The Regional High School District Board of Education Tuesday night voted to terminate the employment of five nontenured teachers at the end of the current school year because of a continued decline in student population. The action came at the monthly board meeting at Goy Livington Regional High School in Berkeley Heights before an audience of 15 persons, most of them Regional administrators ind staff members.

The board also approved the $212,000 cut in the 1975-76 budget voted last month by the governing bodies of the six constitutent municipalities, following defeat of the proposed budget of $11,814,544 at the polls on March 4, Theodore White of Mountainside, finance chairman, said the action Tuesday closed the matter and that the board has no intentions of appealing the cut to educational authorities in Trenton

Charles Bauman, assistant superintendent of schools for personnel, said following the meeting that the decision to drop the five teachers stemmed entirely from reduced enrollment and was not at all related to the budget cut.

Those being dropped are Arlene Serretti, mathematics teacher at Gov. Livingston; Frank Valliere, industrial arts at David Brearley Regional in Kenilworth; Rochelle, Gluck, foreign languages at Gov Livingston. Patricia Beck, English at Jonathan Dayton Regional in Springfield, and Victor Nazario. foreign languages at Arthur I. Johnson Regional in Clark

Bauman stressed that these five were chosen because they have the least seniority in their specialties and not because of specific declines at their particular schools. He added that other teachers may be shifted within the district to accommodate instructional needs in the fall.

IN A RELATED ACTION, the board voted to reduce three other teachers to two-sevenths of full time in the coming year. They are Bernie Buettner, Maribeth Vanezia and Madeline Spitz

As recommended by Dr. Donald Merachnik, superintendent of schools, the board approved a pilot weight training and conditioning program this spring in the adult school at Brearley, It will be headed by Robert Taylor, a physical education teacher and football coach at Brearley

There will be separate 40-minute sessions three nights a week for pre-high school youngsters, high school students and adults. The board amended the proposal to require that all participants-obtain-statements fromtheir physicians that they are able to undergo such training.

Under questioning from Sonya Dorsky of Springfield, Taylor assured the board that no pressure will be placed on students to take part in order to qualify for Brearley varsity sports.

In other business, the board approved a twoyear contract with audio-visual technicians and media aides, covering 1974-75 and 1975-76.

A switch in time saves... Laser beams used in signal

By using laser light beams to start and stop an electrical signal, research scientist David Auston of Mountainside has produced what is probably the fastest electronic switch ever devised

In experiments performed at Bell Laboratories, Auston has achieved measured switching times as short as 10 picoseconds (a ncosecond is one-trillionth of a second-it takes about 100 picoseconds for light to travel one_inch) in a silicon semiconductor_crystal. "This is 10 to 100 times faster than con-ventional semiconductor switches, such as transistors, and the limiting speed has not yet been reached," says Auston. "The device should work as fast as one picosecond, or less The switching speeds we've attained are limited by the duration of the optical pulses." Beams of laser light focused on a piece of light-sensitive silicon cause the semiconductor in the n animitation o

By the proper timing and location of the two optical pulses, electrical signals can be turned on and off in the crystal with a time precision of only a few picoseconds

Since there is no conventional instrument capable of measuring electronic switching times this fast, it was necessary to devise special technique to determine just how fast the switching occurs. To do this, Auston used two switches connected in tandem, the second one being used to measure the electrical signal produced by the first one. The experiment is reported in the Feb. 1 issue of Applied Physics Letters (published by the American Institute of Physics) and represents the fastest electronic measurement of this kind on record.

Initial applications of the switch will probably be limited to scientific uses such as the study of electrical properties of semiconducting materials and the evaluation of conentional high speed electronic de Longer range uses, however, may include (Continued on page 3)

county budget for 1975 will be $874,250 65, Last year the borough's taxpayers paid $862,275.23 to the county

Monday night the Union County Board of Freeholders adopted a $52 million budget for The budget, which represents a $5.8 million increase over 1974, includes $36.7 million to be raised by faxation. Last year $35.9 million was raised by taxation. The bilanew of the budget is supplied through other county revenues (licenses, etc.) and state and federal

Members of the freeholder board said the establishment of a hiring freeze and elimination of the $300,000 summer employee program helped to limit the budget increase to 15.8 million. The freebolders also wanted to eliminate $350,000 from the allocations to county hospitals for the care of indigent patients, but protests from the public and hospitals resulted in restoration of the $350,000 to the budget.

The county budget makes use of $1.0 million in current surplus funds to lower the budget. The surplus will be allocated to current expenses during 1975. That move has been criticized because it could leave the county without enough money to cope with emergencies: Also, the use of the surplus would probably lead to a large tax increase for 1976. according to opponents of the budget speaking at Monday night's public hearing before the freebolders approved the budget.

Thomas-Long of Linden, director of the freeholder board, replied that Union County taxpuyers needed tax relief in 1975, and the use of surplus for current expenses was the way to provide that relief.

WASHINGTON-The House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee has approved Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo's amendment blocking the directors of Amtrak from setting a six-figure salary for the new president of the government subsidized railroad.

Without the Rinaldo amendment, the Amtrak directors could have paid their new president $321,000 a year, the salary received by the president of the Norfolk & Western.

Rinaldo pointed out that the salaries of four other railroad presidents in the United States range from $273,000 on the Union Pacific to $308,000 for the president of the Chessie System. The Union County congressman noted. however, that they are all privately operated railroads in contrast to Amtrak, which is seeking $65 million in operating subsidies for the next fiscal year.

In accepting the Rinaldo amendment, the committee also agreed to block other executives of Amtrak from receiving salary increases comparable to the pay scales of other railroad executives. But the committee voted to give the Amtrak board power to increase the salary of the new president of Amtrak from $60,000 to $85,000 a year, despite Rinaldo's objections.

The New Jersey congressman attacked the idea of comparability in government salaries for top executives. Rinaldo said that it was a long tradition that men and women of outstanding caliber served in the federal government at some personal financial sacrifice because they had the interests of the country at heart. He said that higher salaries at the top levels would not guarantee that government would attract the best talent. "A sense of duty and challenge in serving the nation usually outweigh the financial incentives for people who have already achieved some kind of personal and financial success in the business world." Rinaldo said. "Congress should not substitute the almighty buck for the honor of serving one's country.

Hospital requests state to revise its way of rate-setting

The Board of Trustees of the Elizabeth General Hospital and dispensary has called upon the slate Department of Health to revise its rate-setting system to provide "reasonable reimbursement in behalf of the patients served by the hospital."

The board passed a resolution at a recent meeting, calling for the action. The resolution explained in part "The hospital expects to experience higher costs in the months ahead because of inflation, and also expects to be needed by increased numbers of medically indigent patients because of unemployment and if 'undue financial constraints' are not corrected, will result in a reduction of services

"Our board," said George F. Billington, president of Elizabeth General, "took this strong step because the reimbursement rate which has been set is totally unrealistic, it threatens the financial stability of our hospital. On March 7, three months into the year, we were notified by the state health department that we will receive, for 1975, a 5.3 percent increase in Blue Cross and Medicare reimbursement over last year's level. There is no way we can cover increasing costs we face with this rate. It may force us to actualize our worst fears: the elimination of health care services our community needs.

Sagner: State to retain federal highway monies

N.J.Transportation Commission Alan Sagner has advised the chairmen of the Senate and Assembly Transportation Committees that "in no event" will New Jersey lose any Federal highway funds to which the state is legally entitled

In letters to Senator John J. Horn and Assemblyman Michael Esposito, he clarified the effect of the release last month of $2 billion in highway funds impounded by President Ford and said that the department plans to spend $309 million on Federal-aid highways in the 1975 and 1976 fiscal years.

All of the highways which the department has committed to move forward are those which are needed to relieve traffic congestion or to improve safety.

CONSIDERATE COUNCIL

EAST CAMBRIDGESHIRE, England - The district council here is building a fence to shield old people's homes from a view of coffins being made at an undertaker's yard nearby

He said that the release of the impounded funds changes the department's program "very little" and that the time limits set on the use of the released funds "are probably illegal.' The commissioner pointed out that funds for highways on the Interstate System which were pot used in one year "have always been made available in the subsequent years."

The question of which portions of the Interstate system in New Jersey should be completed will be resolved as a result of environmental analyses and after appropriate public bearings with the communities affected. explained

If, however, it is determined that a portion cannot be completed, the funds for that segment will be transferred either to another highway project or to authorized public transportation projects. "In no event will the funds be 'lost'." the commissioner said. In addition to the funds apportioned for construction of the Interstate system, federal highway funds are provided on the basis of certain statutory formulas. "New Jersey is legally entitled to these funds," Commissioner Sagner emphasized, "It cannot lose them except through a process called 'lapsation,' that is, when the funds have not been used within about three years.

"New Jersey has utilized every cent of federal formula funds made available since the inception of the Federal Highway Program and not 'lost' one penny," he said. "Moreover, there is every reason, barring Congressional changes in statute or other unforesceable events, that this will continue to be the case."

As to prospects for the immediate future, the commissioner said that based on existing laws and regulations and on two assumptions, the Department proposes to spend $79 million on federal-aid highway construction, right-of-way acquisition and engineering in fiscal 1975. The target for fiscal 1976 is a total of $230 million; The first assumption on which these estimates are based is that there will be tho new Congressional enactment, impoundment or Federal regulation" to cause delay. The second is that a U.S. Court of Appeals decision holding previous impoundments illegal will be upheld by the Supreme Court.

"Every effort will be made to push forward projects to advertising and award during the current construction/season," Commissioner Sagner said. "No false hopes should be raised. bowever, that highway construction alone will provide employment in the amounts needed this summer.

N.J. law students recruited for work in South because they actually worked on oral their approach to racially-motivated issues," from seeing a client being held in custody in a

An all-out recruitment program has been aunched at the Rutgers Law School in Newark for students willing to work next summer as aw interns in the Rutgers Summer Mobilization Project in the Deep South. Since his return last summer from Mississippi, William "Butch" Carson, a thirdyear student and director of the group, has been conducting informal seminars at the school to interest students in the project and meeting with businesses and foundations in an effort to raise funds to support it.

Carson and six other black law students spent last summer in northern Mississippi working with local attorneys. The group's experience in the state produced a definite impression of the southern approach to law.

"They're still clinging to the 'land of Dixie' notion down there, living in yesterday," 'said Carson, who has spent two summers in Mississippi.

Under Carson's supervision, the group was assigned to staff attorneys and social workers from the Northern Mississippi Rural Legal Services, working within a 100-mile radius of Greenwood, "the heart of the Mississippi delta." The attorneys represented poor area residents, most of whom subsist on about $80 a week. While the Rutgers interns performed the traditional tasks of summer law internspreparation of memoranda, motions and briefs-Carson feels the group had a distinct advantage over clerks working in private firms arguments and formulated courtroom strategy. Sharpening of legal skills, clinical experience and exposure to the southern environment are prime objectives of the project.

Although they couldn't actively litigate cases themselves, the interns' suggestions were often followed up by the staff attorneys. Carson attributed this to the interns' "sharing of similar legal philosophies" with their cooperating superiors. That, he said, is dedication to legal representation of the poor. The one negative element of the experience, Carson said, was the pervasive force the interns faced when trying to broaden legal representation in the area. 'blacks don't win much down there," Carson said.

He explained that the frustrations of the law and legal hair-splitting usually work against poor southerners in general, and it is primarily due to the influence of local police and justices of the peace. Those forces often retained a basic antagonism toward blacks in local affairs, he said.

"Federal judges, though, have improved

Pick of the LPS ... THERE IS NO GREATER LOVE: by the Lettermen (CAPITAL - SW -11364). The 10 lush vocal earsoothers that are bound to please the trio's many, many fans include: "No Arms Can Ever Hold You" (Like These Arms of Mine), "I'm Glad There Is You" (In This World Of Ordinary People), "Please Love Me Forever," "For All We Know," "How About Me," "There Is No Greater Love," Song from "Some Come Running" (To Love And Be Loved), "I Remember You," "Love Me With All Your Remember You," "Love Me With All Your Heart" (Cuando Calienta El Sol), "That's All." The Lettermen's success, which has in-corporated gold records and a well-carned reputation as a powerhouse live act, can be attributed to their special sound, their choice of material, their arrangements and the decision not to record anything they cannot duplicate in a live appearance.

The trio-Tony Butala, Jim Pike and Gary Pike-has found a unique chemistry of sound and songs that has brought them millions of record fans, campus concert fans, hotel and night club audiences and nation-wide TV viewers.

Since its creation the trio has appeared at more than 2,000 colleges and universities across the country. Their 20 or more crosscountry tours have been greeted by SRO signs at box office windows. Almost every sorority and fraternity house in the country has a complete library of Capitol Lettermen LPs/

The first Lettermen single record for Capitol was "The Way You Look Tonight" and the public fell in love with it, buying more than a million copies. The next two singles sold a total of almost two million. During this one-year period their first LP. "A Song For Young Love" was a national number one best seller, staying on the music trade charts for 58 straight weeks

Perhaps the most distinctive and amazing thing about "The Lettermen Sound" is the way it demonstrates both unity and individual ar listry. Each member of the group has the talent to stand on his own, as the exchange of solos shows, yet they always are able to blend into a collective harmony that generates a special kind of electricity. That's why they've had continued success... and that's why their success will extend far into the future

Dear Pat and Marilyn: My husband and I have a good relationship with one minor exception. He has allergies which make him sneeze and break out in a rash. He is very susceptible to cats, dogs, rabbits, dust, soapsand my perfume. We have no pets, no flowers, and I keep the house as dust free as possible.

I want to use perfume because I like it. I work and see nothing wrong with putting on a little cologne. By the time the day is over, the perfume is so weak that it would take a bloodhound to smell it. However, my husband complains that he sneezes each evening because of my perfume. Is this possible? By evening I can't smell a thing.

The Bloodhound's Wife Dear Wife: If perfume bothers your husband, stop using it. It can't be that big a sacrifice. After wearing a fragrance all day, you may not notice it. Dear Pat and Marilyn: Believe it or not I made it home from the dentist without having a cardiac arrest. I am frightened beyond hope when I enter that little room. The chair looms ahead as if it were the one in the gas chamber One time I got so nervous that I cried. The fear simply brought tears to my eyes Unfortunately, 1 was wearing false_cyclashes_They_lost

The building provides faculty office space for the philosophy, political science, psychology, economics, management science, sociology, anthropology and social work departments. Its second floor accommodates the Instructional Resource Center (IRC), as well as communications sciences offices, classrooms and facilities for remedial and tutorial services The expanded IRC complex occupies a 10,000

The lecture hall will be both showcase and laboratory for multi-media instructors, trained to deliver mass audience presentations, or to communicate with small groups and individual students, by employing such electronic media tools as dual 16 mm. projectors, remote-control screens, dual 35 mm, slide projectors, and an amplification system consisting of 25 built-in speakers.
