Regional board debates expansion, again

NOT ME—Teenagers from the Deerfield School, Mountainside, have decided it isn't cool to take drugs and have begun an organization to stop the use of narcotics in the community. They are preparing posters to be put up in schools, businesses and

Deerfield students open anti-drug war Teenagers coin theme: I Agree -- Not Me

Teenagers from the eighth grade in the Deerfield Middle School, Mountainside, have launched their own drug prevention campaign; with the theme of "I Agree - Not Me."

The campaign will give those teenagers who don't believe it's "cool" or "in" to get started on marijuana, LSD, speed or heroin, an opportunity to express their personal sentiment... their feeling of "Not Me - I don't want it."

The teenagers started their campaign by making posters addressed to Mountainside teenagers, urging them to join the "Not Me" gang. Jackie Dietz, 13, of 1162 Blazo ter., was chief artist and hostess for 15 classmates at the first of several poster-painting meetings.

Other poster-meetings and letter-meetings, where students will address printed material to the students, are being planned.

Rusty Heitman, 14, is heading a group of students to place the posters throughout the schools, in the churches and in business establishments in and around the community. Colleen Smith, 14, heads up the task of securing the names and addresses of all the eighth graders in town.

The teenagers are enthusiastic about the concept of the program—conducted and directed by the students themselves—as well as the final results of the campaign. Gary Badge, 13, remarked, "If we can help just one kid not get started, it will be worth all our efforts." Cynthia Smith, 13, added, "It may not be the most popular thing to do at first, but we feel that the kids will realize how important the campaign will be to our future."

IN ADDITION to the posters, buttons reading "Not Me" have been ordered. These buttons, in orange and black, have an "N" looking like marijuana, an "O" looking like a pill and a "T" looking like a hypodermic needle, so as to be readily identifiable with the poster program.

Pledge sheets will be handed out for signature at booths and tables manned by the teenagers in the school. Each teenager signing a pledge will receive a button to wear. He will receive a subsequent mailing containing a bumper sticker reading "I Agree - Not Me."

Although the program is just a few weeks old, many youngsters have shown interest in working on the campaign and there is much work yet to be done. "Not Me" parties, meetings, rallies and other ideas are in the works.

Perhaps by expressing their feelings about marijuana and drugs, these teens can influence others in town to think twice before getting started... and make it the smart thing to say "I Agree - Not Me." Those teenagers who have any questions or who want to help in the campaign, can call Jackie Dietz at AD 2-4046.

The "Not Me" group has sent out a letter along with a pledge paper asking teenagers to

Fire Department to hold annual fund drive on Saturday

The Mountainside Volunteer Fire Department will hold its annual fund drive Saturday. Members will visit each family in town. A spokesman said, "We are asking for a big 'hello.' And, yes, we also are asking for a donation. We suggest at least $5, if by chance you are not at home, we will leave an envelope and ask you to send us your donation."

The spokesman continued, "We are a group of 39 men who live on various streets in Mountainside. We are 100 percent volunteer, and concern ourselves with Mountainside residents 24 hours a day, 365 days. Now we are asking your concern for one day. Lastly, we ask not to see you professionally for one year."

Mayor Thomas Ricciardi has officially declared May 9 as Fire Service Recognition Day. According to information compiled by the Komper Insurance Association, these men lose their lives "five to one over every other type of emergency service," the department added.

A spokesman asked local churches for recognition and prayers for these men. He said, "Prayers should include help from the Federal Government in the way of funding for the Fire Service Research Act of 1969 and the Fire Safe Materials Act of 1967 which were passed and signed by President Lyndon Baines Johnson, but were never enforced."

The spokesman asks that all business and civic groups "recognize and support the two acts. If you have any political contacts find out why these two federal acts were not funded and put into effect. We need your support and this is the finest way fire service can be recognized."

Squad members attend a seminar

Ten members of the Mountainside Rescue Squad recently attended a day-long seminar sponsored by the Essex County Medical Society, at North Junior High School in Bloomfield. "Rescue '70," as it was titled, was an all-day educational conference geared to give additional first aid training to police, firemen and first aid squads.

Lectures were given by physicians covering such topics as: emergency childbirth, heart attack, recognition of the narcotics addict, bleeding control and fractures. The session was brought to a close with a panel discussion and question and answer period.

The physicians agreed that with the changes taking place in the field of medicine today, doctors are becoming more and more dependent on the paramedical teams (first aid and rescue squads), and that in the future they will be even more so.

Some of the squad members are now making plans to attend a weekend drill and seminar to be held at Medford Lakes in June.

Wilhelms details his objections

Women Voters endorse referendum on May 12

By ABNER GOLD

Sharp differences of opinion over the Regional High School Board of Education's $7 million expansion plan dominated the board meeting Tuesday night at the Deerfield School, Mountainside, as they have for the past several months. Some 40 people attended.

The proposal will be presented to the voters of the district's six member towns in a referendum on May 12.

Strong support of the plan was expressed in statements read to the board Tuesday by the presidents of the Springfield and Berkeley Heights Leagues of Women Voters.

Equally strong opposition was the keynote of a series of 25 questions on the proposal presented to the board by Fred Wilhelms, former mayor of Mountainside. Many borough residents have opposed the plan for its transfer of Mountainside youngsters from Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, to Jonathan Dayton Regional, Springfield.

MRS. HERBERT FORMAN, Springfield L.W.V. president, told the board, in part:

"We of the Springfield League are particularly pleased with that aspect of the referendum which assigns the Mountainside students to the Jonathan Dayton High School. We have long held that equal educational opportunity requires schools with approximately equal student population.

"We believe that the proposed referendum accomplishes this while recognizing the need and wish of the Mountainside students for a school, which they can attend for their

MMA offers variety show this weekend

The Mountainside Music Association will present its ninth annual variety show, "Once Upon a Party," tomorrow and Saturday evenings at the Deerfield School. The show is directed by Jeanne Wilhelms and Aden Lewis.

A show-biz-like announcement of the event declared:

"We haven't had an evening of such magnitude since 'My Fair Lady.' This is a sure-fire crowd pleaser, a mad-cap musical which should have audiences laughing for months to come.

"In honor of the 10th anniversary of the MMA and also to commemorate the 75th birthday of the town of Mountainside, this is a celebration, a party for the audience as well as the performers. From 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., tonight students are invited to attend the dress rehearsal. The cost is 50¢ at the door. No adults will be admitted unless they are accompanied by $2.50.

"The evening begins with a show stopper 'The Party's on the House' and includes a

OUT AT FIRST — In close action typical of the opening day of the Mountainside Little League, Jimmy Murdock of the Elks retires Brandon Gambee of the Mountaineers.

Short talks, sunny skies greet Little Leaguers

It was a bright and sunny day for the opening of Little League baseball in Mountainside on Saturday. The day began with a parade through town ending at the Jamor League field behind the Deerfield School. The officials present were able to say just a few words before Mayor Thomas J. Ricciardi threw out the first ball to start the games off.

There are four leagues in the Boys' Little League, John Rusbarsky, president of the American League, announced that the same procedures as last year will be used. This league plays its games at the field behind Echobrook School. There are eight teams in this league: Twins, Yankees, Red Sox, Senators, Orioles, Indians, Athletics and Tigers. These teams, which are made up of 8 and 9-year-olds, will play the first part of the season as practice games with the boys being able to get assistance in the game rules and procedures. The actual games will start later on. Rusbarsky said that the turnout at Saturday's games was very encouraging to the boys and he hopes that the parents will have continued interest in the games.

THERE ARE 6 teams in the National League which is made up of boys 10-12. These teams are under the direction of Jim Fotes, president of the National League, and they play their games on the field behind the Deerfield School. The teams are: Braves, Cardinals, Cubs, Pirates, Dodgers and Giants. Fotes said he was pleased with the way the boys handled themselves in their games and looks forward to a very exciting season.

The Major League has six teams again under the direction of Harry Heidi, president. They are: Elks, Mountaineers, Blue Stars, Chiefs, Pioneers and Mustangs. These boys are 10 to 12 years in age and play a good game of baseball, Heidi said. The teams are picked by a draft method. At the end of the season an all-star team is picked to play tournament games against other towns.

The Senior League is for boys 13 to 15 under the leadership of president Joe Mazur. There are six teams this year, an expansion of two teams. The teams are: Orioles, Twins, Yankee, Tigers, Indians and Red Sox.

Altogether, there are about 450 boys from Mountainside involved in Little League this year and about 150 girls in softball.

SCORES FROM Saturday's games were: American League: Senators, 7 - Twins, 3; Yankees, 5 - Red Sox, 4; Orioles, 2 - Indians, 0; Athletics, 3 - Tigers, 1. National League: Braves, 8 - Cardinals, 5; Cubs, 18 - Pirates, 5. The Dodgers' and Giants' game was rescheduled to be played later in the week.

Major League: Elks, 5 - Mountaineers, 2; Blue Stars, 3 - Chiefs, 2; Pioneers, 17 -

New Providence gets Rau deal, 3-1, as Doug strikes out 6 in 2-hit upset

By BILL LOVETT
New Providence, rated as one of the top baseball teams in Union County, fell to a determined Gov. Livingston team which has finally started to hit. Regional pitcher Rust for a homer and two doubles, forcing the Pioneers into several costly errors.

The convincing 3-1 triumph roosted the Highlanders' record to 4-4. Gov. Livingston has won three of its last four (losing the other by a run) and might not lose four more in the remainder of the season.

Against a very good New Providence team, Regional combined superlative pitching, with excellent hitting and fielding to gain the victory.

Almost as impressive as the overall Highlander performance this season has been the pitching of Doug Rau, Doug, felt by many as lacking the speed necessary to win, has three of the Highlanders' four victories.

What he may lack in speed, he has made up for with a wicked curve and beautiful control. When he is hitting the strike zone consistently, as he did against the Pioneers, he can place the ball anywhere he wants. Rau gave up two hits in the contest; in his last 14 innings, he has allowed just three hits.

The Trakimas twins, Bill and Dick, combined to give Gov. Livingston a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Dick hit his first home run of the season. Bill doubled home Tom Wilson for a 2-0 advantage.

Greg Freany closed the gap with a run in the second but Regional came right back, capitalizing on a Pioneer error with Dick Trakimas scoring the run. Rau pitched flawlessly the rest of the way to preserve the victory.

Tennis appears the only other spring sport which may wind up with a winning record.

Gov. Livingston's balanced squad led to a 3-2 victory over Scotch Plains to give the Highlanders a 3-0 mark.

One man—or even two—does not make a team and Scotch Plains learned this the hard way. Scotch Plains won the first and second singles matches but lost the third singles and first and second doubles. Stu Brown and Stan Granberry lost their opening set, 1-6, but came back to win the next two, 6-2, 6-1, clinching the victory.

Tom and Steve King have been instrumental in the Highlanders' fast start. Steve is third singles while Tom edged Dave Ranz out for the first singles spot. Regional's big test will come later this season when Coach Jim Lenox's squad takes on Westfield, possibly the best team in the state.

Red Cross bloodmobile due at Westfield temple May 20

Mrs. E. W. Love, chairman of the Westfield-MountainSide blood program, has announced that on May 20 at Temple Emanuel, E. Broad street, Westfield, the Red Cross bloodmobile will again receive donations of blood from citizens of these communities.

The age limit for volunteers has been extended to include donors between their 18th and 60th birthdays.

Mrs. Love said that according to Dr. J. Garrett Allen, a professor of surgery at the Stanford University School of Medicine, 90 percent of deadly hepatitis from blood transfusions can be traced to the use of commercial blood. Two sources of blood are used in transfusions—commercial and volunteer. When a donor is paid for his blood it is commercial. A volunteer gives his blood, without payment, to a community blood bank or hospital.

Dr. Allen, internationally known for his research in blood, said that hepatitis is far more prevalent in the blood of so-called "skid row donors" than it is in the blood of civic-minded volunteers.

"It is shocking," he points out, "but in this country only two percent of the population provides the estimated seven million units of blood that are given annually. Deficits of blood are made up by purchases from skid-row residents, hippie addicts, and prisoners, many of whom are willing to sell their blood for as little as $4 or $6 a unit."

Mrs. Love stressed the need for volunteers to register now and contribute their blood to save lives in their community.

The hours which the Bloodmobile will be open are 2 to 7 p.m. For further information, the public may call the Red Cross Chapter House, 321 Elm st., Westfield, 232-7090.

During the month of April, representatives from the Westfield-MountainSide Red Cross visited the Lyons Veterans' Hospital and the East Orange Veterans' Hospital.

This is done on a monthly basis at Lyons where members of the Red Cross bring refreshments and spend an evening with the veterans in the various wards. Refreshments are baked by Red Cross members. This month the bakers were Mrs. N.D. Balliet, Mrs. Charles Frederick, Mrs. E.P. Hirth, Miss Jean Ingalls and Mrs. Reno Seiders. The chairman of the Lyons ward party was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. S.K. Thomson and Red Cross youth volunteer Miss Barbara Cunningham.

Mrs. Robert Bauer, chairman of service to military families, and Mrs. Burr Towl volunteered their time at East Orange Hospital, where birthday parties are given to the veterans. Presents and cards are brought to them by the Red Cross volunteers. The Chapter House is sent notification from East Orange of every veteran's birthday and this is then acknowledged.

Police increase watch against school vandals

Repeated vandalism at Deerfield School has been reported by MountainSide police. The latest incident involved broken windows, according to police. A spokesman for the police said that there will be an increased surveillance by patrol cars and a juvenile complaint will be drawn up and signed if anyone is caught.

The season for using mini-bikes, go carts and similar motor driven vehicles is at hand, according to MountainSide police. A spokesman reminded all residents that it is illegal to operate these vehicles on public streets and property. The only place they can be legally operated is on private property.

According to the spokesman, it is illegal to go into parking lots at local businesses. This is against insurance rules, the spokesman said.

He concluded by saying that if anyone has a problem with these vehicles, he should report it to police and a juvenile complaint will be drawn up and signed.

The time for licensing dogs is past, according to MountainSide police. Anyone who does not have a license for his dog is asked to get one. The owner of any dog caught without a license will be issued a summons, according to police.

Senior League: Orioles, 6 - Twins, 5; Tigers, 5 - Yankees, 2; Indians, 13 - Red Sox, 2.

In the Senior League, the Twins were ahead of the Orioles, 5-1, in the fifth inning. At the bottom of the seventh with no outs and the bases loaded, Paul Krystow, a newcomer to the Senior League, drove in the winning run putting the Orioles ahead, 6-5. Brian Sweatt of the Twins pitched an exceptionally good game.

In the second game of the day, the Tigers beat the Yankees, 5-3. Gary White hit a home run with one on. He also made a running shoestring catch in deep center field.

The Indians clobbered the Red Sox, 13-3, with excellent playing by Terry Quinn and John McCarthy. Also instrumental in winning the game were pitcher Keith Kanakis and catcher Dennis Clark.

In the girls' softball games, the Robins beat the Parrots, 42-19, and the Orioles beat the Eagles, 18-5.

sign the pledge. The letter states:

"Some of our friends are being tempted by the thought of getting some extra kicks through the use of pot, LSD, speed and even H. The stories we hear about a life being ruined by the use of these narcotics are all true."

"If we can all get together and prevent just one boy or girl from our town getting started, we may have saved the future for a promising doctor, scientist, lawyer or mother-to-be."

"That's why we want all of us in town to take the 'Not Me' pledge. It will take just five seconds to write your name on the pledge paper and pin a 'Not Me' badge to your clothes. But that five seconds now can prevent a lifetime of failure."

Jackie Dietz said she got the idea of the group from a friend in West Orange. The organization is run by teens without adult help. She said, "We do not want adults because we feel that we can do it properly." The idea spread by word of mouth and grew from a small nucleus to more than 30 teenagers who have signed the pledge.

Tommy Ditzel said that he hopes more teenagers will join the group. He joined because "I am interested and we would stop most drug abuse in the eighth grade."

Michael Schon said he joined because "I wanted to see what it was about."

Gary Badge said "I am not sure if it will help, but I want to try."

Cynthia Smith is completely against the use of drugs and "thought it might be interesting to take part and see the results."

Tom Gonnella said, "I want to help those who need it and prevent others from getting started on drugs. People should do all they can to help."

Pat Di Leo decided, "It might be a good thing to try to help people. If we can save one person from going on drugs it is worth it."

Debbie Reich said the idea of not having adults involved is a good one. She feels that "The kids would not come if parents were involved and that the group can be continued without adult supervision."

Kristy Weeks summed up the general feeling by saying, "We are having fun doing this and feel it is worthwhile."

WHOOPS—Pat Sheehan (center) knows how to fight it but she has to go back to her spelling class at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School to learn how to spell pollution. Carol Zicarella (left), Karen Mauro and Pat were among 22 freshman who helped clean up Echo Lake Park on Earth Day. They are carrying one of six large plastic bags of litter that they collected. The students hoped to set an example so that people will help preserve the beauty of natural areas by throwing litter where it belongs—in the trash can.

FLOWER POWER—Patty McDowell, a freshman at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, shows the disparity between litter and beauty. The flower symbolizes the hope that people will respect the beauty of Echo Lake Park by not littering the grounds with cans and paper, especially after 22 students spent 22 man-hours cleaning up.

"We are certain that the favorable experiences of those students now attending Jonathan Dayton will be extended eventually to the entire student body from MountainSide, and that the renovation and expansion of this school for their accommodation will result in an educational facility equivalent to the three others in the district."

"Along with our concern for the oldest school in the district, we are well aware of the overcrowding which exists in the Johnson, Brearley and Gov. Livingston schools. As League members, parents and citizens, we recognize that no problem within a school system can be viewed in isolation. What happens in Berkeley Heights affects our children, what happens in Clarks affects our children, and what happens in Kenilworth affects our children."

"We therefore offer our support, and urge the support of the residents of this system for a referendum through which the needs of the entire high school district are recognized and met."

MRS. ROBERT TABER, president of the Berkeley Heights League, said in part:

"In conjunction with the Springfield League of Women Voters we have already expressed our support of the board's proposal to establish Jonathan Dayton Regional High School as the home school for MountainSide students, and anticipate that this redistribution of students will ensure stability for MountainSide residents. Their children should not have to be shifted around again. At the same time, this redistribution will guarantee more orderly growth and permit more equitable education opportunities for all."

"Postponement of expansion and modernization would not only intensify overcrowding, which is already severe, but serve to increase costs of necessary improvements, Cafeteria, gymnasium and library facilities are now functioning at sub-standard levels.

"Construction costs have risen from $26,20 to $31 per square foot in only two years. Can the taxpayers afford to wait two more years and face another 20 percent increase? We think not."

"The price of the referendum is not exorbitant. The plans are realistic and necessary. For these reasons the Berkeley Heights League of Women Voters will actively support passage of this referendum."

FORMER MAYOR WILHELMS directed his comments toward several targets. The first was the board's acceptance of new state standards aiming at an ideal class size of 20 students, rather than 25.

At the same time he attacked the choice of Dayton, with a small site, for the MountainSide students, rather than Gov. Livingston, where there is much more ground.

Manuel Dios, board president, and Dr. Warren Davis, superintendent of schools, replied that planning based on the smaller class size was necessary to win state approval of the plans.

Dr. Davis said that the question of area was not comparable, since Dayton has extensive Union County Park Commission land to use for athletics, and because the state is much more flexible on site size.

Wilhelms also assailed the board for saying that it could not be bound by past designations of Gov. Livingston as MountainSide's home high school, and that it could not guarantee the actions of future boards to keep the borough's students at Dayton. Dios stressed that he could not control decisions of those elected to the board in the future.

Wilhelms predicted that Dayton would be overcrowded when it opens its doors in 1972, if the referendum is approved. Board members denied the assertion and debated enrollment forecasts with him for the next few minutes.

MountainSide's former mayor went on to criticize what he termed a shortage of parking space under the proposed expansion plan. Dr. Fred Hagedorn replied for the board that there was enough space to comply with local zoning regulations on parking.

He added, however, that the board had not yet decided whether to pave that much space or to seek a zoning variance.

Wilhelms concluded, "Should the voters defeat the referendum, I urge the board to submit again the referendum which was defeated in 1968. This would keep Gov. Livingston as MountainSide's home high school and would solve the district-wide overcrowding in a reasonable manner."

The board voted to consider a proposal to permit MountainSide freshmen now at Dayton to remain there for the next three years, if they and their parents apply in writing. It will come up for a second reading at an adjourned regular meeting May 12.

Miss Singer was one of 24 high school counselors and guidance directors from eight states attending the conference. Dale M. Yadosky, a 1969 graduate of Jonathan Dayton is a freshman at Butler.

BENEFIT SUPPER -- William Kaplan of 1445 Orchard rd., Mountaineer, explains the fund raising campaign to benefit the Mt. Carmel Guild for Brain Injured Children, Newark, to Mrs. Thomas Carey (center) and Mrs. Frank R. Pfaffe, fund raising chairman for Union County. The Guild will hold a buffet supper tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at Holy Trinity High School, Westfield. There will be entertainment and dancing. Kaplan is chairman for the supper and Mrs. Carey is co-chairman. The Guild's main purpose is to provide services for the handicapped, and it just opened a rehabilitation center for young drug addicts. Tickets can be purchased from Kaplan at 232-1928.

Registration ends Saturday for slow-pitch softball league

The Recreation Commission is organizing a slow-pitch softball league for adult residents of Mountaineer this spring. Details for the league have been fully worked out, umpires have been selected and ground has been broken on a new field. League membership is still open, but interested adults will have to move fast if they want to enter, the announcement added. Final registration is scheduled for this Saturday.

The league will consist of six teams of 10 or more men per team, with each team playing one game per week. The league season will begin approximately May 18 and run through mid-summer, with games scheduled for 6 p.m. to dusk. Every Mountaineer man is eligible for membership and may join on an individual basis, or on a team basis. A special invitation to field a team has been extended to all service, fraternal and civic organizations, such as policemen, firemen, American Legion, Elks, Kiwanis, Lions, Republican or Democratic clubs, and all other interested organizations.

A Recreation Department spokesman added: "A brief description of the rules for anyone not familiar with slow-pitch softball is as follows. The rules for slow-pitch are similar to conventional softball, however, the pitcher's role is reduced and there's much more action for all the other players. "In slow-pitch, the ball is pitched underhand to the batter at a moderate speed and with a perceptible arch. In a legal delivery the arch may not be less than three feet, measured from where the ball leaves the pitcher's hand until it reaches the plate, with the strike zone between the batter's shoulders and knees. An illegal pitch is counted as a ball, except that runners cannot advance on an illegal pitch. Also in slow-pitch, there is no bunting and no base stealing."

Jim Green, the newly appointed supervisor of recreation, issued the call: "Let's go, men of Mountaineer, Don't be spectators. Everyone is invited to join in the fun and the action."

Registration is at Beechwood School Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon. The registration fee is $3 per person or $30 per team. Players may also register by phone at 232-0015.

I loved my husband the day we were married, divorced and still do. But I'm not sure anymore that he feels the same. Maybe I'm only making excuses, but things would have been so much better if his family would have kept their comments to themselves.

Dear Worried:
If you love your husband and want him back, contact him on the double. It wouldn't hurt to show him the letter either. Perhaps all he's been waiting for is to see you a complete family again.

Cahill says Division of Motor Vehicles will crack down on uninsured drivers

Governor William T. Cahill announced this week the Division of Motor Vehicles is gearing for a state-wide crack down on uninsured motorists.

Cahill said Motor Vehicles Director Ronald M. Heymann will begin checking insurance reports against driver registration fees tomorrow.

A staff of 40 employees will operate from rented office space in the Arnold Constable building on E. State street, Trenton. The division anticipates expanding the work force to 90 persons with the installation of full automation by mid-August. The agency will use computers that now power the Division's licensing service.

Heymann said, "We estimate the state is being defrauded of at least $2 million a year. There are some estimates that say it's as high as $28 million."

HEYMANN EXPLAINED the computers will single out drivers who use the names of large insurance companies and make up policy numbers.

"The biggest loopholes for the insurance automation by mid-August. The agency will use computers that now power the Division's licensing service."

Increased school allowances to be paid next month by VA

More than 777,000 veterans, servicemen, wives, widows and children will receive increased educational allowances under a bill signed recently by the president.

All trainees under the GI Bill and other VA educational programs were assured by Donald E. Johnson, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, that they will receive the increases automatically, retroactive to Feb. 1. He stressed that it is not necessary to contact the VA to receive them.

Johnson said most of those studying under the G.I. Bill in institutions of higher learning will receive a check about May 10 which will reflect the new regular monthly rate, and include retroactive increases from February through April.

Veterans studying below college level, including apprentice, on-the-job and cooperative trainees, must certify their attendance to the VA every month to be eligible for education allowance payments.

The VA Administrator said this group also will receive a check around May 10 at the new rates, including the retroactive increases, providing their attendance has been certified through April.

However, the VA official explained that some trainees below college level will receive pay adjustments in two checks, because the VA will not receive their monthly attendance certifications in time to include the increase in the first check.

THE VA CHIEF ADDED that veterans training under the vocational rehabilitation program will receive their increased educational allowances in early June. Information on this group is not computerized and all processing will have to be done individually, requiring more time, he explained. Again he emphasized that there is no need to contact the VA to receive the checks.

He also noted that special arrangements are being made to pay those who were in training on Feb. 1, but who are no longer in training.

Administrator Johnson gave these details on the statute (PL 91-219):

It increases from $130 to $175 a month the rate for single G.I. Bill veterans studying in an institutional full-time program.

A veteran with one dependent will receive $205 a month, two dependents $230, and $13 for each additional dependent. Rates are scaled downward for less than full-time students.

Single G.I. Bill students going three-quarter time will receive $128 a month, $152 with one dependent, $177 with two dependents, and an additional $10 a month for each additional dependent.

Half-time G.I. students will receive $81 if they have no dependents, $100 with one dependent, $114 with two dependents and an extra $7 for each additional dependent.

The rate for a single veteran under the vocational rehabilitation program was increased from $110 to $135 a month for full-time students. A veteran with one dependent will receive $181 a month, two dependents $210, and $6 more for each additional dependent. These rates are also scaled downward for less than full-time students.

For wives, widows and children receiving allowances under the dependents educational assistance program, the new monthly rates for full-time students are $175, three-quarter time students $128, and half-time students $81.

THE NEW LAW ALSO SETS UP special programs for servicemen with educational handicaps. One, the pre-discharge education program, pays for schooling of educationally disadvantaged servicemen before discharge without charge to their earned basic entitlement.

In addition, the law provides for an intensification of VA's "outreach" program to contact and counsel veterans, widows, and children of certain disabled veterans about government education and training opportunities.

Administrator Johnson urged veterans interested in applying for education or training benefits to contact their nearest VA office now for a certificate of eligibility.

The Veterans Administration Regional Office for New Jersey is located at 20 Washington Place, Newark, 07102, and is under the direction of P.M. Nugent, Manager. Telephone service is available by calling 645-2150.

Cahill names May as seniors' month

Gov. William T. Cahill this week honored New Jersey's 700,000 older residents by proclaiming May as Senior Citizens Month throughout the state.

In the proclamation, the governor called on community leaders to encourage the active participation of older New Jerseyans in state and community affairs while announcing this year's theme, "Let Older People Speak for Themselves."

"These citizens of our state have supported their government and institutions of democracy through four wars, a massive depression, at least two inflations, and rapid social and technological changes," Governor Cahill said in the proclamation. "Recognition should be given to their past contributions and those they can yet make as the architects of America's ideals who reflect the dominant values that have made America what it is."

In addition to statewide ceremonies, counties and municipalities are asked to set aside a day, week or the entire month to honor their older residents. Various special activities are generally sponsored by either government or private organizations.

Dull courses brighten up Drew profs are team teaching

A frequent complaint at Drew University and colleges everywhere is that introductory courses are dull. After the first week they can get to be a drag for professors and students alike.

Dr. J. Perry Leavell, assistant professor of history at Drew, describes the problem as "the oppression of numbers." There isn't too much one professor can do, though. Even a stand-up comic might find it hard to hold a crowd's interest three days a week, 35 weeks a year.

Drew's history and religion departments have adopted a plan for fighting the "intro" doldrums. It's called team teaching. The results have been rewarding for both departments.

Variety is the key to this solution - a variety of professors, styles, and perspectives. The student gets a 3-D view of the subject from the three professors that lecture in each course - an impressionistic lecture one day, followed by a factual lecture the next.

"Knowledge is not a 'given,'" Dr. Leavell believes. "There are approaches and interpretations." According to some of the professors, team teaching doesn't just make the lectures seem better; they actually are better. Speaking in front of professional critics, their colleagues, they are "afraid to get lazy," and therefore they do their best.

WHAT TEAM TEACHING PROFESSORS seem most excited about is the impact it has on their own scholarship. The professors on the team plan and work together. They listen to each other's lectures. They are able to compare and debate their ideas as never before.

Dr. Donald G. Jones, assistant professor of religion, notes that they "learn from one another. Team teaching, he says, raises new questions and new perspectives."

The history department is just as enthusiastic. "We are alive to each other's ideas," says Associate Professor of History John von der Heide.

The sociology department, too, may add a new course using team teaching in the upcoming Urban Semester, according to Chairman and Professor of Sociology Robert W. Friedrichs. He hopes to have the course taught by two part-time professors, one with roots in the urban black community, the other from the urban white community.

Dr. Friedrichs is highly in favor of team teaching. "The quality of education would go up with team teaching," he thinks. Introductory sociology, though, isn't team taught. There just aren't enough teachers to go around. Dr. Friedrichs estimates that in order to manage with the present faculty and enrollment the course would have to be reduced to one semester with about 350 students in one class.

Medical college gets cancer grant

The New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry, Newark, has been awarded an institutional grant of $20,000 for cancer research from the American Cancer Society's New Jersey Division.

The American Cancer Society, whose ultimate aim is the cure of cancer, seeks to encourage new minds and new ideas to enter the cancer research field through this program of institutional grants. The money, granted to qualified institutions, is allocated by local committees of scientists to physicians and other scientists who want to try out a new idea, develop a particular part of their cancer research, take out the wrinkles of a new technique, engage in research on a part-time basis, or stimulate a student - undergraduate, graduate or medical - to try his hand at cancer research.

Erich Hirschberg, Ph.D., is chairman of the institutional research grant committee at the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry, and the local committee is composed of members of the university's departments of surgery, obstetrics and gynecology, microbiology, biochemistry, pathology and oral pathology.

Trustees, directors elected by New Jersey Blue Cross

Mrs. Algernon A. Phillips of Newark and John H. Farese of East Orange were elected to three-year terms on the Board of Trustees of Hospital Service Plan of New Jersey, New Jersey Blue Cross Plan, at its annual meeting last week in the Plan's home office.

Mrs. Phillips, a registered nurse with a background in hospital administration in Baltimore and the wife of a prominent center-city physician, has a long list of accomplishments in the community health and welfare fields. She has been a member of the Board of Trustees of the United Community Fund of Essex and West Hudson for the past four years, and a public member of the Hospital and Health Council of Metropolitan New Jersey since 1965. In the same year, she was elected to the Board of Directors of the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Diseases Association of New Jersey.

She is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Youth Development Clinic, an organization devoted to the emotionally disturbed and, since 1969, has been a consumer member of the Medical Assistance and Health Services of New Jersey. In addition to these posts, Mrs. Phillips has served on various committees of the Essex-West Hudson Council of Social Agencies for the past seven years. She lives in Newark.

FARESE IS EXECUTIVE vice-president, Electronic Components, of Radio Corporation of America, with headquarters in Harrison. He is also president and chairman of the board of RCA de Puerto Rico, Inc. and RCA del Caribe, Inc., two Puerto Rican subsidiaries, and the RCA Belgian subsidiary. Along with these executive positions, he serves on the board of directors of RCA subsidiaries in Taiwan, Italy, the United Kingdom, Canada and Mexico. Farese joined RCA in 1930 and was named executive vice-president in 1968.

Farese is a member of the board of directors of the First Jersey National Bank, Jersey City, the Harvard Advanced Management Association and the Manufacturers Club of West Hudson. He lives in East Orange.

Dr. Thomas J. White of Jersey City, chairman of the board of Medical-Surgical Plan of New Jersey (Blue Shield) who had previously served in an ex-officio capacity on the Blue Cross board, was elected to a full three-year term as a trustee.

Tax collector asks for moratorium on refund questions

Although most 1969 federal income tax refunds are mailed within six weeks after the tax return is filed, New Jersey IRS district director Roland H. Nash Jr. said this week that it will not be possible to answer questions on refunds until after May 31.

"The Mid-Atlantic Service Center is in the midst of processing 12 million returns. This makes it practically impossible to locate a particular return until the processing is complete," Nash said.

"Taxpayers who filed returns before March 15, which called for refunds and who have not received either their refund or an explanation for its delay, may ask local IRS offices for information after May 31. Those who filed after March 15, should delay their inquiries until after June 30.

"If it does become necessary to ask for refund information, a taxpayer should explain when and where he filed his return and give his address and Social Security number. It will help if he brings his file copy of his tax return with him."

Interest at the rate of 6 percent a year is paid from April 15 on refunds which have not been mailed by May 31.

Students 'soak up' knowledge Rain dampens Career Day

Some 2,600 damp but enthusiastic high school sophomores and juniors from 94 New Jersey high schools visited Rutgers University last Friday.

They moved around the College of Agriculture and Environmental Science in great wet masses as they went on 13 tours and listened to 17 talks.

The rain ruined their hairstyles and upset the plans of Rutgers students in charge of the day. The talk on bees had to be moved indoors and the walking lecture along the Holgar Woods Nature Trail was limited to those in rain gear only, but the show still went on.

Leland G. Merrill Jr., dean of the college, suffered from a cold made worse by the weather, but managed to deliver a welcoming talk in which he mentioned that the college is a social institution trying to respond to the needs of people here and all over the world.

The science program is held every spring at the college to acquaint science-oriented high school students with the possibilities of careers for which the college can prepare them.

Labor Department questions and answers

The Age Discrimination in Employment Act is designed to protect persons between the ages of 40 and 65 from being denied employment opportunities because of age. It is a relatively new law which went into effect in June, 1968. As a result, many persons are unaware of the statute or are unfamiliar with its provisions.

The following Question and Answer series is intended to inform both employers and employees about the Act and to stimulate compliance with its provisions.

Q. Are there any exemptions for programs designed to provide or encourage the employment of individuals with special employment problems, such as the handicapped?

A. Yes. Programs under federal contracts or grants designed exclusively to promote the employment of the disadvantaged are exempt. Included are activities under the Manpower Development and Training Act and the Economic Opportunity Act to aid the long-term unemployed, handicapped, minorities, older workers, or youth.

Q. Can a union establish an age limit of 55 for its members?

A. No. The Wage-Hour Division has ruled that such discriminatory age limitations are in violation of the law.

Q. Who enforces the law?

A. The law is enforced by the Wage-Hour Division of the U.S. Department of Labor through its 1,000 professional compliance officers located in most major cities throughout the country.

Q. Are there any legal procedures available which can be used against employers, employment agencies, and unions who refuse to comply with the law?

A. In enforcing the law, Labor Department compliance officers first attempt to obtain voluntary compliance through conciliation, conference and persuasion. However, when voluntary compliance is not obtained, enforcement by court action is authorized, including judgments compelling employment, reinstatement or promotion and payment of compensation found due.

Q. Is an employer, employment agency, or labor organization, subject to the Act, required to keep records?

A. Yes. Certain records and recordkeeping procedures are required.

Q. What about posting requirements?

A. The law requires that an ADEA poster be displayed in a prominent place where it can readily be observed by employees and applicants for employment. Posters can be obtained from local Wage-Hour offices.

SEEING IS BELIEVING — Dr. William Wilson, chairman of the Rutgers Medical School Department of Medicine, shows the electrocardiogram trace of a heart sound simulator to John A. Cammarata of East Rutherford. Cammarata is a second-year student at the medical school.

A 'sound' way to learn Simulator trains cardiologists

A skilled automobile mechanic can listen to an ailing engine and distinguish between a worn timing gear or crankshaft bearing, piston slap, wrist-pin knock or excessive valve tappet clearances.

A skilled cardiologist can listen to a patient's heart and distinguish between a systolic murmur, diastolic murmur, a faulty valve, an opening snap or a friction rub.

The engine mechanic needs only an opportunity to tear down the engine to learn what is really wrong and then replace the parts that are worn.

The cardiologist has to diagnose a patient's problem by listening and by examining the pattern traced by the pen on an electrocardiogram. He tries to avoid surgery if he can learn what ails the patient without it.

As a medical student, he had to learn to decipher heart sounds of living patients, a difficult skill to acquire. One problem is that he hears heart sounds and other sounds through the stethoscope. He has to learn what sounds are normal and what are abnormal. He must learn to disregard the normal sounds and concentrate on the abnormal. And, he has to learn to distinguish among the abnormal sounds to diagnose what ails the patient.

TO HELP MEDICAL STUDENTS become skilled heart-ailment diagnosticians, Rutgers Medical School has just acquired a heart sound simulator. It eliminates the necessity to tax a patient's patience while the future physician learns what the heart sounds mean.

If a teaching device depends on producing an audible signal, thereby eliminating the need for living patients, it must let the student hear what he is supposed to hear. The device at Rutgers Medical School succeeds in doing that. Clinical results have borne this out with real patients at a local hospital.

On Saturday mornings, heart patients at St. Peter's Hospital volunteer themselves as subjects for the student's stethoscope. Medical students work with the volunteer patients after having worked with the sound simulator.

The simulator finds its use in courses taught by the Department of Medicine, whose chairman is Dr. William Wilson, professor of medicine. His enthusiasm for this method of teaching comes from the confidence developed in Rutgers medical students during the Saturday sessions in clinical correlation. At these sessions, the students practice what they learned on the simulator.

The simulator can be set to deliver to the student 95 per cent of all identifiable heart sounds. The student can first learn to recognize each sound separately at heartbeat rates of 50 to 120 a minute. Then he can combine the sounds that are often found together in living patients with specific heart disease or abnormalities, and vary the frequency within the 60-120 beat range.

LEARNING TO RECOGNIZE the sounds at fast heartbeat rates is like learning Morse code. A student of Morse code may recognize the alphabet at slow speeds, but may be unable to "get the message" at high code speeds.

The diagnostician must "get the message" at fast heart rates because there's no other way, if the patient's heart beats rapidly.

Using the simulator, the student can listen to the sounds and observe the visible electrocardiogram (ECG) trace displayed on a small screen much like a television screen. He learns to coordinate the sounds through the stethoscope with the ECG trace, two of the principal diagnostic procedures of the practicing physician working with a heart patient.

There are about 30 heart conditions recorded on the disks and tapes that come with the device. Some of these conditions involve irregular heartbeats. The machine makes it possible to combine the simulated irregular heartbeats with sounds of respiration, a situation the student will encounter in patients and have to recognize.

Bicentennial hearing set for Tuesday

How should New Jersey observe the two-hundredth anniversary of the American Revolution during the 1970's? What are organizations and institutions throughout the state now doing in preparation for the Bicentennial? What can be done to promote appreciation of the men and events of the Revolutionary era and the ideas and ideals embodied in the Declaration of Independence?

The New Jersey Historical Commission will take up these questions at a public hearing Tuesday in the State Senate Chamber in Trenton. The hearing, which will open at 9:30 a.m., has been called "to ascertain public opinion on New Jersey's role in the Bicentennial observance," according to the commission's chairman, Professor Richard P. McCormick of Rutgers, the State University.

Scheduled to testify are some 40 representatives of historical, educational, cultural and civic groups. Their testimony will be studied by the commission in preparing a state plan for the Bicentennial.

The commission expects the state plan to go into operation by 1974, reach a peak in 1976 with the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence and New Jersey's first State Constitution, and continue until 1983, marking the Treaty of Paris which formally ended the Revolutionary War.

State establishes a task force to study middle school setup

Dr. Carl L. Marburger, state commissioner of education, has announced the establishment of a New Jersey Middle School Task Force and the appointment of 19 persons to serve on it.

Dr. Marburger said he was creating the task force in view of the increase in the number of middle schools in the state and the need for a concerted effort to assist local school districts in developing programs and organizational patterns.

Establishment of such a task force, the commissioner said, had been requested by the New Jersey Association of Secondary School Principals and other groups. The State Department of Education has received a grant from the New Jersey School Development Council, Rutgers University, to assist the work of the task force, he said.

The task force will seek to develop during the next year a statement encompassing such areas as educational needs of pupils, middle school curriculum, staffing and facilities. Middle schools generally consist of grades 5 through 8, although several have been established to cover only some of those grades.

The membership of the task force includes representatives of the State Department of Education, college personnel, county and local school administrators, principals and vice-principals, curriculum workers and classroom teachers.

H. Richard Conover, principal of Millburn Junior High School, is chairman of the task force. William A. Cuff, associate professor at Montclair State College and a member of the task force, will serve as project manager.

Other members of the task force are William F. White, Ocean County superintendent of schools; Robert A. Withey, Emelyn Sheninger and Roy Wager, all of the state department's Division of Curriculum and Instruction; Lawrence Kaplan and Victor J. W. Christie, executive secretary and vice-chairman, respectively, of the New Jersey School Development Council.

Also, Andrew J. Hudac, assistant principal, Hillside School, Bridgewater; John E. Kelley, industrial arts teacher, Franklin Junior High Teaneck; Janice Picarelli, teacher, Brick Township Intermediate School; W. George Batezel, principal, Moorestown Middle School.

Also, Ellwood B. Jacoby, Chatham Township superintendent; Mrs. Corinne Shirk, Burlington County helping teacher; Kurt Klaus, director of secondary education for Camden schools; Sanford Clarke, associate professor, Paterson State College.

Also, Samuel Bishop, principal, Lincoln Avenue School, Orange; Thomas E. Harrington, Mt. Laurel Township superintendent, and Nicholas J. Steenstra, principal of Central Junior High, Parsippany.

Dr. Victor J. Podesta, assistant state education commissioner for administration, and Dr. William H. Warner, deputy assistant commissioner for curriculum and instruction, will serve as ex-officio members.

Arts Center offers 10 daytime shows for area's students

More than 43,000 school children from 15 counties in New Jersey are scheduled to attend 10 free daytime shows at the Garden State Arts Center in May and June.

The New Jersey Highway Authority, which built and operates the Arts Center on the Garden State Parkway, reported this week that reservations have been filled solidly for the special Young People's Concerts there starting May 25. The Arts Center's regular summer season starts June 10.

Rear seating areas of the amphitheater will be excluded to bring the children closer to the stage. The programs are financed by the Garden State Arts Center Fund. The school children will be from grades 1 through 8.

The programs, running through June 5, will include the National Theatre Company's presentation of the musical "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," The Serepidity Singers, the Monmouth Symphony Orchestra and the Garden State Philharmonic.

The authority established the fund in 1968 to receive contributions to finance special events for New Jersey youth. In the first two seasons, more than 200,000 youngsters from schools and, in mid-summer, from disadvantaged areas of the state were bussed in to the Arts Center for free performances.

The school groups this season will travel to the Arts Center from as far north as Sussex County and as far south as Camden County. Other counties to be represented are Bergen, Burlington, Essex, Hudson, Hunterdon, Mercer, Monmouth, Middlesex, Morris, Ocean, Passaic, Somerset and Union.

Three films by Warners for Cannes

Three Warner Brothers motion picture releases, "Woodstock," "The Tulips of Haarlem" and "Hoe-Blin," will be shown at the 23rd Cannes International Film Festival, which opens Saturday in the French resort city.

"Woodstock," the film of the three-day celebration of peace and music in upstate New York, will be presented out of competition at Cannes.

"The Tulips of Haarlem," a contemporary drama of young love filmed in Belgium and Italy by director Franco Brusati, and "Hoe-Blin," Raoul Coutard's film about the effect of the war on a little Vietnamese boy, have been invited to compete at Cannes as representatives of Italy and France, respectively.

"Woodstock," a Technicolor film directed by Michael Wadleigh and produced by Bob Maurice, stars Joan Baez, Arlo Guthrie, Joe Cocker, Crosby, Stills and Nash, John Sebastian, Jimi Hendrix, Richie Havens, Santana, Sly and the Family Stone, Curry Joe and The Fish, Ten Years After and The Who. It is a Wadleigh-Maurice Ltd. Production.

"The Tulips of Haarlem," a widescreen-color film, stars two film newcomers, Carole Andre and Frank Grimes, the latter currently making his Broadway stage bow in the award-winning "Borstal Boy." The Ultra Film-P.J.C.-PEFC production is being produced by Turi Vastie, with Julien Derode as executive producer.

"Hoe-Blin," winner of France's Le Prix Jean Vigo, was written and directed by Coutard and filmed in color on location in Vietnam. The title is Vietnamese for "Peace." The Madeleine Film-Parc Films-Gueville-Capac production is being distributed by Warner Brothers throughout the world outside the United States and Canada.

Flip Wilson: host

(With the exception of Alan King, Flip Wilson has subbed for Johnny Carson on the Tonight Show more than any other guest host. Last month alone he made 10 appearances in the host's seat. Flip, who'll have his own weekly variety series on NBC starting in September, discusses what it's like to host America's most popular late-night show.)

To me, my job as host is to kick off the show with humor and get the audience into a receptive mood. After that, I don't feel I have to be funny. I have to be interesting. Obviously, there are many occasions when a guest will make a remark that leaves itself open for a wisecrack from me. But I'll never go out of my way to get a laugh.

I always enjoy hosting the Tonight Show because, apart from everything else, it gives me a chance to meet a lot of marvelous, interesting people who I might ordinarily never get a chance to know. But I do have to be honest in admitting that I don't think I could ever host a talk show on a regular basis.

I'm sure the viewers don't realize it, but it takes a great deal of concentration and effort to sit in that host's seat and appear casual and relaxed. You know that if you aren't a good host for the evening that whole show is going to collapse around your ears. It is a terrible strain and pressure to work under.

From the time I get up till the time I go to the NBC studios in New York I don't have any appetite. I know I must have energy if I'm going to do the show, so I try to force down a salad before I go on. When I've finished the show I always have a terrible headache, and have to be on my own for a while to wind down. I suppose it's reaction.

But I know that however much I enjoy the show, I couldn't go through that violent headache every night. It would kill me.

And with September and my TV series, and all the other good things that are happening for me at the moment, I want to stick around, honey!

ASKED QUESTIONS
Andreas Vesalius (1514-1564) was the Belgian anatomist who questioned many of the then current theories of the circulatory system as taught by Galen, chiefly the existence of openings in the wall dividing the left from the right side of the heart through which blood was believed to pass, reports the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dreyfuss building dedicated at FDU Madison campus

Fairleigh Dickinson University dedicated the Leonard Dreyfuss College classroom building at the Florham-Madison Campus on Sunday. Speaking at the ceremony honoring the late Leonard Dreyfuss, a former trustee of the University, was Rep. Peter H.B. Frelinghuysen, of the Fifth Congressional District of New Jersey.

Dreyfuss was a close friend of Fairleigh Dickinson University for 19 years. He began his affiliation with the university when he was named a member of its Board of Advisors in 1950. A member of the Board of Advisors for 12 years, he became a member of the Board of Fellows in 1962. After serving on the Board of Fellows for four years, he was appointed a trustee of the university on April 26, 1966, four years to the day before the dedication ceremony of Leonard Dreyfuss College classroom building.

Dreyfuss had a particular interest in the Lutheran Home at Jersey City. He was concerned for the educational improvement as well as the continued development of the physical beauty of the campus. As a token of its appreciation, the campus named a lecture hall in the Mansion for him and Mrs. Dreyfuss in January, 1959.

The Leonard Dreyfuss College classroom building which was dedicated Sunday is a major step in the development of the campus. The building provides facilities for incorporating the latest technological advances as aides in teaching. In addition to the 20 classrooms which are equipped for television presentations, related faculty offices, and a large lecture hall, the building houses the Instructional Media Center of the Florham-Madison Campus.

Mrs. Richie previously served as director of the Reformed Church Home in Irvington.

Construction underway on new Shop Rite store

Work has gotten under way on a new Shop Rite supermarket in the Union Shopping Center, at the northeast corner of Morris and Liberty avenues, Union.

The announcement was made this week by The Kislak Organization, realtors of Newark, who negotiated a long-term lease of the new facility, involving aggregate rentals in excess of $1.5 million.

The center is owned by Philip J. Levin, nationally prominent real estate developer. The supermarket will be run by Shop Rite of Union, Inc., a new firm headed by Morris Margolis and Herman Krasner, who are active Shop Rite operators in the area.

The existing market building of 18,000 sq. ft., vacated by Acme over a year ago, will be completely rebuilt and enlarged to provide an entirely new supermarket of 25,300 sq. ft. There will be parking for 250 cars. The opening is expected by early this fall.

NCE gives first award

The Newark College of Engineering awarded its first Robert W. Van Houten Award for Excellence in Teaching Saturday to a professor of English who has been with NCE since 1946. Presentation of the award took place at the college's annual Founders Day program at the Robert Tray Hotel in Newark.

Receiving the award, which is named for NCE's president, was Dr. Herman A. Estrin of Scotch Plains. Presenting the award on behalf of the college and the NCE Alumni Association was John Petro, past president of the association.

The Van Houten award came into being last fall when the NCE Alumni Association established the recognition to honor the man who has been the college's chief administrative officer for the past 23 years.

WHILE OBTAINING HIS EDUCATION, he taught Hebrew for two hours every weekday in a Chelsea temple, worked with youth groups and conducted Saturday morning services for children, all of which contributed to the support of his family.

"My day ran from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. and I studied on buses, trains, on week-ends, nights, whenever and wherever I had a chance," Eckman said. "I didn't go to Florida on vacations like some students are doing now. Working all day was a pleasure after four years of what I had as a child."

Professor Eckman studied for his doctorate at Harvard and eventually came to New York where he continued work on his doctorate at Columbia University and now is completing it at NYU. He also continued his Hebrew Jewish studies at the Jewish Theological Seminary of American where he obtained his master's degree in Hebrew studies in 1963. He also continued his studies in Hebrew at Yeshiva.

ECKMAN TEACHES at Upsala's evening and summer sessions. For the first time this summer he will be teaching a new course, "Soviet Russian Foreign Policy," covering the Communist era, starting in 1917. For the third straight year he will also teach the course, "History of the Jewish People Since the French Revolution."

In addition to teaching at Upsala, Eckman is chairman of the Hebrew and Social Studies Departments of Hillel Academy of Perth Amboy. He also writes articles for the McGraw Hill Publishing Co. of New York City.

sources by first the Russians and then the Germans, the Eckmans were supported by an uncle in Boston, the late Samuel Coleman, owner of Coleman's Fashion Shops. Although stricken with cancer, Coleman invited the Eckman family to come to the United States and he paid for their transportation and visa.

In Boston Eckman's father suffered a heart attack and could not work. Eckman's two older sisters went to work in a fashion shop and Eckman resumed his education while working in his spare time at various jobs including those of a bus boy and a shipping clerk. He also attended religious school.

"I entered the eighth grade without knowing a single word of English," Eckman said.

His lack of knowledge of the English language did not deter him. Eckman finished Chelsea High School with the highest scholarship ever given for achievement, courage and determination.

He received his bachelor of art's degree, teacher's certification and master's degree at Boston University while attending the Hebrew College of Boston at night. Each semester he obtained 15 credits at Boston University and 15 at the Hebrew College where he also received his B.A. degree in Hebrew Studies. Over a four year period he accumulated a total of 240 credits.

After World War II, he returned to Poland with his mother and three sisters, and in 1945 they were reunited with his father who miraculously had also escaped from the Nazis when they took over Poland from the Russians. It was the first time he had seen his father since 1939 when he was two years old.

After a brief stay in Poland, the six Eckmans made their way to West Germany where Eckman, then eight years old, began his secular religious formal education in Kessel and Munich. At the time he could speak—but not write—Russian, Polish and Yiddish.

Millions of youths getting Social Security benefits

Want to meet a typical Social Security beneficiary? Before you visit your local senior citizens club, you might try checking with the Cub Scouts or Campfire Girls. Or the local high school basketball team. Or even the students at a nearby college or university.

Nearly 31 1/2 million Americans under 18 are receiving monthly Social Security payments. Another half million students 18 through 21 are also getting benefits.

Thirty years ago, fewer than 55,000 children received benefits. But the law has been changed over the years, not only broadening everybody's protection but greatly increasing the significance of Social Security for younger people -- young workers as well as beneficiaries.

The young worker of today, through his Social Security contributions, is building protection for his family. With contributions of only a few hundred dollars a year, he is creating an "estate" that could mean monthly checks for many years if he should die or become disabled before his children are grown.

Three million young widows and children are receiving payments based on the earnings of a deceased husband and father, with the average payment for a mother and two children now $292.00 and the maximum $434.40.

N. J. increase in Monocultural jobs for last month

Total nonagricultural employment in New Jersey was 2,888,800 in March. According to estimates prepared by the Division of Planning and Research, this was approximately 28,700 higher than the estimate for February and excludes farm, domestic, and self-employed workers. The main contributor to this gain was the nonmanufacturing segment. Compared with last year, employment went up 70,300 in March of this year.

Employment in manufacturing rose 5,700 to 884,000 despite the 1400 drop in the non-durable goods sector. Increased jobholdings in durable goods were mainly a result of recalls and returns after several strikes. Among the major industries that moved forward were the transportation equipment and fabricated metals industries. Besides the returns from strike in the fabricated metals industry, a large plant moved to New Jersey adding to the number of jobholders in this industry.

Although strikes were a paramount cause of a 400 decrease in the electrical machinery industry, the total effect on durable goods was minimal. Most of the industries in the non-durable goods sector remained relatively stable except the apparel industry which declined 1,300 as a result of seasonal lay-offs.

A gain of 23,000 brought nonmanufacturing employment to 1,704,800. Increased seasonal activity brought trade up 4,100, services advanced 2,100, construction increased by 8,300, and finance rose 1,100. Returns from strike and a general increase augmented employment in transportation by 1,400 to 179,200. A 5,900 increase in government signaled the return of teachers who had been out on strike and the hiring of persons to assist with the census taking.

The workweek in March remained stable at 40.7 hours. A two cent rise in average hourly earnings increased average weekly earnings by $0.81 to $137.16. There were no major changes in the main industry groups although fluctuations occurred in some of the industry subgroups. Compared with March 1969, weekly earnings were up $6.28. The workweek this March was about 12 minutes shorter and average hourly earnings were $0.17 higher.

State gets a department to protect environment

On Earth Day last Wednesday, Governor William T. Cahill signed into law legislation creating a new department in New Jersey state government called the Department of Environmental Protection. At the signing ceremony, the Governor named Richard J. Sullivan as commissioner of the department.

Sullivan has been director of the Division of Clean Air and Water since its inception in 1967. This division, formerly in the State Department of Health, is now transferred to the Department of Environmental Protection and renamed.

The new department will consist also of units previously attached to the Department of Conservation and Economic Development and the Department of Agriculture. The purpose of creating the new department is to unite under one administrator all the state's functions in behalf of environmental protection, and to avoid unnecessary duplication of activities.

The Department of Conservation and Economic Development ceases to exist as such although its functions will be continued, those dealing with ecology and conservation being a part of the new department and those pertaining to economic development being transferred to the Department of Labor and Industry.

BEFORE ANNOUNCING Sullivan's appointment, Governor Cahill praised the work done by Joseph Barber as Acting Commissioner of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development since Cahill took office in January.

The Department of Environmental Protection will consist of the Division of Environmental Quality (previously the Division of Clean Air and Water), and the Divisions of Natural Resources; Fish, Game and Shell Fisheries; Water Policy and Supply; Parks, Forestry and Recreation. The pesticide control functions of the departments of Health and Agriculture are now assigned to the Division of Environmental Protection along with other functions spelled out in the legislation.

Booklet tells how to set up summer youth job program

WASHINGTON—A guide for setting up better summer youth employment programs has just been issued by the U.S. Department of Labor. Entitled, "Summer Youth Employment Guide," the guide is aimed at potential urban sponsors of inner-city youth programs.

It is the product of an Experimental and Demonstration Project conducted for the Labor Department by St. Louis University's Center for Urban Programs (CUP).

The 37-page booklet provides a summary of observations made on three pilot summer employment programs conducted by CUP in St. Louis, New Haven, and Phoenix over a two-year period.

The guide emphasizes four criteria which should be applied in the selection of a local community agency responsible for the administration of a summer youth program:

- Administrative experience in operating large programs.
- Access to capable summer staff
- Working relationships with a functional knowledge of the various cooperating agencies.
- Ability to expand activities to meet the demands of a summer youth employment program.

The booklet also discusses, step by step, the elements deemed essential to the success of such a program, including: Organization and coordination, hiring, competent staff and staff training, job development methods, recruitment and selection techniques, youth orientation approaches, referral and placement procedures, program phasing throughout the summer months, evaluation and final report, and early plans for the following summer's youth employment program.

Single copies of the publication are available at State Employment Services offices or from the Manpower Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, Washington, D.C. 20210.

The chains that 'bind' are gone

Not even a cemetery is safe from theft. According to Springfield police, two 16-foot lengths of heavy chain were taken from the entrance of the Presbyterian Cemetery on Main street. According to the report, the chains were put up Saturday night and were missing the next morning.

John Graham of Newark reported that his car was stolen from the parking lot of Runyon Sales, Rt. 22, sometime between April 21 and 24. He told police that he had parked his car in the lot and had locked it. At about 5 p.m. on April 24, he came to get his car and found it missing.

John Manners of Jersey City told police he had parked his car when he went to work at a local business. When he came out to the lot, his battery, valued at about $35, was missing.

Thomas Hubb of Parlin reported that he had parked his car in the lot at Atlantic Metals on Paden road. When he came out he found that his car had been entered. Property valued about $125, including his wallet, was missing.

Robert Temple of Beverly road, Springfield told police that three tapes valued at about $25 were stolen from his car which he had parked and locked behind Federated Electronics on Rt. 22.

A 12-volt energizer battery valued at about $40 was taken from a construction site on Morris avenue, according to police. The foreman of Smith Construction Co. reported that there had been vandalism over the weekend.

Gerald Cohen of Beverly road, Springfield, reported the theft of three fishing rods and reels from his unlocked garage.

Driver gets summons in mishap

John R. Prudente of Summit was issued a summons by Springfield police for leaving the scene of an accident last Tuesday evening.

According to police, his car collided with one driven by Helen C. Zanger of Millburn at the intersection of Morris avenue and Baltusrol way. The Zanger car sustained damage to the right rear, trunk, fender and bumper and was towed away. Prudente's vehicle had damage to the left front fender, headlight, grill and bumper.

According to the report, both cars were heading east on Morris avenue. Mrs. Zanger was stopped for a red light when Prudente reportedly hit her car in the rear and then drove away. Moments later Millburn police apprehended Prudente at the intersection of Shumpke road and Baltusrol way.

Springfield police arrived just after the Millburn police had stopped Prudente and brought him back to the scene of the accident. He then was brought to headquarters and issued a summons.

A car driven by Howard Kohn of Union collided with one driven by Mrs. Evelyn H. King of 24 Pitt rd., Springfield, early Sunday morning at the intersection of Morris avenue and Rt. 24, according to police. Kohn's car was damaged on the front end. Mrs. King's car sustained damage to the rear. Both were towed away.

Gary Wierner, 16, of Hillside, a passenger in Kohn's car was taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, where he was treated for a bruised forehead and released.

Witnesses told police that Kohn was heading east on Morris avenue and Mrs. King was going north on Rt. 24.

Gem display to be held

New Jerseyans will be able to view the DeWitt collection of quartz replicas of prized diamonds, each cut by a master diamond cutter in Antwerp, Amsterdam or New York, at the Millburn shop of S. Marsh & Sons, 265 Millburn ave., from Monday to May 15.

According to Irving J. Marsh, store president, this collection, assembled and owned by Mr. and Mrs. C. O. DeWitt of Teaneck, is considered by gemologists to be the finest of its kind in the world. Each of the stones is cut in cabochon fashion with its distinctive rounded surface. The exhibition will feature more than 100 replicas of the world's most famous diamonds.

Included in this display of gems will be the history of each gem—its discovery and ownership. The "Star of Persia" was discovered in India in the early 16th century, and has a fascinating story to tell. Three of its facets carry the names and dates of previous owners cut into the stone. One of its legendary owners was Jehan-Shah, builder of the Taj Mahal in India to memorialize his wife.

Another interesting gem is the one owned by S. S. Niarchos of Greece. It was discovered in 1954 in the Transvaal, South Africa, and weighs 426.5 carats. It is believed to be the largest pear-shaped diamond in existence and is valued in excess of $2,500,000.

Day camp to be held at Summit Y

Plans for the 16th season of the Summit YWCA's day camp for young children were announced this week. The two-week periods will be offered for boys and girls who will enter kindergarten in September and for girls who will enter grades 1, 2 and 3.

Dates for the first two-week camping session are July 6 through July 17. The second period will run from July 20 through July 31. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to noon. RESEARCH PATIENTS AT NIH
 "Medicine, to produce health, must examine disease." And, a corollary might add, to examine disease in man — study man himself. Researchers at the Clinical Center of the National Institutes of Health (NIH) are doing just that. They study the sick — and the healthy — in an intensive effort to understand many common chronic diseases, which each year afflict thousands.

Admitted annually to this 516-bed, combined research laboratory and hospital, are over 4,000 carefully selected patients suffering from such disorders as heart disease, arthritis, cancer, epilepsy, infectious diseases, dental and mental illnesses. The attack on these diseases, the primary targets in our national program of health research, focuses on their basic causes, as well as better methods for diagnosis, treatment and prevention.

Because of the unique requirements of medical research at NIH, the Clinical Center is not a diagnostic or general treatment clinic. Patients are admitted only if they have the specific kind or stage of a disease required for a certain research project. Thus finding the most suitable patients depends on the assistance of doctors throughout the world. Each prospective patient must be recommended by his own physician, who also supplies the medical information needed for selection of suitable cases.

There are other considerations, too. The patient must be well enough to travel to the Clinical Center and must be able to pay for his own transportation. And more importantly, the patient must be prepared for a longer-than-usual hospital stay because of the amount of testing required by research. However, Clinical Center patients receive highly skilled nursing and medical care without charge. A research patient at NIH is given every safe test that might yield a new clue in the study of his disease. The results of X-rays, blood tests, and effects of special diets, as well as comparisons of different remedies for different patients, and of test responses between healthy and sick persons provide scientists with vital information on normal and abnormal body function in their study of disease. In return, patients everywhere receive the benefits of current medical knowledge.

When his study is completed, the patient is discharged and returned to the care of his referring physician, who receives a full report on the results of his studies and treatment. Frequently, patients return to NIH periodically for brief follow-up examinations.

Write to NIH Feature Service, Bethesda, Md. 20014, for a free copy of "Clinical Center Patient Admission Procedures," Publication No. 500.

FAMILY POT LUCK

BY HELEN HALE

Save leftover ham, dice and mix with cream of celery soup and green beans or mixed vegetables for a day-after casserole. Serve on crisp chow mein noodles.

Diced ham also combines well with hard-cooked eggs in white sauce and marshmallow cream; spoon over vanilla ice cream.

Thanks to the blender, nutritious ice cream shakes and floats are a snap to prepare. Your favorite ice cream, milk, and additional fruit flavorings if you wish, may be blended together. Top each serving with an extra scoop of ice cream.

For a thrifty family-sized scalloped dish, combine a cream sauce, served on toast or split hot biscuits.

For a quick treat, combine equal parts of whole cranberry sauce and any leftover vegetables that are not enough to serve by themselves. Top with buttered bread crumbs, and bake until bubbling and brown.

- Minted Glazed Carrots
- 2 bunches carrots (about 12)
- 1/4 cup honey
- 1/4 cup butter
- 2 teaspoons chopped fresh or dried mint leaves

Cook carrots until tender; drain and add honey and butter. Cook over low heat until carrots are glazed, turning several times. Just before serving, sprinkle with mint. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Serving Suggestion: Place Minted Glazed Carrots around a snowy white head of cauliflower crowned with Mushroom-Cheese Sauce.

Richard Magure of Clark served as best man. Ushers were Edward Lynch, the groom's brother, Bert Maier and Doug Maier, both of Clark, William Schlegel of Long Branch and Mark Hatches of Union. Christopher Durr, the groom's nephew served as ring bearer.

Mrs. Wambach, who was graduated from Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School, is a legal secretary with Abrams, Kestenbaum, Hendricks & Reina, Plainfield.

Failures of home sewing are easy to avoid

Making a dress is not only satisfying and economical, but is an expression of creativity, says Carolyn F. Yuknus, Senior County Home economist. But disappointment is evident when a garment doesn't "turn out" quite the way it was envisioned.

There are three related areas which cause home sewing failures. If any one area is ignored, the results will be disappointing to the maker.

For successful accomplishment in home sewing, full attention must be given to coordinating the fabric to the pattern design, recognizing proper fit, and accurately following directions.

It is not always easy to combine just the right fabric with the pattern. Even some ready-made dresses do not represent the best combinations in this area. The back of a pattern envelope always provides suggested fabrics that are an excellent guide to your choice. These suggestions have been tried out and are fairly accurate. They serve as a starting point but are not meant to be limiting to your creative development.

Recognizing proper fit is one of the most elusive areas. Poor fit is perhaps more acceptable in ready-made clothes because they are made for mass average figures, but since most of us deviate from the average figure in some respect, it becomes important to recognize our personal deviation and learn to fit it properly.

For example, you may be of average overall height but still have a long waist, square shoulders, long legs or low bust. Recognizing any one of these individual figure characteristics and knowing how to alter a pattern to fit these

"As the last resort, read the directions," is too often evident in the workmanship and the way a garment is put together.

The fabric and the pattern design may be a good choice, the fit may be perfect for the figure, but the accuracy of putting the pieces together is often neglected.

The directions for a pattern often seem long and complicated, but if they are approached like a recipe for a cake or some other food, by completing one step before worrying about the next step and being accurate in all procedures, the results will be worthwhile and satisfying.

Take 'care' in cleaning wall papers

New wall papers and wall coverings are more durable than ever, reports Carolyn F. Yuknus, Senior County Home economist. Many of them are now not only washable, but are scrubbable. Regardless of the pattern, these wall papers are not as delicate as they appear.

The new papers will retain their bright colors and just-hung look with a minimum of care.

The first part of "care" is to know that wall papers are divided into categories of water-sensitive, water-resistant and plastic coated or vinyl.

If you are not certain of the type of paper you have, wet an extra piece or an inconspicuous area on the wall. If the color runs or fades, you have water-sensitive paper; if the color does not run but the paper absorbs the water, you have water-resistant paper; if no moisture mark appears, then you have a plastic coated or vinyl paper.

For care of water-sensitive paper, do not use a liquid solution for cleaning. Only a special dough-type cleaner will do a satisfactory job on general soil.

Water-resistant papers should not be subjected to harsh cleansing agents or brush scrubbing. Use a mild detergent solution and a semi-dry sponge to help restore the new look to these papers.

Plastic coated or vinyl papers are impregnated with a plastic sealer. These are actually scrubbable and can take stronger cleaning solutions and harder rubbing.

For badly stained or worn off areas, consider placing a patch of matching paper over the area. Tear rather than cut the edges of a matching piece and paste over the old paper. The torn edges will make the patch invisible.

If paper becomes loose around windows or radiators because of seepage, just repaste it. The new paste will smooth out the paper.

A soft gum eraser can do wonders in cleaning the soiled area around light switches or above radiators. Use a light stroke in one direction to help remove the soot and dirt.

Grease spots on paper can often be completely removed by making a paste of flour or corn starch and cleaning fluid. Apply the paste sparingly, let dry, and brush off residue.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

GOOD AND EVIL

Today, it is not easy always to be a proper Christian. Much that is popular, that is accepted and tolerated, is contrary to the teachings of Christianity. This does not mean, perhaps, that a Christian must be a crusader, must take up a sign and walk in the streets. But the proper Christian will reject actions and ideas which are wrong and which offend God.

The true Christian should stand up for "right" and not, by silence, give support to something which is "wrong." Evil may not be destroyed, yet growth will be severely hindered if men of good will offer unified resistance.

The problems which beset the world today are not new. They have been around for a long time. Christianity has had to contend with them for centuries. If Christianity is to deal with them effectively, there must be a strengthening of unity for good. It must begin within our individual hearts, in our community, between neighbors. It must reach out and establish a stronger brotherhood between men of all races and creeds.

Annual color print exhibition will open at State Museum

For the second time the New Jersey State Museum will host the American Color Print Society Annual in an exhibition that opens at the main galleries Saturday and continues through July 5.

The society is a non-profit national organization founded in Philadelphia in 1939 to bring original color prints to the attention of the public and to assist its members in exhibiting their work. Today it is considered the oldest and the most important group of color printmakers in America.

This year's exhibition includes more than 125 prints which represent traditional graphic processes as well as a variety of innovative techniques. Artists are from Canada and various Latin American countries as well as the United States.

The State Museum enlarged the scope of this show by inviting artists from the entire hemisphere.

According to Dr. Kenneth Prescott, director of the State Museum, "While the American Color Print Society has members outside the borders of the United States, the 21st annual exhibition is the first one that includes works of selected printmakers from Canada and Latin America."

Jurors, Bernard H. Kohn of Philadelphia, and Jacob Landau of Roosevelt, both distinguished printmakers, selected 11 award winners. Donors providing funds for the purchase of prints for the State Museum collection were

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Westcott of Rosemont, New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley W. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Hurton Peskin, Sol Davidson and Mr. and Mrs. David Kaplan, all of Princeton, Tec-Torch Company, Inc. of Carlstadt, Mr. and Mrs. John Watta of Oldwick, and Kennedy Galleries, Inc. of New York City.

Award winning works which will become part of the State Museum collection are as follows: Casita Azul Y Naranja, lithograph by Emilio Sanchez, Cuba; Dominant Blue, embossed print by Luba Genush, Quebec, Canada; Forehead I, lithograph by James Rosenquist, New York City; La Mascara Magica, serigraph by Carlos Merida, Mexico, D.F.; Oriental Image, intaglio by Mauricio Lasansky, Iowa City, Iowa; En Plata #2, embossing by Minna Citron, New York City.

The following award winning works will become part of the American Color Print Society Collection, Philadelphia Museum of Art: Follow the Signs of the Times, color intaglio by Gerson A. Leiber, New York City; Re-Entry, mixed media by Paul Shubb, New Castle, Delaware; Spectral, serigraph by John Wiltenbecker, New York City. Other award winning works are: Grid Construction, serigraph by Burton Wasserman of Glassboro, and Traffic Cones, serigraph by Joyce Sills, New York City.

The State Museum is open Monday through Saturday, 9 to 5; Sunday, 2 to 5.

Williams appoints Elizabeth attorney campaign manager

U. S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., (D-NJ) announced this week that he has named Dominick A. Mirabelli of Elizabeth as his campaign manager for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Mirabelli, an attorney, is a member and former president of the Elizabeth Board of Education. He recently was nominated for treasurer of the State Federation of District Boards of Education.

"Sen. Williams truly has been a great senator," Mirabelli said in accepting the nomination. "His record speaks for itself. He has been in the forefront of so many of the issues which are just now becoming popular."

"He has taken the leadership in forging programs for people who have been largely ignored by government -- the commuters, the aging, the poor, and the average taxpayer."

"I think it is vital that we re-elect him to the Senate so that he may continue his work to bring about passage of the new programs which he has designed to meet the current and future problems of our nation."

"I am confident that we will be able to involve a new generation of Democrats in the nomination of Sen. Williams."

Mirabelli is a graduate of Georgetown University, Washington, and Seton Hall School of Law, Newark. A member of the bar since 1960, he maintains law offices at 1195 E. Grand st., Elizabeth.

He formerly was county counsel in Union County and has served as assistant Union County prosecutor. He is a Marine Corps veteran.

Mirabelli is a member of the executive committee and is treasurer of the Union County Chapter of the National Foundation. He is a communicant of St. Genevieve's Church, Elizabeth.

Mirabelli is married to the former Marie Anne Tomasulo of Cranford. The couple has seven children.

Historian presents Drew series finale

One of the country's leading historians, Dr. Henry Steele Commager, Winthrop H. Smith professor of American history at Amherst College, will deliver the final lecture in Drew University's four-part series of Graduate School lectures on "New Directions in American History." The lecture, titled "Uses of History," will be given tonight at 8 o'clock in S. W. Bowne Great Hall.

Dr. Commager has been Pitt professor of American history at Cambridge University and Harmsworth professor of American history at Oxford University, both in England. A member of the National Academy of Arts and Letters, Professor Commager has served on the United States committee on the history of World War II, which sent him to France, Great Britain, and Belgium.

Newark State laboratory dedication on Tuesday

Ceremonies for the dedication of the Bertram Vogel Psychology Laboratory of Newark State College, Union, will be held in Willis Hall on Tuesday, according to Dr. Robert Roth, professor of psychology at the college and chairman of that department.

The laboratory is being named in memory of the late Dr. Vogel, professor of psychology at Newark State from 1958 until his death in 1967 at the age of 49. He was the first chairman of the Psychology Division. The laboratory had been unnamed until now.

Tea will be served in the formal lounge in Downs Hall at 3 p.m. The unveiling of a plaque is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. in Willis Hall and the dedication program will be presented at 4:45 p.m. with Dr. Morris Goodman, president of the New Jersey Psychological Association, delivering the address. Dr. Vogel's widow, the former Alice E. Drum, M.D., will present the college with his collection of laboratory testing equipment. Dr. Vogel earned his B.A., M.A., and

Ph.D. degrees at New York University. During World War II he served in the United States Navy as assistant intelligence officer for the Fifth Fleet. He was a chief propaganda officer in the Central Pacific Theatre, won five citations and decorations and was cited by Admiral Chester Nimitz as "a key man in the acquisition of valuable intelligence from prisoners of war."

Recalled as a Lieutenant Commander during the Korean conflict, Dr. Vogel served as Director of Psychological Warfare for NATO. While teaching at Newark State he maintained a private practice and continued working in classified intelligence services. He was a supervising psychologist and psychoanalyst at the New York Mental Hygiene Clinic and consulting psychologist for the United States Department of Labor and the New Jersey State Legislature.

In 1967, Newark State College named Dr. Vogel Distinguished Professor of the Year.

NSC theatre unit will present 'Oz'

The Newark State College Theatre Guild will present its workshop production of "The Wizard of Oz" on Sunday, May 10, in the Little Theatre, located in the College Center on the Union campus. There will be three performances, 11 a.m., 1 and 3 p.m., geared to children ages 3 to 12.

In view of the limited space and the anticipated demand for tickets it is suggested that reservations be made in advance by phoning 289-4500, extension 310.

'Guys, Dolls' opens tonight

Upsala College's "Workshop 90" drama group will present the musical, "Guys and Dolls," in the college theatre tonight, tomorrow and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoon.

The student production, under the direction of assistant professor Robert Marcatto, is the final of the 1969-1970 season. It was originally scheduled for three nights. Sunday afternoon matinee was added because of the advance interest, Marcatto said.

Curtain time for the evening performance is 8:30 and for the Sunday matinee 2 o'clock.

Forest fires down in '69 on state land

Less than one-half percent (3,528 acres) of all lands protected by the State Forest Fire Service were burned by forest fires during 1969, Joseph T. Barber, acting commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development, said this week. It marked the third straight year that such damage had been under 4,000 acres.

Commissioner Barber credited the use of modern firefighting equipment, intensive training of service personnel and good conservation practices by hunters, fishermen, picnickers and residents as major factors for these accomplishments.

According to George R. Moorhead, state forester and chief of the department's Bureau of Forestry, 1969's fire damage was the third lowest to be recorded for New Jersey. "Approximately 47 percent of New Jersey remains forested. These open space lands are an essential contribution to our state's environment. Although the Forest Fire Service is recognized as one of the best organizations of its type in the nation, public cooperation continues vital for adequate control of forest fire outbreaks," he added.

Air-attack bases are maintained by the State Forest Fire Service at Hopatcong State Park, Morris County; Holmerville State Quail Farm, Ocean County; Davis Field, Atlantic County; Atsion (Wharton State Forest) and Coyle Field, Burlington County. These installations are fully staffed in preparation for the upcoming spring forest fire season which will extend from March 15 through May 15.

Throughout that period, helicopters loaded with liquid retardant will be on stand-by alert. Under actual fire conditions, the helicopter drops retardant on a blaze and keeps it controlled until the arrival of Forest Fire Service crews and equipment.

This type of aircraft is extremely effective in containing such blazes, since supplies of water can be taken aboard from lakes or rivers for use at the scene of fires. No permits will be issued for burning during daylight hours while the air-attack program is in effect.

State fire warden William B. Phoenix pointed out that removal of existing fire hazards is extremely important in reducing the potential for forest fire outbreaks. "Debris and flammable materials should be disposed of by those who reside in forested areas. I urge all individuals to cooperate with conservation agencies throughout the State in forest fire prevention," Phoenix said.

Each year the spring forest fire season in New Jersey is considered conducive to incidences of forest fires, since weather conditions (lack of rainfall and high winds) usually prevail during that period. On April 20, 1963, 186,000 acres of timber throughout the state were destroyed because of such factors.

When patients complain, they're cured

Maybe it's because Saul Strauss has twin daughters, seven sisters and two brothers and a 95-year-old mother that he knows birthdays are so important.

As the new director of dietary services at Memorial General Hospital in Union, he'll be throwing hundreds of mini-parties this year for patients on their own special day, just as he's been doing for many years in other hospitals in the metropolitan area.

"We go out and buy them a small cake,"

Strauss said, "put a candle on it and bring it up to their room."

"It's good to see the smiles on their faces," he said, "when they're surprised with the little moments of their birthday."

Strauss, who became dietary services director at Memorial General on Jan. 1, makes a special effort to get patients' birth dates as they check into the hospital.

He also makes a special effort to throw four kind-of galas every year -- on Christmas, Easter, Thanksgiving and New Year's.

Strauss started the practice during the year, he headed the dietary departments in such hospitals as St. Mary's in Hoboken and Christ Hospital in Jersey City. He has also managed food service operations in Elizabeth General Hospital, Caledonia Hospital in Brooklyn and St. Benedictine Hospital in Kingston, N.Y., while working with Croty Brothers Food Caterers.

"ON CHRISTMAS, New Year's and the other holidays," Strauss continued, "we decorate the tray with special mats and napkins besides serving the appropriate main dish, such as turkey on Thanksgiving. On other minor-level holidays, the patients get a treat, too. On St. Patrick's Day, for instance, there's corned beef and cabbage, split pea soup and lime gelatin with green topping.

"The only real complaints we normally have," Strauss, who has been in the food service business since 1928, said, "is from patients on special bland or puree diets. We feel that when a patient complaining about our regular food," Strauss continued, "he's probably well and it's time for him to go home."

Strauss was looking for more streamlined facilities when he came to the modern 180-bed Union hospital. And that's what he's been given to do the job of feeding both the patients and employees in the eight-year-old facility.

He's also been given the manpower. Strauss is in charge of 50 employees, of whom 25 are full time. This includes three cooks and, once in a while, Strauss really puts the whole thing together when he "puts on the whites" and takes personal charge of the operation.

STRAUSS HAS DONE a lot of decision making and jumping around since he arrived here from the village of Wertheim-am-Main in Baden, Germany, as a 16-year-old, non-English-speaking immigrant in 1928.

Three of his sisters were already in this country, but he lived with them for only a month before striking out on his own.

Strauss started as a bus boy cleaning off tables and washing dishes. During the depression years, he moved from place to place, wherever he could find a job in poverty-stricken New York City.

In the meantime, he attended night school to learn English. As his knowledge of the language and of the food business grew, so did his position in life.

From bus boy he went to counter man, then up the food service ladder to salad man, short order cook and studies at cooks and bakers school led to a position as night manager of a restaurant. This gave him the confidence and experience to open his own place.

For a while, Strauss managed and owned two cafeteria-restaurants in New York City. When the buildings were demolished for construction sites in 1938, he took a job with his first institutional catering firm as a food manager for several plants in New Jersey. During World War II, he saw service in the Army as a regimental mess sergeant.

STRAUSS FINALLY settled in Bayonne, where he still lives with his wife Sylvia. For many years Strauss enjoyed bowling but now restricts his limited recreational time to swimming at the Skyline Cabana Club in Jersey City.

He is a member of the Bayonne Democratic Club, the Bayonne Community Center, the Jewish War Veterans and the Masonic Lodge. He is also a member of the Brotherhood of Temple Emanuel in Bayonne.

His twin daughters are attending college now and something of hospital life must have rubbed off on them too.

Isabel is at Wagner College in Staten Island and plans to go into educational nursing. Sharon, who attends Trenton State, will transfer to Temple University, Philadelphia, this fall, where she will be a speech pathology major.

Their birthday falls exactly one month to the day after Strauss' wedding anniversary. That makes their birthday easy to remember, but you can't say the same for Strauss' seven sisters and two brothers and thousands of friends he has made bidding birthday tidings during his long hospital career.

PORTION CONTROL at Memorial General Hospital, Union, is an important part of the dietary department's job. Saul Strauss, director of dietary services, is pictured here checking in a meat order.

42 YEARS in the business of feeding people has taught Saul Strauss, dietary services director at Memorial General Hospital, Union, that nothing is more disconcerting to a patient than to receive the wrong dinner. Here, he and Mrs. Theodore Osbahr of Roselle, dietician, check the patient trays against their food orders.

Vocational students win special awards

Two students of the auto repair programs at Union County Vocational Center are the recipients of special awards from Jenewein Volkswagen Corporation, Linden, according to an announcement by Leslie N. Kiray, director.

Barry Friedman of 707 Roessner dr., Union, received a $50 government bond for "high initiative, excellent attendance, 'all-around' qualities and an interest in training to be a teacher." George Franek of 225 Linden rd., Roselle, won a complete set of basic metric tools.

Friedman has been acting as shop foreman and teacher aide for almost two years and expects to work in a paraprofessional capacity at the Center beginning September, 1970. Presently, he attends Union High School mornings and the Vocational Center afternoons.

Franek who, according to Bill Stuart, instructor of the auto shop program, excels in foreign car repair, attends morning classes at Abraham Clark High School, Roselle, and afternoon classes at the Vocational Center on a shared-time schedule.

The Roselle Catholic High School Drama Club will present the musical comedy, "Guys and Dolls," tonight through Monday.

The show is under the direction of Brothers Francis Walsh and John Burke, both English teachers at Roselle Catholic. Miss Nancy Farden of Roselle, a student at Girls Catholic High School, is musical director. The choreographer is Miss Pamela Magee of Roselle.

The cast of more than 50 students is led by Timothy Coyne of Union, who plays the role of Sky Masterson and Christopher Chikanovich of Roselle, as Nathan Detroit. Sarah Brown is played by Nancy Cooney, and Miss Adelaide is played by Alicia Atkins, both of Roselle, and students at Girls' Catholic High School.

Tickets are at $1 for children under 12, and $1.50 for adults. They may be purchased at the school, at the door on the evenings of the performances and through any Roselle Catholic student.

Enumerators start door-to-door work

Census enumerators will be working in Union County municipalities and will be going from door-to-door to gather additional information from householders, the Census Bureau announced yesterday. The bureau said enumerators may be identified by red, white and blue badges and by a shoulder bag with the words "U.S. Census." Persons who have any questions concerning enumerators may call 355-1151 for information.

The announcement was made yesterday to clear up a misunderstanding on the part of some householders who have been asked questions by persons not connected with the Census Bureau.

Monmouth will play host to students

The President has declared May 16 Armed Forces Day at military installations throughout the world. This year, high school seniors from Union County are invited to view the festivities at Fort Monmouth as guests of SFC Garner M. Pozgay, of the Elizabeth Army Recruiting Station.

Festivities will include a parade by soldiers stationed at Fort Monmouth visits to exhibits relating to the Army's role in science, electronics, industry and activities located at Fort Monmouth; demonstrations by the Royale Drum and Bugle Corps, the Seton Hall University Pershing Rifle Drill Team, the Greater Kensington String Band of Philadelphia, and a sky diving demonstration by the Black Knights from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

The group will depart Elizabeth at 8:30 a.m. and return at 5:30 p.m. Transportation will be provided by the Army.

Interested high school seniors are requested to contact SFC Pozgay at the Elizabeth Army Recruiting Station at 272 N. Broad st., Elizabeth, or call him at 352-1025 to reserve their places on the bus. Reservations must be received by May 9.

Earth teach-in at tech center

Students, teachers and administrators of Union County Technical Schools observed Earth Day, April 22, in a teach-in at the Commons Room of the Administration Building from 10 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 2 p.m.

Dr. George H. Baxel, superintendent of the vocational-technical schools and president of the Technical Institute, said that the problems of pollution—air, earth, water, noise and population—are serious.

"Technical students," he said, "are directly involved in fields that contribute to or control pollution. The complex and costly problem of reducing pollution must be solved by individual effort."

Leslie N. Kiray, director of the Vocational Center, called attention to available ecological programs in schools and communities.

Mary Kaczor of the beauty culture program at the Vocational Center offered suggestions to help prevent environmental catastrophe.

George Brown, student of pre-technology at the Technical Institute, urged the audience to carry the lessons of today far beyond school if we are to gain salvation from rampant technology and self-destruction.

Guest speaker of the Earth Day program was Clifford B. Ross, public relations officer of the Division of Clean Air and Water, State Department of Health, Trenton. Ross informed the audience that the Governor had just signed a bill to create a Department of Environmental Protection. He urged an order of priorities and rational choices to preserve balance between technocracy and conservation.

Ross noted the tremendous public concern in the fight against pollution. He cited the economics of pollution, growth of people and productivity, commenting that productive growth in the last 20 years has equaled that of the previous 350 years.

In conclusion, Mr. Ross pointed out the many career opportunities existing in pollution control.

A film demonstrating the economic, social and recreational effects of polluted water was shown.

UC to present play on life of Dr. King

"Beautiful Dreamer," a play based on the life of Dr. Martin Luther King, will be presented Saturday at 8 p.m. at Union College.

The performance by the Poor People's Theatre of New York City is sponsored by the Union County Gray Committee. Tickets are $2.50 and are available to the general public.

"Beautiful Dreamer" is a multi-facet dramatic portrayal of the Civil Rights movement focusing on the life and contributions of Dr. King. Dramatic readings, music, dance and audience participation are added to traditional dramatic techniques to heighten the impact of the performance.

Proceeds from this production will be used to finance a summer remedial program in Fayette, Miss., where the Gray Committee has resolved to support the establishment of a two-year community college.

Dance Theater Guild to offer ballet excerpts

The New Jersey Dance Theater Guild will present "Excerpts from Famous Ballets" Sunday at 8 p.m. at Union College, Cranford. The ballet program is the final event in the Union College Alumni Association's Cultural Arts Series.

The Cultural Arts Series was introduced this year as a gift from the college to the alumni, Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, president, said. "This is our way of showing our appreciation to the alumni for its support over the years," he said.

The six-event series has been enthusiastically received, according to Richard P. Muscatello, president of the Union College Alumni Association. All of the programs have been fully subscribed, he said, and only the limits of the 500-seat college theater have kept the audience to that figure.

The programs, all of which have been offered at no charge, have included the film, "Oklahoma;" two young people's concerts by the Suburban Symphony Orchestra; an "opera in brief" production of "Carmen" by the Amato Opera Company, and a performance of J.B. Priestly's "Dangerous Corner" by the Union College Drama Club.

Four hikes on schedule

The Union County Hiking Club has scheduled four hikes for members and guests this weekend.

A seven-mile hike from Hewitt, Passaic County, north to New York Route 210 is scheduled Sunday under the leadership of Alfred Steinmetz of Chatham. The group will meet at the administration building of the Union County Park Commission, Warranaco Park, Elizabeth, at 8 a.m.

Pool membership offered by parks

Family memberships will again be offered residents of Union County this summer at the swimming pools operated by the Union County Park Commission at John Russell Wheeler Park, Linden, and Rahway River Park, Rahway.

A family may apply for the special rate of $25 for the swimming season which will entitle parents and all children, 18 years of age and under, to swim in the pools without additional charge.

Applications are available at the administration building of the Union County Park Commission, Warranaco Park, Elizabeth. Requests for applications will also be accepted by mail or by telephone. The completed applications will be accepted by the park commission by mail, and the necessary identification cards will be forwarded to the family.

The pools, sand beaches and refreshment stands will open for the 1970 season at noon on Memorial Day, Saturday, May 30, and will close on Labor Day, Sept. 7.

The programs at the pools this season will include swimming and lifesaving classes, and New Jersey and Union County AAU championships. Only qualified life guards, certified by the American Red Cross, are employed to safeguard and supervise pool patrons.
