Women Voters press for speedy high school referendum

MRS. MARY AUSTIN NESBITT

PROFILE--Mrs. Mary Austin Nesbitt

Serving lunch to about 5,600 hungry high school students is a king-sized job, comparable perhaps to a three-ring circus, or maybe a cattle drive. The students must be fed in four periods of 28 minutes each, the diet must be balanced and nutritious, yet tasty, and the kitchen must be kept clean and well stocked.

In the Union County Regional High School District, Mrs. Mary Austin Nesbitt is in charge of this massive operation, which includes the Jonathan Dayton, Gov. Livingston, David Brearley and Arthur L. Johnson schools. Mrs. Nesbitt has been working at these schools since September, and before that she had been the cafeteria manager at the Bell Telephone Labs in Murray Hill.

"The main difference," she stated, "between dealing with adults and dealing with teenagers is that the men had more money and we could prepare more elaborate meals." Mrs. Nesbitt mentioned brook trout, lobster and steak as occasional entrees on the adult menus.

"I find that students are not as adventurous in their eating habits as adults," she said. "Also, some of the children are not used to choosing. In the freshman year especially, they're sometimes bewildered, so we try not to use any exotic names, but simply descriptive ones."

THE AVERAGE DAY'S MENU at the schools includes soup, hot or cold main dish, vegetables, fresh or canned fruit, dessert and a beverage. As students are not permitted to leave the buildings for lunch, those who don't bring their meals have to buy, so a wide variety of inexpensive dishes must be provided.

"The favorites include hamburgers, cheeseburgers, hot dogs, etc. They love grilled cheese sandwiches," she said. "Occasionally we serve cubed or pepper steak, veal parmigiana, chicken, roast turkey or homemade meat loaf. There are always sandwiches, ham, cheese, and, of course, peanut butter and jelly."

"We plan the menus weeks ahead. Each school has basically the same menu although the facilities and layout aren't the same. The tastes vary from town to town, you know, depending on family background. One area has a heavier Italian background. In one area, the students on the average have more money to spend."

"We try to serve a wide variety of fruits," she added. "In general vegetables aren't too

2 Leagues stress value of equal size

Letter from Springfield, Berkeley Heights units

By ABNER GOLD

In a letter presented to the Regional High School District Board of Education on Tuesday, the Springfield and Berkeley Heights Leagues of Women Voters called for prompt submission to the voters of an expansion plan based on the "principle of equality of size for the four high schools."

The business portion of the meeting, held at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, provided few surprises. The public discussion period, besides the letter from the Women Voters, included new installments of old verbal duels between Regional authorities and two members of the Springfield Board of Education.

The board will hold its next meeting March 24 at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, as part of its policy of meeting in turn in each of the six member communities.

The Women Voters' letter was signed by Mrs. Herbert Forman, president of the Springfield League, and Mrs. Robert Tabor, head of the group in Berkeley Heights. Mrs. Forman commented that it represented "no basic change in either League's position. We have just come closer to agreement."

A previous referendum on high school expansion was defeated two years ago, with a heavy negative vote in Springfield. The Springfield League had opposed that proposal, largely because it would have accentuated differences in the sizes of the schools. The Berkeley Heights League had supported that proposal.

THE LETTER SUBMITTED on Tuesday declared:

"The boards of directors of the Leagues of Women Voters of Berkeley Heights and Springfield have united to remind you of our stand in favor of expansion and reconstruction of the Regional District high schools."

"We add our hope that the Board of Education will soon be able to present to the public expansion plans based on the present distribution adopted in July, 1969."

"The purpose of this distribution, as stressed by the Regional Board of Education, was to approach as closely as possible the principle of equality of size for the four high schools, while allowing all students from any one community to attend the same high school."

"May we also remind you of our position favoring flexibility in classroom construction and use, and favoring class size compatible with the recently revised state formula."

"We look forward to an early presentation of the building program in the hope that the needed referendum will be one that we can support."

THE TWOSPINGFIELD school board members who questioned the Regional board were Mrs. Sonya Dorsky, vice-president of the township group, and Mrs. Ruth Weisman. Mrs. Dorsky asked why Dr. Warren Davis, Regional superintendent of schools, this month

PARTY PLANNERS—Working out the details for the annual dinner-dance of the Mountainside Newcomers Club are, from left, Mrs. Frank Falter, Mrs. Albert D'Amanda, the group's chairman, and

Mrs. W. Texas Jackson, vice-chairman. Taking the theme, "Moonlight, Serenade," the event is scheduled for Saturday, March 7 at the Hotel Suburban.

Newcomers Club plans its annual dinner-dance

Final preparations are being made for the Mountainside Newcomers Club's annual dinner-dance to be held Saturday, March 7, at the Hotel Suburban, Summit. A cocktail hour at 7 p.m. will be followed by a roast beef dinner and an evening of dancing in an atmosphere of silver and blue in keeping with the theme of "Moonlight Serenade". The program will be highlighted by surprise entertainment.

The dance committee consists of chairman, Mrs. Albert D'Amanda; vice-chairman, Mrs. W. Texas Jackson; decorations, Mrs. Robert Jaffe, assisted by Mrs. Robert Cohen and Mrs. Ellis Peak; program, Mrs. John Bilangi, assisted by Mrs. William Parker; invitations, Mrs. Henry Ziobro; tickets and table reservations, Mrs. Edward Collyer and Mrs. Ronald Heymann; publicity, Mrs. Charles Dougherty.

Reservations are being handled by Mrs. Collyer.

Powers is appointed to head 75th anniversary committee

Matthew V. Powers of 335 Long View dr., Mountainside, has been named chairman of the committee to commemorate the borough's 75th anniversary, which will be celebrated in 1970.

Powers' committee will include representatives from each of the social, service and religious organizations of Mountainside, a list numbering at present 29 groups, including: American Association of University Women, American Legion Auxiliary Blue Star Post 386, American Legion Blue Star Post 386, Blue Star Garden Club, Concord Estates Civic Association, Westmont Chapter of Deborah, Democratic Club, Elks BPOE 1585, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club;

Red Cross plans month-long drive for contributions

Sunday has been proclaimed "Red Cross Sunday," by the American National Red Cross. The Westfield-Mountainside Chapter has declared March will be observed as Red Cross Month.

Ernest S. Winter, chairman of members and funds for the chapter of Red Cross, today urged Mountainside residents to contribute generously.

He added: "The Westfield-Mountainside Chapter is not a participating member of the Mountainside Community Fund. And is therefore not supported through the Community Fund effort. In contrast Westfield supports the local chapter through its United Fund of Westfield."

"Letters will soon be mailed to every home and business in Mountainside urging full support of the Red Cross appeal."

"The Balance of Needs Campaign goal has been set at $5,000. A contribution is more than money: It is an expression of belief in the humanitarian mission of the Red Cross."

Varsity, faculty to battle on court

The Mountainside Teacher's Association will sponsor the third annual varsity-faculty basketball game on Friday, March 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the Deerfield Gymnasium.

Tickets may be purchased from any teacher in the Mountainside school system. Proceeds from the game will be used for the scholarship fund.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the performance of cheers by the faculty cheerleaders under the direction of Miss Ann Raush.

Mrs. Edward Mooney is chairman of the event and is assisted by Mrs. E.T. Welbel who is serving as ticket chairman, and Mrs. Walter Young who is in charge of publicity, Charles Carson, athletic director, and Miss Jeanette Sektberg are in charge of the game.

Merit Scholarship finalists selected

Three students from Gov. Livingston Regional High School have been named finalists by the National Merit Scholarship Cooperation, according to Frederick Aho, principal.

Jacqueline Miller, William Garland and Richard Little will be considered for the 1,000 National Merit $1,000 scholarships and the 1,800 sponsored scholarships renewable for up to four years of college at the accredited institution of the winners' choice.

Previously announced semifinalists, the three students were notified of their status in the Merit Scholarship competition after they had confirmed their high NMSQT scores by their performance in the scholastic aptitude test. Scholarship winners will be made public on April 30.

HS Chorale invited to give concert at Ecuadorian palace

The president of Ecuador has invited the Gov. Livingston Regional High School Chorale to stop at the palace during its goodwill tour of three South American countries this summer.

The invitation from President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra was extended through his wife, who heard about the proposed singing tour from an official of Ecuadorian Airlines earlier this month.

The high school chorale plans to send 32 members on the tour of Venezuela, Colombia and Ecuador to "help establish a deeper understanding between the people of South America and this country through the universality of music," according to Albert Dorhout, chorale director.

The school's vocal music department is planning to sponsor a series of cultural activities to help stimulate community support for the project.

"Our desire is to also meet and talk with the people, and to exchange ideas so as to gain a greater respect for each other. Our visit with President Ibarra will be a perfect opportunity to help accomplish our objective," Dorhout said.

The singers selected will be chosen not only for their ability to sing well, but also for their ability to express the philosophy of the project, he added.

Exchange concert trip slated by Highlanders

One hundred ninety-two Governor Livingston Regional High students, all members of the Highlander Girl Pipers, Highlander Band, color-guard-or-twirling-squad-will leave on March 13 for an exchange concert trip to Boyertown, Pa.

Boys and girls from Boyertown will return the visit on April 10, playing a concert here on Saturday, April 11.

Choral program planned Sunday

The Mountainside Music Association will sponsor "An Afternoon with Tom Wallace and the St. John's Youth" Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Deerfield School. Wallace, who is choral director at Deerfield, is in charge of the 125-voice young people's choir.

Their program will include modern songs and traditional spirituals, tracing the history of black sacred music. Tickets, at 50 cents for students and $1 for adults, are available from Mrs. John Palmer, 233-6683, and Mrs. Robert Cushman, 273-0782. They will also be sold at the door.

State tournament

Gov. Livingston Regional High School will open play in the state basketball tournament Monday, meeting West Orange in an 8 p.m. game at Roselle Park High School. The winner will face Newark South Side Friday, March 6, at Clifford Scott High School, East Orange, also at 8 p.m.

Science Topics

COMING QUESTION: WILL COMPUTERS EVENTUALLY THINK?

Are computers potentially intelligent? No one yet knows. But a University of Wisconsin computer scientist says there is a way to find out. He says research is under way to discover methods of teaching computers to think. He believes computers can shed light on the actual thinking processes of the mind. Apparent similarities between brains and properly programmed computers are sufficiently striking so that one can begin to speculate whether computers eventually can be programmed to think.

A TREMENDOUS INCREASE in the welding of nonferrous metals, such as magnesium, titanium, aluminum and zirconium, will occur in the next decade, it was predicted by ARC Products Manufacturing, Hanover, Pa. The company says that many of these metals will be used in applications, such as space frames, where their light weight and high strength are desirable. Some will be used in the manufacture of trucks because reducing the weight of a truck's body will enable it to carry more cargo and still meet weight restrictions on highways. Some trucking firms already are putting wheels made of magnesium on their vehicles as one method of decreasing the weight of trucks.

GENETIC TRANSFORMATION, the replacement of one gene or set of genes for another, is one of the ways in which heredity can be controlled, reports a University of Chicago biologist. He said that although geneticists cannot yet mold human progeny, they can control some aspects of bacterial heredity. Molecular geneticists can determine successfully the genetic fate of unborn bacteria by injecting normal bacteria cell cultures with genetic material extracted from bacteria that have acquired, by mutation, a resistance to antibiotics such as streptomycin and erythromycin.

AN INCH OF SNOW falling evenly on one acre of ground is equivalent to about 2,700 gallons of water, according to hydrologists of the U.S. Geological Survey. However, water resources specialists point out that this figure -- based upon the rule of thumb that 10 inches of snow is equal to one inch of water -- can vary considerably, depending on whether the snow is the heavy, wet kind, or the powdery, dry kind.

Dresner in Israel, attends convention of Reform rabbis

Rabbi Israel Dresner of Temple Sharey Shalom, Springfield is scheduled to arrive today in Israel for a 12 day visit. The rabbi will attend the convention of the Central Conference of American Rabbis (CCAR) which is the organization of all the Reform rabbis in the United States and Canada. This is the first occasion in the history of the Reform rabbinate that its annual convention will be held outside North America.

The pre-convention proceedings will open in Haifa with the dedication of the new educational plant of the Leo Baeck School, an elementary, junior high and high school complex almost wholly supported by American Reform Judaism. Minister of Education and Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Alon will deliver the main address at the dedication of the school which bears the name of the German rabbi, Leo Baeck, the leading Reform theologian of the 20th century.

Rabbi Dresner will present a sum of money raised by students of the Temple Sharey Shalom Religious School and by members of the Springfield congregation to the director of the Haifa school. The hundreds of Reform rabbis will move to Jerusalem for the formal opening of the week-long convention on Mt. Scopus in the buildings of the original campus of the Hebrew University.

The president of Israel, Zalman Shazar, will receive the delegates and their wives at the Beit Ha-Nasi (the Israeli White House). The prime Minister of Israel, Mrs. Gold Meir will deliver one of the convention addresses, as will the Foreign Minister of Israel, Abba Eban.

Rabbi Dresner will lead one of the sessions of the convention. Rabbi Roland Gittelsohn, president of the CCAR, has appointed Rabbi Dresner to lead the special memorial service for the six million Jews killed in Nazi Europe during World War II. The service will be held at Yad Vashem, the Israeli monument to the martyred Jews of the Holocaust, and Rabbi Dresner will deliver the memorial sermon.

While in Israel Rabbi Dresner will also meet with representatives of the Jewish National Fund to select a site for the forest which is to be planted by Temple Sharey Shalom. The Springfield congregation and its young people are raising the funds for the forest.

Rabbi Dresner is accompanied by his wife, Toby and seven-month-old son, Avram Shalom. The Dresners will return March 11. At Sabbath evening services on Friday, March 13, Rabbi Dresner will preach on his experiences, and during the Oneg Shabbat following the service he will discuss the current situation in Israel with the congregation.

Report from Trenton

By State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo

Governor Cahill presented his $1.59 billion budget to the legislature last week. At the same time, he sent a special message proposing the creation of a 25-man commission to conduct a thorough review of New Jersey's tax policy. Since I had previously introduced similar legislation to accomplish the same end, I intend to lend vigorous support to the Governor's plan. The Governor made his proposal after consulting with the leadership of both parties in both houses of the Legislature. As he indicated in his special message, there has been a wide divergence of opinion on the composition of the commission and its functions. The Governor also pointed out that there has been general agreement on the need for tax reform.

Under Governor Cahill's proposal, the members of the commission would be charged with recommending the reform and restructuring of the entire tax policy of this state. A study of this state's taxation thicker is a monumental task. Over the years, inequities have been piled atop other injustices until we find ourselves limping under a gerry-built load of taxation that crushes most the small property owner. Few states rely so heavily upon the property owner for revenue as New Jersey. It is a burden that somehow must be eased quickly before taxes exceed the homeowners' ability to pay them.

THE TAX POLICY COMMISSION proposed by the Governor would have broad representation in all areas of citizens' interest. He has expressed the wish that the committee be readily divisible into smaller task forces to study and review specific areas of concern. Governor Cahill, although setting the number of members at 25, has indicated that the committee could be expanded to 30 in order to meet legitimate needs for representation. He has also suggested that experts in the field of taxation, representatives of both houses of the Legislature, members of local units of government and representatives of the private sector be named to the committee.

In addition to pointing out inequities in the existing system of taxation, the committee would be expected to suggest appropriate action to remedy them. At the same time, the members would have to examine the responsibilities of the various levels of government and the present allocation of the costs of government services and to suggest changes, if required, in both the area of realignment and/or responsibility and reallocation of costs.

I am happy to give my backing to this proposal by the Governor, because I believe that swift action in this vital area is absolutely necessary for the state and its citizens.

L. Fischer; founder of travel firm

Services for Louis Fischer of 299 S. Harrison, East Orange, founder of the Fischer Bros. Travel Bureau, Irvington, were held Friday at the Suburban Chapel of Philip Apter & Son, Maplewood.

Mr. Fischer, 75, died last Wednesday at the Cornell Hall Nursing Home, Union, after a long illness. A native of Hungary, Mr. Fischer came to the United States in 1906.

Mr. Fischer had lived in Elizabeth, Irvington and Newark before moving to East Orange three years ago.

He was a passenger agent for the New Jersey Central Railroad before he established the travel agency in 1921. He retired two years ago but continued as president of the agency which remains in family hands, and in January relocated to Echo Plaza Shopping Center, Route 22, Springfield.

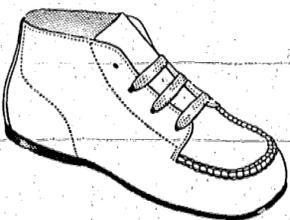

Mr. Fischer was one of the founding members of the American Society of Travel Agents and was a past president of the New Jersey chapter.

Surviving are his wife, the former Elizabeth Lowy; two daughters, Mrs. Janet Seroff of Westfield and Mrs. Marilyn Savarin of Perine, Fla.; two sisters, Mrs. Erna Friedman of Union and Mrs. Blanche Goodman of New York, and five grandchildren.

British firm has edge on U. S. sword market

By ROBERT L. LIBKIND
A bit of the military dignity that is Britain's heritage is recaptured by a Mountinside firm. Wilkinson Sword Inc., 1121 Bristol rd., a subsidiary of Wilkinson Sword Limited, London, sells thousands of swords each year to collectors in the United States. The weapons, ranging from presentation swords to Scottish claymores, once were the rock of Wilkinson's business, but today most of the company's revenue is from razor blades. Nevertheless, thousands of collectors order the special swords each year which start for sale at about $75.

Warren E. Demming, manager of the sword division, said that Wilkinson "has been putting edges on steel for 200 years." The company also holds Queen Elizabeth's warrant for manufacture of swords for the British government. Wilkinson has its beginning in 1772 when a London gunsmith turned to blades. His former apprentice, James Wilkinson, later acquired the firm and, according to Wilkinson officials in London, "established a reputation for quality and craftsmanship in the manufacture of military sporting arms."

One of Wilkinson's more popular weapons is the Royal Navy sword, based on an 1880 pattern and redesigned in 1929. The sword is carried by all Royal Navy officers. In the United States, collectors find it a bargain at $96.

At the other extreme is the presentation or "fancy" scimitar, a 31-inch curved sword with two cutting edges. Collectors must pay $300 to have this ornament hanging on their walls. The scimitar is used as a presentation sword of honor and prizes to notable people throughout the world. The sword's metal fittings can be supplied in gilt, bronze, silver or gold with jewelry according to order of merit, said Demming.

A collector's favorite is the basket hilted broadsword, more popularly known as the Claymore or "Claid Heahmor." About 300 years ago the Claymore was a two-handed weapon which was found to be too cumbersome against organized troops. The present design evolved from the Italian "schlavona" and the Cavalier broadsword of 1650.

Today's Claymore manufactured by Wilkinson is based on an 1894 pattern and is carried by officers, staff sergeants and pipers of all Scottish Regiments.

The firm also distributes company swords which are designed for presentations and inscriptions, Masonic swords and poignards, a general officer's scimitar, infantry swords, Royal Artillery swords, cavalry officers' swords and Royal Air Force swords. Wilkinson also provides sword design service to meet the customers' own requirements and renovated swords, from cleaning to complete refurbishing.

370,000 fowl winter at shore

Nearly 370,000 migratory waterfowl are wintering along the New Jersey coast, the Division of Fish and Game of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development reported this week.

Wildlife biologists of the Division's Bureau of Wildlife Management conducted the annual mid-winter waterfowl inventory of coastal areas in January. This is part of a survey undertaken along the entire Atlantic Flyway in cooperation with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. New Jersey also runs periodic survey flights during the fall migration.

An estimated 369,300 waterfowl were found in the survey area, which runs from Raritan

Bay to Cape May and up Delaware Bay to Paulsboro. This was about 136,000 above last year's winter figure, an indication that many birds had not yet gone south to escape the bitter cold which set in after the first of the year.

Brant accounted for part of the increase from last winter. They were 18,000 above last year's population, and remained one of the most abundant species, with over 96,000. Black ducks, the "broad and butter duck" of northeastern hunters, remained over the 60,000 mark for the third winter in a row, numbering 68,700.

Scaup up 29,000 and scoters up 49,000 over last year showed the largest increases. Bonus hunting seasons for scaup have been held in recent years in New Jersey and other northeastern states to utilize the current abundance of broadbills.

Curtain going up in Regional schools; first show tonight

The Broadway season is opening -- in the Union County Regional High School District. Four all-time hit musicals are coming to the suburbs as student productions at the four high schools this month and next.

Opening the 12th year of Broadway in the suburbs is "The Sound of Music" at Gov. Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights, tonight, tomorrow and Saturday evening. Curtain time is 8:15.

The musical story of the Trapp family is being student-directed by Dennis Boutsikaris and his assistants, Hilarie Stone and Judy Nickolls. Faculty member, Walter Both is producer-director.

"Oliver," which enjoyed a long run on Broadway and was later successfully transferred to the screen, will be presented at David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth on Friday and Saturday nights, March 6 and 7, with the curtain going up at 8 each night.

Mrs. Bette Becker, music instructor will be assisted by Mrs. JoAnn Abella, drama coach. Choreographing the adaptation of the Charles Dickens story will be Patricia Monahan and Sue Sylvester, both students.

At Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark, some of the younger brothers and sisters of cast members will help out in the popular "March of the Siamese Children" scene in "The King and I," which will be presented the evenings of March 19, 20 and 21.

Working with the student director, Randy Jenkins, are faculty members, Andrew Jupina and Mrs. Sharon Weiskopf.

Meredit Wilson's "The Music Man" will open its two-day run on Friday night, March 13 at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield. Curtain time will be 8:15.

The faculty music director is David Porkola and the staging is being directed by Joseph Trinity, also a teacher. The student directors are Nicholas DeLiberato and Randy Schneider.

"There's something for everyone's musical taste," Edward Brown, District music coordinator said. "The shows involve many dedicated students; band, cast, scenery, costumes, lighting, etc. So, if you missed these particular shows on Broadway, you're invited to attend the productions put on by our students."

The Regional District comprises Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield.

'Hit-run' motorist rams parked car

Walter A. Christoffer of 394 Central ave., Mountainside, reported to Mountainside police last Friday that his car had been struck by another vehicle while it was parked in front of his residence.

He told police he heard a loud noise at about 9:45 p.m., and went outside to investigate. He said he saw three men standing near his vehicle. They drove off when they saw him approaching. When he got to his car he discovered his wheel, fender and bumper had been damaged.

In another accident a car driven by Phillip E. Guter, 69, of Irvington, and a truck driven by Walter Place, 56, of Parlin for the Shellcross Express Company of Kenilworth collided on Rt. 22 at Church Circle last Thursday.

Both drivers told police they were attempting to get into the east-bound lane of the highway when the collision occurred.

Emanu-El sermon to focus on 'youth'

"Are You Hung-up about the Youth Hang-up?" will be the title of the sermon to be given by Milton Faith, director of Youth and Family Counseling in Westfield tomorrow night at Temple Emanu-El.

He is one of a series of guests who will appear on the pulpit of the temple while Rabbi Charles Kroloff is in Israel. The rabbi will be away for two weeks and is taking a group from Temple Emanu-El on a tour of Israel.

Tomorrow's talk will cover a wide range of youth problems which will include the question of drug addiction, youth protest and youth direction.

Services are held for Mr. Shallcross

Funeral services were held Saturday at Smith and Smith (Suburban) in Springfield for William Shallcross of 301 Old Tote rd., Mountainside, who died last Wednesday at Overlook Hospital in Summit. He was 54.

Born in Kenilworth, he lived in Mountainside for 13 years. He was a driver for Shallcross Trucking Co., Kenilworth, and a member of Local 478, Truckers and Chauffeurs Union, and Community Presbyterian Church. He was a Navy veteran of World War II.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Frances Terhune Shallcross; a son, William A., and two daughters, Diane D. and Robin L., all at home; three brothers, Charles and Joseph of Kenilworth and Harry of Mountainside; four sisters, Miss Margaret Shallcross and Mrs. Ellen Henshaw, both of Kenilworth; Mrs. Dorothy Vincent of Mountainside and Mrs. Lily Regenye of Union.

Day care center asks contributions to meet '70 budget

A total of $14,304.53 has been received toward the 1970 budget of $20,000 to operate the Westfield Day Care Center, Mrs. Stephen F. Perry, finance chairman, reported to the monthly meeting of the board of trustees at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Gardner R. Cunningham, president, said, "We are deeply appreciative of the support given us in opening the center, and many have continued their support. However, to continue operations in 1970, we must raise an additional $5,700. We call upon all those who may have overlooked or postponed sending their contribution this year to do so now. We have always raised the necessary funds in the past, and hope to be able to report that our 1970 appeal has been successful at our third annual meeting on March 9."

"Volunteer workers continue to be the backbone of the center," she said. "At present, we are appealing to any driver who may have 30 minutes to spare, even once a week, to help us with transportation. If you can help, please call the center, 232-6717, or contact Mrs. H. G. Templeton, 1110 Boulevard, Teacher aides and kitchen helpers are also needed, and if you can give a few hours, please call either the center or Mrs. W. A. Christoffers, 394 Central ave., Mountainside." Mrs. Cunningham said.

"To enrich the life of a child and at the same time help a family who needs day care for a pre-school or kindergarten child makes ours a better community. As long as there are children and families who need our help, the Day Care Center will be open. However, we can help others only if we have the financial and volunteer support of the community. Open your hearts and give us your help -- we need it."

"Please send your tax-deductible contribution today to the Westfield Day Care Center, 140 Madison ave., and don't postpone calling us to volunteer your help."

Highlanders bury Rahway, 92-71; fall to Hillside in UCT opener, 63-54

By BILL LOVETT
Earlier last week a member of the Gov. Livingston athletic department remarked, "If we do not have a bad quarter against Hillside, we will win." Unfortunately he was right. Regional had a poor first period and never could catch the Comets who won 63-54. Against Rahway, the Highlanders could have had three bad quarters and still have won -- they knocked the visitors right out of the game in the opening moments, 42-71.

For the third straight time, Art Levine bedeviled Livingston with his accurate inside shooting. The lanky 6-4 center held his own underneath and opened things up outside for Joe Casulli who, like Levine had 22 points. Doug Rau had the unenviable task of guarding Levine and did a good job despite the fact that he gave away three inches in height.

Rau and Jeff Burdette were the only two Highlanders to score in double figures -- Burdette had 22 and Rau 10 -- but it was the Regional guard, more than anyone else, who kept the game close. Jeff was the only one to hit consistently all night and in the third quarter the Gov. Livingston strategy was simple -- give the ball to Burdette.

An eight-point streak by the Comets in the first quarter broke open the game. With the score 9-8, Levine and Casulli combined to give their team a nine-point lead. From then on Regional never got within six. The Highlanders were always a threat but could never get closer in the Union County Tournament game.

Burdette, who had been shackled by Hillside in two previous meetings, broke loose in the second half, banking in shots from all angles as well as penetrating the Comet defense. Hillside, though, couldn't be flustered -- it kept up the deliberate game and won by nine points.

Frank J. Klein, retired carpenter

Funeral services for Frank J. Klein of 232 Pembroke rd., Mountainside, will be held at 8:15 a.m. today from the McCracken Funeral Home, Union, with High Mass of Requiem at 9 a.m. in Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Mountainside.

Klein died at Overlook Hospital in Summit Sunday after a brief illness. He was 84 years old.

Born in Austria-Hungary, he came to this country as a youth and lived in Philadelphia and Newark before moving to Mountainside in 1952.

A carpenter until his retirement in 1952, he was a member of Local 1209, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Union. He also was a member of St. Peter's Chapel Holy Name Society, Irvington.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary Decker Klein; four sons, John B. of St. Joseph, Mich., Lawrence J. of South Plainfield, Edward G. of Los Angeles and Robert W. of Mountainside; six daughters, Miss Marie Klein of Honolulu, Mrs. Julia Simon of Elmhurst, Ill., Mrs. Helen Carney of Chatham, Mrs. Dorothy Wolf of Cranford, Mrs. Eleanor Bischoff of Union and Mrs. Rita Bruno of Madison; a brother, Alex, and a sister, Mrs. Amelia Monsko, both of Schenectady, N.Y.; 22 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Torchy assigned to Tinker AFB

OKLAHOMA CITY -- U.S. Air Force Sergeant David T. Torchy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas T. Torchy of 1589 Grouse lane, Mountainside, N. J., has arrived for duty at Tinker AFB, Okla.

Serg. Torchy, a communications specialist, is assigned to the 3rd Mobile Communications Group, a unit of the Air Force Communications Service which provides global communications and air traffic control for the USAF. He previously served at Ankara Air Station, Turkey.

The sergeant is a 1966 graduate of Gov. Livingston Regional High School.

3 on UC dean's list from Mountainside

Three Mountainside residents are among 88 students in the day and evening sessions named to the dean's honor list at Union College, Cranford, for the fall semester. It was announced by Prof. Elmer Wolf, acting dean.

They are: Miss Karen E. Hummel of 1137 Maple court, Miss Jacqueline F. Vincent of 476 Summit rd. and Joseph G. Lobl of 1287 Cedar ave.

Miss Hummel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hummel, and Miss Vincent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fabian V. Vincent, are graduates of Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights. They are liberal arts majors in Union College's day session.

A graduate of Cranford High School, Lobl is enrolled in the law enforcement program. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Lobl and an evening session student.

Vozzo gets certificate

Phillip Vozzo of 1104 Saddlebrook rd., Mountainside, has been awarded a certificate by Rutgers University's Extension Division for completion of an extended program of concentrated study.

Funeral rites held for Bertram Cohen

Funeral services were held yesterday for Bertram M. Cohen, 85, of 1630 Larkspur dr., Mountainside, who died Monday in Elizabeth General Hospital.

Mr. Cohen was born in Fort Scott, Kan., and had lived in New York and Newark before moving to Maplewood 43 years ago. He moved to Mountainside three years ago.

He retired 10 years ago as a salesman. He was a member of the Mountainside Senior Citizens, the New York Corset Club, a founder and member of the Unity Club of Maplewood, a Civil Defense block warden of Maplewood during World War II and former member of the Newark Elks.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. June Shepard of Mountainside and Mrs. Ruth Sattenspiel of Maplewood, and six grandchildren.

Services were held at the Suburban Chapel of Philip Apter and Son, 1600 Springfield ave., Maplewood.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

National Institute of Mental Health

NEW JOBS

By THOMAS F. A. PLAUT, PH.D., Acting Director
Division of Manpower and Training Programs

There are many new kinds of jobs -- and more are being developed all the time -- in the mental health field. The needs for manpower are so urgent in all kinds of agencies, from psychiatric hospitals to community mental health centers, that new opportunities now exist for both young and old to make important contributions in mental health.

Formerly most people thought that only psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, and nurses were needed in mental health work. Perhaps some still think this way.

But it is far from true. Certainly we need more of all these and other kinds of highly-trained professional people, particularly in research, teaching, and top administrative positions. The challenges and opportunities in the four fields mentioned are, indeed, greater than ever; and recruitment is the word in each of them.

Yet there are burgeoning new opportunities. These new jobs range in requirements from a four-year or two-year college degree to a high school degree or less. Many are in community mental health programs and are found in smaller cities and towns and rural area settings as well as in major urban centers.

One of the missions of the National Institute of Mental Health manpower program is to provide support for projects to develop new job fields and to train people to enter them. Through such support, for example, a number of the 1,000 community colleges around the Nation are providing special courses and training opportunities. These programs lead to well-paying mental health jobs -- often at the end of only two years of schooling. There also are training projects underway in mental health centers, psychiatric hospitals, and various urban and other agencies for neighborhood workers, community mental health aides, technicians, and case aides.

The goal is to give those interested in such work special training in mental health so they can take up a career suited to their particular education and abilities.

In many of these jobs, education is not so important as is the interest and potential of the individual.

With some 19,000,000 people in the United States suffering from mental illness and with the mounting number of social problems (from alcoholism to crime and violence), we desperately need more manpower and new kinds of jobs to strengthen vital programs and to make them more effective.

Cardiologists offer new data on heart attack prevention

A capacity crowd of some 300 filled the Wallace Medical Education Center at Overlook Hospital, Summit, last week to hear a panel of leading cardiologists speak on "Your Heart Means Your Life." This preventive medicine program will be repeated for the public next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m., co-sponsored by Overlook's cardiology department and the Union County Heart Association.

The essence of their message was: "Don't delay. If you think you may be having a heart attack, call for help at once. The early threatening period is the critical time when a heart can go wild—but often can be stabilized if drugs, necessary shock equipment, and skilled aid is at hand," according to Dr. W. Austin Tansley of Short Hills, who was moderator.

Characteristic symptoms of a heart attack were stated by Dr. John J. Gregory of Summit: "The sudden onset of steady, unremitting pain or severe pressure in the chest, often described as a 'heavy weight,' which may range into the shoulders, neck or arms—not fleeting pains but steady, usually accompanied by profuse sweating, pallor, nausea and vomiting, faintness, often shortness of breath."

Dr. Gregory pointed out that often milder symptoms, as described above, warned of the impending coronary attack a week or two in advance.

THE TYPICAL coronary candidate was described by Dr. Warren B. Nestler, director of medical education at Overlook:

"Male, in his 40s or 50s, high living standard, under stress, over-weight and under-exercised, and a cigarette smoker—with added risk if there is diabetes or a history of heart disease in the family. Women, too, might well be warned, if they fall into these risk categories," he stated, adding that the motivated patient with medical assistance can plan a preventive program against heart disease.

High cholesterol levels in the blood are believed to be another risk factor, causing scales or deposits in the arteries which can block the vital flow of blood to the heart. Low fat diet can regulate cholesterol levels, as well as to help reduce weight if the patient is obese.

Dr. Kopel Burk of Millburn, chairman of the Overlook cardiology department, spoke on the careful training of area rescue squads, police and fire departments, who have been instructed by Overlook physicians in the techniques of cardiac resuscitation.

HE OUTLINED the preparedness of the hospital's emergency department, which has 24-hour physician coverage, cardiac crash cart with defibrillator and all emergency drugs, specially trained nurses—all in readiness for the arriving cardiac patient.

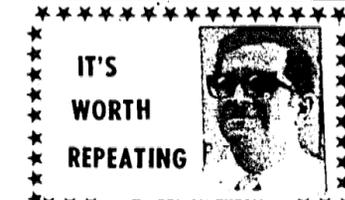

"Overlook's monitored coronary care unit was the pioneer unit in the state," Dr. Burk remarked. "By constant monitoring, we are able to catch heart arrhythmias the second they threaten, and control the heart with drugs or a quick shock before extensive damage is done," he explained.

Emphasizing the need for regular, stimulating exercise to keep the heart muscle in good condition, Dr. Gerald B. Demarest of Westfield spoke on the "12 minute ride to physical fitness" provided by a new electronically monitored bicycle Overlook has just acquired. Its "electronic coach" visually meters pulse rate, calories consumed per hour, and pedal speed, taking the rider through an automatically programmed 12-minute work period, including warm-up, test period, and a series of four progressively harder hills, with rests in between and a final tapering off period.

"Increased pulse rate under exercise, when measured, determines the safety limits for an individual—especially important for the post-coronary," Dr. Demarest explained. He cautioned that any person over 40 should check with his physician before embarking on a strenuous fitness program, and stressed swimming, bicycling, jogging and aerobics as the type of exercise beneficial to the heart.

By SOL NACKSON

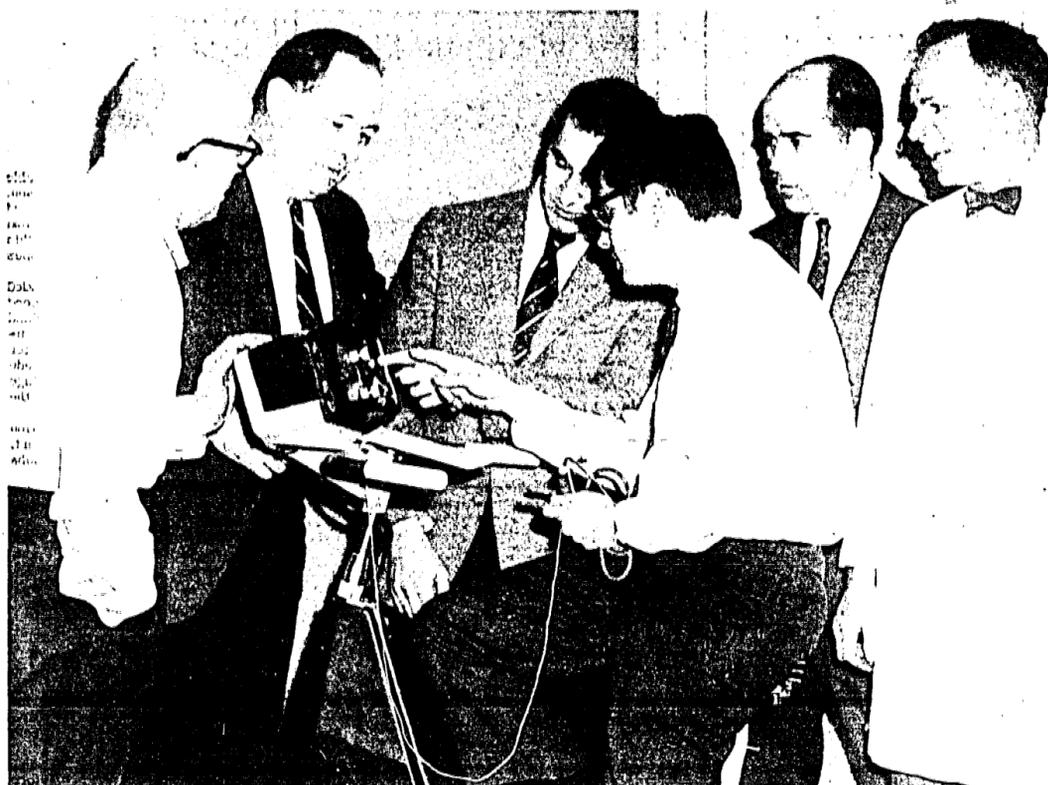

A friend of ours wrote to the CBS weather man the other day, and he gave us a copy of the note he sent: "I thought you'd be interested to know that I shoveled three feet of partly cloudy from my driveway this morning."

SON: Mom! A bee stung me! MOTHER: Come here, let me put something on it. SON: You can't. It flew away.

A man parked his small foreign car in the parking lot here the other day. When he came out of a store, someone was looking over the tiny red beauty. Said the owner of the car, "Well, what do you think of it?" "Picked it before it was ripe, didn't you?"

And of course, everyone knows how a ghost opens a door. With a skeleton key.

It's worth repeating too, that no cleaning job is ever too difficult to do at ECHO CLEANERS. Try us, and see for yourself how true it is. We're conveniently located at Echo Plaza Shopping Center, Mountain ave, and Route 22, Springfield, 379-4499.

NEW DEVICE—The Paul Dudley White set of Overlook Hospital prepares for a repeat performance of its community seminar, "Your Heart Means Your Life," open to the public on Wednesday, March 4, at 8:30 p.m. in the hospital auditorium. Overlook's new electronically monitored cardiac bicycle, which provides a programmed 12 minute ride to physical fitness, is inspected above by Overlook cardiologists, from left, Dr. Gerald B. Demarest of Westfield; Dr. W. Austin Tansley of Short Hills; Dr. John J. Gregory of Summit; Dr. Kopel Burk of Millburn (on bicycle); Dr. William Minogue of Westfield and Dr. Warren B. Nestler, director of medical education.

STAGE CRAFTSMAN — Barry Mansfield of Summit has constructed the scenery for the annual Jonathan Dayton Regional High School musical show, "The Music Man," to be presented March 13 and 14. Mansfield has long been active in stage and TV productions, including "Dear Ruth," "A Man for All Seasons," "Enter Laughing," "Flower Drum Song" and "Damn Yankees." He is a winner of the Peabody Award, Sylvania Award and TV Guide Award.

Students to learn of careers offered in social service

A career in social service will be the topic at Overlook Hospital on Tuesday, March 10, when students from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School and 11 other area high schools are invited to explore the many fields available in social service work. Sophomore, junior and senior students can make arrangements through their school guidance counselors.

Thomas J. Brown, director of social service at Overlook, will be the lead-off speaker, with a film to follow. Workshop sessions for close group interchange will provide experts in the fields of: medical social service; home health and rehabilitation; community agencies, such as schools, family service and child day care centers; psychiatric in-patient and out-patient; inner city and rural poverty problems, including social work with Vista, the Peace Corps and Project Hope.

Dr. Daniel J. O'Connell, Overlook's new director of psychiatric services, will highlight the afternoon session, speaking from his experience as recent executive secretary of the National Commission on Indian Health. His topic will be: "The American Indian—His Plight and Potential."

A tour of the hospital's facilities as related to social service work will complete the program, which is sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of Overlook Hospital and coordinated through Overlook's public relations department.

Y luncheon on pollution

The first of a series of public affairs luncheons for business women will be held at the Summit YWCA on Tuesday, March 10, from noon until 1 p.m. Sponsored by the public affairs committee of the YWCA, the affair will give business women the opportunity to enjoy an informal luncheon, to meet other business women in the area and to hear a speaker on a topic of current concern.

"The Water Problem on the Home Front," concerning the current pollution difficulties, will be the topic. Speaker will be Mrs. William Hinners. Mrs. Hinners is a former president of the Chatham League of Women Voters and has served as chairman of the county council. She is currently working on the New Jersey Water Committee and is the New Jersey representative on the Inter-League Council of the Delaware River.

Women planning to attend the luncheon were asked to telephone their reservations to the YWCA, 273-4242, no later than next Tuesday.

Feld awarded sales citation

Robert M. Feld of 40 New Brook lane, Springfield, was among 35 salesmen honored by their companies at the Distinguished Salesman's Award luncheon of the Sales Executives Club of New Jersey, held at the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark, on Tuesday.

The award was presented by Ace Brake Exchange and the recipient was accompanied by his wife, Judith, and his immediate sales supervisor, Harry Gelbach.

Tapes, deck taken from car at Dayton

Robert Sacks of 16 Edgewood ave., Springfield, reported to Springfield police the theft of a tape player and three tapes, with a total value of $67, from his car last Tuesday. He said his car was parked in the lot at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

Also on that date, Virginia Spiegel of 10 Janet lane, Springfield, reported the theft of a green leather wallet from her car between 4 and 10 p.m. while it was parked at the Stop and Shop at the Morris-Essex Turnpike. She said it contained $4 and identification cards, including her driver's license and auto registration.

On Thursday, Charles Foster reported the theft of a Regional High jacket while he was attending a party.

Y will open registration

L. William Kelsay, program director of the Summit Area YMCA, has announced registration dates for spring courses. Girls grades 3 through 9 may register this week for trampoline classes, beginning or advanced, which will be held on Thursday afternoons after school, beginning March 5. Boys may register now for boys' judo classes which also begin during the week of March 2. Third and fourth graders meet Wednesday afternoons, and fifth and sixth graders on Monday afternoons. The skills courses run for five weeks.

Registration for all progressive swim classes will be taken during the week of March 2 for the 12-week courses which begin the week of March 16. They are open to boys and girls grades 3 through 12 and are classed according to skill level: minnow, fish, flying fish, shark, and porpoise.

YMCA membership is required for both skills and swim classes. For further information, readers may call the Y, 273-3330.

HELP PREVENT SHOPLIFTING
 Shoplifting has become almost a major business in the United States. The NRMA has issued the following hints for operations of independent stores to help prevent losses of profit.

1. Set up a store policy as to what action should be taken in the event of shoplifting. Check with your legal counsel and police department.

2. Keep your eyes—as well as those of your employees open. Even if your store is busy, inform sales personnel to acknowledge the presence of all customers. If they are holding merchandise, it signifies that they are ready to buy. Serve them promptly.

3. Keep display stock in good condition. Orderly and neatly stacked stock will help personnel to become familiar with the merchandise and they can tell at a glance if anything is wrong. Good housekeeping discourages shoplifting.

4. If shoplifting occurs frequently in any particular area—

- (a) Connect a strong overhead light;
- (b) Rearrange displays to avoid blind spots;
- (c) Use mirrors to reflect activity at blind spots;
- (d) Relocate desirable merchandise so that it can be observed easily.

5. Be calm. Do not act impulsively. Eliminate temptation.

6. If a customer is suspected, watch carefully, but courteously.

If shoplifting is a disease, then the culprit should be hospitalized behind bars and be punished with heavy fines. Severe rules for the younger shoplifter of today will prevent a grown-up thief of tomorrow.

Urge your congressman to create a bill for severe penalty for shoplifting; it will help storekeepers to reduce their losses and they will reduce the prices on their merchandise.

popular, but many students will take a tossed green salad. I've found that students don't usually like creamed things, except macaroni and cheese. Sometimes a student will take macaroni, with potatoes and corn, so then I have to point out what makes up a balanced meal.

"THE CHILDREN ARE quite receptive to facts like that. They're really very nice, and I have yet to see any lack of discipline in the cafeteria. It amazes me how much some of them can eat. We check the garbage occasionally and they don't throw much away."

Mrs. Nesbitt had nothing but praise for the approximately 60 workers, mostly women, who keep the lunch service running. "The ladies who work here treat all the food and equipment like it was their own. They don't waste anything, and they're interested in the students and what goes on in the schools, the athletic teams, Board elections, etc.

"I'd say we have a very warm atmosphere here, from the superintendent of schools on down. We strive always to use the best quality — not fancy but good — even if it costs a little more.

"One of the most important factors is cleanliness. Everything here is shiny. The four schools are immaculate, and the cafeteria has to be cleaned quickly, too, because after the lunch periods, the room is used as a study hall."

MRS. NESBITT AND her husband, E. Allen Nesbitt, a research physicist at Bell Lab, live in Berkeley Heights. They have two sons, both married, and both graduates of Regional high schools. The elder of the two, Raymond, went to Jonathan Dayton, while the younger, Lynn, was a star athlete at Gov. Livingston.

Mrs. Nesbitt grew up in Hackensack and was graduated from the College of St. Elizabeth in Convent Station where she majored in home economics. She is a member of the N.J. School Food Service Association and the Industrial Cafeteria Managers Association.

In the future she hopes to see expanded facilities for the Regional food service. "Some of the schools are old," she said, "and at the moment our storage space is inadequate. Deliveries have to be made quite frequently, and if we had some kind of commissary, it could save some money. Certain initial preparations could be made at the commissary," she added with the assurance that most of the cooking would still be done on the scene. "The personal touch is important," Mrs. Nesbitt concluded.

no longer included reports from various department heads in his report to the board, at least in the copies distributed to the public. She noted that there had been some controversy last month over the library report submitted.

Dr. Davis said that almost all school boards omitted department reports from material given to the public. He added that the material still goes to board members, and that any relevant information will be made public if any matters come before the board for a decision.

He added that the "whole subject is under serious discussion" and that the board "may make some major changes."

Manuel Dios, board president, told Mrs. Dorsky, "Your objections will be taken into consideration."

Mrs. Wetsman renewed her previous objections to the board policy of busing youngsters to school for distances less than the 2.5 miles needed to qualify for state compensation.

Dr. Fred Hagedorn, board transportation chairman, said that some of his previous comments on the subject may have been misconstrued. He said that the board soon will again consider its transportation regulations, but that any changes would probably not apply to the next school year.

He said that the busing could be charged to the expense of the municipalities concerned. They would need enough time to provide for this cost in their municipal budgets, he said "if we do change."

IN HIS REPORT, Dr. Davis obtained board approval for an official commendation for the Dayton basketball and track teams. The basketball team has just completed an undefeated regular season, winning the Suburban Conference championship. The track team has set three state records in Group II competition.

The board approved participation by the Gov. Livingston Pipe Band to march in the New York St. Patrick's Day parade March 17, at the invitation of the County Clare Association of New Jersey.

Another vote authorized exchange buses during summer school to consolidate classes for which there might be an insufficient demand at any one school. Dr. Davis estimated the busing cost at $3,000, adding that an equivalent saving might be realized by consolidating classes.

The board also approved a change in plans for the Dayton senior class trip on June 12. The youngsters will now spend the day at Homewick Lodge, Spring Glen, N.Y.

The board voted to seek bids on construction of four-foot chain link fences along the sidelines of the football fields at Dayton and Gov. Livingston.

Archery demonstrated at dinner held by Cubs

Cub Scout Pack 177 of Mountainside held its annual Blue & Gold Dinner at the Cranwood Restaurant last Friday. The program included a demonstration by the Watchung Archery Club.

Mrs. Ruth Gibadlo provided 200 cup cakes baked by her on the day of the affair when it was learned that the usual cake could not be provided due to illness.

Gordon Batten made the following awards: Wolf, Peter Zlobe; Steve Ferris, gold arrow; Jim Van Buskirk; scholar, David Batten. Batten was awarded a six-year service star as scout master of Pack 177.

Livingston Regional lists students on its honor roll

The honor roll for the second marking period of the year was announced this week at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights.

The honor students, from both Mountainside and Berkeley Heights, include 100 seniors, 109 juniors and 79 sophomores. No freshman are listed here because all those from Mountainside attend Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, rather than Gov. Livingston.

Hollow out crusty rolls which have been split in half lengthwise. Use these for ham, egg or tuna salad to make the noontime sandwich just a bit different by serving it in a "boat"

Banana lollipops are a real treat for the kiddies. Peel the banana, spear with a wooden skewer, and dip in melted milk chocolate. Place in freezing compartment until chocolate is firm.

Family getting tired of applesauce? Make it more tempting by using a few drops of red food coloring. You can also add tiny candles in bright designs.

Ruby dressing could be a family favorite. Beat 1/2 cup currant or plum jelly with fork until smooth. Add 1/4 cup salad oil, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, dash of salt, and few drops of onion juice. Mix thoroughly. Especially good as topping for citrus fruits, pears or avocados.

Speedy Spaghetti
 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
 1/4 cup chopped onion
 2 tablespoons lard or drippings.

- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 2 cans (16 ounces each) spaghetti in cheese and tomato sauce
- 1 can (4 ounces) drained mushroom stems and pieces
- Pan fry ground beef and onion in lard or drippings until meat is browned and onion is yellow and transparent. Season with salt and pepper. Stir in spaghetti and mushrooms. Cook over low heat at least 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. 6 servings.

Amino acids a la carte

Protein research at Rutgers

How's this for a mouth-watering meal?
A spoonful of calcium and potassium salts, 15 protein-free cookies with margarine or protein-free jam, six corn-starch puddings, three 14-gram servings of amino acids, one amino acid capsule, vitamin tablets, non-caffeine carbonated beverages, jellied candies and chewing gum.

Sound something like a crash diet contrived by a crazy coed?

Far from it. But groups of healthy Douglass College students have consumed this spartan menu for the past five years—all in the interest of science, it's part of a biologist's attempt to learn more about protein requirement. The scientist behind the diet is Hans Fisher, professor and chairman of the Department of Nutrition at the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science. Part of the reason he's interested in protein is that it is one of the world's most limited food nutrients.

NUTRITIONISTS for many years have thought that adults in developing countries aren't eating enough protein to replace worn-out parts of their bodies.

"We are trying to define clearly the minimum requirements of amino acids, the building blocks of protein," Dr. Fisher says. "So far we have studied four of the eight essential amino acids."

He carries out his studies with paid student volunteers who eat nothing but the prescribed diet for three to six weeks.

It sounds like a simple way to earn some pocket money—but there are a couple of catches. First, the girls can't lose or gain weight. Second, they must turn in their total body waste products daily.

"At first you think you're crazy to be doing this experiment," said Linda Kollar of Clifton, a junior majoring in home economics.

"The mineral powder has an indefinable taste—it's just plain horrible. But I made up my mind to do it regardless of taste."

"It's a matter of getting used to it," she says.

Jane Desnoyers of Basking Ridge, a sophomore French major, agrees that "it was depressing the first few days, but it's fine... now."

Jane volunteered for the diet as a result of word-of-mouth advertising from girls in her dormitory. Many girls joined through home economics class announcements, and some responded to a notice that the test dietician, Mrs. Suzanne Wiemo Whitlock, placed in the Douglass student newspaper.

"I give a tough presentation at the orientation session," Mrs. Whitlock says. "Then the remaining students have a trial day of three meals, if they last until dinner, I give another tough screening talk."

The students do not get paid if they drop out of the experiment before its completion.

A BIG PROBLEM that the girls face is maintaining weight. Loss of even half a pound could alter the results of the experiment.

"The girls find that they don't get hungry on the diet," Dr. Fisher says. "They even have trouble eating enough to get all the calories they need for weight maintenance."

He doesn't think that this is due to the unappetizing qualities of the diet foods, but rather to the filling capacity of the starchy parts of the diet and to the physiology of digestion.

The girls are fed 30 grams of protein daily, half the previously postulated adult requirement. This level begins to approach what people in poor countries get from a diet composed mainly of cereals.

"So far we've proven that there is no absolute protein requirement," Dr. Fisher says.

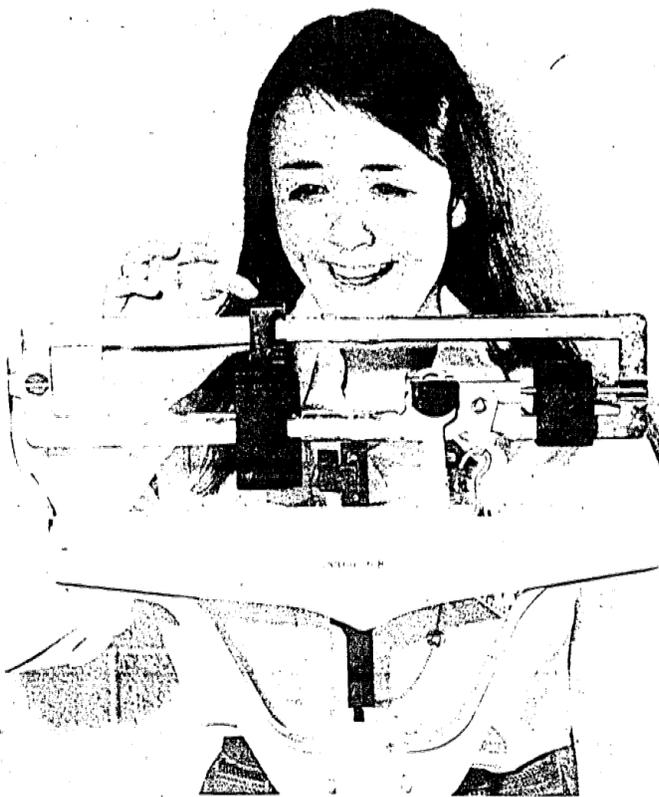

His research suggests that youngsters in developing countries need a protein concentrate to supplement their diet, but adults in those countries do not need such supplements.

Dr. Fisher and the other members of his research team, Dr. Miriam Brush and Dr. Paul Griminger, plan to continue their experiments until requirements for all eight essential amino acids have been determined at the present low intake of protein.

Plant engineers give NCE $1,000

The Metropolitan New Jersey chapter of the American Institute of Plant Engineers has presented Newark College of Engineering with a $1,000 gift in support of engineering education.

According to Robert Posch, president of the chapter, the AIEPE gift to NCE was made in appreciation of the cooperation the chapter received when it held an all-day seminar at the college last fall. The seminar, called "Operation Countdown," attracted more than 100 plant engineers from northern New Jersey and southern New York State.

WEIGHT WATCHER -- Miss Susan Thistle of North Plainfield is relieved to find that she hasn't gained any weight on the unappetizing diet she is observing as part of a nutrition experiment at the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science. The Douglass College junior and all other test participants check daily for weight gain or loss which could affect the experiment.

Family size attitudes quizzed

Cornell biologists pessimistic

"And what, if any, are the prospects for improved sex education when ignorance about the reproductive system is widespread even among those who should know best?"

Cornell University biologists Thomas Eisner, Ari van Tienhoven, and Frank Rosenblatt ask this question in a recent issue of Science. Bemoaning the knowledge level of a sample of students and faculty at the famous New York university, these scientists wonder if proponents of voluntary sterilization are backing a nearly hopeless cause.

This pessimistic attitude stems from study of results from a questionnaire survey of Cornell faculty and students designed to test attitudes and preferences concerning family size and contraceptive technique. Most respondents (74 percent) were males -- 294 were faculty, 174 were graduate students, and 591 were freshmen and upperclassmen. Considering the generally high level of education of the people quizzed, Eisner and his associates say with mild understatement that the results were unexpected.

While there was general agreement that family size should be limited, only five percent expressed preference for one or no children. At least 50 percent of young faculty and graduate students--those groups one might expect to be most concerned about the impending population crisis--expressed the desire to have three or more children.

Regarding contracep-tion, about half the replies chose "the pill" as a way to limit family size and to space births.

Voluntary sterilization was judged undesirable. Moreover, 52 percent of the men and 61 percent of the women said they would never undergo sterilization even when they had had all the children they wanted.

Ending on an equally pessimistic note, the Cornell scientists ask what are we to make of the educated youth growing up among us that is either unconcerned about population growth or, at the very least, unable or unwilling to apply to itself the simple arithmetic of compound interest.

'Christ Through African Eyes' to be Lenten sermon topic

"Christ Through the Eyes of an African" will be the subject of the Lenten service this Sunday evening at 8 at the Springfield Emanuel United Methodist Church, Church Mall at Academy Green. The Rev. Jonah Kawadza, a Methodist minister from Rhodesia, will share his view of "Christ in Africa" and the influence that the Christian faith has had upon the people of that continent.

Kawadza, who is presently studying at the School of Theology, Drew University, Madison, received his AB degree from Oxford University by correspondence, and his degree in theology from the University of Rhodesia. He is working toward a BD Degree at Drew, where he and his wife and three daughters are living in Wendell Hall.

Through Kawadza's relationship to the local congregation over the past year, a number of projects have been undertaken by various groups in relation to Rhodesia. The German Mission Circle sponsored a program in the church to assist Mr. Kawadza in bringing his family to the United States while studying in Madison.

The church school also began to assume an interest in scholarship for Rhodesian students and is helping Norman Mutsonzwa and Joel Chapeyama at Old Umali Methodist Center in Rhodesia. Both young men are in the final year of their high school education, which they would not have been able to complete without assistance from the local group. The German Mission Circle has also assisted Kawadza's son Jonathan in his high school education.

The Sunday services at the church also includes morning worship at 9:30 and 11 a.m., in the Trivet Chapel and Sanctuary, respectively. Pastor James Dewar will entitle his sermon "Driving the Wedge," based on Psalm 51, as the third in his series of messages on "Great Themes of Faith." In the sermon he will consider the predicament of human imperfection, and its involvement in man's estrangement with himself, his fellowman and God.

Church school will meet at 9:30 a.m., with the younger classes through the sixth grade in the Wesley House. The German language worship service at 9:30 in the sanctuary will be conducted by Theodore Reimlinger, lay speaker. Coffee and buns will be served by the senior highs in the Fellowship Hall at 10:30 a.m.

The Wednesday morning breakfast-study session will be held from 6:30 to 7:30. "The Sermon on the Mount" is the subject of the study, in keeping with the 1970 consideration of "The Life of Christ." Reservations for breakfast may be made with the church office, 376-1695.

LWV acts on study of school districts

Mrs. Herbert Forman, president, of the League of Women Voters has announced the format of the group's study of school district reorganization. "Because of the complexity of the study, it has been divided into three parts," she said.

"They are: an examination of the theory and practice of school district reorganization, an evaluation of the present system of school district organization in New Jersey, a consideration of reorganization as a potentially positive and feasible means to achieve better quality in our public school system."

"Phase one of the study will be examined at the Feb. 26 unit meeting of the league. It will be held at the home of Mrs. C. Cohn, 54 Spring Brook rd., at 8:15 p.m. Mrs. Forman and Mrs. Jay Simon, education chairman, have urged members and their friends to attend the meeting.

BEST CITIZEN—The Springfield Men's Lodge and Women's Chapter of B'nai B'rith recently presented their "Citizen of the Year" award to Saul Freeman, in ceremonies at Temple Beth Ahm. Shown, from left, are Irving Maloratsky and Mrs. Arthur Kesselhaut, civic affairs chairmen; Judge Donald Myers, Northern N. J. Council president; Freeman, and Samuel Piller and Mrs. Sidney Piller, presidents of the two local groups.

Installation rites for Rev. Schmidt

The Evangel Baptist Church, 242 Shunpike rd., Springfield, will have an installation service Sunday at 3:30 p.m. for its new pastor, the Rev. William C. Schmidt Jr.

The following men will take part in the program: the Rev. William Lincoln, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Millburn; the Rev. William Tarr, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Menucha; the Rev. David G. King, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Bloomfield; William Kettenburg, chairman of the board of deacons, and John Binns, chairman of Evangel's pulpit committee.

The Rev. Eric Crichton, pastor of the Calvary Independent Church, Lancaster, Pa., will bring the message at this service. Mr. Schmidt served with Pastor Crichton before coming to the Evangel Baptist Church. A reception will follow in the lower auditorium.

Women work longer

The average number of years a woman works has more than tripled from 1900 to 1960, and has increased by almost one-third between 1950 and 1960.

'Why You Smoke -- A Self-Test' set for television viewers next month

A five-part series, "Why You Smoke -- A Self-Test," will be broadcast on NET television stations throughout the country Monday through Friday, March 2 to 6. The program locally will be seen on Channel 13 at 7 p.m.

The series, produced in cooperation with the American Cancer Society through a grant of $190,000, will attempt to give viewers an understanding of why they smoke and how they may break the habit if they choose to do so.

Three employees were chosen from among hundreds of Washington (D.C.) Gaslight Company workers to be the "stars" of the series. The three employees share a problem with millions of Americans-- smoking. They don't perform in the NET series; their job is simply to be themselves -- to let their true personalities and their problem show through.

The three were followed by cameras for more than a month of cinema verite-style filming -- at home with their families, on the job, and nearly everywhere they would go. As the series progresses, viewers will watch the three smokers wrestle with their problem on the job and in a variety of situations with their families.

And they had one other assignment -- to take a four-part written test designed to reveal many things they didn't know about why they smoke and how they can change their habits. Viewers of the series will have an opportunity to take the same test right in front of their TV sets while the programs are on the air. The test will appear on the screen, and printed copies are available through the local units of the New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society.

The American Cancer Society's sponsorship of the series is another step in its program of public education about the health hazards of smoking. The society hails the NET series as a compelling human document and believes it will be a major contribution in the program to save lives from cancer.

Dr. Hall to speak on art

Dr. Lee Hall, associate professor of art and chairman of the Department of Art at Drew University, Madison, will speak at the Montclair Art Museum at a members' coffee hour program on Wednesday morning. Her talk will be on the current exhibition, "Clarence Carter -- Worden Day."

English teacher conference set

The New Jersey Association of Teachers of English announce this week its annual articulation conference for teachers of English on elementary, secondary, and college levels will be held at Fairleigh Dickinson University, Rutherford, on Saturday, March 14.

Dr. Herman Estrin, president of NJATE, and co-chairmen John Dollar of Fairleigh Dickinson University and Joseph T. Pascarella, Rutherford public schools, will introduce a two-part program dealing with the newest techniques and attitudes in the teaching of English.

Increase in output per man-hour up 9 percent in '69

WASHINGTON -- Output per man-hour in the private economy increased moderately in the fourth quarter of 1969, but the gain of 0.9 percent for the year was the smallest annual increase since 1956, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported.

The BLS report -- Quarterly Review of Productivity, Wages, and Prices -- shows that man-hours worked in the fourth quarter were reduced rather sharply, while output declined only slightly.

The rise in unit labor costs slowed a little in the fourth quarter, as the productivity gain dampened the cost effect of increases in worker compensation. Over the year, however, unit labor costs increased 6.3 percent, or much more than in 1968, because of the sharp slackening productivity gains.

Hourly compensation rose sharply in 1969, but somewhat less than in 1968, mainly because relatively few contracts were being negotiated. Although 1969 settlements were the highest on record, most workers were receiving much smaller deferred increases provided in earlier contracts.

Increases in both consumer and wholesale prices accelerated somewhat in the fourth quarter, particularly in food, but their rates of rise were still slightly less than the peak increases earlier in 1969.

NEW TEETH FOR OLD

Even before Aladdin's wife exchanged lamps, people were eager to replace old things with new. Ancient Etruscans shaped stones to substitute for missing teeth. In the American colonial period, advertisements offered poor farmers twenty-five dollars for sound teeth to fill embarrassingly visible gaps. And today, scientists supported by the National Institute of Dental Research, a component of the National Institutes of Health, are studying the merits of other implants to serve the same purpose.

When a child accidentally loses a tooth as a result of trauma, there is a fair chance of having it successfully replaced, provided that most of the attaching tissue remains on the tooth, that it can be kept moist, and that it can be re-implanted by a dentist within an hour. But reattachment of mature teeth is much less successful.

If issues match exceptionally well, occasionally a tooth from another person will survive as a transplant for a few years. Eventually, however, the body rejects nearly all foreign biological substances. So, for most of us, the problem of replacing a missing tooth continues.

The use of dentures is only a partial answer to this problem. Dentures have been made from everything from ivory to acrylic, but are never as satisfactory as natural teeth. All too often, they are inefficient, uncomfortable, or unesthetic.

Today, hopeful scientists are studying implants at opposite ends of the country. In Providence, Rhode Island, a dentist makes replicas of missing teeth out of tough plastic. He inserts them into empty sockets of experimental animals, either fastening them permanently into the bone, or temporarily wiring them to nearby teeth.

He reports that, in baboons, these teeth have functioned for as many as eight years in spite of rough treatment, and frequent biting of cage bars. So far, gums appear to be no more inflamed around these plastic teeth than the others in the same mouth. However, gum tissue does not attach to plastic teeth in the normal way. Long-term effects of the plastic are still unknown. In San Antonio, Texas, baboons will soon be serving another group of scientists to test the merits of ceramic teeth. Ceramic is more inert than plastic and therefore less likely to cause inflammation or cancer. Since it can be made porous, gum tissues should be able to penetrate and retain the implant better. Both substances are hard enough to stand wear and tear, and have a suitably attractive appearance. If studies like these are successful, thousands of years of searching may soon be drawing to an end. This would spell good news to the millions of Americans who have suffered some loss of teeth.

$18.6 billion total resources for banks in state during '69

Total resources of New Jersey banks increased to $18.6 billion during 1969, according to figures compiled by the New Jersey Bankers Association. "This represents an increase of 5.12 percent during the period between Dec. 31, 1968 and year-end 1969, and marks the first time that total bank resources have passed the $18 billion figure," said Robert C. Forrey, NJBA executive vice-president.

The statistics also show a $564.8 million or 3.6 percent increase in total deposits from $15.8 billion to $16.3 billion during the same period. The total outstanding loans in New Jersey banks increased by $857.7 million or 8.9 percent. "Total loans increased at more than twice the rate of the deposit increase, which graphically shows the credit squeeze with which banks were faced during 1969," Forrey stated. "The continuing strong credit demand intensified inflationary pressures last year," he added.

The figure for total deposits, includes both checking accounts and savings and time deposits according to Forrey, and at year-end New Jersey citizens had $9.7 billion in savings in New Jersey banks, an increase of $524.1 million during the year. The balance of total deposits represent checking accounts, and inter-bank and governmental deposits totaling $6.6 billion.

There were 226 commercial and 21 savings banks in New Jersey as of Dec. 31.

Manpower training anti-crime weapon

WASHINGTON — The Labor Department's vast manpower experience is being used as a weapon in the war against crime, according to Jerome E. Rosow, assistant secretary of labor for policy, evaluation and research.

Speaking at the recent First National Workshop on Prison Inmate Training in Washington, D.C., Rosow emphasized the increasing interest that the department is taking in the broad field of offender rehabilitation.

He said the Labor Department has experimented with several successful approaches in assistance for offenders through in-prison training, pre-trial manpower services, job placement, and bonding for post-prison jobs.

Rosow suggested an effort to engage the full energies of private employers, and of the manpower system in an effort to link the inmate offender with the labor market and reasonable employment opportunity.

He said the key element for each individual could be a personally-tailored plan for employment and job development.

Conservationists to be cited Nominations now being taken

Nominations of individuals and organizations for 1969-70 "Conservationist of the Year" are being accepted by the New Jersey State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, Acting Commissioner Joseph T. Barber of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development announced this week.

Selections will be made in 10 categories with the Governor's Award as top honor. This is given for the outstanding overall conservation effort and achievement or most significant contribution to the cause of conservation or toward solution of a major problem in the state during the year. The accomplishment may be in the field of natural resource management, including enhancement and preservation of natural beauty. The winner could also have won an award in a specific category. A bald eagle statuette goes to the recipient.

Awards in other areas of conservation include Wildlife Conservationist of the Year; Soil Conservationist of the Year; Water Conservationist of the Year; Forest Conservationist of the Year; Conservation Educator of the Year; Youth Conservationist of the Year; Legislative Conservationist of the Year; Conservation Communications Award of the Year; and Conservation Organization of the Year.

Ralph F. Allocca, member of the State Fish and Game Council, is chairman of the awards program. Allocca said any qualified resident or organization of New Jersey, professionals and non-professionals, are eligible for nomination. He noted that the federation's annual awards are held in cooperation with the Sears-Roebuck Foundation and the National Wildlife Federation.

Objectives of the program are to further the proper conservation and management of the renewable natural resources of New Jersey — air, water, soils, forests, wildlife and ranges; to stimulate a new awareness among all Americans of the need to conserve and wisely manage the natural resources and to preserve or restore the natural beauty of the state; to honor and recognize deserving individuals and organizations who make outstanding contributions to conservation in the community, county, state or nation.

Deadline for nominations is March 31. All that is required is a typewritten description, not to exceed three pages, detailing the exact acts or programs for which the recommendation is based. Information should also include photographs or publications or other information.

Linden Recreation Department set to cast its annual sport fishing show

The fifth annual Fresh and Salt Water Fishing Show sponsored by the Linden Recreation Department will take place at Linden High School, St. Georges avenue, Linden, on March 6, beginning at 7:15 p.m. The program will feature a fly-casting demonstration by Bill Cairns of the Orvis Tackle Co., Manchester, Vt. Cairns has demonstrated the art of fly-casting throughout the United States.

All featured will be two movies: "Fly North for Brook Trout" and a salt water film,

"Riptide." Bob Jacklin of Ross Sport Shop, Elizabeth will demonstrate fly-tying. Also, a spinning rod casting for accuracy contest will be conducted.

Guests at the show will include fish and game writers Bill Bachus, Howard Brant and Henry Schaefer. Ross Sport Shop will present awards to winners of its 1969 fishing competition.

There is no admission charge for the show. More information may be obtained by calling Al Volpe, assistant recreation superintendent, 486-0300.

The mechanical men

Mechanical men, paste-up men, and general boardmen are not what they may seem. They are the names of some of the specialized commercial art occupations which are listed and described in the Department of Labor's Occupational Outlook Handbook.

Student dissent luncheon topic

"The Student Dissenter and His Effect on the Campus" will be discussed by Dr. Virginia E. Lewis at the annual luncheon of the Hood College Club of Northern New Jersey, on Saturday, March 7, at noon at Canoe Brook Country Club Short Hills.

Dr. Lewis is chairman of Hood's Department of History and Political Science.

Artur Rubinstein plans Symphony Hall concert

Pianist Artur Rubinstein will play a program of keyboard masterpieces in his concert Sunday at Symphony Hall, Newark. The concert, which is presented by Symphony Hall in association with Moe Septec, will begin at 3 p.m.

Rubinstein will open his program with Beethoven's Sonata in C Major, Opus 53, the "Waldstein" Sonata, and continue with three works by Brahms: the Intermezzo in A Major, Opus 118; the Capriccio in B Minor, Opus 76; and the Rhapsody in E Flat Major, Opus 119.

Following intermission, the pianist will play four works by Chopin: The Scherzo in C

Sharp Major, Opus 39; the D Flat Major Nocturne, and two Waltzes, in A Minor and in F Major. He will conclude with Dance of Fear and the Ritual Fire Dance, both by the Spanish composer De Falla.

Next in the Symphony Hall Concert Series will be soprano Leontyne Price, who will sing with a symphony orchestra under Anton Guadagno on Wednesday, March 25, at 8 p.m.

Public Service to cut coal consumption at generating plants to reduce pollution

When Public Service Electric and Gas Co. completes its latest announced step toward eliminating air pollution from its generating plant stacks, fly ash emissions will be cut by more than 80 percent and sulfur dioxide emissions by nearly 50 percent below 1966 levels.

The State Health Department's Clean Air and Water Division announced the latest step last week — a switch from the use of coal to low-sulfur oil at the utility's Bergen generating station in Ridgefield Park and Hudson generating station in Jersey City. Engineering work on the changeover has already begun and construction is expected to be completed in about one year.

The move will eliminate all coal burning at the Bergen station and will sharply reduce coal burning at Hudson at a total cost of approximately $12 million. One unit at the Hudson station will continue to burn coal, but this unit has been converted so that it can burn natural gas as well.

BEFORE PUBLIC SERVICE began to step up its air pollution control program in 1967, seven of its nine generating stations in New Jersey burned coal. Now most burn low sulfur oil. When this latest move is completed, only one coal burning station (plus the single unit at Hudson) will remain. This facility is

College president stresses obligation

Dr. Nathan Weiss, acting president of Newark State College, said recently that "a fundamental precept of democracy is accountability to one's constituency," and college presidents have that obligation. His statement was made in a speech before the college community at Newark State's first "mid-year report" by the president.

Dr. Weiss's speech, "Commitments Revisited," dealt with detailed progress reports on commitments which were stated at the opening of the academic year.

Among areas discussed were Newark State's participation in urban programs, efforts to end environmental pollution and expanded curriculum offerings relevant to the needs of today's society.

The president announced that a written report will be issued shortly containing detailed information contained in his speech. A final president's report will be issued at the end of the current academic year.

Mercer generating station, where installation of a nearly $6 million addition to its electrostatic precipitator system is underway to bring its fly ash control efficiency to 99 percent. The Mercer station is located in Hamilton Township, just south of Trenton.

Since 1967, Public Service has installed eight gas turbine generators. Five of these new units burn natural gas and do not send sulfur dioxide into the air. Two others burn very low sulfur light oil, and a third burns either natural gas or light oil. The company already had two gas-burning units in operation before 1967.

Plans call for one more of these gas turbine generators to be installed at Kearny generating station, four at Linden generating station, and two at Bayonne in 1970. The Kearny and Linden units will burn natural gas or light oil, while those at Bayonne will use light oil only.

PUBLIC SERVICE IS involved in research to eliminate air pollution and has taken other actions toward that end.

Application has been made to the Delaware River Basin Commission to construct the Kittatinny pumped storage project which would provide New Jersey with 1,300,000 kilowatts of much needed generating capacity. This, with the existing Yards Creek pumped storage plant of 330,000 kilowatts, will be jointly owned by Public Service and Jersey Central Power & Light Co. Pumped storage projects, which use water power, make it possible to curtail the operation of coal and oil burning plants during peak demand periods and thus further reduce pollutants.

Legal services get funds from Jersey to assist the poor

The New Jersey Department of Community Affairs has awarded $184,300 in grants to 13 local legal service agencies throughout the state. The Union County Legal Services Corp. has been given $5,000, the Essex County Legal Services Corp. has received $9,500.

The agencies provide free legal assistance to impoverished New Jerseyans through 55 county and neighborhood law offices in 15 counties.

Community Affairs Commissioner Edmund T. Hume, who announced the grants, said the state funds "would enable these agencies to continue to offer legal assistance to low-income individuals and families."

"These grants will make it possible for many impoverished families to gain access to the courts for a redress of their grievances and to receive equal treatment under the law," Hume explained. "While the legal services program has served primarily as a voice for the poor, it ultimately benefits all the citizens of the state—both rich and poor—by helping to make the law more responsive to the needs of all the people."

James D. Coffee, chief of the department's Office of Legal Services, said the grants were made from a $1.15 million State-aid fund for economic opportunity programs in the department's 1969-70 fiscal year budget. He said they will be used by the local agencies to help meet local share costs of 1969-70 legal services grants awarded by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

Coffee said the local offices provide free legal counseling and represent needy persons in civil matters and before administrative agencies. Last year, New Jersey legal services lawyers handled more than 20,000 cases, he said.

To qualify for free legal aid, an individual must have an annual income of not more than $3,000. An additional $500 is permitted for each dependent.

Drew U. gives furniture for rehabilitation center

Drew University has contributed two truck loads of used classroom and laboratory furniture to Drug Addiction Rehabilitation Enterprise, Inc. of Newark. Arranged by an alumnus of the University, William P. Taggart of Rockaway, the gift will upgrade classroom facilities and partly equip a urinalysis laboratory in DARE's resident center at 209-211 Littleton ave., Newark.

DARE is one of seven drug abuser rehabilitation centers in Newark supervised by the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry and funded by the National Institute of Mental Health. In addition to its Newark "re-entry" house, the organization operates an Island Heights halfway house and commercial hotel staffed entirely by rehabilitated addicts.

Drew Professor of Chemistry James M. Miller said that the 96 classroom chairs, seven lab benches, three desks, two blackboards, and laboratory sink donated to DARE came from the University's former science facilities, replaced two years ago by a new Hall of Sciences.

Taggart, a corporate development specialist in pollution analysis and specialized laboratory systems, is a former student of Miller. In announcing the gift from Drew to DARE, both men stressed that it was part of an expanding program to bring the combined resources of the University and various organizations and corporations to bear on urban New Jersey's social and environmental problems.

Flower show to be held April 3-9 in Morristown

Gardening ideas both for beginner and expert will be featured at the New Jersey Flower & Garden Show, "Great Ideas for Gardens of the 70's" is the theme for the show at the Morristown Armory, April 3 through 9.

More than 100 gardens and individual displays will be set up on the floor of the Armory. A primarily native woodland garden will greet visitors as they enter the show area. The North Jersey Metropolitan Nurserymen's Association and the New Jersey Association of Nurserymen will provide this exhibit, including naturalistic rock outcroppings and native flowers planted about a small pool.

Another pool, built of redwood and in two levels, will highlight the garden of Tree Land Nursery, Paramus. In the upper pool, 100 fountain jets will push water to a height of nine feet while spillways empty into a lower pool containing several varieties of aquatic plants and large goldfish.

The 11 New Jersey clubs of the Garden Club of America, exhibiting in this show for the first time, will construct a display primarily geared to young married people, showing how they can most attractively and inexpensively landscape a home. The facade of a house will be built, with both the front and back yard landscaped.

The National Association of Professional Gardeners will show a patio garden, planted mainly with low maintenance evergreen materials and 25 varieties of junipers. Part of the area will be set aside for flowering plants and another part for a simulated rock garden. A path will be included with circles of tree trunk, sliced horizontally to show the grain.

A "Moon Gate Garden" will be presented by Julius Rochrs & Co., Rutherford, to illustrate how two separate gardens can be connected. The garden will feature a small pool protected by a large, leaning tree, and with waterfalls. Two statues will stand amid a variety of flowering plants, selection of evergreen plants and large azaleas.

On the other side of the circular moon gate will be the educational garden of the John Wetheriel Society, the New Jersey chapter of the National Junior Horticultural Association. The garden will include petunias, Easter lilies and azaleas, all grown by the students who attend Bergen County Vocational and Technical School in Hackensack.

A semi-circular patio will be enhanced by a weeping birch tree in a planter in the exhibit planned by the Bergen County Shade Tree & Park Superintendents Association. There will also be a weeping birch tree, a large Taxus Yew and a contorted-type white pine. The display is being designed to complement an adjacent Japanese garden and will include spring flowers such as tulips, hyacinths and daffodils.

The N.J. Chapter of Ikebana International will show a Japanese garden as well as a modern Japanese living room setting, and plans call for the exotic flower arrangements to be changed three times during the show. The garden will be typical of the "Kamakura" period which represents the natural and simple. An ornamental waterwheel in a pond will provide a restful sound, and the garden will include some 35 different varieties of trees and shrubs, all adaptable to this area's climate.

Many other exhibits, gardens and individual displays will be included in the show.

11 at Upsala are selected as interns

Eleven Upsala College seniors have been chosen to work in the state's new academic year phase of its Interns in Community Service Program.

The student interns, who will receive academic credits for their work, will spend 12 hours a week for the next 14 weeks in such offices as the town administrator of Roseland, the Essex County Neighborhood Youth Corps, COPE of Newark and the East Orange Model Cities program, among others.

The part-time community service jobs will be held by the students while maintaining a full academic schedule. They will be earning stipends based on standard Civil Service rates for student assistants.

Professor James Moniz, director of Upsala's academic internship program, said monthly seminars will be conducted at which evaluation of the students' work and their employing agencies will take place. The interns and their supervisors will submit reports. The first seminar is scheduled for early March at which John E. Gallagher Jr., community service office of the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs, will be in attendance.

The internship in each semester will be equivalent to one course of a student's major in social science or accepted as an elective course for any other major.

Upsala is one of four colleges in the state of New Jersey selected for the pilot program. The others are Jersey City State, Newark College of Engineering and Stevens Institute of Technology.

Rabbi will give talk on art in Jewish living

RABBI REUBEN R. LEVINE

Rabbi Reuben R. Levine of Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield, will be guest speaker at the March open meeting of the Westfield Mountside Chapter of Hadassah. The meeting will be held Monday at the home of Mrs. Louis Kahn, 1225 Boulevard, Westfield. Rabbi Levine will discuss "Contemporary Art in Jewish Life," with slide-illustrations. In addition to his rabbinical and master of Hebrew literature degrees, Rabbi Levine holds a master of arts degree in the history of art from the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C. He is an instructor in art history at Seton Hall University, a guest lecturer on Judaism at Newark State Teachers' College and chairman of the United Synagogue Commission on Synagogue and Ritual Art. Rabbi Levine also finds time for such civic responsibilities as membership on the board of directors of the Union County Mental Health Association, the Juvenile Commission of Springfield and the Mayor's Human Rights Commission.

Guests are permitted to attend. They may call Mrs. Peter Fleischmann, president, 21 Essex rd., Scotch Plains, or Mrs. Kahn.

Ladies Society to hear talk on oldtime houses

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Springfield Presbyterian Church will hold their regular monthly meeting next Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 in the Presbyterian Parish House. Guest speaker will be Harry Devlin of Mountside, an authority on old houses. His talk will be entitled: "To Grandfather's House We Go."

On Wednesday evening, the fourth in this year's Lenten services will be held in the sanctuary. The Rev. Robert MacNab, formerly pastor of the Roselle Presbyterian Church, will be the guest preacher.

Radioisotopes aid disease diagnosis

Small atom smashers are helping to diagnose diseases and abnormalities within the body. About six hospitals in the United States have already purchased the atom smashers, or cyclotrons, to create short-lived radioactive elements. These are radioisotopes that quickly lose their radioactivity.

The utilization of radioisotopes for diagnosis was described by Dr. Gordon L. Brownell of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, at the annual meeting of The American Physical Society in Chicago.

Probably the best known test involving a radioisotope is one that determines how well a patient's thyroid is functioning. It requires that the patient be given a dose of radioactive iodine, I 131. The thyroid gland, which normally takes regular iodine from the body, is tricked into taking up the radioactive iodine. Using sensitive detectors of radiation to see how much iodine is in the thyroid gland, a physician can then determine how well the gland is working.

Ideally, the physicians want the radiation to disappear as soon as the diagnosis is completed, and that is where the small cyclotrons come in. One material produced in the cyclotrons is oxygen 15, which has a half-life of only two minutes. In other words, half of the oxygen 15 changes into a non-radioactive element every two minutes.

Oxygen 15 can help determine, for example, how a transplanted lung is functioning. If blood with oxygen 15 is flowing through the lung, then the physician can detect the radiation from outside the body. If he cannot detect radiation throughout the whole lung, then the physician is able

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy: I am a 13 year old boy who had his heart set on getting a mini-bike. I have enough room to ride it and know a great deal about the care of them. Many of my friends have them and they say they are great.

Last summer I got two jobs to earn enough money to buy one. My problem is that I can't get my parents to let me buy one. They say they are senseless and dangerous. I say they aren't senseless because they are like a training machine preparing a boy for when he gets his car, and if they are too dangerous for a boy my age, they shouldn't be allowed to sell them...but they are sold to anyone.

Please tell me what I can do to get my parents to say "YES." Troubled

Dear Troubled: Each parent has the unquestionable right to decide what is safe or what is unsafe for their young children. Don't base your decision on someone else's. Many things are unsafe but they are still sold to those people who want to buy them. To my knowledge, a mini-bike has a gasoline motor and travels about 30 to 40 miles per hour. Where is there enough room to ride this without encountering automobiles or pedestrians?

I'm sorry, son, but you haven't convinced me either.

Dear Amy: On a recent trip, my husband and I went antiquing and bought an old china plate that we fell in love with. It has Napoleon's seal in the center and under the glaze on the back, it says "Sevre." We paid $18.00 for the piece. Just last week a dealer of Napoleonic memorabilia looked at the plate and offered us $250 for it. Frankly, we were shocked, not knowing that it was worth that much, but after thinking about the dealer's offer, we are not sure whether to consider it or not simply because if he is willing to buy it for such a large sum, perhaps it is worth much more.

How does one find out the true value of an old plate from an impartial person who knows what they are talking about?

Mr. & Mrs. C.B.L., Dear Mr. and Mrs. C.B.L., Contact the curator at the Museum of Art in your city for an appointment. Take your plate and take his advice!

Dear Amy: I am 15 years old and I am in my second year of high school. I like this boy very much, but he is kind of shy. When we see each other in the halls, I look at him and I'm sure he wants to say "Hi." But like I said, he is too shy.

Should I say "Hi" to him first or wait for him?

Dear Helpless: Don't be so helpless! Say "Hi" first.

Dear Amy: I am 13 and in the 8th grade. There aren't many boys at school who are all right to be with. (But I do my best to find one!) It's not that I am picky, but some of them I would not be caught with. Only today I liked a boy, then changed my mind, and what's more, changed it back again. What can I do to help myself from being so Help-Crazy?

Dear Likes Boys: You are suffering from a common affliction that strikes all young girls about your age.

It's perfectly normal to change your mind frequently about boys so keep your cool honey. In a few years, you will get to know yourself better and your problem will diminish.

Cross-country favorite ---- Apple Crisp

When winter sets in, out goes the call for church suppers and PTA meetings over a potluck. Known as "covered dish" suppers in some parts of the country, they're fine when it comes to raising money, planning programs, or deciding who's to chauffeur and chaperone the children on field trips. Good food, especially when it's a co-op venture, seems to help accomplish things.

If you're on the menu committee, make dessert Apple Crisp with Birds Eye Cool Whip Non-Dairy Whipped Topping. It's simple, and carries well to the dining hall, if made at home, it's good warm or cold, and takes advantage of the abundance of apples, so is economical. Best of all, everybody likes it, especially when it's dressed up with the frozen whipped topping which is so easy to take along for the last-minute pretty dollops.

This recipe for Apple Crisp makes eight servings. It goes well with any menu. Coloradans like it with venison suppers; Iowans choose it for duck; New Yorkers with baked ham; Virginians and Washingtonians like it simply because it makes such fine use of their delicious apple crops. Cherries, in their canned form as pie filling, are another good winter fruit choice. Use them to add sparkle to a chest pie, where their flavor and texture contrast so nicely with the rich and velvety bottom layer.

APPLE CRISP
1-1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup butter, melted
2 tablespoons lemon juice
6 cups (about 2 lb.) sliced apples
Thawed frozen whipped topping
Combine crumbs, brown sugar, salt, lemon rind, and spices. Add butter and lemon juice; mix well. Sprinkle half of the crumb mixture into a greased 8-inch square pan. Arrange apple slices over crumb mixture. Top with remaining crumb mixture. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes or until crumb mixture is lightly browned and apples are tender. Serve warm or cool, garnished with whipped topping. Makes 8 servings.

APPLECRISP — Homespun dessert for a winter supper — Apple Crisp with pique caps of thawed frozen whipped topping. Spicy with nutmeg and cinnamon, Apple Crisp is number one favorite for PTA and church suppers. "Courtesy of Birds Eye Cool Whip Non-Dairy Whipped Topping."

Milk needed for adults, all children

No matter what your age is, you never outgrow your daily need for milk, says Anne L. Sheelen, County Home Economist.

Many adults think that milk is needed only by growing children. Milk is definitely needed by growing children for the development of strong bones and teeth; but, it is also needed by adults to maintain these same bones and teeth throughout life.

Milk is almost the perfect food. Whole milk contains protein, calcium, phosphorus, Vitamin A, and is usually fortified with Vitamin D. Skim milk contains all of the above except Vitamins A and D.

The interrelationships of these nutrients within the body are as important as each nutrient individually.

The protein helps to serve as the building block of the body; calcium is necessary for the clotting of blood and strong bones and teeth; and, phosphorus plays a vital role in maintaining body cell life.

Vitamin A contributes to a healthy skin and to the formation of tooth enamel. It helps to keep the linings of the nose, throat and stomach in good condition; helps to prevent infections, and helps to keep the eyes in good condition.

Vitamin D assists the body in the utilization of calcium, thereby helping in the building of strong bones and teeth. It is also necessary for promoting normal growth.

In the past few years, nutritionists have revised the recommended number of servings of milk that are needed daily by each age group.

The recommendations include the following number of cups each day: children under nine years, two to three cups; children nine to 12 years, three or more cups; teenagers four or more cups, and adults, two or more cups.

If there is a member of your family who dislikes drinking milk plain, cooked and prepared foods offer many additional ways for including milk daily in the menu.

For suggestions on how milk can be used throughout the day and some recipes for using milk more often, obtain the free bulletin: "Milk in Family Meals—A Guide for Consumers."

Sometimes we get the feeling we're being followed.

Everybody's getting into the act. Everybody's making a small car.

And since we've made more of them than any one else, we thought we'd pass along some things we've learned about the business over the years:

First off, there's no doubt about it, the only way to make an economy car is expensively.

So Rule No. 1, don't scrimp.

Get yourself the best engineers in the business and then hire 9,000 or so top inspectors to keep them on their toes.

Next, try to develop an engine that's not a gas-guzzler. If you can get it to run on pints of oil instead of quarts, great. If you can get it to run on air instead of water, fantastic.

Work on things to make your car last longer. Like giving it 45 pounds of paint to protect its top and a steel bottom to protect its bottom.

Important: Make sure you can service any year car you make. There's nothing worse than having someone find out that a part they need to make their car go is no longer available.

Finally, spend less time worrying about what your car looks like and more time worrying about how it works.

Perfecting a good economy car is a very time-consuming business. So far it has consumed 25 years of our time.

Teachers to learn astronomy basics at Union College

A seven-week program to acquaint Central and North New Jersey elementary and junior high school teachers with the basic concepts of astronomy and space sciences will open March 5 at the William Miller Sperry Observatory at Union College, Cranford.

The course is offered without charge as part of "Operational Astronomy: The Earth and Beyond," which is sponsored by the Cranford Public School System in cooperation with Union College and Amateur Astronomers, Inc., and financed by a federal grant under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary School Education Act. The course is open to teachers from public, private and parochial schools in Essex, Middlesex, Morris, Somerset, and Union counties.

Topics to be covered in the seven lectures are "Introduction to the Observatory and Tools of the Astronomer," "Planet Earth and its Satellite," "Space Probes," "The Solar System," "Stars," "Our Galaxy" and "External Galaxies," and "Cosmology."

The course will meet from 7:30 to 9:45 p.m. on March 5, 12, 19, and April 9, 16, 23 and 30.

State law settles labor disputes Essex legislator commends work of PERC

The chief sponsor of New Jersey's 1968 Public Employment Relations Act has called it "the outstanding statute of its kind" in the nation.

"Considering the economic and social pressures of the day, the number of strikes by public employees is nowhere near what it would be had the law not set up the Public Employment Relations Commission," State Sen. Alexander J. Maturri (R, Essex) told the New Jersey Education Association's annual Legislative Conference at Trenton's Holiday Inn.

"Each year in the school field alone, over 100 teacher-board disputes have required some kind of attention from PERC," Maturri reported. "In all but a handful, through some PERC effort, mediation or fact-finding brought mutual agreement. In only a few were there walkouts—and many of these for only one day.

PERC efforts continued and, in almost every instance, brought both parties to an agreement."

"Some legislators have said they want more said in the PERC law about strike penalties. It is my contention that the strike issue has already been clearly defined by the N. J. Supreme Court," Maturri said. "Public employees do not have the right to strike."

The courts have retained jurisdiction when public employees have gone on strike, the Newark attorney said. "I suggest that this approach to enforcement be continued."

"OUR FUNDAMENTAL INTEREST was to create an agency which could resolve conflict, injunctions, arrests, jail sentences, and fines may force employees back to work, but I do not see how they resolve the conflict. I presume that our goal is truly peaceful relations in all aspects of public employer-employee relations. To me, that is more than simply removing from public view the obvious conflicts that show up during a walkout."

"An important advantage which PERC has had in resolving walkouts has been its ability to maintain the confidence of both parties. Inclusion of definitive language on the strike would further complicate the law and make more difficult PERC's role in trying to persuade disputing parties to reach agreement."

New York State, with a law that prescribes penalties, "has a far worse record of public employee strikes," Maturri reported.

In considering strike penalties, Maturri said, New Jersey should study such questions as: Are employees the only ones who should be punished when negotiations break down? Should individual school board members be as liable as teacher leaders for unreasonable conduct?

The Newark legislator said the Senate's State Government Committee would carefully study any suggestions for change in the law. But he expressed caution about amendments that would alter the makeup of the Commission which oversees the act or restrict issues negotiable under the act.

"The Commission has been functioning in a most cooperative manner," Maturri reported. "Change could jeopardize the internal operation of PERC at a critical time."

THE ACT PERMITS public employees to negotiate on "the terms and conditions of employment." Some recommendations — mostly from employers — have been made to limit what employees may negotiate. Maturri commented:

"I do not understand how it is possible to propose that 'conditions of employment' be defined only as salaries and fringe benefits. A professional person expects to be concerned about standards of performance in his discipline. In doing so, he has a right to say something about the equipment, the materials, the supporting services, the supervision, the overall planning — all the elements that make it possible for him to be as productive as he has been trained to be.

"Through negotiations, teachers and school boards have arrived at new approaches to changing outmoded curriculum, staff training in new instructional techniques, new roles in handling student behavior, new staffing patterns, new ways of bringing teachers and schools closer to their communities.

"Any subject which may precipitate conflict between teacher employees and their employing boards needs to be negotiated away. Refusing by definition to recognize the topic of a dispute in no way minimizes the differences that exist. We cannot have a law which allows conflicts to simmer while PERC sits helpless and unable to assist in producing an agreement."

10 ways to curb burglaries listed by insurance brokers

"Don't support your local burglar. With crime at an all time high, it behooves every property owner to take basic precautions to avoid losses," states the Insurance Brokers Association of New Jersey.

There are ten standard precautions every home owner and apartment dweller can take to minimize burglaries:

1. Always use a key to lock your doors. Doors that lock by slamming can be opened by a burglar in seconds. Doors must be double-locked. Also, ask a locksmith about force and pick-resistant locks.

2. Lock your windows when you go out. It's easy to forget. Use approved gates or key controlled window locks that don't create a fire trap.

3. Don't let strangers in. Use a peep hole or chain bolt to check people out. Don't buzz back a door opener unless you know who is there.

4. Always leave some lights on when you go out. A dark house or apartment is an invitation to a burglar. A timer that will turn your lights on and off costs just a few dollars.

5. Don't let burglars think you aren't home. Don't let mail, milk bottles, or newspapers pile up. They'll tip off a burglar that you are away.

6. Don't leave your key under the doormat. Or anywhere else, like in the mail box, with your car keys, or in your coat in a restaurant. Your key can be copied quickly, and you wouldn't even know it until it was too late.

7. Don't tell strangers when you'll be out. Some burglars use the phone to find out if you are home or planning to be away. Don't tell strangers anything.

8. Don't keep valuables unprotected. Money, securities, jewelry, and other valuables should be kept in a safe or in a bank safe deposit box.

9. Have an up-to-date inventory of the contents of your home or apartment. Include serial numbers of cameras, stereos, typewriters, etc. Keep descriptions, appraisals, and receipts. Such identification is the best lead the police can have in recovering your property.

10. Keep an eye on your neighbor's property. If you see anything suspicious, call the police.

The association further states that if you take these precautions and you still are unfortunate enough to suffer a burglary, you should call your police department at once. Failure to report the loss promptly to the police may jeopardize a proper insurance settlement. Call your insurance broker or agent after you have called police.

The Insurance Brokers Association of New Jersey is an organization whose members represent their clients directly, as opposed to insurance agents, who represent one or more particular companies, and "direct writers," who are employees of their companies.

NCE plans earlier grad ceremonies

Dr. Robert W. Van Houten, president of Newark College of Engineering, has announced that the college's commencement exercise will be held this year on Wednesday, May 27, at 10:30 a.m.

NCE's commencement has previously been held on the first Thursday of June. The establishment of an earlier date this year was made at the request of graduating students and was endorsed by the college's board of trustees at its most recent meeting.

Because the May 27 exercise will be held only one day after the final day of classes for seniors, grades will not have been compiled by the time of the ceremony. As a result those taking part will be listed as "candidates" for degrees.

Concert series to open with ballet performance

Trutti Gasparinetti, choreographer and comedy-tragedy ballerina of New York, will return to the Madison Junior School on March 7 with her partner, Gail Jensen, and other members of Dance Mimes troupe.

This is the first in the annual series of three Saturday morning concerts presented by the Colonial Symphony Young Peoples Concerts under the baton of Henry Bloch. Titled "Dancing Kaleidoscope," this program will feature the premiere performance of an original ballet by Laura Northrup, "Puff Toad Le Grande," based on music from "Ballet Suite Number One," by Shostakovich.

The concert series presented for children in grades two through eight features demonstrations, discussions and audience participation along with professional performers. At the March 21 concert, singers Elizabeth Cole and Tom Vasiloff will present Menotti's opera, "The Telephone."

The final concert April 11 will star two winners of the Young Artists Auditions held in the fall, Barbara Kautzman, 16-year-old pianist from Maplewood, Margaret Ann Harris will also narrate "Peter and the Wolf," at this concert.

Seton prof wins Ford fellowship

Professor Joseph S. Slowinski of the Seton Hall University School of Law faculty has been awarded a Ford Foundation urban law fellowship for graduate study at the Yale Law School for the 1970-71 academic year.

The fellowships, which are awarded to only 20 individuals throughout the country, are intended to provide law teachers (and graduate students who plan to enter the law teaching profession) an opportunity to undertake an intensive one-year study of urban legal problems culminating in a master of urban laws degree.

Slowinski will pursue a program of study and research bearing on legal and law related problems of some aspect of the urban environment. The fellowship will provide a stipend of $8,000 plus full tuition costs.

Slowinski, who has been a member of the Seton Hall faculty since 1955, is a native of Irvington and received his undergraduate degree from Seton Hall. He is a graduate of Rutgers Law School and earned a master of laws degree from New York University.

Since 1966 he has been director of the Seton Hall Legal Services Project through which law students represent indigent clients in small claims cases.

Commerce Industry unit cites president of board

More than 200 persons honored Christian A. Hansen, president of the board of directors of the Commerce and Industry United Fund of Union County Area, Inc., as he received an award for his leadership in the coordination and development of the fund, at a dinner Tuesday night at the Mountside Inn, Mountside.

Forrest Jacobus, awards chairman, who presented the award, said, "Since 1966 Mr. Hansen has conducted dozens of meetings preparing a proposal on how to improve support of the United Fund by industry and their employees. His three years of dedicated effort culminated in the incorporation of the Commerce and Industry United Fund in February 1969.

"Serving as president of the board, he continued his support and assisted the fund through its first and successful year of operation. The many hours of work and planning has made a tremendous contribution in advancing the health and welfare for all persons in Union County."

Hansen, on receiving the award, said, "The credit of the success of this first countywide campaign goes to management leaders, labor leaders like James Rafferty, president of the AFL-CIO and to independent unions for their cooperation during this first year." He added that "the eleven local funds should also be recognized for their cooperative efforts."

GAVIN SPOFFORD, general campaign chairman, received an award for directing the campaign and, in turn, presented an award to Alfred T. Felsberg of Bell Laboratories as the outstanding campaign team member.

Spoftford said, "Mr. Felsberg is the perfect example for all future campaign members for his dedication and commitment. With his dedicated efforts and the efforts of the entire campaign team and the eleven local funds more than $2,000,000 was raised for the first time in the history of Union County United Fund, representing a 15 percent total dollar increase over 1969."

The eleven local funds participating were: Plainfield, Summit, Eastern Union County, Rahway, Cranford, Springfield, Scotch Plains, Berkeley Heights, Westfield, Mountainside and Union.

Paul Ylvisaker, past state commissioner of community affairs, was the keynote speaker. Felsberg, chairman of the nominating committee, announced that the following persons will serve as trustees-at-large for the Commerce and Industry United Fund of Union County Area, Inc. Louis King, Burton Belden, William Ellis, Richard Phillips, Roland Chard, John Baber, Edward Bookrajan, Eugene Hampson, Forrest Jacobus, Alfred T. Felsberg, Horace Banker, Albert R. Smiles, Charles Wibel, William A. Vaughn, Christian Hansen, Paul Bosland and Carl Broecker.

Efforts to fight flu ailing due to China's isolation

The political isolation of Communist China is frustrating efforts to combat recurring global outbreaks of flu - including the current one. That's the opinion expressed in a report to the World Health Organization (WHO), a United Nations agency, by Dr. H.G. Pereira, head of the World Influenza Center in London.

"There are areas of the world - notably China - where we know nothing about the influenza situation, where the WHO program does not operate," he says. "Quite probably, the Hong Kong virus of 1968 started in China. If we could have known about it when it started, we might have had an extra two months, which would have made an enormous difference to our ability to prepare sufficient vaccine in good time."

WHO's influenza program operates through 85 specialized laboratories in 55 countries which keep under constant surveillance the flu viruses present in their areas. When an unusual type appears, the Center sends it to the World Influenza Center in London or to WHO's Influenza Center for the Americas in Atlanta, Ga. There, the virus is identified and sent to laboratories which prepare stand-by supplies of influenza vaccine.

Unfortunately, Dr. Pereira comments, Communist China's absence from the program leaves a dangerous breach in this global defense against disease. He remarks: "This is a sad example of health advances being frustrated by political problems."

DDT-less war against mosquitoes

While the public is not concerned with mosquito control until the summer, the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission faces the problem in the winter - when it can control mosquitoes by using methods which will not jeopardize human health and natural resources. John F. Allaire Jr., commission president, reported this week. By working to control mosquitoes before they become a problem, Allaire said, the commission is able to avoid the use of DDT or other toxic chemicals whose long "life" has been termed an ecological threat. "We should expend every effort to discontinue the use of DDT immediately," said Allaire. "During the summer of 1969 I initiated a new program and banned the use of DDT in Union County although nationwide the authorities have been reluctant to halt the use of this chemical." Allaire urged the use of less toxic chemicals as a weapon in insect control.

Portrait offered for $5 donation

Anyone donating $5 or more to the current Union County Heart Association fund drive will receive a certificate good for a free portrait sitting. State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo, chairman of the drive, said the sitting would be available free. Photos by Barry, 3 W. Westfield ave., Roselle Park. The photograph, which can be taken up until Aug. 1, can be of one adult or one child. The subject will also be given one free five by seven-inch septatone print. Senator Rinaldo said certificates are being distributed by Heart Fund volunteers, who are conducting a door-to-door solicitation this week. Additionally, the certificate will be automatically sent to anyone donating $5 or more through the mails.

Nature class for children

The Educational Center announced this week a few openings remaining in the "Adventures in Nature" course, which begins Monday, March 9, at 4 p.m. at the Ethical Society in Maplewood. This eight-session course, for 9 to 12-year-olds, will teach young people how to observe and enjoy the natural world. The sessions will include a field trip and lectures on insects, spiders, birds, the athletes of the animal kingdom, the cat family and animals that successfully live with man. Registration information may be obtained from the registrar, at 354-1578. Richard Vitzthum, lecturer for the course, is supervisor of nature education for the Cora Hartshorn Arboretum in Short Hills. Vitzthum has an MA from Rutgers and has taken courses at the Audubon Nature Center and Stokes Forest.

The Park Commission recently completed installation and testing equipment.

Spotlight on solar eclipse

Astronomers focus on event. It's their last chance and members of Amateur Astronomers, Inc., aren't going to miss the March 7 eclipse if they can help it. The amateur astronomers will spread out over the East Coast from their home base at the William Miller Sperry Observatory at Union College, Cranford, in their efforts to capture the eclipse on film. The next total eclipse of the sun will be in 2184, so it's now or never, says Edward T. Pearson of Westfield, president of AAI.

Math professor joins UC faculty

The appointment of David Laporte Linfield of Brooklyn, N.Y., as a full-time mathematics instructor at Union College, Cranford, was announced this week by Prof. Elmer Wolf, acting dean. Linfield is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of New York University, where he also earned his master's degree in mathematics. He has completed course requirements for his doctorate and is currently writing his dissertation. He also holds a certificate in algebra from the University of Paris.

Linfield has taught college mathematics for 11 years. He has taught at Bard College, Hunter College, the University of Rhode Island, Brooklyn College, Rutgers University in Newark and Richmond College, Staten Island. Linfield is a member of the American Association of University Professors, the American Mathematical Society and the Association for Symbolic Logic. He attended college on a New York State Regents scholarship and held a fellowship at NYU while attending graduate school. Linfield is married and the father of three children.

Candidates sought for Miss Sepia title

The third annual Miss Sepia of Union County beauty pageant will be held May 23 at 9 p.m. at the VFW hall, 33 N. 21st st., Kenilworth. It is open to Union County residents, age 18 through 25. The Union County Black Leadership Council, sponsors of the pageant, met recently at Whitney's Lounge, Kenilworth, to discuss plans. Girls interested in entering the contest may contact Donald Kennedy, 1450 Lawrence st., Rahway, phone 381-0845.

State voc-ed conference to climax observance

Vocational Education Week is being observed across the nation this week. Climaxing the week's activities in New Jersey will be a conference, sponsored by the New Jersey Section of the American Vocational Association, Saturday at the Rutgers University Labor Education Center in New Brunswick. The keynote address will be given by Miss Mary P. Allen, associate to the executive director for governmental relations, American Vocational Association.

Other members will travel to the Carolinas, Virginia and Georgia where the eclipse will be total. Roger Tuthill of 11 Tanglewood lane, Mountainside, and Dr. A. Clifton Ashcraft of Somerset, will travel to Kingston, N.C. where Lenoir Community College has offered its campus as an observing site. Pearson will focus his lens from Savannah, Ga.

Scanning the skies from Virginia Beach will be Paul H. Hodge of Clark, a Union College student, Lester Hill of Hillside, Robert Zabriskie of North Plainfield, Robert Kimmel of 911 Maple ave., Union, Charles Crane of 211 Clinton st., and Roy Goderstad of 917 Woodlawn ave., both of Linden, and Henry Bolley of Watchung.

A total eclipse occurs when the sun, moon and earth, in that order, are lined up and the disk of the moon fully covers the sun. Once the entire solar surface is hidden, the sky gets dark enough to allow viewers to see bright stars.

The March 7 blackout will center over the nation's southeast coast and will feature the usual 100-mile-wide shadow of the moon racing at 1,000 miles an hour across the earth's surface.

The shadow will begin in the Pacific Ocean, move across southern Mexico and northwest Florida. It will skirt inland along the Atlantic coast of Georgia and the Carolinas, leave land at the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay, touch Nantucket Island, cross Nova Scotia and end south of Iceland in the North Atlantic.

Station Breaks

By MILT HAMMER

TURNABLE TREATS (good listening): COME SATURDAY MORNING: by Liza Minnelli. The 12 good-sounding vocals by Liza on this LP include "Come Saturday Morning," "Raggy Ann & Raggy Andy," "Leavin' on a Jet Plane," "Walling of the Willow," "Nevertheless," "Wherefore and Why," "Love Story," the oldies "On a Slow Boat to China," "Don't Let Me Lose This Dream," "Simon" and "MacArthur Park - Didn't We," Liza seems to sound better and better with each new release. (A&M RECORDS)...

Also on the A&M label, the oh, so quiet voice of Claudine on her LP album of RUN WILD, RUN FREE. The ear-soothers include "Everybody's Talking," "Lazy Summer Night," "Little Man," "Love Can Never Die," the tuneful oldie of "A Bushel and a Peck," "Something," "Don't Remind Me Now of Time," "Golden Slumbers," "Run Wild, Run Free," "This Changing World" and "Thank You Baby." Sh-h-h-h, it's a goodie... Let's all swing and sway with Sammy Kaye and his orchestra with these 12 old favorites: "I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover," "Sweet Sue, Just You," "Down by the Old Mill Stream," "The Whiffenpoof Song (Baa Baa Baa)," "My Gal Sal," "If You Knew Susie," (like I knew Susie), "There's a Tavern in the Town," "The Gang That Sang Heart of My Heart," "Marianne," "Margie," "Oh, How I Miss You Tonight" and "Sweet Adeline." They're all old friends - but all wearing a new look, thanks to Sammy's melodic make-up magic. They'll be good company at your next record party...so, Dance And Be Happy. (DECCA RECORDS)...

(SELECTED SINGLES... "Secret Love" and "Canadian Sunset" by Conroy Wilson on the PORT label... White on the DIRECTION label, Bob Darin's double nifty of "Maybe We Can Get It Together" and "Rx-Pyro" (Prescription: Fire)...

The Theater Seen

A very funny cruise with 'Dames at Sea'

By ROBERT LYONS

"Dames at Sea," at the Theatre de Lys, 121 Christopher St., is a hoist-up of the 1930's movie versions of Broadway. As a twice-removed spoof, it trimly avoids a put-down show by almost sociologically realizing the probable need America had for the hope-against-hope stories that dribbled off screen writers' pens during the Depression.

A key to the plot line is found in the program credits. In place of "book and lyrics by..." it states "books and lyrics by..." The plots cover every artificial dream possible without sprawling, jumping, or exhausting us with an and-her-e's-one-more-cliche-we-can't- resist style. It's really a very compact "books."

HERE GOES. A girl from Centerville, Utah, comes to New York to make it in show-biz. She is a dancer. The best in her uncle's school. She leaves her suitcase at the bus station which is found by a shore leave sailor who is a talented song writer. He too is from her hometown, "Centerville? Gosh!" he exclaims, and they fall in love. She auditions for 15 seconds and lands in the chorus. The leading lady of the show has immediate designs on the sailor and he has to go along to insure HIS big break on the Great White Way.

The theatre gets sold for a parking lot and a bulldozer is plowing through the front door as the first act ends with a decision to hold the show on shipboard. Luckily the star knew the captain years earlier in Pensacola. I have left out about three dozen exciting bromides so far but we are in act two.

Aboard the battleship the star gets seasick and the understudy must go on for the big number. Rehearsals continue ardently right up to curtain time. The girl has only had a candy bar to eat all day. (Ok, researchers, it was a Baby Ruth.) She goes on and becomes a smash. Winchell and Noel Coward are at the opening. President Roosevelt answers a letter she mailed the same day.

THE MUSIC AND 15 songs are minted perlage. Catch these titles: "Broadway Baby,"

Zelenka Wind Quintet offers concert at Drew

The Zelenka Wind Quintet, musicians-in-residence at Drew University, Madison, will present a concert of chamber works tonight at 8 o'clock in The College Chapel, Brothers Hall. The concert is open to the public without charge.

The Zelenka Quintet is seeking to expand the woodwind quintet repertoire by performing original and transcribed works from the Renaissance to the present. It is actively engaged in playing and premiering new compositions for traditional wind quintet instrumentation—oboe, flute, bassoon, clarinet, and French horn—as well as for a variety of other instruments including the E Flat clarinet, alto and bass flutes, recorder and English horn.

2,717 youths placed

In the first nine months of 1969, the Apprenticeship Outreach program, funded by the Department of Labor and sponsored by minority groups, community-action groups, and AFL-CIO building and construction trades councils, was successful in placing 2,717 minority youths as apprentices.

'Midnight Cowboy' a shocker with a grim message to convey

By BEA SMITH

"Midnight Cowboy," which garnered seven Academy Award nominations, including best actor for both of its stars, Jon Voight and Dustin Hoffman, is a real shocker for viewers—particularly for those who have not read James Leo Herlihy's brief novel.

The picture, which has "caught up" the excitement of the younger set, a-la-"The Graduate," draws lines around the corner to and from the Union Theater in the Center, especially on weekends.

The picture is graphically beautiful in its swift flashback moments as it smashes its message across to show the horrifying difference between the sweet world of dreams and the blatant world of reality.

Lee Marvin stars in film at Bellevue

"Paint Your Wagon," the big-screen, wide-scale musical at the Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair, has a gold-rush setting, and stars Lee Marvin, Clint Eastwood and Jean Seberg. Joshua Logan directed the movie, which was produced in color, and adapted from the Lerner and Loew stage hit.

The picture features such songs as "They Call the Wind Maria," and "I Talk to the Trees."

Trailside visitors discover America, Mars and nature

"Discover America," a color, sound film, will be shown at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, on Sunday at 2 p.m.

The film takes the viewer on a voyage of discovery from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate and on to Hawaii. The narration is by movie and television star Burgess Meredith and the music by Igor Stravinsky.

Also on Sunday at 3 to 4 p.m., Donald W. Mayer, director of Trailside, assisted by Elmer Van Gilder, educational assistant at Trailside, will present a program entitled "The Planet Mars" in the Trailside Planetarium.

As the Trailside Planetarium can seat but 50 people at a showing, it is necessary to obtain a ticket from the Trailside office on the day of the show. Tickets are issued on a first-come, first-served basis. Children under eight years of age are not permitted in the Planetarium chamber.

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, March 5, at 4 p.m., Mayer will present half-hour nature talks for children. The topic selected for the four days is "John J. Audubon." The talks will be illustrated with color slides and admission is free.

'Carmen' excerpts scheduled Sunday at Union College

The Amato Opera Company will present excerpts from "Carmen" on Sunday at 8 p.m. in the Union College Theatre, Cranford. The performance marks the third event in the Cultural Arts Series sponsored by Union College and the Alumni Association for alumni and their families.

The Amato Opera Theatre was founded in 1948 in New York City by Anthony Amato as a non-profit organization and serves to bring the world of opera to new audiences, to provide experience for young singers and to offer an opportunity for experimentation by presenting operas never or rarely performed here. The company's Operas-in-Brief have been presented at Town Hall, in schools and community centers and at the company's off-Broadway theatre at Second Street and the Bowers in New York.

The Cultural Arts Series has been extremely well received by the Union College alumni with the first two events playing to capacity audiences. The Opera-in-Brief production is also oversubscribed.

Remaining events in the series include a second Young People's Concert, "Music of the Electronic Age," by the Suburban Symphony Orchestra, March 15, at 3 p.m.; the Union College Drama Club's production of J. B. Priestly's "Dangerous Corner," April 3 at 8:30 p.m.; and "Excerpts from Famous Ballets" by the New Jersey Dance Theatre Guild, May 3 at 8 p.m.

Dr. MacKay reports county education broadens advancement opportunity

The utilization of Union College, Cranford, and Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, by the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education will broaden "the scope and opportunity for college advancement and provide recognition for educational achievement which might be denied if orthodox standards of admission and curriculum were applied."

That prediction is made by Dr. Kenneth C. MacKay, executive director of the Coordinating Agency, in his annual report to the Union County Board of Freeholders.

Dr. MacKay cited the innovative dental hygiene program where students take courses at Union College, Union County Technical Institute, and the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry.

"This cooperation represents a significant achievement in enabling students interested in a career-oriented program to enroll for such education at the Technical Institute and benefit concurrently from technical work at the Institute and courses in general education at Union and, additionally and significantly, obtain recognition by receiving the Associate in Applied Science degree conferred by Union," Dr. MacKay said.

UNION COUNTY'S UNIQUE PLAN to provide community college services provides for Union College and Union County Technical Institute to have "its own distinctive educational offerings." The programs at the Technical Institute are primarily career-oriented, technical and business courses, health-related courses, programs for two years or less, designed to meet the many-faceted needs of business, industry, government agencies and the professional and semi-professional demands of the county, Dr. MacKay explained.

On the other hand, Union College, developing in a tradition of close cooperation with four-year colleges and universities dating back to 1933, has emphasized curricula in the liberal arts, science, engineering and business administration.

"Union County Technical Institute offers a special pre-technical program for those students who need additional education in order to qualify for the regular career programs," Dr. MacKay said. "This program is both remedial and exploratory in nature. The Technical Institute also assumes full responsibility for placement of its graduates. Since 1962, when its first class was graduated, it has established a record of practically 100 percent placement of those available for work."

A SIGNIFICANT START was made in cooperative programming in the past year when Union College and Union County Technical Institute received approval from the State Board of Higher Education to offer jointly four programs leading to the Associate in Applied Science degree, Dr. MacKay said. They are: electronics technology, mechanical design technology, chemical technology and data processing technology. Additional programs to be submitted to the state for approval are now being studied by the appropriate committees at the two institutions, Dr. MacKay reported.

Skeet shoot this Sunday

The 25th annual Jack Pride Memorial Shoot at trap and skeet, sponsored by the Union County Park Commission, will be held at the county park trap and skeet grounds, off Kenilworth Boulevard, Cranford, on Sunday at 2 p.m.

Last year John Medredick of Hillside won the trap event and the combination event. John Yanoosey of Union won the skeet event. Yanoosey was the combination champion in 1968.

The county park trap and skeet grounds are open to the public on Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m.

Kiwanis hears NSC president

Dr. Nathan Weiss, acting president of Newark State College, Union, was guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Elizabeth Kiwanis Club, held at the Winfield Scott Hotel in Elizabeth.

A former political science professor at Newark State, Dr. Weiss took issue with militants who say that Abraham Lincoln was a white supremacist. He cited historical examples "proving that Lincoln was, in fact, not a white supremacist, but was probably in advance of his day on racial matters and would probably be classified today as a moderate."

YASHICA ELECTRO 35S SYSTEM

A complete system for taking fascinating color pictures, the Electro 35 System utilizes a revolutionary concept in exposure control. The solid-state electronic circuitry measures the light with computer precision, controlling the electronic shutter to give the photographer exactly the speed the CdS sensor calls for, even if it should be 1/187 sec. or a full 30 seconds, extremely important for the narrow latitude of color film. In addition the exposure system has no moving parts and is therefore shock resistant, years of trouble-free service.

B. B. King in concert

B.B. King will present a blues concert sponsored by the Day Session Student Council of Union College, Cranford, tonight at 8 o'clock in the Masonic Temple, 68 Broad st., Elizabeth. B.B. and his guitar, Lucille, headline the concert which also features the Psychotic Blues Band.

Miss Linda Morra of 233 Appletree Lane, Mountainside, is concert chairman, assisted by Miss Lenore Daniel of Hillside, and Robert A. Tutela of 18 Twin Oaks oval, Springfield. J. Harrison Morson, director of student activities, is advisor.

Tickets are on sale to the general public in the Student Activities Office at Union College or may be purchased at the door.

Union pair place first

Irwin Michaelson and Joseph Robert, both of Union, scored top spot in North-South play in a duplicate bridge game conducted at the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA, Green Lane, Union, Florence Shear and Doris Golden, both of Hillside, placed second, and Milt Stiegel of Elizabeth and Howard Kahn of Lakewood, third.

Mike Fried of Elizabeth and Harold Druchman of Linden placed first in East-West play, and Alex Freiberg of Colonia and Howard Chancer of Cranford second.

Rachelle Surett of Clark and Roz Goodman of Watchung tied for third place as did John and Jane Carroll of Roselle for the fourth spot.

Hikers visit three sites

A ramble and two hikes are scheduled this weekend for members and guests of the Union County Hiking Club.

On Saturday, Miss Irma H. Heyer of Elizabeth will lead a six-mile afternoon ramble in the South Mountain Reservation. The group will meet at the Elmdale "Picnic" area on Brookside drive, at 1 p.m.

Also on Saturday, Arthur Knittel of East Orange will lead a 12-mile hike along the Batona Trail in Lebanon State Forest. The group will meet at the administration building of the Union County Park Commission, Warnance Park, Elizabeth, at 8:15 a.m., and at the Lebanon State Forest headquarters at 10:15 a.m.

On Sunday, Leonard Gohs of East Orange and Carl Bjorklund of Ramsey will lead an eight-mile hike in the area of Lake Sebago in Harriman State Park, N.Y. The group will meet at the fisherman's parking area at the Lake Sebago dam at 9:30 a.m., and on Route 17 at the Garden State Parkway exit 163 at 8:30 a.m. Further information may be obtained from the recreation department of the Union County Park Commission.

GET RESULTS

...and we get the nicest letters about it.

"The response was quite overwhelming so that I will no longer require the ad for the entire four week plan as originally arranged."

MISS M.F.

"Your ad brought results. I was able to sell my piano. Thank you."

MRS. H.I.

"We were surprised and pleased that your papers gave us far more replies in our ad for a secretary than the large dailies."

MR. L.K.

"I received a very nice job through the ad...better than expected... and want to thank you very much."

MRS. F.B.

"From the response I have received it is apparent that your circulation is truly extensive in this and surrounding communities."

MRS. L.S.

"You sure helped me a great deal through the ad...in your papers"

SPRING SHOWING — The Mollie Parnis spring collection will be modeled informally in Saks Fifth Avenue's new designer salon in Springfield on Monday and Tuesday.

Rabbi will give lecture on Jewish view of abortion

Rabbi Reeve Brenner, spiritual leader of the Princeton Jewish Center will be the guest preacher at Temple Sharey Shalom, Springfield, at sabbath evening services tomorrow at 8:45 p.m. Rabbi Brenner is a member of the New Jersey Clergy Consultation Service on Abortion, an organization of ministers and rabbis who believe that the current laws on abortion are wrong, and who advise women—married and unmarried—on where they can get abortions at reasonable fees and in relative safety. Clergy Consultation Service groups similar to the New Jersey group are presently functioning in ten states.

Rabbi Brenner's sermon topic will be "A Modern Jewish View of Abortion." During the Oneg Shabbat, following the service Rabbi Brenner will enter into dialogue with and answer questions from the congregation.

Rabbi Brenner, who serves a Conservative congregation, will be conducting the Reform service at Temple Sharey Shalom in the absence of Rabbi Israel Dresner, who is in Israel for the convention of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, the organization of American Reform Rabbis.

Rabbi Brenner and his wife and two children will leave for Israel in May. He will spend a year on a research grant from the Yivo (the Yiddish Scientific Institute), carrying on research on the Nazi persecution of Jews. Rabbi Brenner is a graduate of C.C.N.Y., and was ordained at the Jewish Institute of Religion in New York. After serving as an Army chaplain for two years in Germany Rabbi Brenner served Temple Beth Ahm in Monessen, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

While serving the Pennsylvania congregation he served as resident lecturer in Jewish religious thought at St. Vincent College and Seminary, a Roman Catholic school in Latrobe, Pa. Rabbi Brenner and his work in the field of abortion were the subject of an article in Parade Magazine, the Sunday newspaper supplement, on Aug. 17, 1969.

Airman Costanza on duty in Thailand

U.S. AIR FORCES, Thailand — U. S. Air Force Airman First Class Robert J. Costanza, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Costanza of 97 Hawthorn ave., Springfield, N.J., is on duty at Udorn Royal Thai AFB, Thailand.

Airman Costanza, an intelligence specialist, is with the 11th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron, a unit of the Pacific Air Forces, headquarters for air operations in Southeast Asia, the Far East and Pacific areas. He previously served at Kaduna AB, Okinawa.

A 1964 graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, the airman received his AA degree in 1966 from Union Junior College, Cranford, N.J. He has also studied at Hofstra University in Hempstead, N.Y.

WELCOME THEM WARMLY

A friendly call is always welcomed by newcomers to your neighborhood. They'll be happy to meet you. Later, they'll want to know you better. But right now, they need something more — directions to the nearest schools and shopping facilities and all the other information one needs on arriving in a strange city. So make your welcome a little warmer with the help of a Welcome Wagon hostess. She'll provide all this and gifts as well. When new neighbors move in, call Welcome Wagon. SPFLD.-MTNSD - 276-5990. You'll be glad you did... and they will, too.
