

Talk on primitive art highlights Hadassah's annual art show

"The Influence of Primitive Art on Modern Art" is the subject of a lecture by Mrs. Freda Schaeffer of New York City at the Westfield-MountainSide Hadassah's 11th annual art show and sale, Monday evening, April 21, at 8 p.m., at Temple Emanu-El in Westfield.

Mrs. Schaeffer's talk will be illustrated with pieces of sculpture, some of which will be available at the show. She has been a collector of contemporary art since the mid-'30s, and of African art since the late '30s. Her interest in pre-Columbian art dates back to 1956, and came about as a result of her friendship with two noted Mexican artists, Diego Rivera and Miguel Covarrubia, both experts in this field.

Presently on sabbatical leave as a teacher of social studies in the junior high schools of New York City, Mrs. Schaeffer is engaged in research on the political and social impact of the African mask. She also runs a gallery on Madison Avenue, New York, completely devoted to primitive art.

Mrs. Jerome Rosenblum, a co-ordinator of the Hadassah art show and sale, has announced the special events that are scheduled for each day of the show. They are: Sunday, April 20: guided tour conducted by W. Carl Burger, noted artist and teacher; "Contemporary Art and You," a talk by Michael Lenson, art critic for Newark News, artist and lecturer.

Monday: guided tour for young people led by Lee Gaskins, head of Art Department at Burtin High School, Elizabeth; "The Influence of Primitive Art on Modern Art," a talk by Freda Schaeffer who runs a gallery in N. Y. devoted entirely to primitive art.

Tuesday: workshop for young people, a constructive session by Lois Radding, art instructor in MountainSide schools. Mrs. Rosenblum added that baby sitting free of charge, is available on Monday and Tuesday from 1 to 4 p.m.

Group to give play by Agatha Christie

The Community Players will present Agatha Christie's "Witness for the Prosecution" at Roosevelt Junior High School in Westfield at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, April 24, according to Mrs. John Crilly of 6 Rodman Lane, MountainSide.

Mrs. Crilly is chairman for Christopher Academy, Westfield, one of the two sponsors of the show. She is assisted by Mrs. Edward A. Noe, also of MountainSide.

Co-sponsor of the play is the newly established Catholic parish of St. Helen's. Mrs. James P. Gunning of Westfield is chairman for St. Helen's, and Mrs. Leo J. Fitzharris is ticket chairman. Tickets may be obtained by calling 233-5074 or 233-7447.

Food class at Summit Y

Oriental cooking and flower arranging are among the new class offerings this spring at the Summit YWCA. Oriental cooking will be held on Wednesdays from 9:30 - 11 a.m., from May 7 through June 4. Flower arranging will be held on Tuesdays, from 9:30 - 11 a.m., from May 6 through May 27.
Mrs. E.S. Yuch of Berkeley Heights, a native of Shanghai who has also lived in Hong Kong, will instruct the class in Oriental cooking. She will demonstrate the art of making such delicacies as shrimp toast, ham and bean sprouts salad, sweet and sour pork, Chinese fried rice and braised chicken with bamboo shoots. All of the ingredients that will be used in the class demonstrations are available locally. An optional feature will be a trip to Chinatown for shopping and lunch.

Vocational project recommended for four regional highs

The continuance of a program exploring the vocational opportunities offered by the Union County Regional High School District No. 1, has been recommended to the Board of Education by Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent of schools.

The general objectives of the federally funded project, are to provide a program of visitation and discussion of vocational offerings and facilities for elementary sending district. This includes teachers, administrators, students and parents.

It has been recommended that the 1969-70 program focus on eighth grade students themselves, and their parents. The first phase of the project, completed this school year, was primarily directed at orienting teaching staffs and administrators through a series of visitations and tours.

The program is being coordinated by Stanley Grossman, coordinator of industrial arts and vocational education, and Dr. Donald Merachuk, director of special services for the four-high school district.

Next year, plans call for day-long tours of the vocational facilities, for both public and parochial students living in the district, which includes Clark, Garwood, Berkeley Heights, Kenilworth, MountainSide and Springfield.

Eighty teachers and other school personnel took part in four orientations this year, Dr. Davis said. He also said that 545 students and parents attended open houses at the four high schools.

"Many students, as well as those adults sought for counsel, have had little first hand experience with the vocational opportunities and offerings of the district," Dr. Davis said.

"Teachers, parents and others can only realistically counsel students toward vocational education opportunities after viewing and understanding the programs."

The report on the first phase of the project will be published this month in the Research Bulletin of the New Jersey School Development Council.

Centennial festivities at Summit

A special proclamation issued by Governor Richard Hughes officially designates Saturday as Summit Centennial Day. To celebrate the 100th anniversary, Edward H. Kaus, chairman of the Summit centennial committee, and the Summit Junior Fortnightly Club have arranged a day of festivities.

Events will start with the Centennial Day parade at 11 in the morning, beginning at Kemper Insurance. A mums band, a drum and bugle corps and a bagpipe band are a few of the musical groups to be dispersed among antique automobiles, old fire engines, a horse drawn moving van, and a double decker bus. Springfield's Donald Meyer has donated the use of his old fire engine.

J.P. Fishwick, chairman of the board of Erie Lackawanna Railroad, will come from Cleveland to act as honorary grand marshal to lead the parade through Summit to the decorated railroad station. There, an old steam engine will be waiting to load passengers for rides. Costumed members of the Junior Fortnightly Club and their husbands will be on hand to act as hosts and guide guests.

The Erie Lackawanna is, of course, an important factor in the history of Summit, so it seems fitting that the railroad should be included in the celebration of the commuter suburb of Summit. The steam locomotive will be run by the Erie Lackawanna between their Summit and Berkeley Heights stations. The engine itself was built in 1907 and rebuilt in 1961 for use by the Morris County Central Railroad in Whippany.

Summit Y sets dinner

The 19th annual Stuart Reed Memorial Award will be presented to a local resident when the Summit Area YMCA holds its annual dinner on Monday, at 7 p.m. at the Hotel Suburban, Summit.

The Reed Award honors a local person for distinguished community service by whom youth has been greatly served" in memory of Stuart Reed, General Secretary of the local YMCA from 1935 until his death in 1943. Previous recipients have been John B. Sayre, Albert J. Bartholomew, Leonard E. Best, Dr. John Dougall, Alfred W. Alesbury, Oscar D. Dennis, Rome A. Betts, Harold T. Graves, Jr., Stanley O. Morgan, Grant G. Lavery, Harold M. Perry, Robert E. Woodward, Dr. Murray M. Ross, Nicholas C. English, Allen W. Roberts, John N. May, Jr., Mrs. Amos Hiatt, and, posthumously, to Allan R. Devenney, Y general executive from 1946 until 1967.

The annual dinner will mark the YMCA's 83rd anniversary in Summit. Included in the evening's program will be the introduction of new directors and the honoring of retiring directors.

Report from Trenton

By State Senator Matthew J. Rinoldo

The Senate has approved and sent to the Assembly S-254, a bill I introduced to require public utilities to provide not less than five days' written notice before entering property on which it has an easement for the purpose of making routine repairs.

Under present law, the utilities are not required to give such notice. As a consequence, some over-zealous utility company employees have abused the privilege and unnecessarily damaged trees and structures on private property. While this might not be considered earth-shaking, it is nevertheless a matter of great concern to those whose property has been destroyed without cause.

I have personal knowledge of several instances in which utility company employees went too far. On one occasion a utility deviated from its right-of-way onto neighboring property and completely cut down a number of trees at the base. The company acted under its right to fell or trim endangering timber, or trees that could damage the towers or transmission lines if they fell. The company admitted that in many instances only the top branches of the trees conceivably could have struck its installation. However, the utility claimed that the tree would look unattractive if its top were cut off. If the law I have proposed had been in effect, the owner could have made this determination for himself.

In another case, a utility entered park lands and began to fell timber under its right of way. When park authorities ascertained what was happening and checked their land survey, they learned that the utility company employees were cutting down trees that were outside the area of the easement. Moreover, these trees would not in any case have affected the utility's easement in any way.

IN STILL ANOTHER CASE, a utility installing service to a homeowner ran its line over the corner of another person's property. Since a birch tree stood in the way of the line, the utility employees cut off approximately half of the top of the tree to allow their lines to be strung. Unfortunately, the tree in question had been the pride and joy of the owner's late husband, who had, in fact, been caring for the tree only moments before he died.

The measure specifically exempts the utilities from the necessity of providing five days' notice when there is an obvious emergency and when the owner waives notice or agrees to accept a notice of a lesser period of time.

The Senate apparently agreed with my contention that five days' notice is a reasonable restriction for the utilities. It is my hope that the Assembly will recognize the principle at stake here and vote to approve this bill.

Moreover, I believe that the utilities would not be adverse to granting such notice, since it would enhance their relationship with their customers and eliminate a source of irritation and ill will.

Cubs earn trophies at Pinewood Derby

The annual Pinewood Derby for Cub Scout Pack 177 was held recently at the pack meeting at the MountainSide Community Presbyterian Church.

The chairmen for the evening were Allan Lowe and Alex Szabo. Den 8, under the direction of Mrs. Szabo, set up the display table for the pinewood cars, which the boys in the pack made with help of their fathers.

Trophies were won by the following boys: Wolf, first, Mark Boyd; second, Donald Jeka; third, Robert Hain; Bear, first, Scott Masters; second, John Irwin; third, Craig Mueller; Weblows, first, Harry Irwin; second, Stephen Hechtle.

Cub Scout Ricky Nelson was the overall winner. Three prizes were given out for best design, first, Richard Miller; second, Bryan Connelly; third, Billy Neil. The next pack meeting will be held April 25 at the church.

Article describes curriculum project for slow learners

Development of a curriculum program to serve the needs of slow learners in a middle-class suburban community, is the subject of an article by the Union County Regional High School District's Title I coordinator. It appears in the current issue of "The Docket," the official publication of the New Jersey Council for Social Studies.

In the article, David L. Carl, a social studies teacher at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, describes the in-service teacher training and curriculum project under way in the regional district. The in-service sessions were initiated in 1967.

"The needs of slow learners in a middle-class suburban community are often overlooked," Carl says in the article. "Stress is placed upon academic subjects which attempt to prepare the student for the college of his choice. The slow learner is frequently given a dilute form of the academic program. Often, selected materials have little relevance for, or do not meet the needs of these children.

"The teachers of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 realized that something must be done to discover relevant materials and procedures for dealing with these students," the article goes on to say.

Federal income tax questions

(Prepared by Internal Revenue Service)
Q: Is the $3 I pay each month for supplementing Medicare deductible?
A: Yes it is deductible as medical insurance. Read the instructions carefully.
Q: Can I file a joint return even if my spouse had no income?
A: Yes. If you are the only wage earner, your tax will be lower if you file a joint return.

Q: Must a child's earnings be reported?
A: A minor is subject to tax on his own earnings even though the parent may, under local law have the right to it and might actually have received the money. His income is never included in his parent's return. However, a minor must file a return if he has a gross income of $600 or more during the year. He must also file a return to secure any refund due.

Q: Are traveling costs in connection with medical treatment deductible?
A: Out-of-pocket expenses directly attributable to transportation primarily for and essential to medical care may be claimed as medical expenses. This includes amounts you pay for gasoline, oil, parking fees, etc., and for taxi, bus, train or plane fare. It does not include depreciation or insurance on your car. You may elect to deduct $4 for each mile you use your car for such purposes, instead of deducting your cost of gas, oil, etc.

Q: Are interest payments on installment plan purchases deductible?
A: Interest payments on installment plan purchases of property of any kind are deductible if they are separately stated or can be definitely determined and proved.

Q: How do I correct an error on my return?
A: If after you have filed your return you discover that you failed to report some income, erroneously claimed deductions or credits, or are entitled to some that you failed to claim, the error can be corrected. This is done by preparing a Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, and sending it to the Internal Revenue Service Center, 11601 Roosevelt Boulevard, Philadelphia, Pa. 19155.

Q: What is a "casualty loss"?
A: A casualty is the complete or partial destruction of property resulting from an identifiable event of a sudden, unexpected or unusual nature. A theft loss is regarded the same as a casualty for these purposes. The deduction for a casualty or theft loss is allowed only to the person who owns the property.
 Only the amount of each loss on property held for personal use which exceeds $100 may be deducted.
 In order to have a deductible loss, you must have actually sustained a net loss. That is, insurance or other reimbursements received or expected to be received must be offset against the loss you would otherwise have sustained.
 Some examples of qualifying casualty losses are: damages from a hurricane, tornado, flood, storm, shipwreck, fire, accident, mine cave-in, sonic boom damage, and vandalism losses.

Q: How long must I keep books and records to substantiate information on my tax return?
A: Records that support items on an income tax return should be kept until the statute of limitations expires for that return. Ordinarily this is three years from the date the return was due. Records on property acquisitions, capital improvements and the like should be kept as long as you keep the property.

Q: Can I deduct the payments made to have my children taken care of while I work?
A: A woman whether single, married, widowed, divorced, or deserted, may, under certain conditions, deduct up to $900 for child care expenses.
 A man may deduct these expenses only if he is widowed, divorced, legally separated from his wife, or if his wife is incapacitated or institutionalized.

The expenses are deductible only in respect to a child under age 13. If the child is older, he must be physically or mentally incapable of caring for himself. The amount of the deduction is limited to the amount actually spent in the year, not to exceed $600 for one child; $900 for two or more. You do not get a flat deduction of $600 or $900; in certain situations, the allowable deduction is reduced dollar-for-dollar by the amount by which your income exceeds $6,000.

Q: What is the exemption for blindness?
A: A citizen or resident of the United States is allowed an additional $600 exemption for blindness, based on his condition on the last day of the year. If he lost his sight late in the year, he is entitled to the exemption for the entire year.

Q: Are educational expenses deductible?
A: An educational expense is deductible if the course is required by your employer or is necessary to maintain or improve the skills required on your present job. No deduction can be taken for courses needed to meet the minimum requirements of a job or to obtain a new job.

Q: How and where do I report moving expenses?
A: Moving expenses should be reported on Form 3903 and attached to your Form 1040.

Q: I have to pay additional tax. To whom should I make out the check?
A: Checks or money orders should be made payable to the Internal Revenue Service. Print your social security number on the face of the check or money order.

Q: How do I report profits or losses from the sale of stock?
A: They must be reported on Schedule D. To complete the form you need to know the date you acquired the stock, the date you sold it, the original cost, the selling price and the expenses of the sale.

Q: How do I report dividends?
A: Dividends are reported on page two of Form 1040.

Q: How do I figure the dividend exclusion?
A: You may exclude from your taxable income the first $100 of ordinary dividends received from qualifying domestic corporations. If a joint return is filed and both husband and wife have dividend income, each one may exclude $100 of dividends received from qualifying corporations, but one may not use any portion of the $100 exclusion not used by the other.

Q: What interest payments can I deduct?
A: You can deduct interest payments actually made on any debts or loans for which you are legally liable.

Q: When do I have to attach schedules to my tax return?
A: Schedules and forms which may be necessary in addition to Form 1040 include the following: Schedule B - to report income from pensions, annuities, rents, royalties, partnerships, estates, trusts, etc.; Schedule C - to report income from a personally owned business; Schedule D - to report income from the sale or exchange of property; Schedule F - to report income from farming; and Schedule G - to report income averaging.

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

HER SAILOR SHUNS LETTER WRITING
Dear Amy:
My boyfriend is in the navy, and I get a letter from him every two weeks. We are engaged to be married. What can I do to make him write more? I want to hear from him, I write every day.

A Worried Girlfriend
Dear Worried:
I don't know where your fiancé is stationed, how long mail takes to travel from where he is nor how busy the navy keeps him, but you cannot get him to write more often unless he wants to. Maybe he doesn't enjoy writing as much as you do.

what I want, I keep reaching out but no one takes my hand and I keep doing the same thing in school all day long, and at home, and while out with both boys and girls. I'm sick of living, Amy. Really!

I'm passing everything in school but I keep asking, "Where am I going?" To college? I want to live yet I don't want to get loose and I want to be free but yet I am afraid. I want to go away, far away, but then what? I can't stand to live anymore but I am not insane enough to kill myself. I am afraid to die but I am sick of the same old things happening all the time. I won't run away because there will still be life no matter where I am.

Please help! I am lost and bored and scared. I want to fill my dreams. I am by nature a dreamer and a talker but it seems that whenever I say anything, I bring myself closer to reality which makes me sad because my dreams are shattered. I want to come and go like the wind. I want to live!

Do you call this boring situation life? Maybe I need a psychiatrist for such an impossible phase which I am going through. But I'd rather talk to someone who will listen to me like I were a person not a patient.

Corrine

Dear Corrine:
Everyone's personal problem is a special problem to them. These problems sometimes stem from the fact that we are so wrapped up in ourselves, our desires, our needs, our wants that we fail to see the "wood for the trees."

Dear Amy:
There is this woman who

It has been found that if we can devote a little bit of our time, our heart, our soul to the needs of others by putting ourselves in the background a little... or to some challenging endeavor that we, as an individual, can stand a little taller and see a little clearer.

I would like you to try to devote some time to the needs of someone less fortunate than you or to take upon yourself an impossible challenge at school and devote all your time and effort to it.

If you do not feel that you know where you are going, who you are and what you want after this experience, then I would like you to go to a psychiatrist. They treat people like people.

City sinking is problem
The problem is being tackled globally by the UN-sponsored "Hydrological Decade," which is studying problems of ground water conservation. Experts say that residents of sinking cities needn't worry about anything as dramatic as sudden cave-ins beneath their feet. Rather, one scientist explains, there will be "a gradual and widespread subsidence, noticeable over a long period of time."

Empty beer can costly piece of tin
Littering expensive, mars roads, says official

A spring reminder of the high cost of littering, in terms of both dollars and outdoor enjoyment, was issued this week by Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Commissioner Roe noted that each spring thousands of New Jerseyans turn to the outdoors for recreational and aesthetic enjoyment. "It is paradoxical," he said, that even a few of these people tend to destroy the natural values that attract them by careless practices.

It is far simpler to carry away an empty picnic bar or soda bottle than to bring the full bag in the first place, he said. "Yet some persons persist in dumping litter where it mars natural beauty and damages the environment for plants, fish and wildlife. Litter creates breeding grounds for insects and rodents, and careless disposal of cigarettes and matches is an important cause of damaging fires.

"Private lands are often closed to all recreation because of the inconsiderate acts of a few," Roe urged citizens to treat any area they use "as if it were their own."

The high cost of cleaning up public lands, he said, is dramatized by a riddle recently published in the Pittsburgh Free Press, quoted in Outdoors Unlimited, publication of the Outdoor Writers Association of America:

"Question: When does an empty beer can cost more than a full one?"

"Answer: When it is tossed by the roadside." Officials of one state found that the cost of picking up litter along a typical mile of state highway worked out to 32 cents for each can and bottle, Roe said.

It costs U. S. taxpayers an estimated half billion dollars annually to remove litter from streets, parks, beaches and other public property, according to Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national anti-litter organization. This does not count the time which public employees could otherwise devote to positive enhancement of natural beauty and habitat, Roe added.

Despite this costly effort, some litter inevitably remains to mar the landscape. "By practicing and encouraging good outdoor housekeeping, New Jersey citizens can save money and preserve open lands, while adding to the recreational opportunities and natural beauty of the Garden State," the commissioner said.

Blickenstaff heads fund for symphony

The appointment of Arch Blickenstaff of Summit, executive vice president of the Continental Insurance Companies, to serve as chairman of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra's first annual maintenance fund was announced this week by Henry P. Becton, Symphony president.

Blickenstaff is president of the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce. He has served in leading roles the United Community Fund and Council of Essex and West Hudson and the Greater Newark Hospital Development Fund.

Becton noted that the orchestra's rapid growth and development over the past few years makes the establishment of such a fund essential if it is to balance its budget. The orchestra must defray expenses not covered by income from performances and endowment

Thursday April 10, 1969 - Blickenstaff's goal will be to raise $150,000, representing 38 percent of an operating budget for the orchestra of over a half million dollars for the 1968-69 concert season.

Dr. Wilkins announces plans for two study centers abroad

A plan to provide study abroad for students at state colleges and universities is expected to be launched in September 1970, according to Dr. Eugene G. Wilkins, president of Newark State College, Union.

The American Association of State Colleges and Universities hopes to open two centers for foreign study, one in Mexico and the other in Quebec, as the first step in a plan that calls eventually for 20 centers for American students in locations all over the world, Dr. Wilkins said.

Dr. Wilkins, a member of the AASCU executive board of directors, recently visited Mexico with other members of the association to investigate possible locations for a center there. The University of the Americas at Puebla and the American School Foundation in Mexico City are being considered, he said. Dr. Wilkins was at one time head of the Secondary Division of the American School Foundation and has had repeated contacts with Mexican education at the secondary and university level. He and Mrs. Wilkins served as interpreters for the 14-member investigating team.

Under the plan, state colleges and universities would pool their resources to finance the centers, and professors from the state schools would staff them. Each center would accommodate 1,000 American students, who would get full academic credit for their work.

Dr. Wilkins pointed out that a trend to establish overseas centers began in the 1950s. A number of private colleges now have foreign centers where students can spend their sophomore, junior or senior years.

American student enrollment abroad has dropped in recent years, while enrollment of foreign students in American institutions has been rising, he said. The AASCU plan is aimed at reversing the trend by doubling the number of American students now going abroad to study.

245 sophs at UC take part Saturday in testing program

Two hundred and forty-five Union College sophomores will participate in the National Sophomore Testing Program on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the college in Cranford.

The sequential tests of educational progress will measure students' progress in reading, writing, mathematics, science and social studies, according to Prof. Elmer Wolf, acting dean.

The test is used to determine the academic achievement of Union College students as compared with other college students throughout the country and to provide an objective picture of each student's strengths and weaknesses, Prof. Wolf explained.

Union College students have always scored well above the national average in mathematics, social studies and science, and above average in reading and writing in competition with thousands of sophomores in hundreds of colleges and universities throughout the nation, Prof. Wolf added.

The tests are scored by the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, on specially designed electronic data processing equipment. Each student will receive an interpretation of his test scores, so he can compare his performance with that of other college sophomores.

Art demonstration planned April 23

Jack Bomberg, a Union artist, will give an art demonstration on Wednesday, April 23, at the Hillside Municipal Building. Bomberg will discuss and work with modern collages. The demonstration is sponsored by the Hillside Creative Arts group.

More than 50 attended an art demonstration given by Steve Potasky, who specializes in water color, late last month.

Four hikes are planned for the members and guests of the Union County Hiking Club this weekend.

On Saturday, Gertrude and Walter Halstead of Millburn will lead a six-mile ramble in the South Mountain Reservation. This group will meet at the Elmdale picnic area on Brookside drive in the reservation at 10 a.m.

On Saturday afternoon, Miss Irma H. Heyer of Elizabeth will lead a six-mile ramble in the Watchung Reservation. The group will meet at the parking area at the Trailside Nature and Science Center at 1:30 p.m.

On Sunday, Richard Hess of Morristown will lead a twelve-mile hike, known as the Stone-town Circular, which will take in a trek over Windbeam, Bear, Board, and Harrison mountains plus a few lesser hills. This group will meet at the Packanack-Wayne shopping center on Route 23 at 9 a.m.

Also on Sunday, Dwight Bereman of Westfield will lead a "City Slicker's Safari." The group will meet at the front steps of New York City Hall at 10 a.m., walk over the Brooklyn Bridge along the Gowanus Canal, have lunch in Prospect Park, hike through the flatlands to Coney Island and return by subway. The hike will take in about 12 miles.

Further information concerning the hikes may be obtained from the Recreation Department of the Union County Park Commission.

Pick Nowel to lead trip

Walter Nowel of 1102 Elker rd., Union, will be chaperone for a summer study abroad program at the University of Wales, Bangor, Wales, open to area high school students.

Although study is geared for history and English, courses will also be offered in drama, music, art and architecture, geography, folk dancing and archaeology. Other courses include the history of Wales, Britain Today, English Literature, Shakespeare, Chaucer and Contemporary British Writing.

Excursions will be available for students attending the summer session, which lasts from July 17 until Aug. 24. Trips are planned to Dublin, Paris, Calais, and sightseeing in England, including London and Stratford-on-Avon, Shakespeare's birthplace.

Nowel, a business education teacher at Jefferson High School, Elizabeth, said outdoor sports programs are available, including skiing, horseback riding, and canoeing activities.

Students completing the course work, he said, will be awarded a certificate.

Students and parents may obtain more information about the program by contacting him at 688-2795, he said.

Outside chalking

"Chalking" is a normal condition which occurs on many white and pastel exterior paints, allowing the surface to retain a desirable clean appearance for a number of years. However, when paint chalks excessively, it will not last long. Two generous coats when painting outside is recommended.

Turtle has a computer on its tail

Rutgers information center helps hurry a study

How does the Eastern Box Turtle keep his cool? You might say that this is of interest only to the Eastern Box Turtle, but there's a young zoologist from Brooklyn working for his Ph.D. at Rutgers University who also wants to know.
With the aid of the university's well-equipped Center for Computer and Information Services and its helpful administrators, he aims to find out, or at least to shed some new light on the subject.
The turtle's problem is relatively simple; that of zoologist's Paul Russo is not.
The turtle, like the other cold-blooded reptiles (snakes, lizards and alligators), confines his activities to areas where the climate is favorable, where the normal temperature range falls within the range of his own capacity to survive (about 33 degrees to 109 degrees in the case of the Eastern Box Turtle.)

UNDER THOSE CONDITIONS, the turtle's year is divided into two seasons, each about six months long. In winter, roughly late October to April, he hibernates. In summer, when it is not too hot, he goes about his business. Early mornings and late afternoons, when they are cool, are his vital times for feeding and performing his other vital functions.
In the heat of the day, or whenever the temperature is about 84 degrees or higher, he will be found under some type of shelter.

The shelter is first located through trial and error, but having a small world (ordinarily not more than 250 yards in diameter) he can usually find something.
At night he "sleeps."
These are broad generalities which Russo wants to refine, and this is where the computer comes in. Without it, Russo would probably have to live as long as his turtles to find the answers he seeks (123 years is the known verified record for this long-lived animal).
To assemble his facts, Russo has resorted to electrical instruments which record the temperature to one-hundredth of a degree. The readings are taken at four points: in the turtle's body, in his immediate environment, in the air at 27 inches above the ground and in the ground at a depth of 0.125 inches.

EACH MINUTE, one of these readings is fed into a recorder. With 1440 minutes in a day this produces more than half a million four-digit facts in a year. To analyze and relate them in the old-fashioned way would be out of the question. To the computer it is but the work of minutes.

From this material, Russo hopes to draw more precise conclusions about the turtle's temperature preferences and how he reacts to the wide range and rapid changes encountered in a temperate climate such as New Jersey's.

This is but one of the wide variety of problems which are presented to the State University's Computer Center every day.

Electronic computers were first put to use at Rutgers right after World War II to help with the university's routine record-keeping chores which mounted astronomically with the growth of the student body.

Registration, course scheduling, recording of grades, bookkeeping were the first chores assigned to the computer. Students and professors who didn't like eight o'clock classes every day had to vent their spleen on the computer rather than on their department chairmen.

ALERT RESEARCH WORKERS were quick to grasp the opportunity to put the computers to their data-handling chores. Plant breeders were among the first, with their long pedigrees of everything from alfalfa to corn, asparagus and peaches.

As both faculty and computers became more sophisticated, the computer was called upon more and more to deal with problems not only in the natural sciences but the social sciences and humanities as well. Thus the need arose for systematizing what had been at first a more or less hit-or-miss growth.

The answer was the Center for Computer and Information Services, now headed by Dr. Thomas H. Mott Jr., with its nucleus on the New Brunswick campus and branches at the outlying campuses in Newark and Camden. The original house-keeping assignment has been transferred to another department leaving the center free to concentrate on teaching and research.

HOLDER OF BACHELOR'S, master's and doctoral degrees in philosophy, Mott is ideally suited to a domain in which machines think through problems and based on the facts they are given, arrive at logical answers to all sorts of questions, either hypothetical or categorical.

Proud of his equipment, now housed in a "temporary" structure of World War II vintage which first served as the University Commons, Mott and his associates look forward eagerly to the time (he hopes in 1971) when the center, with its associated teaching and research departments in mathematics and computer sciences, will move into custom-designed quarters at the Science Center on nearby University Heights.

This building, estimated to cost $7,250,000, was included to the extent of nearly $3 million in the bond issue approved by the voters last November. The remainder of the cost will come from prior state appropriations, federal and private sources.

HOT ENOUGH FOR YOU? Paul Russo, Rutgers graduate student in zoology, checks the temperature on the shell of an Eastern box turtle. Using electronic recording instruments, he is compiling temperature records of air, soil, and his turtles in a study of how these cold-blooded reptiles adjust to their thermal environment. Fed through computers in the State University's Center for Computer Information and Services, his data will shed new light on how the turtle survives in a variable climate like New Jersey's.

Private nurse fee increased to $32

The private duty nurse members of the New Jersey State Nurses' Association will raise their rates from $28 to $32 for an eight-hour day, beginning May 1.
More than 1,000 private duty nurse members were given the opportunity to express their opinion through a statewide referendum. Increased employment responsibilities, requirements for additional educational preparation and the escalating cost of living were highlighted by the nurses as some of the important reasons for increasing private duty fees.

The professional private duty nurse is a licensed registered nurse who contracts for her services on an individual basis. This permits the nurse to utilize professional knowledge and skills to the fullest extent and to assume responsibility for the total nursing care of the patient, a spokesman said.
"As private practitioners they have no position security and are dependent upon community demands for their services," a statement said.
"The private duty nurses lack many of the benefits associated with group employment, such as paid sick leave, vacation pay, unemployment insurance, holidays, hospitalization and other related fringe benefits. These factors must be considered when determining the private duty nursing fee."
Through their professional association, private duty nurses have the opportunity to act collectively to advance their field of nursing and to improve their professional practice and economic status.

Post Office plans new stamp issue

The first multicolored postage stamp to be produced in coil form will be issued May 30, Postmaster General Winton M. Blount announced yesterday.
It duplicates the design of the highly popular six-cent American Flag stamp which came out in sheet form last year.
The stamp will be issued with first day ceremonies at Chicago.

Active summer at Rider College

Rider College, Trenton, spurred by a record summer enrollment last year, is preparing its most extensive and varied summer program ever.

More than 150 undergraduate courses plus graduate level courses will be offered during a pair of five-week sessions, the first June 16 - July 23 and the second July 29 - August 30.

The split summer program was initiated last year and is designed both for the student who wants to accelerate his study program and for the student who wants to lighten his regular semester load and still get in a lengthy summer vacation.

ORT 'rummaging' for funds to help underprivileged

The Springfield Chapter of Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training) will hold its spring rummage sale of used and better clothing, shoes, household articles, children's toys, games and books on Sunday and Monday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., at 155 Morris ave., Springfield. All proceeds of the sale go to the MOT (Maintenance of ORT Training Program) fund, which provides money for the schools that train the underprivileged youth of many nations in technical skills, necessary for today's economy and offers each individual the opportunity to be self-supporting while contributing to the progress of his country.

Further information is available from Mrs. Martin Berman, 87 Hillside ave., at 376-8064 or Mrs. Melvin Peck, 247 Baltusrol way, at 376-5649, co-chairmen in charge of the rummage.

On Thursday, April 17, the Springfield Chapter will hold a general meeting in Temple Beth Ahm, Temple Way, at 8:30 p.m. Mrs. Stanley Bell, president will preside.

There will be a general discussion of current projects and emphasis on their successful completion. Mrs. Seymour Stein, honor roll vice-president will discuss final plans for the honor roll luncheon in the New York Hilton on Tuesday, June 3, for all members who have achieved "Honor Roll" status and who have the required number of credits entitling them to attend. At the luncheon the first year Golden Honor Roll members will be honored.

Mrs. Jerry Szanger, chairman of the nominating committee will present the slate of officers for the year 1969-1970 and will discuss plans for the annual installation of officers of the Springfield Chapter of ORT to be held in May.

Mrs. Irving R. Goldstein, publicity chairman, will present each of three former presidents of the Springfield chapter with scrapbooks containing a pictorial and written record of events highlighting their respective terms of office.

Mrs. Jack Friedman, hospitality chairman said refreshments will be served members and guests at the meeting.

Narcotics problem to be topic of talks

The Greater Westfield Section of the National Council of Jewish Women, is sponsoring an open meeting to promote an awareness and community involvement towards the problem of narcotics among the youth of today.

"The Long Way Back" is the theme of the program to be held on Tuesday at Temple Emanuel, East Broad Street, Westfield, at 12:30 p.m. The two speakers, Tony Pisano and Angus Best, are affiliated with the New Jersey Regional Drug Abuse Agency. They will discuss their problems and tell about their rehabilitation. A question and answer period will follow.

The program chairman of the meeting is Mrs. Martin Katzen of Springfield. Mrs. Sanford R. Simon of Westfield will preside.

University women meet at Seton Hall

The annual meeting of the New Jersey Division of the American Association of University Women will be held Saturday, April 19, at the Bishop Dougherty Student Center, Seton Hall University, South Orange.

Registration and the coffee hour will be from 9:15 to 10 a.m. The Mountside Branch will host the coffee hour. The morning session will be concerned with the annual meeting and installation of officers. Luncheon will be served at 1.

The afternoon program speaker will be Mrs. Katharine Elkus White, whose topic will be "Four Years in Denmark." Mrs. White was appointed as ambassador to Denmark by President Johnson in April of 1964 and served for more than four years. She was a recipient of the Grand Cross of the Order of the Dannebrog bestowed upon her by King Frederik IX of Denmark. Mrs. White makes her home in Red Bank.

CLOTHES CARE COMMENTS
by SAM MANN (Diamond Cleaners)
SUMMER STORAGE
"An ounce of prevention" is certainly worthwhile when it comes to taking care of winter woollens through the summer months. You can prevent moth holes, but you can't always cure them, even with costly reweaving.

Moths and carpet beetles attack even non-woolens if they are spotted or stained with food or perspiration. So it stands to reason that everything should be thoroughly cleaned before you put it away. In treating any item with a liquid moth-preventive, it's a good idea to spray out of doors or in a well ventilated room. But be careful not to saturate the garment.

And by all means, do not use plastic hangers or store plastic buttons when moth balls, crystals or flakes are used, because the plastic may soften and damage a favorite suit or coat.

If you don't have the room to store everything on hangers, fold garments carefully and support each fold generously with tissue. Remember Diamond will store your woollens free!

And for the thorough over-all cleaning you want to insure a like-new look next fall, trust those winter items only to an expert cleaner like Diamond Cleaners. It will pay off in extra wear.

Rep. Dwyer taking poll of constituents on national issues

Rep. Florence P. Dwyer (R-12th Dist., N.J.), for the 12th consecutive year, is polling constituents on a broad front of Federal policy issues ranging from taxes and spending to welfare and Vietnam.

The New Jersey Congressman noted, in a covering letter to constituents, that "the present is an especially appropriate time for the expression of people's views on public issues because President Nixon's Administration is deeply engaged in the preparation of their first legislative program for Congress and Congressional committees are actively considering many of these same issues in public hearings."

Again this year, Mrs. Dwyer emphasized, she has sought to avoid reliance on simple yes-no questions and has favored multiple choice alternatives and questions which measure the depth of people's convictions.

Five categories of questions are featured in the survey. Constituents are asked to evaluate four proposed tax reforms, to choose areas of government spending which should be reduced, to assign a degree of priority (high, medium or low) to a variety of policy choices, to indicate what degree of confidence they have in various institutions, leaders and situations, and to rate President Nixon's performance in office to date.

Constituents can choose between these views: "generally doing well so far," or "must improve his performance soon."

Congresswoman Dwyer invited interested constituents who may not already be on her regular mailing list to request copies of her questionnaire either from her Washington office (2421 Rayburn Building) or her District Office (Room 202, 40 Somerset St., Plainfield).

Trailside widens horizons to sky Planetarium is gift of museum association

The Trailside Planetarium, a gift to the people of Union County and the Union County Park Commission from the Trailside Museum Association, will be dedicated this Sunday, at 3 p.m.

The planetarium is located adjacent to the Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation.

At the dedication program, the officers of the Trailside Museum Association will turn the building and equipment over to the Union County Park Commission.

The planetarium is housed in a colonial-style wooden frame structure 30 by 36 feet, erected on a concrete foundation. The building has a wavy rough oak siding which is similar to the main building at the Trailside complex. Beneath the roof of the building is a hemispherical fiberglass dome, 20 feet in diameter, upon which the skies will be projected. Temporary seating has been arranged for 55 youngsters or adults to view the planetarium programs.

The instrument used to produce the star patterns in the sky is a Nova Projection Planetarium. This instrument can be adapted to various programs in the study of the skies above us. The Planetarium will provide public recreation and education in the science of astronomy and will be useful in the study of navigation. Various auxiliary projectors make it possible for the Planetarium to be used for the study of the relationship of the skies above to the earth below. A special lighting system and a sound system have been provided in the planetarium.

With the opening of the Trailside Planetarium on Sunday, the first public showing at the planetarium will be on Monday, April 14, at 4 p.m. when "The Changing Seasons" will be presented. The same program will also be presented on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, at 4 p.m., and on Wednesday, April 16 at 8 p.m.

Because the Planetarium can only seat 55 people at any one time, those who wish to attend a program must receive a ticket from the Trailside office only on the day a program is to be presented. Children under eight years of age will not be admitted to the planetarium chamber.

The Trailside Museum Association, a group of citizens and clubs interested in preserving nature in its various forms in Union County has donated to the Park Commission this planetarium. This group worked over the past several years to raise the funds for this project and constructed the planetarium over the past seven months.

The planetarium will be available to the over 500,000 people in Union County for various programs including astronomy, navigation, and the wonders of the universe. Programs will be arranged for all ages.

EXTERIOR VIEW of the Trailside Planetarium located adjacent to the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation. Beneath the roof of this building is located the Planetarium, donated to Park Commission by the Trailside Museum Association. It will be dedicated Sunday at 3 p.m. The first public program will be presented on Monday at 4.

DONALD W. MAYER (right), director of the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, shows Dr. Ralph A. Hall, Westfield, a director of the Trailside Museum Association, the instrument panel for the Nova Planetarium used to project the skies upon a hemispherical dome 20 feet in diameter. The instrument can be adapted to various programs in the study of the skies.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D.
Director
National Institute of Mental Health

SCHIZOPHRENIA RESEARCH IS NEEDED

Schizophrenia is the most common of the serious mental disorders — afflicting about 2,000,000 people in the U.S.

Early signs of the disease include withdrawal or getting off by oneself, not being able to concentrate, increasingly sloppy appearance, and excessive talking about one's fate or the fate of the world.

Schizophrenia, as a rule, causes a split between thoughts and actions. For instance, an affected person may giggle when describing the serious illness of a loved one.

Or, a person may cry when telling that he won $1000 in a contest.

Nearly everybody shows some minor signs of things like these, at times. They don't necessarily mean "schizophrenia is beginning. Don't try to diagnose yourself or someone else. That's the doctor's job."

Psychiatrists, other physicians, mental health centers and hospitals, and health departments or your mental health association can give you help.

They can find the kind of assistance you need. Seek them out if you're worried about schizophrenia or any other kind of mental problems.

Modern treatment has greatly improved the lot of the schizophrenia patient. Some patients have to be treated in hospitals. Many others, with proper drugs and other therapy, can hold full- or part-time jobs, run their homes, care for their children, and carry on daily living.

But we still don't know nearly enough about the causes and how to prevent or really cure this very complicated disease.

The NIMH is working with thousands of researchers and physicians all over the U.S. and the world on an intensified attack on one of our gravest public mental health problems.

Virginia Graham will be honored by cancer volunteers

New Jersey Division volunteers of the American Cancer Society will host the 1969 National Crusade Chairman, Miss Virginia Graham, at a special dinner at the Holiday Inn, North Brunswick, Tuesday. More than 500 ACS volunteers are expected to meet the famous television personality and hear about her personal fight against cancer.

Miss Graham's appearance is the highlight of the 1969 New Jersey Division Crusade. April has been proclaimed Cancer Control Month throughout the country and the state by proclamations from President Nixon and Governor Hughes, and the Cancer Crusade is at its height in mid-April. Some 50,000 volunteers in the state will visit their fellow citizens during April, distributing educational materials and accepting contributions for the cancer control program.

Scientists see 'danger signals' for Planet Earth

Today's Janus-faced technological civilization is spending countless millions on sending men to the moon at a time when it is making the prospects of life on Planet Earth more and more appalling.

McDermott outlines plan to ease campus crisis

"I can neither support disident students who trample the rights of other students nor favor the reduction of standards that make a university great, proud and invaluable in the service of our state."

Employment down somewhat in N.J. state unit reports

Nonfarm wage and salary employment in New Jersey was down slightly in February from the preceding month. According to estimates prepared by the Division of Planning and Research of the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, employment in mid-February was about 2,419,200 (not including farm, domestic, self-employed, and unpaid family workers).

Torrey Conary in March 1967. In a lead article, Michel Batisse, head of Unesco's Division of Natural Resources, describes how this situation has come about: "Until a few decades ago, the triumphant progress of a technological civilization based on scientific knowledge seemed to confirm man's total victory. Then, all at once, danger signals were observed. In a brief period, man has so effectively conquered nature that he is now in the process of destroying it."

with ideas and ideals. To dismiss them now as long-haired radicals serves no purpose at all. "What we need instead is an end to violent confrontation and the beginning of a true dialogue between the generations, not one of patronizing tolerance but one predicted on a desire to understand, meet real human needs, and create the highest good for all men, disadvantaged or not."
