Funds paid

Budgets, both municipal and school, were topics for discussion at the regular meeting of the Mountainside Borough Council, held Tuesday night in the Beechwood School.

Regarding the proposed municipal tally, which includes a $616.165 figure representing local tax levy, Mayor Thomas Ricciardi noted council estimates the property taxes in the borough will increase approximately 18 cents per $100 of assessed valuation for the 1974 calendar year.

A_formal_statement- approved-by-the governing body noted. "The projected 18 point increase results from the following sources: County taxes, up five points; regional school taxes, up six points; local municipal costs, up nine points, and Mountainside elementary school system, down two points." The mayor explained the final figure is "as it stands now," before council has taken any action on the defeated budget.

THE REST OF the statement, heard by 15 interested citizens in attendance at the session read as follows:

"More than one-half of the advance in the municipal portion of the tax has been necessitated by increased sewerage treatment costs required by new environmental protection laws. It has been previously announced that a special advisory group has been estalished to review the borough's entire sewerage program, and to make appropriate recommendations to council.

"The balance of the increase reflects modest salary increments for municipal employees. and forecasted increases for equipment and materials the borough uses while providing its services. No major increases in services. hawever have been budgeted during 1974. The public is invited to come to the public hearing on the new budget on March 19 at the Beechwood School to have any questions answered LATER IN THE session, the mayor turned to the subject of the $2,009,902 local school budget. which was rejected by borough voters Feb. 13. Noting council will hold its first meeting with the Board of Education Wednesday night. Ricciardi stated, "I know these councilmen, and there is no question in my mind they will dowhatever is best for the community, and I promise to lend my abilities to ensure whatever action is taken will be in the best interests of Mountainside." The mayor made no further comment on the budget, defeated for the second year in a row, except to term the situation "a very serious problem.

A substantial portion of the two-hour meeting was given to the audience participation segment, which featured lengthly discussion of municipal regulations regarding the installation of private gasoline tanks. Several the gas shortage, have notified council of their wishes to install such tanks to fuel their company fleets.

Representatives of three of these firms—the American Aluminum Co., S.K.W. Services and L. Kaufman & Son-were on hand to question the governing body's action in delaying issuance of permits for installations. The latter company had been granted a permit to install a tank, but council, upon checking the applicable ordinance, discovered a report must be obtained from the zoning officer before a pump

Borough outlines details of its $1.3 million budget

The Mountainside Borough Council, at a special session Feb. 9, introduced a municipal budget of $1,309,198 for the 1974 fiscal year—a figure which is up $176,810 over the current budget of $1,132,388. Of the total, the amount to be raised by local taxes is $616,165. representing an increase of $152.873.

A full text of the budget appears on page 4 of the Echo. The public hearing is scheduled at 8 p.m. March 19 in the Beechwood School.

Among the major budget items, the highest allocation, $293,000, is for Police Department salaries and wages, representing a total increase of $16,400. An additional $53,000-up from $45,633—is appropriated for other police expenses.

Including the Police Department allocation, salaries and wages account for $439,000 of the total operational costs. Figures in this category for the various municipal departments are as follows: administrative and executive, $36,500. down $2,406; Department of Public Works and assessment of taxes, $29,500, up $4,160;

Baseball tryout is still possible

The Mountainside Little League recently held its registration for baseball, but officers of the league said boys in Mountainside can still register on the days set aside for tryonts.

Tryout dates for this year are as follows: March 2-9 and 10 year-olds. 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.; March 9—11-year-olds. 9 a.m. to noon; March 9-12-year olds, 1 to collection of taxes, $5,100, up $571; legal services and costs, remaining at $8,000; municipal court, $13,500, up $2,971.

Also: Inspection of buildings, $5,625, up $325; inspection of plumbing, $2,475, up $125; road repairs and maintenance, $25,000, up $2,500; Board of Health, $11,100, up $300; administration of public assistance, remaining at $1,700; Board of Recreation commissioners. $7,500, down $100.

OF ALL THE items listed under genera appropriations, the biggest jump is in the allocation for Mountainside's share of costs in the Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority, which went from an original 1973 allocation of $50,000 to $93,000. The borough is not a member of the authority, but pays Cranford, which is a member, for sewage flow rights—an agreement which has been in effect since 1951.

At the end of last year, Mountainside was notified by Cranford of a rate increase from $41,000 to $74,853 to treat the sewage. This forced the Borough Council in December to pass a resolution allocating an additional $33,853 in emergency funds to pay that bill, since the 1973 budget "contained no adequate provisions for such an increase." At that time, Councilman Bruce Geiger, noting Mountainside's costs are figured on a proportionate by the authority-predicted another rate hike in 1974, estimating it would reach a total of short article prompted by research for our "Past Tense" column. Curiosity had been aroused by two classified ads appearing in subsequent editions of the March 1939 Springfield Sun.

Published above the name of Sophie Gerdes, 90 Tooker ave., one notice stated she was a high school girl seeking work as a babysitter, but asserted she would not wash dishes. Apparently-not-getting any response, she corrected her statement to assure prospective employers that dishwashing would indeed be acceptable. We asked if anyone knew whether Sophie ever got a job, and whether she had to perform the kitchen duties.

This week we received a note from Wilma Schenack of Battle Hill avenue, who knew Sophie's parents when they were members of the Springfield-Methodist Church.

can be attached to the equipment and before council can approve such work. BOROUGH ATTORNEY John Post noted the report would entail consideration of whether the use of land for a tank is permitted under the zoning code. He explained the current problem arose from the fact the ordinance includes only the word "pump", "But by inference it also means tanks," he said, and urged council to read the law in that sense in the future. The firms were directed to forward their applications "as soon as possible," to building inspector Chester Johnson. Council noted there was the possibility a special public meeting could be called to act on the requests before the next regular session if the zoning reports were completed, but did not promise to call such a

In other action at the session, the governing body adopted an ordinance fixing the recreation director's salary at $5,200 per year. retroactive to Jan. 1, 1974. The previous salary, paid to Nancy Pollock after four years' service. was $5,500. The lower amount was authorized to cover Sue Winans, who joined the department in January.

COUNCIL ALSO introduced an ordinance to allocate $11,350, remaining from a $300,000 sewer bond sale authorized five years ago, to defray costs of improvements on storm sewers on Garrettway, Indian trail and Briar Patch. A public hearing on the ordinance will be held March 19.

Another sewer-not yet in existence-also was a subject for discussion. Ricciardi noted he had received a petition from residents of Coles avenue regarding estimated costs of installing a sanitary-sewer in that area, serviced now by septic systems. The mayor referred the uestion to borough engineer Robert Kozer for study and advice, urging him to give a report "as quickly as possible."

AMONG THE resolutions passed was one authorizing the return of a $5,000 performance bond to the Northside Construction Co., Inc. of Jersey City for work satisfactorily completed at the Lotus Garden Restaurant on Rt. 22.

Another resolution, authorizing the return of $7,000 bond to Lotus Eaters Restaurant Assoc., Inc., owners of the facility, was held in abevance until council could ascertain the legality of applying those funds to the restaurant's delinquent taxes. These reportedly total $23,000 for 1973, the first year the firm has been located in Mountainside.

Fire commissioner Abe Suckno read a lengthy report on work of the volunteer firemen during the Dec. 24 fire which levelled an uncoccupied house at 339 Central ave. Efforts of the firemen were hampered by lack of water pressure, caused by rocks and dirt blocking flow from the hydrants, Suckno noted. "Neither the fire department nor the (Elizabethtown) water company could give a definite reason for this occurrence," he reported.

SUCKNO EXPLAINED the water company has the responsibility of flushing the hydrants once a year, but the local department has initiated such a procedure on its own. He said testing of all borough hydrants has begun. starting with those on Wood Valley road and Central avenue, and that these were found to be "in correct working order."

"It is the opinion of the fire commissioner and his committee that the Mountainside Fire Department performed admirably under adverse conditions," he stated. A full copy of Suckno's report will be published in next

In other committee reports, police commissioner Peter Simmons said calls for police services had dropped from an excess of 500 in Fifty of those calls resulted from burglar alarms ringing in local businesses, he said. noting these are usually the result of malfunctions in the systems, or because people forget to turn off the alarms before entering the building.

This sort of thing takes up a great deal of valuable police time," Simmons said, "since the officers must investigate all alrarms."

FROM A PRO-BUDGET WINNER

The support and confidence shown by the voters of Mountainside in electing me to my sixth three-year term on the Board of Education is deeply appreciated. I have always to represent all of the people in educational policy matters for the good of the children. I think this has been accomplished during my 15 years on the Board.

Quality education at reasonable cost and with low tax rate is a tribute to all the past board members who were positive in their dedication to public education. This has made Moun tainside a good place to live, as our small and pleasant town should be.

I have seen scores of board members come and go. With but few exceptions, even the most rigid viewpoints gave way and were assimilated into the group consensus, the true meaning and beauty of a body of seven people such as our Board.

Building a fine educational system requires devotion to public schools and hard work. Tearing the system down requires far less devotion. America needs leaders of integrity and vision now - at all levels of our government and business life. This includes Board of Education members who can be trusted to advance the cause of learning.

The least our citizens can expect from a board member is credibility. Mountainside citizens will be particularly alert to measuring credibility by seeing whether the surplus figure is !200,000 on July 1, 1974, as claimed by antibudget people. And whether a list of budget reductions of $100,000 to $130,000 can be presented by anti-buget members for 1974-75. These are facts and numbers for all to see. I intend to see them

SCHOOL BUDGET

Regretfully, the Mountainside school budget has again been voted down-expressing lack of confidence and appreciation for our elected board members who sincerely worked many hours to keep the budget within a one percent

-Furthermore, this defeat will devaluate the value of the property in Mountainside, as the educational system apparently is not being endorsed and maintained at its high standard

ECHOBROOK CLOSING

I resented Mountainside Board of Education president Grant Lennox's statement in the Jan. 31 Mountainside Echo, which stated, "The real gain is in improved educational facilities and atmosphere for these children" as a reason for the closeout of Echobrook School.

Mr. Lennox has admitted publicly that we did not have three equal schools in Mountainside. I don't know what he considers as improved educational facilities, but whatever latest materials and equipment Beechwood and

Report from Washington

annannanniBy Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo пинаналичнинининин

It rained heavily—again—in Union County last week. For many residents of the county, particularly those living in the Rahway River basin, a rainstorm of any magnitude constitutes a threat to homes and property.

This is why flood control is the public works project of greatest concern to me. Last summer, I saw for myself the devastating effects of flooding along the Rahway River, the Green Brook, and the Elizabeth River.

The passage last week by the House of the Conference Report on the Water Resources Development Bill, which I strongly supported, brought some welcome good news to communities along the Rahway River. The House measure, which is expected to be approved by the Senate, contains a $300,000 authorization for new funds for the Rahway River flood control project. The money would relieve local communities of the responsibility of paying for the re-location of utility lines, an expense normally borne by municipal governments.

The Army Corps of Engineers expects to complete its survey of the Springfield section of the Rahway River by June of this year. Similarly, the Corps anticipates completing its survey report of the Green Brook sub-basin in the Plainfield-Scotch Plains areas by the same time.

Since Congress has already appropriated funds to begin a preliminary survey throughout the basin, detailed engineering, economic and environmental studies are nearing completion at Springfield, on the main stream, and on Robinson's Branch in Clark Scotch Plains and Rahway. Reports on these areas are due by next June 30. Afterwards the reports must be approved at three higher levels in the Corps. cleared by Governor Byrne and reviewed by the President's Office of Management and Budget prior to being submitted to the Congress for authorization and appropriation

Two drivers hurt in traffic mishaps

Two persons were reported injured in traffic accidents in Mountainside during the week. One of the mishaps was on Rt. 22, in front of Borough Hall; the other, on Summit road.

The first crash occurred at 6:35 p.m. Friday in the eastbound lanes of Rt. 22, police said, when a van, operated by Russell W. Curren of Rahway, pulled out of the west-to-east u-turn in front of the municipal building and rammed the side of an eastbound car. According to police, the driver of the auto, Thomas J. Cleveland of Plainfield, suffered injuries in the collision, but refused medical attention.

On Sunday, a Summit man was reported hurt after his car ran off the roadway and onto a lawn at 344 Summit rd. According to police, the motorist, William C. Koppel, had swerved to avoid another auto which had stopped suddenly when a cat ran into the street. Police said Koppel complained of back and knee pains following the 2:15 p.m. mishap, but stated he would see his own doctor.

On Ithaca dean's list

Catherine Ann Lombard, daughter of Mrs. Frank Lombard of Toms River, formerly of Mountainside, has been named to the dean's list at Ithaca State College, Ithaca, N.Y. A graduate of Toms River High School North, she is majoring in sociology.

Mohns cited by college

Kurt Robert Mohns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mohns of 1361 Stonybrook la. Mountainside has been named to the dean's list for the first sememster at West Virginia Wesleyun College, Buckhannon, W.Va. Mohns, a sophomore, is a physical education major.

of the necessary construction funds.

Earlier this month, I was pleased to announce that the Corps of Engineers has received the funds to make possible an immediate start on the flood control survey of the Cranford section of the Rahway River. The $40,000 for this effort was contained in the Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1974. Senator Clifford P. Case sponsored the Senate amendment to obtain the funds, and I worked on the House side for passage.

Allocation of the funds for the Cranford project will save as much as one full year in finishing the required preliminary work on flood control facilities in Cranford Additionally, it will help bring the Cranford project to the same stage of completion as the studies of other parts of the Rahway River basin.

According to the Army Corps of Engineers, construction of the Elizabeth River flood control project is proceeding "at a maximum rate." The work is currently being financed at a level of $1.5 million a year.

Although there has been much progress this year, it has been agonizingly slow to those who must live in terror of the approaching rain cloud. Since taking office, I have been in frequent contact with the Army Corps of Engineers, with my colleagues on the Appropriations and Public Works Committees and with the Administration to expedite these projects.

Under ordinary circumstances, I might observe that a great deal has been accomplished. However, the extraordinary threat of flooding in these vulnerable, low-lying areas makes it painfully obvious that more—much more—remains to be done. The Army Corps of Engineers has repeatedly assured me that I have obtained all the money that it can expect to spend on these projects during the present fiscal year. I shall continue to press the Corps of Engineers for completion of its survey reports of the Springfield and Clark-Scotch Plains-Rahway projects, as well as the Plainfield-Scotch Plains section of the Green

Once the surveys are completed, I shall push as hard as I can to advance the date when construction of flood protection facilities can be completed in Union County.

Davis named member of insurance firm club

Anthony Davis, Mountainside representative of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. (NWNL). Minneapolis, has been named a member of the firm's Golden Key Club for 1974.

Davis was awarded membership in the club for outstanding performance in serving the life insurance needs of NWNL customers—both old and new—in the Mountainside area.

Citizens urged airol aild a to speak out on = charter change

Freeholder Director William J. Maguire this week urged all citizens with an interest in the future of county government to "speak out" at the weekly public meetings of the Union County Charter Study Commission. He said the alternative is "to allow others to do our thinking for us."

"Unlike other counties where similar study commissions were created by the voters last November, the Union County group encourages public input at all its meetings," Maguire said. Regrettably, the response so far has been dismal and disappointing."

Maguire noted the commission is developing plans to schedule meetings in several communities around the county.

"I commend this step," he said. "It will make it more convenient for mayors and councilmen, civic and business leaders and all others with a stake in-or an opinion regarding the operation of county government to contribute to the study. The alternative is to sit back and allow the politicians and the political 'hangers-on' to dominate the input available to the commissioners for their evaluation,'

Maguire predicted the commission's final report will have a "dramatic impact" upon the future of the county. "The form of government recommended by the commission for consideration by the voters should reflect the thinking of all the social, economic, business. political and ethnic spheres of the county," he said. "It should not be restricted to the thinking of nine commissioners and a handful of politicans whose objectivity may Maquire explained that the commission has, six alternatives available to it. "There are four basic forms of county government detailed in the so-called Musto Commission report," he said. "A fifth alternative could be a combination of two or more of the basic forms and the final alternative is to maintain the status

Whatever the final recommendation, I hope a wide cross-section of the leadership of our county will make their opinions available to the charter commissioners," Maguire said.

He noted that commission President Charles Kennedy has invited interested citizens to attend the Tuesday evening sessions or to write their comments to the commission at the

The new patient area would include a 30-bed nursing unit exclusively for teenagers, and another for newborns and children to age 12.

In releasing an architect's rendering of the proposed addition, Poole said the co-chairmen of the pattern gifts division are Wilfred H. Norman, and Robert Scott Miner Jr., both of Westfield.

"The need for the building program," according to Poole, "is evidenced by increasing demands being made within New Jersey and adjacent states for rehabilitation services and specialized rehabilitation nursing and therapy for patients under the age of 22. Each division of the campaign has a most important role to play in this $3,500,000 challenge. He noted that in the last several years, the hospital has gone from an average occupancy of 85 percent to requests for patient admissions which frequently exceed capacity. Although Children's Specialized is designed to accommodate 37 beds, an average of 42 are in use. Robert F. Ardrey Sr., executive director of the hospital, attributed the rise in patient load to the fact that Children's Specialized is the only facility in northern New Jersey providing physical, occupational, speech and hydrotherapies exclusively for children.

Jayvees wind up with 7-12 record

The Jonathan Dayton junior varsity basketball team, piloted by Bill McNeece, finished the 1973-4 season with a 7-12 record that could easily have been reversed -- the Bulldogs dropped four games by fewer than five points

With the Dayton's entire starting varsity lineup due to be graduated this year's Jayvee squad will play a major role next season.

The team's leading scorer was Larry Burns (15 pps), who used his speed to great advantage. Bill Nevius played the point position and did an excellent job, controlling the tempo of the game as he directed the Bulldog attack

Jack Graessle, the starter at the other guard position, showed great potential for next year's varsity and could play a key role in determining whether Coach Ray Yanchus' varsity will have a successful season. Gary Presslaff. Joe Graziano and Tom Wiesniewski did a good job up front; all three are tough rebounders and Coach McNeece pointed out that two steady performers, Mark Roslin and Bob Fleischman. were injured midway through the season and their loss hurt the team. McNeece also praised the hard work of Hugh Cole, Mark Tryon and Wayne Halbsgut.

Dayton falls to Plainfield in UCT upset, 93-80 -foul trouble just too much

The Jonathan Dayton Regional basketball team, seeded eighth in the Union County Tournament, was upset by Plainfield last Wednesday in Westfield, 93-80. The Bulldogs' record dropped to 13-8 after their third consecutive defeat.

The Bulldogs got off to a slow start in Westfield, falling behind, 14-8, before rifling off 10 straight points. Joe Pepe had four, Bill Palazzi, Gavin Widom and Ken Conte each scored two in that surge.

Dayton, tied 18-18 at the end of the first period, fell behind early in the second quarter-

Livingston girls hit losing streak; record now 9-6

The Gov. Livingston girls' varsity basketball team recently lost for a second time to Clark; the second time was just as close as the first game. G.L. led for the first three quarters only to lose the lead and be defeated 28-31.

Their next game was against an undefeated Cranford team. This time they held the Cranford star, Carol Blazejowski, to only 17 points. But they were beaten by the score of 33-45. This made their record 6-3. Leading scorer was Cindy Stoller with 15 points.

From there they went to an invitational tournament held at Jonathan Dayton in Springfield. Their first opponent was Roselle Park, and this game was their fourth in five days. They were upset by the final score of 23-49. The leading scorers were Helene Kohlweck and Eileen Roche, both with six points.

They returned the next week to the tournament, to play the loser of the other game, which was Dayton. They won with no trouble against Dayton, with the final score 42-31. Their record was then 7-5. The leading scorers were Helene Kohlweck with 10 and Mary Musea with nine points

Their next home game was against Summit, whom they defeated with no trouble. Laurie Layman led her team with nine points and Elaine McGrath had seven. The final score was 36-20. Their team record was now 8-5, and, for the first time, the girls were eligible for the state tournament. They went into Dover on Valentine's Day and emerged victorious. They beat Dover by the final score of 53-34. The leading scorers were Cindy Stoller with 15 points and Laurie Layman and Helene Kohlweck, both with 13 points. They were then defeated by Newark Central score of 29-36. This ended their tournament hopes. The leading scorers were Laurie Layman with 10 points and Eileen Roche with eight points. Their record is now 9-6 mostly due to the hot outside shooting of Nokey Johnson. The Bulldogs again came from behind, scoring 12 points in a row for a 33-28 lead as Conte and Howie Drew led the rally.

Joe Pepe's fourth personal foul, coming towards the end of the half, was the team's first bad break of the game. Plainfield, quickly capitalized and broke form a 35-32 deficit into a

41-35 halftime lead with Pepe on the bench. The Bulldogs cut the deficit to 43-39 but Plainfield scored the next six (four by Frank Meyers) for a 49-39 lead three minutes into the

The Bulldogs remained in contention throughout most of the last quarter until Conte and Pepe fouled out, leaving the Bulldogs without their toughest inside players. Then Plainfield was able to put the game away."

Drew came up with another sparkling per-formance, scoring 26 points. His defensive play was also tremendous, blocking 5 shots and grabbing 12 rebounds. Conte scored 20 points in his finest game of the season. Conte gave the taller Plainfield forwards a great deal of trouble on both boards, always getting excellent position. Palazzi came up with 15 points, scoring on a variety of jumpers and drives. Pepe scored eight points, drawing a lot of attention every time he got the ball. Pepe was on the way to a fine showing until he got into foul Widom scored five points, played tough defense and directed the Dayton attack throughout the entire contest. Bob Hydock scored six points in a reserve role, all on long jumpers. Steve Brumer played well but did not

Borough women given degrees at Kean graduation

Two Mountainside residents were among 356 students awarded degrees at the Kean College of New Jersey (formerly Newark State College at Union) midyear commencement exercises, held Feb. 17.

Receiving bachelor of arts degrees in early childhood education and elementary education, respectively, were Lynn H. Curtis of 359 Darby lane and Rita M. Ragno of 5 Tanglewood lane.

The ceremonies, held at the college's Theatre of the Performing Arts, included a commencement address on "The Heritage of Kean College" by Dr. Donald R. Raichle, professor of history at the state-supported institution of liberal arts and sciences.

Founded as Newark Normal School in 1855, the city-based facility was subsequently renamed Newark State Teachers College. The name was changed to Newark State College at Union when the institution moved to its present location, a 120-acre tract of the former Kean family estate on the Union-Elizabeth line. Its current name was approved by the State Commission on Higher Education on Oct. 19.

Offering more than 50 programs in liberal arts and sciences and pre-professional disciplines, Kean College of New Jersey now has an enrollment of nearly 13,000 students.

Cornell defeats Columbia to clinch tie; Dartmouth, Brown, Harvard also score

Unbeaten Cornell gained its eighth victory of the season in Springfield Ivy League basketball play last Saturday to clinch a tie for the regular-season championship. Cornell topped Columbia last week as Dartmouth, Brown and Harvard also won.

Cornell rolled past Columbia, 58-41. Kevin Doty, the top rebounder in the game, was also the best scorer as he lead the Cornell with 18 points. Kevin also starred on defense and triggered the Cornell fast break. Greg Moroze scored 12 points, chiefly on the fast break. Harvey Kaisch, playing his best game in a Cornell unifrom, helped with the rebounding and netted 14 points. Kaisch was active under the hoop and drew many fouls from the Columbia defense. Skip Liguori scored six points and played tough defense. Tyrone Parker, Eddie McGrady and Alan Grossman also back into the game after a disappointing first period. Todd Melamed played a terrific game in the Columbia back court; he scored 10 points and played strong defense. Marc Kesselhaut also had 10 points for Columbia and did most of the heavy work under the boards. Ronnie Scoppettuluo had nine points while Kenny Feld

Dartmouth posted its sixth victory of the season, beating Princeton 38-32. Kenny Fingerhut again equalled his per-game scoring average as he led his team with 30 points. Johnny Frieri scored the other eight points for Dartmouth. Louis Herkalo played good defense for Dartmouth and was strong off the boards.

David Barnes was again impressive for Princeton. The rapidly-improving seventh grader tallied 17 points and was the top rebounder at both ends of the court. Barnes' great play in the past few weeks has enabled Patetta also played a strong game as he scored five points, helped with the rebounding and had a good floor game. Jeff Schnee scored six points; Mark Meskin hit a bucket and looked good in the back court.

Harvard took an early first-period lead and then poured it on in the second half to rout Penn., 55-25. Harvard won the game with great board work at both ends of the court. Willie Wilburn paced all scorers with 20 points and was tough off the boards. Eddie Graziano scored 18 points and played superior defense. Kevin Walker had one of his finest games, scoring 11 points and turning in a strong rebounding game. Dave Kirschenbaum scored five points and Mike Clarke four; Kevin Karp. up from State League play, sank'a foul shot.

Penn was led by Robbie Bohrod's 11 points and aggressive play. Steve Geltman had eight points and was Penn's best ball handler. Marc Boettcher had four points. Other Penn scorers were Mitch Slater and Isreal Joseph.

Brown displayed an awesome offense to blat Yale, 67-44. Kenny Baskin played his best game of the year, teaming with Dave Ironson to pace the attack, Baskin led all scorers with 27 points and was a terror under the boards; his rebounding dominated the game. Ironson scored 20 points and played a fine defensive game; he was credited with many assists. Jimmy Siegal, directing the attack, had 12 points. Rich Buthman and Dave Goldstein each scored four points; Jon Siegal had a solid floor

Craig Clickenger in his third Ivy League contest, came into his own in this game; battling against bigger players, he scored nine points and starred on defense. Neil Meisel paced the Yale scoring withh a 10 points. Danny Pepe scored eight points and looked good on defense. Frank Zahn also scored eight points and played his usual strong floor game. Mark D'Agostini also scored.

EYEDISORDERS

Diseases of the eve can cause visual disability ranging from minor im pairment to total blindness. Some forms of visual disability can be prevented through prompt attention, and others may be cured. But. unfortunately, there are other eye conditions that cannot be Research supported and conducted by the National Eve Institute, a component of the National Institutes of Health. is aimed at improved prevention, diagnosis and treatment of visual disorders. Through such research, a great deal of knowledge has already been gained about the eye and the diseases which threaten its normal function.

This column is a series about the eye and describes common eye diseases as well as what can be done about CATARACT (kat' ah-raht)—One of the leading causes of blindness in the country, cataract is clouding of the lens which obstructs the passage of light to the retina. Almost all cataracts can be successfully removed by with resulting restoration of useful vision There are four main types of cataract: senile-the most common form, associated with aging; congenital-occurring at birth; secondary-following another eye disease, and traumaticfollowing an injury.

GLAUCOMA (glaw-ko'mah)-Increased pressure in the eye causing damage to the optic nerve and impaired vision. Glaucoma is another leading cause of blindness. If detected early, the most common form of the disease usually can be controlled with drugs. In other cases, surgery may be necessary;

What are the middle-aged home buyers buying and why?

"For middle-aged buyers between 35 and 50 the single-family detached home is still the top choice," observes Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company.
"Approximately 55 percent of the record 2.38 million housing starts last year were singlefamily dwellings," Goss notes. "Further, the vast majority of these homes were purchased by families in the 35-50 age bracket." The attraction of the suburbs-with larger

The Summit Area YMCA is now taking registration for its annual family winter weekend to be held March 22-24 at Frost Valley, N.Y. Bus trans-portation will be available and reservations should be made this week. Non-YMCA members are welcome to participate, according to Peter W. Addicott, YM family camp director. Families may have ac-commodations in the heated lodge with meals provided in the main dining hall. Members of the Camp Wawayanda staff will be on hand to provide leadership for the winter recreational activities such as tobogganing, skating, tubeing and sleigh-riding, as well as indoor games.

The Summit YM offers three family weekends (fall, winter, spring) each year at Frost Valley, which is located in the heart of the Catskill Mountains. Brochures, rates and further information may be obtained by calling the YMCA, 273-3330.

LIGHTHOUSE VILLAGE, Kaufman andd Broad's newest housing community in Barnegat, features three model homes - a deluxe ranch, a spacious split level, and a traditional colonial priced from $29,990. The community accents 'a quality of life' in one of New Jersey's finest recreation areas. The Province three bedroom split level, shown above, is available in either Tudor or Colonial exterior styling.

charge of 5 percent during the first 18 months provided the buyer has lived in the home six months or more, and has kept the house in reasonable repair.

"These guarantees will give prospective homebuvers who are anxious about the energy crisis and other uncertainties the added psychological security they need to purchase a new home and take advantage of current value," said President Eugene S. Rosenfeld.

Those homebuyers who have the confidence to buy now will capitalize on what remains of the pre-scarcity era. Later this year, homebuyers may lace an expected 14 percent inflation in the price of new homes which means a $30,000 home

A FEMININE LOOK ... AT THE WORLD ... AND THINGS

Sixteenth In a Series My second entrance into Japan was a joke.

"Do you know the difference between the Japanese Emperor and the U.S. President?" That was how it began. I had just arrived, by myself, at the airport and a reception "committee" was there to greet me and escort me to a chauffeur-driven, air-conditioned American car (this was a classy trip) to take me to the hotel. As we waited for the car to come round, the reception committee felt the necessity to keep me amused. They decided on a joke.

The finish of it was "that the President is like a hat-you can change it. The Emperor is like hair-you can't change it. But it is better to look at him that way, than without."!!!???

Well anyway, it was nice to be back in Japan. Not Tokyo particularly, but Japan. The first time I had arrived there was by ship out of Nakhodka near Manchuria in the USSR, of all places. At that time, anything, even a big, noisy, smoggy city, was better than being in the USSR any longer. We had just spent three weeks going from the Atlantic Ocean to the Perente Ocean across the wilds of Siberia and other sections of the USSR, and three weeks of the USSR is Too Much.

So Tokyo looked gorgeous and felt gorgeous by comparison. But it really is mainly just another big, sprawling, noisy, flat, crowded city with traffic problems, housing problems, smog problems, population problems, etc. It also has its share of beauty spots, of course. And mighty seemly they are too. It has splendid old temples and shrines, grand palaces, lovelylovely gardens, even lovely restaurants in them sometimes, wonderful shops and good hotels that do offer service and do have clean linen: But most of all, Tokyo was back in Freedom area. Not so the USSR, you better believe.

So while it was nice to be back, it was also nice to know that this time there was going to be more. Five cities and several trips into the countryside were on the schedule and we were to have eight days to do it in. Not much time. but better than nothing.

Larrived this time directly from New York. by plane as stated. It had been a long flight. 1519 hours worth; and that, no matter how many positions you know how to sit in, is long. Fairbanks, Alaska, had been the only stop, so again, Tokyo looked gorgeous-simply because it was Land. Capital L.

Interestingly enough, for the entire 1512 hours, we never lost the sun. We may have lost land, but we never lost sunshine. Yet I had left New York at 11 Sunday morning and now it was 4:35 MONDAY AFTERNOON. But we never had a nighttime. Well, that is the international dateline for you. You lose a day going westward, gain it back coming eastward. Anyway, there it was Monday and there I was in Japan, with two jokesters at my side, 19 fellow-travelers to meet in the morning and eight days to enjoy it in.

SO MUCH IS KNOWN and written about Japan that perhaps it is better not to be redundant. Perhaps it suffices to say that it is as nice as it is cracked up to be and let it go at

But one has to mention the very beautiful Fuji-Hakone National Park (the Yellowstone of Japan), and Mt. Fuji, even if one doesn't get to see it because of the almost constant cloud-out. Mt. Fuji, or Fujiyama, is so often covered by clouds hovering around its summit, that it can rarely be seen clearly. There is even a legend about it. The Shinto God for Mt. Fuji is the "Lady of the Blooming Flower." and it is said that she is so beautiful that she does not want to see another beautiful lady. Consequently, when a lady approaches, she hides her head in a cloud-just in case the lady is

And then, one has to say something about the spectacular temples and shrines that abound in the country, particularly the ones in the cryptomeria forest at Nikko, doesn't one? What color and grace in the temples! And what splendid trees! The cryptomerias are a huge, redwood-like evergreen tree, and it is said that in 1625 the seedling trees were planted and offered to the Toshogu Shrine there by a reigning War Lord. Today there are three avenues lined with the giant cryptomerias totalling 23 miles worth, and amounting to approximately 13,000 trees.

One also has to mention the Great Image of Buddha at Kamakura. It stands unsheltered under the heavens and is 41 feet high. One walks inside it and up a staircase to the top. But then! there is the bigger image of Buddha at Nara. IT is inside, a temple and is 159.85 feet high, its thumb alone being the size of a man. And the darling deer at Nara; they bow when

Well, at Nara you pick one up from a tray in the temple area, but! if you don't like it. you tie it up on a tree and leave it there. Then it won't come true. Handy, aye?

And one has to tell about the charming, traditional Japanese restaurants that are like no Western restaurant ever was. Some of them hang over reflecting ponds in lovely meandering gardens, and seem to float there in a world of their own. They may be in Tokyo or

Dumping of wastes in Atlantic set at 5 billion gallons in '74

GOVERNORS ISLAND, N.Y., - During 1974, some five billion gallons of sludge, dredge spoils, acid wastes and debris are expected to be dumped in the Atlantic off Long Island and New Jersey — at points as close as 10 to 30 miles off New York Harbor and as far as 100 miles or more from Atlantic City, N.J., and New York City.

"Although this is a projected figure," commented Lt. Charles Huber of the Third Coast Guard Dist; rict's environmental office here, "I think it it's a good one based on the dumping figures kept here over the last six months of 1973.

Those figures show that almost 2.5 billion gallons of wastes were barged into the Atlantic and dumped - most originating in the metropolitan New York City-New Jersey area. Other wastes came from different parts of New Jersey as well as from the Philadelphia-Camden sector.

The dumping is regulated by the "Marine Protection, Research and Sanctuaries Act of 1972," which is administered by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). The eventual aim of the act is to end ocean dumping as new disposal methods are developed — although no firm timetable for this is given. The job of taking the dumping regulations to sea and enforcing them is assigned to the U.S. Coast Guard.

The EPA administers the law through a system of dumping permits and continuing research. Among other things, the act restricts how much and what kind of materials may be dumped at sea. As part of the permit application procedure, Epa requires dumpers to explore alternate means of disposal. It also the Secreaty of Commerce to designate "marine sanctuaries" where all dumping is prohibited, and sets up a continuing research and sample-gathering program to monitor and study the total effect of dumping on marine ecology.

Health programs serve as subject for new course

An increased interest in health careers, apart from the traditional role of nursing care has led to the development of a new undergraduate course which will be offered this fall by the Rutgers University College of Nursing on its Newark campus.

The course, "Trends in Delivery of Health Care," will be open not only to nursing students but to undergraduates at the Rutgers Newark College of Arts and Sciences and at Essex County College, who will be able to cross-register for the three-credit, one semester

Professor Claire Tuchalski, chairman of the CN Community Health Nursing Department, said the new course can be considered a "consumer course" in that it will offer information about health care systems and the political and legislative implications in providing certain systems such as Medicaid and Medicare.

In addition to looking at the historical aspect of existing health care facilities and institutions, the course will examine trends in programs and patterns of delivery of health care. Topical items, including controversial views either supporting or opposing changes in existing health care systems, also will be examined, Prof. Tuchalski said.

Part of the course will deal with the people involved in delivering health care and the preparation and roles of professionals, paraprofessionals and allied professionals.

Under the recently revised nursing school curriculum, this new course will be required of first and second year students and will be offered as an elective to all other students.

Parkway opens exit for Matawan

The Garden State Parkway opened a new southbound toll ramp yesterday that provides a right-hand exit directly to Matawan and points west of the Parkway. The outlet, designated 117A, will enable motorists to reach the Matawan area conveniently without having to make a series of left turns in heavy traffic. Heretofore, a southbound driver headed for Matawan or other destinations to the west had to swing to the left side of the Parkway to exit at Interchange 117, and then make a left turn into Clark street, Hazlet, and another left turn into Lloyd road, Matawan. Traffic backups and tieups were frequent at Clark street and at

The new 117A ramp represents one arm of an overall construction project designed to eliminate the left-hand southbound exit at Interchange 117, to replace it with two safer right-hand outlets and otherwise to improve traffic movements in that area. Interchange 117 will remain a left-hand exit, serving Hazlet. Keyport and points to the east of the Parkway, until completion of the current work permits its conversion to the second right-hand outlet. When the 117 exit is shifted to the right side of Hazlet, Keyport and points east.

Do new labels help? Rutgers will quiz shoppers

Can food shoppers use the new nutrition labels -- now beginning to appear on all sorts of cans and boxes in the supermarket - to become smarter grocery shoppers?

Thet's the question two Rutgers Cook College food and nutrition experts are trying to answer, in a novel nutritional gulz show they are bringing to shopping centers across New

'We want to find out how well consumers can interpret the information that's given on these new labels, and whether we can help them do a better job of it," explains Dr. M. J. Babcock of the Cook College Food Science Department.

"We'll ask them to compare some hypothetical foods, on the basis of label information, and decide which product is a better food value. We'll be showing them a brief slidetape program that explains how these labels can be used, and we'll do before-and-after tests to see if this kind of explanation helps them make better choices."

Working with Dr. Babcock is Miss Audrev Burkart, Cooperative Extension Service specialist in foods and nutrition at Cook. She'll launch the project among shoppers at Cherry Hill Mall on March 9, timed for National Nutrition Week (March 3 through 9).

The new nutrition lablels were developed by the Food and Drug Administration to give people a better idea of what they're eating especially when it comes to the processed and combination foods that Americans now buy in

Allowance. But the information isn't as easy to use as it might seem, Dr. Babcock and Miss Burkurt explain. Serving sizes can be described in different ways, from cups to ounces to number of pieces, they point out. And some foods are more concentrated than others - dried foods compared with canned, for example. To get around these problems, Dr. Babcock has worked out a system for making comparisons based on nutrients-per-calories. A shopper can roughly divide the figure for protein, or for some other nutrient, into the number of calories. The fewer the calories that come along with a given amount of protein, or vitamins, or minerals, the better the food value is, Dr. Babcock explains. Showing shoppers how to make comparisons like this is the aim of the slide-tape program Dr. Babcock and Miss Burkart have developed. If it makes sense to the buyers who try it out in several key shopping centers, they plan to arrange programs for a audience of New Jersey consumers. to arrange programs for a

The month's adventure movies for young people will open on March 2 and 3 with David-Selznick production of "Adventures of Tom This will be followed on March 9 by "The Boy Who Loved Horses," a Danish film about a boy and a Lipizzaner stallion.

Movies will return on the 16th and 17th of March with James Fenimore Cooper's classic "The Deerslaver:" On March 23 and 24 the film wil be "Boy of Two Worlds," an award-winning story of a boy on a deserted island. Rounding out weekend programming on March 30 and 31 will be "Shipwreck Island," the Jules Verne saga of 14 shipwrecked boys.

SLEPA awards $100,000 grant

The New Jersey State Law Enforcement Planning Agency has announced the awarding of a $100,000 grant which will enable a special study team from Montclair State College to extend its 18-month old study of methadone and therapeutic drug treatment to 45 New Jersey programs involving an estimated 3,500 addicts.

The new 12-month phase of the survey being conducted under the auspices of the State Division of Narcotic and Drug Abuse Control also will involve the first full scale evaluation of drug programs at the state's correctional in-

Dr. George Nash of Montclair State, director of the study team, said the expanded study will nclude comparisons of drug offenders sentenced to prison and those who go free together with extensive background investigations of more than 650 addicts.

The initial phase of the survey dealt with 1,800 drug users in 19 SLEPA-funded programs. It concluded that both major treatment methods are having a measurable effect in reducing drug-related crime and produced thata that officials say should lead to the improvement in the operation and analysis of drug programs in New Jersey and elsewhere.

N.J. arts council is offering grants

The New Jersey State Council on the Arts announced this week applications for matching grants are now available from its offices in

Founded in 1966, the council encourages and gives financial support to activities and projects in the arts throughout the state, and any arts organization or community engaged in art activities in New Jersey is eligible. The council helps to expand existing programs and develop innovative programs which stimulate and support public participation in the arts.

During the past year, the New Jersey State Council on the Arts awarded nearly $250,000 to individuals and organizations in New Jersey who were involved in a wide range of artrelated projects stressing imaginative scope and vision. Among those diciplines awarded grants were projects in music, dance, visual arts, theatre, film environment and design, writing and expansion arts.

Application forms are available by writing or calling the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, 27 W. State st., Trenton, 08625; telephone (609)292-6130. Deadline for applications is April

State's boatmen won't be deterred by fuel shortages

:-Thursday, February 28, 1974-

Despite the fuel shortage, most New Jersey motorboat operators plan to continue using their craft this coming season, a state survey reveals.

Thomas M. O'Neill, acting director of the Division of Marine Services in the state Department of Environmental Protection, said the Office of Motorboat Numbering received 594 replies to a questionnaire sent to 1000 registered boaters selected at random.

Of the respondents, 95 percent said they will be using their motorboats this season; only 5 percent indicated they will not use their craft at all. The survey also showed that 78 percent of the respondents have considered using their boats on a reduced basis, but, when asked if they plan to do their boating closer to home. only 31 percent said they would; 69 percent said they would not.

Given a 50 percent allotment of fuel based on last year's usage, 87 percent of the respondents said they will use the full allotment. If granted a 70 percent fuel allocation, 90 percent of the boaters answering the survey said they would use the full allotment.

O'Neill said the state currently has 130,000 registered powerboats and this indication that most boaters plan to renew their registration means that the New Jersey Marine Police. which is dependent upon license fees for financing, will be fully operational for the protection of boaters this season.

When asked what it was like in those days, he says, "I' don't remember anything before last Tuesday.'

In 1964 John Kay, later the lead singer in the group Steppenwolf, heard Hoyt sing "The Pusher" at the Troubadour in Los Angeles. Steppenwolf recorded the song and it eventually found its way onto four gold albums.

including the soundtrack of the film Easy Rider. Steppenwolf also recorded the critically acclaimed "Snowblind Friend."

Hoyt traveled with Three Dog Night in 1969-70 as the opening act and when he wrote "Joy to the World," he played it for the group and they went on to have their most successful single with it. They later recorded his "Never Been to Spain" and had another top ten hit with it. Asked how he felt when other artists recorded his songs, Hoyt smiles,, "I love it!" During all these years Hoyt has remained active as an "underground" West Coast perormer and recording artist.

He has made a dozen albums for almost as many labels but only recently has he come into his own as a recording artist.

Seton Hall University will present a day-long symposium on religion and world order on Thursday, March 7, in the Student Center on the South Orange campus. The program is designed to launch a national dialogue on the strategic role that church-related institutions can play in the emerging movement toward

The 25 invited participants include members of religious organizations, educators and foundations. Gerald Mische, president of Global Education Associates, said that the symposium was organized to end the isolation of religious leaders from global dialogue and strategy formulation.

The keynote address will be delivered by Saul Mendlovitz, director of the World Order Models Project of the Institute for World Order. The Most Rev. Thomas Gumbleton, auxiliary bishop of Detroit, will chair a panel including the Rev. Mance Jackson, executive director of the National Council of Black Churchmen; Kyoji Buma, associate executive director of the General Mission Council of the United Presbyterian Church of America; Sister Annette Mulry, director of research and programming for the Maryknoll Mission Institute; and Patricia Mische, director of education for Global Education Associates.

"The acculturative process has tended to make women dependent and to rob them of their self-confidence," Dean Schneider stated. Many women are afraid to trust themselvesto commit themselves to difficult and demanding work. Nothing can alleviate their fears as much as the example and support of other women. Nothing can strengthen them more than the knowledge that high achieving women too have known and continue to know fear, doubts, and many moments of frustrationand to overcome them."

As one of the steps toward achieving the goal of establishing self-confidence, "A Day for Upsala Women" has been set for Saturday, April 6, on the Upsala campus. Upsala female students, their mothers, alumnae, wives of alumni, women trustees and faculty members will be invited to attend workshops and to hear Rep. Chisholm deliver the principal speech. Credit and non-credit courses for women for the fall semester also will be announced at the all-day session. The courses, to be taught by Upsala faculty members, will be open first to adults over 25 and on a space available basis to regular students. Non-credit courses will run for seven weeks and credit courses for 14 weeks. Baby sitting services for children of mothers attending classes will be offered at a

The first step of the program has already been taken with the establishment of a Women's Center'on campus for the exchange of information and companionship among Upsala women. The center is sponsored jointly by Upsala and the YWCA of Essex and West Hudson. It marks the first time in New Jersey that a community "Y" and a college have cooperated in planning such a campus program.

Meanwhile, the Lutheran Church in America, which helps support Upsala, has gotten the program off the ground with a $5,000 grant. The college is anticipating other financial aid via Coordinator of the program is Professor Madeline Devitt of Orange, who teaches French at Upsala.

Voodoo is not that 'old black magic' Douglass aide doesn't find Hollywood in Haiti

at Douglass College, the women's division of Rutgers University, wants to dispel the Hollywood" notion of voodoo.

Ms. Brown asserts that movies, romanticfiction and even purported histories have for years falsely equated voodoo with human sacrifices, zombies and dolls stuck through

"Voodoo is not witchcraft. It is a full and dignified religion," she said. Her authority comes from over two years of research on a doctoral thesis, which culminated last summer in a trip to Haiti. Voodoo, the popular religion of Haiti, combines the African traditional religions, in their worships of gods and veneration of ancestors, and elements of Catholicism, says Ms. Brown. She said she found the religion to be broadbased in the cities as well as in the countryside of Haiti and that many of the believers also describe themselves as Catholics.

'Voodoo is the 'religion of the people' in Haiti," she said. "It co-exists with the Catholic church and is accepted by the government.' Although she observed a wide range of voodoo practice while in Haiti, Ms. Brown centered her thesis research on "veve," which are flour drawings on the floors of temples similar to Navajo sand paintings. They are used to call up the gods before religious ceremonies.

'There are no 'dolls with pins' or other magic in the temple. It probably happens — but that would be considered witchcraft," she said. "A priest who practices magic loses prestige and people talk about him as 'practicing with both'

Ms. Brown conversed directly with the people in their native creole, which she learned through an audio correspondence course from the University of Indiana.

She attended voodoo services in temples almost daily during her stay. A service can range from less than an hour to over five hours' and reaches its height when worshippers communicate with gods and ancestors through

When someone goes into a trace he takes on the recognizable characteristics of a certain god. He will do things and answer questions in the style of that god, but cannot remember his actions later," she said.

"Sometimes in special ceremonies animals such as chickens, goats and bulls may be sacrificed, but there has never been a true documented case of human sacrifice in voodoo," she said.

Many books and articles written after the Haitian revolution, a time when the government was isolated from other countries, contained false and narrow-minded ideas about

The Haitians were bitter about the books and for a long time were suspicious of outsiders. Although Ms. Brown believes these false notions were largely based on racial fears, she found the Haitians, themselves, to be free of racial prejudice.

"I was very much impressed with the people of the country. They are friendly and gallant. Haiti has 'no color problem'," she said.

What about zombies? Where did Hollywood find those listless characters? "Oh that," she laughed' "is something Haitian mothers tell their children so they'll be good."

Ori-, kiri-, chiyo- gami Japanese art course offered

Shoebox origami workshops are on the Montclair Art Museum's schedule for three Saturday afternoons in March.

Talks on women in ministry slated

"Women in the Ministry" will be the topic of March 15-17 conference at Princeton Theological Seminary, open to lay women, women ministers and those engaged in theological education.

The Rev. Dr. Letty M. Russell will discuss "The Changing Role of Lay Women," and the Rev. Peggy Ann Way will speak on the con-ference subject. Workshops, discussion periods and devotions will be led by professionals in the areas considered.

The conference is sponsored by the Princeton Seminary Women's Center under the direction of Martha E. Bellinger, a second-year student in the master of divinity program.

What are they? According to an explanation by Elsie W. Dillon of the museum's Education Department, "you take several squares of magnificently colored paper, combine the techniques of origami with kiri-gami, chiyogami, and other Japanese paper arts, and the results fill a shoe box with 'wondrous display' of tiny 3-D paper objects."

On March 9, 16 and 23, from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m., Mrs. Dillon will instruct children and adults in these ancient Japanese techniques. Workshop participants will learn chiyo-gami (figured paper dolls), mon-kiri (paper cutouts), kirigami (paper cutting), awa-odori (parasol mobiles), kusa-e (paper collage) and origami (paper folding).

"The whole experience," Mrs. Dillon said," will be one of creative ventures into 2-D and 3-D design and composition as well as the learning

The workshops, which will be held in the museum's art school studio, are open to

Survey by AAA finds gas dealers not getting share

An independent state wide survey of service stations associated with the American Automobile Association reveals that over half are not receiving 85 percent of the 1972 gasoline allotment they are entitled to, according to Donald L. Hughes, state chairman of the AAA.

In a letter to State Energy Office Director Richard W. DeKorte, Hughes reported that of 100 AAA stations surveyed in all 21 counties, 51 reported that they were not receiving 85 per-cent of the 1972 allotment.

"It is obvious to the AAA," said Hughes, "that based on this survey, New Jersey is not getting its fair share of gasoline. We commend Gov. Byrne and Mr. DeKorte for going to Washington to fight for additional gasoline for Garden State motorists, and we hope that this survey will help bolster their argument with Federal Energy Chief William E. Simon that New Jersey is being short changed.

Hughes pointed out that many service stations have closed or soon will close throughout the state, "What is being done to make sure that their gasoline allotment stays in the state?" asked the AAA chairman.

'The alternate day gasoline distribution plan put into effect in New Jersey seems to be cutting down on the long lines at the gas pumps," continued Hughes. "But ultimately, the only thing that will ease the crisis is an adequate supply of gasoline. All we are asking is that New Jersey get its fair share," he

The Public Affairs Council includes the managers of all six AAA Clubs in the state, representing over 300,000 motorists in 21 children aged 7 and up and parents. Fee for the three sessions is $2, including materials. Enrollment is limited. For registration, checks should be mailed to the museum, 3 S. Mountain ave., Montclair, N.J., 07042.

State OKd 30 loans to fix homes

A Department of Community, Affairs demonstration program launched one month ago has resulted in the aptotaling $112,000 to be used for repairs on homes located in declining but stable neighborhoods.

The loans have been combined with a total of $48,000 in outright grants from the department to enable owners to make repairs that will bring their properties into conformity with established housing standards. An additional 53 applications are expected to be approved by the end of the month, according to Joseph G. Feinberg. director, Division of Housing and Urban Renewal, which is administering the program. He said department officials are optimistic about reaching their goal of 350 loangrant approvals by the end of

The bank loans amount to 70 percent of the cost of the necessary repairs, while the Department of Community Affairs grants meet the remaining 30 percent of the cost. The department con-tribution, which reduces the monthly payment, has the effect of a below-market interest rate on the loan. Feinberg explained.

Students eligible tor mini-grants

Mini-grants of about $25 will be awarded to New Jersey high school science students the Newark College of Engineering chapter of Sigma Xi. the national honorary research fraternity.

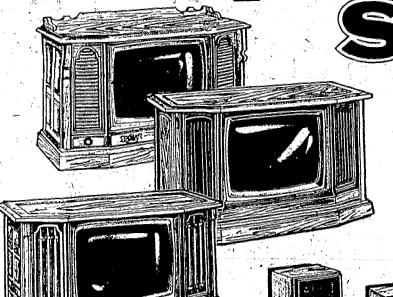

High school teachers have been asked to recommend grant recipients for any kind of research. Deadline for application is this Wednesday. More information may be obtained by contacting Matthew Ciesla at the college, 323 High st., Newark. 645-5321.

Elderly get tax help in Williams bill

WASHINGTON-Sengtor Harrison A. Williams Jr. (D-NJ) has joined in introducing legislation to authorize sup-port for a program of voluntary counseling for elderly taxpayers.

Williams, former chairman and currently ranking majority member of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, joined with Senator Frank Church (D-Idaho), current chairman of the committee, in introducing the Older Americans Counseling Assistance Act.

The bill authorizes funds for the Internal Revenue Service to support a program in which volunteer, elderly, tax counselors help other elderly persons fill out their tax returns. Such a program has already been conducted on a limited scale by theAmerican Association of Retired Persons in cooperation with IRS for the past five years.

"I have been especially concerned about the extraordinarily high incidence of elderly persons paying more federal income tax than required by law," Williams said in remarks prepared for delivery on the Senate floor.

"This harsh fact of life was brought home very forcefully during hearings I conducted while still chairman of the Special Committee on Aging on the subject of Income Tax Overpayments by Older Americans. Several expert witnesses confirmed reports that large numbers of older persons were paying more taxes than required.

'A report was later issued by the Committee, calling for far-reaching action on several fronts. The number one recommendation was to expand the tax assistance program for the elderly; the bill that we introduce today is designed to implement this recommendation.

NCE offers scholarship

Engineering has announced its continued participation in the General Motors Scholarship Plan, providing scholarship funding for an outstanding student entering NVCE this fall. Stipends to the student range from an honorary award of $200 per year to a full-funding of $2,000 per year, depending upon need. Prior academic performance, test scores, participation in extracurricular activities and leadership potential, are also considered in the GM Scholarship selection. United States citizenship is also a requirement. Students interested a vailable NCE-GM Scholarship should apply directly to Newark College of Engineering. No special GM application is necessary.

Jersey agency seeks homes for retarded adults

Terming 1974 the year of the nearby vacation, Joseph A. Hoffman, Commissioner of the N.J. Department of Labor and Industry, said this week that preliminary reports of bookings in the resort areas of the state indicate a good season ahead.

Hoffman said that reports from Atlantic, Cape May, Monmouth and Ocean Counties showed that reservations are from 10 to 15 percent above 1973.

"What we are hoping," Hoffman said, "is that New Jersey residents and visitors from nearby states will take advantage of the easy accessibility of our Jersey resort areas. Further this is a good time to call to the attention of prospective vacationers in this part of the United States, that we actually have two. seasons in New Jersey.

"We have our regular summer months of July and August but also we find more and more holiday visitors taking advantage of the early and late months of May, June and September and October. The weather is still fine in the resort areas and the facilities are not quite as crowded."

Hoffman voiced some concern on the travel problems visitors from other states may have. He said, "As it stands now, tourists from New York and Pennsylvania or from any state which has imposed a voluntary or mandatory odd-even day gas distribution system will get the same service from gasoline stations as do New Jersey residents. As for visitors from other states and Canada, we are hopeful that special arrangements can be made to handle their gasoline needs during the vacation

Hoffman said he was meeting in the very near future with Richard W. De Korte, the State Energy Administrator, to discuss plans for gasoline allocation for summer holiday visitors from other states.

Program at NCE for incoming frosh

Newark College of Engineering will hold its annual "Get-Acquainted" program for its September freshmen on Saturday, March 9.

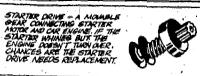

The program is designed for new students and their families, giving the young people a preliminary insight into the various aspects of college preparation. A separate program for the general public, "NCE Open House," is held

The March program will offer explanations of the different degree programs, informal gettogethers with departmental faculty members and the chance to meet representative members of the NCE student body.

Organized by the college several years ago. the program gives parents and students the chance to ask questions and to learn about aspects of New Jersey's leading technological

PS reports drop in sale of energy

Sales of gas and electricity were lower last month than in January 1973, Public Service Electric & Gas Co. reported this week.

Kilowatt sales for January 1974 were down 7.2 percent from January 1973 levels. Therm sales of gas were down 4.6 percent. The decline in the sale of energy by the utility continues a trend that became evident in the final months of 1973 as customers responded to appeals for energy and natural resource conservation.

Although the weather was slightly colder than last January (heating degree days were up 3.5 percent), the combination of customer measures, the company's conservation restrictive gas sales policy and the economic

January 1973 results have been restated to give effect to the recording of estimated unbilled revenues and the charging of electric fuel cost increases in the month in which they are recovered under the energy adjustment clause in the company's rates.

Number of farms in state fell 2 percent to 8, 00 last year The number of farms in operation in the be given to the recommendations of the Garden State during 1973 dropped 2 percent to Reporting Service, compared with 8,300 in 1972. Land in farms totaled 1,035,000 acres in 1973, down 1 percent from 1972. The average size of farm in 1973 was 128 acres, a gain of 2 acres over 1972.

Both the number of farms and total acreage of farmland in New Jersey are expected to remain unchanged in 1974.

Commenting on the end-of-the-year report Secretary of Agriculture Phillip Alampi said that 10 years ago, when the Farmland Assessment Act was passed, New Jersey was losing three farms a day. The effectiveness of the act has been demonstrated, he said, by the fact that today the rate of loss of farms in the Garden State has slowed to one farm every other day.

However, he continued, the continued decline in the number of farms in New Jersey, although at a slower rate than a decade ago, makes it all the more imperative that early consideration

Piano concert set by contest finalist

International Beethoven Competition finalist Sam Rotman will present a piano concert at Northeastern Bible College, Essex Fells, on Friday, March 8, 1974, at 8 p.m.

Rotman will play pieces by Chopin, Brahms, Tchaikovsky, Schumann and Rachmaninoff. He will give a brief explanation of each piece before performing it and will speak on Christianity and its role in the arts today.

The American Christian School of Succasunna is sponsoring this third in a series of family concerts. Donations are $3 for adults, $1 for students; pre-school children will be admitted free. Tickets may be purchased at the door. For further information, call 584-6616.

Rutgers to open criminal justice school in the fall

An interdisciplinary faculty will be utilized for research, public service and teaching functions of the Rutgers School of Criminal Justice, scheduled to begin operation in

A master of arts program for the school was approved at the January meeting of the State University's board of governors, Dr. Don M. Gottfredson, dean of the new school, developed the program whose general concept was authorized by the New Jersey State Legislature

Gottfredson said the goal of the program is to provide students with a basic understanding of delinquency and crime, and of the criminal justice system.

"Also, we will provide an understanding of the methods for assessing current problems in order to arrive at conclusions and rational decisions which must be made by thoseresponsible for the administration of criminal justice" he said.

The faculty-from arts and sciences, law and business—will present a program in five major areas of curricula: the nature of delinquency and crime, law and criminal justice, criminal and crime, law and criminal justice, criminal justice management, research methods in Ad. Call 686-7700.

ocean bottom in the form of nodules -- small lumps of minerals. Oceanographers and industrialists both agree that these nodules are a mineral resource of great value, if they can be

In Science, the weekly journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, staff writer Allen L. Hammond discusses the possibility of harvesting the mineral wealth that nodules hold

Man has only begun to tap the oceans' vast riches. Fish, oil, salt, tin and limestone are the largest resources that have so far been extracted from the sea. This, however, is likely to change as more research is done on the

The most commercially useful nodules, says Hammond, are black or brown agglomerations of manganese oxide and iron oxide minerals. The nodules include iron, copper, manganese, cobalt and traces of at least two dozen other metals. Unlike the other minerals, however, large manganese deposits are found both on land and under the sea.

Nodules form on the seabeds of many parts of the world, Hammond explains, but only in several areas is there enough metal to make mining worthwhile. The Pacific Ocean southwest of Hawaii is the most favorable mining area that has been found.

Where these metals came from and why they are concentrated where they are, is the subject of much debate, says Hammond. It is known that iron and manganese were formed by submarine volcanic eruptions and runoff from the continents, bur sources of nickel and copper

A study of nodules and their chemistry has only begun, concludes Hammond, but research has clearly shown that there is great mineral wealth below the sea.

Labor unit urging shortage protest: 1-hour stoppage

A national one-hour work stoppage to protest the unfair burdens being placed on the backs of the working people as a result of the energy shortage" is being asked for by the New Jersey Industrial Union Council, AFL-CIO.

The labor organization telegraphed AFL-CIO president George Meany, saying that "swift and direct action is urged at this time to dramatize to Congress, to the President and to the oil monopolies that we are sick and tired of losing our jobs, of paying 50 percent more for gas and oil, of being forced onto impossibly long lines to get gasoline and of being told we have to sacrifice more."

Maurice Veneri, president of the Industrial Union Council, said "the rank and file in our unions is outraged that oil company profits have jumped 80 and 90 percent in the last three months and will go higher still as these unconscionable profiteers seek to squeeze the last drop of money out of the last drop of gas."

The council president urged that the AFL-CIO to demand Congress establish a public energy authority to operate the oil and utilities industries for the duration of the emergency.

State TV news report to be seen twice nightly

New Jersey Public Television's nightly New Jersey News Report will be seen twice a night beginning Monday on Channels 50 and 58.

The 30-minute New Jersey newscast, now televised live each week-night at 7:30, will be shown again at 10:30. The new late evening telecast will include the same filmed highlights of the day's events in New Jersey, along with last-minute news.

Dear Pat and Marilyn: I have been married exactly six weeks and am presented with a problem which I do not know how to handle and one which I'll bet you have never heard.

Joe and I were married in Las Vegas and did not have a wedding... However, we decided to send nouncements to our friends. I asked my mother to have some printed, which she did. Now comes the shocker. My new husband has told his mother not to send out the announcements and he has also asked his family not to give us wedding presents and they haven't. The reason he gave was that he wanted to wait and see if the marriage was going to work before they spent any money. I have known this guy for two years so this is not exactly a sudden decision. What do you think of such a situation?

Dear Noreen: Tell Joe that he can announce the marriage or the divorce-whichever prefers. After all, you are not on probation. This guy sounds like bad news to me.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

My wife had an operation three years ago and the whole world has heard about it ever since. She always finds some way to bring this operation into the conversation. She goes into every detail. beginning with her arrival at at the hospital to her depar-ture. You would think she was the only person in the country who ever had an appendectomy. How can I stop her when she asks, 'Can I tell you about my operation?"

The next time your wife asks if she can tell about her operation pipe up with a loud 'no." But keep in mind that it is all but impossible to stop a person who is determined to talk about his or her operation.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I have one aunt and like her very much. She is really the greatest. She does volunteer work for every organization in town. Now, if you have ever had anything to do with volunteer work, you know that this includes a constant sale of everything from cookies to chances on television sets and cars. My aunt rings every door bell in the block soliciting funds for each and every foundation. I really don't mind the fund-collecting because it is for a good cause but I do find it embarrassing when she is constantly peddling cookies and chances

Her children are all grown and I think she does this to keep occupied. However, she seems to have radar and every time I have guests she arrives to sell something. For example, I had a dinner party last week and along came Auntie selling tickets on a car. LEveryone bought one and I LWhat can I do? By the way my aunt lives just across the street.

Dear Mrs. D. D.: Tell your aunt that you will Tilsit buy tickets from time to time but not to peddle her wares to vour guests as this is embarrassing. That should settle

FDU given scholarship

Fairleigh Dickinson University this week an-nounced the establishment of the Charles Angoff Scholar-ship, provided by Dr. Morris Leverton, a retired broker and member of the FDU Board of Overseers.

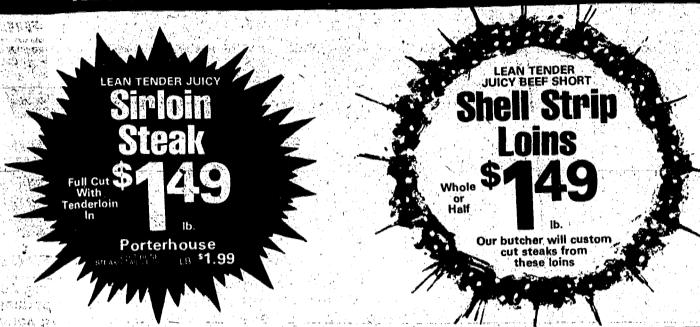

Dr. Leverton has given Fairleigh Dickinson $20,000 . asking that the income from this money be used to help students who are both academically superior and in need of financial help.

The scholarship to honors Dr. Angoff, FDU professor emeritus of English and a member of the university faculty for 20 years, for "his dedicated and tireless services to Fairleigh Dickinson
