Authorities to prosecute all offenders Bicycle thefts reported

at meeting on Tuesday

By JANICE ADLER vapdalism in Mountainside was luvenile highlighted by Councilman Robert Ruggiero at the Mountainside Borough Council meeting Tuesday evening in the Beechwood School, He said that much of the damage in the com-munity is "definitely of a malicious nature." If a juvenile is caught "we intend to, and will, process a juvenile complaint," he added. Mayor Thomas J. Ricciardi presided.

Councilman John Hechtle commented that seven bicycles have been stolen within the past month. Those that were found had been damaged, he added.

Councilman 1 red Simmons mentioned that shrubbery on corner lots is beginning to cause problems at intersections. He requested that owners of the shrubbery cut it back where necessary to avoid problems from arising. Hechtle mentioned that the dog rables clinic will be held today from 2 to 4 p.m. at the firehouse. Garbage disposal and what to do with it was discussed at a meeting Hechtle attended last month. He said that Environmental Technology of East Orange will conduct a study concerning various types of garbage. They will then try to find a suitable site for a dump.

Our Lady of Lourdes Church will let the recreation department use its land in the rear of the church for a softball field, Hechtle said. Six softball teams have signed up for the recreation program. This is more people than expected, he noted,

Only 675 families have joined the Com-munity Pool so far, Hechtle said. This comhares to 798 families who joined last year. It is anticipated that lights will be installed on the tennis courts adjoining the pool. This will enable night games and will help prevent vanualism at the pool, Hechtle disclosed.

GlERO SAID that there were four dog bite cases within the past month. He said that there are definite ordinances regulating ownership of dogs. They must be on leashes "We need the cooperation of the community as a whole to prevent further mishaps," he said. He said that this can become a serious problem and requested that members of the community be their own police. He concluded by saying that ordinances concerning dogs will be enforced.

Mayor Ricciardi proclaimed tomorrow as National Maritime Day. This is to recognize the importance of the merchant marine as it affects the national economy.

Grace gives final report on fund raising campaign

Daniel Grace, 1969-70 chairman Mountainside Community Fund, recently pre-sented his final report to Mayor Thomas J. Ricciardi and Frank Thiel, incoming 1970-71 chairman.

Grace announced that for the first time since 1965 the goal, plus some more, had been achieved. He attributed this to "the hard, persistent work by area chairmen and the street captains they recruited, the encouragement and support given by the town government, and support given by the town government, and the generous response of the good people of Mountainside." The goal of the 1969-70 drive had been $19,600. So far $19,800 has been received. Grace expects the final total to exceed $20,000. This year's drive was based on a "nine in idea. Regional pushed across three runs in the third on hits by Honecker, John Piccirillo, and Tom Wilson. Rahway came right back in its half of the inning to score twice but the High-landers got one in the fourth and two in the sixth to clinch.

The Gov. Livingston hitters, though; could not deliver against Cranford and Clark for pitchers Kyle McCormick and Tom McCann, although McCann's error cost him the game. Both were frustrating defeats considering the scores were 3-2 and 1-0.

McCann, who has not shown the pitching he demonstrated he was capable of last season, gave his best performance of the year, hurling four-hitter. Unfortunately for McCann, Jim Schneider gave up only one hit. The two ducled through the first five innings. In the top of the with two out, Clark's Tom Squashic and Bill Wojciak singled. The next batter hit a tricky roller towards McCann, The lightander pitcher could not handle the ball and Squashic scored to win the game, 1-0.

McCormick was not as impressive in defeat but still deserved to win. Although he allowed eight hits, Cranford was able to score only three times. The opposing pitcher, Steve Gashko, gave up four hits and fanned 10. # Gaudineer spring expedition switching locale from Stokes to Fishkill this year

The eighth grade outdoor education program of the Florence Gaudineer School, Springfield, will be held at Camp Hidden Valley, Fishkill, N. Y., starting this year, George R. Benson Jr., the program's supervisor, has announced. The first group will be there june 1-5; the second group will spend june 8-12 there. Pre-viously the program had been conducted at the New Jersey School of Conservation at Stokes State Forest, Branchville. At Stokes facilities had to be shared with other groups and the general public, Benson said. At Fishkill the facilities are private and no other groups are in residence at the same time. It also is closed to the general public,

At Stokes, other groups sharing the facili-ties roamed the area because they were not properly programmed or supervised, he added, In addition, the Stokes facility is being phased out and has been incorporated into Rutgers University as a training school in environmental science.

Parent chaperones will supervise each cabin in case there is an emergency, especially at night, Benson said. There are plans to adapt, expand and relate to the new facility. A new expansion feature will be an outdoor theater, There also will be a sand fill for an archeological dig. The best aspects of the program at Stokes will be adapted for use at Fishkill, especially hiking, he added. Benson said that some parents and staff. members had felt that the program lasted too long at night. It is hoped that the program will end at 10:30 p.m. instead of midnight or I a.m. as it did at Stokes.

PLANS HAVE been made to have a hike before and after each activity. Facilities are located so that a bus will not have to be retained. All are within hiking distance. It is estimated that the students will have to walk seven to 14 miles per day. The schedule has been arranged so that there will be one hour each afternoon for recreational pursuits plus an evening recreational program. There will be field studies and seminars. The field studies concern problems which each group will investigate under the guidance

'That the future may learn from the past'

By JANICE ADLER About 150 seventh and eighth graders at the Florence H. Gaudineer School, Springfield, are winding up work on a project to construct refinish items for the historic Cannon Ball House in Springfield, Financing for the project was provided by the state innovative mini-grant program.

Restoration work was done under the super-vision of George R. Benson Jr., chairman of the committee and teacher of art and humanities; Ronald Brown, music and message recorder; Miss Helen Kilbourne, home arts teacher; Warren Palmiter and Robert Senkowsky, industrial arts teachers. The main idea of the program was to lessen apathy about our local heritage, Benson said, Students did research into the materials and techniques of Colonial architecture, interior design, furniture of the period and other related areas. Benson said that the students learned about the history of Springfield and developed civic pride. The result of the project will be that one room of the Cannon Ball House will be furnish-ed as authentically as possible. Benson said that the students built and restored furniture and other Colonial articles. No antiques have been used. The students have learned to construct objects the way their Colonial spiritual ancestors did. The room will look like the original - - as if the owner had just left for a few moments.

The idea for the project grew out of the yearly trip to Williamsburg, Va. The original proposal was to restore parts of that town, but that Williamsburg Historical Society turned it down. Benson said that Dr. Thelma L. Sand-

Springfield group of Witnesses plan to attend program

At a recent meeting of the Springfield Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, Felice Epis-copo, presiding minister, gave final details and instructions concerning the three-day Bible convention to be held at the David Brearley Regional High School from tomorrow through Sunday. Attending with the Springfield congregation will be the other 15 congragations from the New Jersey and Staten Island areas which together make up N. J. Circuit No. 5 of Jehovah's Witnesses.

"A closed-circuit television system will be set up at the high school to enable the overflow crowd to view the program from seats up in the gymnasium and cafeteria," Mr. Episcopo "Hot meals will be served in the announced. cafeteria between sessions, to enable those attending the convention to enjoy every part of the program," he continued,

"Mr. Episcopo then reminded all those in attendance of the topic to be discussed by C. H. Weining at 3 p.m. Sunday to mark the climax of the assembly, "Withstanding the Pressures of our Day." He suggested also, that since all ses-sions are open to the public, "the members of the congrefation might wish to extend an invitation to friends and fellow-workers to attend the sessions with them."

The Cannon Ball House was one of four structures remaining in Springfield after the British burned down the town during the Battle of Springfield on June 23, 1780. It is theorized that the British spared the house because they were using it as an emergency hospital for their wounded.

The house is owned by the Springfield His-torical Society and considerable work has al-art classes at the Florence Gaudineer School, Springfield, are "rushing" a chair for the Cannon Ball House. This is part of the restoration project of the Revolutionary War landmark under a state mini-grant. Students in the school researched the life and mores of the town, circa 1760. They also did research into related areas, including architecture, furniture and interior design of the period. (Photo by Jonathan Shayat) ready been done. Several of the rooms are furnished with period pieces, circa 1760-1780. The room that the students are completing is believed to have been a bedroom and contains the original flooring and door jambs. The original structure is an example of early Georgian architecture. During the Battle of Springfield, a cannon ball pierced the west wall, hence the name. Actual records of the house were destroyed in 1800 when the Essex County Courthouse burned down. Information used has been based on research by recent historians, Benson said. Parts of the project that have been completed are a stencil border using colors and designs of the period, two rush chairs of which one is a master's, two tables, earthen= ware, a pierced tin lantern for light and a table sconce.

The youngsters are in the process of finishing a Colonial cradle, a storage chest, a braided rug, a pegged wall rack for clothes, a curio shelf, another table sconce, window draperies, a collaged wall sampler and a dress and cloak of that era,

They also are completing a plaque with stand explaining who did the restoration and including their motto: "That the future may learn from the past."

OLD SOUTH POLE

Columbia University scientist reports. A team of leading earth scientists from 11 nations unanimously agreed to this conclusion following a recent expedition to southeastern Algeria. "There is no question about it," he said. "The territory that was the earth's south polar region in the Upper Ordovician period is now the central Sahara." The flat-tened topography of the area grooves in an-cient rock showed the result of continental glaciation -- the kind that occurs only under a polar ice cap. At the time, South America and Africa were one continent and Antarctica and Australia were another. The North Pole of that era is now in the middle of the Pacific, somewhere south of Hawaii, COMPUTER MUSIC can be "humanized" by using a pair of telegraph keys instead of a baton to "conduct" it, a Stanford University music professor says. Combinations of letters and numbers enable musicians to designate the duration of musical notes, pitch, amplitude and rhythm. "Quite acceptable computer performances can be produced with this means," he said, "but they lack the subtly controlled discrepancies inherent in human performance. In order to use humanly produced rhythm, a program can be written that creates input by reading the real time values tapped on two telegraph keys."

Varsities

Connolly from first. At the beginning of the season, Coach Ray Massaro had said his goal was to finish above .500. With the record at 7-11, the best Gov. Livingston can do is 10-11.

But, if the baseball season is bad, track is worse. Regional's record is a very dissap-pointing, 2-9, having lost almost all of its meets by wide margins.

Gov. Livingston's poor record results from a lack of depth in almost every event. As a result, the Highlanders are being swept in a number of events, notably the sprints. Against Summit, Regional was shut out in five events and lost the meet, 79.5-46.5.

The defeat was typical of the season the Highlanders are having. It bears out the depth problem plus the absense of several key performers from last year, and several who were expected to do well this season, John Lee, who holds the school record in the two mile, is out for the season with a leg injury. Other injuries have hurt the team.

Several performers have stood out this sea-son, including Rodger Pitzer, Dave Ruch, Scott McDonald and Guy Groves, Ruch and Pitzer have set school marks in the javelin and pole vault while McDonald has done well in the high and low hurdles. Groves, though, has been the big surprise. Groves is unbeaten in the half-mile. Unfortunately, though, Coach Richard Lawrence lacks depth and Gov. Livingston will probably not win another meet this

'NO REASON TO CELEBRATE'

I am a Mountainside resident who finds no reason to celebrate our town's overwhelming defeat of last week's school referendum. The legacy from continuing defeated referendums will stay with us long after the satisfaction from proving our power of the ballot has departed.

As a neighbor of the many otherwise constructive and responsible leaders of our community, who organized and worked for the defeat of this referendum, I can only de-plore their reasoning on this issue. Their views on the referendum acknowledged our present urgent needs for school expansion; indeed, we all strongly favored school ex-pansion in the referendum of two years ago.

Yet, the final arguments of their cam-paign were directed only to the purse and the taxpayer. Anonymous calls that narrowly appealed to the "taxpayers instinct" were made blindly, both within our boro and to other voters in the region. Printed flyers attacking the integrity and character of the regional board were broadly distributed. We have reduced educational planning to a level of partisanship where any means justifies the ends.

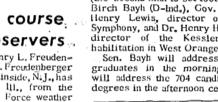

As a taxpayer, I also am faced with the increased financial burden resulting from our rising cost of living. But the economic arguments of this referendum strongly favored its approval. The price for school expansion will only go up with further delay and the specter of overcrowded schools in our town can only reduce our real estate values. More important, however, as the parent of three elementary school children I am both disturbed and angered that the defeat of two successive high school referendums should have been aided by the inter-town rivalries within our region. A plague on both our houses if we cannot see where such actions must lead, We cannot continue to put off urgent present needs while expressing concern only for long range goals. Our children and future generations, who are the product of our present educational programs, will not thank us for such wisdom.

SUNDAY'S 👗 SERMON

Some of the great minds of this country have been put to task with the problem of evaluating just how a portion of our young people got that way and just where they think they are going. What makes a hipple, a dropout, a dope-user? What motivation causes a teenager, who has never accepted any kind of responsibility, want to tear down the "establish-ment," or wrest control from the hands of seasoned elders? What guides youth to the point where "doing your thing," whatever that thing may be, is the only way to go through life upon this earth?

There are no ready answers. There is, perhaps, the germ of an idea in the thought that youth would lead because youth has been left unguided. Youth has been not taught the meaning of responsibility, and accordingly seeks it in impossible ways. Every parent should con-sider what he or she has given

WASHINGTON, - U.S. Sen, Harrison A. Williams Jr. (D-NJ) has introduced legisla-tion to provide regulation of the mushroom-"The con-artists and swindlers have entered the franchising picture to a significant de-gree," Williams said. "They have preyed upon senior citizens looking for ways to inupon school structure in the savings upon retired military personnel wishing to begin new careers, and upon members of minority groups striving for independence within the economic structure of their communities." "I believe the Franchise Full Disclosure Act will enhance the entire concept of franchising by forcing the swindlers out, consequently assisting the truly legitimate operators," he added.

Williams pointed out the bill was based on information gathered during four months of research and study by the Senate Small Business Subcommitte on Urban and Rural Economic Development of which he is chairman. The subcommittee held six days of hearings earlier this year, during which it heard 43 witnesses, including famous sports figures and enterteiners according to the sports figures and entertainers connected with franchise operations.

It was the first Congressional probe of the $90 billion a year industry, and Williams bill is the first broadly-based federal regulatory legislation in the franchise field ever introduced.

The bill would require the offeror of a franchise to make full and complete disclosure of his business practices to prospective franchisees.

It also would make it unlawful for a franchisor to make false or misleading statements or misrepresentations in selling a franchise.

Unemployment dips a bit (0.1) in state for March to April

From March to April, total unemployment in New Jersey decreased by 2,300 and the rate dropped by 0,1, according to estimates prepared by the N. J. Department of Labor and Industry in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Labor. The April unemploy-ment total stood at 153,000 (5,0 percent of the work force). the work force),

The corresponding seasonally adjusted fig-ures were 150,600 and 4.8 percent of the work force, and increase of 3,600 in volume and no change in rate. The month-to-month decrease was seasonal in nature resulting primarily from increased busifiess activity in nonmunicalities activity in nonmanufacturing industries,

Over the month, nine of the state's 15 labor areas showed declines in the unemployment rate, All, of the shore areas had notable downturns because of preparations for the upcoming summer resort activities. Despite this, Ocean City-Wildwood-Cape May had the highest rate in the state at 11.5 percent, down from 14.9 percent in March. Among the major areas, Jersey City had the highest rate at 6.2 percent and Trenton had the lowest rate at 3.4 percent, also the lowest in the State.

Compared with April 1969, unemployment increased by 18,900 and the rate rose by 0.4. A slowdown in manufacturing activity over the year in some industries, and the secondary effects of a mid-western labormanagement dispute in trucking were the main reasons for the increased jobless level. The seasonally adjusted unemployment volume also showed an increase over the year (up by 18,600), and the seasonally adjusted rate rose by 0.3.

In May, unemployment is expected to de-cline slightly. But in June and July the rate will edge upward again and will be above 5.0 percent. This will be caused by the influx into the work force of summer jobseekers. By August, unemployment should drop as some of the added jobseckers are hired by employers and others withdraw from the work force, Expressing concern that "whole segments of the electorate have been disenfranchised by restrictive registration laws, the Democratic restrictive registration laws, the Democratic State Committee this week announced that it is advocating a system of universal registration, "The level of participation by voters at the polls ranks us about last among the modern industrial democracies," John T. Connor said that various techniques for establishing a system of universal registration should be explor st. He suggested the following approach:

Upon returning the signed application, by mail or in person, containing party preference, if any, other pertinent data, and a photograph, he would receive a registra-tion card containing his photograph. ## `Physical need' to study Cuban refugee gains honors

Gabriel Perez, who will receive his diploma-June 3, remembers his coming to Rutgers College in New Brunswick four years ago as a "renaissance," a rebirth of the culture he left behind in his native Cuba,

Offered a chance to study Italian, a language and culture he has come to love, the young man was able "to develop and to flourish" as Europe flourished during its Renaissance, the three-century revival of art and learning.

The 23-year-old Romance Languages major has flourished indeed. As commencement nears he is carrying an approximate 1.6 comulative average at a school where a "1" is the highest grade. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, a Henry Rutgers Scholar and, most recently, a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship designate.

Something of a modern "Renaissance man" himself, Perez combines interests in painting, films, music, boxing and other sports with his scholarly and linguistic pursuits.

Able to read and write in his native Spanish since the age of five, and fluent in English with help from titors by the time he arrived in 1962, he has become an honors scholar in Italian, known as "little French" and has an almost "physical need" to study German, for which he hopes to take a crash course.

"I don't know if you understand what I mean by a physical need to study," he says quietly, "but I have it."

This respect for learning was instilled in him by his father, a once well-to-do Havana essman, whose shoe factory was nationalized by Fidel Castro.

"First I want to say that I am an extremely lucky person," Gabriel says, "I have very understanding parents, and they were able to teach me about the finer things in life," Juan De Dios Perez began to teach his 10-year-old son about Aristotle and to take him to museums, ballets, the theater. "He trained me in boxing and horseback riding. Havana at that time," Garbiel adds wistfully, "was a marvelous place." WHEN CASTRO "nationalized everything," Gabriel and his older brother John left Cuba for the United States in August of 1962. It wasn't until the 1966 airlift that the rest of the family, mother, father, two sisters and a younger brother joined them in West New York. The family now makes its home in that

North Jersey community. In the interim, Perez and his brother, living

Newark will get $40,000,000

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has notified the Newark Housing Authority that it will release to the city at least $40,000,000 in additional urban renewal funds.

• The action by the federal agency ends a period of many months during which Newark officials have been left in doubts as to future federal commitments to the city's urban re-newal program. There had been warnings issued locally that Newark's program was in danger of being virtually shut down if new federal funding were not forthcoming. Joseph D. Sivolella, executive director of the Housing Authority, called the release of additional funds, "a breakthrough of extreme importance for our city at a time when the future of our entire effort to rebuild Newark has become very doubtful."

Sivolella received nothication of the new availability of federal funds for Newark in a letter from Harry I, Sharrott, assistant regional administrator for renewal assistance. Sharrott is based at the HUD regional office in Philadelphia. The commitment, Sharrott said, covers a period through June 30, 1972.

in a furnished room, went to work and perhaps grow up a little faster than the average American youngster.

During his first year in this country, Gabriel did not go to school, instead, he worked in a grocery store in Union City. Then he entered the 10th grade at Memorial High School in West New York and continued to work parttime.

"I was put into the general business curriculum, but I advanced rapidly in English and within a month I was in the advanced class," remembers, "By the time I was a junior, I was insisting on going to college, The youth's career was prohably charted for good at this time with the help of an understanding teacher of Italian, Mrs. Phyliss Zaccone, of whom he speaks admiringly, "She inspired me," he says. He studied the language for two years and scored high m subject on his college board examinations. Now years later, praduate school looms ahead, He plans to go to Harvard, and beyond that there is a career as a college teacher of Talian literature. "I want to help people to think, to balance

i want to neep people to think, to balance the sciences and humanities, and to accept change, Acceptance of change is inherently necessary," be says, "thinking at new levels gives new meanings to life,"

. . .

HIS CARLER AIM and his academic achieve= ment led to his designation in February as a Woodrow Wilson Fellow, one of 1,153 college seniors deemed "worthy of graduate fellowship support" by the national foundation. From the national field of about 12,000 who were nominated for the honor, Perez joined nine other Rutgers University students as "the most intellectually promising" spring gradu-ates planning careers as college teachers.

As a Henry Rutgers Scholar, selected last spring for outstanding scholastic achievement, Perez was one of 42 students excused from two formal academic courses each semester of his senior year to prepare a special research paper.

Perez' topic dealt with the history of the concept of baroque, a term describing a parera and style of music, painting, architecture, morals, literature and theater which departed from the rigid and ordered stylization of Classicism toward an irregular, extravagant and strained kind of expression.

To Perez, the barooue and the classical are two poles between which all of society fluctuates in its march through history, Today, he observes, there is a straining toward the baroque.

In his own painting, Perez finds satisfaction of an inner need for expression and he is presently working in inks and 'Sanguingna," a red chalk the color of blood, which was lavored by the Renaissance masters,

The passionate young intellectual acknowl-edges that his art helps satisfy other "inner needs"-he sells his works through a friend who runs an art gallery in New Hampshire. He will, however, go without eating to see films like Fellini's "Satyricon" and the works of Antonioni. To him, others are "just movies." Sports like soccer and wrestling are also high on big like additionary on his list of interests.

Two denominations to merge program tunctions and staffs

The Reformed Church in America's Particular Synod of New Jersey and the Synod of New Jersey of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. have voted to merge their administrative and programming functions "for the purpose of a united witness and mission." The decision was reached by the denominations' respective synod meetings. The Reformed Church met at their Warwick, N.Y., conference center May 4 and 5, while the United Presbyterians held their meeting May 2 in the Student Center of Princeton Theological Seminary.

"The plan for a United Synod does not create one new or merged denomination; rather, each denomination will keep its own corporate and denominational identity," a spokesman said, "The action to create a United Synod will provide a structure for accomplishing many specific goals and achieving a united program in areas which are of common interest but which presently are being dealt with separately by each denomination." "The United Synod will have a joint administrative staff which will serve the ecclesias-tical needs of 560 churches within the newly developed structure, including 164 Reformed churches and 396 United Presbyterian congregations. Committees which are responsible for identical programs will be united, and each united committee then will project a common ministry and witness for the United Synod, Historically, the two denominations have worked jointly in the areas of youth camping, Christian education training events, ecumeni cal relations, new church development, and strategy.

"The Presbyterian and Reformed churches in New Jersey have a common heritage from the Protestant Reformation, sharing a Re-formed declaration of faith and a Presbyterian system of church government in which the members, through a representative democracy, elect church leaders called 'elders' or 'presbyters.' The Reformed Church dates back to early Dutch settlers in the colonies, while the Presbyterians trace their background to Scottish settlers from the Presbyterian Church of Scotland," the spokesman said,

UC playwright aims to please Julian wants to entertain his audiences

"We're here to entertain you," sang Natalie Wood in the film "Gypsy," and, according to Donald Julian, playwright and English in-structor at Union College, Cranford, that's what the theater is all about. The young may who has had three plays

The young man who has had three plays produced at the Skyloft Theatre in Chicago and Cafe La Mama in New York is most adamant on the playwright's responsibility to entertain.

"The more important your message," he insists, "the more you have to dazzle it up," Julian said, "If you don't reach and hold insists, your audience, you can't get any message across."

He cites Oscar Hammerstein as a playwright who has had a profound social impact be-cause he successfully entertained his audience. Julian's interest in the theater goes back to grade school when his seventh grade class was assigned to write either a poemor a play. His three-page one-act play (the only submitted) was so enthusiastically received by his teacher that he began giving it serious went back even further. When the kids on the block got together to play movie star, he was always director, shouting through an imaginary microphone or shooting with an imaginary camera.

His first play was produced when he was 16 or 17 as part of a playwrighting contest. His reaction at the time was "people are listening to me -- accepting what I have to say -- so I accepted it."

BUT, WHILE APPLAUSE is the barometer of a playwright's success, Julian says he can't write just for an audience. His first can't write just for an audience. His first objective is to please himself. "I want to say something -- say it well --to entertain and inform but entertainment comes first," he says. Asked the theme of his writing, Julian hesitated before answering, "Power probably. I'm interested in the acquisition of power and the use of power." But, he added, he has wer to feel any. newd to establish a contrast yet to feel any need to establish a central theme for his writing. wright, he said he felt impelled to find a new theme for each play. He now realizes that a writer ultimately finds his theme and it may motivate work after work without destroying e impact or individuality of each play. While playwriting is his first love ("I get more satisfaction out of writing than any-thing else,"), Julian is also an experienced actor and director. "When I began acting, my goal was to be a star. Then I became interested in director and the star. interested in directing and just wanted to direct," he added.

As a college instructor, Julian's talents as actor, writer and director find a perfect stage. The tension that marked his first few weeks in the classroom were well masked, he said, by a good performance. The task

Easter Seal unit plans day camp

The Union County Easter Seal Society will open a summer day camp for physically handicapped children in the courty, during the last week of June, according to Dr. Ronald E. Myers, Union County Easter Seal chairman. The camp, to be operated in co-operation with the Cerebral Palsy Center, will be located at Springfield avenue and Holly street, Cranford. A program of arts, crafts, swimming, music and games, designed for approximately 35 crippled children, ages 6 to 12, is planned for the hours between 9:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. five days a week, from June 29 through Aug. 7.

Myers indicated that ability to pay nominal camp fees were not a condition of acceptance and that transportation would be provided when necessary.

A limited number of applications are still being accepted. Any eligible child can apply by contacting the Union County Easter Seal Society, 300 E. 5th st., Plainfield, phone Society, 756-6659.

of teaching literature and composition matched his experiences as a writer. Even his work as a director has had its impact on his work at Union College. Julian is advisor to the Drama Club and is directing all student productions.

Conversely, this first year in the classroom has added to the wealth of experience which all writers must accumulate as source material. "Ive learned so much dealing with the students," he says, as he suggest that this experience must find its way into his plays. IF TEACHING HAS BEEN an extension of his theater work, the course Julian, will teach this summer is a perfect marriage.

Union College is adding a theater workshop to its summer curriculum and Mr. Julian will teach a morning and evening session Monday through Friday from June 22 to July 31.

In describing the scope of the workshop, he said that in today's theater there is an increased emphasis on communication and interaction between actor, playwright and director. The workshop will explore the advantages of each of these disciplines working creatively with the others.

While it is expected that most members of the workshop will be primarily interested in acting (from future actors to future sales-men) those interested in developing their skills as playwrights and directors will have the unique opportunity to work out their ideas with actors.

The workshop is designed for people with varying levels of experience as well as for those who want initial training, julian said. The workshop will culminate in a public presentation of "Coffee House Theatre" at which three new works will be premiered. One of these will be a new play by Lanford Wilson, prize-winning Broadway and off-Broadway playwright and author of the "The Gingham Dog." The second work is by George Gingham Dog." The second work is by George Kearns and is slated for a New York production in the fall. The third will come out of the workshop itself.

Flower display at reservation this weekend

A "Rhododendron and Azalea Culture" program will be presented at the Union County rhododendron display garden, located in the "loop" area of the Union County Park Commission's Watchung Reservation, on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

The program will include a question and answer session on how to raise and care for rhododendrons and azaleas in the home garden. Henry Heyderhoff of Bloomingdale, president of the New Jersey Chapter of the American Rhododendron Society, is chairman of the program. The Union County rhododendron display garden had its initial planting in the fall of 1960. Over the years many new plants have been added to the collection. The object of the planting is to have a complete collection of all rhododendrons that will grow satis-factorily in this area. At the present time there are approximately 2,500 plants in the garden.

Urban teaching tressed at Upsala Interns get plenty of practice as well as theory

Are college students properly prepared to teach in urban school systems with their multiplicity of problems triggered by rapidly changing times?

This was the question that Upsala College, East Orange, and a special panel of consultants sought to answer two years agounder a $20,000 study grant from the federal government.

From the in-depth study came the conclusion there was a glaring need for improvements heretofore accepted teacher training standards.

As a result, Upsala College now is completing the second year of a bold, full-time pilot eacher intern program which is unique in that it meets head-on the problem of how to teach Clementary school classes inurban areas. The crux of the program is to bring theory and practice closer together.

Consequently, teaching interns at Upsala spend over twice as much time in the elemen-tary school classrooms in their senior year than they did before the new program was initiated. The interns don't just observe in the classroom. They actually teach to the point where, upon graduation from Upsala, they are near the level of a second year teacher, Dr. Fred Hahn, Upsala professor of educattion, pointed out the study showed student teachers were refusing to accept teaching jobs in cities because they weren't fully prepared to meet the needs of the urban educational system. "Before Upsala instituted its new program, students felt the problems of teaching in an urban community were greater and of adiffer-ent nature than in the suburbs," said Dr. Hahn who participated in the study during a year's leave of absence. "We found that as a result of the study our graduating students, as well as those of other colleges, were obtaining teaching positions in the suburbs because they believed they couldn't cope with the demands of urban classroom teaching

TO REMEDY THIS SITUATION, Upsala worked out a teaching arrangement with East Orange, a city of 85,000 residents of which

"We deemed it important that our students should go where the action is and teach in an urban community," Dr. Hahn stated. "During the past two, years our students have spent hundreds of thousands of hours in elementary classrooms in East Orange.'

The end result has paid off, according to Dr. Hahn. In the first year the trend of gradu-ating seniors teaching in non-urban areas was reversed and it is expected to be even larger in September. Having taken all of their required courses through their junior year, Upsala's teaching interns are quickly indoctrinated into classroom work two weeks before their senior semesters begin,

Early in September, they are assigned to an

This program is carried out through the month of January, Starting in February, the teacher interns spend four days a week in each classroom with Fridays devoted to seminars on campus. In mid-March the classroom teaching is accelerated to five full days, As opposed to the old system, student interns now may observe a child's educational growth over a year's period instead of the con-"We are looking at an intern's performance on the job and this is the best way to determine it."

East Orange's educators have been of "tremendous help" in the new program, according to Dr. Hahn. Faculty members not only assist in the classroom, but come to Upsala and participate in seminars for student interns.

Television also plays a role in Upsala's new student teaching program. The students' classroom instruction is taped on a mobile TV unit and is played back later at the college for self-analysis.

BEFORE ENACTING its new program, Upsala engaged the services of Dr. Louis E. Raths, now consultant to the Downtown Com-munity School of New York City and former

"By facing traffic, the pedestrian is always alert to approaching dangers, and can take necessary precautions to avoid them," said Vialle.

Vialle called particular attention to the dangerous practice of pedestrians walking on highways and freeways where traffic moves at a much faster pace. "Most areas," he noted, "have set up laws forbiding pedestrians to walk along these roads which are meant exclusively for motor meant exclusively for motor vehicles,"

During a railroad rate war in the mid-1880's, the fare from Kansas City to Los Angeles dropped to just one dollar.

New York University Professor of Education, His model for teaching has become to a large extent Upsala's model for preparing interns for teaching. It provided a definition of teaching based on his 10 components as outlined in his book, "Teaching for Learning,"

"In these 10 components we have an opera-tional objective," Dr. Hahn said, "The pros-pective teachers will be prepared along these lines, Since the 10 components have been developed of the total of the interveloped of th

She was a member of the cabinet of the mayor of New York with higison responsibility for eight city departments from 1954 to 1958. She also has served as educational consultant for colleges and universities in the United States,

Upon completion of the Upsala program, a student intern has completed work equivalent to two majors and is fully certified to teach by the state of New Jersey. The student also is eligible for reciprocity by the New England States, and Delaware, Maryland, New York, and Pennsylvania.

Criminal lawyers to study decorum, rights in courtroom

The New Jersey State Bar Association's criminal law section will take up the problem of courtroom decorum vs, the defendant's rights on Saturday, during the State Bar Association's 72 annual meeting at Atlantic City's Hotel Shelburne. This is one of the more than 40 programs scheduled for the 2,500 attorneys and their guests expected to attend the annual meeting, beginning today. "Controlling the behavior of an unruly defendant may be the only recourse if he persists in rambunctiousness, but gagging, physical restraints, or some other such proposals are distasteful to most citizens, as not befitting a democracy. Their hesitancy is compounded when considerations of free speech are inserted into the equation," an association statement said,

"The usual reply to these points, of course, is that only extreme behavior in the first place requires such extreme countermeasures "The criminal law section of the State Bar Association, then, will be attempting to settle upon a workable, palatable formula to protect the courts, yet assure a maximum of free speech to defendants,"

Dr. Gustafson, who taught at Upsala for 45 years after his graduation from the college in 1912, obtained the 1818 edition. of the New Testament from a Danish missionary in the Virgin Islands. They corresponded for a number of years after which the missionary gave the professor emeritus the book. The 300-year-old Bible was given to him two years ago by a family of German descent residing in East Orange,

The collection also includes Bibles in German, Dutch, Flemish and the Scandinavian languages including Faroese and the English spoken in the West Indies. Dr. Gustafson gathered the collection for use in English courses he taught while on the Upsala faculty, The Bibles were helpful in showing the relationship of English to other tongues in the Germanic family of languages.

Dr. Gustafson, often re-ferred to as "Mister Upsala," taught at the college from 1915 to 1960. He is the oldest living member of the faculty.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D. Director National Institute of Mental Health

BIOLOGICAL CLOCKS Now and again the fact that our bodies have mysterious but real biological clocks, liv-ing processes that deal with time, makes news; Our moon astronauts, for example, have had to cope with the problem of their bodies' clocks and resetting them to be in time and tune with the long voyage to the moon, the upsets to their biological rhythms of the trip, and the physi-cal needs of the work periods on the moon, During a moon shot, the astronauts "reset" largely by shifting around their times for sleeping, resting, and working during the journey. Their normal daily cycles of rest or sleep and being awake are thrown off, of course, just as are those of today's jet-plane travelers when they fly far and fast and change the usual

24-hour rhythm of living. The timing of events within man's body involves a rhyth-mic scheduling that appears to be important to mental as well as physical well-being. This is why the National Institute is of Mental Health conducts and supports an important body of basic and clinical research investigating a-wide range of biological rhythm problems in both animals and humans. Until not long ago, few instruments were available for detecting rhythmic changes in man or for analyzing the tre-mendous amounts of data necessary in "time" studies. The computer and electronic data systems help in handling the vast amounts of necessary data. At Rockland State Hospital in New York and at the Uni-versity of Minnesota, NIMH grantees have developed in-struments and methods that make the study of rhythms in man's blood-chemistry feasible.

Throughout history it has been known that man showed some kind of daily cycle of activity and rest, usually called "circadian rhythm" from the Latin "circa dies," meaning "about a day." But it is only recently that scientific interest has expanded into what is now a most promising area of mental health research. It may turn out that the role of timing in health and illness is of critical or essential nature and, hopefully, that measures to help our biological clocks can be found. In any case, it is beginning to look as if, as one writer puts it, time is as much the stuff we are made of as in the tissue of our bones, blood, and brain.

NORMAL VOLUNTEERS The Clinical Center of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md, has healthy patients, as well as sickones. To better understand body functions in disease, scientists study them in healthy individuals.

Healthy volunteers, of all ages, sponsored by organizations such as colleges, churches, and civic groups, offer themselves and their time to enable NIH scientists to learn more about the nature of health.

The volunteers participate in a variety of experiments and studies, among which may be one to help to develop a new treatment by testing an important serum before it is produced and distributed for general use.

Or, a healthy volunteer may spend two weeks in bed-testing the effects of prolonged inactivity. The results of this test may help sick people as well as help to predict how astronauts will react to long periods of confinement in space.

One group of volunteers receive a drug which causes a safe rise in eye pressure, simulating a characteristic of glaucoma. Since some 4,000 Americans are blinded by glaucoma each year, the results of tests like this one, under carefully controlled conditions, could have widetspread significance.

No unknown drugs are ever used on volunteers and no dangerous procedures are followed. The planned program, and his part in it, are carefully explained to the volunteer before a test begins. He can withdraw any time he wishes, but his cooperation for the duration of the isudy is important to its success. Few volunteer control patients at the Clinical Center withdraw from a study before it is completed. Many are members of the Brethren and Mennonite Churches and have pledged this period of volunteer service to God. Many too are conscientious objectors. The time they spend participating in volunteer programs is substituted for active service in the armed forces.

Life at the Clinical Center is not all tests and projects for normal volunteers. Many who are interested in science and medicine spend part of their time as laboratory aides to NIH scientists. Others may assist in physical or occupational therapy.

The Music Box umu by BOB LIBKIND mum

The nearness of commencement on area college compuses and the student strikes have put a dent in most rock and folk concerts. Music has been limited to special, relatively unpublicized events.

At Newark State College in Union last Friday the strike did, however, result in a Friday the strike did, however, result in a special, day-long rock fest, Three groups from the Bergen-Passaic area performed on the patio of the college center as part of an outdoor free concert: Factory, Stoned Gas and Blackstone River. Although "officially" sponsored by the col-lege's art department the concert was or-ganized by the strike coordinating com-

The rock revival was at Drew Saturday evening, "Johnny and the Cranks" took to the stage complete in motorcycle jackets and ducktails. The group of students from Drew are "into" the sounds of the 1950s and early 60s as well as a little Nashville. Although their music was for real, their staging was for show. A lot of laughs came out of the concert as well as memory vibes.

A VARIETY OF concerts from classical to country to pop to rock have been scheduled for the Garden State Arts Center in Holmdel this summer.

The rock and folk shows will be held in August. Jose Feliciano will be at the amphi-theater July 31 and Aug. 1. On Aug. 10 Peter, Paul and Mary will appear. Other events: Janis Joplin and Sea Train,

They were half a century apart, but the careers of Barbra Streisand and Fanny Brice, whose portrayal in the William Wyler-Ray Stark production of "Funny Girl" won Miss Streisand the Academy Award as Best Actress of the Year, contain many parallels. The picture continues at the Mayfair Theater in Hillside. Both girls were raised in New York City and were determined at an early age to enter and were determined at an early age to enter the theatrical world. Both possessed a vivid imagination. Both Fanny and Barbra first were launched by winning talent contests; Fanny at a local vaudeville house and Barbra at a smoky Greenwich Village night club. Each possessed a great comedic talent, plus extraording unterload clucing values. plus extraordinary untrained singing voices. Their rise to stardom was phenomenal. Within a few years' time, both became the most popular entertainers of their day.

New county juvenile detention center allows for instruction and recreation

Opening of Union County's new Juvenile Detention Center in Elizabeth next Monday will provide improved living quarters for the children, allow them to receive classroom instruction and give them areas for recreation, Freeholder Jermone M. Epstein, chairman of the Board of Freeholders' Department of Public Property, said this week. He in-vited the public to inspect the new center on Saturday between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Epstein said the facility in the new county building on Elizabethtown Plaza is "superior in every way" to the present center which has been in operation at John E. Runnells Hospital, Berkeley Heights, since July 1, 1968, Freeholder Epstein also pointed out that the appointment of a new full-time director, Robert L. Dixon, and the employment of an assistant and staff members will enable the assistant and staff members will enable the new facility to start a rehabilitation program, "In the past the center has provided little in addition to housing and meals," Epstein explained, "The new quarters will make it possible for our qualified, dynamic director; an assistant director, who will be engaged to do social work, and our full-time teacher, hired in February, to work for rehabilitation of the children in our care," The staff will cooperate with a Citizens' Advisory Board to work for continued improvement of the center. work for continued improvement of the center, he said.

THE MEMBERS of the advisory board are the Rev. Charles A. Cesaretti of Linden and the Rev. George White of Cranford, clergymen; Dr. Ben Haddock of Summit, director of the Union County Psychiatric Clinic; Frank Sabina of Plainfield, a recreation director; Mrs. Anita Szemes of New Providence, a journalist; Dr. E. W. Clausen, superintendent of Berkeley Heights schools; Miss Mary Wood-ward of Cranford director of a bureau of ward of Cranford, director of a bureau of children's services; Howard Schwartz of Linden, representative of the Union County Bar Association, and John Lopresti Jr. of Berkeley Heights, a school superintendent. Epstein is the liaison representative between the citizens' unit and the freeholders. The juveniles had been held in the commy fail until a court decision made it mandatory for the county to find separate quarters for persons under 18 years of age. The county obtained the use of a former hospital building in North Brunswick as a center

THE NEW CENTER in Elizabeth has eight rooms for girls and 20 for boys. The rooms are large enough for two children to be placed in each room and each room has its toilet facility. The center also has a classroom, arts and crafts rooms, library, kitchen, dispensary as staff offices as well as two recreation areas. One room in the new center is as large as the entire facility at Runnells Hospital.

As examples of the continuous improvement of the Juvenile Detention Center since July 1968, Epstein cited the institution of an educational program, the start of a program in cooperation with the Narcotics Clinic, the establishment of a program to provide complete physical examinations, including X-rays, for the children, and testing of children by the Psychiatric Clinic.

Epstein said that the physical examination at the center often is the first the child admitted to the facility has ever had and added that a nurse visits the center daily. In 1969 a large increase in the appropriation for the Psychiatric (linic made it possible to give assistance within 48 hours to children with severe emotional problems, the freeholder said, Previously such children had to wait until the New Jersey Diagnostic Center in Menlo Park could accommodate them, Another improvement consisted of the purchase of an acre and a half adjacent to the hospital property and the construction of a basketball court. Plans are underway to increase the social work at the center, He said that Dixon will provide the liaison between the center and social services. Parents, schools and probation officers will be interviewed in the effort to rehabilitate the child.

IMPROVEMENTS AT the Juvenile Detention Center also will include in-service training of staff members. Dixon has arranged for lectures on Wednesday afternoons. The sessions of two hours each have presented experts in various fields. Speakers and their experts in various fields, Speakers and their subjects to date have been Police Sgt, Louis Grare of Plainfield, "Law Enforcement"; Dr. Haddock, "Child Psychology"; Dr. Jo-seph Errington, Newark State College, "Recreation and Physical Education"; Howard Prunty, Child Welfare League of America, "Family and Children's Services", and Michael F. Bowen Jr., Union County Nar-cotics Clinic. "Juveniles and Narcotics."

cotics Clinic, "Juveniles and Narcotics." Epstein said it is a popular misconception that juvenile detention centers are like badly operated jails or are "torture chambers." The freeholder declared that nothing could be further from the truth and noted that although nearly 2,000 children have been through the center since January 1968 there has not been single complaint from a parent or a child about treatment received.

'If there had been any reason for complaint, I am certain that a complaint would have been registered," Epstein stated, "Most of the children today are well-informed of their rights as individuals and if they were given reason to complain, they would not have hesitated to do so.

Epstein paid tribute to the other members of the Board of Freeholders for their concern

It is a fact of life that people, no matter how young or how old, find it easier to. be critical than to be complimentary. Sometimes criticism can be destructive, but at others, constructive.

have formally announced that education does not belong just to educators, but that it is a public trust and today, more than ever, a very great public concern.

Something new and unique happened on Feb. 4, when the State Board of Education adopted a resolution setting a new project in motion =-the 'Our Schools' project. ''Our Schools'' is dedicated to the idea that.

citizen participation and involvement is a must in education. New Jersey's "Our Schools" highlights the urgent need for new or re-vised goals, specific educational objectives, up-to-date priorities and relevant programs for New Jersey's public schools.

As most of us probably know, goals are often nebulous statements of utopian ideals that cannot be reached, simply because there is no way of knowing when and if they have been reached or because they are so 'ideal' that it is impossible to make more than partial progress toward their attainment. How many of us who have set goals for our lives can come to a point at which we can say, "there it is," "I've done what I set out to do?" Goals by their very nature lead to other goals. Like society, goals are and must be ever-changing. This is the fact that the State of New Jersey has faced and this is why the "Our Schools" project was created and is designed the way it is. After it completes its project period of a year to a year and a half, it will be recycled every three to five years thereafter. "Our Schools" means just what it says. "We, the citizens of New Jersey, will have a chance over the next year to help determine, as a first step, what the goals of New Jersey's public schools should be. Not for yesterday's society, but for today's and tomorrow's. Not for the Three-R's era, but for the Space Age. There isn't a person who reach a new There isn't a person who reads a newspaper regularly who is not aware of the prob-lems faced by educators today. "There isn't an educator worth the title who doesn't know that he isn't reaching as many students as he should. Schools, like everything else, must change with the times.
