OPENING DAY of the Mountainside Little League season was Saturday and the sun beamed brightly on both players and fans. Following a parade to the Deerfield School baseball diamonds, officials of the league, borough and local school board took part in opening day ceremonies—and then the teams went into battle. Concert will cap musical series at Gov. Livingston

The Gov. Livingston Regional High School vocal music department will present its annual spring concert tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. The concert is the conclusion of a series of sight and sound experiences which began with "Down in the Valley" in the fall and featured "Amahl and the Night Visitors" at the holiday concert.

This concert will not be a conventional type of concert, but is designed as an experiment to reach the listener not only audibly but visually as well in an effort to stimualte a deeper feeling for the music," says a department spokesman.

The concert is structured in four movements: the first depicts the creation of our solar system to the creation of man, the second reflects man's institutionalization, the third Mountainside Göspel Chapel.

... We say the discovery was ironic, since the capsule was found when the stone was removed from the old chapel on Rt. 22 to the new church on Spruce drive last summer, and we wonder if the little congregation, who 75 years ago wit-nessed the dedication of their chapel, could foresee it would one day "bloom again" into an ultra-modern complex needed to provide a variety of community services. The time capsule, although discovered

Time out taken by students at Regional High School in Springfield milled about on the school's front lawn for an hour on Monday in what may have been either a spontaneous protest against Regional Board of Education attendance rules or an impromptu reaction to the noontime sunshine, or a mixture of both.

Principal Anthony Fiordaliso said that the walkout, or more properly a stayout, followed two false alarms turned in on fire alarm boxes within the school. After the second, he added. the students refused to return to their classes for approximately an hour.

An anonymous telephone call to this newspaper office described the action as a protest against the attendance rules but Fiordaliso said that student leaders had assured him that the walkout had not been planned in advance. There were no signs displayed and no other indications that the incident had been scheduled ahead of time.

Council approves major subdivision

Construction is expected to begin shortly on a major subdivision off Mary Allen lane, following unanimous approval granted last week by the Mountainside Borough Council to the contractor's application.

The subdivision, containing 14 lots, will be built on the Grassman Estate tract by Baltusrol Top, Inc. Construction specifications include widening of Mary Allen lane and construction of a cul-de-sac, to be known as Vista way, off Another major decision on construction in the borough also was reached recently, when the Board of Adjustment noted unanimously April 15 to deny a variance application by Chatham Realty Inc. of Mountainside to build the borough's first apartment complex on Rt. 22. Hearings on the plan had begun last October.

D'Amanda, Gagliano enter race against Geiger, Cullen

Albert W. D'Armanda and Francis P. Gagliano, Mountainside Democrats who were unsuccessful in their bid to win seats on the Borough Council last fall, have once more taken up the challenge as their party's candidates for two three-year terms on the local governing body.

This year, the Democrats will be facing two Republican incumbents, Bruce A. Geiger, and William T. Cullen, who won election to council in 1971. Petitions for the councilmanic candidates, as well as for committeemen and women of both parties, were filed last Thursday, as a required preliminary of the June 4 primary election.

Upon filing the petitions. Republican nunicipal chairman Gerard Dillemuth stated, 'Mountainside is indeed fortunate to have incument Republican councilmen seeking relection to our Borough Council. The experience that they have gained during the last three years, plus their extensive and diversified business backgrounds make them unique and extremely qualified. The record that they have compiled during their first term embodies the Republican philosophy of home rule, fiscal esponsibility and positive action.

"The Municipal Republican Committee will work diligently to see that Bill Cullen and Bruce Geiger are elected and we call upon all the citizens of Mountainside to assist us in this endeavor in order to continue responsive. representative and efficient government in our borough.

The Democratic hopefuls, apparently undaunted by their past defeats in a Republican stronghold, issued the following joint statement:

"As a result of the encouragement received from a large cross-section of the community. we have decided again to seek the nomination and election in November to the very important position of borough councilman. We feel strongly that meaningful public dialogue concerning the numerous problems facing Mountainside can only be had if council is not composed of members of one party. We were supported in the November 1973 election by

Prison 'walk away' suspect arrested after truck chase

Two Newark men, one of whom reportedly was a "walk away" from a Yardville State Prison work-release program, were arrested by Mountainside police in Springfield April 24, when the stolen truck in which they were riding flipped over on Rt. 22 following a high-speed chase through three towns.

The men, James E. Gilmore, 23, who reportedly had been serving a term in Yard-ville for possession of a stolen motor vehicle, nd Tyrone Gibson, 20, have been charged by Mountainside police with possession of stolen property, and by Union police with larceny. Gibson also faces charges in Mountainside of eluding a police officer.

According to police, the saga began at approximately 7:30 a.m. on Alice terrace in Union, when Gibson, accompanied by Gilmore: drove off in a silver van belonging to Lambert Express, Inc., of Harrison, while its driver, Willie E. Marable of Newark, was delivering a TV set at a home there. When Marable heard the van pull away, he asked the homeowner to lend him a car, and then took off after the truck, which reportedly contained 92 appliances, including stereos and other TVs.

Marable followed the van through Union. down Morris avenue into Springfield, where Gibson reportedly attempted to elude the pursuer by driving through the General Greene Shopping Center lot. While making the shortcut to Mountain avenue, he rammed into the rear of a parked car, Springfield police said.

behind them, then drove down Mountain avenue to the westbound lanes of Rt. 22, and along the highway to New Providence road in Mountainside, where they made a U-turn.

As Marable followed his truck back along the eastbound lanes, he spotted a Mountainside patrol car, and began blinking his lights and blowing his horn to get their attention. The borough officers took up the chase, but were unable to make the truck halt.

Finally, after sideswiping an eastbound car on Rt. 22, in Springfield, the truck pulled into the U-turn near Sandler & Worth, where it smashed into a highway sign and flipped onto its right side, police said.

As Gibson and Gilmore exited from the cab of the vehicle, which police described as a total wreck, they were apprehended by Ptl. John Garrett and Lt. Joseph Mazur of the Mountainside force.

Gilmore and Gibson were remanded to the Union County Jail in lieu of $1,000 and $1,500 bail, respectively. They were to appear-yesterday in Mountainside Municipal Court. No court date has yet been set in Union. No charges were filed in Springfield.

Cancer Crusade generosity urged

"Cancer killed nearly 350,000 Americans last year, and an even greater number will die of this disease in 1974. Researchers seek clues to cancer's cause and physicians help cancer patients with increasingly effective treatment techniques, but still the figures rise. What else can be done to save lives? Every adult in this . community can help," said Billie Jean Tulchin, Mountainside's Cancer Crusade chairman.

"Each of us has the power to help cut down the number of cancer deaths in Mountainside.' Ms. Tuylchin then explained the role each person can play in wiping out cancer. "If cancer is detected and treated early enough," she began, "It is one of the most curable diseases. The power each of us has to help himself against this disease is simply this, to take advantage of the safety precautions that have already been established. There are seven of these safety measures.

According to Ms. Tulchin, these safeguards focus on sites of the body where cancer strikes: most often, and suggest a positive action each person can perform to give these sites the best protection possible.

Ms. Tulchin concluded that this intensive education campaign needs financial support and urged Mountainside residents to give generously when a Crusade volunteer comes to call. She also said that anyone wishing information about cancer or the society's education program should contact the Union County Unit at 512 Westminster ave., Elizabeth, 354-7373.

DAYTON DISPATCH

There are 21 girls at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School who enjoy running so much that they are active members of the boys' track team. Although track coaches Martin Taglienti, William Byrne and Theodore Amo are concerned with other team members, coach William Jones includes the girls within his group of distance runners. Girls have not chosen to participate in the pole vault, high jump, long jump, shotput, discus, javelin and distance runs.

Coach Jones mentioned "All girls at this time are participating in various sprint and shorter distance events, to pick the event they do best in." These include 100, 220 and 440-vard runs.

He added that those he considers especially promising are girls in their second year: juniors Diane Belliveau and Gail Lawrence and sophomore Mary Dewey, all of whom have also participated in indoor track. Showing promise among the freshmen are Alisa Hockstein in the sprints and Robin Scapicchio in the middle distance events.

Additional team members are seniors Barbara Manoff, Jessica Evans and Kathi Spielholz (who lettered in cross-country)

Tenant's complaint resolved by board

Springfield Rent Leveling Board last week was able to resolve a tenantlandlord dispute by relocating the tenant to another apartment in the same complex. The following is a report by a spokesman for the Springfield Tenants Association on the decision:

"Before a large gathering of tenants, the Springfield Rent Leveling Board convened last week to hold a hearing regarding a complaint about a notice of eviction by a landlord of an 82-year-old woman tenant who has lived in her apartment for eight years.

"The landlord, who is a physician, claimed he wanted her apartment for his office and personal use. This was the second time an effort was made to evict tenants from theirapartments at 445 Morris ave., Springfield. The board denied the eviction notices the first time.

"Representing the tenants were Jack Resnik, president of the Springfield Tenants Association, and Joseph Bruder, vice-president. Resnik opposed the eviction with claims this was a subterfuge on the landlord's part and that the landlord was not

Fellowship meets today

The closing meetings of the Junior-High Fellowship (grades 6-8) of the Springfield Presbyterian Church will be held today from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Presbyterian Parish House, 37 Churc Mall. A picnic supper is planned. An evaluation of this past year's programs and format, will be made to help in planning for next year's activities. The fellowship has met every other Thursday since October for crafts, supper music, study and work projects under the leadership of Sheila Kolbourne, director of Christian education at the local church, and Ruth Wood, a church school teacher who recently joined the Convenant Players, a touring religious dramatic group. president, and Phil Zisman, head of the Student Council, had voiced student protests over several Regional Board of Education policies at a board meeting attended by more than 300 students April 2 at Dayton.

The students had called for open lunch and study period rules, permitting students to leave school grounds when not in class, and for a designated smoking area within or outside the school. They had also objected to the new attendance policies, which permit teachers and administrators to give a student a zero grade in any course after five unexcused absences or eight excused but nonmedical absences in any marking period.

Board members at that time had indicated they would meet with student leaders and report any decisions as soon as possible. The next board meeting will be Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in

OF PARTICULAR interest to the members of the congregation were various programs and listings of officers from the Locust Grove Union Sunday School, as the Chapel was formerly known. "Many of the papers are yellowed with age, but otherwise are in remarkably good condition after 75 years," a church spokesman noted. Other papers listed statistics for Sunday schools in Union County, from the year 1896.

"Evidently several benefits were held to raise monies for the building on Rt. 22," the spokesman said, "and tickets to these events were included in the box. The biggest fundraiser apparently was a 'neck-tie sociable,' the tickets for which state, 'ladies to furnish the neck-ties'.

Also in the capsule was an 1892 library catalog for the Locust Grove Union Sunday School, which, according to the spokesman, "is fascinating reading for anyone even remotely interested in books." A total of 347 volumes is listed, including such popular titles of the day as "Tommy's Temptation," "Story of the Red Velvet Bible," "Little Men," "Jo's Boys" and 'Ben-Hur," and several book series, including "Luck and Pluck," "Tattered Tom", and 'Starry Flag," series.

The chapel spokesman concluded, "It is assumed from the great variety of materials contained in the box that all members of the congregation contributed one thing to the contents before the box was sealed in the cornerstone.

WILLIAM C. KAPLAN

1445 Orchard Rd. ON REGIONAL POLICIES

The astonishing proposal on the part of the Regional School Board and the administration to penalize students for legitimate absenteeism blows the mind. A student with eight excused absences can be given a zero arbitrarily as a result of a teacher-principal conference.

The conscientious student concerned about grades is encouraged to come back to school with the flu or other contagious diseases. A grand way to have an epidemic! The child with mononocleosis is to risk serious damage to his spleen by hasty return to school in order to avoid a failing grade.

There seems to be a peculiarly perverted concept of the American system of justice that a citizen is considered guilty until proven innocent. Legitimate absenteeism is hardly a crime meriting punishment. The difficulty of make-up work is hardship enough. It is my understanding that the right to make up work even in the case of suspension is mandated by state law.

If the administration and the school board desire respect from the student body, they are going to have to earn it. This is not something that can be legislated. Arbitrary rules which attempt to solve one problem and create a new one hardly deserve respect. I would hate to be a teacher in a system where the responsibility of carrying out the mandate of a board put me in the position of seeming to be unfair. The end result of this can only be to erode the pupilteacher relationship.

Then there is the question of a designated

Suspects facing drug, lottery cases

The arrests of a New York man on drug possession charges and of a Newark resident for alleged possession of an illegal lottery sliip were reported last week by Mountainside

According to police, James G. Hat-zidmitrious, 20, of Long Island City, N.Y., was in possession of hashish oil and marijuana when he was questioned by Ptl. Herman Hafeken during a routine motor vehicle check on Sylvan lane at 11 p.m., April 24. Hat-zidmitrous was released on $100 bail, pending a court appearance May 29.

At 4:45 p.m. April 24, Nelson C. Areizaga, 24. of Newark, was arrested by Ptl. Hafeken during a motor vehicle check on Rt. 22 on charges of possessing an illegal lottery slip. He also was issued a summons for driving an unregistered vehicle.

place for smokers. Smoking is a fact of teenage life. The nonsmoker has a right to an unpolluted lavatory which is not the case at present. Since the school has been unable to control this, let's face reality-give students with permission from their parents a privilege not inconsistent with the workload and other responsibilities which we so readily demand of them.

The Board of Education and the administration have reason to be grateful for a student body that is thoughtful and constructive in their approach. Let the board be as creative in wrestling with the serious problem. of truancy and its basic causes.

MESSAGE TO PARENTS Let us unite for what is best for all Mountainside children. We must stop saying, "If it doesn't affect my child, it's okay," because what affects even one child in this town eventually affects us all.

The Board of Education recently proposed rearranging our school system to kindergarten through third at Beechwood and fourth and fifth at Deerfield. Because of the drop in the enrollment in our primary grades this program is inevitable. We feel that it is in the best in-terest of all Mountainside students to do it now, thereby keeping classes even and using special services more efficiently.

Attend the May 14 Board of Education meeting at Deerfield School and support the board and Dr. Levin Hannigan for the reorganization of our system to give our children the best education possible

Inner beds of tulips include 1,800 of the "Yellow Dove" and 1,800 of the "Golden Springtime," while middle beds includ 2,500 "Godoshnik" and 2,500 "Big Chief" tulips. Outside beds at the edge of the garden contain 2,200 "General Eisenhower" and 2,200 "Lefeber's Favorite."

In the 24 years of its existence this will be the first time that the Springfield Club has so honored one of its members The ceremony will take place on Thursday morning, May 17. Mrs. McCourt will present Mrs. Miller to the convention and read the citation. A group from Springfield is planning to attend in addition to Mrs. Frank Phillips and Mrs. McCourt, the official delegates. The tribute to be read:

"A charter member of the Springfield Woman's Club, Rose Miller has been the backbone of many projects. She has held almost every office and for many years edited our newsletter. She has taken on many backbreaking jobs quietly without expecting recognition or thanks. Our overwhelming gratitude is long overdue.'

To be inscribed on the permanent honor roll is: "Springfield Woman's Club is forever grateful to Rose Miller. Unselfishness and willingness to assume extra responsibilities without thought of recognition has endeared her to all.'

During her years of membership, Mrs. Miller has held the offices of president, first vicepresident, second vice-president, third vicepresident, treasurer and chairman of the American home department. Her present job, which she has had for many years, is editor of the monthly newsletter. She also holds a fulltime job in the business world.

The Millers live at 112 Meisel ave. For many years, when her sons Peter and Bob were younger, she was active in Cub Scouting. Both boys are now married. Peter, who lives in New Providence, is a pilot who gives flying lessons and does charter flights.

Her younger son, Bob, and his wife live in College Station, Texas, where Bob is a graduate student at Texas A & M University. He was just inducted into Phi Sigma, the national honorary biology society, and he expects to receive his master's degree in entomology in the near future.

On Sunday, from noon to 5 p.m., Millburn Chapter of Hadassah, in cooperation with Affiliated Interior Designers of 221 Millburn ive., will present an outdoor art and home accessory bazaar on the sidewalk in front of the building on Millburn avenue at Wyoming

For And About Teenagers

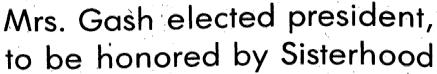

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: I have had a problem for over a month. It's about this guy I went out with one night. Two days after we went out I heard these rumors about some awful things that he supposedly said about me. I went and asked him for the truth, but I had to ask him in front of his friends. The conversation went on without saying whether he did or did not say those things. I blew up and left mad. Later at a school dance, he turned the other way when I walked by and for a while at school, he would turn the other way whenever he saw me. But lately he isn't ignoring me like that anymore. I still like the guy very much and I think it is part my fault, but also part his fault. What should I do just to be friends again?
OUR REPLY: He was probably ignoring you because of the scene you created in front of his friends. Next time you see him, go up to him and tell him you are sorry for the scene you created. Tell him you still want to be friends. Then explain you thought that both of you were at fault. If you speak to him in private about this whole thing, he'll probably explain the truth about the rumors or apologize to you about them.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAG-ERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY., 40601.

They liked Mexico and still do, but it's too far from family and friends. In the United States, no place pleased them as much as Greenbriar.

Having made up their minds, they purchased the largest site in the community, rounded corner at 13 Dickensen rd. with a clear view of the lake. The move from their former home in Laurelton, L.I., where they had resided for 30 years was completed just a few weeks

The Bernsteins were impressed with their reception at Greenbriar, Because they had difficulty in selling their home on Long Island, they had to keep putting U.S. Home off about their move-in plans. In the end they were able to give only two weeks notice of the date when they'd arrive-but when the truck pulled up to their new home, they found everything in apple pie order.

Just after signing the contract last fall, and while they were in the midst of getting ready to move, they decided to take a few days of rest in the Catskills. There, by coincidence, they met Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Fox, who already lived at Greenbriar. The Foxes assured them they had made a good choice of communities. After the Bernsteins arrived at their new home, the Foxes were the first to invite them for dinner.

"Since then we've had lots invitations-cocktail parties, all kinds of social gettogethers," Mrs. Bernstein says. "It's a marvelous contrast to the kind of community where you live for years and hardly hear as much as 'good morning' from your next door neighbor.

Munroe to retire as Jersey's chief watchdog of air

William A. Munroe, chief of the Bureau of Air Pollution Control, Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), announced this week that he will retire from state service effective July 1. He will commence about two months of terminal leave tomorrow.

Munroe retires after 2714 years service with the state, nearly all of which involved some aspect of air pollution control. He participated in the development of the New Jersey Air Pollulion Control Act of 1954, the first statewide air pollution control legislation to be enacted in the United States, preceding by several years other state and federal laws in this field. The statute, supplemented and amended, still stands in New Jersey as a pioneering legal mechanism. Munroe in 1954 became the first administrator of the act and subsequently, on Dec., 29, 1958, was named chief of the Air Sanitation Program, forerunner of the current

On Feb. 16, 1967, the air sanitation program with Munroe as chief, was placed in the newly created Division of Clean Air and Water in the state Department of Health, headed by Richard J. Sullivan, former commissioner of DEP. On Earth Day (April 22, 1970) the air program became a bureau in the Division of Environmental Quality in DEP which came into existence on that day, Munroe continuing as Munroe said, "I think most people eventually come to a point where they feel they should terminate their active working careers and retire. I think I have done just about everything I am able to do and now it's time for someone else to bring new insights into the job at hand. I'm happy with the support I received and am receiving from all the administrations I have served and am now serving. I'm simply ready and happy to finally make the break.

Munroe over the years gained national stature largely as a result of his development of scientific techniques and enforcement procedures for air pollution control.

State delays tougher emissions tests

Because the original time schedule was delayed and the mandatory phase of the auto exhaust emissions testing program has been in operation only three months, the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) plans to postpone until Feb. 1, 1975 more stringent test standards which would have come effective July 1.

Richard D. Goodenough, director of DEP's Division of Environmental Quality, said, "We ave always felt there should be a full year of the testing program. At each stage over a three-year period the test criteria for carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons become more stringent, as stipulated in the state air pollution

A public hearing on the new timetable and other proposed revisions to the motor vehicle emissions standards will be held June 11 in Trenton. The hearing is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Cultural Center

Among the new provisions to be considered at the public hearing are tough new emissions standards for 1975-76 model vehicles and testimony is invited from auto manufacturers. There are the first vehicles to be equipped with catalytic exhaust devices as prescribed by the federal Environmental Protection Agency. A further amendment would require that new car dealers actually test and record emissions data for each new vehicle they sell, thus assuring the customer the vehicle meets emissions standards specified by the manufacturer or the standards contained in the New Jersey regulations.

Under the proposed regulations, the commissioner of DEP in concert with the director of Motor Vehicles also would be empowered to set variances for certain classes of pre-1968

College of Medicine, Dentistry tasks: Education, health care and research

(This is the last of three articles about the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey.)

The schools of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (CMDNJ) had a total full-time enrollment of 921 medical, dental and life-science students in 1972-73, when it awarded 108 medical, 114 dental and three biomedical-science degrees. The 1973-74 enrollment is 957. In a few years, when expansion programs now in progress are completed, the college will enroll about 1,500 fulltime students.

Additional hundreds of professionals and araprofessionals are trained each year by CMDNJ in part-time, postgraduate and continuing education programs.

The college's full-time faculty numbers around 500. Typical of medical and dental schools, there is an even larger part-time, clinical faculty of more than 1.400. With faculty, staff and employees of its two teaching hospitals, CMDNJ has a payroll of 5,200 per-

Through its hospitals, mental health centers and dental clinics, the college served 267,590 patients in the year ended June 30, 1973.

"BUT NUMBERS," says Dr. Stanley S. Bergen Jr., CMDNJ's president, "are cold and impersonal and medicine and dentistry are very warm, human pursuits. Statistics summarize but they don't tell how a would-be student feels during his or her months-long wait for an acceptance notice; they're unable to picture his or her long hours in classroom. laboratory and clinic, or the deep joy of a degree recipient.

The real sinews of a college of medicine and dentistry are its people—the helpers and the creativity and compassion; the other with a determination to support the work. The 'helped,' in the case of CMDNJ, is the entire population of the state of New Jersey," said

Dr. Bergen Education and health care are only twothirds of the college's burden. The other third is research. During the past fiscal year, it carried

CMDNJ's 1972-73 operating budget totalled about $66 million, exclusively of $2 million spent for equipment. That year, the college's income was derived as follows: $34 million in state appropriations; $18 million from patient services; $13 million federal funds and $4 million student fees, private grants and endowments and other sources. (With state authorization, $3 million was reappropriated for use in the following fiscal year.)

Medical College will begin search for private funds

The College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey's board of trustees moved this week toward seeking private funds to provide a "margin of excellence" for its statewide programs of education, research and service. Dr. Franklyn P. Gerard of Glen Ridge. chairaman, Foundation Development Committee, announced establishment of the Foundation of CMDNJ as a non-profit corporation. Other committee members who served as incorporators are: Gustav O Lienhard and George F. Smith, both of Edison. and Everett M. Scherer, of West Orange. These college trustees will serve on the foundation board, which will include top leaders from business and industry in New Jersey.

Dr. Gerard said, "We recognize that only through a partnership of private money and public funds can we hope to build the type of first-rank college for the health professions which New Jersey needs and deserves. Therefore, the trustees have decided to seek as a margin of excellence private financial support for supplement legislative funds, student fees, and governmental grants."

The Foundation Board will identify its own goals and establish programs of support to advance CMDNJ's four existing educational units: New Jersey Dental School, Jersey City! Rutgers Medical School, Piscataway: New Jersey Medical School and Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences, Newark. The Foundation also will encourage new units being planned for the college, including a medical school in South
