New policy approved on class ranks

District votes to reword attendance regulations

By KAREN STOLL

Approval of an open lunch policy at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, and of a "late arrival-early release" program at David Brearley Regional in Kenilworth were among changes voted by the Regional High School District Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday night. The board also announced plans to reword its new attendance regulations.

Approximately 70 persons, including a number of students, were on hand for the session at Arthur L. Johnson Regional in Clark, which also saw board adoption of a new method for ranking students, to be implemented next year.

The changes, made in the wake of student protests over alleged injustices in the school system, were approved on a trial basis only for the remainder of the school term, ending June 21. The Dayton program begins today; the one at Brearley on Monday.

Regarding the Dayton lunch policy, Principal Anthony Fioraliso noted he had drawn up a number of guidelines to regulate the program. Although students will have the option of remaining in the cafeteria or on school grounds, or of leaving the school area, they will not be permitted to go to their lockers, nor to "loiter" in halls and washrooms. They also may not sit in or use cars during the lunch period.

FIORALISO SAID no excuse for tardiness after lunch would be accepted, and students who fail to comply with the guidelines would lose the open lunch privilege. "The program will be evaluated by the students and the staff prior to the end of the semester to see if it should be continued next term," he stated. The principal noted if the policy is successful, there is a possibility the lunch period could be expanded next year from the present 23 minutes to 45 minutes, as students had requested.

The "late arrival-early release" program at Brearley affects only those students who have first or last period study halls, a total of about 150 persons. To participate, they must have written parental consent.

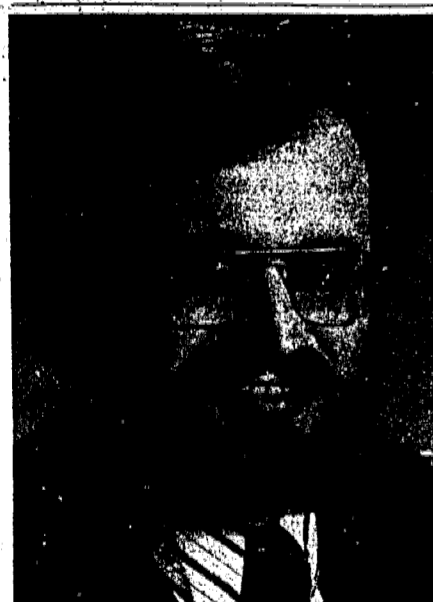

The new student ranking regulation, presented by Sonya Dorksy of Springfield, is based upon the premise that "students who enroll in courses which are academically demanding and intellectually challenging should be rewarded for their efforts."

All courses in the curriculum will be divided among three categories, indicating their "weight" on the ranking scale, with higher credit given to those pupils who successfully complete the more "challenging" courses. Ranking will be in decile categories only. The

School board seeks drivers for handicapped youngsters

The Mountainside Board of Education, citing "a growing need for transportation of handicapped children to schools outside the borough," has invited parents and other private citizens interested in providing such a service to contact the board. Although bus companies have been utilized in the past for such transportation, Mountainside is one of a number of area communities which has found it more economically advantageous to sign formal contracts with individuals. Such an agreement, board secretary John McDonough explained, notes that transportation "must be supplied in all kinds of weather, and under all kinds of conditions; adverse or otherwise."

Members of the Mountainside Volunteer Fire Department this week thanked borough residents for their generosity during the organization's recent annual fund drive.

"Support of this type certainly makes the all-volunteer membership need to do that much more for the benefit of the community," a spokesman noted. "To those families who were not at home when we knocked on each door in town, we ask that you send in your donations in the envelopes we left for your convenience. The full success of our drive depends on you."

Before applying to the board, potential drivers also should be familiar with other requirements as listed in the latest New Jersey Administrative Code, McDonough said. Among these are regulations for vehicles, which must be equipped with the following:

1. Chains and/or snow tires.

THE CRAIN HILL HOUSE, located at 27 New Providence rd. (third house west of the New Providence road-Mountain avenue intersection), is among the Mountainside homes selected for possible inclusion in the Union County Planning Board's survey of historic sites. Although the house has been remodeled and now presents a modern exterior, early construction features, such as the fieldstone foundation, remain. The Planning Board, noting local sources report the home could have been built as early as 1740, has urged further research into the structure's past ownership and interior construction features. (Photo-Graphics)

Freund supports form of county government

Howard Freund, candidate for the Democratic nomination to Congress in the 12th Congressional District, speaking in Mountainside on Sunday, said he is opposed to a change in our present form of county government.

"Our present system of county government which has existed since 1789 has worked smoothly, and I see many problems if we change the structure under the 1972 Optional Charter Law. The new system will give us bigger government, which will be less representative of the people and require higher and higher taxes," the candidate stated.

Freund continued, "New Jersey county government consists of an elected board of freeholders, elected county supervisor or appointed county administrator, clerk to the board and elected county clerk, elected sheriff and elected surrogate. The

New programs, course expansion planned at OLL

Introduction of a number of new programs, and expansion of most existing ones, are planned next year at Our Lady of Lourdes School, Mountainside, according to a report presented by the principal, Sarah Donelan, at the April 22 meeting of the OLL Board of Education.

According to Miss Donelan, among the changes will be establishment of a laboratory in the fourth-to-eighth grade science department. The reading department will put special emphasis on phonics in the primary grades, while literature will be stressed more in the upper grades, as will poetry and creative writing in the English classes.

"The math department's 'excellent program' will be augmented by introduction of the metric system, Miss Donelan said. Children in the primary grades will be grouped according to ability, so no child will find himself struggling to keep up with the class, she noted.

The Learning Center will expand its program supplementing math and reading courses. Music will be taught on a regular basis and a glee club will be formed. Grades seven and eight will have a class in career education once a week.

For the first time, there will be a variety of clubs for the children to join, according to their special interests. "Miss Donelan believes in the advantages of extra-curricular activities in the grade school level, so that when high school age is reached, students will have an active interest in a variety of fields," a school spokesman said, noting "The aim of the school is to create a comprehensive Christian education for students from grades K-8 and to prepare them completely for the high school phase of their education."

policy will be implemented next term, for ninth graders only, and expanded to cover incoming classes each subsequent year until the entire school is ranked on the same system.

Prior to the vote, board president Charles Vitale of Kenilworth and Stephen Marcinak of Clark stated their disapproval of any method of ranking as being undemocratic since it is designed only for college-bound students. Mrs. Dorsky defended the system, noting approximately 60 to 65 percent of all Regional graduates go on to some form of higher education. Most colleges require applicants' records to contain some indication of class rank, she said.

Recent student protests also have been directed against the newly-implemented attendance policy, which permits failure of a student in a subject if he or she has five unexcused or eight excused but non-medical absences during a marking period.

Board member Harry Newman of Berkeley Heights announced his committee is looking into a change in the wording of the policy to see if the language "explicitly sets forth in the intentions of the board," but stated it is unlikely "the intent of the policy will be changed." In any case, no change can be made during the present term, since a decision on the matter will have to be discussed at two subsequent board sessions.

The policy drew extensive criticism from members of the audience, but schools superintendent Dr. Donald Merachnik defended it, noting the board had no intention of making failures automatic. "If a youngster is out because of illness, a death in the family, etc., we recognize he is not to be failed for that, but we would still have a conference with him regarding the impact of his absenteeism on his academic studies," Merachnik stated.

The policy calls for such counseling before the student reaches the maximum number of absences. If possible, board administrative assistant Alan Isaacson explained after the session. He also noted any student who is ill for more than five days is eligible for bedside instruction, at the board's expense.

Another action at the session, the board authorized architects Elsass and Miller to make preliminary drawings for the newly approved auxiliary gym at Brearley. These will be submitted to the state for approval, after which plans and specifications will be drawn up.

Casting a "no" vote on that action, Mrs. Dorsky cited dissatisfaction with the firm's work on the gym at Dayton, noting she had been told by a teacher that the new gym floor was not level. She also noted that the periodical room of the new library contained an electrical unit with exposed wires, and that the cot area of the health office apparently has no adequate

Letters to Editor

PLEA FOR APARTMENTS

The time has come when I can no longer remain silent. I have lived in Mountainside 28 years come June. I have given of myself to almost every organization in town. I have volunteered to do all kinds of jobs and am still volunteering. I am now a widow. I want to live in Mountainside. I don't want to go to Springfield or Westfield. I am interested in Mountainside politics, Board of Education and church.

I don't need a big house any longer with all the outside work it requires. I don't want all the responsibility of a house. But I want to stay in Mountainside.

Therefore, I must express myself on garden apartments. Why doesn't Mountainside allow one or two such apartments in this town? We need them. There are many others in the same position I am. Can't the town fathers have sufficient control of such apartments that the townspeople will be satisfied with them?

I sincerely hope the Borough Council will seriously consider the plight of those of us in this predicament.

Westfield YMCA to teach 6 sports in summer series

A series of summer sport schools designed to teach boys in grades 4 to 9 "all the things they learn at a summer sports camp while they stay at home" will be held by the Westfield YMCA. It was announced this week.

Twenty hours of high quality instruction will be offered in each of six sports—two hours daily over a two-week period. Tennis, basketball, judo, karate, wrestling and soccer are the sports offered.

"Concentration on a new skill day-after-day over a comparatively short period can be one of the fastest and best ways to gain proficiency in a sport," points out Y Physical Director Harry L. Leshner Jr. "We've often seen boys zoom through several skill levels in summer swim classes."

The schools will be taught by the Y physical department's professional staff.

Tennis will be featured in the June 24-July 5 period, with the grades 4-6 school from 8 to 10 a.m., and grades 7 to 9 from 10 a.m. till noon. Judo and karate will be featured in the July 8-July 19 school, with grades 4 to 6 for either skill held from 8 to 10 a.m. and a choice for boys grades 7 to 9 from 10 a.m. to noon.

Wrestling and karate will be offered in the third school set July 22 to Aug. 2, with classes for grades 7 to 9 from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and classes for grades 4 to 6 from 10 a.m. till noon.

The final "school" will feature soccer instruction, for boys grades 7 to 9 from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and boys grades 4 to 6 from 10 a.m. until noon.

"A boy can take one course—or several. It's a sure way to live up the season for boys who may have longed to go away to sports camp, but are too young or who will be home with their family for part of the summer," said Leshner.

Classes will be limited to 15 children. Fee is $30. Further information may be obtained at the YMCA, 233-2700.

Neil Horner of Mountainside will be among the 242 volunteers who serve at the Veterans Administration Hospital in East Orange to be honored at the annual awards ceremony Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in the hospital auditorium. Horne served 150 hours in the hospital's voluntary service program.

Consumers' Corner

Knowing how to take care of and maintain a new house is about as important as knowing how to take care of and maintain a new baby.

In some areas of the country, new homeowners can enroll in classes on home maintenance and care at local colleges or high schools.

One homemaker who took such a course in home care and maintenance says she learned how to take care of her new floors and ceramic tile. She also discovered a moisture and mildew problem inside her house and found out how to curb it before it got out of hand.

The same woman found she needed to put plastic underneath her house and haul in some soil next to one corner of the house for better drainage.

If that wasn't enough, the same homeowner found that the insulation underneath her house had been put in backwards and needed to be turned over.

That's one woman who has become a very enlightened lady concerning care and maintenance of a new home, thanks to a course in home care and maintenance.

Campus cop is a lady

Three coeds serve at college

Three Union College coeds attest to the fact that this era of Women's Liberation finds females in the strangest places.

Debbie Nordland of Berkeley Heights, Ruth Lorber of Irvington, and Kathleen Stock of Clark are members of the Campus Patrol on the college's Cranford Campus.

Their duties include giving directions and preventing vandalism in the student and faculty parking lots. But none of the girls feels they are infringing on male domain.

"I don't think I'm taking a job from a man," Miss Nordland commented. "I think women have the ability to do the same jobs as men but not totally. I'm not a Women's Libber but I do believe women should earn equal pay."

Miss Nordland was seeking on-campus employment that would allow her to work outside. What she found was her present position.

Miss Lorber is no stranger to the world of "male occupations." She was previously employed as a gas station attendant in Irvington where she was the only woman among six men. At Union, she has more than six male co-workers but there is also some female companionship.

"The men tease me but it's all right because I'm not the only one," Miss Lorber said. "My mother flipped when I told her that I would be working at a gas station. But she got used to it although she did complain about washing my clothes. Nothing is said about my job at Union."

The only complaint about the job was voiced by Miss Stock, who had to stand outside during the winter months.

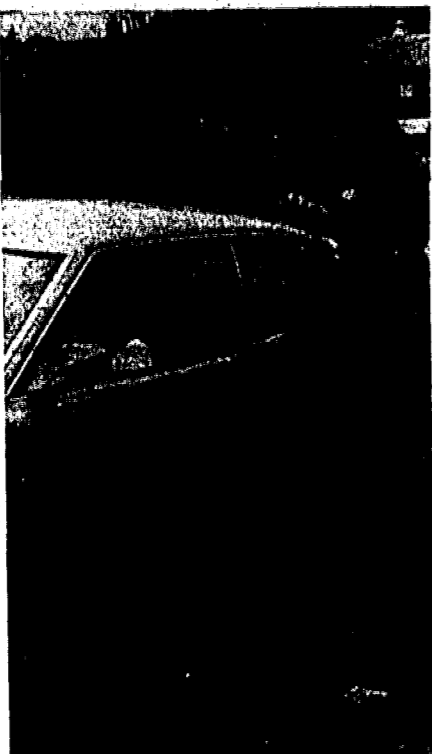

"I was the only girl then," Miss Stock explained. "It was cold out there but on the days when it was real bad they would let me sit inside the patrol car."

"Winter is rough for everybody," according to William Penn, director of campus security. "The first two girls we hired in 1972 resigned because of the weather. We usually get one or two female applicants each semester. They are girls who need a job. We are never concerned about quotas here. I think for the position they hold and the duties that it involves, they are doing a great job."

Miss Nordland is a freshman majoring in biology at Union College's Cranford Campus. A graduate of Gov. Livingston Regional High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Nordland.

A graduate of Irvington High School, Miss Lorber is a liberal arts major in the freshman class at the Cranford Campus. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bennet Lorber.

Miss Stock is a graduate of Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Stock. She is a liberal arts major at the Cranford Campus.

STRAIGHT AHEAD — Debbie Nordland of Berkeley Heights gives parking directions to a visitor at Union College. She is one of three coeds serving on the college's campus patrol. Issuing warnings to those who violate parking regulations is also one of her duties.

Seniors will hold Fair Wednesday

Mrs. Evelyn Frank, council president, announced the appointment of John Murphy of Roselle Park as county fair chairman. Arrangements are being made for transportation. Nursery school begins 9th year Westminster Nursery School, which provides a beginning learning experience for pre-school children 3 and 4 years of age, will begin its ninth year this fall. The school meets five days a week from 9:15 to 11:45 a.m. in the Sunday school rooms of Westminster Presbyterian Church, North avenue, Elizabeth.

"The school seeks to fulfill a need of the pre-school child for group activities in a creative environment," said a school official. "that encourages love and understanding. Although there is no specific religious teaching of a sectarian nature, the school endeavors to help the child recognize the worth of all individuals and their common responsibility to God."

Outdoor recreation facilities are available in the spacious church garden, which also provides an opportunity for children to learn from nature. Field trips are also part of the nursery school program. More information about the Westminster Nursery School is available to calling the church office at 352-5827.

Failure to reduce oil monopolies is charged by Levin

Democratic Congressional candidate Adam Levin charged this week that the threatened re-institution of gas rationing in New Jersey emphasizes the government's failure to reduce oil monopolies and reevaluate the tax exemptions and lack of effective price controls within the industry.

"Despite evidence that giant oil firms either contrived or consented to the present energy crisis, the Nixon Administration continues to cater to this special interest group," Levin said. "We are living a crisis-to-crisis existence while the industry amasses record profits and wage-controlled fuel consumers shell out an additional $20 to $25 billion a year."

Levin also criticized the Administration for stacking federal oil and energy policy making boards with industry men while consumers remain unrepresented. He said it is one reason behind FEO Director John Sawhill's complaint that there has been no significant increase in energy research and development despite massive oil profits.

The 12th District candidate said large oil producers have been able to arbitrarily raise prices and regulate the flow of fuel by using cooperative ventures throughout the industry.

"A recent Federal Trade Commission study indicates strong ties between major oil firms in all five levels of operation—crude oil production and transportation, refining, product transportation and marketing," Levin noted. "This type of vertical and horizontal integration enables larger firms to share expenses, forcing smaller, independent dealers out of competition."

Levin said he supports creation of a federal oil and gas corporation to develop fuel sources on publicly owned land, estimated to contain 50 to 75 percent of the nation's future resources. Besides stimulating competition within the industry, the corporation would provide a reliable yardstick for the efficiency and pricing performance of private oil companies, he said.

Palsy unit opens summer camp for non-handicapped

The Union County United Cerebral Palsy Center will open its preschool summer camp to non-handicapped as well as handicapped children this year.

Mrs. Judith Loudermilk, center program director, stated that the unprecedented success of the center's Nu-Day Nursery School—with its equal ratio of handicapped and non-handicapped children—has demonstrated the need for a similar summer session. The summer camp will meet at the Calvary Lutheran Church, Eastman street, Cranford, and will run from July 1 through Aug. 16, except July 4. Youngsters from 2½ to 5 years of age are eligible.

Activities will be geared to the preschooler's specific summer needs with optional adaptive aquatics and all the therapies available. Mrs. Loudermilk cited as an additional benefit to the non-handicapped child, his contact with competent, early childhood educators whose professional qualifications must be particularly high in order to meet the center's standards. "Under the guidance of this staff, the summer camp's fun-filled activities such as arts and crafts, dramatics, nature, etc., acquire an added dimension," said Mrs. Loudermilk. "The opportunity afforded the non-handicapped child to mingle with and learn to accept his handicapped fellow in such a wonderfully relaxed summer camp atmosphere," she added.

The session runs from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. with part-time schedules and transportation available. Inquiries regarding application should be directed to Mrs. Loudermilk at 272-5020.

Importance of prenatal care stressed as Healthy Baby Week is observed

HEALTHY BABIES — Dr. Edward Goodkin of Union Township, medical advisor of the Union County March of Dimes, discusses with Mrs. Linda Petkov of Union the nutritional care of her daughters Danielle, 3, and Nicole, 4 months. March of Dimes "Healthy Baby Week" will begin Sunday.

Healthy Baby Week, which starts Sunday (Mother's Day), is being utilized by the National Foundation—March of Dimes to call attention to the importance of prenatal care and genetic counseling in the prevention of birth defects.

"The best weapon against birth defects is expert care during pregnancy, labor and delivery," stressed Dr. Edward Goodkin, medical advisor of the Union County chapter. "Proper care and medical attention during pregnancy can protect mother and infant from risks that might go undetected until too late."

"Last year, in some areas of the country, 33 percent of all infant deaths could have been prevented if expert medical and social services had been available and utilized. Many of the physical defects and mental problems of children born each year can be prevented," he added. "We must do all that is possible to assure a healthy future for all children."

He urged frequent visits during the prenatal period to a physician or medical center. Literature on prenatal care and genetic counseling—distributed by the March of Dimes to doctors' offices, hospitals, libraries and other public places—may be obtained by calling the March of Dimes office (FL 1-0320).

Speakers are available from the March of Dimes to show films and address club and organizational meetings. He stressed that this is an educational—not a fund-raising—effort.

Nutrition is another concern of the March of Dimes, which notes that when a woman carries sloppy eating habits over into pregnancy, she is risking her own health and that of her unborn baby. Underweight or overweight mothers have a much higher incidence of premature and low-birthweight babies than do healthy mothers.

The mother's diet deficiencies during pregnancy may cause malnutrition in the unborn baby. This could lead to abnormal development of the child's brain and to other birth defects, he said.

Courses are gifts with certificates

With Mother's Day and Father's Day listed as red letter days on May and June calendars, Union College, Cranford, and Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, are again offering gift certificates for credit and non-credit courses.

The two institutions serving the community college needs of Union County first offered tuition gift certificates at Christmas. "As a novel gift suggestion, the idea was well received," Mrs. Patricia Wusthoff, assistant director of admissions at Union College, stated.

Union College places no restrictions on adults who want to take courses as part-time, non-matriculated students, according to Mrs. Wusthoff, which simplifies the purchase of a course as a gift. A similar policy applies at Union County Technical Institute.

Gift certificates for Mother's Day and Father's Day, or for other special occasions, may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Wusthoff at Union College, 276-2600, or Richard Kay, director of continuing education at Union County Technical Institute, 889-2000.

B'nai B'rith picks Ross as president

Herbert Ross of 1606 Rising way, Mountainside, has been elected president of the Northern New Jersey Council of B'nai B'rith. POOLSIDE IN SEASIDE—George J. Schiabor, president of Schiabor Enterprises, and his wife, Patricia, stand by indoor pool at the new El Conquistador condominium in Seaside Heights. Built by Schiabor, the 62-unit complex offers access to beaches, fishing and boating; the apartments' private balconies provide views of the Atlantic.

Construction is completed on Seaside Heights condo

Schiabor Enterprises, Ocean County's pioneer condominium builder, recently completed construction on the El Conquistador, a 62-unit condominium in Seaside Heights.

Located at the north end of the Seaside Heights boardwalk, the site provides access to beaches, fishing and boating, as well as to shopping facilities, schools and houses of worship.

No stranger to the condominium concept is Schiabor Enterprises, whose Kings Gate condominium already has met with success. Nestled among sand dunes, the complex faces the Atlantic Ocean to the east, the Top O' The Mast Restaurant to the north, Island Beach State Park to the south, and Barnegat Bay to the west.

Schiabor Enterprises' condominiums include such features as two bedrooms, one-and-a-half baths, private ocean-view balconies, AM-PM intercom, covered parking, and elevator service. In addition, the El Conquistador contains a heated indoor pool, two saunas and a 2,200 square-foot club room, exclusively for the use of the residents.

"Schiabor Enterprises also takes an active interest in the financing of their condominiums," a spokesman noted.

"Arrangements have been made for low-cost financing with just 10 percent down and eight percent interest on 30-year mortgages. Schiabor Enterprises feels this will motivate people to purchase condominiums now.

especially with the prime interest rate in some of the larger banks hovering around the 10 percent level," he said.

George Schiabor, president of Schiabor Enterprises and a 17-year veteran of construction in Ocean County was a former partner in the home developments of Camelot, Camelot at Brookside and Camelot at Squire Village. He also built the Lancer apartments in Seaside Heights and the Princess condominium located at the entrance of Island Beach State Park. Schiabor is a member of the National Association of Home Builders and is the owner of Lancer Contractors, Inc., and Lancer Contractors, Inc., two area business firms.

Classmates meet again

Two former classmates were reunited recently at Crestwood Village, the retirement community on Rt. 530, Ocean County. Maria Winkhart and Frances Stenzel were neighbors and classmates many years ago in a small village in the south of Germany where Frances' father was the mayor. Although Maria's family moved to another town, the girls remained close friends over the years.

In 1929, Maria came to the United States and married Carl Winkhart. She would write to Frances and describe how happy she was in this new country. Frances soon followed and in 1938 she met and married August Stenzel. Both families lived in New York State.

This time it was Frances who made the move, when she and August retired and bought a home in Crestwood. Again, they corresponded and before long, Maria and Carl moved here also.

Williamson & Co. moves main office to Ocean County

Ocean County, one of the fastest growing counties in the state, has attracted a large real estate firm to Toms River: Arthur Williamson and Co., formerly of Bergen County. Williamson, long established as one of Bergen County's largest and most diverse realty organizations, sees Ocean County "as one of the finest potential real estate economy in the area, coupled with light industrial and commercial development, is apparent from all economic indicators. "Of course, residential interests will continue to be the foundation of our organization," he said, "but land acquisition and mortgage financing, two integral foundations of the Williamson organization, will play a major role in our activities in Ocean County." The Williamson philosophy "rests upon optimism based upon a realistic survey of the area in terms of expected growth." Williamson concluded, "Ocean County impressed our organization as being in its formative stages and, if properly guided, will undoubtedly mature to a major economic contributor to the east coast.

The Williamson firm is a member in good standing with the Multiple Listing Service of Ocean County, the New Jersey Shore Builders Association, the Ocean County Board of Realtors, as well as the Dover Township Chamber of Commerce. In addition, Williamson is a member of the New Jersey Mortgage Bankers Association, and is president of Paramus Mortgage and Abstract Co. Arthur Williamson Jr. is vice-president.

When based in northern New Jersey, the Williamson Co. was responsible for over $150,000,000 of home sales in Bergen, Morris, and Essex counties. A large undetermined sum of land and commercial sales also are to their credit, and the firm has handled many of the major housing developments in that area.

The present company has grown into three divisions: Commercial, industrial land, and residential. Each division is headed by one of Williamson's sons. Art Williamson Jr., in charge of commercial-industrial land sales, sees Ocean County as an ever-prospering business center, with tremendous growth potential. He said, "Judging from our study of the area, the need for commercial industrial land sales will definitely require a full service real estate organization such as ours."

Keith Williamson, who heads the residential sales and rental division, concurs with his brother, but from a different standpoint. He noted, "Additional commerce, which is reflective of a fast growing county such as Ocean, generally runs parallel to an increased need of residential housing, including apartment rentals, as well as sales and rentals."

The new company headquarters is located at 1310 Hooper ave., Toms River. Future plans for Arthur Williamson and Co. include the establishment of a second realty office in the Ocean County area within the next several months.

THE CAMBRIDGE ranch home is among seven styles available at Camelot Woods in Toms River. The six-room house, priced at $39,990, includes three bedrooms, kitchen, living room and dining room—with an optional fireplace. A full garage is accessible from the inside of the house.

Condominium life in new dimension at Shadow Lake

Mix the charm of a classical atrium, the English mews, the excitement and the open sweep of California contemporary architecture, and the reader has an idea of the impact of Eastport Court, the newest section of Shadow Lake Village. This phase of the adult community, off Nut Swamp road in Middletown, near Red Bank and Rumson, is having its preview opening, according to Kevork S. Hovnanian, president of Hovnanian Enterprises Inc., builder and developer of the country club community.

Although the new section will be an extension of the already established character of the community, the architecture will be a slight departure from what has been built so far. Added features include private bath gardens, cathedral ceilings, clearstory lighting, private atrium courts, Roman baths and raised sleeping chambers.

"We're not just building new homes," says Hovnanian, "we're creating whole new concepts in condominium living. We've even coined a whole new word, 'condo maximums,' because there's really nothing like them anywhere on the East Coast." Prospective buyers will be able to see detailed artists renderings and floor plans. Construction of the model homes is under way and they will be ready for viewing this summer.

A total of five different floor plans will offer a minimum of just under 1,000 square feet up to a maximum of 1,750 square feet of living area. With preview prices from $35,990 to $73,990, early buyers will have first choice of any of the locations that are available. A refundable deposit will hold a buyer's selection and he may make a final determination upon viewing the model homes when completed.

Homes in the new section will feature unusual facades, imaginative floor plans, and emphasis on bringing more of the outdoors into the living area. The concept will be available in two distinctive living environments: the villas and the terraces of Eastport Court.

The villas will feature homes clustered around a private courtyard, that reflects the design and purpose of an English carriage court. The three distinctive villa homes share many custom touches as standard features.

These include a full range of appliances such as side-by-side refrigerator-freezer with automatic ice maker, double self-cleaning oven, dishwasher, washer and dryer, garbage disposal, trash compactor, and central air conditioning.

There will be luxurious wall-to-wall carpeting, ceramic tile baths with custom vanities, glass tub and shower enclosures with an overhead heat lamp in the master bedroom, floor to ceiling brick fireplaces, soaring cathedral ceilings that reach upward to dramatic clearstory lighting which filters sunlight into the living areas below, individual courtyards enclosed by brick walls and privacy gates, and two-car attached garages with automatic door opener for maximum convenience. The models are priced from $59,990 to $73,990.

Eastport Terraces feature homes clustered around an entrance plaza that has the flavor of a California atrium with botanical landscaping, surrounded at the second level by an overlook gallery.

Two floor plans are available on each of two living levels and share common standard features. These include electric range and range hood and self-cleaning oven, dishwasher, washer and dryer, wall-to-wall carpeting, central air-conditioning, ceramic tile baths, mirrored sliding closet doors, cathedral ceilings, expansive dining terraces, eat-in kitchens and huge walk-in storage room.

Designed by the architectural firm of Khachadourian & Cahill of Bloomfield, the villas and the terraces have been planned so that each concept complements the other in their massing and scale and with the interplay of brick and natural wood exteriors.

Shadow Lake Village is an adult community designed for families in which one family member is at least 52 years of age. In addition, a son or daughter, 18 or over, may also be a part of the household.

To reach Shadow Lake Village and the new Eastport Court homes, take the New Jersey Turnpike south to Exit 11, or the Garden State Parkway to Exit 117. Then travel south on Rt. 35 for nine miles, following signs. Turn right on the Navesink River road. Turn right at the end onto Nut Swamp road to Shadow Lake Village.

Family-size ranch home is Camelot Woods feature

The Cambridge ranch home at Camelot Woods in Toms River is typical of the homes offered in the community, which features a "green shield" concept of natural woodlands as buffers between homesites.

The Cambridge, priced at $39,990, is designed for modern living, yet includes many features of days gone by, such as a large entrance hall, convenient kitchen entrance and a covered porch. Inside, the entry foyer has access to the living room and three bedrooms, and a through hall to the kitchen. The living room covers a 23-foot-wide area at the front of the home, with the dining room behind it. The kitchen is L-shaped and features modern appliances, plus a place for family-sized table and chairs.

The bedroom wing has a master bedroom and private lavatory, plus two other bedrooms and bath.

A full garage is accessible from the house, with patio suggested for placement at the rear of the garage, just off the dining room.

Among the options available for Camelot Woods homes is a fireplace in living room or dining room.

Additional models at Camelot Woods include the two-story Buckingham at $49,990; the Yorkshire split-level, at $50,990; the Camelot two-story at $48,900; the

Squire Dutch Colonial, at $50,900; and the New Castle Capa Cod, priced from $52,500; the Vermont bi-level

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
I'll bet you haven't heard this one. My mother drinks tea, which is fine, but she also reads the leaves. She'll ask someone to have a cup of tea and then read the leaves.
My boyfriend was over a couple of days ago and out came the tea. He drank a cup to be polite and then Mom told him that he was going to get a traffic ticket. On his way home, he did. He called me and said, "What kind of a nut is your mother? I just got a ticket." What can I do about Mom and this obsession with tea leaves?

Dear Sally:
Suggest she switch to coffee.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
When I come home from work all my wife does is complain about the kids or dive headlong into some boring monologue on a subject which is of interest only to her. I'm bored and want a little spark put back into our marriage. My wife reads your column so give her a few suggestions.

TNJ guide issued for reference

Want to know how to get from here to there? Well, Transport of New Jersey, the State's largest private mass transit bus company, has just completed the first in a series of "quick-reference" transit guides to help bus riders find their way around New Jersey and the Metropolitan Area.

The first of the new guides, which is pocket-size for convenience, shows the TNJ bus lines which operate between Newark and its suburbs, including departures and running times for each line. Because of the scope of the company's operation TNJ serves 20 of the state's 21 counties, a statewide guide would be too cumbersome so there will be several guides covering different sections of the state.

According to Calvin J. Wienke, TNJ's vice-president for marketing, the transit guides are being produced to show potential patrons the ease of traveling by bus. "There are many people who would like to travel by bus, but they just don't know how to do it. These guides are designed to show them the many places they can travel to by bus, and do it conveniently, safely and economically," Wienke stated.

Copies of guides, which are free, may be obtained at the Public Service Bus Terminal in Newark or by writing to Department of Public Affairs, TNJ, 180 Boyden ave., Maplewood, 07040.

'Waller' concert planned May 19

The music of the late Fats Waller—king of the stride pianists—will swing out again Sunday, May 19. Sponsored by the New Jersey Jazz Society, a public jazz party will feature master jazz pianist Jimmy Andrews playing in the Waller style. With him will be original members of the Fats Waller and His Rhythm, best known of several Waller groups that played in the 1930s and '40s.

The event will be held at O'Connell's Beef and Ale House, Mountain Blvd., Watchung, from 3 to 7 p.m. Tickets are $4 and may be ordered from Mrs. Jack McSevery, 51 Woodland Ave., Verona (219-0838).

Verona, with its emphasis on a strong and rhythmic left hand, had its earliest roots in ragtime. As ultimately developed by jazzmen around New York City and carried by them into every jazz club and theater in the country, it was still heard in the playing of Duke Ellington, Earl "Fatha" Hines and many other jazz pianists in classic and contemporary styles. Jazz critic Hugues Parnassie has said that it is "impossible to be a good jazz pianist without being a master of this style."
