October drive is being planned by United Fund

Frank J. Thiel, MountainSide 1970 United Fund chairman, has announced that this year's United Fund drive will be held the last two weeks in October. Plans are well advanced and the executive committee is in the process of completing the budget which will be allocated for use in 1971, he added.

Thiel issued the following statement: "Once again the citizens of MountainSide are asked to contribute to charities that serve the less fortunate. And, as in the past, I am sure that they will respond generously to this appeal. The 10 charities that benefit from this United Fund have felt the pressure of inflation and find it difficult to operate within former budgets. Consequently, the citizens of MountainSide will be asked to open their hearts and pockets to a little wider."

Final plans, district chairmen and the official budget will be issued within the next two weeks.

Newark motorist fined total of $600 in Municipal Court

Milton Bryant of Newark was convicted on five charges going back to June 1966 and fined a total of $600 by Judge Jacob Bauer last Wednesday in MountainSide Municipal Court.

The charges and fines included: applying for a driver's license while his was revoked, $115; falsifying an application for a driver's license, $215; not having a name or address on a commercial vehicle, $30; driving while his driver's license was revoked, $215, and not having a proper registration, $25.

Patricia Saracena of New York City paid a total of $160 after being convicted on two charges. She was fined $105 and received a six-month suspended jail sentence for obtaining four tires valued at $191.64 from the MountainSide Amoco Station on Rt. 22 by using a stolen credit card. Unlawful possession of someone else's credit card cost her $55 and a one-year suspended sentence.

Johnny J. Jones of Philadelphia, Pa., was fined $105 for driving while under the influence of alcohol.

David Williams of Elizabeth paid $105 for using a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

Thomas A. Freeman of Westfield was fined $15 for careless driving.

Tossed by truck, driver uninjured

Richard A. Jones of Cranford escaped injury when he was thrown from a panel truck he was driving Friday morning at Forest Hill way and Ackerman avenue, according to MountainSide police. The truck, owned by Brennans Dairy Farm, Summit, had to be towed away after sustaining damage to the entire front end.

According to the report, Jones was traveling south on Ackerman and was making a right turn into Forest Hill way when the vehicle skidded on loose gravel at the intersection. He was thrown from the truck which then jumped the curb, knocked down a mail box and a lamp at 390 Forest Hill and continued across the lawn. The truck finally came to a stop when it hit the side of the house.

PERC: No jurisdiction to hear, decide charges made by teacher group

The MountainSide Board of Education this week reported that it and the MountainSide Teachers' Association recently received a letter from the Public Employment Relations Commission. The letter said that the commission does not have the authority to act on charges leveled against the board by the association.

The charges stem from the current impasse in negotiations between the board and association on a contract for the coming school year. The association had accused the board of refusing to discuss points that the association felt were negotiable.

The letter said: "On July 24, 1970 the New Jersey Supreme Court issued its decision in Burlington County Evergreen Park Mental Hospital v. Dorothy Cooper and The Public Employment Relations Commission, A-139 Sept. Term 1969.

"In that case the court held that this commission does not have the authority to hear and decide charges alleging a violation of Chapter 303 of the Laws of 1968 or to issue affirmative remedial orders.

"The charges in the above-captioned matter alleges such a violation. Since the commission is without authority to proceed, the charge is hereby dismissed."

A board spokesman added: "We feel that this decision confirms the stand taken by the Board of Education throughout the 1970-71 salary discussions with the Teachers' Association.

"While the board still expects to receive a report of the fact finding hearing, from the commission, we do not know when that will be. In any case the commission has informed us that under the New Jersey Supreme Court decision in Burlington County Evergreen Park Mental Hospital v. Dorothy Cooper and the Public Employment Relations Commission, A-139, Sept. Term 1969, the commission does not have the authority to hear and decide charges alleging a violation of Chapter 303 of the Laws of 1968 or to issue affirmative remedial orders."

"It is the intention of the MountainSide Board of Education to continue to discuss terms and conditions of employment, at any time, with the MountainSide Teachers' Association. We have in the past and shall continue to be anxious to talk with our very fine staff on any matters of mutual concern that benefit the MountainSide public school system."

PROFILE -- Everett C. Lattimore

(This is another in a series of Profiles on candidates for congressional, county and municipal offices.)

Everett C. Lattimore began his working life as an industrial scientist but switched to education because he preferred "people to test tubes," he began his political life as a Republican but switched to the Democratic Party because he believed in the need for "a responsible opposition."

The Plainfield councilman is now running for a three-year term on the Union County Board of Freeholders on the Democratic ticket. It is, he noted, the first time that either of the major parties has nominated a black man as a candidate for the county board.

His campaign this fall comes about a decade after his entry into politics.

Educated in Elizabeth and Plainfield public schools, he received bachelor of science and bachelor of divinity degrees from Shaw University in Raleigh, N.C., where he met a Union girl named Rosetta Norwood, who became his wife.

After graduating from Shaw University with a double major in chemistry and social studies, Lattimore came back to New Jersey with his wife to take graduate work at Rutgers and Seton Hall Universities and to look for a job. The young Lattimores made their home in the Vauxhall section of Union for two years before moving to Plainfield.

FINDING A JOB IN 1950, after his graduation from college, proved to be something of a problem. He applied for work at a major industrial plant but was told there were no openings for chemists. At least, there were no openings for a black chemist.

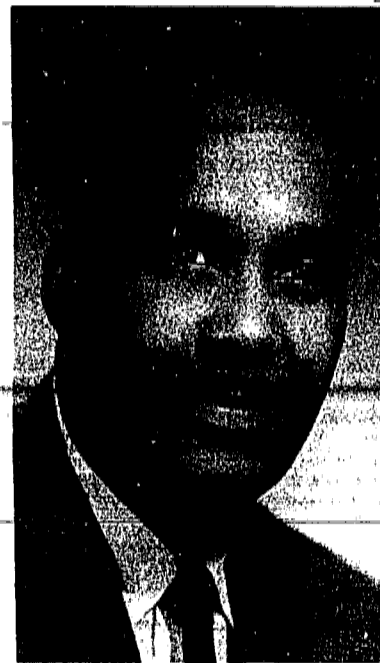

So Lattimore got a job at the plant as a laborer. After five or six months, he heard about an opening in the lab and thus "I got in by the back door."

Actually, he had from the beginning wanted to go into the field of education rather than industry but "couldn't quite afford to," he said. Once in the laboratory at the plant, he rapidly worked his way up to a supervisory post.

He volunteered to supervise an afternoon lab shift of 16 to 18 persons, a schedule that left him with some time to do high school substitute teaching of chemistry, math and physics in Plainfield.

This was in the 1959-60 school year. "I knew I would enjoy it the first day that I went into the school," he said with a smile. But "we were purchasing a home, buying a new car and we had four children" (there are seven children in the Lattimore family now). So, he felt he could not give up his job in industry to take up teaching full-time.

IN 1961, AT THE URGING of his wife, he finally gave in to what he described as

"the inner calling" and became a fulltime teacher, though he still worked in research development during the summer months.

When he began teaching, however, it was not in high school but in junior high, where he was a social studies instructor. "By the time the children get to high school, it's often too late to reach those who need help," he said. "They have to be reached before then--and I believe social studies is the area in which you can most easily recognize their needs."

During his first years as a teacher at Maxson Junior High School in Plainfield, Lattimore, who had himself been on the Negro All-American football team, coached track for four years. For three of those years, his teams were undefeated.

Two years ago, he was named vice-principal of Hubbard Junior High School in Plainfield. He has been acting principal of the school since last November and principal since January.

About the time that he switched careers from industry to education, he also became active in politics.

"I was a registered Republican then," Lattimore said, "mostly because of my admiration for Sen. (Clifford) Case. I still consider him truly a statesman rather than a politician."

Things are looking up at the library Mrs. Chen files report on reference duties

By JANICE ADLER
The types of reference questions handled and services that are offered by the MountainSide Public Library were outlined this week by Mrs. Johanna Chen, head librarian. She said, "Most people do not realize that even a small library like ours is capable of offering diverse services, ranging from simple questions to complex problems. We welcome all types of questions and will always try to answer them correctly and cheerfully."

Library policy is that no reference service will be provided unless the librarian can cite her sources and has the facts at her fingertips. "This means 'no guesswork or I think,'" she added.

The reference librarian is not allowed to interpret data unless the nature of the information clearly excludes any possible misunderstanding. She also cannot offer advice. "This is of particular importance when questions relate to law, medicine or consumer problems," Mrs. Chen said.

She said that a professor at Rutgers University told her students that "nobody ever expected a librarian to be a walking encyclopedist."

However, reference librarians are expected to know where to find the answer.

Mrs. Chen said that "a follow-up of requests for books and of reference questions indicates, to a certain degree, the interests of the community and points out shortcomings of our book and magazine collections. It is not always possible to fill these gaps, but it emphasizes necessary services either on the local or regional level."

THE LIBRARY is acquiring sources that will help people to find markets for their creative and artistic endeavors. There are books and magazines which will help "anyone trying to fix appliances, paint the house or build and service a swimming pool. There also are sources available for anyone who wants to remodel a house, do some landscaping or even buy and sell a house," Mrs. Chen said.

Medical questions often are a concern. The "Directory of Medical Specialists" can be helpful when someone needs a doctor. Books are available that explain illnesses, how to diagnose them and what to do. There are authoritative books that give surgical and anatomical data.

There are books that list chemicals and drugs, their chemical composition, human toxicity, what they are used for and warnings on their use. Mrs. Chen explained that "such medical and other books are not trying to replace the physician. Their purpose is to enable the person to understand what is involved, to help reduce anxiety and to further their cooperation with their doctor."

Mrs. Chen listed some types of reference questions the librarian is permitted to answer.

These include: "What are German names for a female dog?" "What are humorous quotations for a birthday?" "What books are available on the cultural and historical heritage of Chesapeake Bay?" "Are there any tours for children under ten in New York City?" and "What can I feed a young robin that fell out of the nest?"

However, answering certain questions is at the discretion of the librarian, she added. The interlibrary loan service is one that is not too well known. It is used when the local library cannot supply a specific book. The librarian can then request the volume from another library.

INTERLIBRARY LOANS have to be initiated at the local library. High school students and college students with short-term assignments cannot use this service, Mrs. Chen said.

She added that there are materials which cannot be obtained through interlibrary loans. They include books that are available as inexpensive paperbacks and books that are in demand, including new books, those on school reading lists, textbooks that are in constant

Kluck is appointed head football coach at Gov. Livingston

Alfred J. Kluck, former head football coach at North Plainfield High School, has been named head football coach at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, it was announced this week.

A resident of 534 Warfield rd., North Plainfield, he replaces Richard Lawrence, who recently resigned.

Besides coaching football at North Plainfield, Kluck also coached freshman basketball and junior varsity baseball. At Gov. Livingston he will also teach and serve as assistant track coach. He is a 1960 graduate of North Plainfield High, where he played football, basketball and baseball.

Kluck received his B. S. degree from the University of Virginia in 1965 and a master's degree in education from the same university the following year. While at the university he played quarterback and defensive back under William T. Elias, now head football coach at the Naval Academy. He was also on the lacrosse team.

Kluck also taught and coached at Chatham High School and Watchung Hills Regional High School, and played semi-pro football for the Plainfield Red Oaks in 1968-69. Kluck is married to the former Joan McPhillips of Bound Brook. They have one child.

Puppet show at library to be given for children

A puppet show, "The Adventures of Kasperle," will be presented by Carol Kahn of Plainfield on Thursday, Aug. 27, at 10:30 a.m. at the MountainSide Public Library. The program is recommended by the library staff for children five and older.

The story is a classical German fairytale about a boy, Kasperle, a greedy magician, Kukurutz, and a forest dwarf, Muggelmoose. Admission is free.

Vacation Reading Club rates as a summertime success

The Vacation Reading Club for children at the MountainSide Public Library has a membership of 265 avid, young readers, according to Mrs. Helen M. Kelly, children's librarian. This year's theme is "vacation fun with books and puzzles."

Mrs. Kelly said that any boy or girl who has a library card and has completed the first grade can join the club.

The announcement said that there are no special books to read and no book reports to write. Graded book lists are available for those who want help selecting books.

Children can read as many books as they want, Mrs. Kelly said. The club's purpose is to help "discover the fun of reading."

Each child is given a folder upon registering to list the books he has read. They also are given a puzzle to solve, such as matching characters with the books in which they appear.

The list of books read should be presented to the desk. After 10 are completed an envelope bearing the child's name will be put on the bulletin board for second and third graders. A book character will be put up for fourth, fifth and sixth graders. After a child completes 20 books, he will receive a reading certificate. Upon completion of a puzzle, a star will be put on the character.

So far the bulletin board contains about 100 animals and book characters bearing the names of children who have completed 10 books, Mrs. Kelly said. Reading certificates have been presented to 18 children who have finished reading 20 books. Ten children have correctly solved their puzzles, she added.

LIVES OF THE PARTY--This scene from the champagne party held last year by the MountainSide Independent Democrats can serve as a reminder that the annual get-together will be held Aug.

Mrs. Alexandra Devlin Eldridge, a former Mountain-side resident, graduated summa cum laude recently at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. Mrs. Eldridge was a Cutler fellow and completed her work in that program at Cambridge, England and at Majorca. She was elected to Phi Kappa Phi scholastic honorary society in her senior year and admitted to the Cutler honors program in English literature in her sophomore year. Her husband, James Eldridge, is professor of fine arts at Ohio University.

Mrs. Eldridge is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Devlin of 443 Hillside ave., Mountain-side. She graduated from the Mountain-side school system and from Gov. Livingston Regional High School.

Citizens for Lundy to launch campaign here this Tuesday

A volunteer effort on behalf of Daniel F. Lundy, Democratic congressional candidate in the Twelfth District, will take place throughout the district on Tuesday.

George Shulman has been named to direct the day's activities in Mountain-side. Shulman, a resident of Mountain-side, lives at 13 Fodor Lane.

The purpose of the day long effort is to introduce district residents to Lundy and his positions on issues relating to the welfare of the district and the nation.

Tuesday has been designated as "Go Day" by the Citizens for Lundy organization, since it will formally launch their efforts on behalf of Lundy. Robert Jensen, a resident of Cranford and a student at Yale Law School, has been named overall chairman for the day's activities.

"Go Day" will consist of mass leafleting by volunteers in shopping centers, municipal swimming pools, train and bus stations, and other key places within the individual towns. At the same time, the volunteers will encourage old and new residents to register for the November election.

Volunteers participating in the activities will be from every town within the district and will be representative of all age groups. "The day represents the beginning of our drive to elect Dan Lundy to the Congress," Jensen stated. He added that it was the aim of Citizens for Lundy "to tell the people the truth about our present representative and demonstrate the need for new leadership in Washington."

Persons interested in obtaining additional information on "Go Day" may call the municipal coordinator, George Shulman at 233-0670.

In other business, the board awarded a contract for $1,710 to the West Essex Window Service to wash the windows at Jonathan Dayton.

The next regular monthly meeting of the board will be held Tuesday, Aug. 25 at 8 p.m. at David Brearley Regional High School, Kenilworth.

McDonough asks training for officials on zoning laws

Assemblyman Peter J. McDonough (R-9C) this week announced that he will file a new bill in the state legislature calling for the creation and funding of a training program for newly appointed members of municipal boards of adjustment, planning boards, other boards of review and county boards of taxation.

Calling an opportunity for training "essential in the face of the growing challenge to 'home rule' in matters of municipal zoning," McDonough said his plan would be "an effective and, by comparison, a highly desirable alternative to the usurpation of local zoning prerogatives" by the state.

McDonough noted that the housing crisis in the state has reached such proportions that municipal zoning and building code practices are being attacked as "overly restrictive and parochial" by state officials.

"The next step could be an attempt to usurp or override local zoning ordinances and building codes, a step I would deplore," he stressed. "It would be far more desirable to train these appointees in their statutory responsibilities and duties, the concepts of land use, master plan development, legal precedents, etc., to help them bridge the gap that exists between their appointment and the experience they gain through service. Once trained in these basics, citizens appointed to serve in these capacities could not be as readily accused of not being knowledgeable in their duties."

Under McDonough's plan, the Eagleton Institute, under the auspices of Rutgers University, would be funded to establish a training course in zoning matters and, effective July 1, 1971, all new appointees to these boards would be required to successfully complete the course before the second anniversary of their appointments.

The training program would be optional for board members appointed before July 1, 1970.

"We have similar training programs for other municipal and county officials," McDonough pointed out, "and, with the tremendous influence these groups have on the future of their municipalities, a proper training program would be an invaluable asset to their service. In the light of recent and increasing challenges in zoning matters," McDonough concluded, "the training courses could be the vehicle to maintain the concept of municipal self-determination."

BUYING WISELY

From Better Business Bureau

of Metropolitan New York, Inc.

Dear Larrie,

Last week when I got home from work I found a note slipped under my door. It was from a so-called clairvoyant and said that "You may lose your business, your loved ones, your family or your home," suggesting that I pay a visit for help. Larrie, my husband died just two weeks ago and I'm trying to keep on with my job and raise my children. I don't think this sort of thing is funny. I'm enclosing the note so that you can see what I mean.

ANNÓYED

Dear Annoyed,

Thank you for sending the note to us. The Better Business Bureau doesn't think this is funny either. We sent one of our shoppers to check on this matter. The so-called clairvoyant promptly demanded $5 and then told her that she saw nothing but unhappiness and sorrow for her in the days ahead. However, for another $15 she promised our shopper that she could change the course of fate and bring her good luck and good fortune. We advise people to stay away from these so-called prophets. Remember, only YOU can make your future and if you rely on your own good judgment and goodwill in whatever you do, you won't have need of a clairvoyant. They are not only unhealthy, but they take money you could use more sensibly elsewhere.

Larrie O'Farrell,
Better Business Bureau

Dear Larrie,

Last year my husband left me. I found out after the divorce that he had also left me with several large debts. Because he could not be found, I was responsible for payment. I have been paying these bills a little at a time because I also have to raise three children. Last week I got a letter from Detroit saying

Know Your Government

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

GROSS DEBT IN COUNTY
Combined gross indebtedness of New Jersey's 21 county governments has almost doubled since 1965.

An annual tabulation of county capital debt compiled by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association, shows that authorized county debt, both issued and unissued, aggregated more than $428 million ($428,278,000) on Dec. 31, 1969.

This was almost $200 million higher than the statewide $228 1/2 million county debt total in 1965. It represented a per capita of $38.80 last year for every resident of the state as compared with $33.59 in 1965.

Hunterdon was the only county to consistently report no debt outstanding at year end from 1965 to 1969. Ocean was the only county to show a reduction of county debt during the period due to adoption of a pay-as-you-go policy for all capital purposes except its county college.

NJTA's debt tabulation, based upon official annual county debt statements, showed Union County's capital debt totaled $20,191,000 at the end of 1969, compared with $19,680,000 in 1965.

This represented an increase of $511,000 during the period. On the basis of population estimates for 1969, per capita debt in this county stood at $34.85.

The totals are among those being tabulated from official records by NJTA for inclusion in its fiscal reference booklet, "Financial Statistics of New Jersey Local Government," to be published in the fall.

that I had won a new car. This seems very fishy because I have never even visited Detroit. What do you think?

WORRIED

Dear Worried,

This letter is from a ship-tracer company. That is a firm that traces people who owe money and then informs their creditors. They receive a commission for every person traced. Obviously you have missed several payments and must have moved to this area recently. We suggest that you discuss the matter with a lawyer—or you can visit our office and discuss the problem with one of our people. In any event you should communicate with your creditors and endeavor to make some agreement about regular payments.

Larrie O'Farrell,
Better Business Bureau

Dear Larrie,

We live in New Jersey and my wife is always complaining about how hard the water is. She got the idea we should buy a water softener. Anyway, last week she received a call from a company that sells water softeners. They told her that they would be happy to send someone over to discuss whether it was feasible for us to get a water softener. My wife asked me if it was okay and I called the company. They said that there would be no sales pitch. The man came last night and stayed for hours—and tried to get us to sign a contract that would have committed us to pay more than $1,000. Can the Better Business Bureau tell this company to stop this sort of thing?

SOFTIE

Dear Softie,

The Better Business Bureau talked to the president of the company. He assured us that this sort of thing rarely happened and that the man must have been carried away. However, we have received many complaints similar to yours and we urge people interested in buying a water softener to check with the Better Business Bureau for information about the particular company they plan to do business with. One more thing: you can ask a salesman to leave. Don't be polite and endure a four hour sales pitch.

Larrie O'Farrell,
Better Business Bureau

Dear Larrie,

Last week I parked in our supermarket lot—and ten minutes later found my car was stolen. The police said it was my fault because I had left it unlocked. I think the supermarket is responsible—can't the Better Business Bureau force them to provide transportation for me until my car is recovered?

WALKING

Dear Walking,

No, and the supermarket is not responsible. The police are correct in telling you that you were at fault for not locking your car. It's a good rule to remove keys from the ignition even when you're running a brief errand—and never leave your car standing with the engine running. Keep car doors locked at all times. Unlocked cars also invite thieves to steal the contents of glove compartments and other accessories. Remember to close the windows before locking your automobile. Don't attract potential thieves by leaving clothing, cameras, appliances and packages in the car where they can be seen.

Larrie O'Farrell,
Better Business Bureau

But she will select those that seem to represent the most urgent types of problems. The Mountain-side Public Library accepts reference questions even though it does not have the sources to answer some of them. Other libraries are then called to get the answers.

Mrs. Chen said that "this system is most effective and no effort is spared to give fast, reliable service." In case of need, any library will supply photostats of non-circulating material.

Materials that can be borrowed through the interlibrary loan system include color slides in the fields of painting, sculpture, architecture and decorative arts; phonograph records, language and literature recordings and foreign language books.

Now, in his campaign for the Board of Freeholders, he charges "the same kind of foot-dragging" on the county level as "was characteristic" in Plainfield a decade ago. For example, he said, Plainfield officials did not apply for Model Cities funds "because they were afraid it would spoil the image" of Plainfield.

Similarly, he said, the Republican Board of Freeholders has shown "timidity" in dealing with problems facing the county. Action taken to combat drug abuse has been "inexcusably late and pitifully inadequate," he charged. He called for intensive educational programs and for "a facility of some kind for people under 18 years old on an in-patient basis."

He also recommended methadone treatment for addicts, noting that "methadone is not a cure-all" but stating that it "has enabled former heroin addicts to become productive."

LATTIMORE ALSO CALLED ON the Board of Freeholders to give more consideration to problems of public transportation.

Seeing to it that adequate bus transportation is available is "an essential function" of government, he said. He proposed a joint study by governmental and private transportation experts "to analyze the bus transportation situation and to propose solutions."

Lattimore also said that "the failure of the Jersey Central Railroad Company to pay its full share of municipal taxes in the County of Union underscores the need of our state and federal governments to determine whether the railroad money has been devoted to subsidiary investments that have nothing to do with rail service."

In the field of public transportation, as in dealing with air and water pollution and with flooding problems, the county can see to it that "municipalities with common problems work together," Lattimore said. "County government should create an environment which would induce the municipalities to work together," he added.

IN ADDITION TO his interest in politics, he has been active in a variety of civic, social and educational programs.

He is assistant pastor and director of Christian education at Sharon Church in Plainfield; served as a member of the Citizens Committee to Study Jail Problems in Union County in 1965; has been a guest lecturer on municipal government at Rutgers University and Newark State College; was Plainfield coordinator for the New Jersey Council of Economic Education, and was a participant in the White House Council on Civil Rights in 1966.

He has received the Plainfield Outstanding Service to Youth Award; was the 1964 recipient of the Outstanding Achievements Award presented by the Union County Branch of the National Council of Negro Women; was Plainfield Civic Servant of the Year in 1964, and received an award for outstanding civic and educational contributions from the National Youth Congress in 1966.

Local bank names Msgr. Coyle to its board of advisors

Monsignor Francis X. Coyle, pastor of St. James Church, Springfield, has been named to the advisory board of the Springfield State Bank. The board is composed of business and community leaders in Springfield and Mountainside -- communities served by the bank, which opened earlier this year at Hillside avenue at Route 22.

A native of Jersey City, Msgr. Coyle was ordained a priest in 1937, the same year he assumed his first parochial duties at Our Lady of Grace Church, Hoboken, where he remained for nearly 26 years. While in Hoboken, he was chaplain of the police and fire departments, an assignment that gave him exposure to the accidents and violence on the waterfront in that community. Msgr. Coyle's church was used in the filming of the Academy Award-winning motion picture "On the Waterfront."

Pastor of St. James Church since 1963, he has overseen the growth of the parish and has been active in its Little League. Msgr. Coyle also has been moderator of the Mothers Guild and chaplain of the Springfield Council, Knights of Columbus. He was named a Monsignor by Pope Paul VI in November, 1964. Msgr. Coyle received the local B'nai B'rith citizenship award in 1967. He is a member of the Springfield Human Rights Commission and has actively participated in inter-faith programs.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Moskowitz, Richard is a graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School and is attending Northeastern University's power systems engineering program, of which JCP&L and New Jersey Power & Light Companies are sponsors along with 17 other electric utilities. Under the program, power systems students attend Northeastern for a full freshman year and alternate the next four years between classroom study and regular paying jobs in the sponsoring company.

Three cars involved in crash at intersection; one man hurt

Charles F. Kopp of 136 Tooker ave., Springfield, was injured Saturday morning in a three-car accident at the intersection of Morris and Millburn avenues, according to Springfield police. The Springfield First Aid Squad took him to Overlook Hospital, Summit, where he was treated for a whiplash injury and discharged, the hospital reported.

According to the report, Kopp's car and one driven by Sammie L. Evans of Newark were stopped for a red light at the intersection. A vehicle driven by Dennis Nilson of Brooklyn allegedly ran into Kopp's which was forced into Evans' car.

Benedict Ackerman of 96 Adams ter., Springfield, was injured Saturday evening when his car struck a telephone pole on Brivar Hills circle, police said. He complained of pain in his left elbow and right knee and told police he would see his own doctor.

He told police that he was traveling west on the street and had rounded the turn when the steering wheel gave way. He lost control and the car struck the pole. The car had to be towed away after sustaining damage to the left front grill, hood, bumper and fender.

A car driven by Charles S. Alack of Moores-town had to be towed away after it collided with one driven by Joseph J. Gorbacz of Kearny last Tuesday afternoon at the intersection of Morris avenue and Lewis drive, police said.

The report said that Gorbacz was traveling east on Morris avenue and had stopped for a red light. Alack told police he was behind Gorbacz and applied his brakes which did not hold. His vehicle then hit the Gorbacz car in the rear.

Home found for children

Mrs. Ronald M. Heymann of Mountainside reported this week that ten children were placed for adoption with Union County couples by the Children's Aid and Adoption Society of New Jersey during the first six months of 1970.

Mrs. Heymann, a member of the society's board of directors, also reported that on a statewide basis, 101 potentially homeless children had been placed for adoption with New Jersey couples resident in 17 of the State's 21 counties. In the adoption placement service category, she said, Essex County was first with 24 placements, Bergen second with 21 placements, and Morris third with 14 placements; all made during the six month report period.

The Children's Aid and Adoption Society of New Jersey was founded in 1899. It offers its non-sectarian, non-racial services throughout the state to unmarried mothers and other parents seeking to place their offspring for adoption.

Neither rain, nor sleet,
nor bouncing truck ...

Several boys on Saturday found a sack of mail destined for a company in Millburn, that apparently fell out of a truck along the Rt. 78 overpass on Springfield avenue, according to Springfield police. The boys called the Union police who in turn called the Springfield police.

The Springfield police then called the Springfield Post Office, which sent a man to pick up the sack. It then was delivered to the Millburn Post Office. The report said that nothing seemed to be missing.

NCE, Brooklyn Poly offering training course for teachers

Newark College of Engineering and Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn announced this week joint plans to present a year-long training course for high school teachers wishing to qualify for the experimental new engineering concepts curriculum project (ECCP).

Already adopted by more than 200 high schools across the country, ECCP is aimed at giving pre-college students a fuller understanding of the technologies that shape their lives.

The job in-service institute offered by NCE and NPI will carry graduate credits for teachers and will meet concurrently at the two colleges during the 1970-71 school year.

ECCP is a one-year laboratory science course supported by the National Science Foundation and designed for students who do not take quantitative science courses — such as physics or chemistry — in high school.

The course introduces students to technological concepts applicable to the solution of social and economic — as well as technological — problems, said ECCP executive director Dr. E. J. Piel of Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn.

Dr. Piel will be assisted in heading the joint in-service institute by Dr. Murray Lieb of Newark College of Engineering's mathematics department.

The Man-Made World, the textbook in use wherever the ECCP course is taught, was prepared by a group of educators and engineers headed by Dr. John Truxel, vice-president for academic affairs at NCE, and Dr. Edward F. David of Bell Telephone Laboratories.

THE INSTITUTE WILL START with a one-week session at Brooklyn from Aug. 31 through Sept. 4. This will be followed by weekly sessions beginning Sept. 21 and running through June 5, held at Brooklyn Poly for New York teachers and at NCE for New Jersey teachers.

The in-service institute is being supported by a grant from the National Science Foundation; participants will receive support to cover tuition, travel, meals and books.

Graduate credit for participation in the institute will be six hours, granted upon completion of the full program. Teachers who take part in the program but who are unable to attend the first full-week session will receive reduced credit.

"Stressing the meaning and impact of modern technological problems, the ECCP does not hesitate to cross boundaries which technology has limited to sciences," Dr. Piel said.

Corrected revisions in high school curricula are placing greater stress on abstract concepts of contemporary science, he explained. While necessary to produce professional scientists, these changes do not increase the activities of basic sciences for the average high school student.

The ECCP course has proven valuable to teachers and students alike, as indicated by a 40 percent increase in high school registration after an initial trial period.

The staff of Brooklyn Poly's engineering concepts curriculum project will be available to help teachers and their supervisors make plans for offering "The Man-Made World" in September, 1970. While teachers for schools that have made definite plans for teaching this subject will be given priority, all teachers and supervisors of science, mathematics and the social sciences are invited to apply. Applications blanks and institute details are available through Dr. E. J. Piel, executive director, Engineering Concepts Curriculum Project, Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, Box 100, 333 Jay St., Brooklyn, N.Y. 11201.

IRVING J. MARSH

Rabbinical College will honor Marsh

The Rabbinical College of New Jersey will pay tribute to Irving J. Marsh, Essex County businessman and communal leader, at a dinner to be held Sept. 23, at the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark. The dinner will commemorate the 14th year of the founding of the college, where young men are being trained for the rabbinate, or for careers in Jewish education.

Marsh, a graduate of New York University, is president of S. Marsh & Sons Jewelers and Silversmiths, Newark and Millburn, serves as a member of the college's board of advisory trustees, is a member of the board of advisors of the First National State Bank, member of the board of directors of Temple B'nai Abraham, Newark, member of the Village Club of South Orange, the Lions Club, Newark Chamber of Commerce, the Advertising Club of New Jersey, Sales Executive Club of Newark, the 200 Club of Newark, Odd Fellows Lodge, and the Untermyer Lodge of B'nai B'rith, Newark.

Rider's model city is rented computer

Rider College, Trenton, is renting a sort of mythical city in an effort to get New Jersey governmental officials, civic leaders and other interested citizens to test their ideas about cities.

An urban simulation seminar scheduled for Sept. 8-10 at the college will involve participants as urban decision makers. They'll see their three days of decision making computerized into a simulated six years of action and results.

The computer-assisted model simulates an entire urban system. Elected and appointed governmental officials, civic leaders and other interested citizens who have been invited to take part in the seminar will make decisions which will affect the economic, governmental and social conditions of a hypothetical but realistic metropolitan area.

Williams supports tenants fight against landlord reprisals

The New Jersey Tenants Organization announced this week it has received additional support in its drive to have the "Tenants Reprisal Bill" signed into law by Governor William T. Cahill.

Martin Aranow, NJTO president, announced that United States Senator Harrison Williams has endorsed the need for legislation which would protect tenants from reprisals from their landlords without "further delay in this action." In a letter sent to the NJTO chief executive, Senator Williams stated, "I am seriously concerned about reports from across the nation of alleged landlord reprisals and believe this is a matter for further congressional study where federal assistance for housing establishments or immediate national interest that the basic constitutional rights of tenants be protected."

The "Tenants Reprisal Bill" passed both houses of the New Jersey Legislature and has been under study by the Governor's office since June 8. The bill makes it a criminal offense for a landlord to evict or threaten to evict, or refuse to renew the lease of any tenant who complains to a public official about housing code violations or a member of a tenants organization.

Aranow stated that the NJTO had been contacted by Williams office and had agreed to start preparing similar legislation for introduction on the federal level. "We believe that a landlord seeking a reprisal is alien to everything in the American system, federal monies are used to construct housing and we see no reason why the federal government should not protect the constitutional rights of the taxpayer and tenant whose money is being used to build apartments."

UNION REPRESENTATION
More than 200 Federal employee union representation elections have been supervised by the Department of Labor since Executive Order 11491 (Labor-Management Relations in the Federal Service) went into effect in January 1970.

N. J. spuds sent north

A good many of our neighbors to the north are enjoying potatoes from the Garden State this year.

According to John J. Repko, director, Division of Markets, State Department of Agriculture, more than five million pounds of New Jersey white potatoes have been inspected for export to Canada this season with shipments still continuing, although in lighter volume. Last year, less than 9,000 pounds went to the Canadian market.

A combination of factors is responsible for the huge increase in exports, Repko believes. There were some shortages of potatoes in other shipping areas this season and New Jersey has a good quality product just when the Canadian market needed a supply.

The potatoes are being shipped by truck and are packaged in 10, 20, 50 and 100-pound bags. Potatoes in the two larger sized bags will be re-packaged into consumer containers on arrival.

Some bulk shipments are also being made. The unbagged potatoes will be processed in Canada for potato chips and other potato products.

Repko said that the shipment of several New Jersey crops to Canada has shown a steady increase over the past 10 years.

Post Office joins in campaign to combat air, water pollution

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount reported recently that the Post Office Department is engaged in a wide-ranging effort to combat pollution of air and water.

"I am convinced that our more than 40,000 post offices around the country can contribute in a meaningful way to President Nixon's anti-pollution program," Blount said.

Among other things, the Post Office Department, in keeping with federal anti-pollution efforts, has taken the following actions:
Many postal building boilers have been converted from use of high-sulphur content coal to cleaner-burning fuels such as natural gas.

New means of reducing the pollutant exhaust of postal vehicles are being examined, especially the potential use of natural gas or lead-free gasolines. All new postal vehicles entering the Post Office Department's 73,000-vehicle fleet come equipped with the latest exhaust control devices. The 35,000 other vehicles leased by the Post Office are required to meet federal anti-pollution requirements in effect the year those vehicles were produced.

Surveys have been conducted in recent months around major post offices to determine any pollution problems that might be solved by such means as closed incineration of trash, techniques to muffle noise of post office machinery and filtration procedures to clean the air in and around post offices.

A special official has been appointed by Assistant Postmaster General Henry Lehne of the Bureau of Facilities to coordinate anti-pollution activities within the Department. W. Norman Meyer, Post Office Department environmental coordinator, will deal with specific pollution problems as they arise.

THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT'S smoke abatement program, involves conversion of heating units to higher-grade fuels. More than 100 conversion actions have been taken in various areas, among them Detroit, Mich.; Fort Wayne, Ind.; and New York City.

In addition to existing exhaust controls on thousands of postal vehicles, the department has started a nationwide program of testing motor vehicles powered by compressed natural gas. This $65,000-a-year effort will probably be expanded to include liquefied petroleum gas and liquefied natural gas.

The Bureau of Facilities, which serves as a sort of landlord over U.S. post offices, is designing many anti-pollution features into new post offices.

"The design and operation of all leased, rented and federally owned postal facilities are required to conform to federal, state and local pollution control regulations," Blount stated.

The Post Office's 15 regional headquarters have been giving increased emphasis to checking such things as noise, dust, trash and other types of possible pollution problems around types of office. In some rural areas, this has included examination of septic tanks used by post offices not served by city or county sewage systems.

CARE helps build new homes for victims of Peruvian quake

Following up its initial shipment of more than $700,000 in emergency aid to survivors of the May 31 Peru earthquake that killed 70,000 and left 600,000 homeless, CARE has joined the Peruvian government in a home building program in the devastated rural areas.

The long-range project also includes construction of schools as well as community centers and health centers. Irrigation ditches destroyed by the quake will be restored to permit resumption of farming and stem the migration to the cities by thousands of despairing farmers abandoning their lands. The type of house to be built was designed by Cooperacion Popular, the community development arm of the Peruvian Ministry of Housing. It is 23-1/2 feet square and will accommodate four to six people.

Actual construction work is being undertaken by student volunteers from Peruvian colleges and universities and by other Peruvians eager to contribute their labor to the rehabilitation program.

They will be working with materials and equipment provided by CARE, including vehicles, electric generators, cement, wire, picks, shovels, lanterns, surveying instruments and, for use of the volunteers, tents, sleeping bags and first aid kits. Total value of CARE's initial share in the project is $62,500.

Directing CARE's activities in Peru is Arthur Greenfield II, who served as mission chief in the early 1950s when CARE maintained a regular mission there. Greenfield, who took a leave of absence from his post as executive secretary of the Yale University Alumni Board, is serving on a voluntary basis. Assisting him is Robert Dukes, who was transferred from his post as field representative in the Dominican Republic.

CARE's earlier earthquake relief shipments to Peru included blankets, canned soup, vitamins, fortified food sticks and 3,500 standard food packages.

"In a letter to Executive Director Frank L. Goffio, Peru's Minister of Housing Luis Vargas Caballero has expressed 'in the name of the Peruvian Government, the villagers affected by the earthquake and myself our most sincere thanks for your most selfless assistance.'"

Donations for continued aid to the victims of the disaster are now being accepted by CARE, Address: Peru Emergency Fund, 660 First Ave., New York, N.Y. 10016.

Eating less and gaining? May be something in your drink

If you've been eating like a mouse during the past few weeks, but looking more like an elephant in spite of it, you might take a look into that tall, frosty glass you've been holding.

Contrary to popular belief, the long hot summer is not a great time for the sophisticated, figure-conscious weight-watcher who tries to cool off and crash-diet by filling up on thirst-quenching liquids, says leading nutritionist Professor Jean Mayer. In the August issue of Family Health magazine, Professor Mayer points out that some beverages are more fattening than others and dispels several myths about weight reduction.

"Though anxious to reduce our weight, we often act as though no liquid beverage could possibly contain many calories. We have been encouraged in that belief by fads like 'the drinking man's diet,' or the old wives tale that beer is fattening, but hard liquor isn't," according to Professor Mayer. "The mistaken belief that alcoholic beverages are low-cal is extended indiscriminately to fruit juices, soft drinks, sometimes mild and milk drinks. And in the summer months, this can be quite costly."

Ordinary soft drinks and alcoholic beverages contain no nutrients, but do contribute calories. Cola beverages vary between 100-120 calories per cup; gingerale, about 80 calories, reports Family Health.

When it comes to juices, tomato is the best bargain of all -- only 50 calories per cup -- followed by fresh lime juice, 60 calories, and fresh grapefruit juice which contains 90 calories.

While orange juice -- fresh or canned and unsweetened -- is a good source of Vitamin A and potassium, it contributes 110 calories per cup. If canned and sweetened, the same volume contains 135 calories, and on a hot summer afternoon in August, it's easy to chug down the 300 calories in a six-ounce can of frozen orange juice.

Milk contains a variable number of calories, depending upon its fat content, points out Family Health. For example, one cup of whole milk contains 165 calories and 3.5 percent fat; skim milk and butter milk, about 85-90 calories per cup. Malted milk beverages contribute 280 calories per cup, chocolate-flavored milk, 185 calories.

The words alcohol and calories are synonymous. Alcohol contains seven calories per gram, and no matter how you look at it -- booze is fattening.

For example, the alcoholic content of beer, ale, and stout varies between 3 and 7 percent. An eight-ounce glass of light, 4 percent ale contains about 100 calories. However, this can go up to 200 calories in very strong beer or stout.

In dry wine, alcohol contributes almost all the calories; with sweet wine, there are sugar calories in addition. U.S. wines surpass French and German wines in both alcoholic and calorie content. Four ounces of dry French wine -- with an average of 9 percent alcohol -- usually contain 70-75 calories; U.S. dry wines, with 12 percent alcohol, 100 calories.

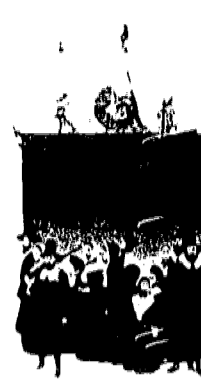

Cin. rum, Scotch, and Irish rye are usually 86 "proof," which is equivalent to "about" 40 percent alcohol. A shot glass, or 1-1/2 ounces, of whiskey contains about 110 calories, Family Health reports.

With the exception of water or club soda, anything added to a highball increases the calories. Depending on which mixer you use, a highball will average about 200 calories.

In the cocktail category, once again calories come from sugar, but with the greater bulk coming from the alcohol, if your "dry" Martini contains a stiff amount of vodka or gin, with only a trace of vermouth, of course the calorie content will be higher than in the "sweeter" alternatives.

Unfortunately, those who must watch calories have a limited choice. Professor Mayer suggests tomato juice, diluted lemon or lime juice, iced (light) tea with lemon -- not sugar -- and that old standby, water, which is light, healthful, refreshing, and absolutely calorie free.

County parks near 50th birthday and growing greener

This is the first of two articles on the Union County Park Commission and its facilities.

By BOB LIRKIND
Throughout the year, 160 people — joined by about 250 others during the summer — labor for leisure. They are the employees and staff members of the Union County Park Commission, the agency that maintains and provides 5,200 acres of recreation facilities for more than half a million people.

The park commission — which operates the interconnected system throughout Union County — had its origin in Cranford in 1919 when citizens decided they wanted a memorial park by the Rahway River to honor residents of that town who died in World War I.

It quickly appeared that such a project would go beyond the town line. From that, the idea of a county system developed. After a preliminary commission was appointed in April 1921, voters ratified a permanent agency in November.

IN THE SPAN OF LESS than 50 years since its inception, the commission has provided open spaces for a growing population.

After its establishment in 1921 the commission was faced with building the parks. The goals then and now are the same, to provide parks for use by more than one municipality, to provide a place to go either for an entire day or just an hour, to provide facilities that a single community could not hope to undertake in its recreation program and to act as a conservation agency.

This philosophy developed out of the designs offered by the Olmstead Association of New York City. Founded by Frederick Law Olmstead, who planned Central Park in Manhattan, the group helped in structuring the four parks that opened in 1925: Warinanco, Greenbrook, a section of the Watchung Reservation and Echo Lake.

Since 1925, an additional 16 park areas have been acquired, as well as expansion of existing areas. The Watchung Reservation is largest with 1,750 acres. FUNDS FOR MAINTENANCE of parks come from the Union County Board of Trustees, which by law can appropriate no less than one-quarter nor more than one-half of the aggregate of the value of the property in the county.

This year the budget of the commission is based on the state law, at $1,600,000.

Capital expenditures — which are necessary to acquire new land, permit landscaping, develop parks and raise buildings — come from two sources: public referenda and appropriations from the Board of Trustees. The latest project of the commission is the Passaic River Park in Berkeley Heights, New Providence and Summit. The agency is in the process of acquiring land, but no development plans will be made until the acquisition is complete.

The federal government provides 20 percent of the funds for that project under the Housing and Home Finance Act of 1961's Open Space Division. An additional 50 percent of the cost is borne by New Jersey under the Green Acres program. The county pays 30 percent of the acquisition costs.

The only improvement scheduled for the Passaic River Park will be a nature path in Summit. A commission spokesman said the path will be built at the request of Summit officials.

TEN DEPARTMENTS UNDER George T. Cron, general superintendent, keep the parks running. The Union County Park Police — which includes one mounted officer — enforces state and federal laws as well as park regulations. Other departments include engineering, forestry, personnel and safety, revenue producing facilities, refectories, purchasing, accounting and maintenance.

One department, recreation, is responsible for most of the programs and facilities of the system. Unlike municipal recreation agencies, the park's unit has bigger and more varied activities to keep its eyes on, including the ice skating rink at Warinanco Park, the Trailside Nature Study Center and Planetarium and the golf courses at Galloping Hill and Ash Brook. Also under their jurisdiction are the various baseball and softball leagues.

On a warm, clear Sunday afternoon traffic jams can easily develop in the park system. One Sunday in July, more than 37,675 cars used park drives, according to a rough estimate by county police. They also counted more than 10,000 parked vehicles.

That estimate for a Sunday also shows more than 31,000 persons involved in 19 separate activities. Add about 17,000 hikers and walkers and county parks attracted a little less than 50,000 visitors in one day.

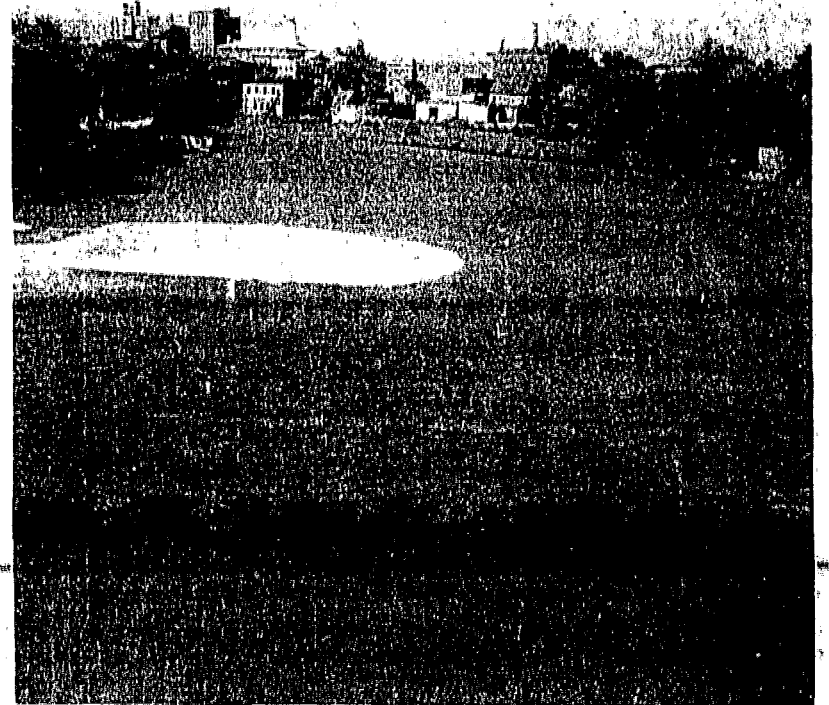

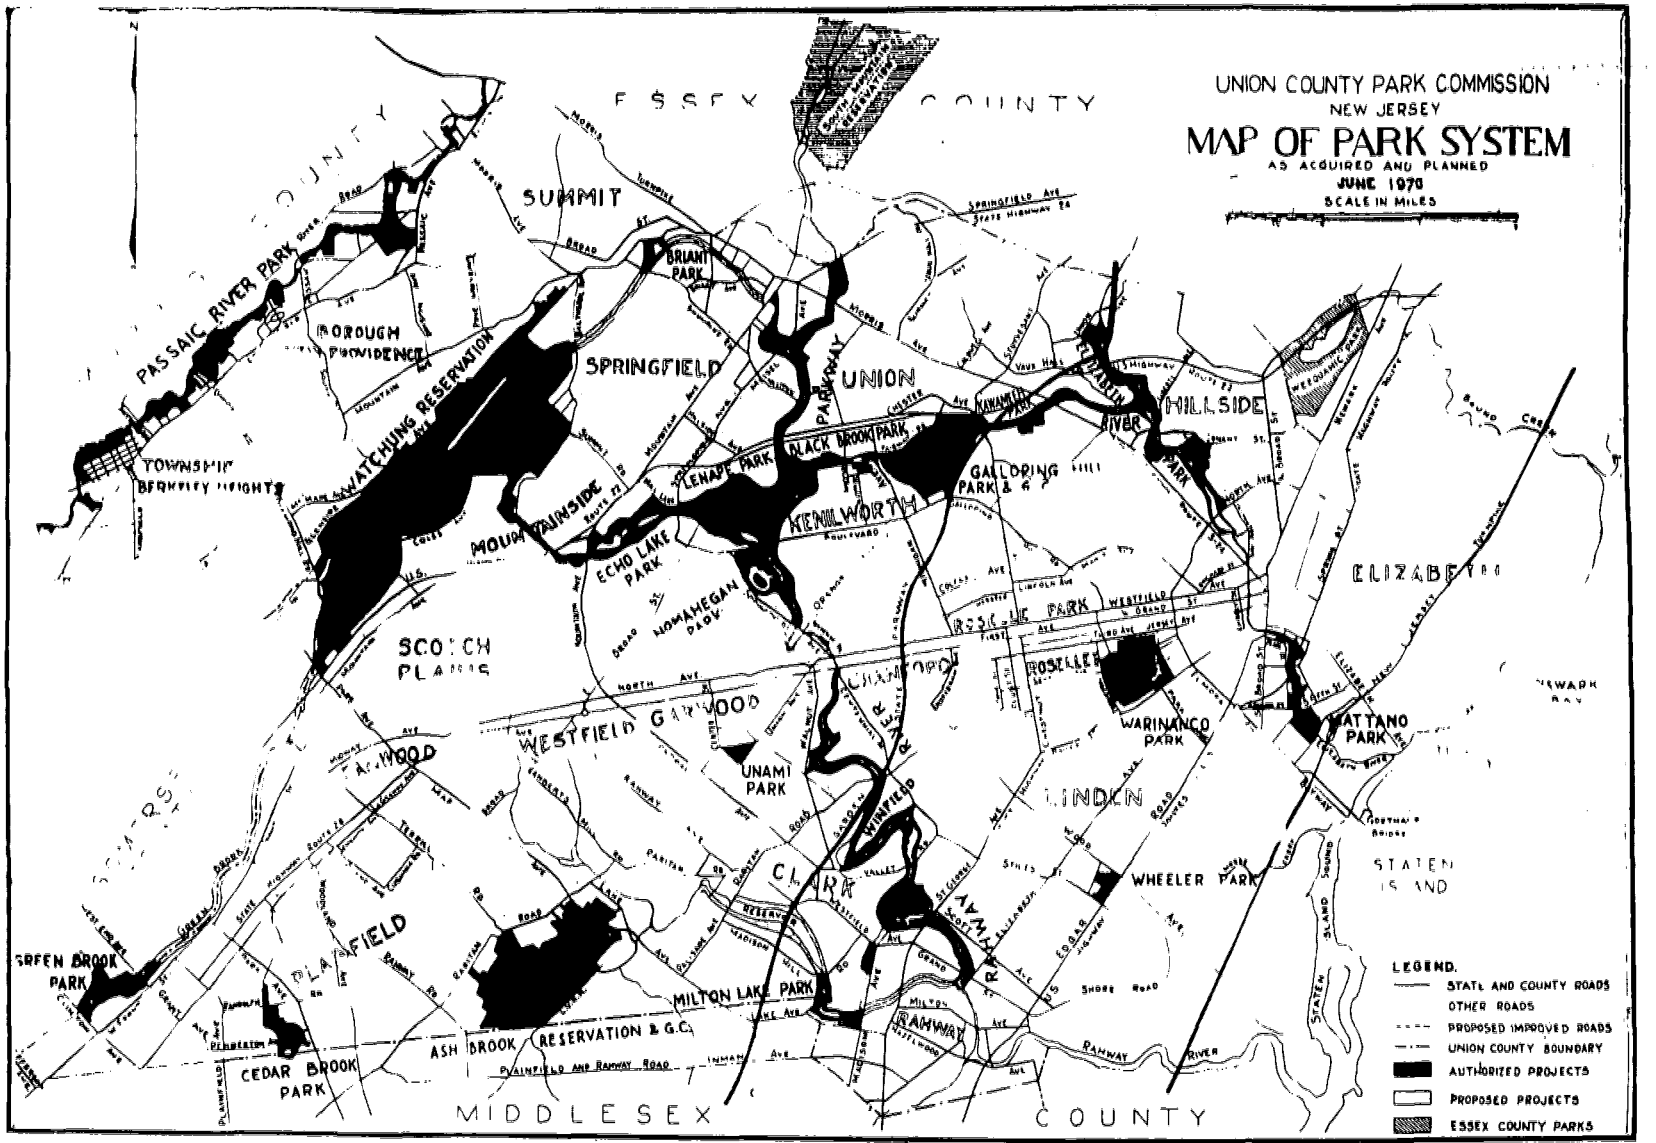

THE MOST POPULAR PARK that day was the Watchung Reservation, which drew approximately 11,550 people for baseball, bicycling, fishing, garden viewing, horseback riding, tours of the nature center and planetarium, picnicking, playground activity, softball tennis, hiking and walking.

Warinanco Park in Elizabeth and Roselle, which is also adjacent to Linden, attracted 8,700 visitors that day with most of them among an estimated 2,400 hikers. Picnicking brought 1,300 to Warinanco while police estimate 2,200 used the playgrounds.

Another big attraction on hot days are the two county-operated pools. Wheeler Park pool in Linden attracted 1,165 that same Sunday while the large pool at Rahway River Park had 656 swimmers in for a dip.

Although any day at a county park during the summer is bound to attract residents, Sunday is the busiest. Scheduled items for last Sunday (not including non-reservation events and impromptu picnics and ball-games) shows 29 different events, including softball, baseball, picnics, a puppet show and the New Jersey AAU Women's Development Meet (at Warinanco's stadium field).

(Next week: the county parks and what they offer.)

N. J. a 'corridor state' Rutgers prof traces history

New Jersey, which has increasingly become regarded as a "corridor state" between New York and Philadelphia, was already showing signs of becoming a heavily traversed state as early as 1750, a Rutgers geographer has found.

One evidence of this is a map drawn from data from the New Jersey archives which indicates the presence between 1725 and 1750 of numerous stables along the direct route between the two cities.

These structures, largely associated with inns and ferries and travel in general, clearly indicate the presence of the corridor, according to Dr. Peter O. Wacker, associate professor of geography at Rutgers College.

This finding is one of many he has made from the study and comparison of a series of maps being compiled about the state's geography before 1810, the point at about which urban growth begins.

Dr. Wacker, author of a historical cultural geography entitled "The Musconetcong Valley of New Jersey," plans to write a similar volume encompassing the entire state. His work is being supported by a grant from the Rutgers Research Council.

HISTORICAL cultural geography, Dr. Wacker points out, is a kind of study which tries to reconstruct the development of an area through the examination of its cultural landscape and its settlement history.

A large amount of data has been compiled about the state in colonial times—from such sources as old censuses, newspaper ads in the archives, documents of the State Assembly dating from 1786, revolutionary war damage claims, and old tax rolls.

More data was obtained firsthand, in a series of travels across the state, when the geographer observed and recorded such things as the remains of old structures and barns, and housing patterns.

"Because of the availability of voluminous archives, its ethnic diversity, and the fact that much remains physically from colonial times, New Jersey is a natural laboratory for such a study," Dr. Wacker says.

The state's ethnic diversity before 1810 was much greater than that of most other states. In New Jersey, there were, among others, English, New Englanders, Dutch, Germans, Swedes, Finns, Scotch Irish and Negroes.

The legacies of these disparate ethnic groups live on in the cultural landscape, Dr. Wacker points out. One example are the log structures which exist in the western portion of the state, the "pioneer fringes."

They were introduced, Dr. Wacker says, by Scandinavians very early in the state's history and the building methods largely picked up in New Jersey were mostly German. There appears to be an almost total rejection of log buildings by the Dutch and New Englanders.

THE BEST INDICATOR of the Dutch settlements, on the other hand, particularly in the Raritan Valley, is the characteristic Dutch Barn, many of which still exist today. The Deep East Jersey Cottage, a 1-1/2-story, 2-room deep structure is prevalent in the north of the state, indicating the influence of New England settlement.

Aside from the building type data, such things as place names can provide an indication of the State's cultural diversity. The generic names for the small watercourses that meander throughout the state are such indicators. One of Dr. Wacker's students, Jeff Peake, has mapped the usage of terms such as run, brook, creek, stream and kill and branch, and has found that they largely follow cultural lines.

The terms run and brook, when mapped, show an interesting phenomenon. They nearly delineate the old east-west proprietary line in the state. Run, a West Jersey term, comes from Northeast England and Southern Scotland while brook, an East Jersey term, comes from the East Anglian area.

The old English term creek is applied to slow moving water in coastal areas.

Stream and kill are not prevalent in New Jersey but have definite locations in the state. Stream, a term which comes from the New England lumbering frontier, is found mostly in South Jersey, while kill is in the northeast, near the Dutch Hudson Valley.

Branch, another South Jersey term, comes the closest to being a pure Americanism.

DR. WACKER has some 80 maps, compiled by himself and research assistants, that record a large number of such economic and cultural data.

The geographer, a native of Irvington, became interested in the state professionally while doing his doctoral dissertation when he discovered the wealth of data that existed and was not being used.

"I found that the state offered a wonderful opportunity for study of this kind," Dr. Wacker says. "The fact that our historic past is mirrored in the landscape is a priceless heritage."

"With today's interest in man's relationship to his environment, it is important to understand the processes whereby man progresses from a natural to a cultural landscape."

Trumpeter feature of concert Sunday at Branch Brook

HUGH MASEKELA

The next concert in the Essex County Park Commission's Summer Music Festival series will be held in Branch Brook Park, Newark, Sunday, featuring the music of internationally renowned jazz flutist Herbie Mann and trumpeter Hugh Masekela.

The concert will be the fourth in the Park Commission's series. Other outstanding musicians on the same program are Ray Barretto and Chico Mendoza.

The concert is scheduled to begin at 5 p.m., one hour earlier than previous programs in the free concert series. The site for the concert in the park between Bloomfield avenue and Heller parkway, is the same location that saw nearly 25,000 people for the earlier Ray Charles program in June.

Grassella Oliphant, producer of the show for the Park Commission, said he anticipates an equally large turnout this coming Sunday. As for the stars of Sunday's show, Oliphant said, "Hugh Masekela is the most talked about musical talent in the contemporary field today. Oliphant added that Masekela has developed a new sound combining traditional South African music with contemporary pop music — brilliant, earthy, hard-swinging and dynamic. "And so is the man," he said.

Masekela was born in Johannesburg, South Africa. He entered school with a 90 average, but seemed to drift, not breaking any academic records. When he was bitten by the brass bug, his headmaster at school was so re-vealed to find him showing signs of life that he rushed out and begged a trumpet for him from the local merchant. His career was launched.

Later he traveled the country with many different bands and "shows" and soaked up the background depths of the exciting music he had heard as a child on the streets of Johannesburg.

SOON HIS NAME and musical prowess became known and he formed his own traveling group. Then the dark cloud of the tragic Apartheid doctrine eclipsed the light of joy in Johannesburg. This policy hit musicians, and Masekela was unable to work in his own country. He applied for and won a scholarship to study at the Royal Academy of Music and at the Guild Hall School in London.

In England, he married Miriam Makeba, the well-known South African singer. Hugh won another scholarship recommendation from John Mehegan, famed pianist-theorist, and he came to America to study at the Manhattan School of Music. There he met Harry Belafonte, who, excited by Hugh's potential, sponsored him in America. During his four years of study, Hugh wrote songs and made many orchestration for Belafonte and Makeba.

In 1964 Masekela formed his own group and won audiences across the nation. An MGM recording contract followed, and his first record, "The Americanization of Ooga Booga," received wide critical acclaim.

The final concert in the summer music festival series will be held, again, in Branch Brook Park, on Aug. 23. This show will feature Duke Ellington and his orchestra as well as the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, with its music director, Henry Lewis, conducting.

The programs in the series have been made possible through funds raised from the Greater Newark business community under the leadership of Robert R. Ferguson, Jr., president of First National State Bank of New Jersey. Ferguson is the chairman of special events of the 75th Anniversary Committee of the Essex County Park Commission.

WHAT CAUSES INDIGESTION Well, it happened again the other day. Yes, I had heartburn. I was talking to my next-door neighbor about it, and "damn" if he didn't say that he's been having trouble with "gas on the stomach."

Indigestion, I learned, is a name we can give to almost any ailment we have involving the digestive process—from our first bite of food right on through the chewing and swallowing.

I found out that my heartburn, which I know usually follows a spicy, hearty meal, comes from the upward push of the stomach when the stomach acid easily moves upward into the gullet.

What surprised me is that "gas on the stomach" really isn't gas at all, since gas hardly ever forms in the stomach, according to the doctors.

These are only a few of the many causes of indigestion that I read about. As with any physical trouble, if indigestion persists, the sensible step, of course, is to consult a doctor.

TURNTABLE TREATS (good listening) A SONG OF JOY: by Miguel Rios. Several months back, A&M RECORDS released the first pop version of Beethoven's immortal "Ode to Joy," from his famous Ninth Symphony. Called simply "A Song of Joy," the single featured the American debut of Spanish pop star Rios, singing in English and backed by an orchestra and chorus.

The rest is history. Almost one week after its release in this country the single was being played on every major AM and FM station in the country. And the name of Miguel Rios became known from coast-to-coast. Now you have the opportunity of hearing the talented Miguel, in this his first LP album for A&M (SPX-4267). He is heard in Spanish, and in English singing both songs of his country and the United States. Besides the hit number, "A Song of Joy," additional selections include: "She's Gone," "Look To Your Soul," "The Life I Knew," "Mi Vida Fue," "Vuelvo A Granada," "Second Glance," "Despierta," "Soledad," "The River," "El Rio," "Like An Old Time Movie," "El Viaje," and "Himno A La Alegria," adapted from the last movement of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Listening time 32 minutes 78 seconds.

TROUBLED TIMES: by Jimmie Rodgers. Jimmie offers ten vocal smoothies on this LP, including eight of his own compositions: "Troubled Times," "What Will We Do When They're Gone," "Seven Horsemen Came," "Dum Dum Song," "I Do" (Sometimes), "The Good Times Are Gone," "Baby Go Out And Play," "Gotta Be Another Way," "Saturdays Only" and "Woman Crying." Listening time 32 minutes, 9 seconds. (A&M RECORDS SP-4242).

More good vocal listening on the A&M label is the Sandpipers LP of Come Saturday Morning (SP-4262). Selections include: "Santo Domingo," "The Long And Winding Road," "Free To Carry On," "Where There's A Headache" (from "Butch Cassidy & The Sundance Kid"), "The Driver," "He's Got The Whole World In His Hands," "The Sound Of Love," "Autumn Afternoon," "Come Saturday Morning" (from "The Sterile Cuckoo"), "The Wonder Of You," "Beyond The Valley Of The Dolls" (from "Beyond The Valley Of The Dolls"), and their version of "A Song Of Joy." Listening time, 36 minutes, 17 seconds.

'Lion in Winter' shown at Upsala

The play is the fourth of a series of summer stock productions at Upsala. A theater party of Upsala alumni of the classes of 1928, 1929 and 1930 will attend Saturday night's performance. Members of the cast and alumni will hold a champagne reception at the college's Alumni House on Springdale avenue following the performance.

"The Lion in Winter" will be followed by "The Waltz of the Toreadors" on the nights of Aug. 20, 21, 22, 26, 27, 28 and 29.

Tickets for both productions may be obtained at the box office during the day or on the nights of performances. Reservations may be made by phoning 266-7144.

"HELLO, DOLLY!" — Louis Armstrong welcomes Barbra Streisand as "Dolly." "Patton" is in its last week at the Rialto.

McGuire named coordinator of Citizens group for Lundy

Dr. David McGuire of Union has been appointed coordinator of the Citizens for Lundy, an organization supporting Daniel F. Lundy, the Democratic candidate for the Congress in the Twelfth District.

Dr. McGuire, an associate professor of chemistry at Upsala College in East Orange, will direct the efforts of all independent volunteer activity in support of Lundy.

He was a delegate to the 1968 Democratic Convention, was the first chairman of the Union County New Democratic Coalition and was an unsuccessful primary candidate for freeholder in Union County in 1969.

Dr. McGuire is a graduate of St. Vincent College in Latrobe, Pa., and of the University of Pittsburgh. He was a postdoctoral fellow at the Brookhaven National Laboratory in Upton, N.Y., and taught at Rider College in Trenton before coming to Upsala in 1967.

UC 'Week-End College' plans classes for adults

Union College, Cranford, will add a new dimension to its educational offerings in the fall with the establishment of Week-End College, a program of non-credit courses, workshops and seminars for adults.

Most of the programs to be offered as part of Week-End College will be conducted on Friday evenings and Saturdays at the campus in Cranford. The new program will be conducted by the Division of Community Services under the direction of Prof. Richard J. Selcoe, director.

"We believe a program of continuing education for adults is a necessary and vital part of the total educational commitment of a community college and, therefore, is a role our college must and will play," Dr. Kenneth Iversen, president, said. "Our plans call for supplementing existing programs of continuing education for adults throughout Union County."

Prof. Selcoe said Week-End College will open in October and will provide a broad spectrum of courses. He added that Week-End College will be expanded to the Elizabeth and Plainfield campuses in the future.

Among areas in which programs are being planned are: The theater, jazz, literature, foreign policy, art and ecology.

"We plan to launch Week-End College with a modest number of programs and to expand it gradually as demand warrants," Prof. Selcoe said.

Prof. Selcoe said Week-End College will only offer non-credit courses, workshop and seminars, and all credit programs will be offered in the day or summer sessions of Union College. All non-credit offerings, however, will not be limited to week-ends or to the Cranford campus, Prof. Selcoe explained.

Union College now offers programs leading to associate in arts degrees in liberal arts, engineering, physical and life sciences, education, law enforcement and business administration.

A brochure listing all offerings of Week-

End College will be available in September and can be obtained by contacting the Division of Community Services, Union College, Cranford, 07016.

Beethoven birthday marked by exhibit

The 200th anniversary of the birth of Ludwig Van Beethoven is commemorated with an exhibit in the fourth floor gallery of the Newark Public Library through Sept. 30.

The exhibit highlights his personal life including his family and the many women in his life. Due to his deafness he stopped playing and composed some of the greatest music ever written. He studied the piano, organ, violin and viola. His compositions included chamber music works for solo instruments and orchestra, including the ever popular Emperor piano concerto, nine symphonies and his only opera "Fidelio."

The July 18 issue of "Billboard" proclaims the new Pop single Beethoven's "A Song of Joy" as third on the Top Forty Easy Listening List. "A Song of Joy" is from the Fourth movement (the so-called choral movement) of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

When Beethoven died eight orchestra conductors attended his funeral and all of the "choir" in Vienna were closed.

The photographs, engravings, albums, scores and books are from the Newark Public Library's Art and Music Department's collections.

Civil disorder covered in hospital disaster plan

Civil disorders are now included in a revised hospital disaster planning manual just issued by the New Jersey Hospital Association to its membership.

Civil disturbances, and the exceptional circumstances they create, have added a new dimension to disaster planning for hospitals, according to Jack W. Owen, president of the New Jersey Hospital Association.

In disasters of any magnitude, Owen said, people turn to their community hospitals for help. Our state has witnessed floods, hurricanes, fires, explosions, traffic disasters and civil disorders. New Jersey hospitals have an enviable record of preparedness and performance during disasters, Owen stated.

The revised disaster manual features a questionnaire check list so that the membership of the New Jersey Hospital Association can evaluate their disaster plans.

In 1962, the hospital association reviewed disaster plans of member hospitals and combined a Disaster Training Manual. Then in 1965, this disaster manual was supplemented again.

Owen noted that all accredited hospitals (Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals) are required to "develop a disaster plan based on its capabilities." Further, "the Disaster Plans should be rehearsed at least twice a year, preferably as part of a coordinated drill in which other community emergency service agencies participate."

New Jersey is unique in hospital disaster planning because of our state-wide hospital radio network, Owen said. New Jersey's hospital network, first in the nation on a state-wide basis, is designed for both emergency and day-to-day use. The network has been used in state-wide hospital disaster drills.

In the revised hospital disaster planning manual, each hospital was urged to inform the community of its potential and limitations in the event of community disaster and to involve other available community resources in addition to civil defense, police and fire departments and rescue squads. Other suggested resources are tax companies, supermarkets, dairies, meat processors, the telephone company, contractors, pharmacies and the clergy.

The hospital disaster planning manual contains check lists for communications (with provisions for news media); disaster management; materials, supplies and drugs; medical staff and other manpower; security and traffic control, and patient flow and patient records.

Eye perils lurk in core of golf balls

Don't let children play or experiment with golf balls: the result just could be a severe eye injury.

That's the word from the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, which has received a number of reports of eye injuries caused by golf balls exploding when children cut them open to "see what's inside."

The danger lies in the ball's liquid core, which is under pressure of up to 2,500 pounds per square inch and can easily explode if pierced or cut into. An additional hazard exists from the chemicals which are used to make up the cores of several brands of golf balls.

The substance used for ball cores varies with the manufacturer, and the list of possible ingredients, according to information received by the society, includes sulfuric acid, barium salts, zinc sulfide, silicone, gelatin, corn syrup, ethylene glycol, lead oxide paste, mineral oil, sodium hydroxide, castor oil and water.

"Only recently," reports Wilfred D. David, M.D., the society's executive director, "we were apprised of a case in which an Oklahoma City fourth-grader was sprayed in the face with the liquid chemical from the core of a golf ball he had punctured."

In this instance, the child was fortunate -- two of his classmates had the foresight to bathe his eyes while another went for help, with the result that the boy suffered only minor eye burns. Other children engaged in similar 'experiments' have not been as lucky.

The society urges that golf balls be kept on the fairway -- and out of the hands of youngsters.

NCE names new aide

Joseph Crossley of State College, Pa., has joined Newark College of Engineering as assistant director of research, it was announced by Dr. William Hazell, president.

Crossley is assigned to the Foundation for the Advancement of Graduate Study in Engineering, NCE's privately supported affiliate for research and graduate study.

A graduate of Princeton University with a bachelor of science degree in engineering, Crossley did graduate work at New York University and will receive a master of education in engineering degree from Pennsylvania State University in September. He previously was associated with the Westvaco Corp. as administrative supervisor.

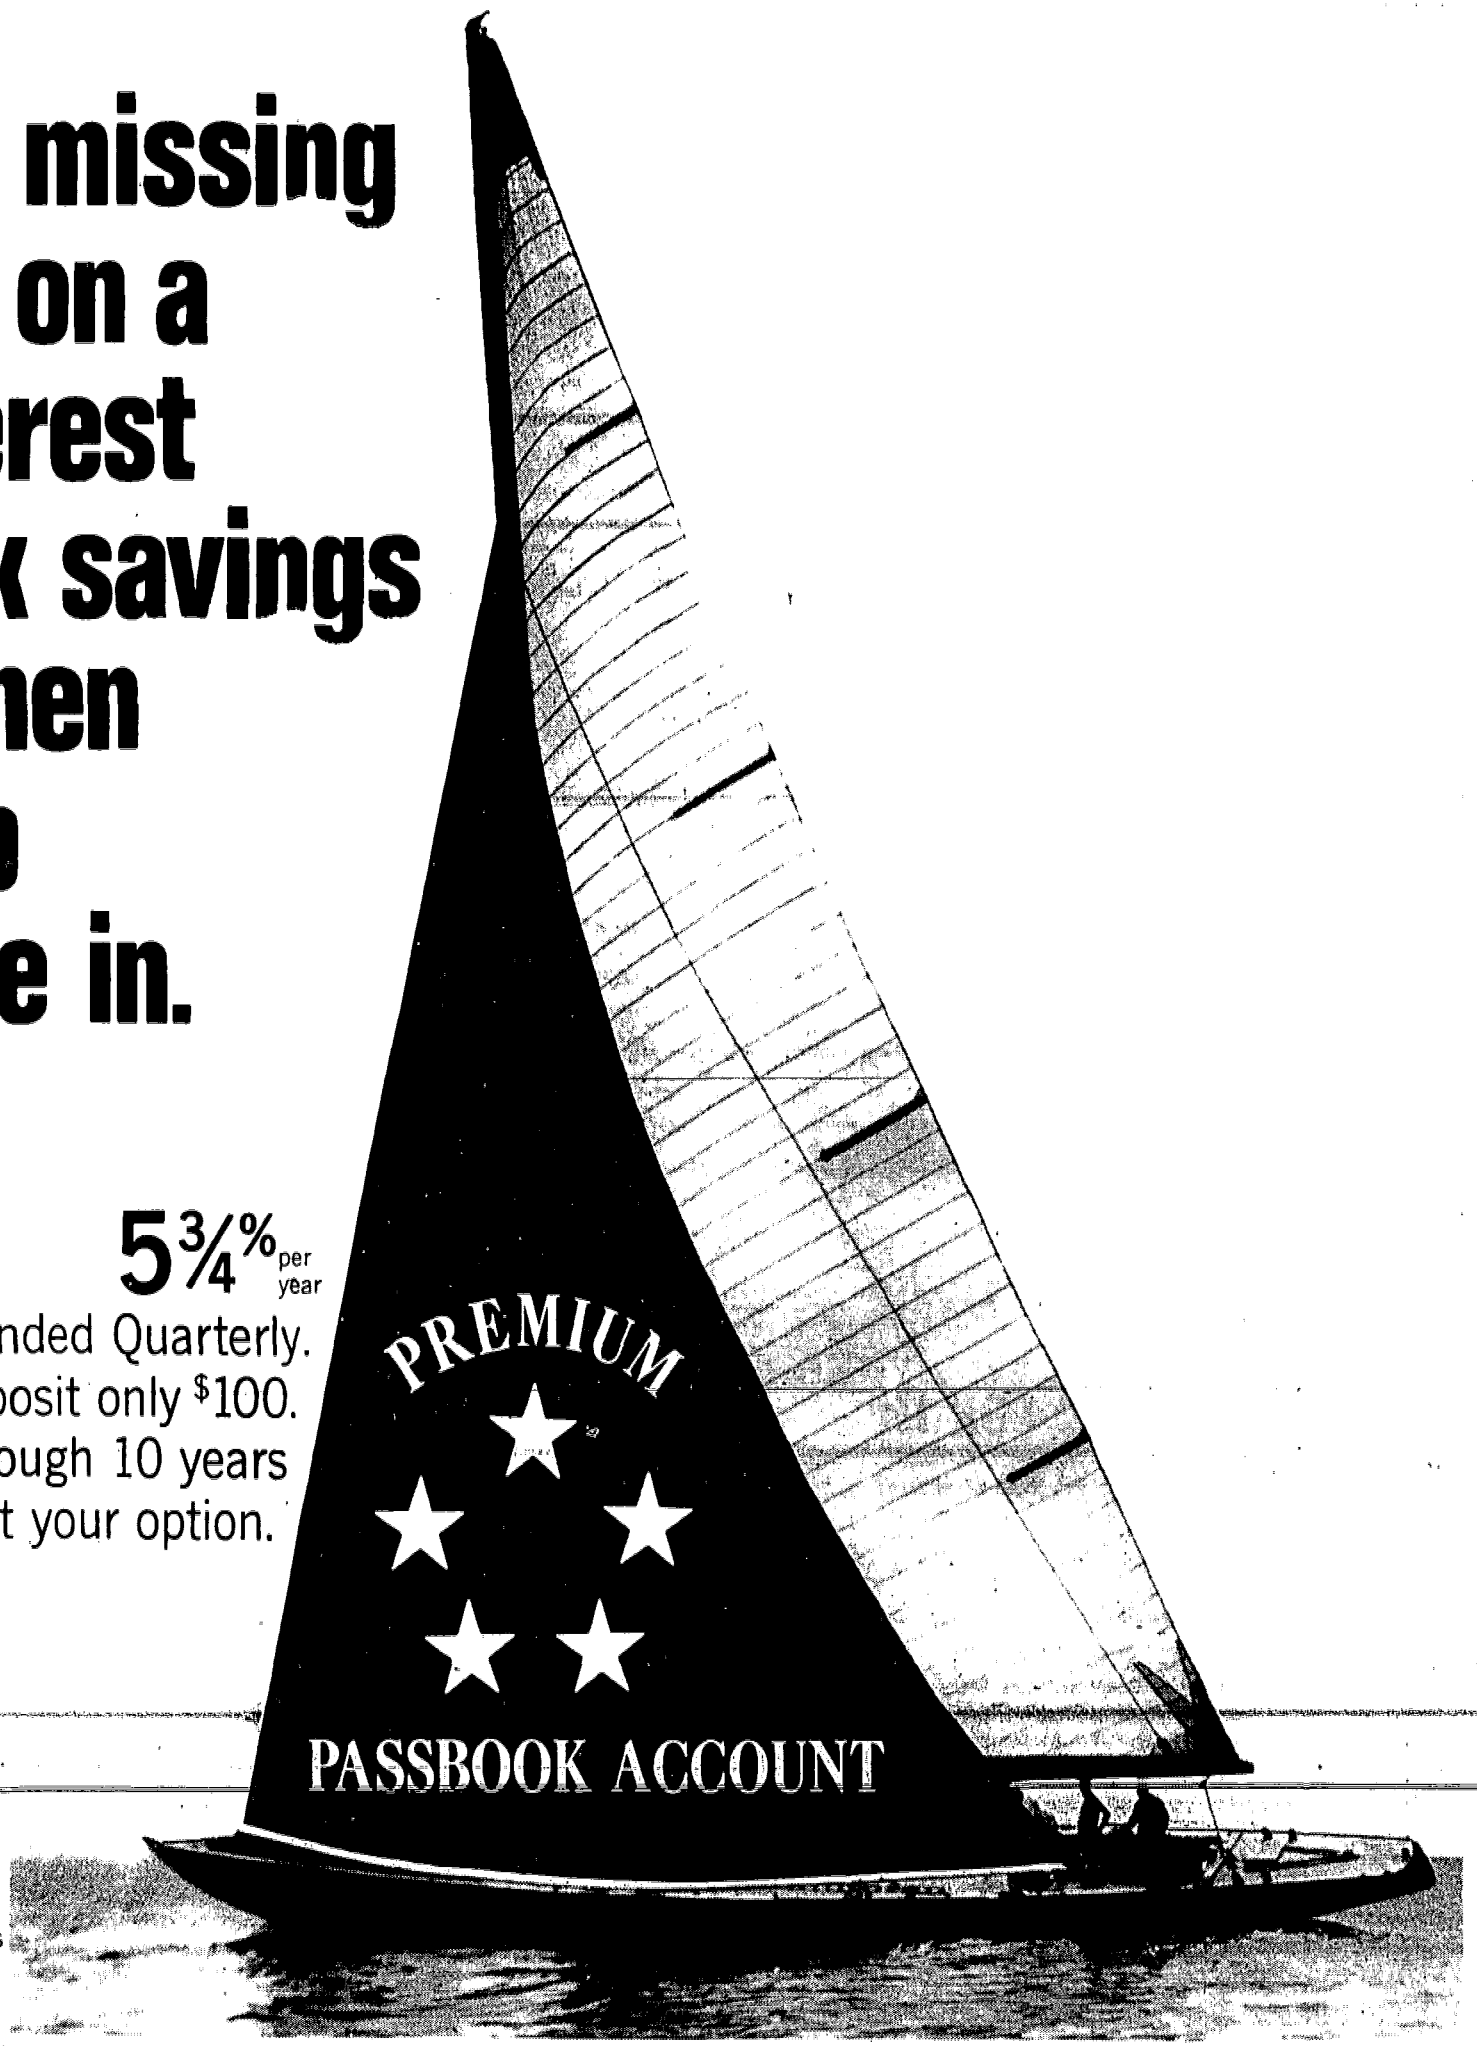

He is a member of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry and the Society of Photographic Scientists and Engineers. He is a ruling elder of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

If you're missing the boat on a high interest passbook savings plan.... then your ship just came in.

5 3/4% per year

Compounded Quarterly.
Minimum deposit only $100.
Guaranteed 2 through 10 years at your option.

Now you probably think we're going to get in a whale of a lot of puns like "buoy oh buoy" and "sail right in to First National State" and so on.

Well, we aren't.

We do think you may be missing out on a high interest passbook savings plan because the minimum balance may be too high.

Our Premium Five Star Passbook Account is designed so that more people, at any income level, can begin saving and earning top interest right now.

That interest is 5 3/4% per year, compounded quarterly, from day of deposit. Guaranteed for from 2 through 10 years.

But to open it and start saving right away you need only deposit as little as $100.

That's right, $100 is our minimum required deposit. Not $500. Not $1,000. Not $5,000.

You can choose your own maturity date from 2 through 10 years. (Withdrawals from principal only at maturity.)

Now here are our four convenient interest options:

1. Accumulate your interest. We can credit your interest quarterly and compound it to earn you more interest.
2. We can mail you an interest check every three months.
3. We'll even transfer your current interest to any other account -- checking or savings.
4. Or you can defer your interest and the income taxes on it until maturity, in the opinion of tax counsel.

In this day and age every savings-investment plan is important. We simply made it a lot easier to open our Premium Five Star Passbook Account. So your money can begin earning high interest with a safe, no-risk investment.

And with no ketches (forgive us).
