Hoffarth charges: Too many novices on borough council

Elmer Hoffarth, Independent Republican candidate for the Borough Council of Mountainside, this week stated that "it is crucial at this time to have a member of the Borough Council who is experienced in borough affairs and the wishes of the people. At present, the council is top-heavy with novices. It is of supreme importance to have one versed in municipal finance."

He added, "My 23 years of experience qualify me. I have the time and desire to serve where my understanding of municipal affairs can assist the community. Our former mayors and councilmen brought a wide variety of experience from business and the professions, but most admitted that municipal government was a whole new venture."

"When my retirement (as borough clerk) was announced, a former mayor lauded my experience and wide range of information, which mayors and council depended on for

Curtain goes up on student play tomorrow night

The real world is what we make of it," says the headmistress of the "M.A. Aararat School for Girls" as she faces a campus rebellion in the play, "Dagny." This fantasy satire will be presented at Governor Livingston Regional High School tomorrow and Saturday, directed by Norman Schneider. Curtain time is 8:15.

Schneider is using multi-media staging creating the effect of total theater similar to that in the Broadway hit, "Hair."

Robert Nagel, the producer, is working with stage, lighting and sound crews headed by Craig Crow and Ed Russo. Crews have been busy building a thrust stage and creating psychedelic light patterns to heighten the contrast of reality to fantasy.

The mood will be further enhanced by hard rock music and filmed backgrounds. A number of special songs are being prepared by Donna Plasket of the MUSIC DEPARTMENT.

School board discusses providing full agendas

The Mountainside Board of Education appears to be staying for a better public image or at least that was the impression received by some observers at last week's board meeting.

The board, which usually allows comments and questions from the audience only during the public discussion portion of the meeting, permitted such commentary throughout the night's marathon session. No special vote was taken to open the discussion to the public, and no time limit was placed on their participation.

It is not known if this practice will continue at future sessions, but the board did state it would "explore the possibilities" of distributing a fuller agenda to those attending meetings. Presently, the public receives only a skeleton outline of topics to be discussed, a fact which raised criticism at the complex session. As board members debated "point 5A" or "section 4" of Dr. Levin Hangan's report, the public had agendas reading simply, "Superintendent's Report."

Last week was also the first time a copy of the superintendent's agenda was given to the press. Reporters usually receive complete board agendas, but no information on

'Heritage exhibit' to be first event of 'birthday' program

The Mountainside Cultural and Heritage Committee has made plans for a "heritage workshop and exhibition" to be held on Saturday, Nov. 3. The event will be the first of many celebrations planned by the committee in recognition of the 1976 Bicentennial of the United States.

Committee chairman is Matthew Powers. Assistant co-chairmen are Roland Dixon, Mrs. Levin Hangan, Mrs. Robert Horner and Mrs. Powers. On May 10, the committee met with club representatives to make tentative arrangements for exhibiting at the event crafts and interests flourishing in the Mountainside area.

Mrs. E.F. Frey will preside over a mineralogy booth; Mrs. A.J. Salmini will display a collection of hand-painted china. Other booths will be devoted to decoupage, potichomania, antiques, baking, wood carving and numerous other skills. Refreshments and a costume show are also being planned for the holiday affair.

A final meeting before the Heritage Workshop is scheduled at the Mountainside Library on Sept. 20 at 8 p.m. All individuals who wish to participate in this Mountainside celebration were urged to attend.

Free vision exam planned next week for pre-schoolers

The parents of preschool children in Springfield and neighboring communities this week were urged to bring their 3½ to 5-year olds to a free vision screening program May 23 and 24 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 3 p.m. The location is the Parish House of Calvary Episcopal Church, De Forest and Woodland avenues in Summit (parking area behind the church).

The purpose of the screening is to discover visual defects, especially amblyopia (lazy eye), and to alert parents to the need for an immediate professional eye examination. A spokesman said that amblyopia frequently goes undetected until too late to correct; if discovered at an early age, it can often be remedied.

The sixth annual screening program will be conducted under the auspices of the N.J. Commission for the Blind and is sponsored by the State Board of Education and the State Medical Society.

Mrs. Austin Townner, former kindergarten teacher in the Springfield schools, will be in charge of the volunteers who will conduct the vision tests. Children who do not pass the tests will be referred to their family eye specialists for complete eye examinations.

Report from Washington

By Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo

"TO THINE OWN SELF BE TRUE..." Timeless and true and to the point, Shakespeare's advice is as valid and immediate today as it was 400 years ago. And so often ignored, neglected or misunderstood.

The lead editorial in the moderate-conservative, Republican-oriented "Washington Star-News" of Tuesday, May 8, read in part:

"On and on come the ugly revelations, the almost daily disclosures of how this nation's political and judicial processes have been manipulated and corrupted.

"At first the Watergate scandal was said to be the work of a few ideological zealots. Lately, it has been fashionable to lay the blame on men close to the President with a super-loyal, ad-agency turn of mind. But the web of Watergate-Ellsberg spreads much farther than that. In the FBI, in Justice, now in the CIA, it involves men and vital institutions the American public should have had every reason to trust, but now do not. Aside from the diminished stature of the presidency itself, that is what is hardest to take."

What are we to make of all this? Are we even now anywhere near understanding the enormity of the crimes committed in the pursuit of political success? Are we even slightly aware of the damage these events have done to "the greatest democracy on earth," or to the moral sensibilities of the American people, or to the processes of orderly government, or to our own capacity to govern ourselves?

Were the men responsible directly and indirectly—for Watergate, its attendant offenses, and its subsequent web of conspiracy and cover-up so very different from the rest of us in the values they professed and the hopes they cherished? Were they really so unrepresentative as they are presently portrayed?

I wonder. If we reflect on what we know so far about the major figures in this case and compare them with other examples of similar excesses in previous Administrations, we may find a valuable clue. Stated very simply, it is this: the Achilles heel in so many instances was the failure to judge one's self by the same high standards one so rigorously applied to others.

If this observation is true—and I believe it is—then it has considerable significance in determining what can be done to correct the damage done by Watergate and to minimize the possibility of future Watergates. For, if I am correct, the failure I have described is a human weakness. It's not a specifically Republican or Democratic failing, nor one peculiar to the political or business or advertising arena. It afflicts us all as a part of our very humanity.

This is why I believe it would be a serious mistake to think of the Watergate case as a unique event, as an isolated or unprecedented example of official lying, corruption, theft, or any of its other forms of illegal and unethical behavior. And this is why I don't believe we should simply settle for the identification and conviction of those responsible. The problem is much deeper and any solution must go as deeply.

During his television address last week in which he announced the resignations of his top staff assistants, the President concluded that it was time to get back to the work of government. He was right, of course. There are numerous vacancies at top government levels to fill, foreign policy initiatives that must be pursued, serious domestic problems that cry for solution.

But the President should have added, perhaps, that in the light of the Watergate disclosures a new national priority is clearly in order—a major effort to strengthen the laws governing the public behavior of government officials, to tighten conflict of interest statutes to prevent unnecessary secrecy in government, to regulate campaign practices, and especially to control the role of money in political campaigns.

THERE ARE THOSE who will say, "You can't legislate morality." True—if by legislating morality one means changing a person's character, it can't be done. True, too, if one means attempting to regulate strictly private behavior, as the classic failure of the Prohibition Amendment to the Constitution demonstrated.

But if "legislating morality" includes establishing standards and requirements for the conduct of public business or regulating activities which affect the public interest, then not only does government have the right and obligation to legislate but such legislation can be highly efficacious. Examples are legion: drug safety, consumer protection, anti-trust, and numerous other civil and criminal statutes—all of which are designed to protect people by making clear the limits of acceptable behavior.

This educative function of the law is all important but too seldom appreciated. Expressing the consensus of the community about good and bad and right and wrong, it not only informs but it serves to reinforce the

Lutheran Church will confirm six

Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 639 Mountain Ave., Springfield, will observe the Rite of Confirmation this Sunday. Six young people will have their confirmation vows during the 10:30 a.m. worship service, and will receive the Holy Spirit for the first time.

The young people to be confirmed are Thomas Babb, Scott Compher, Albert Diefert Jr., Russell Ehrenfeld, Andrew Lassy and Brian Wasko.

For the past two years, these young people have been studying the major teachings of the Christian Church and the implications and meanings of those teachings in contemporary life styles, he added.

The Rev. Joel R. Yoss, Pastor of Holy Cross, stated that the parents of the confirmands will take part in the Rite of Confirmation "which adds a meaningful dimension to service constructive elements in society and to restrain the destructive with its threats and sanctions. It compels us to look inward and judge ourselves before others do it for us.

We have such laws, too, in the areas I have cited—freedom of information, conflict of interest, campaign finance but without exception they are either so ambiguous, so complex, or so full of loopholes that evasion is invited, even encouraged. It is here, and it is now that Congress must apply the lessons of Watergate and make these half-hearted reforms truly effective.

OF ALL THE NEEDS, however, none ranks higher than the goal of controlling the role of money in politics. Nothing less than complete and continuous disclosure of who contributes how much to which committees and candidates, and how those funds are used will do.

Very shortly, I hope to announce a plan I am developing to accomplish this objective by prohibiting the use of money in political campaigns. Money, which is so difficult to trace, would be replaced by Federally issued scrip, in the same denominations as money, serially numbered, readily computerized, designed to record every transaction from contribution to expenditure to redemption, and valid only for use in political campaigns.

I shall have the full details later. Suffice it to say that its aim will be that of all true reform legislation: to make all our public business and political processes open and honest and clean and accountable. For, to conclude again with Shakespeare's classic homily, "... it follows as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

Earnings lid eased by Social Security; new law explained

Starting in 1973, people who are working while getting Social Security benefits can earn more but never lose more than $1 in benefits for each $2 earned, according to Ralph W. Jones, Social Security district manager in Elizabeth.

"The more you earn, the higher your total income will be," Jones said. "Under the new Social Security law, Social Security payments will be reduced by $1 for every $2 earned over $2,100 in a year."

Previously, monthly payments were reduced by $1 in benefits for every $2 earned between $1,680 and $2,880 in a year—and by $1 for every $1 earned over $2,880.

"People 72 and over will continue to get their full Social Security benefits regardless of earnings," Jones said. Under the new law, people under 72 can earn as much as $2,100 in a year and get their full social security benefits. Different rules apply to people getting social security disability if they work.

In addition, starting in 1973, full benefits can be paid for any month in which an employee's wages are not more than $175 or he did not perform substantial services in self-employment. Previously, the monthly limit was $140.

"Also, starting in 1973, only your earnings in the months before you reach 72 will be used to figure what benefits are due you for those months," Jones said. Previously, earnings in the entire year you reached 72 were counted in figuring benefits due you for months before you were 72.

Another feature of the new law assures that the earnings exemption for people getting Social Security payments will go up automatically in future years as earnings levels increase, Jones reported. The first year there can be an automatic increase is 1975.

Social Security pays monthly benefits to eligible retired and disabled workers and their families—and to families of deceased workers who were insured under Social Security.

Pre-admission testing Hospital begins new program

Alexian Brothers Hospital, Elizabeth, has launched a program designed to reduce the cost of hospital care for patients and contribute to maximum use of hospital beds.

Ethel Stevens, admitting supervisor, said the program, called pre-admission testing, allows physicians to schedule tests for their patients before they go into the hospital, rather than having the tests done after admission.

"The benefit to the patient will be in saving time spent in the hospital," Mrs. Stevens said. "It is also intended to save the physician's time and ultimately reduce the cost of hospital care."

Offered on a voluntary basis to physicians, no patient would be eligible for pre-admission testing unless an admission reservation had been made by the physician.

According to Mrs. Stevens, the procedure would work this way: The doctor calls the hospital for an admitting reservation and also makes a date for the pre-admission testing at the convenience of the patient.

The admitting office at Alexian Brothers would call the patient and obtain all the admitting information over the phone and confirm the testing date and times, and answer any questions the patient might have.

The patient would arrive at the hospital for tests his physician ordered. Requisitions for testing are then prepared, with the patient being escorted to the department involved, which usually means lab, EKG and X-ray.

Mrs. Stevens said the test results would be sent to the admitting offices as soon as they are available, and if any abnormalities are noted, the physician is notified immediately by the head of the testing department involved.

"Another positive part of the program is that the test results could possibly help the physician in determining that the patient does not need hospitalization at this time," Mrs. Stevens said.

"Under the program, one can easily see that a patient could save one or two days of hospital costs. Also, patients undergoing surgery could come in later in the day prior to surgery, rather than around noon, and, medical patients will be ready for immediate treatment because the test results will be known as soon as they are admitted."

Rinaldo urges stringent school bus safety laws

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-12th Dist.) has called on Secretary of Transportation Claude Bringer to require the installation of seat belts and padded seats in all school buses. The Union County Congressman explained that the department is currently preparing regulations that would offer bus manufacturers the option of installing padded seats in lieu of belts. The regulations would apply to all school buses manufactured after Sept. 1, 1974.

Rinaldo, a former New Jersey State Senator, acted in response to a request from Union County Assemblyman C. Louis Bassano, who has been pushing for the adoption of state laws to improve school bus safety features.

In a letter to Bringer, Rinaldo called for more stringent regulations on school bus construction. He said that, according to the Transportation Department statistics, there were 47,000 accidents involving school buses in 1971. "Since these resulted in the deaths of 35 children and injuries to 4,200 others, we have an obligation to come up with the strongest possible regulations to protect our children," he said.

Rinaldo also rejected a national safety council administration report claiming that the school bus was the safest means of transportation in the country. "When one considers that there are nearly a quarter of a million school buses on the road every school day, it is difficult to accept that assessment. For, as statistically safe as a school bus may be, nobody who has ever seen the aftermath of a school bus accident can agree with that statement."

"I have seen photographs taken at school bus accident scenes which make me wonder why the strongest possible occupant safety devices are not required in all cases. Padding of seats should be mandatory, but it should never be regarded as an acceptable alternative to seat belts," Rinaldo asserted.

The Congressman said that "without adequate protection, little children can become flying projectiles in a crash or sudden stop."

Activities marking Realtor Week are planned by board

The Eastern Union County Board of Realtors will take part in the observance of national Realtor Week, May 20-26. Realtor Week activities planned by the Eastern Union County Board of Realtors include:

THE UNION CENTER NATIONAL BANK 50 YEARS OF COMMUNITY SERVICE

MEMBER F.D.I.C.

Council meets

to the objectives which this council, for as long as I have been mayor, has worked for.
"My problem has been to choose between Abe Suckno and Nick Bradshaw in making my recommendation to council. Abe, as chairman of our Planning Board, holds and has held one of the most important positions in our borough, especially during a period when, as I have stated before, pressures for change in the borough are being felt from many directions. Abe has done such a fine job that I need him as chairman for the rest of this year.
"Nick Bradshaw is a dynamic and talented man who is available to the community right now without having the Planning Board suffer the loss. I therefore recommend his appointment to Council." The vote on that appointment was unanimous.

Bradshaw, 37, and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Wharton School of Finance, is an investment officer with First National City Bank, New York. A resident of Mountainside for 12 years, he lives with his wife Margerie and their two children, Jennifer, 11, and Geoffrey, 9, at 320 Partridge run.

THE ORDINANCES which were adopted dealing with the municipal pool included one enabling the Pool Committee to change the operating hours, presently set at 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., to a noon to 9 p.m. program. The action was taken in an effort to bolster lagging membership at the facility by attracting more commuters who could use the pool at night.
Recreation Commissioner William Cullen noted that the committee "will see how the new hours sit with the borough residents," indicating that if there are considerable objections, the times could be changed. The other ordinances established a salary range for recreation personnel such as playground supervisors and those of pool workers. Cullen stated that the latter were "minor adjustments" and that the salaries for this year are lower total than those of 1972.

A number of borough teenagers were among the 40 residents present at the meeting in Beechwood School. They expressed their wishes for increased youth recreational facilities in town. Cullen noted that there had been a lack of attendance by teenagers at past Recreation Department-sponsored activities, but expressed a willingness to work with the youths in implementing a schedule, which they themselves would suggest and arrange. The teenagers were invited to present their requests at a special meeting of the commission, to be held at their convenience. Other youths who have made similar requests to council are to be invited to the session.

A special meeting of the council was scheduled Tuesday, May 29, at 8 p.m. in the borough hall to discuss the pigeon problem on Woodland avenue. The Board of Health has been contacted about the potential health hazard resulting from the presence of birds roosting in approximately 25 homes in that area and is preparing a report on the situation.
Allen McPhaul, a representative of Humane Pest Control of Westfield, who has been in contact with several residents regarding the problem is to attend the session and give a report on means and estimated cost of effective control. That cost could be borne either by individual homeowners or by the town.

IN OTHER ACTION, Ricciardi announced that council has requested the formation of a citizens group to aid in studying various factors involving the use of the Barnes Tract as a site for a new municipal facility. The committee will consist of 10 borough residents appointed by the mayor; guidelines will be set by council. Ricciardi invited anyone wishing to serve on the board to mail a request and list of qualifications to the borough hall for his consideration.

Ricciardi noted that he had been in contact with several private scavengers regarding the cost of a bi-yearly "clean-up," a program requested by a number of citizens. He said the

At last month's session, announcement was made that the Planning Board had received application for a 44-unit apartment house to be built near Rt. 22 and New Providence road. In answer to a question of the progress of the application, raised by Democratic council candidate Albert D'Amada, borough attorney John Post noted that since it would be in violation of present zoning laws, the matter has been referred to the Board of Adjustment. He said he did not know if the applicant had approached the body.

Some members of the audience suggested that the board agenda be printed in the paper, but Dr. Irvin Krause pointed out that there sometimes are last minute changes, and that the agenda often contains personnel information that should not be public knowledge.

However, he noted, an edited agenda could be distributed at meetings. Residents also requested agendas be given out at caucus meetings, a suggestion that also will be considered.

During the study unit, the children moved from learning about cells to organisms, and studied human organ systems, to learn how each cell is supplied with the substances it

Suppose we lose the Energy Race?

Our quality of life would take a giant step backwards.

Living standards and energy are bound together. It's been that way since the beginning of time when primitive man's only energy was his muscle, and survival his only goal. It wasn't until he discovered new sources of power (the wheel, wind, fire, water, coal, oil, natural gas) that he achieved economic well-being, a better quality of life, and the leisure time to enjoy it.

Now our way of life is being threatened by an impending energy shortage brought about by the opposition to nuclear energy plants. Further delays in their construction would open us to catastrophic dangers.

Without nuclear energy, brownouts and blackouts are a certainty in the near future. Electricity will have to be rationed. Power cuts will bring with them great discomforts. We'll breathe dirtier air without clean nuclear energy to provide the electricity. Our streams and lakes will stay polluted without the power to run new sewage facilities. With insufficient electricity to build new homes and cities there will be overcrowding everywhere. There will be no new industries to create job opportunities. Unemployment will reach new highs. Our food and fresh-water supply will also be affected.

President Nixon's scientific advisor, Dr. Lee

DuBridge, summed it up this way: "Without energy, our whole civilization in this country as we know it just comes to a halt."

We are a country that lives on energy. And by the end of the century we will require some 2 billion kilowatts of capacity to generate the power needed to maintain our high standard of living. It is our obligation to the future to provide that energy, but we can't do it without nuclear plants. And we can't build them in time without your support.

If you want to maintain your standard of living and improve that of the less fortunate, speak out for nuclear energy. You will be heard, and we will win the energy race. We must.

THE STATE WE'RE IN

By DAVID F. MOORE,
Executive director, North Jersey
Conservation Foundation

Governor William T. Cahill has succeeded in having the State Senate called back into session Monday for another try at voting on coastal protection legislation.

The three critically important environmental bills were scuttled by the State Senate recently, just as the membership began a long summer recess, until after the November general elections. A lot of citizens were shocked, not having fully realized the pervasive qualities of the oil lobby and other well-financed special interest groups.

The three bills, none of which was defeated just remaining dormant because too many senators neglected to vote at all, are A-1429, the "Major Coastal Facilities Review Act," which would empower the state to control development along the Atlantic and Delaware River coastlines, the "Ocean Sanctuary" bill and the bill which would prohibit construction of deep-water oil ports. The proponents of A-1429 claim that the coastal review act could offer most of the benefits contained in the latter pair.

Environmental people see A-1429 as one of the most important pieces of environmental legislation this session. It would simultaneously protect vital natural values of the coast as well as the billion-plus annual seashore resort business. It's strange that supporters of the latter interests were somewhere else when the lobbying was underway.

The Governor can't command a special session unless the Legislature has adjourned. It was only on a recess, so the recall power rested with the Senate President, Senator Alfred Brundeston, R-Monmouth, in the Senate, and Assembly Speaker Thomas Kean, R-Essex, was used.

A few senators actually voted against the bills. They showed some political guts, knowing the strong public support in favor of such land use controls. In the case of A-1429, they may well have been justified in voting against the bill even if they favored the concept because it had been amended into near uselessness by exclusion of important stretches of Monmouth, Gloucester, Camden and Salem County coastlines. I hear an effort is being made to get the original version voted upon, the second time around.

Even if the Delaware River shore counties affected by the amendments lacks resorts, it has natural values essential to agriculture, fishing and shell fishery industries which deserve preservation.

In retrospect, it seems strange that the powerful lobby of the building interests failed to support A-1429. After all, they claim they are widely penalized by differing local zoning regulations which would become more uniform under the umbrella of the coastal protection law - and certainly threatened when one considers what happens to residential construction in a heavy industry area.

It seems safe to predict that public interest, when the upcoming vote is held, will equal if not surpass the support evidenced for New Jersey's historic wetlands act. I've heard that there's going to be widespread publication and circulation of the individual voting records from that recent Thursday Senate session.

By GERALD ANDREWS Retirement Advisor

Perhaps one of the most delightful aspects of retirement living for many is being able to have enough time to grow beautiful flower and vegetable gardens. Gardening, in many areas of the country, can also help stretch the food budget.

Fresh garden vegetables, cultivated in your backyard are economical as well as delicious. Once the basics are taken care of, few other expenses pop up. If you are already growing a small vegetable garden and have the space and time why not try planting in large enough quantities so that your garden will supply your dinner table with vegetables for many months out of the year. Fresh vegetables can easily and inexpensively be canned and many types can be frozen for enjoyment later in the year.

Few things are as rewarding as savoring the delicious, natural flavor of vegetables that you have personally raised from seed to harvest with tender, loving care. Your relatives and friends will also enjoy the fruits of your labor - and too many people just don't have the time to raise their own vegetables.

Raising and growing beautiful flowers is also one of life's greatest pleasures. And few things match the delightful aroma and beautiful colors added to any room when fresh flowers right out of the garden are brought indoors. Thoughtful thanks are easy to come by when you give a bouquet of fresh flowers to a neighbor, friend or relative. And somehow, those flowers mean more to people because they know that you grew them.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

AN OASIS OF TRUTH

A friend from a large city in the Southwest recently asked me why he should have to do what is right and proper. "After all," he told me, "very few people that I meet every day try to practice what they preach, or what others preach, so why should I?" He stated also that times have changed and many of the things once thought of as wrong aren't considered evil or wrong by the people of this present day.

Unfortunately, I informed him, morality and truth do not change from generation to generation. We, many times, wish these rules and truths didn't exist but the fact is they do and it is up to each of us to try to live by them. Just because everyone else is doing something that is wrong doesn't make it right. And the day will come when we will all have to answer for the way (whether for good or for evil) we lived our lives on this planet.

God has given us a pattern and a way of living that brings us close to Him. Many, however, turn from God and go on their separate ways doing whatever they feel like doing. But God has also given us hope — no matter how badly we have messed up our lives, God is willing to take us back.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Bertram S. Brown, M.D. Director
National Institute of Mental Health

So many advances have been made against mental illness, and there are so many positive activities promoting mental health underway, that one of our problems today is the gathering and sharing of knowledge.

This is why the National Institute of Mental Health is aiding the development of a nationwide communications network - helping to link people and community services throughout the country in a partnership.

Everybody who has mental health information to trade is invited to join in Exemplifying this, the Institute recently held an information interchange which provided a unique swapping of ideas. The interchange was featured by a daily newsletter produced by the students of the University of Texas' School of Journalism's graduate program in mental health information.

News and ideas presented via the students' newsletter included information on such new activities as a California program offering youth alternatives to drugs, curbside films that focus on the emotionally disturbed child, and the development of a new directory of services available for autistic children.

These and other items at the information interchange were also geared to tie in with the invigorated attack being implemented for child mental health.

In this area, the NIMH is especially seeking the enlistment of teachers in the Nation's communities through its "One To Grow On" program. This new activity is designed to help teachers develop healthy children and youth in their classrooms.

Here also is an area where the communications network comes in. NIMH is asking anyone with ideas and materials and questions to participate.

For more information about "One To Grow On," the Communications Network, or any other aspect of mental health - or to contribute ideas, write to the National Institute of Mental Health, Room 15-99, Rockville, Md. 20852.

Both Mr. Cambria and I want to take this opportunity to thank Ethel Bivins and you for the professional way in which our account has been handled.

The daily papers could really take a lesson from Suburban Publishing in service with a capital "S", ability and an overall professional manner.

It goes without saying that we are indeed happy with the results that your eight weekly papers and bi-monthly Suburbanaire have been producing.

As you know, because of the results from your papers, we have elected to increase our bulk lineage contract with your group and advertise at a heavier pace in the future. The best to you and Ethel for the service that you have performed for us. We being a service organization can appreciate service in the fullest.

Very truly yours,

There are nineteen million ex-cigarette smokers in the United States; about one in five adult men in this country has dropped the habit.

Those who give up cigarettes report a great sense of satisfaction, of tremendous pride in being able to do it. To learn a new way of living, a way without cigarette smoking, is very rewarding to the ego—and to the ego's mate.

you can kick the Habit.

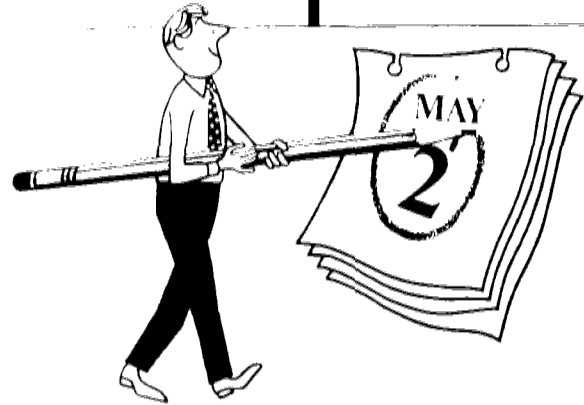

As You Approach Q Day

This is a mistake since many smokers fail on their first and second quit attempts. They often fail in breaking the habit, do not work but deferent. Their approach must be less the self-determination and more through recognizing the behavior with patience and persistence.

Self suggestion when one is relaxed, instead of trying to force it, and the presence of a positive attitude.

One's health education, remembering that many smokers who quit after a long period of time, are those who quit after a long period of time.

It makes of stopping smoking as self-determination. The smoker should not believe that he is giving up a part of himself, however dependent he may be on it. If he believes that way, he will not be successful in his efforts. He may become a passive and failed quitter. He may also find that smoking is a more positive and constructive, more rewarding behavior.

Try Cutting Down...

As you first step in the process of giving up cigarettes, many smokers will set the date for Q Day when you are going to stop completely and will approach it gradually reduce the number of cigarettes you smoke, day by day or week by week.

Another way to decide only to smoke one or two cigarettes a day between the 1st and 2nd of Q Day. And then to extend the nonsmoking period by one hour, an hour, two hours.

You may decide to take the cigarettes you smoke each week, grant yourself four weeks of Q Day.

Make it a real effort to get a cigarette. Wrap your package in several sheets of paper or place it in a tightly covered box. If you leave your change at home you won't be able to use a cigarette machine.

Shift from cigarettes you like to an unpopular brand. Before you light up, ask yourself, "Do I really want this cigarette or am I just acting out of empty habit?"

A smoker may find an unlighted cigarette in the mouth is helpful. Others enjoy handling and playing with a cigarette.

Cigarette smoking is a habit that is usually very well learned. Learning the habit of not smoking can be difficult. It can help in breaking into your habit chain to make yourself aware of the nature and frequency of your smoking behavior.

Do you really want this cigarette

? QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Do You Believe In "Cold Turkey" Quitting?

Yes, for some, no, for others. If you are a really "addicted" smoker, psychologists favor the sudden, decisive break.

For some, gradual withdrawal is less painful and entirely satisfactory.

Some cigarette smokers shift to pipes and cigars; there is of course some risk of mouth cancer from these but over all mortality of pipe and pipe smokers is only a little higher than among nonsmokers if the smoke is not inhaled.

What about going to a cigarette withdrawal clinic?

If there is a clinic or program in your community, you may find it useful. The American Cancer Society favors such efforts.

Sharing your withdrawal experiences with others and working with them on a common problem can be very helpful. The clinic may make it considerably easier in various ways to stop cigarette smoking.

However, remember, no clinic can provide a sure result. In this matter you must be both patient and physician.

Shall I Make A Big Thing Of Q-Day?

Some find it most satisfactory to work on a schedule in which Q Day, quitting day, is singled out as the important, decisive day in their personal lives. That indeed it is.

Others who have known for a long time that

Keep A Track Record

Many smokers have found that a useful step in understanding their smoking is the keeping of a daily record on a scale like that below.

In your journal, withdrawal you may decide to eliminate those extra cigarettes that you find are rated 1, 2, or 3 on the scale. Sometimes you will quit.

One experiment will give up the cigarettes you like most. In any case, keeping a smoking log will give you information about yourself, make you more aware of what your smoking habits are.

you may find that you are largely a social smoker. Smoking makes you feel closer to your friends. A cigarette may play a large part in your picture of your self-image and social status.

If you can convince yourself that people live and expect you for more important reasons than your cigarette, try going without it.

PLUS AND MINUS

SCORE CARD

Some cigarettes are more "addictive" to you than others. For example, you may find you smoke more cigarettes in the morning and less in the afternoon. You may find you smoke more cigarettes when you are relaxed and less when you are stressed.

Approaches in Giving up Cigarette Smoking

1. List the reasons for and against smoking.
2. Select Q Day—change to low tar and nicotine cigarette.
3. Chart your smoking habits for at least two weeks; how many cigarettes, when, the most and least important.
4. Repeat each night, at least ten times, one of your reasons for not smoking cigarettes.
5. Eliminate one category of cigarettes; the most or the least desired.

6. Secure a supply of substitutes, mints, gum, an inhaler, ginger root, etc.
7. Quit on Q Day—try the different substitutes as the wish to smoke recurs—enlist your wife or a friend in a busy series of events, eating well, going to the movies or theater, exercise and many long walks, moderate drinking.
8. If you are depressed, see your physician and discuss your symptoms.
9. Keep reminding yourself, again and again, of the shocking risks in cigarette smoking.

Dr. Silvan Tomkins distinguishes four general types of smoking behavior. An abbreviated summary of the types follows:

Four Smoking Styles

here the smoker may hardly be aware that he has a cigarette in his mouth. He smokes as if it made him feel good, or feel better, but in fact it does neither. He may once have regarded smoking as an important sign of status. But now smoking is automatic. The habitual smoker who wants to give up must first become aware of when he is smoking. Knowledge of the pattern of his smoking is a first step towards change.

Positive Affect Smoking;

here smoking seems to serve as a stimulant that produces exciting pleasure, or is used as a relaxant, to heighten enjoyment, as at the end of a meal. Here a youngster demonstrates his manhood or his defiance of his parents. This smoker may enjoy most the handling of a cigarette or the sense and sight of smoke curling out of his mouth. If these smokers can be persuaded to make an effort, they may find giving up cigarettes relatively painless.

Negative Affect Smoking;

this is sedative smoking, using the habit to reduce feelings of distress, fear, shame, or disgust or any combination of them. This person may not smoke at all when things go well, on vacation, or at a party, but under tension, when things go badly, at the office or at home, he reaches for a cigarette. These smokers give up often, but when the heat and pressure of the day hit them, when there's a challenge, they find it very hard to resist a cigarette. A strong substitute, like nibbling ginger root may be useful.

How About Ashtrays?

One school of thought asks, do you have a bottle of whiskey near an alcoholic? Their recommendation is to get rid of cigarettes, ashtrays, anything that might remind a smoker of his former habit.

Another school of thought take a different view and even suggest carrying cigarettes to demonstrate to yourself that you can resist temptation. Choose for yourself.

Shall I Tell Others Of My Decision?

Some do, some don't. Some find that the wider they spread the news of their decision the easier it is for them to make it stick. Others regard not smoking as their own personal business and keep it almost entirely to themselves. Will you strengthen your decision if your wife and friends know that you have committed yourself?

Will I Gain Weight?

Many do. Food is a substitute for cigarettes for many people. And your appetite may be fresher and stronger.

During the first few weeks of giving up cigarettes, some psychologists recommend pampering yourself, eating well, drinking well, enjoying those things that are pleasurable and fulfilling.

Some people, those who claim off nicotinic withdrawal, get nervous about controlling their weight for fatness level at the same time that they are looking for help for cigarettes.

Again, it depends upon the person and his approach.

How About Hypnosis?

Its helpfulness in stopping smoking is not accepted. Why not discuss the matter with a physician if you are interested?

Shall I See My Physician? YES

However, the problem is yours, not his, and he may not feel that he can be helpful. On the other hand he may be able to give you symptom support and may prescribe medication. He can be helpful, also, in suggesting a diet which will prevent you from gaining too much weight.

Physicians as a profession have been leaders in a fight on the risks of cigarette smoking. The Public Health Service estimates that 100,000 physicians that of the physicians who smoke were cigarette smokers have kicked the habit. A California study shows that only 21 percent of all physicians in the state are cigarette smokers now.

Why Do So Many People Smoke Cigarettes?

Surely one reason is that the cigarette industry spends about $500,000,000 a year in promoting the habit and in halting the facts that scientists have produced that point to the dangers of the habit.

Another reason is that something in cigarettes, perhaps nicotine, is habit forming. Smokers become dependent rather rapidly. Cigarette smoking is essentially a 20th century habit, nurtured by wars, brilliant advertising, and by the development of remarkably efficient automatic machines that produce those millions of round, firmly packed cigarettes.

It is only within the last 15 years that we have learned through research, pioneered by the American Cancer Society, that this personal and socially accepted habit is extremely dangerous. Cigarette smoking is deeply embedded in our life, agriculture, industry, government, the communications media, all have a stake in it. It is still widely accepted, even though proven to be a most certain hazard to health.

Because promotion is important in maintaining the habit's popularity, the Society believes all cigarette advertising in all media should be terminated. We hope that this goal will be achieved voluntarily and that governmental action won't be necessary.

100,000 doctors have quit smoking cigarettes

...you can quit, too!

THE WEEK BEFORE Q-DAY

Think over your list of reasons why you should not smoke: the risk of disease, the blurring of the taste of food, the cost, the cough, the bad breath, the mess and smell of morning-after ashtrays.

Concentrate each evening when you are relaxed, just before you fall asleep, on one dreadful result of cigarette smoking. Repeat and repeat and repeat that single fact. Drive home another fact the next night and another the next.

Review the facts that you know about the risks of cigarette smoking. Remind yourself that there, but for the grace of God go you, that you may indeed, if you continue smoking, lose six and a half years of life, that—if you are a heavy smoker—your chances of dying between 25 and 65 years of age are twice as great as those of the nonsmoker. Are the six minutes of pleasure to a heavy smoker in a cigarette worth six fewer minutes of life? Would you fly in an airplane if the chances of crash and death were even close to the risks of cigarette smoking? Think over why it is that 100,000 physicians have quit cigarette smoking.

A man of few words

Movie extra rarely has lines

SOUVENIR FOR LEVINE Eli Levine relaxes aboard plane in scene from soon to be released motion picture, Souvenir. Academy award winning star sits beside him and as long as her husband, Paul Newman, doesn't mind, neither does our man from Union.

By RAE HUTTON

Who's that woman sitting next to Eli Levine? Who's Eli Levine, you ask? He's a Union resident, an actor, bill collector, author, poet and humanitarian, and in these capacities, you've probably seen him more often than the popular actress he's sitting next to.

In his latest acting venture, Levine plays a businessman sitting next to the Oscar winning actress, Joanne Woodward, in a plane which is about to crash. The scene comes from the new movie "Souvenir" which was made in New York.

Levine, 61, started his acting career two years ago, and since then has appeared as an extra in many movies and in the theater, and has been a guest on four talk shows and several radio shows.

He has never had a word to say in any of the parts he has played in the past two years, but expects that in time he will "find myself very relaxed when I talk extemporaneously," Levine said, recalling his appearances on the talk show. "Many listeners called the hosts to congratulate them for having me. I also feel relaxed when doing films."

Levine has appeared on the John Barlowe Tucker Show, the Joe Franklin Show and Middy. Also to his credit are several television commercials, including one on the popular "Alka Seltzer" variety.

His other film appearances include "The Abductors," "Pete," "Secret Mixed Up Files of Mrs. Basil F. Frankweiler" and "The Last Detail."

Levine always plays an extra, but always gets a "special job," such as sitting next to Miss Woodward in "Souvenir." The scene in the soon to be released movie was filmed at LaGuardia Airport.

Levine has wanted to be an actor since he was five years old and living with his family in Cheliabinsk, Siberia, after fleeing Poland and the onset of World War I. But he never had the time.

The family came to the United States and settled in Scranton, Pa. 50 years ago. He attended school there and performed in school plays, against the wishes of his father. He also worked in the family clothing and household goods business before making his first trip to Hollywood during the depression.

DISC 'N DATA

On the UNI label ANDY KIM (7016) Selections include "Who Has The Answers?", "Shady Hollow Dreamer," "The Fancies Of A Child," "Michael," "Oh What A Day," "Love The Pool Boy," "Sunshine," "All In The Name Of Stetson," "So Good To Have You Here," and "A Love Song" - Just For Strings.
The super success of Andy Kim would be laudable enough to satisfy the ambition of most young music personalities. Considering his fandom, his gold records and his youth, such a track record would be difficult for anyone else to improve. Yet at 25 the Canadian born hit maker is reaching for new and added laurels. Not to minimize the combination of talent and good fortune that has produced four gold records and the sales of 12 million records. The third of four sons born in Montreal, Quebec, young Andy nurtured thoughts of one day becoming an attorney, but music captivated him by the age of 16.
Then began the weekend trips to New York to attract the attention of record companies. It was a slow, arduous process of part time jobs and saving his allowance to able up for one demo session after another. Finally when acquiring material began a major problem, he turned to song writing to earn it.
I started writing my own songs because I was bored," Andy admits. "Nobody ever heard of me and the best songs went to the name artists." So parlaying the C and F chords on his guitar, Andy came up with "How I We Ever Got This Way" which was good enough to sell 800,000 copies.
Now, launched as a songwriter as well as a hit artist, "Baby, I Love You" and "Be My Baby" were soon hung on his wall in gold.
Then came "Sugar Sugar," the smash hit for which he is best known. A former producer of his, Jeff Barry, invited him to help contribute some material for the TV Arches series. They pened the time together, adding the final touches during a 30 minute break in filming. The result, a record industry blockbuster that has sold over a million records to date. They have been more than 25 versions and it was the only million seller in England in 1969.

I usually start something then put it away," says Andy. "I let it rest for a day or so before playing it again. If it doesn't satisfy me the second time around, I move on to something else."

Report card not failing

Some changes, but it passes

"The death of the report card is periodically announced, prematurely, but the report card is neither dead nor dying," says the journal of the New Jersey Education Association, although it is undergoing widespread change.

"New practices in grading and reporting come chiefly as a result of new concepts about teaching and learning and about the role of parents and the home in educating children," says an article in the latest issue of the NJEA REVIEW taken from a new publication by the National School Public Relations Association of Arlington, Va.

"Because 19th Century teachers used stiff cardboard to report student grades, the traditional device is called a report card. In daddy's day, students usually brought one home on the last school day of each month, had a parent sign it and returned it promptly to school," according to the NJEA article.

A to F have been replaced by a variety of alternatives. The most common is the marriage of rating scales to checklists, giving the teacher the chance to put ratings such as "outstanding," "satisfactory," or "unsatisfactory," alongside such choices as "understands concepts," "solves problems" or "works accurately."

The "ideal" reporting method, says the NJEA journal, is the conference between parent and teacher, during which progress and problems can be frankly discussed. This technique began in the primary grades and is spreading rapidly in elementary schools. Unfortunately, it's impractical at the secondary level, where a teacher is often responsible for 150 or more students a day.

The NJEA gives this assessment of traditional methods of reporting pupil progress.

Today's reporting medium is often not a card, the NJEA REVIEW reports. Instead, it can be a conversation, a personal letter from the teacher or a computer printout.

Not all of today's cards require the parent's signature. Some are non-returnable carbon copies of reports already placed into the school's files.

Today's student does not always deliver the report himself. Some school systems send it home through the mails.

These changes in the medium have been accompanied by changes in the message, the NJEA REVIEW says. The traditional grades a numerical percentage or letters ranging from

If the purpose is to give the school administrative office a convenient way to sort out those students who should receive promotions, honors, scholarships and valedictories traditional grading works well.

If the purpose is to help college admissions officers select candidates for their freshman classes traditional grading also works well.

If the purpose is to communicate with the parent, giving information about the child's progress and asking for help in overcoming problems traditional grading could stand improvement.

If the purpose is to motivate the student toward intensive learning traditional grading often doesn't work well at all.

Legal Aid Clinic at Rutgers receives grant of $25,000

The Rutgers Legal Aid Clinic has received a grant of $25,000 from the Florence and John Schumann Foundation of Montclair enabling the agency to continue to serve poor clients in need of legal services for another year.

This is the second grant received from the philanthropic organization which made it possible for students at the Rutgers Law School to organize the clinic some 18 months ago.

In making the grant the foundation expressed the hope that other organizations would follow its lead.

The foundation's grant drew this reaction from Ruben S. Schofield, acting administrator for the Newark Legal Services Project which is aided by the clinic.

"The re-funding of the Rutgers Legal Aid Clinic is certainly welcome at this time, particularly in view of the fact that the NLSJP, like many other legal services programs around the country, is being threatened with extinction by the Nixon Administration."

STRICTLY PERSONAL

By Pat and Marilyn Davis
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
My husband is insisting that I press his wash and wear shirts because his mother always did. I work from 8 until 5 and see no logic in creating extra work for myself.

I wash his shirts and take them out of the dryer before they are completely dry. He would never have known I wasn't ironing them if he hadn't seen me placing the shirts on hangers. My mother-in-law has never worked a day in her life, so she had more time for such duties. I've tried to explain this to Mel but he has been adamant about the shirts. Finally, he agreed to let you solve the problem. Should I or shouldn't I press the shirts?

right to left, you will discover that we agree!

Confidential to Copley News Service

Bride:
You are right. Your husband does have a problem. But if you should have a problem, your doctor just as soon as you can get an appointment.

Ignoring this situation is not the solution. This problem is generally psychological, not physical.

If you have a question, write Pat and Marilyn Davis, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Grace

Dear Grace:
You can give six wash and wear shirts a fast press in less than 15 minutes. Why not let Mel win this one? Save your ammunition for something more important.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
Why didn't you recommend Gamblers Anonymous to Janie whose fiance pawned his hi-fi, shotgun, watch and even borrowed money from her? You suggested that she play her cards right and drop the guy. This just helped her walk away from a problem and it did nothing to help her fiance. If she began attending the Gamblers Anonymous meetings, she would learn to deal with the emotions and feelings of gamblers. If she is lucky, her fiance might attend with her. He is sick and needs help.

Jon

Dear Jon:
A habitual gambler is not a good bet! If she is lucky, her fiance might find a new girl friend.

In my opinion, better to walk away from a problem than walk into one. However, Janie may prefer to try it your way so I am passing on your advice. Thanks for the suggestion.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
My boyfriend can talk anyone into anything—well almost anything. He is a salesman and does very well so you see what I mean.

Our one problem is sex, and Grant is putting on such a sales-pitch that I am afraid I may weaken. We are both over 21 and Grant says we should allow our feelings to rule the situation so that we can really know each other. His last offer was that if I wouldn't he would get someone who would. How about that?

Weakening

Dear Weakening:
To date, Grant hasn't made you an offer you can't turn down.

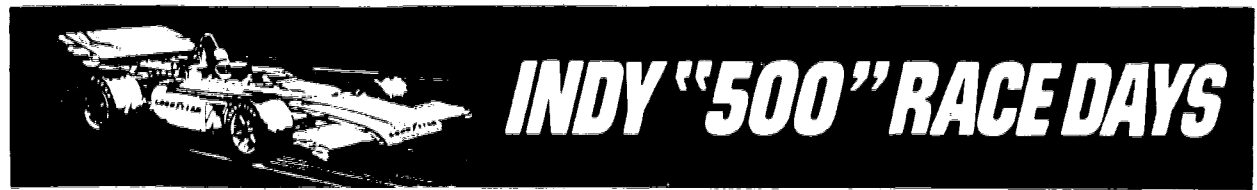

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
We have six children and I have tried to treat them all the same. With my husband, it is different. He seems to hate two of our sons. I cannot understand his feelings. Do you have an explanation for such actions? I might mention that we have been married 38 years.

A Reader in Lowell

Dear Reader:
The position of peacemaker between two warring camps is always most difficult—especially when those you love are involved. Why not consult your family doctor or clergyman? You need more help than we can give you.

A Reader:
Thanks for the letter. A difference of opinion is what makes life interesting. However, if you will read the column you mentioned from left to right instead of from

GOLF COURSE OPEN Mystic Islands Golf Course is now open for the season with a PGA pro Dick Bennett in charge of the scenic course which borders the Great Bay and Atlantic Ocean. The course is open to visitors to the year-round vacation and retirement community as well as permanent residents. Shown here on the links is Richard N. Waters Jr., president of the club. Mystic Islands is located on the Jersey Shore at Tuckerton, just off the Garden State Parkway.

Weekend debut for LUV, Sussex condominium unit

LUV, townhouse community in Stanhope, designed and planned for "the young lifestyle," makes its debut this weekend. Built by Greater American Communities, one of New Jersey's largest residential development firms, LUV will display five townhouse models at the community site, situated at the top of Dell road, off Rt. 183. Planned as a 360-unit condominium community with townhouses, apartments and duplex units, LUV will contain its own on-site recreation complex which includes a club-house, swimming pool and health club.

The location of LUV is in the mountain-belt of Sussex County a site amid hills and woodlands, yet within an hour's commuting distance from the George Washington Bridge, New York City and the northern New Jersey industrial centers via Rt. 80, which is less than a mile from the new community.

When completed, LUV will consist of 20 cluster-planned buildings containing 360 townhouse and duplex units on a 36-acre, wooded site. "The trees and native terrain have been preserved as much as possible by Greater American, to provide rustic settings and broad expanses of open space throughout the community," a spokesman said. Many of the units are built into the hillside with native boulders left undisturbed.

Priced from $26,990, the homes will contain one or two bedrooms and one or one-and-a-half baths, and closet space throughout. All homes will be centrally air-conditioned.

The five model apartment-townhouses are named "The Tryst," "The Sweet," "The Pad II," "The Tender Trap" and "The Nest." "The Tender Trap" is a three-level townhouse that features on the first level a 19-foot living room with closet; a balconied dining room overlooking the living room; an eat-in kitchen; adjoining family room, with sliding glass doors leading to the rear of the home, and a powder room. The master-bedroom, with a dressing area; a dual-entry main bath; a second bedroom and sitting room comprise the upper level. There is a 19-foot recreation room and utility-storage area in the basement.

"The Pad II" apartment has an L-shaped living room-dining room. A dine-in kitchen, with sliding glass doors to private balcony includes a double-door refrigerator-freezer. A master bedroom with walk-in closet, main bath with linen closet, and laundry room are also on the same level. There is 1,100 cubic feet of storage area in the basement.

All homes at LUV will have wall-to-wall carpeting in a choice of colors, oil heat, aluminum storm windows and screens. Kitchens are equipped with wood cabinetry, electric oven-range, dishwasher, washer, dryer, and range hood and fan. Baths have ceramic tile with vanities and mirrored medicine cabinets. Fireplaces are available for most units.

Each LUV unit has its own private entrance and exteriors will be rough-sawn cedar siding. Eight-inch sound-conditioned block walls separate the cluster-type homes, which are fully insulated.

The important thing, as Konwiser and Newman see it, is the year-round aspect of the community. LUV is surrounded by woodland, yet shopping centers and professional services are only a mile away in neighboring Netcong. Other major shopping areas are in Newton, Hackensack and Willowbrook Mall.

For the commuter, LUV is situated near the junction of three major highways. Routes 80, 46 and 206. In addition, there is bus and train service from Netcong to New York.

The Stanhope community is near recreational sites, including lakes and ski areas. Seven golf courses dot the surrounding countryside, and the region also offers activities for campers, hunters, fishermen and boating enthusiasts. Residents will have the use of the private bathing beach on the shores of Lake Musconong and Lake Hopatcong, only minutes away.

The LUV community has city sewers and water with all utilities underground to preserve the natural beauty of the woodland setting. Freedom from exterior maintenance—lawn cutting and snow shoveling—is another advantage to condominium ownership at LUV. It is all taken care of for a monthly fee.

To reach the community, prospective buyers should take Route 80 to the Stanhope exit (Route 183), which is beyond the Route 46 exit. Cross Route 183 onto Dell Road, it is then less than a half-mile to LUV.

The Gerb Agency—New Jersey's largest residential real estate firm—is exclusive sales agent for the community.

LUV AT STAN HOPE offers the young way of life to everyone. Being built by Greater American Communities, the 360-unit complex offers one or two-bedroom and one or one-and-one-half bath apartment, duplex or townhouse homes clustered on 36 acres on Dell Road in Stanhope. Five models, priced from $26,990, opening for inspection this weekend include the Tryst, the Sweet, the Pad II, the Tender Trap and the Nest. The Gerb Agency is exclusive sales agent for LUV at Stanhope.

BILEVEL'S MODERN LIVABILITY AT OAKLEY HILL
The Weymouth at Scarborough Corporation's new residential development, Oakley Hill at North Branch in Jackson Township, Ocean County, stresses carefree, comfortable living in an atmosphere of elegance in this bi-level design. Priced at $39,900, the Weymouth includes three bedrooms, bath, living room, dining room, and eat-in kitchen on the upper level and a recreation room, optional hobby room, half bath, and laundry-utility room on the lower level. The home also includes a garage on the ground level. Located on New Prospect road in Jackson Township, the community offers five other designs priced from $35,500.

Oakley Hill community of 91 homes being introduced by Scarborough

Scarborough Corporation, southern New Jersey residential developer, has gone further north to introduce a new community in Jackson Township, Ocean County. Scarborough, honored for its distinctive presentation of six American Traditional architectural designs, has named the new community Oakley Hill at North Branch. At completion it will have 91 homes in split-level, bi-level, two-story, and ranch design, with prices beginning at $39,500. All homes in the community will be built on minimum half acre lots situated on the rolling hillside of Jackson Township, and each will be fully landscaped. Trees are abundant throughout the tract and every effort is being made by the developer to blend the Oakley Hill community into the environment of the area. All homes include city water and sewers, and all utilities are being placed underground to retain the natural environment at the community. No adjacent homes will be alike as the developers maintain a custom atmosphere. The community, distinct in colonial influence, offers homes with three to five bedrooms, up to two and a half baths, family rooms, hobby rooms, gourmet kitchens, formal dining areas and gracious living areas. Features include one model with a copper-roofed bay window and a winged-effect two-car garage to add to the Virginia carriage house atmosphere, and another home complete with gambrel roof, covered porch and an optional interior beamed ceiling. Life magazine named Scarborough's Barclay Farm community in Cherry Hill as one of the finest new residential areas in the United States, and McCall's conferred its award for original design on a Scarborough home. The company has also been cited by American Home magazine and by Practical Builder magazine for outstanding achievement in the construction field. Cherry Hill Township which the Scarborough Corporation helped transform into one of the nation's finest residential communities, honored Robert Scarborough, president of the company, with its outstanding business citizenship award. Scarborough was the first person to be so honored. Now, with the introduction of Oakley Hill, the Scarborough Corporation has included the same elements of design, craftsmanship, and livability as in some 3,500 other residences it has built. Oakley Hill is located on New Prospect road in Jackson Township, Ocean County, and can be reached via the Garden State Parkway to exit 91, route 549, 1/2 mile to route 526, west to New Prospect road, or via route 9 south to route 526, Lakewood, and west to New Prospect road and the Oakley Hill and North Branch models.

Claremont Court sales hit $1 million

Claremont Court, the newest section of Shadow Lake Village, is more than half sold and sales in the newest section of the adult community in Middletown Township have already passed the $1 million mark, according to Kevork S. Hovnanian, president of Hovnanian Enterprises. "Buyers can see the obvious quality of the models and earlier sections of the community, which are complete and fully established. So they're assured that they're getting their money's worth," Hovnanian said. In Claremont Court, explained Hovnanian, buildings and landscaping have been arranged in a manner that screens vehicular traffic from the view of courts and patios. In addition, the arrangement filters out unwanted sound, thus enhancing the sense of privacy. One of the many attractions of the condominium community is the complete freedom from routine maintenance chores which usually accompany home ownership. A monthly fee covers the cost of snow removal, security, lawn care, garbage collection and all recreation facilities. However, residents have all the advantages of ownership, especially deductions for real estate taxes and mortgage interest. The four new models in Claremont Court are especially designed to create the feeling of single-family living. Each home has an entry foyer, with a central hallway that allows access to every room without the necessity of passing through another room. The one-bedroom Kalmia is an example of the quality to be found at Shadow Lake Village. Available as a first or second floor terrace home, it contains a special guest powder room in addition to the oversized full bath. The Kalmia also features an eat-in kitchen, sliding glass doors leading to the patio or balcony, a 24-foot living-dining room and a spacious walk-in closet in the bedroom. There is also ample storage space. Prices for the Kalmia begin at $32,450. Claremont Court also offers two-bedroom, two-bath townhouses and two-bedroom terrace homes. All models feature wall-to-wall carpeting, "no-wax" resilient kitchen floors, Hotpoint ranges with self-cleaning ovens, central air-conditioning, electric heat with individual room thermostats, ceramic tile baths, insulated sliding glass doors and screens and a garage.

The facilities of Shadow Lake Village include a heated swimming pool and an outstanding golf course, exclusively for residents and their guests. The community also has lighted tennis courts, shuffleboard, a fully-equipped boathouse, and nearing completion, a clubhouse which will be equipped for arts and crafts, woodworking, sewing and other hobby activities. There is also a mini-bus, managed by the association, which travels a regular schedule through the community and to local shopping areas. There is a round-the-clock security force and controlled access to the community. The region is filled with recreational possibilities, from deep sea fishing to cultural programs, such as those offered at the Garden State Arts Center.

Individuality is emphasized in new Holmdel community

Estates of Holmdel, opened less than a year, is already one-third sold out, according to designer and builder Barry Rosengarten. When completed, the community, which is off Stoney Brook Road in Holmdel, will consist of 61 major home estates ranging from $89,000 to well over $100,000. In each case, Rosengarten points out, the land and home are being packaged together. Although custom crafted to the last detail, Estates of Holmdel shuns big construction crews. A typical customized home begins when a new home buyer decides what he would like. Then Rosengarten sits down with a basic plan and begins changing it to meet the new owner's desires and needs. As soon as the plan is roughed-out, Rosengarten determines its feasibility and what the costs will be. The job is then put out to bid.

Estates of Holmdel emphasizes the relationship of home to acreage, and quality control of a $100,000 home is of major importance to Rosengarten. Rosengarten maintains supervisors, carpenters and laborers on the payroll. The subcontractors take care of the conventional and roughed-out work, but his own staff handles final details such as trim, moulding, doors, Tudor siding effect and all the special work on the interior of the home. The opportunity for complete individuality in design and the achievement of the "perfect home to fit each acre" is offered prospective buyers at Estates of Holmdel. Not only are the homes luxurious and distinctive, but homesites offer the same spectrum of variegation. Hilltop settings have panoramic views of the New York skyline, Atlantic Ocean and Verrazano Bridge. Woodland sites are interspersed with towering trees as well as dogwood and mountain laurel. Open grassy slopes invite expansive lawns, flower gardens and terraces. Pastoral farmland and a babbling brook border the hundred-acre estate. Owners are offered the utmost in privacy surrounded by natural scenic beauty from every angle.

modern convenience a homeowner could desire for comfortable secluded out in the country living. Situated in the rolling hills of Monmouth County, Estates of Holmdel seems far from the hustle and bustle of populated New Jersey, yet it offers the best of suburban conveniences nearby. Modern multi-store shopping centers, gourmet restaurants and farmers' roadside markets are easily reached via scenic country roads. Commuting to metropolitan centers is easy via the nearby railroad, express air conditioned buses or the Garden State Parkway and Route 35 which provide easy access to all major highways north and south. Its wide sandy beaches and ocean swimming. Historic Holmdel has a new modern high school, Christian Brothers Academy for Boys, Brookdale Community and Monmouth Colleges are close by. Estates of Holmdel is more than an exclusive community of luxurious homes or a place to live. It is a year round concept in family living where nature's beauty and solitude have been preserved for the executive and his family. Acreage and homes at Estates of Holmdel are offered exclusively through R. E. Scott Company, Realtors, whose representative is at the community daily and weekends. To reach the community, take the Garden State Parkway south to Exit 117, Route 35. Go south two and one-half miles and turn right on Centerville road to the sales office.

Rosengarten is also president of Patriot Construction Corporation, builders. For the past ten years, he has been designing and building luxury custom homes in Metuchen and other prestige areas of the state. He is a vice-president of the New Jersey Builders' Association, past president of the Central Jersey Builders' Association, and was the recipient of their "builder of the year" award in 1972.

The recreational and cultural offerings in the area are exceptional. Famous racehorse-breeding farms abound and riding trails are everywhere. The nearby Shrewsbury and Navesink Rivers offer protective waters and direct access to the Atlantic Ocean Yachting, sail boating, water skiing and fishing are popular summertime activities and ice boating, ice fishing and skating abound in the wintertime. The Garden State Arts Center, county parks, country clubs, Monmouth Park and Freehold race tracks are just minutes away, as is the Atlantic Ocean with its wide sandy beaches and ocean swimming. Historic Holmdel has a new modern high school, Christian Brothers Academy for Boys, Brookdale Community and Monmouth Colleges are close by. Estates of Holmdel is more than an exclusive community of luxurious homes or a place to live. High Point offers more leisure time for homeowners

A home, like happiness, is different things to different people. One of the newest forms of home ownership is the condominium but it is not geared for the "putterer" who wants to take up leisure time working in the garden, fixing roof shingles, painting the trim, or even raking leaves and shoveling snow. He would be happier with a single-family home. For people who desire more free time and no work around the outside of the house there is the condominium. In seaside Ocean County, High Point at Lakewood offers the answer, the condominium, with all upkeep done for the homeowner for relatively low cost. High Point homes start from $17,900 for one and two-bedroom condominiums located on the hillside site. Maintenance figures are lower than most other "condos." High Point condominium ownership also includes a centrally located on-site swimming pool, and community clubhouse for social events and other activities. High Point at Lakewood, which already has welcomed more than 250 residents, is located in the southwestern section of Lakewood, at Prospect street and Massachusetts avenue, just off Rt. 9, near Paul Kimball Hospital. A new model section with redesigned condominiums is under construction, and new style units are being shown in the sales office. A few of the original designed units still are available in the clubhouse section of the community, still at 1972 prices. The sales office is open from 10 a.m. through dusk—daily and weekends.

Report by Commission on Civil Rights attempts to clarify fair housing laws

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Equal treatment in the housing market is the law of the land in 1973. But what that means is not clear to millions of Americans of all races, according to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

In a special publication, "Understanding Fair Housing," released today, the commission attempts to clarify the meaning of the various fair housing laws. Copies of the report are available upon request from the commission.

The report says, "The problems of discrimination in housing and residential segregation can be resolved wisely and compassionately. It is essential that the American people be fully informed of the true nature of the issues involved."

PERSON SUFFERING HEARING LOSS OFFERED BOOKLET

U.S. Government Publication Available At No Charge

WILMINGTON, DEL. — A free United States Government booklet entitled "Hearing Loss: Hope Through Research," is now available to persons suffering a hearing loss.

Published by the U.S. Dept. of Public Health, Education and Welfare for use by the hard of hearing, the booklet covers such facts as inherited deafness, discovering early trouble, selecting a hearing aid, noise damaging and adults' hearing, and the main types of hearing loss.

Free copies of the booklet are available by writing to "Government Booklet," Independence Mall, Suite 65, 1604 Concorde Pike, Wilmington, Delaware, 19803.

According to the commission, the segregated housing patterns found throughout America are not the result of natural or neutral forces in the housing market. "Patterns of residence have developed over a period of decades," the report states. "Government at all levels and private industry combined to establish a racially dual housing market separate and unequal."

"Take other social problems that have deep roots in history," the report says, "fair housing cannot be understood without understanding what that history has been."

The commission is an independent, bipartisan fact-finding agency concerned with the rights of minorities and women. Members of the commission are Stephen Horn, vice chairman, president, California State University, Long Beach; Frankie M. Freeman, St. Louis attorney; Maurice B. Mitchell, chancellor, University of Denver; Robert S. Rankin, professor emeritus of political science, Duke University, Durham, N.C.; and Manuel Ruiz Jr., Los Angeles attorney. John A. Buggs is staff director.

The issues in fair housing, the commission observes, "involve fundamental questions of the kind of society we wish our children to inherit. The way we resolve problems of equal housing opportunity will go far in answering these questions — in determining whether we will leave to future generations a racially divided or a united country."

Residential segregation, according to the report, "is so deeply ingrained in American life that the job of assuring equal housing opportunity to minority groups means not only eliminating any present discriminatory practices, but correcting the mistakes of the past as well."

The report deals with a number of commonly held misconceptions about fair housing, for example, the belief that, when minority groups begin buying homes in a white neighborhood, real estate values automatically begin to fall.

"The objective factors affecting property values have no relation to race at all," according to the report. "They depend on the condition of the housing market and include a cluster of elements, such as the age and condition of the housing, the under-or-over supply of certain house styles, the price range of the housing, zoning changes, the under-or-over development of a neighborhood, and changes in neighborhood amenities."

In addition, the report says, "There is no inevitable relationship between race and property values. But when the normal forces of the housing market are artificially manipulated, the race-property relationship may be created. When areas previously closed to minorities are opened, the level of prices rise, and when white homeowners are induced to sell in panic, by blockbusters, for example, prices decline. White residents who panic and sell assure by their action that the property values will fall."

According to the commission, fair housing opportunities are the key to progress in areas other than housing for minorities. For example, many of the best schools and most of the new jobs over the last 10 years have been located in the suburban areas where minorities encounter severely restricted housing opportunities. Also, American families have traditionally acquired financial capital and improved their economic condition through homeownership. The commission cited these examples in its report as some of the subsidiary benefits other Americans have sought in housing selection which have not normally been available to minority race and ethnic group Americans.

Brochure released by CYO, describes current programs

A brochure entitled "The CYO Today" was issued this week by the Catholic Youth organizations of the Newark Archdiocese. It describes the current year-round program of recreational activities conducted in Bergen, Essex, Hudson and Union counties and gives a summary of statistics for the past year.

"The CYO is one of the functions of the Youth Department of the Archdiocese," the brochure states, "and is the principal means of reaching Catholic youth, especially adolescents, during their after-school hours through a recreational program of spiritual, social, cultural and athletic activities."

The program brings the youth into frequent contact with their parish CYO priest moderator through such activities as baseball, basketball and bowling leagues, track meets, cheerleading, dances, ski trips, conventions, dramatics, talent and hobby shows and special service projects such as collections for the March of Dimes.

The statistical summary for the year ending December 1972 lists 172 teenage units with an enrollment of 19,750. The pre-teen youth program includes Boy Scouting and Girl Scouting, each having 15,000 members. Summer camps, and activities such as a peeling bee and sports leagues conducted through elementary schools in which 10,650 youngsters participated. CYO athletics of various kinds attracted more than 10,000, while 3,169 participated in social activities and 3,169 took part in cultural activities. A recent addition to the CYO program is the "CYO Kids' camp" on Lake Hopatcong which hosts urban week-end children on a non-sectarian basis. Week-end retreats and leadership training for teens and adults are also part of the CYO program.

NSC plans art courses for high school students

The Fine Arts Department of Newark State College at Union is offering two summer art courses for high school students who have completed their junior year.

The college-level courses (design I and drawing) will be offered during the college summer session and will be taught by two members of the Fine Arts faculty.

Dr. Robert Coon, who is teaching the design course, has worked as a graphic designer in California and has been involved in both publication and environmental design.

Martin Holloway, who will be teaching the drawing course, has had teaching experience in North Carolina and Michigan. His own art works take the form of large cut-out environmental paintings, all of which have been developed from drawing studies.

College credit for those students who successfully complete the courses will be "banked" for them in the event one should attend Newark State as a full time student majoring in art. The student would receive this credit at other colleges, it would be at the discretion of each individual institution.

Each course is worth three credits and meets two mornings per week for the six-week session from June 25 through Aug. 2. The cost is $20 per credit plus $3 for administrative fees.

Interested students should write for applications to H.S. Summer Program, Fine Arts Department, Newark State College, Union, 07083.

Exhibition set June 2 by museum

Plans for the Montclair Art Museum's Family Day Outdoor Art School Exhibition were announced this week by George Wilson, chairman of the event. The exhibition will be held Saturday, June 2, from 2:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. In case of rain, the event will be held the following day.

The museum grounds will be the setting for the exhibition of work done in the art school classes during the past year. The outdoor display is being planned by Patricia Barnes, the art school registrar, with the help of the instructors. All of the classes will be represented, Mrs. Barnes said.

Music, games and refreshments will be offered out-of-doors. Indoors, in the art school studios, mini-workshops will be held.

Admission to the event will be free.
