MACY seeks comments, proposals on ways to serve borough youngsters

A plea has been made by the Mayor's Advisory Council on Youth (MACY) for the people of Mountainside to come forth to discuss possible problems facing the youth of the community, according to James Keating of Ridge drive, chairman of the group.

Keating pointed out that during the past months, the committee has met monthly with community leaders and local teenagers in an attempt at discussing urgent problems. The group was originally formed as an investigative directive to look into the problems of the youngsters of the town. With the aid of Councilman Robert Ruggiero, the group has probed into the incidence of narcotics in the community, along with the problems of runaways and vandalism. Keating reported that vandalism had undergone marked drop in its frequency rate, and only a few narcotics users in the community had

Support of the new state law by Gov. Richard J. Hughes' administration concerning the new procedure for passage of municipal school budgets was expressed at the monthly meeting of the Mountainside Board of Education at the Deerfield School on Tuesday evening.

Grant Lennox, president of the local board, explained that in accordance with the old method a budget which had been voted down was to be re-submitted to the public and if declined again, to be turned over to the local governing body within 10 days for a solution.

Lennox went on to note that the new procedure provides that the budget be submitted only once to the public and if voted down, be sub-mitted to the local governing body within 30 days for a solution.

According to Lennox, "We are in favor of this new procedure, because the old method was too expensive and complicated. We are happy to see this change," he went on," and are certain that it will be beneficial state-wide."

The new budget-submission method will be employed in the upcoming school board election scheduled for Feb. 10, the hearing for which will be held next Tuesday evening at 8 at the Deerfield School.

The results of the drawing for the position of candidates on the ballot of the upcoming school election, which was held at the Deerfield School all-purpose room on Jan. 3, were as follows: 1. Thomas J. Spina, 377 Creek Bed rd; 2. Abe Suckno, 289 Frlar lane; 3. Frank A. Lombard, 338 Linda dr., and 4. Marjory L. Bradshaw, 320 Partridge run. It was noted by board president Lennox that the election is for two seats open for full terms, consisting of three years each. DURING THE PRESENTATION of the report of the superintendant of schools, Levin B. Hanigan, the school enrollment was reported as 1,245 students, an addition of seven students during the month. Dr. Hanigan noted that the additional children were all added to Beechwood School.

Dr. Hanigan commented about the snow removal situation around the school sites and explained that the problem of icy conditions confronting the school buses and walking school children was caused by the fact that the original snowfall came during the Christmas holidays and the snow removal crews concentrated on snow removal for the public

He went on to note that within a short period of time another snowfall which was mixture of rain, ice and snow fell, freezing over the previous snow remains, hence causing the

"The outcome of our efforts," Keating commented, "might very well come to a dead end, and the situation right now is rather undeterminate regarding exactly what action the Borough Council will take."

Possible solutions which have been examined by the committee, Keating went on to note, might be the establishment of an official might be the establishment of an official recreation center for the youth of the community, and educational programs for the parents of the town to assist in learning of the various problems created by drug addiction.

Keating concluded by emphasizing that before the MACY group makes its final report to the Borough Council, citizens of the community will be given the opportunity to voice their sentiments either by appearing before the group or in writing.

recruitment of volunteers. Foremost among these was the possibility of providing first aid training to workers in the industrial areas of town with the hope that interest in the squad may be stimulated there.

Captain Keuler announced that during the year 1969, 40,000 man hours were put in by members, and 5,443 miles were traveled (an increase of 480 miles over 1968). The squad responded to 389 calls, an increase of 18 percent over 1968. There are at present 34 regular members and four cadet members of the squad.

Dr. Hanigan made a personnel recommendation at Tuesday's meeting in which he asked that members of the secretarial staff of the Board of Education be eligible for notification of non-working days in the event of dangerous conditions because of weather. His proposal was accepted unanimously by the board.

The completion of the installation of separating doors in the team-teaching classrooms of Deerfield Elementary School, was also reported by Dr. Hanigan, who when questioned during the public discussion session of the meeting by Paul Smith of Mountainside revealed that the team-teaching program, which started as experimental and is now a regular part of our program, has not been tested so far for academic superiority, only for teacher perMOUNTAINSIDE (N.J.) Rinaldo's sixth year as chairman. During each of those years the drive realized a higher total. Last year $81,176.60 was raised in contributions. During the five years of Sen. Rinaldo's chairmanship, the Union County Heart Association raised a total of $390,524. The 1970 fund drive will be kicked off at a special meeting for volunteers Sunday, January 25th in the Kenilworth offices of White Laboratories.

Rinaldo, an officer of a North Jersey consulting firm, is an industrial and labor rela-tions consultant. A native of Elizabeth, he received a bachelor of science degree from Rutgers, and the degree of master of business administration from Seton Hall University, Hehas also undertaken studies at St. John's University and Columbia University.

SENATOR RINALDO is a former president of the Union Township Zoning Board of Adjust-ment and served on the Union County Board of Freeholders in 1963 and 1964. In 1965, he was selected as the "Outstanding Young Man of the Year" by the Union Township Junior Chamber of Commerce.
In addition, he is a member of the coadjutant faculty of Rutgers University, the board of trustees of the New Jersey Heart Association; the board of directors of the Union County Heart Association; the board of directors of the Union Chapter of the American RedCross: the Rutgers University Alumni Association the Union Lions Club: Unico: Union Council 4504, Knights of Columbus; John Fitzgerald Kennedy General Assembly, Fourth Legree, K. of C.; Union County Historical Society; the National Municipal League, and the American Society for Public Administration.

"THIS HAS BEEN another year of spectacular accomplishment in heart disease re-search." Rinaldo said. "We truly stand on the verge -- the breakthroughs we have envisaged for so long will be coming in the next few years."

"It is imperative," he continued, "to sustain the momentum and the hope that has been built up. To ease up now would be to abandon a commitment to eliminate the nation's number one killer. Can we do less than carry through until this problem has been licked?

"In the next few months," Rinaldo concluded, 'I and thousands of county chairmen across the nation will be working with tens of thousands more municipal chairmen and district volunteers to bring a message of need to you, the sympathetic public. We are counting on you to respond — as you have so generously in the past."

SEN. MATTHEW RINALDO

CHICAGO-The 1970s will bring profound changes in the delivery of health care, trans-forming the roles of the physician, hospital administrator and trustee, as well as the institutions which they serve.

This is the consensus of nine authorities in the health care field. They give their views on what can be expected during the next decade in the current issue of Hospitals, journal of the American Hospital Association.

In spite of future change, the hospital will remain the center for the delivery of health services for our growing population, according to Dr. Edwin L. Crosby, executive vice-president and director of the American Hospital Association.

"When I say hospitals," said Dr. Crosby,
"I include not only the general acute medicalsurgical hospitals of today, but also the extension of those hospitals into other kinds of card. This would be ambulatory care, extended care, and nursing home and convalescent care. The hospital would become the center for

"The hospital administrator must increasingly assume the role of chief executive officer of the hospital. In the past, the hospital administrator has confined his activities to the physical limits of his hospital. The hospital administrator must recognize that he has a community responsibility."

MARK BERKE, the new president of the AHA, was asked if he thought the role of the hospital trustee would change during the 1970s. There is a revolution going on in society and some of its impact is being felt in the hospital now," Berke, executive director of Mount Zion Hospital and Medical Center, San Francisco, said,

"At least in urban areas," he continued, "we are going to be seeing on boards of trustees new representatives of the community who are in themselves different from the trustees we have had in the past. Trustees have been largely philanthropic individuals or representatives of the various, professional disciplines. This type of trustee won't disappear entirely by any means, but we are going to see a marked change in the type of person who gets on the board of a hospital."

JACK A.L. HAHN, president-elect of the AHA, envisions the hospital of the 1970s as an institution which will draw to itself more of the things related to health care that are now being done elsewhere in the community.

Hahn, president of the Methodist Hospital of Indiana, Indianapolis, believes that this center costs people, and includes an educa-Youth Service tional and vocational guidance program. It serves the north-

Open show of antiques on Feb. 20

Four charities will benefit from the National Antiques Show opening at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 20 for a ten-day engagement. The ex-hibit, will offer antiques from the first century B.C. to the early 20th century.

Irvington House, at 566 First ave., New York City, benefits from the sale of antiques and art donated to the charity by private collectors. A privately supported treatment and research center, specializing for 50 years in rheumatic fever and allied diseases of children, it is medically af-filiated with New York University Medical Center.

The Community Committee of The Brooklyn Museum will sponsor a trifles and treasures booth at the show offer-ing heirloom jewelry and decby friends of the museum.

Friendship House, the psy-chiatric rehabilitation center at I25 Atlantic st., Hackensack, will have a booth of antiques donated by supporters. The center deals with the vocational, social and educational needs of teenagers and adults in a program designed to improve the self-image with special involvements.

Proceeds from the appraisal clinic, arranged through the Appraisers Association of America, offering appraisals at $1, will go to the U.S. Committee for UNICEF.

The National Antiques Show will be open from 1 to 11 p.m. daily and from 1 to 7 p.m. on Sundays and closing day, Admission is $2.50.

New 1970-model cars in California will achieve about 70 percent control of hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions. This reduction will be accomplished through the use of positive crankcase ventilation (PCV); engine modi-fications for cleaner exhaust; fuel additives and modified lubricants: and devices simi-lar to one developed by Esso Research to control the escape of evaporated gasoline from the fuel tank and carburetor.

Esso Research and Engineering has developed gasoline and motor oil products specially designed to minimize carburetor, crankcase and PCV valve deposits and to prevent spark plug mal-function. These features extend the life and performance of emission control systems.

In other automotive emissions research last year, the company established that a system to reduce nitrogen xide emissions by recirculating some of the exhaust gases will work on a short term basis. Work on this project is continuing to determine the long range durability of the system.

The company also began studies of two other auto emissions - polynuclear aro-matics and phenols - in conjunction with NAPCA and the Coordinating Research Council, an organization of the pe-troleum and auto industries that coordinates fuel, lubri-cant and vehicle research.

Emissions from stationary sources such as commercialsize furnaces were the concern of several projects during the year.

One project to develop a commercial system to elimi-nate 99 percent of the particles and 90 percent of the sulfur oxides from flue gases of coal- and oil-fired boilers in power plants was announced jointly in November by Esso Research and Engineering and The Babcock & Wilcox Company, a major supplier of power generating equipment. Sixteen electrical utility companies have agreed to contribute financial support to the $7 million project. Key to the system is a unique dry material developed by the research company to absorb the sulfur dioxide from the gases.

The company also pleted a survey for NAPCA to determine the extent of en oxide emission fro stationary sources in the U.S. The study found that 55 per-cent of the nitrogen oxide emissions in the country come from stationary sources.

In another part of the study, company scientists reviewed ways to reduce these emissions. They reported that in some cases, modifications in laboratory and commercial installations have reduced nitrogen oxide emissions by as much as 80 percent.

In the field of water pollution control, the effectiveness of the company's oil slick dis-persant, COREXIT, was extended to include heavier oils. Work also continued on an experimental system to so= lidify petroleum cargoes in the holds of damaged tankers.

Another research project resulted in the development of a novel electro-sonic device that can move through pipe-lines to detect and pinpoint leaks even if the pipeline is buried. The instrument has been licensed for general in-

X-ray technicians must finish course tor state certificate

From now on, persons who seek certification X-ray technicians to perform X-ray services on human beings must have completed a course of study approved by the X-ray Technician Board of Examiners of the State Department of Health.

When the legislation became effective Dec. 6, 1968, it provided a one year period for certification of technicians who were then in this type of work. That grace period has

Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, state commissioner of health, said that the purpose of the legislation and of the certification system is to eliminate unnecessary radiation. Legislation requiring certification went into effect in December, 1968. It provided that X-ray technicians who were then practicing could be certified in one of two ways. The legislation provided that "the board of examiners shall issue a certificate to any person who applies in writing, pays a fee of $20, is of good moral character, and meets one of the following two requirements:

 Has been engaged as an X-ray technician for at least five of the six years immediately prior to the effective date of this act and passes an oral or practical examination prepared

Urge owners not to let dogs 'run' deer

Snow conditions are restricting the movements of deer and making them vulnerable to attack by dogs, the Division of Fish and Game of the State Department of Conservation and Wildlife Management and Law Enforcement personnel of the running, harassing and killing of deer by dogs in the northern and central sections of the state.

As the snow deepens and crust forms, deer have difficulty in moving about but dogs are not hampered because of their lighter weight. People, when observing and reporting this, assume the dogs are "wild" while in the majority of cases they are house pets allowed

Dog owners were reminded by the state to control their dogs as Fish and Game Law. Article 3, Section 23:4-25, provides a $20 enalty for each offense of a dog found running at large in the woods or fields. .

While the snow covering the ground has been detrimental to deer movements, it has created conditions that enable the Bureau of Wildlife Management personnel to commence the live trapping and tagging of deer in Warren, Hunterdon, Burlington, Ocean and Atlantic Counties. This is a continuation of last year's project. Deer are baited into large box traps and then transferred to smaller crates of handling. The animals are aged, sexed and tagged with a metal tag in one ear and a plastic streamer, for field identification, in the other car. They are released where trapped and it is the intent of the study that subsequent visual observations and return of the tags by hunters, etc. will provide information on the seasonal movements of deer.

Principal wildlife biologist George Howard is seeking tag returns from the 1969 seasons. He has urged everyone who took a tagged deer to forward the tag or number to the Trenton office. Tagging studies of wildlife and fish mean very little unless everyone cooperates in returning tags so the data can be evaluated.

Unit issues reminder on ban on prayers in public schools public schools violates the law of the land is being issued by the State Federation of District Boards of Education of New Jersey to its con-

Responding to recent pressures by several school districts who are seeking to reinstitute religious observance in their schools, the religious observance in their schools, the federation has reissued a statement, originally released Oct. 16, 1963, in which the school boards association details its reasons for supporting the Constitutional ban on religious observance in the public schools.

In explaining its stand, the federation noted

License fee tor barbers is increased

Legislation enacted late in 1969 has increased several categories of barber license fees, Frank Marchese, secretary of the State Board of Barber Examiners, an agency of the State Department of Health, said this week. The new fees are: annual renewals for a barber shop license, $10; annual renewals for a barber license, $8; a new barber shop license, $50; and barber shop removals (moving from one location to another), $25. The new fee for restoration of an expired bar-ber license is $15; for restoration of an expired barber shop license, $15.

The fee for issuance of a barber license following an examination is now $8.

A permit is now required for performing barber demon-strations. The fee is $2, and is valid for a period not to exceed two days.

The legislation permits li-censed barber shops to sell hairpieces, toupees, and wigs. The legislation further requires that all new barber shops and barber shops for which a new license is required must be equipped with lavatory facilities, including hot and cold running water and a water flush toilet.

THE GIRL IS MARRIED, SON Dear Amy:

I just got back from Vietnam. Well, I always said I never would marry until I was sure I could support a wife without pinching pennies. Well my dad passed on leaving me his estate: a nice home and a motel.

The girl I love and want to share everything with married about a year ago. I have been told her husband doesn't really love her. They live in a little old house with the name in big letters across the front:
"Grey Hound." That's no home for a nice girl like her. I have been wanting to get in touch with her, but my aunt

Art competition, exhibition planned by State Museum

An exhibition of the Art from New Jersey 1970 competition, which is open to all artists 18 years or older living or working in New Jersey, will take place at the New Jersey State Museum from Saturday, March 4, through Sunday, April 26, according to an announce-ment by the director, Dr. Kenneth W. Prescott,

The museum's curator of arts, Zoltan Buki, said that paintings will be judged by Philip Pearlstein of New York City; sculptures, by Richard Stankiewicz, of Huntington, Mass., and prints and drawings, by Harold Altman of Lemont, Pa.

Entries will be received Monday, Feb. 9, through Saturday, Feb. 14, and the judges will make their selections during the following

As in past years, the State Museum will utilize the Governor's Purchase Award of $5,000 for one or more works to be added to the museum's permanent collection. In-terested New Jersey residents, businesses and industries will donate other purchase awards which in 1969 totaled about $18,000.

All New Jersey artists whose names are on the museum mailing list will receive entry forms by the end of January. Any artist whose name is not on the mailing list can request a form by writing the New Jersey State Museum, W. State street, Trenton 08625 - Attention Arts Bureau.

A billion dollar expansion plan scheduled by Public Service

Public Service Electric and Gas Co. will spend more than $1 billion in the next three years for additions and improvements to its electric and gas systems. Most of this will be spent for electric generation, transmission and distribution facilities to meet the increasing demand for electric power in New Jersey.

Looking ahead, Edwin II. Snyder, chairman of the board, said the demand is rising at a rate that will require the company to double its electric generating capacity by the summer

To meet the peak demand this summer, Pubhe Service will install seven gas-turbine generators by May 1. Three of these generators are powered by aircraft-type engines and all can burn pollution-iree natural gas or light, low sulfur oil. The new units will increase the company's gas-turbine generation from the current 687,000 kilowatts to 967,000 kilowatts before this summer.

ONE OF THE UNITS, which will have a capacity of 140,000 kilowatts, will be installed at the Kearny generating station, Kearny. It is a twin of another such unit which began operating at Kearny on Dec. 12. Four 25,000-kilowatt industrial type gas-turbine units will be installed at the Linden Generating Station. Public Service also expects to begin receiving power from the first unit of Conemaugh Generating Station, a mine-mouth plant near Johnstown, Pa., being built in cooperation with eight other companies. Public Service's share of the electric output of this first unit will be 187,000 kilowatts. All these additions will give Public Service a boost of 525,000 kilowatts in its generating capacity in 1970. .

IN 1971, the company will add 922,000 kilo-watts of generating capacity. Three 160,000kilowatt jet-turbine-generators will be installed in Edison, near the company's gas storage facility in the New Jersey Turnpike-Raritan River area. Local police report Rt. 22 as scene of two accidents

The Mountainside police reported that three accidents have occurred in the borough during the past week, two of which took place on Rt.

On last Wednesday, the Rt. 22 east-west turnabout was the scene of a two-car collision when a vehicle operated by Florence L. Rubino, 40, of Plainfield, slid on the icy pavement-and struck the rear portion of a car driven by A.R. Pocaro, 44, of Summit.

The Rubino car, police disclosed, received extensive front-end damage and was towed away. Neither driver suffered any visible

Another accident took place on Rt. 22 on Saturday at the New Providence road inter-section, when a car driven by Bertram Fox, 47, of Union, while making a left turn onto the highway, was struck in the side by a vehicle operated by David H. Kinsmen, 72, of Cherry Hill.

The Kinsmen car received extensive front-end damage, according to the accident report, and the Fox car sustained damages to the left side. Both cars were towed away. Police reported that neither driver suffered any visible injuries.

Another two-car collision took place at Summit road, on Monday when a dump truck driven by John Misemeci, 35, of Long Valley, was struck by a car operated by Harry Jeter, 52, of 998 Mary Allen path, Mountainside.
Local authorities revealed that the dump truck received damages to the undercarriage and the Jeter car sustained extensive front-end damages. Both vehicles were towed away. Neither driver was injured visibly.

Fur trim elegant to any outtit

Whether it is fur by the yard or right off the animal, this elegant material always adds the final touch to arroutfit, reports Carolyn F. Yuknus, Senior County home economist. Fur and fur-like accents may inspire the home sewer to try her hand in making small jackets, hats, collars and other trimming details.

To work with these deep pile materials, the home sewer will have to use some different techniques.

As always, a pattern is helpful as a guide for the shape you want to make, in using a commercial paper pattern, first trim off the seam allow-ance or else settle for a larger than designed item. Regular seam allowances are not used when working with deep pile materials.

Patterns may be laid length-wise or crosswise, whichever makes the most effective use of the fur markings. But once determined, continue to cut all the pieces in the same direc-

Lay pattern pieces on the back or wrong side of real fur or fake fur. Do not use pins to hold pattern in place since this will make unnecessary holes in fur pelts particularly. In-stead, hold pattern pieces in place with sticky tape or draw the pattern outline with a pen-

Never cut directly through fur or fur-like materials with shears since this will cut off the hair. Use a single-edge razor blade or a very sharp knife to cut only the skin or backing.

All seams or darts in fur are made by butting the cut edges together and are closely overcast to make invisible joinings. If any of the hairs are caught in this type of seaming, pull them out of the seam gently with a pin.

Outside cut edges are finded off by attacking really ished off by attaching twill tape with the same type of overcast stitch. Fur and fur-like garments are lined all the way to the cut edges. In most instances facings of this material are too bulky. Stitch the lining to the twill tape.

In most applications pressing is not necessary at all. Never use a steamiron directly on either fur or fur-like pieces. Finger pressing may be used to make some edges conform to shape.

Early this season ACT, the San Francisco company, arrived with Edward Albee's 'Tiny Alice' and the delicious farce, 'A Flea in Her Ear,' by George Feydeau,

Then followed aftive-week run of "Our Town" with Henry Fonda, Last week Charles Cordone's "No Place To Be Somebody" ended a scheduled two-week stay, And on Saturday the National Theatre of the Deaf completes its one-week stint, Starting Tuesday the Playwrights Unit, headed by Richard Barr, Edward Albee and Charles Woodward presents two plays, "Watercolor" and "Criss Crossing" by Philip Magdalany, They stay through Jan, 31 and are succeeded by the La Mama Troupe from Feb.

Then Helen Hayes and James Stewart open in The Phoenix Theatre production of 'Harvey' on Feb, 17 and are there through March 28.

THESE COMPANIES, and those that will follow, represent a wide diversity of style and approach. They all started in different ways and have been in existence for varying lengths of time. A great deal of background work must have gone into the project. The ANTA Theatre must be given credit for passing up the possibility of having a high powered and lucrative long-run hit and opting for these companies to have a Broadway showcase, Besides the groups mentioned above, the National Council on the Arts and the New York Shakespeare Festival Fublic Theatre are participating. Everything is tled together by two very dedicated people of the theater, Mr. Alfred de Liagre Jr. and Miss Jean Dalrymple, This kind of project, bringing together highly talented people, can help stimulate Broadway

Special conference for PTA members to be held Tuesday

Mrs. Leonard E. Tandul of 1614 Summit ter., Linden, is in charge of reservations for the New Jersey Congress of PTA special interest conference to be held on Tuesday at Kenilworth Community Methodist Church, 455 Boulevard, Kenilworth.

Mrs. Tandul said that registration will take place from 9:30 to 10 a.m. The conference will run from 10 a.m. to lunchtime. It will feature topics of interest to safety, health and mental health, high school services and urban services committee chairmen. Officers will meet with Mrs. Alex Gordon, state congress president.

The afternoon session will include officers and chairmen. The topic will be "The Constructive Majority," and the speakers will include Mrs. Michael Gordon, a teacher at Edison Junior High School, Westfield; Kenneth Roden, executive director of Junior Achievement, and Rollyn P. Winters, a 4-H Extension leader. Mrs. Tandul has asked that each delegate bring a sandwich and send a check for 50 cents per person for coffee and cake. The check, payable to the N.J. Congress of Parents and Teachers, should be sent to Mrs. Tandul with a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The conference is one of two being held for PTA members throughout the state. The Union County PTA board of managers is host.

"Maine is working on atmospheric pollution," Dr. Squibb explains, "Vermont on metabolic responses to different wave lengths of light, and we do the biochemical work.

"In this way each laboratory is able to concentrate its manpower and its facilities in those areas in which it has the greatest know-how. By pooling our talents and our facilities we can get more and better results in less time and at far less cost than when the same work is duplicated at different laboratories, each competing with the others for personnel and equipment.",

THE STATE UNIVERSITY scientist's flying goes back more than 25 years to the days when he was stationed in Central America to direct a research program aimed at adapting modern scientific techniques to the primitive animal husbandry which prevailed.

In Guatemala he found himself in charge of four laboratories, located at elevations ranging from sea level to a mile and a half. It was an ideal opportunity to study chickens under conditions ranging all the way from tropical to sub-arctic. But to deliver and collect experimental animals by road was an arduous, time-consuming ordeal.

So he arranged with his superiors to reimburse him for travel at the amount it would have cost by conventional means, and bought a plane.
"That way I could make the rounds of the laboratories in less than half a day instead of the usual four to eight days by such roads as there were," he says. "This speeded up the work immeasurably and took the frustrations and wear and tear out of traveling. An interesting by-product of Squibb's Central American research was the development of economical and vastly superior local diets for

"At the time, I found that my animals were better fed than the children," he says. Together with the Central American Institute of Nutrition he worked out a series of diets which are still saving lives and improving infant health there.

C.\UTIOUS ABOUT interpreting his research results as he is about his flying, Dr. Squibb does not hesitate to speak up when he is sure of his ground. Some years ago he created something of a storm by cautioning against indiscriminate and excessive use of vitamins without evidence that this was necessary.

Today the need for caution is well recognized in medical circles. More recently he reported results which showed marked diurnal variations in certain tissue components attributable to the time of day in which samples were taken. This, he warned, might lead to dangerous misinterpretation of analytic results and faulty diagnoses of the presence or absence of some diseases. Currently he considers his most important project is a study of the effects of virus infection on protein metabolism, in which he is collaborating with Federal researchers in Washington. "This work gives us the opportunity to develop new and better methods for detecting the presence of disease infection before there flying is an indispensable factor.

"We often rush tissue samples to Washington for additional biochemical analyses, and return with a number of their samples which we screen with our special techniques.

HOLDER OF AN instrument-rated pilot's license. Dr. Squibb is a strong believer in the importance of general aviation as a complement to airline services.

'You start for Chicago right now," he illenges, "and I'll be there to greet you challenges, when you get in."
In a more serious vein, he voices his concern at the pressure from some quarters to strangle general aviation's use of airspace and vital airports." "The argument is that a small airplane carrying from one to five people should not be allowed to hold up one carrying 200. The apparent majority should have all the rights.

"The fallacy of this view is that my plane or a business plane may be on a mission of vital importance to the health or economic welfare of 200 million people." he contends, "Take a small business plane, for example, The incomes and welfare of thousands of workers can depend upon the efficient use of small planes. Certainly this is more important to our nation than the gratification of 175 or so Miami-bound pleasure-seekers.

"Furthermore," he says, "this is not a one or the other situation. Any commercial airline pilot will agree when I say that there is ample room for airliners and small planes if we just make use of the techniques that lie ready at hand.

"It is time that we in the universities, with no axe to grind except the general welfare, made our voices heard in this important struggle."

Mrs. Stephen F. Perry, chairman of the Westfield Day Care Center finance committee, this week reported that to date contributions, including memorial funds and pledges, have totalled approximately $11,000. The Westfield Day Care Center has been appealing for $20,000 to continue operations through 1970. She said it is most gratifying that there are so many new individual contributors to this locally supported acti ity.

A center spokesman added; "Mrs. Mercedes Wilson, director of the center, is seeking additional professional teaching assistance. Hours are flexible, and any one qualified for certification by the state of New Jersey and "There is a waiting list for the pre-school day care center on Madison avenue. However, at present there are still vacancies in the Kindecare Center at the Presbyterian Church. For morning kindergarten children of working mothers, transportation from school to the church, hot lunches and supervised afternoon care are provided. Anyone interested in en-rolling a child in this program should call Mrs. Leland Beach, 232-8108, or Mrs. Wilson, 232-6717."

Mrs. Gardiner R. Cunningham, president, recalled that in the past local organizations in the Westfield area have sponsored various activities for the benefit of the Westfield Day Care Center. She said, "We are most hopeful that such consideration will be given to the Day Care Center during this year. An additional $9,000 must be forthcoming to meet the financial demands for continued operation. Should any organization desire information, slides, or speakers, arrangements can be made upon request.

"Please send your tax-deductible contribution to the Westfield Day Care Center, Inc., 140 Madison ave., Westfield. Every little bit will help us to help others."

LWV to discuss re-evaluation of U. S. foreign aid

Development aid re-evaluation will be the subject for discussion at the January unit meetings of the Westfield League of Women Voters scheduled for next week.

Mrs. Samuel Seager of Park Slope, Mountainside, will serve as discussion leader and Mrs. Donald Skoog of Central avenue, Mountainside, as secretary for the Tuesday afternoon unit scheduled for Jan. 20 at 12:45 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Edward K. Mullen, 864 Hillside ave., Westfield.

In announcing the unit meetings, Mrs. Frank Rugg, chairman of the foreign policy committee for the League, stated, 'The League has been a long-time supporter of developmentaid as a vitally important part of U.S. foreign policy. At the 1968 national convention of the league a need was however clearly indicated _eague a need was, however, clearly indicated for a membership re-evaluation of the entire question of aid policies, paralleling similar reappraisal efforts by the U.S. government and international bodies,

"The Westfield League will participate in this review at its unit meetings based on background material presented by the foreign policy committee and attempts to answer certain basic questions pertaining thereto."

Cerebral Palsy drive starts in Springfield, Mountainside

Union County United Cerebral Palsy's annual campaign for funds is being conducted Jan. 10 through 19 in Springfield and Mountainside, according to Julius R. Pollatschek, president of the county organization. Pollatschek noted that the affiliate's ability to increase its programs and services for cerebral palsy children and adults will depend almost entirely on the success of the fund-raising efforts.

Founded in 1948, the United Cerebral Palsy Association began its services for Union County residents with a physical therapist and an orthopedic surgeon. Now the local group offers medical clinic, physical and speech therapy, psychological and educational evaluation, preschool education, vocational training, recreasing tion and transportation.

To help the organization in its requests for funds, Pollatschek said, "we have recruited volunteers who contribute their time and energy to the drive." He urged residents of Springfield and Mountainside to give generously to United Cerebral Palsy volunteers who call
