Builder sues borough on multi-dwelling ban

The Mountainside Borough Council revealed Tuesday night that suits have been filed against the community and its Board of Adjustment by a local real estate firm which recently was denied a zoning variance to construct the borough's first multi-family dwellings.

During the council's regular monthly meeting at the Beechwood School, municipal attorney John Post reported that Chatham Realty, Inc., of Mountainside, which had applied for a variance to build a 21-unit townhouse condominium on a tract at New Providence road and Rt. 22, has begun legal action on two suits, one alleging the Board of Adjustment abused its discretion in denying the variance. The second suit, according to Post, "is a broad attack on the provisions of the borough's zoning code, charging it is unconstitutional because no provision is made for multi-family dwellings within the boundaries of the community."

Post advised the governing body to divulge no further information on the cases at this point, stating, "It is understood the mayor and council will vigorously defend the suits and the provisions of the zoning code."

The application by Chatham Realty, was filed in October 1973, with hearings on it continuing through the early part of this year. At the Board of Adjustment's April 15 session, it voted unanimously to deny Chatham's request. In other action at the council meeting, attended by only 10 borough citizens, an ordinance was introduced to appropriate $30,000 from the 1974 capital improvement account to construct two additional tennis courts at the Echobrook School. Borough engineer Robert Koser has completed preliminary plans for the long-awaited facilities, with a total cost estimate of $29,000.

A public hearing on the ordinance is scheduled for the July 16 council session, but indication was given that a special public meeting could be called at an earlier date to expedite the matter. If so, the date of that nearing will be published in The Echo.

Another matter regarding Echobrook School, that of the Board of Education's offer to lease it to the borough for use as a municipal office

Teachers picket Regional office to protest pact

Approximately 200 teachers, protesting delays in contract negotiations with the Union County Regional High School District Board of Education, picketed the board's Springfield headquarters Monday night during the opening session of talks with a state mediator.

Contract talks between the board and the teachers began last October, but officially met an impasse May 16, with the former offering a 6.5 percent pay increase, and the teachers demanding a 9.2 percent hike. The Regional High School Teachers Association, which represents most of the 386 instructors at the district's four schools-Jonathan Dayton, Springfield; Gov. Livingston, Berkeley Heights; David Brearley, Kenilworth, and Arthur L. Johnson, Clark-originally had sought an 11.5 percent increase, according to Dennis Fox, association president.

The teachers also are asking for changes in the grievance procedure to fully include non-tenured teachers; add a dental insurance plan; a change in working hours for librarians, guidance counselors and nurses; elimination of nonprofessional duties, such as patrolling hallsand bathrooms; amendments to the sick-leave policy, and the establishment of an instructional council, which would involve teachers in research and proposals regarding (Continued on page 9) facility, also was discussed. It reportedly has offered a short-term lease of the building, while council wants the board to convey title to the property deed to the Discussions are continuing between attorneys for the two, and a meeting between the groups is expected to be scheduled shortly, Mayor Thomas Ricciardi reported.

Ricciardi stated the delay on the agreement apparently stems from the board's projections that enrollment will increase again in six to eight years, requiring reopening of Echobrook or construction of additions to other borough

He cited voter rejection of recent school budgets as a factor in the board's apparent reluctance to give up the school, thereby possibly requiring it to seek voter approval for construction funds at some later date.

On the other hand, Ricciardi noted that "ir light of the present inflationary climate" he would be "reluctant to go to the taxpayers with a $600,000 or $800,000 bond issue" to build a borough hall. "Our difficulty, as I see it, lies in attaining a reasonable agreement between two boards who have responsibility to the same taxpayers," he stated.

MOVING OUT — Tomorrow is the final day of classes for all borough youngsters, but for the 59 third, fourth and fifth graders who have been attending the Echobrook School, the day has even more meaning, since that facility will not reopen in September. Continued decreasing enrollment in Mountainside is chief among the factors that led to the Board of Education's decision to close Echobrook, which had been in operation since 1904. Here, head teacher Al Landis, assisted by (from left) Ellie Harbt, James Loughlin and Charlotte Ross, finishes packing Echobrook textbooks and equipment for transfer to the other schools. Religious group studies aspects of casino gambling

The League of Religious Oraganizations of the Westfield-Mountainside Area, through the community relations committee, is exploring the pros and cons of casino gambling. The question of such gambling is to be put to a referendum vote in November. The committee expects to seek out information on the effects of the passage of such a referendum.

A spokesman added: "The questions to be examined will include: What will be the impact on family life? Do people need more op-portunity for gambling? Can gambling be controlled by government? Does the crime rate increase with the addition of casinos to a community? With state controlled casinos does organized crime still find a wedge? Is this the vay we want to finance our state institutions? Is is fiscally sound?"

Over the summer the committee will be drafting a fact sheet to answer the above points and give other pertinent information. This will be publicized in local papers and circulated to the offices of all 15 members of the League of Religious Organizations.

This includes Temple Emanu-El, three Roman Catholic churches, nine Protestant churches, the Unitarian Fellowship, and the Greek Orthodox Church in Westfield and Mountainside. USE HOT WATER WISELY!

Conservation is everybody's job. You can help your community and your budget, too, if you follow a few simple procedures. Waste not-want not! If you wash dishes by hand; use a dishpan or stopper over the drain. Don't wash every single plate, knife and fork under constantly running water. If you have a dishwasher, use it for storage until you have a full day's load, then let the water flow and do the job all at once.

Are you paying more and getting less from your gas water heater because it is not the correct size to fill the needs of your family? The size is determined by the number and age of those in your family, how you wash dishes and clothes and the number of bathrooms in your home.

The other evening I picked up a copy of Roger Barton's 'Confessions of a Bird Watcher" and browsed through it. So many of his anecdotes reminded me of things that had happened to me

Quite a few years ago, Dave Fables, widely known in the state for his birding and late professor of biology at Union College, asked me to join his group for the Christmas Bird Count. We started out before dawn, on a bitter cold morning. Other members of the group met us in Lakewood and from there another chap and I proceeded to the shore of the ocean and bay to tally birds foolish enough to be out on a day like

The morning brought a couple of gannets and some herring gulls. Over coffee in a lunch wagon that chanced to be open, we decided to take a look at the bay in hopes of finding ducks. We drove around peering through the fog but no luck. Finally, just as we were about to give up, we spotted a raft of various kinds of duck riding the gentle swells. We carefully tallied them and were delighted to find a rarity or two among

Near the spot where we were standing, some boys teased an outboard into life and set out in the direction of the ducks. If we'd been a few minutes later, the ducks would have been gone, scared off by the boat. But strangely, the ducks continued to ridge the swells as the boat approached. Finally, the boat was in the middle of the raft, gathering up the "ducks" one by one. They were decoys, just hidden enough by the fog to look real to us. So we scrapped our long

For a long time I'd wanted to get a picture of a Louisiana heron, which, several years ago, was a rarity around Stone Harbor. When we went out socially, I put the camera and long lens in the car's trunk, just in case. One evening we were dressed in our best, going to Wildwood to dinner at a very swish place. As we drove across the salt marsh on the causeway, there was a Louisiana heron feeding not far from the road. Despite the admonitions of my wife, I wasn't going to miss this opportunity.

Camera in hand, I stalked the heron. He led me farther and farther from the road but I was determined to get a good picture. Finally he'd had enought and flew away. When I turned to return to the car, the tide had come in just enough to cut me off. Balancing on one foot, holding the camera high. I removed my shoes and socks and waded back to dry land. My wife was laughing to hard to be angry. All there was in the car to dry off with was last Sunday's newspapers. We finally drove off and had our dinner without any further events. P.S. The pictures didn't come out; the light level was Often I lead field trips as part of a course in ornithology. Usually I scout the area the day before the trip to see what to expect. I went through the procedure one Friday in preparation for a Saturday morning tyrip. Fall migration was at its height. The next morning, out went the group full of my high hopes. We tallied three starlings and a crow. You just never know in birding.

Bride must give new name to SS

"An estimated two million women will be married this year-about 280,000 of them in June-and one thing they should all remember is to change their names with social security, Robert E. Willwerth, social security district manager in Elizabeth, said this week

'A bride should give us her new married name to keep her social security card and her earnings record accurate and up to date," Willwerth said. "Then earnings she had both before and after her marriage can be correctly credited to the same record."

A woman's earnings in jobs covered by social security will determine the amount of her cash benefits-and not just when she retires. During her working years, she also builds disability, survivors and Medicare protection for herself and her family.

A new bride can call, write or visit any social security office to get her name changed on her record. "Or she can use a form available at any post office and many employer personnel offices," Willwerth said.

The Union County social security office is at 342 Westminster ave., Elizabeth. The phone number is 654-4200.

Levin for congressional plan to set priorities on spending

Democratic Congressional candidate Adam K. Levin has called for broad-based support of a budget reform proposal that would increase congressional expertise in analyzing federal spending and revenues and empower it to set spending priorities.

"If we are ever going to restore confidence in government, Congress must take the initiative by reasserting its constitutional powers," Levin said this week. "One of the most important of these powers is the responsibility for controlling governmental spending. It is becoming increasingly obvious that Mr. Nixon's spending priorities are completely out of touch with our national needs.

The 12th District, Union County Democrat said that Senate and House conferees approved legislation last week that would create two new budget committees, one in each house, and a new Congressional Budget Office to provide Congress with its own independent team of fiscal experts.

Under the proposal, the President's budget would be sent to the two congressional committees for analysis. They would then for mulate their own program budgets, authorizing over-all spending goals and estimating receipts in each category. These budgets would then be passed by Congress in the form of concurrent resolutions, which have the force of law and, most significantly, do not require Presidential approval. Congress, in effect, would be able to establish an order of priority within a total

Each House would then adopt its ap-propriation bills, and, after the final bill is voted on, the budget committees would take another look at expected revenues and spending. Congress could then pass legislation, this time requiring the President's approval, mandating cuts or additions to any of the appropriation or tax bills enacted.

Until now, Congress has lacked the machinery for offering intelligent alternatives to presidential budgetary requests," Levin continued. "As a result, Congress has been forced to react to presidential proposals and deal with the budget only in piecemeal appropriation bills.

Fund has reached the $1 million mark, it was announced this week by H.M. Poole Jr., general chiarman.

The goal of the campaign is $3.5 million for the expansion of the rehabilitation hospital and renovation of existing facilities to meet the demand of outpatient and inpatient services for physically-handicapped children.

An addition to the present building on New Providence road, Mountainside, would include a 60-bed unit, almost doubling the capacity of the hospital.

"The funds are now sufficient to enable the board of managers to proceed with these scpansion plans with confidence," Poole said. The campaign will continue and it is anticipated that more funds will be realized through appeals already made to foundations

Poole expressed hope that individuals and groups who were not contacted by the volunteers who worked will send contributions.

Heavens, what a show! Observatory stars big 'screen'

MOUNTAINSIDE(N.J.) ECHO-Thursday, June 20, 1974-5

The William Miller Sperry Observatory on every Friday evening, according to Prof. Union College's Cranford Campus has a show going every Friday evening, weather permitting. And its viewing area—larger than any outdoor theater—is the entire universe. Prof. Patrick J. White of Warren, director, announced this week that the summer schedule is now in effect at the observatory. During the remainder of the year, public viewing of the heavens is conducted Fridays with the exception of the third Friday of each month. It is then that Amateur Astronomers Inc., the organization that operates the observatory in cooperation with Union College, holds its regular meetings. There are no AAI meetings during the summer months, so the skyscanning installation belongs to the public

Variety of camps available to girls

The Washington Rock Girl Scout Council is offering an extensive day camp program for all girls this summer, Scouts or not. Camp Sinawik Day Camp in Green Brook offers three eightday sessions at $21 each insurance, transportation and overnights included. At the Day Camp, girls bring their lunch or cook out in units; they help plan their own activities and they benefit from the camp's nature study program. In addition, the Council sponsors Day Camps in Nomahegan Park, Cranford, and Camp Letico, Roselle.

For girls with an interest in horsemanship and riding skills, the Council Saddle Camp in Three Bridges offers instruction in English saddle riding for beginners, intermediates and advanced riders.

Working parents should note that under the "Dependent Care" section of the Internal Revenue Code, of both husband and wife are employed on a substantially full-time basis, they may deduct a large part of the expense of sending children to summer camp.

Camp applications are available from Washington Rock Girl Scout Council, 232-3236.

While a double-feature is the best other "indoor-outdoor theatres" can offer, the Sperry Observatory has countless starring attractions. The entire heavens are at the disposal of the viewers and can be seen through the two rotating-turret telescopes and other astronomical equipment. While those taking in the celestial show will be familiar with the rames of the heavenly headliners, members of AAI will be on hand to point out and tell the stories of the lesser, but interesting lights that play supporting roles.

Prof. White notes that the summer celestial screen offers an entirely different picture than that of the winter program. The beautiful star Vega in the Constellation Lyra, the Harp, is one of the first to appear followed by the lustrous Dench in the Constellation of Cygnus, the Swan They are just the premiere performers in a long line of far-flung configurations that will brighten Friday evenings all summer long. Prof. White explains that the public viewing begins at dusk when the skies are clear. In the event of unfavorable conditions, the observatory conducts indoor programs consisting of lectures augmented by colored-slide projections, inspection of the equipment and other astronomically-oriented features conducted by members of the Sperry staff and

Just as a phone call to any theater can provide the caller with information as to what's playing that evening, the same holds true for the Sperry Observatory. In fact, by dialing 276-STAR, a 60-second tape-recorded message will convey the important celestial data for that entire particular week. This direct-line service is available around the clock.

The observatory is open to the public on any Friday evening. There's not a bigger show around.

Government controls recommended tocurb cash appetite of diet promoters during annual weeklong trip to Milford, Pa.

She would like the one calorie Coca Cola guarantee to an American Heaven by shedding fat she does not have. She would do it even if she has to work it down to the bone. The child is pushed by the fat huckster through the calorie disgrace. Her eating slows. It stops because food means calories. If you get fat, maybe it is better not to eat. Then one day she cannot eat.

The feeding then becomes intravenous. But the TV at the foot of the bed says "One calorie to the Pepsi will keep you thin!" That's a guarantee, for sure.

Your 13-year-old daughter shows you a letter

she found in her magazine. The letter is written by another 13-year-old who tells of a diet she went on, and when the young girl became skinny she could not start eating again because she had suddenly become afraid of food. The girl who wrote the letter said she continued to lose weight until she had to go to the hospital and her life was in danger for a long time. The letter said the girl's menstruation was held up because of the diet. It was not easy to become a

Springfield Health Officer Fat means heavy money to the food and drink companies when huckstered off at a thousand dollars for each American pound dropped to the ether from the national girdle. The companies rattle their bones across the TV screens and the written ads, and writers with a few titles next to their names contact book publishers for advances and royalties on protein diets, carbohydrate diets, grapefruit diets, steak and sex diets, vitamin honey diets, the drinker's diet or how your body can have Jack Daniels and eat too, or whatever else can be adjusted to the physiology of money minted in fat.

The low calorie huckster pushes strange diets caught too often by a child, a teenager perhaps who dreams of shedding fat even if she has none to spare, as she would shed Woolworthshined tears when strolling as Miss America down the Atlantic City runway, under Bert Parks' smile that should at least be given National Park status for its functional familiarity_tled_to_playtime_and_summers_of thighs and breasts. The child would like to be a winner that way.

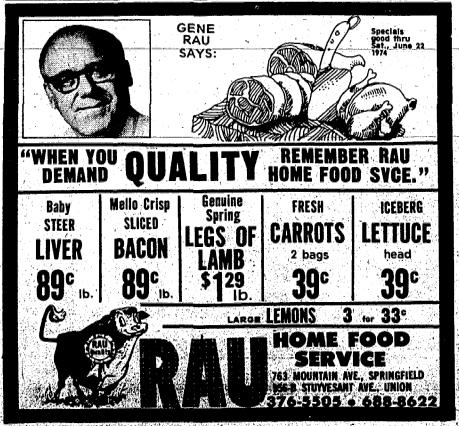

NOW unit sets picnic

The Summit Area chapter of the National Organization for Women will hold its annual family picnic on Sunday, June 23, at 2 p.m. at the homes of Susan and Ken Arndt at 248 Chaucer dr. and Karen and Mark Stacey at 243 Chaucer drive, both Berkeley Heights.

"The picnic is one of our main social events of the year," said Marlene Mainker, chapter president. "It gives us a chance to get to know each other's families and is a chance for new and prospective members to meet the group.

Anyone who would like to learn more about NOW is invited to attend the picnic.-Tickets are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. For additional information, call Karen Stacey at 464-1981.

LETTERS TO QUEEN
Here's how letters to the Queen were signed back in "I remain, With the profoundest veneration, Madam, Your Majesty's most faithful subject, and dutiful servant." And that was written with a quill pen!

Scouts list party, give service pins

The Springfield Girl Scouts will have a "splash party" at the Municipal pool on Monday, July 1, from 10 a.m. to noon. July 2 is the rain date. All fly-up Brownies, Juniors, Cadettes and Seniors have been invited to at-

The adult Scouts had an end-of-year party May 28, at which time service pins were awarded to the following: Mrs. Lee L. Andrews Jr., 30-year pin; Mrs. Louis Soos, 25-year; Mrs. Michael Herzlinger, 20-year; Mrs. Matthew Allen, Mrs. Joseph Carroll and Mrs. Donald Stave, 15-year; Nancy Soos, Carol Steele and Holly Quinton, 10-year; Mrs. John Kelly, Mrs. Ronald Poles, Mrs. Joseph Vasselli, Mrs. Thaddeus Wyglendowski and Mrs. Benjamin DePalma, five-year.

woman, "Isn't that what happened to me, Daddy?" says your daughter.

It happens frequently, the wildcat diet running out of control like a hungry blinded animal started by a TV fleshwash for a night depository into one calorie Coca Cola and Pepsi Corporations, pushing a new national vanity right to the bone where the difference between the heroin street shadow and color blasts to the brain from the TV pitch, is simply a matter of traditional acceptances

There are no controls over the dangerous commercial diet messages which too often leads to compulsive dieting and food phobias, the "anorexia nervosa" disease in a child who may be highly susceptible to the advertising

A child on an enforced self-made diet limited n protein, carbohydrate, fat, vitamins, may likely carry the effects all her life. It may limit her life by drawing in serious secondary

The commercial pitch for the American dollar hidden in the fear of fat should be placed on the same controls applied to other health menaces. There are many Miss Americas around who try too hard and finally have no strength to walk with a crown on their heads.

Today we accept controls applied to alcohol and cigarette advertising. Nobody really misses the Marlboro cowboy, who has now gone off to sell his cigarettes and Red Eye to the Indians. Controls must be extended to the loaded diet message. If the companies do not listen, selective boycotts may slim them down to a low calorie dollar.

2 New York men sent to grand jury on larceny charge The cases of two New York men charged with larceny, conspiracy and possession of a stolen credit card were referred to the Union County Grand Jury following the suspects' appearance before Judge Joseph A. Horowitz at Monday's session of Springfield Municipal Court. Vincent Annunziato of New Hyde Park, who also faces a forgery charge, and Eugene T. Denato of Brooklyn had been arrested May 6 at Channel Lumber, Rt. 22.

In other court action, $100 fines were levied against Bernard F. Koziol of Kenilworth and George N. Evangel of Union for possession and being under the influence of marijuana. Both were placed on six months' probation, and Evangel paid an additional $10 fine for littering. A six-month probationary term was the penalty for Gary Uzzolino of Hillside for being under the influence of the drug.

Graduates at UC cite the other side at awards night

Union College graduates turned the tables on the faculty and administration at this year's Class Nite ceremonies.

The annual academic and service awards presentation for members of the graduating class included the Student Government Association's first special service awards to members of the faculty and administrative

In recognition of service to students "above and beyond the call of duty," plaques were presented to Prof. Farris S. Swackhamer of Cranford, a member of the Chemistry Department and advisor to the SGA, and Michael Villano of Linden, director of the Campus Center. An honorary award went to Prof. Elmer Wolf, dean of the college, and a certificate of appreciation to Mrs. Mary Schott of Cranford, secretary to the Campus Center

Special service awards were also presented to two students for their work in developing Union College's student radio station, WCPE. Kurt Friedrichsen of Linden received a plaque for the engineering work he did to expand the station's coverage and Frank McCrone of Newark was cited for his efforts in expanding program offerings in his capacity as station

"These awards are long overdue," said Jay Avelino of Elizabeth, SGA president, "and we hope this will now become an annual affair." The award recipients, he said, were selected by a special committee and were based on a campus-wide poll that included students.

faculty members and administrators. This year's graduating class also made gifts to the college totalling $13,700. These included a $10,700 mini-theatre to be set up in the lower level of the Kenneth Campbell MacKay Library and $3,000 for library books. The theatre will be equipped with a stage, lights and sound system and will have seating capacity for 150.

9 college grads in police class of 43 Recruits attend county Training Academy

Commencement speakers the nation over have been taking note over the past few weeks the difference between the college students of the '60s and those of the '70s.

One of the more dramatic indicators of that difference can be found in the current crop of recruits attending the Union County Basic Police Training Academy at Union College. Nine of the 43 recruits are college graduates Just a few short years ago it would have been difficult to reconcile the points of view of the dungaree-clad student and the men in blue.

For the nine, police work represents a challenge that can be better met for their having gone to college and is in no way a step

Thomas Opalack of Clark, a member of the Clark Police Department, majored in geology at Rulgers University. He sees his geology background as an important contribution in identification work and notes that the New Jersey State Police is establishing a forensic geology department.

Daniel J. Pocus of Roselle, who is on the staff of the Union County prosecutor's office, has a bachelor's degree in psychology from Kean College of New Jersey and has completed all the course requirements for a master's degree in behavioral science, also at Kean. He believes his background in psychology will be invaluable as a police officer. He sees the whole field of criminal justice expanding with many new opportunities for law enforcement personnel. His own ambitions for the future include teaching law enforcement and psychology, A pre-law student as an undergraduate at Rutgers, James E. Hay of Clark, a member of the Westfield Police Department, said he had worked as a salesman for a year and found no satisfaction in the job. He is still thinking of going on to law school and wants to see how our system of law works from both ends.

Humberto E. Granado of Elizabeth, also with the Union County prosecutor's office, is a graduate of Colegio Champagnat, Cuba, and has the unlikely distinction of having been exiled from Cuba twice, once by Batista and the second time by Castro. An awareness of the need for Spanish-speaking officers led him into law enforcement.

Richard Weinheimer of Ringwood, a member of the Pequannock Police Department and a graduate of the University of Bridgeport; Charles Archdeacon of Keasby, a member of the Westfield Police Department, and a graduate of Montclair State College; Lawrence Farley of Maplewood, a member of the Roselle Police Department, also graduated from Montclair State College, and Larry Wlazlo of Roselle Park, a member of the Union County Prosecutor's Office, a graduate of Kean College of New Jersey, have all had some teaching experience and believe that their understanding of young people will be a major asset in their role as police officers.

Glenn F. Haussman of Rahway, a member of the Rahway Police Department, holds a bachelor of science degree in economics and business administration from Tusculum College in Tennessee, Even these fields have

Girl Scout council plans open house

Washington Rock Girl Scout Council will sponsor an Open House June 23 at Camp Lou Henry Hoover, its resident camp in Middleville.

All campers, their parents, friends and prospective campers are invited to become familiar with the grounds, inspect facilities and meet the summer resident camp staff. The camp staff, which is primarily college students, includes counsellors from Holland and Germany. Ida Trenner, camp director, announced that applications for camp nurse and waterfront director are still open.

Camp Lou Henry Hoover, which opens its summer season for all girls on June 25, was recently the subject of a controversial state proposal. Under The Green Acres Act, the Department of Environmental Protection had proposed to take the camp's 7.7 acres of waterfront property, thereby jeopardizing the camp's existence. After many discussions with state representatives, the council received word that the proposal had been dropped.

something to offer to law enforcement, he

While each of the nine sees his college studies as an important contribution to police work. their former studies had little to do with their decision to go into the criminal justice field. Farley, who has taught on the elementary. high school and college levels, just was not satisfied with teaching. The son and brother of policemen, he decided to stick with the family

The college grads do differ somewhat from the experienced police officers who are enrolled in the Union College degree program

The new recruits agree that the fact they have been in an educational environment so recently has better attuned them to studying. Most of the college grads have also been exempted from the college courses in psychology and sociology that are now part of the training program, since they have already had these courses in college. This has eased their class load. The current class of recruits is the first to earn up to 12 college credits as part of their basic training.

What it all adds up to, according to Dr. John Wolf, chairman of Union College's Criminal Justice Department and director of the Basic Police Training Academy, is that "the public is getting much better educated policemen. This applies both in terms of the new men who are coming to police work with college degrees or who are launching college careers in conjunction with their careers in law enforcement and the many long-time officers who are coming back to school to earn associate and baccalaureate degrees in criminal justice.'

ADDITIONAL BOND PROPOSALS SHOW NEED FOR STATE PLANNING

Last month the New Jersey Legislature approved a record $2.8 billion state budget for the 1974-75 fiscal year, more than $300 million of which is financed from the anticipated surplus in the 1973-74 budget. This week, the lawmakers begin an extra session to devise a method to finance a "thorough and efficient" public education. The price tag on the governor's proposal stands at approximately $1 billion. $750 million of which would be to finance costs now paid from local property taxes with the remainder going to aid in balancing the state's 1975-76 budget.

This November, New Jersey voters may be faced with as many as three bond referenda on the ballot in addition to constitutional amendment referenda concerning casino gambling and vote residency qualifications. One bond issue bill has been introduced and approved by the enate-$50 million to finance higher education for Vietnam veterans. Two additional measures for Green Acres land acquisition and recreational development ($150 million) and for transportation (up to $600 million) may be introduced and considered by the legislature within the next month. These latest proposals for bond financing serve to point out the need for statewide comprehensive planning, asserts the New Jersey Taxpayers

The state's increasing reliance on bond issues to finance capital projects can be illustrated by a decreasing capital portion of state budgets and the simultaneous increase in cost of debt service, both principal and interest Funds for capital purposes (land and construction) in the original adopted budget for fiscal 1962-63 totaled $59.7 million (12 percent of total). Only $9.3 million, 16 percent of that capital figure, was for debt principal. The adopted 1974-75 state budget provides $123.4 million (4.5 percent of the total budget) for capital purposes. Nearly $35.8 million (29 percent of total capital) is for payment of principal on the $1.1 billion of outstanding state

"The time has come," suggests the New Jersey Taxpayers Association, "to create a permanent State Planning Council and adopt and implement a long-range comprehensive capital planning process in New Jersey state government. One of the principal roles of such a council would be to examine all capital needs and recommend priorities for executive and legislative consideration. Resort to bond issues on a crisis basis without adequate comprehensive capital planning has too long been the pattern in New Jersey. Along with improved planning could come a more balanced financing program which utilizes a greater proportion of pay-as-you-go financing and also provides annual appropriations for advanced planning." Materials & Ideas

The fact is, our residents sell most of our homes. Over 2/3 of our buyers are referred here by friends who've convinced them: Covered Bridge is the best value on the condominium market.

What do they rave about? The homes themselves: 7 different models in 1 and 2-bedroom single-story ranch or duplex homes and first or second-floor apartment homes—with 1, 1½ or 2 full baths. Exteriors of rustic brick and rich wood materials. Patios and balconies that are private and peaceful. Luxury features like dine-in kitchens, enormous closets, air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting.

They praise the marvelous social life, centered around our bustling $2 million Clubhouse, where you can find lively activities during any part of the day or evening! Other things they're sold on: A heated swimming pool. Tennis and shuffleboard courts. An 18hole Executive golf course now under construction with special rates available to residents.

They love our location: just 43 miles from New York (only 56 minutes traveling time via air-conditioned buses that stop at our entrance). And the enormous financial advantages: you get all the tax-saving and equity-building benefits of home ownership with none of the exterior maintenance worries.

"Sales activity, just after our grand opening, has been so great only the final section is left, and at the rate of projected sales, we will probably be sold out by the end of the month," he noted.

Factors he cited as contributing to this boom are the demand for middle-income housing, value, prices and the location of the community.

Since the easing of the gas crisis, homeseekers have been flocking to those home developments designed for the middle-income market. Buyers are now anticipating what builders have known for quite some time-that home

New law raises compensation for disabled veterans

some 2,5 million service-disabled veterans and dependents of veterans who died of serviceconnected disabilities was announced this week by the Veterans Administration.

A new law (Public Law 93-295) signed by President Nixon on May 31 increased disability compensation payments to veterans by 15 to 18 percent, and dependency and indemnity compensation for widews and children by about 17 percent. The statute made the increases retroactive to last May 1.

A separate retroactive check covering the increases for the months of May and June will be sent by the VA to the veterans and dependents by mid-July.

The regular monthly checks due next on July 1 will be paid at the old rate, but the new increases will be reflected in checks received

Aug. 1 and thereafter. VA officials emphasized that no applications or inquiries will be necessary to receive the increased amounts. The increases, they said, will be made automatically by the agency for all veterans and dependents.

The new law boosts payments by 15 percent to veterans who are rated 10 to 50 percent disabled by the VA. Those rated 60 to 100 percent disabled will receive an 18 percent

The monthly payment to single veterans with 10 percent disabilities goes from $28 to $32. For veterans rated 100 percent disabled under VA's general schedule, the monthly sum is increased from $495 to $584. For the most severely disabled veterans the maximum monthly amount is jumped from $1,232 to $1,454.

Veterans whose service-connected disabilities are rated 50 percent or more receive additional allowances if they have dependents. These added allowances are also increased under the new law by 15 percent.

Reducing traffic may not cut pollution Bell Labs releases detailed air quality study

Unexpected results of a detailed atmospheric study by Bell Labs cast serious doubt on the theory that ozone levels-used by the federal government to signal dangerous air quality conditions-can be controlled primarily by limiting automobile traffic. Bell Labs' findings, based on the most detailed study of the lower atmosphere ever undertaken in the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area, were revealed this week by scientists testifying before the Clean Air

Council of New Jersey.

Their analysis showed that Sunday ozone levels are slightly higher than workday levels, despite reduced traffic in the morning hours. Heavy morning traffic has been considered a cause of high ozone levels later in the day. Other pollutants such as hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxides drop significantly on Sunday mornings.

Ozone concentrations exceeding the federal standard of .08 parts per million occurred as frequently on Sundays as on workdays. Similar high levels of ozone also were observed in nonurban areas.

A second important finding is that chemical compounds (aldehydes) characteristic of what is called "smog" are generated in the atmosphere in addition to being emitted directly by cars.

The study also shows that water-containing particles suspended in the air (aerosols) may play a key role in inhibiting the formation of air contaminants such as aldehydes, sulfuric acid and nitrous acid. The 'aerosols "capture' chemical radicals that otherwise would react with hydrocarbons to form the unwanted contaminants. (Hydrocarbons are unburned fuel emitted by cars and chimney stacks Chemical radicals, formed naturally in the air by the action of sunlight, are short-lived molecules that react rapidly with other substances.)

As the Bell System's research and development unit, Bell Labs conducts atmospheric research to understand better the effects pollutants may have on the billions of dollars of Bell System electronic equipment.

Bell Labs chemists and statisticians collaborated on the study, which is unique in its detail. Data used were obtained from 34 sites.

your house today?

Before you answer, consider how long ago you tried to make such an estimate. Even if it was as little as a year ago, your figures probably are out of date, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

A brief look at some elements of the Consumer Price Index of the U.S. Department of Labor show why. For instance, these statistics show that $100 worth of construction in 1967 would have cost $152 in December 1973, an increase of more than 50 percent.

Later CIP figures for specific areas of home construction and maintenance paint an even darker picture.

For instance, $100 worth of house maintenance and repairs in 1967 would have cost $162.20 in March 1974. Figures for the same period show that the cost had risen to $145.10 for the commodities used in house maintenance and repair; $169.40 for the services needed in house maintenance and repair: $179.80 for repainting living and dining rooms; $180.50 for reshingling roofs, and $159.50 for residing

Booklet to explain schools financing

A pamphlet explaining the problems connected with the financing of public education in New Jersey - a major issue confronting the State Legislature - has been produced by the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce and will be distributed during the next two weeks.

Nearly 1.5 million copies of the informative amphlet, printed in cooperation with Focus Education, a non-partisan coalition of public interest groups, will be given to all New Jersey kindergarten through 12th grade students to take home to their parents The pamphlet "does not attempt to promote a particular system of school finance or taxation," according to F.G. Meissner Jr., Educational Committee chairman, "but is aimed solely at contributing to a better-informed citizenry."

The State Supreme Court in April 1973 upheld lower court decision which held that the existing system of financing public education in the state is unconstitutional because it does not provide for an equitable distribution of tax revenues among school districts.

The pamphlet reviews this decision, the financial problems involved and the various alternatives which the State Legislature must consider in developing a program to be implemented by the start of the 1975 school year.

The Elks took the lead 4-3 in the fourth inning on a single from Bruce Mann and a run scoring double from Art Clorici. But then Ehrhardt exploded for eight runs in the sixth inning on doubles from Jim Ehrhardt, and Larry Ehrhardt and solid singles from Glen Scheider, John Johnson, and winning pitcher John Ehrhardt. Jim Ehrhardt added a three-run homer in the seventh. Jack Phillippi was the losing pitcher.

After being shut out in their previous game Luton's erupted with 28 hits and outlasted Paul's American Tire, 19-9. Bub Lynn got Wilpat off to a flying start with a homer in the fourth inning and ther capped off the scoring in the seventh with his second homer of the night, this one with two runners on base. Other players with two hits on the night were Bob Wishart, Steve Jupa, Ben DiPalma and winning pitcher Tom Burke, who limited the Elks to only four hits.

AMICO won their game, also 12-2, over Meeker as they collected 17 hits. Rich Adams, Jim Maxwell, Tom Rossiter, Hank Kienzie, Bill Heady and Tony De Niccho all had two hits for AMICO as Hank Keinzie got the victory.

In what might be called the best pitching duel this season, PBA squeaked by the Book Review, 1-0, behind the six-hit pitching performance of Sam Calabrese. The remarkable part about this pitching effort is that 20 of the 21 outs were all fly balls as Sam allowed only one runner to reach third base.

PBA scored the only run of the game as they reached losing pitcher Norm Pollack for four of their seven hits in the fourth inning. After Gary Faucher and Jim Pantini singled John McCandless lined an RBI single to left. A fine throw from Rich Peiper in left cut down a runner at second and thwarted what could have been a big inning. State board OKs FDU program in construction field

Fairleigh Dickinson University's College of Science and Engineering has been given approval by New Jersey's State Board of Higher Education to institute a four-year program in engineering technology-construction option.

The program, to begin in September, is the first of its kind in New Jersey leading to a bachelor of science degree. It will be offered at the Joseph L. The center, presently under construction, will be devoted exclusively to the study of building construction—the nation's largest industry.

The program, designed to satisfy the general and specific criteria of the Engineers' Council for Professional Development (ECPD) for engineering technology, will consist of an integrated sequence of college level courses aimed at teaching the student to apply scientific and engineering knowledge, methods, and technical skills to the fields of construction. construction project development, and

New 'face' for Route 1

A 1.7-mile stretch of U.S. Route 1 in South Brunswick will get an instant facelift or, more accurately, a close shave, that will restore a smooth riding surface to its bituminous concrete pavement, if a unique milling machine performs as its manufacturer claims.

A demonstration of the new machine is being sponsored by the Department of Transportation Division of Research and Development and the Bureau of Maintenance as part of a continuing search to find better ways to improve highway maintenance. The department invites all officials and engineers with an interest in highways to attend the demonstration on June 25 and 26 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. in the northbound roadway between Deans lane and Franklin road.

Hungarians plan heritage program at Arts Center The Hungarian community of New Jersey has accepted an invitation from the New Jersey Highway Authority Commissioners to present a heritage festival on Saturday, Sept. 14, at the Garden State Arts Center.

The scheduling of the event, ninth heritage festival booked so far this year at the Authority-operated Arts Center, was announced this week by authority chairman George M. Wallhauser Sr. He said a committee representing the Hungarian community at large has been formed and has elected Rev. Incre Bertalan, pastor of the Magyar Reformed Church of New Brunswick, as general chair-

The program will begin at 11 a.m. on the Arts Center plaza and mall with a variety of ac-tivities, ranging from artistic displays to sports events. At 3 p.m., Hungarian talent will present a program of music and dance on the amphitheater stage.

Promotion and ticket sales will be handled through the committee office at 177 Somerset st., New Brusnwick, and by local committees throughout the State.

One more event is to announced for the 1974 series of heritage festivals, Wallhauser said.

The heritage programs were introduced by the Authority to salute various ethnic groups for their contributions to American culture, give added dimmensions to Arts Center programming and provide a source of revenue for the Garden State Arts Center Cultural Fund. The Fund underwrites the free shows that have given entertainment to hundreds of thousands of New Jersey senior citizens, school children, disabled veterans and blind persons, explained Wallhauser.

The committees in charge of the heritage festivals handle all details in planning, engaging talent, promotion and ticket sales.

USDL is 61 years old

DISC 'N DATA

THE PICK OF THE LPS ... UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED: by Captain Beefheart and the Magic Band (MERCURY SRM-1-709). The Captain's 10 selections include: "Upon the My-O-My,"
"Sugar Bowl," "New Electric Ride," "Magic Be," "Happy Love Song," "Full Moon, Hot Sun," "I Got Love on My Mind," "This is the Day," "Lazy Music" and "Peaches" ..

A recent visitor to a tiny recording studio in Los Angeles said, "I've never been to a session that was so full of life and energy. It was rock 'n roll of the highest calibre with so much good feeling it's beyond my descriptive powers.

"Beefheart will be all over the place," the visitor continued. "Every so often he'd stop dead, get dreamy-eyed then grab guitarist Zoot Horn Rollo, quietly explain what he wanted and two minutes later Zoot would be recording something great. The creative flow was incredible.

The group, namely the Magic Band, is made up of Rockette Morton on brass, Alex Sinclair on rhythm guitar, Artie Tripp on drums, Zoot Horn Rollo on guitar and new Magic Band member Mark Marcelino on keyboards. This is the band on the album, the first Beefheart LP in 16 months.

Don Van Vliet is the man's name but he's been Captain Beefheart for several years, albums and record labels. His first release was in 1964 on A&M. He subsequently has appeared on numerous other labels. The moves were the result of various misunderstandings of the Captain and his music. The people around him seemed to want something different, and Don insisted on doing what he thought was best. He must have been right because along the way he's picked up many thousands of followers through such popular albums as "Trout Mask Replica," "Lick My Decals Off, Baby" and "Clear Spot."

Don was born in 1941 in Glendale, Calif. He now lives with his family in Eureka, Calif. He started out to be a sculptor at a very young age (early grade school) and by age 13 had done a weekly TV show with the famous Portuguese sculptor Augustionio Rodriguez and been of-

It was in Lancaster that Don found the name Captain Beefheart. He formed a band called the Soots and they were going to make a movie "Captain Beefheart Meets the Brunt People." "Don't know why or how that came about." Beefheart said. The movie never did materialize, but we now had the Captain.

regulation giving the New Jersey Department of Agriculture authority to take immediate action to eradicate a newly discovered insect pest, the wax scale, from the state. According to William M. Cranstoun, director of the department's Division of Plant Industry, who recommended the regulation, the wax scale has been found in two New Jersey locations. In Riverton Borough in Burlington County, surveys have shown it to be present in about 40 home grounds. In Atlantic Highlands in Monmouth County, the infestation is apparently limited to trees and shrubs around the municipal building.

The wax scale attacks—a wide variety of ornamental plants and shade trees, especially Japanes and Chinese hollies, pyracantha, spirea, ivy, hemlock, euonymus and boxwood. The insects seldom kill plants directly, but serously weaken them reduce growth and Cransoun said that the insecticide would be applied to the foundation plantings of the homes and municpal building involved by members of his staff using hand sprayers. The municipalities involved have promised their cooperation.

Leukemia group forms blood bank for patients

The Essex County Bloodbank is cooperating with the Northern New Jersey Chapter, Leukemia Society of America, in building a blood bank to assure that the blood will be available when needed by leukemia patients, according to Mrs. John Banda of Westfield, chairman of the chapter's blood bank program.

Persons desiring to donate blood to the

Push-buttons do work Traffic signals aid walkers

Those pedestrian pushbuttons on traffic signals located next to crosswalks of State highways really do work. And the N.J. Department of Transportation urges pedestrians to use them.

When the button is pressed, a message goes to the traffic signal. It says, in effect, "I am a pedestrian, not a vehicle. Stop traffic for a longer time, so that I can get across safely." And the traffic signal, adjusted to give pedestrians sufficient time to walk across, does

How do Department engineers decide how much time is needed for pedestrians to walk across a highway at a normal pace? Before making a determination, they must consider such factors as the width of the roadway. amount of traffic, existence of safety islands and the presence of schools or shopping centers nearby.

Of the more than 1,600 traffic signals maintained by the state on its 2,150 miles of state roadways, 85 percent are demandactuated signals which can be made to respond both to vehicles passing over sensors in the road and to pedestrian pushbuttons. The other 15 percent are the less complicated, fixed-cycle type, often used in high-traffic areas.

Most of the traffic-actuated signals are equipped with pushbuttons for pedestrian timing. Signs placed next to the pushbuttons read: "To Cross Street-Push Button-Wait For Green Light.'

When vehicles approach a signalized intersection on side streets the light will change after a predetermined interval. If pedestrians wait for a vehicle to change the light instead of using the pushbutton, they lose the extra time for crossing the road that the pushbutton offers.

If there are no vehicles to actuate the signal, using the pushbutton will stop traffic after a fixed interval and give the pedestrian sufficient walk-time to cross safely.

Traffic signal installations, including those with pedestrian pushbuttons, may cost from, $15,000 to $40,000 depending on their complexity. Some have as many as eight phases to direct eight movements of traffic, with a computer as a guide.

tenance of existing traffic signals, the Department is constantly reviewing the changing needs for traffic signals on State highways and attempting to fill those needs.

Bell sees boost in rates caused by competition

"Unbridled competition" in the telephone industry could "about double home telephone rates in New Jersey," Robert W. Kleinert. president of New Jersey Bell Telephone Co., said this week.

"There is an immediate need to have a full and open public discussion of the effects of competition in the telecommunicatins industry, since it may well lead to higher rates and less than top quality service for the average telephone customer," Kleinert said.

Basic residential service in New Jersey is less than $6.50 per month because a sub-stantial portion of the cost is paid by other services we offer," he said. "If these other services are pre-empted by entrepreneurs of telephone equipment, the price of basic home service will have to go up."

Kleinert said the inroads of competition have been in two areas. One is terminal equipment, which includes telephones, automatic dialers. answering devices and switchboards. The other is in interstate private line services, which are provided by specialized common carriers for "The common carriers have been offering private line long distance services along heavily used routes," Kleinert said. "As a result, they have been able to charge less than the telephone companies for calls.

Kleinert said what these companies have done is "cream skim the most profitable aspects of telecommunications, leaving the Bell System and other telephone companies, which are regulated as public utilities, to provide other costly, but essential, services. As a regulated public utility we are obligated to serve all customers—we cannot pick profitable way of life for the family of Donald Schuck, a Matawan blacksmith who shoes the horses of the Rutgers University campus patrol and the experimental; horses at the Cook College division of the state university.

Children in the Schuck household are Billy, 15; Donna, 13; Lisa, 6; a handicapped child adopted two years ago, and David, 5 months. the family's 25th foster child.

The animal population at the Schuck home currently includes eight dogs, three horses, three ponies, three steers, two pigs, 18 ducks, eight chicks, five cats, two guinea pigs and one

The dogs include the 11th and 12th Seeing Eye dogs raised by Billy and Donna, and a German shepherd which was rejected for dog-guide training because she was afraid of loud noises. Billy and Donna are 4-H Club members who raised the dogs under a program sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of Cook College and Seeing Eye, Inc., of Morristown,

More than 4,000 puppies have been raised under the program in which 4-H Club members give the dogs the experience of being in a typical home during the year between the time the dogs leave their mothers and when they are turned over to Seeing Eye for intensive dogguide training.

The 4-Hers take over the dogs at 2 or 3 months. They housebreak them and discipline them to be good house dogs-but do not teach them tricks or provide any other training.

"If it weren't for the dogs, there wouldn't have been any foster bables," says Mrs. Schuck with a smile.

"When the children first asked to raise dogs I thought, 'How can you give something all that love and care for a whole year and then give it up to someone else?' The I started thinking of all the benefits the blind person would receive and decided the project was so important and worthwhile that I would let them try. Nobody could have told me beforehand what satisfaction we would all feel.

Everybody knows that there are people in this world who need help, but the Seeing Eye program made this come home to all of us. After the kids had raised a few puppies, my husband and I started thinking about raising foster children too.''

The success of that venture radiates from Mrs. Schuck's face as she tends David, now a sturdy child, despite an early struggle resulting from his premature birth.

"You remember every dog and every child of course, and it's very said when they go, but you know you are giving someone a whole new life and that's a wonderful feeling," explained Mrs.

To ease the pain of separation of dog and 4-Her, Seeing Eye tries to make another pup available when it takes the grown pup. If for some reason the dog is rejected for training. the family has the option of keeping the dog When a dog returns to Seeing Eye, it spends three months with a professional trainer. Then

Parkway to begin unleaded gas sale

Unleaded gasoline will be available at all service stations on the Garden State Parkway on July 1 in compliance with federal regulations, the New Jersey Highway Authority announced this week.

Authority Chairman George M. Wallhauser Sr. said that with the introduction of the unleaded products, the Citgo and Texaco stations on the toll road will continue to offer regular gasoline too but will discontinue the sale of premium grades. The Exxon stations. he added, will sell premium as well as regular Texaco has a station at the Montvale service area, Citgo has stations at the Monmouth. Forked River, Atlantic City and Seaville service areas, and Exxon has stations at Brookdale, Vauxhall and Cheesequake.

Wallhauser noted that one of the major oil companies has found that regular and unleaded gasolines satisfy 80 percent of the motorists today. Its studies show, he continued, that in the future, even more automobiles will be able to use these two grades because of the increasing number of vehicles being designed with engines that require an unleaded or regular product.

All stations under the authority's jurisdiction are open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, except Seaville, the southernmost, which is operated seasonally.

Martial arts on TV

A play embodying the philosophical principles of Africa and Asia will be performed by practitioners of the martial arts on "Express Yourself," tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. on Channels 50 and 58. Creator of the production is Calvin Lester, founder of the School of Peace in Then one day Min-jumped into a pond on the Schuck property and, after doggie-paddling around for an hour, emerged-seemingly having washed away all her psychological

Min never caused another day of trouble and breezed through her training after leaving the Schuck household. Most of the dogs raised by the Schucks have been successful, though one had to be done away with because of a severe hip displacement. One of their pups was selected by Seeing Eye for breeding purposes.

Seeing Eye officials note that although many. non-4-H members would like to raise dogs, the program is restricted to 4-H members. The close working relationship built up between the two organizations over the years and the extensive training and supervisory framework maintained by the Rutgers-backed 4-H project assure Seeing Eye that its aims and standards will be met.
