Parties are united on teen vote effect, not on its direction

By JAMICE ADLER

Representatives of the Republican and Democratic parties in Mountainside said this week they feel the newly enfranchised 18 to 20-year-old voters can influence the outcome of November's general election, especially on the local level. Because of this both parties are urging young citizens to register either at the local level or at the Board of Elections in Gladfield.

Thomas P. Loftis, Independent-Democratic candidate for mayor, and Gerard S. Dillehoff, chairman of the Mountainside Republican Municipal Committee, both issued statements on the lowered voting age this week.

Dillehoff discussed the meaning of the ratification of the 26th Amendment to the Constitution, which lowered the voting age to 18, at a meeting with Mountainside Teenage Republican Club.

"The 18, 19 and 20-year-old citizens, as a group, could represent some of the future of the registered voters, and as such, they could have a significant effect on the outcome of any future local election. It is the goal of the Mountainside Republican Party to actively pursue the registration of this voter group."

"The youth of today in general, and those of Mountainside in particular, are quite sophisticated. The GOP here is confident of their support for future state voters. They have been fortunate in having fine Republican government and, accordingly, they will exercise their new enfranchisement to insure that this continues.

"Youths here will not vote in a vacuum and cast their ballots for unknown people with unfamiliar faces because they have the opportunity to elect candidates with whom many have had close relationships. Mayor Thomas Dillehoff and Bruce Geiger and William Cullen, candidates for the Borough Council, are men who have been continually youth-oriented in their activities in Mountainside."

Loftis, speaking for the Democrats, said: "The slightest new voters in Mountainside will decide this year's election. According to a recent survey in a leading magazine, 90 percent of the 18 to 20-year-olds listed in vote and in percent said the present Republican national administration should go."

"The number one issue as they see it is the environment, which to the many here will be Mountainside. The environment is the state on our valuable highway property, vandalism, drug-related crimes and airport noise are today's problems in the borough."

"I think our youth will recognize the pathetic, inefficient use of our tax dollars and abdication of our power base through negligence. The borough Democrats have only lost last year's election by 15 votes. The myth that Democrats cannot win in Mountainside is fast losing ground and the new voters could very well bury it. But they must be registered."

"Anyone who will be 18 by Nov. 3 can register now. Registration shows a voter's intent to vote and to dispense some of the new voters for the purpose of registering. It is also an additional place of registration, such as the municipal pool and supercenters."

"I think our youth will recognize the pathetic, inefficient use of our tax dollars and abdication of our power base through negligence. The borough Democrats have only lost last year's election by 15 votes. The myth that Democrats cannot win in Mountainside is fast losing ground and the new voters could very well bury it. But they must be registered."

Voter registration

Additional hours have been announced for a further registration at Mountainside although that, made the regular 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. time, unregistered voters, and particularly in the 18-year-old, can register from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on the following days: Aug. 19 and 21, Sept. 2, 8, 14, 21, 28 and 30.

Van Dyke J. Pollitt — PROFILE — Jerry F. English

In the past seven years, Van Dyke J. Pollitt has managed nine political campaigns—all of them successful.

This year he's campaign manager for 36 candidates. And it's understandable if he's particularly anxious for success, since one of the candidates is Van Dyke J. Pollitt.

The Fairwood resident is the Republican candidate for the unexpired State Senate seat of Nicholas La Corte. He is also the GOP campaign manager for the entire Union County ticket—a ticket made up of four candidates for State Senate, seven for Assembly, three for the Board of Freeholders, one for county clerk and one for sheriff.

(This is another in a series of Profiles on candidates in November's general election.)

Jerry Fitzgerald English is willing to put in six months work campaigning for a political office which has a term of little more than six weeks—as a matter of principle.

Mrs. English, a Summit resident, is the Democratic candidate for the State Senate seat left vacant last December when Nicholas LaCorte resigned to become tax court judge. LaCorte's successor will serve only until January but will probably have an opportunity to go to Trenton, since a special session of the State Legislature is expected to be called in November.

Before this year's primaries, he received six separate requests to manage campaigns for prospective candidates. They are at 12:30 one night, a Republican screening committee chose him as candidate for the State Senate, and at 10 the next morning he was asked to be Republican county campaign manager.

"It's a unique situation," Pollitt said. "I estimated that 10 percent of his campaigning time will go to the county ticket and 20 percent, at best, to himself."

AT ONE POINT this summer, he attended meetings for 10 days in a row to prepare brochures and other campaign materials for his running mate. And for himself, he hasn't even had bumper stickers made up.

But he is not stopping of his own accord, even though 119 for an abbreviated term which ends in January.

VAN DYKE J. POLLITT

But even without the prospects for a special session, Mrs. English would like the campaign seriously.

Pointing out that Democrats had unsuccessfully called for a special election after LaCorte's resignation, she said: "Union County was left without the representation that it's entitled to. The issue isn't man, one who is trying to have a special election scheduled. The Union County Democratic leadership brought suit against Governor Cahill, with Mrs. English as plaintiff. The State Supreme Court several weeks ago refused to hear the matter but, "we are petitioning the U.S. Supreme Court," Mrs. English said.

His name appears in the number four spot on the ballot, behind the three candidates for the full-term State Senate seats and before all the other candidates.

"As a result," he said, "if my candidacy is not viable—like the people who follow me on the ballot—will be hurt." The success of the Republican campaign as a whole in Union County is therefore connected with his own success.

HE DESCRIBED HIS VIEW of the difference between the two major parties: "The Democratic party tends to concentrate on what government can do; the Republican party tends to concentrate on what government can't do. I believe we should have the lowest level of government that can perform effectively."

"Political parties are not candidates in about any political campaign, he is not a lawyer, he added. "There's a lot of room in government for the candidate."

JERRY F. ENGLISH

He has worked as a national sales manager for Wallace A. Hartman Division, Pennwalt Corp., in Philadelphia.

He is president of Ashbury Park public schools, he has worked in the administration in the State of New Jersey. He has worked and now works with the State Airborne Division.

He and his wife Marlene have two children, Thomas, 14, and Marlene, 11.

He is president of the Fairwood Borough Council. He was elected to the council in 1964 and re-elected in 1968. He headed the Council's various committees for five years and the Council has only elected officers for one year.

THERE IS A SECOND issue which she considers important in the current campaign: highway construction.

When the highways are built with federal funds, she said, hearings must be held in the communities affected and roads can be put through partly if absolutely necessary.

"But there's no such provision for the public with state roads," Mrs. English said. "Even in a short term in the Senate, I can take some action to correct this."

Highway programs sought for interest later when they are placed into politics for the first time as a candidate for the Common Council in Summit. Though she lost, she received a number of votes, "more than any Democrat ever got in Summit before," she reported.

The campaign committee had filed proposals for building a highway through the Watchung Reservation, which has been fighting plans for building a highway through the Watchung Reservation.

"We are now fairly confident that that particular road is dead, or at least dying," said Mrs. English, who is still president of the Friends of Watchung.

The interest in the highway project led her to organize the Friends of Watchung last December. However, only one of her committee members is running for office.

She is counsel to the Summit Head Start program; counsel to PARS, Inc. (Parents and Citizens Association); member of the League of Women Voters; and a member of the League of Women Voters, and a member of the League of Women Voters, and a member of the League of Women Voters.

The State Senate candidate and her husband, the late English, a resident of Mountainside, owned a home in Summit. They were married in 1964. They had two children, a son and a daughter. 10 break-ins reported here in past week

Mountainside police reported more successful break and entries and one attempted break and entry this past week. This brought the total to 12 successful break and entries since Aug. 1.

An unreported house on Biscayne-terrace was broken into Wednesday and an air conditioner taken, police reported. Entry was made by knocking a pane of glass out of the front door.

Two houses on Chapel Hill were broken into Sunday, according to police. The first was reported at 6:10 p.m. Entry was made by jimmying the rear door frame open and slipping the lock on the inside rear door. However, nothing appeared to be missing.

The other break and entry was reported at 10:18 p.m. Entry was made by forcing the molding of the door frame with a screwdriver and then inserting a tool to force the door latch open, police said. Nothing appeared to be missing.

Four break and entries were reported Saturday. Three were at houses on Biscayne lane and the other was at a house on Saddlebrook road.

An undetermined amount of jewelry and cash were taken from the house on Saddlebrook road, police said. Entry was made by jimmying the garage door.

While investigating the break and entry on Saddlebrook road, Det. Sgt. Walter Beyersman was called to investigate one of the houses on Biscayne lane. A ring and a plastic container in the refrigerator were missing. Entry was made by forcing the molding of the rear door with a screwdriver and then inserting the garage door.

The Mountainside Community Pool's swim team last met with the Nonamagat Swim Club Saturday at 11 p.m. The final score was Mountainside, 144, and Nonamagat, 124.

Robin Sury breaks two pool records in the 50-meter backstroke for boys 8 and 14 and she also breaks two pool records for girls 11 and 14. She swam the 50-meter backstroke for girls 11 and 14 with a time of 33.1, breaking the old record by 3.7 seconds.

The team will participate in the State Tennis Invitational meet tomorrow at 9 a.m. in Staten Island. The team will consist of Mountainside and will be held Saturday at 9:30 a.m.

Events and winners against Nonamagat were: 50-meter backstroke, boys 8 and 14, Robin Sury, 33.1 and 32.9; 50-meter backstroke, girls 11 and 14, Robin Sury, 33.1 and 32.9; 50-meter backstroke, boys 8 and 14, Robin Sury, 33.1 and 32.9; 50-meter backstroke, girls 11 and 14, Robin Sury, 33.1 and 32.9.

Bus routes are announced for the coming school year

Dr. Levin — Hamilton, superintendent of schools in Mountainside, said that the Public Transportation Coordinator, this week announced the bus schedule for the coming school year.

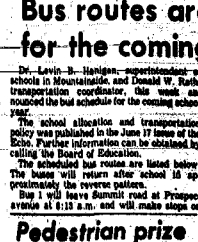

The school allocation and transportation policy was published in the June 17 issue of the Borough Bulletin. Information can be obtained by calling the Board of Education.

The scheduled bus routes are listed below. The buses will return after school is up approximately the reverse pattern.

1. Mountainside to the Board of Education, 100 Mountain Road, at 8:15 a.m. and 3:15 p.m. (Buses will stop at the Board of Education, 100 Mountain Road, at 8:15 a.m. and 3:15 p.m.)

Robin Sury breaks two pool records in the 50-meter backstroke for boys 8 and 14 and she also breaks two pool records for girls 11 and 14. She swam the 50-meter backstroke for girls 11 and 14 with a time of 33.1, breaking the old record by 3.7 seconds.

Pedestrian prize for Mountainside

Mountainside has been designated a special award community by the American Automobile Association's 20th annual pedestrian safety survey.

Officials of the New Jersey Auto Club, the AAU's affiliate operating in Essex, Morris and Bergen counties, will present the citation at a luncheon to be held today at the Pleasant Park Hotel.

A total of 10 communities in the tri-county area were chosen to receive awards by the AAU's national board of directors. The honorees' contributions were cited on the basis of the AAU's pedestrian safety survey and the overall effectiveness of pedestrian safety programs.

Jury convicts two of attempt to rape woman last March

Thomas Foster, 26, formerly of Springfield, and Robert E. Riccio, 27, of Mountaineer were convicted July 31 by a jury of 12 to attempt to rape in Springfield last year. Union County Judge William Dibiase will pronounce their sentences on Sept. 1.

The men were charged with assaulting a then 17-year-old woman on March 7, 1970, in an apartment occupied by Peter and Raymond S. Kaszay, a defendant who was waived from the trial because his attorney became ill.

The woman testified she went to a party at the apartment, drank something, passed out and regained consciousness in a bedroom where she contended the defendants tried to rape her. The defendants claimed they were only an argument which resulted from drinking.

Assistant Prosecutor Neil S. Cooper, who represented the state, moved to have Foster's bail removed on the grounds he is a danger to society. Riccio was held in lieu of $2,000 bail.

Pastor Stumpf resigns his post at Holy Cross

The Rev. Kenneth J. Stumpf has resigned his call as pastor of Holy Cross Lutheran Church, Springfield, but he is not leaving the ministry.

Stumpf, who will be entering Tulane University Law School, during the five-and-a-half year pastorate Stumpf has been in Springfield, the Baptized membership of Holy Cross has increased by more than 50 percent, the congregation membership has grown from 165 to 775 and the Vacation Bible School has grown to two sessions with more than 200 boys. The Holy Cross Christian Nursery School has also grown to two sessions with full enrollment. Holy Cross celebrated its 70th anniversary in May.

Stumpf is a member of the Springfield Human Rights Committee and has served on panels in the community concerning topics such as Christian unity, sex education in the schools and narcotics. He serves the Atlantic District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod as a member of the committee on campus ministry and a member of the board of control advisory committee for Concordia College, Brorville, N.Y.

A graduate of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Pastor Stumpf holds a master's degree in divinity from the University of St. Louis and a law degree from Tulane University and at the time received a master's degree in the field of systematic theology from the University of St. Louis. He served as a campus pastor at Memorial Lutheran Church, Ames, Iowa, before coming to Springfield.

U.S. Congresswoman FLORENCE P. DWYER Reports

ON SCHEDULING CONGRESS
Three weeks ago, I wrote that the period immediately prior to Congress' summer recess - which began Aug. 8 - would be "frantic," but that action on most major legislation would await the "cooler" months of fall and winter.

As it turned out, I was wrong right about the former prediction. But now there's grave doubt about the latter assumption.

Day after day, since mid-July, we have met in the House well into the evening to complete work on a host of legislation: appropriations for the Department of Transportation, the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare, and for public works; the Emergency Loan Guarantee (Lockheed) Act, the bill establishing a Joint Committee on the Environment (which I cosponsored, by the way), the resolution designed to tie CBS for content of Congress, legislation expanding the Veterans Administration's drug treatment programs, and many others.

But there has only been the surface portion of the Congressional ledger, so to speak. On most mornings and often well into the afternoon, one or more of my committees and subcommittees have been busy on such wide-ranging issues as comprehensive new health and child development legislation, the Lockheed bill, consumer protection, reorganization of the government, and legislation followed by the government in classifying and declassifying documents and other information. In an investigation which proceeded directly from the "Penagan Papers" controversy, hearings on the dangers associated with the practice of using highly toxic drugs in treating conditions for which the drugs have not been approved by the Food and Drug Administration, and the preparation of further hearings on problems involving the administration of the Medicare and Medicaid programs.

THE DETAILS OF LEGISLATION
With each of these subjects having enormous potential impact on millions of people, and with each day crowded with committee meetings and House sessions, you can appreciate that my activities have become more like "night school," for it's the only available time for preparing for the next day's work. I inevitably, too, have been reduced opportunity during this period to attend to the demands of office routine. Fortunately, my staff has been pitched in hard to help me make certain that the needs of constituents get the attention they deserve.

Since this recitation of the legislative and investigative work we've been doing doesn't give you a full picture of the scope of our activity, let me illustrate by using the Consumer Protection Act as an example.

Two weeks ago, the Consumer Protection Operations subcommittee conducted the third round of extensive hearings on our legislation. I was the chief witness on the subcommittee and I, as principal sponsors of the bill, sat down in my office - together with my staff - to obviously, most of you each of four consecutive days for the purpose of assuring that our bill would meet every conceivable confronting situation from pro-consumer and anti-consumer angles.

3 motorists given suspended term on vehicular charges

Three drivers received suspended jail sentences in the Union County Jail from Judge Max Sherman Monday in Springfield Municipal Court. Each driver also was placed on probation and paid a fine.

Darry B. Johnson of Newark was convicted of reckless driving on Springfield avenue. She received a three-day suspended jail sentence and was placed on probation for six months.

Mrs. Johnson was being chased up Springfield avenue by Irvington police during the evening of June 7. When she came to the Railway River bridge in Springfield her car jumped the center divide and went about a half mile on the wrong side of the roadway - at about 100 miles per hour. Her car then crashed head-on into a car driven by William McLean of East Orange. McLean was critically injured and three other persons were hurt.

James J. Maguire Jr. of Summit also was convicted of reckless driving. He was passing cars on the right at speeds up to 80 mph on Spruence road and failed to stop for a police car. Maguire received a 10-day suspended jail sentence, was fined $90 and was placed on probation for six months.

Clifford Fox of Summit was fined $15 for not having had his vehicle inspected. He received a 30-day suspended jail sentence for going 80 mph in a 50-mile zone on Springfield avenue. Fox was fined $40 and was placed on probation for six months.

Driver hurt when car skids, runs into hydrant

John J. Bain, 68, of Summit was injured last Tuesday morning when his car skidded on wet pavement in front of 807 Mountain ave. and hit a fire hydrant, according to Mountaineer police.

The Mountaineer Rescue Squad took Bain to Overlook Hospital, Summit, where he was admitted for head injuries and in a satisfactory condition, a hospital spokesman said.

The service will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Methodist Church, 1000 N. 22nd St. Zentner is superintendent of a home for the aged which he organized and built in Hamburg when the church did not feel able to assume the responsibility.

2 passengers hurt in Rt. 22 collision

Two passengers in a car driven by Andrew L. Holley of Newark were injured Monday morning when a car driven by David B. Lynch of Newark struck the Holy vehicle on Rt. 22 East near the Mountain avenue exit, according to Mountaineer police. Lynch was given a summons for careless driving.

Margaret Barrett and Hazel Holley, both of Newark, were treated by the Mountaineer Rescue Squad which then took them to Overlook Hospital, Summit. Mrs. Barrett was released and discharged. Mrs. Holley admitted for bruises on her right hip and is in satisfactory condition, a hospital spokesman said.

Assemblyman Kiehn notes progress in higher education

Assemblyman Robert H. Kiehn, who represents District 30, is noting the growing need for higher education. Kiehn said Union County is fortunate that educational institutions which offer residential opportunities for further study are located in the county.

The Railway neighborhood, who currently represents District 30, is running for reelection in District 30, which will include Union, Springfield, Linden and Mountaineer and the legislative bodies in new term in January.

Kiehn pointed out that during his years in the legislature, he has consistently supported proposals for improvement of the state's educational system. He said that he often has called attention to the need for higher education in Union County. A highly educated area.

Union County, with its main campus in Springfield and other facilities in Plainfield and Elizabeth, has served the county well, Assemblyman Kiehn stated. He explained that the college, with both day and night classes, has provided both academic and vocational training on a "high level." Union College is typical of the community colleges which serve a vital need in today's society, the assemblyman added.

Location of a state institution, Newark State College of Art, in the county is of tremendous benefit to the residents because it offers education at low cost without easy commuting distance, Assemblyman Kiehn noted.

The other schools, such as the County Technical Institute, Union County Vocational and Technical High School and adult schools, also have helped fill the need for skilled workers, the legislator said.

Noting today's trend toward more and improved vocational and technical education, Assemblyman Kiehn said Linden is constructing a new high school designed to offer

Protection from pretzel pollution

Baking cookies and pretzels, frying nuts and making peanut butter are thought of as innocuous activities not likely to involve anyone in legal action for violation of State laws or codes.

But when done on a mass scale, these activities can create odors: not the pleasant aroma we remember in our grandmother's kitchen, but odors "in such quantities and duration as, unreasonably interfere with the enjoyment of life or property in which the violator has the state's legal definition of air pollution and bring the perpetrator into the New Jersey Air Pollution Control Code."

Richard J. Sullivan, state commissioner of Environmental Protection, this week announced an action involving the Hygrade Bakery Division of Food Pair, Inc., Pennsville. The firm was charged with violation of the air pollution control code's Chapter 6, a blanket prohibition of air pollution and the chapter customarily invoked in odor cases, and Chapter 9, which requires a permit to build or alter and a certificate to operate equipment causing pollution or designed to control it.

Without admitting any of the violations with which it was charged, the firm on July 13 agreed to a consent judgement issued by Judge John B. Wick, Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Salem County, ordering that the bakery be in compliance with the provisions of Chapters 6 and 9 no later than Feb. 1, 1972.

The Hygrade Bakery is further ordered to control by Dec. 1 odors emitted by the four stacks venting the cooking line; the three stacks venting the nut frying line; the three stacks venting the peanut butter line; and the seven stacks venting the pretzel line.

The July 13 consent judgement was the culminating step in an action which began on Dec.

9, 1970, with the investigation of the bakery's premises by members of the enforcement staff of the department's Bureau of Air Pollution Control. This investigation revealed a valid basis for the odor complaints which had been received, and also brought to light the fact that the company had installed without a permit and was operating without a certificate a peanut roaster, a potato chip fryer, and an oven, a discharge hood and a casing cooker on a pretzel line.

A consent order is a civil action in which the legal representatives of the department and of the alleged violator agree on terms which are mutually satisfactory and which will bring the company into compliance with the New Jersey Air Pollution Control Code. While not admitting to violations charged, the company does consent to take whatever steps are set forth in the order, by the deadline stipulated. Compliance dates are set with consideration for the time required for the company to adjust its practices or its equipment as ordered. Should the company, without good and just cause, fail to meet its deadlines, or should it continue to violate the chapters of the code, the department could institute court action for supplementary relief. This relief could and probably would involve a penalty payment.

Representing the state in the consent action announced by Commissioner Sullivan was Deputy Attorney General Lawrence E. Slippy.

The film with a running time including 30 minutes features the Pennington Players of Pennington. Because of the selection of the play to "the opening night performance, the film depicts the intricacies of amateur theatricals."

A projector and sound equipment will be provided, also at no cost, if necessary. Inquiries should be directed to Doug Warren, Channel 59, WNUJ-TV, 1573 Parkside ave., Trenton 08658.

Quarry to obey pollution ruling

Trap Rock Industries, Kingston, largest operator of its kind in the state, has signed a consent order with the State Department of Environmental Protection, promising to complete within a year certain pollution control measures which "substantially reduce dust emissions from the quarry" and bring the company into compliance with the New Jersey Air Pollution Control Code.

A consent order is an enforcement administrative order which the company agrees to accept, waiving its right to a hearing.

Janet Memorial Home picks Clarke as executive director

Gregory Clarke of 110 Tooke ave., Springfield, has been named executive director of Janet Memorial Home, a residential treatment center for adolescent girls located in Elizabeth.

Clarke was district supervisor of the Newark office of the Bureau of Children's Services for four years. Before joining the Newark Office, he was an assistant supervisor in the bureau's Elizabeth office. Clarke also was a social worker in the East Orange school system, and an assistant supervisor in the Jersey City office of the Bureau of Children's Services.

Clarke is a graduate of Bates College, Lewiston, Me., where he majored in economics. He received a master's degree from the School of Social Work, Rutgers, the State University.

Clarke is a member of the National Association of Social Workers, and is accredited by the Academy of Certified Social Workers. He is a member of the Master Workers Choral Society, Camping and canoeing are among his hobbies.

His wife, Mrs. Ryszona Dawn Clarke, is executive director of the Family Service Bureau, Summit. She is also a graduate social worker. They have four children, Karen, 12; Susan, 10; Laura, 8; and Walter, 5.

In accepting the position at the Janet Home, Clarke said, "My years of experience with the Bureau of Children's Services have made me well aware of the excellent service Janet Memorial Home has given New Jersey children for the past 13 years. Accepting the position as the new executive director makes me even more aware of the tradition of helpfulness which is inherent."

Janet Memorial Home has an enviable reputation among those of us who work with the troubled adolescent, for its constant adaptation to the changing times and the needs each generation presents.

Only in the past year, two innovative additions have been made to its constantly expanding program. An on-ground class has been established through the cooperation of the Elizabeth Board of Education, and another, our second, group home has been established. It is my intention not only to extend these services, but to constantly explore, adapt and adapt to Janet Memorial Home's methods that have proven most successful in helping the adolescent girl with problems."

Worthless check costs man $25

Paige Jones of East Orange was fined for presenting a check to the Chatham Lumber Co., while knowing he had insufficient funds by Judge Max Sherman Monday in Springfield Municipal Court. Jones paid $25 after making restitution to the company.

Three persons were fined for speeding. They are Harold Spore of West Orange, $25 for going 44 miles per hour in a 25-mile zone on Mountain avenue, Ella Owens of Summit, $35 for going 58 mph in a 25-mile zone on Shaughtley road, and Michael H. Denning of Irvington, $45 for going 60 mph in a 25-mile zone on Morris avenue.

Two persons were fined for careless driving. Ronald P. Cashin of New Providence paid $40 for having his car turn over during an accident. Richard J. Lacker of Millburn was fined $20 for starting his vehicle improperly at the corner of Morris and Maple avenues.

Other convictions and fines were Donald T. Shelton of Summit, $40 for being an unlicensed driver; William Swartz of Irvington, $15 plus $10 for contempt of court for not having a front headlight on his motorcycle; Blanche Levitt of 18 Bray Hills circle, Springfield, $10 for making a left turn from the right lane without a signal at the intersection of S. Springfield and Hillside avenues, and Harold Ogden of 111 Baharua way, Springfield, $15 for leaving an abandoned car on his property.

Russell Midgaard, retired bus driver

Funeral services were held Saturday for Russell Midgaard of 241 Summit rd., Mountaintop, who died last week in Arlington. Mr. Midgaard, 38, was the husband of Mrs. Charlotte Flosker Midgaard.

Mr. Midgaard, born in Mountaintop, lived in Union before moving to Mountaintop 15 years ago. Before he retired in 1968, he was a bus driver for the Mountaintop Bus Co., Mountaintop, for 15 years.

He is also survived by a son, Russell, at home; two daughters, Mrs. Carolina Capavita and Mrs. Elizabeth Santello of West Orange; a brother, Morris of Edison; two sisters, Mrs. Ann Babler of Westfield and Mrs. Caroline McChes of Tuckerton, and seven grand children.

Funeral arrangements were completed by the McCracken Funeral Home, 150 Morris ave., Union.

BUYING WISELY

From Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan North York, Inc.

Dear Larrie:

When I purchased an electric broiler recently I asked the salesman if it would be good for broiling chops. The salesman told me that it was good for everything. However, when I got the broiler home, and read the instruction book that came with it, I found out that I couldn't broil chops. In fact, there were very few things I could broil in it. I rushed back to the store within two hours of the purchase. I told me that I would have to pay a $8 damage fee for opening the box before they would refund my money.

Anyway, I have been back several times, written two letters and called the store four times. The manager keeps telling me to "take down your list and get your money," so far I haven't gotten anything. Can the Bureau help?

Broiling MAD

Dear Broiling:

We spoke with the manager and a check is being mailed to you for the purchase of the broiler as well as the $8 they charged you for opening the box. Next time you purchase an appliance, ask to read the instruction book first.

Dear Miss O'Farrell:

I wrote you about my problem with the sofa some time ago. You said that you would try and help me. Then I got a letter from the Better Business Bureau saying that you had investigated and that you could not help me. I am writing you again: I want my money back and insist that you make the store give it to me.

FURIOUS

Dear Furioso:

The Better Business Bureau did investigate and learned that you had not been entirely frank about this matter. You purchased the sofa three years ago. The sofa has not been in storage, as you claim, but has been constantly in use. In fact, the store manager showed us correspondence from you indicating that you idealist complained that the sofa was getting too lumpy for him to continue sleeping on it. At that time you asked the store to give you a new sofa. The store refused—but offered to replace the cushions for a very fair and nominal fee. You have used the sofa for three years and now want the store to give you back the money you paid for it. We believe that your claim is unwarranted.

Dear Larrie:

My folks gave me a sewing machine for my birthday. They need new machines so I thought I would surprise them, and show them how much I appreciate the gift by making them the draperies. How do you think I should go about it?

STITCHER

Dear Stitcher:

We asked our shopper who suggested that you contact the store where the machine was purchased and ask for some instruction on the subject. She did have some tips that may be helpful: If you're a beginner, make sure you choose simple patterns and fabrics that are easy to handle. Before you buy the fabric examine it carefully and read your hangtag or information. You can usually find this on both ends. If you are going to line the draperies, be sure that the lining is compatible with the fabric. Don't buy a lining that requires a different type of care or performance than the finished project. Again, your best bet is at the store where your parents bought the machine.

Bible school head to preach sermon at Evangel Baptist

Dr. Stuart E. Lease, president of Lancaster, Pa., School of the Bible, will preach at the Evangel Baptist Church, 574 Shurtleff rd., Springfield, Sunday at 11 a.m.

Since 1949 Dr. Lease has served as the third president of Lancaster School of the Bible, an institution of higher learning founded in 1933 for the training of Christian workers for home and foreign ministries. Before his appointment as president he served for five years as dean of the school.

Dr. Lease has earned a diploma in theology from Lancaster School of the Bible, a bachelor of arts degree from Gordon College, a master of arts degree from Boston University, and was elected an honorary doctor of divinity degree from Grace Theological Seminary. He was selected to honor societies at all three of the institutions where he studied and since 1969 has been listed in "Who's Who in the East" during the homecoming activities at Lancaster School of the Bible he was named alumnus of the year in 1969.

Dr. Lease has traveled through Europe and visited graduates of Lancaster School of the Bible who are missionaries there, and he has spoken at an annual field conference of the Worldwide European Fellowship in Italy. He is a member of the board of directors of the Bible Book Movement.

Along with his administrative duties at Lancaster School, Dr. Lease also teaches in the Bible department. He is the regular Bible teacher on the "New Life Hour," the weekly radio broadcast of Lancaster School of the Bible, which is heard on several radio stations in the East. He also speaks on a local weekly TV program, "Moments of Inspiration." Dr. Lease frequently serves as guest speaker in various churches and Bible conferences.

Arts Center show will mingle Italian, American artists

"America: Italian Style" will be the theme of an afternoon of Italian-American entertainment at the Garden State Arts Center on Columbus Day—Monday, Oct. 11.

The title theme was adopted at a meeting of representatives of Italian-American organizations from many parts of New Jersey gathered to lay the groundwork for a special program at the Arts Center on the 11th.

The event is the second scheduled by the Arts Center for ethnic groups of New Jersey, like the first, an Irish Festival held July 24. The Italian program will benefit the Garden State Arts Center Fund in its financing of free shows for school children and senior citizens of New Jersey.

The title chosen for the Oct. 11 event will guide a program committee headed by Vincent Vecchia of Short Hills in its engagement of talent and development of format for the afternoon of Italian-American entertainment.

Alphonse A. Miele of West Orange, general chairman, announced the appointment of Vincent as Program Chairman. Middlesex County Freeholder Stephen J. Capresto of Edison is state title chairman, and Samuel J. Passolo of Madison is publicity chairman.

The delegates to the formative meeting adopted the "America: Italian Style" theme with a view toward portraying Italian-American history and culture "against a background of Americanism." They propose a program that "put Italian-Americans squarely in the middle of America, and simply separate and apart as a distinct ethnic group." Local aides to the committee chairman will be charged to assure wide participation by New Jersey's Italian-American citizens.

B'nai B'rith plans two tours of Israel

B'nai B'rith begins in northern New Jersey and sponsoring trip to Israel for senior citizens and families.

Senior citizens tour will be held from Oct. 20 through Nov. 10. The family excursion will be from Dec. 20 to Jan. 2, coinciding with winter vacation in Israel.

The 22-day senior citizens tour will include stops in Tel Aviv, Jerusalem, Nahariya and Haifa. The sponsoring program is led by a B'nai B'rith official, will be leisurely and "not too tiring, yet all the major sights will be visited," including the Masada, the Wall and other locations.

The family tour will be an 11-day trip. Both tours include round-trip air transportation on El Al Israel Airlines or scheduled carriers. Breakfasts are included and dinners will be served at B'nai B'rith homes at the kibbutz stay. More information may be obtained by contacting Herbert Stein, 3988 Edison way, Montclair, N.J., or by calling him at 236-9687 (evenings) and 666-1877 (days).

Earthquake survival measures noted

ALEXANDRIA, Va.—Because earthquakes can occur anywhere at any time, the American Red Cross is urging people in all sections of the country to become familiar with various safeguards which could save lives should an earthquake suddenly occur.

1. If electrical wiring is shorting out, close the switch on the main meter box.
2. Turn on your radio or television if conditions permit for latest emergency bulletins.
3. Stay out of severely damaged buildings.
4. Mirshocks can shake them down.

According to Enzo V. Bighianchi, director of Red Cross disaster services, the time will come when it will be possible to predict earthquakes in advance and averted as hurricanes are today. Meanwhile, emphasis must be on immediate survival. Knowing what to do and what not to do when the earth begins to shake and buildings tremble could mean the difference between life and death. Recommended survival measures include:

1. Don't panic. The motion is frightening, but unless it shakes something down on top of you, it is harmless. The earth does not yawn open, gulf down a neighborhood and slam shut. Keep calm and ride it out.
2. If you are caught indoors, stay indoors. Take cover under a desk, table, bench or in a doorway, hallway and against inside walls. Stay away from glass.
3. Don't use candles, matches or open fire flames, either during or after the tremor. Douse all fires.
4. If you are outside when the tremor starts, move away from buildings and utility wires. Once in the open, stay there until the shaking stops.
5. Don't run through or near buildings. The greatest danger from falling debris is just outside doorways and close to outer walls.
6. If you are in a moving car, stop as quickly as safety permits, but stay in the vehicle. A car will joggle fearlessly on its springs during an earthquake, but it is a good place to stay until the shaking stops.

AFTER THE SHAKING
1. Check your utilities, but do not turn them on. Earthquakes may have cracked water, gas and electrical conduits.
2. If you smell gas, open windows and shut off the main gas valve. Then leave the building and report gas leakage to authorities. Don't reenter the house until a utility official says it is safe.
3. If water mains are damaged, shut off the water.

Roll out the barrels

Many leading breweries are now shipping product in plastic instead of metal kegs. The kegs, with some 5,000 tons of steel: are being consumed in this application annually. The advantages of plastic include protection of product purity, cleanliness and high strength in a lightweight barrel.

N.J. to open 4-H camp

New Jersey is on its way toward having its second 4-H camp. This one will be the former Rutgers Dairy Research Center, a unit of the Agricultural Experiment Station. The station abandoned research there last year, and only a caretaker crew remains.

The 600-acre area of the camp contains within a strip of land, much of it hilly and wooded, about three miles of shoreline, including over the top of a mountain to the boundary of Sussex Park.

Grants awarded by Arts Council

Fifteen New Jersey artists have been selected to receive $1,000 grants from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts to help them complete an ongoing creative project.

The artists, who were selected from 27 applicants submitted works in the visual arts, architecture, crafts, music, dance, sculpture and film, and represent all parts of the

Rider turns to Europe

States of Rider College's top ranking language students will be spending their 1971-72 school year in Europe as the college launches its first comprehensive foreign study program.

The students will study at the University of Madrid in Spain, Sorbonne University in France and the University of Graz in Austria.

Dr. Hermann Rees, chairman of the Rider Department of Foreign Languages and Literature, and coordinator of the new program, said arrangements were being made to have the students reside with families in Europe instead of in regular dormitories.

"It will create a total living experience for the students," explains Dr. Rees, who supervised a similar program at the University of New Hampshire for 10 years before coming to Rider a year ago.

112 acres purchased for refuge
The North Jersey Conservation Foundation announced this week the purchase of 112 acres of land in Passaic Township, Morris County. A portion of the property is owned by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for an addition to the Great Swamp National Wildlife Refuge.
The funds from this sale will be put back into the organization's revolving land fund for open space preservation in other locations.
The purchase is part of a continuing program of assisting governmental units with open space acquisition by the use of donated funds from the group's 2,000 members.
The land, low, mostly marsh, lies adjacent to the Great Swamp National Wildlife Refuge boundary on Meyersville road, near the point where the road has been closed by Passaic Township to conform with the mandate of the wilderness designation provided by congressional action several years ago.
A small part of the property is to be used for limited visitor service, but suitable access can be provided for the public to use the wilderness area.
"No man-made intrusions are permitted in the wilderness, thus making the purchase of this property particularly important," a spokesman said.
The property was purchased for $75,000. The land is open to the public on a permit basis. The foundation got its start in the acquisition of land in Great Swamp 10 years ago to initiate action toward the creation of the refuge.

Where both teacher and student learn

Pilot-program uses individualized instruction

Thirty-five students from the Morris County area, ranging from 12 to 15 years of age, have volunteered to return to school for three weeks this summer. They are participating in a pilot-program which stresses individualized instruction, a relatively new learning method that gives students the opportunity to learn a foreign language on a nearly individualized basis. They are also given the chance to learn Spanish or German at their own pace, eliminating failure because of an inability to keep up with the rest of the class.

The program, part of the new master of arts in multilingual teaching, is designed to keep up with the rest of the class.

Language instructors now teaching methods. This program is presently being conducted at the Center for Language Education in the Peter Sammartino College of Education at the Plorham-Madison campus of Fairleigh Dickinson University.

As the students are learning a second language for the first time, the graduate students are learning about individualized instruction which is entirely different from the conventional teaching method they are familiar with in the classroom.

"It's like receiving your battery," said Dr. William J. Bratton, chairman of the Foreign Language Department at Chatham Borough High School and a graduate student. "I've been teaching for six years but now I am thinking of teaching in terms I never thought of before."

THERE ARE FOUR basic characteristics to this type of program. They are:

—Students are free to proceed through their curricular materials at their own pace.

—Students are tested on their materials at given intervals but only when they are prepared to be tested and only on materials on which they expect to be tested. This implies that, in any given class period, it is rare that more than several students will be tested on the same material.

—When students need help to progress in their learning, they work individually, or in small groups with their teacher, or with some other resource person in the classroom, in a tutorial manner.

—Students know the nature of their learning task and know what they must demonstrate and the degree of accuracy required for them to receive credit for their work and be able to move ahead in their materials.

The program, which includes 13 students and two other teachers, is conducted on an individual basis. Each student is given the 200-level in the Spanish class work with various learning tools such as the learning package, tape recordings, videotapes, and have use of the language laboratory.

The learning packages include the student's instruction for the lesson, a test which can be corrected by the student or teacher, and a purpose for the lesson. "We must give them a purpose why they may see the relevance in such a lesson," said Mrs. Filomena Del Olmo, graduate course instructor.

THE LEARNING PACKAGES are divided into four parts representing all the skills involved in learning a language: speaking, reading, writing and grammar practices in either of the two languages. When the student has successfully completed one learning package he works with one more advanced.

Even though this is a three-week program, the students learn more about the language in a foreign language, their pronunciation is corrected occasionally and they are given the nine teachers enrolled in the course.

"We stress to these students that they are not to learn to pronounce either a Spanish or Spanish the same way a native would," said Mrs. Del Olmo.

Under supervision, a graduate assistant in charge of student testing and a Spanish teacher at Hackensack High School, first after nine hours of individual instruction the students had good control of most of the Spanish sounds.

There are some students in my class who have a better pronunciation of the Spanish language than some four-year students," said Bratton.

The students are enthusiastic about the program. Denise Torio of Devils, after only one week of instruction, says that she can use the Spanish she has learned to converse with her sister in Italy. The 12-year-old also practices conversing with her father, a 19-year-old student, also from Devils.

"I'm learning new things every day," said Marcelino of Germantown. The 14-year-old has already made the decision that she will enroll in a Spanish course when she enters high school next year.

There are no homework assignments in the program but many of the students take learning packages home to work on.

Pharmacists will press for continued education

The New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association has directed its committee on education and standards to implement the society's recently announced intention to seek legislative action making continuing education for pharmacists mandatory.

Association President Nicholas Giannino of Newark declined the committee's recommendation by Walter Mathews of Newark, is making studies and inquiries into the subject and will prepare recommendations as to procedure.

The study group already has endorsed wholeheartedly the principle of making continuing education a requirement for all pharmacists registered in the state," Giannino said.

"As a major component in the current system of health delivery, the pharmacist realizes better than most the constantly changing and growing body of information concerning drugs, their uses, and limitations as to their use.

"A commitment on the part of pharmacists to continue constantly updated knowledge of drug information, since it is the pharmacist's most intimately and exclusively concerned with it.

Giannino pointed out that

Mongo, quintet play in Newark

Mongo Santamaria and his quintet will feature a free outdoor concert with a Latin-American flavor on Sunday, at 5 p.m. at Branch Brook Park, Newark.

Joining Santamaria in the concert will be Chico O'Farrill and Ray Barreto and their bands and George Feno, jazz guitarist, composer and rhythm-and-blues singer. Santamaria has been described by critics as the greatest conga drummer playing in the United States.

The program will be the sixth in a series of seven free concerts sponsored by the Essex County Park Commission with the support of business organizations in the Greater Newark area. In the event of rain, the concert will be held in the Branch Brook Ice Center.

The concert series is called "Mid-Summer Nights in the Park."

Job safety variances

Rules of procedure governing the granting of variances from Federal job safety and health standards have been issued by the Department of Health. The standards are those issued under the Williams-Steiger Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. The granting of variances permits an employer to follow an alternative rule rather than a general occupational standard.

Seven rules can protect children from poisoning

Parents of adults to protect children against the obvious dangers of drugs and chemicals is a serious problem, warns Dr. Warren Jenkins, medical director of the Albemarle Life Insurance.

Noting that hundreds of children under the age of five die each year from poisoning, Dr. Jenkins urges parents to follow these rules to help prevent their children from becoming poisoned:

1. Keep all drugs and medicinal kits out of the reach of children.
2. Label all containers. Mark prescriptions with date, dosage and the patient's name.
3. Do not keep cleaners and other toxic chemicals in the medicine cabinet.
4. Four down the drain all old or unlabelled medicine. Never throw them in a wastebasket.
5. Before giving or taking any drug, read the label in a good light.
6. Post the day and night phone numbers of your physician and drugs in the medicine cabinet door.
7. Never tell children that aspirin, taken secretly by children who think it's candy, can be deadly.

Sea towers up for bids

GOVERNORS ISLAND, N.Y. The Coast Guard wants to sell the sea towers that sit atop the wooden watch houses on top of it now has at Point Pleasant and Beach Haven, N.J., and has invited bids from anyone interested.

The tower at Point Pleasant is situated at the Coast Guard's Manasquan Station and the one at the Beach Haven Station. Both are no longer needed because of modern radar work at the two stations.

There is one condition, however. That is, whoever buys the towers, which are situated and mounted on reinforced concrete and pile foundations, must remove them from the premises.

Bids may be addressed to Mrs. Jean DeMise, Contact Administrator, Third Coast Guard District, Contact Section, Building 126, Room 200, Governors Island, New York City.

Mrs. DeMise said she will be happy to talk with anyone about the towers and can be reached between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday by calling New York 225-2252.

Music group seeks aides

The Music Foundation for the Visually Handicapped, a non-profit organization of volunteer music instructors and workers, is conducting a drive for music instructors to assist in its program of providing free instruction and instruments to the visually handicapped.

"The foundation, now starting its second year, is seeking 40 visually handicapped students in four cities and hopes to add 40 more this year—free program to thousands more throughout the state and nationwide."

The foundation is also seeking donations of instruments, music and records of all kinds. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Box 363, Ridgewood 07451.

Young GOP Club plans barge party with ecology theme

The Young Republicans of Union County will hold their annual barge party on the Delaware River Canal-Near Hope, Pa., from 10 p.m. Saturday with the theme of "Improve the Environment."

The barge will be drawn by mules and a top lead will provide the entertainment. Anyone may make a reservation by sending a check for $5 made out to "Young Republicans of Union County," to Henry Varnano at 16 Iradley rd., Clark. The Young Republicans also will take water samples from the Delaware River and the canal to measure the extent of pollution.

Varnano is chairman of the environmental barge party committee. Other members are Mrs. Katherine Fulcomer of Halloway, William George of Westfield, Thomas Hynes of 9 Burnell St., Union, Gary Hiss of Summit, Paul Penard of 329 Lynn pl., Springfield, Miss Lynn Cole of 232 W. 6th ave., Hoeselle and Donald Cook of Halloway.

The election of Mrs. Teri Kachur of Halloway and Cook, to county Young Republican offices, has been announced by Chairman James Fulcomer of Halloway.

Mrs. Kachur was elected executive director and Cook, third vice chairman. Mrs. Kachur is a Halloway Republican county committee member and Cook is chairman of the Halloway Young Republicans.

The next Young Republican County Council meeting will be held at the Clark Lanes, 180 Central ave., Clark at 8 p.m., Monday. Persons under 40 years old interested in joining the Young Republicans may call Fulcomer at 388-478.

Union College will offer non-credit adult courses

College Unimised, a new concept in non-credit college courses for adults, will be offered at Union College, Cranford, this fall. It is announced by Dr. Kenneth W. Jansen, president.

College Unimised will offer adults the opportunity to pursue intellectual and academic interests in the evenings without the con-

NSC students hear 2 cancer patients

Two former cancer patients, Robert J. Herpich of 310 Lincoln lane, Linden, and Franklin D. Veuple of 129 Webster ave., Hoeselle Park, spoke to teachers and student teachers at Newark State College, Union last week. The teachers are enrolled in a course entitled "Introduction to the Education of the Handicapped."

Both Herpich and Veuple, volunteers of the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society, have had their larynx or voice box surgically removed. After the operation they learned sign language.

Herpich and Veuple explained the operation, a laryngectomy, and the rehabilitation afterward. A patient who has had this operation can learn to speak by using a contrived process of swallowing air and forcing it out through a man-made opening which can be articulated into words.

Herpich and Veuple can be contacted for speaking engagements through the Union County Unit of American Cancer Society, 512 Westmearner ave., Elizabeth.

Nine appointed to the faculty at Union College

The appointment of nine persons to the full-time faculty of Union College was announced by Dr. Kenneth W. Jansen, president.

Joining the Social-Sciences Department are: Dr. Phyllis Johnson, A. D. of Philadelphia and Roger Schinnes of Newark, Mrs. Elizabeth R. Grout of Maplewood, and Mrs. Vicki Roberts of New York City. Also joining the Education Department: Dr. Barbara Engler of Short Hills and Mrs. Regina Sermonet of South Orange, Jr. of Livingston, and Miss Lillian Prohn of 200 E. Riverside ave., Hoeselle Park, the Biology Department, and John Joseph-O'Neill of Ridgewood, the Business Administration Department.

Dr. Johnson, a retired U.S. Army lieutenant colonel, was formerly an associate professor of military science at the University of Maine and most recently a graduate teaching assistant at Union University.

Currently writing his doctoral dissertation for the doctoral degree to be conferred by the State University of New York at Albany is Joseph Grun, a biology instructor at Seton Hall University, South Orange. He also served as a biology instructor at SUNY at Albany.

Mrs. Grun, who spent six years as an instructor at Seton Hall's Department of Counseling and Special Services in teaching freshman remedial reading course, was also the remedial reading consultant for the Monroton South Orange.

Mrs. Rebekah was formerly a writer-researcher but now works for NBC's public television program "The World As I See It." Her position served as a film assistant in production and editorial services for Films, Inc., New York City.

Dr. Engler, a former administrative assistant for the National Council of Churches of Israel where she was responsible for the administration of the Public Commission of the Department of Foreign Missions, has taught philosophy at Fairleigh Dickinson University and elementary school in Brookside School of Montclair Academy.

Mrs. Siemont, has taught special education classes in the Franklin, New Jersey, system. Westport, Conn., school systems. Duncombe has taught Biology at Newark State College, Union. Miss Frohe was formerly an assistant professor of biology at Newark State College, a teaching assistant at Marquette and a biology teacher in the New York City public school system.

Supervisors named for club programs

The executive committee of the Elizabeth YWCA Union Hostesses Club will supervise activities during August, when Miss Linda Karam, adult program director, is on vacation. Miss Patricia Polewczak, of Elizabeth is president, and Mrs. Edna M. G. is vice president. Miss Linda Lang of Hillsdale, membership co-chairman, will be in charge the third week.

Mothers will escort the girls on the bus to camp at Fort Monmouth Post Service every Friday evening. Plans also were made for the Saturday night dance to be held at the club on August 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23 and Nov. 20. "Smile, Smile, Love You" is the theme for the first dance. Supervisors on leave from August 13 to 18 will be Miss Patricia and Maureen Marthard, of Linden will make posters. Miss Patricia Marthard is the club's membership chairman.

inements of course structure or credit requirements, according to Prof. Richard J. Selco, director of the Division of Community Services.

Subjects, selected with adult interests in mind, will be offered in weekly sessions lasting three to 12 weeks, depending on the material to be covered and the depth to which it will be studied. Prof. Selco explained to the college trustees in an outgrowth of Week-End College, an experimental program in continuing education for adults conducted by Union College last year.

"We believe a program of continuing education for adults is a necessary and vital part of the total educational commitment of a community college and, therefore, a role our college must play," Dr. Iversen explained. "College Unimised is intended to supplement existing programs of adult education throughout Union County."

College Unimised, Prof. Selco added, is also based on the concept that education can provide stimulation and entertainment as well as enrichment.

'Broadway' set for county series

The second of two Union County Park Commission's "Garden Amateurs" Festival Garden Productions will be "Broadway," to be held in Echo Lake Park, Tuesday, Aug. 24, from 10 to 10 p.m.

The first program, held last week, was conducted by the Union County Park Commission Auditorium by heavy showers, but received very enthusiastic response from some two hundred attendees. Time and again Miss Linda Heimlich, Benjamin Ozaszo and Hervey Hicks, were greeted by tumultuous applause.

The vocalists were accompanied by Danny Hop's Orchestra. "A Nice on Broadway," produced by Joseph Bergman of "The God-fathers" Orchestra, Orange, features Messrs. Heimlich of Union who has established herself as one of the outstanding sopranos in the world, winning the acclaim of many directors in Europe and Austria during a recent tour in 1969.

Ozaso recently was the winner of a Metropolitan Opera Company Audition and has been touring in Japan with the Xavier Cugat Orchestra. The Goldwyn Opera Theater has featured Hicks on many occasions. The program will be presented in commemoration of the Park Commission's 10 years of service to the citizens of Union County and will be free of charge. Michael Bono of Union, is the chairman of the "Nice Anniversary." In case of rain, the program will be held in the Westfield High School auditorium, Dorran road, Westfield.

Coast Guard Band in concert Sunday

The United States Coast Guard Training Band, One Main Street, will present a two-hour concert in Halloway River Park, Halloway, on Sunday at 3 p.m.

The program, sponsored by the Union County Park Commission, will be under the direction of Musician's Mate First Class "Woody" Novel. The band will play selections of original compositions, contemporary music, and popular music.

The concert will be held on a lawn adjacent to the lake in the park. The public is invited to bring lawn chairs to better enjoy the concert.

FOR THE BIRDS

By FARRIS S. SWACKHAMER, professor, Union Junior College

judging by traffic on the Garden State Parkway, August is the month of vacations. Every- cut to a shore resort has its own line, stopping and starting and stopping again. An there's a line of aviation traffic paralleling the Parkway along the Atlantic. Twenty thousand upon thousands of sandpipers are passing through on their journey from breeding grounds in the far north to winter resorts stretching to the tip of South America.

Those sandering families are back along our beaches in force again, less than three months since they went north in large flocks. Indians know the full moon of August as the green moon. Perhaps it should be the sandpiper moon.

The sandpiper family, the Scolopacidae, which includes woodcock and curlews, is one of the largest among shorebirds. Thirty-three of 82 members of the family breed in North America, ranging in size from the least sandpiper, a tiny six inches in length, to the long-billed curlew, about two feet long. Peterson, who once remarked that it took ten years of a bird's life to learn the names in their own language, might have said the same thing about sandpipers.

Members of the family fly almost un- believably distances. The bristle-thighed curlew, whose breeding ground was one of the mysteries of bird life, flies 5,500 miles from the tundra of Alaska over open ocean to the warm shores of Tahiti and other South Sea islands. Sandpipers log about 4,000 miles from Connecticut to Chile. Tiny semipalmated sandpipers travel from their family home on the coast of a line joining Alaska and northern Labrador to Southern Brazil.

SANDPIPERS POSE some difficult problems in field identification. Differences between the long-billed and short-billed dowitchers are so subtle that even the keen- eyed avianophiles of the natural history museum skins require the adapted eye to separate them into two species. The long-billed short-billed and the short-billed long-billed may look exactly alike. Unless the looser and the greater yellowlegs stand side by side in a life pool the wary birder will most often report a yellowlegs.

One of the natural habitat the beach strewn with shells and large and small pebbles sandpipers feed on so carefully with the background that even the alert birder may miss them. Sandpipers are classic examples of counter-shading. They are the darkest above, where they receive the most light, and lightest below, where they receive the most shadow. Such coloration has developed over hundreds of thousands of years. Today many sandpipers seem to disappear completely when they stop feeding.

Fall comes early to sandpipers. Some hardy ones may linger along the coast well another spring.

Realtor, bar groups plan a test suit on documents

A lawsuit expected to attract wide interest has been filed in New Jersey Superior Court, Trenton, through the cooperation of the New Jersey State Bar Association and the New Jersey Association of Realtor Boards, to determine the extent to which real estate brokers and salesmen may prepare documents in transactions above they are brokers.

The suit, filed by the Bar Association against the Association of Realtor Boards and nine realtors, who have volunteered as defendants, seeks a declaratory judgment that the preparation of contracts of sale by all real estate brokers and salesmen constitutes the unauthorized practice of law, and should be restrained.

The litigation results from a suggestion made to the New Jersey Superior Court in a 1969 case, State v. Hunter. Although in that case the Superior Court held that a broker who drafts real estate contracts is not guilty of disorderly conduct if he did not eliminate the possibility that such conduct might constitute the unauthorized practice of law, and suggested that a test case be brought to enable it to determine what regulation, if any, might be needed to protect the public interest. Since real estate transactions constitute the most important investment which most people make, the Bar Association alleges that they often suffer when poorly drawn contracts erroneously affect their rights and obligations. The Bar Association requests that the court look into the matter and consider whether brokers should be prohibited from advising the public about legal matters for which they may not be qualified by training, or in which they are not subject to supervision by the court. The Bar Association suggests that, at the very least, contracts prepared by brokers be subject to review when legal counsel for the parties and the terms may be injurious to their interests.

REAL ESTATE LITIGATION that the preparation of a sales contract is essential to their business, that they have always been permitted to draw such agreements, and that they are adequately trained for it being subject to the supervision of the New Jersey Real Estate Commission. Robert P. Ferguson II, executive vice-president of the Association of Realtor Boards, said of the suit, "The intention is to draw from the Bar Association's position is that they would like to have a lawyer review every single real estate transaction. This would be counterproductive, time consuming and expensive." Ferguson also points out that brokers are not prohibited from drawing such contracts in other states.

Although the two associations seek opposite results, said Joseph T. Grimes, Red Bank, president of the 420-member New Jersey State Bar Association, "they are agreed that the division of the Court should be based upon the interests of the public and not upon the rights of their members to perform the challenged service."

Coloring change set for Parkway

There'll be a change in the coloring along the Garden State Parkway. Toll plazas will be repainted in a color scheme reflecting the pale yellow or buff of New Jersey's official State flag along with foliage green. The painting pattern will also be modified. Chairman John P. Gallagher of the New Jersey Highway Authority, which operates the Parkway, reported that upgrading of the restaurant-gasoline service areas along the road was proceeding at full speed with several new ones in a more rustic design. The target date for completion of the service area beautification is mid-August. The Monmouth, Brookdale and Vauxhall service areas were marked as ready in the northern Parkway sections with the larger Chesapeake unit due for completion by mid-August.

CLAFF OF THE WEEK

What's this bill for another new dress? I thought you just bought one in 1951!

Bar unit prepares broad revision of delinquency laws

The New Jersey State Bar Association's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency is preparing a complete revision of the state's juvenile delinquency laws. Association President Joseph T. Uramo, Hed Bank, announced in Trenton this week. The committee expects to present its report to the Legislature and the Governor this fall.

A discouragingly high proportion of our crime problem is generated by juveniles. Uramo said. "In attacking this, we must turn our attention to the laws which define the youthful offender and prescribe his rehabilitation." The juvenile delinquency laws being coordinated with the Bar Association's program on correctional reform.

Marcia H. Richman of Newark, a deputy public defender who is chairman of the New Jersey State Bar Association's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency, said that in the committee's view the present state law is inadequate for a number of reasons.

"A principal law," she noted, "is that our 50-year-old statute does not distinguish between the juvenile delinquency which would constitute a crime if committed by adults and the kind which can be committed only by juveniles, such as incorporeal offenses."

"Since present law makes no such distinction, children on whose offense is in question are handed delinquent and mixed with young criminals in correctional institutions."

"This is only one objectionable feature," Mrs. Richman added. "In 50 years, naturally, certain laws and modes of corrections have become outdated. They remain uncorrected." The committee is drawing on concepts from several "model laws" on juvenile delinquency and acts adopted recently in other states.

Parkway's center will host art show

The Garden State Arts Center, a site for the premier arts will be the scene of a visual art exhibit on Saturday, Aug. 28, from 10 to 7 p.m.

Chairman John P. Gallagher of the New Jersey Highway Authority, which operates the Arts Center and the Garden State Parkway, said that the arrangements have been made with the Federated Art Associations of New Jersey to present a display of paintings and sculpture.

It will be the federation's second annual "Art in the Garden" exhibit at the Arts Center. Last year's art, it will feature works of New Jersey residents and will be conducted in conjunction with regularly scheduled Arts Center entertainment.

The award-winning musical hit, "1776", will be offered in the amphitheater stage twice on Aug. 28—a 3 o'clock matinee and a 9 p.m. performance.

The paintings will be hung from snow fence that will be erected on the ground and along walkways of the Arts Center, located in Kingsport Hill Park off Exit 16 of the Parkway.

Among those participating in the show will be the following members of the Kenilworth Art Association: Shirlee Silverstein of 878 Nixon Rd., Union; Russ Einstein of 27 Thornbrook, Kenilworth; Maitso Jantlicoff of 19 Park Dr., Kenilworth; and Carl Dembowski of 80 Mt. Vernon ave., Irvington.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am a boy, 15 years old, and I have a problem. This last winter I met a girl who is 13 years old. I love her very much. During the winter we dated, and she liked me very much. Then one day she told me she had found someone else. I have discussed this with her and she has decided to never have a date or even talk with him. I have written her letters asking what happened between us and if she would date me more. If she doesn't write back, I really love her. What can I do to get her back?"

CLIFF'S ANSWER: "I am a member because anything to cause the break-up and she fails to answer your letters, resign yourself to the fact that the girl gave you the break-off in a friendly way. If she decided she no longer likes you, there is no formula you can use to make her like you. The best you can do is to write her if you continue to see letters. If you have told her you still like her, leave it that way for a while and see what happens."

IF YOU HAVE A teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANK PAVEN, KY.
