Council approves a change in borough zoning ordinance

READING PROGRAM — Five groups of first graders are busily working on their reading program at Our Lady of Lourdes School. Mrs. Gordon Batten, first grade teacher, is giving one group a lesson in reading comprehension. A second group is listening to recording to phonic sounds. Another group is taking a vocabulary test following directions from a tape recorder. A third group is working with the SRA Reading Laboratory and the fifth is writing an exercise in language arts.

Special events held to support fight on drugs

Mayor Thomas Ricciardi, at the Borough Council meeting on Tuesday, proclaimed the week of April 22-29 as Drug Education Week in Mountainside. An educational program for all Mountainside residents and those in adjoining communities will "prove invaluable to all of us who are continuing to reach out, guide and enrich the lives of our young people. We urge everyone to attend," a spokesman said. The program is in conjunction with the Mayor's Advisory Council on Youth.

The second meeting of the series, to be held next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Deerfield School auditorium, will highlight the "Psychological and Psychiatric Effects of Drugs" and will be conducted by Dr. Arlene Shorer, who lives in Mountainside and is a graduate of the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania. She is a resident in psychiatry at Lyons Veterans Hospital.

The first meeting under the program was held last night. The topic was "Drug Identification and Physiological Aspects of Drug Addiction."

Speakers were Edward Guy, a former member of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, who is an investigator for the New Jersey

Registration on Monday for new Lourdes pupils

Sister M. Jane Frances, principal of Our Lady of Lourdes School, Mountainside, has announced that registration for the first grade and new pupils will be held Monday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the school. Health and baptismal records must be presented at registration, Sister Frances said. She also stated that pupils for grades other than the first must bring transfers and scholastic records.

Children in the first four grades are benefiting from a reading program which was begun this year, Sister Frances said. Each child is placed in a reading group according to his ability after extensive observation and testing.

She said, "For example, in the first grade there are children reading on levels from first to fifth grades. In this way individual help is given in the areas needed and a child is able to advance at his own rate. A child is moved from one group to another, or may read with two groups whenever advisable."

Sister Frances said that each child is encouraged to improve himself and that no comparisons are made within the class. She continued, "In this system there are no non-readers, no left-behinds; each child progresses through the many levels of reading."

This ungraded reading system requires careful preparation and observation by the classroom teacher. But the results are "children who like school, look forward to reading and feel satisfied with their progress," she concluded.

Parents of children who will be six years old before Dec. 1 can visit the school Monday at 10:30 a.m. to observe the ungraded reading system in action. If they want they can make an appointment with Mrs. Gordon Batten, first grade teacher, to discuss their children, the principal added.

Regional schools plan first hearing on new bond issue

The first of four public meetings to explain the proposed bond issue to expand and renovate the four high schools in the Union County Regional High School District will be held Wednesday, April 29, at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield.

The meeting will be held in the auditorium beginning at 8 p.m., according to Manuel S. Dios, president of the Regional Board of Education.

A special election will be held Tuesday, May 12, seeking voter approval of a $6,975,000 bond issue to finance the expansion program.

"The board urges all interested residents who desire all the facts concerning the referendum and the need for expansion to attend one or more of these meetings," Dios said.

The schedule for the subsequent public meetings is:

Tuesday, May 5, Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School, Clark; Wednesday, May 6, Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, and Thursday, May 7, David Brearley Regional High School, Kenilworth.

Playing for the parade will be the Highlanders Band from Gov. Livingston Regional High School.

Proposed expansion program a 'must' for future -- Dr. Davis

The high school students of tomorrow in the Union County Regional High School District will enjoy the benefits of what the Board of Education is proposing today, according to Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent of schools.

"Pre-school students and those now in the elementary grades would be assured of adequate space and continued quality education under the proposed expansion program the board is submitting to the voters in a special election on Tuesday, May 12," he said.

"If we fail to expand now, students ready to move on to one of our four high schools will be faced with more severe overcrowding than exists now. The district cannot continue to lease additional temporary classroom buildings, and it does not want to institute staggered or split sessions. It's not fair to the students."

Dr. Davis said that while some of the students in the high schools today won't enjoy the new uncrowded facilities because the building program would not be completed until the fall of 1972, those in the lower grades would.

"There will be more gym facilities. Cafeterias will be less crowded. Our libraries will be able to offer the students more than just books. There will be more opportunity for independent study. We will be able to get the students out of study halls and into classrooms where they belong. These are just a few of the advantages of expanded facilities," Dr. Davis said.

"I think it's important that the parents of pre-school and elementary grade youngsters know of the overcrowding and what we have proposed to do about it. This building program is designed to meet our most immediate needs and take care of the enrollment increase we expect in the next several years," Dr. Davis said.

The Regional District, which comprises Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield, has proposed to the voters a $6,975,000 bond issue to finance the expansion program.

Public meetings will be held in each of the four high schools to explain the plans to the public.

Westfield B'nai B'rith names Ross annual award recipient

Herbert Ross of 1606 Rising Way, Mountainside, will receive B'nai B'rith's "Man of the Year" award on Sunday evening, May 3, at Wieland's Steak House, Mountainside. The award is being given for citizenship, civic affairs, and humanitarian work.

Ross, who was one of the founders of the Westfield-Mountainside Lodge, served as its president for two years, and has been active in B'nai B'rith for 20 years. He is a member of the District Three board of governors of B'nai B'rith, District Three comprises Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Delaware, as well as New Jersey. He is also secretary-elect of the Northern N.J. Council of B'nai B'rith.

Ross served as secretary of Temple Emanuel, Westfield for several years and was editor of the temple bulletin for almost five years. At present he is an officer of the Men's Club. He has also served on the UJA and Israel Bond committees.

On a secular level, Ross headed a committee several years ago "To Increase the Scope of the Adams Telephone Exchange."

Other activities that Ross has been engaged in include the Boy Scouts. He has served on the committee of Westfield Troop 172. This year efforts are being made to establish a troop sponsored by Temple Emanuel. Ross is chairman of that committee. He also served as Boy Scout Webelos leader

This is the weekend for everyone to turn all clocks ahead an hour before going to bed Saturday night, in preparation for the advent of Daylight Saving Time Sunday at 2 a.m. For those in doubt, the old adage still applies: Spring forward and fall back.

Office zone vote draws 200 people

Mayor announces hiring of a new library director

By JANICE ADLER

A zoning ordinance creating restricted commercial areas neighboring Rt. 22 was passed by the Mountainside Borough Council with one dissenting vote at its meeting Tuesday evening at the Beechwood School. Opposition to the measure for new office zones arose during the public discussion period from some of the 200-member audience.

In other business, Mayor Thomas J. Ricciardi announced that the library board had appointed Mrs. Johanna Chen of Murray Hill to succeed Mrs. Emily Hoffarth as head librarian. Her term of office will begin May 8.

Mayor Ricciardi also commented on the controversy with the Regional High School Board of Education. He stated that the Regional District originally was formed to serve small country towns and that this was necessary for a good high school education at that time. "The Regional board has outlived its necessity for the community," he said. He then introduced Dr. Minor C. K. Jones, representative to the Regional Board of Education from Mountainside.

Dr. Jones stated that he opposes the May 12 Regional expansion referendum. He said that most members of the board are comparatively new and do not have the background he has. He added, "My primary interest is land." According to him, the 11-1/2 acres of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, are not large enough to expand the building to a proper size.

Dr. Jones reminded the public that the regular Regional Board of Education meeting will be Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Deerfield School. He also noted that public hearings will be held May 5 at Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School, Clark; May 6 at Gov. Livingston Regional, Berkeley Heights, and May 7 at David Brearley Regional, Kenilworth.

He mentioned that before the meetings "I hope to bring out a statement covering all points." He concluded, "The present plan will not benefit Mountainside or the public."

MAYOR RICCIARDI again appealed for volunteers for the Rescue Squad. He said, "The Rescue Squad is in dire need of volunteers. Anyone who is interested should contact Councilman William Van Blarcom."

Ricciardi made four proclamations. He declared April to be Cancer Control Month in Mountainside, May 9 was set as Fire Service Recognition Day, and May was proclaimed Senior Citizens' Month. Drug Education Week was proclaimed to be the week of April 22 to 29. He said that there is a narcotic problem in Mountainside: "We constantly have to be on the alert with our own children so that we can know the signs and what we can do with our own children."

Official approval was voted by the council to have the PTA Fair on May 9 from noon

2 council slates near completion

Although no one had filed petitions for local office as the Echo went to press, slates reportedly had been completed by both parties. The filing deadline is today for the June 2 primary.

Two Republican incumbents were expected to seek reelection. They are Louis Parent and William Van Blarcom.

Their Democratic opponents were expected to be John Palmer and Robert Jaffe.

BARGAIN DAY — Everett Perkins, president of the Senior Citizens' Club of Mountainside, and Mrs. Perkins (seated) buy their "two-fers" for the Mountainside Music Association's variety show from young Jackie Rhodes as her mother, Mrs. Howard Rhodes, observes the sale. Members of the Senior Citizens' Club were offered two tickets for the price of one to see "Once Upon a Party" to be presented by the MMA on May 1 and 2 at 8:30 in the Deerfield School auditorium.

Variety show by MMA to be presented in May

The Mountainside Music Association will present a variety show, "Once Upon a Party," May 1 and 2 at 8:30 p.m. in the Deerfield School.

Aden Lewis, an instructor at Newark State College, Union, will direct the show with Mrs. Fred Wilhelms. Lewis formed the Larkettes, a singing group of sixth, seventh and eighth grade girls from the Deerfield School. He also is director of the Union County PTA Chorus.

A former music teacher in the local schools, he is a graduate of Frostburg State College in Maryland and is studying for his doctorate at Columbia University. Lewis has published original choral arrangements, and his "African Noel" was recorded by the Johnny Mann Singers. He has written the musical arrangements for the variety show.

Mrs. Wilhelms is the daughter of the late Fred Sleckman, who had his own orchestra which performed throughout the county. Her husband is a former mayor of Mountainside.

The MMA has contributed many gifts locally in the field of music. At the last meeting it was voted to give a copying machine, tape recorder and tympany tuning gauges to the music department of the Mountainside school system.

The High School Choral received a gift of $500 to defray expenses for a tour they are planning to South America. Albert Dorhout, music director of Gov. Livingston Regional High School, will lead the tour.

There will be two $100 awards for Mountainside students graduating in June who plan to study either music or art.

The Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside received $200 from the MMA. The group has also decided to adopt an American Indian child through the Save the Children Federation.

Virginia State College received $500 for its students, to be applied at the discretion of the dean of the music department. This group performed in Mountainside last year under the sponsorship of the MMA.

Tickets for the variety show can be purchased at the door or from any member of the MMA.

Senior citizens get bargain rate

"Two-fers," show tickets for two persons for the price of one ticket, are being offered to members of the Mountainside Senior Citizens' organization by the Mountainside Music Association. Mrs. Howard Rhodes, MMA ticket chairman, will visit the Senior Citizens' bi-monthly meeting today to invite the members to view the variety show, "Once Upon a Party," at the Deerfield School on either Friday or Saturday night, May 1 and 2.

"We hope other organizations in town will follow our lead. We think Senior Citizens merit our recognition and respect and this is one way we can demonstrate how we feel," Mrs. Rhodes noted that a number of club members have regularly seen the MMA shows and she hoped those new to town "treat yourselves to a G-rated show — 'G' is for Great!"

She added that the return of Aden Lewis, former Music Coordinator of the Mountainside schools, continues an unbroken record of co-directing with Jeanne Wilhelms. "This assures you an evening of true variety—a bit of nostalgia, humor, romance and bouncing songs by a cast of 70."

AWARD OF THANKS — Grant Lennox (center), president of the Mountainside Board of Education, thanks Mrs. Marjorie Bradshaw for her service to the Board as Abe Suckno looks on. Mrs. Bradshaw and Suckno were defeated in their bids for reelection and received plaques commending their work while serving as members.

Cancer Crusade aides collecting contributions

Harold Liebeskind, Cancer Crusade chairman of Springfield, and Arthur Caprio, vice-chairman, have announced that all district captains and block leaders have begun to collect contribution envelopes. They added, "The successful completion of this collection is more easily said than done. Unfortunately, during the past few years the township of Springfield has averaged cancer fund contributions that approximate 40 cents per family. This is extremely difficult to understand, particularly when monies collected are directed to such a worthwhile research and educational program."

Both chairmen expressed the belief that "this poor community participation is not related to the lack of interest and/or concern by the families of Springfield."

They continued, "We believe that this poor response was no doubt due to the inability of the Union County Cancer Society to personally approach many of the families in our community. This major problem has been eliminated during the 1970 cancer fund raising campaign."

"We have had the opportunity of obtaining the complete cooperation of more than 280 workers who are actively engaged in door-to-door collections and in distribution of Cancer Crusade educational literature. This wonderful display of the many men and women willing to help in Springfield has resulted in covering virtually every block in town by one or more Cancer Crusade workers."

"The ultimate success of this Cancer Crusade fund drive is directly related to these volunteers, who are giving up their leisure time to solicit the financial aid of each Springfield family."

They continued, "We cannot imagine that contributions of 40 cents per family will be repeated during this April fund drive. Some families may not have the ability to contribute because of pressing financial obligations. We are only asking that each family contribute in the best manner possible."

"If a family is not able to contribute, we urge that the literature concerning the warning signs of cancer be read from an educational point of view. The Cancer Crusade is primarily directed to assist each family in any way which best fits the interest of the household."

"Letters outlining the purpose of the Cancer Crusade have been sent to all business locations in Springfield, requesting contributions. Any financial assistance from our commercial neighbors will be sincerely appreciated. Each business is requested to return its contribution by using the self-addressed envelope included in the Cancer Crusade mailing."

Liebeskind and Caprio concluded, "We again urge you to contact the Cancer Crusade chairman and vice-chairman or your local district captains for further information."

TO THE PEOPLE—Harold H. Liebeskind (left) Springfield Cancer Crusade chairman, and A. Arthur Caprio, vice-chairman, are taking the drive to the people. Here they accept a donation from Mrs. Joseph Zuckerberg of Redwood roads her children, Ariene and Kenny, look on. The drive will continue until the end of April.

NIH THE SEARCH FOR HEALTH

A REPORT FROM
THE NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH
BETHESDA, MARYLAND

THE CLINICAL CENTER

An intriguing building tells an intriguing story. The building is the Clinical Center of the National Institutes of Health; the story, medical research. For in this huge structure one gets a glimpse of all that we mean by "investigating the possibilities for healthier, longer life."

In this single building, by scientists working amid the test tubes, computers, microscopes and instruments of their professions. The circular surgical wing of the Center contains a blood bank and operating rooms.

Filling one building with so many different occupations, which are also kept quite separate, is important because they all have the same aim.

Doctors at the Clinical Center are giving their patients the best possible care and treatment, while also studying them intensively, trying to discover besides care and treatment, greater knowledge of the fundamental cause of their diseases.

This kind of discovery depends upon detailed scrutiny of the material of which flesh, blood, bone and muscle are made. It depends upon a deepening understanding of the way these grow and function and upon a search for outside elements which can affect their growth or operation.

In short, the study of just one disease combines hundreds of highly specialized fields of endeavor. So, it is good sense and good economy of time and money to bring those specialties together where investigators can readily coordinate their skills and knowledge.

Art works on display Creations in metal and fabric

Two local artists were represented at the 31st National Conference on Religious Architecture held this week in Washington, D.C.

They are Maxwell Chayat of Springfield, a sculptor in metal, and Ina Golub of Mountain-side, a weaver and textile designer.

Chayat was represented at the conference by a sterling silver spice container used for Jewish ritual occasions. Mrs. Golub displayed a hand-woven rabbi's robe. The two items were among 42 chosen for display out of some 250 entries submitted.

Chayat, who has studios in Springfield and in Forestburgh, N.Y., has done many sculptural commissions for houses of worship.

A typical example of his work is a five-foot outdoor bronze Menorah at Congregation Beth El, South Orange.

At Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield, Chayat has done a 13-foot bronze sculpture, "Decalogue," as well as an aluminum facade Menorah. His work is also on display at the "Goldsmith '70" show now at the St. Paul, Minn., Art Center.

MOUNTAINSIDE DESIGNER — Hand-woven rabbi's robe by Ina Golub was on display this week at 31st National Conference on Religious Architecture, held in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Golub has won numerous awards for her work in hand-crafted textiles. She has executed commissions for Temple Beth Ahm and Temple Shalom in Springfield, for Temple Beth Tikvah in Wayne and Temple Israel in South Orange.

Her work includes ark curtains, Torah mantles and a wedding canopy. Her work deals primarily with Judaic themes, either as decorative hangings or ceremonial objects.

Mrs. Golub is a graduate of Montclair State College and has a master's degree from Indiana University. She has taught at Montclair State College and Newark State College and in various public schools.

Handicapped pupil needs assessment of work potential

The goals of an educational program for handicapped students should include maximum emphasis upon training for satisfactory work adjustment, according to Dr. Donald Merachnik, assistant superintendent for pupil personnel services in the Union County Regional High School District.

Writing in the current issue of "The Vocational Guidance Quarterly," Dr. Merachnik said: "Adjustment to the realities of the work world offer identity, strength, involvement, feeling of sameness, and feelings of wholeness for the handicapped students. Toward this end, the assessment of work potential becomes an important facet of the public school program."

He said the assessment of work potential in a handicapped population is based on many factors, including: individual diagnosis, specialized testing, exploratory work experience, an understanding of community agencies and their responsibilities, and parental feelings and attitudes.

Addiction expert discusses alcoholism, smoking, obesity

"In treating alcoholics, drug addicts, cigarette smokers or obese patients, tell it like it is. Don't duck the issue — don't be permissive. Lay it on the line." That was the advice of Dr. Richard C. Bates, specialist in addictions, who addressed the medical staff of Overlook Hospital at their annual dinner meeting last Wednesday night.

"There's only one decision to be made — and that's to kick the habit," he stated. "Stop, not cut down."

Advocating strong medicine — plus strong support — for the addicted from their personal physicians, Dr. Bates cited case after case in his experience with alcoholics, drug addicts, cigarette smokers and the overweight.

Only when threatened by loss of job, family break-up, institutionalization or serious illness are most addicts finally motivated to change, in Dr. Bates' opinion. For some it's too late.

He quoted statistics to the Overlook Medical Staff stating that there could be a one-third reduction in the nation's cost of health care if drugs, smoking, alcoholism and obesity were eliminated.

"These habits complicate almost every one of the first 10 causes of death in the United States and directly lead to many of them," he claimed. "Any compulsive habit carried to excess is a problem. The common thread with all these habits is that they are a humanly enjoyable activity — carried to excess."

"The real problem is that these are all diseases of affluence, not environmentally caused — the problem is people who pollute themselves," he stated.

HOW TO MOTIVATE the patient to "stay stopped"? That's the heart of the problem, in Dr. Bates' opinion. Unimpressed by scare techniques, he paid high tribute to the self-help programs with competitive goals, wherein the successful patient becomes a therapist for others.

He urged doctors to refer patients to groups such as Alcoholics Anonymous, TOPS, Weight Watchers, Synanon and Odyssey House drug centers as examples of shared and successful therapy.

"These groups represent reality therapy," he emphasized. "They are based on confrontation and shared experience. Nobody's fooling anyone. They are all cheap — and most are free. They involve no fund raising, no psychotherapy — simply sharing, strengthening through honesty, competition and sustained motivation."

He illustrated with cases of many of his own patients, unsuccessfully motivated through years, who had successfully lost weight through Weight Watchers.

An assistant clinical professor of medicine at Michigan State University, Dr. Bates described the unique and highly successful techniques of a Michigan hospital's alcoholic program which is compulsory for employees of a leading automobile manufacturing company.

Covered by health insurance, a problem drinker must accept compulsory admission, stay in hospital an average 10 days, and receive 30 hours of instruction. No stops are pulled as to loss of job if the patient doesn't straighten out.

Another special smoking clinic, at which 60 percent of those enrolled have successfully stopped smoking for two years, operates on an initial $25 charge with a pledge to stop smoking at the first lesson. One cigarette and they're out — an expensive lesson. The smoking clinic meets three times a week, two hours a night. All emphysema patients are routinely directed to the clinic.

The concept stressed in the smoking clinic is self-mastery. In stopping smoking, guilt feelings drop away and the patient develops appreciation for his own strength. Satire and nagging, as in the American Cancer Society television spots, seem to work for smokers, whereas they don't for alcoholics, in Dr. Bates' view.

Highlander nine wins two 5-3 games; falls to Clark on disputed decision, 6-5

By BILL LOVETT
Tackling three games in three days, the Gov. Livingston baseball team defeated Cranford and North Plainfield by 5-3 scores last week before being edged by Clark, 6-5, on a controversial play. With their record at 3-4, it appears that the Highlanders have finally gotten untracked.

McDonough: Alter law to form school budget review unit

Assemblyman Peter J. McDonough (R-Union) has introduced a bill to create a school budget review commission. "There is a wide-spread lack of public confidence in actions taken by the commissioner of the State Department of Education after school board defeats," McDonough said, "and when school boards and local governing bodies cannot agree on amounts to be certified to county boards of taxation."

finances for Highlander supporters — Gov. Livingston gave its best performance, in the field and at bat, of the season. That game could prove to be the launching pad for Regional's first winning season in a long time.

Not many teams can score five runs on one hit. Gov. Livingston did it, however, to beat North Plainfield. Two errors helped Regional in its five-run fourth inning, climaxed by Bill Trakimas' three-run homer. Scoring ahead of Trakimas were his twin brother Dick and Tom Wilson, Highlander hurler Doug Rau gave up two hits in raising his record to 2-0.

track team off to a poor start. The record is now 1-3, not surprising considering the relative inexperience of the squad, Regional's only victory came against Clark by a wide margin. Most recently, Gov. Livingston was beaten by Rahway, 74-52.

The Highlander's main strength has been in the half-mile, mile and two-mile where Jim Fairbanks, Guy Groves, and John Lee have started. Groves is undefeated in the half-mile; Lee has placed first three times and second once. Fairbanks, in his first full year of track, has taken a first and second and has shown promise in the mile.

Dwyer bill would ban unsolicited credit cards

WASHINGTON—Rep. Florence P. Dwyer (R-12th Dist., N.J.) has introduced legislation which would prohibit the unsolicited distribution of credit cards and limit the liability of consumers for the unauthorized use of such credit cards.

In a statement submitted to the Congressional Record, Congresswoman Dwyer told the House her bill generally resembles legislation now pending in the Senate and represents a comprehensive effort to protect credit card holders and other consumers from the dangers and costs of lost and stolen credit cards.

Her bill, Mrs. Dwyer explained, would:

- (1) ban the unsolicited distribution of credit cards;
- (2) limit an individual's liability for unauthorized use of his card by another person to $50;
- (3) require that credit cards contain a means by which the holder can be properly identified;
- (4) provide that a cardholder be adequately notified of his rights and liabilities; and
- (5) place upon card issuers the burden of proof of establishing the liability of credit card holders.

Under her bill, she said, companies may renew existing credit cards on an unsolicited basis if holders either originally requested them or actually used them.

Noting that the Federal Trade Commission recently prohibited the distribution of unsolicited credit cards within their area of jurisdiction and that the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee has reported favorably a bill to ban mailing of unsolicited cards under certain circumstances, Mrs. Dwyer pointed out that both actions would be limited in their application.

THE NEW JERSEY CONGRESSWOMAN, second-ranking minority member of the Banking and Currency Committee to which her bill has been referred, estimated that up to one million credit cards are lost and 300,000 are stolen each year.

Annual losses, she said, are estimated between $50-150 million, while credit losses to card issuers are estimated from two percent to six percent a year compared to an average loss of one-quarter of one percent in the case of conventional consumer credit.

Congresswoman Dwyer noted that the credit card "blizzard" has raised to $13 billion, as of June 1969, the amount of credit outstanding from the use of credit cards.

"Over 1,000 consumer credit card plans are now in existence," she declared, "involving hundreds of millions of cards, millions of consumers, and hundreds of thousands of businesses. The breadth of this operation has brought with it a series of extremely difficult problems and much personal hardship."

"Innocent victims have been hounded by bill collectors, threatened with lawsuits and jail, seen their credit ratings destroyed, and witnessed their employment placed in jeopardy. The emotional drain, the loss of time, the legal expenses thereby consumed are more than mere inconveniences to those who have been caught in the credit card trap; they are nightmares."

Plainfield praised by Urban League

The Union County Urban League this week commended the recent action of the City of Plainfield in passing an ordinance prohibiting discrimination in the sale or rental of houses.

"Although this act exempts rentals of rooms by owners who occupy a one-family dwelling and who don't use brokers who publicly advertise, it is tougher than the state laws," Leroy J. Coles, executive director, said.

"The essence of this act is to embody the best American ideas—to work for the equality of all and the end of hatred," Coles said. "Our housing department eagerly looks forward to the implementation of this act in its quality of enforcement."

"Further, this act points the way for the other 20 municipalities in Union County. The other towns in Union County have now been charged with responsibility by the fine action of the fathers of Plainfield."

It looks beautiful because Volkswagen doesn't build it.

Ask Volkswagen to build a small economy car. Fine.

Ask Volkswagen to build a big practical station wagon. Very good.

But ask Volkswagen to build a beautiful sports car?

Well, not even Volkswagen would ask Volkswagen to do that.

So we asked the Ghia Studios of Turin, Italy to design the body of our sports car, and the Karmann Coachworks of Osnabrück, Germany to build it.

The Karmann people attack our sports car the way they've been attacking things for the past hundred years: slowly and carefully.

The fenders are welded and shaped and sanded and burnished by hand.

And once the body is formed, they give the Karmann Ghia four coats of paint, including a rust-proofing zinc undercoat and a hand sprayed enamel color coat.

If it all sounds very complicated, it is.

But we can't afford to take any chances: When we tried to build a sedan, it ended up looking like a beetle.

We didn't want to make the same mistake twice.

Environmental control body is urged in county

The Young Republicans of Union County, Inc., this week urged the Union County Board of Freeholders to establish an environmental health commission to police pollution discharges by county governmental facilities and "to improve the county's role in reducing environmental pollution." The proposal was adopted at the group's county council meeting Monday in the Veterans Memorial Building, Rahway.

The organization also established an anti-pollution task force to strengthen anti-pollution efforts "on all levels of government," lauded the efforts of Freeholder William J. Maguire of Clark to lessen solid-waste pollution, approved appointments to standing committees, and announced the formation of the Rahway Young Republican Club. James J. Fulcomer of Rahway, the county Young Republican chairman, presided.

Declaring that "pollution threatens the health of mankind and requires integrated assaults by all levels of government," the Young Republicans stated that their proposed environmental health commission could better "coordinate and integrate" the anti-pollution activities of the different agencies and departments of the Board of Freeholders. They recommended that the commission consist of appropriate experts, community and youth leaders, and select freeholders.

"During 1970 the commission's first priority would be to formulate a comprehensive, integrated anti-pollution program to be implemented starting with the 1971 budget." According to Fulcomer, an environmental health commission already has been established by the Burlington County Board of Freeholders.

Appointments to the anti-pollution task force include: Fulcomer, chairman; Robert E. Rooney Jr., of 428 Durling rd., Union, co-chairman; Louis Bassano of 1758 Kenneth ave., Union; Donald E. Cook of Rahway; John Matzen of Summit, and R. George McCarthy of Elizabeth.

Appointments to the ways and means committee include Shirley Beck of 2266 Balmoral ave., Union, and Paul Penard of 39 Lyons ave., Springfield.

Thomas Heyns of 9 Burwell ave., and Helen Meisenbacher of 1170 Erhardt st., both of Union, were appointed to the constitution and by-laws committee.

Persons under 40 years of age interested in joining the club may send their names, addresses, and telephone numbers to Fulcomer at 384 Raleigh rd., Rahway, or call Rooney at 289-2325.

According to Stanley Grossman, industrial arts and vocational education coordinator for the Union County Regional High School District, Dayton received certificates for best in cabinet making and for outstanding graphic arts.

Scott Harm, Alexander Niwa and Randy Hinton received merit awards for their wood shop projects. Ronald Frank received an honorable mention.

Honorable mentions in this category were awarded to: Michael Braum, James Riccardi, Michael Popolillo, Bruce Rastzer, Frank Bucci, Joseph Rapuano, James Schoch and Daniel D'Andrea.

Albert Rothbard's metal shop and mechanical drawing students also received awards. Merit prizes went to: Bruce Rosow, Gary Glein, James Fitzgerald, Jose Hernandez, Vincent Burns, Kenneth Homish, Robert Lyons, William Schwartz and Sal Mucario.

Garmine Bove, Warren Schlepner, Mark Sherman, Richard Stender, Todd Daniels and Richard Manders received honorable mentions.

"I am particularly pleased to announce that the association's top prize, the Past President's Memorial award, to the outstanding project of the entire exhibit went to James Przyborowski, a senior at Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School," Grossman said. "James did a complete city planning project and developed all of the detail sheets and an air brush rendering of the project."

The Regional District's exhibit was awarded a certificate of recognition as the best exhibit in its class, according to Grossman, who thanked Metz and Gardella for their work.

ON STAGE -- These fifth graders in Mrs. Jeanette Aronow's reading class at the Edward Walton School, Springfield, recently presented a play, 'Franklin and the King,' for students at the school. The play recounted Benjamin Franklin's trip to England in an effort to have King George repeal unfair taxes on the American colonies.

ON THE JOB--Yeoman Seaman Steven C. Mueller of Mountainside accepts some paper work for processing as part of his job at the U.S. Naval Support Activity, Da Nang detachment Phu Bai, Vietnam. Mueller worked at the public works base until it was turned over to the Army on April 10.

Mueller helpsto keep alive Seabee tradition in Vietnam

DA NANG, Vietnam -- The "can do" reputation and recognition earned by the "Seabees" in the South Pacific jungles of World War II is being demonstrated by a new breed of "Seabees" (Navy Construction Battalion) in the Republic of Vietnam.

One of the new breed is Yeoman Seaman

Steven C. Mueller of Mountainside, N.J., who worked at the U. S. Naval Support Activity, Da Nang, detachment at Phu Bai, until it was turned over to the Army April 10 as part of the third increment of troop redeployment from Vietnam.

Mueller, son of Mrs. Leonard Fiore, 254 Bridge Path, Mountainside, is a 1966 graduate of Irvington (N.J.) High School and attended Bloomfield (N.J.) College for two years before entering the Navy in October 1968. He reported to Vietnam in May 1969.

While working at NSAD Phu Bai, eight miles southeast of the ancient imperial city of Hue, he aided in providing public works support (repair and upkeep) for Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine units around the Phu Bai Combat Base.

The 21-year-old sailor's job was helping with the clerical and administrative tasks of the public works base.

Operations began at Phu Bai in June 1966, when a group of Seabees arrived from Da Nang to support elements of the Third Marine Division. In the fall of 1968, the Marines advanced to other tactical areas and the Army moved in to become the detachment's major customer.

According to the detachment's officer-in-charge, the detachment's "professional and resourceful" can do approach to public works support in the Phu Bai area has been very beneficial. Those who received this Seabee support will not forget them nor their contribution to a "fight for freedom."

The men of the detachment will return to Da Nang for duty, for reassignment in the Republic of Vietnam or for redeployment in the U. S.

THIS WEEK'S HEALTH NEWS

Modern medicine has helped many sports "greats" stay in the game. In 1968, Denny McLain was relieved of a painful soreness in his right shoulder by an injection of cortisone. This shot enabled him to throw like the great athlete he is. Insulin has helped many diabetics continue their part in active sports rather than becoming invalids. Jerry Kramer, the Bay Packers' famous lineman has probably had more operations than any professional athlete in history. In his 32 years, he has had 22 operations. Twenty years ago the entire field of sports medicine was in its infancy. Today it's a field of specialty practice.

Modern medicine has helped all types of individuals.

The Silver Anniversary theme of the ball was carried out with

Blindness may result in spray war on bugs

It's that time of year again, when Americans reach into their home arsenals and launch their campaigns of chemical warfare against household dirt and garden pests. Don't let your efforts lead to tragedy, warns the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, by allowing an eye to become the unintended

War on ragweed now under way, conference told

If you usually begin to sneeze and sniffle around the middle of August you'll be happy to know that the annual battle against ragweed pollen has begun.

Also the campaign against ragweed as a general mess, a hiding place for rats and mice, and a refuge for flies and mosquitoes. The tiny but harsh ragweed pollen grains affect the health of 5 percent of New Jersey's residents, according to Archie Freeman, senior public health engineer with the State Department of Health.

And at least 20 percent of the population has an inherited ability to develop such allergies. So says Dr. William I. Weiss, attending physician in internal medicine and allergy, St. Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston.

Would you believe that a single ragweed plant can produce as many as 3,400 seeds? And that a seed that lies buried for 40 years can still germinate and grow into a healthy, prolific plant?

John A. Meade, weed control specialist at the College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, Rutgers University, says it's so.

These and other facts about ragweed came out during a conference last week at the college. More than 70 health officers, sanitarians, weed control specialists, road department workers, and health board members took notes to guide them in their battle ahead.

target of household chemicals. "Though eye injury is always a threat when chemical cleansers are with children's reach, modern packaging — particularly the aerosol and other spray containers — makes them especially attractive to children," says Wilfred D. David, M.D., executive director of the Society.

"Accident reports confirm that adults too often neglect safety precautions regarding accessibility of home chemicals to children," says Dr. David. "They may also ignore the simplest precautions for themselves — such as falling to note which way an aerosol nozzle is pointed before they spray."

The society urges this emergency treatment if caustic chemicals enter the eye: Flood the eye with water immediately, continuing for about 15 minutes. Hold the head under a faucet or pour cool water into the eye from a glass, pot, etc. Do not use an eye cup. Then call a doctor.

"Another danger of aerosol containers is their propensity for explosion," says Dr. David. "The National Commission on Product Safety has reported that pressure can build up in the cans causing them to explode with the force of hand grenades, shooting metal shrapnel. They are especially dangerous if overheated."

Never throw empty aerosol cans on a trash fire, warns the society. Even empty glass bottles thrown on a fire can explode and shower potentially blinding fragments.

Safety goggles or glasses are strongly recommended by the society for yard work and gardening, particularly if chemical pesticides or fertilizers are being used, or if pruning or mowing are on the agenda. U. S. Public Health Service figures indicate an estimated 100,000 injuries a year are caused by power mowers; and safety goggles are especially important for protecting the eyes from small stones and other objects thrown up by the power mowers.

Safety goggles, or safety glasses (and sunglasses) made up in your prescription, can be obtained from your local eye specialist or optical house.

Rutgers program to attract 2,500 science students

Following on the heels of Earth Day, the annual science program at the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, New Brunswick, tomorrow will give 2,500 high school students a chance to explore environmental research as a career.

The fever from Earth Day will still be running high, and a garbage sculpture built by students in the Rutgers Environmental Crisis Coalition is one of the exhibits sure to attract attention. The spring program at the college brings high school juniors and sophomores with special aptitudes for science to the college for tours, lectures, and discussions with Rutgers students and professors.

All departments at the college will welcome the students. They are inviting young visitors, for example, to take part in a food science taste test panel, tour Helyar Woods for a demonstration of forest ecology, and see a model system used to provide drinking water from contaminated sources.

Busloads of students from 90 schools will arrive early in the morning. First they will hear a welcome address by Leland G. Merrill Jr., dean of the college and then they will go on one of 13 tours.

Afternoon activities will include talks and opportunities for students to ask questions and explore particular areas of interest more thoroughly.

On Saturday alumni and friends of the college will participate in tours of educational and research facilities.

Lafayette names Chase provost, faculty dean

EASTON, Pa. — Dr. Robert S. Chase Jr. has been named provost and dean of the faculty at Lafayette College, effective July 1, it was announced this week by President K. Roald Berghen.

Dr. Chase, who has been a dean at Lafayette since 1968, will succeed Dr. Charles C. Cole, Jr., who will become president of Wilson College.

Homework tells parents what's doing

Homework has been called a number of things by a number of people. Now a college professor is calling it an effective way for teachers to communicate with parents.

"The only way some parents know anything about school is from their child's homework assignments," writes Dr. Clotilda Winter of Texas Christian University in the New Jersey Education Assn.

A poor homework assignment — one that frustrates the child and, sometimes, the parents — leaves a poor impression of the school, she writes. On the other hand, creative homework assignments build community respect for education.

"Parents would be happy," for example, "with an assignment that, on a weekend trip, kept children busy with highway maps, figuring mileage and distance, determining directions, and observing land and water formations along the way."

In making assignments, says Miss Winter, teachers should take account of home conditions. If the child lacks a place to study, the teacher should avoid assignments requiring quiet. If the home lacks reference materials, research assignments should be avoided.

The time needed to complete a homework assignment should vary but seldom should exceed 30 minutes, says the N.J.E.A. review article. "Don't waste the child's time requiring that he practice something he already knows."

"Be sure the child understands the purposes of the assignments and how to carry them out," Miss Winter advises. "They should be started in class so the teacher can be sure pupils know what to do, and how."

Teachers should check all assignments carefully, says the N.J.E.A. review. If the child needs more help, further assignments should be made accordingly. If a child has been absent and needs extra practice to help him catch up, the teacher should make sure child and parent understand what is to be done.

Homework is not for punishment. "Avoid giving homework assignments for disciplinary reasons," the N.J.E.A. review cautions teachers. "Any teacher who assigns homework as a disciplinary measure, exacting quantities of drill and meaningless busy work, perpetuates an outrage on the teaching profession. This is not teaching but exploitation."

NOTICE

Mr. Burt Lancaster

Learn the seven warning signals of cancer.
You'll be in good company.

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
5. Hoarseness or cough.

6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Change in a wart or mole.

If a signal lasts longer than two weeks, see your doctor without delay.

It makes sense to know the seven warning signals of cancer.
It makes sense to give to the American Cancer Society.

Voice box gone, but they learn to talk

County laryngectomees attend speech clinic

Every Monday evening at seven a group of Union County residents gathers in Shangle Hall at Elizabeth General Hospital to learn how to talk.

The lectures are laryngectomees and every week they attend the Speech Rehabilitation Center, jointly sponsored by the General Hospital and the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Voiceless due to the removal of a malignant larynx or "voice box," these people, like 20,000 laryngectomees across the country, must learn a totally new way to talk.

The Elizabeth Clinic was established 11 years ago through the urging of Robert Ardrey, the clinic's director. A laryngectomee himself, Ardrey found few facilities outside of Philadelphia and New York that offered speech therapy. He was instrumental in helping the hospital and Cancer Society to agree to sponsor the clinic for local laryngectomees, principally from Union County. Even today, similar speech clinics are rare outside of major cities.

Since 1958 more than 150 people have taken therapy at the Elizabeth clinic. Almost all have been from Union County. More than 90 percent have been men. The average age is early 50's. Most of them had been heavy cigarette smokers.

HOW CAN a laryngectomee talk? Briefly, he talks by swallowing air, burping it back up so that it bounces off the walls of the esophagus and causes a vibration. The vibration produces a sound which becomes a "spoken" syllable.

The learning process is long and tedious. For some it takes months, for others years. A few never really master it.

On a typical Monday night, the group—usually about 12—gathers around a table at the clinic with two professional therapists, Mrs. Eva Hubschman and Miss Nora Provenzano. They begin with a go-around of introductions. Many towns in the county are represented: Elizabeth, Roselle Park, Linden, Summit. Most are retired, some continue to work. Some were operated on over two years ago, others only a few months back.

The introductions come slow and haltingly, in a hoarse, gravelly voice. No matter who is talking, the voice is startlingly similar.

As one talks, the others are quick to correct and criticize.

"Can't understand you."
"Say it again."
"No one would know what you're talking about."

THE CRITICISMS FLY around the table in the best group-therapy manner. But when one has a lot of difficulty getting his first syllable out, his neighbor leans over to tell a visitor, "This isn't easy, you know."

It isn't easy. It takes a lot of effort and concentration and courage for a laryngectomee to learn to talk again. Aside from learning a new way to talk, he must also learn new breathing patterns. His nose and mouth no longer contribute to the respiratory process. Instead, all breathing is now done through an opening just above the breast bone, called a stoma.

To dramatize the independence of the nose and mouth in the respiratory process, a laryngectomee can keep a plastic bag over his head indefinitely.

The stoma leads directly to the lungs. Thus, the one restriction in activity for a laryngectomee: no swimming.

The senses of taste and smell are also often affected. Taste gradually returns. But smell, if it comes back at all, is never as keen as it had been previously.

For laryngectomees there are many adjustments to be made. The speech clinic fills a vital role in Union County, helping local laryngectomees make their adjustments a bit easier.

The Speech Rehabilitation Center is just one of the services the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society helps to provide for the people of the county. Support the Cancer Crusade with a checkup and a check.

Viet vets eligible for year enlistment in National Guard

Col. Herbert A. Mutz, commanding officer of the 50th Armored Division Support Command, headquartered at the Elizabeth National Guard Armory, on Magnolia avenue, has announced the opening of a drive to attract Vietnam veterans into the guard for one year.

The program is part of a nationwide effort and is called "Try One In The Guard." It provides for prior servicemen to enlist for one year in the grade that they held at the time of discharge from active duty.

Col. Mutz said, "although we do have competent citizen soldiers in our units now, we still need the military experience and leadership that these veterans can provide." He pointed out that the one year enlistment will give the veteran an opportunity to size up the Guard without over committing himself to any long term contract.

The program provides educational opportunities, direct commissioning as officers for combat veterans discharged in grade E-5 or higher, retirement benefits if the veteran decides to complete a total of 20 years service, active duty and National Guard combined, and of course an additional income. Guardsmen receive one day's pay for each 4 hour training assembly that they attend.

Full details can be obtained by calling the Armory, 351-0257, or by a personal visit.

Cherry blossom days

Spring comes to Warinanco

The single-flowering Japanese cherry blossoms around the lake in Warinanco Park, Elizabeth and Roselle, are now in bloom. It was reported by William Anderson, planting foreman for the Union County Park Commission.

The Beni-higan and Yoshino species, which have white blossoms, are the first to bloom and will hold their color for about five days. The Yoshino species are the same species planted at the Tidal Basin in Washington, D.C.

Nine varieties of double-flowering blossoms will follow the single-flowering display, according to Anderson.

The majority of double-flowering trees are a deep pink color. They include the Kwanzan, named for a Japanese mountain, and having straight spreading branches with large flowers. The Kwanzan hold their vivid-pink coloring for nearly a week longer than other species. Among the whites are the Shiratake, also called Snow White or Mount Fuji, which have thick blossoms that glow in the early morning and in the moonlight. The flower even has brightness in rain. Other species are the Takasayo, the Fuguzo, the Shirutogen, the Serulata, the Naden, the Kunagen, and the Sokizan.

The Warinanco Park display of Japanese cherry blossoms, more than 100 trees, was planted in 1931 as a gift from the late Union County Park Commissioner Caxton Brown and his brother in memory of their father. Additional trees were planted in 1942. Several landscape-size Japanese cherry trees were recently planted as replacements.

Other displays of cherry blossoms may be found around the lakes in Nomahegan and Rahway River Parks.

Clean up, fix up -- at Newark State

It's springtime on the campus at Newark State College, Union, and Mrs. Marilyn Kelland, associate professor of geography and her urban resource class have turned their thoughts to beautifying the scene. Their project will include cleaning up the lawns and planting grass, flowers and trees, purchased with funds from the college, private and student donations.

They will conduct a "Johnny Appleseed Day," which is expected to be an annual spring project. Kickoff is scheduled for Sunday at 9 a.m., when students, their parents, faculty, staff, administrators and friends will gather in the lobby of Willis Hall. Dr. Weiss, president of Newark State, and members of the Board of Trustees, are expected to be among the participants.

A picnic at 6 p.m. in front of the Nancy Thompson Library Building, followed by folk singing, will climax the day.

Institute, will center around recent advances in surgical and prosthetic management of adult lower extremity amputees and the limb deficient child.

He also is charged with breaking into the Bayberry Gift Shop on Mountain avenue on March 8 and taking more than $300 in cash, continued the report. On April 12 he again allegedly broke into the Bayberry Gift Shop where he took $12 in cash and a wallet. By GERALD ANDREWS - Retirement Adviser

SCIENCE AND AGING

At the International Congress of Gerontology held recently in Washington, D.C., experts on aging from many nations got together for a tour of the horizon, as the French say. General consensus: the horizon looks brighter for those of us of retirement age than ever before.
Britain's Dr. Alex Comfort struck the keynote of the conference. "Concerted efforts to find ways of modifying the rate of aging, and to see if the results can be usefully applied to man, have now entered the field of immediate possibility."
Dr. Comfort referred to laboratory experiments that are probing into molecules and the chemical structures lying at the basis of the aging process.
Significance? By shifting molecules or restructuring the body's chemical components, scientists might stop us from growing old. Arrested aging has already been achieved with mice.
Some individuals, for religious or personal reasons, are not anxious to live longer than today's normal span. But there are some specific developments no one will reject.
For instance, we have a better chance of remaining fit into the later years. M. J. Karvonen, of the Institute of Occupational Health in Helsinki, produced statistics to show that athletes lived significantly longer, and in better condition, than a group who had held sedentary jobs. So, chalk up another point in favor of exercise as a means to longevity.
Dr. N. N. Sachuk of the Soviet Union presented a parallel of farm and city people in the Ukraine. His findings reveal a curious distinction: Farmers tend to live longer, but they don't seem to retain an interest in their surroundings as long as city dwellers.
Here are a few other important items.
Drugs are proving more effective in treating Parkinson's Disease and other causes of physical degeneration.
The study of sleep is becoming more prominent in the study of aging.
Mental illness can often be resisted if an individual lives with his contemporaries. Housing projects and senior centers are useful in this respect.
Nothing dramatically new in all this, perhaps. Still, the science of gerontology is obviously moving ahead.

FOR AND ABOUT Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "My problem is this. I went with this boy for about one year. And he asked me to marry him this summer after he got out of college. But, we broke up two months ago. I still love him very much and he said that he still loved me and wanted me to be his wife. Well, he's going with this other girl now. The other week or so he asked me if I would go back with him if he broke up with this girl. I said that I would. He then told me that he couldn't break up with her right now because he didn't want to hurt her feelings. She has his class ring. He said he would just let her keep it. He also said that he wouldn't have gone with her in the first place if I hadn't broken up with him. So, if I even look at a boy he gets mad and goes back to her. Do you think that he's jealous of my finding someone else? If he breaks up with her should I go back to him if I really loved him and he said he really loved me?"
OUR REPLY: If he has not given up the other girl, he has no right to expect you to sit around and wait until he finds the right moment to give her up. This "right" moment will never come and you'll be waiting in the wings until they do break up, whatever the reason. If you were serious enough about one another to talk marriage, you should be able to "level" with one another and put things on the line. If he is still going with someone else, you are free to date anyone you choose.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORD, KY.

Punch Line of the Week

The executive never puts off until tomorrow what he can get someone to do today...

SUNDAY'S SERMON

What is going to happen to this world of ours? Ecologists tell us that we are only years away from the time when pollution brought about through careless disposal of industrial waste, exhaust fumes from millions of automobiles, trucks and airplanes, etc., will bring about a climate in which we cannot survive without an oxygen mask.
We are being buried beneath another kind of filth, as well. On the newstands, in the magazines and books that come into our homes, in the movies that we see, at home on TV and in the theaters, we are exposed to the bare facts of sex uncensored and gaudily displayed.
By the same token, there is nothing new about sex in books and movies. What is new is an atmosphere of increased permissiveness and tolerance. This atmosphere will prevail until enough people become concerned enough about the problem to do something. That day will come. People will stop buying "bad" books, stop paying to see "dirty" movies. They won't disappear, but they will not predominate.
Anyone who cares can wage his own personal war to improve the atmosphere of the world in which he lives.

Information units opened by college to aid city dwellers

Union College, Cranford, opened four College Information Centers in Elizabeth and Plainfield this week. Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, president, said the centers will be in operation until the end of June and will provide information about colleges, universities, technical institutes, and other post-secondary school programs, entrance requirements, and financial aid for young people and adults.

In Plainfield, the Centers will be located on Mondays from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Neighborhood House, 644 W. Fourth st., and on Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Second Street Youth Center, 1000 Second st.

The centers will be set up in Elizabeth at the headquarters of CAFE (Community Action for Economic Opportunity), 1034 E. Jersey st., formerly the headquarters of the Elizabeth YMHA, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Wednesdays, and at the Little City Hall, 169 First st., from 8 to 10 p.m. on Thursdays.

Dr. Iversen said the four centers will supplement the mobile College Information Center, which visited neighborhoods throughout Union County for the past two summers.

"Our discussions with community leaders throughout Union County indicate a critical need for information about the educational and training resources available to the citizens of Union County," Dr. Iversen said. "We will work closely with local city and school officials to coordinate our efforts to provide information about post-high school educational opportunities available to all young people and adults who want and need it."

The College Information Centers will be staffed by members of Union College's counseling, admissions, and financial aid staffs. In addition, the Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, has been invited to assist in manning the College Information Centers, Dr. Iversen reported.

Plans for the College Information Centers were made by Prof. Elmer Wolf of Cranford, acting dean; Prof. Richard Selcoe of Glen Ridge, director of community services; Annette K. Colbert of Cranford, director of counseling, and Fred L. Lang of Chatham, who was director for the mobile College Information Center for the past two summers.

Among those who will staff the centers are: Colbert; Lang; Henry J. Pryor of Cranford, director of the Educational Opportunity Fund Project; J. Harrison Morson of Edison, assistant to the dean; Mrs. Violet Wilmore of 216 E. Eighth ave., Roselle, counselor for the Educational Opportunity Fund Project; Raymond Krukovsky of Flemington, counselor; George P. Lyles of New York City, director of admissions, and Mrs. Betty H. ## Pike plans expansion of Elizabeth toll plaza

Heavy traffic demands have prompted the New Jersey Turnpike Authority to expand the Elizabeth toll plaza from 10 to 16 lanes at an estimated cost of $800,000.

William J. Flanagan, executive director of the authority, said the engineering firm of DeLew, Cather & Co. of Newark has been designated to begin work on design plans for the new plaza at Interchange 13. The firm originally designed the Elizabeth complex in 1965.

Flanagan said heavy traffic to the Verrazano Narrows Bridge and New York are responsible for the expansion.

Right-of-way was acquired by the Turnpike for the extension five years ago, said Flanagan. "At the time," said the executive director, "everyone agreed that all traffic at the new Elizabeth interchange." The increased traffic, he said, is causing "big problems with delays."

Flanagan indicated that to add just two or three new toll lanes at this time would be "penny-wise and pound foolish" in the light of Elizabeth's recent history.

Former Governor Alfred E. Driscoll, Authority chairman, indicated the five-man Authority labeled the project one of "extreme urgency" and said work would be completed by the end of the year.

The Newark engineering firm was authorized in 1965 to prepare plans for $30,000 and later supervise construction for $28,000 at a meeting of the authority earlier this month.

Christening sets found flammable

Federal Trade Commission tests have shown that christening sets manufactured by a Brooklyn, N.Y., firm are dangerously flammable, Richard W. Dowd, president of the Union County Fire Chiefs Association, reported this week. These sets, consisting of dress, cape and bonnet, are identified by Adorable Children's Dress Co., Inc., as styles 5400, 5401, 5600, 5801, 5803, 5808x and 5901.

The outer surface of the dress and cape was partially embroidered and was made of 100 per cent white cotton organdy. These christening sets retail between $25 and $35. Each set comes with a tag which reads "Just Adorable" on one side and has washing instructions on the other. The Commission said it knows of no way in which these sets can be more specifically identified.

Every effort has been made by the manufacturer and the FTC to remove these sets from the market and customers of the manufacturer have been or are being notified. The manufacturer has agreed to discontinue further sales of these sets. Nevertheless, many of them were sold to consumers before their flammable nature became known.

well as those who want initial training. It will carry no college credit.

Experienced writers, actors and directors from the New York theatre will visit the workshop for lectures, discussions and critiques, Julian, who holds a graduate degree in theatre arts from Brandeis University, said. A brochure outlining the workshop can be obtained by writing: Director, Division of Community Services, Union College, Cranford, 07016. The deadline for registration is June 12. Enrollment in the workshop is limited and is contingent upon an interview with the director of the workshop.

JULIAN HAS HAD wide professional experience as a playwright, actor and director. Three of his plays recently were presented by Ellen Stewart at the famed La Mama Experimental Theatre Club in New York. Michael Smith, critic for the "Village Voice," acclaimed Julian's play, "A Coffee Ground Among the Tea Leaves," as one of the most exciting events of the 1967-68 season in New York. A new play, "Leonard Was a Good Man," by Julian will be presented in Toronto next year.

The workshop director conducted theatre workshops for five years at the Skyloft Theatre in Chicago where he also worked in radio and television. He is currently preparing a book on theatre.

Medicare office explains extended care eligibility

"Medicare does not cover the care of everyone 65 or over who must go to a nursing home or extended care facility directly from a hospital," Ralph W. Jones, district manager of the Elizabeth Social Security office, said this week in an attempt to clarify misconceptions about this type of coverage under the law.

"It does cover relatively short term skilled care of a patient in an extended care facility," he said.

"The beneficiary must have been hospitalized for at least three days, transferred to the extended care facility within 14 days of hospitalization, and require continuing skilled nursing service ordinarily available in a hospital, but not the ready availability of all the costly medical services and equipment provided by hospitals. Where the patient's condition requires less than this high level of care, it is not covered by Medicare even if it is furnished in an extended care facility," Jones added.

"Due to the newness of the 'extended care' concept when Medicare began, a number of developments became known to us," Jones said. "The first was that all too often beneficiaries (and even some physicians and extended care facility operators) were under the impression that Medicare paid for almost every case in which a hospitalized beneficiary was transferred to an extended care facility with his physician's approval."

"AFTER A HOSPITAL STAY, some people may just need help in bathing, eating, dressing, walking and taking medicine at the right time. Perhaps, now and then, they may need some skilled nursing care such as changing a surgical dressing once or twice a week. Medicare cannot pay benefits when this is the only kind of care a person needs and is receiving in the extended facility, because it is not skilled nursing care on a full-time basis—and that is a specific requirement of the Medicare law. This is why beneficiaries have to be stopped after only a few days or weeks in an extended care facility and why they sometimes cannot be paid at all," Jones said.

"In an effort to achieve greater uniformity in decisions, the Social Security Administration issued more detailed guidelines resulting in closer examination of extended care stays."

According to Jones, there has been an increase in the number of cases in which the levels of care necessary to qualify for Medicare reimbursement have not been met. He pointed out that these decisions are made by Medicare intermediaries, such as the Blue Cross plans and insurance companies, who act as agents for the government.

"A better evaluation by the nursing home operator and more complete medical data will result in earlier identification of non-covered cases and minimize the problem of delayed unfavorable decisions," he said.

JONES SAID THAT those beneficiaries who do not qualify for full time skilled nursing care in extended care facilities may nevertheless be eligible for home health benefits under Medicare which provides intermittent nursing, care and restorative services. Jones urged beneficiaries and others on their behalf who have questions about the level of care they are receiving to discuss their cases with the people at the extended care facility. He also pointed out that when Medicare is denied, the beneficiary has a right to question the decision. Such assistance is available at the Elizabeth Social Security office, 268 N. Broad st., Elizabeth. The telephone number is 351-3200.

Freeholders form state liaison unit on law enforcement

Freeholder Walter E. Ulrich, chairman of the Department of Public Affairs and General Welfare, has announced county formation of a department subcommittee, whose function will be "to establish and maintain a close working relationship with the State of New Jersey Law Enforcement Planning Agency, and thereby attempt to bring to Union County the maximum of benefits and assistance available through the state-wide law enforcement program."

The committee, consisting of Freeholders Ulrich, Arthur Manner and David Zurav, Sheriff Ralph Orscollo, first assistant prosecutor John Callahan, data processing director Neal Mangarella and Alfred Linden, planning board director, met, and with cooperation from the Union County Planning Board, secured the designation of George Albanese, senior planner, as the staff member of the committee.

Albanese will assist the committee in an immediate review of the availability of a law enforcement planning program grant. He will also assist in the efforts to establish a program for "crime fighting project priorities."

According to Ulrich, the committee expects to recommend priority projects to the Board of Freeholders for the coming year and will seek the applicable action grant funds.

The Committee plans to work with all branches of law enforcement agencies within the county.

Vail-Deane alumna feted

Elizabeth Bauer Kassler, an authority on architecture, was named Alumna of the Year at the annual luncheon meeting of the Vail-Deane Alumnae Association, which was held at the Elizabeth school on Saturday. The recipient was graduated in the Class of 1928.

After graduation from Vassar in 1932, Mrs. Kassler served a short apprenticeship with Frank Lloyd Wright, after which she studied drafting in Switzerland and began organizing museum exhibits.

Upon her return to Princeton in 1937, Mrs. Kassler worked on architectural exhibits and publications for the Museum of Modern Art in New York. During World War II she served the museum as curator of architecture, a position which she left in 1946 when she began writing "The Architecture of Bridges," published three years later.

Mrs. Kassler then spent more than a year at Wright's Taliesin West, in Scottsdale, Ariz., and next taught a course on the history of architecture at the University of Oklahoma,

After Mrs. Kassler, her husband, Kenneth, and her son moved back to Princeton, she published her second book, "Modern Gardens and the Landscape."

Four natural history stamps will be issued in New York

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount has made public the designs of four postage stamps in the natural history series. The six-cent stamps will be issued with first day ceremonies May 6 in New York City, where The American Museum of Natural History is currently observing its centennial year.

Three of the stamp themes are based on displays in the museum. The fourth is a detail from a mural at Yale University's Peabody Museum of Natural History. The four jumbo-size, horizontal stamps will be printed on the same sheet and issued in panes of 32.

In one of the most stamp printing assignments ever carried out, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing will apply eight inks in four passes through the press.

THE STAMPS DEPICT an American bald eagle, a herd of African elephants, prehistoric reptiles and a ceremonial canoe of the Haidas, a Northwest Indian tribe. Eagle and elephant stamps appear twice on the top row of each pane, in that order, canoe and reptile stamps in similar fashion, on the second row, and this pattern will be repeated throughout the pane.

The first three press passes will be by offset lithography—two yellows, then red and blue and finally two greens. Two browns will be added by the Giori press.

The Age of Reptiles stamp is a detail from one of the largest murals in the world—110 feet long, 16 feet high—by Rudolf Zalinger painted for Yale's Peabody Museum in a commission that required four and one-half years. Shown on the stamp are six creatures from the Jurassic geologic period, the more prominent being a brontosaurus, left, a stegosaurus, center, and an allosaurus, right.

PAUL RABUT, OF WESTPORT, Conn., designed the Haida Ceremonial Canoe stamp, basing it on a display in the American Museum of Natural History. This sea-going canoe, 64 1/2 feet long, was made by hollowing-out a spruce tree. The figures in the canoe represent a Tlingit chief and his party on the way to a marriage ceremony.

Dean Ellis, of New York City, patterned his African Elephant Herd stamp design after a display that is also in the American Museum. African elephants are the largest living land mammals, reaching a height of about 12 feet and weighing six tons or more. They travel in small herds, led usually by a female.

Walter Richards, of New Canaan, Conn., designed the American Bald Eagle stamp, guided by a model in the American Museum. Eagles are found in most parts of the world, and down through history have been considered the king of birds and a symbol of courage and power. The national bird of the United States is facing extinction.

ALL FOUR NATURAL HISTORY stamps were modeled by Robert I. Jones, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Albert Saavedra engraved the lettering on the four stamps. Vignettes were engraved by Edward R. Felver, Reptiles; Edward P. Archer, Eagle; Joseph S. Creamer, Jr., Canoe; and Arthur W. Dintaman, Elephants.

The Post Office will honor requests for all positions or combinations on first day covers. The conventional policy on plate blocks will remain in effect.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, New York, New York 10001. Personal checks will not be accepted in payment. The outside envelope should be endorsed "First Day Covers Natural History Stamp."

Orders for covers must not include requests for uncanceled stamps. Cover requests must be postmarked no later than May 6, 1970. Envelopes should be addressed as close to the bottom as possible to allow for the large size stamp.

Pesticide Council asks Governor to set up commission

The New Jersey Pesticide Council this week recommended to Governor William T. Cahill the establishment of a permanent pesticide commission in the Department of Environmental Protection with the authority to restrict, regulate and control the use of all pesticides in the State.

Among its 18 recommendations, the council also urged immediate consideration by the proposed commission of restriction, regulation and control of those pesticides which may be highly toxic to human life as well as those which may be highly persistent in the environment; and legislation to provide for the control of purchase and end use of restricted pesticides.

In addition, it recommended an imaginative and aggressive information program to reach all users concerning storage, use and disposal of pesticides; and research leading to more complete understanding of the fate and hazards of pesticides in the environment.

More extensive research in biological control of pests, through such means as parasites, and support of on-going mass rearing and dissemination of biological control agents were also recommended.

The council called for adequate pesticide monitoring and surveillance; advance review by the commission of the pesticide activities of all agencies; safeguarding the health of pesticide-exposed workers; and substitution of non-persistent pesticides for the more persistent compounds whenever possible.

Other states include California, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Maine, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, Vermont, Michigan, North Carolina, Delaware, Virginia, Florida, Georgia, Minnesota and Illinois.

Among the students from New Jersey, Essex County has the largest representation with 186 followed by Union with 173, Morris and Passaic are fourth and fifth with 99 and 91 respectively. The only county not represented is Salem.

Outside of New Jersey, the state with the largest Upsala population is Connecticut with 113. New York State is second with 67, Massachusetts third with 57 and Pennsylvania fourth with 37. There are five students each from Virginia and Florida, four from Washington, D. C. and three from the state of California.

The figures include full and part-time students in the day and evening sessions.

Labor Department questions and answers

The Age Discrimination in Employment Act is designed to protect persons between the ages of 40 and 65 from being denied employment opportunities because of age. It is a relatively new law which went into effect in June, 1968. As a result, many persons are unaware of the statute or are unfamiliar with its provisions. The following Question and Answer series is intended to inform both employers and employees about the Act and to stimulate compliance with its provisions.

Q. Can an employer retire a person before age 65 against the employee's wishes?
 A. He can but only if involuntary retirement is authorized by the firm's bona fide retirement or pension plan. However, he cannot retire an employee on the basis of age before the employee reaches age 65 if he is not a participant in such benefit program.

Q. Are age limitations for entry into apprenticeship programs affected by the Act?
 A. No, bona fide apprenticeship programs which meet certain established standards were not intended to be covered under the Act where entry into these programs traditionally has been limited to youth as an extension of their educational process to prepare them for skilled employment.

Q. Can an employer specify that he will hire only persons receiving Social Security benefits?
 A. No. Such a requirement is discriminatory and is prohibited by the law.

Q. Is it permissible for an employer to advertise for a "young woman" or for a "man under 40"?
 A. It is unlawful for an employer, employment agency, or labor organization to use such printed or published notices or advertisements indicating any preference, limitation, specification, or discrimination based on age.

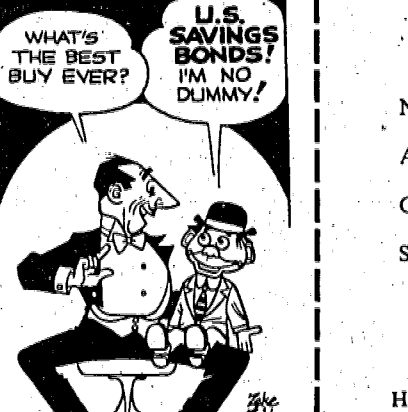

Q. Is it legal for an employment agency to require applicants to state their age on application forms?
 A. This is permissible, provided an agency includes a reference drawing attention to the Age Discrimination in Employment Act.

Q. Can an employer correct wage differentials based on age by reducing the wage of a higher-paid employee?
 A. No. Such action is illegal.

Q. Are employment tests permitted under the law?
 A. Employment tests are permissible if they are (1) specifically related to the requirements of the job; (2) fair and reasonable; (3) administered in good faith and without discrimination on the basis of age; and (4) properly evaluated.

However, these tests are carefully scrutinized by Wage-Hour Compliance Officers to assure they do not discriminate against older persons.

Catfish: new by-product of the Nuclear Age Dixie delicacy may find water's fine in north, too

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., -- Through the use of waste hot water from nuclear power plants, fresh catfish, now a southern delicacy, could become as common in the north as turkey is now, a New Jersey agricultural specialist predicted here this week.

The ready availability of this waste water, coupled with recently developed fish breeding techniques, could spawn a new industry—catfish farming—in the north with an annual crop approaching three billion pounds by 1990, according to Alexander Gordeuk of the Merck Sharp & Dohme Research Laboratories, Rahway.

Gordeuk made these and other predictions before the Conference on Beneficial Uses of Waste Heat being held here by the Oak Ridge National Laboratory. The purpose of the conference, attended by scientists from industry, universities, and government, is to explore possible opportunities for utilizing heated water produced by atomic generating plants.

The heated water is a necessary but undesirable by-product (thermal pollution) of power generation and is normally discharged into cooling reservoirs before being returned to natural waterways.

ACCORDING TO GORDEUK, catfish thrive in warm water—85 degrees is ideal—thus suggesting a productive use for the waste water.

Because of its affinity for warm water, catfish, especially the larger, meatier "channel cat," are usually restricted to the southern states. Very little fresh catfish finds its way to northern markets, Gordeuk explained.

With added sources of inexpensive warm water now available in the north, he went on, fresh catfish can be produced for markets everywhere. In addition to providing potential for a substantial source of animal protein for a growing population, catfish farming, he noted, would provide new economic opportunities for some areas of the country.

He pointed out the demand for catfish is now greater than current production capabilities. He attributed the shortage in part to excessive catches and pollution which have diminished natural catfish resources.

Through new fish breeding techniques, how-

Turnpike undergoing repairs on extension

The New Jersey Turnpike Authority has announced that the Newark Bay-Hudson County extension to the Holland Tunnel will be undergoing bridge deck repairs which will cause congestion in this area until Aug. 14.

A spokesman said the repair work is necessary "to the safety and comfort of our traveling public." He also said, "We urge all patrons to avoid these areas if possible. Use alternate routes or travel during non-rush hours during these construction periods."

ever, scientists hope to not only increase growth rate, but also to produce meatier, sweeter and more tender "farm-raised" varieties of catfish.

GORDEUK POINTED OUT that breeding techniques used over the years to increase quality and growth rate of poultry are now finding application in the growing industry of fish farming. Particular success has been achieved with rainbow trout at the University of Washington, he explained, where the researchers found that the genetically selected variety grew 15 times as fast to 18 months of age as the wild trout.

Preliminary attempts at cross-breeding different types of catfish, he stated, have produced hybrids that grow faster up to 43 per cent than far.

Gordeuk admitted that there were some possible negative factors—dealing primarily with price and consumer acceptance—which could upset his predictions.

The big question, he said, has to do with whether Americans outside of the Mississippi Basin area would accept fresh catfish as a staple meat product.

Gordeuk felt that the answer to this will depend, in great part, on price. He explained that fresh catfish, where it is available through retail outlets, is now in the "luxury price category," and that acceptance will depend on whether catfish farming will reduce costs sufficiently to permit catfish to be competitive with other meats.

Back aid to Israel, Waldor tells VFW

State Senator Milton Waldor, speaking at JWV Post 34 installation of officers, assailed the administration for not totally supporting the state of Israel. He said Israel, the only democracy in the Middle East, must have our military aid if democracy in the world and at home is to survive. He urged Jews and non-Jews to write their congressmen and the President, demanding, before it is too late, more military aid to Israel. Senator Waldor is a Past National Commander of the JWV and former Commander of Post 34.

Installed were Ted Zwebach, commander; Jerry Kessel, senior vice-commander and Jerry Schwartz, junior vice-commander. Installing officer was Philip Kreisler, commander, Department of New Jersey, Essex County Commander Nat Flaxman headed the County delegation.

Why grass doesn't grow Seed bags have 'inert material'

If New Jersey do-it-them-selves gardeners wonder why their newly seeded lawns aren't sprouting, the State Agriculture Department may have the answer.

The inert matter is made up almost entirely of extraneous material, including finely ground corn cobs.

Last year, when the grass seed appeared in the state for the second time, the recommendation was made that the front and back of each bag carry the statement: "Grass seed blended with distributing agent." This was not done, however, according to the seed analyst, Miss Jennie Blood-

NSC plans exhibit of works of art by '68 graduate, Hunt

Dr. Fred R. Schwartz, chairman of the Fine Arts Department of Newark State College, Union, this week announced plans for an exhibit of paintings, drawings and other works of art by David Hunt, to be held in the College Center Gallery of the Student Center Building from April 27 through May 15. The 28-year-old artist, a native Newarker and a cum laude graduate of Newark State, class of 1968, will be honored at a reception in the gallery on May 2 from 4 to 6 p.m.

Hunt ran the gamut of jobs from truck driver to magazine art director and finally "found myself as a painter. Drawing for me has always been a natural way of learning and externalizing subconscious feelings." He added, "some of my earliest memories are of my father drawing, painting and making things."

After graduating from Newark State, Hunt realized a lifelong dream and began cave exploring—with West Virginia as a starting point. "It is an intense experience on the levels of sports, science and aesthetics," he said, "but more importantly, caveing has to do with pushing deeper into my psychic life, searching for some as yet unknown central core of meaning."

Some of his prize-winning credits are the Summit Art Center and Art at the Mall shows in 1965. He also was included in the Art From New Jersey show at the New Jersey Museum in 1967.

A past art director for Suburban Life, Hunt is a senior designer for Professional and Technical Programs, Inc., New York City. He and his wife, Andrea, are the parents of a two-and-a-half year old son. They are residents of East Orange.

Fernando, a tenor, completed five seasons at the Metropolitan Opera. He has appeared in the Opera Theatre of New Jersey productions of "Rigoletto" and "Aida" and will be heard again on Sunday in "La Traviata," opposite Lucia Evangelista Hines.

She stated that even though the package does bear a statement that a certain percentage of the contents is "inert material," it is placed inconspicuously on the back, "where the average person seldom reads the fine print." She said the packaging constitutes an obvious intent to "deceive the consumer. In addition, he is prevented from seeing what he is purchasing due to the fact that the seed is packaged in a completely opaque bag."

The seed expert noted that the chain of discount drug stores which are the main distributors for this grass seed have been most cooperative in taking the seed off the market. However, it is possible some packages are still being sold and she urged customers to be alert and read the label carefully before purchasing grass seed.

She had the following hints for the public with reference to purchasing any type of grass seed: "If the price seems too good to be true, it probably is; there is a strong chance it contains an unusually high percentage of inert material. Also, take the time to read the label of contents before purchasing. The New Jersey State Seed Law requires that a statement of ingredients appear on each package and this is the consumer's best guide as to what he is actually purchasing."

In an effort to protect the consumer, Department of Agriculture seed inspectors regularly visit retail outlets where seed is sold and collect samples to be analyzed in the laboratory to see that the "truth in labeling" law is being complied with. However, this can only prove helpful if the label is read by the customer, Miss Bloodgood cautioned.

Conservation unit publishes papers on the gypsy moth

With concern growing over the infestation of the gypsy moth in New Jersey, the North Jersey Conservation Foundation has assembled a series of five papers on the natural controls of this pest. The foundation feels that the facts, although providing no direct answer, will help citizens to make the sound judgment necessary to initiate control measure, if any are needed.

In one paper Charles Hood, chief of insect Pest Control, Department of Natural Resources, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, author of the first paper, discusses the evolution of Massachusetts' policy of control of the gypsy moth. He describes the difference between the concept of eradication and that of natural control of the pest, and explains the guideline his state has developed.

In the second paper - Richard Goodenough, executive director of the Upper Raritan Watershed Association, summarizes the need to move slowly in the area of mass spraying. This is not only because of the unknown ecological effects which might arise in the future, but for the serious question of its effectiveness as opposed to reliance on natural ecological processes.

The third paper on this problem was written by Melvin J. Weig, superintendent, Morristown National Historical Park. He outlines the history of the gypsy moth in the Jockey Hollow area of Morris County and describes experiments with a bacterial insecticide and natural methods of control.

A private researcher, Mrs. Douglas McIlroy of Bernardsville, has written a fourth paper. She explains in great detail the various natural controls effective in fighting the gypsy moth infestation.

David F. Moore, executive director of the North Jersey Conservation Foundation, has prepared the fifth paper. Moore summarizes all of the courses of action available in the control of the gypsy moth discussing specific pesticides, insecticides and natural controls.

This study of the problems and controls of the gypsy moth is published by the North Jersey Conservation Foundation and is offered free of charge as a public service. The Foundation, a non-profit, tax-exempt membership group concerned with all phases of preserving New Jersey's natural heritage, is located at 300 Mendham rd., Morristown, 07960.

'Playing hookey' for culture Students 'cut class' to see play

Few teachers applaud when hundreds of students cut class but in Parsippany-Troy Hills Central Junior High they are smilingly looking the other way recently when the students packed the auditorium.

The youngsters were cutting class to see a New College of Engineering student production of Albee's "The Zoo Story," brought to the school as a Central Junior High "first." Although the NCE drama group visited the school to perform for about 100 students, about 200 others "risked disciplinary punishment and cut classes to see the play and to take part in a drama discussion which took place afterwards," eighth grade teacher Abraham Elias reports.

"It made for an exciting educational experience," Elias says. Elias has been working toward interesting his students in an understanding and appreciation of the theater and intermittently takes groups into New York shows as a Friday night extra-curricular activity. But going into the city is expensive so when he learned of Newark College of Engineering's thriving drama club Elias started taking advantage of both NCE's proximity and the low price of the student performances.

Motorists unite to protect tolls

Motorists on both sides of the Hudson River are uniting to protect the money they pay to cross it.

The Automobile Clubs of New Jersey and New York with a combined membership of more than one million car owning families began the bi-state effort Tuesday when they urged Governors William Cahill and Nelson Rockefeller to reject any plan that would divert toll monies collected by the Port of New York Authority to mass transit.

In a joint letter to the two chief executives, Jack Staskewicz, chairman of the AAA Clubs of New Jersey, and John M. Galvin, president of the New York State Automobile Association, said that "financing mass transit is not the motorist's problem, but one of broad public responsibility."

They expressed concern that involving the Port Authority in mass transit might even lead to increased tolls and told the Governors that "it would be neither equitable nor sound to impose such a burden on one group of citizens."

THIS YEAR'S THEATER SEASON at NCE has included eight presentations of three or four performances, spaced throughout the academic year. Three of the presentations, including one set for May, are by the NCE Drama Club; the others are done by invited players.

To make the logistics easier for Elias and the students, the Parsippany Board of Education allows the use of a school bus for transportation, again keeping the evening's cost low for the students.

"The average cost of these theater trips is about three dollars, including tickets to the NCE shows, transportation and a post-show snack," Elias estimates. "Why some of the boys even bring dates now!"

When the Parsippany-Troy Hills youngsters came down to NCE for the "ZooStory" performance in March, Elias asked theater director Dr. Will Grant if the drama group could perform again at the high school. Grant worked out the details and the NCE students visited early in April.

That's when the students cut class. "Now I even have ex-students asking when the next trip to NCE will be," Elias says. He reports he carries a full load in the school bus and even packs other youngsters into his car when the bus runs out of space.

"Most parents are delighted to have their children make the trip," he says. Right now the Parsippany-Troy Hills students are preparing for a May jaunt to Newark College of Engineering, when the college student group will present four performances of Neil Simon's "Star-Spangled Girl." The comedy will be presented on Friday and Saturday evenings, May 1 and 2, and on Sunday and Wednesday afternoon, May 3 and 6.

NJBA says banks continue to invest in housing in state

New Jersey's banks have continued to make extensive investments in housing in this state during the last five years, a period characterized by inflation and consequent tight money, the New Jersey Bankers Association reported this week.

New Jersey's banks have $5.33 billion invested in real estate, according to last available statistics (1969). Of this total, $3.3 billion are in commercial banks. Of the total investment, the largest single share is $1.6 billion in one to four family residential housing mortgage loans held by commercial banks.

While commercial bank deposits in the state increased by 38.8 percent over the past five years, investment by commercial banks in conventional residential mortgages over the same period increased by almost 65 percent. Also during this period, the ratio of conventional mortgages to total loans by commercial banks increased almost 11 percent.

New Jersey's commercial banks are placing $25.5 million a year in new residential mortgage loans. During the 1964-69 period, the account repayments re-invested in the housing field increased from about $15.1 million in 1964 to $24.9 million in 1969. In addition, a yearly average of $1.45 million in new money went into mortgage loans.

Commercial bank investment in FHA mortgage loans remained fairly stable during the last five years, showing a slight gain from $492.8 million in 1964 to $495.5 million in 1969.

TRAINING HELP The Departments of Labor and Health, Education, and Welfare have approved nearly $675,000 to train 500 unemployed victims of Hurricane Camille for new jobs.

Dear Amy: I need someone's advice. My father smokes a lot. He wants to quit but he can't. He doesn't believe in commercial products advertised to help one stop.

Dear Worried: Your father may seem angry with you when you broach the subject of smoking but he really isn't. He is angry with himself because he lacks the will power to quit.

Dear In Love: It's not enough for a 16 year old girl to know what she likes and what she dislikes. More importantly, she has to temper her decisions with a great deal of common sense.

Dear Amy: This is a horrible problem that needs attention fast. I'm 16 and a junior in high school. No matter what anyone says, I know I'm in love with a boy who is a sophomore at our local college.

Dear In Love: It's not enough for a 16 year old girl to know what she likes and what she dislikes. More importantly, she has to temper her decisions with a great deal of common sense.

Dear Amy: cause whether you give up your virginity or not, it will make no difference to the boy in question simply because he does not care about you in the true sense of the word. And holding on to him by giving him a few moments of sexual pleasure will net you absolutely nothing. What's more, you will come out of your experience with him with less to offer the man you will eventually marry and hate yourself for what you have done.

Dear Amy: I really like him and I feel if that's what it takes to get him, then that's what I'll do. As I said, I've considered this but since I'll be going to college, I hate to start something like this so young.

Dear Amy: I won't do anything until I hear from you. In Love

Dear In Love: It's not enough for a 16 year old girl to know what she likes and what she dislikes. More importantly, she has to temper her decisions with a great deal of common sense.

Dear Amy: I hope you will make a wise decision!

And holding on to him by giving him a few moments of sexual pleasure will net you absolutely nothing. What's more, you will come out of your experience with him with less to offer the man you will eventually marry and hate yourself for what you have done. Further, after his conquest with you is over, he will drop you and go on to the next girl. When a boy really loves a girl and a girl refuses to participate in sex, it doesn't make him love her less. In actuality, he loves and respects her more.

I hope you will make a wise decision!

Electrical failures lead auto miseries

WASHINGTON -- Battery, starter and ignition system failures were the cause of 34 million automobile breakdowns in 1969, placing electrical troubles on top of the list of annual motor vehicle operating difficulties, the American Automobile Association reports.

American motorists found their cars disabled 81,310,000 times last year, an increase of six per cent over 1968.

Motoring miseries involving 16 million cars that were stuck in snow, mud or sand, or had mechanical failures serious enough that they had to be towed to a garage for repairs, ranked second on the list of troubles.

Severe weather conditions of the past winter in some sections of the country are partially reflected in these figures.

AAA also reports that flat tires, which for many years were the second most frequent cause of breakdowns, dropped to third place in 1969, with 14.5 million flats recorded.
