GOP candidates named by screening committee

Nountainside Republican screening le last week selected standardcommittee last week bearers for the November election.

Mayor Thomas J. Ricciardi will seek reelection, this time for a four-year term. Bruce A. Geiger and William J. Cullen will run for the two sets on the Borough Council which are now held by Wilfred H. Brandt and John E. Hechtle. Both have decided not to seek reelection.

Last Thursday was the deadline for candi-dates to file petitions to run in the June 8 primary.

At last week's GOP meeting, Gil Pittenger was renamed as the borough's Republican municipal chairman. In announcing his decision not to seek reelection, Brandt said: "Since Jan. 1, 1966, I have had the privilege of serving the citizens of Mountainside as a member of council. As I moved into 1971, the last year of my second term, I was faced Cullen running for council on the Republican ticket. Coupled with our esteemed mayor, Tom Ricciardi; who is running for reelection, the Republicans are offering an outstanding slate of candidates. I heartily recommend these

HECHTLE COMMENTED:

"It is after much deliberation and self-examination that I have decided with regret not to seek reelection to the Borough Council. In the past three years that it has been my pleasure to serve this community, I have not missed a meeting, be it a public meeting, caucus, special or otherwise, even though more (Continued on page 12)

Slate is chosen by Democrats Mountainside Democrats have named their standard bearers for the November election. Thomas P. Loftus will seek the four-year term as mayor. Edward

Gary Reisdorf and David A. Walsh will run for the two seats on the Borough Council. Democratic district leaders for the borough's 10 election districts have been announced. They are District 1, Victor K. Spolarich and Isabelle R. Papil; District 2, Loftus and Gertrude M. Palmer; District 3, William C. Kaplan and Patricia M. Kaplan; District 4, Reisdorf: District 5, Robert Cohen and Ann Cohen; District 6, Charles Richard Dougherty and Mary N. Parker; District 7, William J. Leber and Theresa K. $4.7 million bond has

margin of 2,000 votes BY ABNER GOLD

The Regional High School District expansion proposal won a victory at the polls on Tuesday by a margin of nearly 2,000 votes, 5,542 to 3,629. The referendum result authorizes a $4.7 million building program to provide new facilities for the district's four high schools.

In another development on Tuesday, the Regional Board of Education accepted the surprise resignation of Dr. Warren M. Davis as superintendent of schools.

He will leave Aug. I to become an associate professor in the College of Education at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa. He has headed the district since 1956.

The expansion plan carried four of the district's six towns, losing only in Mountainside and Kenilworth. The town-by-town results, with the yes votes given first, were: Berkeley Heights, 1,410 to 476; Clark, 1,006 to 389; Garwood, 207 to 126; Kenilworth, 238 to 299; Mountainside, 197 to 1,620, and Springfield, 2,484 to 819.

In Springfield, the breakdown by election districts was: Districts 1 to 6, at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, 582 to 288; Districts 7 to 13, Edward Walton School, 1,832 to 431; absentee ballots, 70 to 0.

The results reversed the verdict of May 12, 1970, when a $7 million proposal was defeated, 2,832 to 3,367. The no vote this year increased by less than 10 percent, while the yes vote nearly doubled. ***

THE OPPOSITION to the proposal both years had __centered in Mountainside. Borough residents had opposed the portion of the plan which will now send all Mountainside students to Dayton Regional, rather than to Gov. Livingston Regional, Berkeley Heights, which they had regarded as their "home high school." The transfer is designed to equalize the size of the high schools in order to equalize educaboard president, declared: The citizens of the Regional District have given clear indication that they want the Board of Education to proceed with all dispatch to carry out the building program as outlined in the referendum. "We expect that the board, our administrators, architects and all others associated with the project will join forces and expedite the building program so that all students in the district can continue to enjoy the benefits of a diversified and comprehensive high school educational program. Fulfilling this objective now and in the future is the sole reason for this board to exist.

"Personally, I want to extend my thanks to the hundreds of persons throughout the district who made this successful election possible, Today's election is a victory for education in (Continued on page 12)

`Circus' is coming to town in manner of the PTA's fair

The Mountainside PTA Fair will be held Saturday at the Deerfield School grounds beginning at noon. This year's theme will be the circus. Attractions will include a magic show for children by Steve Legawiec and an art auction conducted by Mrs. Penny Ginn. Anyone who wants to donate paintings, decoupage, collages, statues, sketches, drawings or any other artistic work for the auction can call Mrs. Ginn at 233-2842.

There will be a baking contest for sixth, seventh and eighth graders. Any type of homemade cake or pastry, excluding cookies, may be entered. Henry Lieberfield, retired chef of the Newarker and Arch restaurants, will serve as the contest judge.

Prizes will be awarded on the basis of originality. Aprons, books, jewelry, handicrafts, penny candy, cakes and plants will be sold. In addition, there will be a white elephant sale, rides and games for children and food, such as sno-cones and cotton candy.

Anyone who is interested in helping at the fair, can call Mr. and Mrs. John O'Connell at 277-6978.

It also recommends that installation of a new shredding device for solid waste which would lengthen the life-span of dumping grounds which would eventually be reclaimed

The study, prepared by M. DiskoAssociates of West Orange, was introduced by Freeholder William J. Maguire of Clark, chairman of the county's Department of Administration, Per-

Heymann selected to chief labor post

Ronald M. Heymann of Mountainside, the state's director of motor vehicles, was nomi-nated last week by Gov. William Cahill to be New Jersey's-new commissioner of labor and industry. He will succeed Charles Serraino.

Heymann, 36, has accomplished changes in auto inspections and other practices of the motor vehicles division. According to reports, Gov. Cahill believes Heymann's expertise in using computers could be used to formulate programs to encourage industrial and employ-ment growth in the state.

Heymann was employed by the New Jersey. Bell Telephone Co. until Gov. Cabill named him to head the motor vehicle bureau early in 1970. His appointment to his new post has to be approved by the State Senate.

"I don't just want to preach, but to show that I live what I preach," This is the credo of the Rev. Ronald Bence, new pastor of the Mountainside Union Chapel.

He continued by explaining that his personal goals as a minister are "to have people see that I really am a follower of Christ before I speak, as evidence by my life--to grow in Biblical knowledge that I might be able to teach."

Mr. Bence, who succeeded the Rev. Robert Mignard, came to Mountainside on Feb. 28 because "it was God's call, Besides, I-was looking for my own church instead of being an assistant," he said. The previous February he had become minister of youth at the First Baptist Church of Asbury Park.

The Mountainside Union Chapel is basically a fundamental independent church, Fundamental, according to Mr. Bence, means "the Word of God in the church," It is based on Baptist principles, but members do not have to be baptized

Mr. Bence described his aims for the congregation. They are:

"1. That all parishioners find and experience Christ in their own way,

"2. They might grow in the knowledge of the Word of god. "3. We as a church might offer fellowship

Superintendent answered Russians' queries during visit

BY JANICE ADLER

The stated goals of education in the Soviet Union are very simple, according to John O. Berwick, Springfield's superintendent of schools, who recently returned from a visit behind the Iron Curtain.

These goals were expressed as: "To educate a harmoniously all-round person spiritually and intellectually with an insatiable curiosity to be satisfied throughout life. One who possesses a good and kind heart with a hand not afraid of any kind of work, including manual. "Man possesses a large potential. The teacher must help these young people apply their knowledge to develop a builder of a new and more perfect society.

More than that, they were expressed by the vice-president of the Academy of Pedagogical Sciences. This agency determines the curriculum and teaching methods -- and no one de-

Berwick left March 29 on a study mission to the Soviet Union, sponsored by the American Association of School Administrators. He was nominated by state officials as a person who could adequately represent his profession. The group visited Moscow, Leningrad, Yerevan and Kiev.

BERWICK DESCRIBED an impromptu visit to some of the schools in Moscow, He stated, 'We had certain prescribed schools on our agenda. I went off the beaten path and followed a group of students to school. The director could not speak English so I used the little -bie of German and French that I know, plus sign language. He then got hold of someone spoke. English to act as an interpreter.

"We went from class to class unanounced soll could see what they were doing. Each student stands when someone enters the room, and sits when he is told. They also stand when they recite. In one of the history classes the teacher could speak some English and asked me to answer questions about the United States. One student asked me if blacks in America are treated as equals. Another asked who some of the authors are that American students their age read

"A third asked if our students study the lustory and geography of the Soviet Union, if could send them a copy. A fourth pupil asked about report cards, grading and testing. She also asked if our testing system is the same as theirs to see if students go on to the secondary level or technical school and what it costs to go to college. "Their questions were an indication of their concerns. In no way did they feel restrained. 'I saw the shop, lunchroom, classrooms from the first grade up and the Pioneer room, of which they are very proud. The Pioneer movement is for students past the third form."

BERWICK SAID, "School lasts from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30) P.M. After this the students participate in Pioneer-type activities. Each school has a room or rooms for this.

"There are two Pioneer palaces in Moscow. They are used for enrichment in ballet, gymnastics, chess, drill teams and so forth. In one type of approach, groups had quizzes on various phases of history. At one palace they had a naval unit with a surplus ship behind the building. Here about 50 or 60 boys were getting experience." He went on to say, "The average teacher gets 120 rubles per month, or about $30 a week. Women's shoes at GUM, the depart-ment store in Moscow, cost 15 to 25 rubles." Berwick commented, "Religion has been completely eliminated. There is an intense, concentrated effort to eliminate the church. At one time there were 280 churches in Moscow, Now there are six. 'While there we went to a Baptist church and sat through a two-hour service. The people there were 80 percent old women-and I mean old -- and 20 percent old men. The women wore the traditional babushka. The ninth grade girls were aksed if they believe in a religion or God. They said 'no,' but said they are devoted to their country and Leninist and Marxist theories." * * *

THE EDUCATOR gave his observations on schooling in the Soviet Union. He commented, "The program of studies is completely standardized. It emphasizes science and technology. The curriculum is designed to produce scientifically and technically trained people. Guidelines and methods of teaching are determined, There is a definite time schedule and the only slight variation is in the quality of equipment used,

'Goals and objectives are determined as part of the national policy. The nature of their research system determines this. "Patriotism, the worthiness of the system and cultural appreciation begin in kindergarten. Soviet poets and artists are glorified for their contributions to art, culture, people and country. "There is tremendous parental support of the schools. Each school has a parents' com-mittee. If a child is being neglected in any way, the parents' committee will go to the home, identify itself and say that the child is neglected. The committée then asks the parents if they can adequately provide whatever is needed for the child. If the parents say no, the child is taken from the home and put into a state boarding school.

"Facilities and programs at the boarding school are just as good as the regular schools. It is a 'combined home and school. What it is ' saying is that the child does not belong to the parents, but belongs to the state instead. ""The nursery-kindergarten program—is elective until the age of seven. It emphasizes the humanities or arts. For example, a child can identify pieces of music and their composers, paintings and their artists and poems and who wrote them.

"Health and nutrition are a very important part of the school, Each school has a fulltime doctor and each child is examined once a month. The doctor is concerned with the feeding and overall welfare of each child. "In priorities, 25 percent of the national budget is spent on education. It is only two to three percent in the United States. "Teachers have to engage in study and research every four years. This is required so they can keep abreast of the latest developments. There is no question that the people and children I spoke with have an undeviating respect for teachers. This was brought out by parents, students and the minister of education.

"ALL DIRECTORS of schools are involved in teaching. They do a certain amount each day. They are required to teach at least one period per day to keep up with changing trends. This includes principals, assistant principals and so fourth.

"A sense of morality, that man should not exploit man, is instilled. If someone explots someone else it is considered a black mark on society. "The major number of children in the Soviet Union study English, especially in Moscow. Certain schools teach English, French or Ger-man. Students go to one language-speaking school. It is claimed that English is the most the kindergarten program."

"I asked why and was told that English is preferred because it is one of the most popular languages in the world. By the way, they teach the British version. 'You can see what has been accomplished in the past 30 to 50 years. If we ever get to the point where our ideologies are so different. I am fearful that, an Khrushchev said, they could bury us because they are moving so. rapidly.

rapidly. "They say they have to sacrifice niceties, and the luxuries of life to perpendite their society, it is a large country and the people are being forced to do this for the good of their country,

"THERE ARE TWO minor problems in the schools. They would like to get men teachers in the lower grades. They are short of language, mathematics and physics teachers," Impressions of school life in Russia were given by Berwick. He explained. "Schools often are shabby and run-down. The buildings lack the style and glitter of American structures which have attractive appearances, such as some of ours in Springfield.

"The children are neat, polite and well be-haved. They either sit straight-backed on benches or in straight-backed chairs. The boys wear simple gray uniforms. Girls also wear uniforms, the color depending on the school, Both boys and girls, from about the third grade up, wear the red kerchief of the Pioneers.

'School officially begins at the age of seven. Then schooling and curriculums are com-pulsory and free. There is a small fee for

IN LENINGRAD the administrators visited the university where they spoke with its president. Berwick stated, "He gave us his impressions of college life.

Competition for college and university admission is stiffer than here. College tuition is free and large number of students get scholarships for room and board, which are not free. In return for these scholarships, after graduation the student is required to work three years on a state-assigned job. It is possible that these jobs may be in remote areas or not in the student's preferred field." Berwick, who has been the township's superintendent of schools for six years, concluded. "In retrospect, the experience of the Soviet study mission itself was rare. In a sense it was a curious contradiction in terms-credible, yet incredible, pleasurable, yet unpleasant, happy, yet sad, bursting with soph-isitication on the one hand, yet full of naivete on the other,

"Withal, much was gained and nothing lost. Impressions were good and bad, many and varied. Despite some aspects of the Soviet system worthy of praise--the high priority given to educaton, the undeviating respect for teachers, the students' own interest in learning, the development of cultural appreciation in young children, the search and development of talent, the technical and the technological ad-yances in science-the country itself is a closed and tightly controlled society.

"The experience of seeing first hand what could be seen, however, will long be remembered as one of the highlights of my pro-fessional career.

"This is the message of concern and hope of the 1971 Cancer Crusade," Caprio stated, "But each of us must do his or her part by being alert, Cancer cures don't come by magic; however through research advances one out of three cancer patients are now being saved, But if the Cancer Crusade message of the need for early diagnosis and treatment gets home to everyone we could save one out of two. "For example, the uterine cancer death rate has dropped nationally about 50 percent in a generation. This decline was due in part the part test which can reveal canto use of the Pap test which can reveal can-cer of the uterine-cervix before it begins to spread and is highly curable at this stage, "This year we're emphasizing alertness and caution," Caprio said, "Help yourself with a checkup and others with a check. Please send your donations to my attention or to your neighborhood block leader."

Track team finishing out of the money but golfers take aim at Watchung title

Stumbling towards another losing season, the Gov. Livingston track team (2-5-1) has little hope of finishing with a winning record. Flashes of individual brilliance, however, have marked the season; several school records have been broken and several others are likely to fall. Infortunately, a few talented individuals cannot guarantee Victory, as this season has illus-trated. The Highlanders, as in the past two years, have had a splendid array of individual athletes in track yet lacked the depth for success as a team. In track scoring a team must have strong second-place and third-place per-formers in most events; this year, this has been the exception, not the rule.

Jim Russo, in his first year as head coach has had the trying job of trying to get the maximum out of his squad Heisusinghis most talented performers, such as Kirk Sawczek and Corcoran, in as many as three events. Kevin Both are enjoying splendid seasons in the 440 and 220.

Zillis and Fred Anderson are enjoying fine years, Fairbanks and Zillis, both seniors, have been two of the best and most dependable runners on the team. Anderson, only a sophomore, is one of Regional's brightest hopes for the future. Most of the team's top performers will be graduating, leaving very little for Russo to work with next season.

placed second in the New York Relays, a meet in which some of the best individual performers in the state participate, Discus thrower Bob Zetterstrom is also having a very good year but behind him and Ruch is very little depth. With a record of 2-5-1 after having tied Hillside (63-63), Regional seems destined to

ON A FAR MORE optimistic note, Gov, Liv-ingston's golf team seems well on the way to-wards another outstanding season under firstference title.

The Highlanders' record is 8-1-1, the result of a balanced team effort. In golf each team fields six golfers, each of whom may win as much as three points for his team. The scores are totaled up for each team and the highest score wins so no one golfer may dominate the match. If one player could do so, however, it would be Gov. Livingston's Hunter Layton, who is possibly the best player in the county and maybe in the state. He is consistently right around par for the course, and often breaks it. Layton has already been offered a full scholarship to Oklahoma State, which is a testament to his ability. Behind him are five other golfers, however, and all have been performing well. The include George Teren, Roy Heitman, Drew Woolford, Lee Honecker, and Ken Kakol.

Institute head to receive honorary Ph. D. June 13

FORT LAUDERDALE, FLA. rotta of 1341 Barbara ave., Union, has been selected as the recipient of an honorary doc-torate in science by Fort Lauderdale University, it was announced recently by Dr. S. J. Drake, president of the institution

Dr. Drake said Barotta will be honored at Fort Lauderdale's commencement exercises June 13 because of "his outstanding contributions to the cause of technical education, not only in New Jersey, but throughout the nation," Barotta, president of Union Technical Institute in Mountainside and Asbury Park, N.J., is a member of the New Jersey Advisory Council Vocational Education, He was appointed to the 17-member panel last year by Governor William T. Cahili, The council is responsible for advising the state board of education on the development of the state plan, including the preparation of long-range and annual program plans.

Barotta received his bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Newark College of Engineering, He worked as a research engineer for Bell Telephone Laboratories and Link Radio Corporation before founding Hudson Technical institute 24 years ago. The school was in Union City until 1954, when it moved to Elizabeth and underwent a name change to Union Technical Institute, Operations were transferred to Union Township in 1961, and to its present quarters at 1011 U.S. Route 22, Mountainside, three years ago. The Asbury Park branch was opened in 1969.

Union Tech, which offers two-year programs in electronics technology, design and drafting technology and manufacturing technology, trains 200 students in Mountainside and Asbury. Park.

The school is accredited by the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools, an accrediting agency accepted by the U.S. Office of Education, Fourteen colleges in 19 states permit graduates to transfer and apply credits earned at Union Tech toward bachelor's degrees.

Barotta is a senior member of both the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engi-neers and the Society of Manufacturing Engineers. He also is a member of the American Institute of Design and Drafting and chairman of the technical advisory committee of Fort Lauderdale University. Barotta also holds membership in the Union chapter of Unico International, the Columbia Civic and Social Club, the Knights of Columbus and the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce, He is the father of two children, Mrs. Ruth Ratajczak of Matawan and Alice, 12,

Union Tech shares in industry fund's scholarship setup

The New Jersey Heavy and Highway Con-struction Industry Advancement Fund will award a two-year scholarship to a student enrolled in the civil technology program at Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Mains, it was announced this week by Robert Briant, director of education and training for construction fund.

The scholarship is one of five to be awarded to students attending New Jersey community colleges offering civil technology programs. Other colleges participating in the scholarship program are Gloucester County College, Mercer County Community College, Middlesex County College and Ocean County College. Briant, in announcing the new scholarship program, said the construction industry hopes to encourage more students to become civil technologists. The construction industry, he said, is the largest employer in the U.S. and offers almost unlimited career opportunities to graduate civil technologists. There is a particular need, he added, for trained people at the middle management level.

The scholarship is open to all high school seniors who have or will soon apply for admission to the Civil Technology program at UCTI. Criteria for awarding the scholarship will be academic performance, financial need and interest in Civil Technology as a career. Applications may be obtained by writing Robert A. Briant, director of Education and Training, Construction Industry Advancement Fund, P.O. Box 327, Pennington, 08534. June 4 is the dead-The Construction Industry Advancement

Fund is supported by some 1,200 construction firms in the metropolitan area. Contributions are based on the number of man hours expended by each firm.

m, at the Jefferson School, 1200 Boulevard, p.m. at the Jefferson School, 1200 Boulevard, Westfield. The site, located on the far south side of Westfield, is a few blocks West of Central avenue.

The address, sponsored by the Princeton Club of Union County, will be entitled "Perspectives on Current Issues and Problems in Education," Dr. Allen intends to discuss issues such as public school finance, changes in education currently taking place and those he foresees, Admission has been set at $1,50 for adults and 75 cents for college and high school students.

This public lecture is the first of a series of discussions of public issues the Princeton Club plans to sponsor in Union County with the help of Princeton University, Martin E. Robins, president-elect of the club, announced, Dr. Allen is currently affiliated with the Princeton faculty as a visiting lecturer in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs where he heads an ex-ploratory program in education and public affairs. Prior to Dr. Allen's stormy tenure as a Nixon appointce to the dual posts of Assistant Secretary for Education and U.S. Commissioner-of Education, he served as New York State Commissioner of Education and presi-dent of the University of the State of New York from 1955 to 1969. During this period he adjudicated numerous sensitive controversies involving racial imbalance in public schools and presided over the University's mushrooming growth.

A native of West Virginia, Dr. Allen re-ceived his bachelor's degree from Davis & Elkins College, studied at Princeton's graduate school and earned masters and doctorate degrees from Harvard. He began his professional career in the West Virginia Education Department and later joined the Syracuse Uni-versity faculty. In 1947 Dr. Allen entered the New York State Education Department, He was appointed Deputy State Commissioner of Education.

One hundred amateur astronomers have indicated interest in a trip to West Africa in June, 1973, to see the most important solar eclipse of this century.

Roger Tuthill of Mountainside, expedition chairman for Amateur Astronomers, Inc., which is sponsoring an eclipse expedition, reports that inquiries have come from all over the U.S. and Canada, Among those interested are college professors, newspaper reporters, servicemen now in Vietnam, a Catholic priest, college students, including a sprinkling of coeds, a banker, several engineers and a statistician with the Canadian Broadcasting Company. AAI, which is headquartered at the Sperry Observatory at Union College, Cranford, is planning a charter trip for approximately 200 people to Mauritania, West Africa, to view the blackout scheduled for June 30, 1973. Tentative plans call for a charter flight to

Dakar or to Port Etienne where passengers will transfer to smaller planes for the flight to Akjoujt, Mauritania, which is 16 miles from the center line of the eclipse and ideally situ ated for viewing the event, Tuthill states,

The eclipse will be particularly significant, according to Patrick J, White of Warren Town-ship, director of the Sperry Observatory and professor of astronomy at Union College, because of its length. This eclipse is expected to last 6-1/4 minutes. The longest possible time lapse for a solar eclipse, he adds, is 7-1/2 minutes, with the average eclipse lasting three minutes

Open house at UC for high schoolers

Antipollution tab to be panel's topic

The high cost of building water pollution control facilities will be among the topics examined at the 56th annual conference of the New Jersey Water Pollution Control Association in Atlantic City today and tomorrow.

Many of the sessions will feature technical talks on the newest techniques in meeting the water crisis including a report on the impact of heavy metals in water pollution treatment by Dr. Alan Mytelka, assistant chief engl-neer of the Interstate Sanitation Commission.

Chairman of the conference Al Lach, plant superintendent of the Middlesex County Truck Sewer Authority, notes that the convention will be looking at questions involving new state and federal regulatory matters relating to the state's water pollution program and to legislation affecting pollution control.

at neighborhood educational centers N.J. Community Affairs Commissioner Edmund T. Hume has announced the opening of a new system of neighborhood education centers to provide remedial educational services to Hume said the program, a successor to the so-called "street academies" which were closed last year, will provide "supportive, counseling and tutoring to potential dropouts and will give those who have actually dropped out an opportunity to earn a high school diploma!" Qualified students will be encouraged to enter college, Hume added. James D. Coffee, director of the depart-ment's Division of Human Resources, said that centers are currently operating in Hackensack, Long Branch and Trenton.

Coffee emphasized that the centers are oper-ated by two- and four-year colleges under contract to the Department of Community Affairs. "We are making maximum use of existing education resources, rather than attempting any duplication of available ser-vices," Coffee said.

Coffee also announced that John S. Miller Jr. of Plainfield has been named director of the program.

EACH CENTER IS EXPECTED to process through about 200 students, Cofee said. The three centers and the colleges operating them are: Bergen Community College, Hackensack, operating the Adult Learning Center, Hacken-sack; Brookdale College (the community col-lege of Monmouth County), operating the Com-munity Learning Center, Long Branch, and Mercer County Community College, operating the Human Resources Center, Trenton.

Each college will receive an average of $50,000 annually in state aid funds, the same schools are supplementing the state money with their own. The legislation creating the centers, The Neighborhood Education Center Act of 1968, limits to eight the number of colleges which can participate in the program.

UC reports boost in applications for autumn enrollment

While many colleges and universities throughout the country are experiencing a decline in the number of applications for the fall semester, Union College has shown an increase of about ten percent in the number of applications this year as compared with a year ago. George P. Lynes, director of admissions, said his office will handle more than 5,000 applications for the 1971-72 academic year.

'We are not only receiving more applications than a year ago, but a much larger per-centage of the students we accept will attend Union College in the fall," Lynes said, "As a result we expect our largest enrollment in history in the fall." Lynes said Union College anticipates a fresh-aman class of 1,200 in the fall at all three campuses in Cranford, Elizabeth and Plainfield.

There are still openings in the engineering, life science, physical science, and law enforce-ment curriculums, Lynes reported, but the liberal arts, business administration, and education programs are virtually filled.

"We not only anticipate a larger number of full-time students, but we also foresee a greatly expanded number of part-time students in the fall," Mr. Lynes said, "In addition, it is expected that our program of non-credit and community services programs will be consid-erably larger than a year ago."

Scouts to test car exhaust emissions Program to be held in Westfield Saturday

New Jersey limits for car exhaust emissions, which Governor Cahill has announced state inspection stations will start enforcing in 1972. will serve as the pattern for a Boy Scoutoperated free emissions test at Westfield High School on Saturday. Senior Scouts of the Colonial District, Watchung Area Council, will use advanced electronic measuring insturments loaned by Esso Research and Engineering Company and Sun Electric Corp. to determine whether the carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon (unburned gasoline) emissions from each car are acceptable, on the borderline, or too high, based on limits similar to those under consideration for eventual use by New Jersey. The Scout project, called SCOUTCAT for Scout Clean Air Test, will be coordinated by several district Scout officials who are also automotive scientists at Esso Research and Engineering. The Scouts will provide no corrective service or advice for cars with excessive pollutants other than to urge the drivers to obtain an engine tune-up.

In the New Jersey announcement, State Commissioner of Environmental Protection Richard J. Sullivan stated that mandatory tuneups and other regular maintenance repairs high-emission cars would eliminate an estimated 20 percent of the total pollutants emitted by cars registered in the state. Experimental inspection tests, carried out by the department's Bureau of Air Pollution Control with instruments and emission limits similar to those in the SCOUTCAT test, have shown that a substantial fraction of New Jersey cars exceed the test limits and can benefit from careful engine tune-ups, a bureau spokesman has told Scout officials. The spokesman also said that the SCOUTCAT test limits are at or close to the emission levels toward which the state expects to move after a preliminary educational period with less a preliminary educational period with less stringent standards. "SCOUTCAT is our way of helping the public in our district know what it can do to help reduce automobile air pollution," said Dr. George P. Gross of Westfield Troop 71, the project chairman and one of the Esso scientists. The district covers Westfield, Scotch Plains, Fanwood, Garwood and Mountaineide SCOUTCAT will be held at the Westfield High School parking lot on Saturday, from 9:30a,m. to 12:30 p.m. The rain date will be from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Each car must have a readily accessible tailpipe in good condition and must be thoroughly warmed up for the test. The Scouts will not test cars emitting visible smoke, trucks or vehicles with dieselengines. Cars will enter the parking lot from Rahway avenue and leave by the Trinity place exit.

Rhododendrons topic for speaker

The Men's Garden Club of Westfield will have C. Russ Haag as its speaker on May 11, the last meeting of the year. His topic will be

'Rhododendrons for this Area.' Haag is a charter member of the N.J. Chapter, American Rhododendron Society, and also a member of the Men's Garden Club of Westa member of the Men's Garden Child of West-field. He started growing rhododendrons 23 years ago when he moved from Elizabeth to Cranford. In addition to growing thousands of plants of more than 300 named varieties, he started hybridizing about 10 years ago and estimates he has planted 100,000 rhododendron seeds of which perhaps 10,000 have grown into plants of sufficient size to undergo meaningful culling and selection.

Mr. and Mrs. Haag have decided their hybridizing requires more space than their present lot, and will move soon to North Carolina. They and their household goods and five large truck-loads of rhododendrons should be moved by July 1.

The meeting will open at 8 p.m. in the base-ment of The First Congregational Church of Westfield, 125 Elmer st., Westfield,

Studies offer new incentives tor women to give up smoking

Women protect more than just their own hearts and health when they give up cigarettes, according to the Union County Heart Association, Citing a major study in Great Britain, the association says there is new evidence that mothers who smoke face a significantly greater risk of stillbirth, or death of babies shortly after birth, than do nonsmoking mothers. The study revealed that smoking during pregnancy harms the fetus by exerting a retarding influence on its growth. In another test of more than 2,000 mothers during a one-year period in the state of Washington, there was a higher incidence of miscarriages, stillbirths, newborn deaths and premature labor among women who smoked than among nonsmokers, adds the Union County Heart Association. But according to Dr. Jesse L. Steinfeld,

Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, women have not been giving up the cigarette habit in as great numbers as have men, Dr, Steinfeld also has cited evidence that women have more trouble quitting than do men. The relapse rate of women who go back tobacco is 38 percent higher than that of men. In the past four years alone about 10 million Americans have given up cigarettes, but women account for only 300,000 of this total. It is additionally estimated that the number of women in this country who presently do smoke cigarettes is about 20 million.

The 10 million who have been able to quit stand as proof, says the Union County Heart Association, that the effort is not as difficult as some make it sound. It can be made easier if done in a group with friends, or with the help of such organizations as the Heart Asso-

UC plans classes in English, reading for Spanish-speaking

English as a second language and a reading improvement clinic will be offered at the Plainfield and Elizabeth campuses of Union College from June 21 through July 30, it was announced this week by Prof. Richard Selcoe, director week by Prof. Richard Selcoe, director of the Division of Community Services, Classes will be conducted in the evening, In-addition-American history will be taught in Spanish at the Elizabeth Campus. English as a second language will be taught at three levels based on students' language proficiency. Class assignment will be deter-mined by tests to be administered at the time of registration.

The language and reading programs are open to the general public and are intended primar-ily for adults who want and need to upgrade. their skills in these areas, Prof. Selcoe added. The Spanish-speaking population in the Eliz-abeth and Plainfield areas continues to increase, he said, and many of these people are held back from professional advancement be-cause they have not had the time or the opportunity to increase their fluency in English.

In serving Union County in lieu of a com-munity college, Union College feels strongly its responsibility to meet the educational needs of all county residents, Prof. Selcoe added. The summer programs at the Plainfield and Elizabeth Campuses, he believes, will help meet some of these needs.

Schooling to the age of 16 has not always been mandatory in the U.S. and there are many adults today who had to leave school while still in the primary grades because of economic pressures, he notes. Many of these people have never had the opportunity to upgrade their reading skills beyond the elemen-tary school level. This handicap may impede professional advancement and most certainly. robs many of the pleasures reading can offer, Prof. Selcoe said.

will enable these people to overcome their handicap in an adult setting," Prof, Selcoe said.

Registration applications may be obtained by writing Union College, Springfield avenue, Cranford, 07016, or may be picked up at any one of the college's three campuses, 317 E. Front st., Plainfield; South Broad street and Bayway, Elizabeth, or Springfield avenue, Cranford.

Registration for these programs will be conducted Wednesday and Thursday, June 16 and 17, from 6 to 8 p.m. A registration fee of $10 is payable at the time of registration.

LIFELINE ACROSS THE ATLANTIC -- Premature babies in the African Republic of Botswana may get a better chance at life with the help of a kerosene-powered incubator being designed and built by Rutgers students Patrick Colletti of Clifton (standing) and Richard Snyder (right) of Hackettstown and their advisor, Dr. Alkis Constantinides, assistant professor of chemical engineering. Plans will be sent to Botswana officials who will build incubators for health centers in remote regions where there is no electricity to run more sophisticated units.

Rutgers students design incubator for Botswana

Somewhere in a remote area of Botswana a premature baby is uttering its first cries of life -- but probably not for long.

Because the child must be moved from a rural health center to an electric-powered incubator in a large city miles away, its chances for survival are slim.

There is no electricity in the remote regions of the country, and transportation facilities are far from adequate. A child born before its intended time in Botswana is usually out of luck. Now, however, the dim outlook for pre-mature babies in the African republic, and in other developing nations as well, may be con-siderably brightened by two Rutgers University engineering students. Richard A. Snyder, 21, of Hackettstown and Patrick M. Colletti, 21, of Clifton, guided by Dr. Aikis Constantinides, assistant professor

VA suggests vets train for policemen and firemen jobs

Joseph J. Mulone, director, of the New ersey Veterans Administration regional offices, Newark, suggested this week that Vietnam veterans looking for jobs in a tight job market might consider training for policemen and firemen under the GI Bill. Mulone said that as of Feb. 28, 349 policemen and 52 firemen were participating in approved courses throughout the state. New Jersey has 21 municipalities which have been approved for training recruit fire-men and 168 for recruit police training. Mulone said that approved courses for recruit policemen run for 13 months and for firemen 14 months.

During the veteran's training period, VA supplements earnings from his police or fire department. VA pays veterans with no dependents $108 per month during the first six months; $81 per month the second six months and $54 the third six months. Additional allowances are paid for dependents of chemical engineering, are designing and building a prototype incubator that can be powered by kerosene.

The students are answering a request by Botswana officials for an incubation unit that will be inexpensive, simple to build and will run on kerosene which is available in the country.

The project is being carried out under the auspices of Volunteers for International Tech-nical Assistance, Inc. (VITA), an international association which provides free professional skills and services to the developing world. VITA sponsors the project, and other similar efforts, through contributions from individuals, foundations and industrial corporations and by government grants. When completed, the design and construc-tion plans will be sent to the country's officials who will build the incubators for health centers in six rural areas.

Constantinides says Botswana officials specified they want a unit to run on kerosene, or paraffin as they call it there, and also want to build it themselves with readily accessible materials.

Consequently, the students are designing an incubator of wood, small amounts of plexiglass, copper tubing, and simple devices, all of which they feel is available in the country or can be obtained easily.

The design would permit a kerosene burner to heat a quantity of water at a distance from the incubator to avoid effects of fumes. The water would then be fed through the unit by gravity and would heat the air by natural convection,

Some of the problems the students are tacking include regulation of temperature and humidity to the exact requirements of pre-mature babies, data they obtained from pediatricians and hospitals before setting out to design a unit.

Dr. Constantinides volunteers his time as advisor and the students also donate their time. The youths, however, realize fringe benefits from the work in addition to the satis-faction of doing a job for others.

The project fulfills a three-credit special projects course needed for graduation and permits them to apply some of the knowledge they have learned in the Rutgers classrooms. The particular challenge of this project, said their professor, is that many of the sophisticated construction methods that are taken for granted here might not be practical in Botswana.

NJEA joins drive for Cabinet-level education officer

New Jersey teachers have joined a nationwide letter-writing campaign to establish a separate Department of Education in the federal government, headed by a Cabinet-level Secretary of Education. Establishing the new department is a top legislative goal of the Washington-based National Education Association. The executive committee of the New Jersey Education Asso-ciation has voted its support and is asking NIEA's 68,000 members to write to President Richard M, Nixon urging the change. "The education of American children is one of the chief concerns of the nation's parents," says NJEA's President, Mrs. Frances M. Carnochan of trenton. 'Yet our government has never reflected this priority in the Cabinet or in its department structure." At present, the U.S. Office of Education is part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

'A separate Education Department headed by a Cabinet-level officer could more effective-ly coordinate and direct the many educational government," Mrs. Carnochan says. "The United States is one of the few countries in the Western world that does not have a separate ministry or department for education.

A bill to create the Cabinet-level department has been introduced in the U.S. Senate. New it's okay when you blow part of your salary on a savings account!"

Jersey Sen. Harrison A. Williams is one of S-1485's 24 co-sponsors. Nationally, NEA's campaign for a separate Department of Education is supported by the American Assn. of School Administrators, the National School Boards Assn., the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Council of Chief State School Officers, and the National Assn. of State Boards of Education.

Duncan portraits go on exhibition

Portraits by Scott Duncan, Maplewoodartist whose works have appeared on the cover of Time magazine, are featured at the May exhibit of the North Jersey-Essex County Blood Bank. The monthly show is held at Blood Bank Headquarters at 45 South Grove Street, East Orange.

Duncan has had four of his portraits on Time's covers and another was in Family Circle. He illustrated the "Diary of Anne Frank" and "Lone Woman" for Reader's Digest, "Army Life in a Black Regiment" and 'Life and Times of Frederick Douglass" for Grosset and Dunlap. In March, Duncan had his first one-man show at Galt's Gallery in Chatham, an event which brought viewers from as far away as Maine. In April he had an exhibit at the Berkeley Savings and Loan Association in East Hanover. His work has been purchased for the permanent collection of the Cornell Museum in Iowa, He is a graduate of Pratt Institute.

Creation of an office in the state Department of Environmental Protection to coordinate and assist municipal conservation commissions was amounced this week by Commissioner Richard J. Sullivan. The announcement was made during a day-long Con-servation Commissioners servation Commissioners' Day in Trenton attended by more than 100 municipal representatives. There, are 90 such municipal conservation ommissions in the state.

Summer Institute, Sister Marherita has also represented the university at national meet-ings where she has given lectures on Italian literature and the teaching of Italian, The campus' Italian Club, initiated by Sister Margherita, has become an active organization on this campus sponsoring numerous exhibits, programs, lectures, trips, as well as a fund-raising performance for the Buccheri Scholarship Fund.

Her interest in education led her to pro-duce the FLES Italian Series (Materials for Teaching Italian) -- Kindergarten through Grade 4

It is Sister Margherita's firm conviction that "the teachers of today must leave no stone unturned in striving to prepare the teachers of tomorrow." Presently, she serves on the faculty for the Center for Language Education of the Peter Sammartino College Education. She sees her new position as "an effort to spark renewed interest and develop a new awareness and concern for Italian.

Channel 52 works on program series. to assist policemen

The Department of Community Services at WNJT-TV has developed an eight-part series designed to improve the image and performance of New Jersey police officers.

The videotape proposal is presently under consideration for funding by the State Law Enforcement Agency.

If funds are approved, "Only Through Professional Behavior" will be produced by Channel 52, using Plainfield policemen as actors and New Jersey State Police as consultants. The proposed series will stress human relations aimed at making police more ef-fective. It is not "sensitivity training." Techniques taught through the programs are calculated to foster increased respect for police by citizens. This would be achieved by instilling in law officers a pattern of pro-fessional behavior.

Correct responses to difficult situations contered by police will be stressed. The New Jersey Broadcasting Authority

Public Service hopeful on power this summer

Public Service Electric and Gas Co. this week expressed cautious optimism about meeting the demand for electricity this summer. Edward R. Eberle, president of Public Service, said the utility, which serves nearly 6,000,000 people in New, Jersey, will have an electric generating capacity of nearly 7.5 million kilowatts. It expects a peak demand of 6.1 million kilowatts, giving it nearly 23% more generating capacity than the anti-cipated peak demand, substantially more than the 14 percent reserve the company was predicting for its system at this time last year. The power pool to which Public Service belongs ---- the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland (PJM) Interconnection ---- will be in better shape also, Eberle indicated. will be also proposes to develop written materials for use in conjunction with the videotapes. Involved in the initial development were Channel 52, the State Department of Com-munity Affairs, the City of Plainfield and the New Jersey State Police.

The interconnection is made up of 12 electric companies, including Public Service, Jersey Central Power & Light Co., New Jersey Power & Light Co. and Atlantic City Electric Co. It serves more than 20 million people in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and the District of Columbia. PJM expects, to have 31.5 million kilowatts of generating capacity available this summer, Eberle said. The summer peak de-mand forecast is for 27.3 million kilowatts. This would leave a reserve of 4.2 million kilowatts, more than 15 percent of the total peak load.

Eberle pointed out, however, that regu latory and other delays of critically needed extra high voltage power lines may seriously limit the exchange of power within the PJM system and with neighboring power grids.

for all at moderate cost. "I am completely convinced that we must utilize the comprehensive health planning mechanism if we hope to restructure our chaotic health system," he said. Dr. Cowan spoke in Dryden Hall of the Prudential where the annual meeting of the council, attended by about 100 members was held.

New by-laws, reflecting the change in geo-graphical area of the official health planning agency were adopted. The new area is composed of Essex, Morris, Union and Warren counties. Thirty-eight trustees from those counties were nominated to, serve on the board for a one year period. As required by legislation, the board membership is 51 percent from consumer groups and 49 percent from health providers.

THE COUNCIL IS CHARGED, under the national Partnership for Health Act, for which it is the official comprehensive health planning agency, with three areas of responsibility. These are: health facilities, manpower and services.

The new by-laws also added the word "planning" to the agency's title to reflect its role. The council's name now is the Hospital and Jersey. ''Comprehensive health planning provides the arena where complementary, competing and oft-times conflicting forces can come together, not only to debate, but to plan solutions to our pressing health problems. This is the only forum that I know of where the provider and consumer of health services can enter into intelligent discussions and, backed by responsible staff research, arrive at mean-ingful decisions," Dr. Cowan said,

MANY PROGRAMS for tuberculosis, venereal disease control, maternal and child health have been functioning too long outside the hospital setting, the commissioner said. "I am suggesting that a dichotomy has existed before, and still exists. There are too many public health agencies being operated in basements of public buildings, in rented rooms in a sub-standard manner," the Commissioner "I would like to suggest that the best elements of these two systems can and should be joined to provide for the delivery of quality health services at moderate cost for all. The Hospital, and Health Council has a unique opportunity to assist in this effort.

Dr. Cowan cited the contradictions which exist in the council's area: The state's only medical school and 20 schools of nursing, yet the-highest-high-school-drop-out-rate-in-the country; more open heart surgery than in any part of the state, yet an infant mortality rate of 25 per 1,000 births. "What is needed is a well coordinated and cooperative approach: One that combines the technical expertise and administrative abilitics of the providers . . , with consumer par-ticipation in a unified effort to help design innovative programs that will benefit all," he said.

our community." * * * HE EXPLAINED that his final aim means any way to help individuals who suffer personal loss or tragedy." In the short time since his arrival, Pastor Bence has helped his par-

Members raise funds to aid others. Members of the congregation, Mr. and Mrs. John Keuler, recently had their house damaged by a fire and most of their furni-ture was destroyed, "The church helped with some financial assistance, but mostly with prayer and letting them know that we were concerned with more than just their spiritual need." Mr. Bence stated.

He continued describing his goals, Mr. Bence commented, "I would like to see grow-th. By this 1 mean the numerical difference in the size of the congregation, but mostly an outreach to reach all people--young and old. The church doesn't need a completely new revamping, although we will revamp. "We hope to have a program for every age group. I don't just want them to get involved with the church, but to find Christ in a personal way. The church was on the road to this when I came.

'We hope to have a gymnasium. This will make us the only church in Mountainside with a gym program and are hoping this will attract young people.'

Pastor Bence commented on his feelings about his parishioners. He said, '1 believe that through the people and their warmth, their talents, their drives and ambitions, we as a church will reach the community of Mountainside, That way they might experi-ence Jesus Christ in His fullness,

"Really, the people are very warm and intelligent -- to say the least -- and I am anxious to see this great thing happen. We might reach Mountainside and the church might grow and offer bigger and better programs.

HE TOLD WHY he entered the ministry. He explained, "Besides its being God's call, we had a pastor in our home church in Clifton who was very different because he cared personally for me -- not just spiritually, but physically. He lived what he preached. 'My father died when I was eight. The pastor acted as a father to us in our family, He was willing to play with me and do what he could to help.

'I also entered because of the challenge, It is a great challenge to meet people and minister to their needs. To be able to apply oneself to those from the age of one up is a very challenging task."

The pastor was born in Passaic and was graduated from Garfield High School, From there he went directly into the Northeastern Collegiate Bible Institute in Essex Fells, He received a bachelor of religious education degree in 1969 and his bachelor of theology degree the following year.

He and his wife, the former Dawn Chevoya of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., were married 10 months ago. They met at the seminary where she received a degree in Christian education. He is interested in all sports, especially basketball.

While in Asbury Park, Mr. Bence was in charge of all activities for five to 25-yearold youths. He also was in charge of the church's entire visitation program to hospitalized and shut-in patients,

Now that he has his own congregation, his duties involve "preaching, of course, visiting, heading up all church boards and trying to set up a program for all ages," he said. "But," he concluded, 'I hope to grow with the parish."

Mayor predicts benefits in new solid waste plan solid waste disposal systems (sanitary landfill, incineration) and experimental systems (high-intensity incineration, shredding and pyrolysis).

DR, DISKO SAID total recyling is not yet feasible although the pyroloysis system holds promise as the best available. Pyrolysis, he holds "great promise for the future" and is recommended in the report as the longrange solution to solid waste disposal problems.

In pyrolysis, material containing iron can be separated by use of magnets. These are then recycled. The material remaining then enters the pyrolysis (destructive distillation) process. The material is chemically heated to temperatures from 1,200 to 1,600 degrees, and is separated into three components. Two of the components are recycled into commerical products usage. The third is fuels which can be utilized in heating or in the production of electricity. If such a pyrolysis unit is built in Linden, county officials are hopeful that the fuel output could be purchased by Public Service for generating electricity at their Linden sta-tion, which is near the proposed dumping sites

Pyrolysis for such a unit. would require 2 million British Thermal Units (BTUs) to process the solid waste but would give off 10 million BTUs, for a surplus of 8 million BTUs available for electrical generation or industry.

The consultants also noted high-temperature incineration in their report as another longrange alternative. This method does not create as much ash residue and air pollution as do convention incineration units. However, Dr. Disko said pyrolysis is probably the better bet.

THE SHORT-RANGE solution recommend-ed by the consultants is shredding, now being done on an experimental basis in Madison, Wis. Such a system for use in the near future could be applicable to both high-temperature incineration and pyrolysis. In shredding, solid waste (including paper, food scraps, glass, plastics, ceramics and metals) would be ground and shredded by a relatively inexpensive plant. The plant creates a homogenous mixture which is then spread on top of the landfill site.

Such a mixture, claimed Dr. Disko, does not attract rats or flies and is being used with great success in Wisconsin, where it is disposed of without any sanitary fill on top of it. New Jersey law requires all solid waste dumping grounds to be topped with dirt at the end of each day's work.

Shredding, said Dr. Disko, "is a way to reclaim marginal land, Shredding and filling is a lot cheaper than other methods." is a lot cheaper that outer inserts and Throughout his presentation Friday, Dr. Disko emphasized that the reclaimed land could be suitable for such uses as parks and golf courses.

He said the present cost of dumping bulk solid wastes is $2 a ton. The shred and fill method would cost between $3 and $4 a ton. Because the shredding method creates a homo-genous waste product not nearly as bulky as present, it would also double the life of a dumping ground. A dump that now has a five-year lifetime would be available for 10 years if solid waste were shredded first, he claimed, He added that "shredding equipment is a fraction of incinerator equipment costs." Also, the shredding technique allows grass seed to be thrown into the waste mixture. The grass would turn the landfill into parkland with a cost lower than normal, said Disko.

IN PYROLYSIS, added the consultant, sewage can be treated along with solid wastes. The introduction of sewage, he said, would add to the nitrogen content of the waste and act as fertilizer. Sewage could also be treated in hightemperature incineration.

Dr. Disko said federal demonstration grant funds may be available for the program because of its advanced design. State policies could get in the way of pro-gram development. It is reported that the Department of Environmental Protection wants to halt all meadowland dumping pending ecological studies in the near future. But that same state agency also fosters a regional approach to solid waste disposal management. These contradictory viewpoints by the state would have to be resolved before the county could go ahead with its plans.

Maguire emphasized the importance of quick response to the solid waste disposal problem, 'As more mortgage money becomes avail-able," he said, "these sites will be gobbled up. So we've got to act fast."

The study by Disko Associates had two purposes: to develop and analyze data and to establish the short - and long - range pro-grams which would "set the framework for continued planning."

THE REPORT LOOKED at "ordinary re-fuse" and "special refuse." Dr. Disko said "ordinary refuse" includes items like food, paper, bottles and other glass matter, cans and metals. "Special refuse" includes bulky materials such as discarded appliances and automobiles, industrial solid wastes, leaves, Christmas trees and demolition materials.

Paper, he said, represents 51 percent of the domestic materials, those which are collected at the curb or in the backyard of homes and stores by municipal, contract or private disposal firms. Food makes for 11 percent of the domestic waste, yard materials 9 percent, metals 8 percent, glass 7 percent, wood, plastic and textiles 2 percent each. Traces of oils, paints, ashes and other materials make up the remainder.

According to the report, 441,650 tons of domestic waste were generated in Union County last year. Industry and commercial waste added 379,000 tons and non-domestic municipal waste 34,400 tons.

Of the domestic waste, Dr. Disko saidElizabeth was responsible for 99,500 tons. Union was second in the county with 47,000 tons, Linden third with 31,200 tons. In other communities: Springfield, 13,200 tons; Roselle, 17,700 tons; Roselle Park, 11,300 tons; Mountainside, 7,650

The costs of disposing wastes by curbside pick-up has continued to increase in the past 13 years, said Disko. In Linden, the 1958 cost was $9.73 per household; in 1964 it increased to $17.50 and in 1970 to $29. Union faced similar cost increases per nousehold, from $13.41 in 1958 to $18.52 in 1964 to last year's $23.60. Disko believes consolidation of solid waste disposal by the county will help stem the increases in cost.

After giving my hearfelt prayer for guidance and blessing on those responsible for leadership and on those participating, Iended by asking these things in the name of Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. As soon as the words were out of my mouth Irealized that I had used terms associated with my religion and that this might be offensive to people of other faiths. I did not want to ask for the microphone again for such a correction, but I do want to express my sincere apologies to those present whose religion is different from mine. No affront or discrimination was intended, nor was any effort being made to label Little League ceremonies a religious activity. NEW YORK, N.Y .-- An increase of almost nine percent was reflected in the $99.4 million in receipts collected during March by the Treasury's Region II of U.S. Customs, Michael Stramiello, Jr., Regional Commis-sioner, has reported. Collections for March of last year totaled $91.5 million.

CARLY LULING P. - Thursday, May 6, 1971 `Snoopy' talks to hard of hearing tots Bell Pioneers develop stuffed animal aids

A larger-than-life, stuffed version of the lovable comic-strip hound "Snoopy" is now playing an important role in the therapeutic treatment of children with impaired speech and hearing;

Snoopy can "talk" -- thanks to the efforts of two engineers at Bell Laboratories in Murray Hill -- and it seems that hard-of-hearing tots at the Bruce Street School for the Deaf in Newark would rather listen to him than to the teacher.

Snoopy is just one of a growing breed of talking toy animals being furnished to special schools for hearing and speech therapy by chapters of the Telephone Pioneers of America a nationwide community service and social organization for men and women who have worked in the telephone industry for at least 21 years.

It all started when Telephone Pioneer mem-bers got a request for help for a speech thera-pist in Pennsylvania. He had noticed that children who would not respond to adults, talked readily to their toys as they played, He wanted a talking toy that would carry his voice to the children, and their replies to him. The Pioneers came up with a talking doll

Snoopy, like his counterparts around the country, acquired his ability to speak by undergoing a voice transplant performed by Telephone Pioneers Ernis Buehler and Charlie Nenninger of Bell Labs in Murray Hill, Ernie's wife did the cutting and sewing. They fitted him with an FM transmitter and receiver, a microphone, and a Speakerphone loudspeaker, all concealed in his innards,

Most children at the Bruce Street School are victims of a Rubella epidemic that left them with impaired hearing and speech, Though they have difficulty hearing normal conversa-. tion, they can snuggle up to Shoopy and take advantage of a measure of bone conduction - the transmission of sound vibrations through the bones in the head.

Snoopy now performs daily, bringing the teacher's words to the children, and vice versa. The teacher, equipped with a com-panion transmitter and receiver, observes the children's responses through a one-way window from an adjacent room.

"The children are delighted with it and love to touch it and listen to it," reports Mrs. Gladys Fish, school principal, "It is proving verv helpful to the teachers in making differential diagnosis, as children respond more readily to an animal than to an adult." Mrs. Claire Kantor, whose husband works at Western Electric Company's Kearny Works, put in the request for Snoopy when she read about a similar talking dog in the Kearny employee.

Her rug will be entered in the state competition at Atlantic City, Mrs. Henry Wright participated in the musical program was awarded a certificate of merit,

The man whose retirement plans are simply to "do nothing" is fooling himself and asking for trouble. A Kentuckian says: "I plan to keep busy. I will not sleep late, take root in a chair before the television, or just rock away on the front porch. I have seen too many examples of what this kind of retirement does to an individual. If a man works hard for 25 or 30 years, he makes certain demands on his body. His body adjusts to his living routine--and reacts unfavorably when there is Retirement should not be a "do nothing time" for anyone. In these years, as all others, some form of exercise is required. The individual with good health and a good attitude is certain to do something. If a man has worked at a physically-demanding job for many years, he need not dig ditches just for the exercise. But he should do something, Raise a garden. Ride a bicyle, For those with physical limitations, there is something, even if, just the simple exercise of taking a daily walk to town, to the grocery, or to the coffee shop.

Know Your Government

副曲 From N.J. Taxpayers Association IIII篇

WIDENED SERVICES SEEN IN COUNTY CHARTER ACT

County government could become a viable force serving New Jersey's mushrooming urban-suburban needs under terms of the pro-posed "Optional County Charter Act" which has been pending before the State Legislature since early last year.

The bill (Senate 513) would facilitate ahome rule approach to tailoring the structure of government to meet the modern day needs of counties and remove some of their legal, fiscal, structural and administrative inadequacies.

Modernization of counties through provision for citizen action on adoption of optional forms of government has long had the support of the New Jersey Taxpayers Association. In endorsing the principle of the County Optional Charter Act, the Association declared it "will give citizens the same home rule powers with respect to county government that they now have in municipal government-the power to effect a charter study and to vote on either an optional form of county government of special charter recommended following study or by direct petition action." The selection of four forms of government provided in the act offers a broad choice of legislative-executive relationships each with a key administrative position designed to provide more professionalism. In addition to improve administration, the proposed legislation should provide a greater degree of home rule than now exists, the Association said. It would also permit counties to more effectively meet the demands for new and increased services by New Jersey's rapidly growing urbanized population spreading beyond existing municipal boundary lines and services.

As described in the 1969 report of the State's County and Municipal Government Study Com-mission recommending the current legislation, the County Charter Act would permit counties to revitalize government at the local level, eliminate waste and duplication; undertake or cooperate in providing area-wide services.

cutting me up, I like my friends very much and want to hang around with them - without getting cut up all the time. They cut me up because I am a little fat. What should I do?" OUR REPLY: You may be overly sensitive bout the kidding you receive - and your friends may not be aware that you are taking their jokes so seriously. You might do away with the problem by talking things over with your parents and consulting with your family doctor about a weight reducing plan, If you are overweight, a proper diet can bring you to better looks and to better health. If you do nothing about your weight, and stay fat, then try to stay happy. Don't let comments from friends or anyone else prevent you from being a happy, outgoing person. If you're happy and friendly, you will always have friends.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS. COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SER-VICE FRANKFORT, KY.

Overlook stages press conference for school editors A special press conference of area high school news editors was one of the features of Overlook Hospital's final Student Health Career Day of the season, held on Tuesday. A panel of specialists presented career opportunities in physical, occupational, inhalation, speech and psychiatric therapy to more than 100 area high school students. After a film on rehabilitation entitled "The Way Back," Dr. Norman H. Schachtel, Over-look's chief of physiatry, spoke on "Multi-Discipline Teamwork,"

On-the-spot tours gave an action presentation of the therapy departments at work, with students from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, one of 11 area schools participating, getting a firsthand view of the educational and personality requirements for each field as well as salary and placement potentials.

Over 500 students have attended Overlook health career days in the '70-'71 season, exploring careers in nursing, medical technology, radiologic technology and social service and the therapies, according to Mrs. John V. Faraci, chairman of the Overlook Women's Auxiliary student health career committee.

The Overlook health career program is being set up for a similar series next year to acquaint sophomore and junior high school students with the wide variety of well-paying careers in the health field. Interested students may contact their school guidance de-partments in the fall for details.

State TV official interests students through intern plan

Otto G: Stoll III, assistant director of community services at Channel 52, came to the new state broadcasting station as an intern, liked what he saw and stayed.

Today, Stoll is helping to introduce other college students to the numberous facets of television through an intern program at Channel 52.

Students from Princeton, Mercer County Community College, Rider, Princeton Semin-ary and Trenton State are earning pay and credits for a variety of duties at Channel 52. Stoll uses part of the college force to conduct research into audience tastes and into subjects to educational programs under production.

Last semester, he worked with Professor Jerome Aumente at the Livingston College communications department where students conducted a survey in Plainfield to determine preferences in television programming. Stoll, 24, and a former graduate student at Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School, sees a two-fold benefit in the intern program that involves 25 students in various Channel-52departments.

The students have an opportunity to gain credits, money and experience while Channel 52 is fostering television careers among an elite group.

BUSY PLACE — The Dental Health Center at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center, shown here, totaled 10,492 patient visits during 1970. The 13-chair comprehensive center is the largest in the state. Formerly a one-chair facility, the center was expanded in 1957 with funds from a Ford Foundation Grant.

Beth Israel's dental plan trims patient time, costs according to Dr. Kenneth L. Shmarak, newlyappointed administrator of the comprehensive dental health center at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center, Beginning this week, the old-fashioned "clinic" concept, which might mean a patient would spend several hours waiting to be seen, has been eliminated by switching to a new appointment system.

"By reserving a definite time period for each patient," Dr. Shmarak said, "we hope to save the patient money lost by being away from his job for hours at a time, or from excess baby-sitting charges."

The Medical Center's dental health center is the largest in the state and is equipped to provide service in all dental specialties: operative dentistry, pedodontics, orthodontics, per-iodontics, oral surgery, prosthetics and endodontics. The 13-chair center is manned by sixty-four staff dentists, on a volunteer basis, and has six carefully-selected dental interns, placing it in a tie for first-place, nationally, as a teaching unit.

During 1970, there were 10,492 patient visits to the center and, according to Dr. Shmarak, that figure. One of the new administrator's prime goals is to stress preventive dentistry and, to that end, twelve dental assistants, students from the Essex County Vocational School and dental trainees have joined him in providing instruction to all patients in prop-er brushing of the teeth.

EACH YEAR, the dental health center provides a continuing program of Dental Education for the busy general Dental practitioner. The courses are under the direction of Hyman Baer, D.D.S., F.A.C.D., director of the dental service, and Dr. Bertram Kaswiner, chief attending, dental education. Some members of the staff will be presenting lectures at the next annual meeting of the American Dental Association.

The dental health center started with only one chair in 1925 and expanded rapidly. In 1928, the Michael Hollander Clinic was established in the out-patient department. Twenty years later, the pedodontic service was added as an independent department and the Dental library was established. The reconstruction of the center began in 1957 adding a dozen new dental chairs and units, high speed air drills and other modern equipment. The additions were made possible by funds from a Ford Foundation grant. The center is now open five days a week and a half-day on Saturdays,

- I'hursday, May 6, 1971-1 Jersey tallies a slight gain in number of jobs

Total nonagricultural wage and salary employment in New Jersey (excluding farm, domestic, self-employed and unpaid family workers) advanced by 4,000 to 2,554,900 in mid-March, according to preliminary estimates prepared by the Division of Planning and Research of the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry. [Employment in durable goods manufacturing receded by 6,800 to 412,100 because of labor-management disputes in the fabricated metals industry and layoffs in electrical machinery. The level of employment in electrical ma-chinery has been declining since the end of 1969, primarily because of losses of government contracts. The only industry that showed any sizable month-to-month growth was miscellaneous manufacturing, because of seasonal increases in the production of toys, games and novelties, The nondurable goods sector re-versed its January to February climb and decreased by 500 to 416,300 in mid-March, with most industries showing downturns. The food industry has the largest drop (down 700 to 62,000) because of layoffs, Although nonmanufacturing employment in March rose by 11,300 to 1,726,500, the economic pinch was still in evidence in trade and service where the monthly increases were less than in previous years. With the onset of warmer weather, contract construction increased by 5,200, marking the seasonal change in construction activity.

COMPARED WITH MARCH 1970, total non-farm employment dropped by 22,700. Manu-facturing experienced a downturn in employment as durable goods contracted by 38,400 and nondurable goods tapered off by 16,900. In durable goods, the industries that had the greatest cutbacks were electrical machinery, fabricated metals and nonelectrical machinery. However, nonmanufacturing rose by 32,600 or 1.9 percent, partially offsetting the drop in factory employment. The over-the-year gain in nonfactory jobholding for prior years usually amounted to four percent or more. Sizable gains occurred this year in wholesale and retail trade, service and government.

Average weekly earnings of factory production workers rose by $1.03 from February to March to $147.14. The upturn resulted from an increase of almost a half-hour in the length of the work week as hourly earnings slipped down by a penny to $3,58. Both the durable and nondurable goods groups had longer work weeks which resulted in higher weekly earnings. Soft goods industries showed the biggest gains in weekly earnings, primarily because of increases in hours worked in printing and publishing, textiles, apparel and rubber and plastics. The gains in apparel and textiles were attributable to a seasonal pickup in the production of clothing and fabrics. In hard goods, the largest increases in weekly earnings were in furniture and fixtures and nonelectrical machinery because of more over-

1870 teacher's woes License test a public spectacle

This is one of a series of articles written by the New Jersey Education Assn. to com-memorate the 100th anniversary of the state's free public schools.

"What causes the sensation experienced when we say the foot is asleep?" That factual tidbit was one of the things a candidate had to know to win a license in New Jersey 100 years ago -- not as a podiatrist, but as a teacher.

The 21 county school superintendents were responsible for examining applicants. Most of them named a county board of examiners, composed of experienced teachers within their jurisdiction, to do the testing, says the New Jersey Education Assn.

Four examinations were held each year -all public. Some drew such large crowds that teachers considered the examination a public spectacle. In 1872, Ocean County Superintendent E. M. Lonan reported: "I still de-cline to give private examinations to teachers as it would not be fair to those who attend public examinations."

Three different teaching certificates were given, the best good for three years. The middle license was for two years, the third for one.

The exams for the longer certificates were more difficult. Fearful of failing the two or three-year test, many teachers preferred to come back each year to take the easiest exam, NJEA reports.

Throughout New Jersey in 1870, county superintendents issued a total of 1,386 certificates. Three-year licenses went to 49 males and 18 females; two-year licenses to 57 males and 58 females; and one-year certificates to 463 males and 741 females. All had their names printed in the State's annual school report, Another 212 flunked,

Here are some of the questions put toprospective teachers:

In orthography (today called spelling) --How does a letter differ from an elementary sound? What are the rules for doubling the final consonant in primitive words?

In reading -- Name some of the usual causes of error in articulation. How is voice produced?

time work; and in stone, clay and glass where higher incentive rates and a longer work week caused the rise,

Over the year, average weekly earnings, average weekly hours and hourly earnings in manufacturing rose. This resulted from a longer work week in nondurable goods and upturns in hourly earnings in both hard goods and soft goods.

Revolutionary battles were fought in New Jersey, and with what results? In natural philosophy -- What are the laws of light? Explain the atomic theory. In physiology -- Should water-proof clothing be worn? What causes the sensation ex-perienced when we say the foot is asleep? "These examinations are productive of great good," wrote State Superintendent of Public Instruction Ellis A, Apgar in his annual report, "No one can attend from year to year without being benefitted,"

Apgar viewed the certification examination as a recitation, "an exercise which every teacher knows the value of." He added: "The questions are uniform through the state, and the same regulations and instructions govern all the examiners. This is not the case in any other state in the Union, I regard it as an important regulation for, by it, we secure a uniform standard of gradation among the teachers."

Turtle Back in a book Author, illustrator collaborate

John T. Cunningham, New Jersey author, and Bil Canfield, illustrator, will attend a ceremony today for the introduction of their new book, "Turtle Back Zoo." The reception will take place at the zoo at 2:30 p.m. The author and illustrator will autograph books for children at that time.

"Turtle Back Zoo" is a 50-page, paper-back book in color which first tells why zoos are important and then describes the many animals at the West Orange facility of the Essex County Park Commission. It provides little known facts concerning each species, their habits and natural, habitat, their appearance, and on occasion, how and why they were acquired by the

The book also contains a guide to the zoo, describes the many tasks and the wealth of information and professional knowledge needed to operate a zoo, which although closed during certain periods, is maintained 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. The new document tells about the special services of the zoo, facts about gestation periods of each animal and the number of young they produce. "Turtle Back Zoo" is believed to be one of only a few zoo books which is completely il-lustrated -- there are no photographs. Canfield's illustrations are in informal style, yet in minute likenesses of the animals.

Cunningham, the author of "This is New Jersey," 'New Jersey - America's Main Road," 'Newark," and "The New Jersey Sampler," also is the author of a comprehensive educational program being developed for New Jersey school children with the help of a grant from the New Jersey Historical Society. The book is to be sold only at the Zoo for 75 cents.

Free concert series to begin on May 31 at Branch Brook

Mid-Summer Nights in the Park, a series of free concerts sponsored by the Essex County Park Commission, will start on May 31 through the support of business organizations in the Greater Newark area.

There will be six concerts in the series, through August, all to be held in Branch Brook Park, Newark, and to start at 6 p.m.

Last summer thousands of persons from the Newark area enjoyed a series of concerts sponsored by the commission in connection with its 75th anniversary. That series, called Summer Music Festival, was held in various parks.

Branch Brook was chosen this year because it is accessible to Newarkers and those from the suburbs via both public and private transportation, has an electric system and adequate parking space. Also, adjacent Branch Brook Rink can be used in case of inclement weather. The series this year will include such artists as Sarah Vaughan, Ahmad Jamal, the Voices of East Harlem, Buddy Rich, Dizzy Gillespie, Cannon Ball Adderly and Billy Taylor with the

Bicentennial Committee begins planning for `76

The nation's bicentennial celebration may be a distant five years away, but a group of leading New Jersey music experts has already begun preparations.

The group has formed an official state com-mittee to compile suggestions for ways in which arts organizations in New Jersey can celebrate the bicentennial of the nation's founding.

Designated the Bicentennial Committee on the Arts, the group welcomes anyone with background, knowledge, or ideas that will be helpful in planning Bicentennial activities, At the first meeting of the committee, Mrs. Sarah Smith of Highland Park, chairman of the Music Division of the Arts Committee, noted that at this time there was a particular need in the Music Division for historians and musicologists,

Other divisions of the Bicentennial Committee on the Arts will shortly be formed, to include theater, dance and the visual arts, Among the suggestions for musical activities were: performances of works written by European and American composers living during the Revolutionary period, presentations of concerts of the type appropriate to that time, preparation of a program of Revolu-tionary music for area schools, commission of contemporary works that relate to early American themes, recording of old and new works, and preparation of an anthology of Revolutionary choral works for use by choruses throughout the state.

Each community in the state will be re-quested to determine what is within its own reach to offer as part of the celebration. The committee voted to submit a request to the State Historical Commission for $50,000 to help prepare the programs. To avoid duplica-tion, the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, co-sponsor with the New Jersey His-torical Commission of the Bicentennial Committee on the Arts, offered to coordinate recommendations from arts organizations. Suggestions should be sent to the Arts Council at: The Douglass House, John Fitch Way, Trenton, 08608.

In addition to Mrs. Smith, participants at the first meeting of the Music Division of the Bicentennial committee on the Arts were: Arnold Manchester, assistant manager of the Arnold Manchester, assistant manager of the New Jersey Symphony; Gordon Andrews, manager of the Princeton Chamber Orchestra; John Matsen, manager of the Suburban Sym-phony; Eugene Minor, conductor of the Bergen Philharmonic; Dr. Gordon Myers of the Tren-ton State College music faculty, and Byron R. Kelley, executive director of the New Jersey State Council on the Arts. "We are all pleased with the numerous suggestions that were made at our first meeting," Mrs. Smith said, "but we want to emphasize the council's interest in hearing from people in all parts of the state. This is going to be a statewide event, and the more people that participate, the more successful the bicentennial is going to be."

Camp will serve diabetic children

Camp Nejeda, New Jersey's only resident camp for children with diabetes, opens its 14th season on June 27. Dr. Alfred E. Gras is chairman of the Camp Nejeda committee, The 1971 season will offer four two-week sessions: June 27-July 10; July 11-July 24; July 25-Aug. 7 and Aug. 8-Aug. 21. The camp is co-educational. Children 5 to 15 may apply for entry. Camp Nejeda is located at Stillwater. Its physical facilities include cabins for 70 campers, a 13-acre spring-fed lake, infirmary, craft shop, dining hall, play fields and wooded areas,

Mental health conference set for June 9-10

The New Jersey Association for Mental Health will hold its 20th annual mental health conference June 9-10 at the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark, With "Child of the '70s" as its theme, the program will focus on the various phases of child development in our complex society and the role parents can play in fostering sound mental health in their chil-

Speakers include Rep. Shirley Chisholm, specialist in early childhood education and child welfare; Dr. George E. Gardner, medi-cal director of Boston's Judge Baker Guidance Center and author of 'The Emerging Per-sonality: Infancy through Adolescence;'' Dr. Ross V. Speck, research associate, Phia-delphia Psychiatric Center, and a ploneer in the development of theory and techniques of. network therapy, and Dr. James N. Sussex, chairman of the Department of Psychiatry, University of Miami School of Medicine, and president-elect of the American Association of Psychiatric Clinics for Children.

In addition, there will be workshops on "the complex job of parenthood," "the failure to thrive," "prevalent treatment approaches and emerging trends in treatment." 'schools and the mental health of children and youth' and "growth through play."

Two films will be shown: "Cry Help" (NBC-TV 1970), which calls attention to the problem of mental illness among youth, focusing on the need for development of services at the com-munity level, and "High School," produced and directed by Frederick Wiseman, a provoca-tive film which raises questions about the tive film which raises questions about the current quality of American education,

Thursday, May 6, 1971-. Pharmacists to conduct campaign against VD

A major state-wide effort to control and prevent venereal disease in New Jersey was launched last week at a press conference sponsored by the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association at the Holiday Inn, Trenton,

The month of May, it was disclosed, has been desig-nated as a "VD Awareness Month," and the state's more prevention. than 1,700 pharmacies will be actively engaged in education-al efforts to give the public information about sources of diagnosis and treatment for VD, and facts as well on prevention. State Senator James Wallwork, chairman of the Senate Committee on Air, Water Pollution and Public Health, disclosed that New Jersey will have $413,000 in the coming year for VD control, an in-crease of 40 percent.

only half as logical, a quarter as well written, and a tenth as stirring, it would still be a grip-ping and memory-etching, conscience-searing document.

Its author is Rev. Daniel Berrigan, who with his priest brother Philip and seven others, walked into a draft board in the daylight, confiscated all the 1A draft records and took them into a nearby parking lot to burn them with homemade napalm. They were arrested for destroying government property, tried and found guilty. The Berrigans are now spending three years in the federal penitentiary at Danbury, Conn.

What the Berrigans were trying to say and it is made superbly clear during the proceedings, is that young men are not government property. Especially those young men who are not physically, morally or mentally unqualified.

THE PLAY RUNS about an hour and a half without intermission but it is in two parts; the trial itself, where the testimony of the accused reveals why they took their action. The second part is a less formal dialogue with the judge, whom Father Berrigan is innately fair to by showing that he is trapped by the laws and statutes of the land.

Even the judge gives the accused a good piece of advice by suggesting that they should have burned one draft record as a symbol. But in fact did they do very much more than that? They went to one draft board out of perhaps 50,000 in the land, and though it may have been inadvertent symbolism, they chose a town in a state where the Aberdeen Proving Grounds are located, another place where government property is stockpiled.

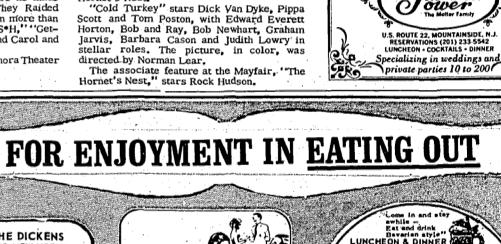

OVER THE FACTS and opinions and docu-mentation of this case hovers a powerful superstructure. The killing, maiming, delimbing, blinding, emotional destroying of our young men is the guts of the matter. But its heart is important, too. For what is happening from our war in Vietnam is that we at home are at war not by hoeing victory gardens, or gathering scrap metal, as we did in the '40s.

No, we are exercising our emotions by de-fining patriotism and choosing up sides. Some of us wear metal flags, some of us don't. Who is the greater patriot? And time is not running in our favor. Is it getting too late to rationally consider that active protesters who are willing to incur the wrath of the 'Silent

Bill Anderson, the country music singercomposer, recording and TV star, will be honored by the Atlanta Braves baseball club with a "Bill Anderson Day" at the Atlanta Stadium on Friday, May 14, Atlanta Mayor, Samuel Massell and other dignitaries will participate in day-long ceremonies paying tribute to Anderson, a former Atlantian now living in Nashville, Tenn.

The entertainer, who grew up in the Atlanta suburb of Decatur and was a star pitcher for Avondale High School there, will throw out the first ball that evening at the game between the Braves and the Philadelphia Phillies, following a performene by the Bill Anderson

Show, featuring Jan Howard and the Po' Boys. A former sportswriter for the Atlanta Constitution and a one-time disc jockey, Anderson is currently scoring with his DECCA RECORDS "Always Remember" and "Where Have All Our Heroes Gone."

According to the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, over 85,000 injuries per year occur while people are lifting or moving objects around the home. Here are some ways to do more lifting with less danger. FIRST: Test the object's weight, Are you strong enough to move it? Be realistic, It will save your back, Also, check for nails, splinters, jagged edges, or pinch-points. Be certain the path is clear to your destination. Make sure hands and objects are clean and dry. LIFTING: Bend knees and crouch before the load with feet 10 - 12 inches apart and keep your back as straight as possible. Get a good grip on the object. Raise the weight slowly; push up, letting your legs lift the load. To change direction, move your feet without twisting your body. CARRYING THE LOAD: Hold the load close to your body, with elbows resting against your sides and the weight balanced evenly. If the load blocks your view or is unbalanced, put it down and get help. PUTTING IT DOWN: Getting rid of a heavy.

load can be as challenging as lifting and carrying it. To set the load down, reverse fring procedure. Watch fingers and toes. MOVING FURNITURE: One of the most liftin mmon ways to injure your back is to move heavy or bulky furniture. Number one rule get help. Don't attempt to move a large piece of furniture alone! It is awkward, often bulky, and should be handled by professional movers, RAKING, DIGGING, GARDENING: These three activities can cause you as much muscle strain as lifting. Space jobs over a period of time and take rest breaks. Be sure your digging tools are sharp and in good repair. Raking is hard on your back if not done correctly. Stand straight, Have your tools the right length and weight. Wheelbarrows push easier and won't tip so readily if not overloaded.

mursday, May 6, 1971 Williams urges action to block agency merger

WASHINGTON -- U.S. Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr., (D-NJ), who helped create the VISTA program, this week urged Congres-sional action to block the President's prosional action to block the President's pro-posed merging of a number of volunteer agencies -- a merger that has been the sub-ject of reports that it would mark the end of MSTA. The President's plan, called "Reorganiza-tion Plan No. 1 of 1971," automatically will be implemented unless Congress objects.

Senator Williams has introduced a resolution to block the plan and the Senate must act on that resolution before June 4, Hearact on that resolution before june 4, Hear-ings on the resolution are expected to be held in early May before the Subcommittee on Executive Reorganization. Initially, the reorganization would merge the Foster Grandparents and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), both of which now are administered by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare; the Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) and the Auxiliary and Special Volunteer Programs, both now administered by the Office of Economic Opportunity and the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) and the Active Corps of Executives (ACE), both of which are administered by the Small Business Administration., To these, the President has said that he plans to add the Peace Corps (Department of State), the Teacher Corps (HEW) and the Office of Voluntary Action (HUD).

SENATOR WILLIAMS NOTED that the pro-posed regrouping "does not pass several of the rather elemental tests of a recom-mended reorganization under the President's power of executive reorganization,'

Channel 52 tries to tune in on youthful taste and desires

Students from high schools throughout Mercer County sat under the lights in an un-occupied studio at Channel 52, New Jersey's new public broadcasting station.

The bid studio lights were dim. The young people were not on camera.

"For example, the changes should: "Reduce expenditures and promote economy to the fullest extent consistent with the efficient operation of the Government,

"Group, coordinate and consolidate agencies and functions of the Government, as nearly as may be, according to major purposes, and Reduce the number of agencies by consolidating those having similar functions under a single head, "The fact of the matter, however, is that Reorganization Plan No. 1 would actually: 'Call for an additional $20 million above budget requests already submitted by the President for the component agencies, "Group functions of the government not by major purposes but by some rather vague concept of shared motivation, and "Would consolidate agencies having quite dissimilar functions under a single head. 'It is also very unlikely that the other purposes of Executive Reorganization, which re-late to efficiency, will be accomplished when one considers that the new agency must handle the recruitment, training and placement of individuals as different and specialized as the young VISTA volunteer and the retired SCORE executive,

He concluded: 'I find it difficult to justify the grouping together of organizations simply because they contain the common element of voluntarism. The most important considera-tion for the 'true volunteer' is not the fact that he is volunteering but the fact that he is genuinely assisting in the solution of a prob-

Their presence in the studio, however, will have a constructive impact on the Channel 52 audience in the near future.

The young people in the turned-off studio were turning on Channel 52 officials to the tastes and needs of youthful TV viewers, and Channel 52 was zealously tuning in these young members of WNJT-TV's first youth advisory board,

It is the firm intention of the New Jersey Public Broacasting Authority to continuously consult youth and work with them to create programs that will appeal to the young audience,

"Many times in the past, television has failed young people, especially commercial TV," said Otto G, Stoll, III, the young as-sistant director of community services at Channel 52 Channel 52,

Stoll coordinates the activities of the Youth Advisory Board, a pilot group of 35 high school students of both sexes representing every district in Mercer County except Princeton. There are board members, however, from the Princeton area.

Future plans include advisory boards on every level in every area of Channel 52 land. The pilot group was selected from interviews with more than 500 students by Stoll, He sought out young people who had a genuine interest in improving television youth programs.

There was no big rush by Channel 52 to have the young board members develop programs. They were first introduced to the complexities of television, and explained the po-

Seton Hall to give degrees to 1,902 at two ceremonies

Seton Hall University will award a record 1,902 degrees this year in two separate commencement ceremonies. Undergraduate and advanced degrees will be presented on the science quadrangle in South Orange at 3 p.m. on Sunday, May 16, preceeded by a Bacca-laureate Mass at 11 a.m. Ceremonies for 168 candidates for the juris doctor degree from the School of Law in Newark will receive their diplomas on Thursday, May 27, at 3 p.m. in South Orange.

Undergraduates from South Orange and the Paterson campus numbering 1,202 will be awarded degrees from the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Education, the College of Nursing and the School of Business Administration. Advanced degrees will be awarded to 532 graduate students.

Senator Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) will deliver the commencement address on May 16 and will be awarded an honorary doctor of public service degree by Seton Hall, Dr. Paul A. Samuelson, professor of economics at M.I.T., will receive the honorary doctor of humane letters degree, Professor Samuelson received the Nobel Memorial Prize last October for his contributions to economic theory. His textbooks in the area of economics are considered basic to the study of that subject.

Also scheduled to receive the honorary doctor of humane letters degree is Dr. Deborah Cannon Patridge Wolfe of Cranford, a professor of education at Queens College, Dr. Wolfe is a member of the N.J. Board of Higher Education and is one of the few ordained women Baptist ministers in the country. She made a significant contribution to the early civil rights legislation,

John P. Gallagher announced this week that plans, have been set for the 1971 Talent Expo, fourth annual competition for teen-age amateur performers, with the New Jersey Jaycees again joining the Garden State Arts enter as co-sponsors.

Jaycees to join Arts Center

in sponsoring Talent Expo

He said the Jaycees, as in the past two years, will arrange county and regional tryouts throughout the state in July and August to determine semi-finalists for a September show at the Arts Center, which the Authority operates at its roadside Telegraph Hill Park on the Garden State Parkway.

New Jersey Highway Authority Chairman

Top-picked talent in the semi-finals will go on to the finals held at the Arts Center usually a week later.

The competition, open to New Jersey resi-dents between the ages of 13 and 18, will offer opportunities for classical and popular singers, instrumentalists, and dancers to perform on the stage of the amphitheater.

Chairman Gallagher said application forms for the young performers to compete are being sent to music teachers of all New Jersey high and junior high schools among others, including dance studios and youth groups. Top winners in the eight categories of receive $200 U.S. Savings Bonds and trophy, while the final runners-up will be given a $100 Savings Bond and trophy.

Heading the program for the New Jersey Jaycees are its state president, Richard J. Miele of Camden, and its 1971 Talent Expo chairman, William Coles of Westfield, Information can also be obtained by writing to. 1971 Talent Expo, Garden State Arts Center, Box 200, Holmdel, N.J. 07733 or telephoning Miss Virginia Carey, staff representative, at 442-8600 The eight performing categories are: Classi-

IRS: Hold back refund queries

Although most 1970 federal income tax refunds are mailed within six weeks after the tax return is filed, New Jersey IRS District Director Roland H. Nash Jr. said this week that it will not be possible to trace returns or to inswer questions about refunds until after May 31.

"The Mid-Atlantic Service Center is in the midst of processing 15 million returns. This makes it practically impossible to locate a par-ticular return until the processing is complete," Nash said.

A taxpayer who filed a return calling for a refund before March 15 and who has not received the refund or an explanation for its delay, may ask his local IRS office for information after May 31. Taxpayers who filed after March 15 should delay their inquiries until after June 30.

If it does become necessary to ask for refund information, a taxpayer should explain when and where he filed his return and give his address and Social Security number. It will help if he brings his file copy of his tax return with hím.

Interest at the rate of 6 percent a year is paid from April 15 on refunds which have not been mailed by May 31.
