Regional winter teams end seasons on mark of success

BY BILL LOVETT
Winter sports, never the high point of the year for athletes at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, drew near the end on a mark of success for both the wrestlers and the basketball players.

The wrestlers were narrowly edged by undefeated Scotch Plains in the district championships this past weekend. Three of the Highlanders won district titles and will compete again in the regional title meet starting tomorrow night in Union.

The basketball team upset New Providence, 53-50, to finish the regular season all even at 10-10. However, the record dropped below .500 Monday night when the Highlanders lost to West Orange, 76-59, in a state tournament game at Roselle Park.

The Gov. Livingston wrestling team came within one point of possibly their biggest victory in several years before succumbing to Scotch Plains by the slimmest possible margin, 73-72. The Highlanders and Blue Raiders dominated the seven team field which included New Providence (43 points), South Plainfield (42 points), North Plainfield (28), Watchung Hills (22) and Plainfield (14).

The key match was between Regional's John Schenk and Scotch Plain's Walt Grote at 168 pounds. Grote got a quick advantage and pinned Schenk at 1:55 in the opening round, and that was the margin of victory.

Gov. Livingston had three individual champions, Stuart Brown at 98 pounds, Gary Farrell at 123, and Bill Ruff, who repeated for the second year as the 178 pound champion. Brown, who finished the year undefeated, and Farrell had easy final matches, winning 11-0 and 7-0, in that order. Both had near pins, but neither was able to quite get the fall which would have given the Highlanders victory. Ruff had a much harder time in his bout, barely winning an 8-6 decision over Curcio of South Plainfield.

Special events for anniversary of Girl Scouting

Recognition of Girl Scout Week will begin on Sunday when many Scouts will be attending Mountainside churches in uniform. In addition, many will attend a special program at Union Catholic High School, Scotch Plains, that afternoon.

The annual father-daughter Girl Scout Banquet will be held on Tuesday evening at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Mountainside. Approximately 300 Scouts and their fathers are expected to attend. In addition, throughout Girl Scout Week, there will be a special Girl Scout display at the Mountainside Public Library.

During the past year, Girl Scouts in Mountainside have demonstrated what an aware and active group they are through numerous acts of service. Brownies of Troop 691 have collected and polished shoes which will be sent to the Appalachian area. Junior troops have aided in a clothing drive and made toys for the Children's Specialized Hospital, as well as afghans for Rumlens Hospital.

Among other activities, Cadette Scouts have assisted at the Westfield Day Care Center, and Senior Scouts are serving individually in many

New Cub pack being formed under sponsorship of VFW

An organizational meeting for a new Mountainside Cub Scout pack will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at the Deerfield School. All parents of boys between the ages of 7 and 10 who do not belong to a cub pack are invited to attend, according to a joint announcement by the Mountainside Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who are sponsoring the pack, and Melvin Fincke, chairman of the Colonial District membership committee.

It is expected that the new pack will hold its regular monthly meetings at a central location in Mountainside south of Route 22, and will thereby serve boys who live not only in Mountainside but also in the northern area of Westfield. The organizational meeting will be devoted primarily to determining members of the pack executive committee and adult leaders for the pack and the dens making up the pack.

Usually a pack is made up of 30 to 60 boys with eight to 10 boys in a den. Dens meet weekly with a den mother and an assistant den mother, frequently with the help of scouts who have been cubed. A pack organization is composed of a cubmaster, assistant cubmaster, den leader coach, den mothers, and others handling special events and activities such as advancement, trips, membership, fund raising, treasury and publicity.

"The success of any cub pack or scout troop depends on the extent to which parents will help with the program," Fincke said, "and because the Colonial District has been fortunate in having fine adult cooperation for its 65 units, there is every reason to feel confident that this new and needed Mountainside pack will be equally fortunate."

Other officials instrumental in initiating the new pack are John Woodard, district scout executive; Walter Deyerle, district training chairman; Martin DeVos, Mountainside area scout commissioner, and Herman Tjaden of the district membership committee.

Increasing the number of scout units in Mountainside is in line with scouting's nationwide movement, "Boypower '76," dedicated to offering opportunities to all boys to join a scout organization, the expansion to culminate in 1976 to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the nation.

Library to begin preschool series

The Mountainside Public Library next week will begin its spring series of preschool story hours. Meetings will be held weekly for 10 weeks from 10:30 to 11 a.m., beginning next Thursday, March 5, and continuing until May 14. There will be no meeting on April 2.

The program will be offered to children who have reached their fourth birthday and to preschool five-year-olds. Registration will continue until class is filled.

The story hour will be held in the meeting room of the library. Selected picture books will be read and shown to the group by Mrs. Helen M. Kelly, children's librarian. Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Kelly at 233-7885.

Fire chiefs urge acceptance of the sprinkler standby bill

Assemblyman Charles J. Irwin of Mountainside and Fire Chief Ronald N. Huter recently attended a board meeting of the New Jersey State Fire Chiefs' Association at Deans.

Irwin sponsored the sprinkler standby bill which was passed by the Assembly but became bogged down in the Senate last year. Chief Huter said, "This bill would reduce the yearly charge to industry for water made available in case of fire. It would make the cost of sprinkling more attractive and would save additional insurance costs over a 10-year period. Sprinkler installers in some cities are making installations and are accepting payment on the basis of money saved on insurance by building owners."

Huter added, "It is my belief and that of most of the fire service throughout the world that the sprinkler standby bill would be one of the greatest single contributions to the fire service to date, and it will be introduced and endorsed by other states."

The Fire Chiefs' Association accepted Huter's proposal that Irwin act as their solicitor. Irwin also was made an honorary member of the association.

A study bill, Assembly Concurrent Resolution 15, was discussed. New Jersey is one of four states that does not have a fire marshal, and this bill is to determine the advisability and feasibility of establishing this office.

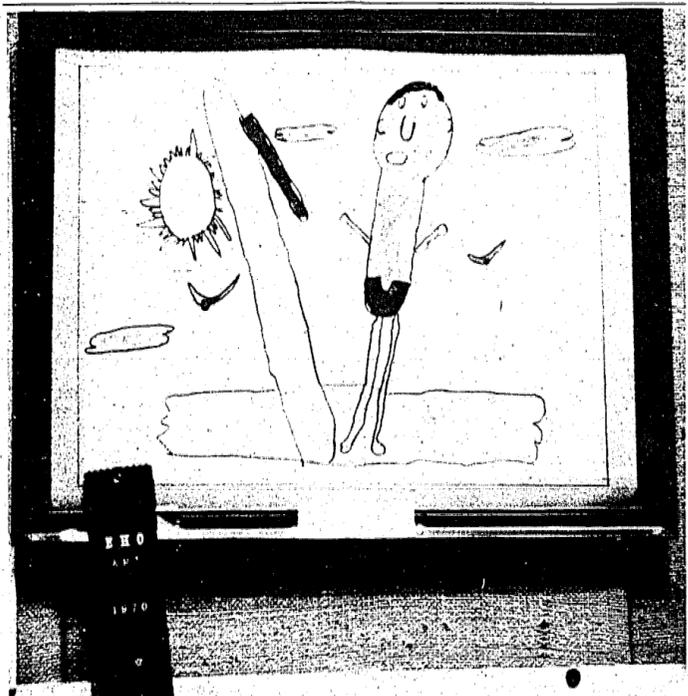

An error was made last year and May 31 was established as Fire Service Recognition Day. A bill was introduced to correct this, and the second Saturday in May now is the established day.

The association's next meeting will be held Saturday, March 21, in Mt. Holly.

Chief Huter also stated that "the Borough of Mountainside is fortunate to have the most dedicated group of volunteers in a near metropolitan area anywhere in the world. It is their never-ending efforts to give you the finest, most efficient fire protection possible that spurs them on to attend fire schools, county, state and eastern states meetings and eastern as well as international conferences on their own time."

He urged readers to remember their slogan, "The fire service risks lives to save lives," and to "make every day fire prevention day."

The exhibit for employees and families attracted 121 adult and child entries. Seven-year-old Tommy's watercolor is called "Surfer."

Rt. 22 is scene of two accidents

Mountainside Police reported two accidents on Rt. 22 in the past week.

On Wednesday of last week vehicles driven by William J. Bauers, 37, of Morristown and Ellsworth S. Rudisill of Glen Ridge, Pa., collided at about 11:50 a.m.

Bauers and a passenger, Felix Corbone of Morristown, were taken to Overlook Hospital in Summit after complaining of pains. They were treated and released.

Two trucks collided at the U-turn on Rt. 22 at Lawrence avenue on Monday.

A truck driven by Robert Schiermeyer, 59, of Englishtown, and owned by the Federal Chemical Company, was struck in the rear by one driven by Ronald E. Kircher, 25, of Iselin. The truck Kircher was driving belongs to Utility Propane Co. of Elizabeth.

Kircher told Mountainside Police that his brakes failed to stop him from striking the other vehicle. No charges are being filed.

Haddassah invites mayor as guest

Mrs. Herbert Seidel, on behalf of the Westfield-Mountainside Chapter of Haddassah, has presented Mountainside Mayor and Mrs. Thomas J. Ricciardi with the first invitation to the Preview Reception for the 1970 art show and sale at Temple Emanu-El, Westfield.

A preview reception will be held on Saturday, April 4, for sponsors, patrons, participating artists, and invited guests. Each sponsor will receive a lithograph by Will Barnat. According to Mrs. Seidel, Barnat "is a major figure on the American art scene. His paintings are in the permanent collections of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Whitney Museum of American Art, the Museum of Modern Art, and the Guggenheim Museum as well as many others."

Information regarding sponsors and patrons is available through Mrs. Seidel or Mrs. Charles Schnur of Old Tote road. Other Mountainside residents serving on the 1970 art show committee are: Mrs. Herbert Cohen, hospital; Mrs. Mitchell Bradie, sales; Mrs. Herbert Arkus, tickets for the public showings on April 5, 6 and 7, and Mrs. Milton Wasch, treasurer.

Ambulance unit seeks volunteers

The Mountainside Rescue Squad is again issuing a plea for help. "There is a dire need for daytime volunteers who can donate one or two days a week," said Ruth Koulter, vice president of the squad.

"Right now, a handful of women are putting in three and four 12-hour shifts a week. If it were not for their dedication, the ambulance would be out of service during the day which is the busiest time for the squad. These women have home and family responsibilities too and it is really hard to have to donate this much time to do volunteer work," she went on to say. "Maybe if people realized that we are ordinary family folks like themselves, they could envision themselves as members of the squad."

The squad is now in the process of starting a standard Red Cross First Aid course. Anyone not holding a current (less than three years old) first aid card is eligible to join this course, whether he plans on joining the squad or not. Anyone interested in attending may contact Ruth-Koulter at 232-8490 or Wayne Moyers at 233-7176.

FIRST TICKETS — Mayor and Mrs. Thomas J. Ricciardi receive first invitations to the Westfield-Mountainside Haddassah art show and sale from Mrs. Herbert Seidel. The art show will begin with a preview April 4. It will be held at Temple Emanu-El, Westfield.

School workshops focusing on needs of slow learners

In-service workshops for teachers, focusing on the needs of the below-average student are now under way in the Union County Regional High School District.

A seven-session workshop to evaluate and revise materials developed for the slow learner on the 11th grade level in English and social studies last summer, begins today, said David Carl, Title I coordinator.

According to Carl, the federally funded sessions, to be held in the evenings, will also focus on the teaching of reading in the two subject areas.

Seven teachers, who took part in the summer workshop, will discuss evaluation sheets submitted by some 30 teachers in the four high schools who are using the materials developed last summer.

"The Regional District is very concerned about the below-average student in many cases they are overlooked or channeled into a program that fails to meet their needs and has little or no relevance for them," Carl said.

Noting the needs of the slow learner in a middle class suburban community, Carl said: "Stress is placed on academic subjects which attempt to prepare the student for college and the below-average student is frequently given a diluted form of the academic program. The result is a lack of motivation which many times leads to school dropouts."

Another series of in-service sessions to discuss ways of understanding and motivating the below-average student started yesterday at the David Brearley Regional High School. The workshop is open to all teachers.

The topics being discussed at the sessions, held at each high school, are, coping with problems in the classroom, grouping and individualizing instruction.

Carl said that although the workshops are open to all teachers, special invitations have been sent to those teachers who have below-average students in their classes.

Looking to the summer workshop, Carl said a social studies curriculum program will be developed for slow learners at the ninth grade level and for seniors in English.

Garwood and Kenilworth, two of the sending districts, have combined resources in a cooperative Title planning project. Teachers on the elementary grade level are working with the Regional District staff in a program of curriculum development and in-service education for the slow learner to aid the transition from the elementary to the high school.

The Regional District comprises Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield, and operates four high schools: David Brearley Regional High School, Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School and Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

OPERA PROGRAM — Irene Kessler, lyric soprano, and Abraham Weisman, tenor, will be starred in the Young Artists Opera concert to be staged Sunday evening, March 28, at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, by the Men's Club of Temple Beth Ahm. There will be special discount rate tickets for students.

Pastor presenting sermons on 'Great Themes of Faith'

"Great Themes of Faith" is the subject of the sermon being preached by Pastor James Dewart of Springfield Emanuel United Methodist Church, Church Mall at Academy Green, during the weeks preceding Easter. On successive Sundays in Lent, Pastor Dewart has directed the congregation's thoughts toward the Biblical testimony concerning God, man, sin, wrath and redemption.

The services at 9:30 a.m. in the Trivett Chapel and at 11 a.m. in the Sanctuary this Sunday will concern "Facing the Music," based on Amos' denunciation of the people of God found in his prophecy.

"One Great Hour of Sharing" will be observed at all the services this Sunday in cooperation with all religious bodies jointly concerned about human need throughout the world. According to Pastor Dewart, the offering will be used by Methodists to aid the "one-half of the world's population that lives in the shadow of need."

Among the projects to be supported are: a food-for-work program in Haiti which turns rocky hillsides into terraced agricultural plots, instruction of women in family planning and nutrition, the planting of trees in various countries to replace those cut for fuel, scholarships for students from other lands studying in the United States, and the development of curriculum materials in Argentina.

Church School will meet at 9:30 a.m. with classes for the nursery through sixth grade in the Wesley House, the seventh and eighth grades on the third floor of the Church Annex and the Senior High in Fellowship Hall. The Church School pupils are currently bringing clothes for children in Appalachia in cooperation with the Woman's Society of Christian Service. The clothing will be donated to Henderson and Pitman settlements in Kentucky.

The German language worship service will be conducted at 9:30 a.m. in the sanctuary by Emanuel Schwing, lay pastor. Dr. Schwing's sermon topic will be "Day of Authority," based on Col. 1:17.

Junior High Youth will meet at 6 p.m. in the Church Annex, third floor. They will participate in the evening musical presentation of "The Life of Christ."

"Christ in Music" will be the theme of a service jointly sponsored by the Methodist Church and Antioch Baptist Church in the Methodist sanctuary at 8 p.m. The Men's Chorus and Children's Choir of the Baptist Church, the Chancel Choir, Methodist Men, and Junior Highs of the Methodist Church, the Adult Choir of Bethesda Church of God in Christ, Newark, and a local folk group will participate in the service. Refreshments will be served by Methodist Men during the fellowship period.

The Lenten breakfast-study series will continue on Wednesday morning at 6:30. The Sermon on the Mount is being studied using "Today's English Version of the New Testament" and Archibald Hunter's book, "A Pattern for Life." Reservations should be made through the church office, 376-1695.

Shingles is caused by a virus attacking a nerve. For several days the skin covering the area served by the infected nerve may be tender and burn with pain.

Depending on which nerve is attacked, shingles can be mistaken for various other disorders at this stage. Such pain occurring in the abdomen has been mistaken for appendicitis or a gall bladder attack. In the chest, the pain may be incorrectly believed to be heart disease or pleurisy.

Later a rash of watery blisters erupts along the course of the nerve involved.

Shingles is usually an adult disease, but has been reported in children of all ages. Only estimates can be made of the number of cases of shingles because many are so mild they are never reported to a physician. A limited study by an epidemiologist at the National Institutes of Health showed that each year there are about 83 cases for each 100,000 persons. This means about 160,000 cases a year in the United States.

Some patients recover from shingles without complications, even though they do not see a doctor. Others are left with complications which might have been avoided. A physician can prescribe lotions, powders, and medicines which ease severe pain and may prevent complications.

A distressing after-effect is pain which may persist for months or years after the rash has disappeared. This complication—postherpetic neuralgia—is especially prevalent in older people.

Further after-effects may result when the rash occurs on the face. When the forehead, nose, or area around the eyes is affected, an ophthalmologist (physician specializing in eye disorders) should be consulted to help avoid scarring of the eye and possible loss of eyesight. Patients should see an otologist (ear specialist) when the rash appears on the ear, to help prevent temporary or lasting deafness.

There is no sure means of avoiding these complications. Some physicians have found that gamma globulin given to shingles patients, beginning in the first two days of the disease, speeded disappearance of the rash and prevented complications. However, other physicians found gamma globulin ineffective. The difference may lie in the strength of the particular lot of gamma globulin given the patient.

Serum taken from convalescing shingles patients has been frozen and stored. It has been successfully used in treatment in the first day or two of shingles.

Some day there may be a vaccine against the shingles virus. Most scientists are convinced that the shingles virus is the same one which causes chickenpox. Exposure to chickenpox has been followed in seven to 24 days by shingles, and vice-versa. One theory to explain shingles when no exposure is known is that a dormant chickenpox virus in the body may become active again as shingles.

Medical scientists including those at the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke, one of the National Institutes of Health, continue to learn more about shingles, and hope to use their findings for improved treatment and prevention.

FRIDAY DEADLINE
All items other than spot news should be in our office by noon on Friday.

How many times have you said: "I wish I owned a bank."

Now's your chance.

Owning a bank is one thing. Owning a part of the First New Jersey Bank is quite another. First New Jersey (formerly First State Bank of Union) is 17 years young with assets exceeding $62,000,000 . . . and growing fast.

The reasons for growth?

Five busy branches (soon we'll have seven) in some of the fastest growing, most prosperous communities in New Jersey: Union, New Providence, Clark and Middlesex. And a wide range of popular new services like Master Charge, armor car services, and a bustling data processing center for local business and industry.

Assets doubled in 5 years.

All these new markets, new services and outstanding management capability means just this for potential investors in First New Jersey Bank: a remarkably attractive growth potential as that magic $100,000,000 in assets moves rapidly closer.

In the last five years, our assets have more than doubled. We are now in the top 8% of all banks in the United States. And the period of our most dramatic growth is still ahead because brand new banking laws permit us to operate in seven counties rather than just one.

The chart above shows how First New Jersey Bank has continued to expand over the years. Now that we are able to open branches in other counties, our rate of growth should be greater than ever.

Earnings and dividend prospects.

Our earnings and dividends record has shown a continuous increase over the years. The rate of return on average Capital and Surplus Accounts in 1969 was 12.7% after taxes. This compares with earnings of 10.93% on Capital Accounts in 1968.

Earnings overall in 1969 were $1.39 per share after taxes. Our management anticipates that earnings will continue to increase after the cost of opening the new branches has been absorbed.

Cash dividends of .55c per share were paid in 1969 on existing shares.

Growth stock, growth bank, growth area.

The future is almost unbelievably bright. The First New Jersey bank is centered in the fastest growing area in the metropolitan area.

Due in large part to the continuing influx of new residents and industries, the demand for banking services must rise sharply and remain high. With our entrenched position in these markets—and our excellent reputation in these communities—we confidently expect continued, very gratifying growth.

A similar pattern holds true for most of the other counties in District II.

And nothing can supply a bank with greater impetus for growth than being located in an economically "booming" community.

A growth bank in a growth area often results in a growth stock. This has certainly been the record of First New Jersey Bank common stock, to date. And with the bank's growth performance and potential in mind, this stock has excellent prospects.

Beth Ahm to hold service honoring the 'Minyanaires'

The annual service honoring the "Minyanaires" will take place next Friday night, March 13, at Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield, where Reuben R. Levine, spiritual leader of the Temple, announced that this observance recognizes the "nucleus of dedicated men who take the responsibility of organizing and attending the congregation's twice-daily religious services."

The term "Minyanaires" derives from the Hebrew "Minyan" or quorum, and signifies the minimum of 10 men required for public worship. Although private prayer is encouraged in Judaism, certain passages, among them the Kaddish prayer which honors the deceased, be recited only in the presence of a "Minyan." The rabbi estimated that some 50 to 60 men attend little over 10 percent of the temple's services - accept the obligation of participating in these services on a rotation basis, while numerous others attend when called upon. He termed these services a "basic core of the temple's function, which, without fanfare, maintains much of the religious quality of the congregation, while providing for the ritual needs of many families."

The guest speaker at the service will be Murray Kempler, an officer of the Northern New Jersey United Synagogue, the organization of Conservative congregations. He will speak on the "Constants and Variants in Synagogue Life."

To help in this celebration, the temple's Pre-SUJ, the junior high school age youth group, will present a program of song at the Oneg Shabbat, the social period following worship. The group is under the direction of Mrs. Norman Pollack.

Stolen automobile is recovered here

Springfield police reported the recovery of a stolen car Tuesday of last week. According to police, Angel T. Burgos of Newark, 22, a floorman at the U.S. Defense Building on Rt. 22, was arrested and taken to Union County Jail in default of $1,000 on charges of knowingly receiving a stolen vehicle.

The car, owned by Wayland Vaughn of Newark, was reportedly stolen on Friday, Feb. 20. Police said the origin of the vehicle was learned by contacting the National Crime Information Center in Trenton which had data on the stolen car.

Police said they also picked up a passenger who was with Burgos at the time of the arrest, but he was released and no charges will be filed against him.

Police also reported the theft of a spare tire from a station wagon belonging to Mrs. Ernest Zaloom of Short Hills. Police said entry was apparently gained by breaching a window and reaching in to unlock the door. The theft occurred on Tuesday, according to police records, in the Saks parking lot.

On the previous Tuesday the owner of the Reinette Store at 246 Morris ave., Springfield, reported the theft of $20 from the store's cash register between 3 and 5 p.m.

Last Friday Springfield police arrested Roberto Ortiz of Jersey City on a traffic warrant from that city. He was turned over to Jersey City authorities.

Scouting award won by Hurwitz

The National Jewish Committee on Scouting's Shofar award was presented to Murry L. Hurwitz of Springfield by Harry Levine, representing the Union Council Boy Scout Jewish scout relations committee at recent Boy Scout Sabbath services at Temple Sharey Shalom, Springfield. This award recognizes outstanding service by adults in the promotion of scouting among Jewish boys.

HALF-PAST TEEN

Report from Trenton

By State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo

When the Legislature reconvenes next Monday, I intend to ask my fellow members of the County and Municipal Government Committee to release S-120 for a floor vote.

This measure, which pre-empted for introduction this session, would enable municipalities to provide a scholarship program for permanent, active, full-time firemen. Adoption of this legislation would be only equitable especially in view of the fact that policemen now have the opportunity to apply for scholarships.

Under the police scholarship program, grants-in-aid of up to $500 a year are available to each qualified officer who wishes to take courses leading to a college degree or to improve his skills on the job. I have introduced S-120 because I believe the state should do no less for its firemen.

It seems obvious that a better-educated fireman is a greater asset to the community and a better public servant. His viewpoint, understanding and awareness are enlarged beyond the scope of his duties by the educational process.

In addition to benefiting his community through his exposure to college courses, the fireman who receives a scholarship can work more efficiently and more effectively because his morale is improved.

S-120 WOULD PROVIDE a $50,000 appropriation to the Department of Higher Education. However, the scholarship program itself would remain under the control of local authorities. Plans for community implementation of the scholarship program would be subject to review by a State Scholarship Commission of the Department of Higher Education.

The measure would permit municipalities to grant scholarship recipients special consideration on their working hours and assignments. This would merely be to make attendance at courses possible. However, no other preferential treatment would be allowed.

Under the firemen's scholarship program, each eligible man could receive as much as $500 a year. This money would have to be used to pay tuition at a college providing courses leading to a bachelor's or associate degree.

The scholarships would be limited to four academic years, but the recipient must complete his studies within eight calendar years. However, scholarships could be awarded on a partial basis for the prorated cost per credit hour.

Each community wishing to participate in the program would be reimbursed for 50 percent of the costs by the state. The program would be completely voluntary on the part of municipalities and fire districts. However, I would hope that most of those able to afford such a program would recognize that the long-range benefits of encouraging firemen to pursue higher education could easily justify the costs.

I sincerely hope that the Legislature adopts S-120 into law and the municipalities take advantage of the benefits of this legislation.

ATOMIC CAMERA SPOTS NARCOTICS

A portable atomic camera that can "see" through metals to spot flaws and also detect hidden quantities of drugs or narcotics has been developed at the Atomic Energy Commission's Pacific Northwest Laboratory. The 100-pound camera uses the radiotope Californium-252 to generate the neutrons needed to "take the picture." It records many things not visible by conventional X-ray, can easily penetrate most metals and other heavy opaque materials to detect weaknesses or foreign substances. It can detect drugs and narcotics hidden in metal containers or concealed in other objects, thus providing a valuable tool for customs or enforcement officers.

MASS FAMINE in both hemispheres is predicted by a University of Wisconsin climatologist. He points out that already the total number of American deaths in Vietnam is being surpassed every four days by the global toll of starvation. "Starvation is no more pleasant a death than being shot," he says. "The next major war may well be a war for survival, a war for food and resources." He thinks such a war will most likely break out in Asia where the population pressure on the land is greater than anywhere else on the globe.

A local spokesman commented: "The Girl Scouts of the USA are celebrating its 58th birthday next Thursday, March 12. However, the world's largest girl youth organization is really no older than the girls who make up its present membership of more than 3 million. More than 300 Girl Scouts of Mountain-side, like other young people today, are opening their eyes to the world around them and trying to make it better.

"A better world for girls was what Juliette Gordon Low had in mind when she brought the idea of an American Girl Scout movement to her native Savannah, Ga., from England in 1912. She dreamed of girls learning to be active, vital citizens of their country, which they are today. Their attitude is expressed simply in the theme they have adopted for the next three years - 'Awareness-Action'."

Presbyterian-Reformed union in state would unite 366,000

Protestant ecumenism is taking another step as New Jersey Presbyterian and Reformed churches prepare to vote on a plan of church union in May. The union would create the largest Protestant denomination in New Jersey, totaling 560 churches with 254,438 communicants and 111,555 church school children. The United Presbyterian Church Synod of New Jersey, with 396 churches, and the Reformed Church in America's Particular Synod of New Jersey, with 164 churches, are involved in the union synod.

This is the first proposal of union between units of these two denominations, and marks a new approach to church unity, or ecumenism, by which church units, such as presbyteries and synods (which are area and state units) may form church unions.

The national United Presbyterian Church is discussing merger with the Presbyterian Church, U.S., (known as the Southern Presbyterian Church), a body with whom the Reformed Church has also discussed union. Increasing "grass roots" ecumenism, however, as in this proposal for a union synod (state-wide), is seen as a rising "call of the people" for church reunion and renewal.

The Presbyterian and the Reformed churches in New Jersey have a common heritage from the Protestant Reformation, sharing a Reformed declaration of faith and a Presbyterian system of church government, in which the members, through a representative democracy, elect church leaders, who are called elders or "presbyters". The Reformed Church dates back to early Dutch settlers in this country, while the Presbyterians trace their background to Scottish settlers from the Presbyterian Church of Scotland.

THE MOST IMPORTANT result of this church union will be the fact of a united mission of these churches in New Jersey, with a single program and service to their area. The combination of these church units will unite the work of the Presbyterian and Reformed churches in such areas as church planning and development, ecumenical relations, Christian education, social witness, synod finances, children's and youth camping, homes for the aged, college campus work, evangelism, radio and television, women's and men's work, and administration. With some 30 proposals for church union among existing churches, around the world, this plan of union is being looked upon as a pacesetter for Protestant church reunion.

The proposal for a union synod of the Presbyterian and Reformed Churches in New Jersey resulted from action of the May, 1969, meeting of the Particular Synod of New Jersey of the Reformed Church.

Both synods will keep their denominational ties, and local churches will be able to keep their church names, but their work in New Jersey will be within the same church in that state.

Engineers propose floating airports

Artificial islands would relieve sky congestion

A Columbia University engineer and his colleagues this week offered their version of a plan to solve the worsening air traffic jam: artificial island-airports, floating out at sea or on lakes, such as New York, that are badly in need of fresh airport space.

Their concept, called FLAIR (for floating airports), is designed to thin out the crowded skies over cities, such as New York, thus also reducing the problems of noise and air pollution.

A FLAIR airbase, its designers say, could be anchored to the ocean floor 50 miles off the coast of New York, thus also reducing the problems of noise and air pollution.

Built of concrete and steel, it would have two, parallel, 12,000-foot-long runways, big enough for giant airliners; a complete air terminal below decks; and enough facilities to handle 100 landings and take-offs an hour.

The FLAIR concept was developed by Professor Mario Salvadori of the Columbia University School of Engineering and Applied Science, and consulting engineers Paul Weidinger and Istavan Varga. Dr. Richard Garwin of Columbia's Watson Laboratories also contributed to the study, particularly the idea of FLAIR's taut cable anchorage.

PROFESSOR SALVADORI, whose expertise is in civil engineering and architecture, says the first FLAIR airbase at sea would take about four years to build, and cost between $1.1 and $1.4 billion. All the tools, techniques and materials for its construction, he adds, are now available.

The man-made island, according to the plan, would be strong enough to withstand crash-landings by airliners, or collisions with ocean liners. It is designed to operate even under severe sea conditions, such as 40-foot waves and winds of up to 130 miles an hour.

The total surface area of FLAIR is listed as 47-million square feet, including its extra-long runways and 173 acres of taxiways; 19 acres for hangars; 262 acres for terminals and plane parking; and another 1,000 acres for miscellaneous uses.

The unit cost for FLAIR, Professor Salvadori says, would be $30 a square foot, many times the cost of conventional airports, but he listed several compelling reasons for an off-shore airbase:

Land for new airports or the expansion of existing airports near big cities is difficult to obtain without great social problems. New over-land flight patterns would only add to the traffic congestion over airports, and to the danger of mid-air collisions. Noise and air pollution from aircraft can only be lessened by moving the airfields away from residential areas.

THE FLAIR PROJECT was designed to solve these problems at a reasonable cost, and within the present state of the engineering arts.

In the preliminary plans for FLAIR, Professor Salvadori says, the basic materials are reinforced and prestressed concrete, and structural steel.

The surface of the floating platform consists of concrete slabs, precast and partially prestressed, each about 16-feet square and weighing 22 tons. The slabs fit into the structural steel grid which supports the deck.

The deck structure itself rests on steel columns, which transmit the load to buoyancy chambers below. And the chambers, in turn, act as a continuous "elastic foundation mat" to support the columns.

The buoyancy chambers, made of reinforced concrete, are connected to form an egg-crate-like grid system which is covered by spherical domes of concrete. The positive buoyancy of the chambers keeps the airbase afloat. The structure is anchored to the sea floor by taut mooring cables sunk into very heavy mass anchors.

THE FLAIR DESIGN minimizes vertical and lateral movements from wave motion, and nearly eliminates drifting caused by wind, currents and tides. This stability enables planes to land even in high seas.

The only thing not covered in the preliminary design is the airport-to-shore transit systems, which could employ such vehicles as hovercraft, regular ferry boats, hydrofoils, helicopters or vertical landing and take-off planes (VTOL's). Unhindered by road congestion, and able to strike out for any point along the shore, these craft offer a versatile airport-to-shore transportation system.

But that is the only major point not covered in the preliminary design of FLAIR, a concept for a floating airport that can be built tomorrow, with existing materials and technology, to ease aviation's severe growing pains.

PS bows to objections, will relocate 2 towers

Public Service Electric and Gas Co. said this week that it would relocate two cooling towers as its proposed Newbold Island Nuclear Generating Station in Bordentown Township.

The tower locations will be changed, the company said, to comply with the requests of the President's Advisory Council on Historic Preservation and the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission. The towers will be relocated along the eastern property line of the proposed site or in an area which would be acceptable to all parties concerned.

2 programs announced by Stevens

A six-week program in mathematics and computer programming for 70 high ability high school students will be held this summer at Stevens Institute of Technology. A program for 30 students will be conducted on Saturdays next fall.

The two programs are supported by a $24,600 grant from the National Science Foundation and by funds allocated by the college.

The summer program, directed by Dr. Myron E. White, associate professor of mathematics, will begin June 28. The fall program is scheduled for Sept. 12.

The students, from high schools throughout the United States, will study introduction to modern mathematics including linear algebra, Boolean algebra and logic, and introduction to computers and programming, using the PDP-10 at the Stevens Computer Center.

The summer program is open to male students in grades 10 and 11 who have completed two years of algebra and one year of geometry. The students must be nominated by the head of the mathematics department at their high schools.

Students who have participated in past summer programs had PSAT percentile scores exceeding 95 in mathematics and 94 in verbal.

The Saturday program, which will end May 17, 1971, is open to boys and girls in grades 9 and 10 who have completed two years of high school level mathematics.

Applications for the summer program must be submitted before March 15. The Saturday program applications must be in by April 15.

In its original announcement about the project, the company indicated that it intended to build four cooling towers on the site to avoid any thermal effects on the Delaware River and to comply with the wishes of the Delaware River Basin Commission.

The Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission had voiced objections to the towers in recent months because they were in full view of visitors to Pennycuik Manor, once the home of William Penn, directly across the river from the Newbold site.

At the Feb. 5 hearing before the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation in Washington, D.C., the company was asked by council members to relocate or redesign the 400-foot towers. The council voiced no objection to construction of a nuclear plant on the island. Cost of the relocation is estimated to be $4.2 million.

Teenagers comment on 'how to treat children'

The Springfield Teen Council this week issued the latest of its reports on topics of interest to local young people.

The question asked this week was, "If you were a parent today, how would you treat your children?"

Mitch Wolff feels that if he were a parent there wouldn't be any changes in the treatment of his children as to the control his parents have over him. Perhaps he would be a bit more lenient on curfews for the week-end.

Tony D'Uva says, "As a parent I would not force my children into something that he or she would not like, I would, though, try to get them interested in something—if not school, music or something else, I would not be a strict father but I wouldn't spoil them."

Myrtle Busin says that, first of all, she would have complete trust in her children because she would know that she had brought them up right and they would be on their own. She would want to be very close to them. She would do the best she could for them but she would not spoil them.

Mary Lovett feels that she wouldn't change anything drastically. She feels that she is treated very well and one thing she would definitely not omit is the trust her parents have instilled in her. The only treatment she would change is that of the younger children. To her it seems that her younger brothers and sisters have been treated with more leniency. This she hopes not to do, but hopes to treat all her children with equal discipline. But, in general, she wouldn't change anything.

AN ANONYMOUS STUDENT says that he can't definitely say he would let his children do what they want because he's not in the situation. In past years he felt he would give his children complete freedom but recent years have given him a more adult outlook. Petty rules, such as a time to be home, would be treated with understanding as his own parents have done. He would deal with them the same way and let them form themselves.

Dale Scanger feels that she will raise her children in basically the same manner in which she has been brought up. She will be more lenient on where they can go. She will always demand to know where and for what purpose they are going to their destination. Contrary to her parents' thinking, she will not put any restrictions on how far they may go — their safety will be of prime importance.

Sharon Rubenstein says that if she were a parent today she would be liberal and expose her children to real life situations; however, she would teach them values. She would strive for a good relationship for example, if they did something wrong she would like them to come and talk it out with her so she could help them. Most important of all, she would always trust them and their opinions by not being overprotective, too strict or too lenient and by giving them responsibilities.

Another anonymous student wouldn't change a thing. She thinks her parents have done a great job in a tough situation. Most of her parents' opinions are hers and this had made problems a little easier. She just hopes she can do as good a job.

VIOLATIONS CHARGED — This picture was submitted to Bert Goldberg of 232 Lelak ave., Springfield, in support of charges of zoning violations which he submitted last week to the Township Committee. The picture was taken from Goldberg's back steps, looking toward adjoining property in a residential zone.

Lelak ave. resident asks: Enforce ban on junked cars in residential sections

The following statement, urging enforcement of local regulations to prevent storage of old cars on residential property, was presented to the Springfield Township Committee last week by Bert Goldberg of 232 Lelak ave.

He declared:

I wish to take this opportunity to register a complaint and a request for assistance on behalf of myself and my family. Not being a lawyer, I don't know if this complaint should have been sent to the Township Committee, the Planning Board, the building inspector, the Health Department, the fire commissioner or all collectively. I trust that when you look into this matter you will forward my complaint to the proper department or departments.

It has always been my understanding that all residents of Springfield are governed and protected by the rules, statutes or mandates as listed in our town laws. It is also my understanding that residential area rulings, as designated by the Planning Board, must be abided by in the same manner that the Fire Department has rules governing the burning of leaves, the Police Department has rules regarding parking on the street after 2 a.m., the Health Department has rules governing ragweed on property or rat-infested property and the police have rules governing snow removal. I am requesting that the township use all of its powers to correct the following situation that I will try to explain.

At this moment my family and I are faced with a situation over which we have no control and which is completely intolerable. One of our neighbors owns an adjoining piece of property which is zoned both neighborhood commercial on the front part of the property and residential on the rear of the property. On the neighborhood commercial property, a Texaco Gas Station and garage is being run in full accordance, as far as I know, with all the township rules set up for this type of business. On the residential portion of this property, our neighbor has seen fit to start a junk car graveyard which I believe is against the laws governing residential property. I am also enclosing a copy of an article attributed to the Building Department, which was printed in the Oct. 23, 1969, Springfield Leader. In this article, it was stated that according to township rule, no sales of used cars or storing of cars are permitted. My wife and I, and many other Lelak avenue residents, have appeared before the Township Committee many times to point out what we felt were encroachments upon or outright breaking of township laws.

I would like to try to describe to you what has been happening for the last two years. At that time the owners of the adjoining property decided to cut down all of the trees that covered the unused residential portion of their property. This area of their property was a nicely wooded section, which in the summer time was covered with beautiful green foliage giving shade and esthetic feelings to all who observed it. Since this property belongs to them and they were entitled to do with it as they chose, under the limitations set up by town rules, they chose to replace this greenery with a repulsive, disgraceful, unkempt area replete in ragweed, stumps and potholes that filled with water after each rain and became a haven for mosquitoes. Two years ago, I presented pictures to the Township committee for all to see and I personally invited one and all to come to look at the desecration that was wrought. I again, invite the mayor, the members of the Township Committee and any residents of our beautiful suburban town to come to look at this blight on our community.

As if this scene of desecration wasn't bad enough, sometime in January the owners of the adjoining property started to move junk cars into the residentially zoned area, in direct violation as advised by the building inspector. Approximately two weeks ago the complete area right up to our property line was covered with damaged, smashed and junked cars. I have gone to the expense of having a professional photographer take pictures of this area and they are enclosed for your inspection. I request that these photographs be shown to all parties concerned if they cannot or do not wish to come to 232 Lelak ave. to observe it in person.

I request that you instruct the proper township authorities to take immediate action to see that these cars are removed. In my opinion this graveyard for junked cars that has been set up is a haven for rats, mice and other creatures that could cause disease by their very presence and by the refuse they accumulate. I feel that the Health Department should be up in arms at this very moment. In my opinion the Fire Department should also be up in arms since this particular property has already been the scene of two recorded fires as advised by the Fire Department when we registered a complaint on Monday, Feb.

WHAT TYPE OF WINE DO YOU SERVE WITH SAUERBRATEN?

Many people have asked me which is the best type of wine to serve with German food. Inadvertently they ask for a Moselle or Rhine Wine.

The truth of the matter is that most German wines do not go well with German foods.

I would recommend a Burgundy type wine, which will compliment the food more so than any German wine.

When selecting a wine for any particular dish, consult our wine expert, Sandy.

1 1/2 c vinegar	4 bay leaves	2 Tbl. flour
1/2 c red wine	2 onions, sliced	1/4 c salt
1/2 c water	18 whole cloves	1/3 c ginger snap
2 Tbl. sugar	1 1/2 Tsp. mustard seeds	1/3 c rumble
1 Tsp. whole black peppers	1 Tsp. salt	1/2 c commercial sour cream
	4 lb. boned rump or chuck pot roast

Two to 4 days before serving — In large bowl, make thyme/marinate: Combine vinegar, wine, water, sugar, 1/2 tsp. whole peppers, bay leaves, 3 onions, 12 cloves, 1 Tsp. mustard seeds and 2 Tsp. salt. Set meat in marinade; refrigerate, covered 2-4 days, turning meat each day. On the day — Remove meat, reserving marinade; dry meat well on paper towels. Combine flour, 1 1/2 Tsp. salt, spick pepper. Use to coat meat on all sides. In hot fat in Dutch oven brown meat well on all sides — about 15-20 minutes. Add 3/4 cup of reserved marinade. 1 sliced onion, 1/2 tsp. mustard seeds, 6 cloves, 1/2 tsp. whole peppers. Simmer, covered, about 3 1/2 to 4 hours or until meat is fork tender, adding 1/4 cup marinade if needed. Remove meat to hot platter, slicing it first if desired; keep warm. Strain drippings from Dutch oven into a glass measuring cup. Let stand two minutes to settle. Pour off all except bottom 1/3 cup drippings; return these to Dutch oven. Stir in crumbs. Slowly stir in 2 cups strained reserved marinade (add water if necessary). Cook, stirring, until thickened. Stir in sour cream; heat, but do not boil. Season if necessary. Spoon some gravy over the meat; pass rest. Makes 6 to 10 servings.

The ultimate in mobility Student's sea-land house cited

If Samuel W. Valenza Jr., and his family decide to set out to sea in the mobile home they now live in, they'll sink.

But Valenza has developed an idea which may eventually make it feasible to set out to sea in a house trailer. The 34-year-old college junior has just won a prize from Yachting Magazine for designing a seaworthy mobile home.

Valenza, an applied mathematics major at Rutgers College of South Jersey, won first prize in the magazine's houseboat design idea contest. His design fuses modern mobile home concepts with naval architectural requirements. He hopes the award will lead to a new career in industrial design.

Combining naval architecture and mobile home concepts came naturally to Valenza. He had studied for two years at the U.S. Naval Academy and now resides in a mobile home at the Cherry Hill Mobile Park with his wife, Dorothy, and their three daughters.

When he began work on his award-winning design, Valenza found that the size restrictions on mobile homes, made necessary by various roadability requirements, do not exist for waterborne types of shelter.

This led him to design a mobile floating home, which he describes as a "Connectable Module Houseboat," made up of interchangeable parts. His main design calls for a single unit houseboat sleeping six, with a choice of diesel or gas propulsion. Diesel propulsion will give speeds up to 12 knots, and gas up to 30 knots.

Valenza's design can also be adapted for purchase without power, to be towed or moved on pontoons.

By adding pilings on concrete columns, the unit also can be adapted to use on a tidal flat or even on a mountaintop. In the desert, it can be carried on "dune buggy" type wheeled vehicles. With various options, the unit expands to comfortably sleep up to 18 persons.

Manufacturing costs were foremost in Valenza's mind during the developmental stages of the houseboat. Several inquiries have been made to produce the design, which will be published in Yachting Magazine later this winter, but the Rutgers student has turned them all down for the present.

Alumni unit to hear talk

Dr. Samuel B. Richmond, nationally known consultant and lecturer, will be the principal speaker Wednesday at the annual Dean's Day program of Seton Hall University's Business School Alumni Association. The event will be held in the Galleon Room of the Bishop Dougherty Student Center on the South Orange campus.

Dr. Richmond's topic will be "The Quantitative Revolution—The New Breed of Managers." He will discuss some non-technical approaches to the problems of business decision-makers who have been hampered by the almost overwhelming array of fact-bearing data as a result of computerization. Dr. Richmond is a professor of management science at Columbia University. He resides in Englewood.

Dr. Robert Senkier, dean of the School of Business Administration, will be moderator for the program. Frank (Pepp) Saul of Livingston is dinner chairman. Reservations may be made through the Alumni Office at Seton Hall.

Ecologist named to new position at Public Service Co.

Clyde C. Ruffe has been appointed director of environmental affairs for Public Service Electric and Gas Co.

"In this capacity," said Edwin H. Snyder, chairman of the board, "Ruffe will supervise the activities of a new department of the company. This group will continuously monitor all phases of company plans and operations to determine their effects, if any, on the environment and will direct efforts toward elimination of any undesirable effects."

"In addition to the specific problems of air and water pollution, the environmental group will be concerned with the broader subjects of aesthetics, conservation, and ecology. The appointment of Ruffe will enable us to coordinate our efforts toward environmental improvement—a field in which we have been active for many years."

Public Service has been combating air pollution since 1932 when an electrostatic precipitator was installed at its Burlington Generating Station to remove fly ash. Since then, every coal-burning installation in the system has been similarly equipped. In its latest action, the company announced that it was switching from the use of coal to low sulfur oil at its Bergen and Hudson Generating Stations. When this conversion is complete, fly ash output will be cut 80 percent and sulfur dioxide output 50 percent below 1966 levels throughout the company's system.

Snyder pointed out, however, that "the ability of our environment to cope with the discharge from an increasing number of fossil fuel burning plants is limited and emphasis is now being placed on nuclear power generation for new installations."

A number of consultants are working with the company to make certain that the nuclear installations will have no adverse effects on their surroundings, according to Snyder.

Automatic timers are used for convenience, freedom

Automatic timers can mean more freedom, convenience and safety in various areas of your home, says Carolyn F. Yuknus, Senior County Home Economist.

These small timer appliances can start and stop many other appliances at a given time, even in your absence.

In general, the operation of an electric timer is involved with a clock. These timers need to be plugged into an outlet, one hand is set at the time the action is to start, another hand set at the time the current that is operating another appliance is to go off, and another indicator is set at the correct time; and finally, the appliance is plugged into the timer.

Portable timers can be used for many things. They can start an electric skillet for a slow cooking dish before you come home; can have the coffee perked when you awake; warm the baby's bottle before he cries; or wake you up to music.

Understitching sharpens edges in various garments

If you have ever wondered how a sharp edge or crease is maintained without excessive pressing, look for a variation of understitching as the secret, says Carolyn F. Yuknus, Senior County Home Economist.

Understitching is a construction technique that has different variations but adds greatly to the professional appearance of any garment.

As the term indicates, understitching is under a collar

Bold checks, plaids good for all year

Plaids and bold checks are favorite fabric designs for all year-round wear, reports Carolyn F. Yuknus, Senior County Home Economist. One of the beauties of these types of patterns is in the flow of the design as line matches line or block meets block. This progression of design does not just happen but must be planned before cutting.

The first step toward success for these materials is to select a simple pattern with few pieces or one especially designed for plaids or checks.

The next step is to make certain the fabric is absolutely straight in grain both lengthwise and crosswise. To achieve this true grain, particularly in wool, pre-shrinking is usually necessary. In pre-shrinking, not only is the shrinkage taken care of, but the crosswise grain is straightened.

Depending on the type of plaid or check, it is usually easier in the long run to cut out the pattern on a single layer of material with the right side up. This technique means that one piece of the pattern will be cut with the printing on the pattern facing up and the second piece will be cut with the printing facing down. Although this method takes more time, it is easier to match the design correctly.

Match the design at the stitching line. Although notches help to locate the place where the design matches, actual matching is 5/8-inch in from the edge.

After all the pieces are cut and marked, a different technique is required for joining pieces. Even though lines meet at cut edges, they will be slightly off at the stitching line. Therefore, to have a perfect seam of matched lines or blocks, the matching must be done at the stitching line.

The best way to achieve perfect matching is to first press in the 5/8-inch seam allowance on one edge to be joined. Next, lay the pressed edge over the matching cut edge to the depth of 3/8-inch and pin in place.

The two edges must be basted together, not in the usual basting manner, but by doing edge basting. This is done by just catching the pressed edge to the material in small stitches. By doing this type of basting, the seam is not held flat and can be stitched as a regular flat seam on the inside.

Pinning or regular basting will not prevent matched plaids or checks from slipping as a seam is stitched. After stitching, remove the edge basting before pressing.

Another use for portable timers can be to turn lights on to avoid coming home to a dark house. Or the glow of soft light after a weary or trying day helps to make home-coming even better.

Timers can also be hooked up to turn lights on and off when you are on vacation or away for the weekend. Such a security measure can be helpful in deterring intruders.

There are also timers that operate by light-sensitive cells, either separately or in combination with a setting device. These light-sensitive cells will turn either indoor or outdoor lamps on at dusk and off at dawn, or the combination timer can turn them off when you wish.

Another type of timer is specially designed to operate air conditioning units. These timers make it possible to turn on the unit before you get home after a hot day and walk into a cool rather than a hot, stuffy house.

As with any appliance, look or edge and is out of sight. Understitching may be done by machine or by hand depending on the type of material and design of the garment.

The most frequent application of this technique is in collar construction and is important in the final rolled appearance. After the top collar has been attached to the under collar or facing collar, the outer seam joining the collar section is the seam to be understitched.

Stagger cutting of the seam allowance edges of the two collar sections and the interfacing to have a finished graded seam allowance of about 1/4 inch. For cotton or man-made fabrics, this outer seam can be machine stitched on the inside of the under collar, thus having a row of stitching showing along the edge of the under collar but not noticeable on the top collar.

The same technique is used on the facing side for sleeveless or collarless designs and is important for keeping facings in place without puckering or additional tacking.

For garments made of wool or other bulky fabrics, the principle of understitching may be applied.

On coats and suits, understitching is done by hand with a small invisible backhand stitch either from inside the collar or facing or from the outside closer to the under edge.

Understitching may also be a decorative touch in the form of hand-picking. For this application, use buttonhole twist or embroidery floss thread and make the backhand stitch as small or large as desired. This hand-picking is done by hand from the outside and the stitches will show on both sides.

CDA Court is extended

The 225,000-member Catholic Daughters of America, with representation throughout the United States, including the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico and the states of Hawaii and Alaska, has extended its membership into the Dominican Republic.

The announcement was made by Miss Mary G. Kanane of Union national regent, and a judge of the Surrogate's Court of Union County. Miss Kanane said that it was organized by Mrs. Maria Teresa A. Ierregui of Santurce, Puerto Rico.

The new court has 51 charter members and the grand regent is Mrs. Mafalda R. Harper. The court's name, Primada de America No. 2011, means that in Santo Domingo, the first Catholic Church in America was established.

Mrs. Ierregui said there are 3,000 members in 35 local courts, it was reported by Miss Kanane.

Miss Kanane presided at a semi-annual meeting of the national board of the organization in San Juan, Puerto Rico, Feb. 27 to March 1.

Plans for the 33rd biennial national convention were finalized. The convention is set for July 19 to 23 in Seattle, Wash.

Glamour plants

Many foliage and flowering plants are suitable for glamorizing the decor of modern bathrooms. Such clay-potted flowering plants as orchids, begonias, fuchsias, anthuriums, African violets and gardenias will enhance any bathroom color scheme. And, to change the pace with greenery, try dracaena, maidenhair ferns, ivy and peperomias.

Fresh ham can provide a juicy dish

Have a menu change of pace with fresh ham, suggests Anne L. Sheelen, County Home economist.

Fresh ham is a pork cut which provides a flavorful and juicy main dish. It may be purchased with the bone in or with the bone removed and the roast rolled and tied. The advantage of the boned roast is that it is easier to carve. Appearance of pork serves as an important guide to quality. Choose a fresh ham which has a high proportion of lean to fat and bone. The flesh should be firm and fine textured. The color of the lean may range from a grayish pink to red. A younger animal will tend to be more grayish pink in color.

For a top quality fresh ham, purchase one that is three pounds or more. A smaller one will dry out during cooking. Allow one quarter to one half pound boned per serving, and one third to one half, bone-in, per serving.

Pork cooked at low to moderate temperatures is generally more tender, juicy and flavorful than pork cooked at high temperatures.

Census Bureau opens office; 400 workers to be trained

Uncle Sam will again be counting heads with a taking of the census which got underway last week. In Union County the headquarters for census operations is located in the Elizabeth Carter Hotel in Elizabeth. Persons interested in working on the census may contact the district office for information and advice.

About 400 crew leaders and census takers will be selected and trained. Detailed arrangements will be made to enumerate people in institutions, jails, hospitals, colleges, and places other than in homes, all in preparation for April 1 when the actual enumeration begins.

District manager of the census office is Mrs. Barbara Claman of Westfield.

Beginning March 28, mail carriers will deliver census questionnaires addressed to each residence in this census district. These are to be filled out and mailed back on April 1. A brown, postage-free envelope will be enclosed with each questionnaire for this purpose. No census taker will call at households from which completely filled out questionnaires are returned.

There are 241 other census districts throughout the country where this method of enumeration will be used. The Census Bureau estimates that about 60 percent of the U. S. population live in these districts, which for the most part, include the larger cities and their suburbs.

There are 181 other census districts where the remaining 40 percent of the population live. These districts include the rural areas and smaller cities and towns. Households in these districts will also receive their questionnaires in the mail and will be asked to fill them out, but to hold them for census takers who will call to pick them up.

The Census Bureau says that having the questionnaire in the home for several days gives the family time to assemble information about each member of the household, thus speeding up the census and providing a curate statistics.

PUC tells Pennsy to open the doors of its waiting areas

The Penn Central Railroad has been served a show cause order by the Public Utilities Commission pertaining to the closing of waiting rooms at the Elizabeth station.

The PUC ordered the railroad to show cause at a formal hearing today why the waiting room of the Elizabeth Penn Central Station should not remain open at all times.

The railroad had closed its waiting rooms for certain periods during the week while the PUC was considering such a request. The railroad had claimed that the Department of Transportation and the PUC had no jurisdiction in the matter.

The Penn Central was later ordered to reopen its waiting rooms pending the outcome of today's hearing.

PUC commissioner Anthony J. Grossi said the railroad's action "is indicative of their complete and flagrant disregard of the public necessity and convenience. Even if we have to fight the question of jurisdiction in the courts, the railroad and the public will know that the PUC commissioners are concerned about the public welfare."

Trustees approve a shift in direction of policy for Drew

The Drew University board of trustees has approved a new policy direction for the 103-year-old institution. The governing board of the Madison institution also heard of the successful completion of the Centennial Campaign for the Sciences, an effort to raise $3,21 million for Drew's new Hall of Sciences.

As part of its review of Drew's plan for the future, the board approved President Robert E. Oxnam's report that it will be "essential for the future of Drew to develop as a university of academic distinction in northern New Jersey." This means, Dr. Oxnam said, that "the university will seek new means of relating academically and culturally to the surrounding region."

The board also approved Dr. Oxnam's assertion that "the first essential is to grow in strength as a university of academic distinction, a center of liberal and humane learning." He explained that "as such, the university will embrace programs in undergraduate, graduate, and graduate-professional studies where instruction is the focus, and where both research and the application of knowledge are important in support of the instructional process and in their own right."

"The university," the board agreed, "therefore reaffirms its primary commitment to strengthening in concert the College of Liberal Arts, the Theological School and the Graduate School."

The board action follows approval in principle, by the Committee on Long-Range Planning, of Dr. Oxnam's intention to develop "a unique small university of national reputation and regional relevance." The faculty and then the board will next consider specific program proposals based on this policy direction.

Added to the board at the meeting were Winthrop C. Lenz, chairman of the executive committee of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, Inc., and Douglas R. Nichols Jr., president of Nichols Far East, Tokyo, and chairman of the Board of Neptune Microfilm, Corvallis, Ore. These are the 15th and 16th new members to the Drew board since a revised charter of the University allowing broader board membership was approved by the state last summer.

Agency coordinates education facilities

Dr. Mackay submits report to freeholders

What is a Coordinating Agency for Higher Education? That question is answered in great detail in the annual report of Dr. Kenneth C. Mackay, executive director of the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education, submitted to the Union County Board of Freeholders, Union County has the only such agency in New Jersey and perhaps in the nation.

It is the means by which Union County made immediate use of two existing educational institutions, Union College, Cranford, and Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, "to secure for the residents of the county the services and facilities of a community college," Dr. Mackay explained.

The agency, in addition to coordinating the facilities of the two schools for the maximum service of the citizens of Union County, collects state, county, and federal educational allowances, and in accordance with contractual arrangements made with each institution, reimburses those institutions for services rendered, Dr. Mackay said.

THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR explained that the relationship of the agency to the two institutions it utilizes is supervisory, advisory, and visitatorial, but "clearly the relationship is not managerial."

"The agency has the supervisory responsibility to assure itself that the monies for services and support it makes available shall be expended for purposes and programs approved by the agency," Dr. Mackay said. "It is advisory in the sense that it can recommend to the two institutions programs and courses to meet the needs of the county."

"Basically, the visitatorial role of the agency is to take an overview of present and future higher educational needs of Union County and then through recommendation, encourage the provision of such offerings in the two institutions, providing just compensation for services rendered. Sensitivity to the needs and rightful development of Union County and coordination of the existing educational resources are each essential elements in the proper functioning of the agency." The executive director said the agency in the past year undertook a number of activities to ascertain the needs of Union County and to implement programs to meet these needs. Its first project was a questionnaire mailed to a thousand civic and educational leaders of Union County.

"The questionnaire was done to achieve an overall perspective on county needs, their scope and urgency," Dr. Mackay said. "The responses to this questionnaire were analyzed and a report on these findings distributed earlier this year. The questionnaire enabled citizens of Union County to express their concerns to the agency. These findings have been turned over to the two institutions for their guidance in determining programs and courses to offer."

THE AGENCY LAST MAY sponsored a

Bank plans to open new branch office

First New Jersey Bank has announced plans to open its second branch office this month. The Union Township-based bank, which opened its New Providence office last month, will open its newest office Friday, March 13, at 1030 Raritan rd., Clark.

Formal opening ceremonies in the temporary offices will be held Saturday, March 14, at 10 a.m., when Cheryl Carter, the retiring Miss New Jersey, will cut the ribbon. Various state, county and local dignitaries have been invited to attend.

Persons opening checking or savings accounts with deposits of $100 or more will have a choice of six gifts—a Corningware set, a broiler-toaster oven, a corn popper, a tool set, a golf umbrella or a manicure set. In addition, all children accompanied by a parent will be given free balloons and lollipops.

Trailside offers data for starry-eyed callers

Call Trailside for Sky Information, a new service for the people of Union County, has been initiated at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation.

Persons interested in information on the skies may call 232-5930 every day, except Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Information to be given out includes the times of the rising and setting of the sun and moon, the visible evening and morning stars and other data concerning the daily changes in the sky.

meeting of persons representing nursing, medicine, social agencies and related health services to discuss the problem of the shortage of registered nurses. As the result of the meeting, a study was made by Miss Suzanne Law, director of nursing education at Perth Amboy General Hospital, and distributed throughout the county in November.

"Feeling that coordination of all county activities in higher education was, if not a legal responsibility, at least a desirable goal, the agency has sponsored several conferences which have brought together representatives of Newark State College with those of Union College and the Union County Technical Institute," Dr. Mackay said. "Particular thanks are due Dr. Nathan Weiss, acting president of Newark State, for his enthusiastic support of this venture. These meetings, now placed upon a regular schedule, have already resulted in improved admission and transfer practice, planned exchange of facilities and better understanding of one another."

Among other activities of the agency during the past year was a two-day visit to Baltimore Community College by five agency people to study the urban programs there, meetings with civic and community groups, with representatives of the Metropolitan Regional Council, with state officials, with freeholders, with municipal representatives and those from nearby colleges and universities, and other citizens "interested in making the Union County programs in higher education more responsive to community needs."

"THE AGENCY ALSO FEELS that it has a responsibility to keep the freeholders and other county officials informed of important developments in the field of higher education, to be intelligently informed of state and federal developments in higher education, to interpret their effect upon the county, and to assist in providing state and county officers with such information as may be requested," the executive director said.

"Through frequent distribution of reports and a newsletter the Agency plans to supply concise and regular information to freeholders and others, and through continued use of the questionnaire form already employed the agency will seek continually to determine the desires and concerns of the residents of the county. The art of communication need not be restricted within the academic walls; the agency itself can be a sounding board for the sentiments of the people of Union County. This is a function that fits well for the agency in its role not as manager, not as operator, but as coordinator."

James S. Avery of Scotch Plains, public relations manager, North East Region, Humble Oil & Refining Company, Pelham, N.Y., is chairman of the Coordinating Agency, Edward C. Weizer of Summit, partner, Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner & Smith, Newark is vice-chairman, and Mrs. Anna H. Grygotts of 1526 Bergen ave., Linden, a county and state PTA leader, is secretary-treasurer. Other members of the agency are: Robert P. Douglass of 5 Scotch Plains; George W. Kampf Jr., Elizabeth; Charles S. Mancuso of Hillside; Dr. Albert E. Meder Jr., Westfield; Hugo B. Meyer of Summit, and Dr. William H. West of Cranford.

Children's shows planned March 14

Stories by Dr. Seuss and Hans Christian Anderson and a musical composition by Olivier Messiaen will be interpreted through the medium of light by the Theater of Light of Saturday, March 14, at Theatre Six, Main street and Middlesex avenue, Metuchen.

In three performances, sponsored by the Theatre Six Community Council, the group will create structured compositions of light by combining live performers, shadow puppets, and music with such light techniques as large screen television projection and refracted, reflected, and projected images produced by specially designed pieces of projection equipment.

Two children's shows, at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., will include Hans Christian Anderson's "The Little Match Girl," narrated and with live performers, "Beyond Zebra," an alphabet of imaginary letters represented by imaginary animals, will feature shadow puppets created by Miss Jackie Cassen, director of the Theater of Light.

Presented in the evening performance at 9 will be "The Little Match Girl," without narration, and the premiere of "Quartet for the End of Time," based on the music of Olivier Messiaen, French organist and composer.

Nader to speak at Beth Ahm in second of lecture series

RALPH NADER

Ralph Nader, nationally famous spokesman for consumer protection, will present the second in a series of three "Balance Forum" lectures at Temple Beth Ahm, 60 Temple Drive, Springfield, on Sunday, March 15, at 8:15 p.m.

Nader is expected to address himself to his continued effort on behalf of the American consumer and the rights of the nation's consumers. Nader was born in Winstead, Conn. In 1955 he graduated from Princeton University and in 1958 received his LL.B. degree from Harvard Law School. He worked briefly as a research assistant at Harvard Law School before commencing his own research into questions affecting the rights of the consumer.

From 1961 to 1963, Nader was adjunct instructor in history at the University of Hartford, and in 1967 he taught a course at Princeton University.

His bestselling book, "Unsafe at any Speed," account of the designed-in dangers in American automobiles, was published in 1965. He has contributed articles to the Atlantic Monthly, the Nation and the Economist, and his articles appear frequently in The New Republic.

A temple spokesman said that Nader has been "continually in the forefront during the past few years leading the fight for consumer protection, having taken on the giants of industry on behalf of the consumer rights." Nader will speak on "Consumer Protection." "We expect the meeting to be very enlightening, providing new insight into the consumer rights situation that continues to confront the consumers of America," Mrs. Philip Meisel, series chairman, stated.

"Any questions regarding the role of the American consumer can be aired during the question and answer period following the talk. The question and answer period has proven to be the highlight of the lecture series."

The lecture will be held in the temple sanctuary at 8:15 p.m. Tickets for the lecture can be obtained at the temple office. For further information, readers can call the temple at 376-2987.

Mayor Evers invited those at the workshop to visit Fayette to see a "Community of Brotherly Love."

"We'll accept nothing else," he said.

THE WORKSHOP on inter-racial problems was sponsored by the Gray Committee, the Day session Student Council and the Psychology Club of Union College. More than 1,000 persons attended various parts of the all-day meeting. Mayor Evers described his boyhood in Fayette and the conditions of the town he now heads. He said his town has only one doctor and only one nurse and has no health clinic. Fifty percent of the residents are on welfare or are trying to get welfare assistance. The only industry is a saw mill.

Integration pledge made by Evers to workshop at UC

Integration will work, Mayor Charles Evers of Fayette, Miss., told a workshop on inter-racial problems Saturday at Union College, Cranford.

"We'll make it work," he told an overflow crowd of more than 800 persons in the Campus Center gymnasium. Mayor Evers not only made a fervent plea for integration, but he attacked hatred, discrimination and extremism by whites or blacks.

LEARNING NEW SKILLS — Joe La Gregor, left, manager of the 4 Seasons bowling alleys, Union, offers a few tips to 21-year-old Sue, one of a group of retarded young people who bowl there each week. Bowlers throughout the county recently contributed to a campaign in behalf of the Union County Unit, N.J. Association for Retarded Children.

Tourney benefits the retarded

League bowlers at 4 Seasons Bowling Lanes, W. Chestnut street, Union and at other lanes throughout Union County participated during the week of Feb. 15 to 21 in the "Beat Your Average" contest for retarded children. The contest was sponsored by the Union County Unit, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children as part of a state-wide tournament.

Semi-finalists will compete at their regular lanes the weekend of March 14 and 15, and finalists at the Caroller Lanes, North Brunswick, on Sunday, April 26, for prizes. Chairman of the Union County tournament was Mrs. Grace Logan of Springfield.

Volunteers collected an entry fee of $1 from each contestant, and the 4 Seasons Lanes had the greatest number of participants, Mrs. Logan, with her husband, J. M. Logan, captained the 4 Seasons Lane and reported that a thousand bowlers entered there.

The proceeds will help to support the Union

County Unit's programs for retarded people. They include pre-school classes, day care centers for children of school age who are not eligible for public schooling, and training programs for adults.

Recreation programs operated by the unit include day and residential camps for people of all ages and year-round social groups for young adults.

A bowling group of 20 children meets weekly at Four Seasons. Counseling is available to retarded people and their families.

Through the cooperation of the management of Four Seasons and the other lanes and the participation of the bowlers and volunteers in this tournament, the retarded of Union County will benefit, Mrs. Logan declared.

The office of the Union County Unit, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children, a United Fund agency, is at 562 Boulevard, Kenilworth. For information, readers may call 276-6792.
