Rt. 78 to open one-way stretch this winter

Board approves policies to cover attendance, bands

BY ABNER GOLD

The Regional High School District Board of Education Tuesday night unanimously voted final approval for four new policies. One of them replaces an attendance policy adopted last spring which had drawn heated protests from students who regarded it as unduly punitive. The action came before an audience of approximately 24 citizens at Gov. Livingston Regional in Berkeley Heights.

The three other policies: bar acceptance of any gifts from school board suppliers by all employees and board members; set up rules for employment of students in school offices, and provide guidelines for activities of school bands and choral groups.

Changes in the attendance policy change the emphasis in dealing with truancy from disciplinary action and loss of course credit to behavior counseling in meetings with students and parents. The policy emphasizes: "Common sense, rules of fairness, firmness and justice must be close at hand when considering inadequate attendance. Our goal must be to increase attendance, not to punish for infraction of rules."

The iron hand remains within the velvet glove, however. When all other measures fail, including conferences with a battery of experts in the behavioral sciences, the erring students remain subject to suspension or loss of course credit.

The policy on music groups establishes board authority over parent booster organizations. It permits each group to have one yearly exchange trip within 400 miles of the district and "one long distance trip within the North American continent for the competitions or exhibitions" every third year.

One controversial section of the policy declares that when sponsoring organizations make contributions to bands or other groups taking part in parades or other functions, the board will pass on transportation costs to the bands, to be paid out of the contributions. Any surplus in each case will go to the band treasury. This portion drew criticism at the meeting from parents who said it would discourage band participation.

The student job policy stresses that "no student shall do any form of work related to the records of any student."

Charles Vitale of Kenilworth, board president, stated that no policy is final and immutable. He added, "We are simply trying to do our best. If we decide a policy does not suit the total interests of the district, it will be changed."

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the board dealt at length with questions raised by Dr. George Schlenker of Kenilworth concerning grouping of students into advanced, average or slower classes. He emphasized that grouping can affect class rank, since greater weight is given to grades in the advanced sections under a new ranking procedure which takes effect with this year's freshmen.

Board member Sonya Dorsky of Springfield commented that guidance offices should mail to parents explicit data on grouping, weighting of grades, determination of class rank and each specific child's placement and class rank.

Dr. Schlenker also declared, "The above-average student at David Breaury Regional in Kenilworth is cheated. He is not challenged to the limit of his ability."

Natalie Waldt of Springfield reported that site improvement plans at Jonathan Dayton Regional in that community should be ready for bids in two or three weeks, some two weeks behind the original schedule. The plans include rechanneling of Van Winkle's Creek and construction of four tennis courts. Also listed is a new footbridge across the creek.

Mrs. Dorsky expressed objections to clauses in the constitutions of some student clubs which eliminate some youngsters from participation. She declined to comment any further, except to say that some groups such as foreign language honor societies, which by their nature have a limited membership, should spell out exactly what the requirements for selection might be.

Vitale disclosed that the board had decided not to change the calendar to provide a mid-winter vacation this year at A.L. Johnson Regional in Clark, as had been urged in a petition signed by 900 students and presented at the July meeting. He noted that the prime consideration had been to coordinate the schedule with that of the Clark elementary schools.

He added, however, that the superintendent of schools, Dr. Donald Merachnik, "will make every effort" to achieve an agreement with the local school board to provide a mid-winter recess in the 1975-76 school year.

AMONG THE OLDEST — The J.P. Boyd residence at 1618 Rt. 22 (West) is thought by local authorities to have been constructed in 1722, making it among the oldest homes in the borough and a definite candidate for inclusion in the Union County Planning Board's historic sites inventory. The westerly portion of the two-and-a-half story wooden frame dwelling was erected first, over an unusual eight-foot deep basement. That section of the home includes an old kitchen fireplace, beehive oven and wide pine floor boards. Evident in it, and in the easterly section, built in 1806, are other early building features, such as wooden peg frame construction, original doors and hand-made and wire nails. According to previous owners, the house was once part of the extensive Baltusrol Estate. (Photo-Graphics)

Link to run from Rt. 24 to Parkway Return traffic stalled by Watchung impasse

BY BOB LIBKIND

Drivers may be able to coast from Summit through Springfield to the Garden State Parkway in Union this winter along the Rt. 24 Freeway and Rt. 78. But they won't be able to travel in the other direction from the Parkway.

The construction contract calls for the two sections of the road still being built in Union to be open to eastbound traffic by Dec. 31. The westbound road will not be opened until the Rt. 78 link through the Watchung Reservation—stalled by environmental protests—is completed. Highway officials said traffic would empty onto local streets in Springfield and Summit, creating bottlenecks if the westbound lanes of Rt. 78 running from the Garden State Parkway were opened before the Watchung Reservation link.

The Rt. 24 Freeway from Springfield to the J.F. Kennedy Parkway in Summit (at the Short Hills Mall) was opened in early July. At the same time, the N.J. Department of Transportation opened a section of Rt. 78 from Springfield avenue in Union to the Rt. 24 Freeway junction in Springfield, allowing nonstop through traffic from Summit to Union. The completion of paving operations on the two sections of Rt. 78 still under construction in Union will connect the earlier completed links with the Parkway.

The 1.7 mile section of Rt. 78 in Union from Union avenue near the Garden State Parkway to Burnet avenue will probably be completed by the end of December, six months ahead of schedule, according to Robert Brazer, resident engineer for that portion, Section 785AD. John Akin, resident engineer for Section 5AC (Springfield avenue to Burnet avenue), said he does not expect his job to be completed until spring. However, the project engineers are pushing to complete the eastbound paving in Section 5AC by the same time the Section 785AD work is finished in December.

WHEN THE ROAD is opened in both directions, there will be two express lanes and three local lanes each for eastbound and westbound traffic.

Brazer said Section 785AD between the Parkway and Burnet avenue was originally scheduled for completion in July 1975. Weather permitting, the section will be ready for traffic late this December. In the spring, assistant resident engineer Gary Vanvliet said, landscaping work will be completed.

Work began on Section 785AD on Nov. 21, 1972, with site clearing. Heavy construction work started the following spring. The contract calls for the construction of four bridges, seven retaining walls, two culverts and one drainage tunnel. Brazer said all that is left is a portion of one retaining wall, one bridge deck and paving. So far, 30,000 square yards of concrete have been poured—one-third of the paving. Workers can lay 1/4-mile lane of concrete a day.

Brazer reported that six of 10 lanes between Stuyvesant and Burnet avenues have been paved. Last week's rain and the Aug. 17 storm curtailed operations. After completion of the Stuyvesant-Burnet section the crews will begin to pave the road between Stuyvesant and Walker avenues. At that time, the section between Walker avenue and Richard terrace will be prepared for sub-base. The last section of the road to be paved will be between Richard terrace and Union avenue.

About 100 men—carpenters to build forms for concrete, ironworkers, laborers, teamsters, engineers and state inspectors—are employed on Section 785AD. Major contractors for the section include KP&B Co. of Belvidere (excavation, drainage, general road construction) and Tri-County Asphalt of Roseland (general paving). (Continued on page 7)

Rt. 78 talks loom next spring -- Case

The next round of discussion on the proposed path of Rt. 78 through the Watchung Reservation should get under way next spring, according to material sent by Sen. Clifford P. Case to Mrs. Walter Jackson of Mountainside. The superhighway is in use from Berkeley Heights west to Pennsylvania and is nearing completion from Springfield east to Newark Airport. The "missing link" through the Reservation, however, appears at least five years from construction as a result of controversy generated by the N.J. Department of Transportation's environmental impact statement issued last year.

Sen. Case quoted a letter from Joseph M. O'Connor, the Federal Highway Administration's associate administrator for right-of-way and environment, stating that the state agency will "issue its second environmental impact statement in March of 1975."

O'Connor noted that the statement is a mandatory "analysis of the social, economic and environmental effects of the highway proposal and a justification for use of park and recreational land." Widespread objections and predictions of land, water, air and sound pollution, which greeted the first impact statement, had necessitated the issuance of a second one.

Soccer, gym among activity planned for fall

The pool is closed and school is back in session, but recreational activities for borough residents are far from over. Soccer for boys and girls, men's open gym night, women's volleyball and gymnastics are all scheduled this fall, sponsored by the Mountainside Recreation Commission.

Boys' soccer for third to eighth graders is scheduled to begin this Saturday at 11 a.m. at the Deerfield School. Appropriate clothing and footwear must be worn to the opening session. The registration fee of $2 may be paid at Borough Hall weekdays between 9-5 p.m., or at Deerfield School on Saturday at 10:30 a.m.

The girls' soccer program for fourth to ninth graders will begin on Saturday, Sept. 21, at 1 p.m. at Echobrook School. Appropriate clothing (no bellbottoms) and footwear must be worn. The $2 registration fee should be paid at Borough Hall weekdays between 9-5 p.m.

Men's open gym night will be held on Wednesdays, starting Sept. 11, from 6 to 10 p.m. at Deerfield School. The program is for borough residents. Women's volleyball will be at Deerfield also, beginning on Monday, Sept. 30, from 7 to 10 p.m.

The slimmastics program is scheduled to begin on Wednesday, Oct. 2, at Beechwood School. The 10-session shape up program will be under the instruction of Sandy Everly. The registration fee is $12, payable at Borough Hall. For additional information on any of these programs, readers may call the recreation office at 232-0015.

Yule craft ideas given at workshop

A Christmas craft workshop for borough residents is planned by the Mountainside Recreation Commission. The series of five morning workshops is tentatively scheduled for Tuesdays in October.

The purpose of the workshop is to provide participants with old and new ideas for stocking stuffers, house and tree decorations. Residents with suggestions for projects were asked to contact Sue Winans at the recreation office, 232-0015.

Borough, county share multi-construction costs

The construction of "grade-separated interchanges" at the intersection of Rt. 22 and New Providence road and Rt. 22 and Mountain avenue; the placement of a connecting road between Mill lane and Summit road, and the widening of the Mountain avenue-New Providence road-Woodland avenue intersection have been listed as recommended projects for Mountainside in the Union County Planning Board's 20-year master plan transportation study.

According to the report, the New Jersey Department of Transportation would assume the cost of the first two projects (no price totals given), while the borough and the county would share the estimated $74,750 for the third, spending $32,200 and $42,550, respectively.

The survey, which terms the Mountainside projects "short range improvements," notes the New Providence road-Rt. 22 interchange would "eliminate crossing conflicts and...reduce the high accident rate." Recommended also is a "trumpet" type interchange to accommodate the present left-turn traffic from northbound New Providence road to westbound Rt. 22, in addition to the westbound Rt. 22 traffic destined for Westfield.

The report notes projected traffic volumes for 1990 indicate that vehicles making left turns from northbound New Providence road may become as high as 300 per hour.

Listed as part of this highway project is the placement of a left-turn loop at New Providence road "for the existing heavy left turns from southbound New Providence road to eastbound Rt. 22," and the bridging of New Providence road at its present alignment over the highway "to avoid excessively steep grades."

THE PLANNING BOARD also suggests "additional refinements to the interchange of Rt. 22 and Mountain avenue, such as a relocated Echo Park entrance and a turn-around area to serve the firehouse and businesses located at this intersection."

A spokesman for the board noted the report had been drafted "some time ago," before construction began on the new firehouse off New Providence road. He said this portion of the recommendations was part of the alternate plan originally presented by the board to shift "as much work as we could" from the New Providence road-Rt. 22 intersection to the Mountain avenue-Rt. 22 area when objections to the former were raised by local residents.

The Mill lane plans call for construction of connector road between that street and Summit road, the widening of Mill lane, and the erection of a bridge over the highway in that area. North of Rt. 22, the connector road would curve to the west to reach Summit road and curve in a "U" configuration to reach Bristol road.

THE FINAL PROGRAM, the cost of which would be shared by county and borough, would align and widen Mountain avenue to 46 feet through the intersection with New Providence

Dinner speaker
Curt History, former American League first baseman, will be the guest speaker at the annual awards dinner of the Mountainside Little League next Thursday, Sept. 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the Mountainside Inn, it was announced by Harry Heide, chairman. Reservations can still be made by calling Art Williams, 232-3756.

Board transfers six first graders despite objections

Despite heated protests from parents, the Mountainside Board of Education has decided to go through with the transfer of six first graders, originally scheduled to attend the Beechwood School, to the Deerfield Elementary School.

The parents, who had been notified of the change on Aug. 23, only 12 days before the start of classes, requested and got a meeting last Thursday with board members. However, only four were in attendance at the informal session: Trudy Palmer, Patricia Knodel, R. Charles Speth and the board president, Grant Lennox.

No final decision was reached during the meeting, but the superintendent of schools, Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, the following day announced adherence to the transfer plan, noting that moving the youngsters back to Beechwood "would be educationally unsound." His statement followed a day of efforts to obtain voluntary transfers of other children to provide more room at Beechwood.

He said if the children were placed in Beech-

Republican candidates name Mrs. Hechtle campaign head

Bruce Geiger and William Cullen, incumbent Republican councilmen, announced this week that Mrs. John Hechtle has agreed to head their campaign for reelection to the Borough Council.

In a joint statement, Geiger and Cullen said, "We are indeed fortunate to have Ellie Hechtle, a long-time resident of Mountainside, agree to be our campaign manager. Ellie has been active in the Republican Party for many years, and her knowledge, organizational ability and dedication to the task at hand are well known. She will bring to this campaign a woman's point of view, which is needed in these changing times."

Mrs. Hechtle, whose husband served on the Borough Council for five years, is secretary of the Mountainside Republican Club and is a member of the Mountainside Public Assistance Board. She is past president of the local Youth Employment Service and PTA and has served on the PTA board for many years; she is garden department chairman of the Mountainside Woman's Club and a member of the Community Presbyterian Church. ### THE NOVEMBER CANDIDATES PROFILE--John D. Mollozzi

The proliferation of Union County government, "without direction and control," is of the greatest concern to John D. Mollozzi, Democratic candidate for the Board of Freeholders on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

Over the past decade, Mollozzi notes, county government has grown tremendously, both in services it attempts to provide and in the amount of money necessary to provide such services.

"Without a definite direction and relationship with local municipalities," contends the 32-year-old candidate, "county government will continue to grow and squander the taxpayers' money. However, county government can move forward and solve its problems if the Board of Freeholders adopts an attitude and spirit of participation and cooperation with our municipalities, instead of one of dominance."

According to Mollozzi, a Roselle Park resident and an Elizabeth attorney, "once the feeling of kinship is developed between county and municipalities, Union County can move through the 1970s and into the 1980s as a progressive county, meeting the needs of the community at large, and doing it economically."

According to police, Ernest Diamant, 48, of Fanwood, who was westbound on the highway near Evergreen court at 4:55 p.m., stated his small foreign car was hit in the rear by an auto operated by Neill Freiremuth, 35, of Belle Mead after Freiremuth's car was struck from behind by a tractor trailer. The truck was operated by Jonathan Lauchner, 38, of Andreas, Pa.

No charges were filed against any of the drivers.

Training course for those seeking health aide jobs

SAGE of Summit and the Union County Homemakers Service are cooperating in providing a training course for persons in the Springfield-Mountainside area who are interested in part-time salaried positions as home-health aides.

The course, approved by the N. J. State Department of Health, will be given Sept. 23 to 27 at the Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside. It will last from 8:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. There will also be a Saturday session at Overlook Hospital in Summit, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Instruction by qualified personnel will be given on such subjects as rehabilitative services, mental illness, care of the elderly, care of the well baby, nutrition and accident prevention. Persons who successfully complete the course will be certified by the state as home-health aides.

According to Ruth Moran, director of visiting homemakers and home-health aides for SAGE, most women already possess the necessary qualities for a good homemaker—"a knowledge of how to run a house, compassion for the sick and elderly and some knowledge of how to prepare a balanced meal."

Mrs. Moran said that this is a good job for women with children because they can choose their own hours. She emphasized that age is no barrier to this position. Persons interested in taking the course were asked to call SAGE headquarters, 273-5550, for an interview.

Creative pottery among courses at Westfield Y

An English-born potter who believes that handbuilding of pots and pieces gives the artist an especially close feeling for his work will teach creative pottery to youngsters aged 8 to 13 in the fall term of the Westfield YMCA.

The pottery class highlights a child development program for children 7 to 14 that includes carpentry, chess, videotape adventures, guitar and model building.

Gillian Kelly, who studied pottery making at Bournemouth Technical College in her hometown in England, as well as at the Baldwin Pottery Studio in Greenwich Village and the Salem Craftsmen's Guild in Union, will teach the Y class.

Coil building, slab building and pinch pots are the three techniques the youngsters will employ. "Handbuilding is an essential part of pottery building," Mrs. Kelly explained.

Mrs. Kelly began her own work in pottery as a hobby when she was 17. She now has two kilns at home, which she'll use to fire the children's pieces, and she makes her own glazes. Mrs. Kelly has also given exhibitions and demonstrations for the Junior Women's Club of Westfield, Merck Wives' Club, All Hands, Cranford Art Center, Miller Cory Day, Jefferson School Fair and Girl Scout and Brownie troops.

Registration is now under way for the Y classes, which will be held Wednesday at 4 p.m., beginning Sept. 11. Classes are open to Mountainside residents. Further information may be obtained at the Y, 233-2700.

Red Cross to hold film, officer elections

The Westfield-Mountainside chapter of the American Red Cross will hold its annual meeting at the chapter house, 321 Elm st., Westfield, on Monday at 8 p.m.

The public has been invited to attend this meeting. A film on the blood program will be shown, and officers for the coming year will be elected.

FALL COAT—A new paint job is applied to the Jonathon Dayton Regional High School in preparation for yesterday's school opening.

Gospel Chapel will present film, "Isn't It Good to Know"

"Isn't It Good to Know," a new film that abandons traditional story lines to involve the viewer in the life experiences of real people, will be shown on Sunday, Sept. 15 at 7 p.m. at the Mountainside Gospel Chapel, 1180 Spruce dr., one block off Central avenue and Rt. 22 West, Mountainside. "Isn't It Good to Know" is the latest in a series of films from the World Wide Picture Company, producers of "Time to Run."

"Isn't It Good to Know" was edited and directed by Michael Hooser, a 26-year-old filmmaker who brings new techniques to his first major film. Using a varying number of images on the same screen, Hooser creates a multimedia effect that draws the viewer into the picture.

By shifting the viewer's attention from the true stories of the people who lived them, to brief appearances by Billy Graham, to video-ignettes coupled with original new songs—Hooser created a film conveying "ultimate drama—the drama of change. Purpose comes out of emptiness. Silence becomes communication. And from the disillusionment of drugs, violent protest and witchcraft, there comes a new beginning—new life," according to a church spokesman.

The Mountainside Gospel Chapel, which has made the arrangements for this special free showing of "Isn't It Good to Know," has extended an invitation to all families to attend. Additional information may be obtained by calling the church office, 232-3456, or the pastor, the Rev. Badon Brown, 233-4544.

An Elizabeth woman, found guilty of driving while her license was revoked and of operating an uninsured vehicle, was fined a total of $345 for those and other violations at the Aug. 28 session of Mountainside Municipal Court, with Judge Jacob R. Bauer presiding.

Decker, who had been apprehended on Rt. 22, paid $215 for driving while on the revoked list, $15 for failure to have current inspection on her car, $20 for operating an unregistered vehicle, $35 for misuse of license plates, and $60 for failure to have car insurance. The last charge also resulted in suspension of her license for six months.

All-day conference planned by State AAUW on Sept. 14

The New Jersey State Division of the American Association of University Women will sponsor a statewide all-day conference on "Work, Leisure and Changing Roles within the Family," Saturday, Sept. 14 at Hickman Hall, Douglass College, New Brunswick.

Open to the public, this conference is presented in order to encourage a variety of work, career and leisure opportunities for all ages and to foster greater understanding of the impact of the humanities on these patterns in our society.

The conference is being funded through a $2,375 grant from the New Jersey Commission for the Humanities and the N.J. State Division of AAUW. This is the first time that the state division has received such a grant.

Keynote speaker for the conference will be Dr. Mary Taney, professor of history at Glassboro State College. In her 10 a.m. address she will discuss patterns and problems of work and leisure in today's society and how these evolved.

A panel will then discuss lifelong involvement, careers and free time, the women's movement and current roles of retired persons. Panel members will include Dr. Eileen Kennedy Evans, associate professor of English at Kean College; Dr. Ann Parelus, assistant professor of sociology at Rutgers University, and Dr. Peter Romanofsky, assistant professor of history at Jersey City State College.

The afternoon speaker, Dr. Daniel Di Salvi, associate professor of psychology at Kean College, will discuss role changes in later life.

Among the various resource persons on the afternoon panel who will focus on alternative lifestyles will be Katherine Elkus White, former United States ambassador to Denmark.

The conference will begin at 9 a.m. with registration and coffee and adjourn at 3:30 p.m. Opportunity for audience participation is offered throughout the day. The luncheon discussion groups by attendees are an integral part of the day's program. Registration for the luncheon must be made by tomorrow.

Those wishing further information and registration forms should contact Doreen Ulman, project director, Box 200, Princeton 08540, Marilyn Tague, 155 Washington ave., Chatham 07928, or Mabel Young, 1454 Deer Path, Mountainside.

DISHWASHING MADE EASIER -- Inventor Albert Tortorello of 1370 Wood Valley rd., Mountainside, looks over sketch of device he designed to clean glassware thoroughly and quickly. Although the patent still is pending, potential manufacturers throughout the nation have already been contacted, and the thorough man is hopeful the utensil will soon be on the market.

Tongs clean glassware

Resident tells 'gripping' tale

By KAREN STOLL

Housewives who do their dishes by hand may soon find that chore a little less time-consuming, and they will have a Mountainside man to thank for it.

The borough resident, Albert Tortorello of 1370 Wood Valley rd.—who admits he is chief dishwasher around his own home—has invented a device designed to clean all shapes and sizes of glassware quickly and thoroughly, with one twist of the hand. The utensil is a set of plastic and foam tongs which fits around a tumbler, enabling one to wipe the bottom, inside and outside of the glass all at once.

"I do all the dishes at home," Tortorello said, "and I was getting aggravated at the difficulty I had in getting lipstick, orange juice pulp and non-water soluble residue off the glasses. I thought about the problem for a while, and then the idea of the tongs just came to me. Actually, like all inventions it simply relates back to nature. The most natural way to clean a glass would be with the fingers, and this is the principle employed by the tongs."

Joseph Hershey; former chief of volunteer firemen

Joseph H. Hershey of 253 Oak Tree rd., Mountainside, a past chief of the Mountainside Volunteer Fire Department, died suddenly at his home on Aug. 26. He was 68.

Born in Harrisburg, Pa., Mr. Hershey had been a Mountainside resident for 33 years and was active in many borough affairs. In 1972, he retired after 26 years' active service with the Mountainside Volunteer Fire Department. He was a life member of the N.J. State Exempt Firemen's Association and served on the board of managers of the N.J. State Firemen's Home in Bonton.

Mr. Hershey was a retired self-employed carpenter. In earlier years, he had been associated with the dairy business in the Newark area.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Jean Hesketh Hershey; a daughter, Mrs. Louis Chicoria Jr. of Westerly, R.I.; a sister, Mrs. James Hoag of Sterling Heights, Mich., and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were private.

"It has a number of inherent advantages," he continued. "First, you don't need a rag or a brush to reach the bottom of the glass. Also, you can clean off all residue with a turn of the tongs. Many detergents stain if they are not wiped off thoroughly, but with the tongs you can easily cover the whole glass. The sponge that is used can fit all contours, making it easy to clean even hard-to-get-at places."

—O—

TORTORELLO HAS been inventing things since he was a 13-year-old back in his hometown of Newark, but this is the first time an idea has reached marketing stage. The patent is pending, and a prospectus on the tongs has been sent to potential manufacturers throughout the country, under the auspices of the Raymond Lee Organization in New York, a firm specializing in helping inventors sell their ideas.

Tortorello is full of praise for the firm, which he regards as "very competent, progressive and helpful. You really need a good company like this if you are an inventor," he explained, noting the difficulty of carrying on patent searches, communications with distributors, etc., on one's own.

"I worked on the idea for this invention for a couple of years," he said, "although it could have been done in just a few weeks. The point was not only to find the financial means for marketing, but also to get contacts and communications set up. Now that I have the help of this company, if I get another idea, I know matters will be expedited."

Tortorello already has come up with another invention, a capless toothpaste tube that will allow the user to get to just about all of the paste inside without having to use any mechanical device, such as ones sold now. He's still working on the design, but is enthusiastic about its sales potential.

Tortorello is, in fact, enthusiastic about a number of things, and his lifestyle reflects it. He earns his living in real estate, as an associate of Florida Home Counselors of New Jersey, Parsippany, but he's also involved in the recording industry, running his own company, A&S Records. The latter interest is a reflection of his educational background. After graduation from Arts High School, Newark, he went on to earn a degree in music from the Chicago Conservatory.

—O—

"MUSIC IS SOMETHING I enjoy being involved in, but you must be practical," he said. "Sometimes there is something you like to do very much, but there is no money in it, so you look for something more substantial. But you still do not like to give the other thing up." So Tortorello divides his time among his three interests—or, we should say, four, since he also seems to be very much the family man.

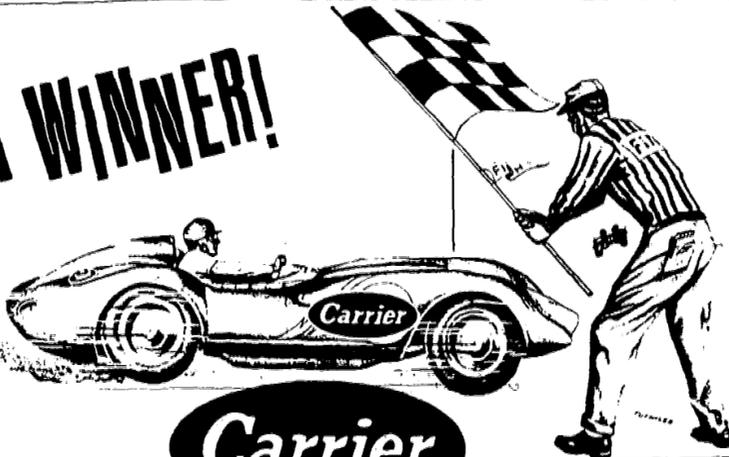

He praised his wife, Adele, noting, "She has always been a big help to me; she has always encouraged me with my inventing. And my children have also taken an interest in my projects." Tortorello has three children—Lisa, at home; Anthony of Middlesex and Mrs. Joyce Gould of Middlesex—and four grandchildren.

Asked if he had any advice for would-be inventors, Tortorello said, "Stick with it. Don't give up. But if you get involved with any marketing organization, make sure it is a good one, otherwise the project just will become frustrating. Make sure there are no hidden charges; it can be quite costly if you don't get involved with a legitimate firm."

Sinnott resolution supports creating Office on Women

A bill that would create an Office on Women within the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry has gained unanimous support of the Union County Freeholders in a resolution introduced by Freeholder Rose Marie Sinnott.

The bill also would create an Employment Resource Service and a Talent Bank, and is designed as companion legislation to A-1518 creating a Division on Women in the Department of Community Affairs which was signed into law by the governor on Aug. 26, the 34th anniversary of the passage of the 19th Amendment which guaranteed women the right to vote.

This proposed legislation is designed to meet the needs of women in the labor force and women desiring to return to the labor force, Mrs. Sinnott said. The proposed Office on Women would operate under the direct supervision of the Commissioner of Labor and Industry.

The Office on Women would formulate standards and policies to promote the welfare of wage-earning women in the areas of opportunities for job advancement, job relocation and elimination of job discrimination. The office also would act as a resource bank for women and potential employers.

Freeholder Sinnott commented, "Women today constitute some 53 percent of the population of Union County. The majority of these women are in the work force either within Union County or its immediate environs. It is important to all of Union County's citizens that the needs and interests of such a large segment of our population be recognized."

Program for aged will have hearing

The Union County Office on Aging will hold a public hearing Wednesday on its area plan for programs on aging under Title III of the Older Americans Act of 1965 as amended, according to Freeholder Walter Ulrich, chairman of the Department of Public Affairs and General Welfare.

Ulrich said the hearing will be held at 2 p.m. at the board of taxation hearing room on the second floor of 208 Commerce pl., Elizabeth. The hearing will provide the opportunity for older persons, the general public, officials of general purpose local government, and other interested parties, to comment on the area plan.

The purpose of the plan is to state how the Office on Aging proposes to develop a comprehensive and coordinated system for the delivery of social services to the elderly. All inquiries should be made to Peter M. Shields, director, Union County Office on Aging, 208 Commerce pl., Elizabeth 07201.

Vets' counselor chosen for UC

The VA is now at Union College. Glenn Robert Scutt of Orange was welcomed as a full-time representative of the Veterans Administration at Union College recently by Dr. Saul Orkin, president of the college.

As VA representative, Scutt will serve as a veterans benefits counselor for currently enrolled veterans at Union College, prospective students, and the general public who might have questions or claims.

Scutt will also serve as VA rep for students at Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, "the other half" of Union County's comprehensive community college system, Dr. Orkin said.

"Thousands of veterans from the Korean and Vietnam Wars are unaware of the benefits to which they are entitled," Scutt said. "There are many more people, widows and children, for example, who are not getting what they're due. My presence on the Union College campus is designed to improve the VA's services and information to our veterans."

Rock bands to perform in concert on Saturday

Ballet courses offered Two sections for adults at UC

Ballet courses have been added to Union College's fall programs in continuing education. Introductory classes will be offered at the Cranford campus for men and women interested in learning the fundamental steps of classical ballet, according to Weyman O. Steengrafe, director of continuing education.

Two sections of Ballet I will be offered initially, Steengrafe said. The first will meet on Monday afternoons, beginning Sept. 23, from 1:30 to 2:45 p.m. These classes will continue until Dec. 9.

The second section will meet on Friday evenings, Sept. 27 through Dec. 20, from 7:30 to 8:45 p.m.

"Ballet has always held a fascination for many people who have never had the opportunity to find out what it really involves," Steengrafe said. "These classes will feature the basics, including the correct body placement, movement and rhythm."

The introductory course will be followed by Ballet II in the spring, Steengrafe said.

The instructor for the ballet course will be Sonja Nikol, a graduate of the National Yugoslav Ballet Academy. Miss Nikol is a former prima ballerina of the Belgrad Opera House and has guest starred on television in Switzerland, West Germany, Holland, Belgium and the Scandinavian countries. She has also performed at the Salzburg and Edinburgh Art Festivals.

Ballet is one of the many courses Union College is offering this fall through the Department of Continuing Education for adults to meet adult needs and interests. Other courses, including management and sales, psychology, literature and fine arts, and professional and personal enrichment programs will be conducted as well.

A brochure detailing all the fall offerings, course content, schedules and application procedures may be obtained by calling Steengrafe's office at 276-2600, ext. 239.

MRS. SYLVIA BRAILOVE of Elizabeth has accepted the presidency of the Women's Division of the Jewish Federation of Central New Jersey. Mrs. Brailove was the recipient of the Federation's President's Award this year. She will also serve the Federation as assistant secretary on the executive board.

Steiner seeking 'less government'

Bob Steiner, Independent candidate for congress in the 12th Congressional District, said this week that the issues in the congressional election boil down to one question, "Do you want more government or less government?"

"If you want more government, you may cast your vote for the Democrat who wants to create 900,000 new federal jobs," Steiner said. "These 900,000 new jobs, which are merely his opening request to expand the enormous government size, will be paid for by the taxpayers."

"If you want more government," he continued, "you may also cast your vote to elect the Republican who has voted for increased national debt, taxpayer support of the political ambitions of candidates, and other programs which cause the government to grow and, simultaneously, cause individual rights to diminish."

Proctoscope tube can provide lifesaving cancer detection

"Deaths from cancer of the colon and rectum, the most common cancer in adult men and women, could be drastically reduced if the general public were more alert and if physicians urged all persons over 40 to have a 'procto' examination," Dr. Warren Knauer of the American Society's Union County Unit Executive Committee said this week.

Cancer of the colon and rectum will strike an estimated 79,000 Americans and of this figure 47,000 will die. This cancer is unbiased in its attack as it occurs equally among men and women.

"Most of these deaths are avoidable as much of the suffering and handicaps that are caused by the disease. Three out of four patients could be saved by early diagnosis and treatment by the means currently at hand," said Knauer.

"About 90 percent of the men and women who develop cancer of the colon and rectum are over 45 years old." Most of the colon cancers develop in the lower part of the bowel which can be examined visually with a lighted tube called a proctoscope," he continued.

Some common symptoms of colon-rectal cancer are: blood in the stool, change in bowel habits, either constipation or diarrhea or both, alternately or an increase in internal gas or persistent abdominal discomfort.

Block will teach tax preparation

H&R Block will hold classes in income tax return preparation which, according to a company official, "can be an opportunity for retired persons to supplement their income."

The 13½-week course, which is open to all persons will begin in mid-September. Classes meet twice a week for a total of 81 hours of instruction. "Completion of the course," said Frank Sanders of the Block Scotch Plains office, "leads many people into part time careers in income tax preparation, a rapidly expanding field that offers excellent income possibilities for retirees who have spare time and want to be kept active."

The tuition fee of $75 covers registration, materials and supplies. Person interested in enrolling should contact Sanders at 1587 E. Second st., Scotch Plains. Telephone him at 322-2232.

Criminal justice grant given to UC

A grant of $29,000 has been awarded to Union College by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the U.S. Department of Justice to provide grants to law enforcement personnel enrolled in the college's criminal justice program, it was announced this week by Dr. Saul Orkin, president.

The funds will be made available to currently enrolled law enforcement personnel and those who will enter the criminal justice program in September, Mrs. Betty Ehrigott, financial aid director, said. Union College had an enrollment of 220 students in the past academic year, in the criminal justice program, 160 of whom are receiving grants under the federal law enforcement education program. To qualify for a grant, a student must be employed in the law enforcement field.

Union College offers a two-year program in criminal justice leading to an associate in arts degree. Graduates are eligible to transfer to four-year institutions to complete requirements for a baccalaureate degree.

CONGRESSIONAL REFORM—Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-12) discusses congressional reform plan with Rep. Richard Bolling (D-Mo.), author of a plan to reorganize House committees. The Bolling plan and one authored by Rep. Julia Butler Hansen (D-Wash.), are expected to be debated after Congress reconvenes next week. Rinaldo has supported congressional reform since entering Congress.

Mental health group planning series of community hearings

A series of community hearings is planned by the Union County members of the state Joint Committee on Mental Health Planning.

Benjamin H. Haddock of Scotch Plains, executive director of the Union County Psychiatric Clinic, and State Senator Alexander J. Menza, named to the committee by the Department of Institutions and Agencies and the Department of Health, announced that the hearings will start in the fall.

"We hope that they will provide data from mental health professionals and interested citizens to help us provide information in updating the state's mental health program."

"We want the guidance and a continued evaluation of the work of the committee, which we expect these hearings will provide," Haddock and Senator Menza explained, "and we particularly want to settle on goals and the best means of achieving them."

The 18-member joint state committee is charged with reviewing and making recommendations for improving the state mental health program which costs $82.4 million a year.

Commissioner Ann Klein of the Department of Institutions and Agencies told the committee recently, "Among the many complex, specific ## Questions the committee is likely to consider are those such as financing of community-based mental health operations, the future role and size of the public mental health hospitals, mental health commitment laws, patient rights and alternatives."

The statewide study will take a year and has a budget of $150,000. Dr. Joanne Finley, Commissioner of Health, said the "major responsibility of the committee will be that of policy recommendations."

Levin said the employment picture for women would be substantially improved by the development of a comprehensive child day-care system. He said one of every three mothers with pre-school children is working today, compared to only one out of eight in 1948.

"Existing day-care programs are available for only a limited number of children from poor families," the Westfield Democrat continued. "They completely fail to meet the needs of the nearly one million children of working mothers in the middle-income families, earning between $4,000 and $7,000 a year too high to qualify for most federally assisted day-care programs, and too low to afford quality private care."

"If elected, I intend to sponsor legislation to amend the Social Security Act to provide for part-time day-care operations."

THE NOVEMBER CANDIDATES PROFILE--John D. Mollozzi

the county level this year who is not in complete accord with the Union County Charter Commission's recommendation that a county manager form of government is best for the county. The proposal will be submitted to the voters at a county-wide referendum on Nov. 5. "I am not in agreement with the Charter Commission's recommendation that the county manager option is the best plan for our county," says Mollozzi. "Under this plan, the manager has the authority to appoint a deputy and other administrators, without limitation. This plan would certainly lead to a duplication of duties and excessive spending of the taxpayers' hard-earned dollars. I prefer an appointed administrator answerable to the board of nine freeholders."

County government, the candidate points out, is analogous to a corporation, and as such, the freeholders should act as a board of directors, settling policy for the county's growth and development. Such a directorship, Mollozzi feels, would allow the freeholders more time to deal with problems such as flooding, transportation, solid waste, drug addiction and others.

"It would afford an opportunity for the freeholders to present and press for the passage of legislation needed to resolve these problems," Mollozzi says. "As a result, the daily task of coordinating county services and directing departmental heads in carrying out their duties and responsibilities, should be left in the hands of a county administrator."

Pointing to present areas of concern within the county, Mollozzi feels the freeholders should press for creation of a Solid Waste Authority, which would be charged with financially aiding and governing solid waste disposal development. Under such an authority, he says, various counties could enter into regional planning for establishing recycling or solid waste plants, with the help of state and federal funding.

Mollozzi also favors the freeholders acting to develop a mini-bus transportation system in the county. "The size of such vehicles," he says, "would help reduce fuel consumption, operating costs and air pollution, and would allow companies to establish more routes and extend services to the general public at a lower cost."

In pursuing solid waste disposal methods and a mini-bus system, Mollozzi said, the freeholders should establish a commission that would have the responsibility of planning, implementing, regulating and coordinating the two undertakings with state and federal authorities.

In steps to combat flooding problems in the county, Mollozzi favors establishment by the freeholders of a flood control advisory board to coordinate efforts between the municipalities, county and state. The advisory unit, he says, would have the responsibility for identifying flood areas and recommending flood control programs to the freeholders.

"Such a board would be most beneficial, since it would also provide an impetus for the board of freeholders to press the state and federal governments for funds which are needed to continue a comprehensive flood control program for our county."

Every effort should be extended, in Mollozzi's view, for the county to participate in Green Acres funds to the fullest extent. Along with this, he says, recommendations should be made to the state to eliminate blighted areas for the development of recreational facilities.

"The fight of our senior citizens is a real one that the freeholders have an obligation to join," says the Democratic hopeful. "The freeholders can help senior citizens by pushing for legislation that will raise the normal exemption of $1,600 per year to a higher figure so that part-time employment, together with Social Security benefits, would allow the senior citizen to live moderately. In this day and age of inflation, it is my feeling that the senior citizen needs all the possible help that he can get."

Mollozzi proposes that the freeholders lead the battle to have a state land bank established for senior citizens. Under such a program, the freeholders would recommend blighted areas to the state for demolition.

"After such land is cleared," says Mollozzi, "the state could rent the land to the county for $1 per year for the construction of senior citizen housing that would be open to all senior citizens of the county, and not just to a particular town."

Another consideration that should be given the county's older population, says Mollozzi, is medical examinations and X-rays to seniors through mobile units from John E. Rannels Hospital. "These evaluations, which the senior citizen could not otherwise afford, could save a life or prevent long-term illnesses in many cases."

MOLLOZZI LIVES at 119 Bender ave., Roselle Park, with his wife, the former Rose Marie Rosser of Irvington, and their two daughters, Gina Alamo, six, and Erin Lynn, four. He is a 1959 graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School, Elizabeth, and in 1963 he was graduated from Jersey City State College. He majored in social sciences with a minor in educational psychology.

Mollozzi, who holds a New Jersey teaching certificate, was graduated from George Washington University School of Law, Washington, D.C., in 1967, and was admitted to the New Jersey Bar in 1969. He is a partner in the Elizabeth law firm of Mollozzi and Conti.

In 1968, Mollozzi was elected councilman-at-large in Roselle Park, defeating the Republican incumbent, Leonard Genova, by 516 votes. As a council member, he served as chairman of the public works, building and grounds and licensing and transportation committees. Two years ago, as a Democratic candidate for freeholder, Mollozzi was high man on the ticket which fell before the Nixon landslide over Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential candidate.

Mollozzi was chairman of Union County's Young Citizens for Humphrey-Muskie in 1968 and was the manager of Alexander Menza's successful 1971 campaign for a seat in the State Assembly.

Mollozzi is a former chairman of the Roselle Park March of Dimes and Heart Fund campaigns. He is a member of the Holy Name Society of the Church of the Assumption, Roselle Park, and of Unico and St. Joseph's Council, Knights of Columbus, of Roselle-Roselle Park.

Board transfers

wood, there would be 27 students in the class here, with only 18 and 19 in the two Deerfield first grades.

An issue raised during the arguments between board and parents was a major school reorganization plan, proposed and rejected this spring. That plan, prompted by declining enrollment, would have turned Beechwood into a primary school for grades K-2 only, with grades 3, 4 and 5 at Deerfield Elementary.

IN ANNOUNCING the decision to stick by the transfers, Hanigan again defended the redistricting proposal, stating, "This pattern of attendance and districting problems will continue until some other method of organization is devised...This (setting up of separate primary grade schools) has been done successfully in Springfield, involving two of the three elementary schools there."

The youngsters involved in the transfers reside in a new "swing district," an area designated by the board as being the one to go to for transfers to balance enrollments. The district this year is located at the top of the mountain above Park slope; previously, it was an area bordering New Providence road.

At last Thursday's meeting, Hanigan stated, "There are only two districts blurred, south of the highway and this one. Since the children in the latter had already been transferred to Beechwood from Echobrook, we decided it was fairer to move this group."

Objections raised by the parents included the increase of first grade class sizes to a maximum of 24 (they suggested hiring an additional teacher); the fact that the children, when first told they were going to Beechwood, were prepared to be accompanied by older brothers and sisters, and the short notice given to the parents about the switch.

Exercises aid children

A 20 percent increase in the fitness level of 4, 5 and 6-year-olds in experimental kindergarten classes at the Westfield YMCA, emphasizing correctional exercises has resulted in a redesign of the program to meet their needs.

All nine kindergarten classes in the Y's fall term, which opens Monday, will include correctional exercises for abdominals, hip flexors, back muscles and flexibility.

The exercises were introduced by associate physical director Tchang Bok Chung after he administered the Kraus Weber test (probably the most famous test of minimum muscular fitness) to 260 children from the fall term of 1972 through the spring term of 1974 in his kindergarten classes. A total of 136 boys and girls (52.3 percent) passed while 124 or 47.7 percent failed.

The six Kraus Weber tests consist of situps, leg raising, and tests for upper and lower back and hamstring muscles.

"People who can't pass the test are likely to have lower back trouble in later life," Chung points out. He instituted a program of corrective exercises for 32 children in some of his 1974 spring term classes. After the stretching exercises, which increase strength and flexibility of key posture muscles, Chung re-tested the children and found that 23 children, 71.9 percent of the kindergymers, passed and only nine, 28.1 percent, failed.

Everyone in the program will now undergo the exercises. Two special classes for 4-year-olds will be offered in the fall session. There will be six regular classes for 4, 5 and 6-year-olds, plus an advanced class for youngsters who have been in the program before or are exceptionally physically advanced.

Registration for the classes is now in progress.

destined for the community itself."

Another section of the 60-page county survey of interest to Mountainers is a portion on "major highway construction" regarding RT 22 and Rt. 78.

"The New Jersey Department of Transportation Master Plan calls for the improvement of the existing RT 22 corridor as a second priority item," it reads. "While the improvement must await the completion of RT 78 to relieve traffic and allow construction without serious disruption to motorists, projected traffic through the county shows an immediate need for improvement to the arterial."

"Consequently, the Union County Planning Board should adopt a policy supporting this improvement program and aid the state bridge work, concrete structures) The paving work is handled by sub-contractors. Akin said he hopes to have the Vauxhall road bridge open by the end of September. All that is left to perform on that structure, said the resident engineer, is approach preparation, paving and the installation of utilities. He said the deck on the Burnet avenue bridge will probably be completed in mid-October. Once the two bridges are open paving work can pick up speed. Paving is taking place from Liberty avenue west to the completed section of Rt. 78 at Springfield avenue. Work started on Section 5A in December 1972.

Contractors for Section 5A include PT&L Co. of Paramus (road work) and Ell-Dorer of Warren Twp. (structures). The paving sub-contractor is Concrete Construction Corp.

wherever possible to rapidly bring about its implementation. Particular emphasis should be placed on the replacement of existing signalized intersections by grade separations, especially through the Mountainside, Union, Scotch Plains, Westfield, North Plainfield and Watchung areas.

AS FAR AS a connector between RT 22 (called as being of insufficient capacity to carry existing volumes, let alone projected volumes) and Rt. 78 is concerned, the Planning Board apparently has decided to recommend placement of such an artery west of the borough, in Berkeley Heights.

The report on that project reads: "A state highway connector through a gap in the Watchung Mountains should be constructed along the approximate alignment of Diamond Hill road. Besides a new interchange with Rt. 22 east of the existing Blue Star interchange, connections to feeder roads into Scotch Plains and Plainfield are required."

Regarding Rt. 78 itself, the Planning Board states: "The value of this expressway to Union County in relieving current traffic congestion on Rt. 22 cannot be overstated. The county should support the New Jersey Department of Transportation wherever possible to secure rapid construction of the remaining sections of Rt. 78."

Republicans

Hechtle, who reside at 346 Old Grove rd., have two children, Dobbie, 19, and Steve, 16. Mrs. Hechtle issued the following statement: "I am extremely pleased to play a leading role in the Bill Cullen Bruce Geiger campaign for reelection to the Mountainside Borough Council. During the past three years these two men have exhibited great dedication and wisdom in administering the various affairs of government."

"I accepted this job as campaign manager because I respect and believe in Bruce and Bill. They are my friends. They are businessmen, husbands, fathers and longtime residents of the community. I believe in their integrity and their ability to continue to represent and work for the interests of all the people of Mountainside. We are fortunate that their business commitments allow them to devote to the community the long hours necessary to carry out and improve our local government."

Mountainside has had Republican administrations since its incorporation as a borough in 1895. We enjoy one of the lowest tax rates in Union County. I believe this is due to the foresight and planning of previous Republican administrations. We all chose to live here because we all believe Mountainside is a fine community in which to live and raise a family. I believe Bruce and Bill have proven for the past three years that they are dedicated to the cause of prudently maintaining Mountainside as a desirable community for all its residents.

The final responsibility rests with the electorate and I would urge all voters to join with me to express their confidence in Bruce Geiger and Bill Cullen on Nov. 5.

Elizabethtown Gas asks $13 million hike in rates

Elizabethtown Gas has applied to the New Jersey Board of Public Utility Commissioners (PUC) for its second general rate increase in 26 years.

The previous application for an increase was filed Sept. 1, 1972, and resulted 14 months later in an increase of 2.9 percent, which company officials at that time termed "disappointing and inadequate."

The company is seeking an immediate interim rate increase of approximately $5.4 million, to be supplemented by an additional $7.6 million at a later date, making a general increase of 28 percent.

Of the approximate $13 million sought, the company said, almost $7 million (58 percent) ultimately would go to local, state and federal governments in the form of gross receipts, franchise and federal income taxes. Elizabethtown Gas would retain only 42 percent of the requested increase to meet its obligations.

Calvin R. Carver, a senior vice-president of Elizabethtown Gas, said, "We cannot plan for alternative supplies to supplement our diminishing pipeline sources of natural gas unless we have the capital necessary to invest in related projects.

"If we do not receive the immediate increase requested at this time we will be unable to secure long-term financing of projects needed to supply our customers this winter. This would seriously jeopardize our ability to provide our customers with safe and adequate service."

Carver said that the company's financial problems are not the result of imprudent management or other controllable factors.

"The situation we face today," Carver declared, "is the result of being caught in the vicious cross-fire of soaring nationwide inflation and an acute supply problem."

Carver pointed out that the innovative and successful efforts by Elizabethtown's sister company, National Exploration, in finding additional supplies of natural gas in the Southwest have been significantly offset by increasing curtailments from the pipeline companies which supply Elizabethtown.

A greater proportion of the rate increase would be borne by industrial and commercial customers, while residential non-heating customers would receive the smallest increase. Carver said this was planned "giving maximum consideration to the financial circumstances of our senior citizens and other customers on fixed incomes."

The purchased gas adjustment presently in effect would be continued. "The adjustment clause reflects the fluctuating cost of gas to us from the pipeline companies and produces no income for our company," Carver said.

The company serves 171,000 customers in Union and Middlesex Counties and approximately 14,000 in Hunterdon, Warren, Sussex, Morris and Mercer Counties.

Few openings remain

A few openings still exist in this September's 10-month Office Practices Program conducted by Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, to prepare students for entry-level clerical positions, it was reported by Mrs. Elizabeth Gentry, instructor of the program. The office practices program, designed to fill existing personnel needs in and around the Union County area, is taught at Union College's Plainfield Urban Educational Center.

Over the years the scope of its operations broadened, providing moral and emotional support to many other individuals who were incapacitated or housebound, by enabling them to be productive and to have meaningful employment. Thousands have been helped in the 93 years of the exchange's existence. It also provides an outlet for creative hobbyists as well as those in need financially.

A member of a national federation of nearly 50 woman's exchanges throughout the country, the Newark Exchange has consignors from 16 states including Florida, California and North Dakota—persons in hospitals and nursing homes or kept at home through their own illness or the care of invalid members of their families.

Mrs. J. Russell Lodge of Union, president of the Newark Exchange, announced that the store will be open each week Tuesday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. It will be staffed by volunteers headed by Mrs. W. Degenhardt of Mountainside. Parking is available on Lenox ave., adjacent to the store, or in the municipal lot across the street.

Several women from Mountainside are serving on the board of the exchange, including Mrs. Robson T. Young, as vice-president; Mrs. Theodore White, treasurer; Mrs. Daniel Sproul, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. Carmine Jannelli, secretary. Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Van Blarcom, Mr. and Mrs. B.J. McKinney and Mr. and Mrs. Sproul have put in many hours painting and readying the store for the opening.

Interior design variations among Timbers' features

The Timbers, the new DCA-Mayer community off Exit 67 in Barnegat, offers a variety of homes designed for family living, ranging from two-bedroom ranches ideal for young marrieds or more mature couples without children, to dual-level models, adaptable to provide from two to five bedrooms.

"We're especially proud of the dual-level homes," said Joseph Billhimer, marketing director for DCA-Mayer. "Each one has seven optional floor plan variations. They range from completely unfinished lower levels to combinations of bedrooms and recreation areas."

The flexibility is expected to have special appeal to active-oriented family groups. Owners can select the floor plan that is most appropriate for their particular interests—such as photography, wood-working or painting. For the family that does a great deal of entertaining, the full recreation room might be best.

"These optional plans allow the buyer to tailor the interior to fit his family size or lifestyle," said Billhimer. "The Timbers has been carefully planned to give residents all of the technological advantages of modern living in a tranquil, old-fashioned environment."

Lots in the new DCA-Mayer community are large, to aid in preserving the area's natural resources. There are winding trails through the woods for hiking or bike riding. Homes feature all-electric Hotpoint kitchens with hooded oven-range, total electric living, separate thermostat in every room and 150-amp electric service. In addition, wall-to-wall carpeting, fully-sheetrocked attached garage and ceramic-tiled bath also are standard. Options in The Timbers include central air-conditioning, self-cleaning oven, refrigerator-freezer, dishwasher and washer-dryer.

Going beyond the community itself, The Timbers puts residents in the center of recreational activities. Barnegat Bay and the Atlantic Ocean offer fishing, swimming, sailing, water skiing and surfing. Golf courses, yacht basins, tennis clubs and parks are also nearby.

"The Garden State Parkway and the other excellent highways put The Timbers within easy driving time of major metropolitan centers," said Billhimer, "but the community and the area are well away from big city congestion."

Prices for homes in the Timbers range from $24,990 to $35,990. The community may be reached via Exit 67 of the Garden State Parkway. Travel east on Rt. 534

LEISURE HOME DEVELOPERS—Louis and John Larsen, who developed Big Bass Lake in the Poconos, announced sales of $9 million in homesites and homes in three years, since the opening of the leisure home community. The Larsens are in line with a long family tradition which began when their great grandfather built leisure homes in the late 1800s.

Sales accelerate at Big Bass Lake in its third year

Big Bass Lake has just celebrated its third anniversary. It was on July 9, 1971, that the first lot was sold in the Pocono leisure home community at Gouldsboro, Pa. Developers Louis F. Larsen and John R. Larsen report that to date they have sold over 650 homesites valued at more than $5 million and that sales this summer are continuing at an accelerated rate.

lake and a trout stream and 800 acres of very desirable land on rolling, wooded terrain, and this was enough to get us off to a good start. Then we added a welcome center and administrative offices and a quarter-million dollar recreation center with lounges and a heated indoor swimming pool.

"Notable is the fact that most purchasers are not only interested in the land as an investment, but in building homes in the community and enjoying its recreational facilities," the developers reported. By the end of the current construction season, year-round and fully-equipped leisure homes will already have been built on nearly one-quarter of the sites that have so far been sold at Big Bass.

"The homes themselves will represent an additional investment by the purchasers of over $4 million.

"We feel our progress in three years has been very substantial," Lou Larsen says. "We started with a big

Free offer for racquet

Marcel Lake Racquet Club and Leisure Community, a vacation home development in the Poconos, is offering a free metal tennis racquet to families interested in inspecting their wooded homesites.

The offer, which expires on Sept. 30, is part of a special program designed to introduce new families to the benefits of vacation community living and second home ownership.

Marcel Lake is a small, private community especially planned for families who want to escape the over-crowded cities and suburbs. Bounded by thousands of acres of state game lands, the community offers a wide variety of amenities, including tennis courts, two large lakes, beaches, an olympic-sized pool, playgrounds, central water and sewer, and much more.

The sales office at Marcel Lake is open everyday from 9 a.m. to dusk. The project is located just 83 miles from the George Washington Bridge, and can be reached by taking Interstate 80 West to the Route 15 North (Sparta) exit. Stay on Route 15 North into Route 206 North and follow the signs.

Interested families are invited to drive up or call (201) 488-6565 for more information.

Luxury accented at Fox Hill

"There's always a market for well-designed, luxury homes with custom features," according to Leonard R. Sendelsky Jr., whose latest venture is Fox Hill, near Rt. 130 in North Brunswick.

Sendelsky, whose building credits include Humby Hills in Westfield and Fox Hill Run in Edison, recently completed a one-year sabbatical, during which he served as president of the New Jersey Builders Association. He said the year of traveling around the state gave him a unique view of the state's housing situation. It also confirmed his view that the large, traditional home is far from extinct.

"There has been so much emphasis on middle-income families," he says, "that people in the upper financial brackets were being neglected."

Fox Hill, situated in one of the most attractive sections of Middlesex County overlooking Farrington Lake, will offer spacious distinctive homes designed to complement the lifestyle of the successful executive. The rolling terrain is heavily wooded, with towering trees creating an individual setting for each home. Lots are a minimum half-acre and fully improved. All power and telephone lines will be underground to aid in preserving the beauty and atmosphere of the community.

Sendelsky plans to construct 30 homes in the first section of Fox Hill. Five houses, nearing completion, emphasize the custom touches which have become a hallmark of Sendelsky single-family communities.

In one, the 16 by 44-foot master bedroom suite includes a sitting room, dual baths, and two walk-in closets. Another boasts a 70-foot basement. Libraries, dens, built-in bars and even maid's quarters are among the singular amenities. Kitchens are spacious and convenient to breakfast and dining areas. Prices begin at $95,000.

New Brunswick and the Penn Central station are less than 10 minutes away. The community is convenient to the East Brunswick Mall on Rt. 18 and only 15 minutes from Woodbridge Center and Menlo Park Mall. Princeton and Trenton are within 30 minutes.

Homes at Fox Hill and homesites are being shown only by appointment. Arrangements may be made by calling Sendelsky at 727-0770.

Wyckham Manor offers new section of townhomes

Greater American Communities has just opened a new section of Wyckham Manor townhouses for sale in Spring Lake Heights, according to Melvin Konwiser, president.

Located at Allaire road and Rt. 71, Wyckham Manor is not a massive, sprawling development, but a cluster of 16 all-brick manor buildings whose design is based on that of the governor's mansion at Colonial Williamsburg.

Konwiser pointed out buyers at Wyckham Manor are pleased to learn there will be just 62 families using the Olympic-size swimming pool. He also indicated the condominium development is attracting a variety of home buyers, from just-married young couples, investing in their first home, to adult couples who do not want to settle in a retirement village.

In keeping with the historical architecture, the various manor home models, priced from $39,990, have names connected with the period—the Washington, the Jefferson, and the Adams. Townhouses at Wyckham Manor include a number of one and two-bedroom models, all with wood windows, sliding glass doors to private patios, self-cleaning oven-range, dishwasher, trash compactor, all-electric central air-conditioning and heating, and wall-to-wall carpet in a choice of colors.

"The condominium home ownership plan provides the carefree life of an apartment, and the tax advantages of a private home," a spokesman noted. There are no outside maintenance chores—grass cutting, snow removal, exterior painting and related tasks are taken care of by the community association for a monthly fee. "Interest and real estate taxes are deductible from federal income taxes, and the home becomes an investment which builds equity each year," he added.

Wyckham Manor's architecture complements the countryside of the Spring Lake Heights area—one of the most attractive and rapidly-growing sections of the state.

To reach Wyckham Manor, take the Garden State Parkway to Exit 96 onto Rt. 34. Proceed east to the (Allaire road) circle, go three-quarters around the circle and turn right onto Allaire road, continue approximately three miles to Allaire on left. Or take Rt. 71 to Allaire road in Spring Lake Heights and turn west to models.

Covered Bridge offers mortgages below normal rate

While home purchasers across the nation are generally having a hard time finding mortgage money, Hovnanian Enterprises, Inc. has two programs offering funds below current N.J. market rates for the use of prospective home buyers at Covered Bridge, the company's adult community in Manalapan Township.

Kevorck S. Hovnanian, president of the company, reports that a limited number of 7.41 percent mortgages are still available at Covered Bridge, and that Hovnanian Enterprises, Inc. also recently obtained a $1 million mortgage commitment for buyers at the condominium community.

Although a large portion of the $2 million of 7.41 percent N.J. Housing Finance Agency mortgages were utilized by Covered Bridge purchasers during the past few months, Hovnanian stated, qualified buyers could still take advantage of the available remainder of these "barren interest rate mortgages."

Hovnanian also reported that the additional $1 million mortgage commitment was secured through West Essex Savings of Caldwell. These funds were provided under a Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. program, and are commonly known as Freddy Mac mortgages. Payable over 30 years, the Freddy Mac mortgages bear an interest rate of 8-3/4 percent, also below the current N.J. market rate.

Under the Freddy Mac program, a qualified home buyer is permitted to finance up to 95 percent of the purchase price of a Covered Bridge home.

Covered Bridge adult community can be reached via the Garden State Parkway, Exit 123, or the New Jersey Turnpike, Exit 11. Drive south on Rt. 9 to Manalapan, just north of Freehold. The entrance to Covered Bridge is on the right.

Sozio, will open the season under the auspices of the Foundation for the Performing Arts, Saturday, Oct. 5 at 8 p.m. The concert, to be performed in the stage of Union High School, will feature three soloists: Peter Dimitriadis, violinist; Carol Ferris, pianist; and Zira, Israeli lyric tenor.

'Blazing Saddles' spoof opens on Rahway screen

'Papillon,' starring Steve McQueen, is the latest screen offering at the New Plaza Theater, Linden. ## 'Cinderella Liberty,' set in Seattle, leads double bill at Elmora Theater

'Cinderella Liberty,' starring James Caan, Marsha Mason and Eli Wallach, arrived at the Elmora Theater, Elizabeth, on a double bill with 'Dirty Mary, Crazy Larry.'

PICK OF THE LPs, "HERO AND HEROINE" by Strawbs (A&M SP-3670). The Strawbs were first conceived as a bluegrass group by founder Dave Cousins (the fastest banjo in the British Isles at the time, according to observers). As the Strawberry Hill Boys, Cousins and friend Tony Hooper made some rather esoteric Anglo-American music for a while, then decided to expand into a larger, more varied group format. Although the literal approach to traditional forms was discarded along with the "erry Hill Boys" part of their name, the Strawbs have continued to deal with elements of both folk art and high art in their music.

DISC 'N' DATA

(formerly with the Nashville Teens and Renaissance) rounds out the new lineup. Strawbs' new album advances the varied approach of "Bursting at the Seams" by combining quick-hitting rockers like Lambert's "Just Love" and "Lay a Little Light on Me" with extended metaphorical works like the title song, "Autumn" and "Why." Additional selections include: "Sad Young Man," "Shine on Silver Sun," "Midnight Sun," "Out in the Cold" and "Round and Round." Strawbs is one of the few bands in which rock & roll and art-song harmoniously co-exist. Dave Cousins has come a long way from Strawberry Hill.

Sinister drama now at Cinema

Warren Beatty plays the role of a newspaper reporter, one of 10 witnesses to an assassination of a presidential candidate, in "The Parallax View," which opened yesterday at the Five Points Cinema, Union.

As the witnesses are killed, one by one, he launches an investigation into the sinister conspiracy evolving around him. The picture, produced and directed by Alan J. Pakula, and filmed in Panavision and Technicolor, also stars Paula Prentiss, William Daniels, Walter McHugh and Hume Cronyn.

Screenplay is by David Giler and Lorenzo Semple Jr., based on the novel by Loren Singer. Talking about "The Parallax View," Pakula notes that "the personal relationships are certainly secondary to the melodrama and mystery. The picture deals with a paranoid delusion that turns out to be a total reality."

It deals, he says, "with a character, played by Beatty, who imagines the worst and suspects the worst. He imagines the most bizarre kind of plots and the truth turns out to be worse than anything he could have imagined."

State's non-farm employment total declined in July

Commissioner Joseph A. Hoffman announced this week that non-farm wage and salary employment in New Jersey declined by 33,600 in July, according to estimates prepared by the N.J. Department of Labor and Industry on the basis of its monthly survey of employers. The July total was 2,808,900; it was 2,842,500 in June and 2,789,200 a year ago.

The decline was substantially larger than usually occurs in the June-July period. As a result, the seasonally-adjusted estimate of nonfarm employment dipped by 18,300 to a July level of 2,773,900. According to Arthur J. O'Neal, director of the Department's Division of Planning and Research, the disappointing employment trend between June and July reflected continued plant closing and generally sluggish activity in manufacturing, the slowdown in construction and an unusually modest amount of seasonal hiring by some services, utilities and other nonmanufacturing employers.

Manufacturing industries accounted for slightly more than half of the monthly decline in the unadjusted total with a drop of 17,000.

Minimum between cars should be two seconds

"I'll be with you in a second" is never truer than when it expresses intervals between cars," warns W. J. Brown Jr., safety director for the Allstate Motor Club. "A two-second interval — that is, an interval which would require your car two full seconds to arrive at the point where the car ahead of you is at the moment — is the minimum safe traveling distance."

If your car and the car ahead are traveling at about the same speed, here's the simplest way to make sure you'll have time to stop if the preceding car stops:

1. Select a roadside object (tree, pole, shrub, etc.) as the car ahead passes it, then begin counting seconds (saying "one-thousand one...one-thousand two...," etc. takes just about one second for each number).
2. Stop the count when your own car passes the same object.
3. If the count is less than two — you're following too

Teenagers spend with schooling

American teenagers get millions of dollars every week in allowances and salaries but receive little schooling on how to spend wisely. A Montclair State College department chairman wants to correct this oversight.

"Since as much as 50 percent of the consumer dollar is controlled, handled, or manipulated by the teenager—directly or indirectly—the need for students being informed is obvious," says Dr. Stephen Kowalski, Montclair's chairman of Physics-Geoscience. His suggestion: "teach consumer science."

"The marketplace and its products, advertising and its claims can come into the classroom—vivid, alive, and ready to be analyzed," Dr. Kowalski says of this newly spreading course, which lets students use the methods of science to investigate the quality of products sold in local stores and to check the accuracy of promotional materials.

"The typical consumer learns wise spending by trial and error," the Montclair professor says. "He may buy impulsively, be motivated by advertising claims, by the packaging, or by the price. Later, he sometimes regrets purchases he has made. Consumer science forces the student to apply the scientific method to his buying habits."

"Students can test and experiment on their own. They can visit supermarkets to compare prices, sizes, packages, and shopping appeal. Advertising may be observed analyzed and—where specific claims are made—actually tested."

"Emphasis is placed on investigating a problem. Through testing, accurate observation, and analysis of collected data, logical conclusions can be drawn and final

Oliver to use I formation to beef up scoring power

By MICHAEL MESKIN

When the high school football practice season opened last Sunday, Jonathan Dayton's new coach Dave Oliver got his initial opportunity to see his disciples in action.

Oliver, a former football coach at Middlesex High School, is showing much enthusiasm and confidence as he speaks about the coming campaign. The team has lost a number of dependable players to graduation, but Oliver does not believe in rebuilding of the top high school level, relying on the influx of young players from strong junior varsity and freshman programs. Because of this philosophy he is setting high goals this year.

Oliver's main objective, besides the winning of games, is to put more points on the scoreboard. To accentuate scoring the Bulldog offensive forces will be working from the I formation, the fullback and tailback line up directly behind the quarterback, with the wingback flanked on either side and acting as a swing man. Though the attack is expected to be evenly balanced, much of its success will be determined by the development of the offensive line.

The team has five lettermen returning on the front line in Gary Presslaff, Glen Arnold, Rich Consales, Jerry Ragones and Jim Rice. Adding depth and more flexibility to this area will be senior Mitch Kurtzer, juniors Bob McGurdy and Bob Potomski and sophomores Bob Conte, Rick Debbie, Bob Pine and Joe Ragucci.

In the backfield the team is loaded with experience. Returning will be letterman quarterback Carmen Scoppetulo, who will receive competition from junior Joe Graziano and sophomore prospect Bryan Burke. Doing most of the ball carrying will be seniors Bruce Heide, Derek Nardone and Joe Natiello. Also expected to play a prominent role in the backfield for the offensive machine will be senior George Siragotis, juniors Mike Flood, Hugh Cole and Jack Flood and sophomores Brandon Gamber, Carmine Apicella, Ted Parker and Steve Pepe.

The Bulldogs have a strong corps of receivers senior tight end Kevin Mercer, senior split end Harold Manner and junior Joe Mirto.

Though last year's defensive unit was extremely efficient, it has been crippled by graduation. Oliver will have his defenders in multiple formations as an added tactic to confuse the opposition. On the line will be senior letterman Wayne Schwarte, junior Keith Widom and sophomores Brian McNany, Jim Stadler, Bill VanBuskirk and Keim Mitchell. Because of their versatility some of the members of the offensive line will also be used to bolster this area. Nardone and Natiello, two-way performers, will be returning to the defensive backfield.

Oliver, though quite excited about the year's possibilities, realizes Summit, Verona, and Caldwell will be true challenges of the Bulldogs' ability but he is hoping for the Suburban Conference title. The Jonathan Dayton football staff will have approximately one month to condition their men into winning shape, as the Bulldogs open Sept. 28 against Roselle at Meisel Field.

Defense will be stressed by Dayton soccer coach

By MICHAEL MESKIN

"A good defense makes a good offense." This is the basic philosophy of varsity soccer coach Art Krupp as he looks ahead to the 1974 campaign. Starting his initial year as head coach after stints in the junior varsity and freshman programs, Krupp is attempting to infuse a winning attitude into his players. After poor records in recent years, the coach felt a general lack of enthusiasm has hampered Dayton's soccer program. Because of its stress on running, soccer is a game of stamina and physical condition so this area will be emphasized by the coaches.

This year the team will use a 3-3-4 defensive alignment—three linemen, three halfbacks and four fullbacks. One of the fullbacks will be designated as a "rover," who fills in any open spaces offensively and defensively.

The harriers, coming off last season's 14-5 record, will be led by senior co-captains Gary Werner and Joe Campanelli, who are expected to be two of the top runners in the conference this year. Other returning varsity runners include seniors Jeff Goldstein and Ben Geltzler.

Junior Billy Bjorstad, a seasoned runner, will add strength to Coach Martin Taglienti's team; Bill Leber and John Geiser, also juniors, should provide depth. Sophomores Charles Kiehl, Peter Episcopo and Gary Sherman will be key men on the team and should provide a nucleus for the 1974 team. Other sophomores on the squad are Dave Baranek and Bob Gilbert.

Taglienti, who will be assisted this year by William Jones, is optimistic about the outlook this year. "The talent is here," he said. He can see no reason why the team can not have a highly successful season.

The Bulldogs are strong in halfbacks. The middle line is anchored by four lettermen—All-Slater Emmet Rueda at center halfback, versatile Ron Frank, Tony Francis and junior Steve Matysek.

Defensively the booters have three experienced fullbacks—senior letterman Rick Morris and Joe Farinella and junior Harry Irwin. Adding depth will be senior Dana Levitt and sophomores Barry Steele and John Irwin. The goalie assignment is wide open with senior Norman Shindler and sophomore Sid Kaufman the leading candidates.

Although the competition for four or five spots is going to be intense, Krupp feels his linemen and halfbacks are set. Approximately 50 players are expected to try out for the 20-25 man squad. Dayton's main source of competitionally strong Summit, Verona and Caldwell, the conference's dark horse. Practice started Labor Day; the team will open the season at Carteret Sept. 20.

Certificates and charms were awarded to the girls by Mrs. Vanderbeek.

As an added attraction, Larry Moore and his troupe of divers performed basic dives and a clown act.

Another highlight of the program was presented by the Aquettes Synchronized Swimming Team of Summit, who did a number to Arthur Fielder's "Boston Pops March."

Members of the Aquettes were Karen Good, Holly Smith and Mountainside's Tommie Ann Gibney and Joelle Houghey. The Aquettes of Summit are under the direction of Vera Hamill of Watchung.

The show was repeated on Labor Day evening underneath the pool lights as a final event of the MCP season.

Girls' tennis team sets sights on title in Suburban play

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School girls' varsity tennis team will begin its second year of competition this fall. Even though the team is without the services of Margo Krasnoff, who has graduated, Coach Ed Jasinski's squad should be the team to beat this season in the Suburban Conference—seven of the nine players from last year's varsity squad will be returning.

Seniors returning to the team include first singles player Eileen Bass, Laura Hockstein (third singles), Randi Schnee (first doubles) and Teri Bloom (second doubles). Juniors returning to the squad include Laurie Weeks (second singles) and Cathy Picut and Gail Bieszczak (second doubles). Also on the team this year will be senior Donna Gerber, who should help the team considerably.

Coach Jasinski, hoping for another successful season, feels that the team can improve on last year's 12-2 record. Millburn, which defeated Dayton in the last match of the season last year to gain the conference title, should be Dayton's toughest opponent again this year.

Meeting planned by hockey league

The Union County Hockey League will hold its annual organizational meeting next Wednesday, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be at the Union County Park Commission's administration building, Acme and Canton streets, Elizabeth.

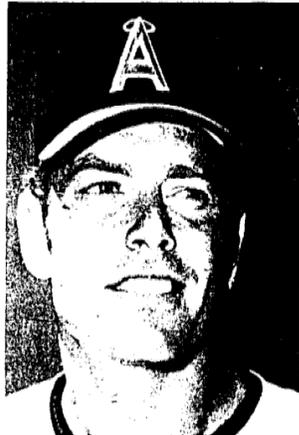

The league for 15-20 year old boys will enter its third season, with games to be played at the Park Commission's Warinanco Park Ice Skating Center, Roselle, and the Ironbound Arena in Newark.

Interested teams may contact Park Commission's recreation department at 352-8431.

Fishing Derby planned by Kaczmarek group

The Thomas A. Kaczmarek Association will hold its seventh annual fishing derby on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Jackson's Pond, Valley road and Union County Parkway in Clark. The contest is open to all children from six to 13 years of age. Free hot dogs and soda will be provided and prizes will be awarded.

The committee has arranged to have the pond stocked by the New Jersey Bureau of Fisheries. They will also provide the bait. The children should bring their own fishing equipment.

JEFF TORBORG

Torborg named athletic director at Edison school

One of the most illustrious residents of Mountainside has ended one career but is beginning another.

Jeff Torborg, All-American catcher at Rutgers University and the man who was behind the plate when Sandy Koufax and Nolan Ryan set their strikeout records, has taken the job as baseball coach and athletic director at Wardlaw School in Edison, ending a 10-year major league career.

The 32-year-old Mountainside resident said there was still a chance he could have caught on with another team. He was released in spring training by the St. Louis Cardinals, but decided that he preferred the security of the coaching position. Torborg caught for the Los Angeles Dodgers and California Angels before being released this year.

He caught three no-hitters in his major league career, one by Koufax, one by Ryan and one by Bill Singer. He was behind the plate in 1965 when Koufax set the record for strikeouts in a season with 382 and again last year when Ryan broke the mark with 383. Torborg was also the catcher when Don Drysdale broke the record for consecutive scoreless innings.

Rules changes in NFL listed

The major rules changes put into effect for the National Football League's 1974 season are expected to add a great deal of offense and scoring to the game and make them more exciting for the spectators.

Here is a brief look at the rules changes:

... Overtime—A sudden death, 15-minute extra period. If regulation play ends in a tie the extra period will be played. Should the score be tied at the completion of the added session the game will be declared a tie.

... Kicking—Goal posts have been moved back 10 yards from the goal line to the end line. Kickoffs will be made from the 35-yard line rather than the 40, as they had been. Missed field goals will be returned to the line of scrimmage or the 20-yard line, whichever is farther from the goal line. Players on a team kicking for a field goal or punting cannot cross the line of scrimmage until the ball is kicked. Only two players on the kicking team may run downfield before the ball is kicked.

... Penalties—Offensive holding, illegal use of hands and tripping penalties have been reduced from 15 to 10 yards when the infraction occurs in the area of the line of scrimmage or three yards beyond it.

Minutemen plan team weigh-in, new team added

Registration and weigh-in for the Springfield Recreation Department's Minuteman Football program will be held for sixth, seventh and eighth graders tomorrow evening at 6:30 at the Municipal Swim Pool softball field.

In the event of inclement weather, the registration and weigh-in will be held at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center, 30 Church Mall, at the same time. The Minuteman football program, under the direction of Phil Kurnos, will consist of boys playing a competitive schedule of games against similar teams from neighboring towns.

In addition to the A team, which has been in existence for the past two seasons, there will be a B team for the first time, if the number of registrants permits.

Adult volleyball, sponsored by the Springfield Recreation Department, will begin next week at the Thelma Sandmeier School and will run throughout the year.

The program, open to all adults, will be held on Tuesdays for women and on Thursdays for men. The hours for the program will be 7:30 to 10 p.m.

The paddleball courts at the Springfield Community Pool will be available for public use, starting Saturday at 9 a.m. Any Springfield resident, at least 18 years of age, may secure the key to the back gate at Police Headquarters. The key will be signed out by the individual upon presentation of proof of residence, such as a driver's license, to the officer in charge of the desk.

Dayton harriers could take title, Taglienti feels

By GARY SHERMAN

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School cross-country team, losing only 1973 co-captains Skip Moore and Tom Lovett to graduation, will be a strong favorite to win the Suburban Conference meet and to place high in many other invitational meets and post-season races.

The harriers, coming off last season's 14-5 record, will be led by senior co-captains Gary Werner and Joe Campanelli, who are expected to be two of the top runners in the conference this year. Other returning varsity runners include seniors Jeff Goldstein and Ben Geltzler.

Junior Billy Bjorstad, a seasoned runner, will add strength to Coach Martin Taglienti's team; Bill Leber and John Geiser, also juniors, should provide depth. Sophomores Charles Kiehl, Peter Episcopo and Gary Sherman will be key men on the team and should provide a nucleus for the 1974 team. Other sophomores on the squad are Dave Baranek and Bob Gilbert.

Taglienti, who will be assisted this year by William Jones, is optimistic about the outlook this year. "The talent is here," he said. He can see no reason why the team can not have a highly successful season.

Bowhunter event planned Sunday

More than 400 senior and junior bowhunters from every county in New Jersey will compete Sunday in the 10th annual New Jersey Bowhunter Jamboree and Festival, sponsored by New Jersey State Field Archery Association.

ATTENTION BOWLING LEAGUES

As the new season draws near, aficionados of America's number one participation sport, bowling, are feeling the butterflies and getting the urge to once again "go down to the lanes."

Bowlers who wish to have publicity about their league appear in this newspaper will have an easy job.

The sports department has prepared publicity forms which are available at no charge. The coupon which appears below should be filled out and mailed to the sports department so that arrangements can be made to accommodate your league.

This newspaper will try to offer complete coverage of area bowling. Two bowling columns are planned.

"As The Pins Drop" will contain team standings of all area leagues that desire publicity and will appear as space permits. A second column, "Bowling Highlights," will contain top individual scores of the week's action, anecdotes, bowling interest pieces and bowling news of specific interest to area bowlers.

League secretaries may submit items for "Bowling Highlights," as well as their league standings for "As The Pins Drop." Secretaries are requested to mail the coupon to the sports department as soon as possible so that forms may be returned by the beginning of the season. Only standings submitted on these forms will be accepted.

ARIES Mar. 21 - Apr. 19 You're painting this coming week with a broad brush of optimism, if you think help is on the way. In other words, don't depend on teamwork. Go it alone!

TAURUS Apr. 20 - May 20 Most members of your sign will be exploring new territory, which incidentally, includes affairs of the heart. It's highly probable, also, that you'll make changes—long held in mind.

GEMINI May 21 - June 20 You might be over analytical about your relationship with a member of the opposite sex. Look for trouble... and you'll find it. Incidentally, a training program, of sort, is possible.

MOONCHILD June 21 - July 22 There's favorable trends, financial in nature, indicated in your chart. Property or valuable items will be available, according to the general scheme of things.

LEO July 23 - Aug. 22 You, Leo, without conscious design, seem to be coming across as being indifferent toward a member of the opposite sex. Look into it!

VIRGO Aug. 23 - Sept. 22 Most members under your sign will be in the mood to put on a pretentious air. And, strange as it might seem, refusing to recognize your limitations—will be to your advantage.

LIBRA Sept. 23 - Oct. 22 It's a fact of life, some members under your sign will become involved in a clandestine triangle. If you are not, so involved... you'll take a trip down memory lane.

SCORPIO Oct. 23 - Nov. 21 Just try to make it through the week by meeting problems "one to one." Bluntly, there might be tough going, in your job, task or project.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 22 - Dec. 21 Gather facts, records and data. It seems as though a challenger awaits to ambush. One other thing: Avoid rumors, half truths and gossip.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22 - Jan. 19 Review your wardrobe: first impression will be very important, during this week's cosmic cycle. Incidentally, there might be a change in your romance pattern.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20 - Feb. 18 Most members of your sign face a haunting past. Actually, Aquarians are entering a nostalgic period. Remember, things aren't as they used to be!

PISCES Feb. 19 - Mar. 20 A pleasant "slice of life" is heading your way. A little dream, not a big thing, will come true. So, stand by for one of the simple pleasures.

DEP to consider public comments on air standards

Public comment is being sought by the state Department of Environmental Protection on a proposed designation of 15 New Jersey counties likely to encounter problems in maintaining healthful air quality standards from 1975 to 1985 because of projected rapid growth and industrialization.

DEP's Bureau of Air Pollution Control will hold a public hearing on the matter at 10 a.m. Sept. 25 in the State Cultural Center auditorium, Trenton.

The air quality maintenance areas have been selected by DEP in cooperation with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). They embrace the counties of Bergen, Burlington, Camden, Essex, Gloucester, Hudson, Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Morris, Passaic, Salem, Somerset, Union and Warren.

Plans for maintaining healthful air quality in these areas must be submitted by the state to EPA by June 1975 in keeping with the Clean Air Act Amendment of 1970. The EPA has identified particulate matter and photochemical oxidants as the two pollutants that, singly or in combination, present the greatest health threats to the problem counties.

After designation of air quality maintenance areas, plans will be developed by DEP to prevent jeopardy to air standards in the designated areas, according to Environmental Commissioner David J. Bardin.

"The plans may include strategies relating to such factors as transportation, energy supply, growth factors, stationary air pollution sources and land use management," said Bardin.

He also noted that the DEP has used methods prescribed by EPA in projecting air quality potentials in each of the 21 counties in the state for air contaminants which have national air quality standards.

Based on these guidelines, DEP is proposing

Teach safety to new pupils Council urges adult example

Is your child one of the 104,000 entering school for the first time this fall?

The New Jersey State Safety Council urges parents whose children walk to and from school to see to it that their children are taught how to get there promptly and safely.

The Council makes the following recommendations: —Children should be taught how to recognize standard traffic signals and how to obey them. If special pedestrian signals are used, they should understand these too.

—Parents should make sure their youngsters know the way to school. Walk through the route with them several times before school starts or for the first few days of school.

—Many schools have student patrols at street intersections. Children should understand that the patrols are there to help them and should follow the directions of the patrol.

—Streets should be crossed only at marked crosswalks or at intersections in line with sidewalks. Impress upon children that cars cannot stop immediately, so they must look that the counties of Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Middlesex, Monmouth, Somerset and Union each be designated as air quality maintenance areas for photochemical oxidants and total suspended particulates.

All testimony offered orally or in writing at the hearing, and written testimony submitted to the Commissioner at Box 1390, Trenton, received in advance of the hearing, will be considered. The record will be closed at the end of the hearing.

A document setting forth the proposed designations and reasons for them may be obtained by writing John J. Serkies, supervisor, Planning & Evaluation, Bureau of Air Pollution Control, Box 2807, Trenton, 08625.

STRICTLY PERSONAL

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
My husband is 24 and I am 22. We both work and I feel we should both participate in our recreational pursuits. However, my husband loves to ice skate and spends his free time doing exactly that. I've never skated in my life and feel my husband should do something else for entertainment.

Lately he has been commenting about some of the girls who do figure skating. How should I handle this?

Sandra
Tell Hubby that he is skating on thin ice! In the meantime, take skating lessons and accompany your husband to the rink.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
I enjoy your column most of the time but your answer to "Frantic" concerning the grandmother who wanted to come to the wedding dressed in a square-dancing outfit was really ridiculous. Surely, you can understand that Grandma's square dancing scene would ruin the most important day in two people's lives. How could you possibly say, "Be glad Grandma can dance at 70?"

They should tell Grandma to come properly dressed and not ruin the wedding. I hope you are not afraid to print this!

Another Grandma
Dear Grandma:
From the result of the mail, many others agree with you. Thanks for your opinion. I could be wrong.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
I'm having trouble with my nails. What can I do to protect them?

Alice
Dear Alice:
Manicure your nails weekly. Shape your nails carefully, following the shape of your fingertips to achieve an oval. Do this gently from the underside of nail—never from the top and avoid filing too far down into the corners as this makes nails more likely to break.

Protect weak nails against splitting, peeling, chipping, and breaking by applying a nail conditioner.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
I never thought I would be writing to you for advice, but here I am. My problem is my husband. We argue about everything. It has gotten to the point where we can't discuss the weather without having a big fight.

We have two children and are both in our late 20s. Don't suggest that we see a counselor because my husband would not go. I have to do something because I can't live in constant turmoil. Where did we go wrong?

Bess!
You may not like my answer but here it is. If your husband refuses help, go alone. What can you lose? You may learn a new approach to some of your problems. Ask your minister, priest or rabbi to recommend someone and go today.
