Outdoor education program gains approval from parents

By JANICE WEIL

The fifth grade outdoor education trip to Camp Minisink was an unqualified success, according to parents who attended Tuesday's Mountainide Board of Education meeting at the Deerfield School.

The meeting began an hour later than usual because board members attended a memorial service for Mrs. Alma Jerome, the wife of the board's attorney, Charles Jerome, who died earlier this week.

Of the approximately 50 persons who attended, all who spoke were in favor of continuing the fifth grade outdoor education program. One person said she was apprehensive at first about having her daughter go, but after the child returned she said she approved. Someone else stated that her daughter, who is now in the sixth grade, still remembers the trip and would have like to go again. These were typical reactions.

Another member of the audience commented that the trip is a way for youngsters to meet the realities of life because they have to accept that there are other people out there. One person suggested expanding the program in the school system to include more out of school activities, especially in the middle school. These need to be overnight trips, she added.

Ed Spojni, counselor for the Deerfield School, said that the objectives and goals were met. They were developing respect for nature and rules of conservation, supplementing the fifth grade history unit and an opportunity to work and live with their peers and teachers in an informal atmosphere.

Spojni commented that the highlight of the program, according to the youngsters, was naturalist Leonard Larock. He took the children on nature walks in the woods and also pointed out various aspects. On one walk Larock found a bird feather and told the youngsters the sex and to which direction the bird was flying. Spojni added:

Other highlights included the unit on the Revolutionary War, math games, art in nature and film making. The youngsters had a chance to see some of the things that are not seen and heard. They were writing stories about what they heard.

Spojni said that the program was carried over when the students returned. Spojni declared that many of the youngsters are bringing in books on nature. Some of them do not even have a camera. They are taking pictures of things that they have seen. There were only two negative comments from the fifth graders. Spojni stated that they complained about the food and others mentioned that there was not enough free time or rest periods.

The youngsters made two films while at Camp Minisink. One was on the American Revolution. The other was a series of slides depicting historical events and persons. Both which are outgrowth of class work, were shown at the meeting.

The slides were written by the students. They did research before going to Camp Minisink and made their own costumes. The costumes included their interpretations of the Vikings' discovery of Vinland, Cortez's conquest of Mexico, Sir Walter Raleigh's discovery of tobacco in the New World and Balboa's discovery of the Pacific Ocean.

The New Jersey Tea Party was depicted in the film on the Revolutionary War. Here, too, and made their own costumes. The costumes

Blaze at Lourdes School started with flaming liquid, probers start

The Mountainide Volunteer Fire Department and the Mountainide Police Department are investigating a fire of suspicious origin Sunday at Our Lady of Lourdes School, according to Fire Chief Bruce Griger.

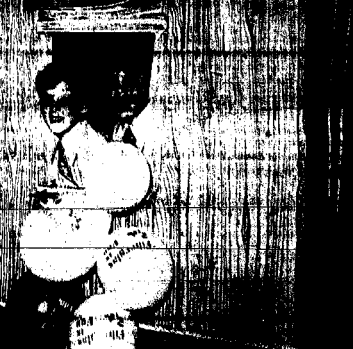

Damage was confined mainly to the janitor's storeroom, where the fire began. However, smoke damage was visible throughout the school building, as well as in the church proper, Griger said.

Griger reported that the church custodian and one of the pastors discovered the blaze around 8:30 a.m. when they opened the church for early services. While waiting for firemen, the custodian employed two fire extinguishers. Three pieces of equipment and two firemen responded.

In a joint statement, police and the Fire Department said that flaming liquid was used to start the blaze. Spilled liquid heated on a outside coil was ignited, Griger added.

Griger commented that the structure prevented a major blaze.

The Union County prosecutor's office and the State Police Crime Laboratory are cooperating in the investigation, the chief said. Anyone who has any information about the fire should call 422-1161, he added.

Time To Spare

By GENE ANDRETTI - Somerset Advisor

Some people picture the retirement years as a long, doing nothing time of life. Perhaps it is for those who have prepared for such an eventuality, and can afford it.

For most, however, retirement brings two changes: there is no job to check in for each weekday morning; monthly income is somewhat reduced.

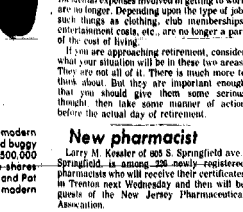

If you have your health and the ambition, you get a job part-time or full time. They are not very plentiful, but they can be found. Many employers like to hire the retired. They don't need full time help. Retirees have no time obligations and can be available at odd working hours.

Where income is concerned, it is a matter of adjustment. Experience may make it difficult to find a job. Involuntary expenses involved in getting to work are no longer. Depending upon the type of job, such things as clothing, club memberships, entertainment costs, etc., are no longer a part of the cost of living.

If you are approaching retirement, consider what your situation will be in three, five, ten, or 20 years. There is much more to think about but they are important enough that you should give them some serious thought then take some minor action before the actual day of retirement.

Letters to Editor

RESPONSE IN EMERGENCY

The Mountainside fire highly commends the members of the Mountainside Police Department and Rescue Squad for their dedication to duty.

The evening of Oct. 30 during a wedding reception at the Mountainside Inn, one of the guests had a heart attack. A call was made at once to the Police Department and Rescue Squad. The response to our call was unbelievable. Within a very few minutes both the Police and Rescue Squad were on the scene taking care of the emergency. They so doubt that their prompt action saved the life of our guest.

Our detentions to these forces are overwhelming as a result of this incident. It will not be all surprising. The next emergency call could very well involve any one of us.

Chief named for Guides

Mountainside Y Indian Guides and Braves will be headed by a 40-year-old vice-president of Franklin National Bank in New York City. It was announced this week.

Robert Hinkley, who belongs to the Guides with his six-year-old son, Thomas, has been named chief of the Mountainside-Franklin National.

He will coordinate the activities of tribes within the nation, help set up group projects and act as a link between their nations and the sponsoring YMCA. Hinkley resides in Westfield.

The Y Indian Guides meet in small tribes in homes every week, joining in a wide variety of activities and outings as a father-son team.

The center is based on the Indian tradition that a father introduced his child to the world and his ways, and all provides a convenient time for busy fathers to see their work and be with their children.

The annual induction ceremony for the tribes in which new members and braves are welcomed into the organization and old members dedicate themselves will be held Nov. 20 at 5 p.m. at Watching Reservation.

Field hockey stars take a swipe at American diplomats

Yield in the achievements of U.S. athletes and dismay over neglect of and discourtesy to them by American diplomats overseas are the primary reactions of two young women from Union who were members of the national field hockey team which toured the Far East this past summer.

For two months from mid-July, they played games in China, Taiwan, Australia, New Zealand, Malaysia, Hong Kong and Japan. Facing the world's best, from countries where field hockey is not so popular, they played 25 games, tied six and lost three. In the world championships in Auckland, New Zealand, they were placed eighth at 16 teams and they tied the Dutch team which won the world crown.

BUYERS' ADVOCATES — Third-year students in a joint project between the Office of Consumer Protection in Newark and Rutgers School of Law in Camden under the direction of

'Let the seller beware'

Law students aid consumer

The Latin phrase "caveat emptor" or "let the buyer beware" until quite recently described the relationship between buyer and seller in New Jersey.

But since the establishment of the Office of Consumer Protection in Newark, there has been a boon for the consumer which might well alter the maxim to "let the seller beware." And helping to enforce one of the toughest state consumer protection laws in the nation, are five students enrolled at the Rutgers University School of Law in Camden.

Enrolled last December, the Rutgers Project for Consumer Protection is under the direction of James J. Sealey of Mullen Hill, an associate professor of law.

The five-year students linked to the project investigate, mediate, research and sometimes recommend for litigation the cases the state agency refers to them.

There have been 23 cases to date. Eleven were settled with savings to consumers of more than $5,000; another dozen were prepared for prosecution, with 10 against the same two defendants; and five cases are still pending.

Prof. Sealey admits that "the number of cases the Rutgers students have handled is not large compared to the total number of complaints received by the Office of Consumer Protection." However, he says, settlements "probably would not have been brought to a head as quickly had their services not been utilized."

The fledgling lawyers are all enrolled in Prof. Sealey's Seminar in Consumer Remedies and receive academic credit for their project work.

Prof. Sealey believes that Rutgers in Camden is the first law school in the state, and perhaps the nation, to enter into such a cooperative project as a regular part of its legal education program.

In addition to serving the community, the students obtain the insights of practical experience while still in the law school environment where problems can be discussed, analyzed and resolved under faculty direction.

Prof. Sealey points out that the Division of Consumer Affairs also is gaining more manpower and a South Jersey "outpost" if other law schools would not have.

Cases referred to the School of Law by the Newark Office have necessitated trips to Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Cape May and Gloucester Counties to investigate a variety of consumer complaints involving auto purchases, home repairs, photo plans, health spas, extermination services, home furnishings and travel agencies.

Marilyn Loftus Schauer, first assistant attorney general, wrote on behalf of the State Division of Law and the Office of Consumer Protection that the joint project "not only provides a service to the residents of the South Jersey area and assists the agency in reducing the pending backlog, but also gives the student firsthand clinical experience with practical problems of state government."

New Jersey Bar to meet in Florida

The multi-year meeting of the New Jersey State Bar Association will be held Nov. 17 to 21 at the Diplomat Hotel, Hollywood, Fla. It is expected to attract more than 1,000 New Jersey attorneys and their guests.

New Jersey Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr. is one of the speakers who will appear at the meeting. Another is Miami attorney Bill Cohen who made international headlines when he helped Mr. and Mrs. DeLoach's retaining custody of their adopted daughter, Anna. Elyman Eugene Raymond III, chairman of New Jersey's Automobile Insurers Study Committee, will be part of a panel discussing implications of that commission's report.

Recital tells about dance in worship

The dance, banned from most Christian churches for the past 400 years, will be the subject of a public recital, "Dance in Worship," to be presented at the Upland College Chapel, East Orange, tonight at 7:30.

Professor Nancy Brook of the Department of Theater Arts of C.W. Post College will demonstrate through her recital that the dance is once again becoming recognized as a medium of spiritual beauty and power. Sacred dances from different periods of history will be described and examples will be performed.

The major portion of the program will be devoted to discussion and illustrations of dance as it is used in Christian churches today.

"Historical investigation reveals that among primitive and ancient peoples the dance was regarded almost exclusively as a form of religious expression," Miss Brook said.

"Although banned from most Christian churches for the past 400 years, the dance is once again becoming recognized as a medium of spiritual beauty and power."

Miss Brook received her training under Mary Him in New York City and Mary Wigman in Berlin. In West Germany she performed as guest artist for the National Theater in Mannheim. During the last four years she choreographed productions at the Roanoke College in Salem, Va. Under her direction a chapel dance choir was formed at Roanoke College and the choir participated regularly in worship services and recitals. Admission to the recital is free.

PUNCH LINE OF THE WEEK

NSC eyes bi-linguality

Members of the administration, faculty and student body of Newark State College, Union, met with the area's Spanish community leaders recently to discuss the development of a bilingual Spanish-English program, which could be offered at the college.

The foremost concern identified by the participants was the development of bilingual, teacher preparation and school guidance programs which would serve the needs of the local Spanish-speaking communities. These programs would focus on the development of teaching skills and teacher sensitivity to the educational needs generated by the socio-cultural problems of the urban Spanish-speaking child.

Modification of the present curriculum, student recruitment practices and on-campus guidance and counseling services will be studied at Newark State College to accommodate the recommendations of this meeting.

The participants agreed that the meeting was "fruitful and productive" and recommended future working sessions. Among the Spanish leaders participating were: Gertrud Alvarez, Elsa Comasana, Gloria Del Toro, Phil Garcia, Maria Gonzalez, Miguel "Chirre" Luis Rivera, Milton Silva and Cesar Vagella.

BUYING WISELY

From Better Business Bureau New York, Inc.

Dear Ladies:

I know you have published a lot of letters about people who were taken by Hong Kong tailors. Now you can add my name to the list. Early this year a Hong Kong tailor visited our city here in the Mid West. That day that appeared on my local paper made the deal sound like something you should pass up. My wife and I had a real bad argument because she wanted me to check with the Better Business Bureau before buying any suits. Anyway, I paid for three. They never arrived. I wrote lots of letters to the last number given as the Hong Kong address. Each one was returned marked "Box Given Up." Last month one of our executives was visiting Hong Kong on a business trip and managed to trace the tailor, who claimed that he had never visited the United States. It was his brother he said, not he was never expected to be seen again.

DEALIA TAKEN

Dear Ladies:

I had to tell you this. But I think you're being too nice. I think the "mysterious" tailor will turn up in the United States again and take your money. We have many reports in your area that you will find the Better Business Bureau is getting into a good deal of trouble.

YURNABLE TREATS (good listening) BY THE FIFTH by Peter Dinklage. Being back for a few years the talented Rick has become deeply involved in song-writing and will also find time for some of his own compositions. These include, among others, the metaphysical (philosophically speaking) "Oye" and the more "rock" "This Train" and the spiritually affirming "Thank You."

Rick also delivers readings of "Love Mine Zero" and "Just Like a Woman." For good reason. Rick is a very talented and talented rocker called "Pig So Good." Additional numbers include "Wee So Good," "The Last Time Around," "Money Train" and "Song For Kirstin."

The Stone Canyon Band consisting of four rock musicians are an integral part of Rick's music. The band originally was comprised of Tom Brumley, Pat Shanahan, Alan Kemp and Randy Mizer. A short time ago, Randy left the group and he has since been replaced by Steve Lee an adept singer and singer. The band took on the name of Stone Canyon musicians, but are the principal musicians on the album.

MISS OR HOME?
We have the most of us, become so accustomed to change that we take things in stride. Another Apollo mission. Another heart transplant. So what is new?

We aren't concerned about other important things, the literature that our children read, the movie they see at the local theater, on the television screen.

We pay little attention to obvious indications of prejudice and intolerance. We aren't concerned, unless we are directly involved. Are most of us like this? Or, just some of us? Where do you belong, with the moor, or with the same. And what about the future?

If the majority goes through life uncommitted, then let us join the minority. Let us look to the teachings of Christianity. To the lessons we find in the life of Christ upon earth.

Nixon asked to push port clean-up job

James W. Riley, president of the Eastern Union County Chamber of Commerce, said this week that the Chamber's executive committee has joined with others in the area by again voicing concern for the Waterfront Clean-up project in the Port of New York.

A recommendation for the action came from the Chamber's Harbor & Seaside Committee, which is chaired by John Q. Law Jr., supervisor of Navigational Services at Sea-Land Service.

Riley said that the Chamber would President Nixon urging that the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) approve the project "without undue delay."

Senators Clifford P. Case and Harrison B. Williams Jr. and Congressman Cornelius E. Gallagher have pledged their support to the Chamber for implementation of the project.

The text of Riley's letter to President Nixon follows: "It is our understanding that the Army Department of the Army's 'New York Harbor Collection and Removal of Debris Project Report' has reportedly been forwarded for approval to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) in the past. It has disavowed any federal responsibility for this clean-up."

"We believe that the refusal to fund this project is an injustice to the owners of the debris collection facilities as well as an inadequate tool to do this vital clean-up job. We contend that we need the comprehensive federal-state program recommended by the Corps of Engineers and endorsed by the States of New Jersey and New York and local port interests."

"Our area, Mr. President, is to continue playing a significant role in world-class renovation and upgrading that is being done. Therefore, we urge your immediate approval of OMB that the program approved by both the House of Representatives and the Senate be approved without further delay."

Domestics also rate benefits

Many homemakers in Union County may not consider themselves employees, but if they have someone to help them around the house, even on a part-time basis, they may be considered employees under Social Security.

According to Ralph W. Jones, Social Security district manager in Elizabeth, a homemaker is an employee if she pays a household worker 40 or more in cash wages in any 15-month quarter January through March, April to June, July through September or October through December.

"A homemaker must send quarterly reports of such wages, along with the Social Security contributions, to the Internal Revenue Service," Jones said.

The employer contribution is 5.2 percent of the wages paid the household worker. The employee pays a matching contribution of 5.2 percent, Jones said.

"However, many household employers pay the full 10.4 percent contribution themselves," he said.

By sending in the Social Security contributions each quarter, the homemaker employer is insuring the household worker and her family that they have the protection provided by the Social Security program, Jones said. "Social Security today means more than monthly checks and Medicare benefits after the household worker retires. Social Security also provides disability benefits for the family in case the worker becomes disabled or dies."

Nine out of every 10 household workers are women, district manager said. "If a household worker suffers a long disabling illness, Social Security benefits might be her family's only income until she is able to return to work," he said. "Even if that isn't the case, her children may be entitled to monthly checks."

Any employer who wants more information about making Social Security contributions for a household worker can ask for a copy of the leaflet "Social Security and Your Household Employee" at the Social Security office, Jones said.

Warm, wet the words for October

October goes down on the records as warm and wet, according to the monthly weather summary issued this week by Harold D. Dufloco of the U.S. Cooper Weather Station of the National Weather Service at Union College.

While temperatures ranged from a low of 33 degrees on Oct. 13 to a high of 78 degrees on Oct. 6, the average monthly temperature was a mild 50.9 degrees, Dufloco said. This was 5.8 degrees above average.

Total rainfall was 4.06 inches which was 1.54 inches above normal. The greatest amount of rain to fall in a 24-hour period was 1.89 inches between Oct. 9 and 10. This brings the total precipitation for the year to 48.61 inches. Total precipitation for 1970 was 52.81 inches.

While temperatures were milder, the weather was not necessarily balmy, Dufloco points out. There were only seven clear days as opposed to 18 cloudy days and six partly cloudy days. Fog was reported on Oct. 3, 15, 20, 28 and 31. There were thunderstorms on the 6th and 14th.

Job exams announced

James A. Alloway, president of the New Jersey Department of Civil Service, announced this week that the November open competitive examination bulletin contains 11 examinations in 110 announcements for positions in the County of Union. The bulletin also contains 18 examination announcements for the various municipalities in Union County under Civil Service.

Those interested in receiving the November examination bulletin and applications may contact the Department of Civil Service, Division of Examinations, Arnold Consulate Building, 100 Montgomery Street, Trenton 08625 or the branch office located at 1100 Raymond Blvd., Newark 07102.

Fulcomer elected first chairman of environment unit

James J. Fulcomer of Rahway, a former resident of Union Township, was elected the first chairman of the Union County Environmental Advisory Committee.

Also elected to the committee's first permanent officers were Mrs. Phyllis Quinn of Cranford, vice-chairman, and John P. Cannon of Westfield, corresponding secretary.

When finished, it will receive a minimum of 90 percent of the BOD factor from the sewage of the ten municipalities along the Rahway River watershed, including parts of Union, Roselle Park, Linden Park, all of Mountaineer and Springfield.

King said that rivers in Union County are in the worst shape. He noted that they contain levels of 12 to 30 percent of the oxygen required to keep them from becoming septic.

"I'm kidding myself," he said, referring to new secondary treatment facilities. "The new industry is not going to be enough. The sewage treatment plants are not going to work. High-rise apartments are being built and people are moving in."

Workshop planned on home sewing

The Union County Home Economics Extension Service will sponsor a workshop next week designed to help the home sewer work with polyester fabrics.

Miss Faye Collins, educational representative for the Unique Zippers Co., will be the speaker.

Mrs. Carolyn F. Yukins, extension home economist, has made arrangements for the program, which is intended to help home sewers with their holiday sewing.

The workshop will include a demonstration on sewing techniques, construction hints, and how to install an invisible zipper.

Boost in sales tax called preference

Property owners prefer an increase in sales taxes to a raise in property taxes, according to a recent nationwide survey by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"The workshop will include a demonstration on sewing techniques, construction hints, and how to install an invisible zipper."

Christmas Seal drive under way

The 1971 Christmas Seal campaign - the 45th annual drive to stamp out respiratory diseases - opened yesterday in Union, Hudson and Monmouth counties as more than a million sheets of seals were mailed to area homes by the TB-Respiratory Disease Association of Central New Jersey.

George Kobay of Rahway, vice-president of TB-Respiratory Central, said the campaign, the group's primary source of income, is being directed by Miss Dianne Warwick, popular video and recording star.

Kobay noted that this is the fifth regional campaign conducted by TB-Respiratory Central, which was organized in 1967 when the Union County TB and Health League merged with the TB units of Hudson and Monmouth counties.

"Pursuing this drive during the campaign," Kobay said, "support the association's year-round cycle of community service, professional and para-professional education and training programs, public health and public information programs."

With the rapid rise of emphysema and chronic bronchitis - pulmonary diseases which have become household words - the association is directing its efforts toward developing respiratory diagnostic and therapeutic centers in hospitals throughout the tri-county region.

"The key to controlling these breath-treating ailments is early diagnosis and early treatment in their early stages, and a network of respiratory care facilities are urgently needed to care for these patients," he said.

In addition to the patients with emphysema and chronic bronchitis, Kobay said, "we are also concerned about the individual who experiences respiratory failure caused by a sudden onset of a chronic breathing disorder. These include post-operative complications, drug overdoses, poisoning, pneumonia and trauma."

In May, the Medical Society of New Jersey endorsed a policy statement prepared by the TB-Respiratory Association of New Jersey, which urged all general hospitals to admit TB patients when they are unable to be treated in a specialized TB hospital or when other medical (non-tuberculous) problems arise.

During the past year, TB-Respiratory Central has conducted several programs for respiratory nurses and hospital personnel to outline this new concept and to assist area hospitals adjust to this new approach in providing care for these patients.

The Association distributed a new guide, "Isolation Procedures for TB Patients in General Hospitals," with local institutions to have these procedures implemented.

"Supporting the drive and using Christmas Seals," Kobay noted, "will help the association accomplish more for area residents. The Seals also convey the message that the fight against respiratory disease and air pollution has not been won."

"We have more to do," Kobay concluded, "that's why we urge all our supporters to give a little more this year. The contribution will return big dividends in improving community health."

For the Annandale performance, tickets requests should be mailed to "Nutcracker," Box 95, Annandale. A stamped self-addressed envelope is required. Tickets are $5 and $2.50 in advance.

Among the Union County residents of the ballet company are Terry Weinberger of Mountaineer, Ron Hirsch of Union and Maryellen Stickler of Roselle Park.

They are, left to right, Dr. Richard H. Gussis, an Elizabeth dentist; Miss Katharine D. Cross of Union, George G. Hubby of Rahway and Eugene E. Rodgers of Mountaineer. Funds raised during the campaign are used to combat and control emphysema, TB, chronic bronchitis, other respiratory diseases and air pollution.

Red Cross does much more than that. The American Red Cross helps people in many ways. When you need blood, when you need books in Braille, a hospital bed, a wheel chair, crutches, those who need instruction in baby and nursing care, and those who want training in first aid and water safety. These are just a few of the additional services Red Cross renders.

"I am proud to be the chairman of the board and happy to work with the volunteers and staff workers at headquarters. They are a wonderful group of people and I know my job as chairman of the board will be an easy and pleasant one because of the enthusiasm of the volunteers and the sense of responsibility they possess. Nonfarm employment growing on seasonally-adjusted basis

Mrs. Sailer studied at the Vard School of Fine Art and Corcoran School in Washington, D.C. as well as the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia. A scholar in 1947, she received a Bachelor of Arts and a Master of Arts degree in 1948. She has been awarded a number of national and regional prizes. estimating the distortion caused by seasonal change—nonfarm payroll employment reflected a gain of 800 in September. According to the department's Division of Planning and Research, which prepares these monthly estimates based on a sample survey, the usual seasonal drop in the service and trade industries was largely offset by gains in the manufacturing sector. Work recalls added 2,000 in the primary metals industry and 1,000 each in transportation equipment, apparel, and rubber and plastic products.

Work stoppages caused temporary declines in the building industry. In September, manufacturing disputes caused a drop of 900 in printing and publishing and 600 each in mechanical machinery and paper and allied products. Layoffs resulted in monthly reductions in the chemical and petroleum industries.

In contrast to a year ago, nonfactory payroll employment in September was larger than by 26.700 workers. In the manufacturing category, mill goods producers reported 10,000 fewer workers this September and hard goods manufacturers reported payrolls down by 2,300 workers.

Average weekly earnings in factory production workers rose by $2.23 in September to a record $131.81. Increased overtime helped boost average hourly earnings up 3 cents to $17.5, the smallest September increment since 1967. The average workweek expanded by 18 minutes to 47.7 hours. In contrast to a year ago, weekly earnings in September were up by $12 for an over-the-year advance of 8.6 percent. The workweek averaged a longer week and weekly earnings were 21 cents higher than a year ago.

Just what caused the 32-cent rise in average hourly earnings should not be construed as an increase in wage rates, which have been held steady by the Federal Reserve. "Average hourly earnings are affected by such factors as changes in the number of overtime hours worked, changes in the composition of the occupational mix of workers as some industries hire while others lay off."

Commissioners remain adamant, "The important developments in these latest figures are the advance in employment after seasonal adjustment and the strength of the factory workweek. We have been watching these indicators for evidence of economic recovery and increased demands for labor. They are now pointing in the right direction."

Steel band concert, talk by movie critic slated at Seton Hall

A steelband concert and a lecture by film critic Judith Critt will be presented at Seton Hall University, South Orange, next week. The Trinidad-Tripoli Steel Band, whose repertory ranges from classic to rock and roll, will perform at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 17 in the Student Center Lounge. The concert will also include traditional calypso numbers for which steel bands are noted.

Primarily steel bands, which originated just after World War II, were only rhythm units which could produce no melody. Since then, however, a full octave range has been achieved. With improved tuning, musical arrangements and musicianship have helped steel bands develop into a genuine musical form through a unique art.

The Tripoli Band, one of Trinidad's oldest steel groups, is especially noted for its fidelity and artistic accomplishment on its unusual instruments. Known as the "Royal Steel Band" for its appearances before Queen Elizabeth, it holds the island's top trophy for steel bands. Trinidad's cultural representative at Expo '67, and has made world concert tours.

Just as the island's top trophy for steel bands was Trinidad's cultural representative at Expo '67, and has made world concert tours. The NBC-TV Show since 1963, she is also film critic for both TV Guide and the New York Magazine, and is the author of a book on movies. She is known for reviews that are direct and hard-hitting, but also objective and witty.

The Student Programming Board at Seton Hall is sponsor of both programs. Tickets are $3 for each event.

Six NSC students win certificates for campcraft ability

Six men physical education majors from Newark State College, Union, have been awarded "certificates of campcraft ability" from the American Camping Association as a result of their participation in camping courses and the camping weeks required of all majors. They are: Larry Butz of Hillside, William Cheven of Bayonne, Paul Hiltz of Plainfield, Steve Schickman of Hillsdale, Richard Weige of Boonville Park, Fred West of Asbury Park.

"Not only do these awards give them an edge toward better summer jobs, but also in seeking positions upon graduation," an NSC spokesman said. "In the annual search for summer counselors such skills are sought by camp directors. The current educational drive toward greater outdoor use is environmental, and these students are well equipped for job placement in that area."

Newark State College is the only college in New Jersey which can currently offer this opportunity, with two out of the three certified A.C.A. instructors in the state. Mrs. Dorothy Holden and Ben Cummings, serving as faculty members. The instructor is not a state college faculty member.

Future graduates will also have an opportunity to acquire this certificate through the positions upon graduation. For more information contact the education courses offered by the department.

100-million-vehicle year for Turnpike?

The New Jersey Turnpike computers are clicking toward a 100-million-vehicle year for the safety of the nation's major toll roads marks its 20th anniversary this month.

On Nov. 5, 1951, the New Jersey Turnpike's first $15 miles from Deptford to Camden ceremony to signal the event, only a quiet excitement among the newly recruited toll collectors and the Authority's officials, tense and fatigued at the culmination of 19 months of planning. The Pile was opened another 40 miles to Woodbridge on Nov. 30, followed by subsequent openings to Newark Airport on Dec. 12 and to the northern terminus at Ridgefield Park on Jan. 15.

The entire original Turnpike of 136 miles is now grown since into a 141-mile superhighway with two extensions, a westerly meadow route and a 20-mile long 12-lane section was built in the record time of 21 months, under the Authority's first chairman, Paul L. Trovati, in the administration of Governor Alfred E. DuSable.

Former Governor Driscoll, who became Turnpike chairman in March, 1970, is looking forward to providing the public with even greater highway facilities in the future.

"We must keep pace with the needs of the growing public," he says, adding that the program underway for extending the 12-lane dual-duel to New Brunswick and plans for a road from Toms River to Boardwalk are a logical, realistic extension of the New Jersey Turnpike's real estate in being. We are observing our 20th Birthday without fanfare but with a determination to continue serving the public most efficiently and safely."

The rationale of the Turnpike, he believes, is based on the sound concept that divorces it from the tax structure, operating only on the revenues it derives from tolls.

The Turnpike chairman said he was proud of the road's accomplishments. "Outstanding in its safety record, flow remarkable this is one can see in the light of the ever-increasing traffic we have been able to accommodate—from nearly 30 million cars and trucks in 1970 to 100 million we anticipate for this year," Joseph this tremendous traffic flow," chairman Driscoll noted. "The New Jersey

Turnpike has become the safest of the country's major toll roads—with the lowest accident and fatality rate of all.

The Turnpike, he explained, was able to meet the challenge of an expanding population by a continuing program of improvement, climaxed in the opening of the widened portion last year. Accompanying this has been further refinement of safety techniques, minimization of entertainment activities by the State Police and the cooperation of what Chairman Driscoll believes is a public aware of the measures the Authority has taken to make use of the Turnpike a most pleasurable experience.

It is a far cry from that historic November 30 years ago, when 3,500 vehicles took the Turnpike on opening day. A total of 17,046,325 vehicles used the road during the first full year of operation in 1952. In 1970 the volume was 89,655,599—400 percent greater. This year the volume could reach the 100 million mark.

Hughes to speak at awards lunch

Former Gov. Richard J. Hughes will speak at the annual Outstanding Citizen of New Jersey Award Luncheon next Wednesday at the Robert Treat Hotel in Newark.

John T. Connor, chairman and chief executive officer of Allied Chemical Corp., has been chosen to receive the award for 1970 by the Advertising Club of New Jersey.

Announcement that Hughes has been selected as the principal speaker at the luncheon was made by Richard A. Cross, club president, who is director of advertising for Public Service Electric and Gas Co. Hughes is now partner in charge of the Newark law firm of Hughes, McElroy, Connell, Foley and Gear.

Connor, who served as Secretary of Commence in President Johnson's cabinet, joined Allied Chemical in 1967 as president and chief operating officer. He became chief executive officer in 1968 and board chairman in 1969.

Prior to serving in the Johnson Administration he was president and chief executive officer of Merck & Co., Rahway, from 1955 to 1965.

Unemployment funds

More than half a million returning servicemen are expected to receive $10 million this year in unemployment insurance to help them over until they find work, the Labor Department reports. Payments are made through the federal-state unemployment insurance system.

Note-worthy exhibition Instruments to be on display

Armchair travelers who have dreamed of joining expeditions to far away places can temporarily put aside their National Geographics and visit an exhibition at the New Jersey State Museum. Experienced travelers who want to see a different aspect of the places they have visited should also be interested in it.

Dr. Laura Boulton, an ethno-musicologist has traveled the world gathering musical instruments, taping the songs and ceremonies of various peoples and photographing her newly acquired friends who in some cases may be all the members of a remote tribe. Her collection will be the basis of an exhibition. Traditional Musical Instruments from the Laura Boulton Collection, which will be on display in the main galleries of the museum from Nov. 20 until Jan. 16, 1972.

Dr. Boulton will share her experiences at a public lecture to be held in the museum auditorium on Nov. 20 at 8 p.m. Visitors are invited to attend a reception following the lecture in the main galleries of the museum.

Dr. Boulton has amassed a collection of more than 200 musical instruments. African ankles rattles made of butterfly cocoons, stones and string, a Chinese erhu, an American Indian whistle made of eagle wing-bone, leather and feathers; Jordanian finger cymbals; a Cuban maraca; Indo-Chinese Mo-slit drums and a Tibetan trumpet are among the more exotic instruments which will be on display along with more familiar instruments.

In 28 extraordinary safaris, Dr. Boulton has traveled to such forbidding territories as the frozen wastes of the Arctic and the rarely visited areas of Haiti where voodoo is still practiced. She has been the guest of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, Prime Minister Nehru, Emperor Haile Selassie and tribal chieftains and peasants with whom she has shared an interest in music. Her contact with individuals and cultures has given her a unique outlook.

The State Museum is open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m.

Mr. Aghamalian to speak Sunday

Elaborate 'Dolly' embellishes stage at Meadowbrook

By REA SMITH Well, "Hello, Dolly!" It is no joke to have you back where you belong. And believe it or not, the big Broadway musical, with its elaborate costumes and its wide-ranged attractive music, its fantastic choreography and its ear-catching lyrics and memorable music, turns the Meadowbrook's small theater into the grandiose an especially big Broadway musical theater. With a little imagination, that is.

The musical is based on Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker," and when it is staged, enhances the story and the comic factors with musical numbers by Jerry Herman that are long remembered. The Meadowbrook has one of the finest casts a reviewer has seen in a long time in Cedar Grove. Much must be said for the boys and girls in the chorus, who carry the show to its extreme success. Sheila MacIntyre makes a good Dolly, physically, but she has a small voice, and doesn't carry through. Her partners, Bill McCubbin and Virginia Sells, as Vanderberger's funny, have fine voices and provide a fresh approach for the stage. Dorothy Emmerston and Virginia Sells do unusually good jobs in supporting roles.

But of course, the musical numbers such as "I Only Take a Moment," "I adore the Parade Fades Dolly" and the well-known waltz for "Hello, Dolly" are the real stars. There is no much in "Dolly" for one review. The best thing to do is to see yourself! It's big, it's wonderful, and it's worth a return visit.

'Doctor Zhivago' is on Union screen

"Doctor Zhivago," opened yesterday at the Union Theater. The film stars Omar Sharif, Julie Christie, Geraldine Chaplin, Alec Guinness, Tom Courtenay, Rod Stiegel and Ralph Richardson. The movie, which is in color, is about a Russian doctor-poor who tries to avoid involvement during the time of the Russian Revolution. The script was written by Robert Bolt and directed by David Lean.

'Hello, Dolly' starts run at the Elmora Theatre

"Hello, Dolly!" starring Barbra Streisand, Adrienne Barbeau, and Gene Kelly, who won an Academy Award for his prize movie, "The Shop on Main Street," begins its final run today.

The picture, which shows Kelly, who plays a small village, and has a love affair with a married man. The man is torn between his loyalty to his wife and his love for the woman. "Adrienne," which was filmed in color, stars Rade Markovic and Paula Patton. It is rated R.

'Billy Jack' held on Rialto screen

"Billy Jack" is being held over for a second week at the Rialto Theater, Westfield. The picture, in color, was released through Warner Brothers and is rated G.

The French Connection will open an exclusive engagement in the park on Wednesday. The rubric chase-cension thriller about an obsessed detective, who turns New York people down in his pursuit, in a new combination of stars Gene Hackman and Faye Dunaway, is being photographed in color and directed by William Friedkin.

Red Buttons at Fox

"Who Killed Mary Whate's name," a new comedy-mystery film, will open today at the Fox Theater, Rte. 22, Union. The picture, in color, stars Red Buttons. It is rated G.

Dustin Hoffman stars at Mayfair

"Who is Harry Kellerman?" a new film starring Dustin Hoffman, arrived yesterday at the Mayfair Theater in Hillsdale with "The Reversers." Both films are comedies. "The Reversers," based on the Faulkner novel, concerns a 19-year-old lad with irresponsible older pals (one white, one black), who are on a trip from Mississippi to Memphis. They stay at a hotel, get involved with a mess sheriff and end in a barroom. Steve McQueen stars in "The Reversers," with Sharon Farrell, Mitch Ryan and Robert Cross. Stanley Kubrick directed the picture, which was filmed in color.

Cusack president of college body on law enforcement

William E. Cusack, chairman of the Department of Law Enforcement at William Paterson College, has been elected president of the New Jersey Council of Educational Institutions for Law Enforcement.

Also elected were William L. Schneider II, law enforcement chairman at the County College of Morris, vice president, and William T. McColligan, director of the Police Training Commission, secretary-treasurer.

Among the first projects to be undertaken by CEILE next year will be the formulation of standards for distribution of federal funds for law enforcement programs which will be received next year by the Department of Police Assistance Administration, and to LEAP, federal Law Enforcement Assistance Program. CEILE membership includes that present allocation of federal funds for law enforcement programs nationwide, it is available.

CEILE, believed to be unique in educational circles, was founded in 1961 to meet the higher education needs of the law enforcement profession in New Jersey. Its purpose is to promote professionalism in law enforcement personnel, to improve police-community relations, to preserve the quality of existing law enforcement programs and to avoid proliferation of these programs and to provide guidelines for future programs in law enforcement education.

Representative teacher Cummings takes NJEA reins

Warren D. Cummings, English teacher at Newton High School, where he has taught for more than 40 years, this week took over as 21st president of the New Jersey Education Association.

Cummings, 61, just completed a two-year term as NJEA president. He was elected in the conclusion of the NJEA annual convention, held last week in Atlantic City. He became president without opposition. He will serve for another two-year term as chief elected leader of the 85,000-member NJEA, largest and oldest professional teacher organization in the state.

A Garden State native, Cummings has taught the same subject in the same school for all his professional career. A couple of years ago, he voluntarily resigned his chairmanship of the English Department in campaign for NJEA office as "a teacher representing teachers."

He has been described by other teachers as "a teacher representing teachers."

When he began teaching in 1929 - for $1,200 a year - he felt fortunate to have a job. By 1937, however, he was making less than he had started with. In 1940 the school board gave him high school seniors for their commencement. A role he has performed since for many years at Newton High.

A tall (6'11") rugged individual with bluish grey hair, Cummings has been active in recent years working on the NJEA legislative committee, seeking legislative support for improved educational conditions.

When he began teaching in 1929 - for $1,200 a year - he felt fortunate to have a job. By 1937, however, he was making less than he had started with. In 1940 the school board gave him a raise and at the same time fired his bride, Muriel, because boards in those days refused to place married female teachers under tenure.

"I've never been too disturbed over my low salary," Cummings lamented, "until my son, Warren L., began a new job recently as a sociologist with the Department of Transportation. He started out making what it would take teachers in this county 10 years to make. That tends to cause some inward reflection."

If that really caused Cummings any consternation, no one would ever know it. He constantly carries a large smile on his craggy face, and emits infectious laughter wherever he goes.

Still, his program for education during the next two years can be summed up in a single word - more. "More for schools, more for students, and more for teachers," he said.

"That means more of everything - facilities, attention, money, you name it. Education must become more important to the people if our public school system is to ever function properly."

Cummings has been a member of the NJEA Executive Committee for six years, and is a past president of the Sussex County Education Assn. and the Newton Teachers Assn. He once wrote a history of Sussex County at the request of a local weekly editor. For his efforts, Cummings received a citation from the National Education Association for his non-political columns. He later became editor of the weekly, moonlighting liberally from about 3 p.m. until early hours in the morning. "But I enjoyed every minute of it," he remarked.

Cummings was born in Siverston and attended public schools in Lambertville. He holds

-Thursday, November 11, 1971-
a B.S. degree in education from Trenton State College and a master's degree in education from Rutgers.

State gets $513,800 employment act funds

An additional allotment of $812,000 to the State of New Jersey under the Federal Emergency Employment Act was announced this week by Governor William T. Cahill. The allotment brings the total amount assigned to New Jersey under the EEA to $613.8 million.

In New Jersey the allocation of the additional $513,800 will go to cities, counties and neighborhoods with six percent or higher unemployment for the three recent months.

Chairman named by Cancer Society for 1972 Crusade

Roger Stevens Jr. of Chatham has been appointed chairman for the American Cancer Society's 1972 Crusade in New Jersey. It was announced this week by C. Victor Rhee of Vineland, president of the New Jersey Division of the society.

In accepting the appointment, Stevens, a former vice-president and trust officer of the American Cancer Society, said, "We will do our very best to surpass the 1971 Crusade total of $1,311,875 and, with the help of all New Jersey's volunteers, we will do more than ever before in the fight against cancer."

The Crusade will be conducted in April, which has been designated "Cancer Control Month" throughout the nation by an act of Congress. Stevens said, "The 1972 Crusade against cancer is a year-round campaign, not only to raise the funds necessary to fight cancer, but also to educate the public about the disease and the importance of its early detection."

Stevens is currently setting up the leadership structure for the April Crusade when volunteers try to reach every household in New Jersey with the society's "Light a Candle" message.

An active civic and community leader, Stevens has been a volunteer with the American Cancer Society for many years. He is a past president of the Society's Essex County Unit and currently serves on the Board of Managers of the Morris County Unit.

Stevens is presently first vice-president of the society's New Jersey Division and a member of its Board of Trustees as well as numerous committees.

He is a graduate of the Wharton School in Pennsylvania and the Rutgers University Graduate School of Banking.

Stevens and his wife, Dorothy, have four children.

Turtle Back Zoo closing until spring

Turtle Back Zoo in West Orange closed until Spring on Sunday. A seasonal zoo, with 772 animals of 235 species, the zoo has lengthened its season each year and hopes eventually to be able to stay open year round, when heated facilities for visitors become available.

The animals will remain in their present exhibit locations throughout the winter. Even the babies born this summer will be better off remaining in their present homes, zoo officials said.

The animals are cared for in the same manner by the zoo staff. Repairs and new construction take place during the winter months and in the spring there is a burst of activity with winter cleanup, new paint and added plantings.
