During the business portion of the meeting, Frank Harrison, club president, will appoint a nominating committee. Following the business meeting, the mayor and council will review the proposed local budget for the audience. A question and answer period will follow. ## Mrs. Hancock named to head Cancer Society's fund drive

Mrs. Donald F. Hancock of 1326 Summit lane has been appointed the 1973 American Cancer Society Crusade chairman in Mountainside. The educational and fund-raising drive begins April 1.

The appointment was announced by Sophie B. Baranski, the Union County Crusade chairman, who stated that Mrs. Hancock had accepted the position "because of her devoted desire to help conquer cancer." In accepting the position, Mrs. Hancock stated, "The emphasis of the 1973 Crusade is on action, and we shall be marshalling the efforts of our volunteers to bring home the message that the annual checkup can be a lifesaver."

Mrs. Hancock said she brings to the post a strong commitment to the society's fund-raising drive which helps support programs of national research, education and patient service. Mrs. Hancock is the past president of the Mountainside Woman's Club, and a member of the Mountainside and Gov. Livingston PTAs. She has been a resident of Mountainside for 15 years and is the mother of two children. In addition, she has been treasurer of the Cub Scouts for three years and a Girl Scout's mother. She is also a member of the Lions Club and the South Mountain New Jersey State Federated Women's Club. Mrs. Hancock stated, "Our theme is to want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime, and we are urging each resident of Mountainside to give generously to the American Cancer Society during the April Crusade."

Fire roster alarming Company needs volunteers

According to Mountainside Fire Chief Ted Byk, "once the volunteers join our company, they become so attached to it, they don't want to leave." But some have no choice, and Chief Byk is becoming concerned about finding replacements.

Byk noted that the company membership has dropped from 42 men about a year ago to 36 at the present time, and two more members are expected to leave shortly. "The only reason they're going," Byk said, "is because they have been transferred out of town. That's usually the reason we lose men: because they have been relocated, or when they had been renting homes here and have decided to buy their own house elsewhere. We try to keep membership in the 35-40 range, but I'm afraid we're soon going to drop below that level."

Byk noted that an ordinance was passed in January allowing 18-year-olds to join the company, "but," he said, "we have not received one application from anyone in that age group."

"I'd also like to point out that women are welcome to join the company, but no females have ever applied either."

Byk noted that disaffiliated volunteers would be especially welcome because they could be on call during the day. "This is basically a commuter community," he said, "with many of the men working out of town, and we would like more volunteers available during regular 'business' hours."

Byk said the department will accept persons age 18 through 47. A physical examination is required, and volunteers are placed on a year's probation. At the end of that period, the general membership decides whether to accept the volunteer on a permanent basis.

"No experience is necessary," Byk noted. "And besides the physical exam, the only other

Music Association will hold 'country' dance on Saturday

"Swing your partners," "allemande left" and "do-si-do" will be part of the lyrics sung by Ed Porter, oldtime caller, at the Mountainside Music Association square dance this Saturday evening at the Deerfield School gym.

"This community event is for those who've never square danced as well as those more experienced," said Mrs. Harry Serio, chairman of the evening. "Porter provides instruction for each dance and helps to inspire much fun," she added. The dance, beginning at 8 p.m. and ending at midnight, will also include traditional ballroom dancing. Other country events included in the evening will be "Turkey in the Straw" and a cakewalk. Sneakers or soft-soled shoes must be worn.

Free doughnuts will be provided by the MMA, and members of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School vocal music department will sell soft drinks to raise funds for their exchange trip to Virginia.

Tickets, at $2.50, may be purchased at the door or from Mrs. Anthony Pastore, ticket chairman, at 232-6000. Mrs. Louis Maas, Mrs. Henry Priender and Mrs. William Stanke are in charge of decorations; Mrs. Bruce Geiger, refreshments, and Mrs. Thomas Spina, publicity.

Fr. Smith to speak at church program

The Rev. Thomas Smith, pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church in Newark, will be the guest speaker at the "Day of Recollection" next Thursday, March 29, at Our Lady of Lourdes Church in Mountainside.

Father Smith was born in Hoboken and studied at the Immaculate Conception seminary at Darlington. He was spiritual director of Mount Saint Mary's Seminary in Maryland for 12 years. In 1970 Father Smith returned to Newark and was appointed pastor of Good Counsel Church.

The "Day of Recollection" is sponsored by the Altar and Rosary Society of Our Lady of Lourdes. The program will begin at 10 a.m. and end at 2:30. Those attending should bring lunch; beverage and dessert will be provided.

There will be a baby sitting service for those with young children who wish to attend. The children are to bring their own lunch. Juice and cookies will be available.

Council adopts budget for municipal purposes

By KAREN STOLL

The Mountainside Borough Council, at its regular monthly session Tuesday night in the Deerfield School, adopted unanimously a budget of $1,215,014, with an amount of $463,292 to be raised by local taxes.

The total, which includes a $1,132,388 figure designated for municipal purposes, and an $82,625 reserve for uncollected taxes, represents an increase of $64,466 over the 1972 budget.

The tax figure is up $17,544, representing approximately one point increase in the tax rate for local purposes. The total general appropriations, including funds for the local school district, regional schools, municipal and county programs will set the official tax rate at approximately $2.70 per $100 of assessed valuation, up from the present $2.55 rate.

The local tax dollar will find approximately 69.4 cents going toward local and regional schools, 19.7 cents going to the county, and 10.9 cents going to local operations.

COUNCILMAN LOUIS PARENT cited approximate figures representing distribution of the local tax bill since 1966, noting that the local bill has increased 71 percent, while the bill for local schools has increased 118 percent, regional schools, 139 percent, and county purposes, 150 percent.

The distribution of the tax dollar in 1966 included 68.2 percent for local and regional schools; 14.2 percent for local purposes, and 17.6 percent for the county. Last year the 68.2 percent went to the schools, 10.9 percent to the borough, and 20.9 percent to the county.

Parent, who also serves as council president, concluded the presentation to the council and the 85 residents in attendance with a submission of his resignation. He has served 5 1/2 years on the governing body, with his latest term due to end this year.

Parent, who is national director of purchasing for Johnson & Johnson, cited business reasons for his departure, noting that his job now entails increased travel, and would necessitate his absence from future sessions of the council. "I find it no longer possible to rearrange my business schedule," he stated, "and therefore would not be able to perform my full part in carrying the borough work load." His resignation will be effective April 1.

Parent was praised by Mayor Thomas Ricciardi and members of the council for his past service, and the governing body will make a formal presentation to him at April's meeting.

IN OTHER ACTION, the governing body unanimously adopted two ordinances: one appropriating $3,000 from the capital improvement fund for contribution to the Mountainside Rescue Squad for the purchase of life saving equipment for its new ambulance; the other appropriating funds for the improvement of playgrounds at Deerfield and Beechwood schools.

Two ordinances were introduced. The first would amend a ruling on annual license fees for the sale of alcoholic beverages, permitting a 20 percent increase over the 1972 fees for retail distributors and package dealers. The increase is allowed under state statute.

The second ordinance will amend salaries of municipal employees, other than those in the police department. No salary figures were presented at the meeting. Public hearings on both ordinances are scheduled for the April 17 session.

A NUMBER OF RESOLUTIONS were passed, including one appointing John J. Garrett of Piscataway as probationary patrolman with the borough police force. A second ruling authorized return of $151 in real estate taxes to Our Lady of Lourdes Church.

The monies paid on property from Jan. 1, 1973 to March 31 were refunded since the religious institution is exempt from taxes.

Partial preliminary endorsement was given to the U.S. Department of Transportation's request to establish new speed limits on Wood road, Sky Top drive, Coles avenue, New Providence road and Summit lane. The limits would all be 60 mph, except for that portion of Summit lane between the Tracey drive traffic circle and Summit road, which would be 40 mph.

A speed study is to be completed on the routes by the state highway department, and the Bureau of Traffic Engineering, and the council stated that a 35 mile limit also be set on the latter portion of Summit lane.

During the audience participation portion of

Cancer Society speakers address freshmen at Dayton

Bob Herpich and Benny Kasprak of the American Cancer Society addressed the freshman class last week at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield on Smoking and Lung Cancer.

continuing decline of per capita consumption of cigarettes in the last four years, studies indicate there is a rise in the number of teenage smokers," he stated.

Herpich stated he hoped everyone in the audience would bring pressure to bear on teenagers, adults, family and friends to help save lives caused by lung cancer. Today, there are over 29 million Americans who are ex-smokers.

"Hints are often a help in bolstering an individual's willpower," Herpich said. "A few are: Think of saving your health, not of giving up something of value; pick a specific time you will quit; when targeting in on that date, gradually reduce the consumption of cigarettes; substitute ginger root, sugarless gum, celery, carrots or other foods for cigarettes; and exercise regularly."

The American Cancer Society can't get people to stop, but it can help them in their decisions. For more information, readers may contact the Union County Unit at 512 Westminster ave., Elizabeth 07208.

Amnesty discussion to be sponsored by Democratic group

The Democratic Advisory Committee of Springfield will conduct a panel debate on amnesty for draft evaders, military deserters and conscientious objectors on Thursday evening, April 5 at 8:30 at the National State Bank at the corner of Morris and Linden avenues in Springfield.

A committee spokesman stated: "As American involvement in Vietnam draws to a conclusion, the problem of what to do with those young men, many of whom have immigrated to Canada and Sweden, who refused to participate in what a number of them considered to be an immoral, unjust war but who now wish to return home from their self-imposed exile, becomes foremost in the minds of many Americans, particularly the present administration in Washington.

"The question of the status of our increasingly isolated expatriates is certainly a weighty one because it involves not only legal but moral and political considerations as well." The forum will feature such distinguished speakers as a former infantry captain, Ron Whishart, a much-decorated Vietnam veteran, and John Penkalski, director of the New Jersey Draft Information Counseling Association, who will discuss the several aspects of this very controversial issue.

"The public is invited and questions and comments from the audience will be encouraged."

Montessori School to hold 2 previews

Two preview programs are being planned by the Montessori School of Cranford to demonstrate some of the equipment that will be used by pre-school children when the school opens in September. The purpose of these programs is to acquaint parents of children age 3 through 5 with materials and techniques employed in the Montessori Method of education. The meetings will be held on Wednesday, March 28, at the Calvary Lutheran Church, 110 Eastman ave., Cranford (one-half block from the Post Office) at 1:30 p.m. and at 8 p.m.

The Montessori Method emphasizes learning through doing and doing through interest or curiosity. The classes stress working with sensorial materials either alone or in groups of two or three. In a typical Montessori classroom a small group of children will be seen working with a minimum of instruction from the teacher and concentrating on their own project with freedom to move about, work at a low table or on a floor mat.

The teacher becomes an observer rather than an instructor and gives assistance only when it is needed or requested. While the children are free to choose their work, the responsibility of handling it carefully and returning the materials to their proper place is emphasized.

When the Montessori School of Cranford opens in September it will also include a special program in sensorimotor training activities that stresses the Montessori concept of motor development and physical co-ordination.

Science workshop set for parents March 29

Art Center opens exhibit

The Jeffery F. Beardsall-Alan Turner exhibit will open Sunday, April 1 from 3-5 p.m. in the new Summit Art Center at 68 Elm st. in Summit.

The show will consist of paintings, drawings and etchings by Beardsall and drawings and paintings by Turner. Both men teach at the Summit Art Center. Turner's work is realistic, whereas Beardsall's is abstract figurative.

By coincidence, four years ago when Beardsall left London in his native England for New York, Turner left his native New York for London. Both painters now live in the Soho district of New York.

Turner had his most recent one-man show at the Galerie Neuendorf in Cologne, Germany. Some of his work is included in a current group show at the museum in Recklinghausen, Germany. His work was also included in the book, "New Realism," by Udo Kulterman and his drawings were published by the New York Times.

Although Beardsall's prints have been exhibited at Yale and the Associated Artists Gallery in New York, this is the first exhibition of his paintings in the United States.

NUCLEAR TREATY

On March 5, 1970, the treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons went into effect following ceremonies in Washington, London and Moscow.

This new collection expresses so well a teen-age girl's need to confide in someone. Who better to confide in, when no one else will listen, than God?

With simplicity and poetry the author writes of the little annoyances of everyday living in a family; of school stresses and the emotional upsets that confront young women today.

There are comforting and joyful prayers-poems to lift the spirits and soothe the heart. It is a lovely book to read and to own.

"I WAS A 98-Pound Duckling" by Jean Van Leeuwen. Kathy and her girl friend Beth set out on a beauty routine that includes improving their hair, diet and knowledge of cosmetics. This they record with great detail and precision.

This is a light-hearted irresistibly funny story, fast reading and self-mocking, but it does pay off when Kathy has that first date, a landmark.

It has a message - adolescence must be endured and the two girls emerge from their rites of passage with some worldly-wise groans and giggles.

First dinner-dance by Choral Parents

The Choral Parents Society of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School will hold its first dinner-dance at the Club Diana in Union at 8:30 p.m. on Saturday, celebrating the vocal department's ventures of the 1972-1973 season.

This year marked the first time any musical group from the regional system ever sang abroad. Forty students representing the department had been invited by various Mexican groups to perform for them. A spokesman said their reception "enhanced the already-fine reputation of Jonathan Dayton's vocal students."

The department, under the direction of Edward Shiley, presents a five-concert series for the local community and is often requested to perform for local community functions.

Those attending the dinner-dance honoring the department will be entertained by students of the vocal music section as well as preview scenes from the school's forthcoming musical, "West Side Story."

Judy Williams, president of the Choral Parents Society, has stated, "The evening will act as a fun and fund raiser. There will be prizes for all, favors and dinner and dancing to a delightful combo - all to ensure a wonderful evening for our friends supporting the vocal music department."

Reinhardt retiring at end of this month

William C. Reinhardt of Forest Drive, Springfield, will retire at the end of March after 21 years as assistant superintendent and driver of the private bus at Short Hills Village. He and Mrs. Reinhardt will leave shortly for Port Charlotte, Fla., where they plan to reside permanently.

The four include Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, Edwin B. Forsythe and Joseph J. Maraziti.

Bateman quoted the four GOP congressmen as saying: "Our endorsement of Gov. Cahill reflects no lack of respect or appreciation for our colleague, Charles Sandman. We like him and regard him highly. But we find no need to change the leadership of our state. New Jersey is in the excellent care of a fine governor—Bill Cahill—and we proposed to keep it that way for four more years."

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

Creative women concerned with stretching the family budget find great satisfaction in being able to make "something for nothing." So they make good use of fabric leftovers.

One way to use fabric scraps is to make a matching handbag or tote bag. Patterns of various kinds are available, and you can buy handles at craft shops or notion counters. It is possible to buy kits to make tote bags. They include stiffening material and all other supplies, plus instructions. You can use the fabric of your choice and have a professional looking bag for very little money and effort.

Polyester knits make good swim suits. Depending on the style of the suit you prefer, you may have enough left-overs for the whole thing.

If you have small children or grandchildren, fabric left-overs probably are no problem. Leftovers usually are large enough for shorts, sleeveless blouses or tops, and sun-suits for children.

Science units aid in school studies

Students at Our Lady of Lourdes School, Mountainside, study science by means of the new elementary science units. The chief function of these units is to permit students to discover the concepts for themselves.

Microgardening, gases and airs, kitchen physics, "small things" and other units enable them to work in small groups and individually to meet their own basic needs. Students learn the fundamentals of a microscope, how to make their own slides and finally how to mount insects.

The science units are accompanied by worksheets that explain the function of each experiment and allow the students to grasp the new scientific language.

These units are primarily used in the sixth through eighth grades. However, some kits provide equal instruction for the lower grades as well.

Teenager injured as car overturns, strikes utility pole

A Mountainside teenager was injured Sunday night when his small sports car overturned on Summit road near Wyoming drive and struck a utility pole. He was the second youth to be injured in a borough traffic accident during the week, police reported.

Police said Neil R. Molinaro, 18, of 1149 Maple ct., told them he was travelling north on the thoroughfare at about 8:55 p.m. when his tires became stuck in a rut on the side of the roadbed. The wheels reportedly hit a pile of rocks, and the car flipped over, crashing into the pole. Police described the vehicle as a total wreck.

Molinaro, suffering a lacerated forehead, was taken to Overlook Hospital by the Mountainside Rescue Squad. He was treated and released.

The other accident occurred Friday at 10:55 p.m. when a car driven by Glenn W. Mitchell, 17, of Berkeley Heights ran off the roadway on Central avenue. The auto ran across a lawn, striking shrubbery and a mailbox. Police said a passenger in the car, Douglas Daniels, 17, also of Berkeley Heights, suffered a cut on the head but refused to go to the hospital.

Mitchell was charged with careless driving as a result of the crash. Police said he claimed "something" had passed him, forcing him off the road.

the meeting, a few residents questioned the council's action of cutting only $30,000 from the defeated school budget. Mayor Ricciardi noted that council members had held private caucuses and several meetings with school board members to study all aspects of the budget before authorizing the cut. He also noted that, by law, council, could only cut the amount to be raised by taxes.

Gourmets in fifth grade

Cooking integrated with studies

The boys and girls in Alfred Landis' fifth grade class at the Echobrook School, Mountainside, prepared a gourmet dessert for culmination of a unit on New England and the American Revolutionary War.

Many other subject areas have been integrated with this study. In preparing the Boston cream pie, the children had to master the four basic operations to compute fractions. The ingredients were given in fraction form.

To correlate with the Boston Tea Party, the children brewed and drank tea. Boston baked beans were also prepared.

Several art projects were made to depict many of the symbols that represent the Revolution.

The children have also mastered the poems "Paul Revere's Ride" and "The Concord Hymn" by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, parts of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. All of the children have written reports on the New England states and the Revolutionary War.

These reports have been cataloged by the fifth grade and are now found in the Echobrook School library shelves for other children to use. This experience has enabled the children to gain further knowledge of their library skills. The children have taken a trip to Philadelphia to Independence Hall to see where the Declaration of Independence was signed. Congress Hall, the Liberty Bell and many other historic sites were visited.

All of the previously mentioned items have led the fifth grade into a very enjoyable, interesting and informative background of the founding of our nation, according to a faculty spokesman.

Inspection, license cases monopolize local court session

Only seven motor vehicle cases resulted in fines levied by Judge Jacob R. Bauer at the March 14 session of Mountainside Municipal Court and all involved violations regarding inspection or license plates.

Robert M. Price of Cranford was fined $15 for failing to have inspection on the car he was operating on Tracy drive. The rest of the summonses were given out on Rt. 22, and these included a $25 fine to Samuel E. Wilson of East Orange, for failure to reinspect his car and for contempt of court.

A total of $30 was paid by Bernard Sanders of Newark, for operating a car overdue for inspection and for contempt. Donald A. Risley of Lake Hiawatha was fined $15 for failure to make repairs on his auto.

William C. Clancy of Greenbrook received a suspended sentence and a $5 fine for operating an unregistered vehicle, and also paid $35 for using other plates on the car.

Two trucking companies were fined for violations: Haritan Trailer Mig. Co. of Somerville, $15 for not having a rear license plate on one of its tractor trailers, and R. C. Motor Lines Inc. of Jersey City, for operating one of its trucks with one plate.

New UC library to open next week

Union College will move into its new $3 million library at the Cranford campus next week. It was announced this week by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, president.

About 50,000 volumes will be moved from the library in the Nomahegan Building into the new library, Dr. Iversen said.

The library is part of a $4.5 million expansion program that includes a classroom building and new parking facilities, Dr. Iversen explained.

The new library contains 52,000 sq. ft. on three levels. It will provide seating for 450 students and space for 100,000 volumes. Only 40,000 sq. ft. are being opened at this time with 12,000 sq. ft. in the lower level unfinished and available for future expansion, Dr. Iversen said.

The library includes an Art Gallery, a special collection room for materials on Union County, a Board meeting room, which will also be used as a conference room, two seminar rooms, and individual study carrels for faculty doing graduate work.

As soon as the move into the new library is completed, the present library in the Nomahegan Building will be converted into a quiet student lounge and faculty offices.

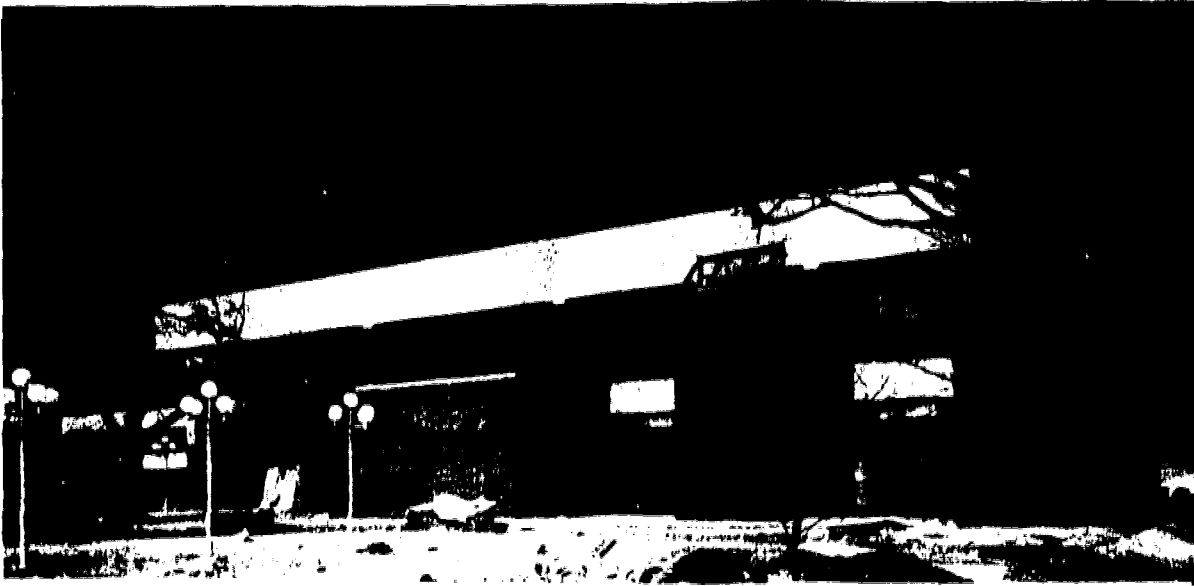

Dr. Iversen said the 24,000 sq. ft. classroom building, which contains 17 classrooms, two lecture halls, faculty offices, seminar rooms and other facilities, is nearing completion and will be ready for use during the summer session, which opens in late June.

Both the library and classroom building are entirely air-conditioned and electrically heated.

The library is phase II of the master plan for the development of the Cranford Campus, and the classroom building is phase III. Phase I was MacDonal Hall, the administration building, which was opened in 1970. Planning is now under way on phase IV, which will provide for the expansion of the Campus Center.

The Library-Classroom Building Project is being financed with a federal grant of $847,000 with a federal interest subsidy grant, and with a loan from the New Jersey Educational Facilities Authority as well as private gifts raised in a campaign directed by Mr. H. Stanley Krusen of Summit, a trustee and former president of Shearson Hammill, New York City stock brokerage firm.

The move into the new library will be under the direction of Prof. George P. Marks, III, of Elizabeth, library director, and Mr. John Holdorf of Elizabeth, assistant librarian.

NEW LIBRARY AT UNION COLLEGE — Union College will move into its new $3 million library building at the Cranford campus next week. With space for 100,000 volumes and seating for 450 students, the new library also contains an art gallery, a Union County room, and an audio center. Once the move is completed, conversion of the old library into a quiet student lounge and faculty offices will begin. The classroom building adjacent to the new library will be completed in June and opened for the summer session.

History buffs visit Cannonball House

POINT OF INTEREST — Springfield's historic Cannonball House, scene of a recent study visit by the Union High School Jerseyans, student members of the N. J. Historical Society.

The Union High School Jerseyans last week visited Springfield's historic Cannonball House, located at 128 Morris ave. The Jerseyans is an association of student members of the New Jersey Historical Society in schools and communities across the state.

Members, organized as clubs, respond to the history of their state and nation by participating in a wide variety of experiences including archeological digs and historical research. The Union High School chapter is sponsored by Michael A. Yesenko, an economics teacher at the high school.

Built about 1741, the Cannonball House is one of the four houses which survived the Battle of Springfield on June 23, 1780. All other homes were burned by the British army under General Knyphausen.

The only damage to the house came when a cannonball pierced its west wall. Legend has it that the house was spared because a woman inside was expecting a baby. Many parts of the house are original, and the historic cannonball can still be seen. Currently the headquarters of the Springfield Historical Society, the house is open to the public on Sundays between 1 and 4 p.m.

The tour was given by Howard Wiseman, museum curator of the New Jersey Historical Society; Howard M. Guttmann, associate in HERE'S HOW Theodore Klein, engineering instructor at Union College, helps Alejandrina Romero of Peru set up an engineering problem. Miss Romero is the lone coed in the Civil Engineering program at Union College.

She picks lab, not lib Civil engineering student at UC

The serious young woman seated at a drawing board in an engineering class at Union College might easily be taken for a product of Women's Lib. But it would be just another example of how looks can be deceiving. Miss Alejandrina Romero of Peru, who is making her home in Paterson, is attractive, feminine, believes in marriage and children and just happens to want to be a civil engineer.

Rare books in med college's library

Ancient tomes could be used for study today

Hippocrates, Vesalius, Galen, Harvey... historic names inscribed on volumes that were forerunners to modern medicine, here to be seen and studied at the library of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey.

The 1,000 volume collection, on deposit from the Academy of Medicine of New Jersey, represents the foundation of medical knowledge and affords a passage back into medical history. Many of the works, which illustrate the methods and tools of the earliest physicians, have been preserved in their original, ornately designed bindings.

Physicians and medical students view the collection of 16th, 17th, 18th and 19th Century volumes as an invaluable addition to library archives. However, to a medical historian such as Morris H. Saffron, M.D., Ph.D., these antiquarian texts are an enduring complement to the study of medicine.

Opening up one of the larger volumes, a 17th Century Bidloo Anatomy, Dr. Saffron pointed to the clearly engraved illustrations. "These basic structures are so carefully delineated a student could study from them today," said Dr. Saffron adding, "If necessary such books could provide an anatomical education by themselves."

Dr. Saffron, who is on the library committee of the college, and was curator of the collection for many years, turned to a smaller text and explained its particular contribution to history.

"This is the first American medical text to receive wide acclaim throughout Europe," said the historian. "It is called Experiments and Observations on the Gastric Juice and the Physiology of Digestion, and was written by William Beaumont, an army surgeon, as the result of a study he made on a Canadian trapper who was accidentally shot in the abdomen."

Dr. Saffron also pointed out the signature of William Pearson Jr. on the title page and PLUMBERS, ATTENTION! Sell your services to 50,000 plumbers with a low cost Want Ad. Call 686-7700.

ANCIENT ANATOMY—Precision anatomical illustrations offered for analysis and study hundreds of years ago by the fathers of modern medicine. At left, the human skeleton illustrated in the 1675 "Anatomia Humani Corporis" by Godefridi Bidloo. At right, human musculature published in 1543 by Andreas Vesalius in his "De Humani Corporis Fabrica." These volumes are among the 1,000 presented to the library of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey by the Academy of Medicine of New Jersey.

related that Pierson was one of many generations of physicians in that family who practiced in the Orange Mountain area of New Jersey.

Another local physician, the late Dr. Aaron Parsonnet, was responsible for maintaining the condition of many of the volumes. A bookbinder by avocation, Dr. Parsonnet collected the historic texts and, if necessary, rebound them.

However, because value is greatly determined by originality, the physician would preserve the original bindings wherever possible by constructing separate box-cases to protect the fragile volumes. The collection includes many examples of the black and red cases constructed by Dr. Parsonnet.

Dr. Saffron noted that the Parsonnet family continues to be prominent in local medicine, with Dr. Victor Parsonnet directing surgery at Beth Israel Medical Center. Both Victor and his wife Mia are also on the faculty of the medical school.

Collecting these rare medical books was encouraged as far back as 1902 by John Cotton Dana, who was then head of the Newark Public Library. Later, in 1911, the Academy of Medicine of New Jersey was established and the collection found a new home when the academy moved to quarters at Lincoln Park, Newark, in 1920.

Philip Rosenstein, director of libraries at the college, emphasized the "sense of history" gained by the college as a result of the acquisition.

Nixon's reversal of VA plan hailed

Jack Schechter, commander of Elin-Unger Post 273 Jewish War Veterans, this week applauded President Nixon's order to the Veterans Administration to withdraw its plan to cut benefits for amputees and other disabled veterans.

"It was a shocking indignity for the VA to even consider reducing the disability rating for those who have sacrificed so much for their country," Schechter said. "This is a time when we should support proposals to increase benefits and re-training programs for the nearly one-half million disabled Vietnam GI's."

"There is nothing we can ever do to fully repay a man who gave his limbs or suffered a severe handicap in service to his country. What we can do—what we must do—is to make the young returning veteran's re-entry into society as easy as possible."

Seton Hall project will review waste disposal problem

Seton Hall University's Bureau of Business Research and Center for Environmental Studies is planning a study of solid waste disposal problems in New Jersey.

The joint effort of the research staff to be employed will be under the aegis of the School of Business Administration and headed by Professor Philip R. Phillips, a research associate of the Center. The objective of the study is to suggest solutions to the environmental problems facing the state.

Findings from the study will augment a recent survey by Seton Hall researchers which examined the budget costs of selected New Jersey municipalities. The survey determined actual costs involved in solid waste collection in towns that maintained municipal disposal departments and those that were serviced by private concerns.

"Since solid waste disposal is one of New Jersey's most pressing problems and could become ever more of a problem in the immediate future, Seton Hall University is undertaking this study in recognition of a responsibility to the communities and the State," Phillips said.

"We are concerned with this critical problem that exists within the State," he continued, "and we hope to suggest recommendations for action with regard to both the public and private sectors of the problem."

Phillips stated he hoped public and/or private funding would be forthcoming to augment the Center's funds in order that the project be completed reasonably soon. Phillips is a professor of finance at Seton Hall.

Recruiters named in Guard company

The 50th Finance Company has named a team of new recruiters to help fill openings created as a result of the New Jersey Guard's reorganization. Sgt. George Cain and Sp-4 Lee Robinson have the responsibility of locating a limited number of quality personnel who have or would like to have a background in the finance area.

A familiarity with accounting, typing, bookkeeping or clerical systems and procedures is desirable but not demanded from those interested in joining the Finance Company, the recruiters said.

They added that the Finance Company offers inexpensive insurance programs, scholarship funds through the Guard, and nationwide travel at nominal cost under an Air National Guard system.

Cain and Robinson said interviews may be arranged by sending a card or letter to the Finance Committee Recruiter, P.O. Box 5116 Greenville Station, Jersey City, N.J., 07305.

Bible translator to talk at Wycliffe group dinner

A Wycliffe Associates dinner will be held at Evangel Baptist Church, 242 Shumpike rd., Springfield, Monday, March 26, at 7 p.m. to encourage interest and support for the Wycliffe Bible translators.

The team live in tribes, learn the language, develop an alphabet, teach reading and writing with the goal of translating the New Testament into the native tongue.

Upgrading health and agriculture and teaching simple industries is also part of their outreach.

The dinner speaker, Will Kindberg, has completed the translation of the New Testament for the Campa Indians who live deep in the Peruvian jungles. In addition, he has carried on an extensive medical ministry. Schools have mushroomed, congregations of believers have multiplied and scores of Campas have become Christians.

For reservations call Mrs. John Gelwicks (277-1381) or Mrs. Andrew Frega (697-6995).

Safety expert warns drivers of nighttime motoring hazards

The chances of a fatal or serious auto crash are greatest at low visibility periods after dark, Don Costa, safety director for the Allstate Insurance Companies, has warned.

"Nighttime crashes account for 53 percent of traffic deaths, and almost half of all pedestrians killed in traffic are struck down between 5 p.m. and midnight," Costa pointed out.

To help motorists drive safely after dark, Allstate's safety director offered the following advice:

1. Allow for more stopping distance. With visibility reduced, driving reactions are sometimes delayed for that "fatal second."
2. Slow down! After dark, every driver needs the extra reaction time that slower speeds provide.
3. Don't overdrive the headlights. Headlights can light up about 350 feet of roadway. At 50 mph, a motorist needs about 243 feet to stop. But at 60 mph, 366 feet are required to stop.
4. Keep windshields and headlights clean. A spattered windshield magnifies the glare of oncoming headlights, and dirty headlights reduce visibility.
5. Protect your eyes. Do not wear sunglasses at night or during periods of low visibility. Look slightly to the right of oncoming headlights.
6. Be careful passing. Observe the headlight range of preceding cars. Pass only when the road is clear.

7. Use lights correctly. Don't drive after dark unless all headlights and signals are working. Never drive with only parking lights on. Avoid using high beams in congested areas or when there is oncoming traffic.

8. Be seen, be safe. Signal every turn, lane change, and when leaving curb parking spaces. Pump the brakes when slowing down to warn drivers behind.

A shot in the bark

Leonardo da Vinci was the first scientist to inject a chemical into a tree, he injected an arsenic compound into a fruit tree and came up with poisonous fruit. Today, the stately American Elm may be saved from the lethal and ubiquitous fungal infection called Dutch elm disease by injecting a chemical called benomyl. Known since 1969, the antifungal chemical has proved to be highly active against the disease, but injection of a sufficient amount to offer protection has not been possible with large trees.

Now two groups of scientists have developed a high pressure injection technique that can introduce 20 gallons of the chemical into large trees in 10 to 30 minutes. Tests showed that the solution reached even small twigs and leaves. The technique has been used so far only to protect successfully trees which were inoculated artificially with the disease. Ideal conditions for treatment of diseased trees have yet to be worked out. Ideal conditions for treatment of diseased trees have yet to be worked out.

The injection technique has been developed by E.B. Himelick of the Illinois Natural History Survey in Urbana and Winand K. Hoch and associates of USDA's Shadetree and Ornamental Plants Laboratory in Delaware, Ohio.

DR. JOHN J. QUALTER

Memorial General reelects Qualter mid staff president

Dr. John J. Qualter of Short Hills, has been re-elected president of the medical staff at Memorial General Hospital, Union.

Qualter joined Memorial General in 1962 as house physician after completing his internship at the Osteopathic Hospital of Maine, at Portland.

A graduate of Fordham University College of Pharmacy, he completed his medical studies at Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine in 1961. Qualter spent four years in the Air Force as a pilot before entering medical school. He resides in Short Hills with his family and has offices in Maplewood.

School volunteers to direct Cahill reelection committee

Former Union County Republican Chairman Richard G. Schoel of Westfield will be chairman of the Cahill for Governor Committee in Union County.

State Sen. Raymond H. Bateman (R-Somerset), and Assemblywoman Josephine S. Margetta (R-Morris), co-chairmen of the statewide committee, announced this week that Schoel had volunteered to spearhead the county campaign drive in Union to support Gov. William T. Cahill for re-election.

Schoel, who is director of marketing information for Johnson & Johnson International in New Brunswick, served nearly five years as GOP County Chairman until he resigned last December to devote more time to business.

In announcing plans for the formation of a campaign committee in Union, Schoel credited Cahill with "bringing good business sense to the operation of state government during his first four-year term."

"Bill Cahill has been an outstanding governor," Schoel said. "His administration has provided efficiency and economy in government with a courageous approach to solving many of the state's problems."

"Governor Cahill instituted a series of recommendations by his management study commission that is saving New Jersey $50 million a year in governmental costs," Schoel said. "And his state budget this year requires no new taxes, a significant accomplishment in the face of increasing demands on government.

"The Governor's common sense approach to the problem of our bankrupt railroads, by insisting on a genuine effort at consolidation before the state continues long-range subsidies, and his dramatic success in getting the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey to respond to long-awaited mass transit needs in New Jersey typify the progress that the Cahill administration has made for this state."

Schoel said the committee he is forming will urge Cahill to seek a second term and work for his re-election "so that he can build upon that progress."

"Any good businessman knows the value of continuity of leadership," said Schoel. "There is no reason to change simply for the sake of change and I believe Governor Cahill has earned the endorsement of every Republican in Union County."

Schoel predicted that Union County Republicans would give Cahill "a resounding victory" in the June primary election.

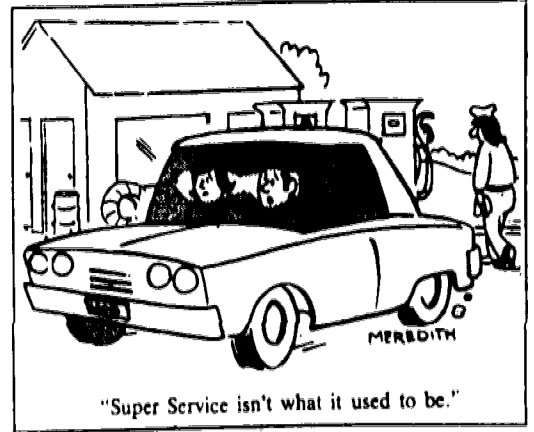

Schoel has been active in Republican party affairs since 1961 and served as chairman of the Union County Republican Citizens Committee in 1965 and the Committee on Youth for the Republican State Committee in 1971-72. He was a delegate to the 1972 Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.

Data sought by Census

The U.S. Bureau of the Census is conducting its regular monthly survey this week on employment and unemployment in this area, 1970 census was taken in April of that year.

The sample of households in this area taking part in the survey are among 50,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all households.

In addition to the usual questions on current employment, the March survey will ask about work experience and income last year of household members, their origin or descent, and whether they have moved since the 1970 census was taken in April of that year.

Alcoholic detection clinic set

A free "Alcoholism Detection Clinic," the first ever offered in Union County, will be held April 10-12 in Elizabeth General Hospital.

The clinic is jointly sponsored by the Union County Office of the National Council on Alcoholism, the Union County Board of Freeholders and the hospital's Alcoholism Treatment Center, which opened last year.

Mrs. Teresa McGeary, who heads the Westfield office of the North Jersey Chapter of the National Council on Alcoholism, said, "Alcoholism is a major public health problem in New Jersey, particularly in the large cities. We have an estimated 350,000 alcoholics in New Jersey. Most of them live in the northern part of the state. We urge any persons having difficulty with alcohol to avail themselves of this free clinic."

The clinic will be open to the public from 2 to 4 p.m. on April 10 and from 7 to 9 p.m. April 11 and 12 in the Mental Health Center of the hospital.

Dr. Joseph Judd, who heads the Alcoholism Treatment Center in the hospital, and staff members of the National Council on Alcoholism will be on hand to make referrals and answer questions.

Dr. Judd emphasized that the clinic will be entirely confidential. A brief question and answer test is used to determine alcoholism potential or active alcoholism.

"Alcoholism is a disease; it is nothing to be ashamed of, especially since it is becoming widely recognized as a treatable disease," said Dr. Judd.

Mrs. Mary Ryan, executive director of the North Jersey Chapter of the NCA, said, "We are especially grateful to the Board of Freeholders in Union County. They have given generously of their time and rendered vital support in our efforts to come to grips with alcoholism in Union County."

Mrs. Ryan said Union County is considered one of the best in terms of coping with the problem of alcoholism but much remains to be done.

"The staff of Elizabeth General Hospital has done everything to insure the success of our program, I hope the public will take advantage of this opportunity to find out more about the disease of alcoholism. I would especially urge the spouse of the person with a drinking problem to use the facility to find out how the alcoholic can be helped," said Mrs. McGeary.

Proceeds will benefit the Spaulding for Children adoption agency, co-sponsor of the program along with Sew and Show of Garwood.

Tickets for the shows, which will feature champagne punch and refreshments, are $3 and are available at Spaulding for Children, 321 Elm st., Westfield; Sew and Show, 401 North ave., Garwood; Wyatt Brothers Inc., 138 Central ave., Westfield; and from ticket chairman Mrs. Douglass Tiballs, 625 Westfield ave., Westfield.

UC Fine Arts program adds 3 new courses

Three new studio art courses have been added to the recently-established Fine Arts Department at Union College, it was announced this week by Prof. Elmer Wolf, dean of the College.

The studio courses include Drawing and Painting I, Drawing II, and Painting II. Each course is three credits and parallels freshman and sophomore offerings at four-year colleges and universities.

"Union College students planning to major in art can now begin studies in their field earlier in their college careers," stated Prof. Wolf. "It will also be easier for them to assemble a portfolio which most schools require for art students."

The new courses bring the total of Fine Arts Department offerings to nine in the areas of art, music, and drama. Other courses include art and music history and appreciation and the history of Western drama.

Drawing and Painting is a freshman course designed to enrich a student's understanding and experience in art by exploring his ability to draw and paint with pencil, pen and ink, charcoal, acrylics, oils and watercolor.

Drawing II is a continuation of drawing techniques in various media, studying such problems as space, light, line, and perspective. Independent projects are encouraged.

Painting II emphasizes original style of expression and painting from the live model, using the media introduced in the beginning course.

The new studio courses are expected to be offered for the first time in Union College this September.

The recent establishment of the Fine Arts Department and the approval of the new courses by the Board of Trustees of Union College were in response to demonstrated needs and interests among students and community residents to study the fine arts.

Poison Prevention Is More Than Packaging

New Federal law requires child-proof packaging for many products involved in childhood poisonings. To protect your children, ask for this special packaging... use it... and after using, be sure to resecure each safety closure!

However, Remember...

- Children are curious. They want to taste things. They will try to open the best designed safety guards.
- Children will imitate. Take your own medicine out of their sight.
- Children love sweets. Never tell them medicine is "candy." They'll eat it when you're not around.
- Small children can't read warning labels. Store hazardous household products and medicines in separate cabinets. Keep these substances locked up when not in use. Clean out cabinets periodically.
- Children get hungry and thirsty. Keep hazardous products in original containers, never in cups, soft-drink bottles or other food utensils.

Federal aid grants to state top billion for first time, but--

Federal grants-in-aid to the State and to local governments in New Jersey topped one billion dollars for the first time last year, the New Jersey Taxpayers Assoc. has reported. But, they noted, Garden State taxpayers are estimated to have paid federal taxes of more than one and one-half billion dollars toward the $35 billion in such grants distributed nationally.

Calculations reported by the association show that for each dollar of federal aid received in the state during fiscal year 1972, residents paid an estimated $1.47 in taxes. This ranked New Jersey fourth from the top of the list of 21 states whose taxpayer contributions toward federal aid nationally exceeded their state and local governments' income from grant payments.

In fiscal 1971, New Jersey tied for fourth place in the federal aid cost vs. benefits rankings. Previously it had often been at the top of the list—a position occupied last year by Connecticut which paid a "tax premium" of 58 cents for each dollar received in fiscal 1972.

At the other end of the federal tax-aid ratios were Mississippi and Alaska which received $1 in federal aid for taxes of 38 cents and 34 cents respectively. U.S. Treasury Department reports for fiscal 1972 show cash grant payments into New Jersey totaled $1,040,700,000. The estimated federal tax burden falling upon New Jersey taxpayers to pay for federal aid was estimated at $1,534,800,000, according to a formula prepared by the Tax Foundation, a national research organization. New Jersey's share of the national tax burden was 4.38 percent.

Observing that the basic concept of the federal aid distribution never contemplated a dollar of aid for a dollar in taxes, NJTA explained: "While the cost vs. benefits calculations tend to oversimplify the highly complex system of hundreds of federal grants programs, each with different purpose, formula and administrative regulations, they help dramatize their high cost and fast growth."

GARDEN FRIENDS — Members of the Junior Garden Club of the Vall-Deane School, Elizabeth, who have been taking part in a state-wide World Gardening Project, 'Garden Friends,' received thank you letters recently from students in three schools in South Korea and one in Brazil to whom they had sent pressed flower pictures and packets of seeds. Reading the letters to the students is Mrs. Ralph Warne, president of the Elizabeth Garden Club, which sponsored the school club and donated the packets of seeds. The children are: back row, left to right Caroline and Jacqueline Byron of Mountside, Abigail Bogard of Elizabeth, Joy Wallace of Plainfield, Daniel Washington of Newark and Jill Esposito of Westfield, and front row, left to right, Allison Feuran of Hillside and Christina Crestwell of Roselle.

Cancer information included with pay

Mrs. William Backman, chairman of the public education committee of the American Cancer Society's New Jersey Division, this week announced the kickoff of a joint educational project of the American Cancer Society and Olsten Temporary Services as part of the 1973 Cancer crusade.

Olsten, third largest temporary services organization in the country and employer of more than 50,000 people, will enclose in each employee's April pay envelope a leaflet, "Safeguard Against Cancer," produced by the American Cancer Society. The leaflet lists seven positive actions individuals can take to help protect themselves from cancer.

Buyers of small boats given protection under new law

Initial purchasers of new recreational boats less than 20 feet long have some new federal protection against manufacturing defects, especially those which endanger lives, according to a public law which went into effect last year.

The new legislation, known as Public Law 93-75, deals with basic construction and performance standards of small recreational boats manufactured nationally after Nov. 1, 1972. It also provides for a "recall" system to fix defects found after boats leave the manufacturer, a system similar to that now practiced by the automobile manufacturers.

According to Coast Guard Lieutenant Joseph F. Flayer, chief of the boating standards branch for the Third Coast Guard District at Governor's Island, N.Y., the new law will affect some 350 boat manufacturers, about 1,500 retail dealers and marinas, and boatmen in the waterways of the seven mid-Atlantic states of the district.

"What the law basically says is that the manufacturer—or the retailer, if he should modify the manufacturer's product—is responsible for correcting any defects," Flayer said. He added that this also applies to manufacturing defects found by Coast Guard boarding officers this summer.

Responsibility under the law extends only to the "first purchaser," Flayer noted, and does not legally pass onto anyone who may later buy the boat. He added, however, that the law does

Thursday, March 22, 1973 suggest that subsequent purchasers be notified by the manufacturer, if they are known.

Flayer said that producers of "associated parts" for recreational boats would also be covered to some extent by the law, but added that currently only those who build engines are covered.

He added that present standards apply only to mono-hull boats except sailboats, canoes, kayaks and inflatable boats.

Flayer said he is available to discuss the new law with anyone. He can be contacted by writing to him in care of the Commander (rb), Third Coast Guard District, Governors Island, N.Y. 10004 or by calling (212) 264-4976.

STRICTLY PERSONAL

By Pat and Marilyn Davis
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
I have one friend, Connie, who is always telling me to love my enemies. I'm sick of her advice. Two girls at my school spread an ugly rumor about me and I certainly do not love them. In fact, I can barely tolerate being in their presence. What can I say when Connie starts the love-your-enemy bit?

No Lover
Dear No Lover:
Tell Connie that instead of loving your enemies you are going to treat your friends a little better. A J that you hope she will do the same.

In the meantime, forget, if not forgive, the rumor-mongers. If you ignore the episode, so will others.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
I think I am in love with Joy but I do have an occasional doubt. I read your column often but seldom see too much about your opinion on love. What's the scoop?

Evans
Dear Evans:
Love has caused many hazards as far back as the Trojan War when Helen ran off with Paris. Yet, love continues. Customs vary—the South Sea Islanders place a flower behind the ear, the early Indians used carved figures, and the modern man uses movies, perfume, and other gifts to win his loved one.

You'll know it is the real thing when you don't have to write and ask. Meanwhile, the game of love goes on.

If you truly have serious doubts, have you considered premarital counseling?

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
Jenny and I are roommates and she invited me to spend the weekend at her home. When we arrived, her mother greeted us and Jenny and I went to her room to unpack. We started talking and the time slipped by so fast that before I realized it was time for dinner.

Jenny's mother made several remarks that let us know she was very displeased. I felt extremely uncomfortable and didn't know what to say so I kept quiet. After dinner, I offered to help with the dishes and my offer was coldly refused. Jenny said I should ignore her mother because she wasn't happy unless she was mad about something.

When we got back to the dorm, I wrote a thank-you note but feel I'll never be invited again. Where did I go wrong?

L.D.
Dear L.D.:
Reading between the lines, I would say that Jenny's mother wanted to be included "in." She obviously felt left out when the two of you stayed in the bedroom to visit. She hadn't seen Jenny for days, or perhaps weeks, and it was only natural that she wanted to visit with her daughter. After all, you do see Jenny every day.

Next time try to make your hostess feel comfortable and welcome. Jenny was also at fault for not spending a little time to greet her mother. Jenny invited you, but her mother made this possible by preparing meals, etc.

If you have a question, write: Pat and Marilyn Davis, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Business outlook better in January, says Labor office

"New Jersey business barometers show the State recovering further in January after allowing for the normal wintertime doldrums," reports the current issue of New Jersey Economic Indicators, the monthly analysis of business conditions prepared by the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry's Division of Planning and Research.

The report, released this week, said that after seasonal adjustment employment climbed to a new record, an all-time high of 2,665,900, the unadjusted unemployment total remained relatively unchanged at 7.1 percent, and the factory workweek at 42.1 hours was the longest in a quarter of a century. The latest figures showed checkbook spending, business telephone installations, new business incorporations, and retail sales were at or near record levels. Construction barometers suggested a good homebuilding year ahead.

The preliminary unemployment estimate for February, completed too late for inclusion in the current New Jersey Economic Indicators, showed little change from January. The February seasonally adjusted rate remained at 6.3 percent of the work force, it was fractionally below the 6.4 percent of a year ago. Total unemployment on an unadjusted basis was 226,500 compared with 223,000 in January. The unadjusted unemployment rate was 7.2 percent against 7.1 percent in January and 7.3 percent a year ago.

Residential construction contract awards for 1972 were 58 percent above the previous year's level, said the report. While the volume of residential contracts remained at a high level during the final months of 1972, nonresidential contracts were less encouraging despite a pickup in December. The nonresidential contract total for the year was fractionally above that of the previous year.

The report said that the movements of most business barometers have been favorable in recent months. One exception was business failures which rose in January following a poor performance through most of 1972.

Executive group views trade credit as sales aid

The use of trade credit as a device for expanding sales will grow during the coming months, William H. Jarvis, executive vice president of the New Jersey Association of Credit Executives, said this week.

Jarvis said that with rising interest rates and increased credit rationing by banks, firms which can extend more credit to their customers will be in a stronger competitive position. This will be especially true, he said, if the government continues to exert pressure to hold down interest rates.

Referring to the March issue of the Credit and Financial Newsletter of the National Association of Credit Management, with which the association is affiliated, Jarvis said that if the projected increase in the use of trade credit takes place, the result will be a steady rise in DSO (days sales outstanding) and perhaps in the "past due" figure as well. (The DSO figure is arrived at by dividing the average daily sales volume of the past 90 days into the volume of receivables outstanding at the moment.)

The latest available DSO figure for manufacturers is 43.3 for the third quarter of 1972. During this period 80.8 percent of all trade receivables were within terms and 2.8 percent were over 90 days past due.

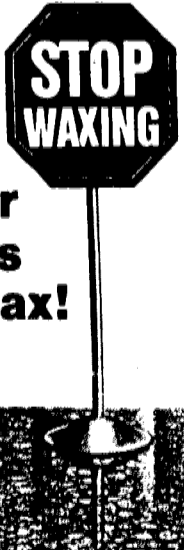

These figures are compiled quarterly by the Credit Research Foundation, an affiliate of the National Association of Credit Management.

'New Eyes' aids many Group has world reputation

What do you do if you're eight-years-old, have no old eyeglasses to donate, but feel strongly you want to help other people see better?

For Harriet, a third-grader in a suburban school, the solution was simple...she sold some of her toys.

That's how "New Eyes For The Needy," a volunteer organization in Short Hills, wound up with $13.75 in the mail one day.

In its 40-year history, "New Eyes" has never had a fund drive. Its solicits instead, old eyeglasses, precious metal scrap, silverware, dentures with bits of gold and silver, and antique and costume jewelry.

The glasses, (almost a million pairs were received last year alone,) are graded and sorted and used to bring new sight to impoverished people all over the world. The precious metal scrap is melted down, and money from the reclamation, and from the sale of usable jewelry and silverware, goes to "New Eyes" funds. These have been established in 80 hospitals all over this country, Canada and Puerto Rico to pay for new prescription glasses and artificial eyes. That's also where Harriet's $13.75 went.

The plastic-framed glasses are used to fill orders from medical missions in such places as the Philippines, Guam and Africa.

Though "New Eyes has an international reputation, few know it is run by a small group of about 250 persons—mostly housewives. When the organization was incorporated in 1947, its entire treasury consisted of 47 cents.

Nobody can really say how many lives have been brightened because hundreds of thousands of strangers have thoughtfully sent their old eyeglasses to "New Eyes," but every now and then the mailbag provides a clue: "You have made this a beautiful new world for me. Again I thank you and all who made this wonderful miracle available."

Maybe the next miracle will come from you. The address is New Eyes For The Needy, Short Hills, 07078.

Seventh In A Series FOR THE LOVE OF ST. JOHN
Once upon a time there was a woman who liked an island so well, that when she caught her first glimpse of it, she jumped off a ship just to get there and stay there.

That's what the island of St. John in the U.S. Virgin Islands is to many. That explains it all. It is a beautiful place. Refreshingly non-commercial, languid and lovely, left mostly in its natural state, the island is a joy.

The woman, who is a friend of a friend, and who shall remain nameless except perhaps for "Vera," is still very much alive, and is a "fixture," a "legend," a "landmark" if you will on the island St. John would not be St. John without Vera, it is said. To prove it, all you have to do is call the main telephone operator on any of the islands, St. Thomas, St. Croix or St. John, and ask for "Vera"—and you get her. And no matter whom you ask, they will tell you that the story of her jumping is true.

TO GET TO ST. JOHN the ordinary way, you have to take a ferry from St. Thomas, or some sort of boat or ship or seaplane from wherever you are. There is no airport on St. John so commercial airlines do not land there. Even the little dock for the ferry is small so it can all but handle that boat, and the bay it is in, is tucked back so far from the open sea, that no large cruise ships come in among all the little islands and rocks to stay and drop anchor there.

So St. John is somewhat left alone. But this is the island that Laurance Rockefeller found so lovely that he bought 9,500 acres of its 20 square miles to donate to the U.S. for a national park, and it now constitutes the Virgin Islands National Park. In short, it means that the island will remain, for the most part, that goodness, nicely wild and undisturbed.

It is a haven for campers, hikers, swimmers and lovers of nature. In its Trunk Bay is a fantastic underwater self-guiding trail for snorkelers that is reportedly the most spectacular in the islands. Campsites can be reserved but they are so popular they must be reserved a year in advance. There are also resort cottages and the fabulous Caneel Bay Plantation, owned by Rockefeller and noted for attracting celebrities and for being very expensive.

THERE IS A LITTLE ROAD on St. John that enables you to get around by motor or cycle or bike to stare at this little gem. It is no super-highway by any means. Instead, it is wonderfully hilly and winding and disarmingly unpredictable. The scenery is deliciously lush and green, with a big forested mountain over 1,000 feet high loiling in the center, myriad sudden views of unbelievably unpopulated, tempting coves of blue-green water, or shades-of-blue water all catch your breath away.

They say there are 150 species of trees, 72 shrubs and herbs and uncountable numbers of flowers and wild orchids. Even some cacti.

But there are no wild animals. Years ago the mongoose was imported from India to rid the island of snakes. It did such a good job, it rid the island of everything else too. All, that is, except sand flies and birds. Thank goodness for the birds.

WHEN WE DID our St. John "thing," we were quite ordinary. We walked off our ship and took a surrey with the-fringe-on-top to the St. John ferry. The "surrey" is the local issue of a bus which is delightful to everyone. It is entirely open with bench-like seats from side to side, and stop it all, is an awning with fringe on it to shade the occupants from the sun.

We took this comfortable automotive thing-a-ma-bob from the huge dock at Charlotte Amalie, the capital town of St. Thomas and pronounced differently by everyone, (so take your choice and you will be right.) and rode up and down hills and dales for about 45 minutes across the island to another smaller harbor and dock where the ferry was.

The trip across the bay is about 15 minutes on the ferry. Enroute views of several other misty, mountainous, nameless islands come and go: some huge rocks strutting out of the sea near them make for more good scenery, and then you are at an even smaller dock on the island of St. John at Cruz Bay.

Cruz Bay is the main settlement (not even "village") of the island and it contains perhaps ten buildings. There is a school, the resident commissioner's house and office, a police station for two officers, and a few stores and houses. That is it.

Except for another little surrey with the fringe on top. This one takes you on that lovely scenic drive on St. John over that energetic little road. And it is all true. Trees, shrubs, flowers, orchids, ferns are all over the place—and those luscious little coves. The western shore which we did not see, is almost arid, our guide said, and has cactus plants, but it is hard to believe. One thousand nice people live on this island and little houses are poked into the woodland here and there, or perched on a high hill overlooking the water. The Caneel Bay Plantation and some other accommodations can be seen, but mostly it is greenery scenery and water views.

17 Hadassah chapters invited to 46th annual event in Union

Seventeen chapters of Northern New Jersey Region of Hadassah will participate in donor luncheons scheduled Tuesday, April 10 and Wednesday, April 11, at the Clinton Manor, Union. The two-day 46th annual event was scheduled to accommodate more than 1,100 women expected to attend. Mrs. Richard Barrett, regional president, will address both sessions of the donor luncheon.

Leading the local achievers will be Mrs. Leo Hollander of the Linden Chapter and Mrs. Harold Dorin of the Roselle-Cranford Chapter.

Members who received invitations have met their quota requirements and have helped to support Hadassah's complex program, it was announced.

The program includes the Hadassah Hebrew University Hospital for healing, research and teaching; Youth Aliyah for child rescue and rehabilitation; Jewish National Fund for reclaiming the land; opening new areas for settlement and conserving natural resources; Hadassah Israel Education Service, the Comprehensive High School, Community College and Vocational Guidance Center; American Youth Activities; and American Affairs "for informing members of vital current issues so that they can intelligently involve themselves in their community as leading citizens."

Mrs. Louis Tekel, donor luncheon chairman and regional vice-president, announced that the theme of the luncheon will be "Aspirations and Achievement."

She has reported that "our program develops and expands to meet changing needs... this past year, we instituted a four-year nurses training curriculum, which results in a B.S. degree. We have extended the clinic so that we can treat 12-out-patients a day with cobalt, isotope or chemotherapy and the supportive treatment. With the new concept of out-patient care, we will be able to increase the number of in-patients serviced beyond the 20,000 of last year.

"Hadassah's medical teams will continue to establish health programs and trauchoma clinics in 22 states of Africa while training the African doctors in new medical techniques at Hadassah's hospital in Ein Kerem. We will have to increase the facilities of the model health service for university students which treated 7,000 last year because of the growing enrollment.

"With developing countries seeking the benefits of our 60 years of pioneering experience in public health and preventive medicine, we must continue offering the international course in Public Health and Medicine.

"And," she says, "we must look to the immediate future, refurbishing Mt. Scopus Hospital, scheduled to be opened in 1974 as a 260 bed general hospital, rehabilitation pavilion, pediatric surgery wing, and school of occupational therapy."

Mrs. Joseph Peysner, co-chairman, added that among the aspirations for next year will be "expanding the curriculum of the Comprehensive High School and Community College to meet the technical needs of Israel's growing industrial economy."

THE OAK III, model home at The Park-at-Berkeley. One of five models priced from $28,990 being offered by Greater American Communities on Scott road in Berkeley Township. The homes, surrounded by woodland, combine the best of traditional styling with imaginative arrangement of rooms, fixtures and appliances. Outside is finished with durable wood siding for long wear and rustic flavor. The Park-at-Berkeley homes will have city sewers and water, paved roads, curbing and sidewalks. To reach site take Garden State Parkway to Exit 80 onto Route 9 south about three miles. Turn left on Scott road to site.

Whittier Oaks home development taking root in the hills and woods of Somerset County

The U.S. Home Corporation of New Jersey has opened its second Whittier Oaks community, according to Herbert M. Hutt, president. "It is the first U.S. Home community to be built in Somerset County," Hutt says, "and was chosen because of its unusual location."

Situated in Hillsborough, the 80-home, single-family community will nestle in an area of open country with rolling hills and woodland interspersed with winding river and historic canal, and bordered with open farmlands.

Midway between Somerville and Princeton off Rt. 206 on Hillsborough road, home settlers at Whittier Oaks will have the advantage of living in the country, yet be within easy driving distance of metropolitan business centers, the halls of Princeton and Rutgers and their cultural offerings. The area also offers outdoor recreation, and is surrounded with historical sites and many points of interest including the Doris Duke Estate, Rockingham Washington's headquarters, historic East Millstone and Flemington.

After two years in the planning, market studies, tract surveys and consultations with home design experts and buyer preferences at other U.S. Home communities were undertaken to decide on the best homes for what is termed a prestige area of Somerset County. The designs reflect the quality and income category of people whom the area will attract, and the best way to utilize the attractive countryside.

"The result is a community which will have the appearance of individually built custom homes," according to Hutt. Each of the lots, approximately 3/4 acre or larger, has been individually surveyed from every angle to preserve its natural terrain, and to orient the house to its best advantage.

"We also decided which house would best fit into each individual site and will build them accordingly."

Six model homes in the Whittier Oaks tradition, priced from $49,990, are being presented to the public at Hillsborough. Included is the world's first Spring Meadow

THE FRESHNESS OF SPRING highlights decor in the Spring Meadow model home being introduced at Whittier Oaks-at-Hillsborough this weekend. Completely furnished and decorated, the home presents a whole new interior concept from the house featuring central reception entry area, wall paneled "whole earth" family room, the "graduate study," the formal "wild flower" dining room, "herb garden" country-style kitchen, and four bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths and all the extras which are part of each Whittier Oaks home.

The furnished and completely decorated Spring Meadow home previews a new interior concept from the indoor world of Armstrong that takes shape around new products and featuring new designs, colorings and functions in home furnishings. It brings the freshness of spring inside, Hutt adds.

Other model homes include: the Longfellow ranch at $52,990, with four or five bedrooms and three full baths; the Sandberg colonial at $55,990, with covered portico and family room on level by itself, as well as four bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths, the

Emerson split level at $50,990, with cathedral ceiling raised living room, formal dining room, four bedrooms and oversized master bedroom with private bath, plus 2 1/2 baths; the Bryant colonial at $51,990, with covered portico and two-story colonnaded, 25-foot master bedroom suite and three other bedrooms, two baths, plus powder room, and the Greenlee at $55,990, with first-floor family room and three bedrooms, master bedroom on separate level and 2 1/2 baths.

The models are patterned after homes that were popular in early American eras but include modern living features, appliances and conveniences available to modern builders.

Sanitary sewers and water lines (no septic tanks, no wells) are being installed simultaneously with construction of each section at the tract. Paved streets, sidewalks and curbs are also provided.

Home buyers at Whittier Oaks will have the advantage of U.S. Home-arranged mortgage financing, which means that "qualified buyers" may obtain mortgages up to 90 percent of the purchase price. In addition, other buyer advantages in the financing area include no additional cost to the buyer to secure the mortgage loans and there are no closing costs or other legal fees.

U.S. Home of New Jersey is one of 22 divisions of the U.S. Home Corporation, one of the country's nationwide top three name builders. Its shares are traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

To reach Whittier Oaks at Hillsborough, take Rt. 206 south from Somerville and turn left on Hillsborough road or take Rt. 206 north from Princeton, and turn right on Hillsborough road. It is 2 1/2 miles to the community.

Timber Ridge model planned as 1st home

A California ranch called the Cedar is a favorite with apartment dwellers buying their first home, according to Michael A. Sunstein, vice-president of Kaufman and Broad's New Jersey division. The home is one of four models featured at the Timber Ridge single family housing community in Jackson.

"The home has all the features prospective buyers look for in a first home purchase—Attractive price, good design, prime location, a minimum down-payment, and, judging from the response we've had, more value than they've been able to find elsewhere," said Sunstein.

The Cedar is priced from $32,990 with a minimum of only five percent down, thus putting it within the financial reach of most apartment dwellers seriously considering the purchase of a home, he said. In addition, Kaufman and Broad pay all closing costs. Financing is available and convenient with VA, FHA, and conventional type mortgages.

For a "starter-home", the Cedar offers a spacious living room with window view, functional California patio kitchen equipped with butcher's block counter tops and decorator-style oven and range, utility-laundry room accessible from rear yard and bath, large family dining room with sliding glass patio doors, three generously proportioned bedrooms and an extra-large bath.

Floor-to-ceiling closet space and a separate storage area in the garage are features termed attractive to apartment dwellers looking for more room. The convenience features frequently needed by first-home purchasers are available—including dishwasher, washer and dryer, refrigerator, garbage disposal, central air conditioning and wall-to-wall carpeting.

Timber Ridge's heavily wooded surroundings offer privacy and a natural landscaping job that would take years to create. Upon completion, Timber Ridge will include a total of 174 homes, all with city sewers and city water. The community is minutes away from nearby schools for children of all ages, a shopping mall, recreation areas, and a Garden State Parkway interchange which affords access into Manhattan in approximately 70 minutes.

In addition to the Cedar, other homes available at Timber Ridge include a spacious bi-level, a colonial and a ranch model; in a choice of 12 elevations.

To reach Timber Ridge, take the New Jersey Turnpike south to Exit 11, then south on the Garden State Parkway to Exit 91, straight on Rt. 549 for 1/4 mile, then right on Rt. 528 (County Line road) approximately 7 miles to Brewer's Bridge road, then left to Timber Ridge models.

Seminars, exhibits, tests in Health Fair set for Seton Hall

A two-day Health Fair offering more than 30 free health screening measures, exhibits, films and seminars focusing primarily on health concerns of young adults will be presented at Seton Hall University next Thursday and Friday. The Fair is open to members of the community as well as University students and personnel and is scheduled to run from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday in the Student Center.

The chief purpose of the Health Fair is to provide information related to the maintenance of good health and the prevention of disease, according to co-chairwomen Mary Doman and Charlene Grabowski, both Seton Hall seniors.

"We are also hoping to provide a less anxious atmosphere concerning health," said Miss Doman, who pointed out that the Fair will present a definite positive view of health care in addition to making people aware of the state of their health and good health maintenance. The Health Fair also will provide information on social and health-related issues affecting people and agencies that are available and the variety of career opportunities in physical and mental health.

Among screening test procedures that will be available at the Health Fair are those to detect infectious mononucleosis, uterine cancer, diabetes, tuberculosis, VD, hearing and vision defects and others. There will be no charge for any tests, with materials and lab work furnished by participating agencies and organizations and the University. Complete confidentiality of all tests will be observed, the sponsors emphasized.

Films and seminars will cover sickle cell anemia, mental health and anxiety, abortion, genetic counseling, religion and insanity, adoption, drugs, health insurance and other issues.

Builders 'welcome' IRS probe of rents

The Apartment House Council of the New Jersey Builders Association this week welcomed the recent action of the President's Cost of Living Council empowering the Internal Revenue Service to investigate high rent increases.

"We are delighted and relieved by the Cost of Living Council's decision, because it will result in documentation by a disinterested third party that rent increases in New Jersey have not been exorbitant since the Phase II guidelines were lifted," said Frank P. Farinella Jr., chairman of the Apartment House Council.

The Apartment House Council represents rental property owners and managers who collectively control more than 50,000 units in New Jersey. It is the recognized spokesman for the rental property industry in the state.

Soil science studied Conservation is club aim

Will the basement of the new library double as a swimming pool when there's a heavy rain? Will the football field dry out in time for the next game?

There are students in a soils science club at the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science who are finding the answers to questions like these.

They are not in training to be professionals. In fact, many of the members are majoring in such subjects as English, home economics and business administration. But they want to inform citizens who can serve on municipal committees and know enough about land and land use problems to make a contribution to their community.

Club members learn to read soil maps and to judge soil by examining vertical sections of land called profiles which reveal the characteristics of soil.

Knowing whether soil is located on a flood plain, terrace, upland, or in a depression, and whether the character of the soil is limestone, sandstone, glacial outwash, consolidated water sediment or shale, is important in deciding sites for municipal buildings, housing developments or community parks.

The efficiency of each is determined by the soil on which it is built. Wrong decisions result in financial burdens on both the citizens and the community.

The club is a student chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America. It has 65 members and was granted its charter from the parent organization in 1954.

Sparked by the enthusiasm of Robert M.

Hanna, extension specialist in soils at the college, club members show an amazing interest in soils and conservation. They have participated in the student section of national meetings of the society.

Last year three members of the Rutgers chapter presented papers at the national meeting in Portland, Ore. Members have also made a name for themselves in district and national soil judging competitions.

Whenever possible, members travel to national events by car so they have the educational experience of studying different soil and environmental conditions along the way.

From what they have learned as club members and their experiences from soil judging contests, they are quick to observe the association between poor soil, poor homes, poor livestock, and a poor environment, and the influence soil has on the economy in a particular area.

"I think Rutgers University is doing a service to the citizens of the state and to the nation by making it possible for these students to be a part of the Soil Conservation Society of America," says Hanna.

"They become more aware of the needs of good land use and can be of service to their community."

"This organization is open to all students no matter what their major or what career they have their sights focused on. Everyone should have a knowledge of the important part soil plays in our society."

Harvard professor to speak at hospital

The Guild of Saint Barnabas will present botanist Dr. Richard A. Howard at its monthly luncheon Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Medical Center Auditorium. Howard will speak about "What is it You Eat?" The meeting will be open to the public.
Dr. Howard, who is director of the Arnold Arboretum at Harvard, is on the staff of the Poison Center at Children's Hospital in Boston where all plant poison calls are referred to him around the clock. After his talk, which will describe what a botanist sees in your supermarket or grocery store, Dr. Howard will answer questions on toxic plants and their treatment.

Contractors seek ban on log exports

The Building Contractors Association of New Jersey has appealed to President Richard M. Nixon for his support of Senate Bill 1033, which would place a total ban on log exports, principally to Japan, from federal lands by next Jan. 1st, and would phase out all state and private log exports by Jan. 1, 1977.
Richard J. Casey, acting managing director of the association said that unless Congress acts to correct a growing crisis in the shortage of lumber and to curb the almost daily increases in cost of available lumber, the construction industry in many areas may be forced to shut down.
It is almost impossible to purchase plywood for construction, he added.

3 ballet premieres to benefit state tour

The new Garden State Ballet Guild will present Fred Danieli's dance troupe in two benefit performances highlighting three ballet premieres at Westfield High School, May 14 and in the Dreyfuss Theater of Fairleigh Dickinson University, Madison, May 21.

Norman H. Volk and Mrs. Matthew J. Marano, co-chairmen of the new Guild, have announced that both programs will include new productions of two masterpieces by George Balanchine, his "Concerto Barocco" (Bach) and "Valse Fantaisie" (Glinka). The United States premiere of "Walpurgis Night," a bacchanal from Gounod's opera "Faust," newly choreographed in 1959 for the club Opera Ballet in Rumania by Bolshoi-trained Gabriella Darvash, today a member of the Garden State Ballet's artistic staff, also will be staged.

Proceeds from the two benefits will aid plans for the Garden State Ballet's state tour next season. Its public performances and youth-education programs are geared to reach about 85,000 members of audiences across 15 counties.

Ticket information concerning the two May ballet performances may be obtained by contacting the ballet office at MA 3-0591 or MA 3-5403.

Nelsons co-star in stage comedy

Ozzie and Harriet Nelson co-star in the comedy, "The Marriage-Go-Round," at the Meadowbrook Theater Restaurant, Cedar Grove. The real life husband and wife team, who play a husband and wife team in the play, had appeared for 22 years on radio in "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" and on television, with their well known sons, Ricky and David Nelson, on weekly television shows over a period of 14 years.

The two appeared on the legitimate stage in 1962 in a summer stock production of "The Marriage Go Round." In 1968, they co-starred in "The Impossible Years" in the Chicago area, and the following year, they performed in the musical version of "State Fair."

The Nelsons will perform at the Meadowbrook through April 15.

'Sounder' doubles with 'Walkabout'

"Sounder," a haunting film drama of black sharecroppers in Louisiana during the depression, opened yesterday at the Elmora Theater, Elizabeth, on a double bill with "Walkabout." Kevin Hooks, Cicely Tyson and Paul Winfield star. The picture, in color, was directed by Martin Ritt.

"Walkabout," an absorbing drama filmed in Australia, contrasts civilization with primitive life as two youngsters wander in the bush country with an Aborigine youth after escaping a berserk father. Jenny Augiter, Lucien John and David Gumpil have stellar roles. The movie was filmed in color and directed by Nicholas Roeg.

Station Breaks

TURNTABLE TREAT (good listening) WELL, HERE I AM by John Davidson. On this just released MERCURY LP (SRM 1-658), John features such vocal goodies as "What She Left Of Me," "As Lonely As You," "Good Time Charlie's Got The Blues," "Baby Don't Get Hooked On Me," "Soul Song." Additional selections include "If You Leave Me Tonight I'll Cry," "Fool Me," "Monday Morning Secretary," "Daddy Don't Walk So Fast," "Let Me Stay Awhile."

Since leaving Denison University in Granville, Ohio, armed with a B.A. degree in theatre arts, John Davidson's talent has earned him not only consistent popularity as a singer but well deserved acclaim as an actor.

John has appeared with national summer stock companies in such musicals as "Camelot," "Paint Your Wagon" and "Lil' Abner." Television producer Bob Banner saw Davidson in "Foxy," co-starring opposite Bert Lahr and not only signed him as a regular on his CBS variety series "The Entertainers," but to a personal contract as well.

DURING THE NEXT FEW YEARS, Davidson solidly established himself as a national musical favorite on many fronts. Since 1966, he has twice starred in his own TV series ("Kraft Summer Music Hall" for NBC and the London based "John Davidson Show" for ABC), hosted specials for ABC and NBC, appeared on almost every variety series, on television ("The Carol Burnett Show," "Hollywood Palace," "Ed Sullivan," etc.) and has hosted the "Tonight Show." Since 1965, Davidson's recordings have proven his ability to bridge any musical generation gap, with sales of his numerous singles and albums defying any age group categorization.

Despite the demands of a growing concert, nightclub and recording schedule, John found time to star in the popular New York City Center revival of "Oklahoma," an occasional musical stage production, and two films for Walt Disney. A favorite with city audiences, John is also in demand for college concerts and state fair appearances.

Davidson recently embarked on a career as a country music singer, which he admits is his first love in singing.

HIS RECORDING PLANS no doubt take into account his increasing popularity among young record buyers. John's recent hosting of the "Miss Teen Age America" pageant on CBS TV demonstrated that a new generation is just discovering this handsome, blue-eyed six footer.

The son of a minister, John was born in Pittsburgh, Pa. From Pittsburgh, the family moved to Wilmington, N.C., and then Brockton, Mass., where John spent his youth.

LOCAL TALENT Those songs that you hear Angelo Negro, Hillside's merry mailman singing and whistling along his route, are his own creations.
