MIND OVER MATTER—We're not sure what these would-be basketball stars are trying to do here, although it appears to be an attempt at some trick of levitation to be put to use in the varsity-faculty game scheduled at the Deerfield School tomorrow night at 7:30. This squad (need we say) is the

N.J. delays Rt. 78 environment study because of bad estimate, says official

The state is missing another of its own deadlines for the construction of Rt. 78 through the Watchung Reservation. Howard Zann, chief of environmental analysis for the Department of Transportation, said last week that the required ecological study for the highway is four months behind schedule.

The Environmental Impact Statement mandated by federal law was originally scheduled for presentation this spring. Zann said inaccurate estimates by the state's consultants, Madigan Praeger, Inc. of New York City, are responsible for the delay. Zann said the new report should be ready by August.

The Environmental Impact Statement (E.I.S.) is the second the state has authorized for the 5.2 mile stretch of Rt. 78 through the Watchung Reservation. DOT Commissioner Alan Sagner ordered a completely new E.I.S. after the original report was criticized by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency for failing to consider all factors involved in the highway's construction and use, particularly those items relating to air pollution, and roadway runoff into Surprise Lake within the reservation.

A hearing on the second E.I.S. will be held after its completion. Following any hearing, the state must rewrite the E.I.S. to include and answer all comments, including those received from private citizens and more than 20 governmental units which will review the study.

In addition to correcting the oversights in the first study, Sagner ordered the following additional topics to be included in the new Environmental Impact Statement:

- Original alignment for Rt. 78
- Original alignment for Rt. 78 with modified interchanges
- Original alignment for Rt. 78 without interchanges

Modified alignment through Commonwealth Water Company well field in Summit

Cut and cover (tunnel) scheme through a portion of the Watchung Reservation

Southerly alignment below Glenside Avenue in Summit and Berkeley Heights portion of Watchung Reservation

Northerly alignment in vicinity of Mountain Avenue, which would drastically reduce the amount of land needed from the Watchung Reservation

Utilization of portions of the Rt. 22 corridor south of the Watchung Reservation

No-build alternative

THE ENVIRONMENTAL Impact Study released last fall drew strong criticisms from both amateur and professional environmentalists. The state transportation department received more than 200 letters from private citizens objecting to the Environmental Impact Study. One transportation staff member said many of the letters "were quite thorough."

The New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection found the impact study "just not realistic" in its predictions of noise pollution. The state agency also recommended changes in the engineering of sedimentation basins for runoff water to curb pollution of Surprise Lake.

The Federal Environmental Protection Agency said roadway runoff waters would "most likely eliminate any aquatic life in Surprise Lake." The agency also said the loss of land to highway construction in the Watchung Reservation would have a severe impact on the recreational need of Union County and metropolitan New Jersey residents.

Teachers support '75 school budget

At its recent monthly meeting the Mountainside Teachers Association voted to support the proposed 1975-76 school budget and to urge all citizens to vote for its passage at the school election on Tuesday.

A spokesman stated, "Despite the proposed budget's inadequacies and its failure to recognize the realities of inflation, the Teachers Association warns that defeat of the budget will undoubtedly result in the further erosion and curtailment of many programs and activities that have been the hallmarks of our school system."

"Since passage of the budget is critical to the education of Mountainside students, the Association is appealing to all parents and other interested citizens to vote YES on March 11."

Art auction to aid Highlander Band

An art auction, sponsored by the Band Parents Organization of Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, will be held Sunday, March 16, at 2 p.m. in Mt. Carmel Hall, Springfield Avenue, Berkeley Heights. A champagne preview will begin at 1 p.m.

Works to be sold at the auction, conducted by the Howard Mann Art Center of Lambertville, include original oils, lithographs and engravings. Tickets, at $2, may be purchased at the door or from band parents.

Gov. Livingston's Highlander Marching Band and the band parents group have been raising funds to enable the students to participate in the Festival of States national band competition in St. Petersburg, Fla., next month. In addition to the auction, the members have a dance, aluminum drives, cake and candy sales, and booster button and decal sales to help raise the money; also planned is a band float competition on March 15.

Regional budget rejected for first time in 4 decades

For the first time since its organization in 1937, the Union County Regional High School District Board of Education has witnessed a defeat of its annual budget. By a count of 861 to 770, voters said "no" Tuesday to the $11,814,544 current expense budget for 1975-76. Also defeated, by a vote of 890 to 721, was the $126,192 capital outlay portion of the budget.

A special proposal to spend $14,381 to purchase a temporary classroom building at Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark, also was voted down, 835 to 636. (The district had been renting that facility for six years.)

There were three three-year board terms open this year. In Kenilworth, incumbent board president Charles E. Vitale Jr. won reelection with 198 votes. Tallies for the Berkeley Heights candidate, Peter J. Yannotta, and for Stephen A. Marcinak, incumbent from Clark, were 307 and 220 respectively. All three had run unopposed.

In Springfield, only 432 of the town's 10,091 registered voters came out to the polls. Tallies there for the current expense budget were 116 yes, 284 no. Of Mountainside's 5,096 voters, 266 cast ballots— with a current expense count of 128 yes, 134 no. Kenilworth also saw 266 voters at the polls— out of a total of 4,743. Current expense counts there were 99 yes, 133 no.

Only two of the six communities in the district— Berkeley Heights and Garwood saw voter approval of the current expense budget. Berkeley Heights' count was 227 yes, 106 no, while Garwood's was 68 yes, 47 no. In Clark, the totals were 129 yes, 153 no.

Under state law the Regional school board now must invite the governing bodies of all six towns to a meeting to discuss a budget reduction. As noted in a New Jersey School Boards Association bulletin, those governing bodies then have 15 days to certify to the county board of taxation "the amounts they determine to be necessary to be appropriated for each item appearing in the budget." (The time limit usually is 30 days, but this year it has been cut in half because of the school election delay.)

The NJSBA also cites a directive of the New Jersey Supreme Court, ruling that the governing bodies must include in its determination "a detailed statement setting forth their underlying determinations and supporting reasons for the action to reduce the budget (showing) which items of the budget should be reduced, in what amount, and for what reasons."

After the governing bodies have made their decision, the school board must decide whether to accept it or to appeal to the Commissioner of Education.

Board-Council discuss school

The Mountainside Board of Education, after meeting with the Borough Council Monday evening to discuss the leasing of the Echobrook School to the borough for use as a municipal building, indicated the possibility an agreement could be reached and a lease signed before the new school board is organized.

According to board publicity chairman Trudy Palmer, "The school board has previously submitted three different proposals to the borough, however these plans did not meet with the approval of Council. The board, in working out the details of a plan must be cognizant of the future needs of the community's children and not relegate its responsibility to future boards. Recognizing the needs of the town, the board will strive to present a plan which will be agreeable to both the school board and the town."

STATE CHAMPIONS—These three state champions sparked the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School track team to a tie with Long Branch for top Group 3 honors in the recent state group title meet in Princeton. Shown are, from left, Bruce Heide, first in the shotput and third in the high hurdles; Rainer Malzbender, first in the high jump, and Ben Geltzler, winner in the half-mile. (Photo-Graphics)

PROFILE -- Patricia M. Kaplan

Patricia M. Kaplan, candidate for a three-year term on the Mountainside Board of Education, notes that if she wins a seat on the board, a particular concern would be "maintaining the kind of education that prevails in our school system."

"We have a darn efficient system, and why not?" she asked. "We are next to the top spenders for education in Union County. Our teachers are in the top quarter of salary-received in Union County. We have 16 to 21 pupils in a class. Our teaching staff is teaching on the average of 26 periods a week in our Middle School. We have enrichment programs. We have accelerated classes. We have remedial classes and tutorial help necessary for the slow learner. What more can parents possibly want in these austere times? All of these programs have been retained despite defeated school budgets and the resulting necessary cutbacks. The quality of education continues to be maintained. All we hear is that the quality of our schools is on the decline. This is not so—if we consider all these facts."

Mrs. Kaplan noted she is in favor of the proposed 1975-76 school budget. Commenting on the figure, she said, "Our current board has presented us with a budget I feel can be supported. My election to the board will assure every Mountainside taxpayer that the realistic direction this budget represents will be continued. We must and will 'tighten our belts' without infringing on proven school programs. School board members must and should insist on evaluation of program results, not just reports about progress," she continued. "Board members must account to all taxpayers for every dollar spent. Careful spending is the keynote of my campaign."

DISCUSSING THE duties of the Board of Education, she said, that among these "The responsibility of the local board is not to run the schools, but to see that they are well run. The administration must be held accountable for results. Theoretically, the board states 'What and Why,' and the administration decides 'how.'"

"Board members will have an added responsibility this year," she noted. "The state has mandated that all children are entitled to a thorough and efficient education. How will this be done? How will Mountainside be affected? Will it mean higher property taxes to maintain our local educational system? Will the proposed new income tax cover the need? I am a proponent of retaining local control. However, I feel all residents will have to involve themselves to get the answers. Letters to legislators, stating their viewpoints, is one avenue a concerned taxpayer may utilize. "I think it will be mandatory for all school board members to keep abreast of what is happening in Trenton and to keep Mountainside residents informed. Our urban counterparts

Library will offer exchange service

A new service is being offered at the Free Public Library of Mountainside—the exchange without charge or checkout of magazines and paperback books which have been contributed by the public.

Interested patrons and residents of Mountainside may bring their paperback books and magazines for this trade from now until Wednesday.

Subsequent collection dates will be one week preceding the second Wednesday of each month.

Paper not publishing letters of criticism

During the past week, the Echo received a number of letters to the editor containing personal criticisms of all four candidates for the Mountainside Board of Education.

None of the critical letters is being printed since this is the final paper before the election and the candidates would not have the opportunity to reply to charges made against them.

Dayton marchers to participate in national contest

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Bulldog Marching Band will enter its first national marching band competition in Oak Brook, Ill., during the Memorial Day weekend, when it will compete against 49 other marching bands from each of the United States.

The band, composed of 120 students under the direction of Jeffrey E. Anderson, has been invited to represent New Jersey. There are no salaries paid, commercial considerations given or cash prizes awarded. All judges will be nationally recognized specialists in the marching band field.

The Dayton marching band has participated in many other events, such as the Apple Blossom Festival in Virginia and the Salute to Israel Day Parade in New York City. It won several awards last fall, among which are second place, Central New Jersey marching band competition at Woodbridge, and first place in marching and maneuvering at the OceanSide marching band competition in OceanSide, N.J.

Since no expenses will be paid by the Board of Education, the Band Parents' Organization has been sponsoring various fund-raising events. A concert has been scheduled for March 15 at 8 p.m. at Jonathan Dayton, and other plans include decal sales, a car wash and a second concert later this year. Local businesses and individuals have been asked to advertise in the three professionally printed band souvenir programs.

Bus trip planned to tennis tourney

The Mountainside Recreation Commission is sponsoring a bus trip to the semifinal round of the men's championship tennis tournament at the Felt Forum in New York, Saturday, March 22. Jimmy Connors, Ilie Nastase, Jan Kodes and Manuel Santana are among the entrants scheduled to appear.

The bus will depart from Deerfield School at 6 p.m. and return at approximately 12:15 a.m. The registration fee is $10.50 per person, which includes bus transportation and ticket. Registrations are being accepted at Borough Hall weekdays between 9:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. on a first-come, first-served basis. For additional information, readers may call the recreation office at 212-0015.

Girls' softball

Registrations for the Mountainside Girls Softball League will be accepted today and tomorrow from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Borough Hall, Rt. 22, recreation director Sue Winans has reported. The league is open to girls in the fifth through eighth grades.

Balloting from 2 to 9 p.m. for school voting Tuesday

Borough citizens will go to the polls Tuesday to vote on the proposed Mountainside Board of Education 1975-76 budget of $1,529,715 and to select two new members of that board. Balloting will take place from 2 to 9 p.m. in the gymnasium of the Deerfield School, off Central Avenue.

There are four candidates for two three-year terms: William Binno, John Farinella, Patricia Kaplan and Ronald Wood. Farinella, however, has announced his withdrawal from the race.

The regular meeting of the school board will be held at 8 p.m., Tuesday, in the Deerfield School cafeteria. The session is expected to be over by 9 o'clock, in time for the ballot counting.

Farinella quits board race, but name remains on ballot

John A. Farinella, one of four candidates for the Mountainside Board of Education, this week announced his withdrawal from the race. In a handwritten statement submitted to this paper Monday afternoon, Farinella said: "On Sunday, March 2, I made a very important decision. Although I honestly believe I am the leading candidate in the Mountainside Board of Education election, I have decided to withdraw from the election. Unfortunately, I am informed that it is too late to have my name removed from the ballot. This does not alter my decision."

Girl Scout Week starts; 'Grow with Us' is theme

"Grow with Us" is the theme of Girl Scout Week beginning on Sunday. All Mountainside Girl Scouts and their families have been invited to attend an ingathering on Girl Scout Sunday at 3 p.m. at Our Lady of Lourdes auditorium. The program will include entertainment by Scouts from Brownies through Seniors. Sixth grade Scouts will bridge to Cadettes at the time.

Brownie Girl Scouts in Mountainside are participating in the spring cookie sale through March 15. For further information, readers may call Pat Lehmann, 212-0015.

"To all the citizens of Mountainside I will restate that all the statements I have made are the truth. Some of information came to me by my playing a 'devil's advocate' role."

"To all of my many supporters who truly desire a change in format of our school board, as I do, I say thank you for your support and confidence. I hope I haven't disappointed you too much."

Farinella declined, at this time, to comment further on his decision and the reasons for it. Since Farinella's name remains on the ballot, the Echo contacted the State Board of Education for information on what would happen if he were elected to one of the two three-year terms that are open, despite his withdrawal.

A spokesman explained the candidate could still become a board member, if he wished to do so. If he refused to be sworn in, the Borough Board of Education must treat that decision as being equivalent to a resignation; meaning it must appoint someone to serve until the next election. If the board were unable or unwilling to make that appointment, the replacement would be named by the county superintendent of schools.

Farinella, when questioned on what he would do should he be one of the two top vote-getters, said, "I'll cross that bridge when I come to it."

Platform outline listed in statement by Bionno, Wood

The Board of Education for Mountainside last week approved the platform of William J. Bionno and Richard H. Wood candidates for the Mountain Side Board of Education. In a recent gathering of 160 residents at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Bionno.

We are meeting the problems of the Board of Education head-on. We have taken positions in every area that appears to have led to the present situation and are committed to their solution. We are committed to their solution. We are committed to their solution.

Their independence is being tested by the fact that the Board of Education has been elected by the voters of the town. The voters have elected a Board of Education that has the confidence of the voters. 'Much to give, nothing to gain' states board hopeful Kaplan

Patricia Kaplan, candidate for the Mountainside school board, this week issued the following campaign statement. The last before Tuesday's election, restating the reasons for her candidacy and the issues with which she is concerned.

"When a person decides to run for a seat on the Board of Education, every facet of his 'so-called reasons for running' has to be analyzed, first by the candidates themselves and then by the voters who will support them. Before I decided to file a petition I did some intense soul searching. I had to know that I honestly felt I had much to give and nothing to gain.

"What can I, Patricia Kaplan, offer the taxpayers of Mountainside? I will give you good, sound, common-sense thinking coupled with a concern for continuing the quality of education that has been established here in our community. I will listen to all opinions, study and evaluate before making any decisions. I will insist on dollar value for every dollar spent.

"We all hear that costs are being cut. Yes, they are, but only because of a declining school enrollment. We are graduating 153 students this June and we have only 83 children in our kindergarten; even more important our seventh grade has an enrollment of 113, 40 fewer children in eighth grade next year than this year. Sure costs are being cut, and rightly so.

"My opponents have offered their business backgrounds as a basis for their election. Business training does not necessarily guarantee good, sound judgment. I offer as an example the almost million dollar referendum that was presented to our community in 1969 calling for seven additional classrooms and a library learning center at Deerfield One of my opponents was part of that business-oriented board and, I might add, he was a most vocal supporter of that project. I do not consider seven empty classrooms—as they would be now—sitting like a monument, as sound business judgment. Surely we do not need that kind of thinking returned to our Board of Education.

"My opponents have been explicit about their feelings concerning present school board members' evaluating some of our school programs. They have said the board should confine itself to policy-making and they use the New Jersey School Board Members Code of Ethics as their guide. However, the Code of Ethics clearly states "As a school board member I will confine my board action to policy-making, planning and appraisal." One must interpret "appraisal" to mean evaluation; they are synonymous.

"My candidacy is totally independent. My allegiance will not be to any group or committee, it will be to all the taxpayers of our community. I will work to retain proven programs—programs that are worthy of tax dollars being spent. Current newspaper reports indicate that more emphasis should be placed on the basics. Some communities are opening fundamental schools where only the basic academics are taught and discipline is encouraged. Perhaps Mountainside should be more concerned with our children's academics than their ability to plunk away on 'electric' typewriters in sixth grade. Colleges and universities are instituting English grammar programs on the freshman level because they are receiving students who do not have knowledge of basic English grammar. Surely this certainly should concern parents whose children hopefully will be college-bound.

"I think that all the taxpayers of Mountainside should know where, and on what, their tax dollars are being spent. The budget that is mailed to our residents should be more specific—the categories should be broken down so that the average person reading the budget knows exactly where his dollars are going. There should be more of a liaison between board members, interested adults, parents and the children.

"We are spending $1,900 per student, not counting debt service, for education. Wake up Mountainside. We had better have a good educational system. Are we getting what we are paying for?"

Letters to Editor

BACKS CANDIDATES

Ed note: Although a number of letters concerning the school board election are omitted from this issue because they contain charges which the candidates would not be able to answer before the election on Tuesday, this letter is printed because it contains only positive comments.

After reading, listening and studying what each of the four candidates for the Board of Education had to say about the way the Board of Education in Mountainside should function, I feel that the two independent candidates, Pat Kaplan and John Farnella, are best qualified to assume the posts which will be made vacant.

Each impressed me with the idea that they will work toward maintaining our high standards, carefully scrutinizing costs and getting the most for our tax dollar for the education of Mountainside children be they gifted, average or slow learners.

They are neither politically oriented nor beholden to any special group or committee, but two key solid citizens interested in good education.

I am sure their addition to the Board will bring about a smooth transition.

MMA purchasing three guitars for rehabilitation unit

Integrity House a Union County drug rehabilitation facility based at Runnels Hospital, was the subject of discussion at a recent Mountainside Music Association meeting at the home of Mrs. Joseph Indick.

The speakers, two rehabilitated drug addicts now working for Integrity House, were Frank Conti, assistant director, and Tom Richardson, a staff member. Both men are musicians and have been trying to introduce a music therapy program at the facility.

They stated that because of budget limitations, Integrity House did not have any music instruments of its own to give musical instruction to members of the house. They are especially in need of guitars and a piano in good condition.

Mrs. Morton Reich, an MMA member who introduced the speakers stated that her visit in behalf of MMA to Integrity House was "impressive and rewarding" and that she came away "convinced of the sincerity and effectiveness of their efforts to return rehabilitated young people to society."

The MMA unanimously voted to allocate funds for the purchase of three guitars for Integrity House and stated its interest in and support of their music program. The MMA is asking the public's cooperation in offering a used piano and other used musical instruments as well as used candles and candle molds or other materials for their arts and crafts program. Anyone wishing to donate such items or wishing further information may call Mrs. Joseph Walls at 654-4297.

Harter attending special program

Peter Mark Harter, a student at Eckerd College and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Harter of Mountainside, has been attending the month long winter session of the American Management Association's Operation Enterprise program for college students at Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Established in 1963, the college credit program is being held at Eckerd for the fourth year in a row. Operation Enterprise brings together students from all parts of the world in an informal, non-academic atmosphere. They join discussion leaders from the world of business and education in an analysis of the challenges, opportunities and responsibilities of business leadership.

The sessions have been carefully planned by AMA, a non-profit educational organization, dedicated to finding, developing and sharing better methods of management.

Passenger, driver are injured in two Rt. 22 accidents

Two persons required treatment at Overlook Hospital, Summit, Sunday after being involved in separate auto accidents on Rt. 22 in Mountainside.

Police said the first mishap, a two-car collision, occurred at 2:04 a.m. near Parkway when one vehicle, operated by Peter Kuzmik, 50, of Westfield, pulled out of the U-turn and failed to yield to an eastbound car, driven by Ronald E. Approximately 20 minutes after that crash, a similar three-vehicle accident occurred in the westbound lanes across from the Borough Hall.

Police said a truck driven by Joseph Nicastro Jr., 23, of Irvington and a car operated by Jerome T. Byre, 76, of Hillside were stopped in traffic when Byre's car was hit by one operated by George Peschyn, 60, of Washington and pushed into the rear of the truck. No injuries were reported.

WILSON reports

The rapidly rising cost of utilities is a major source of concern to every householder. Electricity and gas are necessities in our society; we cannot function without them. However, all of us have watched our utility bills rise steadily in spite of efforts to conserve our use of energy.

I believe the current energy shortage necessitates a rethinking both of our use of energy and of the methods of charging for that use. The rate structures now used by public utilities in New Jersey cause the highest rate to be charged for initial use with rates decreasing as use increases. This structure obviously favors the large industrial user at the expense of the small residential customer. In addition, such a system rewards waste.

Last year, I introduced a bill to establish a "lifeline" electricity rate structure. Under such a structure, a very low rate would be charged for initial use with rates increasing as use increases. Such a system would benefit the small residential customer and would encourage conservation of energy by both householders and industry.

My bill was defeated in committee after members of the Public Utility Commission testified that they intended to implement the "lifeline" concept without legislation. The PUC has recently begun to make good on some of those assurances. Recent changes in the rate structure have required industry to bear a larger share of rate increases than the residential customer.

At the prodding of the Department of Public Advocate, the PUC has also proposed new regulations to restrict deposit requirements, to require sufficient notice of intent to discontinue service and to provide for deferred payment agreements when customers experience difficulty paying their bills. These proposed new regulations reflect the recognition that utilities are a necessity in our society. They would make it more difficult for utility companies to discontinue service to customers. I have testified at public hearings in support of these regulations.

Additional public hearings on the proposed regulations will be held in Trenton on March 10, 12 and 13. At these hearings, the public advocate is particularly eager to hear from state residents who have had difficulties with utility companies. Individuals whose service has been cut off at some time are encouraged to testify about their experiences. I believe that the public wants and needs the changes incorporated in the proposed regulations.

However, strong opposition to the regulations has already been voiced by the utility companies, and it is therefore necessary for concerned individuals to inform the PUC about their needs and difficulties. I hope that my constituents who have had problems with utility services will testify at the hearings in March.

Contact my office in Scotch Plains or the Department of Public Advocate in Trenton for additional information on the hearings.

Hearing scheduled Wednesday night for 2 Newarkers

Two Newark men, arrested Feb. 26 in the parking lot of the Echo Lanes bowling alley, will appear Wednesday night in Mountainside Municipal Court on charges of receiving stolen property, possession of burglar tools and failure to give account of themselves.

One of the suspects, Hubert R. Glover, 20, also is accused of breaking with intent to enter; his companion, James Walton, 25, is charged with aiding and abetting a break-and-enter.

When the pair was apprehended by Mountainside Detectives Stephen Semanick and Jerome Rice, items reportedly removed from the locked trunk of another auto were found in their car, police said. The property, worth a total of $219, included a suitcase full of clothing, ski boots, ice skates and a bowling ball, bag and shoes.

According to police, the detectives went to the lot at approximately 9:50 p.m. after Officer Herman Hafekens reported seeing a suspicious vehicle in the area. Rice and Semanick observed one of the car's occupants, later identified as Glover, running near several parked vehicles. When he returned to the auto driven by Walton, the detectives approached the pair and allegedly found the property in their car.

Police also discovered a trunk on a nearby parked auto had been forced open. The owner of that car, Brenda J. Chilcoat of Scotch Plains was located and reported the suitcase and sports equipment were hers and had been taken from the locked trunk.

Walton was released on $1,000 bail. Glover was remanded to the Union County Jail, Elizabeth, in lieu of $1,000 bail.

are making their needs known. Mountainside must do the same, otherwise we will be ignored. It is necessary to protect local control now.

Turning to another major decision facing the board, the question of converting the Echobrook School to a municipal complex. Mrs. Kaplan commented, "Hopefully this will be resolved before the new school board takes over. If not, I will delve into all the aspects and will always have the taxpayers of Mountainside foremost in my mind when decisions are to be made."

URGING MORE community participation in the school system, the candidate stated "I feel my obligation as a school board member is to all the members of our community, young and old. While the youngsters are learning, the oldsters are paying. I think there are many adults in our community that could participate in enrichment programs for our children on a volunteer basis. I think everyone should be aware of what is going on in education.

"The schools should be reaching out into our town, inviting interested residents to render volunteer services. There should be more of a liaison between board members, parents, interested adults, and the children. Things can really be accomplished when a feeling of cooperation prevails. Concerted efforts must be made on everyone's part to produce harmony and a good quality educational system that is acceptable to all."

Mrs. Kaplan noted she has "the interest, energy and time" to assume the duties of a board member. "I do not have the responsibility of a full-time position, nor is my calendar bulging with club and business meetings. My days are relatively free to be available for whatever meetings are necessary on the part of an active board member," she said.

She also noted her interest in children has been expressed in those activities in which she has chosen to participate. When her older children were teenagers, she spent six years working with the Catholic Youth Organization. In addition, she organized and chaperoned ski trips, locally and to Vermont. "Long before they became part of our recreational department's programs," she was also instrumental in starting "coffee houses" at Our Lady of Lourdes Church for borough youngsters.

OTHER LOCAL youth activities included service as a Cub Scout den mother and as co-manager, with her daughter, of a borough girls' softball team. She was a member of the executive board of the Mountainside PTA for two years and took her turn as a class mother, with duties which included riding school buses on the first days of the school year.

Mrs. Kaplan belongs to the Union County Association for Retarded Children and is certified to teach religious education to the mentally handicapped; she has participated in such a teaching program sponsored by the Newark Archdiocese.

The former Patricia Maguire is a native of Brooklyn. The 47-year-old candidate has been a Mountainside resident for 12 years; she and her husband, William, live on Orchard road. The couple, parishioners of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, are the parents of five children; Bruce, 34, of Lebanon; Suzanne, 22, of Oldwick; William 20, a sophomore at the School of Visual

ONE THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY—James Postell of Mountainside, right, and Fred Pollak of Westfield admire one of the two 50-pound sailfish they hooked while aboard the Pita, with Capt. Jim Young, off Stuart, Fla. The other sea giant was set free. James is a sixth grader at the Wardlaw School, Plainfield.

Response to criticism by Speth

Charles Speth, member of the Mountainside Board of Education, this week issued a statement defending the stand he had taken last year on the 1974-75 school budget.

He noted he "had hoped to remain quiet" during this year's pre-election activities "and leave the issues to the candidates." He added, "However, in a news release in the Feb. 20 issue of the Mountainside Echo, one of the candidates chose to bring me into the contest by making statements that demand an answer.

"The statements were 'last year the minority members of the board confused our community with inaccurate and false information concerning surplus funds. It has been proven that they were wrong.' May I ask, proven wrong by whom? For a person who states that his business training and financial experience has prepared him to effectively counter such gross deception," he proves the contrary.

"The prediction made in general was for almost a quarter million dollar surplus; actually the exact figure was $241,000. Anyone who has studied the complete budget figures as published by the Board of Education as a public notice sees that the surplus on June 30, 1974, was $194,000.

"How do you account for the miscalculation? Last year at this time the energy crunch had not manifested itself. As a result, our school heating bill went $10,000 over budget. Telephone went $1,000 over budget. As a result of a state ruling, the nurses were put on teachers salary scale at an unbudgeted cost of $4,359. In addition, custodial overtime went $13,733 over budget, contracted service for repair of buildings went $30,435 over budget, and administration costs went $3,376 over budget.

"These figures add up to a total of over $52,000 or more than the $41,000 difference between the predicted and actual surplus. In addition, we ended the 1973-1974 year with a whopping $66,000 in the 'W' account—an account for paying for materials and supplies not delivered at year's end. Much of the amount was for use in the subsequent year and was a concerted effort to be sure that there would be less surplus. Last year the 'W' account was only $22,000.

"In keeping with the promise to use up the surplus, $71,000 has been allocated to the 1974-75 budget and $70,000 to the 1975-76 budget, leaving an unallocated surplus of $53,000."

With or without loopholes in the new laws, they are going to have a strong impact on the entire system of educational discipline. Suspension candidates will be given much more careful consideration by authorities who do not want to wind up in court paying the student and his family financial damages.

DAYTON DISPATCH

By MARC BLOOM

Since the beginning of this school year, a facility known as the "Box," or the "in-school suspension program," has been in existence at Jonathan Dayton. The Box, as it is affectionately called, is a very small room on the second story of the school building which houses students who are otherwise suspended punitively from normal school activities. It has no windows and only a few desks, and a door with a wired window, as most classrooms do.

The Box was described in a column in late October, but what is new is the fact that in all likelihood, it will be a lot less full as a result of recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court. The number of students suspended out-of-school will probably also similarly diminish.

The Supreme Court has ruled that students are entitled to a certain amount of what is known as "due process" in all matters involving suspension. This means that students who are to be suspended must be formally notified of the impending action, and a hearing must be held.

These will be very scrupulously run, because if a student is unjustly suspended, according to the aforementioned court decisions, he may sue the members of the Board of Education and his school principal. If a student wins such a suit, he may be awarded financial damages at the expense of the board or the principal, or both. The ramifications of such a law are limitless.

The new laws cover such constitutional rights as the right to free speech, assembly, or the opportunity for equal education. What this essentially means is that unless a principal, board member, college dean or administrator, etc., is an expert in constitutional law, he better think very carefully.

Area singers in Exxon unit look to successful season

"An appreciation for the joy of music" is the major requirement for membership in the New Exxon Singers.

The group, which grew out of the desire of Exxon workers to form a chorus, is not limited in membership to company employees. It was organized as an all-male chorus in 1933, drawing its membership exclusively from the Bayway Refinery in Linden. With World War II, military service, overtime work and other factors forced the group to disband its efforts, but in 1945 it reorganized, this time with female voices added and renamed the Esso Chorus. The mixed format has continued since.

"The New Exxon Singers are looking forward to one of their most successful seasons," said Mary E. Carey of Chatham, new president of the group. The singers are directed by Jan Meyel, who began his career in San Francisco with the Pacific Opera Company. He has also appeared in Radio City Music Hall, operatic night clubs and Carnegie Hall.

Under Meyel's direction, the New Exxon Singers draw from a wide repertoire, including religious, contemporary and Broadway music. The group schedules about 25 public appearances each season before local civic, religious, fraternal, educational and institutional groups. Rehearsals are held every Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Trinity Episcopal Church Hall, North Broad and Chestnut streets-Elizabeth.

Members of the New Exxon Singers include Edward Bauer and Ellen Johnston of Linden, and Nancy Edwards, Genevieve Pewes, Alice Steinen and Madeline Zapotocna of Roselle and Roselle Park. More information about the New Exxon Singers may be obtained by contacting Mary Carey at 474-6514 during the day.

Boy Scouts pass $10,000 mark

More than $10,000 has been raised in the three weeks since the Union Council Boy Scouts of America began its annual Sustaining Membership Enrollment fund drive.

George McCulloch, acting scout executive said, "This represents the best start for our S.M.E. campaign since its inception." The fund drive will run through May.

"We have every indication from our scouting leaders and families that their support will be both substantial and vital," McCulloch said. "A total analysis of the Winnebago Scout Reservation's use, income and costs is being conducted to find out how the effectiveness of the camp can be improved."

County residents cycle to meeting about bikeways

Tuesday night, last week, 40 Union County residents cycled to Westfield for a bikeways conference at which four speakers discuss the merits of bikeways in community planning.

The seminar was sponsored by the Union County Environmental Health Advisory Committee. Also attending was the Conservation Committee of the Sierra Club's North Jersey Group.

Gary Liss, chairman of Citizens for New Jersey Bikeways, discussed the need for bikeways and the varieties of bikeways which can be adapted to a community.

"Bicycling results in substantial energy savings over the use of cars," said Liss. "And is particularly suitable for commuting when combined with mass transit." Mrs. Sandy Weeks of the Cranford Bicycle Board told how her home town went about planning for bikeways. "Bikeways alone won't help," she said. "Proper planning requires education for bicyclists, for motorists and a safe riding public. 'Whenever possible,' she continued, 'route bicyclists onto low traffic streets.'"

There were questions from members of the Union police department about the safety and policing of the bike paths, and from Beverly White, of Union, on the problem of crossing heavy streets on bicycles. Alfred Linden, planning director of the Union County Planning Board, noted that his board is open to suggestions.

Asch cites drop of 28% in cases pending trial

Union County Prosecutor Karl Asch announced this week that figures compiled by the administrative office of the courts in Trenton show that, between Nov. 30, 1973, and Nov. 30, 1974, his office accomplished a 28.46 percent decrease in its number of active cases pending trial. This figure, based on a reduction of active cases from 787 to 563 during that period, is second only to Middlesex County, which decreased its case load by 28.96 percent.

The most productive months for case disposition were April 1974, when a county record of 262 indictments and accusations were disposed of, and November 1974, when a second best figure of 204 was achieved.

Asch attributed the success of his office during 1974 to hard work by his staff, particularly the trial attorneys, and the fact that nine judges were assigned to criminal trials, compared to six in 1973.

Asch indicated that during 1974 his office disposed of 1715 indictments and accusations while filing a total of 1402 new indictments and accusations based on 5,594 complaints processed. Comparable figures for 1973 were 4,833 complaints processed leading to 1,517 new indictments and accusations filed, 1,529 cases were disposed of.

Of the 1,715 indictments and accusations last year 65 percent were disposed of by guilty pleas before trial, 13 percent by trial, 19 percent by dismissal and 3 percent by guilty pleas during trial. Of the 224 cases tried to completion, 63 resulted in convictions. Asch noted however, in considering this figure, that most strong prosecution cases resulted in guilty pleas rather than trials.

The 15 open murder indictments outstanding in January 1974, were reduced to two in January 1975, by the disposition of 25 murder indictments last year, 13 of which were tried to completion by juries.

Additionally, the Prosecutor's Office disposed of 1,625 juvenile cases in 1974, an increase of some 500 over 1973, and handled 300 original special investigations. These original special investigations require considerable more time and effort than ordinary cases since all aspects of the case, from its inception, are handled by Prosecutor's Office personnel.

Despite the successes of 1974, Asch noted other goals he would like his office to achieve this year, including a reduction in the 14 percent of active cases more than one year old. Although this figure compares favorably with other counties having similar case loads, Asch believes that it can and will be reduced so that Union County will comply with the New Jersey Supreme Court's announced objective of having all criminal cases resolved within one year of indictment.

Breadmaking class offered

A two-session class on breadmaking will be held Thursdays, March 13 and 20, from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m., in the Extension Service Auditorium, 300 North ave., East, Westfield.

Mrs. Donna Paterok, program associate-home economist, will conduct the meetings. Quick breads will be discussed in the first session—method, demonstration and probable causes for failure. In the second session yeast breads will be discussed in detail—ingredients, proportions, method, causes for failure, etc., with emphasis on holiday breads.

More homemakers are getting back into the kitchen to make their own breads due to today's economic conditions as well as their concern of the additives in foods.

Art Association lists show judges

Three artists of national reputation have been selected to judge the Westfield Art Association's 14th annual statewide show, to be held at Union College, Cranford, from March 23 to March 30, it was announced this week by Mr. and Mrs. Julian Rockmore of Mountainside, chairman.

CHARLES COINER

The judges, who will select works for the exhibit as well as award the more than $1,500 in cash prizes, are Charles Coiner of Bucks County, Pa., Chen Chi and Raphael Sover, both of New York City.

In 1933, Coiner designed the NIA "Blue Eagle" emblem that marked the beginning of Franklin D. Roosevelt's first administration. He also created the Civilian Defense designs used in World War II, as well as government posters of that period. In 1960, he designed the Boys Club of America commemorative stamp.

Chi, born in China in 1912, taught and exhibited in Shanghai from 1930 to 1936. He came to the United States in 1947, when he was commissioned by Collier's magazine to do a series of American city scenes, and by Sports Illustrated to paint scenes at the Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley. These paintings were subsequently shown throughout the world.

A native of Russia, Sover received his training in art at Cooper Union, the National Academy of Design and the Art Students League, New York City, where he also taught. He has been an instructor of painting at the American Art School and the New School for Social Research.

Soyer's works are in the collections of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Whitney Museum and the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

The statewide show is open to artists born or residing in New Jersey. Entry forms may be obtained by writing Mrs. Elyan Sheahan, 721 Clark St., Westfield 07090, before the March 15 receiving date.

The show is open to the public on March 23, from 3 to 5 p.m., for the opening reception and awarding of prizes; from March 24 through March 29, from 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m., and on March 30, from 1 to 5 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Camping class

A Saturday morning course, "The World of Camping," is being offered by Union College this spring. The 10-session course will begin this Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon. Dr. Roger Bortier, a professor of modern languages and education at Union College who is an experienced camper and hiker, will serve as the instructor.

Apply early to avert loss of payments

Working people who face a long-term severe disability should apply promptly for social security benefits to avoid loss of payments to which they may be entitled, according to Robert E. Willwerth, Social Security district manager in Elizabeth. Social Security pays monthly benefits to eligible workers and their families if the worker is severely disabled and cannot work for a year or more. Payment begins with the sixth full month of disability.

"Back payments can only be made for up to 12 months," Willwerth said, "so disabled workers shouldn't delay their applications—even if they're not sure they'll qualify for payments. About one of every 12 workers getting Social Security disability payments misses out on some payments because he applied too late."

Disabled workers who haven't applied for benefits should call any Social Security office as soon as possible "or can ask a friend or relative to make the call," he said.

Social Security disability benefits are paid to more than 2 million disabled workers and 1 1/2 million dependents. The average payment is $205 a month. Disabled workers who have been entitled to Social Security disability benefits for 24 consecutive months or more also are eligible for Medicare health insurance.

Time To Spare

The terms Medicaid and Medicare are often confused. Let's try and distinguish between the two. Medicaid is a state federal program that helps pay the health care expenses of people who have little or no income and limited resources.

Medicare is a federal health insurance program, funded by Social Security contributions, individual premiums, and general revenues of the federal government. Medicare helps pay the hospital and doctor bills of people 65 and over, disabled people under 65 who have been getting Social Security disability benefits for two consecutive years or more, and early retirees and members of their families who have chronic kidney disease and need treatment.

'Big truck' laws are opposed by AAA Auto Clubs

The public affairs council of the AAA Auto Clubs of New Jersey, citing safety hazards to motorists and damage to state roads and bridges, this week urged the administration and legislature to resist any attempts to increase the size and weight of trucks allowed on state highways.

Placing emphasis on the big truck issue, state AAA chairman William K. Duncan said his organization agrees with the State Department of Transportation, which opposes any increase in the size and weight of trucks because of the additional deterioration such vehicles would cause to highways and bridges. "Of greater importance is the threat to the lives and limbs of New Jersey motorists."

He expressed regret that the State Senate has already passed bills S-1088 and S-461, both designed to put heavier trucks on New Jersey roads, and urged the Assembly to delay action on these bills until a study is made of the effectiveness of the current truck weight or enforcement system.

Druggists campaign for safety

To combat the danger of 70,000 accidental poisonings occurring annually in New Jersey, some 4,000 members of the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association have organized a campaign for the safe disposal of unused drugs and medications.

"Clean House for Cancer" is the campaign's theme. During Poison Prevention Week, March 16-22, participating pharmacists will donate to the local county unit of the American Cancer Society 10 cents for each container of unused medicine brought to them. A yellow poster displayed in the window will indicate cooperating pharmacies.

In endorsing the program, trustees of the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association cited figures showing that an accidental poisoning is reported every 30 seconds in the United States. Of nearly one million persons involved in such accidents, half are under the age of five.

"In New Jersey alone," said board chairman Joseph G. D'Amico of Trenton, "more than 70,000 non-fatal poisonings occur each year."

"We therefore urge full participation of our member pharmacies and call upon the public to look for the identifying yellow poster in their pharmacies during the week of March 16 in order to turn in old medications. The benefits will be two fold. People will be protecting their children and they will be helping the fight against cancer."

Shut-ins like letters

The New Jersey Branch of the Shut-In Society, a national organization endeavoring to make the life of its shut-in members more cheerful, has hundreds of names of shut-ins and handicapped people who would like to receive cards and letters.

"Cards and small gifts mean a great deal to most of these members whose world is so small by being confined to house and wheel chair," said Mrs. Margaret B. Hamfield, appeal chairman. "I would be very happy to send a name or names to anyone of any group who may be interested in sending cards or small gifts at Easter time. You may be sure they will be greatly appreciated."

Letters may write to Mrs. Hamfield, at 47 Orange ave., Irvington 07111, and state how many names they want.

Consumer prices stay step ahead of salary increases

New Jersey consumers paid $15.47 in 1974 for what cost them $10 in 1967, according to the latest figures from the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The bureau said consumer prices in the metropolitan area increased 10.7 percent during 1974, the sharpest climb in 27 years. The rise in consumer prices was the primary cause of a record purchasing power loss of 4.5 percent for the area's factory workers in 1974.

The 1974 Consumer Price Index rise of 10.7 percent was substantially above the 1973 increase of 6.3 percent, according to Herbert Bienstock, Assistant New York-New Jersey Regional Director of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The price rise reflected sharp increases in food prices for the second consecutive year as well as an acceleration in price increases for non-food commodities and services.

Food prices rose 14.2 percent in 1974, following a 13.1 percent increase in 1973. Non-food commodities rose 10.8 percent—almost 3 times the 3.3 percent increase in 1973. Consumer service prices advanced from a 5.1 percent increase in 1973 to an 8.2 percent increase last year.

Although the gross weekly earnings of factor production workers rose $10.49 (6.4 percent) in 1974 to an average of $174.83, the 10.7 percent increase in the Consumer Price Index drove purchasing power down 4.5 percent, the largest decline on record. The Labor Department did not begin to collect factory worker earnings before 1950 in the New York-New Jersey area.

The 1974 grocery price rise of 15.3 percent for 1974 (15.4 percent in 1973) was led by a 29.4 percent increase for cereal and bakery products and a 23.9 percent increase for the other-foods-at-home index, which includes sugar, shortening, coffee and eggs. Dairy products rose in price 18.9 percent. The meats-fish index increases 4.4 percent for 1974, much less than the 21.8 percent this category registered in 1973.

Douglass archeologists seek information on Indian culture

Residents of Central New Jersey have been asked to assist in a detailed, multi-year study of the pre-history of the area by the Department of Archeology at Douglass College, Rutgers University.

"In the last decade," according to Prof. Paul Healy, Ph.D., "new building and construction projects have resulted in the loss of many valuable archeological sites and associated Indian remains."

"We are trying to assemble as much information as possible on the archeology of central New Jersey; however, the assistance of the public is necessary to help locate Indian sites so they can be recorded, surveyed and, where seriously endangered, salvaged with carefully directed excavations."

"Persons who know of any local archeological sites or personal artifact collections (arrowheads, axes, hammerstones, pottery, etc.) are asked to contact us in order that we may make a record of these findings and, where possible, survey the land from which the materials have been recovered so we can add to our present knowledge of the archeology of central New Jersey and provide a fuller understanding of the overall prehistory of the state," he concluded.

Persons wishing to assist in the project should contact the Central New Jersey Archeological Site Survey at Douglass College, New Brunswick, or call 201-392-9305.

Valued arrow, bow at museum
A bow and arrow used by the More Indians of Bolivia for both hunting and ceremonial purposes has been given to the New Jersey State Museum, W. State Street, Trenton, and is now on display in the Bureau of Archeology's "Recent acquisitions" case in the Main Galleries.
Both the six-foot bow and the four-and-a-half-foot, bone-tipped arrow are made from palm wood. When used for hunting or fishing they are unadorned, but during 22 festivals each year they are decorated with gaily colored feathers from art birds.

The plan includes a clubhouse, swimming pool, tennis courts, and a golf course.

The Holiday City at Berkeley, which recently passed the 2,000 mark in homes occupied, offers seven distinctive home styles at the retirement village. The Castle Harbor shows off, features two bedrooms, two full baths, garage, formal dining room, fireplace and den.

Prospective buyers are advised to ask for specific information regarding the type of ownership and the managing body exists. The Holiday City at Berkeley is a community with a variety of home styles and a high level of service.

High Pointe has lifestyle of city, comfort of suburb. The one and two bedroom units in the elegantly appointed building sell from $43,500 to $70,000, through the Diamond Agency, Passaic, exclusive broker, New Jersey Realty, Newark, handled the financial arrangements for the building.

Estimated common expenses range from about $67 to $100 and include use of the indoor pool, sunbath, exercise room, card room, community room and indoor-outdoor pool terraces, heat and utilities. Glass doors can be removed in summertime and set in place in winter for enclosed pool activities.

There are locker room facilities, billiards, table tennis and other indoor activities. In addition to a fully equipped gymnasium there is a special room for paddle tennis, squash and handball. In addition to indoor tennis, it is also expected that outdoor tennis courts will be added.

Twenty-four-hour doorman service and 150 percent parking in indoor-outdoor facilities ensure the leisurely lifestyle. There is a complete security system with door locks and closed circuit television units. The decorator-designed lobby underscores the elegance of this showcase.

Every apartment features individually controlled environment thermostats in each room and Embassy heating air-conditioning. Kitchens are appointed with color coordinated Hotpoint dishwasher, 16 cubic foot refrigerator and self-cleaning oven. The bathrooms have marble-topped vanities. An allowance will be made for wall-to-wall carpeting.

Laundry facilities are on each floor. Located about two miles north of Rt. 3 for easy travel to New York City, High Pointe is set amidst a residential area convenient to houses of worship, schools, public library, mass transit, shopping and major highways.

A typical two-bedroom, two-bath unit has 1,387 square feet of space. Entrance is via an 11'10" by 5' L-shaped foyer with three closets. The massive living room is 25'2" by 14' and the dining room measures 10'5" by 10'2". The scientific kitchen is 9' by 9'.

The master bedroom measures 18'6" by 12'9" and has two closets, one of them a huge walk-in, and full bath. The second bedroom or den is 12'7" by 11'6" and has a closet. There is also a full bath off the foyer.

Liberal financing is available and arrangements can be made for as little as 10 percent down to qualified buyers. As with all condominiums, purchase means the owner has full title to the property with the right to resell it and can deduct interest payments and real estate taxes from his federal income return.

Estimated income tax deductions range from about $362 to $458. Thus High Pointe offers home ownership in a luxury, maintenance-free apartment structure right in a residential section of a city - yet in the suburbs. While it is within easy access of New York City, it is also minutes away from the mountains of northwestern New Jersey and Pennsylvania and New York State.

Developers list sales last month

Developers Mel Konwiser and Martin Newman of Greater American Communities have announced 10 deposits have been taken on new homes at World's Fair in Somerset, located off Rt. 287. Three deposits at their New England Village Development in Lakewood; six deposits at their LUV Condominium in Stanhope, and three deposits at Wycham Manor in Spring Lake Heights.

Newman and Konwiser compare their February sales activities to the current sales slump in the auto industry. Lower mark-up rebates are the policy at Greater American Communities, the developers noted, saying they rather sell four new homes at a lesser mark-up than two at higher prices.

A second reason for Greater American's success in February has been the sales efforts of the Firsede Realty Agency of Iselin.

According to Michael Antosiek, president of Firsede, a major factor has been the seven and 3/4 percent mortgages they are able to offer a buyer - For example, Antosiek noted, the interest and principal on a $12,000 house at seven and 3/4 percent would come to $300.90 per month; at nine percent it would come to $337.95 per month.

Additionally, each Greater American Community has a full-time professional sales people, with four at World's Fair, offering services to buyers.

leisure of a recreation-oriented complex and the tax advantages of a condominium. Its developers say it is the peak of luxurious condominium living.

The picture, photographed in fantasy types, was directed by Fred Hovart. It has a musical score which includes Mozart, the 1930s style jazz interspersed with electronic sounds.

A FEMININE LOOK ... AT THE WORLD ... AND THINGS

IN SCOTLAND Fifth in a Series

Monster Talk

Everyone, particularly in Scotland, has a theory about the Loch Ness Monster. Some believe in its existence some do not, but everyone has a theory.

The most popular theory for its existence is that it is an unidentified creature, or creatures, perhaps the size of a whale with a long neck and one to three humps...

The most popular theory for its non-existence is that some bright Scot made up the story to entice tourists to Loch Ness in order to increase business.

Whether or not the Loch Ness Monster makes people smile, a rather remarkable feat for a monster, I would say, that its monsterhood has style. Just one visit to the Loch and its setting seems to be enough to make you hope it is alive and well and living possibly in its beautiful lake.

It is interesting that the further away from the lake one goes, the correspondingly less the belief in the monster. To wit, an answer at the lake and an answer 200 miles away. The lady at the lake on three different occasions said, "I have never seen it, but I know something is there for so many credible people have seen it."

The man who lives in the house away in clear opposition to the lady said, "I went up to the lake on holidays and took a ride on that fancy little tourist boat on the Loch, and the only monster I saw was on the boat." And he shared with amusement.

GETTING TO THE MONSTER and getting around Loch Ness are no simple matters. There are no main bus routes or trains around the lake and about the only public train operation to the lake area is a train to a place you can get to by bus...

There are no really big towns or villages nearby on the lake shore either. Elgin is the nearest town to the north and can be reached in about 100 miles. The road follows the Loch and is a narrow, winding road...

others in the hotel, first saw it. "It came from the right side," she said. (The hotel directly faces the loch) and before it sank it was way to the left, so we had a bit of a good look at it. She described it as being blackish, dark green and "slimy." She wrinkled her nose at that.

"Why didn't you take a picture?" I queried. "Someone ran for a camera," she said, but we couldn't find one. All we found was a pair of binoculars so at least we had a good look at it. It must have been on the surface about a half hour, so we had a long look at it too. The manager confirmed her story, but he was not as excited about it as she. "Or me."

THE SKEPTICS always claim that the people who have seen the monster have either seen a log, some debris, some foliage or an overturned boat, but the believers counter this by quoting reports of these same "logs" and "upturned boats" darting about at great speed and agile turns, and by quoting some scientific findings. Sonar soundings alone have reported objects in the water rising or lowering or moving at great speed, and being of a size "making it very unlikely that they are fish... A pattern runs through a great many of the reports and this shows that the object disappears suddenly when disturbed and that it moves at high speed, and noiselessly, except for water commotion."
