opened in 1958.

In just 10 years, Supermarkets General Corp. has grown to 82 supermarkets in five states, with a sales volume placing it among the top 20 supermarket companies in the nation. The company recently withdrew from the Shop-Rite merchandising program and retained its stores Pathmark. The company also operates 12 Pathmark gas stations, 10 Pathmark/Crown Drug stores and 22 Gemco Department stores, including Goerke's in Elizabeth and Plainfield.

With the opening of the new Linden Pathmark, SGC's 10 year old Railway Shop-Rite will also be closed. The company is opening another new Pathmark at Brooklyn, N.Y., on the same day.

The new Linden store will have over 29,000 square feet of selling area, with 15 high-speed checkout counters and free parking for over 400 cars. Total area is 39,215 square feet. The manager of the store is Anthony Lagounovich, with Richard Marcocci as Assistant Manager.

"We designed the store with the customer in mind," Lagounovich reports. "We know today's woman doesn't want to spend all day shopping, so our new Pathmark has many special departments to help her save time," he continued. Special features, in addition to a full selection of national brand and Pathmark grocery products, include a pharmacy department, cosmetics and health and beauty aids departments. Other departments are service appetizer, service seafood, housewares, non-foods and soft goods.

The Linden Pathmark also has Vend-O-Snak refreshment vending machines. The store will be open 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. Monday-Wednesday; 9 a.m. - 10 p.m., Thursday and Friday; 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. Saturday; 9 a.m. - 6 p.m. Sunday.

Nigeria-Biafra war victims given more help from CARE

NEW YORK - Additional distributions of $181,000 worth of baby cereals and rice, bought in the United States, and $200,000 in locally purchased foods or relief supplies have been authorized by CARE for starvation victims of the Nigeria-Biafra conflict.

The high-protein baby cereals, totalling 30 tons at $180,000, will be delivered to Biafra through the facilities of the International Committee of the Red Cross, coordinating agency for outside relief assistance. Each food represents a combination of proteins and carbohydrates, to meet urgent nutritional requirements reported by relief officials on the scene.

Needed food and relief materials available in Nigeria and neighboring countries will be purchased by William Bault, CARE's disaster aid specialist based in Lagos. Working in conjunction with the ICRC, they will be delivered through hospitals, clinics and relief centers serving refugees in areas under Nigerian control.

A second CARE man, Philip James, is en route to Lagos from his post in India to assist in the emergency program. Both Bault and James are veterans of the massive famine relief program CARE conducted last year in Bihar, India.

Previous CARE aid in the Nigeria-Biafra crisis totals approximately $200,000, including food, drug, vitamins, medicated soap, reconstruction equipment for an orphanage destroyed in the hostilities, farm and rebuilding tools for resettled refugees. Operations began last July.

According to latest reports, about 1,600,000 persons on both sides of the front are now being reached through ICRC, voluntary agencies and church-related programs. It is expected that 4,500,000 on both sides will soon need help.

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

CORRECTION, PLEASE!
Many thanks to the hundreds of readers who took issue with me concerning a cave where couples can be married. Although it sounded like folklore to me, it is indeed very real. I made a verbal bet it didn't exist, so I'm the loser on this one. I was in Missouri recently to attend my son's graduation at the Washington University School of Law and thought I saw all the high spots... but

I missed the wedding. The following letter explains all the facts:
Dear Amy:
I would like to take issue with you pertaining to the item about the cave where couples can be married. The cave is called "Bridal Cave" and is located on Highway 7, outside of Camden, Missouri, at the beautiful Lake of the Ozarks. Couples certainly can be legally married there, although they must of course, obey the Missouri State Law about the necessary steps of waiting period and license. This would be a nice way to be married, since the public is always given tours through the cave, but it is real and true "I do" love.

We will be going to the cave of the Ozarks shortly, and I will send you a couple of the brochures for Bridal Cave when we return.
May I suggest that you plan a vacation to the Ozark sometime. This is one of the most beautiful areas of this wonderful country in which we live. The area around Lake of the Ozarks is "God's Country" indeed!

Carolyn M. Thomas

Dear Amy:
My mother is always yelling at me. For example, when I do dishes, I first wash, dry and put away the dishes. Then I wipe the table. My mom wants me to do it vice versa; doing it both ways, it still gets done. Since my mom has her way of doing the dishes, why can't I?
When I sweep a rug, she wants me to sweep it up and down when I'm sweeping it across. What, Amy, is the difference?
My mom doesn't seem to love me, and lately, my dad, who usually stuck up for me, isn't sticking up for me any more.

I try to conform to her standards, but if I don't do perfect, she yells. Amy, since I am 12, most people call it "growing pains," but I'm positive it isn't.
What should I do?

Dear ????:

Dear Amy:
I was in Missouri recently to attend my son's graduation at the Washington University School of Law and thought I saw all the high spots... but I missed the wedding. The following letter explains all the facts:
Dear Amy:
I would like to take issue with you pertaining to the item about the cave where couples can be married. The cave is called "Bridal Cave" and is located on Highway 7, outside of Camden, Missouri, at the beautiful Lake of the Ozarks. Couples certainly can be legally married there, although they must of course, obey the Missouri State Law about the necessary steps of waiting period and license. This would be a nice way to be married, since the public is always given tours through the cave, but it is real and true "I do" love.

We will be going to the cave of the Ozarks shortly, and I will send you a couple of the brochures for Bridal Cave when we return.
May I suggest that you plan a vacation to the Ozark sometime. This is one of the most beautiful areas of this wonderful country in which we live. The area around Lake of the Ozarks is "God's Country" indeed!

Carolyn M. Thomas

Dear Amy:
My mother is always yelling at me. For example, when I do dishes, I first wash, dry and put away the dishes. Then I wipe the table. My mom wants me to do it vice versa; doing it both ways, it still gets done. Since my mom has her way of doing the dishes, why can't I?
When I sweep a rug, she wants me to sweep it up and down when I'm sweeping it across. What, Amy, is the difference?
My mom doesn't seem to love me, and lately, my dad, who usually stuck up for me, isn't sticking up for me any more.

I try to conform to her standards, but if I don't do perfect, she yells. Amy, since I am 12, most people call it "growing pains," but I'm positive it isn't.
What should I do?

Mom can cook up toys in the kitchen

The best way to have fun is to make something out of something else. For example, you can make a toy out of a plastic bag. Add a little water to a plastic bag and you have a squishy ball. Or you can make a toy out of a plastic bottle. Cut the top off a plastic bottle and use it as a container for beads or buttons. You can also make a toy out of a plastic bottle by cutting it into sections and using it as a container for beads or buttons.

the clean, safe play-clay along with the "how to make" directions are ideal donations to church bazaars and other fund-raising sales, and a nice change of pace from the usual cakes and pot-holders. The clay can also provide quiet, safe amusement when you're hosting a birthday party for one of your small fry or working with a troop of Brownies.

Hinting successfully for Christmas gifts you want

The hinting season is now officially open. (Whaddya mean, we can spell better than that; we MEAN hinting!)

How will he know she wants a sterling silver pendant paddle to stuff her own coat full of... unless she tells him? And she won't have any idea what he wants unless he conveys the idea.

But conveying the idea sounds easier in print than in practice. Of course, the wife or lady friend of the gentleman might be the sock-it-to-'em type who would like his suggestions straight from the shopping list. Here a simple tabulation will suffice.

If you have to be more subtle, let's consider other alternatives. Here are seven-tered by Hart Schaffner & Marx, prominent men's clothier; they involve ways a man can plant a gift idea - subtly, naturally, or otherwise.

When you hint, provide enough information to make certain you get what you really want. For example, if you want a sport coat, specify whether it should be a winter-weight or one for resort wear; both are available at Christmas time.

1. Certain people lacking in the refinements of gift-hinting just cut out a picture or advertisement of what they want and slip it under the breakfast plate. That's pretty obvious and should be avoided.

Instead, cut out the photo or ad and casually place it where you would most likely keep it. (Don't hide it too well.) Use it as a book mark; idly leave it on your dresser or in a shirt pocket. Put it in the drawer with your car-keys or with receipts and bills your wife might likely consult.

2. If your favorite item is in a store window, go window-shopping some evening and just accidentally happen by.

3. Admire the wanted item on someone else and, if you don't seem to be getting the message through, drop the word that you wish you had one.

4. Have a friend convey your gift suggestion.

5. If you are vacation-bound in the months after Christmas and want a clothing item, you might express concern that your wardrobe might not be appropriate for what you are planning. Ask, quickly, what you need to rectify the situation.

6. Try a humorous approach. Say: "Someday, when I have everything, you know what you could get me?" And then drop the bomb.

7. If all else fails, be drastic. As an example, say you want a sport coat. Throw away all your old ones. Then you can claim you haven't a thing to wear for certain occasions. "Could be that old line just might have a familiar ring to feminine ears. All set for hinting now? Ready -- aim -- fire!"

Record set by pay hikes

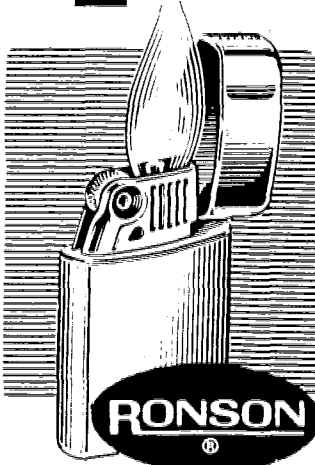

Salary increases from June 1967 to June 1968 were the highest recorded in the city since 1954. The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics has surveyed salaries of selected white-collar occupations in private industry.

Primary information from the annual nationwide survey of professional, administrative, technical, and clerical occupations shows that salary increases for clerical occupations averaged 5.1 percent over the year ending June 1968, compared to 4.6 percent the previous year and an average annual increase rate of 3.1 percent from 1961 to 1967. Average salaries for the professional, administrative, and technical occupations also advanced more in the 1967-68 period than in earlier years.

The largest 'greetings!'

One of the largest, heaviest and most indestructible Christmas cards in history was air-lifted last Christmas to Vietnam. On it were nearly 100,000 signatures.

Made from two huge 4 by 40-foot pieces of three-quarter-inch plywood, each piece five times the size of a normal 4 by 8-foot panel, the card weighs 736 pounds. It was donated by a large lumber mill and a group of forest products dealers and wholesalers. Thousands thronged the shopping mall for a week to sign the gaily painted Yuletide greeting.

Such over-sized plywood was developed for marine and other specialized uses. The panels have smooth, water-proof resin-impregnated surfaces on which Christmas decorations were painted and signatures written.

The card has received almost national status.

Fashion plus function now the key to ski wear

Thursday, December 12, 1968

Men looking for the snow slippers should be aware of the big new developments in skiwear. The new skiwear and snow-suits, warns the American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear, there was a time not so long ago when you could spot the "fat" suits by the understated, purely utilitarian look of their outfits. Now, the newest active skiwear combines the practical with the fashionable so well that even the clumps have adopted it. The great new look of the North has spread to after-ski outfits as well.

In some outfits, "coordination" is the key word. There are now completely coordinated rigs of sweater, jacket and ski pants that are available in sets and as units. For example, one outfit consists of a high-crow-neck sweater with patterning confined to the collar, top of the sleeves and the bottom. The coordinated coat is also knitted and duplicates the pattern at top of shoulders and on either side of its zippered front. The big switch is that the coat can be had in either a sleeveless or sleeved model. The very popular sleeveless style shows matching pattern on the sweater sleeve and allows complete freedom of action while keeping the body warm.

Ski pants are available in the much wanted stretch fabrics that either match or complement sweater colors.

Other highly favored outfits include "snap-up" instructor coats that can be turned up for downhill trips, sherry quilted styles that reverse from color to color or from a solid color to a pattern and conceal a parka in their collar.

A one-piece stretch outfit, somewhat similar to the "jumpsuit" is another style using big guns with serious colors. In bright as well as subtle colors, the one-piece coveralls fit snugly to avoid "wind-flap" in a fast windfall or slalom course. They are easily fastened with large industrial-type zippers.

Many of the new pants utilize quilting as part of their designs. One above-the-knee model has vertical tubular quilting that is intersected across the chest and down the sleeves with bands of bright contrasting hue. The hood is attached and secures with a drawstring.

"The Patrol Coat" is another model high in practicality and strong in fashion. One side of that reversible coat is a tough blend of polyester and cotton, has slanted ruff pockets and generously flapped lower pockets. It reverses to a quilted black nylon side and has a built-in hood with snug drawstring. Other features are its brass snap closure and broad all-around belt.

For fun around the fire, garments are lighter in weight but still rugged. The layered look of a sweater over a flannel shirt or another sweater as the "big" thing, some men achieve it by wearing a cashmere over a T-shirt or a moose-turtle.

A shetland, tweed or twill sport jacket—take your pick—is another possibility for wear with slacks or ski pants at night. And, of course, your blazer is just as "at home" in a ski lodge as it is most places.

For style as well as safety, frostbite, the new plastic ski helmets. Almost weightless, they shield you from the cold and may prevent those nasty bumps and gasps that spoil an otherwise great ski vacation.

And, talking about helmets, they are a must for the late t sking craze; snow-suiting! scooting over the drifts both uphill and down in motorized go-carts calls for a very special type of gear. The one-piece snowmobile suit of nylon in dark shades brightened with colorful zippers on pockets and leg and body closures, are equally practical for frigid spectator

Things to look for in purchasing first high chair for baby

By MABEL G. STOLTE
County Home Economist

The high chair is one of the initial pieces of equipment purchased by beginning families. Have you as a wise home manager, explored the possible features you should look for when buying a high chair for your first child?

The legs. The legs should be sturdy and widespread to prevent the chair from tipping. In addition they should be connected by heavy cross-stretchers that make them rigid.

Below are some important pointers you should consider about the legs, footrest, seat, tray and safety strap of a high chair.

The footrest. A child may be in his high chair for as much as half an hour. So, remember, it is important that he is comfortable and an adjustable footrest will help. If a footrest is too high, knees will bump against the tray; if too low, legs will dangle and cause fretting.

The seat. The seat, like the footrest, must accommodate the child. If the seat is too deep, legs will project out straight; if the seat is not deep enough, the edge of the seat may press against the back of his thighs and cause him to slide off the seat. A pad, tied on the back of the chair, can help to adjust the seat to the growing child's needs.

The tray. A removable, adjustable tray is most practical. Look for a raised edge to keep dishes from sliding or being brushed off. Rounded, shallow corners are good because they are easier to clean. The tray should have a dependable lock to hold it in place, otherwise, the youngster might easily fall out of the chair. Last but not least, make sure your high chair has a safety strap. The best kind of strap is the kind that fastens between the baby's legs. This prevents the youngster from sliding out, feet first.

Havsky to conduct Haydn's 'Creation'

Vladimir Havsky will conduct the performance of Haydn's "Creation" at Christ Church, Short Hills, on Sunday at 4 p.m. He has a varied musical background.

Born in China of White Russian emigre parents, he began his studies at the age of six and a few years later was performing extensively in public as a solo recitalist and with symphony orchestras. In 1940 he came to the United States. Upon the recommendation of Sergei Rachmaninoff, Havsky was accepted as a pupil of Rudolf Serkin with whom he studied until he entered the U.S. Army in 1943.

After service overseas with the Office of Strategic Services, he returned to this country and resumed his career expanding his interests to include organ and conducting.

In 1958 Havsky became organist and musical director at Christ Church. His duties there include the training of six choirs which number 200 members and teaching choir degree classes, which offer intensive training in music fundamentals.

Art exhibit to be held

The unusual relationship between Fernando Calderon, world-famous Spanish muralist, and St. Andrew's Episcopal Church of Murray Hill will come full circle again tomorrow and Saturday.

On those days the parish will hold another exhibit of the artist's oil paintings to thank him for another mural he has painted for the church. His latest gift to the church, completed last month, is a 17-by-24-foot interpretation of the Nativity on the end wall of the parish hall.

Calderon first painted murals at St. Andrew's in 1965 when he created the Twelve Apostles in the Sanctuary and the Four Evangelists in the Nave.

The coming exhibit will feature 15 paintings recently on exhibit on the West Coast. All are for sale. A preview tomorrow from 8 to 10 p.m. will be for parishioners, honorary patrons and their guests. The exhibit will be open to the public on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Also on display will be Calderon paintings that parishioners and others purchased at the similar exhibit held a year ago to thank the artist for his 1965 murals. The paintings last year, mostly of young children, old men and domestic animals, feature the same luminous, other-world quality of his murals. Visitors will also be able to see the church's murals.

Calderon's special relationship with St. Andrew's had its origin in Rome when Canon Charles A. Shreve, the church's pastor, was serving at the American Episcopal Church there from 1954 to 1957. One of the many unknown artists that Canon Shreve befriended in Rome was Calderon. Canon Shreve subsequently came to St. Andrew's when the parish was founded in 1960.

While exhibiting paintings in the Spanish Pavilion at the New York World's Fair in 1965, Calderon visited Canon along with the vegetable. With the meat, the dish can serve as an entree for simple luncheon or supper.

FAMILY POT LUCK
BY HELEN MALE

Here's a drink treat. Combine 1 cup chilled apricot nectar with 1/8 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Add 2 cups cold milk, a pinch of salt. Makes three servings.

Make unsweetened French toast with 1/2 cup crushed potato chips in beaten eggs or milk. Saute quickly in hot margarine, on one side only. Spread deviled ham or liver paste on sauted side of one piece. Top with a slice of Munster or Swiss cheese if desired, a thin slice of onion. Cover with a slice of the French toast, sauted side down. Dip whole sandwich in beaten egg, milk and chips, and saute quickly on both sides.

Sliced, stuffed green olives throughout the loaf will contribute a novel flavor and texture to meat loaf.

Careful attention needed to keep furs looking good

Good care is required to keep furs and fur coats looking their best. When not in use, hang furs in an uncrowded closet on heavy, supporting coat hangers. The best ones for this use are padded or rounded wooden hangers with wide ends and a long wire for the hanger part.

If a fur coat has gotten damp, shake it gently to remove excess moisture and hang in an airy, cool place to dry. Do not brush, comb or rub a damp fur. Light moisture will not harm fur, but soaking wetness will damage it. Never store fur, whether wet or dry, near heat. Always keep it in a cool place. Avoid long exposure to bright sunlight. Strong sunlight over a long period of time will cause fading.

Occasionally, shake a fur gently to remove dust and lint. If a scarf is not worn, wipe the neckline with a soft tissue or towel.

THEY'RE MOVING MEN, NOT MIRACLE MEN

Expert care and handling of your household possessions is everything you can reasonably expect from the moving man. He can't put that old, familiar neighborhood in a crate... move the corner drug store to your new home town... bring along Johnny's old school or Mary's favorite hairdresser.

Neither can your Welcome Wagon Hostess work miracles. But she can and will provide directions to the community facilities you need, and bring with her a galaxy of gifts from its leading merchants. She awaits your call at 232-5580.

Everybody loves a fat Santa but...

Santa Claus just has to be chubby. Millions of children all across the country would be terribly disappointed if he went Ho-Ho-Ho-Ho and his tummy didn't jiggle.

Unfortunately, it's not the same for the rest of us, and Christmas is a tall-tale time for the many people who are overweight. If you are going to play Santa and you find you don't need a pillow for padding, trim down. And even if you need a little padding to fit that red suit, -- careful!

If you're like Santa and have a difficult time passing up all those party pastries, try to watch those pre-Christmas calories. For instance, when you and your family are busy decorating trees, wrapping packages, putting the toys together, be sure you snack, stealthily or openly, on fruit or carrot and celery sticks--which are low in calories.

Jensens hosts at party for future bride, groom

Friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jensen, 815 Mountain Avenue, Springfield, on Nov. 30 to honor Charlene Plonowski of Foxboro, Mass., and Ray Jensen of Springfield.

Miss Plonowski and Mr. Jensen plan a June wedding. Both are students at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pennsylvania.

THE GENERATION

Some teenagers today seem to think it sufficient to turn aside words of advice or caution from their elders with the statement that this is a "new generation."

What is so new about it? An early Greek philosopher lamented the fact that children of his generation seemed to be attempting to dictate to their parents and to be disrupting classroom progress with frivolous ideas and activities. Little has been changed since that time.

If there has been a great change, it must be in the permissiveness of the senior citizens of the day. It may, perhaps, stem from the development that parents have become so occupied with their own work and play that many of the "new" generation are left too much to their own devices.

Many television and radio stations throughout the land have recently reported the time of day, or more likely--night--in this fashion, "It's 6 o'clock. Do you know where your children are?"

Christians would do well to ask of themselves, "What kind of heritage am I passing to my children?" and... "Am I preparing my children for responsible adulthood?"

Mr. & Mrs. Hayer honored on their 40th anniversary

A surprise dinner party was arranged to celebrate the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hayer of 30 Rich st., Irvington, on the Friday after Thanksgiving.

The couple's two daughters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Steinberg of Mountainside and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Palazzi of Springfield, were hosts at the event, which took place in the Burns Country Inn, Clifton.

Among the 35 present were Mrs. Peter Miller, mother of the "bride," who makes her home with the Hayers, two of the four grandchildren, and Mrs. Lorraine Anderson of Union, who was a member of the bridal party Nov. 29, 1928--when Miss Katharine Miller of Newark and William J. Hayer were married in the rectory of the First Methodist Church, Newark.

The Hayers have lived in Irvington for all of their married life. Both were born in Newark. He is employed by Avon Sheet Metal, Newark, as a roofer. Mrs. Hayer, who has had few interests outside of her home, volunteered as a nurse's aide at Irvington General Hospital during World War II.

Disguise Yule gift bottle by wrapping it as clown... Everyone knows that wrapping a bottle is just about one of the most difficult cover-up chores at Christmastime. A clever way to handle this problem is by turning your gift into a clown with bright, gummed-back paper. Draw the clown's face on the neck of the bottle and tie it with a big bow. Make paper into a cone shape for the clown's hat, finishing it off with ball fringe. The fringe can also serve as his nose and for the buttons on his "suit".

UC to broaden program in new affiliation setup

Union College plans a broader and larger educational program as a result of its affiliation with the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education, Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president, reported this week in a report to Union County guidance counselors.

"The Education Committee of the Board of Trustees and the faculty's Curriculum Committee are now reviewing what additional programs and curriculums we should offer to better serve the needs of Union County," Dr. Iversen said. "Among the programs under active consideration are a general education curriculum, a major in teacher education, a major in police science, and an extensive program of continuing education for all segments of society," Dr. Iversen said on definite decisions have been made about any of these programs, but said he listed them to indicate the areas in which Union College is "moving to meet its responsibilities as Union County's community college."

"We fully expect that our traditional transfer program will remain the major function of our College," Dr. Iversen said. "We not only plan to maintain it at its high level of quality, but we hope to improve it. But we know that we must offer other programs and other opportunities to better meet the many educational needs of Union County residents. We not only have the capacity and talent to do this, but also the will."

Dr. Iversen said Union College and Union County Technical Institute plan a conference for Union County educators early in 1969 to outline their educational programs. He said school superintendents, high school principals, and guidance counselors will be invited to the conference to learn about the educational programs of both institutions and to indicate in what areas the two institutions can be useful to the school systems of Union County.

"We see very exciting days ahead for our institution and for the Union County Technical Institute in our affiliation with the new Coordinating Agency for Higher Education in Union County," Dr. Iversen said. "We stand ready to work with all groups which desire to provide educational opportunities to all our citizens."

Freezer can play a vital role in food preparation for holiday

Let your freezer play a vital role in your food preparations for the holiday season, suggests Anne L. Sheelen, County Home economist. After you have decided on the type of hospitality you hope to have for the holidays, plan what foods you hope to serve, prepare them and place in your freezer all set for the occasion.

As well as choosing recipes which freeze well, also take special care when selecting the wrapping materials used for freezing. The containers or wrapping papers must be moisture-vapor resistant in order to prevent freezer burn. The labels on the materials you select will guide you in this area because they should clearly state that they are suitable for freezing. In addition, the containers should be easy to fill, seal and open, easy to label, not too bulky, and not impart an odor or taste to the food.

On the label of the packages of food you freeze, include the type of food, date frozen, number of servings, final preparation directions and the storage time limit.

Such information will help you to be a relaxed hostess and promote freezer management.

Check your favorite cookbook for recipe ideas which freeze well. Perhaps the following suggestions will also give you some ideas:

ANGEL FOOD CAKE

Prepare your favorite angel food cake recipe or prepared mix. When the angel food cake is cool, slice it into individual servings, place them on a tray and freeze. When frozen, wrap each one separately in packaging material, place in a plastic bag, and return to your freezer. Any desired number of servings can be taken out when they are needed. The cake thaws very quickly. Top with hot fudge sauce or fruit preserves for a fancy dessert on a minute's notice.

STUFFED BAKE POTATOES
Prepare and stuff as usual but do not brown. Cool quickly; place in flat containers and wrap, seal, label and date. Or freeze on trays; store in plastic bags. Recommended storage time: 1 month.

To serve, bake unthawed in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes; brown last few minutes at 400 degrees F.

Buying gifts on credit?

Are you using cash or credit to buy your holiday gifts, asks Mabel G. Stolte, County Home economist?

Most of us start out using cash but somehow or other we seem to exceed the amount we had planned to spend. And it's so easy to say "charge it." That is, until January and the bills start rolling in, charge accounts do seem to be the answer.

Regular 30 day accounts carry no-service charge if bills are paid within 30 days.

Revolving and similar types of charge accounts do involve a service charge -- usually one and one half percent on the unpaid balance a month or a true annual interest rate of 18 percent a year.

This means that for every $50 unpaid balance on a revolving charge account you pay 75 cents a month as an interest charge. This 75 cents a month doesn't seem like much, but it's what you pay for using credit and it's 75 cents less you'll have to spend for something else.

Only you can make the final choice of using cash or credit. But if you decide to use credit, don't forget that you do have to pay for it sooner or later.

Alumni Club sets dance tomorrow

Single men and women who are college or university graduates or students, 21 to 39 are invited to attend a Lucky Friday cocktail party and dance tomorrow from 9 p.m. in the Urban-Mimosa Rooms on the main floor of the Hotel Suburban 141 So. Harrison St., East Orange.

There will be dancing to the music of the University Trio at the party sponsored by the Singles University Alumni Club.

There are plans for a weekend in the Bahamas during the coming Christmas and New Year's holiday.

A stamped self-addressed envelope addressed to the S.U.A. Club Box 436-C Newark, N.J. will bring information on membership.

Tips for Today's Homemaker

From Anne L. Sheelan, County Home Economist

HOLIDAY HOSPITALITY
Holiday time is hospitality time. Now is the time to plan and prepare for your entertaining in the weeks ahead.
One of the most popular forms of holiday hospitality is the informal Open House where guests come and go as they please within a specified time period. The food offered at such a gathering needs to be simple yet attractive, easy to serve, and easy to replenish on the table where it is arranged.

A food suggestion for such an affair is family individual fruitcakes and either eggnog or Wassail punch. It is festive in its appearance yet can be made rather easy on the hostess in its preparation and service.

The fruitcake bonbons recipe given below can be prepared now and stored in a well covered container until Christmas. If you prefer, they can also be frozen.

If you are not planning hospitality where you could use these individual fruitcakes, you might want to consider preparing them and arranging them in an attractive box as a gift for that person who has everything.

- FRUITCAKE BONBONS
- 1/2 cup unsulphured molasses
 - 1/4 cup water
 - 1 pkg. (15 oz.) raisins
 - 1 jar (1 lb.) mixed candied fruit

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 4 eggs
- 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/8 teaspoon baking soda
- 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 3/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon allspice
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/4 cup orange juice or rum
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Blend together molasses and water in a large, deep saucepan. Place over low heat; stir constantly until mixture comes to a boil. Add raisins; bring to a boil again to plump the raisins. Reduce heat and simmer five minutes. Remove from heat; stir in candied fruit. Reserve. Cream together butter and sugar. Blend in eggs, one at a time. Sift together flour, soda and spices; add to butter mixture alternately with orange juice (or rum). Add molasses-fruit mixture and chopped nuts; blend. Line a 3/4-inch cupcake pan with paper cups. Spoon in fruitcake mixture. If desired, garnish with pecan half or additional candied fruit. Bake in 325 F., oven 25 to 30 minutes. Cool before storing.

YIELD: 5 to 6 dozen fruitcake bonbons.

THE "LITTLE ANGELS"—South Korean children are part of the National Folk Ballet of South Korea scheduled for Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, Dec. 19 through Dec. 22. The ballerinas, six to 14 years old, were organized in South Korea in 1962, guided and trained for three years by Soon Shim Shin, Korean dancer, and made their bow in the United States in 1965.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "My problems is my age and parents. I am fourteen and the boy I like is sixteen. He likes me, too. His age doesn't scare me. It's my mom. She's funny when it comes to boys. I think I'm old enough, but she doesn't. All my cousins go with boys and they think I should too. What should I do? Wait until I'm fifteen or sixteen? I tell my mom it's a different generation, but she doesn't listen. All my friends go with boys, but not me. Please give me advice. Thank you."
OUR REPLY: The generation is different in some respects. It is true that teenagers are dating at a younger age in this "modern" society of ours. But, you must remember that, even in grandma's age, there were a few girls who were dating as early as they pleased -- and there were many, many more who did not date until their upper teens--even then dating only under careful parental supervision. It is simple truth that parents who care supervise the activities of their children. When a girl begins dating, she should date boys her own age. Two years is a big difference when talking about a sixteen year old boy and a fourteen year old boy. It is not so bad to have a two-year difference when the girl is sixteen or older.

A FRANCHISE IS A QUESTION MARK
Recently I heard the sad story of a man who went into franchising without examining the deal too closely when he said "okay." The products involved were in the apparel line.

Ice skaters offered 'patch' to practice

Every Monday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. a special figure skating "patch" session is conducted at the Union County Park Commission's Warinanco Park Ice Skating Center, Roselle.

At this session an ice skater may reserve a "patch of ice" 14 feet by 42-1/2 feet for a period of one hour to improve his or her skating skills. Following this one-hour period the skaters then have a one-hour session of free-style skating. The fee for the two-hour period is $1.75 per skater, adult or child.

This special "patch ice" session provides an opportunity for skaters to improve their skating abilities as only a limited number of reservations can be accepted, that is, only 24 people can use the ice during this two-hour period. Reservations may be made by contacting the Warinanco Park Ice Skating Center, Roselle.

Yule party planned by Mothers' Guild

The Mothers' Guild of St. James Springfield will hold a Christmas party in the school auditorium Monday at 8:30.

The program will be presented by Mrs. Messina's eighth graders, and by the Glee Club, under the direction of Sister Julia. Their presentation, entitled "Spirit of Christmas," consists of a short Advent prayer service, a Christmas dramatization, "Gift of the Magi," by O'Henry and carols.

Refreshments will be served, and Santa Claus will be present.

Ban on income tax draws opposition

Opposition to changes in the State Constitution which would prohibit the income tax in New Jersey was voiced this week by the New Jersey State Committee, National Council of Jewish Women.

At a recent meeting held at the YM & YWHA of Eastern Union County, the 10,000-member organization of Jewish Women noted that a resolution recently introduced in the Legislature threatens, if successful, to tie the hands of future lawmakers by blocking off the most equitable source of needed additional funds.

Noting that there can be no assurance that the successful passage of the bond issues in November will take care of all of New Jersey's fiscal needs in the years to come, Mrs. Robert Multer, Colts Neck, chairman of the State Committee, observed that NCJW has been on record in favor of a state income tax for many years.

"We have favored the income tax as the fairest way to meet the needs of the state. Furthermore, our members believe it is unwise to amend the Constitution, thus severely reducing the options available to future Legislatures," Mrs. Multer said.

something with which he had been familiar as a clerk in the big city. So he figured he knew the ropes. Made sure the products were good, and then closed the deal.

The first thing he discovered was that the territory wasn't quite as "exclusive" as he had been led to believe. A fellow on the other side of town was already doing much the same kind of business, not to mention the super-market down the turnpike.

Secondly, he agreed to purchase a large inventory from the promoters. As a result, he found himself with too many items and too few customers.

I'm not sure what's going to happen to him. Seems he still thinks he might make a go of it. His friends all hope he's right. But no one can understand why he didn't use his head before he got into this bind.

Franchising requires the sharpest kind of thinking if potential disaster is to be avoided. Plain fraud is part of the deal so frequently that the Federal government has published several warning pamphlets. Apart from fraud that can be proven legally, the kind of thing I mentioned above is only too common.

Still, don't get the idea that the promoters are always to blame. The franchisee may fall for reasons that run the gamut from stupidity to laziness.

Many an individual has found this method of entering business tailored to his needs. The number of franchisees is growing all the time.

Who knows, if you're on the lookout for the opportunity, you might join their ranks. Just be sure you have all the information in advance. Perhaps you should consult your lawyer. You certainly should do some reading and digging.

The Better Business Bureau has a good introduction called the Facts About Franchising. It's worth consulting before you make up your mind.

Officials to outline rehabilitation work

The next meeting of the Union County Unit, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children, will be held today at 8:30 p.m. at the Occupational Center of Union County.

Kology, counselor for the State Rehabilitation Commission, will explain his agency's role in the rehabilitation process. There will also be a tour of the facilities.

The Occupational Center of Union County is located in the American Type Foundries building at 200 Elmora ave., corner of West Grand st., Elizabeth.

Children's Menorahs on display

Nearly a score of Chanukah Menorahs, designed and fashioned from stained wood by five-year-old children, members of the Aleph Group of the Jewish Culture Club of the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA, Green Lane, Union, are on display in the 'Y' lobby.

The Menorahs contain holders for a "shamas" plus eight candles. The first will be kindled beginning Sunday, and an additional one each day of the eight-day festival.

The work of the children was directed by their group leader, Mrs. Alan Krebs.

The festival of Chanukah, dating back more than 2,000 years, commemorates the liberation of Jerusalem by Judah Maccabee and his brothers when they defeated the pagan tyrant Antiochus IV who had desecrated the Temple and had demanded that the Jews abandon their religion. When the Temple was cleansed and rededicated, the golden Menorah was rekindled, but there was oil for one day. The oil remained burning for eight days, when a new supply of purified oil was obtained.

Nearly 25,000 enrolled in non-credit courses at Rutgers

They don't receive diplomas and they don't wear caps and gowns, but Rutgers counts almost as many students in this non-credit category as it does in the better-known undergraduate and graduate divisions.

Unheralded and unnamed, nearly 25,000 persons last year registered at Rutgers for courses ranging from half-day conferences to semester-length formal classes offered by the University Extension Division. This compares with a little more than 27,000 degree candidates who registered in the fall of 1967. The hours of teaching in extension courses are equivalent to the number for a full-time enrollment of some 2,000 students, enough to fill a fair-sized college. And more than 15,000 persons attended another 29 educational programs, mostly in labor-management relations, which were not included in the credit-hour count.

These and other interesting facts about the State University's 43-year-old Extension Division are gleaned from the annual report of Dean Ernest F. McMahon, who finds the future full of exciting prospects as he and his staff join forces with other University units to meet the critical needs of today's distraught society.

"Unrest," Dean McMahon said in the report, "may be the best thing that ever happened for University Extension," explaining that it has caused Extension to question its role and function.

"Many faculty members," he said, "have discovered a new concern for Extension, by which I meant a total outreach, a community involvement, a notion of public service which goes beyond the limitations of our own experience type of instruction for adults."

The report details a broad spectrum of fields in which extension courses have been offered through centers in New Brunswick, Newark, Paterson and Camden, and in scores of other communities throughout the State. Registrants run the gamut from high school dropouts in need of vocational training to Ph. D.'s desiring of learning the latest developments in their scientific fields.

Typical of the first category of programs was a series of courses on nutrition, clothing and solutions to family problems given by the Bureau of Community Services for poor Negro families in Newark. At the other end of the spectrum are the course offerings of the Bureau of Continuing Professional Education.

The center for continuing engineering studies, for example, enrolled 1,200 persons and offers in 33 different courses, similarly, 3,600 lawyers from all 21 New Jersey counties signed up for one or another of 17 courses offered in 11 different communities by the Institute for Continuing Legal Education.

Seeking to furnish useful training for automotive workers on strike, the Labor Education Center organized "Strikers' College" during a strike at the nearby Ford Motor Company plant in Edison.

The activity was designed to provide the strikers with guidance on educational opportunities and to introduce them to the University atmosphere. Several hundred came voluntarily to the meetings, held on the New Brunswick campus.

A newly emerging problem covered in the report is that of collective bargaining in the field of public employment, brought on by the rapid spread of unionism in the public sector, teachers, sanitation workers and many other groups of public employees. Facing up to this problem, which differs in many respects from labor relations problems in private industry, will involve many branches of the Extension Division, the dean reported.

"It is held that a current problem relates directly to as many departments of Extension as bargaining in the public sector," Dean McMahon said. "Such a condition, true also of current urban problems, is extremely valuable internally because it tends to foster teamwork and to reduce departmental separatism."

The list of Extension offerings is almost endless. It touches upon such diverse subjects as community health, hospital administration, civil defense, the significance of jazz in American culture, and a host of others.

Pointing out that almost half the University Extension Division students were drawn from the four counties which have extension centers, Dean McMahon commented that "you must take your programs to the people."

"Presumably," he said, "if manpower could be made available for the establishment of centers in another ten or 15 counties, there would be substantial increases in the enrollment."

Cold drugs called danger to drivers

"In the season of the cold, many people also take pills to counteract the symptoms of fatigue. These amphetamines or 'pep pills' increase alertness and efficiency temporarily, but when their effects wear off, headache, irritability, inability to concentrate, hallucinations, or even greater fatigue may result, creating a first-class highway menace.

The end result can be seen in the increasing number of reports of drivers under the influence of these drugs, passing out at the wheel or driving into stationary objects while in a trance-like state.

Some of the drugs in the narcotic, anti-biostamine, tranquilizer and barbiturate classification, have properties to help fight colds and other illnesses, but they also produce side effects ranging from dizziness to interference with concentration, lack of judgment, impaired vision, and release of inhibitions against reckless driving.

"HAIR"
By Robert Lyons

Its story is its songs. Twenty-five of them. "HAIR" opens with a ritual staying of "Spirits" and the audience becomes witness to a flashing theatrical event. "HAIR" is a passionate, flaying total put down. There is a hilarious comment on Diana Ross and The Supremes with three girls singing and performing in one dress.

"HAIR" cares. "Air Pollution" will make you write your congressman. There is recognition of ill-equipped runaway children in the plaintive "Frank Mills." "Walking in Space" is a warning on the use of hard drugs. "Where Do I Go?" offers no answers. It seems to ask why the young should be forced to ask questions. "Easy to Be Hard" is a self critique on youth's selfishness in the midst of their proclaiming to love humanity.

The staging is inventive and exuberant. Director Tom O'Horgan is masterful with large casts. There is no pit orchestra. The musicians sit in an old car at the side of the stage.

At the end, the cast skips down the aisle in singles, pairs, threes, fours, to take applause only that moment and the next, when everyone splits to take up their lives, and it too has meaning. "HAIR" is not polemic. It refuses to be pretentious.

Make it a foursome when you see "HAIR." Later you may want to be near three friends for a while. At the Biltmore Theater, West 47th St.

British Yule bundle set for Princeton

A "Christmas Bundle from Britain" is the way Met Carter Theater is heralding the single performance by the Oxford and Cambridge Revue Clubs on Saturday, Dec. 29 at 8 p.m. The traveling Englishmen will present their most recent collaboration entitled "A Late Evening Satirical Revue in the Best British Tradition," the tradition of "Beyond the Fringe," which was the result of the last collective effort by undergraduates from the two universities.

The Revue, which combines individual sketches and songs from past productions, was presented this past fall at the Edinburgh Festival.

Tickets are now on sale at the McCarter box office.

Meadowbrook lists new presentations

The Meadowbrook Dinner Theater, Cedar Grove, has announced its agenda for the next several months.

"Those Scandalous Burlesque Follies," starring Mamie Van Doren, Reginald Gardiner and Irving Harmon, will end its run Dec. 22. Gordon MacRae, musical comedy star, will be the main attraction on New Year's Eve. Reservations are being taken.

During February, actor Rory Calhoun will open in "Paint Your Wagon," and Earl Wrightson and Lois Hunt will co-star in a rerun of "Kismet." Calhoun will open Feb. 6 and the show will end March 2. "Kismet" will open March 6 and run through March 30.

JOHNNY CHRISTOPHER

Ice show opens at dinner-theater

Australian singer Johnny Christopher, who was discovered by comic London Lee when they both appeared on the same bill in Sydney, makes his American bow at Larry Dixon's Flagship dinner theater, Route 22, Union. He is being featured in the Flagship show, "Ice Sparkles," a revue with dancing and comedy on skates, which opened yesterday in Union. The show will run through Dec. 29.

Heading the "Ice Sparkles" show is Lou Folds, Heather Belden, who hails from England, and who is formerly of the European edition of "Holiday on Ice" (which recently closed in Chicago after a six-year run), the Adagio team, Darlene Gilbert and Bill Griffin, and the Acrobatic Marvel on skates, Florence Rae.

'You Are What You Eat' now showing at Ormont

"You Are What You Eat," a satirical film with a psychedelic look at the new generation with Peter Yarrow, Tiny Tim, Frank Zappa and the Mothers of Invention, the Electric Flag and Super Spade, opened yesterday at the Ormont Theater, East Orange. The picture was directed by Barry Feinstein.

"What's Up, Tiger Lily?" is the companion feature at the Ormont.

The Meadowbrook has lined up its schedule through March. Rory Calhoun will star in the 1969 opening of "Paint Your Wagon" in February.

And Earl Wrightson and Lois Hunt will appear at the Meadowbrook in March.

'Star!' at Bellevue next Wednesday

"Star!," musical film biography of the late Gertrude Lawrence, starring Julie Andrews, will have its New Jersey premiere showing Wednesday at the Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair. Opening night will be a benefit screening for the Montclair Community Hospital.

The picture, which was directed by Robert Wise and produced by Saul Chaplin, has Richard Crenna, Michael Craig and Daniel Massey in featured roles.

Additional information and reservations may be obtained by calling the Bellevue at 744-1455.

Holiday deadlines

Careful adherence to this newspaper's Friday news deadline is urged for the issues of Dec. 26 and Jan. 2, which will be printed early to avoid conflict with the Christmas and New Year's holidays. All organizational and social news for the Dec. 26 issue should be submitted by Dec. 20, and all material for the Jan. 2 issue, by Dec. 27.

Boychoir concert set for Sunday

The Masterwork Boychoir will present a special Christmas program, which will be open to the public at no charge, Sunday at 4 p.m. at Morris County Park Headquarters, 300 Mendham rd., Morris-town.

The Masterwork Boychoir, which consists of 50 boys, is conducted by Howard Buchanan of Maplewood. The entire choir will sing, in the original languages, a group of traditional Christmas carols and songs, consisting of "Veni, Veni Emmanuel," "Stille Nacht," "Es Ist Ein Ros," the "Coventry Carol," the "Cherry Tree Carol," "Personent Hodie," "What Child Is This," "Star of the East," and "Christmas Symbol." The Boychoir Chamber Ensemble will present a short Christmas cantata, "Willkommen, Süsser Brautgamm" by Luebeck.

The singers will be accompanied by an instrumental ensemble consisting of harpsichord, two violins, and cello, and William Watkins of Morris Township and James Torok of Morris Plains will sing the solo parts.

SELECTIVE SERVICE questions and answers

(Colonel Joseph T. Avella, state Director of Selective Service, has issued the following answers.)

I understand there is a recent statement by the Director of Selective Service which relates to permitting graduate students not deferred for such study to complete their work. Will you give me that statement?

The following State Director's Advice was issued by the Director of Selective Service on Oct. 24, 1962: "When college students are ordered to report for induction during a school term in which they are satisfactorily pursuing full-time post-graduate education, consideration should be given, on an individual case basis, to a postponement of induction until the end of the term (quarter, trimester or semester). If the student is in the United States, could my local board give an occupational deferment?"

Yes, but it is not required to do so.

Dioramas easy to make

Christmas season dioramas, either full size for lawn display or miniature for showing in a window, provide an excellent value "bonus" for a home. They're easy to make, too, from panels of Masonite-Tempered Plywood.

In making such figures, draw their outlines on the Masonite panels and then cut them out with a scroll or coping saw. If full size figures are made, apply a coat of primer and then paint them appropriately with a good exterior paint. One-by-two inch lumber can be used to back up the panels to provide extra rigidity for large figures.

For more information on Christmas dioramas and a host of other yard figures and shapes, write the Masonite Home Service Bureau for free plan AE-605, addressing a postcard to Box 1, Chicago, Ill. 60600.

Record penalties levied by state in air pollution cases

Richard J. Sullivan, director of the Division of Clean Air and Water in the State Department of Health, reported this week that the department has assessed a total of $266,900 in penalties for 131 violations of the State Air Pollution Control Code during the first ten months of 1968.

Amounts of individual penalties ranged from a minimum of $50 to a maximum of $13,000, the largest known air pollution penalty ever to be levied. This penalty was imposed by Superior Court Judge Worrall F. Mountain Jr., against W. R. Grace & Co., Southbridge Plastics Division, Clifton, for violation of Chapter 6 of the State Air Pollution Control Code from Aug. 2 to Sept. 14. Chapter 6 prohibits discharge into the outdoor atmosphere of substances which result in air pollution. In addition to the financial penalty, Judge Mountain also imposed certain restrictions on the operations of the company.

Of the $266,900, the attorney general's office secured the assessment of $32,150 at the request of the Division of Clean Air and Water. This sum included the penalty against Southbridge and also the second largest air pollution fine known to be on record, $10,000 levied against Koppers, Inc., of Kearny, a coke manufacturer, on March 22. Deputy Attorney General Theodore A. Schwartz, a specialist in pollution cases, handled the Southbridge and Koppers cases on behalf of the department.

Penalty assessments by the department itself accounted for the remainder of the $266,900, or $244,750. Herbert J. Wortreich, supervisor of field operations for the Air Pollution Control Program of the Division of Clean Air and Water, spearheaded the division enforcement activities.

IN THE SAME TEN-MONTH period last year, $13,175 was collected for 63 penalties. The difference in the figures for the two years is partly due to the fact that this year there are three more chapters of the State Air Pollution Control Code to enforce than last year and that amendments to the New Jersey Air Pollution Control Act raised the maximum allowable penalty from $500 a week to $2,500 a day. Since assuming office as director of the Division of Clean Air and Water in February, 1967, Sullivan has stressed stepped-up enforcement activity and the levying of the largest penalties indicated by the nature of the offense as a deterrent to air pollution throughout the state.

The amount of a penalty depends on a variety of factors, including the severity of the offense, whether it is a first or repeated offense, and whether the offense occurred in a critical or non-critical area. Most of the penalties were in the $100 - $200 bracket.

HALF-PAST TEEN

Holiday program at Newark church

A program of contemporary Christmas music will be presented by the combined choirs of the First Presbyterian Church, augmented by 40 singers from Arts High School of Newark, Wednesday, Dec. 18 at 8:15 P.M. in the First Church sanctuary at 820 Broad st., Newark. William L. Pickett, organist and choirmaster, will direct the program.

Music and pageantry will include "A Christmas Hymn" by Ralph Vaughn-Williams and "Ceremony of Carols" by Benjamin Britten. "A Christmas Cantata" by Arthur Honegger has been choreographed by Ralph Harmer of New York City. The cantata, written in 1953, tells of the longing of man for the coming of a savior. An angel appears, singing "Be Not Afraid", and the children's choirs start singing carols in German, French and English thus proclaiming the birth in all languages to all peoples. Mary and Joseph appear, and the angels sing "Gloria in Excelsis", followed by the procession of the kings to the stable to the great Latin hymn, "Laudate Dominum", sung by full choirs and soloists.

The program is free to all.

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

SAFETY ON THE STORE ESCALATOR
Must you take your children with you into crowded stores and on to moving escalators to accomplish those last minute shopping chores? If you do, take a few minutes to read these safety rules from the State Safety Council before taking your next trip. You'll be glad you did.

- Be sure that your child understands that the escalator is not a toy or a game.
- Never let your child ride on or play with the handrail. Dangerous falls or painful hand injuries could result.
- Keep your child away from the emergency stop button. Serious injuries have often resulted from falls which occurred when escalators were stopped suddenly.
- A child should never be allowed to sit on a moving escalator - the danger of catching his fingers or buttocks between the steps is too great.
- Running up the down escalator or vice versa should be strictly forbidden. Not only have many children fallen while "playing" in this manner, but a number of other passengers have also been knocked down by these children.
- Never put a stroller on an escalator. It may jam and cause a dangerous pile up, or up and spill its young rider down the steps.
- Always take your child's hand before getting on the escalator. Many accidents have been caused by people who lost their balance and fell while turning to grasp a child's hand.
- Don't let your child carry heavy bundles while riding an escalator, since they could obscure his vision or cause him to lose his balance when he reaches the next landing.

Upgrading skills

Lack of education is not necessarily the end-all for the 8,300,000 adult members of the nation's work force who have had less than five years of schooling. U.S. Employment Service counselors recommend that such individuals upgrade their skills and increase their earning power through adult education courses.

NIDR RESEARCH FOR HEALTH

THE NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

Muscles For Speech
We thrill at our children's first "mama" and "dada" and delight as they learn to communicate with us. Yet we think little of how sounds are made unless there is a problem.

In speech, many nerves and muscles must make the mouth parts work. Fortunately, most children learn to speak normally without special training, but many others, including those born with a cleft or opening in the roof of the mouth, require surgery and speech therapy before they can speak clearly.

The National Institute of Dental Research, with its interest in improving treatment for cleft palate patients, conducts and supports speech studies. Poor speech is compared with normal articulation to assess the differences as a basis for corrective measures. The institute is a component of the National Institutes of Health.

At the Haskins Laboratories in New York City, which receives support from the NIDR, various instruments are used to measure the movements of tongue, jaw, and lips during speech, and a computer helps in finding interactions among the speech gestures. While a subject speaks, X-ray movies show the shape of the mouth cavity, another device measures air pressure within the mouth, and a light shining on the vocal cords shows how they open and close. At the same time speech sounds can be recorded and "pictured" or "mapped" in characteristic patterns on spectrograms.

With another technique, electromyography, scientists developed ways to measure the actions of specific muscles as they help form specific sounds. Small electrodes, held by suction to a subject's lips, tongue, and palate determine the force of muscle contractions, and the temporal pattern of these contractions in the various muscles.

This method, which gets close to the source of speech production - the commands directed from the brain to the muscles - has helped determine how people normally differentiate otherwise similar sounds. Thus, the sounds /p/ and /b/ are both formed by closing the lips but the /p/ is voiced while the /b/ is voiceless, or spoken without vocal cord vibrations. Previously it was thought that differences in the tenseness or laxness of muscular contraction accounted for the distinction of the sounds. Research at Haskins has shown that this is not the important difference, but that variations in timing of movements at the lips and vocal cords determine whether we say /b/ or /p/. In a similar way, the contraction, or lack of contraction, of muscles that move the soft palate up against the back of the throat are principally responsible for the difference between /b/ and /m/ - or for "nasal voice" if they fail to close this gap when closure is normally expected.

Thus, learning about normal speech helps in the next step, which is to find out how muscle contractions in poor speakers differ from those in clear speakers. This knowledge may point to ways of helping the cleft-palate child, and others with poor articulation, to speak clearly. Such a victory will be even more thrilling than watching a child develop speech normally.

CITIES IN FLAMES

NEW YORK -- Short of nuclear war, it would be hard to imagine fire destroying nine American cities in the next 70 years. Yet, the Insurance Information Institute notes that between 1835 and 1908 fire destroyed major portions of New York City, Charleston, S.C., Portland, Me., Chicago, Boston, Jacksonville, Baltimore, San Francisco and Chelsea, Mass.

How electric lights came to Yule tree

The first Christmas tree to be lighted electrically was conceived by a telephone man. In 1908, when his son upset a candle on their tree, (customary in those days, in the German tradition) the man decided to devise safer lighting. He bought a handful of tiny electric lamps such as those used on telephone switchboards; then, in his spare time at home he soldered the lights into wires and strung them onto the family tree. Result: the world's first Christmas tree lighted electrically... and increased safety for homes everywhere at the festive Yule season.

Buffet plan for holidays: festive without formality

Open-house hospitality with relatives, old friends and new acquaintances expected to call during the holiday season...

A pleasant menu change from the big bird is chicken fanfare, a kind of pot-au-feu dish, that's easy to make but simply sumptuous...

Chicken fanfare goes well with fluffy white rice, green asparagus spears and a tangy salad: Holiday Sparkle Mold. The gem-like gelatin mold should be set a day in advance...

And the hostess, especially if there are later drop-in guests, tosses away dinner dish worries, stores left over foods and sets a paper buffet prettily for the next go-round.

- CHICKEN FANFARE
1/2 cup all purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
chicken breasts, cut in half chicken legs, cut at thigh
1/4 cut salad oil
cans (10 1/2 ounces each) cream of mushroom soup cans (14 1/2 ounces each) sliced baby tomatoes teaspoon marjoram can (6 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained cans (1 pound each) small white onions drained
1/2 cut sliced pimiento stuffed olives

Toy trucks have touch of realism

Toyland features a variety of new delights for young transportation experts. For example, amazing ingenuity is evidenced in the miniaturized sector of toyland's trucks...

Catering to the youngsters' love of realism is a Mighty Tonka construction fleet which includes a dump, a loader and a scraper together with a hard hat, just like those the construction workers wear on the job.

Novel entries in the toy truck parade this Yule season include a Dune Buggy with oversize balloon tires and a Lifeguard Jeep with a detachable floating life raft.

Ford sales near record

Ford Division dealers in the Newark district sold 6,181 Ford cars and 949 trucks for the second highest car sales on record and the highest all-time November sales for the district...

Truck sales for the January-November period were 10,669, up 30 percent over the 8,211 sold in the period during 1967. The 1967 figures were affected by the two month strike.

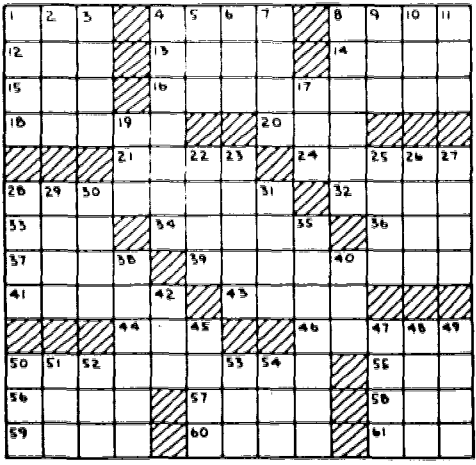

Poinsettias traditional

No other flower is more associated with the holiday season than lovely, star-pointed poinsettias. They impart the special warmth of Christmas, no matter where or how they are used.
