THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1969 MOUNTAINSIDE, N.J.

Cooper was the hostess at a tea given recently for the local candidates, at which Mrs. Robert Meyner was the guest of honor. Both she and former Gov. Meyner, the gubernatorial candidate, will be guests at the champagne party set for Sept. 13.

Woman named by Dems to run for councilmen

A new candidate for Borough Council is always news, but this week's announcement that Mrs. Thomas (Beth) Loftus was replacing Arthur M. Goldberg on the slate of the Mountainside Democratic Party was novel indeed. according to a party spokesman. According to the best memories of the borough's oldest political observers, there has not been a woman candidate for Borough Council since worid war IL The announcement of Mrs. Loftus' candidancy was made by R. Horace Cardoni, chairman of the Mountainside Independent Demo-cratic Party. Cardoni said: "We believe that the important role of women, especially housewives, in our Mountainside community deserves recognition by virtue of representation on our Borough Council.

"Beth Loftus is highly qualified to represent both our community and a constituency not seen before on Borough Council." Mrs. Loftus' running mate is John H. Palmer Jr. on the Democratic ticket headed by mayoralty candidate John Walsh.

Mrs. Loftus was born Beth Greeley in Union. In 1953 she graduated from Mount St. Mary's Academy, North Plainfield. She re-ceived her bachelor of arts degree as an English major in 1957 from Immaculata College. Immaculata, Pa.

Candidate Loftus' post-graduate years included public relations projects for the Polio Foundation (now called the National Foundation) and seven years as a reporter with various departments of the New York Times. During her last two years at the Times. one of her major assignments was assisting the coverage of the activities of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

On Jan. 8, 1966, she married Thomas Loftus of Mountainside, a widower with eight children. In 1968, Mrs. Loftus gave birth to Elizabeth Clark Loftus. Prior to her accepting the nomination by the Democratic Party for Borough Council, it is understood that the Loftus family council caucused and voted approval of her action.

It was also announced that Arthur M. Goldberg had withdrawn from this fall's election because of pressing personal business.

Local police get Army deserter

A Garwood man, having been apprehended by the Mountainside police for suspicious activity behind the Mine Safety Appliance Co., on Globe avenue, was released to the Armed Forces Police, New York, after he revealed himself to be an Army deserter, the local department reported.

The man, Joseph A. Schnauffer, confessed to having deserted from the 76th heavy equipment maintenance division at Fort Knox, Ky.,

At 10:45 a.m. on Monday, Patrolman Joseph Pires of the Mountainside police received a call for assistance from Officer William Ayres in apprehending a man running behind the appliance firm, Upon arrival, Pires saw the man in question attempting to hide behind some shrubbery in front of Bestway Products. The two officers successfully apprehended the man and took him to police headquarters for questioning. He later identified himself as an Army deserter, Detective Lieutenant James Herrick notified the Armed Forces Police and the FBI, who are handling the case,

Mayor backs proposal for a new-Borough Hall

Mayor Frederick J. Wilhelms this week outlines plans to use the Echobrook School building as the new Borough Hall and police headquarters and to provide recreation and social center.

The Board of Education last month announced that a $747,000 construction bond issue will be presented to the voters in a referendum Oct. 14. The funds will be used to build an addition the Deerfield School in order to terminate all school uses at Echobrook, which is regarded as outmoded by modern educational standards.

Mayor Wilhelms declared, in calling for approval of the bond issue:
"The recent announcement by the Mountainside Board of Education to conduct a referendum on Oct. 14 for facilities to replace Echobrook School is the result of much study and discussion, separately and jointly, by the Board of Education and by Borough Council.

"It is our hope that this proposal will gain the approval of our residents for it will permit the community to correct three very pressing and serious needs. First, it will eliminate the educational function of Echobrook School, a move long felt necessary from educational, operational and safety standpoints. Second, it will eliminate the present Borough Hall and police station which are hopelessly inadequate and beyond reasonable reclamation and continued use. Third, it could provide a community recreation and social

OUR EXAMINATION has shown that the 1936 building at Echobrook School will be adequate for Borough Hall and Police Department facilities for at least 30 years. Its continuance as a school building has long been questioned and as modern instructional programs are adopted its inadequacies become more apparent and costly.

"The 1904 building at Echobrook would continue to serve as offices for the Board of Education until they move to their new quarters, when it could be converted for ossible use as a recreation and social center for all age groups.

'The 1936 building will require moderate alteration to suit it for Borough Hall and Police Department use. The building is structurally sound, is centrally located and has ample parking available. Borough business offices can be accomodated in the existing classrooms with minor modifications. All borough boards and agencies now without even desk space and storage room can all be housed under one roof. The problems of insufficient heat in winter, lack of storage space, overcrowding, inefficient facilities and oor-parking-will-be-solved-by-this-proposal.-

'The functions of the Police Department will be vastly improved under this plan. For many years police activities have been seriously hampered by lack of space. We have no interrogation, photographic, workroom or storage space. One small room now serves as boiler room, locker room, file and record room and houses teletype and other equip-

'Our one-cell lockup is considerably below State of New Jersey standards and when inuse prevents our detective bureau from operating. It is a source of annual complaint by the State Department of Institutions and Agencies.

"BY CONVERTING the gymnasium at Echobrook to a public meeting hall, we will be able to conduct public meetings of Borough Council in Borough Hall rather than in school buildings. All borough boards will be able to use this meeting room with greater convenience and comfort for the public. Our magistrate's court sessions will also be

Meeting set for 8 p.m. at Beechwood

PR man says drive gaining momentum A large crowd is expected to be on hand

Monday night at 8 p.m. in Beechwood School as the Citizens to Preserve Mountainside

The borough-wide committee was formed earlier this summer to combat plans by the state Department of Transportation to construct an overpass across Rt. 22 at New Providence road and build a cloverleaf interchange at the intersection.

An executive committee meeting was being held last night at the Public Library to prepare for Monday night's meeting.

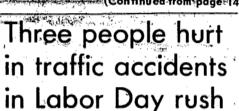

Since Monday, Aug. 18, the committee's fund drive has been conducted in the borough and along with the solicitation of funds for the operation of the committee a brochure, Not All Four-Leaf Clovers Bring Good Luck, has been distributed.

Bill Cullen, public relations chairman, said this week that the brochure has met with excellent response and therein lies the reason committee members anticipate an excellent

THE BROCHURE "really drives home what is contemplated in the borough" by the Department of Transporation, Cullen said this week. He added that many persons who weren't aware of the plans of the highway department have been enlightened by the brochure and will be attending a meeting of the CTPM for the first time Monday night.

The largest crowd to attend the four meetings o far of the CTPM was on Tuesday, June 24, when an overflow audience of more than 200 residents jammed Beechwood School.

That night, Ed Kuebler, an attorney, was elected chairman of the group. Kuebler had been a member of the ad hoc committee of five men, set up by Mayor Frederick Wilhelms Jr. to go to Trenton to meet with Department of Transportation officials to discuss the plans

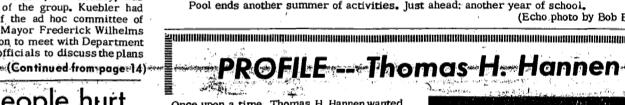

Three persons were injured as a result of traffic accidents on Rt. 22, Mountainside, this past Labor Day weekend.

Among those injured were Juanita Johnson, who were taken to Overlook Hospital in Summit by the Mountainside Rescue Squad on Sunday morning. Both injured were reported in satisfactory condition, having been treated for face lacerations; Juanta Johnson was also treated for fractured ribs. Police said that Mrs. Johnson, driver of the car, collided with a utility pole, after accidently steering the car slightly to the right of the road and directly into the curb. The accident occurred on Rt. 22 east, near the Parkway exit.

Herbert L. Hart, 21, of Springfield sustained minor cuts and bruises when his car collided with a car driven by Fausto Berrocal, 18, of Amsterdam, N.Y. on Tuesday morning. Police said that the accident occurred on the eastbound lane of Rt. 22 in Mountainside, when the vehicle driven by Berrocal cut in front of Hart, with a subsequent collision, Berrocal and the passenger in his car, Defonso Munoz, 47, of Summit, suffered no visible

A two-car collision occurred at the intersection of Route 22 east and Mountain ave. Scotch Plains, A vehicle driven by Robert J. Brannon, according to the police report, pulled out onto the highway from Mountain ave., and skidded upon acceleration into the center land, subsequently crashing into the center divider, and hitting a car driven by Paul Schlenk of Middlesex, Neither driver suffered any visible injuries. The accident occurred on Tuesday morning.

SEASON'S END - Russell Heitmann heads down the last mile as Mountainside Community

Once upon a time, Thomas H. Hannen wanted to make headlines as a journalist; now he's hoping to make them by getting himself elected an Assemblyman from Union County's district 9C. Hannen, who is serving his third term as mayor of tiny Winfield Township, is bracketed with John F. Allaire Jr. of Clarkasthe Democratic entry this fall. The Democratic duo faces a pair of Republican incumbents-Peter Mc-Donough of Plainfield and Herbert Keihn of Rahway. Hannen assesses his chances as 50 - 50, but he's confident that momentum will the balance in the Democrats' as the Nov. 4 election approaches.

The 46-year-old Hannen is a plastic extrusion engineer for Ronthor-Reiss in Little Falls. However, as a young man he had hoped to become a journalist. He completed three years at the University of Notre Dame before illness in the family forced him to quit college.

Hannen regards education and taxes as the biggest issues in the current campaign. He maintains that there should be more emphasis on technical education in the high schools. "After all," he remarks, "everybody isn't college material. We still need mechanics, plumbers and other types of craftsmen, and the place to start training them is in high

ALTHOUGH THE LEGISLATURE last year produced a law giving each community a share of the sales tax revenues, Hannen regards this as a stop-gap measure. "It just isn't enough. Sure, it helped somewhat, But local property taxes have climbed so high that they've offset this aid." For a candidate, Hannen takes a surprisingly non-partisan view in ascribing blame for this situation. "I don't know who's at fault. It's simply a problem we face."

Hannen advocates the convocation of a convention to review every aspect of the state's tax problems. "We should come up with a new broad-based tax," he says, adding that he favors an income tax that would eliminate the sales tax levy and bring in more revenues. "I say this because I see people like my mother who live on limited incomes. She has to pay the same tax on her purchases as the person making $25,000 a year."

As other revenue-raising devices, Hannen favors a state lottery and an extension of the racing season in New Jersey. He also looks to Washington for increased aid to the states. Hannen believes that New Jersey has fallen far behind its sister states on road construction because it hadn't been able to come up with its share of the costs of interstate highway

A STRONG EXPONENT of representative government, Hannen regards suggestions that new tax measures be subject to referendum as an abdication of authority, 'I don't believe in referendum government," he asserts, 'If people are elected, they're chosen to do a job. It's the responsibility of legislators to represent their districts." He also notes that prospects for passage of any tax referenda are rather slim in view of New Jerseyans' traditional aversion to taxes in general.

As mayor of a community in an area that was hit particularly hard by floods last summer, Hannen is conscious of the water problem. He believes the state should do more for victims of flood damage.

Hannen was born in Detroit and moved to Williamsport, Pa., as a teenager. He completed high school in the north-central Pennsylvania community and went on to attend Lycoming Junior College before transfering to Notre Dame. When family illness forced him to forsake his journalism studies, he went to work. He moved with his family to Winfield during World War II, when the community was built by the federal government to house shipyard workers: The bespectacled Hannen survived five pre-induction physicals during the war and was rejected by all four branches of service because of poor eyesight. But in 1948, he passed a selective service physical given to the first crop of peactime draftees. Incredulous at first, he settled down for a two-year stint at Fort Totten, Staten Island, The Army made him a machinist assigned to the medical corps. "Figure that one out," he chuckles. Actually, Hannen was assigned to a special project aimed at developing a compact field hospital that could be pushed out of a plane and put into operation immediately.

BEFORE RECEIVING his greetings from Uncle Sam, Hannen had been a policeman in Winfield, After service, he went back into industry. It was while working at Singer's in Elizabeth that he began getting involved in politics through his trade union activities. Hannen was active in the CIO's Political Action Committee, a group that has since been re-named the Committee on Political Education. He explained that he gravitated from there into local politics and ran for the Town-ship Committee in Winfield six years ago. Hannen served as mayor of the community in 1966 and 1967 and again this year. Concomitant with his Assembly candidacy, Hannen is also bidding for a third term on his local governing body. The commitment to run for Township Committee was made a month before I got into the Assembly race."

Although Winfield, with a population well under 3,000, might not ordinarily be regarded as a strong political base, Hannen believss that he has broadened the scope of his activities enough to make himself fairly well known

Moreover, he believes that being a mayor has given him an insight into the fiscal problems faced by communities. It has also reinforced his conviction that the state should provide more financial aid to municipalities.

Hannen has been married for 15 years to the former Eva Petrinka. He met his wife while she was visiting her brother in Winfield. They have two children, Thomas Jr., 13, and

In addition to his political work. Hannen has been active in the Boy Scouts. He is a member of the Moose and St. John the Apostle Church in Clark.

MCP overwhelms Hillside, 159-73; season awards to to Donna and Don

The last week of the Mountainside Community Pool swim team summer schedule got off to a fine start when MCP journeyed to the Hillside Swim Club in Staten Island for the last dual meet of the season, MCP proved to be the stronger team once again, beating Hillside for the second time this year. The final score of the meet was Hillside, 73, MCP, 159.

Saturday, the holiday weekend started with fun for all the Mountainside youngsters. The house championships were held at the pool, and there were two separate divisions for novices and champions, to offer all interested swimmers a chance at a ribbon.

At the close of the day's events, Coach Barry Bistis presented awards to the outstanding boy and girl team members in the fields of sportsmanship, cooperation, and competi-tiveness. A permanent plaque with their names engraved will stay at the pool, and they each received a trophy to take with them. The two winners for this year were Donna Bieszczak and Don Wagner. Certificates of achievement were also presented to all the members of the

School principals visit two-year-old Pennsylvania high

- Members of the administrative staff of the Union County Regional High School District and the Board of Education, are continuing to look at the latest in school construction and facilities to help them in their own plan-

The latest visit was to the two-year-old Coatesville Area Senior High School in Coatesville, Pa., where they toured the school's instruction materials center and other facilities.

Accompanying Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent of Schools, were Robert E. Hough, principal of Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School; John L. Dixey, principal of David Brearley Regional High School, and Robert La Vanture, principal of Jonathan Dayton Re-Brearley Regional High School, and Robert "La Vanture, principal of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School."

Also, Lewis B. Fredericks, assistant super-intendent for business; Dr. Martin Siegel, director of instruction; school board members Dr. Fred B. Hagedorn and Mrs. Natalie Waldt, and Robert Miller of Elsasser and Miller, the board's architects.

Similar visits have been made to high schools on Long Island. Other inspection tours are planned in the near future, including one to a model high school in Orfield, Pa.

Letters to Editor

LAND SCARCE

After some 32 years on the Board of Education in the borough of Mountainside, thaving experienced the problem of obtaining school sites in the past, Echobrook was voted down several times and finally bought piece by piece, which greatly added to its expense. Deerfield was bought in the same way, piece by piece, built upon, altered and expanded and at this time is practically ground

Beechwood was purchased piece by piece and is about up to its capacity now, ground-

There are no sites available in the borough for future use. Therefore no property belonging to the Board of Education should be released, exchanged or disposed of. It is more valuable to the Board of Education to be used and added to as there is space available, and the school was designed for an additional wing.

As regards borough needs for the council or municipality, it is up to them to locate a site and it would not be economical for the Board of Education to release this property to them.

It would be more practical if Echobrook is to be disposed of to advertise and realize its full value and reduce the amount of indebtedness that would be created by the bond issue. Therefore, vote No on the referendum

Patient relations are closer staff playing bingo in the middle of the afternoon might seem unusual on the surface. But at Cornell Hall Convalescent Center in Union, staff members' participation in recreational activities with patients is an important ingredient in the rehabilitation therapy.

'Our staff personnel are hired and trained to involve themselves as much as possible with the patients," explains Mrs. Elizabeth Lafferty, R.M., directress of nurses at the 100-bed convalescent center. "We stress this because of our strong belief that the staff's role is one of helping the patient to understand himself...to make him realize that he can continue to make himself useful. We feel we can accomplish this by encouraging the staff to participate in the recreational activities of the patients."

"But nursing the convalescent back to health and a useful role in life involves a lot more than playing bingo or checkers with the patient. For one thing, Mrs. Lafferty notes, the personnel must possess a special type of personality. "We won't hire anyone who hasn't had experience with this particular age group or one who is not willing and anxious to learn. All personnel must offer tender, loving care. But in addition to this, the convalescent staff must have tolerance and a great deal time to accustom themselves to working in a new environment, with a new staff.

"We are accepting patients," Mrs. Lafferty pointed out, "in direct relationship to our qualified personnel. We will always try to maintain a ratio of at least one nursing staff member to every two patients and will not take new patients until we have more than enough staff to care for them properly.

Like most of her staff, Mrs. Lafferty went into geriatric nursing as a matter of choice. A registered nurse for some 20 years, she entered the field of convalescent care at the suggestion of a former associate who had gone with a nursing home in Cranford, 'I just loved it," she smiles, 'I found there was a big difference in meeting the challenge of helping the elderly to rehabilitate, to come back, instead of giving up.

While the general hospital nurse is called upon to minister to the physical needs of patients of all ages, the convalescent center nurse must employ a great deal more psychology than her counterparts in regular hospitals. Because the nurse-to-patient ratio is kept lower, she has more time to spend with each individual, Mrs. Lafferty notes.

Thus, after spending the first part of her duty shift attending to her patients physical needs, she also makes sure that the patients' recreational needs are cared for. In this way, the nurses encourage the patients to regain

*`*Gardens' will open

Duke Gardens, Somerville, will open Saturday, for the 1969 - 70 season. The gardens, located on the 2,500 - acre Duke family estate, will start its sixth season with a display of fall chrysanthemums. There is an admission charge.

Duke Gardens is entirely enclosed under glass in interconnecting greenhouses, and features 11 landscaped scenes, ranging from a tropical jungle to an Arizona cactus desert. There are exotic South African Doinbeya trees that rise 30 feet high and an Elizabethan Knott Garden that features 25 varieties of herbs.

The fall display will include roses, dahlias, lantana, annuals and perennials, hibiscus, fuchsia and gloxinias in bloom, All flower plants displayed in the gardens are grown in adjacent greenhouses. Some of the more exotic plants take up to two years of greenhouse care before they are brought out for display.

Interracial business unit appoints two executives

Council for Business Opportunity of New Jersey, announced this week the appointments of Robert W. Bingham as deputy director and Andrew J. Melnick and Lloyd Cr Levermore as client service coordinators. Bingham has been serving as special assistant executive director of United Progress Inc., the Trenton anti-poverty agency, and directed U.P.I.'s small business loan fund program and business management seminars. He was the recipient of the "National Administrator's Award" by the Small Business Administration, Washington, in 1968, and was appointed first negro member of the New Jersey State Advisory Council, SBA.

Both Levermore and Melnick are graduate students at the Rutgers University School of Business Administration.

Rider gives social rule to students

Rider College has granted to 3,500 - member student body full governmental controls over campus social life ot a one-year experimental

*Dr. Frank N. Elliott, Rider president, disclosed that the board of trustees has approved changes in college social regulations which will permit a self-limiting curfew for coeds, co-educational visitation rights in the college's living units and the consumption of afcoholic beverages by students 21 years of age or

A resolution adopted by the board at its August meeting also gives the Student Senate authority for all areas of social legislation and provides for the establishment of a student court to have jurisdiction over all violations of college-wide social regulations. The regulations go into effect with the start of the fall term Sept. 11.

Dr. Elliott said the board's décision was based on a largely favorable reaction to the proposals on a pool which drew responses from some 19,500 students, parents, faculty, administration members and college alumni.

New computer at NCE speeds problem solving

When Newark College of the turn-around time for prob-Engineering's director of computer services, Alexander E. Altieri, turned on his machine last week, he had a system five times bigger than the previous week.

NCE has just converted to a newer, bigger computer, the RCA Spectra 70/45, a third generation, solid-state, 'muld-programming'' machine, replacing a smaller third generation machine, It can handle 16 programs simultaneously.

The new machine will enable students, faculty and researchers to make use of the computer simultaneously, the college explains, speeding up lems that range from introductory sophomore exercises to sophisticated studies in water poliution.

NCE's new machine has the capability of holding 262,000 'bytes' of information, representing a 500 percent increase in core storage and will operate at a rate two and a half times faster than NCE's older Spectra 70/35 installation. High speed printers pro-ducing the completed results now operate at 1,250 lines per minute. Since all of NCE's 4,000 day and evening undergradu~ ates take some computer courses, a high speed return of information is vital. Most of the college's graduate body and many of the faculty-researchers also need computer time for their own projects.

To handle this wide range of "customer service" NCE's computer installation has broadened its communication capabilities and can now converse with users at remote stations through tele-types and video displays.

Altieri reports the new concurrently and ahticipates computer has a capacity of making full use of this pohandling 16 remote terminals tential in the next few years.

is being deployed to escalate the war against crime, All sorts of sophisticated gadgets originally developed for use in chemical research are finding applications in fighting crime, reports "Chemistry," the American Chemical Society publication's special issue on forensic science (the study of scientific methods of crime investigation).

Devices using newtechniques known to scientists as differential thermal analysis. electron probe analysis, mass spectrometry, neutronactivation, and x-ray diffraction analysis will soon be taking on simplified names and greatly improving the speed, accuracy, and reliability of chemical identifications of such things as body fluids and tissues, drugs, gun powders, fibers, soil samples, flecks of paint, and specks of dust. New computer systems will link crime fighting organizations together and make massive volumes of information such as criminal records, license numbers, photos and chemical identification data almost instantly available to an expanding number of law enforcement agencies. The accomplishments of comic strip detectives and crime fighters that were once science fiction will soon become science fact.

Some of the new and exceptionally sensitive instruments being introduced can actually detect and identify molecules of certain chemicals. For example, if arson is suspected, very faint traces of fumes of the flammable material used to start the fire can usually be found floating around the burned out area or stuck to the surfaces of charred materials nearby long after the fire has been put out. A well equipped arson team can move in and often identify the kind and brand of gasoline or solvent used to start the fire.

A case is known where it was possible to identify impurities in the gasoline, locate the station where it was bought, and bring about a conviction of the arsonist based on his identification by the service station attendant.

The field of forensic science is largely chemical and involves the recently more complex instruments and procedures used by crime laboratories in identifying and analyzing tiny bits of material collected and used as criminal evidence Forensic scientists are the people who can match threads, hair, or blood of the accused with that found at the scene of the crime or bullets fired from the suspect's gun with the murder bullets. They can analyze blood to find out if there is poison present and read notes on paper after it has been burned or serial numbers that have been filed off guns or autos.

Easy-to-use instruments and fast communication will ficers to quickly analyze a fleck of auto paint and compare the results to FBI records to find the car's make, model, and year.

Estimates of the cost of crime to U.S. taxpayers range up to $31 billion annually.

NCE scholarships to aid black youths

Newark College of Engineering has announced the establishment of a $12,000 scholarship fund set up particularly to aid deserving Negro students.

Announcement of the new scholarship came from NCE's Dean of Students S.J. House who reported the fund is a gift of the Huber Foundation, Rumson, The new sum is in addition to a $3,000 scholarship gift contributed by the Huber Foundation in 1968.

Under the terms of an agreement with the Huber Foundation, Newark College of Engineering will select Negro scholarship candidates who meet NCE's admissions requirements, who have a strong chance of completing B.S. degree requirements and who are in need of financial assistance. Selection of candidates for the 1969-70 academic year is expected to be made by the College's scholarship committee in the near future, House said,

Announcement of the course -- to be given - weekly beginning in mid-September -- was made by Paul A. Burns, NCF's director of conferences.

Burns noted that while NCE is presenting the course in water treatment this year, Rutgers will conduct an advanced Wastewater Treatment course; the dual presentations represent another aspect of the institutions direct cooperation with State and local governmental and agency needs.

> Fire school to be held

First, second, third and fourth year courses will be offered students who attend the 23d annual fall sessions of the New Jersey State Fire College on the weekends of Sept. 26

the Angels School in Chicago. The main causes of these deaths, reports the New Jersey Education Assn., were: (1) delayed alarm, (2) open stairwells, (3) overcrowding, (4) delay in summoning fire department, and (5) inadequate fire department response.

Since 1958, school fires have increased 272 percent, almost 8,000 occurring in 1967, Campbell says, and more than 150 children have been injured in school fires, many seriously, "Too many schools still have open stairwells, and children do not take fire drills seriously," he cautions.

Such conditions exist in New Jersey, Estimates of needed school construction approach $300 million, reports NJEA. The big cities have many school buildings dating from the

To reduce the danger of death in school fires, the N.J. State Board of Education several years ago ordered every school in New Jersey to install automatic fire-detection equipment.

Because of the cost involved, many school districts hesitated. They argued that every school does not necessarily need automatic fire-detection devices -- for example, a onestory building with an exterior door in every classroom. Conversely, a firetrap that adds detection devices remains a firetrap.

Last fall, several hundred New Jersey schools still had not complied with the order. The State Education Board finally unleashed its strongest weapon to force compliance: withholding state school financial aid from districts remaining in violation. This gettough policy forced quick and total compliance. In some districts, adding the firedetection equipment was an expensive proposition, But, says NJEA, the increased safety to children justifies the outlay.

Automatic detection devices alone, however, are no guarantee of full child safety. After detection, Campbell warns, the school must empty in two minutes or less.

The principal hazard," he says, "is smoke, Of any protective device, sprinklers are probably the most noteworthy, but they will not stop smoke or toxic gas. They are no substitute for fire stopping and fire exit drills."

Since evacuation is essential, Cambell advises school officials not to try to fight a school fire. "Their chief responsibility is to get their students to safety," he says, "Firefighting is the job of the fire department,'

Ice skating classes will start Sept. 13 at Evans schools

Ice skating has become the "true family fun thing to do," according to skating teacher Ralph Evans, whose schools in Millburn, Westfield and Cherry Hill are now accepting registrations for the fall term.

This year, more than ever before, everyone in the family is signing up under our reduced rate family plan." Evans noted, "with adults and youngsters alike realizing that ice skating is relaxing, healthy and -- above all -- the greatest of fun."

Classes for skaters of all skills and age categories will begin Sept. 13, according to the ice skating star, who personally supervises the curriculum at all his schools. He announced that many more classes will be scheduled for the coming semester "to accommodate an anticipated heavy increase in registration and to provide as much individual attention as possible for the youngsters and grownups who attend."

Evans said families and individuals can register at all three school offices, located at 435 Essex st., Millburn; 215 W. North ave., Westfield; and in the Cherry Hill Shopping Mall. Registration hours are from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays.

Registration begun for school of dance

The Frabell School of Dancing, Irvington, announces the opening of classes for the new term with registration continuing through Sept.

The school offers special classes for preschool tots in tap and ballet and a special class in tumbling for young boys.

The Frabell School specializes in professional training for beginners and advanced students in tap, ballet, modern and modern iazz and acrobatics. Students are graded according to age and ability.

The tap and modern jazz classes are under the direction of Emma Frabell, with the ballet classes under Miss Florence Rudolph of New York City and acrobatic classes under Al

Education Center offers new course

The Educational Center, Maplewood, will open Oct. 6, featuring a new course, Student Rights and Student Riots. Student radicals, administrators and law officers from Harvard, Columbia, Rutgers and Howard Universities who have been directly involved in campus unrest will participate in the course. Their discussions will speak to the future of the university as an institution for free inquiry and individual rights while under pressure for change.

Other courses offered are Improving Your Marriage, Anthropology and American Indians, Human Relations Laboratory and Modern Man and a Changing World. In the creative arts workshops, new offerings are creative dramatics, adventures in nature and multi-media workshop for adults. Courses in modern dance, art and music are again scheduled.

The Educational Center, located at 516 Prospect st., Maplewood, is a non profit school presented as a community service. For further information and register-by-mail call

Synagogues open classes needed for improving scores

A Jewish education program for children who display general mental or emotional limitations will be offered starting this weekend.

Saturday classes in the "Torah Workshop for Special Education" will be conducted starting Saturday at Temple Emanu-El, 264 W. Northfield rd., Livingston, 9:30 a.m. Sun-day classes begin at 10 a.m. at both Congregation Beth Shalom, Vauxhall road and Plane street, Union, and Congregation Beth Torah, 270 Reynolds ter., Orange...

The classes are open to all previous students and new students in the Essex and Union County area. Parents in doubt as to whether their children fit into the "special education" class -for their Jewish religious training are invited to bring their children to one or two sessions and discuss all problems with the director, Sylvan H. Kohn.

The program, conducted by the Jewish Education Association of Essex County, has minimum-sized classes with personal instruction. No session lasts more than onehalf hour and parents are welcome to bring their children and visit when special provision is made, said Kohn.

Fifteenth In A Series LIFE AND LOVE AND POLITICS IN THE USSR

If I had to take a trip across Siberia again, I would go only if I could go in the late spring or early fall. At least the weather would be reasonable. One can stand the poor USSR accommodations and services for the short duration of a trip in order to see the interesting things, but the heat of summer is almost more than one can bear. June, July and August seem to be the hottest months and our Study Mission traveled during July.

But as I said in the very first article of this series. I have no wish to stay in the Soviet Union for three weeks again, even in spring or fall. The "un-freedom" that settles down upon you in the USSR is the alarming, the unbearable

Two previous six-day trips to the Iron Cur tain countries did not give me this knowledge. but one three-week trip surely did.

THERE ARE 11 MILLION members of the Communist Party in the USSR who control 229 million non-communist citizens and that is some control. Everything in the 15 republics of the USSR is poverned by the Communicity Party.

And life in those united republics is dim. A man can barely call his soul his own, let alone his property. Almost everything is owned Nowhere in the Soviet Union can an individual own land. In some areas he may buy the house,

In order to obtain a parcel of land, one must apply to the local Soviet to receive permission for it, then pay a small charge per year for its use. In the Irkutsk area, for instance, the charge is nine rubles a year; and at Bratsk, farther north, two and a half rubles. (One ruble is equal to about $1.11 and there are 100 kopeks in a ruble.)

If a person wishes to change his place of residence, he may not do so without permission. He must first go to the local registry office and his place of employment and gain approval. There is no such thing as suddenly deciding to move from Moscow to Leningrad -- and doing it. Or even, for that matter, going on a trip. Oh no, Dear, you must first go and ask Big Brother if you may.

There are no private farms. There are only state farms and collective farms. The first are owned by the government outright, the second by a group of people who are controlled by the government.

In Estonia we visited a state farm called Saku. Some 280 people lived on the three and a half thousand hectare farm in flats or houses. The houses were four-family duplex type buildings and the flats were more dormitory-like than apartment-like. Some apartments shared a single bathroom between them, others were meagre to say the least. The kitchens you would not have believed either. Circa 1900, I would say, and completely unattractive. The rent per month for these flats was 200 to 220 rubles a month our guide told

On the other hand, in Bratsk, way off in Siberia, rent for a two-room flat was five rubles a month. Raia, the In-Tourist guide who accompanied us throughout our entire trip_in_the USSR and who was a Muscovite, told us she paid six rubles 35 kopeks a month

LVEN THE PICTURES a Soviet citizen looks it, the music he hears, the books he reads, the newspapers he buys, are decided upon by the government. There is no private ownership and no individual may own a newspaper or publishing house. The government operates them all and maintains a guardian eye on all contents, boreign newspapers and magazines and books are on sale only by permission of the government. Yet there is much reading done in the USSR. What books and periodicals the government does permit are all readily available, both as to prices and to book stalls (kiosks). The prices are very low and the kiosks very frequent.

Most newspapers are limited to four pages since there is a shortage of USSR newsprint, but circulation is not restricted. There are advertisements in the papers, only annonncements of theater performances and television and radio progams.

Editors of important papers are appointed the appropriate local central committee of the Communist party, The Moscow Prayda, the big paper of the Communist party, has O bnotypes and 41 prosses (eight pages per press) with "O percent of the linotypers being women but none of the pressmen. The Moscow staff produces 70,000 four-page copies of Prayda per hour, but 35 other places in the world produce eight million copies of Prayda

PERHAPS THE ONLY THING that citizens of the USSR can really decide for themselves is marriage and divorce. But to do the deed they must apply for a marriage application or a divorce application at the local registry office. A person must be at least 18 to marry (or to vote) and if he or she is 17, must obtain permission from the parents. People I may not marry, we were told.

Usually there is a month between the application and the marriage and the cost is one and a half rubles. The ceremony can be performed either at the registry office or at a "Palace of Marriage" which is usually a royalist palace. There is a small charge for the use of the Palace of Marriage and frequently light refreshment is served after the ceremony at the expense of the bridal

For a divorce, a couple must apply to the same registry office if there are no children. If there ARE children, the couple must go before a judge with two "accessories" (aides) who can be laymen. If the divorce is granted, a man must pay 25 percent of his monthly salary to one child to the age of 18, and 40 percent for two, etc.

The divorce rate is low, needless to say.

THE COMMUNIST PARTY also governs the activity of the foreign embassies in the country, and so the Americans too come under Communist decisions. For an American traveling in the far reaches of the USSR the situation is rather tenuous. In all the Soviet Union, which is the largest country in land area in the world, the U. S. has only ONE representative: the ambassador in Moscow. His jurisdiction reaches only to the borders of the Russian Federation and if an American is in trouble in any of the other 14 republics of the USSR and wishes aid from the U. S. Embassy, the ambassador also must first get permission from the Soviet Communist government before he can move to

And he may, or may not, receive it.

The Communist party has itsultimate power in the Supreme Soviet, sometimes also called The Congress or The Session. It meets twice a year for about three or four days each normally, or as long as needed if an emergency exists. It consists of two chambers: the Chamber of the Union wherein the people are represented regardless of nationality with one representative to each 300,000 people giving about 800 members; and the Chamber of the Deputies with 32 deputies from each of the 15 republics giving 480 members. A Council of Ministers, numbering 45 including the top leaders of the USSR, heads the Supreme Soviet. This makes a total for the Supreme Soviet of 1,325 members generally.

The Council of Ministers handles the problems, then presents them to the Supreme Soviet for voting and the majority decides. All members of this Supreme Soviet must, of course, be good members of the Communist party or else they cannot be there. To become a Communist one must pass a rigid exam, pay dues and remain in good active standing. Not everyone is accepted.

But 11 million were. And so 11 million Communists, as the elite and governing group, rule 229 million non-Communists in the one-for-all (hal) Soviet Union, and everything, but everything, is controlled by this Communist group.

Except perhaps love. And that will come and go on its own will any-

18-year-old voting backed by ACLU

The American Civil Liberties Union of New Jersey has announced its support of a November referendum on the 18-year-old vote. In a resolution approved at the August meeting of its board of trustees, the ACLU stated: "Nearly two years ago we indicated our support for the principal that 18-year-olds should be invited to participate in the democratic process by extension of the right to We reaffirm that position and urge New Jersey voters to cast a 'yes' vote on the proposition on the November ballot."

"The feeling at the Board meeting" said ACLU Executive Director Stephen M. Nagler, was that there could be no more appropriate time than the present to broaden the demo-cratic outlets available to young people. More than ever before, young people are seeking to find new avenues of expression to be heard in matters which affect them and which affect society as a whole. The right to vote is only one means which we support for making participation a reality."

Bank becomes second largest

As a result of the merger of First Bank and Trust Co. and the National State Bank in Elizabeth, the National State Bank is now the second largest bank in the central banking district with assets totaling more than $350

In a statement, W. Emlen Roosevelt, president, said: "The merger will enable the bank to better serve the growing needs of both counties through increased resources, experienced personnel and ultra-modern data processing equipment. We believe that our 24 banking offices in both counties (15 in Union County and nine in Middlesex County) will offer our customers more convenience along with a more complete spectrum of banking services.'

Roosevelt added, "Our customers will find the same officers and personnel (totaling in excess of 1,000) eager to serve them," Roosevelt attributed the major share of the National State Bank's growth to "the autonomy granted each office (where each office maintains its authority, ties and individuality in remaining an integral part of the area in which it is

He also announced that approval for a 25th National State Bank office in Cranford has been received and will be in operation in the

GOP rally to open campaign in county

State Senators Frank X. McDermott and Harry L. Sears will attend a rally Monday launching the Republican Party's campaign in Union County. The rally, sponsored by the party's assembly and freeholder candidates, will honor Rep. William T. Cahill, candidate for governor.

Mrs. Joan Geer, chairman of the event, said that U. S. Senator Clifford P. Case also plans to attend, and that "we expect over 1,000 Republicans and independents to help launch Campaign '69.' The rally will be held at Wieland's Steak House, Route 22, Mountainside, from 8 to 10 p.m. Walt Pederson and his "Straw Hatters" and Miss Susan Hoos, Miss Union County 1969, will a disease threat, but according to Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission spokes-"it's a hard biter and can drive most people to drink." The Culex Pipiens is the household mosquito and breeds in catch basins and backyards. A staff member of the commission was called to Union last week by a mosquito-irritated housewife. She told him that the mosquitoes were invading the neighborhood in record numbers. The mosquito expert discovered the woman had a cake pan in her backyard that was filled with water. Thousands of mosquitoes took off from the pan each week, he said.

Mosquitoes don't die at the end of the summer, they just fade away, said the official. The pests don't disappear, he said, until Thanksgiving. Because of the cooler weather, however. people wear heavier clothing and don't notice them, "Now, everyone wears shorts and short sleeve shirts and doesn't expect to be bitten.

With clothing, you don't notice the mosquitoes. The official offered some hints about avoiding mosquito bites: wear light clothing, don't do strenuous work that makes you perspire, and don't use perfume or highly-scented after shave lotion. It seems, he said, that the mosquitoes are attracted by smells, and both the stench of sweat and the aroma of perfumes and men's colognes make mosquitoes want to

IN THE BATTLE against mosquitoes, the county agency has extended its work day to 10 hours and its work week to six days, according to John F. Allaire Jr., vice president of the commission.

"The heavy incidence of mosquitoes is the direct result of the heavy rainfall, flood waters, standing pools of water, temperature and humidity," he said last week.

The county is broken down into 10 spraying areas by the mosquito control unit. The number of spray crews, however, is down to seven. A commission spokesman said this is because the summer workers, mostly college students, have already left. Of the 27 originally with the commission for the summer, only 10 were left last week, "Now's when we need them most," said a commission official.

The commission also has two turbines which spray large, open areas that cannot be reached on foot. Also, three catch basin units tour the country on regular routes to limit mosquito breeding underneath city streets.

AMONG THE WIDE OPEN areas where mosquitoes breed easily if not controlled, said the official, are the Elizabeth and Linden meadows. In Linden, he said, the meadow is "fairly well ditched and open to tides." Since tides change the water, this keeps mosquito breeding down. In Elizabeth, however, the meadow is diked. Pumps installed by the commission keep the water level down and provide some relief against the mosquitoes, but spraying in some areas is still necessary.

A good portion of the mosquitoes that invade the home, said the commission official, are bred in backyards. Discarded tires, pails, birdbaths, tin cans and other items capable of holding water are favorite places for mosquito larvae. The official said that in one instance he found "thousands" of larvae maturing in one week from an unused pan.

'thank you' to all those who will support them during the coming campaign," Mrs., Geer said. "The cost is 'free for a dollar" with free refreshments and entertainment,"

Training support was also provided by Miss Dorothy Messeka of South River, a field worker for the NJHA. Joseph Loudermilk, assistant to the administrator, coordinated the program at Memorial General Hospital.

Each participant spent the equivalent of one day a week attending classroom lectures devoted to proper procedures for patient care, The remaining 80 percent of the time was occupied with supervised on-the-job training on the hospital floor.

Memorial General paid the salaries of the trainees. The hospital was reimbursed for the instructor's salary by the Hospital Research and Educational Trust of New Jersey. Loudermilk said Memorial General was happy to participate in this program, particulary because it has provided job opportunities for the unemployed, the underemployed or unskilled workers. At the same time our hospital was able to improve the skills of our personnel and provide improved patient care."

Legion celebrates 51st conclave at Wildwood meeting

The N.J. American Legion and Auxiliary will meet in separate conventions in Wildwood, today through Saturday, with the Legion at its 51st conclave and the Auxiliary marking the beginning of its 50th year. Advance reservations and early registration of delegates points to the largest convention of the state's largest veterans' organization, attributed mainly to its growth during this Legion Golden Anniversary

New Jersey's first national commander, William C. "Bill" Doyle, of Vineland, will address the convention, as will Senator Clifford P. Case; Congressman Charles W. Sandman, Jr. (2nd Dist.) and other Government officials; directors and superintendents of federal and state hospitals and homes.

The military will be represented by Major General Kenneth W. Collins, commanding general, Fort Dix, Major General James F. Cantwell, chief of staff, Department of Defense, State of New Jersey; Brigadier General John W. Harrell, 438th Military Airlift Wing (MAC) McGuire Air Force Base; Major General James H. Wyhenmeyer Jr., NJARNG, commanding general, 50th Armored Division, NJ. Army National Guard; Major S.C. Durrant, USMC, Naval & Marine Corps Reserve Training Cen-

James M. MacFarland, special foreign affairs assistant to President Nixon's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, will address the convention tomorrow.

The convention will establish the guidelines for the Legion's future role in New Jersey and the nation during its second 50 years. Matters affecting the health and economic security of veterans will come before the convention with reports and discussion on the pension law and laws affecting all veterans, including those who served during the Vietnam conflict. Also on the agenda will be matters in the fields of Americanism, child welfare, national security and community service.

Fifteen to twenty thousand persons are expected in Wildwood Saturday for the Legion's drum and bugle corps contest and four-hour parade, which begins at 4 p.m.

A cultural display of Negro history

An Introduction to the Negro in American History, an exhibition of paintings, photographs, rare books, newspaper clippings and stamps, will open at the New York Cultural Center (in association with Fairleigh Dickinson University) 2 Columbus circle, Tuesday and run through Oct. 19.

The exhibition, with more than 300 displays, is presented by the Negro History Associates to portray "Black America's loss of person status and the struggle to regain

Other purposes of the exhibition are to enlighten the public on contributions made by Negroes and to encourage the collection and preservation of material having historic value pertaining to the Negro.

The exhibit is divided into six sections: Colonial_years, Revolutionary War, slavery and anti-slavery, Civil War, Reconstruction period to 1900, and contemporary.

The State Federation of District Boards of I ducation of New Jersey, the association representing the state's nearly 5,000 local school board members, will hold its 17th annual workshop Oct. 22-24, in Atlantic City.

Theme for the meeting is "Social Change - Loday's School Challenge."

The event, which provides three days of in-service education for school board members, school administrators, school attorneys and others connected with the New Jersey schools, is expected to draw 3,000 school leaders. It will feature sessions on preparing communities for sex education, combatting drug addiction, school board-municipal cooperation, student protest, and issues in public employment negotiations. There will also be sessions and workshops dealing with the many administrative problems faced by those responsible for running the schools in New

Togetherness: it's sure not what it used to be.

Is it? Today, there are really no limits or set rules for what looks good with what. Except for your own GOOD TASTE. Stripes with checks? Why not? Strong contrasts make things interesting. Next time you're at our store, take a look at all the new ways we have of coordinating. Then, combine them with your own ideas. Take an approach, and change the colors. Reverse it completely. ## Permanent press fabrics available for home sewer available by the yard for the home sewer, can make upinto ideal back-to-school clothes, reports Carolyn F. Yuknus, Senior County Home econo-

To provide the advantage of permanent press, the fabric has been treated with a resinlike finish. In making readyto-wear, the garments are cut and stitched and then cured by high temperature pressing or by processing through a specially designed oven, thus permanently setting the shape of a garment.

The pressing equipment available in the home is not adequate to cure the finish on permanent press fabrics. Therefore, yard goods with this finish must be cured before the fabric reaches the consumer.

Home sewers can handle permanent press fabrics successfully providing certain limitations are recognized and some principles followed. The first limitation recognize is that with the fabric already cured, the home sewer will have some difficulty in obtaining sharp at hemlines, crisp, permanent pleats" or flat seams.

Pattern selection will be all important in using permanent press. The best choices are very simple styles with a minimum number of seams and few details. Shifts, shells,

Cancer society passes goal: $159,576 collected so far

Linden, president of the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society, has announced that the Union County 1969 Cancer Crusade sur-passed its goal. "To date we have received $159,576.39 which betters our goal of $156,000 by more than $3,500," Donahue reported.

"Thanks to the generosity of Union County residents, our comprehensive program of lighting cancer through research, education, and patient service will be continued and expanded during the remainder of 1969 and through 1970, Donahue said.

Donahue said 40 percent of the money raised in Union County is forwarded to the national office where a coordinated national research program is administered. "This is done so the most vood from each research dollar can be realized by avoiding duplication of effort and by awarding money to the most promising proj-

"Perhaps most Important to the county resident is the patient service portion of the program. Because of the chronic nature of cancer and its many distressing features, serious burdens are imposed upon the patient and family."
Donahue said. "Therefore, the American Cancer Society offers these services free and without obligation to the limit of its resources." The society transports patients to and from of a century to build summer homes, was responsible for a noticeable influx of robins, catbirds, and house wrens. Forest fires north of the study area in the spring of 1941 drive many birds there in search of new homes and feeding grounds. It was also in that year that the first red crossbill to breed in the state was observed in the barrens. In the late forites, as the pines grew laterally, bunching together and shutting out the sun, the bird count dropped. In the early fifties plant growth became so dense that open flat areas disappeared. With them left the nighthawks who sought these spots for their nests. A bird's apartment house was erected in one spot and purple martins moved in. The level of the dam in Pine Lake was raised in 1952, slowly flooding an acre of

Elementary pupils in regional district benefit by project

The Union County Regional High School District and two of its sending districts will combine resources in a cooperative Title I planning project to help educationally deprived students, it was announced this week by Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent of schools. Teachers on the elementary grade level in Garwood and Kenilworth will work with the regional district staff in a program of curriculum development and in-service education for the slow learner on the elementary and secondary level.

David Carl, coordinator of the federallyfunded project for the regional district, will Hirect the cooperative program.

The recently completed Title I in-service session held in the regional district included teacher training and curricular development for slowlearners at the 11th grade level. Materials for the slow learner at the ninth and 10th grade level were developed during the summers of 1967 and 1968. An in-service session is planned for next spring to evaluate the revise completed materials, Dr. Davis

High school district appoints new assistant superintendent

University.

Dr. Donald Merachnik, director of special services for the Union County Regional High School District, has been appointed to the newly created post of assistant superintendent for pupil personnel services, it was announced this week by the Board of Education.

The school board also announced three other appointments, according to Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent of schools.

Dr. Dorothy M. Tipton, guidance counselor at Highland Park High School, has been named guidance director at the Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark. She replaces 1. Kenneth Moritko, who has been appointed director of research for the Regional District. Albert F. Solomon, sales manager of Tweedy Transparencies, a subsidiary of the Charles Beseler Co., an audiovisual equipment firm, has been appointed to the new post of instructional media specialist.

Dr. Merachnik, who lives in Elizabeth, will direct all pupil personnel programs in the district, including programs for the handicapped, home tutoring, resting, medical and dental services, special education, guidance women from around the world.

An extensive program is offered to senior high school girls involved in the YWCA's Tri-Epsilon clubs, which meet weekly or semi-monthly during the school year and offer girls opportunities to develop leadership abilities and engage in social service projects. Teen Time, for junior high girls, meets weekly at the YWCA after school.

Combining an informal Coke time with a series of interest groups, the program affords junior high schoolers an after-school period with a chance to develop a new skill such as bridge, crafts, portrait sketching or baton twirling.

Married and father of three children, Dr.

Merachnik received his AB degree from Upsala College. He received his MS from City College of New York, and a Ph. D. from New York

A RESIDENT OF Cranbury, Dr. lipton received a BS degree in education from Western Illinois University and a master's and Ph.D. from Rutgers University.

During her career as a classroom teacher and guidance counselor, Dr. Tipton spent eight years as a teaching missionary in Uganda, Moritko, who has been guidance director as the Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School since coming to the Regional District in 1963, will coordinate all the data processing and programming for the district, including the development of new systems and applications for the equipment. He lives in Highland Park.

Solomon will be involved in the development of multi-media centers for each of the four high schools. A resident of Lake Hiawatha, he will also work closely with the part-time audiovisual personnel and librarians, among his other duties.

In the educational media field for 14 years, Solomon is currently working toward his Ph.D. in educational communications at New York University. He is a graduate of Montclair State College, where he received both big BA and MA degrees in English.

His past experience includes service as a teacher, at Parsippany Junior High School; as audiovisual director and assistant professor of education, Jersey City State College; as associate in educational communications, for the New York State Department of Education, and acted as audiovisual consultant to the New Jersey Council for Economic Education.

The Regional District comprises Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield.

Howard at AF base in officer training

MONTGOMERY, Ala. - Timothy P. Howard, son of Doctor and Mrs. J.C. Howard of 1434 Fernwood rd., Mountainside, N.J., is participating in a U.S. Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps (AFROTC) field training encampment at Gunter AFB, Ala.

During the encampment, cadets become familiar with the life and activities on Air Force bases and can examine career opportunities in which they might wish to serve as officers. Other highlights include survival training, aircraft and aircrew indoctrination, small arms training and visits to other Air Force bases.

Cadet Howard, a 1967 graduate of Malvern (PA.) Preparatory School, is a member of the AFROTC unit at Parks College, Cahokia, Ill.

"The 1904 Echobrook building now used for Board of Education offices and two classrooms, while not suitable for continued educational use, would be adequate for community recreational and social purposes. At little cost it could provide a center for sub-teen and teen age activity. Its proximity to Borough Hall and the Police Department will provide accessible supervision and adequate parking.

"The playfields at Echobrook would also be nership under this proposal and be reserved for future recreational use. The adjacent swimming pool and tennis courts will provide the core for this possible development. "Under this proposal Borough Council will reimburse the Board of Education for the value of Echobrook land and buildings. Converting Echobrook to Borough Hall use will represen considerable savings and provide much needed facilities. "Borough Council believes the interests of the community will best and most economically be served by this proposal. Neither the present

Borough Hall nor Echobrook School as an education building can be reasonably altered for their functions. "This proposal is attractive and reasonable in that we can upgrade and improve Borough Hall, Police Department, recreation and educational facilities in one package in the most economical manner."

program of activities for fall

cal education and recreation department. The formal opening of the addition, including swimming pool, new nursery, club rooms, new entranceway, will be held on the weekend of Sept. 20.

Most evening classes are open to both men and women, and babysitting is provided for children of mothers attending daytime activities. Since classes are necessarily limited in size, the YWCA has suggested that early registrations are advisable. Classes begin in mid-September or early October. Free testing of swimmers prior to enrollment in classes will be held until Sept. 19, from 1 to 5 p.m.

In the adult department, daytime class offerings include: decoupage, the technique of lacquering plain objects so that they become objects of art; drawing and sketching, oil painting; mixed media, with instruction in pastels, charcoals, pen and ink, water color and oils. Language classes include four in French, from beginners through advanced; two in Spanish, and an afternoon class in English as a second language.

English classes for non-English-speaking men and women will also be offered every Wednesday evening, in graded groups for those with no knowledge of the language to the more advanced student. Also offered this fall are two classes in bridge, for beginners and intermediates; dressmaking, Oriental cooking, and tailoring. Repeated this fall will be a leadership training course for inter-racial discussion groups for those who are interested in learning to lead interracial discussions or in participating in them with more aware-

The new health, physical education and recreation department will offer many classes for men and women, girls and for boys through the age of eight. Among these are: kinderwim, for boys and girls aged four and five; mother-child swimming, synchronized swim-ming, lifesaving courses, adult learn-to-swim for men and women; ladies learn-to-swim; aqua-gym, an exercise class for women in and out of the pool. There are also regularly scheduled classes for youth from beginning swimmers through the more experienced. Classes will be grouped according to ability

Gym activities in the health, physical education and recreation field incl a Saturday program for girls in grades one to six featuring swimming, tumbling, arts and crafts; kinder-gym, activities such as tumbling, rhythms and games for preschoolers; "Me and My Shadow," an exercise program for mothers and their four and five year olds; "Mindstickers," a keep-in-trim exercise program for girls, three modern dance classes for girls and three for women; three slimnastics classes for women; and tumbling and gymnastics for junior high girls and those in grades five and six.

Most health, physical education and recreation classes begin on Wednesday, Sept. 24, and Thursday, Sept. 25.

In addition to classes, the YWCA pool will be available for open plunge periods, for purely recreational swimming for families, women and girls, co-ed swims for high school and junior high school students. The pool will also be available for rental by private

Leist honored in Boston

Recreation land plan drawn to meet future leisure needs

Population growth and great gains in personal income and in leisure time will accelerate demands for parks and recreation areas during the next generation to a volume more than double today's, the Tri-State Transportation Commission declared this week.

40 percent during the next 30 years. But average family incomes are growing even faster, and growing incomes mean less drudgery at work and home, more leisure time and more demand for outdoor recreation activities. The commission, which is the official New York area planning agency of Connecticut, New Jersey and New York, has outlined a plan to meet these future needs. It recommends that 300,000 acres of land be purchased and used or reserved for recreation purposes before

The region's population will grow by about real estate development claims it. One fifth of this acreage should be taken as quickly as possible to lessen the shortage of parks in built-up parts of the Region; the remainder can be scheduled according to the pace of urban development to set aside the best recreation sites for public use.

TO ACCOMPLISH the whole program will take a doubling of current expenditures, with the heaviest load coming in the first years to catch up with current needs. The total program is estimated at $1.7 billion. Responsibility for increased costs should be shared equally by state and federal governments.

The commission cited recreation-land deficiencies both in suburban New Jersey and in the boroughs of New York City, in the city insufficient recreation space was reserved during decades of building, More recent development, as in Essex, Bergen and Passaic counties, also has outstripped park acquisition.

In Essex and Bergen, the commission said, 1,000 acres should be acquired in each county in the 1970's for close-to-home recreation space. Passaic should have 2,000 more acres, and Hudson 3,000 during the next 10 years. Union will eventually need 1,100 acres more,

In addition to these smaller parks, large regional parks totalling almost 56,000 acres

.-Thursday September 4,1969-

will need to be located in these counties. Commission Chairman Louis I. Gladstone said: "We have looked at needs and made extensive surveys to prepare this plan. Its recommendations reflect the future pattern of land development outlined in the commission's Regional Development Guide. We have attempted to weigh the needs and desires of people for building sites against those for open space. Each year we delayit will be more difficult and more expensive to acquire a proper reserve of recreation lands.

"THE COMMISSION hopes this report will stimulate discussion and response from public officials and other citizens," Chairman Gladstone stated. "This public reaction will help to guide the Commission in working out priorities and recommending specific programs." Chairman Gladstone added that Tri-State's plan strongly supports Interior Secretary Hickel's emphasis on more outdoor recreation opportunities for urban dwellers by bringing

'parks to the people."

"In the past," he pointed out, "federal parks in this region have been nearly nonexistent, with less than one acre of federal parkland for every thousand residents. Of all 50 states, New Jersey ranks 47, New York 48 and Connecticut 49 in share of federal parkland per person. Only Rhode Island ranks lower. Recent starts, such as those at Fire Island and Tocks Island. are beginning to restore the balance, but much outdoor recreation space is needed for our millions of people. 'The commission recommends that federal spending for parks in this region be upped to $440 million over the next ten years, triple the current rate," the Chairman concluded,

'Such a shift in federal policy--long needed --has recently been supported by Secretary Hickel. We applaud the Secretary's publicly announced intention to bring 'parks to people' by increasing federal investments along the eastern seaboard."

Safeguard your cycling child

Every year hundreds of boys and girls across the nation are killed in bike accidents and in the vast majority of bike-car collisions the youngster, not the driver, is at fault, Don Costa, safety director of the Allstate Insurance Companies, points out.

In four out of five causes the cyclist has violated a law or traffic rule. Most often the youngster was killed because he mistakenly took the right of way, made an improper turn or disregarded a stop sign or traffic signal. Other causes include riding in the center of the street, on the wrong side of the street facing traffic or carrying passengers.

Allstate's safety director reminds parents that in most states bikes are governed by the same laws as motor vehicles, and riders are required to obey traffic laws.

Bikes should match the size of their riders and should be adjusted properly, Costa advises. Generally, the small 20-inch wheel fits the 5-7 age group; the 24-inch wheel is designed for 8-10 year olds; and the standard 26-inch wheel is for anyone 11 or older. An exception is the new high-rise, small-wheeled bicycle, which has seat and handlebars which can be adjusted for large or small riders.

A coaster brake is a prime requisite for younger children. It is difficult for children to readily get their fingers around the consqueeze for sudden stops.

trols of hand brakes to give a good, hard A light and a warning device are absolutely essential. A horn or a bell can be heard much more clearly than a shout. A light is necessary both for night riding and riding on dark days There are two optional items that will help make your child's bike safer to ride. A basket or saddlebags in which to carry books and packages will free both hands for steering. The second is reflective tape, which glows and makes the bike much easier to see at night. Two short silver strips should be placed on the handlebars, two long silver strips on the front forks and three short red strips on the rear fender. A free bicycle safety brochure, "Hil Bike Pilots!" is available from Allstate, Murray Hill 07974.
