Cancer Crusade begins in borough

"I urge every Mountainside resident to give to the American Cancer Society and to listen to the message from the volunteer who visits his home during April." Mountainside Mayor Thomas Ricciardi declared last week as he signed a proclamation declaring April Cancer Control Month in the Community.

April, which has been designated as Cancer Control Month by Congress, is the time when the Cancer Society launches its intensive fundraising and educational effort. In Mountainside, the drive is headed this year by Billie Jean Tulchin. She and the 214 volunteers from the borough will attempt to visit every household with life-saving information about

Ms. Tulchin noted Mountainside's goal this year has been set at $3,000. "These funds are desperately needed to carry on the Society's three-fold program of research, education and service to the cancer patient," she said.

In addition to asking the citizens of Mountainside to support the American Cancer Society's Crusade, the mayor's proclamation also reinforced the Society's message, urging all residents to have an annual health checkup as one step in helping to safeguard themselvesagainst the disease.

Quality.

The state environmental protection department said that the draft statement's study of noise "is just not realistic." The draft statement predicted that a 70 decibel noise level would affect fewer than 10 homes by the Rt. 78 right-of-way:-"While the residents of a home may accept a noise level of 70 DBA during a particular rush hour." said the DEP in its comments on the study, "the continuation of this level for extended periods of time each day is quite an impact. The prospect that this level may continue through most of the night is an cxtreme impact.".

The DEP added: "The U.S. Department of Transportation guidelines (on highway noise." levels) do not reflect reality; they are based on those levels that are the breakpoint of extensive community reaction.'

The environmental agency urged that effective noise barriers be constructed along the entire right-of-way for Rt. 78 with special consideration for John Runnells Hospital and Gov. Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights, intensive areas of recreational use within the Watchung Reservation and residential areas. That covers most of a 5.2-mile stretch of the planned superhighway which, when completed, will connect the metropolitan area with the Harrisburg, Pa.,

Water quality and flooding also drew criticism from the DEP. Run-offs of nitrates. phosphates, heavy metals, roadway oils and heavy metals, said the environmental protection department, will bring about the struction of a swamp at the he Blue Brook in Watchung Reservation and speed up the accumulation of downstream silt in the brook and Surprise Lake, Such run-off will also accelerate the eutrophication (oxygen deficiency) of the lake, a major recreational resource for Union County residents.

Board promises to review student proposals on rules

part of two hours at the Regional High School District Board of Education meeting Tuesday night at Jonathan Dayton Regional in Springfield as student leaders protested what they termed injustices in board policies and siveness to teenaged opinion.

The throng of more than 350 persons which packed the Dayton cafeteria consisted primarily of students, and for nearly two hours they and their leaders pressed for board action on three basic issues: permission to leave the Dayton grounds during lunch and study periods, a designated smoking area and revision of the newly adopted attendance rules. which were termed punitive and unjust.

The case for the youngsters was presented by Andy Mendelsohn and Phil Zisman, presidents of the Dayton senior class and Student Council. They were supported by leaders from A.L.

Scots' festival listed May 25 at high school

Thè skirl of bagpipes, the flare of the kilt and a spectacle of varied tartans will prevail at Gov. Livingston Regional High School. Berkelev Heights, on Saturday, May 25, as the Highlander Band is host to the Eastern United States Pipe Band Association's first amateur solo championship to be held in this country. The event will be recognized by Canadian and Scottish authorities and is expected to draw contestants from as far away as Canada.

The Gov. Livingston Highlanders have continued to earn top honors in traditional Scottish games competitions. They were selected to be the host for the championship this year against the background of still another accomplishment: the Highlander Girls Pipers having been recognized by the EUSPBA as the top Group IV Pipe Band in the Eastern

Along with the solo and quartet bagpipe championships, there will be drumming and Highland dancing competitions. as well as Highland Hepthalon (Scottish athletic events). The latter will include "Putting the Stone," "Tossing the Caber" and the "Sheathtoss." A full field show will be presented in mid-afternoon, including the Highlander Girl Pipers, dancers and Hepthalon finalists. The day wil conclude with an evening program of traditional music and dancing in the school auditorium. Several of the nation's top pipers will be featured. Scottish culture, foods, and tradition will add to the overall spectacle.

Berkeley Heights, as well as several parents.

Replying for the oldsters were Charles Vitale of Kenilworth, school board president; Natalie Waldt and Sonya Dorsky, board members from Springfield; Dr. • Donald Merachnik, superintendent of schools, and Anthony Fiordaliso, Dayton principal.
As he closed the public meeting well after 11

p.m., Vitale promised prompt and thorough consideration of the student proposals, in consultation with the school administration and spokesmen for the students.

'The board has committed itself to study your proposal," he stated. "I urge you again to review your ideas with your principal. The board pledges itself to meet with student leadership. We will set a date for that meeting as soon as possible, and we will notify you of any decisions as quickly as we can.'

He added, "We are all proud of all of you. You had the courage to come here and tell us about your problems. I commit myself and the board to look as hard as we can for solutions."

The tone of the student speakers was primarily polite impatience with what they termed injustices -- particularly on the part of seniors who stated several times that they were aware any major changes could come only after they graduate.

The only interruption was a brief disturbance in the rear of the crowded cafeteria - rumored to be a streak-in but not visible from the press table. One teenager carried a sign, "There is no freedom at Dayton."

Mendelsohn, who outlined the case for the students, stated that the school is pervaded with "poor morale and a hostility toward authority.

He commented, "We are here not to demand but to point out injustices. Student rights have been won in many places by many methods. We are not a violent people; there are better methods to use. But we have no say in school policy. Everything is tilted toward the board and the administration.'

The student leader spelled out four basic

"1. There is the fear element. The stress on punishment brings a sense of alienation. "2. There is a feeling of dishonesty. We must deny our own feelings if they are unacceptable to authority.

"3. There is a high priority at all times or conformity and obedience.

"4. There is a growing alienation between student and school, aggravated by the policies prohibiting open lunch. open study hall attendance and smoking. Mendelsohn added. policy, which can bring failing grades with five unexcused absences or eight excused absences per marking period, bring the most hostility. Why not create an atmosphere where the

Trip to Israel evokes many emotions Aftermath of the Yom Kippur War is seen

By EVELYN AVERICK

As a member from Mountainside of the United Jewish Appeal Union County mission to Israel which took place recently, I have made an attempt to convey how it felt for an American Jew to experience Israel in the deepest possible way. We were not tourists. We were on a mission. We came to learn what Israel was like since the Yom Kippur War and to bring to the people of Israel a message of hope that she was not alone in the world.

I wondered whether our scheduled trip to the Golan Heights would really take place. Shooting on the Syrian border was reported every day. When our bus stopped at a military checkpoint, a security officer came aboard and announced that it was quiet and we could proceed. I was glad that he came with us. When we drove through the rubble of Kuneitra, an Arab town that was taken by the Israelis in 1967, lost and taken again during the Yom Kippur War at tremendous cost of lives, I felt a tension as I witnessed the desolation around

We stopped when we arrived at the barbedwire border of the newly acquired Syrian territory. As we got out of the bus, we were warned not to touch anything. All about us was strewn the pollution of war - distorted tanks and shells, some of which might be live. We were on a vast, lonely battlefield - the scene of the Yom Kippur War. Soldiers looked at us in astonishment, obviously incredulous that we were there since civilians are not permitted on the Golan.

Suddenly, shooting started further to the west. I witnessed Israell tanks pulling out in formation toward the front, the young faces of the tank commanders smiling at us. At first I thought, "What am I doing here?" But, I became aware of something very important. I

Will PSE&G's nuclear generating stations put more gasoline in your tank?

PSE&G is part owner of four nuclear electric generating units that are scheduled to be in operation by 1976. If these were oilburning units rather than nuclear generators, more than two billion gallons of oil would be required each year to match the output of these plants. That's enough, on the average, to produce roughly 900 million gallons of gasoline. Certainly, by avoiding the burning of large volumes of oil for the production of electricity, there is a much greater chance that adequate amounts of gasoline will be available in years to come. PSE&G's nuclear units are reducing our reliance on oil ... oil which should be used for valuable purposes for which there are no substitutes; the production of medicine, organic chemicals, plastics, rubber. lubricants and, of course, gasoline.

Record number of new nuclear units ordered by nation's utilities. In America, 43 nuclear units are in operation generating about 6% of our nation's electric needs. Fifty-five more are under construction right now! And last year, after the need for nuclear energy became even greater, a record number of 39 additional units were ordered by the nation's utilities. The more nuclear plants we build, the more oil we spare for other uses. Nucleur power reduces de critical shortages of fossil fuels, especially oil, it is clear that nuclear energy can help reduce our dependence on foreign imports so that we can become increasingly self-

Nuclear power already helping to conserve oil. The nation's 43 operating nuclear generating units have already saved the equivalent of three billion gallons of oil during the past four winter months. Needless to say, if these generating stations were burning oil rather than relying on nuclear energy to produce needed electric energy, our present oil shortage would be even more critical than it is.

The future. PSE&G has pioneered the concept of constructing a nuclear power plant nearly three miles off the New Jersey shore in the Atlantic Ocean where its environmental impact will be minimal. Through this unique concept, no valuable land area will be occupied and an abundance of natural cooling water will be available. In addition, construction will soon begin on PSE&G's Hope Creek nuclear station near Salem.

New Jersey-and the nation-urgently needs nuclear power now. It offers us the brightest hope for reducing our dependence on valuable fossil fuels (oil, natural gas, coal). Yes, nuclear energy is an ideal source of electric generation until other methods become practical in the future.

Delays are costly. Until now, environmental objections, labor shortages, technical problems, late deliveries of specialized equipment, and lengthy regulatory procedures have all taken their toll in delaying nuclear power.

In view of the obvious vital role nuclear energy will eventually assume in helping to relieve the energy crisis. New Jersey cannot afford further delays in nuclear construction. Energy shortages will be with us for a long time. We must look to nuclear power to provide increasing opportunities for the nation to become self-sufficient in energy in the years to come.

We urge your support of PSE&G's nuclear energy projects to produce more electricity for you.

Two are accused of collecting rent on county facility

A plot of county-owned land in Watchung Reservation, Mountainside, is the focal point in indictments handed down last week against two radio repairmen accused of robbing the county for two years by giving leases and charging rents on the property.

Among the rents allegedly paid for use of a broadcast tower on the site was $6,510 by the Borough of Mountainside between January 1969

The indictment against Alfred F. Broda Jr. and Richard Rosander, both employees of a Union Township contracting firm which served the county for six years, was handed down by a Union County Grand Jury March 27. Both are accused of embezzlement, larceny and obtaining money under false pretenses.

According to the indictment, Broda and Rosander worked for Knapp Radio of Union, which established a county radio network in 1966 and serviced it through 1972. The network included an antenna tower in Mountainside, an antenna on the courthouse in Elizabeth and two-way radios in the cars of county detectives. sheriffs and road repairmen.

The indictment charges that while the pair were working for the county, they told the Mountainside Police Department, the J&C Excavating Co. of Union and Radiophone Corp. of Red Bank that they owned the Mountainside tower and a nearby radio shack. Both the tower and the shack, located at the Watchung Reservation about 300 feet southwest of Prospect avenue, were actually on county

Broda and Rosander allegedly proceeded to lease space in the shack and on the tower to the three groups for broadcasting purposes. In addition to the money reportedly paid by Mountainside, the excavating company allegedly paid $450 to the two men between October 1971 and July 1972, while the broadcasting company reportedly paid $1,900 between June 1971 and December 1972.

In return for the fees, the indictment states, each was allowed to place antennas on the tower and broadcasting equipment in the shack for communications through their own two-way systems. A spokesman for the Union County Prosecutor's Office said Mountainside's payment also covered use of some equipment. According to the indictment, the use of the county electrical supply and county space constituted embezzlement and larceny by Broda and Rosander.

Broda reportedly has denied that he charged Mountainside any money, maintaining all the leasing arrangements had been approved by Irving Velinsky, former clerk of the Union County Board of Freeholders. Velinsky is now

Union County Prosecutor Karl Asch said the indictments were the result of a three-month investigation by the prosecutor's governmental investigations squad.

Westfield YMCA offers classes in swim endurance

"If you'll be doing a lot of boating this summer and if you'll be at a vacation home near water, your child should not only know how to swim-but how to swim well.

That's the advice of Westfield YMCA Physical Director Harry L. Lesher Jr., who pointed out that annual drownings in the U.S. have increased to 7.300-the third largest accident toll in the country.

Three-fourths of boating drownings result from capsizing or falling overboard and not having sufficient swimming ability to make it to shore, Lesher points out.

"More than 60 per cent of drowning victims are under 25 years of age, 85 per cent of the victims are male" said Lesher "That's why we at the Y advise that boys be taught not just the basics of swimming, but swimming endurance and rescue techniques that will insure their safety.'

The Y's progressive swim courses, now open for enrollment, feature in the shark level endurance swims of 450 yeards, and in the porpoise level an endurance swim of 25 minutes in addition to small craft safety.

Nursery school registration at Eastern Union YM-YWHA

The Eastern Union County YM-YWHA Nursery School is now accepting registration for the 1974-1975 school year.

The YMHA Nursery School has morning and afternoon classes for 3- and 4-year olds. Threeyear olds attend school three days a week while four-year olds attend five days a week.

The Y Nursery School has a curriculum designed to help the pre-schooler become independent, resourceful and creative, said Rosie Nebenhaus of the Y. "Through first-hand experience children learn ways of working, sharing and playing together under the supervision of skilled and experienced teachers. Children's intellectual growth and cultural growth is nourished through play, housekeeping, water play, painting, clay modeling, block building, crafts, rhythms, music, literature and active indoor and outdoor play." she said.

The children in the Y Nursery take part in a gym and swim program. The gym activities include rope climbing, rings, tumbling, scooter rides and coordinating exercises. The students jumped to a two-point lead at the start of play with two foul shots by Alan Berliner, but the faculty soon gained the advantage on baskets by William Vetter, James Stamey and JoAnn Mihal. Baskets by David Szymanski and Berliner added four points to the pipils' score, but the quarter ended with the faculty leading 8-6.

Stamey opened the second quarter with two quick baskets. The faculty's talley also was increased on scores by Vetter, Donald Wilderotter, Richard Pisz and Dr. Robert Black, Walton principal. Szymanski paced the students with three baskets, while Mark Casale and Jamie Brunney contributed one each to the younger players' efforts.

Going into the final quarter, the faculty had a

On the faculty side, baskets belonged to Pisz and Sandi Oxman. Also playing a great offensive game were Vetter and Mrs. Mihal. Two student teachers, Sandy White and Myra Morrow, failed to score, but contributed to their team's efforts.

'Well, shall we call it a day?'

second place tie with the German Hungarians last week by downing Hellenic, 3-1.

The Elizabeth Lancers will face Inter of New York, the leaders of the GASL Major Division North, this Sunday at Farcher's Grove. This will be a must game for the Farcher's Grove eleven, for a loss might put the Southern Division into a three-way tie for first place. If the Lancers win the next three games no one can touch them.

As of this writing, there has not been any word as to who will play the Elizabeth Lancers' Junior team for the New Jersey championship in the Junior National Challenge Cup. The boys are still waiting for two South Jersey teams to play in their half of the semifinals.

WITH LITTLE LEAGUE baseball in doubt for this season, now is a good chance for our recreation departments to look into setting up some kind of a soccer program for the boys who will be looking for something to do over the summer months. The towns around us and down in South Jersey all have a good recreation department program going.

Union High School and others will suffer in the future in soccer because many other towns summer months. The town can't depend on the Elizabeth and Newark Sport Clubs at Farcher's Grove to train their soccer players. Those two teams have soccer training for younger teams three evenings a week and then the boys play league games on Saturday and Sunday

I would not be surprised if there will be a good league started in New Jersey next year between towns and some of the soccer clubs, for the youngsters.

The town of Union and some of our neighboring towns will miss out on this if they don't set up some kind of recreational program for soccer. This will mean that the schools in these towns will suffer and the boys that want to play will have to look toward the sports clubs to

I know that the coaches and directors of the Elizabeth and Newark Sport Clubs have been helping many of the neighboring towns to set up

Union is fortunate to have one of the defensive giants of the Lancers, George Chappla, teaching in Central Six. George has played with Elizabeth for several years and once said that if a program is started early enough (before the boys plan to leave for the summer), Union can have a good soccer program.

If any town officials have any questions to ask concerning soccer, or just want to see youngsters in training, drop in Farcher's Grove any Tuesday or Wednesday evening (Elizabeth SC) and on Thursday evening (Newark SC).

The opening two quarters were dominated by the Jets, who took a 6-0 lead at the end of the opening stanza on buckets by Jamey Brunny and Alan Berliner and free throws by Alan and Russ Waldman. The Jets raised the margin to 16-0 at the half as Waldman and Berliner hit twice apiece from the floor and Brunny added one. The Raiders, meanwhile, moved the ball well against the Jets and penetrated quite often but watched shot after shot drop off the rim.

The Raiders came out fighting in the third period and took the play away from the Jets. Larry Walker sank two baskets to break the ice and Drew Lalor and Bob Frischman also hit in this quarter from the field. The Raiders' comeback continued in the last quarter as they closed to within six late in the game; Walker and Lalor hit two field goals apiece and Pete

Talks focus on historic sites in N.J.

The preservation of historic buildings and sites in New Jersey is the topic of the last of the American arts lectures. co-sponsored by the Summit Art Center and the Junior League, Jack Boucher, write, lecturer and architectural photographer, will present "Along Jersey's Trails." This illustrated discussion of New Jersey's significant but lesser known places of interest and preservation will be given Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Oak Knoll Auditorium, 44

Blackburn rd., Summit. Boucher, of Linwood, will talk about his interest in historic preservation, its achievements and failures in new Jersey. Historic houses and sites, state-owned and private, such as Batsto, the Margate Elephant and the recently demolished Traymore Hotel in Atlantic City, will be the specifics in this fascinating look at the role of residents in historic preservation.

The photographer was personally responsible for the preservation and restoration of the 115-year old Atlantic City Light House and an industrial iron and paper furnace and mill dating to 1801 in Weymouth, New Jersey.

Boucher's photographs have been exhibited throughout the nation and as illustrations for numerous books, journals and magazines. He works exclusively with large format photographic equipment for land use and for aerial photography, in which he produces low altitude serial records of subjects ranging from earthquakes to historic buildings. As supervisor of Pictorial Records and Photography for the Historic American Buildings Survey and the Historic American Engineering Record, companion programs within the Department of the Interior, he has recorded more than 3,500 structures throughout the States, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

The $1 tickel can be oblained from the Summit Art Center (273-9121) or at the Oak Knoll, Auditorium Wednesday eyening.

Trip to Israel evokes many emotions

Aftermath of the Yom Kippur War is seen that poured forth from him, embracing us all,

ON OUR WAY DOWN, we stopped at a border settlement. During the Yom Kippur War the women and children had to be rescued out of there later the men. Now they were back. We were in the underground shelter where these people sleep every night since they are still in easy artillery range. One of the settlers, a delightful 23-year old girl from England. smiling and enthusiastic (in that setting her British accent seeming incongruous) described their pioneer farming and communal life. All they want is the opportunity to live in peace in this world as a people. Our security officer, a colonel, whom I was now calling "Avram" continued with us. He was relaxed sitting with us in the bus and talking of many simple matters of every day life. Avram, when he's not a solider, is a vice-chairman of a bank, and he shared with us the many problems of the economy and the high cost of living. Avram was a sweet and gentle person who seemed deeply moved by our being there. We kissed goodbye, exchanged addresses, and now Avram is my friend and I have someone else in my life to worry about.

We were on our way to a military cemetery in Afula. I felt the same anxiety one feels when visiting a bereaved family, not knowing just how to act or what to say. I was unprepared for what I saw. The rows and rows of new grave with their temporary wooded arched slabs for tombstones, looked so fragile and tender like the young boys resting there. A young Yemenite girl, painfully thin except that she was eight months pregnant, sat on the ground of one of the graves, her arms embracing the tombstone, her kerchiefed head quietly resting on it. She comes there every day to visit her fallen husband, we learned. I sat down on a bench and fought back the tears.

As we left, everyone silently and instinctively lined up at the watering stand to perform the ancient, although for me outmoded, ritual of the construction of sedimentation basins to entrap silt and some pollution were endorsed by the DEP but the agency warned that suspended matter, particularly nitrates, phosphates and salt, would still be carried into Surprise Lake. The environmental protection department recommended that sedimentation basins in Watchung Reservation be interconnected by pipe and discharged directly into Blue Brook, below the dam at Surprise Lake. "This action," said the DEP, "although adverse to the receiving stream, would mitigate the impact on a heavily used recreational lake.

Storm water runoff is another problem foreseen by New Jersey environmental ex-perts. "In recent years," said the DEP response to the Environmental Impact Study draft, "serious flooding problems have occurred when the Green Brook overflowed its banks downstream in the area of Rt. 22 in Scotch Plains, Watchung Borough and North Plainfield." The DEP said more consideration should be given to the final Environmental Impact Statement to this pro-

The DEP recommended that the New Jersey.

'The Watchung Reservation," said the state environmental protection department. "represents a unique and valuable open space and recreational resource ... The proposed alignment of Rt. 78 through the Watchung Reservation will cause the loss of 246 acres of parkland plus have an untold adverse environmental impact in terms of air, water and noise pollution. Unfortunately, there appears to be no prudent alternative at this late date to not building the highway through the reservation. Physical environmental impacts hopefully can be mitigated; however, it is extremely doubtful to expect that one continguous parcel of replacement parkland could be-found in Union County.

to do so. That simple rite evoked painful memories of my childhood when I performed the same ritual after my father's burial. The tears gushed out as I wept for my long-gone father and for that Yemenite girl. And I couldn't distinguish between the tears.

THE DAY THE MEN left at two in the morning to go deep inside the Sinai, we women who were not permitted on this trip, went instead to the end of the Gaza strip into the tip of the Sinai, near a town called Rafa. We visited Moshay Sodot, a communal oasis in the desert. We were taken by bus deeper into the desert to witness the beginning of a road and what will one day soon be a new city. The huge sand dunes, as far as the eye could see, seemed to swallow us. I was glad to return to the Moshav. just a short distance back which only two years ago looked like that arid land we had just seen.

At the Moshav, gladiolas were blooming and tomatoes were growing, which were their prime products for market. Our hostess, the only non-Sabra there, was a bubbling 27-year old American girl, Jeanne, from California. When she graduated from high school, she was without direction. She was not college-bound as were her friends since she was not a student. She came to Israel, married an Israeli and now is purposeful and dynamic and evidently smart enough to share in running the life of the Moshav and to stand before large groups of people, impressing them with her knowhow and warmth and charm.

I PROMISED the Russian immigrant girl that I would explain her story. We were at the absorption center at Beersheba where the Russian immigrants arrive and stay for about six months. It is here that they learn Hebrew and all the skills which will enable them to find their place in the country at large. It was Katrina's responsibility to talk to our group of close to 300 people. Her English was limited and it was evident to me that she was nervous. When the program was finished I went up to her. She was trembling. I put my arms around her and told her how well she had done. But she was terribly upset as she felt that due to her difficulty with the language, she had not made her story clear.

She had tried to explain that when the 1967 war broke out in Israel and was won just six days later, Russian Jews through underground channels and through secret radios, heard the news and, though they had been denied the rights to a religious education and had no understanding of their heritage or knowledge of their identity other than that they were labelled "Jew" on their identify cards, a feeling and yearning for the people welled up in them. They vanted to emigrate to Israel where they could live with dignity instead of being relegated to second class, meaningless citizenship which they suffered. Once they made this decision, their lives in Russia became unbearable with hardships imposed by the government. I was deeply touched by this young girl. She had an urgent feeling of responsibility to tell her story so that other Russian Jews might be helped to come out.

WHEREVER WE WENT throughout Israel. we were welcomed not only as Jews, but as Americans. Everyone knew who we were. The love for America which I saw there, was reminiscent for me of the love my immigrant parents felt for America, a love which they imparted to their children. Not since my worshipful days of Roosevelt have I experienced the feelings I had when meeting the president of Israel, Ephraim Katzir, who was especially responsible for bringing this awareness of Ameirca to my mind. The name of Ephraim Katzir, was not as well known to me as Golda Meir or Moyshe Dayan. Yet, meeting him at his gracious and hospitable residence turned out to be an unexpected highlight of the trip. This man, a scholar, a professor, a non-political person in accordance with the parliamentary structure of the Israel government, embodied the spiritual qualities of the great patriarchs. His warmth and the love students want to attend? If we are treated with respect, the administration and staff will be pleased with our response Fiordaliso reported that he had discussed the proposals several times with the students and that he had agreed with some, but not in all details. He stated, "I wanted to work out a joint proposal that we could present together to the board, but you didn't want to go that route."

As head of the student Council, Zisman offered specifics on the proposals. He urged that open lunch and open study periods, only for students with parental permission, be given a one-month trial.

Stressing that designated smoking areas would alleviate unpleasant conditions in the bathrooms and had been successful in other schools, he urged that students, with parental permission, be permitted to smoke outside during lunch period or in a selected section of the building.

Zisman emphasized that students had no voice in the new attendance policy, although they did have in recent academic changes. He "It's time that the members of the Board of Education realize the students are mature enough to handle certain responsibilities and should have a say in the policies

The student position was supported by almost all the speakers during the lengthy debate, including parents from Springfield and Mountainside.

Tom Kopil, Student Council president at Johnson Regional, voiced his group's support of the Dayton proposals. He urged that a standing committee be formed, with students, board members and administrators meeting to keep channels of communication open at all times. Dr. Merachnik commented that the new attendance policy was formulated after numerous meetings, in response to a steady drop in attendance.

"We are seeking greater accountability in the student body," he said, "This was developed not to punish but to increase attendance. It is an experimental policy, and we will try it out.

Mrs. Dorsky said it was unfair to anticipate total rejection by the board. She added. "The president has promised you a full discussion of se ideas, and we will come back to you at a public meeting." She noted that the board last year, had ,approved an open lunch policy at David, Brearley Regional in Kenilworth

When completed, the $300,000 air-conditioned structure will serve the residents of Village IV, the newest Crestwood section now under development, and will be ready when the new residents begin to move in later this year, Kokes said.

"In planning our three previous clubhouses, it has

"Thus, Village IV residents will find their recreational and social program in full swing, as they will also find the Village marketplace with 12 stores, medical-professional center with four doctors, a dentist, and other professionals ready to serve them."

A fully-equipped auditorium-ballroom and stage, with professional lighting and public address system will occupy the central area of the building. Other facilities include a banquet kitchen, club and meeting rooms, a professionally equipped pocket-billiard room, card and game rooms, TV lounge and library. Outdoor facilities include picnic grove, barbecue pits and

The Timbers in Barnegat open--in time for summer family community being created by DCA-Mayer Corporation in Barnegat, has just held its grand opening, in time for buyers to order a home for the summer season. Located conveniently on Rt. 534 and Exit 67 of the Garden State Parkway, The Timers offers seven different home designs in bi-level, two-story and ranch models, priced from $24,990 to $35,990. The community is being opened at a time when an increasing umber of people are attracted to living in a prime resort area on a year-round basis.

"Each year, more and more people discover all this fresh air and uncongested woodland and decide that it's an ideal way to live," says DCA-Mayer marketing director Joseph "We heartily Billhimer. agree, of course, since our company has been building homes in the shore area for 16 years.

Our very attractive models designed to make that selection easy.'

The Timbers offers floor plans to meet just about any possible requirements. In addition to two- and threemodels, especially flexible designs provide for anywhere from two to five-bedrooms.

PICK OF THE WEEKS LP'S.. "Come Live With Me" by Ray Charles (CROSSOVER RECORDS CR-9000). Selections on Ray's latest LP album include: "Till There Was You," "If You Go Away," "It Takes So Little Time," "Come Live With Me," "Somebody," "Problems, Problems," "Where Was He,"

"Louise" and "Everybody Sing" There is a distinct possibility that Ray Charles invented "soul" in music. Certainly he personifies it. Frank Sinatza said of him: "He's the only genius in our business". Charles says of himself: "I try to bring out my soul so people can understand what I am. I want people to feel my soul, 'Soul' is when you take a song and make it part of you - a part that's so true, so real, people think it must have happened to you. Soul is like electricity, like a spirit, a drive, a power"

When he was 6, Charles suffered from what doctors would have diagnosed as a variety of glaucoma - had doctors been available to a black and poor family in Georgia circa 1936. His mother told him "You're blind, not stupid. You've lost your sight, not your mind".

At 10, his father died; five years later he lost his mother. Between the ages of 7 and 15 he was enrolled at St. Augustine's School for the Deaf and Blind in Orlando, Fla. He learned to read and write braille, to type and to play a limited classical repetoire on the piano. Armed with pride, a sense of dignity, a love of music and a refusal to allow his handicap to limit him, at the age of 15 he joined a Jacksonville dance band as pianist. He toured the South with different bands, lied about his age to get his union card and two years later wound up in Seattle, having asked a friend to find him the farthest point on the map from Florida and the South of the United States.

During this period, and for the next several years, he had his own trio which had a regular television program. But he realized the need to express his own individuality and go back to his roots - the real Ray Charles. In 1954 he cut "I Gotta Woman", the first of

Turnpike officials adopt anti-noise regulations

The New Jersey Turnpike is on the road to ' becoming the quietest superhighway on the East Coast.

With the adoption last week of a series of antinoise regulations, the Turnpike has taken the initiative to become the first toll road in the nation to do something about reducing "noise pollution" along the roadway itself and that transmitted to neighboring communities.

The new regulations are aimed particularly at heavy trucks and other vehicles with unnecessarily noisy exhaust systems, "singing tires," and other noise-producing equipment. They are applicable to owners and drivers alike, as well as all Turnpike vehicles, and

State authorizes Blue Cross cash to help hospitals

State Insurance Commissioner James J. Sheeran and Acting Health Commissioner Wil-liam J. Dougherty have announced their approval of a proposal by Blue Cross of New Jersey to make cash advances to hospitals to help them meet their obligations without borrowing money.

The payments would be advances against Blue Cross' ultimate liability for the difference between the interim rate at which hospitals are reimbursed during the course of a year and the final settlement, which reflects the hospitals' approved actual costs.

Under the plan proposed by Blue Cross, hospitals will be eligible for payments of 50 percent of the estimated Blue Cross liability on the filing of unaudited cost information. On submission of audited cost information, the cash advance would be increased to 80 percent of the estimated liability.

Commissioner Sheeran and Dr. Dougherty said that a program of cash advances would ease the cash flow problems that some hospitals are experiencing and obviate the need for them to borrow money at today's prevailing high interest rates.

They emphasized that the cash advances represent a Blue Cross liability and will have no impact on the hospital plan's surplus. They also pointed out that their approval of the proposal does not constitute an approval of payment rates higher than those permitted by the budget review process.

establish maximum acceptable noise limits which can be accomplished with "minimal effort and expense.

William J. Flanagan, executive director of the Turnpike Authority, said even though 97 percent of all Turnpike users will have difficulty in meeting the limits, the farreaching decision was taken for several

"The regulations will produce meaningful noise reductions for our neighboring communities, even in the face of increasing traffic; will only require vehicle changes and repairs that are technologically available and economically reasonable; and permit workable police enforcement," said Flanagan.

Turnpike officials do not expect enforcement to be a problem. Operators will receive extensive training prior to certification and sophisticated monitoring equipment will be placed at any of several approved sites, each predetermined to provide accurate readings. Violators will be issued summonses by State Police and can be fined up to $200. There will be a short "grace period" during which State Police will issue warnings rather than summonses. This will enable Turnpike patrons operating excessively noisy vehicles to take remedial action or run the risk of being cited during future trips.

Atsurvey taken on the Turnpike last September by Bolt, Beranek and Newman, Inc. of Cambridge, Mass., the Authority's noise consultants, showed about 82 percent of nearly 1,500 trucks and buses monitored would meet heavy vehicle limits scheduled for the Turnpike in 1975 are identical to those now enforced in California and Chicago, and are the same limits the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency plans to have in effect next year. Future réductions are based on the orderly replacement and refitting of truck fleets to include quieter mufflers, tires, fans and engine enclosures. Virtually all deficiencies reportedly can be remedied for less than the cost of the potential fines.

Motorcycles may show a high percentage of violations because stock models are frequently modified by their owners to make more noise. The regulations also prohibit the use of the Turnpike by vehicles with a number of deficiencies that can be detected visually. Included are improper exhaust systems certain types of noisy tires and any vehicle with a vertical exhaust stack pointing to the right.

Serious crime up five percent, Saxbe reports

in 1973 after registering its first decrease in 17 years in 1972. Attorney General William B. Saxbe announced this week

Preliminary statistics contained in the Uniform Crime Reports released by the FBI showed serious crime rose five percent last year compared with a four percent decline in

The report is based on statistics supplied voluntarily by state, county and local law enforcement agencies, tabulated by the FBI and released by Director Clarence M. Kelley

"The renewed upsurge in crime is very disturbing to me because the statistics give no clue as to what is causing it." Saxbe said.

The crime spiral of the 1960s peaked in 1968 when serious crime rose 14 percent above the previous year. In 1969, the increase was nine percent, rose to 10 percent in 1970, fell to six percent in 1971 and then registered an actual decrease of four percent in 1972.

The rise in serious crime across the country also was reflected in fewer major cities reporting actual decreases, down from 114 in 1972 to 59 last, year. Crime in suburban and rural areas increased to percent in 1973.

Violent crime increased four percent in 1973: compared with a two percent increase the year before. Forcible rape was up 10 percent last year; murder and aggravated assault each rose six percent.

Robbery, however, which makes up the largest number of crimes in the violent category, increased only one percent in 1973 Property crime increased five percent last year, compared with a five percent drop in 1972. Burglary rose seven percent, while lar-ceny-theft and auto theft were each up four

Complaints inspired first phone booth Blankets, barrel hoops led to modern devices

draped with blankets forming a tunnel to an instrument called a telephone, and it saved a young engineer from being evicted from his lodgings in a Boston rooming house

The tunnel of blankets was a telephone "booth" and it was fashioned by Thomas Watson, the assistant to Alexander Grahambell, inventor of the telephone.

Watson dreamed up the tunnel in April 1877 as a means of muffling his shouts into the instrument while performing experiments in his room. Although he found crawling into the tunnel a "smothering experience," the result calmed his irate landledy and eliminated the complaints of other boarders.

This first, makeshift booth and his work with Bell inspired Watson. It is to him that all telephone companies, including New Jersey Bell, are indebated, for he took the time and used his ingenuity to develop the ancestor of today's sleek, modern coin phone booths.

Waston was issued the first patent for a telephone booth in 1883. It was an ornate structure of heavy wood, four or five feet square with fancy glass windows. There was a desk with pen and ink as well as a telephone,

The booth was mounted on wheels so that is might be moved to a quieter spot of a location became too noisy. In 1965, some 82 years later, such a "roving booth," actually a modern unit of four booths with retractable wheels, was installed by New Jersey Bell during the summer season on the Atlantic City boardwalk.

Meanwhile, the "talking toy," as Bell's invention was known in its early years, had caught the imagination of enterprising store owners and businessmen who established small telephone companies in population centers Telephones are installed in places of business that attracted large numbers of patrons. Sometimes the phones were in booths, but more often they were placed on bare walls.

For a nominal charge, a patron would be allowed to make a local call, perhaps to a town doctor or to police of fire headquarters in an emergency. The businessmen had a new source of revenue, the local telephone company had a new customer, and the pay station was born.

Pay stations were first established in Connecticut at Bridgeport and Black Rock as early as 1878. By 1880, they could be found in hotels and other enterprises in major cities. Attendants usually were on hand to place the calls and collect the charges, but in all but a few cases, the attended stations rarely paid for themselves.

In' 1888. William Gray of Hartford, Conn. designed a telephone pay stations that required deposit of a coin to gain access to the instrument. The system had obvious flaws and he was unsuccessful in selling the idea to the local telephone company

Then, one day he accidentally dropped a coin against the telephone's ringing bell. The distinctive clink provided the idea and the The third annual art seminar of the mechanism was altered to allow coins to strike Federated Art Associations of New Jersey will the bell, giving an operator an indication that

United Way annual meeting offers tribute to Mr. Lebau

long-time leader of the Elizabeth Jewish community, was presented to his wife and two children at the annual breakfast meeting of the Eastern Union County United Way last week at the Community Service Center, Bayway, Elizabeth Carol Herold of Union, president of the United Way, presented the posthumous award to Mrs. Mary Lebau of Elizabeth, Mrs. Ruth Brewster of Hillside and Dr. Gerald Lebau of Scotch Plains.

Mr. Lebau, said Herold, "served as the pioneer of the United Way movement in Union County. He first conceived the idea for a Welfare Federation in 1926. His vision crystallized with the founding of a Community Chest in 1932. Mr. Lebau," added Herold. recognized the necessity for a central funding and allocating source to serve community social service agencies.

"To the credit of Mr. Lebau's foresight," said Herold, "many of his innovative ideas have become realized. First, his suggestions of program budgeting and uniform accounting procedures have been implemented by United Way agencies. This has assured contributors that their donations will be utilized efficiently

"In addition, Mr. Lebau addressed the need for private and public cooperation in providing human services. He encouraged the development of the United Way Grantsman Program, which in 1974 will generate more than $642,000 in federal funds for 14 member agencies. This program has also assured local residents that their tax dollars will return to their home community and be put to work for a brighter future," said Herold

Herold observed that "Harry Lebau's goals remain our goals, and the United Way of Eastern Union County will be faithful to his

Thomas Ludlow, administrator of the Union County Mental Health Board, said the proposed plan envisions the use of 30 beds in Runnells Hospital for patients in need of partial care but who are able to function in the community the remainder of the time.

Ludlow said such a plan would cut down the number of admissions to state institutions and save money in the long run. In 1973 the county spent $2,500,000 to maintain residents in state institutions for the treatment of mental disease and mental retardation, the commission was

Michael Galuppo, deputy director of the Union County Welfare Board, defended the board's value, saying it played an active role in making policy, case review and public relations. He admitted, however, that only one per cent of the welfare cases is subject to case review by a lay committee of the board.

an outstanding 24-2 basketball season by capturing the Verona Invitational seventh grade tournament last Saturday in Verona.

After winning close contests with Livingston and Caldwell in the quarterfinal and semifinal rounds, the Juniors put it altogether to defeat Cedar Grove, 40-20.

The taller Springfield team moved to an early lead and limited Cedar Grove to one field goal and two free throws in the first half. leaving the floor at intermission with an 18-4 lead. Dave Barnes, Danny Pepe, and Mitch Toland dominated both backboards as the tight Springfield zone forced Cedar Grove to shoot from the outside. Barnes and Steve Geltman each had six points during the half, to pace this early effort.

The Junior Minutemen kept up the pressure. both offensively and defensivly, during the second half, and although Cedar Grove managed to find the range a few more times during this half, they still couldn't penetrate for close-in shots, as the Minuteman defense stayed tight. The margin at the end of three quarters rose to 28-11, and only the use of almost every Springfield reserve made the final score for Cedar Grove as high as it was.

Barnes and Geltman, with 13 and 11 points respectively, paced the victory, while Toland, Pepe, and Eddie McGrady each tallied four points. Eddie Graziano hit three early free throws, but watched much of the game from the bench in foul trouble. Mike Clarke rounded out the scoring with a free throw, as well as contributing good defense and rebounding as part of the starting five.

THE PREVIOUS evening saw the Juniors drop the championship game of the second annual Springfield Junior Invitation Tournament to Nathan Hale School of Carteret. Springfield had reached the final round of their own tournament by demolishing Verona in a semifinal contest, 72-41. With Dave Barnes rebounding fiercely and scoring from close in. and Eddie Graziano hitting four buckets on drives, jumpers, the Minutemen took a slim lead early, but couldn't pull away from the stubborn, hustling visitors, who trailed by just six points, 31-25, at the half.

The third quarter saw a total turnaround in the ballgame, however, as the Verona shooting went ice-cold, and Springfield began to trigger a lightning fastbreak which saw Graziano and Steve Geltman combine for nine baskets in the quarter, while Barnes added three more. At the end of this eight-minute session, Verona had failed to score, while Springfield had 28 points.

The run of consecutive points mounted early in the final quarter to 32, before the Hillbillies broke the streak with a basket. Ultimately, 11 Junior Minutemen shared in the scoring, with Graziano the high man with 19. Barnes finished with 16, Geltman with 10, Mitch Toland 9, Danny Pepe 7, Mike Clarke, Ed McGrady, Lou Herkalo, Rich Cederquist, and Dave Kirshenbaum with two apiece, and Todd Melamed with a single marker.

The final game of the tournament, a hardfought 57-51 defeat to a bigger Carteret team, was highlighted by an outstanding individual performance by Ed Graziano. Eddie kept Springfield in the contest the whole way with long-range scoring and tough play at both ends of the court. The Minutemen held a slim 27-25 lead at the half as their zone press rattled the taller visitors, but Carteret was able to adjust in the second half and cut down on their turnovers, while moving into six and seven point leads. Twice the Juniors fought back into ties, the last time at 45-45, but their inability to hit from the free throw line sealed the verdict for Carteret, whose balanced scoring attack, with five players in double figures, and strong manto-man defense, finally prevailed.

Graziano, with a tournament high of 26 points in this championship game, coupled with his 19 points against Verona and his overall play and leadership in both games, received the nod for the tournament's most valuable player trophy, over three contenders from Carteret.

The remainder of the Springfield scoring was shared among Barnes (9), Geltman (6), Toland (6), and Clarke (4).

Baskin, with his foul-line jumper, and Bill Young, hitting from the corner, kept Brown close with 16 points between them. Jeff Bernstein and Dave Ironson scored and rebounded strongly and Jim Siegal, directing the Brownattack from the point position, set up most-of the scores with pinpoint passing. At the half.

Brown matched baskets with Cornell until midway through the third quarter when Doty. although still well-contained on offense, began to trigger the Cornell fast break by clearing the defensive board and pitching out quickly to Moroze and Liguori. Greg had 10 points in this quarter, most of them after receiving long tosses from Doty. This effort boosted the thirdperiod margin to 50-34. In the final quarter, nine points by Liguori, seven by Kaish and five by Doty pushed the margin past 20, at which point both squads' reserves finished the game. Two sizzling line drive slap shots by Mark Ronco in the first half gave the Flyers their short-lived lead. The Devils rallied in the second half to tie on two line shot goals by Carmen Scoppetuollo. The goals were the first allowed by Devils' goalie Jerry Ragonese this season. In the second half, St. James was able to make some adjustments on offense and put points on the scoreboard, but their defense was no match for the Nettes. The score built up to 37-8 at the end of three quarters, and rose even more in the final stanza as all but one of the Nettes in uniform made the scoring column.

Michelle Gan tallied 8, Moira Halpin and Barbara Martino scored 6 points apiece, Ellen Stieve, Susan Bromberg, and Lori Gabay each had 4, and Randi Kessler hit for 2. He built his machine at Bell Laboratories in Murray Hill, where he has been a research scientist for the past 12 years. From 1970 until recently he was on leave to serve as a technical assistant for computers in the Office of Science and Technology of the Executive Office of the President in Washington, D.C.

His invention is a square box with an upright rod projecting through a hole in its cover. Atop the rod is a feather light knob about the size of a hilliard hall.

In an "off" or unprogrammed condition, the knob is free to move anywhere within a one-foot cube of empty space above the machineresponding lightly to the touch of a finger in any be possible to build a more complex device that will bring tactile sensation to the palm and fingertips as well as the hand and arm.

'This would be possible with a computercontrolled tactile device that would consist of individual force control mechanisms for each finger and electronic or mechanical 'things' for each fingertip in addition to mechanisms for controlling the overall motion of the complete hand," he says in his doctoral dissertation.

"With such a future device, man could grasp and feel the surface texture of objects which existed only as equations or arrays of numbers in the memory of the computer."

The present machine-the pioneer, perhaps, of a new communication medium-is mounted on three sliding axes: one for each of the three dimensions. Its movement along each axis is controlled by a small electric motor with a potentiometer to measure the constantly varying distance from the central point to the side of the box.

Calculating these three distances, the computer always knows the precise position of the "feelie" knob-and can trigger resistance from the three electric motors just where it is needed to mulate the object being modeled.

"A circumstance of crucial importance to the development of this idea has been a longstanding tradition of cooperation between Bell Labs and Polytechnic," Noll remarked.

Rose, park units will demonstrate pruning Saturday

A rose pruning demonstration, sponsored by the Essex County Park Commission and the North Jersey Rose Society, will be held on Saturday, at 1 p.m. in the public rose garden of Brookdale Park, Bloomfield and Montclair. In case of rain the demonstration will be held on

Chairman of the demonstration will be Edward Ward of Clifton, a member of the North Jersey Rose Society, past president of Garden State Rose Society, a national consulting rosarian and rose judge.

The program is designed as a practical demonstration of proper spring pruning of rose bushes. The public may take part in the pruning and is advised to bring pruning shears or lopping shears and heavy gloves. All participants will be instructed by a panel of North Jersey Rose Society members. The Essex County Park Commission will be represented by Eugene Field, chief horticulturist of Caldwell.

The Brookdale Rose Garden was dedicated on June 20, 1959, and now contains more than 1,600 bushes of all types, from the Hybrid Perpetuals of great-grandmother's garden to the latest Hybrid teas, Florabundas, Climbers, and Miniature roses.

Among those assisting in the demonstration are: Mr. and Mrs. A. K. McCarroll of Kenilworth; Dr. Charles Nadel of Irvington and Mr. and Mrs. Kasimer Niemaszyk and son Casimir of Union.

But most of them are tiny pirate stations broadcasting on a shoestring budget from remote villages, earning a few hundred dollars a month for their owners.

New deep sea treasure Manganese found in Pacific

The discovery of manyanese nodules in the Pacific Ocean has spurred the development of new marine technology-deep sea mining. In the Feb. 15, 1974, issue of "Science," the weekly journal of the American Association for the for the Advancement of Science, staff writer Allen L Hammond discusses the mining and processing of these Jumps of minerals containing copper, nickel, and other metals.

Several U.S. firms, such as Howard Hughes' Summa Corp., Sea Ventures, Inc., and the Kennicott Copper Co., are already engaged in the exploration and development of mining and processing systems.

One major mining system, explained Hammond, is the continuous line bucket (CLB). Dredge buckets are attached to a long cable. As the cable moves, they drag across the sea bed, scoop up nodules, and return them to Another system is the hydraulic recovery method. A sea floor d vice, either self-propelled or dragged by pipe string, collects the nodules and screens out those large enough to be mined. The nodules are then forced to the surface through a pipeline using either a centrifugal pump or compressed air. Is is estimated that more than half the cost of mining nodules will be spent on processing. Although processing methods are further advanced than mining systems, there is difficulty in extracting the metals, and four or five systems are now being investigated. Finding a physical means of separating the metals has been unsuccessful, as have been attempts at smelting the nodule ore. Consequently, said Hammond, chemical separations methods seem to offer the best possibility. In this process, the nodules are partially or completely dissolved by such chemicals as sulfuric acid or ammonia. The choice of chemicals depends upon the desired

Although nodules are found in desolate areas of the ocean, Hammond reported there are environmental concerns. Sediment particles will be disrupted any may remain suspended for as long as a year. As the sediment settles, it may bury organisms on the sea floor thus disturbing the ecosystem. It may also alter the chemical balance of the water.

Many oceanographers, explained Hammond, do not think mining will greatly harm the oceans, but suspect that processing the nodules may have more serious environmental impacts. Whether on land or sea, this processing will necessitate discarding millions of tons or toxic residues.

Enlistment delay now Navy option

Cmdr. A.L. Dawson, commanding officer of the Navy' Recruiting District, Newark, has announced that the Navy is seeking young men and women for the delayed-entry program entitled Operation Cache. This program guarantees up to 180 days between enlistment and the day volunteers report to active duty.

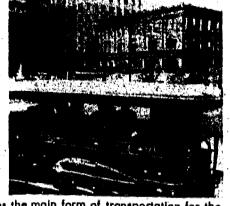

It gives them time for planning, pleasure and relaxation and is ideally suited for the high school senior who would like to take the summer off and still have a firm employment commitment.

Commander Dawson also noted that those enlisting in this program will be building seniority for pay even though they will not be in uniform; if the enlistee decides not to take the full 180 days he may report early for active duty. Local recruiters can answer any questions and are particularly intrested in young men and women who can qualify for the Navy's demanding programs.

A LITTLE MANILA Twentieth In a Scries

What is at least 28 years old and costs $300 to $600 when it comes in olive green, and $3,000 to $4,000 when it is all hand-painted?

"Jeepneys," that's what. And the price is probably higher now. There are 7,000 of them in Manila alone, 20,000 in the suburbs and 200,000 altogether in the Philippines. They are, all of them, left-over jeeps from the American Army made over into fresh, jaunty little vehicles. All of them also, needless to say, are 28 years old or more, and are kept alive with tender, loving care. You might even say, the jeep is alive and well and living it up in the Phils.

Most of them are used as buses and are highly decorated, even to colorful canopies on top, and only the best painters are "commissioned" to do them. A great many of them have a highly shined silver horse as a radiator ornament, and it is a common Philippine joke that these horses "give the cars extra horse

IT WAS SUSPECTED by some in our tight little brood, that the Philippines would be dangerous and explosive and possibly treacherous. As it turned out, all things, even people, were quiet and sweet during our stay of one-and-three-quarter days. With the exception, that is, of a polite little strike in front of our new 22-story Hilton Hotel by some students who were objecting to the amount of money being spent on a luncheon naming the ten bestdressed women of the Phils. But even it, as I said, was polite and quite short.

Less than two days doesn't give anything -much-time-to-develop; however, and sightseeing was no exception. On our one whole day there we took a trip into the country to see Lake Taal and Taal Volcano. It is quite special to see because Lake Taal has in it what is reputed to be the smallest volcano in the world, and in the volcano crater itself, there is still another lake!

You are supposed to gaze out on all this amazement from Tagaytay, a new resort city perched on a ridge overlooking it all. But we only gazed at each other. It stormed. We had rain and fog and I couldn't even see a city, let alone a volcano and two lakes. We had refreshments at a large inn on the ridge and tried to peer between the clouds, but we didn't see

The road to Lake Taal seemed to be straight as an arrow and constantly uphill. Along the way, before the storm, we did get to see some scenery. There are still a number of large plantations along here, and they seem to have quite an efficient system. First there are the high coconut trees, then the lower papaya, and under the papaya-pineapple. All under each other. It can also be a combination of large mango trees, coffee, acacia, banana, corn or rice, etc. The large groves usually are owned by rich men, but whatever a local farmer can grow under it, is his!

WE ALSO SAW quite a beautiful cemetery.
Ordinarily I wouldn't have gone to "sight-see" in a cemetery if I had to sit in the middle of Lake Taal through two storms, but I had no choice. The bus from Lake Taal went that way

It was the Manila American Cemetery and Memorial. It contained a huge white marble arcade in a great arch shape that must have covered half a mile. In it were niches for each state, and on the walls, the names of the men who died there in the Philippines. Crosses and stars of David marked the graves. Beautiful, gigantic old trees graced the grounds and grass. That was all. It was still raining, but it

On a clear day, you can see Corregidor and Bataan from Manila.

We saw Santo Tomas prison also. And to change the subject, one night at a nightclub called the Plaza Royale, which looked more like a private mansion than a nightclub, we saw some of the most exquisite dancing I have ever seen. It was done by a troop of young people and was called "Bayanihan," which is an ancient custom, symbolic of the Fillipino way of group work. It means "getting together to push through a common project." Through their songs and dances, the group was interpreting the spirit of
