

HISTORIC MISTAKE—Several weeks ago, the Echo published a photo of what reportedly was the Crain Hill House, one of Mountainside's several historic sites, according to the Union County Planning Board. We later learned our photographer had come back with photo of the wrong house. The mistake did have a bright side, though. The person to call attention to the error was the present owner of the historic building, located at 27 New Providence rd., who offered us a good deal of background information-and some ghost storiesabout the building. Our photographer went out again, and this time returned with a picture of the right house, shown (Photo-Graphics)

When the Union County Planning Board recently announced the selection of 11 Mountainside buildings for inclusion in a "Historic Survey" of the county, part of its aim was to encourage citizens', involvement with their, community's past and, hopefully, with the Spirit of '76, enjoying a rebirth of fervor because of the coming national Bicentennial. But little did the county authorities realize they also would be shedding light on a different spirit-in fact, three spirits-who reportedly dwell in one of the historic homes.

High school band to give concert, receive awards

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Band, under the direction of Jeff Anderson, will present a classical and jazz concert at Halsey Hall on June 8. The band consists of 85 musicians from Mountainside and Springfield.

the report read: "The house is supposed to have three ghosts, Jonathan Crain, who built the house, one of his phantom who was bent on terrorizing the living wives, and an escaped black slave, who was killed in the house by a bounty hunter. There were a lot of strange happenings in the house the first year we lived there, but since 1972 there has been no 'activity'." Our curlosity aroused, we contacted Rick, who noted that although he and his wife "heard a lot of ghostly noises" they never actually saw the spirits. However, he did report that a previous owner, a Mrs. Babcock, had told him she had seen the apparitions numerous times. Unfortunately, we were unable to verify this; she is now dead.

we didn't investigate," he said.

"On a couple of occasions," he continued, "we heard banging on the walls at the opposite end of the house. When we went to look, the noise would come from somewhere else."

Rick offered a practical reason for the strange noises: "We were told that a new family, with new living patterns, can put new weight stresses on support beam , etc., causing strange sounds." (Like a refrigerator falling?) He didn't discount the possibility of spirits, though, and even offered an explanation as to why the sounds ceased a couple of years ago. 'We were out of the house for nine months in 1972 while major restoration work was being done," he said. "Included in that work was replacement of the roof. We were told by 'spirit experts' that any ghosts in the home would leave because of such changes, especially if the roof was opened." In any case, when the Nadolmys moved back in, all was quiet.

If the home did house ghosts, apparently they were the friendly type since, according to Nadolny's report, the building apparently has been occupied continually since its construction in the 18th century. No self-respecting

Jersey will restudy

By BOB LIBKIND

The State Department of Transportation, inundated by negative response to its draft Environmental Impact Statement on Rt. 78, this week decided to restudy alignment, interchange and environmental aspects of the superhighway through Springfield, Summit, Mountainside and Berkeley Heights

The decision will delay construction of the highway by at least one year, possibly more. Another public hearing will be held next spring after the second draft of the Environmental Impact Statement (E.I.S.) is released. The highway was first proposed in 1957 with a targeted opening date in the early 1960s. The road is now open between Berkeley Heights and the vicinity of Harrisburg. Local voters will take part in primaries

Mountainside voters will go to the polls Tuesday for the annual primary election, whose local interest this year lies in the candidates for two three-year terms on the Borough Council.

Seeking the Republican places on the ticket in the November general election are two incumbents, William Cullen and Bruce Geiger, while the Democratic hopefuls are Albert D'Amanda and Francis Gagliano.

The primary ballot also will include the names of those looking for party backing as U.S. Congressional candidates in the 12th District. On the Republican side, incumbent Matthew J. Rinaldo is challenged by Lloyd J. Sherk. The Democrats are Adam K. Levin, who has the best wishes of the county's Regular Democratic Organization, and A. Howard Freund.

This year, Democrats will be choosing district delegates to the national convention, and in the 12th District, four slates, with three members each, have been filed. The Regular Organization Democrats are A. Charles Walano of Clark, Leslie P. Glick of Cranford and Catherine K. White of Plainfield.

Squad building open to public

The Mountainside Rescue Squad will hold an open house on Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the squad building at Rt. 22 and New Providence road.

The main purpose of the open house is to pay tribute to organizations and memorial funds which have provided equipment to the squad over the years. In dition, the squad will pro its terminus at Newark International Airport. The decision to prepare another draft E.I.S. will have no effect on construction of Rt. 78 through Union and Springfield, which has been progressing rapidly. However, it will delay the eventual completion and opening of the highway through Union and Springfield.

some interesting facts about past ownership. The builder, Jonathan Crain (or "Crane depending on which records you choose to use). who is supposed to be among the hauntees, was born in Elizabeth in 1705 and died in Westfield (Mountainside was then a part of that town) in 1766. One of his two wives, both of whom were named Mary, is reportedly keeping her husband company in the house-but it is not known which spouse it is. Nothing was reported on the unfortunate slave.

Crain, whose earthly remains lie in the cemetery next to the Presbyterian Church in Westfield, was one of the church's founders, and also was a witness to the original deed for the church property, dated 1743. Nadolny notes (Continued on page 3)

Letters to Editor

PRIMARY ELECTION

In May 1972, a three-judge federal panel declared that the New Jersey election law relating to party affiliation and voting in primary elections was unconstitutional. The results of this change are not yet fully understood and the League of Women Voters would like once again to clarify the present law before this year's Primary Election on Tuesday, June 4.

No longer must the voter abstain from voting in two consecutive primary elections in order to change party affiliation. Further, the voter is not required to make a formal declaration of change in affiliation prior to arrival at the polling place.

Under present law, the voter may vote in either party in the primary, regardless of past voting record or party affiliation. He merely states his choice before he votes on Primary Election day, when he signs in at his election district.

There has been confusion two points. First, New Jersey does not have the "blanket" or "cross-over" primary found in some states; here the voter may vote in only one party. Second, the secrecy of the ballot in New Jersey does not extend to party affiliation; the voter must declare party choice prior to casting his ballot on Primary day and this choice becomes part of the public record.

These less restrictive laws should encourage citizens to acquaint themselves with the qualifications of all candidates for the primary, then choose a party, but only one, and vote on primary election day. To ignore the political process is abandoning one's duty and privilege in a free society.

As Thomas Paine so succinctly wrote almost 200 years ago: "Those who expect to reap the blessings of freedom must, like men, undergo the fatigue of supporting it."

MARIANNE KERWIN President Westfield Area LWV

An estimated $800 in cash was stolen from the Corrine terrace house between 7 and 9:50 p.m. Saturday by burglars who gained entry by breaking a window in a door, the investigating officer, Det. Sgt. Jerome Rice, reported.

Police said the Upland road residence was entered between 2:30 p.m. Saturday and 2 a.m. Sunday. Investigating officer Wayne Martin said the burglars, who gained entry by removing a glass pane from a door, took about $35 in cash and one blank check. Police are awaiting a list of any other missing items.

The attempted entry on Woodvalley road occurred at 9:45 p.m. Sunday. According to police, the homeowner heard noises at a rear door and telephoned her son, who lives nearby. When the son arrived at the home, he reportedly saw a man running in the direction of New Providence road. Squad cars searched the area, but police were unable to find the man.

SAGNER ALSO SAID that the Department of Transportation is in the process of forming a working committee consisting of representatives of the affected communities. In addition, liaison will be maintained with officials and citizen groups in Somerset, Union and Essex Counties during the study period.

The commissioner said the results of the studies will be reflected in the second draft Environmental Impact Statement, which will be released at least 30 days prior to the public hearing.

After the public hearing, comments received on the second draft E.I.S. and at the hearing will be evaluated and incorporated in the final E.I.S. This final report will then be submitted to the U.S. Department of Transportation and the U.S. Council on Environmental Quality for final approval, which is needed before construction can begin.

The draft of the impact study was released by the state last November and drew strong criticisms from both amateur and professional environmentalists.

State transportation department officials received more than 200 letters from private citizens objecting to the Environmental Impact Study and, by law, the revised E.I.S. must include replies to the objections.

One transportation staff member said that many of the letters from citizens "were quite thorough."

The impact study draft was also sent to 20 federal, state, county and municipal government agencies for their comments. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (E.P.A.), one of the agencies asked for its views on the impact study, said the construction of the superhighway was "environmentally unsatisfactory."

Gerald M. Hansler, regional administrator of the E.P.A., said his agency's decision was based on predicted violations of the eight-hour carbon monoxide standard and the severity of noise impact. The federal agency also feared water pollution from roadway runoff which would "most likely eliminate any aquatic life in Surprise Lake." The E.P.A. also said the loss of land in Watchung Reservation to the highway would have a severe impact on the recreational needs of area residents. The New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (D.E.P.) found the impact study "just not realistic" in its predictions of

THE HOUSE and its surrounding land, "a small tract on the south side of first mountain joining the land of Andrew Hetfield," is listed in his will, dated 1764. (Hetfield's house, also named in the Planning Board survey, was builtin 1755, and still stands on Rt. 22, now serving as the home for the Dutch Oven Antique Shop.) Crain's will turned his house and a portion of his farm (85 acres) to his grandson, William Marsh. One of the witnesses for the document was a James Badgely, probably an occupant of that other historic borough building.

In 1800, the Crain-Hill house and a portion of the land (9½ acres) was deeded to John Wheeler Foster of Westfield for a total price of $375, according to a statement in the Essex County Deed Book. (Westfield then being in that county.) The home and land went to his son, John Foster, upon the father's death in 1852.

There is a gap in the records at this point, with the next listing showing a deed warranty, dated 1889, from an Archibald and Elizabeth Dick to William G. Peckham. Subsequent owners are listed as Ruth Peckham (1905); Frederick_Miller_(1908) a deed which was foreclosed, with the house returning to Miss Peckham; Paul Peckham (1913); August G. Kachelriess (1918); Andrew Babcock (1929); William Babcock (1941) and finally Richard Nadolny (1971).

The house, which still rests on its original fieldstone foundation on a bank overlooking New Providence road, now presents a fairly modern exterior becuse of the Nadolny's restoration work. And, if the 'spirit experts' are correct, any specters have long since fled. But we'd still be interested to know what experiences the new occupants might have.

Rice will head police meetings on drug control

The Mountainside Police Department may not be the largest in the state, but its workers in the area of drug control have been singled out by the New Jersey Narcotic Enforcement Officers Association.

Selected as chairman for the association's fifth annual conference, to be held Monday through Thursday in Atlantic City, is Det. Sgt. Jerome M. Rice of the borough force. Among his committee members is Mountainside Det. Sgt. Walter R. Betyeman.

The four-day program planned by Rice and his committee will feature discussions and exhibits dealing with prevention and control of narcotics abuse—from the local to the international level.

Among the guest speakers will be N.J. Attorney General William F. Hyland; William Cleveland, deputy director of the FBI, and actor Greg Morris, who is aiding in a nationwide drug education project. Representatives from the World Health Organization, the N.J. Department of Education, several drug clinics and a rehabilitation center also will be among the participants.

Several seminar discussions are scheduled, including one with representatives of the International Drug Enforcement Officers Association from the following countries: Argentina, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Laos, Panama, Paraguay, Spain, Uruguay and Venezuela. Mountainside's direct involvement with the work of the association will not end when the conference is over, however. Rice has been named to the organization's 1974 board of directors, while Beteyman has been chosen to serve on the board in 1975.

Six traffic cases heard in court

Only six cases—all of them involving motor vehicle violations—were on the docket of Mountainside Municipal Court at its May 22 session, presided over by Judge Jacob R. Bauer.

Among those appearing was Ted Marakas of North Bergen, who was fined a total of $65 for operating an unregistered vehicle on Rt. 22 for misuse of license plates and failure to have an insurance identification card in his possession. Bela Hercz of Plainfield paid $35 for speeding 70 mph in a 45-mile zone. Failure to make vehicle repairs within 14 days after his auto failed inspection resulted in a $15 penalty for James L. Saffold of Elizabeth. Allen C. Smith of Lawrence Harbor paid $25, including contempt of court fine, for operating a vehicle overdue for inspection. All had been ticketed on Rt. 22. The Caloric Corp. of Topton, Pa., was fined $15 for failure to display 1975 tags on the license plates of one of its vans. Paul J. Gagnon of PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE — Two students from Northeastern University in Boston recently completed a six-week clinical affiliation with the physical therapy department at the Children's Specialized Hospital, Westfield-Mountainside.

Children's Specialized Hospital is more than a rehabilitation facility for physically handicapped children-it is also a teaching institution

Northeastern University in Boston is one of five colleges and universities affiliated with the physical therapy department at Children's Specialized Hospital, and two Northeastern students, Mary Lewis of Sudbury, Mass., and Nancy McDonnell of Scranton, Pa., recently completed work in the department under the direction of Victoria Preitner, chief physical therapist.

"Both girls have finished their didactic work vard their physical therapy degrees," exuined Miss Preitner, "and their six-week unical affiliation here is part of their college curriculum.

Both Miss Lewis and Miss McDonnell chose to come to Children's Specialized Hospital for the same reasons-"the opportunity to work with children and the educational reputation of Children's Specialized.'

-As their affiliation neared an end, the students reflected on their experience at Children's Specialized.

'I've wanted to be a physical therapist since I was in the sixth grade," explained Miss McDonnell, "and I would like to work with children. I've learned so much here at Children's, such as how to work with and react to the different types of handicaps, and how to get patients out of certain movement patterns through physical therapy. Just watching Miss Preitner work with patients has been a great learning opportunity. It's an excellent teaching hospital," she added.

Miss Lewis explained, "I particularly enjoy the way our program here works. We are given a regular patient schedule. We plan treatments, keep notes on our patients, and observe them in other therapies to help us gain a complete understanding of them. "We also work on the patient floors to further

YMHA renamed in Lebau's honor

The Eastern Union County YM-YWHA building on Green lane, Union, has been renamed the Harry Lebau Jewish Center.-

The Y board of directors approved a resolution changing the name of the structure at a meeting last week. The organization will continue to be known as the Eastern Union County Young Men's-Young Women's Hebrew Association, according to Irving Chvat, president, and Barry Shandler, executive director.

Lebau, who died earlier this year, served as the Y's first executive director when it was established in Elizabeth and was active in various community organizations in the Eastern Union County area.

Patriots march in eight parades

The Patriots Drum & Bugle Corps marched in eight parades over the Memorial Day weekend

The unit marched in parades in Princeton, Scotch Plains, Clark, Edison, Maplewood, Linden and Union Beach

The Patriots participated in a camp weekend May 18 and 19 in Norwich, Ct., at the invitation of the Firettes All Girl Drum & Bugle Corps. The weekend included marching and maneuvering practice in preparation for the field competitive season, which begins Saturday, June 8, in Newton.

The corps recently participated in the New Kork Skyliners show, which included units from New York, Maine, Massachusetts and New Jersey. The Patriots were among the top 10 units out of 20 in the competition.

Miss Preitner said that the student's experience on the floors is necessary because by having a complete picture of a patient's needs the therapist can establish a program with continuity.

In addition to conducting daily physical therapy sessions, observing the youngsters in other types of therapies and working with their patients on the floors, Miss Lewis and Miss McDonnell participate in evaluating their. progress and attend courses scheduled by the hospital's education department.

Lea Tudor, director of education, explained. When the students arrive, they receive an orientation. At that time, they are given material on child growth and development which they keep as reference material throughout their stay here.

"They attend all progrms and clinics that the department offers," she continued. "They also are given demonstrations such as the use of adaptive devices for the handicapped. Of course, all of the education department's resource files and films are available for the students to study as they wish," she said. Both students feel the clinical affiliation program at Children's is especially educational because they are given the chance to apply their knowledge in a practical situation.

"We are given responsibilities similar to any therapist," Miss McDonnell said. "but if we have a question, someone is always there to help us.

Miss Preitner explained that the students are given responsibilities because they are ready to begin their careers and practical experience is vital. "All decisions are, of course, medically supervised," she explained, "but we allow the students to use their initiative to achieve their goals.'

Students from Boston University, the State University of New York at Buffalo, the University of Pennsylvania and Hunter College also have clinical affiliations with the physical therapy department at Children's Specialized Hospital. In addition to physical therapy, other therapy departments and nursing at the hospital have clinical affiliation programs.

A team of doctors, toxicologists and nurses, works the ambulances, along with hundreds of trained drug workers in tents filled with stretchers and thousands of dollars worth of medical supplies.

Ambulances are awkward in the crowd. They can't get in or out even if they do manage to locate an intoxicated person and take the victim to a tent for stomach pumping, or to inject an antidote providing the doctor is able to find out what the patient had been taking.

The drugs are not exactly pure; the pushers have to fake out their clients with diluted stuff because of the big demand. It is sometimes harder to get satisfactory material for the

> The toxicologists are having a time, as though hitting all the textbooks at once with drugs and antidotes raining down, and wishing they had a library and laboratory to work in, to figure and be comfortable knowing they were not killing, too, in the rush pace of those salesmen out there.

They analyze the blood, urine and stomach contents, and all the while the rock music keeps going under the beat of helicopters called in because the ambulances cannot penetrate the crowd, the helicopters airlifting the drug overdoses and a few stabbings, along with one self-induced abortion and sprains, fractures, burns, heat stroke. Supplies run out. A thousand drug related cases melt in the mass like opium poppies bending their rich heads in winds over Turkish farms from where the supply had come.

Helicopters land and take off, carrying: comatose patients with alcohol poisoning or overdosed with sedatives and hypnotics, while the salesmen stay on their feet pushing drugs and facsimiles into the 600,000 who rock. Overhead the music slightly muffles the selling of LSD as mescaline, antihistamine as amphetamine, and animal tranquilizers as "downers" which cause paranoia, disorien-tation, hallucinations: "Man, what's that monkey climbing the tower for? Singing hilbilly!"

NOBODY DID COMPLAIN to the federal government about the heroin at Watkins Glen, N.Y., last July, when 600,000 young people assembled in the biggest rock festival ever. The 600,000 were of many cities and high schools. Among it all Microcosm High was a few steps up the street.

Nobody complained, except perhaps the farmers of Turkey of the hardships in being forbidden by their government to grow oplum for profitable export to the United States. The Turkish government did accept the many millions of dollars from the United States to appease the pain. But the farmers did not get the money, and the same government is not around now.

The Turkish farmers say times are tough and they are starting to grow fields of 600,000 poppies, row by row.

Opium politics is a new trick for the State Department, sort of a leftwing "oil-bloc" with its negative demand and pressure from the buyer who does not want the stuff and is looking for a way to block the nightmare without losing an airbase. The 600,000 are a concentrate speeded up, a caricature of any high school with even its small foci of the curious and the drug experimenters who sometimes have to be seen in the realistic distoritoins of a Watkins Glen, rocked in the bent mirror of a drugged

Levin asks boost in health benefits, cites rising costs

Citing Medicare's failure to adequately absorb the health care needs of the elderly, Democratic Congressional candidate Adam Levin called on Congress this week to expand program coverage and insure that future benefits keep pace with the rise in medical costs.

The 12th District candidate also urged passage of a national health insurance program to provide swift, comprehensive medical service for the average American and eliminate the threat of financial disaster resulting from a major illness.

'Since 1960 the rate of inflation for medical costs has, far outstripped the increase in general consumer prices and now ranks as one of the major causes of personal backruptcy action in the United States," Levin said. 'Senior citizens have been squeezed hardest by this financial crunch because they are often forced to live on fixed incomes and had to pay out 28 percent of the $94 billion spent on personal health care in 1973."

Emphasizing inequities within the existing Medicare program, Levin said the failure of benefits to offset inflation means that the elderly paid $276 per person in out-of-pocket health expenses in 1973 as compared to only $234 before the inception of Medicare in 1966. As a result, the elderly population has not been significantly protected by Medicare.

'A basic problem in the program is that Medicare increases are now tied to cost of living increases, although medical costs have been outrunning general living costs by 18 to 20 percent," the Union County Democrat continued. "Congress can restore the balance by basing Medicare hikes on medical cost in-

A 'silent auction' to benefit planned lab at Overlook

Going, Going, Gone is the title of the "silent auction" to be held Saturday, June 8, at the Commons, Drew University, Madison. Admission is $1, any time between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. All proceeds will benefit Overlook Hospital's planned cardiac catheterization laboratory

"The great thing about a silent auction," according to Mrs. L. Robert Jeffery, Jr. and Mrs. Warren S. Kimber, Jr., co-chairmen, "is that bidders can peruse a great number of items and services without being limited by time or pressured by the speed of an auctioneer Guests can bid "silently," for example, on an 18 carat gold pin with a flower design set with pink coral, diamonds and emeralds, a 6-yearold 11.1 hands mare pony, which rides, hunts, and pulls a pony cart, or, an "old-fashioned calico Christmas-a coordinated package of handmade centerpiece, door wreath, tree skirt, hostess apron, ornaments and candles.

Bids will be accepted on individual slips of paper (available at the auction) by placing a signed slip with name, address, telephone number and amount of bid in a container next to the item. A list of approximate retail value of all items will be available. Bids will begin at $10.01 and will be at random figures only ($67.81) to avoid ties. The special "children's corner" will include a life-size, handmade rag doll, a basketball autographed by the Knicks and a hockey stick autographed by the New York Rangers, 1, full suite of rooms of doll-house furniture, and a 17inch doll with a wardrobe of handmade clothes. There are also a number of children's parties.

Antiques will include a pair of estate-sized filigreed Italian iron gates, 10 by 12 feet, valued at about $2500.

The antiques section also includes an early 18th Century Dr. Wall Period Wochester swanshaped bowl, a Waterbury ogee clock in a rosewood case, four rosewood Victorian side chairs with their original velvet and a mahogany Empire sofa.

There are 37 different paintings, ranging from landscapes, lithographs and pastels to portraits made to order or a painting of the buyer's own home.

The sports corner features a paddle tennis racquet autographed by Gov. Brendan Byrne, tickets to hockey, basketball, football and baseball games, the use of a number of tennis courts, paddle tennis lessons and a set of "his and her" matching golf bags.

Each bidder should have someone near the phone on Sunday, June 9, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. when a committee of 15 members of Overlook Hospital's Auxiliary will be calling. All items must be picked up and paid for at Drew University between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. that day, unless otherwise specified.

Save energy

When cooking, match the size of pots to the range units. Heat is wasted when the pot is smaller than the unit.

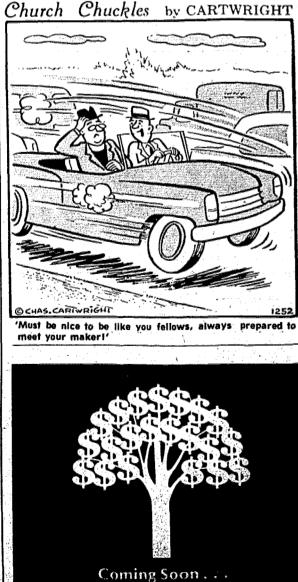

A good sized living room is the ideal place for flowers. These may be arranged for window sills, mantels, or tables. If your arrangement is meant for the mantel, here are a few rules of placement to follow: the flowers should be displayed in a low, but beautiful design. There may be one container placed in the center of the mantel or there may be two. If you have two containers, however, place one at each end of the mantel and remember the arrangement in each container should be identical!

Telephone That's how New Jersey's Army National Guard is averting what could have been a serious problem when the draft ended last year.

No draft meant fewer Guard volunteers, and the Army Guard had suddenly found itself 1,000 short of the 14,350 citizen soldiers it needed to fill its state units...

With its ability to serve effectively national and state emergencies threatened, the National Guard immediately prepared for an intense recruiting effort. To Guard offiials, a telephone campaign seemed fast, easy and economical, but recruiters' success in "closing a sale" with a prospect over the phone was meager.

At the suggestion of several guardsmen including Charles Trabold, a New Jersey Bell salesman - Lt. Col. Victor Arzoomainian, State Recruiting Officer, called the phone company for help in devising a more effective telephone "sales" campaign. New Jersey Bell's solution to the National Guard's problem was its "Phone-Power" program, originally designed to help businessmen utilize their telephones as more efficient sales tools. Phone-Power specialist Hal Pierson trained a group of recruiting officers.

"What we came up with was the 'dial an interview concept'," explained Trabold. 'Instead of trying to enlist the prospect over the phone, we suggested that recruiters first interest the guy or gal in the National Guard, and then make an appointment for them to come down to the armory

"We used to try and enlist the prospects over the phone, rather than asking them to come down to the armory where we could show them what we do," said Col. Arzoomainian.

"During the interview," Trabold added, "we showed the prospects exactly what we do and acquainted them with our training programs like data processing, automotive repair. medical care, communications and law enforcement. Programs like these give the recruits a specialized skill, something useful to them in their private career plans."

Following Trabold's and Pierson's suggestions, Col. Arzoomanian directed the National Guard to launch "Operation Guard Power". Armed with lists of high school seniors, war veterans and other possibles, more than 500 recruiters in armories throughout the state went to work 14 hours a day for a two week period.

The result of their efforts were nothing less than astounding. According to Colonel Arzoomanian, a total of 949 men, both veterans and non-veterans, enlisted during the 14 day campaign - just 51 short of the 1,000 man goal.

with new option ne has name de Engineering Management, a new option in the engineering curriculum at Union College, Crantord, will be offered for the first time in September, it was announced this week by Prof. Elmer Wolf, dean of the college and chairman of the engineering department.

> Engineering Management, Dean Wolf stated, is intended for students whose career objectives include industrial management, plant engineering or marketing.

College expands

engineer course

Traditional engineering options -- electrical, mechanical, chemical and civil --- generally prepare students for careers in the profession, such as design, development and research. The tact that 40 percent of industries' administrative jobs are filled by engineers and that 31 percent of all engineers have management functions indicates a need for this new emphasis on management, Dean Wolf said

The program was developed in cooperation with Newark College of Engineering, which first proposed a program that would permit Union College students to transfer as juniors to NCE's bachelor of industrial administration program. NCE has had a long-standing policy of acceptance of graduates of Union College's engineering program.

The program will also permit students to transfer to other four-year institutions as either business or engineering management majors.

The curricolum includes courses in English. mathematics, business, chemistry, physics, accounting and computer programming, as well as electives in engineering and social sciences for administrative offices denounced Speakers at a meeting of the Westminster Civic League in Hillside last week denounced any possibility that the county will purchase

Pingry School property to be used as county administrative offices. Costs were emphasized in an eight point "fact sheet" distributed at the meeting. The school plans to move to Bernards

Township and has offered its 33 acre site and buildings for sale at $8,700,000.

"The asking price for Pingry is $3,700,000," it was noted on the fact sheet. "With conversion to office space, the total initial cost is conservatively estimated at $9,500,000. With interest on this sum, the total taxpayer cost would be $15,450,000. Conservatively estimated at interest rates far below current actual rates, just the interest and maintenance of the Pingry property is estimated at $942,500 per year. It would raise the current county taxpayer debt by over 59 percent."

As an alternative, the League pointed to three large areas of office space in downtown Elizabeth which, it says, are available at under 51.000,000 each.

The three-the Hirsch building, most of the Levy Brothers building and Steinbach's-are within a few blocks of the county courthouse. All three are on major bus lines, near the two railroads and can use public parking facilities. Other points in the fact sheet:

---Pingry has three times the space required by the county. -The location of the property is far from other county facilities in downtown Elizabeth, tar from public bus routes.

--The removal of more than 400 county workers from downtown Elizabeth would be detrimental to usinesses there. The city needs offices are to be under one roof, the building the business of the workers and of the people who visit the offices."

County purchase of Pingry property

No freeholders attended the meeting, although Dr. Donald Holtzman, president of the Westminster Civic Leagaue, said they had been invited. However, five candidates for the board, did attend and four of them said they could not support the acquisition of the school by the county.

John Mollozzi of Roselle Park, Republican candidate, stated that if county administrative

200 Club to offer some college aid

The 200 Club of Union County has amended its bylaws to enable children of any policeman, fireman or state trooper killed in the line of duty to apply to the club's Action Committee for financial assistance when they are ready to enter college. The committee will rule on each application, considering need, citizenship and scholastic achievement.

The action was taken at the sixth annual luncheon meeting of the club, at which time 13 persons became members of the club, bringing the total to 198, Jonathan L. Goldstein, U.S. Attorney for the District of New Jersey, was the guest speaker. He told the club, "You have seen that you can fight City Hall ... men in high places have been brought to trial and convicted ... there is no excuse for violations for the law, Each man is responsible for his own actions.

should be near the courthouse. Robert C. Doherty of Westfield, also on the GOP ticket, opposed the projected purchase because it would involve blacktopping at least five acres of green area for parking and an access road, which would then be damaging to the need for flood control of the adjoining Elizabeth River. He pointed out that the traffic would create congestion on North avenue, a major thoroughfare for much of the county.

12-Thursday, May 30, 1974-MOUNTAINSIDE(N.J.) ECHO

William McCloud of Elizabeth, Democratic candidate, said that proliferation of new county government buildings in recent years, must be brought to a stop. Walter Boright, Democrat of Scotch Plains, said that a good school site should be kept for the same purpose. Candidate Rose Marie Sinnott of Summit, a Republican candidate, said she could not make a decision as to how should would vote until she saw the results of a feasibility study ordered by the freeholders. In addition, she would want an environmental impact study because of concern about flooding. Hillside Township commissioners who attended spoke out for the need for alert citizens throughout the county to the tax burden such a purchase would inflict on the entire county. A real estate man called the figures in the fact sheet too conservative, and said that the final cost of the property, at realistic interest rates, would run closer to $18 or $20 million.

Insurance agents group asks for end to assigned risk plan

MARBELLA, Spain, - The New Jersey Association of Independent Insurance Agents plans to press for the elimination of New Jersey's Auto Assigned Risk Plan "and the second class citizen sligma it poses for 350.000 New Jersey drivers.'

In remarks at the Association's first annual convention held here at the Atalaya Park Hotel. James A. Byrne of Wildwood, newly-elected president, said the organization would campaign for a new system, called a re-insurance facility, to handle the high-risk motorist. Byrne said the group had gathered data on

"It is time that a new breath of life be given to our State Constitution," according to State

Bar Association president Harold J. Ruvoldt Sr. Last week the 9,500 -member organization's board of trustees called for a state consitutional convention to be created by the legislature.

The legislative branch is especially in need of assistance, the association trustees em-phasized. "The legislature is hardly equipped government) in addressing itself to today's successfully operated re-insurance facilities which would be presented to the State Department of Insurance along with model legislation. Traditionally, high risk drivers have been lumped together in a pool where they pay higher insurance rates for less service. Byrne said. "This stigma is unfair because at least 50 percent of them are discriminated against not because of poor driving habits but because they may live in a less desirable, urban neigh borhood.'

Instead, the association favors setting up a re-insurance facility to help insurance companies serve the individual assigned risk ap-plicant from "in front of the counter." The individual would have his own company and agent to deal with "instead of being one of the thousands of computer cards in a vast pool given minimum service perhaps by a distant, unknown insurance carrier."

Byrne explained the plan would establish a paper mechanism or pooling service. Insurance companies write the high risk policy, service it and collect the premiums just as they do their normal business. An industry-wide reinsurance agency stands ready to support the claims. The companies and the agency settle differences between preimiums and claims at the end of the fiscal year.

Losses are borne by the insurance companies writing business in the state, in proportion to the amount of business they do.

"Another inequity of assigned risk." Byrne said, "is that the poor or middle class urban dweller may have to pay more for his insurance and as an assigned risk policyholder he is not able to budget his payment -- he must make lump sum payment, Byrne said.

Navy introduces school program

A new door to higher education opened this month for the more than half million men and women of the U.S. Navy.

Acting on the results of a poll that showed education as one of the major inducements to a military career, the Navy has introduced a program called the Navy Campus for Achievement (NCFA), a management system focused initially on providing educational opportunities to Navy men and women at numerous educational facilities. An important feature of the program is that Navy men and women, regardless of their duty assignments. may enroll in certificate-degree programs with participating institutions through civilian educational advisors.

The Navy Campus for Achievement is one of the new incentives to recruitment by the Navy. which hopes young men and women will stay on active duty for longer periods of time while striving for advancement through better. training and education. An important feature of this program is its assistance to Navy personnel who move frequently. If the participant is transferred to another duty station, a record will be maintained at the original institution even though courses are taken at another school for degree completion.

Retail milk prices will drop one cent in N.J. on June 1

Minimum retail milk prices in New Jersey will be down one cent per quart on June 1, according to Woodson W. Molfett Jr., director, Division of Dairy Industry, New Jersey Department of Agriculture. The new minimums will be 37 cents per quart, 69 cents per half-gallon and $1.32 per gallon.

The decrease in minimum prices reflects lower prices to farmers-the first such drop in many months. Prices normally decrease seasonally in the spring months, reflecting increased milk supplies during the spring and summer. Adverse weather conditions and short grain supplies prevented such decrease last year. This year, increased milk production, coupled with large imports of cheese, have forced prices to farmers to drop sharply.

Moffett said prices to farmers are based upon the market for manufactured dairy products such as butter, powder and cheese. During April, both cheese prices and butter prices were down, with the result that prices to farmers also are decreasing.

"These decreases to farmers come at a time when they are faced with unprecedented high costs of production, and cooperative association leaders have expressed concern that the increases may cause farmers to quit dairying with the long-term result of even higher prices to consumers. Major cooperatives in the northeast are urging the United States Department of Agriculture to take emergency action to stabilize prices to farmers, and one national organization recently embarked upon a campaign to slaughter dairy cattle to dramatize the plight of the dairy farmers," another NJDA spokesman noted.

Commenting on the price decrease, the director of the Division of Dairy Industry called the price decrease a "mixed blessing. For the consumer, the prospect of lower prices is extremely attractive. For the farmer, the prospect of lower prices raises a question of whether he can continue in business. Hopefully, the market will stabilize to the benefit of both farmers and consumers.

The publication of a detailed map showing "Battles and Skirmishes of the American Revolution in New Jersey" was announced this week by David J. Bardin, commissioner of the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP)

Bardin said, "The map will prove a valuable resource tool for historians and teachers and provide hours of enjoyment for Revolutionary War buffs and armchair generals."

Dr. Kemble Widmer, state geologist and chief of DEP's Bureau of Geology and Topography, said the map shows the date and place of more than 800 battles and skirmishes which occurred in New Jersey or surrounding waters during the years of the American War for Independence, as compiled by David Munn of the State Library from the state archives. Dr. Widmer said the changes in coastline were reconstructed from the changes shown in the older maps in the bureau's files which go back more than 100 years.

Weight Watchers to present award to 'Slim Gourmet'

BARBARA GIBBONS

Barbara Gibbons, "The Slim Gourmet," a nationally known syndicated columnist, will receive the 'People Helping People' Award this year at the third annual Weight Watchers 'People Helping People' luncheon and fashion show, scheduled for Saturday, June 8, at 12:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn of New Brunswick, Rt. North Brunswick in the main ballroom Tickets are available from local groups of Weight Watchers in New Jersey.

Mrs. Gibbons is a former member of the editorial staff of Suburban Publishing Corp. As "The Slim Gourmet," she encourages readers to change their way of cooking by eliminating the hidden, fattening ingredients. Her column, which helps people cut down on fats and sugars, appears in more than 125 newspapers throughout the United States and also appears regularly in the Family Circle Magazine. Mrs. Gibbons is listed in the 1974 'Who's Who in American Woman.'

According to Cecile and Lester Fein, who founded Weight Watchers in New Jersey ten vears ago:

"A 'People Helping People' award is presented once a year to a person who has worked to benefit his fellow man. It is our hope that the concept of people helping one another will spread so that all humans will live with concern and understanding for one another

Mrs. Gibbons, who once tipped the scales at 208 pounds and slimmed down, is the wife of Wilbur I. Gibbons and resides in Sparta.

PASSENGER PROTECTION

The California Supreme Court in a recent decision invalidated that state's "guest statute," which had provided that a nonpaying passenger generally had no legal recourse their efforts "to open the eyes" of the public to the potential for beauty, harmony and order in their physical surroundings, according to the New Jersey Society of Architects.

Speaking for the Society, David R. Dibner of West Orange said that if New Jerseyans took the time and effort to assess the shortcomings -as well as positive aspects -- of their homes, public buildings, streets, parks and public works, they would be in a position to act reasonably and logically. "Most people aren't aware of what is going on around them; as a result, they do not un-derstand why they feel certain ways. The reaction is emotional without understanding why they react emotionally to such confusing elements as a multitude of colors, sizes and letters, poor display signs and billboards and other disturbing stimuli."

By recognizing what upsets them, Dibner said, people will be able to work toward change, "or at least toward non-repetition of undesirable impacts," by becoming membrid of planning boards, zoning boards, school boards and other municipal agencies.

Dibner has written a book in which he expounds on the idea of the importance of the architect's responsibility to the client's needs in the creation of good architecture. "You and Your Architect," is available from the N.J. Society of Architects, 110 Halsted st., East Orange, 07018, at no charge.

Architects Week will focus on just such a broadening of purpose which increasingly underpins the profession, the society stated, and on a continuing education of the general public and the individual client.

Dr. Bergen said outside monies used in research, public service and other programs, had inspecial creased nearly 150 percent since CMDNJ was founded in 1970. The first year's total was $7.8 million; in 1973 it was $18.7 million.

"This funding has been essential to expanding our educational activities, both for our students and the public. and for our health care and research projects," Bergen said. "The steady increase of funds from outside sources is most gratifying," he said, "but current levels don't approach what we could use if we are to develop our fullest potential for the people of New Jersey."
