2 receive injuries in Rt. 22 mishaps of holiday weekend

The July 4 weekend resulted in relitively few accidents and no fatalities in Mountainside this year. Only two persons were injured, both after striking utility poles on Route 22.

Ben J. Worlds of Plainfield lost control of his car on the wet pavement at 6:35 p.m. last Thursday and struck a pole at Rt. #22 and Sheffield street. He received a cut on the hand and complained of chest pains and was taken to Overlook Hospital by the Rescue

Also on July 3, at 2:15 a.m., at the first U-turn on Rt. 22 East in Mountainside, Kenneth Kanarek of Westfield was reportedly hit in the rear end by William lacovelli of Piscataway. Kanarek stated that he was making the U-turn to Rt. 22 West when Iacovelli signalled to move into the right lane, then struck him from behind. Iacovelli stated that he must have fallen asleep, police said. Damage to lacovelli's car included the entire front end. Kanarek's car was dented on the rear bumper and the right rear fender.

On Sunday at 2:55 a.m., Juliet Reynolds of Plainfield reportedly lost control of her car while braking into a curve and struck a pole on Rt. 22 West near Western Termite Con-trol. She reportedly stated that she was following her husband home from work when she felt she was going too fast into a curve. When she applied the brakes she lost control of the car and hit the pole.

She complained of injuries to her leg and chest. Damage to her automobile included the front end, grill, bumper, engine, wheels and transmission, according to the police report.

PTA contribution for young climbers

Two new pieces of recreation equipment have been presented to the Mountainside Recreation Department by the Mountainside PTA. One of the new facilities is a fireman's climber, a construction consisting of a center climb-up ladder and three poles to slide down. The second piece of equipment is a triplearch climber, with a structure frame of three curved ladders. The recreation equipment is located on the grounds of the Mountainside Community Pool near the tennis courts and can also-be viewed from the pool site.

The new equipment will be used year-round by the Recreation Department and Echobrook School. The PTA has invited the community to enjoy these new and unusual recreational facilities.

Local readers keep turning borough library's new leaves

What does Mountainside read? According to Mrs. Elmer Hoffarth, Mountainside's head librarian, the people of Mountainside read just about every type of book available. What she finds most gratifying is that so many people come to read for enjoyment, rather than on assignment.

"The reading habits here are rather unusual", said Mrs. Hoffarth, "We seem to circulate as many non-fiction books as we do fiction." One possible reason she offered for this was that there are a great number of professional people in town who borrow books for research and background material.

Among the adults, fiction and non-fiction are equally popular. For expample, in January of this year, 1,963 non-fiction and 1,756 fiction books were borrowed from the adult section. "Of course we have several people who come in to get all the latest best-sellers, and I must say that we do keep an excellent supply by following the best-seller lists in the New York-Times" said Mrs. Hoggarth, smiling and offering—one of several copies of "Portnoy's Complaint."

tend to read, basically, what they are required to read for high school or college in the classics and major works of literature. The majority of their recreational reading is science fiction and fantasy. Mrs. Hoffarth recalled fondly one girl, a few years ago, who was in love with the classics. "She was here constantly, reading big volumes of poetry and plays, and she didn't have a required reading list in her hand." "The young people are still reading classics, though. Now thanks to the wide variety of publications in paperback, many people buy their own copies and have small libraries of their own favorite books. Mnay of these people come in strictly to use our research

Outdoor, TV funds win board's OK

BY JACK PEANNE

The Mountainside Board of Education approved a $2,000 three-part educational services package for the 1969-70 school year at its monthly meeting Tuesday night at the Deerfield school.

It provides for the district's membership in the Union County outdoor education program nd Educational Services Commission and a WNDT-TV (Channel 13) series on sex educa-

They were recommended by Dr. Levin B. Hanigan; superintendent of schools.

This will be the first year that local boards will have to bear the costs of the outdor's education program. Since it was started three years ago, it has been funded by a federal Title Three grant.

The office of the county superintendent of schools, Dr. William H. West, has set a cost of $10.50 per student for participation in the program. However, Dr. Hanigan said he felt that this was too high and recommended $8 per student as a more reasonable figure.

He said that Mountainside's passage of a resolution adopting the program at $8 per student may have some influence on the county The outdoor education program is only available to sixth grade children.

THE COUNTY EDUCATIONAL Services Commission is being set up for its first year of operation at a cost of 30 cents per child in each school district. In Mountainside there are approximately 1,300 students, so the membership cost is $390.

The commission will tentatively provide such services as special education programs, private school transportation, and an audio-visual materials rental library.

The WNDT-TV sex education series will cost $1 per enrolled child. About 500 children, 266 fifth and sixth graders and the rest coming from lower grades, are expected to participate in Mountainside. The series of sex education programs, 18 of them, will be viewed during the second semester of the school year. It will first be reviewed, however, during the first semester by Dr. Hanigan's special advisory committee on sex education and local teachers. Dr. Hanigan said that since the preview of the series will be regularly scheduled during the day this fall, parents may also evaluate the proposed sex education program.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, Dr. Hanigan said that because of the abnormally large size of the incoming seventh and eighth grades this fall, the classes will be divided into seven rather than the normal six sections to bring the student -- to -- teacher ratio-down to 25 to one. There will be about 174 students in each grade this fall, whereas normal size is about 133. Three new teachers were hired at the meeting and a fourth was added on a part-time basis. They are Stephen Berkowitz, social studies, $7,400 per year; Mrs. Donna P. Kiel, physical education, $7,100; Mrs. Henrine O. Oliver, science, $7,100, and Mrs. Marilyn A. Kierspe, home economics, part-time on a basic $7,100 annual salary.

PROFILE--John T. Connor Jr.

This is the first in a series of Profiles on candidates who will appear on the November

John T. Connor Jr. was raised in a family where politics was "always discussed at the dinner table." Those mealtime talks have led in part to his entering the assemblymanat-large race as a Democrat this November in his first try for elected office,

But the 28-year-old Cranford resident isn't new to the political scene, despite his youth. Connor, son of the nation's Secretary of Commerce from 1964 to 1966, served as intelligence aide to Sen. Fred Harris (D-Okla.) this summer and fall in Hubert Humphrey's unsuccessful drive for the Presidency. As Harris's intelligence chief Connor made sure top campaign officials knew what the trends were and projected what might happen if any variety of events were to come about, One of his chores in the Chicago "war room" at the convention last summer, he said, was to inform officials how many votes Channing Phillips, a black minister from Washington, would receive if his name was placed in nomination. He also was executive director of the New Jersey Citizens for Humphrey-Muskie or-

Ironically, the Democrat's first political experience came in the summer of 1962, when he served as an intern for a Republican, Sen. Clifford P. Case. Said Connor of that position: "If there were more Cases I might have been a Republican.'' "This state has challenges," Connor said, One of his goals is "to see a legislature that does its work." He cited the special session Governor Hughes called for last week, It met one day. The young lawyer said he agreed with Assemblyman Robert N. Wilentz's view of the legislature as "institutionalized incompe-

"IN THIS STATE the legislature doesn't hold hearings, meets only one day a week." Connor said the legislature is "not an equal arm of government" when compared to the executive branch. New Jersey, he noted, does not elect an attorney general or lieutenant governor as other states do, but only one man for the executive department, the governor.
This, said Connor, coupled with a "weak legis-lature," is not a desirable governmental situation. But, he observed, "a lot of the legislators-like it and use their positions to aid their law practices;",

Consumer problems will play an important part in his campaign this year. He is con-interest is mass transportation, particularly The Meadowlands project, a plan which would build—a—major—city—with—residential—and-industrial areas in the New Jersey swamps near the Turnpike in Essex and Bergen Counties, also has gained Connor's interest, "I'm particularly interested in making sure it has its fair share of parks," he said.

Connor commented on the use of wiretaps by the government as it has been disclosed in recent weeks. "I do feel that improper use has been made of these wiretaps. I share a middle class indignation for acts of organized crimes, but," he said, sometimes the use of tapes "is defamation of character of anyone whose name ends in a vowel."

While Connor has praise for the Democratic legislature of 1965-67, he does feel there are a lot of things yet to be done. One act he would like to see become law in New Jersey is a four high schools -- and lots of elbow grease -- the district's 41 custodians and maintenance men have started their annual paintup-fixup

According to Warren Ruban, director of operations and maintenance, his men have two months to clean and rewax approximately 155 classrooms in all the buildings, scrub down, steel wool and refinish all the gym floors and auditorium stages and wash and rewax the gym bleachers.

It doesn't stop there, Ruban noted, Every locker in every building has to be cleaned, Wooden desk tops have to be refinished, Hall-ways are washed down and rewaxed.

'And that's only the inside," he said, "We have the outside of the buildings to maintain during the summer."

This means keeping about 60 acres of grass mowed, continuous maintenance of the shrubs and flower beds around the schools, watering the football fields when needed, a program of weed control and the repainting of lines in the parking lots at the schools located in Clark, Berkeley Heights, Kenilworth and Springfield, Ruban augments his regular staff in the summer by hiring students and some teachers who assist with painting.

"We also hired three men to build and in-stall some furniture," Ruban pointed out. In addition to the regular maintenance that's accomplished every summer, there are always some major repairs going on.

I or instance, the outside woodwork, including the tower, is being painted at Jonathan Dayton Regional in Springfield, The three boilers in the school are being replaced with two new ones at a cost of $97,000.

In addition, thermostats are being installed in the stairwells, the stage lighting control panel is being replaced in the auditorium, the home economics rooms will have all new kitchen equipment and equipment in the chemistry lab is being replaced.

The auditorium at Arthur L. Johnson Regional in Clark will sport new carpeting when school opens and all the football bleachers are being repainted. Also, the area under the bleachers at the football field will be blacktopped, and the boys' gym will get some new seats.

"It's also our job to see that the eight driver education cars and the four school buses we own are serviced and inspected,"

Mountainside boys take Union course: college readiness

Ken Koszowski of 1614 Rising way, and Daniel Pastore Jr. of 167 Mountainview dr., both of Mountainside, are among 75 recent high school graduates enrolled in Union College's eighth annual college readiness pro-gram, which opened on June 26. Prof. Gunars Salins, director, said the college readiness program features an orientation to college life, including tips on how, when and where to study, how to use the college library, and how to budget time for maximum results. The program also provides a quick review of the basic skills reading, English composition, and problem solving -to supplement what the high schools have done.

The college readiness program runs for four weeks through July 23. Classes are held daily, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 to 11:40 a.m.

Prof. Salins said the program is open to all high school graduates who are college bound, including those planning to attend Union College. It carries no college credit.

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

By Mabel G. Stolte, County Home Economist

EVERY CHILD NEEDS TO WIN SOMETIME! A capable younger child will often feel frustrated when he compares himself to his older brothers and sisters.

The older brothers and sisters will be more skillful in some types of play because they are more mature and have had more practice. Consequently, when your family, including you, the parents, play games involving skill and planning, your youngest child will often

He may, thus, refuse to play competitive games. Or, in frustration, he may try to cheat, become sullen or hostile and aggressive as the game continues.

One way to help a youngster improve his skill is to plan team action. You can pair your child, having the least skill, with the team having the most skill. The competitive disadvantage because of age differences will then be reduced. All players have the stimulation of striving to win. Yet it is still possible to focus on improvement of skill and to avoid consistent failure for the youngest or least adept player, Within this protective team, each child competes with his own past performance, as well as, with the opposing team. You can use the team approach in some individual sports. For example, relay teams can race at swimming. One bowling partner can bowl one frame with a second bowling the next for the total score.

Through family recreation, children can develop skills and competitive game spirit,

A MUSING from the desk

We have become increasingly concerned over insidious efforts to mongrelize our American heritage in the area of sports. Activities of sort, designed to encourage fitness, sportsmanship and the American way, should not be sullied by un-American influences. We refer particularly to the upsurge of interest in and institutions teaching the arts of judo and karate. We hardly need add that these two related forms of physical self-expression are not even as American as pizza and gefilte

CANCER QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. Does cancer run in fam-A. Cancer is a common disease, and some 'clusterof cases in families will occur by chance alone. The question is whether clustering may exceed chance occurrence. Scientists have not been able to show any significant family clustering for most kinds of cancer. One exception is retinoblastoma, a rare cancer of the eye. The chances that a patient cured of retinoblastoma will have a child with this tumor are very high. Judging by the limited data available, scientists believe that relatives of patients with cancer of the stomach, female breast, or colon and rectum run an increased risk of developing these cancers. But they do not know whether such family clustering is due to inherited characteristics or to environmental factors, such as diet or occupation, which may continue unchanged from one generation to the

Q. Is a cancer patient likely to develop a second cancer? A. Persons with cancers of the skin, mouth, colon and rectum run a greatly in-creased risk of a second cancer in the same organ. Patients with cancer of the breast, ovary, and, perhaps, lung run an increased risk of developing the disease in the paired organ. cervix (neck of the uterus)

A. Married persons generally have lower death rates for most causes, including cancer, than single persons. The contrast in cancer mortality is more marked for men—than—for—women.—Thedifference between married and single women is relatively small, except for cancers of the breast and uterus. Statistical studies at the NIH National Cancer Institute and elsewhere have shown that for cancer of the breast single women are at more risk than

A. Low socioeconomic groups have above-average incidence and death rates for all cancers combined. But there are variations within this framework. For instance, while there is a marked link between low-income groups and cancers of the uterine cervix, esophagus, and stomach. cancer of the breast in women in those groups is below average. Scientists believe also that differences in the amount of exposure to cancercausing agents and the quality of medical care may contribute as much to these variances in rates as to differences in social customs, such as age at marriage, and personal Q. Does cigarette smoking

In 1964, an expert committee appointed by the Surgeon General of the U.S. Public Health Service to assess the hazards of smoking concluded: Cigarette smoking is causally related to lung cancer in men, far outweigh-ing all other factors. Student organization takes its cue from politics

Folitical action is the key to gains made by one campus group in New Jersey.

The Committee for Undergraduate Education (CUE) has been using persuasion, leaflets, telephone calls, meeting, marches and head-to-head talks in its fight for better educational facilities and more student say at New Jersey's six state colleges.

Robert Baxter Jr. of Union, chairman of CUE who will be a senior at Newark State College next September, said that prior to the past academic year, "CUE was a crisis oriented organization. When something happened CUF was taken out of the mothballs and existed for the period of the crisis and then died. Now we have standing officers that are recognized by the student associations at each campus."

CUE, said Baxter, has 18 members on the state executive board representing 23,000 students from Trenton State, Newark State, Montclair State, Paterson State, Jersey City State and Glassboro State Colleges. Baxter said the group has "more than 2,500 active members who have worked and will work."

DURING THE SUMMER and until the November balloting. CUE will be working closely with the Voting Nee Coalition, which started one year ago to push for an 18 year old vote in New Jersey.

When the bill proposing a referendum for lowering the voting age was killed in the Assembly, said Baxter, CUE was holding a conference in Trenton at the same time, with more than 1,000 students meeting in the War Memorial Building.

The same day," said Baxter, the Voting Age Coalition 'made plans to reintroduce the bill to the assembly. The students walked from the Memorial Building to the State House in silent march, not a word was spoken, nothing was said. We packed the galleries and waited until the bill was reintroduced. When it was, we turned around and walked out again back to our own meeting, silently." Baxter believes the group's Trenton appearance and conduct influenced the eventual approval of the bill in the legislature.

On another occasion CUE marched in Trenton again, this time bring to the State House coffins marked: "Higher Education is Dead,"

CUE IS SUPPORTING the 18-year-old vote, said Baxter, because "we feel that if the 18-year-old vote comes through, students will have a political power base to work on. Now we're not a voting constituency. It's nice to have students talk, but the legislature would listen better if they realized these students could put them in or out of office."

Baxter, who is a member of the Newark State Student Council finance board (which handles more than $250,000 in funds each year), said he became active in CUE because "I just got fed up, being left out in the cold, seeing each college bickering among themselves, never having any unity or coherence. New Jersey being 50th out of the 50 states in

He said that money earmarked for the state colleges has "gone right to the general fund, not special education funds." He noted that Glassboro has a library constructed four years ago, but the second floor has no books on it.

CUIL PPESSURFD for Senate Bill 255, he said, that "grants fiscal automony to the state colleges. Through various legislative contacts," Baxter said proudly, "we felt we had a great deal to do with getting this bill passed. We were the students who worked for the bond issue. We passed out hundreds of thousands of flyers at shopping centers, bumper stickers, wrote letters to parents, legislators. We think we had a large influence in getting the bond issue passed."

Junior admission to college urged

A college dean talking to high school and college teachers said last week that "someone someday soon is going to be brave enough in a college to come forth with the idea that the college should deliberately set out to take most of its freshman class from the secondary schools at the end of the junior year."

Drew University College of Liberal Arts
Dean Richard J. Stonesifer made his remarks to 75 biology teachers gathered at Drew for a national conference of the Advanced Placement Program. The AP Program provides for college level work among high school students.

Dean Stonesifer's proposal calls for moving high school students on to college work after three years of high school, and then moving these students through a five-year program which will combine undergraduate and beginning graduate work, releasing them with the MA or the MS and ready to move on either to graduate or professional schools a year earlier.

This past year at Drew, five of the 410 College freshmen were accepted from their junior year in high school.

successfully was a proposed $200 increase in dormitory fees asked for by the Board of Higher Education. Students at all but two of the state colleges, he said, would get "absolutely zilch (nothing)" from the measure. He and other members of CUE spoke before the education board and convinced state officials that the raise was unwarranted since students weren't getting anything for it. The board finally agreed that the increase was, said Baxter, "a hasty move and they rescinded it, at least for now,"

"Dorm fees are the same at all colleges except Montclair and Trenton which will have new facilities," he said, "It's still under study, so it may turn out that everybody pays."

MORAL SUPPORT has been given to CUE

U.S. Congresswoman FLORENCE P. DWYER Reports

(Editor's note: Mrs. Dwyer prepared this column prior to the vote on the surfax last week. She voted for a continuation of the tax

DOLLAR BILLS IN YOUR WALLET

Questions of economic policy -- of dollars and cents -- have dominated Congress in recent weeks: extension of the surtax, higher interest rates, appropriations bills, Complicated matters, ves; but just as personal and direct as the dollar bills in your wallet. And there'll be more or less of those in your future depending on what we do on these Surrax extension is the most immediate issue for the House. When you cond this, it may be settled. But as I write it (lune 27) the House is scheduled, after an earlier postponement, to vote on the surtax bill on Monday, though on past performance and present uncertainties this could be changed.

If the schedule holds up, you now know how I voted, As I write, I don't for what I believe are very good reasons. Most important, while I accept the necessity of the surray for a brief additional period, I also strongly favor a comprehensive reform of the tax system itself. Without reform, the surtax simply perpetuates existing inequities and imposes relatively heavier burdens on low- and moderateincome taxpayers than on many of the more fortunate who benefit from the content subsidies built into the tax system.

THE COST OF A LAX CUT On the other hand, dropping the surtax now (a move which would pump into the economy an additional $9.26 billion in spendable funds and add to the possibility of an inflationary Federal budget by a like amount) would almost inevitably start a new wave of price increases at a particularly sensitive time, a time when fiscal and monetary restraints seem about to take hold and reverse the mad climb of prices and interest rates.

An obvious way out of this dilemma would appear to be to combine the extension of the surtax with a comprehensive tax reform in a single bill. Yet, Administration and House Ways and Means Committee supporters of the surtax oppose such a step, even while they emphatically repeat their commitment to tax reform -- a position I have not found very persuasive.

No one has yet explained to me, satisfactorily, why a combined surtax-tax reform bill can't be passed if each can be enacted separately. If, as some suggest, the presence of tax reform provisions in a surtax extension bill would threaten the surtax, then how could tax reform be enacted alone -- a question, I suggest, which answers itself and raises some doubt about the depth of commitment to tax reform on the part of those who would separate the two. The position of the surtax-first camp was further weakened just today. Though they have strenuously protested that short-term extension of the surtax past its June 30 expiration date (to give the Ways and Means Committee time to finish work on tax reform) would weaken the anti-inflation fight, they nevertheless quietly accepted an "emergency" one-month extension through July of tax-withholding rates at the present surtax level -a move which, in effect, extends the surtax

SURTAX PLUS REFORM

Why, therefore, a formal extension of the surtax for one month -- or two or three, if necessary -- can't be utilized to permit completion of tax reform proposals escapes me.

In any event, whenever the House votes on tax legislation, I shall cast my own vote in the way best calculated to obtain the economic benefits of both the surtax and tax reform. Both are essential. Growing inflation would cost most of us much more than another six months of surtax at 10 per cent and six more at five per cent, while continued tax inequities would tend to place most of the burden of fighting inflation on those least able to carry it -- a fact I developed at some length in my May 8 Report to the People.

One of the more disturbing ironies of the present effort to deal with inflation involves the position of many of the country's biggest banks. While bankers have been among the most persistent of those warning us against inflation and advocating continuation of the surtax == a most responsible position, so far as it goes -- they have effectively dealt the public interest in opposing inflation a very serious blow by yielding to their own private interests and raising the prime interest rate from 7-1/2 per cent to 8-1/2 per cent.

In my entire public life, I have rarely seen a decision more universally condemned than this. Republicans and Democrats, Congress and the Administration, even some bankers, all were shocked at the suddenness of the action, the extent of the rate increase, and the poor timing. It was largely a surprise. The full percentage point by which rates were raised was the largest in a quarter century and followed five other rate increases during the past 12 months. And it came at a time when self-discipline, voluntary restraint and effective self-regulation were essential to the health of the economy. DANGEROUSLY UNCONVINCING

Our full Banking and Currency Committee has already held several days of hearings on this latest rate increase, and there will be more. Afterlistening to the bankers make the most of their case, I remain unconvinced. It was fundamentally a selfish act disguised in the rhetoric of the money market. While it strengthens commercial banks' competitive position in the fierce search for lendable funds, the rate rise will not slow inflation. It will add, and is already adding, to inflation, badly hurting the housing market, drying up consumer credit, penalizing small business, restricting State and municipal efforts to build needed schools, hospitals, housing, etc., driving down the stock market, denying needed loans to college students, and costing homebuying families thousands more over the life of an average mortgage. The banks' profits picture, however, should be improved.

I do not mean to be too harsh on the banks. Bankers are not evil, grasping men. Tight money is not basically their fault. Inconsistent Federal Reserve Board policy, a haltingly unsure former Administration, and a slow-moving, overly political Congress have been major contributors to the crisis. Yet, we are asked to expect much from private enterprise by private business leaders. If. when the chips are down, private business cannot act in the public interest, then government may have no alternative but to impose the necessary controls.

LOSING MORE CONTIDENCE

In the midst of all this, Congress once again has illustrated why it has been unable, as an institution, to attract more public confidence. Last year, as part of its budgetcutting crusade, Congress forced most Federal agencies to cut back sharply the number of their employees, a policy which is still in effect. This past Tuesday, the House continued its budget-cutting, this time reducing appropriations for housing and urban development by $473 million, nearly 25 per cent below the Nixon Administration's balanced-budget request (a move which, inexplicably, HUD Secretary Romney didn't protest until after it had happened). But the very next day, economy was forgotten as House leaders (of both parties) slipped through a bill authorizing an additional employee for all 435 House member of it an estimated cost of $3,6 million.

Though the vote was close -- 204 to 195 -it was not close enough to preserve what's left of concress' credibility and integrity. As one who voted against it, I saw the issue less as a matter of money than as a further example of congressional arrogance, of Congressional insistence on taking care of its

CYCLING TO GOOD HEALTH Have you got a little money to invest in, your physical well-being?

Let's say $50 as a good round figure somewhere in the middle of the price bracket I'm thinking about. For that amount you can get a combination of steel, rubber and leather that moves on two wheels.

In short, a bicycle. This type of vehicle used to be considered strictly for kids. When the rest of us became old enough to hold a driver's license, we shifted over to a car, leaving the bike back in nostalgic memories of childhood.

Not anymore, People of retirement age are being advised to get more exercise. And an increasing number of doctors are telling their patients-to-try-cycling-to-good-health....

The bicycle is especially good for the circulatory system. Gives the heart sufficient exercise without too much strain, and keeps the blood flowing properly through the arteries

Many other physiological benefits could be mentioned. I'd like to stress the physiological aids. After cycling a few miles, I feel a lessening of tensions. My mind becomes clearer. Personal problems either come into better perspective, or else go into abeyance.

Obviously no retiree should try to pedal his way to health before consulting his physician. But granted a professional okay, almost anyone should be able to set a pace and a distance to suit him when he goes out for a ride. The exertion is at a .ninimum compared to most other forms of exercise. So is concentration. You simply keep your legs moving rhythmically up and down, and your body will react automatically to maintain its balance. How's that for obeying a waist-reducing regimen without thinking about it?

of Mental Health WHAT ARE THE "UF AND DOWN" DRUGS?

This is a nickname for two large families of drugs that we are all familiar with: the amphetamines and barbitu-

Amphetamines are the up irugs. They stimulate the brain and other parts of the central nervous system. Slang terms for them include: "pep pills," "bennies," and "bennies," pills, Barbiturates are 'down' drugs. They relax the central nervous system. Slang for them, particularly the faststarting, short-acting kinds of barbiturates, includes "barbs" and "goof balls."

What are the medical uses? Both stimulant and sedative drugs have definite medical uses. When properly employed under the direction of a physician, they can be invaluable as a part of his treatment for a number of conditions. But it must be remembered that they -- like any drugs-- must be taken as prescribed. The pa-tient should not attempt to set his own dosages, for example, by leaving off a pill or doubling up on the amount to be taken at one time.

Stimulants are now mainly prescribed for narcolepsy (overwhelming attacks of sleepiness), to control overweight by reducing one's appetite, to combat fatigue when this is desirable, and to fight depression by elevating mood.

Barbiturates are prescribed by doctors to help in the treatment of such conditions as high blood pressure, epilepsy, insomnia, and men-tal illnesses. Alone, or with other drugs, barbiturates are prescribed for many kinds of other conditons and illnesses. Everyone probably knows almost instinctively that these drugs can be hazardous to health and safety. But they are so familiar that we may be lulled into forgetting the definite dangers of misuse. The "up" drugs can drive a person to do things beyond his physical endurance and leave him exhausted. Heavy loses may cause a temporary toxic psychosis (mental derangement) which requires hospitalization. These drugs can lead to accidents and they can become psychologically addicting.

`Treasures and trifles' Items found in special collection

How would you like to see a rarecopy of the first book ever printed in New Jersey, or the only known copy of an important edition of one of the most influential books printed in 16th century Europe?

Or perhaps your taste runs to Civil War recruiting posters, or the records of the late Henry Wallace's Progressive Party in New York State? Old banquet menus and dance programs? Maybe pictures of one of the first electric chairs?

Or even_an account of the colorful career of Hezekiah Smith, the 10th century industrialist, politician, eccentric, and apparent bigamist who founded Smithville in Burlington County. All of these corious items, and thousands

New power plans free Sunfish Pond for state park uses

Sunfish Pond was formally deeded without charge to the state last week by Public Service Electric and Gas Company and Jersey (entral Cower and Light Company.

Governor Richard J. Unihes a cepted the deed at the State House as utility executives fulfilled a promise made earlier this year. With the gift of the 44-acre pond went 68 acres of surrounding woodland for a total of 112 acres. The pond was included in 715 acres near the Delaware Water Gap in Warren County which New Jersey sold in 1961. Since then the two utilities have built the Yards Creek pumpedstorage electric generating project on the tract. This facility produces 330,000 kilowatts of electricity by pumping water up Kittatinny Mountain at night when plenty of power is available. Each day when the demand is at its peak, the water is run down the mountain through a tunnel to turn turbines, making electricity. Prior plans had been announced for a similar project, using Sunfish Pond as an upper reservoir, creating an additional, much-needed 1.3-million kilowatts of power.

When opposition developed, the utilities offered a substitute plan which eliminated use of the pond and instead called for enlargement of the existing Yards Creek upper reservoir. Conservationists have expressed fear that the new facility would leak river water into Sunfish Pond, making it murky, and that con-struction would destroy the pond's wilderness setting.

Edwin H. Snyder, chairman of the board of Public Service, and Ralph F. Bovier, president of Jersey Central Power and Light Company, today gave these assurances:

1. There will be no seepage into Sunfish Pond. Engineers will design the new facility to

2. The wilderness setting will be preserved. Water tunnels, pumping-generating facilities, and transmission lines will be put underground. Conrad Wirth, former director of the National Park Service of the U.S. Department of Interior, has been retained by the utilities to direct landscaping work.

3. The Appalachian Trail will be maintained as it is today except for a small portion which will be relocated.

They also pointed out that the demand for electricity in New Jersey is growing at such a rate that by the year 2,000 an electrical system seven times as large as the present system will have to be in operation.

more, are to be found in the Special Collections of the Rutgers University Library here. Presiding over this intriguing collection is Donald A. Sinclair, a diminutive, cheerful, and astonishingly industrious scholar. He is also a man possessed of an apparently encyclopedic

NOTING THAT THE Special Collections was once described as "a communal attic of literary treasures and trifles," Sinclair acknowledged that this was a pretty good general

New Jersey material is a conspicious element of the collection. In fact, it is believed to be one of the largest collections of New Inreeyana in existence,

There are large collections of rare periodicals and newspapers, unofficial maps, broadsides, trade cards, old paper money, stocks and bonds, thousands of pictures, some of them "Id prints of New Jersey scenes,

OTHER LIFMS INCILIDE railroad timetables, lottery tickets, political campaign literature, labor union records, annual church procoedings and a large obligation of material on the history of slavery in New Jersey.

Sinclair emphasized in an interview at his office just inside the entrance to the library on College avenue that almost all of the materials in the Special Collections are gifts. Most of the items are presented directly by individuals or organizations. Others are purchased with private funds received for that purpose or derived from special funds established through past donations.

I wo of these collections are the Jack Kriendler Memorial Collection of manuscripts and autographed copies of books by well-known authors and the J. Alexander Symington Collection of English literary and historical items, chiefly from the late Victorian period.

Sinclair says that the most significant single item in the collection is the original of the ratification of the Constitution of the United States by the State of New Jersey, He makes that statement with the authority of one who knows whereof he speaks.

SINCLAIR BEGAN WORKING part-time at the Rutgers Library shortly after he entered Rutgers as a freshman in 1934 and has been working there most of the time ever since, except for time out for service in the army during World War Two.

He became curator of Special Collections in 1947.

Besides being instrumental in building up this notable collection, Sinclair has found time to compile a checklist on "The Negro and New Jersey," and edit the "New Jersey Historical Society Proceedings," "The Genealogical Magazine of New Jersey," and "A Bibliography:

The Civil War and New Jersey."
This last, published last year by the Friends of the Rutgers University Library for the New Jersey Civil War Centennial Commission, was a true labor of love. Some seven years in the making, it was compiled, written, edited, esigned and even proofread by Sinclair. And what is Sinclair's principal hobby?Col= lecting, naturally. Currently he is building a collection of Japanese swords.

Battlefield will become State Park Jersey unveils plans for Monmouth landmark

One of the Revolutionary War's most important battlefields, now registered as a National Historic Landmark and the site of the last major engagement in the northern colonies is slated for development into one of the nation's leading visitor attractions.

Plans for long-range development of the Monmouth Battlefield State Park were released last week by Robert A. Roe, New Jersey Commissioner of Conservation and Economic Development. Roe said that when completed, the park, would be an attraction on a par with national historic sites such as Saratoga and

Monmouth Battlefield, of special interest each Fourth of July, is located near the geo-graphical center of New Jersey and has special significance because of the presence in the battle of several of the most prominent figures in history - George Washington, Baron von Steuben, Sir Henry Clinton, Marquis Lafayette and Charles Lee -- all of whom were battlefield commanders. The Monmouth battle is only one of several actions which established New Jersey as the "cockpit" of the Revolution. The encounter between 13,000 troops of General Washington and British commander Clinton took place under the scorching sun in the fields and swamps near the Old Tennent Parsonage in Freehold on Sunday, June 28, 1778. Although disagreement persists over who actually won, the battle is credited with instilling a newborn confidence in American fighting men which may have turned the tide the Revolution.

The development of the historical park is one part of the recently announced proposal by Commissioner Roe for New Jersey's public outdoor recreational areas, which will require a capital financing program of $100 million. Of that amount, $25.5 million was recommended for the development of state parks and recreational facilities throughout New Jersey.

The proposal for Monmouth Battlefield State Historical Park recommends the expenditure of $4 million to raise the park's potential to accommodate 5,000 people on peak weekends. The battlefield site will consist of a 1,450acre tract upon completion of acquisition.

The master plan, based upon extensive historical research, proposes five logical development stages over an unspecified number of years. Major and related historic themes, such as the legend of Molly Pitcher, will guide the park's development and interpretive pro-

According to Roe, presentation of the battlescope scene will be the central theme of the park. According to the report, visitors will be introduced to the battlefield and its historical importance at a "Williamsburg-like" Visitor's Center which will be the principal architectural feature of the park. The site proposed for the center is atop Comb's Hill which was commanded during the battle by General Nathanael

Greene and his cannon battery.

After leaving the Visitor's Center a sixmile long, one-way tour road will guide visitors to various points of historic interest on the battlefield. The restoration of the historical setting along the tour route -- the reconstructed Old Tennent Parsonage and Hedgerow where the battle's fiercest fighting took place, the restored Craig House, Lord Sterling's Line Overlook - will be designed to create a sense of presence and understanding of the conditions ind actions of the battle.

The tour road will also provide access to the park's recreational areas which will have picnic grounds, equestrian center, bikeways, bridle path and hiking trails.

Following the battlefield tour, guests will be able to visit other points of interest in the park such as the Old Tennent Church and Molly Pitcher's spring and well. The Battle of Monmouth was immortalized by the legend of Molly Pitcher who typified the unsung heroines who suffered in the struggle for this Nation's independence, a conservation spokesman said.

Today, the site probably appears much as it did at the time of the battle. One structure, the old Craig House near U. S. Route 9, is known to have existed at the time of the battle. Three historical markets erected by local groups are found within the boundary of the Basic studies for the report, available to public agencies and area libraries, were pre-

Economic Development by Edwards and Kelcey, Inc., engineers and consultants. A historical review committee reviewed the historical aspects of the proposal.

The report urged that every effort be devoted to making June 28, 1978 the goal for full development of the Monmouth Battlefield State Historic Park. The bi-centennial anniversary of the Battle of Monmouth will be celebrated that day.

Located in Manalapan and Freehold Townships, the park is within an hour and one-half driving time from major population centers in the New Jersey, New York and Philadelphia metropolitan areas. U. S. Route 9 provides direct access from the north and N. J. Route 33 serves the park in an east-west direction.

Major and related historic themes comprising the story of Monmouth Battlefield were established by historic research and serve as the basis for planning Park development and interpretation programs.

A minor but relevant historic theme of the Park will be New Jersey's contribution of men and ideas to the cause of Independence and other sites associated with the Revolution throughout the State.

A brief treatment of the socio-economic and political background of the Revolution will be offered as a means of understanding the war and the Battle of Monmouth in perspective.

The strategy and tactics of the Battle of Monmouth and its significance in the War of Independence will form the major historic theme of development and interpretive programs for the park.

Personalities associated with the battle represent the second central historic theme. The focus of this theme will be the major commanders of both American and British forces who directed the course of events here on June 28, 1778. A characterization of the man in the ranks and the Legend of Molly Pitcher, one of the more famous folktales of American history, will be presented as sub-themes of popular interest to the visitors and the historic mood of the Park,

Military tools, techniques and organization represent an important theme and would be presented as a backdrop for both the order of the battle and the men involved.

Technical agency provides speakers on new research

The New Jersey State Technical Services Office recently established a speakers bureau for the purpose of describing the program for securing the latest technical and scientific information for New Jersey's business and industrial enterprises, it was announced recently by l'eter Blake, director of New Jersey State Lechnical Services.

The director and members of his staff will appear before educational, civic, service, industrial and social organizations to reveal the aims and objectives of the Federal Govern-"State Lechnical Services Act of 1965" which was designed to make available to the nation's private industry research and technical information from the government's $15 billion per year national research and development proceims.

Rules for deer records Hunters' procedures listed records of deer were announced this week by Commissioner Robert A. Ros of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Antler measuring stations will be set up for two days this summer for official scoring of trophy racks. It is hoped that these will be sufficient to accommodate any hunters whose deer may qualify.

The Boone and Crockett measuring system will be used, by special permission of the Boone and Crockett Club, holders of the copyright. State Wildlife Biologist Robert Lund and public information assistant Robert MacDowell of the Division of Fish and Game have received training in applying this, the

A certificate from the Boone and Crockett Club, including score, weapon and New Jersey origin of the deer will be accepted in lieu of further measurement. Such evidence or photostatic copy should be sent to the Division of Fish and Game, Box 1809, Trenton, 08625, by July 14. Hunters who believe they may have a trophy deer but cannot attend either measuring session should write promptly to Robert MacDowell at the above address. Arrangements will be made for either additional open sessions if demand is great or private measurement. The Division of Fish and Game and the State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs want to measure all possible entries to insure an authentic record, Trophies will be awarded at the 1970 Federation Convention. Elizabeth police officers who work with Danny in PAL are rooting for him.

"He's a natural with kids," said one officer, "they flock to him."

A PET PROJECT of Danny's for the past two years has been the annual Easter Party he's hosted for handicapped and underprivileged children. With a mind that is forever jumping ahead to the next step, Danny said the idea came to him when he was helping out at a Christmas Party for the underprivileged. As he helped distribute gifts, he asked himself,

'What do we have for these kids at Easter.'
He started working on the project in January and enlisted the help and support of individuals, organizations and industry with the net result that Easter for the past two years has been a Little Christmas for scores of needy children.

Sculpture from Africa exhibited in New York

NEW YORK CITY - An asthe objects included in the Gallery exhibit express the sortment of some 80 pieces of African Niger Basin sculpture from the private collection of Moussa Leo Keita, ambassador to the United States from Mali, is now being exhibited at the Gallery of Modern Art, Columbus Circle, through Aug. 27. The collection, each piece characteristic of the area from which it comes, consits of male and female figures, masks, helmet masks, animals, birds, headpieces, marionettes, musical instruments and household items. Except for exhibits at the Department of State and the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, the ampassador 's collection has never before heen shown in this country.

aesthetic, religious and social values of the tribes. The mythological, ancestral, anirepresentations -- any elements of the ancient tribal culture---vary in interpretation, workmanship and detail not only from one people to another but within each tribe. In the pieces from the Bambara people of Mali the Chi-Warn, a legendary being part human, part snake and part antelope who taught the Bamhara to plant, cultivate and harvest their grain, is depicted in over 10 works, each with a variation in execution. The gazelle, or antelope, which figures frequently in both the Bambara and Senufu Like all pure African art, groups (the Senufu inhabit the northern part of the Ivory Coast), especially in Chi-Wara depictions, is the official seal of the republic of Mali. A headplece, mask, flute and equestrian figure, all carved of wood, constitute a group from the Dogon tribe of Mali.

The exhibit includes items designed for household use (bowls, ladles), for play and leisure (dolls, musical instruments), for rites and ceremonies (masks, staffs, axes, headpieces), and as decorative, aesthetic objects.

Dear Amy:

Who has given you the right to stand over people in judyment of their morality. You seem to have a thing about imposing your own moral views on others, I or instance, the young lady who asked for your help, and stipulated that you were the only one she could turn to. She was asking for information on birth control pills. Are you aware of number of illegitimate births that occur in this country every year and the streethey place on the family, state, and local agencies that must care for their future" Do you feel it is better to allow these births to occur ' They do continue to occur, even though people like you are constantly mouthing off about the pill not being for the single woman.

Your saying so isn't stopping these women from having "relations" and I am sure that a woman with your ideal home life knows why.

The United States is made of millions of people who live according to their conscience. YOU cannot allow your religious background or family upbringing to interfere with the objectivity which must be present in your advice to your fellow-human being.

Anon.

Dear Amy: Your reply to a letter in one of your columns made mefeel so angry that if you had been at hand, I would have jumped on you . . . literally!

The reply was to a 21 year old girl who is going steady and wanted information about how to obtain the "pill," You said, "There are ways to obtain the pill, however, I choose not to supply you with the information because I will not be a party to your immorality.

How smug you are. With those words you became a party to a far greater sin than one of immorality, You're party to the sin of inhumanity.

Keeping birth control information from this girl is not going to save her from the power of love and her sex drive. And neither will the guilt you dumped on her. However, it will accomplish one thing-punishment by an unwanted pregnancy.

Will this satisfy your morality? If it does, I pray to God that it doesn't satisfy your conscience.

RELIGION AND YOU "I used to go to church once in a while, but I found that religion does nothing for me, so I don't go any more.'' Have you ever heard some-one make this statement? If so, were you able to explain why this particular individual did not find the proper inspiration for life on at least one of the occasions on which he attended church?

There is no answer for you to give. There is, instead, a question: "What did you give, other than a few minutes of your time?"

Religion is more than going to church once in a while to receive a handful of grace or a new outlook on life. Religion, whatever denomination it may be, is constant, is a seven-day-a-week manner of exis-

The life of Christ upon earth set for man the perfect example. It is true enough that man cannot be perfect; for he must contend with the frailties of human nature. Yet it is established that the teachings of Christ provide the guide lines for successful living. The man who wants to "get something" out of religion can do so only by leading a proper life.

Officers installed by county society at luncheon event

- Thursday July 10, 1969-

An installation of officers for the 1969-70 season was held at a luncheon held in May at the Lynn Restaurant by the Auxiliary to the Union County Osteopathic Society.

Mrs. Michael Sutula of Union acted as mistress of ceremonies.

The installing officer was Mrs. Charles Luxton, president of the Auxiliary to the New Jersey Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

Guest speaker was Dr. David Steinbaum, who spoke on the new state scholarship program initiated this year for students entering osteopathic medical colleges from New Jersey; the funds are being raised jointly by the New Jersey Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons and the State Auxiliary and its affiliates, of which this Union County Auxiliary is a member.

The Union County Auxiliary recently completed its pledge, with the final payment of $1,000 at its recent Charity Ball at the Manor in West Orange, to the Memorial General Hos-

FOR THE BIRDS

By FARRIS S. SWACKHAMER, professor, Union Junior College

Nowhere in the United States is birding as spectacular as in New Jersey. Of the 650 or so species that have been tallied within the continental limits of our country, about 400 may be seen there. Close to half this number have been known to breed within the state and the rest pay us a visit during spring or fall mi-gration. Almost all can be found at one time or another within a few miles of the Garden State Parkway which runs from the northern border to the tip of Cape May,

Dr. Olin Sewall Pettingill Jr., in "A Guide to Bird Finding East of the Mississippi," writes, "In no other place in North America is the fall migration more spectacular than in New Jersey. From late July, when shore birds begin to collect on long Beach, and August, when the tree swallows assembly in droves at Cape May, to November, when legions of brant make their appearance in Barnegat Bay, there are avian congregations of amazing proportions. To watch their mass movements and tireless activities is to acquire new and lasting impressions of migration behavior.

Driving from the New York State border south along the Parkway you'll pass through distinct variations in physio-graphical conditions. North of an imaginary linedrawn from I renton to South Amboy are many rocky ridges, low mountains and lakes, In contrast, southern New Jersey has extensive sandy plains and, in the central interior, along the Mullica and Wading Rivers are the famous pine barrens, Thus you'll pass through a variety of avian habitets where a rich diversity of species raise a family or simply stop for a picnic lunch entoure to the Arctic in the spring or South America in fall.

No birding trip along the Parkway would be complete without a visit to the headquarters of the New Jersey Audubon Society, 790 Ewing ave., Franklin Lakes, The headquarters is on the grounds of the Lucine L. Lorrimer Sanctuary where you may wander along nature trails any time of the year. The genial ex-ecutive director of the society, Frank W. Mc-Laughlin, or his able staff will brief you on the high spots of the season. There is a nature museum there and if you don't have a hird guide, there is a shop where you can pick one up. I ine binoculars and scopes are also available for sale. The headquarters' hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5p.m. It is closed Thursdays and all holidays.

A little further south, about three miles west of the Parkway, is Fagle Rock Reservation perched on a ridge of the Watching Mountains. In the spring and fall there is an impressive parade of hawks along this ridge. There are days in the fall when as many as 3,500 hawks can be seen, a number of them rare species. The Montclair Bird Club mans a hawk watch during the last three weeks of September. They report that the numbers of ospreys is diminishing sharply and it is a rare occasion when either a golden or bald eagle is spotted. Next month we'll travel a little further south.

Hospital trains nurses' aides under federal grant program

Eleven employees of Memorial General Hospital, Five Points, Union, have begun a 12week in - service training program aimed at qualifying them to serve as nurses aides. Three of the women participants have been with the hospital for some time, while eight were recently hired specifically for the pro-

Joseph Loudermilk, assistant to the administrator, is coordinating the program, which is a cooperative venture of the Hospital Research and Educational Trust of New Jersey, the United States Department of Labor-Bureau of Works Training, and the New Jersey Employment Service.

The hospital occupation training program (HOI) has been undertaken to promote the recruitment, training and employment of some 3,500 persons in health occupations, such as nursing aides, dietary aides, housekeeping aides, ward cleaks, surgical technicians, psychiatric aides, pharmacy helpers and other categories to be determined by need.

The program is financed by a $770,000 two-year contract negotiated by the Department of Labor and the Hospital Research and I ducational Trust of New Jersey, research arm of the New Jersey Hospital Association.

Mrs. Elizabeth Frederick, RN, the inservice training director at Memorial General Hospital, is handling the instruction. Training support is also provided by Miss Dorothy Messeka of South River, a field worker for the NJHA.

Each participant spends the equivalent of one day a week attending classroom lectures devoted to proper procedures for patient care. The remaining 80 percent of the time is

'Super star' Barbra shines in role of 'super star' Brice

After viewing the fabulous Barbra Streisand in the sensational musical motion picture version of the Broadway hit, "Tunny Girl" at the Gommunity Theater in Moreistown, one can understand why that "super-star" won an Oscar for "Best Actress of the Year" (even if she did have to share the honors with Katharine Hepburn).

\[\s \text{Fannie Brice, a "super-star" in her own time, Miss Streisand is superb. The own time, Miss Streisand is superb. latter's unusual features sort of grow on a viewer so that by the end of the lenghty movie, she seems "almost beautiful." And it is almost as if the lannie Brice story was pressly written for Miss Streisand.

THIS IS HER first movie, but Miss Streisand is so at home in the title role, that a viewer might believe that she's been around the movies for a long time. This is primarily due to the fact that Miss Streisand originated the role on

The William Wyler-Ray Stark production for oplumbia Pictures in Technicolor and Panavision was brought to the screen by Stark, who produced "Tunny Cirl" on the stage; (the is manifed to bances Brice, Miss Brice's daughter); Isobel Lennart, who wrote the book for the stage production also wrote the screenplay for the film. Herb Roes, a talanted young choreographer, created the dances and directed the musical numbers for the film yersion of "Lunny Girl," Jule Styne composed the songs, and Bob Merrill wrote the lyrics. Styne and Merrill wrote the unforgettable numbers, "My Man," "Second Hand Rose,"

"I'd Rather Be Blue," and added three numbers to the picture, "You're Vlumy Carl," "The Swan," and "Roller Skate Rag," The three songs enhance the moods of the various scence and are a credit to "I unny Girl,"

OMAR SHARIL, who is nice to look at, is terribly miscast as Lannie Brice's playboycambler husband, Nick Arnstein, and one has to sort of accept him with a grain of salt, Kay Medford, as Miss Brice's mother, plays her comedic roles with a straight face, and her performance is worth the price of admission. She is, in fact, absolutely priceless.

Another noteworthy performance is that of Walter Pidgeon as Florenz Ziegfeld, who underplays his role with finess. Anne Francis is seen intermittently, and she is still nice

'Wild Ones' don't have monopoly on U.S. motorcycling

Motorcycling has become an enormously popular way of transportation and recreation in this country; and as a result, its growth has been extremely rapid. In 1956, motorcycling registration in the U.S. totaled 425,000; the number is expected to reach almost three

Long regarded as dangerous and flamboyant, motorcycling, as practiced by most drivers today who are not of the "black jacket" type, is realizing a far better image than With the beginning of spring, however, der ... precaustions should be recognized by cyclists for safe and pleasurable driving. Among the most important of these according to the Safety Department of Motor Club of America are:

Care in making turns: Since a cyclist, in most instances, cannot use turn signals as he is already using both his hards and feet, he must turn dowly enough so that motorists approaching or fellowing will be iware of his intention to turn, and he must be certain that his vehicle does not push him into making turn too fast for conditions.

The size of the cycle must also be taken into consideration. Cars and trucks entering intersections are generally looking for other large vehicles and pedestrians. They often fail to notice cyclists because they are so small, The experienced cyclist knows that many times other motorists simply may not realize that be is there. Care must therefore be taken at intersections, when following another vehicle where multiple lanes exist, and when riding along the extreme right into the roadway.

Since the braking ability of bikes is below that of cars, drivers should use the rear brake for normal and fast stop s with only a secondary braking on the front wheel. This will word skids and still leave stopping

Another precautionary technique in cycling is the need to be careful of vehicles in front. A truck hauling gravel or one with a tailgate or side racks can prove to be particularly dan-

Most important, cyclists must realize that he is at the mercy of other drivers. Hot-roding, unnecessary speed or carelessness can be dnagerous both to cyclists as well as to motorists. Cycling is fun, it's exciting and it has become an acceptable form of transportation. There is a real thrill in riding along the road on a machine of which you are a part, but this thrill must also be tempered with safe operational judgement.

State will help Model Cities determine educational needs cation has signed a $200,000 contract with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to provide technical assistance to nine Model Offics. The purposes of the project are to demonstrate the capability of a state department of education to respond to Model Cities' needs and to document the process by which a state agency moves toward responding to these

Under the contract, the State Department of Education will assist educational planning in Atlantic City, East Orange, Hoboken, Jersey City, Newark, Paterson, Perth Amboy, Plainfield, and Trenton,

The contract became effective June 30 when signed by George M. Romney, HUD secretary, and Carl L. Marburger, state commissioner of education.

Assistant Education Commissioner Stanley Salett, director of the division of research, planning and evaluation, will serve as project director. J. Gerald Fitzgibbon of the Department of Education has been named project coordinator.

THE CONTRACT BETWEEN HUD and New lersey is the only one of its kind in the national implications. It is anticipated that a committee of school officers from in han states will be formed to serve in an advisory capacity. Under the terms of the accoment, the State Department of Education will furnish all the necessary professional and technical personnel as well as elerical sorvices, materials, equipment and facilities. Direct staff assistance will be given the cities to analyze their problems, set goals and to develop strategies for achieving these goals.

The education department will also advise the cities on educational innovations, assess research needs, identify possible funding sources for education projects, assist in preparation of proposals and applications for funds and develop a priority system to insure prompt action.

Among other aims of the State Department of Education will be to encourage the involvement of teachers, students, administrators and city residents in the planning of educational programs.

The department will evaluate effectiveness of the technical assistance program and will make available reports which may be of value

Three-year pact with union signed by N.J. Symphony

The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra and Local 16, American Federation of Musicians, will be in tune for the next three years.

Local 16's executive committee and the s board of trustees have ratified an agreement which, for the first time, establishes a season of activity during which the orchestra members are engaged on a salary basis. Previously the orchestra had operated on a 'club date" basis, in which the musicians were engaged on a concert-by-concert bases.

The contract will extend through September 1972, helping build the orchestra as a cultural institution of first-rate importance nationally. inder the new contract, members will earn each year substantially more than they remixed previously.

I ocal 16 and the members of the orchestra. in turn, agreed that the music director of the Symphony will continue to have the responsibility to determine qualifications for mem-

New high reported in assets, deposits

The Howard Savings Institution, the largest mutual savings bank in New Jersey, had assets of $906,893,510, and deposits of $930,328,351, at mid-year, according to John W. Vicco.

mesident. Both the assets and deposits represented new highs. Respective figures for the same period a year ago were $863,015,498, and

Although the savings industry's mid-year figures are not yet available, those for the end of May showed The Howard deposits up 2.03 per cent as compared to an .87 per cent gain reported by the 15 largest New York Ciry

Kress reported that $4 million of the total savings belongs to approximately 1(0,000 school children from 154 public and parochial schools in the greater Issex County area.

The mid-year report also showed that the bank's mortgage portfolio of 41,999 loans now totaled $620,587,655, up 853 and $31,-377,185, over the previous year, Kress said that all The Howard's mortgages are on New Jersey properties. Additional Howard assets reported were United States, state and municipal government obligations of $74,040,330, other bonds and stocks totaling $174,337,796., cash and bank deposits of $12,002,982, and other assets of $25,924,747. "This represents a favorable financial report;" said Mr. Kress, "despite the tight money situation.'

The Howard Savings Institution is also the sixteenth largest in the nation and 23rd among all savings banks in the free world. It has offices in Newark, South Orange, Irvington and bership in the orchestra. At the same time. fair auditioning procedures have been established, as well as protection for tenured members of the orchestra through the creation of a review committee, to be known as the ProfessionalStandards Committee.

The management has agreed to insure that members of Local 16, wherever qualified, will be given first preference for membership in

Specifically, the three year contract proudes for the following:

1. During the first year, a season of 18 weeks, during which orchestra members will receive a minimum salary of $145 a week in return for seven services each week, (Services are defined as any session of the orchestra, whether a concert, ballet or choral per

In addition, the contract calls for extra compensation for overtime or services beyond the prescribed seven per week, and for travel and food allowances. It also provides for more definite scheduling of orchestra activities than has becomed previously, and for terms cover me the rebroadcast of concerts or portions of concerts on television or radio.

Cahill backs move for referendum OK of lower voting age

Roger Jacobs of Union, chairman of the New Jersey State Committee of Let Us Vote (I UV), announced this week that Rep. William l. Cahill, Republican candidate for governor, has endorsed the organization's goal and pledged to be "helpful in any way" he posstbly could.

LL'V is seeking support for a "yes" vote on the referendum in the November election to lower the voting age to IS in New Jersey. Members of LUV are seeking contributions and endorsements from civic and political organizations, private citizens, public officials, and the candidates of both major permis in the November election. In a letter to Jacobs, Cahill stated: "I strongly support affirmative action on the referendent which will lower the voting are to 18 in New Jersey." Califf added that "the Republican party platform also code see this approach.

Jacobs had already receives a promise of support from the Democratic candidate for governor, former Gov. Robert Meyner, who said he would do all be could 'to encourage the electorate to rate from only an lowering

-Thursday July 10, 1969-TV host will lead bowlers to get strikes for Heart Fund

Heart Bowling Week was sponsored jointly by the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America and the American Heart Association. Entry fees received during the week are contributed by the lane owners to support programs of cardiovascular research, education and community service to cope with the nation's number one health problem.

This year, under auspices of the National Bowling Council, sponsorship has been expanded to include the American Bowling Congress, official organization of the nation's male league bowlers; Woman's International Bowling Congress, representing the nation's female bowlers; and American Machine and Foundry Company and the Brunswick Corporation, the nation's two major bowling equipment firms.

Under this new arrangement, some 40 million bowlers who patronize the nation's approximately 9,000 establishments become potential supporters of the slogan: "Bowl: Strike Out Heart Disease," Officially, Heart Bowling Week will run Nov. 15 to 21, but local Heart Associations and lane owners have the option to schedule it at a time most convenient for their areas.

Network television's new-est personality has succeed-TV's must durable star as a promoter of bowling on behalf of the Heart Fund, according to Dr. Thomas M. McMillan III, president of the New Jersey Heart Associa-

Dick Cavett, who recently began his own variety-talk show on ABC-TV's nighttime schedule, has been named national chairman of Heart Bowling Week, which again will be held across the country in November. In this post, Cavett follows Ed Sullivan, a CBS mainstay for more than 20 years, who was national chairman in 1967 and 1968. Earlier chairmen were Ray Bolger and George Gobel.
