Year in review: Residents seek to detour highway changes

The major news development of the past year was the mobilization of borough citizens in an effort to detour State Department of Transportation plans to tear up several blocks of Mountainside. Trenton officials had urged construction of a highway cloverleaf at the intersection of Rt. 22 and New Providence road.

As the year ends, the only probability is that the battle against highway planners will continue for at least several more years. In another major news story, Mayor Frederick J. Wilhelms retired from elected office after service as mayor and borough councilman. His place at the head of the all-Republican municipal administration was taken by Thomas Ricciardi. Local parents also began to gather their forces in opposition to a proposal by the Regional High School Board of Education to send all borough students to Jonathan Dayton Regional in Springfield, rather than Gov. Livingston Regional in Berkeley Heights, as part of the district expansion program. Borough voters turned down a proposal by the local Board of Education to close the Echobrook School and convert it into a new Borough Hall and police station.

Wilhelms reviews the past five years

By LORRI BOSTWICK

The past five years in the borough of Mountainside have been exceptionally productive ones for the community. Under the administration of the outgoing Mayor Frederick J. Wilhelms, the town has seen the advent of four major projects which will bear the mark of the mayor's influence for many years to come.

When asked for the changes he has seen during his administration, Wilhelms pondered

MAYOR FREDERICK J. WILHELMS

before answering, "There haven't been many socio-economic changes; most of the changes, most of which are noteworthy, were physical in nature."

The major innovations under Wilhelms' leadership have been quite impressive and include a new library, a community pool and tennis courts, a badly-needed storm sewer project, and the first codification of municipal records since the town's secession from Westfield.

THE CODIFICATION project, which was the mayor's idea, took almost three years to complete. The new system meant that every item of legislation in the borough was gleaned from the ancient minute books of Town Council meetings, analyzed by a computer firm, General Codes, Inc., and then printed and cross-referenced into a one-volume handbook.

In speaking of the codification project, Wilhelms stated, "I was concerned and dissatisfied with the condition of the municipal records and the needless confusion in passing new ordinances."

"Now there is no longer any need in the future to go through unnecessary trials and tribulations in researching an ordinance, or checking on past records," Wilhelms emphasized.

THE NEW LIBRARY was a major project which was planned, financed and built during the mayor's three-term period in office.

"The library was one of my prime objectives," Wilhelms pointed out. "Our previous facilities at the Echobrook School were hopelessly inadequate," he added.

The mayor went on to say, "It is obvious that the community has received the library with satisfaction and Mountainside now ranks as one of the highest communities in the state for per capita readership."

"The growth and use of the library facilities has been really pleasing," he continued, "and the Board of Trustees has several new service projects planned for the coming year."

THE COMMUNITY swimming pool also saw complete planning, financing and operation during the Wilhelms era. The pool probably had a special meaning for the mayor who

On Tuesday, an accident took place on Wyoming drive when Eva Poma, 41, of 1150 Maple ct., skidded on the ice and struck a tree while turning into the street.

The Poma car was towed away, following damages to the left side. The police reported that the driver suffered no visible injuries.

Also on Tuesday, the police revealed a collision at the intersection of Summit and Saw Mill roads when a vehicle driven by Peggy A. Mocco, 17, of 1112 Saddlebrook rd., pulled onto Summit road in front of a car driven by Doreen L. Haas, 20, of 1293 Woodvalley rd.

Miss Mocco's car was struck in the right side. Neither driver was reported to have suffered any visible injuries.

Rt. 22 west at the Somerset Bus Co. was the scene on Friday of a collision when a car operated by Alfred E. Bernard, 55, of Kenilworth, skidded on the highway and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Matthew S. Simon, 38, of Morristown, police said.

Bernard's car received rear-end damage and the Simon car sustained left-front damage. Neither driver was reported to have suffered any visible injuries.

Regional schools will present budget

By ABNER GOLD

The Regional High School District Board of Education will hold its formal hearing on the school budget for 1970-71 on Tuesday, Jan. 20, at 8 p.m. at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, the board announced at its monthly meeting last Tuesday at the Lincoln School, Garwood.

The board will hold its next regular meeting Jan. 27 at A. L. Johnson Regional, Clark, in accordance with its policy of rotating meetings among the six constituent communities.

The board last week approved a 10-week training program to improve counseling skills in the school guidance departments. Dr. Donald Merachnik, assistant superintendent for pupil personnel services, said that 14 of the 17 counselors in the district had indicated a desire to take part.

Instructor for the course will be Dr. Carl M. Einhorn, director of counseling and psychological services at Newark State College. The sessions will take place every Tuesday afternoon from Feb. 3 to April 21.

DR. MERACHNIK commented: "The need to improve counseling skills is ever present in a comprehensive regional high school which attempts to keep pace with modern education and the contemporary needs of stu-

6 candidates seek 4 jobs on Regional board

Contests in two of the four communities which will elect members of the Regional High School District Board of Education on Feb. 3 were reported by Lewis Fredericks, board secretary, as the deadline for candidates to file petitions arrived last Friday.

In Springfield, incumbent Mrs. Natalie Waldt of 835 Mountain ave. will be opposed by Howard Schwartz of 22 N. Derby rd.

In Kenilworth, two candidates filed for the two-year unexpired term left vacant by the recent resignation of Avery Ward, board president, because of illness. They are Charles Scheuermann of 642 Quinton ave. and Dr. Herman Bieher of 14 Dorset dr.

Two other incumbent board members are unopposed. They are Dr. Minor C.K. Jones of 1 Far View dr., Mountainside, and John E. Conlin of 351 Hemlock ave., Garwood.

The Regional Board of Education operates four high schools: Jonathan Dayton in Springfield, Gov. Livingston in Berkeley Heights, David Brearley in Kenilworth and A. L. Johnson in Clark. They serve students from Springfield, Mountainside, Kenilworth, Berkeley Heights, Clark and Garwood.

dents. As societal changes are reflected in the feelings and attitudes of students and parents one must be aware of these changes if one is to counsel effectively. Although one might 'keep up' by taking courses and reading widely in various professional journals, we can no longer be certain that even these procedures provide counselors with higher level skill development.

"I believe that the role of the counselor can be crucial in the lives of our students. Therefore, we must be certain that the counselors in the Regional District continually strive toward excellence in maintaining up-to-date counseling skills. In order to maintain this excellence I am hereby proposing the following program to be developed by the Board of Education.

"Its purpose is to improve the counseling skills of selected guidance counselors by offering them an opportunity to become acquainted with new concepts and practices in the field. By learning of these new ideas one can sharpen counseling skills and become more effective in dealing with students. In addition, counselors will be able to focus upon problems in counseling, utilizing traditional established approaches to working with students.

"The focus will be upon students and their challenge to present day counseling.

"The specific program to be developed will emanate from the needs of the counselors and the innovations in the field. However, anticipated topics might include: behavior modification techniques in counseling, skill development in developing sensitivity toward students, counselor flexibility, group counseling operations, techniques of handling student aggression and militancy, a common sense counseling for parents, use of testing within the counseling program, problems in counseling college students."

THE AUDIENCE of some 25 district residents heard statements from Springfield and Mountainside residents concerning issues before the board, particularly plans being prepared to reassess Mountainside students as part of an expansion of Regional District facilities.

Two letters were read from Mrs. Leonard Harris, president of the PTA at Dayton Regional. The first expressed PTA endorsement of the pupil distribution plan to be carried out through the forthcoming capital expansion bond referendum.

The second letter reminded the board of a previous letter from the Dayton PTA on guidance services, calling for a new approach with "meeting the total needs of the students" as its goal. Mrs. Harris continued, "we are pleased to learn" that Dr. Warren Davis, superintendent of schools, has recommended appointment of one additional guidance counselor at each of the four high schools next year.

ANOTHER LETTER was read from Mrs.

John Knodel of Mountainside. It contained more than 500 signatures on a petition asking that Mountainside students, eighth graders and freshmen now at Dayton, be sent to Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, as their "home high school."

The board last month had received a petition from parents of some 57 Mountainside freshmen at Dayton, asking that they be permitted to remain at Dayton for the next three years. A number of Mountainside parents have objected to plans to send all Mountainside students to Dayton, rather than Gov. Livingston, as part of the board's expansion program.

DURING THE PUBLIC DISCUSSION PERIOD, Mayor Frederick J. Wilhelm Jr. of Mountainside, asked whether the board had formulated any new projection of student population in the decade to come. Previous figures for Berkeley Heights had been challenged by municipal officials and were revised by the board.

Dr. Fred Hagedorn, board member from Berkeley Heights, said that the board had reported its new figures in a recent press release and in its monthly newsletter. He said they were based on current elementary school enrollment and predicted high school population through 1977. Hagedorn added that the board's planning now is being based specifically on the projection for 1974-75.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the board approved several recommendations presented by Dr. Davis in his superintendent's report. They included plans for the Gov. Livingston band to conduct its annual band exchange program with the high school in Boyertown, Pa. The Gov. Livingston musicians will be in Boyertown March 13 to 15, and the Pennsylvanians will return the visit April 10 to 12.

Also approved were plans for the Gov. Livingston vocalists to hold a choral workshop weekend Jan. 30 to Feb. 1 at the N.J. YMCA camp in Blairstown.

Turning to athletics, the board authorized the Dayton indoor track team to compete in the following events at the Jersey City Armory:

Development meets, Jan. 3, 17 and 24; state relay championships, Feb. 7; state group championships, Feb. 21; state championships, Feb. 28.

Also approved were the county relays, to be held March 7 at Scotch Plains or Roselle Catholic. The board voted to have the team's two stars, Martin Josephs and Norman Reinhardt, run in two invitational meets in New York, both at the 102nd Engineers' Army on 168th street. They are the St. Francis Prep Games, Jan. 17, and the Cardinal Hayes

Highlanders squeak by Watchung Hills, 57-53

By BILL LOVETT

Alternating two teams, Watchung Hills nearly pulled off an upset before finally succumbing to Gov. Livingston, 57-53. The victory gives Regional a 3-2 record although it stands at only 1-2 in the Watchung Conference standings.

The Warriors, often switching their two teams, looked as if they would be driven off the court when the Highlanders jumped off to a 20-10 first quarter lead behind Jeff Burdette who had six points and four assists during Games, Jan. 31.

The board named Mike Londino as freshman wrestling coach at David Brearley Regional, Kenilworth, and approved a meet-freshman schedule, running from Jan. 7 to Feb. 26.

Another vote provided formal approval for nine emergency classrooms being used for teaching purposes this year as a result of overcrowding. Four of the rooms are at Brearley, and five are at Gov. Livingston.

AT THE CLOSE of the meeting, Dr. Benjamin Josephson, board member from Springfield, presented some thoughts on the end of the 1960s.

He stated: "Since this is the last board meeting of the decade, I wish to make some comments.

"This has been a decade of despair, turmoil and violence. The young people have tried to reinstate in us some of the idealisms we all grew up with.

"Hopefully we will at least listen to some of the morally sound truisms presented to us without closing our minds so blatantly. If these people are wrong, and I think they are sincerely honest, what has the future to offer both them and us?

"I hope that in all our judgments and considerations, we will act without malice, without any prejudice and without any personal gain. I hope that we will always see and hear people as human beings and not as any special segment of the population, and that our judgments will be made for the betterment of all and not one segment of the district.

"I finally hope that the next decade will be one which sees peace early in its beginning. My hopes are that we will see this totally inside and outside our country so that the fundamentals of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness may become a reality—and peace on Earth may be a yearly theme and not one just for the holiday seasons.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I bid you peace."

the eight minute period. Bill Martin, however, led a second quarter surge in the closing seconds with eight points as Watchung outscored Regional, 12-4, and left the court trailing only 32-30.

To say the least, Gov. Livingston was playing badly. They were never able to regain their first quarter form and continually watched the Warriors turnover for turnover. When Burdette was taken out after committing his fourth personal foul with 2:22 left in the third period, the Highlanders were obviously in trouble. Immediately, the Warriors took the lead and were still in front, 42-41, at the close of the quarter.

Burdette finally fouled out with 1:38 remaining, but not before he had given his team a 52-48 lead that would stand up for the rest of the game. Jeff finished with 15 points and eight assists while his teammate, Bill Trakimas, who started his first game, contributed 13. Trakimas partially compensated for bad games by Rich Weiss and Eric Wichelhaus who each scored only two points.

The Highlanders host North Plainfield on Friday and travel to Cranford on Tuesday. Although they beat both last season, coach Frank Petrucci's squad will have to play a better brand of basketball than they did against Watchung Hills.

points out, "My profession as an engineer and contractor was very helpful in my part in the planning and construction stages."

The pool is unique because it exists for the community use without cost to the non-participating taxpayer, he explained.

"Another benefit of the pool is the value added to every property in the borough," Wilhelms noted. "It definitely makes homes in our community more desirable."

Both the library and the pool were established by way of a municipal ordinance. The library was completed with the help of state aid while the construction and operation of the pool were financed through the individual membership fees.

THE STORM SEWER project which had been needed in the community for a good number of years, is now approximately two-thirds finished, the mayor explained. The cost has been in the area of $600,000 to $700,000 and will provide relief from flooding for all the homes in the community.

"The sewers were needed after the town became developed and more homes were built," the mayor explained. "The only solution was the system of pipes for the flooding streams," he added.

The parts of the system now completed have worked very well," Wilhelms pointed out, "and we took the worst areas first."

IN LEAVING THE OFFICE he has served in for five years after he succeeded Orlan Johnson, who resigned before completion of a full term, Wilhelms has contemplated the problems which the community will face in the future.

"None of Mountainside's future problems seems to be of major magnitude," the mayor commented. "The tax load the homeowner is being asked to bear is a difficult one and the community is going to have to avail itself of every reasonable opportunity to maintain a reasonable tax load on residential properties," he added.

Wilhelms offered two possible solutions to the tax-load problem. "We may need some form of state tax relief, perhaps some relief from sales tax funds," he said.

"Another possible answer," according to Wilhelms, "is an examination of the present ordinances. Perhaps revision is a practical answer." He went on to explain, "We don't want to change the character of the community but provide some relief from tax burdens and find a source of revenue in zoning revisions."

WILHELMS POINTED-OUT that the Union County Regional High School District also presents a problem to Mountainside citizens because of the treatment of local students.

"We want what has been promised by the regional school board," Wilhelms stressed, "that Mountainside children attend Gov. Livingston for the entire four years."

In discussing the viewpoint of the regional school board, regarding the necessity to maintain equal distribution of students, Wilhelms

A-MUSING from the desk

Christmas is a delight to the almost-two-year-old, as it is to nearly everyone else, but we can't help getting the feeling that they don't really quite grasp what's going on.

It's a time of experimentation, and they soon learn that tree lights get unpleasantly warm, and Christmas balls don't really bounce very well. Other "discoveries" include the fact pine needles leave something to be desired so far as taste goes, and that Christmas tree-climbing is severely frowned upon in parental circles.

When you're something under three feet high, you miss a lot. In the weeks before the holiday, shopping sprees consist mainly of being bundled up like a mummy and dragged in and out of stores full of toys you're not allowed to play with. If your mommy has a strong arm, you may get to see some of the goodies, but otherwise you'll spend most of your time frowning at the polished wood of store counters. They're putting nice wood in them these days, but it's not much for excitement.

When you're almost two, you hear a lot about "next year."

commented. "Maybe a better balance is good, but how do they explain David Brearley in Kenilworth?"

"The regional High School problem is the most far-reaching and the one most necessary to be solved," the mayor went on.

HIS OPINION as to the future of the State Highway Department's plans for the construction of a cloverleaf intersection at New Providence road and Rt. 22: "I have hope in the Cahill administration, for I hope he will appoint a man, knowledgeable in highway problems. The people we have worked with so far have been ill-suited for the problem."

Wilhelms has a high opinion of the people of his community, and declared, "I think the people of Mountainside have a great deal of enthusiasm. They have never failed to rally when community effort has been needed. They have shown every evidence of readiness to pay for improvements when necessary."

"I think they're a great bunch of people," he added. "For a metropolitan area, Mountainside is a unique community because of its size—you can do many things in a small town that can't be done elsewhere," he went on.

HIS FUTURE PLANS, Wilhelms revealed by saying, "I think I'm going to have to find something else to do with my leisure time now; I'm not going to get involved in public service for awhile."

"Now I'm going to have some time for a rest and I may not be able to stand it," he added with a chuckle.

"One of the joys of the office has been the opportunity to work with so many public spirited citizens and employees," he stated, "all of whom have done an excellent job."

"As long as people are unselfish and interested in their government, Mountainside will be a strong and good town," he concluded.

Christmas cookies are fun, particularly biting off the arms and legs of gingerbread men. While mommy sweats and counts the dozens, you can sit coolly on the kitchen floor and smear batter on your face.

If you happen to have a thing for screams, try going in the closet and yanking down a few of the pretty packages. Bouncing them around a few times often helps reveal just what's in them. But don't be too quiet about it, or they're bound to know you're up to something.

Churches are quiet and pretty places. The windows are full of colors, but you can't see through them. They smell funny but nice. Lots of ladies that look like Grandma are there. Your mommy may take you to see the baby and all the animals and the people with serious faces, but she won't let you play with them.

On Christmas morning mommy and daddy run around in their pajamas and tear open the boxes you got hollered at for tearing open, and throw paper and ribbons all over the place.

They won't even let you open your boxes at your own leisurely pace, but do it for you and shove stuff in your lap. They're nice gifts but they don't beat rolling vegetable cans on the kitchen floor, clanging pot lids together, or letting the sink run over.

Christmas, when you're almost two, involves a lot of people bouncing you around, pinching your cheeks, and yelling about how big you are, especially when you're not in the mood for that sort of thing.

When you're almost two, you hear a lot about "next year."

TINNITUS
A bothersome ringing in the ears or head noises, called tinnitus, (pronounced ti-ni-tus) is one of the most common complaints of patients with ear disorders. Its possible causes are many and varied, and often cannot be determined.

This aggravating disorder, usually in one ear only, often is characterized by a high-pitched whistle or ringing; however, it may be a low-pitched roar or buzz. These sounds, occurring steadily or intermittently, indicate that the entire inner ear is being stimulated by some type of general irritating factor.

Among known irritants, in some cases, are drugs such as aspirin and quinine, as well as such stimulants as tobacco, coffee, and tea when used to excess. Occasionally a person may experience head noises after eating a particular food to which he is allergic. Severe pollen allergies, which may cause blockage of a tube in the inner ear, or anxiety and over-fatigue, may also trigger tinnitus.

In tinnitus, overactivity of the ear's sensory cells sets off spontaneous discharges of nerve impulses, creating the illusion of sound. The patient may experience some loss of his normal hearing sensitivity and consequently may have some difficulty distinguishing words. However, his loss of hearing keenness fluctuates; it does not remain static for the duration of the disorder.

Although generally not a warning of a more serious disease, tinnitus may be a symptom of a systemic disorder. This can best be determined by a complete examination by the physician. Tinnitus often disappears of itself in time, however, your doctor may suggest methods for coping with your particular problem. Relaxation, outside interests, and pleasant sounds may alleviate somewhat the stress of head noises. In some cases, the physician may recommend hearing aid.

When tinnitus interrupts normal sleeping habits, a self-adjusting clock radio helps to cover head noises while the patient falls asleep.

Research into the prevention and treatment of tinnitus and related ear disorders is being conducted at the National Institutes of Health at Bethesda, Maryland. At present, the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke (NINDS) is supporting a number of research programs at medical institutions throughout the country aimed at the prevention, treatment and cure of ear disorders.

'Battle of Britain' starts at Mayfair

"The Battle of Britain," a star-filled epic about the finest hour of the Royal Air Force versus the Nazis, is the screen attraction this week at the Mayfair Theater, Hillside. The picture has such stars as Laurence Olivier, Michael Caine, Trevor Howard, Christopher Plummer, Susannah York, Robert Shaw, Michael Redgrave and Ralph Richardson. Guy Hamilton directed "The Battle of Britain" which was photographed in color.

Art shows movies for adults, kiddies

The Art Theater management in Irvington continues to show movies for adults and for children, individually. "I Am Curious (Yellow)," for adults, is being held over for the holiday season. The picture, filmed in Sweden, stars Lena Nyman, Borje Ahlstedt and Peter Lindgren. Vilgot Sjoman directed the movie in black and white. For the youngsters, "My Side of the Mountain" is being shown on Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 30 and 31 during matinee hours. Charlton Heston stars in "Planet of the Apes," matinees Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday (Jan. 1, 2, 3 and 4).

Millburn continues with 'Easy Rider'

"Easy Rider" continues as the holiday show at the Millburn Cinema in Millburn. The film, in color, tells a free-flowing, naturalistic story that turns into a chilling example of violent attitudes in America against people who are different. It concerns two motorcyclists who are interested in love and freedom, and who travel through the southwest, joined by a liberal attorney. Their image of America is fogged by an alternation between natural beauty and a backlash of bigotry. Peter Fonda and Dennis Hopper star (Hopper also directed "Easy Rider"), with Jack Nicholson in a stellar role.

Miss Streisand to play her first non-singing role

HOLLYWOOD --- "The Owl and the Pussycat," a Rastar Production for Columbia Pictures, is in production in New York City, with Barbra Streisand appearing in her first non-singing role, opposite George Segal, Ray Stark will produce and Herbert Ross will direct the color production, to be filmed entirely in Manhattan. Reunited for the satirical comedy are three of the principals from Columbia's smash hit of 1968, "Funny Girl," producer Stark, director Ross and Miss Streisand.

Change 'collars'

A Labor Department report indicates that one out of every five blue-collar workers is likely to switch into a white-collar position, with many taking a short-term pay cut. An improved financial situation resulting from steadier work, higher fringe benefits, and prospects for better long-run earning opportunities are some of the reasons workers make the job change.

THE THEATRE SEEN

INDIANS By ROBERT LYONS Using the form and style of a rip-snorting hell-bent-for-leather Wild West Show playwright Arthur Kopit roams the plains for the last half of the Nineteenth Century to bring us the most exciting play this season. It is called "Indians" and it's at the Brooks Atkinson Theatre.

Wild west shows actually evolved from the real life and times of the celebrated Buffalo Bill Cody, the man who single-handedly killed 4,000 buffalo and left the Indians with no food. Well, here he is ring center, Cody comes galloping on to tell it like he wishes it was. But a voice out in the theatrical darkness keeps making the old buffalo slayer revert to the facts of the final demise of the Indians, and he does with reluctant, though manly grace.

THE ACTION ALTERNATES scenes that cause bawling laughter with flashbacks of a pow-wow between the great Sioux chief, Sitting Bull, and a government commission sent to hear the Indians' grievances. On both levels of action Mr. Kopit reminds us we always must find it necessary to justify our legends. Then he pulls the blanket of lies out from under us.

One of the best scenes is the White House performance of a pot-boiler with Buffalo Bill and Wild Bill Hickok. Wild Bill keeps interrupting the proceedings with some of the saltiest, earthiest and funniest lines imaginable. Hickok is at least a man who is against perpetuating his own myth by playing himself on a stage. James J. Sloyan acts the part with hilarious low-brow dignity.

Stacy Keach meets the difficult physical demands made on him in the role of Buffalo Bill and still brilliantly conveys a haunted bravado. Manu Tupou is a God-sent, halcyon Sitting Bull even in a powerfully moving speech of irony and anguish in which he promises to live the way of the white man IF he receives the white man's goods and supplies and herds and food. Sam Waterston, as an educated Indian, has the impact of an arrow reached its mark. (Remarkably, he looks like an arrow.) Mr. Waterston possesses a jagged streak of charm that is hard to follow but well worth the effort. This is an actor to be watched.

GENE FRANKEL'S DIRECTION is a ritualistic stampede on Oliver Smith's raw planked platform thrust set that seems to stick its chin and jaws halfway into the audience. Buffalo Bill's wild west show is being performed in a ghost town, and earthy Tartarus. And Thomas Skelton's glaring light patterns contrasting with the dark onstage recesses make you feel you have wandered, unnoticed, into the middle of it all and are the only one watching the show. For "Indians" is an exorcism in echoes with the sound waves sounding clearer still in the Twentieth Century.

Hippie movie held in Elmora house

The holiday screen show at the Elmora Theater, Elizabeth, is being held over for a second week. The features are "Alice's Restaurant" and "Yellow Submarine." "Alice's Restaurant," a hippie movie, stars Arlo Guthrie (the script was expanded from his satirical record), Pat Quinn, James Broderick, Michael McClean, William Obanahan and Peter Seger. The picture was filmed in color and directed by Arthur Penn. "Yellow Submarine," an animated feature with the mod look of the 1960's cartoon figures of the Beatles, their own music, a feast of color and wit, concerns Pepperland, a peaceful home of the Lonely Hearts Club Band, which is attacked by the Blue Meanies. George Raining directed the movie.

Ormont continues with mad-mod film

The Ormont Theater in East Orange is holding over "Putney Swope," its holiday feature. The mad-mod comedy by satirist Robert Downey, takes a look at the black-white battleground of contemporary society. Arnold Johnson and Laura Greene head a huge cast. The picture was filmed in color and black and white.

Farm fire damages

NEW YORK---For such reasons as lack of fire-fighting facilities, less rigid wiring and construction standards and poorer heating equipment, fires in rural areas cause three to six times more damage on the average than fires in the cities, says the Insurance Information Institute. Farm fires caused a record $214 million damage in 1968.

Backyard foliage can be toxic to children, parents warned

Charles Dotto, Mountainside health officer, this week stated that "about 12,000 children every year ingest potentially-poisonous plants. A recent study of 100 child poisonings showed that nearly 10 percent or nine of the youngsters, had eaten toxic plants. Interestingly enough, in many of these cases, the children's parents had no idea that the plants were dangerous."

He added: "It's easy to be deceived by plants, for one part may be edible while another is poisonous. For example, twigs of cherry trees release cyanide when eaten. Peach tree leaves contain hydrocyanic acid, one of the most dangerous poisons known. Five children became ill recently after drinking tea brewed with hot water and peach leaves."

"Even two of our most popular vegetables, the potato and tomato, come from plants related to the deadly nightshade. Although fresh tomato fruits and potato tubers are harmless, the foliage and vines of both tomato and potato plants contain alkaloid poisons that can cause severe digestive upset and nervous disorder. Also in this category are decorative plants such as poinsettias and mistletoe, used around the holidays, that have caused fatalities."

"Most dangerous of all plants in the vegetable garden is rhubarb. Its stalk, commonly used in baking and cooking, of course is not toxic, but the leaf blade contains oxalic acid which crystallizes in the kidneys, causing severe damage."

"The greatest threats to children are plants with small, attractive poisonous berries. In Ohio, one summer, a little girl prepared a luncheon in the back yard. On a miniature plate she put an apple, a radish, and some berries she had picked from a shrub growing in her mother's rock garden. Four hours later she lapsed into a coma and within seven hours after the luncheon she was dead. An autopsy showed that the berries she had eaten were from the Daphne Mezereum plant. It is cultivated in back yards and also grows wild in thickets throughout the country."

"You can never know which plants are poisonous. Authorities are constantly adding new toxic plants to the list. It was not discovered until 1961 that the seeds of wisteria, a very common vine, are poisonous. Several children in New Jersey and the South became actually ill after eating only two seeds."

"The only safeguard is to keep all plants away from very small children who may nibble on them, and to teach children never to eat or put in their mouths any plant or berry not commonly used as food."

"Adults, of course, shouldn't make medicinal concoctions from plants or chew on plant stems. If someone does ingest a dangerous plant, call a physician immediately for his advice. It's not always advisable to induce vomiting, for some plants contain corrosive juices that could severely damage tissue of the digestive tract during vomiting."

Tavern got blasted

The British man-of-war Asia in 1775 fired a cannon ball through the roof of Frances Tavern; the building survived to become New York's oldest building, still standing in downtown Manhattan.

Flower survey planned

The annual survey of commercial flower production and sales value will begin in early January, according to the New Jersey Crop Reporting Service, which will conduct the survey in the Garden State.

THIS WEEK'S HEALTH NEWS

By FRED GREENBERG, R.P.

"My five-year-old son bumped his nose against a door in our house and his nose started to bleed. What should I have done to stop the bleeding?"

This question was asked by a visitor to our pharmacy this week, and today we'd like to discuss nosebleeds in general. For instance, if it's a simple nosebleed it can be stopped by pressing the nose together for about five or ten minutes with your thumb and forefinger. If this simple step doesn't work, call your doctor.

For most persons, a nosebleed isn't serious. Besides bumping one's nose, there are other causes such as the lack of moisture in winter air. But, as mentioned, if simple measures don't stop the bleeding, your doctor should be contacted because there is a possibility that the bleeding is further back in the nose and only he can give treatment to stop its flow.

And your doctor can give you the medical prescriptions which we will deliver promptly. Our pharmacy is PARK DRUGS, 225 Morris Ave. in the General Greene Shopping Center, Springfield. Our phone number is 379-4942.

School head urges a search for truth through reappraisal

Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, Mountainside superintendent of schools, offered his seasonal greetings to children, parents and all other residents of the borough in the monthly school system newsletter.

He stated:

SEASON'S GREETINGS—Usually, this is the time of the year for seasonal joy and happiness, the return of family members of whom we are away at school or pursuing their own families elsewhere; the exchange of gifts, the nostalgic memories of the concluding year, and enthusiastic plans for the New Year. All of these activities are important because they are part of the fabric that holds families together.

There is another aspect in which I am greatly interested. This holiday is particularly a time for reappraisal. It is not a sign of shallowness to re-examine things in a spirit of doubt. A man should never be ashamed to own that he has made a bad decision in the past, which is only saying in other words that he is wiser today than he was yesterday.

The essence of scientific method is a willingness to change one's mind in the light of new facts. We need to move our mental furniture around, and to make room for new pieces. Merely because a problem of education, economics, politics, business or personal relationship has always been solved in a certain way is no reason to believe that the solution represents the best judgment.

Some people make much of consistency, but it is better to be right than consistent. A man who boasts in old age of lifelong consistency to ideas picked up in childhood or in his early business or educational career is confessing that he has learned nothing in the school of experience.

If we are really serious about this reappraisal activity, then, perhaps, the following New York Life Insurance Company's seasonal prayer seems to be appropriate:

"Let us pray that strength and courage abundant be given to all who work for a world of reason and understanding; that the good

Collision causes vehicle to end up on lawn of motel

One person was injured in a two-car collision last Monday on Rt. 22 east at the Colonial Motel, the Springfield Police Department reported.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Ronald Underwood, 37, of Newark, pulled into the right lane in front of a vehicle operated by George J. Gerstner, 22, of Irvington, police said. Gerstner's car struck Underwood's car in the rear and then rolled off the road onto the lawn of the motel.

The injured, Judy Jones, 23, of Blountville, Tenn., was a passenger in the Gerstner car and was taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, by the Springfield First Aid Squad.

The Gerstner car sustained damages to the front end while the Underwood car received rear end damage.

LAST SATURDAY, an accident occurred on Springfield avenue, police said, when a car driven by Florence M. Harris, 55, of Maplewood, was struck in the rear while waiting for a light by a vehicle operated by Robert Twitty of 646 S. Springfield ave., Springfield.

Mountain avenue was the scene last Sunday of a two-car accident when a car driven by Patricia M. Johns, 32, of 973 Chimney Rock rd., Springfield, struck a parked car, owned by Jean Malorotsky, 53, of 387 Mountain ave., Springfield, police said.

Police reported that the Johns' car was damaged on the right side and the Malorotsky car sustained left-rear damage.

Another accident took place at the intersection of Mountain avenue and Shunpike road on Wednesday, police reported, when a vehicle operated by Thomas J. Romano, 17, of Summit was struck in the side by a car driven by Marion G. Porter, 47, of West Orange.

The Romano car received damages to the front end while the Porter vehicle sustained rear end damage.

ALSO ON WEDNESDAY, an accident occurred at the intersection of Meisel and Wabeno avenues when a car driven by Whitney J. Schryver, 23, of Springfield, struck a traffic sign. Police said that a summons had been issued to the driver for careless driving. The car, which sustained extensive front end damage, was towed away.

Milltown road on Friday was the site of another accident, police reported, when a car driven by Robert M. Craddock, 17, of Berkeley Heights, was struck in the right front by a car driven by Ronald G. Dimschat, 46, of Pottsville, police said.

On Friday, an accident took place on Rt. 22 east when a vehicle operated by Frank Romano, 53, of Berkeley Heights while traveling east on the highway, struck the center island in an attempt to avoid hitting a disabled car. The Romano car then struck a speed limit sign, police said.

The Romano car sustained front end damage and was towed away.

Nuclear power plant placed in operation; second planned

Jersey Central Power & Light Co. this week announced that its 530,000-kilowatt Oyster Creek nuclear station has been placed in commercial operation and that a second nuclear unit will be built at the same location.

Ralph F. Bovier, president of JCP&L, said that the first Oyster Creek station had passed the "100-hour" test on Dec. 27 and was placed in commercial service at 12:01 a.m., Tuesday, Dec. 23. He also announced that Combustion Engineering, Inc., had been selected to supply the nuclear steam supply system for the second unit.

The new station, which will have a capability of 1,190,000 kilowatts and will be built at an estimated cost of $260 million, is scheduled for completion in 1976. According to Bovier, the utility expects to apply to the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission next July for a construction license and that contingent on AEC approval, construction should start in the summer of 1971. Test Borings at the site already are under way.

Oyster Creek No. 1 is located on an 800-acre site bounded on the east by Rt. 9, on the west by the Garden State Parkway, on the north by the South Branch of the Forked River and on the south by Oyster Creek.

The second unit as presently planned will be located across Rt. 9 from the first station on a site which will have approximately the same north and south boundaries. It will be bounded on the west by Rt. 9 and on the east by Barnegat Bay.

As previously announced by JCP&L, when the second unit is completed, cooling water for both units will be taken from Barnegat Bay via the South Branch of the Forked River and discharged into the ocean by means of a pipeline which will extend approximately 2,000 feet offshore. Until the second unit is completed, cooling water will be taken from and returned to Barnegat Bay.

While the proposed unit will be the second nuclear unit for Jersey Central Power & Light Co., it will be the fourth in the system owned by General Public Utilities Corp., parent company of JCP&L, New Jersey Power & Light Co., Metropolitan Edison Co., Reading, Pa., and Pennsylvania Electric Co., Johnstown, Pa.

Day Care Center lists contributions at one-third of goal

At a meeting of the board of trustees of The Westfield Day Care Center held at Temple Emanuel recently, Mrs. Stephen Perry, chairman of the finance committee, reported that to date contributions, including pledges, amounted to approximately one-third of the $20,000 goal for the 1969-1970 year.

Mrs. Gardiner Cunningham, president, emphasized that "memorial contributions have been of tremendous help to the center. The memorial portfolio carries the recording of each gift and is kept at the center. Such memorial bequests are an excellent means of honoring loved ones and, at the same time, contributing to the development of young children in our community."

Mrs. Leland Beach, admissions chairman, has released flyers to Westfield kindergarten children who will be changed over to the morning sessions on Feb. 2. All working mothers or families needing afternoon care for kindergartners at the Presbyterian Church Center have been urged to contact either Mrs. Beach (232-8108) or Mrs. Joseph Wilson, director (232-6717) without delay. While there is a waiting list for the Madison Avenue Center, there are vacancies at the Kindergarten Center. Transportation is furnished from the schools to the church.

Readers may send their tax-deductible contributions to the Westfield Day Care Center, Inc., 140 Madison ave., Westfield.

THE NEW YEAR

We come to the New Year, a turning point in the recording of a man's time on earth. It is a time of gaiety, optimism and, rightfully, reflection.

If we are to achieve much in the year 1970, we must profit from the lessons and the experiences of the year that is ending. We look to the future, but we must build on the past.

Things left undone in 1969 do not disappear when a new date appears on the calendar. The wise man will begin the New Year with a fair appraisal of himself and the world in which he lives. A New Year is born January 1; yet we as individuals enter this new era essentially the same — with the same strength, with the same weaknesses.

The best beginning for a New Year is the simple resolution that one shall make a better effort to be a better person, to live a better life, if such a resolution is fulfilled, 1970 will be a year of success and achievement.

Florida man facing drunk driving count

Springfield police reported the arrest of Arthur W. Milford Jr., of St. Petersburg, Fla., last Sunday, on the charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol and taking a car without the owner's consent. Milford, who identified himself as a salesman, was arrested at 11:25 p.m. at the White Diamond Diner by Officer Edward Kisch. The accused was charged with the removal of a blue Chevrolet from the home of D. C. Lester, 200 Balfour way.

Last Monday, the local authorities arrested Edward Kucinski of Scotch Plains, following a complaint by the Channel Lumber Co. Kucinski, 56 and a former employee of the store, was charged with embezzling. The accused was released in his wife's custody and a court date was set for Jan. 5.

Dr. J. Campbell Howard Jr., of 1434 Fernwood rd., Mountainside, spoke recently at the annual meeting of the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine in Scottsdale, Ariz.

He stated that since the heart is the philosophic seat of the emotions, anything affecting it evokes an emotional response. Conversely, anything affecting the emotions affects the heart physically.

There are certain phases of coronary artery disease where a sedative, a tranquilizer, an anti-depressant or a combination of these may be appropriate. However, he explained, since anxiety and depression so often co-exist, consideration should be given to one of the perphenazine-amitriptyline combinations, which have proven effective in these combined states. But even the best of these compounds, Dr. Howard concluded, requires the appropriate psychotherapy of a good patient-physician relationship.

Dr. Howard is medical director of Schering Laboratories, a division of Schering-Corporation, and serves on the staff of St. Barnabas Hospital, the Bronx.

He is a fellow of the American Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine, the American College of Cardiology.

Dr. Howard received his BA degree from Williams College in 1943 and his MD degree from New York Medical College in 1946. His military service during 1946-1949 with the U.S. Army included assignments as chief of medicine at Boringue Field, Puerto Rico, and chief of cardiology at Mitchell Air Field, New York.

Dr. Howard is married to the former Miriam D. Wade of Glen Rock. They have three children.

Mrs. Spagna, 77, services are held

Survivors are four sons, Robert, with whom she made her home, Louis of Chatham, Alfred of Millington and Francis of Pawnee, Okla.; a brother, Louis Scarpino of Mount Vernon, N.Y., and eight grandchildren.

Truckers note drop in income

Washington, D. C. — Although its gross revenue was the highest ever, the nation's trucking industry in 1969 was caught in a "profit squeeze" and net income fell some $36 million below 1968.

William A. Bresnahan, managing director of American Trucking Associations, described 1969 as "a year of mixed results."

"While gross revenues for trucking companies subject to ICC regulation are expected to be up approximately eight percent—to $13.3 billion from the preceding year's $12.4 billion," Bresnahan said, "net income is likely to be around $240 million. This compares with $276 million in 1968. Expenses rose in every quarter and will close the year up more than 10 percent."

"Increased equipment costs, higher operating costs, increased labor costs and higher taxes have caught the trucking industry in a genuine profit squeeze," Bresnahan said. "We have just about reached the optimum in our productive capabilities. We have sought—and are seeking—relief from Congress on the present restrictive 'freeze' on truck sizes and weights. Aside from rate increases, this is the only way in which the industry can relieve this squeeze."

FAMILY POT LUCK BY HELEN HALE

You can bake meat loaf in half the time by cooking in a 9 inch square pan in flat layer or in muffin pans instead of shaping in one large loaf. Let roast beef can go into sandwich filling. Grind or chop finely the cooked meat, then mix with one-fourth cup of chopped cabbage, three tablespoons chopped pickle and one tablespoon finely chopped onion, all moistened with one-third cup of mayonnaise.

Try dipping your favorite fish fillets in rolled cereal flakes. The nutty flavor of the cereal brings out the subtle flavor of either baked or fried fish.

Canned beef stew can be made more appealing and appetizing by adding mushrooms and—seasoned—mashed potatoes, fluted or in rosette fashion, atop the stew.

Meatball Minestrone: 1/2 pound ground beef Salt and pepper 1 soup can water 1 can (10 3/4 ounces) condensed minestrone soup Season beef with salt and pepper; shape into 18 small meatballs. In pan, brown meatballs (use shortening if necessary) and cook for 5 minutes. Pour off fat. Push meatballs to one side; stir in soup and water. Heat; stir low and then. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

JUST ENJOY HER FRIENDSHIP

Dear Amy: I am in the ninth grade and for three years I have secretly loved a girl at school. In the past years she has been in some of my classes, but this year she is in none of my classes. Getting back to the point again, I beg you please to tell me how I can tell her of my feelings. I cannot find the words, courage or the proper time. What really bothers me is, that she is liked by everyone (I liked as a friend, not loved), and I am not only not liked by everyone, not everyone knows me as they do her. Please help me because you are the very last person I can turn to.

Mike

Dear Mike: From a gal in the know, the following advice should be helpful: If you could find the words, the courage or the proper time, it may not be appreciated simply because very young girls, at their tender age, do not have the capacity to appreciate a boy's feelings. Further the girl in question does not yet know how to accept love. You will have to wait a few years until she is able to cope with the feelings that you have for her. I tell you this so that you can continue to enjoy her friendship, otherwise, due to the reasons I mentioned, she may not want to share your friendship any longer. So I suggest that you enjoy her and keep your secret a while longer.

Increase is noted in nonagricultural payroll employment

Estimates prepared by the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry showed non-agricultural payroll employment (excluding farm, domestic, self-employed, and unpaid family workers) at 2,575,800 in November, a gain of 1,600 over the October level. This rise was due largely to increases in the number of workers in the trade, government and food industries. Jobholdings were up 49,900 or 1.9 percent from the November 1968 level.

The number of workers employed in manufacturing dropped to 893,000, about 400 below the October level. Strikes and layoffs hampered the durable goods sector (down 2,500 to 459,400), with fabricated metals, nonelectrical machinery and miscellaneous manufacturing having the largest declines.

Strike settlements in the food, rubber and paper products industries caused a higher employment level in nondurable goods, which offset some of the decline in the durable goods sector. Also a large firm in the paper products industry moved its administrative headquarters into the state providing additional employment. Smaller increases were evident in some of the other industries.

Nonmanufacturing still rose, but at a lower rate than last month's. Nonfactory employment was up 2,000 to 1,682,800 for November with most of the gain in trade and government. New store openings and seasonal hirings gave wholesale and retail trade a gain of 4,600 over the month, which more than covered the decline of the eating-drinking places. Hirings by post offices and schools increased government employment by 3,800 to 358,400. Construction and Service declined as the onset of colder weather restricted their operations.

Production workers received an average weekly wage of $136.78 this November and worked a slightly longer week. An increase of $0.03 brought average hourly earnings to $3.32 and contributed to the $1.56 over-the-month gain in average weekly earnings. The aircraft industry rose $20.23 due to a large amount of overtime and increased wages. Other industries with substantial gains included grain mill products with a $19.26 increase and the plastic industry with a rise of $11.56. Both of these industries had increases because of overtime and higher wages.

The workweek was longer in all three industries and hourly earnings were higher too. A sharp drop in overtime in the soap and perfume industry caused weekly earnings to go down $10.07 to $133.45 with a two hour shorter workweek and an $0.08 drop in hourly earnings.

Compared with November 1968, average weekly earnings were $6.49 higher this November with a slightly shorter workweek and a $0.15 increase in average hourly earnings.

Dear Mrs. D. E.: There are few families who do not squabble at one time or another. However, do not return the pieces of china your aunt gave you even though she did not complete the set as she said she would. You accepted them graciously and it would be very ungracious to return them. Forget it!

Dear Amy: I'm asking your advice because I never see my family to ask them. My husband and I have been married four years and all this time we have lived near his family. The last time I saw any of my family was three years ago. My husband's family is not very friendly toward me. When I go over there, I feel like I'm in the way because they make me feel this way. I have asked my husband to move. He uses the excuse we have too many bills, but I know we don't have that many. An Outsider

Dear Outsider: "Moving" is not the answer to your problem. They are "your" family now also, and I'm inclined to think that you have made little effort to accept them. Until you are friendlier, you will not be truly content, nor will your husband. There is no reason not to visit your parents, is there? By all means if you are suffering homesickness pangs, make arrangements to see them soon... and more often.

Boating course registration open

Watching Power Squadron, a unit of the United States Power Squadrons, will conduct a free course in small boat handling, piloting, marine compass and safety at sea at the David Breenley Regional High School, 383 Monroe Ave., Kenilworth.

Registration for classes will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. next Monday. The first class (and late registration) will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 12.

New Jersey Education Association maps out its teaching standard goals

The New Jersey Education Association has begun a long-term project to improve teaching standards and the quality of what happens in New Jersey classrooms.

Immediate goals of the study call for bringing college preparation of teachers closer to real school and community situations. The project may also pave the way for better evaluation, supervision, and assistance to make sure teachers are succeeding with the children they teach.

Eventual recommendations from the NJEA project may give teachers more responsibility to police their own ranks and to bar the door to poor prospects.

"Teachers resent loose talk about 'accountability,'" claims Barbara Bates, the former Ewing Twp. teacher engaged by NJEA to direct the project.

"Teachers need greater say on who is admitted to their profession. They also want to be able to choose the instructional tools -- such as textbooks -- that they know will do the most effective job."

"They want education majors at New Jersey colleges exposed to more realistic classroom training situations. They want future teachers who are sensitive to the needs of all kinds of young people."

"Teachers cannot be accountable for the end result until they, themselves, can decide who comes into teaching," claims Miss Bates.

IN ADDITION TO FINDING ways to improve the preparation that future teachers get while in college, the NJEA study will focus on methods of up-grading the in-service training they later receive on the job. The project was requested by NJEA's Committee on Teacher Education and Professional Standards.

Another top-priority goal is to improve licensing and tenure for teachers. At present, a candidate gets full teacher certification for passing college courses. NJEA wants him first to prove his ability to teach. A teacher now earns tenure by completion of three years in the classroom. NJEA wants to make sure he has demonstrated his professional competence.

"Laws and procedures now exist to screen out poor prospects, but they are not always enforced," says the NJEA representative. "This may mean that the teaching profession will have to establish strong self-policing channels rather than depending on the state government."

The principal must have "immediate authority" over all school facilities, programs, personnel, visitors, and students, the NJEA report insists, explaining:

"The building principal is responsible for the safety of the school. He must have sufficient authority to act as quickly and decisively as circumstances warrant. As his responsibilities increase, so must his authority."

The principal must also have the power "to experiment, make changes, institute reforms, and innovate in school programs and procedures."

IN SUPERVISING his staff, says the NJEA report, the principal should interview teaching prospects and select those to be assigned to his school. His recommendations should determine promotions and assignments in his school and whether or not his teachers be granted tenure.

The principal should have emergency powers to obtain needed supplies and -- when his classrooms are not all staffed -- substitute teachers.

As educational problems grow, says the NJEA, "the need increases for the principal's advice to be heard at all levels of policy-making." Not only should the principal have free access to administrative superiors; he also has the right to a voice in their selection and to insist that these superiors be competent.

When controversy erupts, NJEA says, the principal is entitled to expect support from administrators and board members -- especially when the cause of the problem is a board policy. If teachers dissent, says the report, their actions should be "irresponsible."

THE "BEST" PRINCIPAL once was the most dictatorial; the NJEA report says. But to succeed today the principal needs "the ability to lead rather than dictate."

"The modern principal is a cooperative change agent. He turns people on, not off; helps hold them up, not down. He works to divert energies into constructive channels, to keep school programs in balance and on course."

With teachers, the principal should be a "team leader," says the NJEA report. With students he must be "fair, reasonable, and consistent -- always seeking an approach that enhances self-respect."

"Today's principal must deal with people by reason, knowledge, flexibility, persuasion, and complete integrity."

THE NJEA POLICY statement urges teachers, school boards, and school officials to support the rights of the principal so he can use his "unique blend of leadership and authority" to improve school quality.

The report was developed by the NJEA Committee on Working Conditions. William Tetley, a teacher in Deerfield School, Mountainside, was chairman. Members were: Mrs. Barbara Barnes, a teacher in the Readington Twp. elementary school; Raymond Baumrind, principal of Seventh Ave. Junior High School, Newark; Mrs. Sara Katz, a teacher at Land O'Pines School, Howell Twp.; Clarence Martin, supervisor of instruction at the New Lisbon Colony; Wayne Newland, vice-principal of Muschel Elementary School, Bordentown; Harry Selover, principal of Merriman School, Newton; Stephen Stripp, a teacher at Essex County Vocational High School, Irvington; and Frank Weinstamer, superintendent of schools in East Brunswick.

NJEA for granting of stronger rights to school principal

The New Jersey Education Association is urging stronger rights for the public-school principal so that he can operate effectively while "facing new challenges in a time of deep and rapid change."

A principal cannot be effective if he is expected just to be a business manager or recreation director, warns a new NJEA report. He must have security, authority, and full command of basic minimum rights.

Extend deadline on car inspection

Passenger cars due for inspection during December have been given a grace period ending Jan. 10 because of the days inspection stations were closed during the holidays, according to June Strelecki, director, Division of Motor Vehicles.

The extension applies only to passenger cars due for inspection in December.

Motor vehicle inspection stations and driver qualification centers will resume regular daytime and evening operating schedules Saturday, she said. The stations were to be closed Jan. 1 and 2 to observe the New Year holiday.

Pedestrian peril highest in winter

"Pedestrian deaths reach their peak in winter months," E. J. Valle of the New Jersey Automobile Club, AAA, said this week. The increase is attributed to a combination of two major factors -- fatigue and poorer visibility, especially in heavy rush hour traffic.

The AAA official urged motorists and pedestrians to take it easy in bad weather. Valle suggested that many pedestrians would be better off without umbrellas in rainy weather for they tend to block vision. "Clear, plastic, see-through umbrellas could be used to assure maximum clear visibility during rainy weather," he said.

AAA also urged all organizations whose employees' work takes them into traffic at night as pedestrians to provide reflectorized apparel or markings to make them highly visible at night.

Game of 'numbers' follows snowstorm

Don't hang up your telephone if you fail to get dial tone during a snow storm, says New Jersey Bell.

Heavy snow increases calling, and occasionally overloads lines, but the situation is generally a brief one. Hang on and you will get dial tone.

Another suggestion from the telephone company: Bring your personal directory up to date now if you want to be ahead of the game when snow falls. The minute the weather turns bad, many persons call directory assistance for cab telephone numbers, or for the numbers of bus companies to find out about bus schedules.

Update your personal directory now and have it on hand beside your phone, the company advised, and when the white stuff falls -- as it did last week -- you'll avoid running into a delay reaching directory assistance.

Past experience has shown that telephone calls increase substantially during snowy weather, the company said, and in a heavy downfall, the number increases by millions.

Soutar retires at NCE, now business manager

Herbert B. Soutar of Montclair, business manager of Newark College of Engineering, will retire in June after 20 years of service with the institution.

Dr. Robert W. Van Houten, president of the college, noted that Soutar will be among those reaching the retirement age of 65 this year, a group that also includes Dr. Van Houten himself.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a problem and I wish to have an opinion, please. I met this boy in 1967 and we went steady for a year. He two-timed me, and then we broke up. We kept dating, however, and acted just like we were still going steady. I went out with another guy, and now I feel guilty. We had made plans to get married, then started arguing so much we called it off. I want to marry him. He promised to marry me, he now says he loves me very much, but won't say anything about getting married. Am I being too pushy?"

OUR REPLY: If he promised to marry you, but won't say when, you may be in a rocking chair before he takes you to the altar. If you have been dating for two years and he has promised to marry you, you are entitled to more than a promise. Tell him so, and, if he still refuses to set a date, you can be pretty sure that he never will. One thing you can be sure of - if he really loves you, he won't let you get away... if he doesn't love you, then you are better off if you break up for good.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Fruits, vegetables are plentiful this month

An array of fruits and vegetables will fill the January plentiful foods list, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. The month's features will be fresh oranges and orange products and grapefruit, reports Ann L. Sheelen, County

Home economist. Other plentifuls include apples, winter pears, canned pears, canned tomatoes and tomato products, broiler-fryers, dry beans, dry peas and lentils. Delicious oranges and grapefruit will be bountiful in January. These tasty fruits make for good eating 'round the clock. Apple growers are harvesting the largest crop this year in many years and supplies will still be plentiful in January. An estimated 269,000 tons of Bartlett pears were received by California canners this year.

This canned tonnage total has been exceeded in only two prior years, 1956 and 1964. Heavy supplies of canned pears will be available at the markets in January. Winter pears will also be bountiful. Canned tomatoes and tomato products will remain on the plentiful foods list. The carry-over of processed tomato items was heavy this season and a large pack is expected this year. Broiler-fryer marketings are expected to run high in January. A good selection will be found at the meat counters. Dry beans, dry peas and lentils are also carryovers from last month's list. Supplies will be ample for all cooking needs.

Y opens enrollments Friday for choice of summer camps

Enrollment for accommodations this summer at the five New Jersey YMHA-YWHA camps in the Poconos, will begin Friday, it was announced by Mitchell Jaffe, executive director of the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA in Union, one of 16 Ys affiliated with the Y camps.

He advised parents to "apply early because the Y camps, an organization sponsored by the New Jersey Federation of YM-YWHAs, anticipates the largest registration in its half century of service."

Applications will be accepted for either four or eight weeks at the following camps, each of which serves a specific age group of boys and girls on a coordinate basis: At Lake Como, Pa. -- Camp Round Lake for seven to nine year olds; Camp Long Lake for 10s and 11s. At Milford, Pa. -- Camp Nah Jee Wah from 10 to 12; Cedar Lake Camp, 12 to 14; Teen Camp, 14 to 16.

A prerequisite for Camp Round Lake is the completion of the first grade and for Teen Camp, completion of the ninth.

Emphasizing that "the choice of a summer camp is a vital one for both parent and child," Jaffe described the Y camps as "an outstanding comprehensive camping service, professionally staffed and structured to relate to the special recreational, educational and character building requirements of today's children."

"Another reason for promptness in enrollment," Jaffe said, "is that registration for the next season is proceeding simultaneously at the 16 affiliated Ys. Only Y members are eligible and they will be accepted on the basis of first come, first served."

Labor Department offers information on wage-hour law

SAN DIEGO -- Administrator Robert D. Moran of the Labor Department's Wage-Hour Division has invited employers who are unsure of their obligations under the federal wage-hour law to contact the division's compliance officers for assistance.

Speaking before the San Diego Employers Association, Moran said, "I hope business leaders will get into the habit of voluntarily coming to the Wage-Hour Division with their problems under the Fair Labor Standards Act."

He added, "I am convinced that the vast majority of violations that occur each year are the result of lack of information on the law or erroneous interpretation or application in an individual situation."

Moran said he had noted "a certain reluctance on the part of businessmen to seek the advice of a federal agency which has enforcement powers over them. They reason that they will likely be hit by an investigation if they let it be known that they have some doubts about their compliance with the law."

Assuring his audience that this was not the case, Moran said, "As a matter of fact, we are so anxious to encourage employers to seek our assistance that we even make a calculated effort to avoid investigation of a firm that comes to us in good faith asking our help."

Moran acknowledged that there is ample reason for confusion over the law. "Congress has given us a law to administer and enforce which contains about 30,000 words of fine print -- one of the most detailed and complicated statutes on the books of this country."

Runnells Hospital again accredited for three-year term

Waldo R. McNutt, superintendent of the John E. Runnells Hospital of Union County, Berkeley Heights, announced this week he had received notification from John D. Porterfield, M.D., director of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, that the hospital has been reaccredited for the full term of three years.

The hospital was surveyed by Dr. Kirby S. Howlett on Oct. 27 and 28. The commission, in its letter to the superintendent, said: "The commission wishes to commend you for maintaining standards deserving of accreditation and for your constant effort to improve the quality of patient care. Please be assured of our interest and of our willingness to be of all possible help to you."

The commission also said that "the plans for upgrading the operating room and recovery room for developing an intensive care unit, and for expanding and improving physical therapy rehabilitation are noted and commended. Implementation of these plans should be expedited."

Ernest S. Hickok, president of the Runnells board of managers, said: "The inspection and approval of the John E. Runnells Hospital of Union County by the Joint Commission is a guarantee to the people of Union County that this hospital meets the highest standards of patient care. It is evidence that the medical and hospital people responsible for this care are constantly on guard, assuring the patient, their families and the public that the hospital is well-run, well-organized, well-equipped and well-staffed. I congratulate the superintendent, the medical staff, and all of the employees upon this attainment."

Tibetan finds new home

Saga of Union C. freshman

When the Chinese took over Tibet in 1959, Lobsang Dorje escaped with friends to India. He was 14. Lobsang is now a freshman at Union College. How he came to the Cranford campus is the story of many people, but primarily of an optimistic young man with a lot of good fortune.

The unexpected invasion by the Chinese found Lobsang and some friends away from their village of Lhasa. When they attempted to return, they found Chinese soldiers had closed off the town. So the boys escaped to Bhutan; from there they moved to India. They took no belongings and had no opportunity to tell their families they were leaving. To this day, Lobsang has not been able to make contact with his parents.

"They don't even know that I'm alive," he says.

Arriving in Dharamsala, India, Lobsang stayed with friends and worked for seven years in the Tibetan Refugee Office, where he was in contact with the Dalai Lama, religious leader of Tibet, who was also forced to flee the Chinese.

REALIZING THAT a good education is the first step in achieving a good life, Lobsang determined to come to the U.S. His educational opportunities in India were limited to a Peace Corps School where he studied English one hour a week.

Through friends, Lobsang was able to find a sponsor for his entry into the U.S. He arrived here two years ago and was admitted to a special program in English and government at Cornell University.

Another friend, American Buddhist Jeffrey Hopkins, arranged for Lobsang to attend Wilbraham Academy in Massachusetts last year.

While the Tibetan population in the U.S. is small, ties are close. And it was through the efforts of another Tibetan, Geshe La Wangyal, noted scholar and Buddhist monk, and Hopkins, that Lobsang came to the attention of Union College. He hopes to earn an associate in arts degree in liberal arts and then go on to a four-year college.

Lobsang's plans for the future are vague. Hope of returning to Tibet is pretty dim. He does talk of returning to India to teach Tibetan refugees, but also considers the possibility of staying in the U.S., where he has been very happy.

Lobsang has found Americans friendly and kind. He is particularly grateful for the friendship extended by Cranford Committeeman Malcolm Pringle, whose family opened their home to him.

Computer-van visit lets doctors study, treat test cases

"Computer-Van," a new method of continuing education for physicians and dentists, will come to Elizabeth General Hospital, Elizabeth, Monday for a two-week stay. "Computer-Van" was built and equipped by the Academy of Medicine of New Jersey with the aid of a grant from the New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society.

Many cancer cases are available to the doctors as simulated patients through use of computers. The physician "examines" the patient, orders the diagnostic procedures and obtains instant results. He then selects the treatment of his choice and the results of this action are presented instantaneously by the computer. Four continuous projection programs illustrate various types of cancer, as well as other aspects of malignant disease.

The simulated patient cases have been written by New Jersey physicians of international repute. This new concept in education provides physicians and dentists with the opportunity to keep up on the latest techniques in cancer care more efficiently and at no charge.

The van will be located in the doctors' parking lot at Elizabeth General Hospital and is open to any physician and dentist in the area. The van will visit at least one hospital in each of the 21 counties in the state during 1969-70.

Choral Art Society to present concert

The Choral Art Society of New Jersey, under the musical direction of Evelyn Bleeke, will present its winter concert Saturday, Jan. 10 at 8:30 p.m., at the Westfield High School, Dorlan road, Westfield. Works to be performed are Leonard Bernstein's "Chichester Psalms" and Ernest Bloch's "Sacred Service".

Artists will include Robert S. MacDonald, associate organist-choir director of the Riverside Church in New York City, Don S. Decker, cantor of Temple Emanu-El, Westfield, Kathleen Brice, concert harpist, and Ann Mineur Weeks, soprano soloist.

Orchestration will be played on organ accompanied by harp, tympani and percussion. A new electronic organ designed by the Allen Organ Co. will be used for this performance.

Tickets will be available at the door beginning at 8 p.m.

While Lobsang's official address is a Buddhist Monastery in Farmingdale, his home while at college is with the Pringles.

Mrs. Pringle describes him as helpful and pleasant.

"He fits easily into our family," she says. "There is a mutual exchange that makes this a happy experience for all of us."

Lobsang, Mrs. Pringle adds, is very easy to please and very appreciative of everything. He eats everything, but is particularly happy when she makes Oriental or Japanese dishes, which are similar to Tibetan cooking.

NOT TOO MUCH in America reminds Lobsang of Tibet. He notes a big difference between the modern U.S. and Tibet, which he says "is a very, very old country."

Perhaps because of the circumstances which led him to leave his homeland, he is most impressed with the participation by Americans in their government.

"Not in Tibet," he says wistfully.

But Lobsang does not want to lose his Tibetan heritage and spends much of his free time at the Farmingdale monastery where he studies the history and culture of Tibet.

At 24, Lobsang Dorje has seen and experienced more of this world than most young men. Not all of it has been pleasant or easy. Yet his open smile, his quiet confidence in himself and in the basic goodness of others show he has not been daunted.

Florida movie tour scheduled Sunday at Trailside Center

"Fabulous Florida," a color, sound movie, will be shown at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, Sunday, at 2 p.m.

The film takes the viewer on a tour of Florida, showing skyscraper cities, citrus groves, the flowers and birds of the Sarasota Jungle Gardens and resort areas.

Also on Sunday at 3 and 4 p.m., Donald W. Mayer, director of Trailside, assisted by Elmer Van Gilder, educational assistant, will conduct a program, "Sun, Moon and Eclipse," in the Trailside Planetarium. The lecturers will discuss the "why and how" of eclipses of the sun and moon. The same program will be presented at 4 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 8, and at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The planetarium can seat only 50 at a performance so it is necessary to obtain a ticket from the Trailside office on the day of the show. Tickets are issued on a first-come, first-served basis. Children under eight years of age are not permitted in the Planetarium chamber.

The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public each weekday, except Friday, from 3 to 5 p.m., and on Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m.

Three are named to Chamber posts

Carl W. Broeker, president of the Eastern Union County Chamber of Commerce, has announced the election of a new vice-president and two directors to fill vacancies created by recent resignations.

Carlton S. Stallard, chairman of the board of Jersey Mortgage Co., has been named vice-president, Community Development Department, to replace Joseph P. O'Hara, president of the Harmonia Savings Bank.

Directors elected were Robert F. McCarthy, new plant manager of GAF, Linden, to succeed Lester B. Woolfenden, who retired as GAF manager, and Thomas M. Jordan, vice-president-Personnel, Sea-Land Services, Inc., to replace Joseph P. O'Hara.

Siburn will direct biology task force

Prof. John Siburn of Westfield, chairman of the Biology Department at Union College, Cranford, has been named co-chairman of the New Jersey Region of the National Task Force of Two-Year College Biologists.

The task force was recently organized to increase the awareness and involvement of two-year college biologists in professional activities and to work with the American Institute of Biological Sciences in the development of activities pertinent to the two-year college biologist.

Prof. Siburn, a member of the Union College faculty since 1959, is a graduate of Fordham University with a bachelor of science degree in biology. He received his master of science degree in botany from Rutgers University. He has taken extensive post-graduate work and is currently matriculating for a doctoral degree at Rutgers.

During his military service, Prof. Siburn was cited by the Surgeon General of the U.S. Army for his research in the field of pathology.

A LONG WAY FROM TIBET--Lobsang Dorje watches television with his American family in Cranford. something that would have been inconceivable to him ten years ago when he fled across the mountains in Tibet to escape the Chinese invaders. Lobsang is living with Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Pringle while he attends Union College. Pictured with Lobsang are the Pringle children, from left, Carol, Malcolm Jr. and David. The family pet is Caesar. Township Committeeman Pringle is scheduled to become Cranford's mayor New Year's Day.

UC students plan their own 'court'

Union College, Cranford, students who violate college rules and regulations will now be judged by their peers.

Four students in the day session have been elected to the college's first judicial committee. The committee will hear and consider offenses or infractions of college regulations or conduct and will recommend punitive action when the need is indicated.

The entire committee will also include two representatives of the evening session, and six representatives of the administration. Acting Dean Elmer Wolf will serve as a non-voting member.

Elected from the Day Session were Michael Caggiano of Jersey City, William Stone of 613 Newman pl., Roselle, Ronald Thatcher of Westfield, and Kenneth Hart of Glen Ridge. Caggiano, Stone, and Thatcher are all members of Alpha Sigma Mu, veteran's fraternity at Union College.

All four are majoring in liberal arts at Union College.

Another Nobel Prize among the UN laurels

The United Nations family has added another Nobel Prize to its trophy cabinet.

Shortly after the Nobel Peace Prize was won recently by the UN's International Labor Organization, the first Nobel Prize for Economics was awarded to Jan Tinbergen of the Netherlands, chairman of the UN Committee for Development Planning.

Art show set Friday by seniors

Mrs. Pearl Greenberg, professor of fine arts and coordinator of art education at Newark State College (Union), announced plans this week for the Third Annual Senior Arts Exhibit. This special workshop and exhibit (prepared by seniors who recently completed teaching internships) will be presented on Friday, Jan. 9, in the main studio (A-106) of the Fine Arts Wing on the Union Campus.

Mrs. Greenberg noted that "this event is usually the highlight of the year for our students, as it gives them the opportunity to perform and display their material in a professional manner." She added "it is always remarkable to witness the growth of these young artists after only a few short weeks in the field."

The students will present a wide variety of art media and techniques, as well as ways of working which evolved during their ten-week internship. An exhibit of workshop activities is included as part of each special area display, and information sheets explaining techniques and styles will be distributed.

Groups of students from neighboring school districts will visit the exhibition beginning at 10 a.m. The general public is invited to attend the exhibition from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Bridge winners at Green lane Y

Beverly Leipzig of Clark and Bertine Teichman of Cranford have placed first in a duplicate bridge game conducted at the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA, Green Lane, Union.

Millicent and Saul Emmer of Linden placed second, Luca Spirito and Bob Colgan of Elizabeth third, Mike Fried and Hal Kadson of Elizabeth fourth and Robert Taylor and Russ Kalstrom of Westfield fifth.

Plan series of lectures at Union C.

Students at Union College, Cranford, gave their support last week to efforts to improve race relations on campus.

In a referendum sponsored by the Student Council, the students voted to allocate $2,500 from their Student Activities Fund to the Gray Committee.

The Gray Committee, established to improve relations between black and white students at Union College, will use the funds for a lecture series featuring nationally-known figures. Among those the committee hopes to invite to speak at Union College are Julian Bond, Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm, William Buckley, Corretta King and Mohammed Ali. Some of the funds may be used to sponsor performances

How to tell when you've had enough of that bottled New Year's party spirit

"How much liquor should we buy for the holiday party?" is the subject of discussion at dinner tables all over New Jersey this week.

Holiday traffic crash studies reviewed by the council indicate that drinking drivers are involved in more than one half the fatal Christmas season accidents.

Unfortunately, the admonition, "If you drink, don't drive" is not obeyed by most party goers. The council suggests an alternate approach, "If you drive, know your drinking limits."

The Safety Council cautions that drinking and driving limits must be determined by judicious use of scientific physiological factors such as body weight and consumption rate of alcohol and food.

The accompanying chart shows how to tell your blood alcohol level after drinking. Lay a straight edge across your weight and number of ounces you consumed on empty or full stomach.

At .05 percent the driving ability of many motorists is adversely affected. At .10 percent your driving ability is legally deemed to be impaired.

For the less scientific minded the Safety Council suggests the following simple rule. Limit yourself to one ounce of alcohol per hour and switch to non-alcoholic beverages an hour before driving home.

Projects under consideration by the Health Officers Committee are joint efforts in behalf of air and water pollution control, solid waste disposal, fluoridation and the review of health proposals.

January draft call is up 53 for state

Paul M. Nugent, manager of the New Jersey Veterans Administration Regional Office, Newark, this week reminded veterans and beneficiaries receiving non-service connected pension benefits that they should have received annual income questionnaires about Nov. 1.

Nugent pointed out that these income questionnaires must be returned to the Veterans Administration not later than Jan. 15, in order to avoid the risk of not only having future payments discontinued but also liability for payments made during 1969.

Nugent said persons desiring assistance with their income questionnaires may visit the Veterans Administration regional office, 20 Washington pl., Newark, with their cards, and personal assistance will be available.

He said that veterans receiving service-connected compensation benefits are not required to submit annual income questionnaires unless specifically requested to do so.

Additional information may be obtained from the Newark regional office by calling 645-2150.

YOUNG WORKERS INCREASE

In October 1968, one out of every five workers across the nation was 16 to 24 years old. Of these, nonstudents accounted for the largest number of workers under 25, about 10.6 million in 1968, compared with 8.9 million in 1960.

Williams sponsors measure to combat organized crime

WASHINGTON -- U.S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr. (D-N.J.), has joined Senate colleagues in sponsoring legislation to elevate the Organized Crime Section in the Justice Department to division status and to create a new assistant attorney general to head it.

Sen. Williams said that "organized crime is a problem of justifiably grave national concern. It is something which we cannot tolerate."

"If we are to wipe out organized crime, we must mount a vigorous, intensive campaign. By establishing a new Organized Crime Division headed by an assistant attorney general, we can marshal the manpower and resources which are equal to the complexity and importance of this job."

"The creation of a new assistant attorney general and an Organized Crime Division will give continuity to our efforts against organized crime. At the present time, the fight against organized crime remains dependent upon the personal interests of the attorney general and the assistant attorney general for the Criminal Division. We cannot afford any ebb and flow of interest."

"This legislation also will greatly increase the accountability and visibility of the organized crime effort. The assistant attorney general for organized crime would be appointed subject to Senate confirmation. In addition, the Organized Crime Division would have a separate, definable budget."

The legislation is an amendment to the Organized Crime Control Act.

Paul M. Nugent, manager of the New Jersey Veterans Administration Regional Office, Newark, this week reminded veterans and beneficiaries receiving non-service connected pension benefits that they should have received annual income questionnaires about Nov. 1.

Nugent pointed out that these income questionnaires must be returned to the Veterans Administration not later than Jan. 15, in order to avoid the risk of not only having future payments discontinued but also liability for payments made during 1969.

State outlines program aimed at discrimination in housing

James H. Blair, director of the State Division on Civil Rights, announced this week details of a new legal program aimed at eliminating widespread patterns and practices of housing discrimination throughout the state.

The announcement was made as the Civil Rights Division made known the results of a cooperative project with the Rutgers Law School that resulted in the filing of 18 complaints against major apartment developments in Parsippany-Troy Hills alleging the existence of a pattern and practice of discrimination in violation of the state's fair housing laws.

Blair said the filing of the discriminatory complaints were part of a new "affirmative action" program developed with the Rutgers Law School under a grant from the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development. Blair said that Rutgers students, under the direction of three faculty members, have been devoting an entire semester to developing new methods and procedures to enforce the state's fair housing laws.

BLAIR SAID THE PROGRAM was developed to meet the needs of the 1970's for more effective utilization of the state laws to fight housing discrimination. "Despite the existence of laws against discrimination many elements of our society continue to operate under ghettoized housing patterns. Our experience has demonstrated that filing of complaints by individuals does not eliminate the patterns and practices of discrimination," Blair said.

"The law, in the field of employment, has been expanded on both state and federal levels to include new definitions of discrimination. We hope that this current project will expand the effectiveness and authority of our housing discrimination laws."

Blair said the situation is emphasized in the Parsippany-Troy Hills area by the commuting patterns of the black and white workers employed in the Morris County region. "The white workers, in the main, live close by their jobs, while the black workers commute from Newark, Paterson, New York and other areas of heavy minority concentration."

A further result, Blair said, is the underemployment of black workers by local industry because of the unavailability of housing for them nearby and the lack of adequate transportation facilities from areas where large numbers of minority members do reside.

employment of black workers by local industry because of the unavailability of housing for them nearby and the lack of adequate transportation facilities from areas where large numbers of minority members do reside.

BLAIR SAID THE FILING of the complaints was not an indication of guilt of any of the developers. "It only means that we have reason to believe that each of the 18 respondents has operated in conformity with the pattern we believe exists. The complaints will trigger further investigation to determine if probable cause exists to subject the developers to formal hearings on the allegations. If we conduct formal hearings, then of course, final determinations will depend upon the evidence produced at such hearings."

He said the Parsippany-Troy Hills area was the target of the division's first major effort at affirmative enforcement because of the availability of huge numbers of moderately priced apartments within the financial means of large numbers of minority families.

Blair said it was HUD's hope that programs developed this year by this project will be usable by anti-discrimination agencies around the country in the continuing effort to implement anti-discrimination laws.
