New volunteer force in Mountainside CCD teens find summer a time for service

Our Lady of Lourdes' freshman Confraternity of Christian Doctrine class ended its season of scheduled programs last week, but, according to a group spokesman, "the young people are finding that now, during vacation, is when the action begins."

Leslie Cooper of 1378 Chapel Hill, Mountainside, who had held the CCD classes in her home, noted several requests had been made to the organization for students' aid with various projects, and the young volunteers "stand ready and eager to assist with other worthwhile community efforts."

Mrs. Cooper, citing the teenagers' "enthusiasm and mature sensitivity to the problems of today's world," urged anyone who is aware of a need or neglect where the young people can be of service to contact her. "Our Lady of Lourdes CCD program has taken on an additional meaning: Community, Caring and Dedication," she stated. The young people are ready and able to accept the challenges and want to be part of the change. The class officially ended its season with an outdoor celebration of the Mass, followed by a barbecue at Mrs. Cooper's home. The Rev. Kevin Kortina of Sacred Heart Cathedral, Newark, was the Mass celebrant; class members participated in the liturgy and the music. Scott Masters of Mountainside, a student at the Lawrenceville School, gave the readings.

"This was a unique experience for most of us." (Continued on page 7)

2 Regional grads named winners of '74 PTA grants

Kenneth Jasko, a member of the Class of '74 of Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, and Norma Huber, a recent graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, have been selected to receive the 1974 Mountainside PTA Scholarship Awards. The two $300 grants are awarded to student residents of the borough on the basis of scholastic achievement.

Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jasko of 1246 Knollwood rd., was given his award at the 14th annual recognition assembly at Gov. Livingston, while Norma, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Huber of 111 Park way, received hers at the Jonathan Dayton awards assembly.

Kenneth plans to enter Princeton University in the fall to major in science. While at Gov. Livingston, he held membership in the Ecology Club, the German Club and the Chemistry Club and earned his letter on the tennis team.

He has received a number of other awards, including a citation from the German Honor Society; the State Science Award; first prize in the Summit Bar Association essay contest; a National Merit Scholarship award; and ninth, tenth and 11th grade Regional Math Test Awards. He is a commended student in the biochemistry awards program.

Norma will begin studies in September at Marywood College, Scranton, Pa. She has a continuing interest in the field of home economics and has chosen it as her major.

At Jonathan Dayton, she was a member of the German Club. As part of her extra-curricular activities, she has been an active member of the Bavarian Society of New York. For several years, Norma has been a member of the Mountainside swim team. In addition, she has held a job as a salesgirl.

The Mountainside PTA is pleased to announce the presentation of these awards to two such deserving students, and hopes they will continue to demonstrate their capabilities, and strong sense of responsibility in the future as they have in their high school careers," a spokesman stated.

Library to be closed on Independence Day

The Free Public Library of Mountainside will be closed Thursday, July 4, in observance of Independence Day. It will be open on Friday, July 5, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Free Public Library of Mountainside will be closed Saturdays during July and August.

Scholarship recipients listed by Woman's Club

DORENE ALESSI

DENISE ALESSI

LAURA ROSS

The Mountainside Woman's Club presented its annual scholarships at Gov. Livingston Regional High School's annual recognition program June 12. The presentation was made by the president, Mrs. Joseph P. D'Altrui, to four Mountainside girls.

Dorene and Denise Alessi, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Alessi of 1261 Knollwood rd., will share the Dorothy Sevebeck Memorial Nurse's Scholarship. The girls have been active from the Brownie level in scouting; are members of the Presbyterian Church in Westfield, sing in the Westminster Choir, are officers in the Student Auxiliary at the high school, serve as co-captains of the twirling squad of the Highlander Band and are members of the National Honor Society. They have been accepted at Muhlenberg Hospital School of Nursing.

Laura Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ross of 1260 Poplar ave., has received the Home Economics Scholarship. Laura was a member of the Sub-Junior Woman's Club and has been employed during the past year at Geiger's Cider Mill, Westfield. She belongs to Our Lady of Lourdes Church. She will attend Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va.

Clara Ann Shaffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shaffer of 1033 Ledgewood rd., received the club's general scholarship. She was vice-president of the Leaders' Club, a member of the GAA and past president of the Sub-Junior Woman's Club. She is a graduate of the Barbizon School of Modeling. Clara will attend Moravian College, majoring in liberal arts.

Mountainside will be host for women's diving meet

Mountainside will be the focus of national attention this month—or at least the focus for those Americans interested in diving meets—when the borough's Community Pool plays host to the Women's Junior National outdoor one-meter championship.

The competition, slated for Saturday, July 20, is the summer finals, one of two annual meets held at different sites throughout the country. The winter competition took place several months ago in Houston.

In addition to the women's diving, which starts at 5 p.m., an open three-meter competition for men is scheduled. It will be held after the women's preliminaries at 10 a.m. Both contests are sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States and the New Jersey AAU Association.

The Junior National meet is open to all registered amateur athletes, 12 years of age or older, who are U.S. residents and who have not won first place in any Senior National championships. The men's contest is open to any amateur athlete in the world.

Representing the Mountainside pool in the women's finals will be Kathy Lindenthal, a 16-year-old Short Hills resident who works as a lifeguard at the borough facility. Kathy, a student at Millburn High School, began diving only three years ago, but with daily practice sessions, ranging from three hours during the school term to five hours in the summer, she has worked her way into the national competition.

Kathy is now assisted in her training by John Flood, diving coach at the Mountainside pool.

Old-time music will be featured

The Mountainside 4th of July festivities will have an added feature this year as barbershop harmony comes to the borough. The Yankee Doodle Dandies will provide the old-time music preceding the traditional fireworks display at the Our Lady of Lourdes School on Central Avenue.

The barbershop group is scheduled to appear at 8:15 p.m. in the parking lot adjacent to the fireworks display. The program is under the sponsorship of the Mountainside Recreation Commission.

Volunteers slate annual fireworks display on the 4th

The Mountainside Volunteer Fire Department this week reminded borough residents it will present its annual July 4 fireworks display tomorrow night in the field behind Our Lady of Lourdes School, Central Avenue.

The fireworks, scheduled to start at approximately 9 p.m., will be preceded at 8 p.m. by a "water demonstration," with volunteers showing the various uses of the company's pumper truck. Also on exhibit at the program will be the department's commemorative mug, marking the construction of the new firehouse. The mugs, in a limited edition, are not yet for sale, but will be offered to the public in the future.

The firemen urge those attending the show to obey the no-parking signs which will be posted along Central Avenue and to remain in the roped-off viewing areas. Anyone who has not yet made a donation to the company's annual fund drive may give a contribution to any of the firemen on duty at the display.

MCP announces July 4 schedule

The Mountainside Community Pool July 4th schedule will offer activities for all ages and sexes.

The day's activities will begin with a water decathlon for boys and girls 15 and under at 11 a.m. Eight events are listed for the decathlon.

The afternoon's activities will include foul shooting for men, women, boys and girls; shuffleboard for adult mixed, boys and girls; horseshoes for men, boys and girls; potato sack for men, women, boys and girls, and a watermelon eating contest for boys and girls.

The pool will hold its annual adult buffet pool party Saturday evening, July 13, at 7:30 p.m. The pool will close that day at 5:30 p.m. Admission will be by reservation only.

The Galloping Hill Caterers will provide the buffet featuring roast beef, corned beef, baked Virginia ham, Swedish meatballs, potato salads, tossed salads, baked beans, relishes, coffee and Danish. Music will be provided live by the "Crestones." Reservations are $12 per couple.

Reservations are being taken every day at the pool until 9 p.m. No reservations will be taken after next Tuesday.

Summer courses in drama, art set

Innovative workshops in drama and art are being offered to Mountainside youth this summer. The six-week programs, sponsored by the Union County Cultural and Heritage Commission and the Union County Park Commission, are open to individuals in junior and high school.

The drama workshop will be held at Echobrook School Monday and Friday afternoons from 1:30 to 4 p.m. beginning July 8. The art workshop will be held at Echobrook Tuesday afternoons from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

The Mountainside Recreation Commission is serving as a liaison between the county sponsors and borough residents; individuals interested in additional information on either program may call the borough Recreation office, 333-0915.

IN NATIONAL MEET—Kathy Lindenthal, a lifeguard at the Mountainside Community Pool, shows off diving form during recent practice session. The 16-year-old athlete, who has been diving for only three years, will be among the entrants in the Women's Junior National Outdoor One-Meter Championship, to be held July 20 at the borough facility. ## All-Stars win practice game, open play at home Tuesday

Fifteen players from the Mountainside All-Star Team and their managers went to Berkeley Heights Saturday for a junior baseball practice and game against the rival Berkeley Heights team. The Mountainside All-Stars lived up to their coaches' high hopes by defeating Berkeley Heights 4-2, in six innings. However, the score does not reflect the full story—Mountainside proved to be the dominating team. The All-Stars' Brian Kukon didn't allow a hit for the first five innings. Berkeley Heights players broke through in the sixth inning to score two runs, but Mountainside held its lead for the victory.

The 15 boys who played on Saturday are among the 21 chosen by all Little League Major League managers to try out for the team. The boys include Joe Hoy, Mark Dooley, Mike Young, Billy Rose, Paul Reither, David Weinberg, Chip Kane, Brian Kukon, Jamie Kontra, Tom Fisher, Keith Hanigan, Ken Klebous, Dan Belenets, Joe Huber, Dave Cushman, Ron Zurkle, Dave Isleborn, Kerry

Maguire installed as new president

Clarence W. Maguire took over the presidency of the Springfield Rotary Club last Tuesday at the Mountainside Inn, Rt. 22, Mountainside, from the retiring president, Seymour Rosenblum.

The new Rotary head has been a resident of Springfield for about 40 years. His family has been represented in leading roles in township government. His wife's grandfather, Reuben G. Marsh, was township clerk from 1866 to 1883, and her brother, Reuben H. Marsh, was township building inspector during the 1930s and '40s. A great-grandfather, Joseph Marsh, once lived in the historic Cannon Ball House, Morris avenue, in the early 1890s.

Maguire resides at 291 Morris ave. and has been owner of C.W. Maguire Associates, national sales representatives for Luster Products Co., Victory road, Springfield, since 1950. He and Mrs. Maguire have four children. Mrs. Louis Quinton and Charles, Robert and Ronald Maguire. The latter is also a member of Rotary here.

In assuming the leadership, Maguire asked the club members to step up their efforts for the third annual Heritage Day and flea market to be held Sunday, Sept. 8, at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Mountain avenue. Tickets went on sale this week at $1 per person.

Other new officers seated included: vice-president, Robert Johnson; treasurer, Bernard Borus, and secretary, Dr. Fred Baruchin. The new directors are Leo Gattel, Charles Remlinger, Milton Keshen and Rosenblum.

Joan Tiplitz (special service) will marry Peter Dichter of New York City on July 13 at the St. Moritz Hotel in New York City. The couple will then travel to Spain.

Nancy Mumford (physical education) will be wed to Dennis Dougherty of Springfield on Aug. 11.

Libby Heller (reading) will retire to await the birth of her baby this summer.

Al Rothbard (industrial arts) will be floor supervisor at Hammond's School Supplies Company in Union. Art Krupp (math) will be playground director at the Valley Road School in Clark while Bill Jones (math) will teach summer school and then work for the Columbus Mutual Insurance Agency at J. W. Manhold Associates at Madison.

Resigned football coach Ted Arno will work in a weight training program at Linden, while resigned soccer coach John Esposito will play with the U.S. soccer team throughout the country. Resigned wrestling coach Robert Meyer will be an instructor at the Springfield College wrestling camp in Massachusetts.

John Swedish (physical and driver education) will teach summer school and visit New York and Canada.

Committee cites Thieu resolution

Sylvia Zisman of Springfield was honored June 26 at a meeting of the New Jersey Citizens Committee for a Sane World for her work in bringing before the public the issue of prisoners and "criminal acts" of the Thieu regime in South Vietnam.

At the meeting, held in the Committee's Montclair headquarters, the group honored her for her activating a group of concerned area citizens and for being instrumental in getting a resolution passed by the Union County Board of Freeholders and the Springfield Township Committee. The Freeholders' resolution reads as follows:

"Whereas, over 50,000 Vietnamese have died in the fighting since the Paris cease-fire agreement was signed on Jan. 27, 1973; and

"Whereas, the condemnation of this immoral and deadly hostility has been loudly proclaimed by millions of Americans and countless citizens of other nations; and

"Whereas, the spirit of the agreement would prohibit the United States government from supporting the Thieu regime in Saigon with military aid and civilian advisors; and

"Whereas approximately 80 percent of the Thieu budget is provided by American tax dollars; and

"Whereas, some 200,000 political prisoners are still being detained; and

"Whereas, substantial means of material sustenance, holding potential relief for many economically hard-pressed Americans, is being siphoned into the cistern of the Vietnamese fiasco; and

"Whereas, the implementation of the cease-fire agreement represents an urgent moral and practical imperative:

"Now, therefore, be it resolved, that the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union solicit the support of the residents of Union County and others, urging them to contact their U.S. senators and congressmen and demand that our government cease further violations of the Paris cease-fire agreement; and

"Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Hon. Richard M. Nixon, President of the United States, and to U.S. Senators Harrison A. Williams Jr. and Clifford F. Case, and Union County congressional members Joseph G. Minish, Matthew Rinaldo and Edward J. Patten."

TREAT STAINS SOON

Your favorite soap or detergent could well be the best stain remover in your household. It's always on hand, inexpensive and safe to use.

Next time you find a problem stain on a washable fabric, try one of the following methods:

For blood or meat juices: soak soiled area in cold water about 30 minutes. If stain remains, work soap or detergent into the stain, rinse and launder as usual.

For chocolate, gravy or lipstick stains: work paste of soap or detergent into stain. Launder as usual.

The longer stains are left on fabrics, the more difficult they are to remove. In some instances, spots will remain regardless of the procedure used.

To remove milk, egg or ice cream stains, soak fabric in cold water, rub paste of soap or detergent into stain and launder as usual.

To get rid of paint splatters, soak fabric in turpentine or paint remover. Rub paste of soap or detergent into stain. Launder as usual.

Publicity Chairmen are urged to observe the Friday deadline for other than spot news. Include your name, address and phone number.

Wrestling class part of program at Westfield's Y

Wrestling—the Olympic free-style way—will highlight the Westfield YMCA's summer sport school which begins July 22. A week-long tournament will finish up the class, with light, middle and heavyweight divisions. It is open to Mountainside boys.

One of the oldest of sports, wrestling is also "probably the finest of our developmental sports," said Y associate physical director Dennis Reinhard, who suggests that training in fundamentals is good practice for boys who will be entering leagues this year.

"It's also a widely popular recreational sport for many former college intra-mural wrestlers who enjoy it too much to give it up," said Reinhard, who will teach the course.

Chief purposes of the sport are developing physical fitness and strength, developing protective skills and developing self-confidence.

"It's a good sport for the thinker, because wrestling's more than learning how to use a skill. If you're pinned, you have to rely on your memory and experience to decide how to maneuver your way out."

A dozen maneuvers will be taught including basic takedowns, escapes and reversals, breakdowns and controls and pin holds.

A class for boys ages 12 to 14 will be held from 8 to 10 a.m. Monday through Friday from July 22 till Aug. 2—a total of 22 hours of instruction.

A class for boys ages 9 through 11 will be held from 10 a.m. until noon, Monday through Friday, July 22 through Aug. 2. "It's the way professional and scholastic athletes train—daily and it pays off in superior skills," said Reinhard.

Accidentally on purpose Counselors in safety project

Counselors and directors of the Westfield YM-YWCA Four Seasons Outdoor Center spent all last weekend having accidents. Their aim: to make sure youngsters attending the Center's two day camps, families attending recreational programs and groups using the center for the day or weekend this summer won't have any.

Program director Mike Healy, 24, who is studying for a master's degree in public health at Columbia University School of Public Health, explained the philosophy of the two-day training programs for counselors: "The camp is new. Our emergency and lifesaving equipment is brand new and the best."

"But we intend to have our staff so safety-conscious and so alert that we never have to use it."

Consequently, a major portion of the two-day safety training at the Westfield YMCA and YWCA's 153-acre facility in Hunterdon County's Lebanon Township was in ways of preventing accidents on the waterfront, on the Center's 32 environmental education stations, and on the archery range.

"An awareness of public health plays an important role when you bring people together in an environment where enjoyment—and hazards—are built in. Our 153 acres are rugged, which of course, is its great attraction for suburban youngsters."

Healy, who spent two years with the Peace Corps in the Fiji Islands as a public health worker in a small clinic and mission school teacher, found a staff with extensive background in safety and first aid.

"One of the assets of the group is the number of specialists who come with an accident-prevention background in their specialty," he said.

Thus, he said, waterfront director Marge Berger was ready to contribute ideas on the best way to make youngsters responsible in the water.

Field sports director Roger Weinke emphasized proper techniques of "loading" a bow and arrow.

Environmental education director Dody Spach and environmental work camp director Meg Pakenham emphasized the importance of all counselors having their children with them at all times. Tours of the trails centered around poisonous plant identification, types of animals likely to be encountered, use of compass to find directions and map reading.

"Inevitably, there will be bruises and scrapes. We intend to see that's all," said Healy. But he said he is impressed with the emergency equipment available for use—including air splints, resuscitator and the latest scoop stretcher which slips under an injured person, enabling him to be lifted without moving him.

On the waterfront, they staged every conceivable type of water accident—from the loss of an oar and how to retrieve it, to rescues with buoys, lifelines, lifepeeps, walking searches and latest techniques of artificial respiration—"even though we have the resuscitator."

Every counselor took part in the demonstrations. Each was supplied with a first aid kit—"and a manual, so they won't have to use it."

Cardiac massage, how to apply tourniquets, how to use air splints and man the stretcher were also demonstrated and practiced. The Center is open this summer for two day camps for boys in grades 1-6, a girls' day camp, family recreation and environmental education and use by religious, scout and church groups.

"Fortified by an experienced well trained staff and equipment we would love to have had our own Fiji Clinic," Healy predicted "a safe and sane summer for all."

Mrs. McLaughlin; services are held

A funeral Mass was offered Saturday in St. Mary's Church, Wilkes Barre, Pa., for Mrs. Sarah McLaughlin, 99, of Mountainside, who died June 26 in Overlook Hospital, Summit. Born in Girardville, Pa., Mrs. McLaughlin had lived in Mountainside for 19 years. She was the widow of John J. McLaughlin.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Josiah Britton of Mountainside and Mrs. Marion Ott of Springfield, Va.; a son, John J. McLaughlin of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Catherine Van de Walker of Philadelphia; nine grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were completed by Smith and Smith (Suburban), 415 Morris ave., Springfield.

Prusak receives degree in history

Conrad E. Prusak of 1535 Sky Top dr., Mountainside, was awarded an undergraduate degree in history at the 129th commencement ceremonies of the University of Notre Dame May 19.

More than 2,200 students from the four undergraduate colleges of arts and letters, business administration, engineering and science received degrees at the ceremonies, attended by 12,500 persons in the Athletic and Convocation Center.

Women students were admitted to Notre Dame undergraduate colleges for the first time in 1972, and this year's valedictory address was delivered by Marianne O'Connor of Nashville, Tenn., an engineering student with the top grade average in the University.

Born in Westfield, Mrs. Schweitzer had been a Mountainside resident for 50 years. She was a member of the Community Presbyterian Church of Mountainside.

Mrs. Schweitzer is survived by her husband, John, to whom she had been married for 48 years; a daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Maxwell of Mountainside; a brother, Adam Nuernberger of Westfield, and four grandchildren.

Letters To Editor

BAND PARENTS

On behalf of the Band Parents Organization of the Gov. Livingston Regional High School Highland Bands, Berkeley Heights, I wish to express their sincere gratitude and appreciation for your support this past school year.

In winning the first place trophy at the Elk's Parade in Wildwood on June 8, our performers ended the third consecutive year the bands are undefeated.

This would not all be possible without the interest and concern of many such as yourself, your staff and your many readers who followed and supported these dedicated students on the field of competition, at exhibitions and the many fund-raising events.

I extend to you their wishes for continued success in serving the people of this area with a quality community newspaper.

JOAN R. ALESSI

'THE VOTING BOOTH'

On June 25 I sat for 4½ hours at the Board of Education meeting of our town. It was quite a revelation. As a concerned citizen, I urge you to go to these meetings, watch and listen.

I've attended a number of coffees for candidates over the years, but I have been most remiss in attending board meetings. This was a grave error. If you are a voter and are concerned about the quality of the educational programs of our schools, please also become an informed, intelligent voter. Find out how the board member you helped elect is carrying out the program you think you have supported.

I hasten to say that some really fine things are being done by the board, but there are definitely serious problems and much need for improvement. Some of these problems can only be solved in the voting booth.

Rinaldo on tax reforms: Go after the big fish first

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R., 12th Dist., N.J.) this week urged the House Ways and Means Committee to "go after the big fish in the tax loophole pool, rather than add new tax burdens to the low- and middle-income wage earners."

Rinaldo specifically objected to three committee recommendations that, he said, would "add to, rather than ease, the burden on the average taxpayer." Rinaldo said he opposed Ways and Means recommendations that deductions for state gasoline taxes be eliminated and that the threshold for medical expense deductions be raised. The proposed elimination of sick leave pay exclusion, he added, would "work a genuine hardship" on many government employees who have retired on disability pensions under the age of 65.

Heart Auxiliary installs officers, lists scholarships

Mrs. Margaret Menzaco of 2701 Orchard ter., Linden, was installed as president of the Ladies Auxiliary of American Heart Association, Union County Chapter at a dinner meeting held recently at the McManus Hall, Linden.

Other officers installed were president-elect, Mrs. Catherine Polancic of Elizabeth, first vice president, Mrs. Marie Moscaritolo of Kenilworth; treasurer, Mrs. Lena Aaron, of Linden, recording secretary, Mrs. Anne B. Reklaitis coresponding secretary, Mrs. Helen Hickey, sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Mae Beyer parliamentary, and Mrs. Janet McAndrews, all of Elizabeth. Mrs. Evelyn Leonard, executive director of the Heart Association was installing officer.

Mrs. Menzaco and Mrs. Polancic presented the Henriette E. Froehlich Scholarship Awards to Georgiana Paglia of Linden and Elizabeth Roberts of Cranford. Both are last year students of the Union County Technical Institute of Scotch Plains, where the ultimate goal will be an associate degree in physical therapy. Mrs. Dorothy Shattner, head of the department was guest speaker. The auxiliary has presented scholarships in the amount of $3,700.00 to date.

Members of the scholarship committee include, Mrs. Menzaco, chairman, Mrs. Polancic, Lena Pipoli, Mrs. Moscaritolo, Brother David of Alexian Brothers Hospital, Dr. Norman Schactel of Muhlenberg Hospital, and Michael Neir of St. Elizabeth Hospital. Dr. Michael Sutula of Memorial General Hospital has been added to the committee.

"I believe that the Ways and Means Committee should be concentrating its efforts on closing the big loopholes through which 400 people could have incomes of over $100,000 while paying no taxes in 1972," Rinaldo said. "The cause of tax reform should not be advanced at the expense of the little man who already pays a disproportionate share of the burden of running our government."

Rinaldo noted that the Ways and Means Committee is completing its two months of hearing on tax reforms legislation. "No one can question the goal of simplifying tax forms," he said. "But these proposed changes would have the effect of eliminating reasonable and justifiable deductions currently recognized by the IRS."

The Union County lawmaker said he had written to Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee to express his concern over the panel's package of recommendations.

"So often in the past, tax reform has turned into another way of increasing taxes," he said. "I have urged the committee members not only to reconsider their actions in these specific areas, but to re-dedicate themselves to the relief, through genuine tax reform, of the oppressive and unreasonable share of the tax load that middle- and low-income Americans now carry."

GOP Freeholder candidates attack Byrne's tax plans

The lack of public confidence in government spending, the absence of controls against future spending and the challenge to local control of education were cited by the Republican candidates for the Union County Board of Freeholders in a joint statement rejecting Governor Byrne's school funding and tax reform proposals.

Incumbent Freeholders Matthew H. Nilsen and Rosemarie Sinnott and their running mate, Westfield attorney Robert C. Doherty, cited earlier government promises of property tax relief "that never materialized" in rejecting the plan.

"The citizens of our state recall that the sales tax, which began at 3 percent but soon climbed to 5 percent, was heralded as the savior of the property taxpayer when it was introduced in 1966," Nilsen said. "Despite those promises, our property tax bills have continued to climb giving us the highest effective property tax rate in the nation."

He said lottery funds were also understood to be a means of reducing property taxes "but, of course, this did not happen either. Now the Governor is asking for an income tax 'to reduce property taxes' but his program lacks the controls to assure that local property taxes will go down and stay down."

Mrs. Sinnott challenged the governor's program as "too broad and non-responsive" to the court mandate by including capital and debt service costs, court and welfare costs and funds required to close an anticipated budget gap. "I believe the public is conditioned to accept a new broad-based tax for the purpose of increasing state support of elementary and secondary education, but it is unfair to the taxpayers to include $400 million of other costs under the umbrella of a schools funding program," Mrs. Sinnott said. "The funding program for other government services besides education 'should rise or fall on their own merit.'"

Dietz returned by Dems; financial report issued

Christopher V. Dietz of Rahway was unanimously re-elected to his third term as chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee at the group's annual meeting in Cranford last week.

Dietz, a member of the law firm of Weinberg, Manoff and Dietz of Springfield, presented the county committee members with the party's first annual financial report, audited by Touche Ross and Co., certified public accountants, revealing that the Union County Democratic Party raised $164,684 during the past year and spent $159,325.

Calling the financial report an "historic landmark in the Democratic Party's commitment to political reform," Dietz said it was "the first time, anywhere, that a major party organization has revealed its financial operations to public scrutiny." He called for a similar disclosure by the Union County Republican Party.

Other party officers installed were first vice-chairman, Catherine Lehr of Linden, a member of the Union County Board of Elections; second vice-chairman, Abe Rosensweig, Elizabeth third ward councilman; third vice-chairman, George Woody, Roselle Democratic chairman; fourth vice-chairman, Roberta Grayson of Westfield, a member of the Union County Board of Taxation.

Western Electric offers speakers

A variety of topics and speakers is available to program chairmen of area service clubs and associations through the speakers' bureau at Western Electric Company's Springfield facility.

According to Max Fagan Jr., speakers' bureau coordinator at the facility, persons interested in obtaining programs for meetings can contact him at 467 724 any time during the day and make arrangements for a presentation.

Topics of talks available range from "The Businessman and the Community" and "Legacy For All," a chronology of the history of black scientists in the United States since the Civil War, to such things as "Communications in the Space Age."

UC alumni elect Ward president

Jack Ward of Maplewood, a member of the Class of '49, was elected president of the Union County Alumni Association at the annual reorganization meeting held in the faculty lounge at the Cranford campus. Ward succeeds Clarence Menzer Jr., of Fanwood, Class of '47, in the presidency. Menzer was elected second vice-president for the coming year.

Other alumni officers elected include Frank D'Antonio of Cranford, Class of '74, first vice-president; Miss Suzanne Skillin of Cranford, '58, recording secretary; Miss Dorothy Gasorek of Elizabeth, '44, corresponding secretary, and Miss Bonnie Bendlin of Garwood, '68, treasurer.

Committee chairmen for the coming year include: Frank Heiser of 549 Livingston rd., Linden, '47, finance, and Mrs. Jacqueline Seeland of 919 Savitt pl., Union, '48, activities.

Ward announced that future meetings of the Union County Alumni Association will be held the second Monday of each month with the exception of July. The next meeting will take place on Aug. 12.

Movie on 'Dirty River' to be shown at Trailside

"How To Make A Dirty River" is the title of a film to be shown at The Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation on Sunday, July 7. It will be presented at 2 p.m., 3 p.m. and 4 p.m.

The same day the Trailside Planetarium will have a program on "Seven Sisters." This look at a well known cluster of stars is scheduled at 2, 3 and 4. It will be repeated on Wednesday, July 10, at 8 p.m.

As the Planetarium has a seating capacity of only 35 persons, tickets issued at the Trailside office for Sunday performances are on a first-come, first-served basis. Children under eight years of age are not admitted.

The public is encouraged to visit and enjoy the Trailside facilities which are available during July and August daily except Fridays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Trailside programs are announced on a Park Commission "events" telephone, 352-8410.

Concert set Wednesday

The Union County Orchestra and Band School will present a free concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday, July 10, at Roselle's Locust School.

The program will include selections from "Oliver," "Men of Ohio," "Irish Tune from County Derry," "Zampa Overture," "March Militaire Francaise" and "George Washington Bicentennial March," according to Casimir V. Bork, school director.

The 42nd annual summer school began a five-week session June 24 with 200 students from Union County communities.

C of C post to Meyner

Former Governor Robert B. Meyner has been named chairman of the governmental affairs division of the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce, according to Edward R. Eberle, chairman of the board of directors.

"No one is better qualified to assume this volunteer leadership position than Bob Meyner," said Eberle. "This vital phase of the Chamber's program includes the Municipal Affairs Committee and special tasks forces dealing with national and state affairs."

Meyner, a member of the Chamber's board of directors, served as the 53rd Governor of the State of New Jersey and is a partner in the law firm of Meyner, Landis & Vernon, Newark.

Ramble planned in Reservation

A six-mile ramble through the South Mountain Reservation is scheduled for members and guests of the Union County Hiking Club on Saturday. Chris Kaufman of Rahway will conduct the leisurely walk, beginning at 10:00 a.m. at the Locust Grove.

This is the only club activity of the weekend. Information about the Hiking Club may be obtained through The Union County Park Commission's recreation department.

Report from Washington

By Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo

The spirit of independence that compelled the American colonies to break away from England in a revolt against taxes and the power of the king is being reborn in America through the concept of federal revenue sharing.

For the first time in more than half a century, money and power are starting to shift the other way—from Washington back to 39,000 units of local government.

Whether we call it creative federalism or not, it is an old concept in America that citizens and political leaders at the grass roots can manage their own affairs better than bureaucrats in Washington.

In the first year of federal revenue sharing in New Jersey, the state was able to turn up a surplus of $300 million. At the same time, the state increased aid to local education by $40 million. On top of this, local municipalities in

New Jersey received an estimated $109 million. On Monday, communities in Union County will be receiving their final check for fiscal 1974, bringing the total in federal revenue sharing in Union County to $7,820,486.

On an individual basis, the county government will receive the largest amount, $2,420,980. The municipalities will receive the following amounts: Elizabeth, $1,546,604; Plainfield, $629,285; Union, $545,066; Rahway, $319,349; Roselle, $220,682; Also Fanwood, $47,700; Garwood, $39,999; Kenilworth, $55,760; Linden, $666,483; Mountainside, $26,805; New Providence, $75,441; Roselle Park, $83,189; Summit, $88,895; Westfield, $120,340; Berkeley Heights, $90,771; Clark, $118,759; Cranford, $209,508; Scotch Plains, $139,537; Springfield, $105,511; Hillside, $288,520; and Winfield, $11,302.

The goal of this revenue sharing has been to return more decision making to local government. I favored this concept as long ago as 1968 when the New Jersey Senate approved my revenue sharing bill. Since then local communities have shared $25 million a year in funds from the sales tax.

Nationally, the total amount distributed in 1974 came to $6,050,000,000 and that sum will be increased by $150 million in the new fiscal year.

Fully 60 percent of the funds spent by state governments went for education, thus helping to stabilize and in some places lower taxes.

The Commerce Clearing House reported that with the advent of federal revenue sharing in 1972, states like New Jersey were able to pull themselves out of the red without new taxes. Indeed, after the red ink of the previous year, the various states produced a surplus of $3.1 billion.

Revenue sharing also produced some revealing evidence of local responsibility in spending money. Heading the list of expenditures was environmental protection, law enforcement, street and road repairs, fire protection and parks and recreation. These five categories accounted for almost 58 percent of the total funds spent in the first full year of revenue-sharing.

Contrary to the arguments of some of the critics, who favor centralized government spending and control in Washington, the cities and suburbs did not go haywire in passing out revenue sharing funds for salaries and new jobs. Only 3.7 percent of the funds went to supplement municipal salaries, according to a study of 212 cities with populations of 50,000 and more by the Tax Foundation.

What really happened, according to this survey, is that the local communities tried to stabilize taxes and improve essential services. But very few embarked on innovative and bold programs that could not pay any immediate dividends in services.

It is obvious from the Tax Foundation survey that few cities squandered federal revenue sharing funds. Very few hired or assigned personnel to handle the administrative aspects of revenue sharing, in contrast to other programs of categorical grants that came out of Washington during the Great Society.

Red tape was cut to a minimum. Only 17 of 212 cities reported they were dissatisfied with revenue sharing, mainly because they wanted more money. Almost all favored the concept because it was easy to administer, did not require complicated applications and there were no delays in getting the money.

Hundreds of local communities have used revenue sharing to bolster their shaky financial condition, to revive lagging public services, stabilize or lower taxes and to revive confidence in themselves.

While revenue sharing is by no means a cure-all for American cities, it is easing their financial crisis and has served to puncture the misconception that Washington must run everything.

For And About Teenagers

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: I have a very big problem with my husband. He thinks that I should stay home 24 hours a day and not go anywhere at all. I have to make him mad just to see my mother. He says he can't stand my mother. She only lives two miles away. He won't even get us a place to stay. We have been married several months now and have a baby. We are staying at his parents' home. He goes whenever he wants to, wherever he wants to, and at any time. What should I do?

OUR REPLY: You have a serious problem here and we suggest you discuss this with a mature adult, such as a clergyman, who can help you and your husband settle down into a workable, mature and loving marriage. The way things are going will only lead to disaster. Besides being a married couple, you and your husband are parents, and the two of you are responsible to see that your child grows up in a happy and loving home environment. If you don't know a local clergyman, perhaps your family doctor can help you or he may know of someone who can.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFURT, KY. 40601.

MARY E. ACITO

Mrs. Acito sales top million mark

Mary E. Acito of Mountainside, a sales associate with Rorden Realty Inc. of Westfield, has sold and listed more than $1,000,000 worth of property over the last nine months, it was announced this week by Warren C. Rorden, president of the firm at 225 Lenox ave.

Mrs. Acito becomes the first announced sales associate from the Westfield Board of Realtors to qualify for the Million Dollar Club Award this year. The award will be presented at the New Jersey Realtor Convention in Atlantic City in December.

Mrs. Acito, associated with the Rorden firm since May of last year, has been a member of the Westfield Board of Realtors since September 1972.

Mrs. Acito is the first woman appointed to the Mountainside Planning Board. She resides at 263 Old Tote rd. with her husband Charles and their two sons, Neal and Marc.

OBITUARIES

McLAUGHLIN—On June 26, Sarah, of Mountainside.
SCHWEITZER—On June 29, Anna, of 244 Summit rd.

Glossary: alveolar bone—The specialized, outer layer of jawbone which supports teeth or dentures. (It is different from all other bone in some ways.)
Periodontium—All the tissues surrounding the teeth from inner bone to outer membrane.
Occlusion—The way the teeth meet when upper and lower jaws are biting or chewing.

Can artificial implants become effective tooth replacements? Research funded by the National Institute of Dental Research, one of the National Institutes of Health, is under way to answer this question. Reported successes hold out promise for artificial implants, but failures after a few years of apparent success temper the optimism. If implants could be perfected, they would be a boon to the many millions of people with missing teeth. So great is the need for tooth replacements that, even if no more Americans were to lose any more teeth, the backlog would demand attention until the year 2,000. Suitable implants could relieve the problem in two ways: (1) by replacing individual teeth, or (2) by serving as anchoring posts for partial or full dentures.

The requirements for successful dental implants are even more exacting than those for medical implants. Medical implants are completely sealed inside body tissues but a dental implant not only penetrates into bone but it also must penetrate through the overlying soft tissue and into the mouth cavity. Here, infection is an ever-present danger. To meet the challenge, the Dental Institute supports systematic testing of implants. Implants vary in either the materials from which they are made, or in design, or in techniques of implantation. One type being tested is a plastic replica of the natural tooth. For more than 10 years, one team of scientists has tested this type in the baboon with success. Other trials with plastic tooth replicas, however, have met with mixed results. The plastic replicas are called endosteal implants because their roots penetrate bone. Another type, the subperiosteal implant, also derives its name from the way it is implanted—subperiosteally or beneath the periodontium. Artificial teeth of this type are supported by a saddle-shaped structure that rests over the alveolar bone. A stump on the saddle penetrates the overlying gums, and a natural-looking tooth crown is placed over the stump. The transosteal implant, has a supporting structure which penetrates through the entire thickness of the alveolar bone.

For each type, different materials and designs are being tested. For example, some endosteal implants have metallic, blade-shaped roots, some are shaped like screws. Other implants have a base that looks like a tripod of metal pins which anchor the tooth to the supporting bone. The implants are made of such materials as plastics, ceramics, carbon or metal. Some roots are made porous in an effort to gain attachment to periodontal tissues and to jawbone. Recent findings indicate that fabricating roots with holes of appropriate size allows either natural connecting fibers or bone to grow inward and to anchor the implants in place mechanically. This idea is being explored with several materials.

Certain materials or designs may prove superior, but research also could show that technique, not material or design, is the crucial factor. Perhaps splitting the implant or keeping it out of occlusion, would eliminate stress. The implant would not then be used for chewing or for biting until healing is complete and the surrounding tissues can handle it.

the class," a spokesman for the teenagers noted, "and was received with a very positive response, for they discovered that one truly does feel 'close to God in a garden'."

Commenting on the programs, Mrs. Cooper said, "I am so grateful for the concern and time so freely given by these professionals who were so willing to share their knowledge and experiences with our group. I feel if more community-minded people were willing to take an active part in giving direction and support to our young people, we would find the future in good hands for indeed it would be in God's hands."

Before the closing program of the year, the class had participated in two talk sessions at Mrs. Cooper's with Mountainside residents Dr. Charles Dooley and Jeff Torborg, former catcher for the St. Louis Cardinals.

All-Stars

Lesslauer, Jim Riffle, Pat Mays and Matt Kukon

These are the boys from whom a final 15 will be chosen to play other communities' All-Star teams in official games. The team will be managed by Chuck Fericola, who will be assisted by Ron Ivory and Bob Ball.

The managers have high hopes for this year's team. In the past, no Mountainside All-Star team has won more than two games. Fericola said he feels that his team will be one of the best Mountainside had ever had. The 10 game schedule runs from this Tuesday to Aug. 8. The opening game will be played Tuesday at Mountainside's Major League field.

N.J. opens rest area

The first fully-equipped rest area along a New Jersey highway was opened to the public Monday. The rest area is located on northbound Interstate Route 295 near the Delaware Memorial Bridge in Upper Penns Neck Township in Salem County to serve motorists entering the state from the south.

Situated in a 40-acre landscaped site, the rest area includes a large, tree-shaded picnic area with 20 picnic tables, drinking fountains, 12 benches, separate parking areas for 70 cars and 20 trucks, and sanitary disposal and potable water facilities for recreational vehicles.

The glass and brick reception and service building will be open from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. It houses an information desk, rest rooms with hot and cold running water, drinking fountains and public telephones.

Outdoor facilities will be open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Seven Department of Transportation employees have been assigned for maintenance and security purposes.

The Department of Labor and Industry, in cooperation with the transportation department, will staff an information desk during the summer season until Labor Day. Maps, brochures and other information for travelers will be available.

Drinking a factor in boat accidents

GOVERNORS ISLAND, N.Y.—Collisions between pleasure crafts is the most frequent accident among New Jersey boaters. During 1973, nearly one-half of all recreational boats involved in small craft mishaps were in collisions. Coast Guard officials made this announcement in a summer boating safety message to New Jersey boating enthusiasts.

Lieutenant Bob Miller of the Third District Boating Safety Office said, "Most collisions are a result of the boat operator being unfamiliar with boat handling and the rules of the road, and inattentiveness caused by excessive drinking."

Miller said the majority of boating accidents occur between noon and 6 p.m. on weekends, with the peak of these mishaps taking place between the hours of 2 and 4. It is around this time of day the effects of being under a hot sun and too much alcohol tend to make individuals drowsy and careless. The boat operator should be extra alert during this period.

A report also showed an increase in the number of Garden State boating injuries, but a drop in lives lost, during 1973.

Coast Guard stations along New Jersey shores have come to the aid of hundreds of boaters during the first five months of 1974. Many calls come into the Coast Guard telling of an overdue boat. In cases such as these the boat operator can help himself and the Coast Guard if a "float plan" has been left with a friend or relative. The plan should include items as destination, expected time of return, description of boat, survival gear and radio equipment on board. This information is necessary to the Coast Guardsmen responsible for laying out search plans.

A boating accident report must be filed by the boat operator within 48 hours with the state where the boat is registered if: there is loss of life, disappearance of an individual, such as in a man overboard; a person loses consciousness, receives medical attention or is disabled more than 24 hours. If property damage exceeds one hundred dollars a report must be completed within five days. Accident forms may be obtained from the Coast

Guard or local marine police. If you are new to boating or an old salt who wants to take a refresher course there are boating education programs offered by the state, the American Red Cross, U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary and the U.S. Power Squadron. There is also a home study text developed by the Coast Guard titled "The Skipper's Course." This book may be ordered by mail for $1.50 from the Consumer Product Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81099

Carefree living at Sylvan Glades

Carefree living and the prospect of well-equipped recreation centers are proving especially attractive to young home buyers at Prel Corp. Sylvan Glade Park in Brick Town.

"Today's young family doesn't want to be tied down to the time consuming and sometimes expensive maintenance problems that usually go with home ownership," says a Prel spokesman. "So they find the condominium aspect of Sylvan Glade Park most attractive. Grass cutting, snow removal, outside painting and similar tasks are performed by professionals," he adds. "This will give residents time for more enjoyable pastimes; especially when the community's two recreation centers have been completed."

The planned leisure facilities have been a major feature ever since the community's grand opening.

"But now," says the spokesman, "there's even greater interest, thanks to the midwinter gasoline pinch. It really emphasized the convenience of living in a community with its own, easily accessible recreation complex."

Sylvan Glade Park may be reached via Exit 91 of the Garden State Parkway; then bear left—Herbertsville exit—to Rt. 549, then right to Burnt Tavern road. Turn right over the parkway to Lanes Mill road (first left turn). Turn right on Herbertsville road to the community. Models and sales offices are open daily and Sunday.

Prel Corporation, headquartered in Saddle Brook is a leading residential-commercial builder and property developer with operations in New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Florida. The firm's stock is traded on the American Stock Exchange.

Matthew, Hawn in Park movies

Walter Matthau plays the title role of "Charley Varrick," which arrived yesterday on a double bill with "Sugarland Express" on screen at the Park Theater, Roselle Park. The contemporary action drama, filmed in color, also stars Joe Don Baker, Felicia Farr, Andy Robinson, Sherree North and John Vernon. Based on the novel, "The Looters" by John Reeve, the picture concerns a "Small bank" rober, Varrick, who makes an attempt on the "big bank" which unknown to him, belongs to "The Mafia." That's when the case begins. "Sugarland Express" stars Goldie Hawn and Ben Johnson and was photographed in color.

'Sunshine Boys' to open Tuesday

Neil Simon's "The Sunshine Boys" starring Jack Gilford and Lou Jacobi will open Tuesday evening at the Paper Mill Playhouse, The State Theater of New Jersey in Millburn. Gilford and Jacobi play the roles respectively that Sam Levine and Jack Albertson had in the original Broadway production of the comedy. The show is based on the life of Smith and Dale, old-time vaudeville comedians. Additional information and reservations may be obtained by calling the box office at 379-3636.

Transform stage into 'Music Hall'

The Meadowbrook Dinner Theater, Cedar Grove, will be transformed into the Meadowbrook Music Hall for the duration of the nostalgic stage musical "The Wayward Way," which will open July 24 and run through Aug. 31. The musical, based on "The Drunkard" or "The Fallen Saved," revives the spirit of the theater of the late 1800s. The play was originally written in 1943, and although it has no immediate connection with the story of Carrie Nation, except in its concepts of the evil of drink, it is a story of the downfall of the hero caused by drink. It will be played with all the old-fashioned, over-acted technique of the old melodramas.

'Survivors' released

DISC 'N DATA

UNFORGETTABLE TREAT "FLESH & BLOOD" by Gayle McCormick (DECCA D-2564). The Gayle goodies include "Take Me Back," "Near You," "Sweet Feeling," "That Old Time Feeling," "Knight In Shining Armor," "Stay With Me," "Flesh And Blood," "Whoever's Thrilling You Is Killing Me," "Make Myself Over," "Grey Line Tour" and "Alabama."

Gayle was born in St. Louis. "There was always music," she remembers. "We used to drive down the highway, my parents and my brother, all of us singing four-part harmony every inch of the way. And I sang in the church choir and performed in the high school musicals, all the things you do." There wasn't a time she didn't sing and there wasn't a time she didn't want to be first and foremost—a singer.

In high school she joined a rock and roll group that played proms and neighborhood dances. They became proficient enough to attract the interest of a local record company who cut a couple of singles with the group "Gayle McCormick and the Klasmens"—she tells it, and winces. The first disc actually hit the Top 10 in St. Louis, and Gayle had her first lick of success. It was tasty.

She became known to the St. Louis deejays who dug her sound and wished her well. One day a group came to play in the city and asked if there was a local girl who could do a few gigs with them. The deejays all said "Gayle." A meeting of empathies. Gayle shook hands with "Smith."

The gigs worked smooth as hollandaise. Smith blew. Gayle sang "Natural Woman" and it was as if it had always been so. When Smith had to move on to their next date in Florida, Gayle went with them, and opened in Key West as part of Smith.

The first Smith album "A GROUP CALLED SMITH," released late in 1968, produced a smash hit "BABY, IT'S YOU." Things began rolling. Smith was making it, tours were set. Ross times peaked ahead.

Little by little, the men drifted away to other careers. Gayle was the only member left of the "original" group. Still, with Smith's new sidemen, "MINUS-PLUS" came out and also did well.

But Gayle began to chafe. She knew there was more in the world than singing with a group—no matter how good it was—and she wanted it.

"I guess I saw myself digging deeper and harder into my own style, my own feelings, so I finally made the break to go it alone. And I'm glad. I'm working for the potential. I think is there. Yes, I like what I've done, some of it, and I like what I'm doing. But you wait till you hear me when I'm really together."

Spy spoof is held by two theaters

Columbia Pictures' "S.P.Y.S." starring the "M.A.S.H." team, Elliott Gould and Donald Sutherland, continues its run at the Fox Theater, Route 22, Union, and the Maplewood Theater, Maplewood.

The picture, which provides fresh merriment to the spy-spoof genre, pokes jauntily fun at the C.I.A. or the Russians—whichever makes itself known first to the wacky team.

There is action between Paris and London, with director Irvin Kershner keeping the story alive—a story about Gould and Sutherland, who are considered expendable by their superiors and who have to fight to stay alive.

The supporting cast consists of Zou Zou and Joss Ackland. The picture was photographed in color.

Fitzgerald classic, 'Gatsby', opens on New Plaza screen

David Merrick's production of "The Great Gatsby," from F. Scott Fitzgerald's classic novel about the jazz age, arrived yesterday at the New Plaza Theater, Linden.

Robert Redford and Mia Farrow head the cast in the lavish recreation of America in the 1920s and of those to whom wealth is all things. Redford, in the title role, is cast as a man to whom money means the opportunity to buy back a lost love. Mia Farrow is seen as the woman who has obsessed him.

Featured are Sam Waterston, Bruce Dern, Lois Chiles, Karen Black and Scott Wilson. The picture, in color, was directed by Jack Clayton.

Fishing bat

The fishing bat of Central America and the Caribbees use echo-location "sonar" to find food. When the bat locates small fish at the surface, it skims the water and spears its prey with strong talons.

Adult film at Cinema

James Caan is starred with Marsha Mason and Eli Wallach in "Cinderella Liberty," adult love story, which is the current attraction at the Jerry Lewis Cinema (soon to become the Five Points Cinema), Union.

The picture, which was produced and directed by Mark Rydell, was written for the screen by Darryl Ponicsan based on his best-selling novel.

"Cinderella Liberty" is a Navy slang for a pass that ends at midnight. Caan is seen as a soft-spoken, gallant, rather strait-laced sailor, who finds himself an unlikely ready-made family in a barroom.

"Cinderella Liberty" is a Navy slang for a pass that ends at midnight. Caan is seen as a soft-spoken, gallant, rather strait-laced sailor, who finds himself an unlikely ready-made family in a barroom hustler and her street-tough young mulatto son, played by 12-year-old Kirk Calloway.

The picture was shot on location in Seattle. It was photographed in color.

Gaelic Society to offer class in Irish language

The Gaelic Society of New York is offering an eight-week summer class in the Irish language July 10 on Wednesdays starting at 7:30 p.m. Classes will meet at John Jay College of Criminal Justice, 445 West 59th St. (at Tenth Avenue) in Room 3146.

Beginners' and advanced conversation classes will be offered. Registration is to take place on the evening of the first class; tuition is $1 per week. College credit is available for these courses.

Double bill at Elmora

"Walking Tall," now showing at the Elmora Theater, Elizabeth, on a double bill with "Your Three Minutes Are Up," stars Joe Don Baker in the role of former Tennessee sheriff Buford Pusser, with Elizabeth Hartman, as his wife, Noah Berry as his father and Rosemary Murphy.

The popular title of the picture can now be seen on a Columbia Record sung by Johnny Mathis.

A paperback book, "Walking Tall," based on the film's story, has been published by Pinnacle Books, the "12th of August," based on Buford's original account of his fight for law enforcement, has been published in paperback by Bantam Books.

"Your Three Minutes Are Up" stars Beau Bridges and Ron Leibman. Both pictures are rated R.

Public planning in transportation aim of new office

Transportation Commissioner Alan Sagner this week announced the creation of a new unit with the sole responsibility for increasing the involvement of the public in planning and developing transportation projects.

"We want the citizens of New Jersey to play a greater role in our efforts to improve transportation," Commissioner Sagner said. "We need and want more input from the public."

He said that by transferring the community involvement efforts from the Department's planning and engineering staffs to a full-time unit charged with this responsibility, "we hope to stimulate and facilitate more informed public participation in developing transportation."

Heading the new Office of Community Involvement is Helen Neuhaus, who served as executive assistant to the first deputy administrator of the New York City Transportation Administration for a year prior to joining the Department last March.

In this capacity, and previously from August, 1970, as director of Community Involvement for the New York City Department of Highways, she was responsible for the development and administration of a 15-member unit designed to assure community participation in the coordination and planning of highway projects.

Prior experience includes program development for the Office of Economic Opportunity in New York, and evaluation of manpower training programs and problems of minority groups in business and industry.

Neuhaus is a graduate of Harvard College, New York, and lives in Princeton.

Lions vote to help Music Foundation

The New Jersey Lions Club voted unanimously, at its recent convention in Atlantic City, to help the Music Foundation for the Visually Handicapped.

The Music Foundation has more than 120 enrolled students and more than 60 volunteer instructors working to provide free musical instruction and the free use of a musical instrument along with teaching aids and other benefits for the visually handicapped in all counties of New Jersey.

The Lions will help the MFVH achieve its goal of being able to offer this musical program to all of the 15,000 visually handicapped residents of New Jersey.

ENJOY!—Beth Nechin (left) and Judy Zuk do a bit of trimming at the Rutgers Newark Campus, where both work as groundskeepers because they "want to make a living at work we enjoy." The girls said they even enjoyed being called out at three o'clock in the morning to shovel snow. Both are 1973 graduates of the Newark College of Arts and Sciences.

Beth, Judy happy as groundskeepers

Sex not a handicap at Rutgers Newark

"Women who want to make a living at work which we enjoy" is the way Beth Nechin and Judy Zuk describe themselves—and their work as groundskeepers at the Rutgers Newark Campus.

Both are 1973 graduates of the Rutgers Newark College of Arts and Sciences. Beth majored in zoology and Judy in botany. Dr. Sydney S. Greenfield, professor of botany at Newark, suggested that they apply for summer work as groundskeepers.

They did and have been happy with the work ever since.

After the girls demonstrated their ability and willingness to work in the summer, Stephen P. Perkowski, director of the Newark Campus physical plant, offered them full-time employment.

They did and have been happy with the work ever since.

After the girls demonstrated their ability and willingness to work in the summer, Stephen P. Perkowski, director of the Newark Campus physical plant, offered them full-time employment.

"They receive no favoritism in any way," said Perkowski. "What we need on our staff are competent, reliable, dependable people. We don't ask questions about age, color, race, religion or sex."

The girls agree that they are not pampered because of their sex.

"Remember being called at three in the morning to come down and shovel snow so that the walks would be cleared by the time classes started at 8 a.m.?" asked Judy.

"But even that was fun," replied Beth. "Whoever knew that downtown Newark could be that beautiful and silent and peaceful. I loved doing it, and it was great having all day to catch up on sleep."

Attired in the same navy blue work clothes issued to all Rutgers maintenance personnel, Beth and Judy do the snow shoveling, leaf gathering, weeding, raking, mowing and whatever general maintenance is required according to the season.

"While we didn't receive any special treatment," said Judy, "our immediate supervisor, Russell Helmlinger, didn't force us to prove ourselves all the time, either. He and the other people we work with are part of the reason we love our jobs so much."

To which Beth added, "We really do work together as a team, and if ever you wanted to see a United Nations team, come visit us. Not only are we male and female, but black and white, young, middle-aged and old, and all different nationalities. Being part of such a cosmopolitan group is a large part of the fun of our job."

"Participation is so different from observation," said Judy. "It's one thing to admire the pretty yellow flowers, but since I've been working here I see so much more. Would you believe that we have 10 varieties of daffodils on the Newark Campus?"

"People sometimes laugh when we tell them we're groundskeepers for Rutgers in Newark," continued Beth. "They want to know what grounds there are, besides concrete and asphalt. That's because they just don't look."

Judy's ultimate ambition is to work in a managerial or educational capacity for a botanical garden; toward that end, she will start graduate work in the fall toward a master's degree in horticulture.

Content with her present job, Beth said the only change she would contemplate would be an opportunity in a wild life refuge "which is a combination of flora and fauna."

PSEG travels electric

3 vehicles being road tested

Three electric work vehicles are being road tested by Public Service Electric and Gas Company as part of a program in which 55 utilities throughout the nation are participating.

Primary purpose of the program is to obtain research data which will develop useful electric vehicles and assist utilities in planning for the significant number of electric vehicles expected to be on the road in the 1980s.

PSEG will use the three vehicles for meter work, carrying light loads and for other tasks that involve short trips.

Power is provided by self-contained, easily-removable battery packs, especially designed to permit around-the-clock operation. One person can change the battery packs in less than five minutes.

The batteries can be charged slowly overnight—or more rapidly. There are advantages and disadvantages in both methods, from the view of the battery life and the effect on electric power supply systems. Research will determine which method is more desirable.

The vehicles are designed to do a full day's work between battery changes. They have a range of 50 miles at 20 mph, 40 miles at 30 mph and 30 miles at 40 mph.

Built for everyday use, the vehicles are walk-in, van-type trucks. The body, mounted on a 94-inch wheelbase chassis, has an interior height of 63 inches. The overall length is 145 inches and the width is 78 inches.

The vehicle weighs 5,800 pounds and can carry a payload of 800 pounds. Each vehicle will be instrumented to register operational data. Records of performance will be maintained.

The vehicles will be used to develop operating experience under a variety of conditions, to obtain economic data and to advance electric vehicle technology.

The data developed will help the company determine the impact on its system that the growth in the number of electric vehicles will have as new users of electricity.

During the past few years electric vehicle development has begun to move forward at an accelerating rate. A growing number of U.S. companies, large and small, are working on electric cars. By 1990, according to the Federal Power Commission's National Power Survey, 38 million electric vehicles will be in use.

The three PSEG vehicles were produced by Batronic Truck Corp., a division of Boyertown Pa. Auto Body Works. They are among 105 being built under a nationwide testing program sponsored by the Electric Vehicle Council.

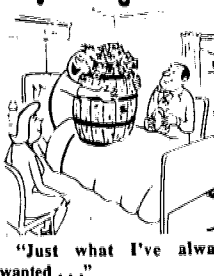

Edison Electric Institute, the national association of electric companies, led in the establishment of the council.

PSEG reports boost in earnings

Earnings available for common stock of Public Service Electric and Gas for the five months ended May 31 were $59,300,000 or $1.16 per average share compared with $42,200,000 equal to 96 cents per average share, in the corresponding period of last year.

Earnings for the 12-month period ending May 31, 1974 were $117,800,000 or $2.42 per average share compared to $93,900,000, or $2.16 a share (excluding a special credit of $18,540,000 equal to 43 cents per share) in the similar period ended May 31, 1973.

'When in the Course of human Events...'

The story of New Jersey's signers of the Declaration of Independence

John Adams of the Massachusetts Commonwealth was given the task of reviewing arguments in favor of independence for the late arrivals from New Jersey at the second Continental Congress in Philadelphia in June of 1776. The five delegates from New Jersey were sympathetic to Adams' presentation and one of them, a 53-year-old Presbyterian minister born in Scotland, John Witherspoon, rose to his feet and declared: "New Jersey is plump for independence."

Witherspoon, a bit plump himself, was reminded by a member of the New York delegation, which had to contend with a strong Loyalist movement back home, that "The oratory is fine, but the facts show we are not ripe for it." The minister, who was used to metaphors from his years in the pulpit and as president of the College of New Jersey (now Princeton), replied, "We are more than ripe for it; some of us are in danger of rotting for want of it."

Although New Jersey was in close proximity to New York (particularly Loyalist-supporting Staten Island) and its cadres of British troops, the citizens were fierce in their dislike of the way the Royal government directed the affairs of their province. In the Provincial Assembly, Governor William Franklin, one of the many illegitimate sons of Benjamin Franklin, was constantly under fire even though the otherwise likeable official tried to moderate both sides. A decade before the Declaration of Independence was signed, New Jersey lawyers refused to do any business requiring stamps, as mandated by the Royal establishment. The province had a "tea party" of its own in the south and there was a widespread protest in 1765 over the Quartering Act, which compelled colonists to provide lodging and supplies for British troops.

By the time Witherspoon, Richard Stockton, John Hart, Francis Hopkinson and Abraham Clark were elected to the Continental Congress on June 22, 1776, New Jersey was ready for the outbreak of war with the Crown.

Richard Stockton

was a member of the Executive Council, the official government group closest to the Crown-appointed governor. He was also Chief Justice of the province, appointed by King George. By all rights, he should have been a Tory when the war came.

But Stockton—wealthy, well-educated and a respected member of the bar—was a political radical. In 1765 some leaders in the province were reluctant to protest the Stamp Act, but Stockton told them the province would "look like a speckled bird among our sister colonies" if they failed to act. When he was named to be one of New Jersey's five delegates to the Continental Congress in Philadelphia to discuss independence, Stockton resigned from the Executive Council and the Supreme Court, both Crown appointments.

The trip to Philadelphia was also a reunion for Stockton. His daughter Julia had married a young Philadelphia physician, Benjamin Rush, just a month before. Rush, a fervent patriot as well as a forward-looking physician who contributed much to medical knowledge, also was a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Richard and his wife Annis lived in the Princeton mansion which she renamed Morven in 1776, taking the name from a poem about a medieval king. Today, Morven, just across the street from the Princeton University campus, is the home of New Jersey's governor. That same year the British attacked Princeton and the Stocktons fled. Richard, however, was captured and imprisoned. The British treated him poorly and Washington protested, eventually gaining the lawyer's release. He returned home, however, physically decimated. Even his home could not provide relief: Morven was looted by the Redcoats. His books and papers were destroyed and his garden ruined. He died in 1781 from cancer.

John Hart

is the least well remembered of the New Jersey signers of the document proclaiming American independence. In 1864, when the New Jersey Legislature voted to build a monument in his memory, the chiseler marked his date of death as 1780 rather than 1779. Some say Hart was born in Hopewell while one of his granddaughters insisted Connecticut was his first home. He was baptized on March 5, 1714, but others claim it was Dec. 21, 1713. The Hopewell resident was Justice of the Peace in that community in 1755 and in 1761 was elected to the Provincial Assembly. While in the Assembly he earned the admiration of his colleagues and constituents as a leading proponent of the rights of the people. Although a supporter of the radicals the Crown named him a judge of the Court of Common Pleas in 1774, the same year he was named to New Jersey's first rebellious Provincial Congress.

One of the most influential of the organizations flourishing in the 13 colonies in the years before the Revolution was the Committee of Correspondence, to which Hart belonged. The Committee made sure that all the colonies were aware of what was happening in the other colonies regarding the "cold war" against the Crown. He also was a member of the Committee of Safety, another inter-colonial group of radicals.

During the war, British troops forced him to flee into the Sourland Mountains north of Hopewell; he left behind his ill wife who died while her husband sought refuge in the forested hills of Hunterdon County. Nearly a year later he returned to his farm. He recouped his financial losses but died in 1779 on his farm.

John Witherspoon

even though a resident of Scotland, was known by Presbyterians in the American Colonies for his scholarly pursuits and in 1766, when Stockton visited the British Isles, he asked the clergymen from Paisley to come to America as president of the College of New Jersey, a nearly-bankrupt institution. Stockton and Dr. Rush eventually persuaded Witherspoon, and his wife (who was afraid of crossing the Atlantic to live in a "wilderness") to come to New Jersey. Witherspoon's first task at the college, which was established in Elizabethtown, was to improve the curriculum, which he did through the introduction of the lecture system. His next task was to provide a much-needed financial base. That took him throughout the 13 colonies in search of funds for the Presbyterian-related institution; his travels brought him in contact with the problems of the colonies and convinced him of the need for independence from Britain.

The college was just as "ripe" for rebellion against the Mother Country as Witherspoon had said the colonies were. In 1774 students destroyed the school's winter supply of tea. Commencement in the spring of 1775 was one big demonstration against the Crown. Unlike the student revolts of the 1960s, however, the Princeton uprisings had the tacit support of the populace. When war came, the British troops retaliated. They occupied Nassau Hall, later to become the temporary home of the Congress, and destroyed whatever they saw.

Witherspoon, who served in the Continental Congress for more than three years, returned to running the college when the treaty of peace was signed. The war, however, was a personal tragedy. His son James was killed in 1777 at the Battle of Germantown and another son, John J., a surgeon, was caught by the British in 1781.

Francis Hopkinson

was a lawyer by training, but his first love was writing. Throughout the war he authored many pamphlets—a favorite patriotic work for any educated man of the time as Professor Arthur Schlesinger has pointed out in his book "Prelude to Independence."

The quill was Hopkinson's favorite weapon and he used it with unerring accuracy from his Bordentown home. A 1774 piece, "A Pretty Story," used the form of classical allegory to describe the growing fissure between London and the American colonies. Another, "The Prophecy," accurately forecast a document declaring independence.

During the War for Independence, Hopkinson served as chairman of the Continental Navy Board, Treasurer of Loans and Judge of the Admiralty—and still had time left over for more writing, firing the flames of revolution even more. One of his poems, "The Battle of the Kegs," detailed the work of his father-in-law, Colonel Joseph Borden, in "mining" the Delaware River with wooden casks filled with powder. The British ships moored in the Delaware off Philadelphia regretted Borden's workmanship.

Hopkinson, born to a rich family and endowed with a good education, practiced law in Philadelphia and New Jersey before the war. He returned to practice in Bordentown when the conflagration ended, but he still found time for writing poetry, essays and songs and maintaining the exchange of correspondence with Washington, Jefferson, Franklin and Adams that the war encouraged.

Abraham Clark

had a good reason not to be the leader of the New Jersey rebels, for his farm in what is now Linden, was within sight of British troops drilling on Staten Island across the Dutch-named Arthur Kill. Clark was sure that if the British were to cross the waterway, they would quickly sweep over his land and across all of New Jersey.

Clark would have preferred no war, but the course of events which led to the break with Britain set up an unavoidable conflict. "We are now embarked on a most tempestuous course," he wrote. "It is gone so far that we must now be a free independent state or a conquered country." On the day he and his fellow delegates signed the Declaration of Independence, he wrote to his family that he personally faced "perfect freedom or absolute slavery."

By training, Clark was a surveyor but the citizens of Elizabethtown regarded him as the "poor man's counselor." The lawyers of the time were less grateful of the farmer-surveyor's work. His constant fight to regulate fees of attorneys won him their hatred.

Clark, one of the few men to work on both the Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution, was elected to Congress in 1787 and served in the House until his death in 1794.

TELLERS

is your experience adding up to the career you deserve?

Take a look ahead. If you're certain that the position you hold now promises ample rewards for capable effort now and in the future we advise you to stay right where you are. But if you're doubtful about your chances to move ahead, consider what we have to offer.

First National State begins by paying excellent salaries and providing unequalled benefits for savings and commercial tellers. But that's only the start! What we're looking for is banking talent, people who want a future commensurate with their abilities. Busy, dynamic First National State with its headquarters in Newark and 30 branch offices is building its future on people of talent. With our rapid growth and our policy of promoting people from within there is plenty of room for you to soar.

The future may be closer than you think.

Please apply any weekday 9:30 A.M. to 3:30 P.M. at our Personnel Dept.

SECRETARIES

WE NEED YOU

...and it shows in a dozen different ways. To name just a few of our incitements for capable secretaries:

- An attractive salary...and the chance to earn more in higher positions.
- Interesting work in pleasant surroundings with enough variety and challenge to make the days fly by.
- Grand people to work with.
- Many benefits from weeks-long vacations to 12 paid holidays, insurance, and a hospitalization plan that cushions you against the heaviest bills.

If you're good at steno and typing, the red carpet is out for you in Newark and in many of our 30 branch offices. Some of our suburban openings may be right in your town.

Please apply any weekday 9:30 A.M. to 3:30 P.M. at our Personnel Dept.

Insurance reduces hurricane woes

June through November—a period embracing the best and worst of Mother Nature's offerings—is the breeding period for one of her most vicious destroyers of lives, homes and dreams: the hurricane.

Residents of the East and Gulf Coast areas of the United States are particularly vulnerable to these storms, which can carry winds up to 100 miles an hour and six to 12 inches of rain.

While nothing can be done to stop this vicious and destructive force of nature, the Insurance Information Institute notes that much can be done to blunt its effects.

To begin with, flood insurance—not generally available until a few years ago—now can be purchased in more than 3,000 towns and cities under a program operated jointly by the federal government and private insurance companies. The insured communities include Irvington, Kenilworth, Mountainside, Newark, Roselle, Roselle Park, Springfield and Union. Flood insurance is available through the Federal Insurance Administration of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and the program is administered by the National Flood Insurers Association, comprised of approximately 100 private insurance companies.

Flood insurance provides protection against losses caused by the overflow of inland or tidal water or the unusual and rapid accumulation or runoff of surface waters from any source.

The flood insurance program recently was expanded to increase the available coverage from $17,500 to $35,000 on a one-family house and from $30,000 to $100,000 on two-to-four, family structures and small business properties. The coverage for contents of residential buildings was increased from $5,000 to $10,000 and for contents of non-residential buildings from $5,000 to $100,000.

The new program also includes new rates. The annual premium for each $100 in coverage is 25 cents on the building and 35 cents on contents of all residential buildings and 40 cents on the building and 75 cents on the contents of non-residential buildings. The new rates do not apply to outstanding policies, but they do apply to coverage added to outstanding policies.

Flood insurance may be obtained through a local property and casualty insurance agent or broker.

The Institute urges property owners to examine their insurance coverage thoroughly and not to hesitate to seek the counsel of their agent or broker if necessary. They should learn exactly what coverage they now have and what additional coverages they should consider.

While most property insurance policies do cover wind damage, the usual property insurance policies—except under limited circumstances—do not provide protection to homes or household possessions for damage caused by tidal wave, high water or overflow whether wind-driven or not. An exception is a loss caused by rain entering a building through an opening made by wind.

The Institute also points out that there are many kinds of insurance which cover movable properties in case of floods. For example, automobile comprehensive policies cover losses caused by flooding.

The insurance industry stands ready to move into any hurricane-threatened area with special catastrophe procedures.

Special loss adjusters are often on their way to an area—even before the hurricane hits—to open emergency field offices and thus be in a position to begin immediately adjusting losses and speeding settlement and payments to owners of damaged property.

In order to enable insurance companies to serve you more quickly and efficiently when you do have a loss, the Institute points out several steps you can take now:

—Make an itemized list of personal property, including furnishings, clothing and valuables. Photos are helpful. These steps will assist the adjusters in settling your insurance claim and also help to prove uninsured losses, which are tax deductible.

—If you do not understand or have questions about your policy, contact your agent or company representative.

—Keep your policy in a safe place, such as a safety deposit box. Know the name and location of your agent and the company which issued the policy.

If your home, apartment or business has been damaged, here's what to do:

—Make temporary repairs to prevent further loss from rain, wind or looting. The expenses of such repairs are covered by most policies, so save receipts.

—Contact your agent or company as soon as possible. If you have to leave home, leave an address or telephone number where you can be reached.

—Be patient. All losses will be adjusted and claims paid as quickly as possible, but hardship cases are handled first.

—Don't assume your settlement will be the same as your neighbor's. Policy forms differ and storm damage is erratic.

TV to show art of pizza

The art of making pizza pies, dough sculpture and a film about the Feast of St. Carmel will be among the activities shown on "Jersey Weekend," Wednesday, July 10, at 10 p.m.; Thursday, July 11, and Friday, July 12, at 8 p.m. on Channels 50 and 58. The 30-minute program focuses on places to go and things to do in New Jersey in the summer. Hosts are Lynn Hackerman, 1970-71 Miss New Jersey; Don Amendolia, actor, singer and dancer, and David Lloyd of Glassboro, professor, poet and folklore buff.

This week's program will include a film concerning artist Morris Blackburn's feelings for the Garden State.

Child abuse laws outlined by group in new brochure

More than a thousand brochures describing the state's child abuse laws are in the mail as the first phase of a community education program planned by the Citizens Committee for Children of New Jersey (CCCNJ).

The organization developed the brochure as a result of a task force on the implementation of New Jersey's child abuse reporting law which CCCNJ completed last year. The survey found a widespread lack of information about the child abuse reporting law and the methods of reporting.

The first mailing is going to district offices of the Division of Youth and Family Services, pediatricians, hospitals, county welfare boards, juvenile judges and county prosecutors, according to Mrs. Rene Levy of Tenafly, community education chairman of CCCNJ.

A mailing in the fall will cover all school districts and day care centers. Brochures also will be sent to United Ways and private family agencies.

CCCNJ also is developing a slide program using material on child abuse compiled by Dr. Phoebe Hudson of the Child Evaluation Center at Hackensack Hospital. Volunteers will be trained to give the slide lecture to interested groups.

CCCNJ, a state-wide group of citizens devoted to improving services to children, recently moved to new headquarters at 251 Park St., Montclair. Mrs. Belle Mantel, formerly a planning associate with the Hospital and Health Planning Council of Metropolitan New Jersey, Inc., became coordinator for CCCNJ June 17.

New officers of the organization are Mrs. Sally Orr of Montclair, president; the Rev. Salvatore Citarella of Elizabeth, administrative vice president; Mrs. Joann Goelzer of Upper Montclair, community vice-president; Mrs. Sybil Eisenberg of Short Hills, secretary; Henry Boardman of Cranford, treasurer.

Pathmark earns award for 'Hot Line' campaign

Pathmark Stores have been awarded the American Marketing Association's "Effie," presented for "effectiveness of an advertising campaign in the marketplace."

Pathmark won the award, co-sponsored by the Clio Awards and the New York Chapter of the marketing association, in competition with leading retailers and manufacturers throughout the country in recognition of the "Hot Line" consumer campaign during the second half of 1973.

Distaff credit problems topic of Rutgers leaflet

"Unequal pay, unequal treatment under the law and unsubstantiated assumptions about women have combined to give a sometimes inaccurate and fragmented picture of women and credit," says Mrs. Denise Matejic of Rutgers University.

To provide correct information and offer suggestions to women interested in establishing solid credit ratings of their own, Mrs. Matejic has written "Money Matters—Women and Credit," a new leaflet available free from Rutgers. Family resource management specialist with the New Jersey Cooperative Extension Service at Cook College, Mrs. Matejic says that women are moving from dependence to independence; from playing a mostly supportive role to assuming full responsibility and even leadership in both private and public life.

"As women's horizons broaden," she says, "they are becoming more aware of the financial discrimination to which they have been subjected. Now both practice and legislation are beginning to move with the times and I recommend that women keep abreast of the changes affecting them."

To obtain a copy of the leaflet, send a stamped, self-addressed business-sized envelope with your request for Leaflet 487, "Women and Credit," to the Publications Distribution Center, Cook College, P.O. Box 231, New Brunswick 08903.

Bear with us . . .

We are remodeling our Ice Cream Department and are very sorry to inconvenience you.

On or about August 1st, we will open our new sit-down ice cream parlor and sandwich shop.

Until then, business will go on as usual - Bakery - Ice Cream - Fruit - etc.
