to assist subject area coordinators in each of the four high schools is part of a continuing effort to increase performance in the classrooms, where the actual work of the schools goes on, according to Dr. Donald Merachnik, superintendent of schools for the Union County Regional High School district.

Noting that supervision of as many as 60 teachers in four schools had become a Herculean task for coordinators in such fields as English and social studies, the superintendent said the Board of Education last month ap-

In other words, each will teach four classes, rather than five and an additional nonteaching period, in the seven-period school day. They will not receive additional pay, at least for the 1973-74

Reviewing the need, Merachnik listed the number of teachers supervised by each coordinator in the four schools.

'The district has grown from one to four schools; there has been a tremendous increase in the number of students and staff members: there has been an extensive and rapid development of the curriculum; and the number of tasks has multiplied. Each school has interests, needs, and concerns which reflect the unique character of the community it serves. Therefore, there is the need for "The role of the teacher-leader is to assist teachers with problems of immediate concern, to promote teachers' professional growth and to provide assistance to the coordinators in the school. The teacher-leader is to assist with problems which are departmental in nature and concern students, teachers, counselors and administrators.

"The teacher-leader will have a line relationship with the principal and a staff relationship with the coordinator.

District board meets Tuesday

There will be a regular monthly meeting of the Union County Regional High School District Board of Education Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria at the David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth.

Coffee and cake will be provided for residents of the Regional High School District who arrive a half an hour before the regular meeting in order to talk informally with their board representatives.

The Union County Regional High School District is composed of six communities; Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield, and operates four high schools. It was the first regional district created in the state.

She emphasizes another point, too. Since women on the whole live longer than men, "85 percent of the cases in surrogate court are administered by women." To prevent widows from running into financial problems while the husband's estate is being settled, she recommends "a joint bank account to take care of contingencies-and also that some of the money be in the wife's name." A lifelong resident of Union County, she at-ended grammar school in Kenilworth, Roselle

Park High School, Fordham University and Seton Hall University. Joining the surrogate's staff as a secretary, she soon became probate clerk, chief clerk and, later, special deputy surrogate. In November 1963, she was elected as Union County's first woman surrogate. On Jan 1, 1964, she began holding evening hours at her office in Elizabeth on the first Thursday of each month-a schedule interrupted only once in nearly 10 years, for a nephew's wedding. Last year she also started evening hours on the third Monday of each month at the County Courthouse Extension in Westfield.

'Some people would have to lose a day's pay if they couldn't come to my office in the evenings," she pointed out.

Soon after being elected to her first term as surrogate, Miss Kanane also had a special telephone installed at her home to take calls "at any hour of day or night, to provide 24-hour service," she added.

SHE HAS INSTITUTED a policy of accepting joint control with guardians of the estates of minors, a step that has saved the guardians the expense of surety bond and won for her a citation from a committee of the State Supreme

She also has instituted a mechanized filing system which has since been adopted as well by other departments of Union County government and has introduced microfilming to solve the space problem involved in storing records that date back to 1857. For the three years before she was elected surrogate, Miss Kanane served as a member of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders. She was chairman of the county's Department of Health, Welfare'and Education when a 50 bed unit for the chonically ill was added to Runnells Hospital in Berkeley Heights. She is a board member of the United Way of

Student appointed to advisory group for seminar series

Jonathan Seidel of 364 Longview dr., Mountainside, a freshman at Oberlin College, has been appointed to the Washington Workshops Foundation national student advisory committee. Board chairman Leo S. Tonkin recently made the announcement from the Workshops office in Washington, D.C.

The Washington Workshops Foundation, a nonprofit, nonpartisan association of educational and governmental leaders, was founded in 1967 to offer a series of seminars in American government to high school students. Each year some 1,000 young people from across nation participate in Washington Workshops seminars in the capital.

The students stay at Mount Vernon College, in northwest Washington, and spend their days on Capitol Hill where senators and congressmen speak to them and answer any questions the student might have about the issues and procedures of American govern-ment. Students also attend committee hearings and make appointments with their congressmen and senators.

Of the students who participate each year, a small number are selected to be members of the Washington Workshops national student advisory committee, the selections being based on leadership ability and interest in national and international affairs.

The advisory committee works through a series of regional conferences which focus on projects and problems of concern to American youth. Many of the decisions and views of the committee may then be implemented by the Workshops foundation.

A number of projects have been developed by the committee, including the establishment of the advanced congressional seminars, offering students opportunities for work in congressional offices for college credit. The advisory committee also assists in planning the seminars, setting up student speaking programs across America and compiling a book entitled "Youth Info Digest," a directory and listing of nonprofit national organizations that involve contemporary issues of concern to young people.

Students interested in activities of the Washington Workshops Foundation, should write to: Director, Washington Workshops Foundation, 1111 Munsey Building, N.W., Washington, D.C., 20004; or phone: 202-638-

Nearly 50 boys and girls aged 3 to 6 recently completed a one-week Vacation Bible School at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, Mountain avenue, Springfield. The second session, for youngsters 7-12, is now under way.

Registration starts for fall story hours 🕿 Public Library ia Landauer, children's librarian at the Springhed Public Library , this week an-nounced that the children's department is now registering children for its fall story hours. Any Springfield child who has passed his or her fourth birthday is eligible for these programs.

Mrs. Landauer said, "The story hours are carefully planned to appeal to four year-olds. In addition to story-telling, there are musical games and activities and the children are helped to select suitable and appropriate books to take home. The care and appreciation of books are discussed and we hope that this experience at the story hours will be the beginning of a lifelong use and enjoyment of

The story hours will be offered at three different times: Tuesday mornings from 10 to 10:45, beginning Sept. 25, running for six weeks and repeating for six weeks in the late winter; Thursday afternoons from 2 to 2:45, beginning Oct. 4, running for six weeks in the spring, and Tuesday mornings from 10 to 10:45, beginning Nov. 13, running for six weeks and repeating

Blumenthal leaves Aug. 22 for year of study in Munster

Marc Blumenthal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Blumenthal of 98 redwood rd., Springfield, has been selected to be a participant in the American Field Service's Americans Abroad

Blumenthal, 17, will live with Herr and Frau Konrad Erdmann and their four children in Munster, West Germany, for one year. He will attend the 13th form of Ratsgymnasium Bolweg in Munster, a school for 1,200 boys. After a two-day orientation period at AFS headquarters in New York City, Blumenthal will fly to Brussels on Aug. 22 and proceed to a language camp in Eschwege, West Germany, for additional orientation until Sept. 7 when he will join the Erdmann family in Munster. Munster, a city of 200,000 in North Rhineland, is noted for its medieval castles, Westphalian ham and, of course, Munster cheese.

Blumenthal is a June graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School's three-year accelerated program. He will attend Trinity College in Hartford when he returns from Germany in September 1974. He was on the Dayton honor roll for 12 consecutive marking periods. His extra-curricular activities included: Student Council representative, Kiwanis Key Club, "Dayton Journal" staff writer, German Club treasurer, AFS treasurer and the PTSA.

He also was president of the Temple Sha'arey Shalom Religious School Student Council executive vice-president of Springfield Temple Youth, delegate to the Jersey Federation of Temple Youth; second vice president of Western Electric Explorer Post 400 and a member of the national student advisory council of the Washington Workshops

Congressional Seminar.

SLOWS PROPERTY TAX CLIMB The gradual annual upward increase in total property tax levies in New Jersey which since 1963 totals over one and one-half billion dollars. slowed in 1973 primarily because of federal general revenue sharing. This is shown in a tabulation prepared by the New Jersey Tax-

Using statewide figures for 1973 compiled by the State Division of Taxation, the NJTA table shows that between 1963 and 1973 local taxes levied on property owners for support of schools, counties, municipalities and property tax deductions rose nearly 150 percent, from slightly over $1 billion to nearly $2.6 billion. While the total dollar levy increase over 1972 of $143.3 million is sixth highest since 1963, percentagewise, the increase is next to the lowest during the period -- 5.9 percent. In 1966, $63 million of school aid mandatorily applied to reduce certified school levies resulted in an increase of only $38.6 million in the statewide levy total, the smallest annual jump in school and total taxes in the 1963 to 1973 period. This followed enactment of the state sales tax.

This year municipalities appropriated $99.7 million, and counties authorized use of $44.8 million of federal general revenue sharing funds which in many places slowed the total levy increase. Concern is already being expressed over the possible climb in tax levies in 1974 when allocation of federal revenue sharing funds will drop to four quarters compared with a maximum available allocation of seven quarters in 1973 due to the retroactive nature of the federal law to January 1972. Units which did not appropriate their total entitlements in 1973 will have balances for use in fiscal 1974 or later.

Taxes for schools which now represent nearly 59 percent of all property taxes levied. contrasted with 51.4 percent in 1963, have increased nearly $1 billion in 10 years. They account for nearly two-thirds of the $1 16 billion 1963-73 increase. Despite the fact that the statewide total school levy increase of $114.6 million in 1973 is down from the $176.9 million total annual increase from schools in 1971 over 1970, the tax increase exceeds the increase in state aid to the districts which is only about half the levy increase.

This property tax situation thus brings to the fore the question of future financing of public elementary-secondary education and whether at some time an aid program will be developed to offset annual property tax increases.

Report from Washington

During the first half of this year I received many letters from constituents who were annoyed over the spiraling costs of meat and poultry. I wonder, however, whether inflation has completely eclipsed constituents' concern over the quality of the goods they see on store shelves. My research indicates that the quality of meat and poultry could very well re-emerge as a matter of concern when inflation abates.

mmingBy Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo minim revealed an appalling lack of sanitary procedures in meat and poultry slaughterhouses and processing establishments. The office of the Inspector General, in a statistical sampling of 88 meat and poultry establishments, revealed that 38 needed improvement in maintaining clean operations and that all were clearly unacceptable. In one very large slaughtering and processing establishment, for example, old hair, grease and scum A recent report by the Office of the Inspector caked the sides of vats; rust, grease and old General in the Department of Agriculture rotten meat in crevasses were contaminating processed meats, and cattle were hung by links

> One main reason that such conditions persist is the ineffectiveness of the Meat and Poultry Inspection Program, a function of the Department of Agriculture. Employees have been demoralized by a departmental reorganization, by news of arrests of half the inspectors in the Boston area for misconduct, and by criticism on the part of the public and the industry.

Inspection procedures, moreover, are woefully inadequate. Inspectors rarely follow up reports of industry inadequacies, and often do not even carry out their initial reponsibilities in a forceful manner. The program is especially inadquate when meat and poultry establishments need to eliminate deficiencies that necessitate substantial capital investments. This is because the inspectors are trained primarily to consider problems that can be resolved on a day-to-day basis. Additionally, the inspection program falls to develop and impose long-term deadlines for improvements.

Chemical laboratory procedures have additional deficiencies. Workload priorities are not centered on the most serious meat and poultry problems. Analysis programs for fat, moisture and additives, for example, consume a large percentage of the chemical analysis budget, despite the fact that three percent of recent samples analyzed for fat, moisture and additive content by government laboratories failed to comply with standards.

The lack of cooperation between the Meat and Poultry Inspection Program and U.S. Customs, furthermore, has resulted in the importation of unacceptable meat and poultry. Officials who administer the program, failed to assist customs officials, who are not trained to evaluate the quality of horsemeat and other meat, Inconsistencies in the effectiveness of port inspectors result in financial losses for companies using those ports which apply government standards strictly.

mitted to continue. I have pressed the United States Department of Agriculture to make some immediate changes in the Meat and Poultry Inspection Program. I have asked the department to draft a code of ethics to prevent inspectors from committing unwitting errors of conduct. I have also pushed for stronger communications within the program in order to heal the fractures of recent reorganizations.

These actions should improve the morale of

I have also suggested that the department increase the use of sanitation report forms, which contain guidelines for inspection. I also have urged managerial improvement of the meat and poultry established to insure proper cooperation between the inspection agency and Customs officials in the examination of imported meat and poultry. In addition, I have called for an adjustment in lab priorities to emphasize the important analysis programs. I will continue to press for these reforms until I can be certain that every meal on your table is safe and fit to eat.

BUYING WISELY From Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan New York, Inc.,

Dear Larrie

I never until recently, had a weight problem. I've been seriously thinking of taking "diet pills." The reason I'd thought about diet pills is that when I get home from work I'm starved and am surrounded by my family, who can eat most of everything they want, so I figured these pills would kill my appetite.

The problem is my boyfriend. He objects to the idea of my taking these pills. He says they can be harmful to my health. Larrie, I've known of many people who had taken diet pills, and although they did eventually stop their use, for one reason or other, I still feel they're the answer to my problem. By the way, what do diet pills contain?

OVERWEIGHT

Dear Overweight: What these pills usually contain is a combination of benzocaine and a form of methylcellulose. Cellulose is often found in some laxatives. Benzocaine is a local anesthetic which may dull the tastebuds

If you're trying to lose weight, especially more than 10 percent of your normal weight, go about it the right way. Start by visiting your doctor. And stick to the reducing diet or reducing regimen he gives you. Unfortunately, there is no other healthy way to lose weight.

Larrie O'Farrell, Better Business Bureau

Dear Larrie: A year ago I became engaged to a girl, and gave her a diamond ring. At the time I had it appraised. The appraisal given me for this ring's worth was $1,500.

Two months ago, my fiancee and I broke our engagement and she returned the engagement ring. As this ring brought to mind too many memories, I decided to sell it. I took the ring to a jeweler and was told that they would only give me $900 for it. I protested and said I paid $1,200 for the ring when it was purchased and was given a $1.500 appraisal. The jeweler didn't want to know my story. $900 was all he said he would give me. Something should be done to correct such unscrupulous appraisers.

JUST UNLUCKY

Dear Unlucky:

Estimates of value, even among honest appraisers, vary by as much as 25 percent. When you go shopping for a diamond, do remember that the appraisal you get is not a guarantee that the stone is worth the amount e seller asked from you. You're merely getting an opinion of the value of the stone

There is no federal standard, by the way, for appraisals-how they should be conducted, how they should be expressed in writing. But the Jewelers Vigilance Committee tells us that it is working on a federal standard and hopes to complete it by the end of 1973, with the cooperation of the American Gem Society, 3142 Wilshire blvd., Los Angeles, and the Gemological Institute of America, 11940 San Vincente blvd., Los Angeles.

Dear Larrie:

I'm not cheap, but that's what my husband thinks. He wants to buy an air conditioner for our apartment. True, it's very hot in the summer, but I feel we can't afford this luxury. My mother has an air conditioner and her electrical bills are awfully high. Isn't there some way I can find out the approximate cost of our monthly electric bill? If I can find out this information, maybe I'll feel more at ease about purchasing an air conditioner.

CAUTIOUS

Dear Cautious: To find out the electrical consumption you would be using, first learn the wattage of the units from your dealer. Then, comparing the watts "input" (electrical energy necessary to run) with the BTU per hour output will give some idea of how much electricity your new unit is going to use up.

It is like dividing the miles you drive by the gallons of gas you use to get miles per gallon. With room air conditioners, divide BTUs per hour by watts to get BTUs per watt. At any rate, a reputable dealer should be able to get a unit that will answer your needs at a reasonable cost

The Daily Vacation Bible School, held weekdays from 9:30 a.m. to noon, will run through Aug. 16. This year's theme is "Life with Jesus." "Each day a different aspect of the child's 'life with Jesus' will be examined, including how Jesus helps the child in his family life and with his troubles, how Jesus gives the child eternal life and life in heaven, and how Jesus helps a child live a life of wisdom and obedience," a chapel spokesman explained.

Supplementing the program will be recreation activities such as games, music and arts and crafts. Refreshments also will be provided. other senators in working for a plan to allocate existing supplies of gasoline and other petroleum products on a mandatory basis. We succeeded in passing a bill giving the president authority to impose such controls.

Since the administration has not used this authority, we have now obtained Senate approval of a bill establishing a mandatory fuel allocation program. If the House of Representatives supports our bill and it becomes law, it will insure a fair sharing of available supplies of fuel at equitable prices. In addition, it will establish specific priority for the maintenance of essential public services and for public transportation.

But equitable sharing of available supplies is not enough if there aren't sufficient supplies of energy to meet all our needs. And that is the prospect we face if we don't adopt a rational energy policy on a national basis now and if we fail to develop new sources of energy for the

As a starting point toward a national energy policy, I supported the successful effort to have the Federal Trade Commission investigate the whole oil industry structure and its effect on the current situation. It is my hope that this investigation can provide the necessary information -- which has been lacking up to this point - to help formulate a comprehensive energy policy.

In addition, I have joined in sponsoring legislation that would authorize a broad energy research and development program. This program would be aimed at stimulating some of the most promising projects already under way in connection with potential new sources of

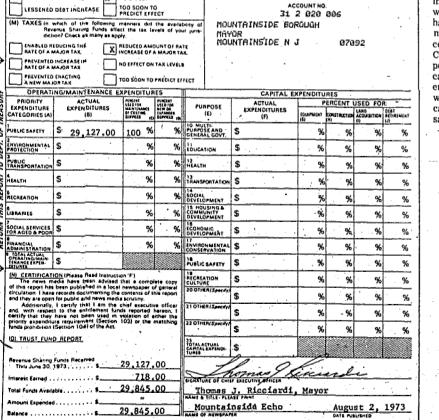

We are fortunate, at this time of growing shortages of most sources of energy, to have abundant reserves of coal. The problem is how to convert coal into more useful forms of energy, particularly in light of the need to

At first individually and later with a group of other senators, I urged doubling of the funds requested by the administration for research into means of using coal to ease shortages of

Among other things, the $103 million budget I am supporting for the Office of Coal Research will permit an increase from $1 million to $3.45 million for a pilot plant project at Princeton that has already demonstrated the technical feasibility of a process of converting coal into oil, gas and other products. What is needed now is to direct the technology toward early commercial production.
As a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, I have also worked for increased funds for research on solar energy, geothermal steam and shale oil. No one of these actions will solve our energy problems. Indeed, in the long term the best hope for solving our energy problems appears to be development of fusion power. But research in all these areas is needed, as well as others, if we are to meet our energy needs in the future.

inscription "Cerebral Palsy Center" and seen traveling up and down your neighborhood streets is the newest vehicle of the fleet belonging to the United Cerebral Palsy League of Union County and is based at 216 Holly st.,

The van's uniqueness stems from the fact that its interior seats have been scientifically fitted so as to give maximum support to cerebral palsied youngsters weighing up to 40 pounds. The selection of the car seat used in the van was made only after careful examination and testing of five models now on the market, says the Center.

Adequate protection and support for those passengers afflicted with Cerebral Palsy poses many special problems. To determine which seat offered the optimum support, one of the CP Center's drivers, Miss Nancy Bladwin of Linden, installed the five available seats in her van and tested them accordingly.

The GM "Child Love Seat" was selected. This seat, commended by Ralph Nader's Center for Auto Safety and Consumers Union complies with federal motor vehicle safety standards. The seat, which is firmly affixed to the van, has a high padded back, contoured plastic sides and a head restraint with lateral "wings." Strategically placed seat belts firmly secure the youngster.

In citing a few examples of the seat's effectiveness, Miss Baldwin commented that a child such as Freddie, who lacks sufficient coordination to sit, would be unable to travel to the center in an upright position without the "Love Seat" while young Geoffrey's spasticity is inhibited by the close fitting seat—thus facilitating travel for him.

Presently, the van makes four scheduled trips daily for the purpose of transporting CP Center clients. When children are aboard, the van always carries an attendant.

Nevertheless, transportation still poses one of the most insurmountable problems for many handicapped individuals. Ambitions are in stantly stymied by lack of adequate transportation because of wheelchair barriers, says the Center. Therefore, the van's four rear seats have been removed to accommodate wheelchairs and the van is also equipped with a special ramp which can be set in place in minutes and facilitates the wheelchair

Oscar Friedensohn of Scotch Plains, executive director of the CP Center said that while the center can handle the transportation of small CP children, moving handicapped adults is far more difficult. Volunteers are needed to assist in transporting these adults especially during the evening hours for special activities such as local concerts, theatricals, etc. Young men would be especially adept at this since many of the adults are either in wheelchairs or need assistance in transferring to the van. Volunteers should call the CP Center

Cancer Society is falling below crusade's goal

The Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society reported this week that its annual educational and fund-raising crusade is well below its goal of $229,000. With a little less than a month remaining before the end of the fiscal year on Aug. 31, the society has reported income of $194,000, some $35,000 below its goal.

Mrs. Sophie B. Baranski of Cranford and Mrs. Rosemary Carmody of Roselle Park, co-chairmen of the Union County Cancer Crusade, voiced optimism that residents as well as business and industrial firms will respond to the society's plea for funds.

The co-chairmen noted that several religious and civic organizations have sponsored events which have helped the Cancer Crusade, and one Union County business firm has offered its support through a special event. On Tuesday, Aug. 28, three Burger King Restaurants located in Clark, Roselle Park and Union, will donate the day's proceeds to aid the society in expanding its patient service program.

The co-chairmen also expressed their appreciation to the 21 community chairmen and the 5,000 block workers who have helped raise the bulk of the society's income thus far. They noted that there are still several block workers in each community who have not returned their collection kits and appealed to them to forward them to their community chairmen or the American Cancer Society at 512 Westminster Avenue, Elizabeth.

The money raised by the society is used to fund a national research effort and to support local programs of public and professional education as well as provide patient services and rehabilitation programs to local cancer patients. Those wishing to contribute to the 1973 Crusade, and who have not been contacted by a volunteer, may send their contributions to the society office in Elizabeth or to the Plainfield Information and Service Center of the American Cancer Society, 828 Madison ave.,

Equivalency tests offered by college at Elizabeth center

English- or Spanish-speaking people in-terested in obtaining high school equivalency certificates can take the two-part GED (General Education Development) test on Saturdays, Aug. 4 and 11, at 8:30 a.m. at the Elizabeth campus of Union College, according to Christian A. Hanns, director of the Walk-In GED Center at Union College.

No previous application or registration is necessary to take the GED exam, Hanns said. Those planning to take it, however, are asked to call him-at-276-2600, Ext. 274, to indicate theirintention and whether they want to be tested in English or Spanish.

The GED exam includes six sections. including testing in reading, social studies, literature, and English. Those who pass it are awarded a New Jersey high school equivalency certificate which is accepted for admission to many colleges, including Union College, places of employment, and technical and job-training programs.

Union College has served as a GED Test Center for over a year and during that time almost 2,000 persons have sought the counseling services offered by Hanns in conjunction with the testing. Over 400 of them have gone on to higher education upon receiving their equivalency diplomas and are enrolled in college, technical schools, and vocational training programs.

Follow highways by the 'numbers' that there is a method to the 'madness'' by which highways are numbered for identification in this country.

"Most drivers believe that U.S. and Interstate highways are numbered arbitrarily. without rhyme or reason, so motoring in unfamiliar parts of the country can become a matter of guess and map work," says Don Costa, safety director of the Allstate Motor

"Actually, the numbering system used for highway identification is designed with a purpose in mind and quite Interstate expressways and

Barbecues indoors are dangerous

"The outdoor pastime of barbecueing should remain outside," advises Don Costa, safety director of the Allstate Insurance Companies. Otherwise, what begins as a festive meal may finish as a tragic disaster.

"Many people regard the use of charcoal briquets as harmless indoors, but dangerous quantities of carbon mon-oxide may accumulate," Costa warns. "Sufficient air must be present to rid the burning charcoal of poisonous

Like coal, the combustion of charcoal generates orderless but deadly carbon monoxide gas. Poisonings and even asphyxiations have been reported when briquets were burned indoors.

The same caution applies to Japanese hibachis, often used on dining room tables. When a hibachi is used indoors, place it near an open window or door as a precatuion against car bon monoxide accumulation.

When using briquets in a fireplace, make certain the damper is open with sufficient draft in the chimney. "Proper ventilation assures the escape of lethal gases," Costa con-

Food and tuel cost boosts price index 0.7 pct. for June

WASHINGTON- The Consumer Price Index rose 0.7 percent in June, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reports. Higher prices for food, gasoline and fuel oil, and household services were responsible for about three-fourths of the rise in the index. The percent after seasonal adjustment. The services index increased 0.4 percent. The June index is based largely on prices collected before the price freeze on June 13.

June index was 132.4 (1967-100), 5.9 percent above a year ago After seasonal adjustment, the June increase was 0.6 percent. The index for food rose 0.9 percent and nonfood commodities increased 0.5

For the three months ending in June, the CPI rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate or 7.4 percent, compared with 8.6 percent in the quarter that ended in March. This change was due to a slower rate of increase in the food index. The seasonally adjusted annual rate of 14.7 percent in the three months that ended in June was about half the 28.6 percent rate in the quarter that ended in March.

The index for nonfood commodities, on the other hand, increased at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 5.4 percent from March to June, compared with 4.0 percent in the preceding three months. The services index rose 4.5 percent in the quarter that ended in June, compared with 3.6 percent in the quarter that ended in March. The index for food purchased in grocery stores-the major part of the food index-increased 1.7 percent, considerably more than is usual for June. The June food-at-home index is based on changes in prices between the first week of May and the first week of June, after ceilings were imposed on meat prices in late March but before the general price freeze was nnounced on June 13. Higher prices for fruits and vegetables accounted for about half the rise in the food-athome index. Prices also increased for most other food items.

Prices for eggs, cereal and bakery products, and fish rose contra-seasonally. Poultry prices, however, increased much less than usual. The increase in meat prices was slightly smaller than usual for June, and considerably smaller than in the first four months of this year.

The index for food away from home-restaurant meals and snacks-increased 0.6

The index for nonfood commodities increased 0.6 percent, a larger than seasonal increase. A sharp rise in gasoline prices-for the third consecutive month-and a large increase in fuel oil prices contributed significantly to the rise in the nonfood commodities index.

Prices were also higher for a number of other commodities, including used cars, home maintenance and repair commodities, fur-niture and bedding, houses, housekeeping supplies, and alcoholic beverages.

Prices of apparel other than footwear in-creased instead of declining as they usually do in June. Footwear prices, however, declined golden year, and its theater-restaurant in Cedar Grove opened last week with 'Anniversary Follies '73, starring the versatile Monique Van Vooren, Looney Lewis, old-time burlesque comedian. Tommy Finnan (who directed and choreographed the entire production), Luis Villanueva and Tommy Spencer. In addition, there are a pair of lovely, scantily-clad young women, Spring Fairbank and Joan Duffin (the Finnan Femmes) and an array of talented, hard-working dancers, Susan Plantt, Donna Sterling, Wendy Taylor Smith and Marie Berry (the Finnan Dancers).

Miss Van Vooren is an exceptionallyattractive blonde who can look sexy in a gown that completely covers the top of her torso, but reveals a pair of near-perfect legs by two thin slits along the sides of her legs. She can bring the house down with a boisterous melody, or bring tears to a viewer's eyes with a sad, nostalgic song. The Belgian-born performer is a combination of sophistication, beauty and versatility.

The show, itself, at the Meadowbrook, is elaborate, an obvious spare-no-expense production, with stunning costumes and a large variety of scenery, unusual for a theater-in-theround presentation.

It gets off to a rather slow start despite its many attributes. However, the moment in-termission is over, the audience becomes entranced by the music, dancing, prancing and burlesque-type comedy (even if some of the skits were done before in Cedar Grove, they're still funny). And leave it to an old pro such as Lewis to drain the most out of every line, word and movement.

In the second half of "Follies," there is a show-stopping scene called "Jungle Fantasy," featuring the Finnan Femmes, Villanueva and the Finnan Dancers.

The "Nostalgia Finale," starring the entire company is well-planned and well-presented, and it brings out the finest in Miss Van Vooren, Villanueva, Finnan and the rest of the per-

This reviewer was very much impressed by all that "Anniversary Follies" had to offer. The Meadowbrook has really gone all out this time. Unfortunately, this dual career was heavy going and four years later Davey opted out of both to get together with Tich Frier. Called Carrick Folk, the duo combined serious traditional music with "a kind of Dubliners taken on a new definition at the Rutgers Graduate School of Business Administration. 'More and more women are seeking now to share the power of the executive suite and the legislative chamber," says Dr. Horace J. DePodwin, dean of the school "And," he adds, for an increasing number of women students at the business school this goal is not far-fetched."

The number of women enrolled in advanced accounting and business administration courses, whose collective aim is earning a master of business administration degree at Rutgers, has risen in a year's time from four to 19 full-time students. The number of women doing part-time evening graduate work also has increased appreciably.

Typical of the new students are Mary Paterno of Passaic, Charline Smith of Jersey City and Elizabeth Barnes of Bloomfield

All three are determined to achieve a status approaching Dr. De Podwin's definition. While they don't think they're unusual in "bucking a man's world," they feel there are some problems in entering what was formerly a strictly male domain.

Recently, they met informally with the dean to discuss some of the problems encountered in dealing with a world of consumerism, marketing and sales, investments and finance, information systems and organization man-

Employment above seasonal rate for June, says state

Wage and salary employment in New Jersey rose more than seasonally in June to 2,759,900 from 2,699,400 in the previous month, Ronald M. Heymann, commissioner of the N.J. Department of Labor and Industry, announced this week. The current total estimated by the Department's Division of Planning and Research, was 60,500 above a month ago and 48,500 above a year ago.

Heymann announced that unemployment in New Jersey also rose seasonally in June primarily because of the influx of summer jobseekers. Unemployment in June was estimated at 257,900 compared with 222,100 in May and 253,300 a year ago.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the unemployment rate was unchanged at 6.9 percent for May and June as well as for June a year ago. The steadiness of the seasonally adjusted rate indicates that the current increase in unemployment was essentially due to seasonal factors. The seasonal expansion in unemployment, however, / caused the unadjusted rate to rise from 6.8percent of the work force in May to 7.7 percent in June. The unadjusted rate was also 7.7 percent in June a

The increase in factory employment in June totaled 7,600. Gains occured in most of the major manufacturing industries. The largest increases were seasonal expansions of 1,900 in chemicals, 1,700 in apparel, and 1,200 in food. The only decline was a drop of 1,900 in instruments which resulted from two strikes.

Clark man gets 'demand' pacemaker Clara Maass implantation first in N.J.

Clara Maass Memorial Hospital in Belleville last week became the first New Jersey hospital to give a patient a nuclear-powered pacemaker that reads heart function and responds to the demands of the patient's heart.

William Bergstedt, 57, of Clark had the atomic unit implanted in his chest by Dr. Franklyn Gerard, director of Thoracic and Cardio Vascular Surgery. The operation lasted 45 minutes, and less than an hour after surgery Bergstedt was in his room, walking around and joking with his doctor and family.

Although Newark Beth Israel Medical Center has previously implanted atomic pacemakers in patients, last week's implant was the first in New Jersey for the "demand" atomic pacemaker marketed by Medtronics, a Minneapolis firm which uses a nuclear power source developed in France.

Unlike fixed-rate pacemakers which constantly send an electronic stimulus to the heart to keep it beating regularly, the demand pacemaker monitors the heart activity and, when the heart rate falls too low, turns itself on like a thermostat and regulates the heart until the beat is restored. About 90 percent of those who wear pacemakers need demand units.

A spokesman for Medtronic said the unit kicks on in a matter of milliseconds and because it is not in constant use, does not put as much of a drain on its power supply. Conventional pacemakers must be surgically replaced on the average of every 22 months when their batteries run down but the atomic units are expected to have a life of at least 10

The new pacemaker wearers thus can avoid repeated surgery.

Bergstedt was the 16th patient to receive a nuclear pacemaker in a New Jersey Hospital. The United States Atomic Energy commission has approved and is in the process of forwarding licenses to Beth Israel and St. Barnabas Medical Center in Livingston to begin clinical studies of the demand for nuclear pacemakers.

Clara Maass has already been given approval to implant as many as 20 of the nuclear units. The AEC plans to allow at least 480 of the devices to be given to patients in clinical trials throughout the country in the next two years.

Dr. Gerard explains the candidates for the device must be screened for age, since it is desirable to have a patient whose expected life span will be longer than the 10 years the pacemaker is expected to function.

He also added that any candidate would have to be emotionally ready. "There are a lot of scary things, totally unfounded," associated with atomic pacemakers and the patient, he said, "would have to realize he is breaking a barrier to some degree" by participating in this study of peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

Previously, only major medical centers connected with medical schools and veterans administration hospitals were given approval for use of atomic pacemakers. Dr. Gerard said he felt it was a "fantastic thing that the government has seen fit to allow a community hospital to be part of this national project.' The atomic unit was Bergstedt's fourth pacemaker. He said he had read about the implants at Beth Israel and has been kept up to date by Dr. Gerard on the developments regarding atomic pacemakers."It makes me feel good to think this will last ten years," he said. The Medtronic unit costs about $5,000, and although this is several time higher than conventional pacemakers, the long-life nuclear pacemaker is expected to save patients the costs of replacing several pacemakers, and the cost of repeated implantation surgery and hospitalization.

The unit releases radiation equal to one chest X-ray a year, and has been subjected to collision, impact, cremation and other tests to insure there is no threat from radiation regardless of what mishap might befall the wearer, according to Medtronic.

The atomic pacemaker was implanted in a special room at Clara Maass Hospital - the Pacemaker Room - which was designed and equipped to handle such cases. This room was made possible by a grant from the Fannie F. Rippel Foundation, Newark, funds provided by the hospital's medical staff.

Boy Scouts get booklet about water resources

A new booklet, "Save Our Water Resources," has been published for the Boy Scouts of America by the American Fishing Tackle Manufacturers Association, it was announced this week by Ted Pettit, BSA Manager of Conservation Service

The booklet, printed on recycled paper, will be distributed to Boy Scout organizations throughout the U.S. It will be used as an educational tool in connection with the clean waters program of Project SOAR (Save Our American Resources), the BSA's con-servation and environmental

Written by Albert W. Bromley, director (ret.), Conservation Education, New Vork State Department of Environmental Conservation, Save Our Water Resources covers a wide range of subjects that include water supply and conservation, water quality, sources, types and the prevention of water pollution and the increasing national need for clean water for recreation, industry and domestic use.
Under the heading of "What

You Can Do," the booklet looks at the future and tells Scouts how to get involved in projects relating to water conservation, water quality, marine water and fish biology and conservation. Nearly one-third of the 28-page booklet discusses water pollution. Its illustrations highlight the water cycle, sources of water pollution, sediment as the major rivers, the method of treating municipal sewage and the conservation and destruction of watersheds. "The record in this country of using and abusing, exploiting, and degrading exhausting and discarding our natural resources is unequalled in history. And of all our crimes against nature, we have damaged the quality of our water resources the most," says the author.

Budget requires a goal-and you must stay with it

The meaning of "budget" can have numerous interpretations. Some people think of a budget as a means of saving money. Others find that a budget keeps them out of debt. Still others find it a means of managing their finances so that they can buy the luxuries they have dreamed of owning.

Whatever way you define "budget," emember that it won't work unless you use it. If you don't have a budget, or if your present idget isn't working for you, then try setting up a budget from scratch.

The first step in setting up a budget is determining what your goals are. Do you want to save money, stay out of debt, or have money to spend on luxuries, etc.

THE SHORT EVENING DRESS of 1973 is done in silver paillettes on sheer black. Its midriff is black sweater ribbing. From Pat these together and subtract the total from your monthly income after deductions. If you get paid weekly or biweekly, calculate your monthly earnings on a four-week basis.

The amount left over after subtracting the regular monthly bills from your net income must cover all other expenses. This will be called expense money. Determine the approximate amount your family spends on food, medical care, entertainment, etc., each month. Add these together and subtract the sum from the expense money

This resulting amount of money should be on the positive side of zero. If it isn't, you're in trouble. At this point you have to think ahead to expenses that occur less than once a month. These would include such items as car insurance, car license, income tax, property tax, magazine subscriptions, memberships, etc. Christmas, birthdays, graduations, etc., must also be counted.

Estimate how much money your family will need for each of these items. The total of these items must be subtracted from your yearly income. Either subtract one amount every month or have the money available in a savings for when it's needed.

The money left after this last deduction is to be used for personal expenses, savings, vacation, luxuries, or whatever else you want

A budget need not be strict to be effective. You should make sure your monthly bills are paid on time and that you keep something aside for those few major expenses that occur once in

Try not to buy items on time. The interest you'll pay for time payments gives no dividends. You lose money in the long run. Try not to buy unnecessary items too often. They help "eat up" your money. Above all, don't buy on impulse. Leave your cash, checkbook, and credit cards at home when you go shopping. If you find something you want to buy, the trip home and back to the store will give you time to decide if you really want, need, or can afford

SUNDAY'S A SERMON

-A CHEERFÚL GIVER This quote, "a cheerful giver," is used by many ministers to get more financial support for the church. Being a cheerful giver of money may help pay the light bill at church, but it means more than that

It is also important to be a cheerful giver of your love, understanding and time to your friends, neighbors and strangers. For we are all God's children, and God expects us to love and help our brothers. God wants us not only to give some money, but to give of ourselves. When we give of ourselves and our love, it is easy to be joyful and cheerful. The rewards of this type of giving are great, because they are spiritual instead of materialistic in nature. We still must pitch in with the dollars when necessary, but we must all be willing to pitch in with our love and time to help someone back on the road that leads to God. We must lead the way and be cheerful givers.

Gurriero gets post at Clearbrook

Vito V. Gurriero has been named administrator \for Clearbrook, the 3,200-home adult condominium complex off exit 8A of the New Jersey Turnpike in Monroe Township. The community is being developed by Aaron Cross Construction Co., Inc.

He comes to Clearbrook with 20 years of experience in management and ministration, including completion of a 16-week course by the American Management Association. He also attended the New York Institute of Finance.

Much of Gurriero's perience was gained in the brokerage field. He was manager in operations for Bache & Co. in charge of vaults and securities in the firm's New York home office for six years and also was operations manager for Frank C. Masterson Co., New York brokerage house, for three

The region has been famous for generations as a vacationland, attracting tourists from all over the country, so that having a leisure home right in the heart of the area can seem like a special luxury.

This summer the Poconos and the people who live or visit there are enjoying a spec-tacular program of special events. Bob Hope, star at the opening of the Pocono State Fair at Pocono International Raceway, was followed by other stars and attractions, including Sammy Davis Jr., Buck Owens, the Jackson Five, stars of the Lawrence Welk show, and by the Olympic International 3-Ring Circus and Jack Kochman's

Deal Oaks, at Wayside in Ocean County has reached the stage where a new home buyer is actually becoming part of an established neigh-borhood. "There are a few homes still available for immediate occupancy in the distinctive single-family community," according to a Prel spokesman.

There are many advantages in being among the last to buy a finished home in a com-pleted section, according to Prel. For one thing, the workmen have all moved on to another phase of the project. there are no trucks or bulldozers around. The grass and shrubbery are in and growing, so the home has a more finished look; streets are completed "With many honies already occupied, Deal Oaks has acquired the characteristics a settled neighborhood. It has a recognizable identity, which many people prefer when selecting a home. Price is another consideration, in the opinion of the builder. The pressure of inflation is still with us. So if the recent past is any indication, prices will be higher when the next section of Deal Oaks is opened. Certainly they'll never be more attractive than they are for the last few models in the section," spokesman said.

prices for completed homes start at $43,990, embody traditional concepts of style and space. They are designed for families that enjoy the advantages of plenty of room, inside and outside. The spacious homes are available with four or five bedrooms, in addition to special areas intended to be used as dens and hobby centers.

The homes typify Prel Corporation's concern for quality and detail the firm explains. They feature halfinch Sheetrock walls and ceilings, 100-amp electrical systems, wood double-hung windows, wood shingles and two-car garages. Twin Lights near a sellout in less than two months

Twin Lights Terrace, the 140-unit condominium com-plex in Highlands, is nearing a sellout less than two months after its opening. About 100 sales have been recorded and construction has been accelerated to meet initial occupancies in September.

Only two-bedroom units remain for sale. These are priced at $35,500 and can be purchased with 10 percent down by qualified buyers. "All one-bedroom units were sold within two weeks after our opening and crowds still continue to view the display," states James R. Snyder, president of Twin Lights Terrace, Inc. "We expect to sell out the tract and complete the job by the end of the year," he predicts.

The Guiney Agency of Middletown, is handling sales for the complex which is located in the shadow of the famed Twin Lights Lighthouses at Hillside avenue off Portland road and Route 36. Snyder-Westerlind of Middletown is the builder.

Every unit at Twin Lights will have a view of bay, river and ocean. One of the highest on the Atlantic Seaboard, the site affords a view of the New York Harbor, and, on a clear day, as far eastward as Montauk Point on the tip of Long Island.

The Monmouth County development will feature groupings of townhouses, a private swimming pool with sun deck, professional tennis courts, and other recreational amenities just an hour away from New York City. The condominium principle allows owners to deduct mortgage interest and real estate taxes from their federal income returns because they own their own townshouses. In addition to the favorable tax deductions, owners build up equity positions in their own

However, Twin Lights Terrace owners will not inherit the work load normally associated with homeowne maintenance All outside naintenance will be taken care of by a staff of personnel who be responsible for shovelling snow, cutting the grass and other chores.

The townhouses are total electric throughout, have wall-to-wall carpeting in choice of colors, and offer a General Electric appliance package including a no-frost refrigerator- freezer and a built-in self-cleaning range with a deluxe vented range hood and outside ventilation for the range.

How to shop for an adult community:

Look and see if your dream community is really there or is just a dream.

Going around to the adult communities springing up all over New Jersey, you may be very impressed by the beautiful signs. Excited by the lovely models set amidst lush lawns. And very taken with the pretty picture painted by the advertising.
But in too many cases, the tree-lined road soon turns into a row of potholes. Where the lawn ends, a sea of mud begins. And the paper palaces in the ads often end up just that flimsy.

So as you go from place to place, start asking yourself, and the salespeople, some very pointed questions.

Ask yourself if you're a pioneer. If you want to be the first one on your block. (Maybe, for a long time, the only one on your block.)

Then ask the salespeople to physically show you the community just the way it stands today. Ask when you can move in. And make sure to find out if the rest of the place is going to be ready when you are.
Ask yourself if the promised land is a good place to invest your dollars. Maybe it will be. Maybe it will turn out to be everything you want. Maybe.

If you ask us, you'll hear how Rossmoor pioneered adult communities in New Jersey, starting in 1964. You'll see 1200 completed residences. You'll meet 1800 neighbors. Walk down winding pathways to our town meeting hall. Or to the well-established convenience stores on the grounds. Or see all of Rossmoor via our own mini-bus system.

Ask how long you have to wait to tee off. A couple of minutes or a couple of years?

One of the big things that adult condominiums can offer is the chance to live on a golf course. But a golf course doesn't happen overnight. It takes years to plan, build and manicure.

The length of the course is another key consideration. One community has an 18 holer in the planning stage. Others are putting in pitch and putt.

☐ Our course is 18 holes of championship length. There is also a driving area. And a putting green. ☐ There is a whole list of recreational facilities being used all the time here. ☐ An olympic size pool, constantly heated to the 70-80 degree range. And sparkling clear. ☐ We also have a hot pool, kept at 115 degrees. \square A billiard room with 6 tables.

A woodworking shop, equipped with an instructor. A pottery studio, equipped with an instructor. ☐ A painting studio, equipped with an instructor. A darkroom. A lapidary shop.

Ask how secure you can feel with the security.

These days you'd think that the best motto would be "Better safe than sorry." But not all adult communities agree. Some have security guards only during the hours models are open.

And some incredibly have none at all.

So ask (a) if there is a gatehouse entry, (b) if it is manned around the clock and (c) if there is a day and night street patrol.

Here, you get "YES" answers to all three questions.

Don't let anybody kid you. If it isn't there, it isn't there.

If you want the medical center the day you move in, ask to see it now.

Ours is open 24 hours every day. With RN's constantly on duty. In a facility equipped with EKG and resuscitation equipment. And a diagnostic lab. But whatever it is you're looking for in a dream adult condominium, come tell us about it. We'll show you how it looks at Rossmoor, New Jersey's finest adult community.

Sesame street art featured at museum

"Art from Sesame Street," an exhibition of paintings and drawings sent to Sesame Street Mazazine by children from all parts of North America, is being featured currently in the lower level galleries of the New Jersey State Museum. One of a continuing series of exhibitions devoted to children's art, the Sesame Street show will continue through Sept. 16.

The 120-plus pieces of artwork on display represent the efforts of youngsters from 29 states, three Canadian provinces, Mexico and Puerto Rico.

Cooperating with the State Museum is the creation of the exhibition were "Sesame Street Magazine" and the Children's Television Workshop. The pictures were sent to the magazine in response to a request for imaginative drawings to appear on "Ernie and Bert's picture page," a regular monthly feature.

After the exhibition closes in September, the elements will be divided into three traveling exhibitions to visit schools, head start programs and community centers throughout the country.

The Museum is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

HOTPOINT 352 pound FREEZER

If food prices continue their upward spiral

PAY FOR ITSELF
IN ONE YEAR

24 CUBIC FOOT SIDE-BY-SIDE Refrigerator-Freezer

THRU-THE-DOOR

Just open the bin and help yourself to a handful of ice barrels...right at your (ingertips! (an automatic ice maker, inside, replenishes your supply). And, with Hotpoint, that's just one of the many features you'll find in this handsome side-by-side. Four adjustable cantilever shelves and three fresh-food shelves, meat keeper, twin dairy compartments, juice can rack slide-out crispers and slide-out freezer basket provide you with all the convenience and quality you want in a side-by-side.

Do you realize that if you'd filled this freezer with chopped meat one year ago, it would have already paid for itself? That's right...352 pounds of hamburgers would cost 186.56 more today, than a year ago. And, we haven't seen the end of meat price increases. Come mid-September, economists predict the price of beef could be increased by 33%. At that rate, hamburgers could be a better investment than blue chip stocks. But, meat isn't the only thing to consider. What about vegetables and fruits? Generous supplies, now, make the prices'a lot more attractive than they'll be this fall and winter. There's more to the freezer story than just savings, though. Just consider the convenience. Fewer trips to the market, plus having the item you need, when you need it. There's cook-ahead convenience, too. You can prepare double portions when you cook...one to serve now, one to freeze for later serving when preparation time might be more limited. In all, a Hotpoint Freezer might just be the best investment you'll ever make.

Tax guide for seniors is available

With inflation creating serious financial problems for millions of older Americans, state tax regulations should be an important consideration both in basic financial planning and in selecting a retirement home, according to the booklet "1973 Tax Facts for Older Americans," published by the American Association of Retired Persons and National Retired Teachers Association.

Designed as a handy reference for those interested in tax regulations in their present state and for those contemplating a new retirement home, "Tax Facts" provides a brief summary of federal tax provisions and a state-by-state analysis of retirement income credits and tax concessions available to older persons.

The 57-page booklet also provides a comparison of each state's income taxes as well as property, sales, estate and other taxes of concern to older taxpayers.

Prepared by AARP-NRTA legal experts, "Tax Facts" is offered free to all older persons as a service of the two associations. With a combined membership of 5.5 million, AARP-NRTA is the nation's largest organization of older citizens.

The associations conduct a legislative program at both federal and state levels and offer many services designed to help older Americans stretch retirement incomes and maintain active involvement in community and national affairs.

Free copies of "Tax Facts" can be obtained by writing: "Tax Facts for Older Americans," AARP-NRTA, P.O. Box 199, Long Beach, California, 90801.

Bell Labs opens 16mm film library to UCTI students

Bell Telephone Laboratories, Murray Hill, has opened its film library as a community service to students at Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains.

Bell Labs recently donated seventeen 16mm color films that its staff either developed and or purchased to UCTI, according to Dr. George H. Baxel, president of the institute. In addition, Bell Labs has agreed to loan films in its own library to the staff of UCTI for instructional purposes at no charge.

"We are very grateful to Bell Labs for the gift as well as the borrowing privileges," said Dr. Baxel. "It goes without saying, of course, that they will be priceless in helping us to provide quality instruction in the engineering, health, and business technology programs taught at UCTI."

Among films presented to Union County Technical Institute by Bell Labs are those on Air Force non-destructive testing methods, the control of erosion by zinc, vibration problems in the design of shipboard electricity, the development of the transistor and techniques in

"The films were originally used on advanced research projects at Bell Labs," Dr. Baxel explained, "and they will be valuable audiovisual aids for us. They will also be made available to students at Union College, our 'other half' in the comprehensive community college system in Union County.'

Dr. Baxel also noted that the vast film library at Bell Labs would also be appreciated very much by the staff and students at UCTI. Among the films they may borrow are ones on Project Telstar, picture phone service, the modern transistor, and logic by machine

Leo Roberts, community relations super-visor at Bell Labs, acted as liaison between the company and UCTI.

Summer session classes for some 1,400 students attending Union College's three campuses in Cranford, Elizabeth, and Plainfield will end today. Dr. Bernard Solon, director of the summer program, said this week an intensive intersession featuring 13 college credit courses will open Monday evening at the Cranford campus. Intersession will meet five evenings a week in two sessions -6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and 8:35 to 10:35 p.m. It will conclude Aug. 31.

Dr. Solon said that the intersession enables students to pick up additional credits before returning to college studies in the fall. The students may want to finish college earlier or take required courses during the summer and leave some time for special pursuits during the regular academic year, he explained.

The intersession is also open to adult students who may want to take courses for their own enrichment.

The 1973 intersession includes principles of accounting, drawing and painting, introduction to drama, general biology, general chemistry, beginning and intermediate French, introduc tory college mathematics, beginning and intermediate Spanish, mechanics, heat and sound, business law, and college mathematics. Students from more than 160 colleges and universities are enrolled in the regular summer session at Union College that will end Thursday. They are studying some 70 different superintendent of the Union County Vocational Schools since their inception in 1960, announced this week his intention to retire at the close of the 1973-74 academic year. Dr. Baxel, who will be 61 in December, had long planned to retire at or about age 60.

Baxel to retire at end of academic year as superintendent of vocational schools

The Board of Education of the Union County Vocational and Technical Schools was informed by Dr. Baxel of his plans at a special meeting. William S. McKinlay of Westfield, president of the board, expressed the regret of board members who commented on "the long and good relationship between the board and the superintendent."

The Union County Vocational and Technical School System was nothing but a concept when Dr. Baxel was hired as superintendent. Under his leadership, the first educational programs were established in rented space above stores in Union. They also were the first post-secondary technical education programs in Union County. From 1960 to 1968, the system expanded to four leased buildings, offering high school as well as post-secondary programs. In 1968, the Union County Vocational and Technical Schools occupied three buildings on a 43-acre campus off Raritan road in Scotch Plains and all leases were terminated. The system opened with two programs in 1960; this year's term will open in September with 29 programs. A fourth building is under construction at the Scotch Plains campus. Dr. Baxel also played a prominent role in the development of Union County's comprehensive community college system, which is comprised of Union County Technical Institute and Union College, Cranford. The plan provides for UCTI and Union College to serve in lieu of a county college under contract with the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education UCTI is providing technical and occupation-oriented programs and Union College is providing transfer programs. The plan also provides for Union College to confer associate in applied science degrees upon those students who successfully complete UCTI programs approved by the faculty of Union College.

Dr. Baxel said he is proud that graduates of the Union County vocational and technical schools "have been accepted by the business and professional community" and that the school system has become an imporant part of Union County's services to its constituents.

Dr. Baxel, who has been in public education in New Jersey for 33 years, is considering the possibility of some less intensive work in the college field or in consulting services. He is an electrical engineer and acquired an extensive background in industry before turning to

Dr. Baxel was graduated from Essex County Vocational School and earned a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from Newark College of Engineering and a master's degree in educational administration from New York University. He-earned a doctorate in education from Rutgers University.

Dr. Baxel served as an officer in the Naval Reserve during World War II, working in electronics and radar. His industrial experience includes employment as an electrical engineer, electrician, building maintenance mechanic, sationary engineer and refrigeration engineer.

Prior to joining the Union County Vocational School system in 1960, Dr. Baxel held several teaching and administrative positions in Essex County Vocational Schools.

Record 204 visit college van of UC

A record 204 persons visited Union College's College Information and Counseling Center on its recent five-day tour through five Union County communities--Union, Westfield, Roselle, Summit, and Kenilworth

"We broke our week's record so far this season," exclaimed Douglas Sedelmeyer, director of the College Information and Counseling Center. "We had been coming close, but we didn't quite make 200 until last

According to Mr. Sedelmeyer, the people the counselors met asked "almost 200 different questions, too."

Non-teaching educator Drew aide is hard--but fair

Frances Bundy Sellers, 44, as much of a teacher as anyone on campus.

Drew hired her 21 years ago as a secretary and public relations writer. That was when, as she says, "it wasn't as fashionable as it is now to hire blacks for other than menial jobs."

Ten years ago, when she was the campus calendar coordinator, graduating seniors dedicated the annual to her, citing her as a 'woman who has always given herself to the students of Drew.'

Two years ago, citing her ability to get things President Robert Fisher Oxnam appointed her Drew's first housing director. Since then, everything she's gotten done has added to her reputation as a rare human being who somehow manages to combine considerateness with competence.

"I know there are students on this campus who call me 'hard'—and worse," says this Madison homemaker and Drew administrator, who holds a college degree from Hampton Institute. "But I don't care what they call me as long as they modify it with another adjective-

But to be consistently fair is to make some tough decisions. For instance, at the end of each university year, resident undergraduates at Drew pay a $50 fee to be eligible to par-ticipate in the room selection process for the following year. "There are always students," she notes, "who don't have the money. And, for some, writing home for that amount would be like asking for $5,000.

"Now, if the student is poor-whether black,

Alice fizzles out but season for hurricanes is still young her debut early this summer but died a few available from the same sources days later when she ran out of wind.

Acting Director J. Morgan Van Hise of the State Civil Defense-Disaster Control Division, however, has issued annual precautions to New Jersey residents on the hurricane season.

The Environmental Services Science Administration (ESSA), the federal agency responsible for tracking hurricanes, warns that other ladies are waiting to make frontpage news as hurricanes," Van Hise said. "Additionally, hurricanes that strike the Eastern United States are born in the tropical and subtropical North Atlantic Ocean, the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico. Although the Atlantic hurricane season is from June to November, most occur in August, September and October."

The state official said residents are advised to use common sense, the primary requisite for safety during the hurricane season. A hurricane causes sea level to rise above normal tidal heights, with giant wind driven waves and strong unpredictable currents.

a. Know the elevation of your property above mean sea level.

b. Have a safe evacuation route planned. c. Learn the storm history for your area. State CD-DC, working in conjunction with ESSA, is making copies available of a walletsized card entitled, "Survival in a Hurricane." They may be obtained at local and county CD-DC offices or by writing to the New Jersey Division of CD-DC Eggert Crossing road, P.O. Box 979, Trenton, N.J. 08625.

Banks now getting forms for half-price seniors' bus fares

Distribution of informational brochures and applications for the senior citizen half-fare bus program is under-way, N.J. Transportation Commissioner John C. Kohl announced this

The program is mandated by administrationsponsored legislation signed by Gov. William'T. Cahill May 10, directing the commissioner to provide intrastate bus service at half-fare rates for persons 62 or older.

When the fare reduction starts Sept. 10, New Jersey will be one of the few states to offer such a program.

An estimated 874,000 residents are expected to take advantage of the program to ride buses and jitneys during off-peak hours on regular routes within the state. However, persons are not permitted to ride for half-fare on interstate. school, charter, special or excursion bus services. Commissioner Kohl said, "The state's cooperation in the program by offering to act as registration centers in processing the applications." Virtually all banks in the state are expected to participate. Registration will begin Monday, and will be

Jersey Public TV to quiz candidates for legislative seats

New Jersey Public Broadcasting is offering free, prime television time to all Senate and Assembly candidates on a district-by-district basis beginning Sept. 28.
"For the first time, citizens throughout the state will have the opportunity to see and hear their candidates in a television format which allows for comparison amont the candidates,' says Dr. Lawrence T. Frymire, executive director, New Jersey Public Broadcasting.

All_Senate and Assembly candidates campaigning in a particular election district will appear together on a program. A lottery held for to the program will determine the order of speaking. Each candidate will make an opening statement, respond to two questions and offer a closing statement. Different questions will be asked of those candidates seeking Senate and Assembly seats.

According to Dr. Frymire, Question I will relate to a particular district issue. Question II will deal with a more general statewide issue.

Candidates from districts in the southern and central protions of the state will appear on programs televised on Channels 52 and 23. andidates from districts in northern New Jersey will appear on programs televised on Channels 50 and 58.

Broadcast dates were determined by a drawing at New Jersey Public Broadcasting headquarters in Trenton. Participating in the drawing were Joseph Gannon, director of the Assembly Staff Democratic delegation and Daniel Bradley, special assistant to Congressman Sandman.

The following schedule of air dates by district includes: Channels 50 and 58 - 10 p.m.; Wednesday, Oct. 3 - District 22; Wednesday, Oct. 10 -District 20; Friday, Oct. 12, District 21; Wednesday, Oct. 31 - District 28.

'Short', lobsters cost $20 each

It can cost you $20 apiece for possession of short" lobsters in New Jersey.

That was the fine levied upon a Highlands lobsterman, after state Marine Police officers found 50 undersized lobsters aboard his vessel tied up at the Highlands dock.

william T. Wichmann said it was common knowledge that "short" lobsters come on the market for sale in his county and cited the difficulty in enforcing the shellfish law, particularly when arresting officers must approach boats in open waters and the evidence can be quickly dropped overboard.

Judge Wichmann in his decision said the intent of the law is to preserve and shelter lobsters so they will grow to full length and thus protect a remunerative and important industry in the state.

The Northern New Jersey Chapter of the fund-raising activities throughout the year. As a result, the Society was able to boost its allocations toward major programs of leukemia research, patient aid and education. The increase will make it possible to fund 18 additional medical scientific researchers working in 18 states and seven countries to find the cause and cure for this disease of the blood-forming organs, he said.

The containers disp'ayed in many businesses and stores reaped $64,000 which has been earmarked for expanding patient aid service. Since the spiralling costs of critically needed drugs and treatments is expected to go even higher, financial assistance to those suffering from leukemia has paralleled.

Likewise, the $6,000 increase in returns from special events will be channeled to public and professional education programs. The Society also receives funds from memorial contributions. These are tax-deductible donations given regularly by individuals, organizations and firms and acknowledged with a receipt to the donor. Memorial cards are sent to families of people being remembered.

Annual fiscal reports are available upon request and futher information on leukemia and the programs may be obtained by contacting the Leukemia Society of America at its new offices at 1496 Morris ave., Union or by calling 687-4130 between 9 and 5.

The newest addition to the Bloomfield College art collection is a welded steel sculpture by Dr. Jack Feder of South Orange.

"One World," a three-foot representation of the Judeo-Christian tradition mounted on walnut, is the first piece of sculpture donated to the College. The work combines tablets of the Ten Commandments with a pierced hand of

Dr. Feder's works are included in the permanent exhibits of Seton Hall and Fairleigh Dickinson Universities in addition to more than 50 private collections
