PUNK'N HEADS - The Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside gets an early start on Halloween for youngsters who can't "Trick or Treat" in the traditional way. A donation of 50 pumpkins by the South Avenue Car Wash in Plainfield arrived a week ahead to allow the children time to make their own jack-o-lanterns.

Next year's Mountainside 9th graders will spend year at Dayton Regional

By JANCE ADLER
Mountainside freshmen will again attend Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, next year.
Upperclassmen from Mountainside will continue at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, according to the Union County Regional High School Board of Education. The board's pupil distribution policy for next year was announced Tuesday at the board meeting at Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School, Clark. It will be exactly the same as this year's policy, designed to deal with district-wide overcrowding.

Pauline Keith, social studies coordinator for the four Regional high schools; David Carl, a social studies teacher at Jonathan Dayton, and Edward Brown, music coordinator for the high schools, reported on summer workshops they participated in.
Miss Keith conducted a workshop on world cultures to evaluate the existing program, review the materials, rewrite the program and bring it up to date. The objective was to bring about a more progressive program in the light of new research, she said. Another purpose was to develop resource guides for teachers.

Carl worked on a Title I program which is continuing into the present school year. The program's goal is to determine what is meant by being educationally disadvantaged within the regional district. Case studies are being done to determine characteristics of the disadvantaged. There is an emphasis on teacher training, he said.
Brown's program on the humanities is also continuing to the end of the present academic year. It is a series of programs with the theme of "man's relation to man," he said. The students help plan the programs and the follow-ups. Professionals, such as dancers and politicians, come in to speak to students of all ability levels.

AT LAST MONTH'S MEETING John E. Conlin, board member from Garwood, announced that he would introduce a new motion for an expansion referendum. However, he was unable to do this now because he did

Republicans say Dems trying to confuse voters

"Imitation is said to be the most sincere form of flattery. Public acknowledgement by your opponents that you have done a good job is also flattering and appreciated, although unexpected," Mountainside Borough Councilman William Van Blarcom said this week. "Our opponents stated on Sept. 3, 'We have no quarrel with the past or present Republican administration.' Councilman Lou Parent and I appreciate their endorsement," said Van Blarcom.

Speaking at a gathering of Mountainside residents at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Gutman, 336 Short dr., Parent and Van Blarcom scored their Democrat opponents for what they termed failing to bring forth any constructive programs for the benefit of Mountainside.
Parent said, "The Democrats have conducted a campaign designed to confuse the voters. They offer solutions to many problems that are not the business of Mountainside Borough Council. I suggest that our opponents are running for the wrong office. While their concern over local and regional school problems, county, state and even national affairs are valid, it is no secret that our elected boards of education, freeholders, state and national legislators bear the responsibility of these areas, not Mountainside councilmen."
"My three years on the Mountainside Borough Council have proven to me that there are

State visit

State Transportation Commissioner John C. Kohl visited Mountainside this Tuesday as part of his tour of Union County traffic trouble spots. Mayor Thomas J. Ricciardi and Councilmen Louis Parent and William O. Van Blarcom accompanied the commissioner.

GOP faces challenge from Dems

Voter registration declines to 4,330

A total of 4,330 registered voters will be eligible to go to the polls in Mountainside on Tuesday to decide the election of candidates on the federal, county and municipal levels, along with two proposed amendments to the state constitution.

Voter registration in Mountainside has decreased from last year's 4,539. Registration also has decreased on the county level from 270,806 in 1969 to 258,458 for this year.

On the local level, the candidates for two three-year terms to the Borough Council are incumbent Republicans Louis Parent and William Van Blarcom and Democrats John H. Palmer Jr. and Robert H. Jaffe.

On the federal level, candidates for the U.S. Senate are Harrison A. Williams Jr., the Democratic incumbent; Nelson Gross, Republican; Joseph Job, Silent Majority; Julius Levin, Socialist Labor; Joseph Mans, Independent, and William O'Grady, National Conservative.

Also on the federal level, Republican Congresswoman Florence P. Dwyer is opposed by Daniel F. Lundy, Democrat, for the 12th Congressional District in the House of Representatives.

Among the contenders for the position of county freeholder, four of whom will be chosen, are Democrats Everett C. Lattimore, Thomas W. Long, Harold J. Seymour Jr. and John Motley, and Republicans Jerome Epstein, Arthur Marner, Charles Tracy and Henry Da Ieman.

The first proposed constitutional amendment calls for a reduction of the voting age to 19 years old. This would authorize the lowering of the voting age from 21 years old for qualified persons.

The second proposed amendment authorizes raising the ceiling on the annual senior citizen tax deduction to $160. It also broadens the restriction limiting the deduction to home owners whose annual income is under $5,000 by excluding social security from real property taxes to those 65 or older. The amendment also provides that the state contribute one-half of the tax loss to the district.

Two men perish as auto strikes tree on rainy Route 22

Two men were killed last Thursday morning on Rt. 22 East when their car crashed into a utility pole near the Hall and Fuhs Factory, according to Mountainside police. Raymond Behrens, 46, and Thomas Demarco, 25, both of Plainfield, were pronounced dead on the scene at 12:50 a.m.

Police said that the driver apparently was going too fast on the rain-slicked road. The car struck a concrete divider, bounced off, skidded off the highway and struck the pole. Police were unable to determine who was driving.

Three persons were slightly injured in a six-car chain collision on Rt. 22 East by Camelot court Friday morning, police reported. Five of the vehicles were towed from the scene.

The drivers in order of their involvement were: Kenneth D. Baker of Somerville, Arthur F. Ross of Ashbury Park, John E. Lacey of Somerville, Eugene V. Bradford of Doylestown, Pa., Joseph J. Balash of Middlesex and Donald C. Geib of New Milford. Ross complained that his right knee was becoming swollen; Lacey said his neck hurt and Balash had a lump on the back of his head, police reported. Each said he would see his own doctor, police reported.

Diane E. Lalle of Westfield was injured

PROFILE -- John H. Palmer Jr.

John H. Palmer Jr., one of two Democratic candidates for the Borough Council, became involved in politics because of his strong belief in the two-party system.

He said, "I got interested through meeting friends in town who were involved with the Democratic Party. All I had to hear was that there never had been a two-party system. I believe in the values of a two-party system. To me this is the whole thing in a nutshell."

"Many things have been allowed and many did not happen because of the system in Mountainside. However, I believe that the town has progressed very well through the years."

"What was done could possibly have been done faster and more could have been accomplished through the advent of a two-party system. But most important of all is the awareness of the voter that is provided by a two-party system."

"What the system does is to give two sides to a story. It doesn't seem to move people, but when you get down to it nothing would have been done, especially in the federal government. Without the two-party system the candidates do not have to make pledges."

"MANY FEEL THAT if a Democrat gets into office in Mountainside everything will change. No one in our Democratic Party is attempting to take over and change the community. The two seats on the council will provide the value of a second voice."

"Under no circumstances will we (Palmer and his running mate, Robert Jaffe) be there to say 'no' or to be negative to everything proposed by the Borough Council. For those few times when we are not in agreement it will be where we feel the community will be privileged to hear another side."

"The people have chosen what they feel is right. What it boils down to is that the more knowledge they have, the more they will know how the borough functions."

Palmer feels that the Borough Council should get more involved in outside activities "such as the high school and overpass, instead of staying comparatively isolated."

PALMER WAS BORN in Schenectady, N.Y., in 1927, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Palmer Sr. His father was an electrical engineer and served as vice-president of the Phelps Dodge Wire and Cable Corp. When he was three years old his family moved to Scarsdale, where he and his only sister

Guatemalan student to pay Dayton High 10-week visit

ALBERTO TENENBAUM

Jonathan Dayton Regional High School is scheduled to welcome an Open Door Exchange Student this week from Guatemala, in the person of 16-year-old Alberto Tenenbaum. Alberto, who attends the American School in Guatemala City where he lives with his parents and two brothers, will be staying with Ray Danziger and his family for the 10 weeks.

Danziger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Danziger of 127 Jefferson Ter., Springfield, is president of the Student Council at the high school.

Alberto, in his application to become an exchange student, noted that his older brother, Sammy, came to this country as an exchange student several years ago. A junior at the school in Guatemala, Alberto likes math and art the best of all his subjects. He says he likes all sports, especially bowling and football.

Alberto is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Tenenbaum. His father is a Guatemala City businessman. Alberto is reasonably proficient in English, since the school he attends emphasizes English as a second language.

As part of the Open Door Student Exchange program, which sends a student from overseas here, Jonathan Dayton was privileged to send Bonnie Lynn Raskin to San Jose, Costa Rica, this past summer. She spent 10 weeks there.

As exchange students, the youngsters have the opportunity to live with their host family and see the country other than as a mere tourist, and see the country other than a mere tourist.

"We'll be happy to welcome Alberto to this country and this fine community," Robert Lavannure, principal of Jonathan Dayton, said.

Youth peace group maps projects and activities for year

The first student peace meeting for activities during the coming year was held at the home of high school junior Bonnie Bernstein last Wednesday night. Its purpose was to establish an organization to work on the Vietnam war issue within Springfield. Coming events were also discussed.

A peace rally will take place in Trenton on Saturday, and a bus will be chartered from the Elizabeth Peace Center to provide transportation for interested local residents. Students have been distributing leaflets to inform others of this event. Some will also be petitioning to obtain support for the Richardson Bill presently being discussed in the New Jersey legislature. This act would require the State of New Jersey to support any man not wishing to serve in an undeclared war (Massachusetts is in the midst of a test case for a similar bill in their courts.)

Other local youths will select candidates they wish to work for and help them in the last leg of their campaigns. There is a non-partisan organization in Jonathan Dayton Regional High School called SCOPE (Student Committee on Political Education), whose members devote their efforts to gathering factual background data and information on all candidates in the area. Students in the group outside of school will be able to use this information in choosing a favorite candidate.

With the hopes of keeping up a local political consciousness about the Vietnam situation, the students will work with interested adults from the community. "Together, they will better be able to function in arousing concern and support within their neighbors," a spokesman added.

Plans seek to ease access to industrial area along Rt. 22

The Springfield Industrial Development Committee this month acted to seek two major improvements for the industrial area being developed south of Rt. 22. It was announced this week by Frank Gilbert, chairman.

Both steps are designed to facilitate access to and exit from the industrial area. The first decision was to move for the extension of Diamond road to S. Springfield avenue near the Westfield line. The construction work will be done by the developer in the area, Gilbert said, or the land will be obtained by condemnation and the road built by the township.

The committee, in its second action, authorized a request to the Department of Transportation in Trenton to provide acceleration and de-acceleration lanes on Rt. 22 at the Fadem road entrance to the industrial park.

Gilbert said that the plan is similar to the one now in effect at Rt. 22 westbound and Springfield road in Union. It would give motorists time to slow up for a right turn from the highway and to speed up when entering the highway.

The plan would also discourage drivers from waiting to cut sharply across Rt. 22 to the nearest turn-around. By doing this, Gilbert said, his group hopes to prevent a traffic jam of cars waiting to leave the industrial area during the rush hour.

Moms to hold dinner at Y

Volunteer mothers of the Summit Area YMCA are planning a roast beef dinner to be held at the YMCA auditorium, Friday evening, Nov. 6 at 7 p.m. Members, friends and the general public have been invited to attend the "mother's night out" event, proceeds of which will benefit the Y's program fund.

Adult and children's tickets at nominal prices are available at the Y and the reservation deadline is tomorrow. Readers may call 273-3330 for further information.

The benefit is being arranged by Mrs. Robert C. Ruerup, assisted by Mrs. Robert Leischer and Mrs. William Holstead, all of Summit, and by Mrs. Joseph Caporaso and Mrs. Robert C. Ruerup Jr. of New Providence. The YMCA girls' Leaders Club members will serve as waitresses.

Politicians come to Dayton Gross, Lundy, and Kaltenbacher

Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, last week was host to three leading political figures in New Jersey. Nelson Gross, Republican candidate for the New Jersey State Senate, Daniel F. Lundy, Democratic candidate for 12th District congressman and Phillip D. Kaltenbacher, Republican state assemblyman from Short Hills, all adressed the Junior class on the subject "Why Does Man Seek Political Office." The purpose of the program was to bring the students into personal contact with career politicians. In this way, it is hoped that these men will be viewed as individuals rather than political stereotypes. This program was the first of 10 large group presentations which will be given to the junior class under the general theme "The Images of Man."

This innovative series of programs in the humanities will be presented in the Union County Regional High School District during the 1970-71 school year. It will involve all of the junior class students in the four high schools in the district. The purpose of this program is to increase the awareness of the students' relationships to their fellowmen. There has been a movement for the past five years to have a humanities program in the high schools, but there were many problems in scheduling the course and even in defining the term humanities. The district has had to make its own definition and agree on the type of teaching.

There was a summer workshop of all the teachers under Edward Brown, who is the coordinator of the Fine Arts in the program. It was agreed to give the program at Dayton in a series of assemblies, starting in October and continuing with one each month. This way, each teacher should use the program some way in his daily curriculum as a follow-through.

The 10 themes are politics, art, sports, music, human rights, dance, humor, ecology, drama, and self-concepts. In these central experiences, the guest will perform, conduct sessions, demonstrate or talk about their field. Some of the speakers who will be appearing are: the Brecht West Drama Group from New Brunswick; Donald Voorhees, retired conductor of the Bell Telephone Hour Orchestra, and a representative from the New York Mets.

Although this program is in the experimental stage, it could lead to a course of humanities in the high schools or an expansion to the other classes in the district. It could also be dropped. The future of this program depends on its successfulness this year, a school spokesman added.

Koszowski excels for Wagner eleven

Ed Koszowski of Mountainside, a senior defensive end, was awarded the Nicklea Trophy for his outstanding play Saturday as the Wagner College football team shut out Kings Point, 19-0, in the homecoming game on the Wagner campus, Staten Island.

Koszowski was credited with four solo tackles, eight first hits and four assists. He trapped Kings Point ball-carriers behind the scrimmage line for a total of 28 yards and twice dropped the quarterback on attempted passes.

Koszowski starred on the undefeated 1965 team at Gov. Livingston Regional High School and was named to the all-county team as a linebacker. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Koszowski.

College announces local sweethearts

Two Mountainside residents have been named campus sweethearts of different organizations at Ashland College, Ashland, Ohio. They competed with sweethearts from other college organizations for the title of homecoming queen.

Diane Elaine Honecker, a junior, has been named as the campus sweetheart of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Honecker Jr., of 374 Short dr., she is a varsity cheerleader, a member of the Delta Zeta sorority, Greek goddess, a member of the Home Economics Club and a member of the May Day Court.

Susan A. Serretti, a senior, has been named as the campus sweetheart of Alpha Phi sorority. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Serretti of 334 Old Tote rd., she is a member of Alpha Phi and the Home Economics Association.

Local policeman acquitted in court of language charge

Patrolman Richard Kisch of the Springfield Police Department was acquitted Monday on a charge of using abusive language. Acting Magistrate Milton Freiman presided in Springfield Municipal Court after local Magistrate Max Sherman disqualified himself.

The charge stemmed from a June 29 incident when Kisch stopped Paul Drexler of Orange who was given a summons for not wearing safety goggles and a safety helmet while driving a motorcycle. Violet T. Gelson of Orange, a passenger on the motorcycle, said that Kisch used abusive language as he was leaving.

In another court action, James M. Bourne of South Orange was bound over for action by the Union County Grand Jury. He is charged with selling narcotics.

John J. Ciabattari of Basking Ridge was convicted on two charges. He was fined $90 for driving while impaired. He paid another $90 for using profane language.

Norberto A. Del Gato of Newark was fined $50 for driving at more than 70 miles per hour in a 40-mile zone on Springfield avenue. He also had his driver's license revoked for 30 days.

Three more persons were convicted for speeding. They and their fines were: Jose A. Robert of Summit, $45 for going 70 MPH in a 40-mile zone on Springfield avenue; Alfred Heeney 3rd of Kenilworth, $35 for going 70 MPH in a 50-mile zone on Rt. 22, eastbound; and Dennis J. Murtha of Union, $30 for going 55 MPH in a 35-mile zone in Morris avenue.

Other convictions and fines were: Edith J. Morse of Scotch Plains, $15 for inattentive driving; Richard Coccozzello of Union, $25 for operating an unsafe vehicle and overdue car inspection; Glen M. Friedman of 239 Milltown rd., Springfield, $15 for driving an unregistered vehicle; and Margaret Hanifin of Roselle Park, $25 for careless driving.

Man takes a walk with mantle clock

A mantle clock valued at about $160 was taken Friday from Huffman-Koos on Morris turnpike, according to Springfield police. A cleaning woman allegedly saw a man put the clock under his arm and walk out of the store, police said.

A tape player and 10 tapes were taken from a car belonging to Anthony Adona of 102 Salter st., Springfield, Saturday. The car was parked at the high school, police reported.

A ring, valued at about $80, was taken from a locker at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Friday. Police said that the ring belonged to the daughter of Selwyn Schechter of 26 Christy lane.

SUDDEN DEATH IN INFANTS

Each year in America, some 7,500 to 10,000 apparently healthy infants lose their lives suddenly and without apparent cause. Parents feel responsible for the unexplained deaths; doctors don't understand them.

The parent usually finds the baby dead in its crib, often only hours after a doctor has pronounced it in good physical health. It was once thought that the babies had suffocated, but scientists now dispute this and are looking for other possible explanations.

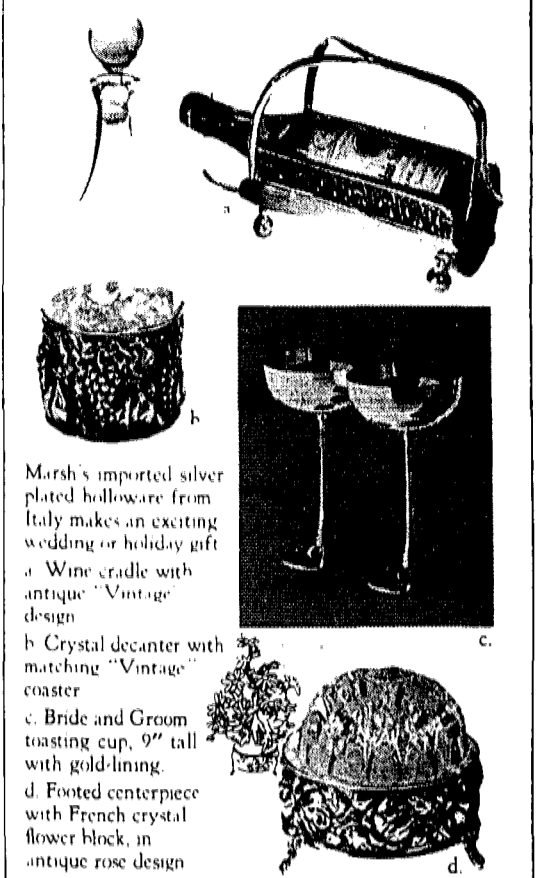

The sudden infant death syndrome, also called "crib death" is a leading cause of death in children under one year old, killing as many children as lung cancer does adults. Yet how or why it so suddenly snuffs out life is not understood.

Doctors usually agree on one thing, however, and that is that the parents are not responsible for deaths. The infants die so suddenly and unexpectedly that parents—or even doctors—probably could not save them.

Scientists are considering many theories to explain the cause of crib deaths. They can't predict them, however, so study is confined to autopsy findings. These are often so general that a cause of death cannot be reasonably defined. Many states do not record "crib deaths," as such, attributing the deaths to "pneumonia," choking, and the like, instead. This practice makes it difficult to determine the actual number of infant deaths from no apparent cause.

It was first thought that an undetected virus was responsible for crib deaths. Research supported by the Federal Government has not found a specific virus that causes these deaths. Another theory receiving serious attention is that sudden infant deaths result from the inability of an incompletely developed im-

Errors continue to befall football team as Highlanders' record drops to 0-4-1

By BILL LOVETT

The Gov. Livingston football team continued to stumble toward its worst record in the Highlanders' 10-year history as it dropped its third straight game, 28-6, to Clark. The team lost Rahway on Saturday.

It was a frustrating loss for the Highlanders. Again their opponents did not win the game themselves, but were helped by Regional mistakes. Gov. Livingston clearly had the game within its grasp, although the final score does not indicate it. But as in past games, mental errors, as well as just sloppy offensive play, made the crucial difference.

The game was a bruising contest. It took its toll on the players as both teams wanted the victory greatly.

As if Gov. Livingston does not need anything else, the team received more than its share of injuries. Quarterback Kevin Corcoran, whose arm hurt enough before the game, was bounced around quite a bit, but stayed in. Eric Jones was knocked woody.

Gov. Livingston's record is now 0-4-1, which is only a half game behind last year's mark at the same time.

The Highlanders have the easiest part of their schedule coming up, but if they are to win even one game this year, they will have to better than they did against Clark.

Against the Crusaders, Gov. Livingston again displayed the inability to come up with the big play, while at the same time making costly mistakes and allowing Clark to capitalize on them. This applies mainly to the Regional offense which gave up more points than it scored.

Clark scored twice directly off Regional's offense, once on an interception return and once on a run with a fumble.

It took Clark just five plays to score following the opening kickoff. Starting at the Highlander 47, the Crusaders used five running plays, with the big one being a 24-yard inside reverse to wingback Ed Pinkham, who raced untouched into the end zone past the confused Livingston defenders, a play which continued to work throughout the game.

Regional came back and Kevin Corcoran, even with his sore arm, guided the team on a beautiful 62-yard march which unfortunately stalled on the Clark 10. During the drive, Corcoran passed beautifully, hitting Curt Sawczek and Bob Honecker for key first downs. But as has happened all year, Regional could not get the ball into the end zone.

Two series later, Clark again bewildered the Highlander defense with a variety of runs, launching an 80-yard touchdown drive which ended with fullback Jeff Tomascovic diving in from the one. During the nine-play march, the Crusaders did not pass once, relying completely on its running game. The inside reverse again worked with the speedy Pinkham picking up 33 yards as he caught the Highlander linebackers and deep men once more going the wrong way.

Behind 14-0, Corcoran's passing brought Highlanders from their 28 to Clark's 26 with crisp running and passing. A costly mistake, however, cost them dearly. On a quarterback pitchout, Corcoran was hit and the ball bounced wide of its intended recipient, Sawczek. Tomascovic picked the ball up in stride and raced 70 yards down the sideline for the score.

At the start of the second half, Gov. Livingston won back a little of its dignity by scoring following a beautiful kickoff return by Sawczek to the Clark 39. From there, Eric Jones did most of the work, gaining 30 yards, John Bress got the touchdown on a plunge from the one.

Neither team was able to score again until, with just 2:20 remaining, Corcoran hurried a pass which Clark linebacker Chuck Kovacs picked off and went 41 yards for a touchdown.

Saturday, the Highlanders will host Rahway. This combination the last two years has produced two very wild games, both decided by 8-7 scores. This year's should be no different.

SEES DISCREPANCY

After reading the Mountainside Echo of last week, I now realize why the Democrats cannot win in Mountainside. There are two obvious reasons: first, the present administration is doing a very good job; second, and more important, the Democratic candidates this year and over the past years have simply been inadequate.

This very strongly shows up in the article where Palmer came up with a brilliant new idea of phasing out the Echobrook School so it could be renovated into a borough hall. Jaffe later backed up Palmer by suggesting that it (the new borough hall) could be combined with a community center.

I'm sure that living in a small town like Mountainside, Palmer must know Jaffe, his running mate. Yet I wonder if they even bothered to compare notes before going to this public meeting.

It was less than one year ago that former Mayor Fred Wilhelms (a Republican) proposed this same plan in detail, Echobrook School being converted into a borough hall and recreation center.

It was at this same public meeting, at which I was present, that Jaffe strongly opposed this same idea.

Thank goodness for Louis Parent and William Van Blarcom.

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

SHE WAS TAKEN IN
Dear Amy:
I married a man who is 20 years older than I. When we married, he was retired. He told me his income was enough for us to live on. But after we were married, I found out he expected me to work to help with the household bills. This, my health won't permit. We have been married for 3 years now. He has stopped buying me clothes, paying my doctor bills, or any of my personal needs. I have had to go to the Welfare Board to get help. He gives me the check from this agency ($55) which is a very small check for groceries and it has to last for a month. I feel that he is doing nothing for me and that I am nothing but an unpaid housekeeper.

Only a Housekeeper
Dear Housekeeper:
If he sold you a "bill of goods" under false pretenses but still wants to preserve his marriage, there is only one way to resolve the problem. He should emerge from retirement (if his health permits) and secure a job to support you. That's what any self-respecting man would do under similar circumstances!

Dear Amy:
We have a very close friend who is in the 10th grade. She is very self-conscious about her small bust. She forces herself to wear a larger size than she can fit into because she feels boys will notice her more and this has started people talking behind her back. How can we hint to her that boys will notice her more if she acts like herself and not like something she isn't?
Two Concerned Friends
Dear Friends:
It's important to make your friend aware that girls who attempt to look "busty" are signaling the wrong kind of boys, and nice girls shouldn't want those kind.

The only time I approve of a slightly padded bra is to fill in an in-between size. It's more chic for boys to like you for the type of person you are and the interest and fun you can lend to a conversation.
Help her "shape up" and your friend will be much happier.

Dear Amy:
Sure hope you can help us. We have a French family next door to us. The parents can't speak a word of English. Their children throw trash on our property behind our garage. We tell them not to do it, but they take no notice of what we say.

We are past 65 years of age and are quite upset over this... and we can't afford to move.
A Nervous Neighbor
Dear Neighbor:
The total disregard for another person's property is breaking the law in any language. Perish the thought of moving. Rather contact your local Dept. of Public Health and make a formal charge against these people. I can assure you they will then understand and keep their trash where it belongs.

Dear Amy:
I am almost 19 years of age and I have a problem which has been bothering me for some time. The problem is: I'm just plain scared of the feminine sex, I have had no dates—the last one being approximately eight months ago. A friend of mine in another town introduced me around to several girls and tried to get me to date them. My excuse was that I was tired from the trip.

What's up,
It seems as though I should be more interested than I was at twelve or so, but I'm not.
Do you think I should see a psychiatrist, or a psychologist, or see the family doctor and get his advice? I don't usually ask for anything, but I feel that it's about time I found out what's wrong.
Dear A.C.:
Yes, it is about time that you found out what's wrong. Your family doctor would be the best place to seek advice. Good luck, son!

730 organizations offering course in defensive driving

CHICAGO—More than 730 organizations throughout the country are participating in the National Safety Council's defensive driving course, which has graduated almost two and a half million persons since it began in 1965. These organizations include local, state and federal governmental agencies; the United States military; city and county school districts; vocational and technical schools; university extension services; local and state safety councils; business and industry; Lions Clubs; statewide Jaycees; the American Association of Retired Persons-National Retired Teachers Association (AARP-NRTA); and Veterans of Foreign Wars.
Last year, 56,400 Americans were killed in traffic accidents. Another two million suffered disabling injuries.
"This tragic toll will continue unless the individual driver becomes personally involved in the campaign against highway carnage. Every motorist can do his part in this campaign by driving defensively each time he gets behind the wheel," said Chris Imhoff, director of the council's defensive driving course.

"What is defensive driving? It is 'driving in a manner which will prevent accidents in spite of the actions of others or the presence of adverse driving conditions,'" Imhoff said.

State grant to make possible school language experiment

Three teachers at the Raymond Chisholm School, Springfield, have been awarded a $1,000 mini-grant by the State of New Jersey under the provisions of the Teacher Innovation Program. First grade teachers Claire Hoopmann and Jean Meyer and fourth grade teacher Annette Laoppa received the grant for their project, an experiment in cooperative language arts experience.

Robert M. Black Jr., the school's principal, submitted the proposal to John O. Berwick, superintendent of schools. Berwick transmitted the project idea to Trenton, in May.

The project is intended to develop the language arts, both oral and written, by providing the youngsters with stimulating experiences. Various programs will help develop their powers of observation, aesthetic appreciation and emotional development so that each child can express himself.

First and fourth grade students will share experiences and activities so that they can cooperatively evolve a sharing of ideas. The experiences are planned to develop the communication skills of reading, listening, speaking and writing. It is hoped that the interaction of the grades will stimulate the desire to communicate and their interest in the language arts.

Students will be paired, each pair consisting of a first and fourth grade youngster. The teachers plan to have a more reticent child paired with a more verbal one.

Trips will be taken to stimulate discussion. Photographs of the children's activities during these excursions will be taken. These trips will provide the experiences from which the youngsters will be motivated to express their thoughts and reactions. The teachers hope that as the child's need to communicate increases, his motivation for improving his skills will also increase.

PLANNED TRIPS include the Museum of Natural History, the New York Aquarium, the Staten Island Zoo and a ride on the ferry, a tour of Kennedy International Airport, the circus at Madison Square Garden, the Sandy Hook lighthouse and a train ride to New York and the Empire State Building. Local destinations such as a police station, a factory and a supermarket may also be included.

Fourth graders will do research for the planned trips and will report their findings to the first graders before each trip. Fourth graders will also send for information concerning the trip. A vocabulary list pertaining to a trip will be compiled and fourth graders will read stories to first graders in preparation for the trips. The older children will write stories, poems and reports that first graders will dictate to them, and the students will tape record their reactions to the trip.

Also, fourth graders will write stories, poems and reports. First grade students will listen to the stories which the fourth graders will read to them, and these stories will be used as individual reading matter. The stories will be compiled in booklet form so that they are available to all students. First graders will develop experience charts. Photographs will be compiled for bulletin board displays, discussions and writing experiences, art activities will produce with captions and musical programs will be correlated to the experiences.

There will be dramatizations and puppet shows developed. The students will use the primary typewriter to develop their own vocabulary lists and there will be an exhibition for parents at the end of the year to display the results of the project.

Fire chief un.masks dangers trick-or-treaters could face

Witches aren't the only things stirring as Halloween nears. Painful burns and even more tragic accidents are waiting to pounce on youngsters carrying candle lighted pumpkins or dressed in flimsy, flammable costumes, Springfield Fire Chief Robert Day reminded parents as Saturday's holiday approaches. As reports from the National Fire Protection Association indicate, Chief Day points out, the greatest hazard at Halloween is the clothing fire.

Day offers the suggestions for helping keep Halloween "a fun time" for the trick-or-treat set:

"1—Costumes should be labeled 'flame-proof' if purchased ready-made, or should undergo flameproofing treatment if made at home. Remember that flameproofing must be renewed each time a costume is washed or gets wet, and that nearly any clothing will burn to some extent.

"2—Avoid costumes with flimsy fabric, loose clothing, with flowing sleeves, voluminous skirts—especially beware of the traditional billowing robes of ghosts and witches, made of yards and yards of worn sheet, which easily catch fire when whipped toward flames or sparks by the autumn wind. Costumes should be short enough so youngsters do not trip on them, and of light colors so the wearers will be easily seen by motorists.

"3—Safest disguises are 'natural' masks of cosmetic make-up or charcoal applied directly to the skin. If commercial masks, wigs and beards are worn, they should be marked 'flame-proof.' Avoid those of fibrous 'hair' and any which obscure the child's vision.

"4—Use a flashlight — never a candle — to illuminate a pumpkin. Keep children well away from bonfires, fireplaces, sparks, electric heaters and other sources of intense heat.

"5—Halloween decorations in the home should never be placed near lighted candles or other flames, or too close to light bulbs. Be especially careful with the colorful leaves, corn husks and similar tinder-dry materials used in typical autumn decorations."

In business establishments it is against the fire code to use materials such as the above for decorating purposes, unless they are treated with a flame-proof solution.

Chief Day, it is wise to have an adult accompany the younger children on their Halloween rounds.

Chalk artist to talk at Woman's Club

The Rev. Eugene F. Gregory will be the guest speaker Wednesday at the Springfield Woman's Club at the National State Bank on Morris Avenue at 8:15 p.m. He is a chalk artist and pastor of the First Baptist Church of Keyport.

Mr. Gregory will speak on "Chalk Artistry With Meaning." Each picture will be lighted with a combination of colored and black lights. Specially recorded music and narration by Mr. Gregory will give a background message for his program.

He was ordained as a Baptist minister in 1954, received a bachelor of arts degree from Bob Jones University, Greenville, S.C., and was awarded his bachelor of divinity degree from the Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Philadelphia. Mr. Gregory has been presenting his program throughout New Jersey and neighboring states for the past 15 years.

Education director to address women

Mrs. Sheila Kilbourne, director of Christian education at the Springfield Presbyterian Church, will be the guest speaker for the Ladies' Benevolent Society of the church Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the Presbyterian Parish House.

Mrs. Kilbourne will show the filmstrip "Surrounded by Love" which is produced by Church World Service, the agency responsible for the distribution of clothing to the underprivileged and refugees throughout the world. The filmstrip shows the areas benefited in times of disaster by the donations of local people, as well as the overall program of Church World Service.

Mrs. Kilbourne began her work in the Springfield Church in the field of Christian education in September 1969 on a parttime basis and this fall joined the staff as a full time worker. Before this she had served as director of education at the Parsippany Presbyterian Church.

Volunteers are sought

A call for greater participation in the volunteer activities of the state and the nation was issued this week by James A. Skidmore Jr., state chairman of the National Foundation, March of Dimes, in a luncheon address before the New Jersey Volunteer Leadership Conference at the Brunswick Inn, East Brunswick.

Describing volunteerism as "one of the most powerful forces in the nation," Skidmore, a resident of Berkeley Heights and former president of the U.S. Jaycees, said that "volunteer activities provide the average citizen with one of the best outlets for expressing his concern for his fellow human beings and for the continued development of the nation."

A vice-president of Handy Associates, New York-based executive search and management consulting firm which is engaged by many New Jersey businesses to recruit management personnel, Skidmore urged the volunteer leaders attending the luncheon to a greater effort in recruiting businessmen into volunteer participation.

Data from League of Women Voters on major candidates for U. S. Senate

Nelson G. Gross
Republican

BORN—1932
EDUCATION—Teaneck High School, Yale University, Columbia University Law School.
OCCUPATION—Lawyer.
QUALIFICATIONS—Assistant U.S. Attorney for District of N.J., 1957; Chief Counsel of N.J. Senate Investigating Committee, 1959; Elected to N.J. State Assembly, 1962; Selected County Council of Bergen County, 1963; Elected Bergen County Republican Chairman, 1966; Elected Republican State Chairman, 1969; Member National Commission for UNWSCO, 1970; Member National Council on the Education of Disadvantaged Children, 1970.

WHAT DO YOU CONSIDER THE NATIONAL PRIORITIES FOR THE NEXT CONGRESS? WHY?

"The following issues are the ones which urgently require the attention of our next United States Senator."

"First, foreign priorities:
—Vietnamize the war in Vietnam and withdraw American fighting men.
—End the Arab-Israeli War and establish a peace which honors the territory of Israel.
—Ensure the success of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks."

"Secondly, domestic priorities:
—Redirect priorities away from extravagant military and related spending (for the R570, TFX, F111 and the SST which Harrison Williams supported) and toward meeting domestic needs.

—Reverse the precedent, which Harrison Williams perpetuated with his votes over the last decade, toward federal subsidies of corporate farms, transoceanic shippers and huge oil companies.

—Secure a fair share of federal funds for New Jersey and reverse the trend which has put New Jersey dead last among the states in federal money returned per tax dollar. We need these federal funds to cure drug addiction, fight pollution, and improve education in New Jersey."

HOW WOULD YOU WORK TO ACHIEVE THE GOALS OF THESE PRIORITIES?

"There are several programs stalled in the Senate which will substantially benefit New Jersey: the Family Assistance Plan, Revenue Sharing, Anti-Pollution programs, and effective law enforcement are most prominent. The present junior Senator has resisted attempts to pass these proposals. He supports southern domination of the Senate which results in control of thirteen of the sixteen standing committees by Southerners who are blocking progressive legislation."

"I am in favor of that legislation. We need a man in the Senate who will work for these programs, not one who constantly proposes overly political bills intended for headlines instead of legislation. Senator Williams has proposed a variety of bills which would cost the government literally $50 billion dollars annually. Fortunately, the Senate rejected these fiscally irresponsible proposals. Our state needs a senator who will seek responsible innovations without increasing the cost of living.

Harrison Williams Jr.
Democrat

BORN—1919
EDUCATION—Oberlin College, Georgetown University School of Foreign Service, Columbia Law School.

OCCUPATION—Lawyer.
QUALIFICATIONS—Completing 12th year in the Senate and is a member of the Senate Steering, Labor and Public Welfare, Banking and Currency, Aging and Small Business Committees.

WHAT DO YOU CONSIDER THE NATIONAL PRIORITIES FOR THE NEXT CONGRESS? WHY?

"We must reinforce the national economy and halt inflation."

"We must substantially improve health, education and other critically needed domestic programs for the welfare of all our people."
"We must resolve the critical problems of our cities and the housing shortage confronting our citizens."

"We must end the war in Vietnam."
"We must combat environmental pollution and destruction."
"We must resolve racial injustice. National programs to assist minorities have cruelly faltered."

"We must restore respect for law and halt rising crime rates."
"We must assist the 'Forgotten Americans.'"

HOW WOULD YOU WORK TO ACHIEVE THE GOALS OF THESE PRIORITIES?
"Flexible monetary and credit controls, authorized by Congress, should supplement funds redirected from non-essential defense budget requests to stimulate our faltering economy. Domestic programs focused on our schools and hospitals, and on urban, housing and manpower needs must be fully funded."
"Home mortgage assistance enacted by Congress should be implemented by the Administration. Legislation on critically needed

Trustees appoint director of school

AARON FRANZBLAU
The board of trustees of The Milton School, a private secondary school located at 119 Main st., Millburn, has announced the appointment of Aaron Franzblau as director. Franzblau, B.A. and M.A., from Montclair College, with supplementary studies at N.Y.U. and Rutgers, had been employed by the Newark Board of Education for 35 years.

Franzblau was, for many years, affiliated with the Newark YMHA as a club leader, director of the Club Leader's Council, and a member of the Y's Board of Directors.

In Livingston, where he lives with his wife and three sons, he has participated in such community activities as Little League and the United Fund drive. He also served as commander of Livingston Post 740 J.V.V.

The new director said "The Milton School welcomes teenage students who, for any one of a variety of reasons, have been unable to achieve their full potential in the public schools.

"Classes are limited to a maximum of 10 students; programs are tailored to the individual; and teachers are screened for academic excellence and for their ability to relate to young people.

"The school recognizes the educational challenge of the brilliant student and the troubled learner," Franzblau said.

Halloween safety hints

If the State of New Jersey were to proclaim a "child pedestrian night," it should be the night of Halloween, according to the New Jersey State Safety Council.

The council pointed out that in every community youngsters will become actors for an evening and all the sidewalks and streets will be their stage. Ghosts and astronauts, witches and pirates and story book characters in colorful array will visit door to door in every neighborhood on their "trick or treat" adventure.

To prevent their merry making from turning into tragedy the council suggests the following:
—Parents, warn your youngsters to look in both directions for cars before crossing streets. A child should be accompanied by a parent or older children.

UN Assembly chief to speak at Seton on international law

Dr. Edward Hambro, president of the United Nations General Assembly, will be guest speaker at a convocation on world justice and peace sponsored by Seton Hall University Thursday, Nov. 5, at 8 p.m. at the Bishop Dougherty Student Center, South Orange.

In recognition of his contribution to world justice and peace the university will confer an honorary doctor of laws degree on Dr. Hambro at the convocation, which commemorates the fifth anniversary of the death of Pope Paul VI to the United Nations.

Dr. Hambro, Norway's ambassador to the UN and an authority on international law, will speak on "International Law and the Judeo-Christian Tradition."

Dr. Hambro received his law degree from the University of Oslo in 1934 and the degree of doctor of political science in 1936 from the University of Geneva. He has been professor and lecturer at universities in his native Norway and in the U.S., as well as at Cambridge and the Hague Academy of International Law. He is also a member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration.

He was first secretary of the Norwegian Foreign Ministry in London from 1943-45 and served as a member of the Norwegian Parliament from 1961 until appointed permanent representative to the UN in 1966. His father was president of the League of Nations.

Dr. Hambro has served in various UN missions and posts, including chief of the legal section in the Secretariat and chairman of a refugee-study commission in Hong Kong. He has also been registrar of the International Court of Justice and member of a number of other international boards and commissions. Besides works on international law, he is co-author of a book, "The Charter of the United Nations."

N. J. acts to curb illegal explosives

The Bureau of Engineering and Safety of the Department of Labor and Industry, said this week it will undertake a statewide survey of sporting goods stores and hardware stores in an effort to curb the illegal storage, sale and transportation of smokeless and black powder.

"It has recently come to the attention of the Mine Safety Section of the Bureau, that some sporting goods stores and hardware stores are selling smokeless and black powder for reloading purposes," the bureau said.

"The powder is apparently being purchased in Pennsylvania and transported in vehicles not licensed to carry explosives in New Jersey, stored in magazines for which no permit has been issued, and sold over the counter by dealers who have not been issued a permit to sell under the terms of the New Jersey Explosives Act.

"As a result of recent enactment of more stringent explosive regulations in the State of Pennsylvania, authorities from that state have been notifying New Jersey of the names of persons and firms from New Jersey who have attempted to obtain permits to purchase smokeless powder, black powder, and other explosives in Pennsylvania."

St. Barnabas guild plans fashion show

The Guild of Saint Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston, will hold its annual fall luncheon and fashion show for the hospital's benefit Monday at noon at the Chanticleer, Millburn. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Arthur F. Cardone and Mrs. Leonard J. Remington, both of Short Hills.

Saks Fifth Avenue of Springfield will present the fashion show, which will include minis, midis, and pants suits for women, and even some fashions for men. There will be cocktail dresses and evening gowns with silk skirts, fall coats (mid length) for the ladies, and an assortment of new fall shoes, boots, and accessories.

A game of wits will win some guest (for a $1 investment) an afternoon dress from Saks' Designer's Salon. Mrs. Cardone will wear the red wool crepe dress, trimmed with gold chain, and will visit each table to show it off.

Nearly 1,500 lawyers and their families are expected to attend the mid-year meeting of the New Jersey State Bar Association when it begins Nov. 18 at Paradise Island, Bahamas.

Included in the program is a discussion of drug abuse by young people. Speakers will include G. J. Bologna, former district director of the Food and Drug Administration's drug abuse control bureau and Daniel W. Byles, a corporate staff counsel for a pharmaceutical manufacturer.

FRIDAY DEADLINE
All items other than spot news should be in our office by noon on Friday.

TURNING THE TABLES -- Eight secretaries, typists and clerks at Buchanan Electrical Products Corp., 1065 Floral ave., Union, turned the tables recently by taking their bosses out to lunch. Present at the "Boss' Day" affair were (standing, from left) Paul E. Vance of Elizabeth, vice president in sales; Gerry Hirtzel of Cranford; Yolanda Peterpaul of Hightstown; Julia Kopf of Linden; Linda La Bella of Newark; John Mooney of Bloomfield, sales service manager, and Hugh Garbaro of Nucleo, assistant advertising manager. State to launch unique vocational rehab program

A unique experiment in vocational rehabilitation will soon be implemented by the New Jersey Rehabilitation Commission in cooperation with the Model City Administration.

The new Rehabilitation Center in Perth Amboy, scheduled to be completed in February 1971, will be dedicated to handling rehabilitation problems which other services could not help and to developing a combination of services needed by city residents.

Commissioner Charles Serrano of the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, in making the announcement about the opening, said "We hope that this center will remove barriers to successful rehabilitation for those not yet helped. We want to extend a helping hand to school dropouts who want assistance and have not found it. An intensive rehabilitation approach can be successful in evaluating, placing and maintaining in employment those disabled and aged people who have been unsuccessful in other manpower, health and social welfare programs."

In defining the purpose of the center, Arthur J. Sinclair, Director of the New Jersey Rehabilitation Commission, said "This program, designed to provide and coordinate educational, social, vocational, financial, extended follow-up and other services essential to maintaining employment. Is the first of its kind in the nation. It is established to help the physically or socially handicapped and disadvantaged people receive job training and placement on a person-oriented basis."

PERSONALIZED PLANS will be programmed on an individual basis for each client to receive a complement of services tailored to his needs, Sinclair said. Services will be coordinated to demonstrate the needs, providing the disadvantaged people with an array of services. The center, located in a Model City, will be open to provide services already available in other areas as they are needed.

Each client will be assigned a caseworker who will assist that person from the client seeks assistance until he has held a job for about one year.

After the client has been tested and evaluated, the case manager will be empowered to place the individual in a training program suited to the person's needs and wants. There will be no large scale training programs instituted at the center. Each person will receive personalized treatment.

In addition to job and education training, the center will offer other supporting services, such as medical, dental and psychological services. Family counseling will also be placed at the individual's disposal.

The program is funded by the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare to the New Jersey Rehabilitation through the State Department of Labor and Industry and the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs.

According to George R. Chizmadia, project director of the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, there are many program goals that the center is striving to achieve. It is hoped better information about techniques required to work effectively with Spanish-speaking residents who a large percentage of the Perth Amboy population will be developed, Sinclair said.

Various services will be tested by delivering techniques compatible to the needs of the socially and culturally disadvantaged. It is hoped community acceptance for its existence will be gained. The building may be used after hours as a community center under the direction of a community planning group, it was said.

The center's board members will be selected from candidates submitted by local groups.

Williams: Unemployment is a 'tragedy for nation'

The current high rate of unemployment is a tragedy for the nation, Senator Harrison Williams said this week in a campaign statement critical of the nation's economic situation.

Williams said: "I strongly disagree with those in Washington who believe that unemployment is good for the nation. I believe it is a tragedy for the nation when any man who wants to work is unable to work.

Today, because of the policy of the national administration, one-fourth of the nation's population has been directly hurt by our current economic problems. The administration's unfortunate economic policies have added hundreds of thousands of Americans to the unemployment rolls, and there are literally millions of other Americans who have lost substantial parts of their incomes.

A recent public opinion survey indicated that 21 percent of all American workers have either been laid off, had their overtime hours cut, or have had their work reduced. In addition, there are thousands of businessmen who have been badly hurt, perhaps ruined. And literally millions of stock market investors that have lost money, including people on fixed incomes such as the elderly who may depend so much on dividends from small stock holdings.

Nationally, the rate of unemployment stands at 5.5 percent compared with 3.3 percent when the current administration came to office. In New Jersey, the unemployment rate for August was 5.7 percent—the highest level for that month since August, 1958. And as of August, there were 196,000 New Jerseyans out of work—people who wanted to work but couldn't find jobs.

"These facts represent more than just dry statistics. They represent hundreds of thousands of Americans who have to let their cars be repossessed because they can't keep up the payments; or who can't squeeze out enough money for a new pair of shoes for the kids; or who can't even raise enough money to feed their families.

This is the kind of suffering that has resulted from the misguided economic policies of the past 21 months. These callous policies were instituted to halt inflation, which they haven't done. But even if they eventually do stop the price spiral, we must wonder if the cure won't be worse than the disease.

Kimball gets promotion at Diana Store

ROBERT W. KIMBALL

Robert W. Kimball has been appointed executive vice-president of Diana Stores Apparel Division, it was announced by Arnon Barnes, chairman of the board of Daylin, Inc., (ASE) parent company of Diana.

In this newly created post, Kimball will continue to work closely with Arnold Siegel, president of Diana Apparel Division and recently elected vice-president of Daylin, Inc.

Kimball will direct all merchandising for the apparel division in the 210 Daylin-owned Diana Shops, 41 of Daylin's 53 discount department stores that include Great Eastern, Gulf-Mart and Miller's, in addition to Diana-operated leased apparel departments in the Modell's, Floyd's, Schmidt's, Shopko and Copps discount chains.

Kimball came to Great Eastern last year from Bradlees, a division of Stop and Shop where he was vice-president and general merchandise manager for all apparel and accessories.

In addition to his experience in the domestic market, he also is a specialist in importing. Kimball spent many years developing European and Far Eastern markets as a source of supply for fashion and accessories. For 12 years he was affiliated with Alexander's Department Stores in various merchandising positions.

During his first year with Great Eastern, Kimball streamlined existing procedures and introduced innovations in the areas of merchandising, advertising and sales promotion.

Kimball is a resident of Upper Saddle River. Great Eastern operates a discount department store in Union.

Candyles Halloween

"Weight Watchers" in New Jersey are launching an effort this week to encourage members and friends to contribute the funds normally spent on sweets and treats to the United Nations International Emergency Fund. In addition, members are being asked to donate the Halloween favors collected by their children to the pediatric wards of local hospitals.

A Weight Watchers spokesman said that monies can be donated to youngsters who will be collecting door-to-door for UNICEF. They will be carrying specifically marked orange and black cartons; or donation could be sent to UNICEF, United Nations, New York 10017.

In addition, parents can gather treats collected by their children and sort out packaged candies that are unopened—to insure sanitation. The candies can be taken to large pediatric wards of local hospital for distribution to youngsters.

Pharmacists plan VD, drug seminars

The New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association will sponsor two statewide seminars next month in the wake of its campaigns against venereal disease and drug abuse.

On Nov. 1, the NJPA, in cooperation with the Rutgers College of Pharmacy Extension Service, will hold the nation's first VD seminar for pharmacists at the Holiday Inn on Rt. 1 south of the New Brunswick circle.

On Nov. 17, the pharmacists will sponsor a workshop on drug abuse at Discovery House, the Morristown State Hospital near Freehold. Members of the association's group of drug lecturers, numbering 100, will meet with drug addicts and mental patients to discuss the dangers and effects of misusing drugs.

Lundy urges IRS not to hamper firms acting for consumer

Daniel F. Lundy, Democratic congressional candidate in the 12th district, this week criticized the Internal Revenue Service for considering revocation of the tax-exempt status of public interest law firms that go to court to protect the environment, consumer interests and civil rights.

Speaking before a group of housewives in Hillside, Lundy stated that he had sent a telegram to the commissioner of Internal Revenue, Randolph W. Throner, stating that he "was extremely disturbed that the IRS might change its policies towards certain tax exempt organizations which have served to protect the interests of the public in the courts and before governmental agencies."

Lundy stated that "It has been a very encouraging development in recent years that there have emerged public-interest law firms and citizens' groups which appear before regulatory agencies and the courts in behalf of consumers and the environment. These concerned citizens have made use of the orderly processes of Government to make their protests."

He added that "It is astonishing that the Internal Revenue Service has come out in opposition to the public spirited lawyers and voluntary organizations. The ordinary person cannot afford to file a lawsuit against a wealthy corporation, which is able to hire full-time high quality legal counsel."

"The IRS has decided to take a position which is opposed to the ordinary citizens who pay their salaries. It must end the intimidation and harassment immediately before it has a very damaging effect on presently existing organizations."

Contemporary Explorer post formed for teens aspiring to medical careers

Nineteen teen-aged students from Union, Springfield and Mountainside have signed up to participate in the first medical careers Explorer Post organized by Union Council.

The unit, comprised entirely of young men and women who aspire to careers in medicine, is sponsored by the staff of Memorial General Hospital, Union, and has been given the Contemporary Exploring designation of Medical Specialty Post 91, according to Jim Ast, District executive.

"Contemporary Exploring," Ast explained, "bears little resemblance to the scout program. It is geared to young adults and their specific modern-day needs and interests. Posts are being organized for young men and women around professional, business and trade careers to give the student an insight that he or she may never have had the opportunity to acquire."

The first meeting of Post 91 is scheduled Nov. 7 at Memorial General. Dr. Philip Malvin will serve as advisor and Dr. Ruth Wadde will be committee chairman. Joseph Luderholm, assistant executive director of the hospital, will be the post's institutional representative.

Charter members of the new post include: from Union, William Stimulis, Irwin Landau, Mark Winter, Arthur Handel, Andrew Berney, David Alidin, Alan Gruning, Alan Kirsch, Mari Lee Griffith, Tina Swank, Lynette Hillman and Susan Wagenhelm, from Springfield, John Selgal, John Potomski, Robert Barnes, Mary Witowsky and Amy Glanas, and from Mountainside, Patrick Stanton and Susan Layton.

Further information about Post 91 or Contemporary Exploring may be obtained by calling Union Council at 354-5676.

Rinaldo urges 'yes' vote on senior's tax relief

State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo this week called on Union County voters to support public question number two on the ballot Nov. 3. A favorable vote would amend the state constitution to double the $80 exemption now given on real estate taxes to qualified senior citizens.

Noting that he had sponsored a resolution similar to the one approved for placement on the ballot this November, Senator Rinaldo said he wholeheartedly supports a yes vote on the senior citizen tax exemption.

"I intend to vote for it, and I have asked all my friends and supporters to do likewise," he declared.

Sen. Rinaldo hails decision to keep Parkway in Union County toll free

State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo of Union this week hailed the announcement in the press that the Garden State Parkway between Union and the Raritan River would remain toll-free. "This represents a signal victory for the people of Union County," said Senator Rinaldo. "I am gratified too, that it fulfills one of my major campaign promises to the people of this county."

The announcement by Chairman John Gallagher apparently rules out the possibility that the presently toll-free section of the Parkway would become a toll road. Under the proposal disclosed yesterday by Gallagher, the Department of Transportation, which owns the toll-free section, would expand it from six to eight lanes at a cost of $10 to $12 million. Gallagher indicated that the high costs of acquiring the 13-mile stretch from the state had ruled out implementation of earlier plans to buy the road and expand it before imposing tolls.

Gallagher proposed entering into an agreement with the Department of Transportation under which the Highway Authority would maintain the road. The state presently has this responsibility.

The Highway Authority chairman also announced plans to install $50 million worth of improvements on the Parkway. Among these would be a $22 million project for the construction of an interchange at the Union-Hillsdale border, where Route 28 will cross the Parkway. Land for that project has already been acquired.

"I am pleased to see this new working relationship between the Highway Authority and the State Department of Transportation, which I hope will solve many of our other transportation problems," said Sen. Rinaldo.

Baby-sitter service grows up NSC center has dual function

In 1969 several parents who were attending Newark State College, Union, as full-time students organized a "baby-sitting service" for their own pre-school aged children. Now, with the opening of the current school year and with the aid of the college, the one-time "baby-sitting service" has been expanded into a full-time operational day-care center. The service is still designed to care for the pre-school aged children of parents enrolled as full-time students but, in close cooperation with the Department of Early Childhood, an entire curriculum is now provided for the 2 1/2 to 5-year-old children in art, music, language arts, science, experience and physical activity. The center also has a capacity — although limited — to care for a few children under two years but older than 11 months.

GRADUATE ASSISTANT Mrs. Joan Daly, one of two at the new day care center for pre-school children of students attending Newark State College, gives some time to little Tisha Szombathy. Center grew to a full-fledged college-backed operation this year from a baby-sitting service last year.

AMA journal describes new medical manpower

CHICAGO -- A new group of health professional who are neither doctors nor nurses will graduate from the University of Colorado Medical Center, Denver, in 1972. Known as "child health associates," they will be qualified to administer outpatient care under a physician's supervision. A report in Hospitals, Journal of the American Hospital Association, explains the program. Henry K. Silver, M.D., program director and James A. Hecker, M.D., assistant professor of pediatrics at Colorado, are coauthors of the article.

The responsibilities of child health associates will be primarily well-child care, preventive pediatrics, health education, and care of less seriously ill and injured children. They'll be employed by pediatricians and general practitioners in their private offices, in addition to working under the supervision of M.D.'s in public health departments in rural and urban areas.

Dr. Silver predicts the creation of this new type of health professional will raise the quality of care, lower per patient costs, assist in better use of health manpower, and suggest innovations in medical school curricula for training other new health professionals.

The program at Colorado was developed after studies indicated an overall decrease in the number of doctors caring for children. Unless more allied health professionals were used, Dr. Silver felt a large percentage of children in the country would continue to receive grossly inadequate health care.

Before the program could be established, however, it was necessary to introduce legislation providing for the associates to practice in the state. The new law provides for child health associates to practice with physicians who spend a "significant" portion of their time in pediatrics. It further states that the

'Messiah' schedule set

The Masterwork Chorus under the direction of David Randolph has announced the scheduling of a performance of Handel's "Messiah" in Morris County in December. The group, part of the Morristown based Masterwork Music and Art Foundation, has performed "Messiah" for nine years in both Philharmonic and Carnegie Halls and continues its policy of performing locally. The chorus will present "Messiah" Sunday, Dec. 6, at 3 p.m. in the Presbyterian Church on the Green in Morristown.

Michael May, the accomplished keyboard concert artist, will accompany on the organ. The soloists will be announced at a later date. Tickets are available through the Foundation office at 300 Mendham rd., Morristown, or at the church. Price for general admission is $4. Special half price student tickets are also available.

Headlights required

The New Jersey State Safety Council reminded motorists this week that "it is a dangerous and illegal practice to drive a vehicle after dark with only parking lights lit." As a defensive driving measure, the council urged the use of headlights from a half hour before sunset to a half hour after sunrise, or any time when visibility is less than 500 feet.

'College Day' set by clubwomen

The New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs will sponsor a "College Day" on Nov. 14 at Douglass College. The program is designed to acquaint high school girls in the college preparatory courses with campus life and curriculum.

The reservation deadline for students and their chaperones is Nov. 2.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS Stanley F. Yolles, M.D. Director National Institute of Mental Health

An ancient drug that may have been used as long ago as the fifth century has been resurrected from the scrap heap and shows high promise of being the most effective treatment yet discovered for certain kinds of mental illness.

The old compound turned into a new drug is lithium, recently licensed for use by physicians as a prescription drug. The drug is the most specific agent available for treating the manic phase of manic-depressive psychosis, and maintenance lithium therapy may protect some patients from recurring attacks of both mania and depression.

Lithium as an element in nature was discovered by a young Swedish chemistry student, Arfwedson, in 1817, but there is some indication that it may have unknowingly been used long before as a treatment. The fifth century physician, Caeslius Aurelianus, recommended the use of alkaline spring waters, probably high in lithium content, for the treatment of mania, a recommendation that became a tradition persisting for centuries.

Not until 1949, however, were lithium's psychoactive properties first described, by the Australian psychiatrist, Cade, who found that it could restore manic patients to normal mood states. This stimulated great interest, and lithium seemed headed for wide, effective use.

This early promise for lithium was destroyed when it turned out that the unrestricted dispensing of lithium salts as a taste substitute for table salt, particularly for patients with heart and kidney disorders, had led to a number of severe poisonings and some deaths.

"The drug was restricted and practically abandoned and only in the last few years have significant numbers of researchers turned their at-

4-session course on human relations at Union College

A human relations course focusing on the practical applications and implications of interactions is being conducted for area industrial nurses at Union College. The course is being sponsored by the Union County League of Industrial Nursing and Union College's Division of Community Services.

The four-session course began Wednesday, Oct. 14, and will continue through Nov. 11. The first session included a reflection of the world and its trends, the objectives of human relations and popular misconceptions. It also covered the question of human motivation and industrial needs.

The second session will center on the working man and woman. It will take a look at the complex and varied labor market, possible paths to mutual understanding and putting those theories into practice.

The third session will cover the knack of getting people to alter their behavior patterns and attitudes and will include a self-inspection analysis.

The fourth session will consider human relations as a management tool, the part each individual plays in successful human relationships.

The instructor for the human relations course is Lawrence C. Basset of Westchester County, New York, a management consultant in the field of human relations for Organizational Resource Counselors, New York City.

LWV data on 12th district Congressional race

TERM OF OFFICE: Two years. Salary: $42,500; travel mileage and allowance for clerk hire. Functions: Legislators of Federal Government. House has the power to vote impeachment charges. All revenue measures originate in the House.

CANDIDATES FOR U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES were asked to provide a biography and answer the following questions:

1. What do you consider the national priorities for the next Congress? Why?
2. How would you work to achieve the goals of these priorities?

Florence P. Dwyer Republican

Four terms New Jersey State Legislature, Assistant Assembly majority leader; Chairman of Education Committee, U.S. House of Representatives - 7 terms; ranking minority member, Committee on Government Operations, second-ranking minority member, Committee on Banking and Currency; also Sub committees on Housing, Consumer Affairs and Intergovernmental Relations; Member, U.S. Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations; numerous civic activities and organizations.

1. Priorities include:

A. Stop the killing in Southeast Asia - so as to heal the divisions between Americans, shift resources to higher-purpose programs at home, and avoid the weakening of U.S. defenses at a time when our strength may be needed elsewhere.

B. Reduce the mounting rate of crime and drug abuse - so as to ease the fear and insecurity which tend to divert people from more constructive efforts.

C. Arrest inflation - which is especially harmful to low and middle-income families and which increases costs of important public programs.

D. Control environmental pollution (air, water, land and noise) - in order to prevent permanent ecological damage and preserve a healthy, livable environment for all Americans.

E. Stop up construction of housing, especially for low and moderate-income families, and the rebuilding of cities - so as to improve the quality of life, broaden opportunities, and reduce tensions.

2. Ending the war in Southeast Asia is both the first objective and an essential means to the achievement of other priorities. A U.S.-initiated, mutually enforceable ceasefire, which I have proposed for several years, offers the best hope for ending the war and arranging a workable peace. Central to the accomplishment of other priorities must be a reform of government organization and operations to improve the delivery of public services; formal establishment of these priorities in a more meaningful and attainable way: a selective reduction in military spending; greater cooperation with state and local governments and private organizations; reform of outdated Congressional procedures and establishment of higher ethical standards to improve Congressional performance and enhance public confidence; more adequate funding of priority programs, and enactment of my "More for Your Money" program to reduce waste and improve efficiency.

1. A. End the Indochina war by a fixed date, July 1, 1971. The war is causing untold personal tragedy, dissipating our moral and political strength at home and abroad, and causing rampant inflation. It cannot be allowed to drag on interminably.

B. Stop inflation. Mismanagement of the economy has led to spiraling prices and interest rates, along with rising unemployment and the "Nixon" stock market.

C. Make the Federal government more responsive to the regional needs of the suburbs. With an overburdened property tax base, the 12th District cannot adequately finance its anti-pollution, transportation, medical and educational requirements.

2. A. To achieve peace in Indochina, I would work for cutting off appropriations for the war. In this way Congress can induce the Administration and the military government of Saigon to take the diplomatic initiatives necessary to bring about a political solution that will establish a neutral government and honor our obligations to the people of Vietnam.

B. I would propose and support legislation that would direct Federal expenditures into areas requiring stimulation and away from wasteful programs. Interest rates must be reduced to make housing and higher education available for families with incomes below $20,000. The backlog of needs for educational, medical transportation and environmental purposes provides opportunity for new jobs and non-inflationary use of our resources.

C. I would maintain a good attendance record and would work to reform Congressional procedures, particularly to get rid of the stagnant seniority system which permits committees to become controlled by special interest groups. I would fight the special interests that secured ABM and, by secret vote, defeated Admiral Rickover's measures that would have protected us from overcharges on defense contracts. I would fight also to prevent arbitrary reductions in New Jersey's Medicaid funds, when Congress becomes demoralized, the needs of Districts like the 12th will get proper representation.

BANK OFFERS INGOTS - W. Emlen Roosevelt, right, president of The National State Bank, Elizabeth, inspects a sterling silver ingot. With him is Anthony J. Cannuli, associate director of The Franklin Mint, Franklin Center, Pa. The sterling silver ingot, a collectors' item, is being offered for sale by the bank. The bank is the only one in New Jersey selling the ingots this year.

Silver ingots available at National State Bank

The National State Bank, 68 Broad St., Elizabeth, this week began the sale of the first sterling silver ingots offered to the general public in New Jersey. The ingots, each weighing 1,000 grains, are available at the bank's 24 offices.

W. Emlen Roosevelt, president, said the pocket-sized ingots are considered collectors' items. Each ingot individually packaged in its own box is approximately the size of a domino.

They will be priced at $10 plus sales tax each and will be limited to one to a customer.

The mint-quality ingots were struck at The Franklin Mint, Franklin Center, Pa., under a new program which provides Bankmark ingots to the participating bank in each of 50 states until the end of 1970.

Only one bank in each of the 50 states is offering the ingots this year. The bank may order one ingot for each $10,000 in deposits.

One side of the silver ingot carries the bank's name, "The National State Bank," initials, "N.S.B.," the words, "established in 1812" and the clipper ship trademark.

On the other side of the ingot are the words, "The Franklin Mint," "guaranteed 1,000 grains, solid sterling silver, Franklin Mint, Franklin Center, Pa."

State getting its own color TV station

New Jersey will have its own television station when WNJT-TV Channel 52 goes on the air with full color programming next February.

Channel 52 will be the first of four color UHF television stations to be operated by the New Jersey Broadcasting Authority, a state-funded agency in Trenton.

Dr. Lawrence T. Frymire, executive director of the new TV project, said the channel will broadcast first from the Trenton studios on Parkside Avenue near Olden Avenue. Later in 1971, the three other UHF stations will go on the air at locations throughout the state, giving 97 percent of the state a New Jersey station to watch all its own news, sports, cultural and public happenings, Dr. Frymire said.

Tentative locations for the other three stations are near New Brunswick and Montclair in North Jersey, and near Hammonton in South Jersey.

The official call letters, channel numbers and exact locations will be worked out within the next few weeks with the FCC, according to a Public Broadcasting Authority spokesman.

Dr. Frymire pointed out that the new stations will not be entirely educational, at least to the extent of the neighboring channels 12 and 13. The main reason for the new channels is to provide New Jersey citizens with news and informational programs to tell them what's going on in their home state, Dr. Frymire reiterated.

"Not only will we be vigorously reporting what is going on in New Jersey," Dr. Frymire continued, "but we'll also be pointing out what isn't going on and what should be done about it."

Public events, heretofore ignored to any extent by existing stations, will be brought into the homes of all New Jerseyans via the new network, he said.

With the finest RCA color equipment available today, the state network will be able to telecast live events like the inauguration of the Governor, the Legislature, important hearings, high school and college sports events, and specials like the Miss New Jersey Pageant.

The flexibility of the equipment will allow the network to have separate programming on all four stations if it so desires at any specific time.

The programming department will mesh together network programs from public and educational sources as well as local events of interest. It would be possible to have a network show like Sesame Street on one channel, a local public hearing on another and maybe a championship school football game on still another.

The authority has transformed a one-time bowling alley on Parkside Avenue into an impressive, highly functional complex of offices and color telecasting studios.

The programming department has already begun producing video taped programs for use when the stations come on the air next year.

Along with the four UHF stations, the authority will also operate two low-powered closed-circuit systems at each of the four transmitter sites for educational instruction in schools, other state agencies and private industry.

The authority was established and funded by the 1968 New Jersey bond issue, its annual operational costs will be financed by state appropriations and grants from private concerns. There will be no commercials on the station since it is a public endeavor.

Dr. Edward J. Meade Jr., of the Ford Foundation, whose blue-ribbon panel of New Jersey citizens recommended the public television system for New Jersey, is the first chairman of the authority.

NJEA says teacher supply missing qualified instructors

Despite widely publicized claims that the teacher shortage is finally over, some "hills and valleys" remain in the availability of fully qualified instructors, reports the New Jersey Education Association.

"Far from suffering from an over-supply of teachers," says an editorial in the current issue of the NJEA Review, "our schools are suffering from understaffing."

Instead of surpluses, says the commentary, the nation's schools would be reporting a shortage of over 150,000 teachers this year if they:

- Replaced all retiring and holding substandard qualifications.
- Hired enough teachers to end split sessions and to break up overcrowded classes.
- Put the trained English or social studies teachers trying to cope with science or math classes back where they belong.
- Revive new projects which have been kept on the drawing board, cut back, or discontinued for lack of qualified personnel.
- Geography and the subject involved influence the number of candidates a school district receives for vacant positions, NJEA reports.

GEOGRAPHICALLY, communities located close to colleges this year tended to attract more teachers than they needed. However, "other corners of the state find it as hard as ever to get teachers to move out to them."

Subject matter, humanistic fields such as English and social studies have attracted an over-supply of candidates. But shortages remain in mathematics, physical sciences, industrial arts, remedial reading, speech correction, and girls physical education.

"Most colleges haven't begun to cope with the demands of supplying first-rate teachers for mentally, emotionally, and physically handicapped children," reports the NJEA Review.

Almost ignored is the need for collegiate-level training programs that produce anything for the members of teachers needed in rapidly growing vocational-technical education.

In addition, NJEA comments, few colleges are turning out graduates specifically trained to work in problem-plagued schools of the big cities.

The last thing anyone should do is assume we've licked our problems of teacher supply," says NJEA. "The focus of preparation in some areas should shift. But even more important, we must shift financial resources into staffing schools as we know they should be."

School moms sponsor dance

The Mothers' Association of Newark Academy will hold its seventh annual dinner-dance at Newark Academy, Livingston, on Saturday, Nov. 14, at 7:30 p.m.

What goes up must come down.

At our Yards Creek pumped storage generating station we pump a lake-full of water up a mountain and let it flow back down when we have a heavy demand for electric power. The force of the water running down the mountain through large pipes turns generators to produce power in a hurry.

Pumped storage facilities like this enable us to provide you with extra power in a manner that produces no combustion by-products during peak demand periods (like extremely hot summer days.) Yes, it's a clean way to produce extra power. That's one important reason we have made an application to the Delaware River Basin Commission to construct the Kittatinny Pumped Storage Project which will provide New Jersey with 1,300,000 kilowatts of much-needed electric energy — clean energy.

CHARLES D. DEANGELIS

Mountainside man named president of Brown, Matthews

F. Arthur Bickel, chairman of the board of Brown and Matthews, Inc., Route 22, Union, a national engineering and construction company, has announced the election of Charles E. DeAngelis as president, treasurer and director.

The Mountainside executive was formerly senior vice-president of Walter Kidde Constructors, a Boise Cascade company. Before becoming senior vice president, he progressed through the positions of assistant to the vice president of sales, general manager of sales and vice president of business development.

DeAngelis entered the construction business after high school and became a master masonry mechanic. He then served in the U.S. Air Force and later earned a BS degree from New York University's School of Commerce and Business Administration.

Before joining Kidde Constructors, he was manager of office administration of the Atlantic Region maintenance office of Trans World Airlines and assistant to the vice president of Wigton Abbott Corporation, another large engineering and construction firm.

DeAngelis played a major role in developing the international business of Kidde Constructors, and also was instrumental in moving the company into the design and construction of educational, health care and transportation facilities. In 1967 and 1968, he served as a member of President Johnson's National Advisory Commission on Health Facilities and was appointed chairman of the design and construction committee within that commission.

An authority on master planning, DeAngelis has written numerous articles for business and trade publications, and has spoken widely to professional and civic groups.

DeAngelis is married and has two children. He is a member of the Baltusrol and Lords Valley Country Clubs.

Brown & Matthews specializes in the engineering and construction of commercial, industrial and institutional facilities.

They have joined approximately 3,000 school board members, school superintendents, school business officials and school attorneys meeting together to discuss the most urgent problems facing school boards today.

"For Each Child, Success" is the theme of the conference. Workshop sessions will be devoted to such topics as black studies in the curriculum, student drug and sex problems, vocational education, early childhood education, performance evaluation, aid to education and administrative pay.

Accidents

Last Thursday morning when her car struck a tree on Rt. 22 East, police said, she was given a summons by the State Police, for careless driving. Miss Laite was taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, by the Mountainside Rescue Squad. She received stitches for a cut over her left eye and was discharged.

Police reported that Miss Laite was traveling east in the fast lane and was going too fast for the rain-slicked road. She told police that the vehicle in front of her had stopped so she applied her brakes. The car then swerved, struck the concrete barrier, ran off the road, sheered off about 10 feet of the guard rail on the right side of the highway and struck the tree.

Westfield motorist jumps bail; charged as drinking driver

Peter P. Glasheen of Westfield forfeited a total of $300 bail on three charges for failing to appear in Mountainside Municipal Court last Wednesday. Judge Jacob Bauer presided.

According to the court, Glasheen has moved to Chicago and a warrant has been issued. Bail was forfeited on the following charges: $205 for driving while under the influence of alcohol; $80 for using loud and indecent language in a public place, and $15 for driving the wrong way on Rt. 22.

Joseph Markert of Piscataway was convicted on two charges. He was fined $205 for driving while on the revoked list and $20 for causing an accident by careless driving.

Regional students plan vocal concert at school next week

From madrigals to Dixieland—that's the musical variety to be featured in the vocal concert at Gov. Livingston Regional High School Wednesday, directed by Albert Dohrout.

Numbers by the Choral, Concert Choir and Chansons will include spirituals, folk music and show tunes such as "Hallelujah" from "Hit the Deck" in unusual as well as traditional arrangements. The new Barbershop Quartet will sing traditional music for its special style.

An additional feature will be a professional Dixieland Quintet which will combine talents with the vocal groups for an unusual finale.

During this past summer Dohrout, with the assistance of two students, constructed a harpsichord which will be played in concert for the first time. Nancy Osborne, one of the students who assisted in the construction, will play two selections written especially for harpsichord.

Tickets for the concert can be obtained from any member of the Vocal Music department in advance, with a few tickets available at the door the evening of the performance.

Palmer clarifies 2 of his remarks

John H. Palmer Jr., Democratic candidate for the Mountainside Borough Council, this week clarified two of his remarks made at last week's candidates' night.

The first concerns the commuter problem. The widening of Rt. 22, feeder lanes and the proposed cloverleaf at Rt. 22 and New Providence road would not solve the problem of commuting to New York from Mountainside, he said.

The other concerns Palmer's opposition to the referendum on phasing out the Echobrook School. Although he favors the eventual phasing out, he opposed last year's referendum because it included a new building being attached to Deerfield School. He feels the new structure is unnecessary because the school can be phased out without erecting a new building.

Delegates attend annual workshop of school boards

Six representatives of the Mountainside Board of Education are attending the Eighteenth Annual Workshop of the New Jersey School Boards Association at the Haddon Hall Hotel in Atlantic City being held through Friday.

They include Grant H. Lennox, president; William J. Hume, vice-president; Mrs. Grace Lennox, chairman of the association; Louis G. Gorman, president of the New Jersey State Board of Education; and John M. McDonough, board secretary. They are among approximately 3,000 school board members, school superintendents, school business officials and school attorneys meeting together to discuss the most urgent problems facing school boards today.

"For Each Child Success" is the theme of the three-day conference. Workshop sessions will be devoted to such topics as black studies in the curriculum, student sex and drug problems, vocational education, early childhood education, differentiated staffing, community control, performance evaluation, aid to education and administrative pay.

Among the speakers are Governor William T. Cahill; Dr. Carl L. Marburger, New Jersey commissioner of education; Edmund T. Hume, state commissioner of community affairs; Dr. Norman Drachler, Detroit superintendent of schools; Dr. Samuel DeWitt Proctor, professor of education at Rutgers University; John H. Niemeyer, president of the Bank Street College of Education; and many others.

Student at Morristown

Howard Malakoff is enrolled at Morristown Prep School, Morristown, for the current academic year, according to Thompson D. Grant, headmaster. He is among 162 students enrolled at the school.

Married to the former Trudy Odell of Union, Palmer is the father of six children.

Adrienne, 24, is married to a student who is in his last year at Columbia Law School in New York City. William, 22, lives in New York and works at Mt. Sinai Hospital. "Gall," 16, is a junior at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights. John Kevin, 14, is a freshman at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield. Maureen, 11, is in the sixth grade at the Deerfield School and Amanda, 7, is in the second grade at Echobrook School.

Palmer was drafted into the Army in 1945.

enough local matters to be attended to without usurping the duties of other elected bodies.

"Bill Van Blarcom and I are interested in continuing good, efficient and economical government for Mountainside. With your approval, we will accomplish this by applying ourselves to the needs of Mountainside and its residents. We have no designs on political service beyond Mountainside. Bill Van Blarcom and I only want to be your councilmen," Parent concluded.

"Attending to Mountainside business is a 12-month-a-year responsibility," said Van Blarcom. "Lou Parent and I have met this responsibility.

"Our opponents would have you believe you need a municipal watchdog and they offer their services. Before you buy their services, however, you should know their service has little or no merit. Neither of them attends or participates constructively at council meetings with any regularity and both failed to attend public hearings on the municipal budget," stated Van Blarcom.

"No Mountainside resident needs a self-appointed watchdog to oversee Borough Council activities. We show up at 8 p.m., the third Tuesday of every month, at Beechwood School for public meetings. Everyone is invited, including the Democratic candidates who, by their own admission, have no quarrel with past or present Republican administrations," Lou Parent and I accept their endorsement," concluded Van Blarcom.

Newcomers Club holds luncheon for new board

A luncheon was given last week to honor the new board of directors and committee chairmen of the Mountainside Newcomers Club. It was sponsored by the outgoing board at the home of Mrs. Irvin Krause.

The new board held its first meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. W. Texas Jackson, the new president. She will officiate at the next general meeting on Nov. 11 at the Mountainside Inn.

He spent two years in the service working as a counselor at the Fort Dix separation center. His interest in music led him to audition for the Army Band at West Point. While in the Army he combined business with pleasure by playing the trumpet with private bands.

Following his discharge, he became a co-partner in the Powell Instrument Co. in New York City. After a while Palmer changed to the insurance field. His main reason was "the idea of having to make a living. Besides, I never thought of making a living in music," he said.

State Farm Insurance came to New Jersey to recruit agents in the mid-1950s. "A relative of mine was a manager and recruited me. I was with State Farm for five years and then decided to move off on my own," Palmer said. He founded his own business, the Palmer Insurance Agency of Union, in 1961.

PALMER HAS NOT lost his interest in music. He is a former member of the board of directors of the Union County Community Concerts. He is a member of the choir at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Mountainside. He is also a member of the Mountainside Music Association and sang in their last production.

He was elected as the first grand knight of the newly formed Mountainside Council of the Knights of Columbus. "To me this is a very big honor," Palmer said.

He believes in civic involvement and claims "I have no time left for hobbies." As chairman of this year's Mountainside Cancer Crusade, he helped put it over the top.

"There are many outside threats to our community, such as air pollution," Palmer said. This interest is reflected by the methods committee of the Citizens to Preserve Mountainside. As a committee member, he tries to see what other communities have done when confronted with the same problems.

John H. Palmer Jr. has pledged that if he is elected the borough's residents will receive more information and knowledge about any ordinance or action by the mayor and Borough Council.

This is his aim for the community.

not have all the necessary information, he said.

In relation to expansion, Conlin said that some board members and members of the administrative staff will visit Fulton County, Ga., next month to study a plan for a 12-month school year. Conlin said that the experiment there is in its second year. The representatives will visit schools to see how Fulton County is handling any problems that arise.

The board also mentioned the possibility of pre-engineered structures to increase class space. Dr. Fred Hagedorn, board member from Berkeley Heights, gave three reasons why the board is considering this: the cost is lower than regular construction, it provides for a more flexible use and the construction time is much shorter.

In the public session, a resident of Berkeley Heights said that as far as he could see the board is taking its time on preparing a new expansion proposal. Board president Manuel S. Dios of Clark said that he resented the implication that the board does not care what happens.

The Mountainside Branch of the American Association of University Women sent a letter to the board asking for immediate solutions to the many problems in the Regional district, hopefully this year.

Dr. Minor C.K. Jones, board member from Mountainside, suggested that the administration become familiar with the 200th anniversary of the founding of the United States in 1976 so that the district can participate in the celebration.

In preparing for this, he also suggested that a member of the social studies department attend a symposium of the state historical commission in Trenton on Dec. 5. This is so the board can get an idea of what is going on in preparation, he added.

3 students to meet with Gov. Cahill

Ronald L. Thatcher of Westfield, Miss Susan Mahde of Scotch Plains and Miss Karen Paardecamp of Linwood, have been appointed to serve as Union College's representatives to Governor Cahill's liaison committee.

The committee will meet at various times during the academic year with Governor Cahill, Higher Education Chancellor Ralph Dungan and members of his staff. The committee will focus on campus grievances and unrest. It is an outgrowth of a meeting Gov. Cahill had with student government leaders throughout the state shortly after the Kent State incident last spring.

At that meeting, students and state leaders alike expressed the desire to form a special committee in order to keep in touch with campus thought and activities.

Thatcher, a graduate of Westfield High School, is a sophomore majoring in liberal arts. He was one of the organizers of the Union College Gray Committee, an organization designed to improve relations among blacks and whites on campus and in the community. He is also active with the planning of the Medgar Evers Community College in Fayette, Miss.

Miss Mahde is a freshman majoring in liberal arts at the Plainfield campus of Union College.

Miss Paardecamp is a graduate of Union Catholic High School, Scotch Plains. She also attends the new Plainfield campus where she is a freshman liberal arts major.

STATEMENT
The proposed Constitutional Amendment authorizes the lowering of the voting age of a voter from 21 to 18 years of age.

PUBLIC QUESTION NO. 2. CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT - SENIOR CITIZEN TAX DEDUCTION INCREASE AND STATE TO SHARE COST. Shall the amendment of Article VIII, Section 1, paragraph 4 of the Constitution of the State of New Jersey granting an annual deduction not to exceed $100.00 from the tax bill for taxes on real property as therein provided of certain citizens and residents of this State of the age of 65 or more years instead of the $100.00 deduction presently provided on the aggregate assessed valuation of such real property, and providing for 1/2 of such deduction to be reimbursed to municipalities by the State of New Jersey, be approved?

STATEMENT
The proposed constitutional amendment authorizes raising the ceiling on the annual tax deduction from $50.00 to $100.00 and broadens the restriction limiting the deduction to owners whose annual income is under $15,000.00 by including social security benefits from consideration in connection with the annual deduction from real property taxes of New Jersey citizens and residents age 65 or over.
