In the sixth inning, the Moms scored one run on a single by Peggy Brahm and a double by Judy Crabtree. Another run was added in the final inning when Jackie French walked and Pat Kelk singled. Board of Education affirms 5-bus transportation policy

The Mountainside Board of Education, at a special meeting June 24, adopted a school transportation policy for 1975-76 identical to the one in use this past school year.

Earlier last month, Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, superintendent of schools, hinted the five bus routes might be reduced to four in the fall because of dropping enrollments—but that action has apparently been delayed, at least for

Old Timer Week will start Monday

Old Timers Week will begin at the Mountainside playground on Monday. A number of old-time events and activities have been scheduled.

On Monday morning, volleyball will be the featured game. A crazy hat contest will be held in the afternoon. Old-time games including three-legged races and the obstacle run are scheduled for Tuesday morning, with decoupage in the afternoon.

Wednesday morning will spotlight marshmallow eating, apple dunking and the mattress pull. The afternoon program includes a bubblegum contest and building terrariums. Stickball and pipe cleaner creatures are scheduled for Thursday morning. A special costume contest and watermelon eating will complete the day. On Friday, field hockey and metal sculpture are planned for the morning, with the tire roll after hunch.

The playground is sponsored by the Mountainside Recreation Commission and is open weekdays from 9 a.m. to noon, and 1 to 4 p.m. Registrations are being accepted at the playground during those hours. For additional information, readers may call the Recreation Office at 232-0015.

neighborhood school facility and then on available classrooms and facilities. The transportation policy is based on a combination of allocation, state regulations, distance (from the school) and the grade the child is in.

According to the board, decisions to transport pupils will be based on the following requirements: Pupils in kindergarten who live .5 of a mile and farther from their assigned school will be transported. Pupils who live closer will be allowed to ride providing that they meet the bus at a regular stop. Pupils in grades 1 and 2 who live .75 of a mile and farther from their assigned school, pupils in grades 3, 4, and 5 who live 1.0 miles and farther from their assigned school, and pupils in grades 6, 7, and 8 who live 1.4 miles and farther from their assigned school will be transported. 'No bus stops shall be made on Route 22. "Transportation will be provided for disabled pupils upon certification of need by a qualified physician.

'Whenever reasonable doubt arises as to a controversial distance, the superintendent of schools or his delegate will be the final arbiter.

"Distance is defined as being along accessible roads or walkways from the home to the school."

A board spokesman said transportation cards will be given to pupils who are entitled to ride a bus and bus schedules will be published during August in the Mountainside Echo Individual schedules will be made available to pupils who will ride.

Bob Squad came back in their half of the inning with two runs on singles by Jan Wingard and Sue Winans. In the fifth inning, the Streakers scored a run on a triple by Paula Cloutier and a single by Joyce Pinkava. With the score tied, Pat Nash of the Streakers homered to deep center field. Bob Squad won the game in the last of the eighth with singles by Candy Whitaker, Sandy Dunlap, Sharon Connell (off the opposing pitchers' shin) and a long sacrifice fly by Robin Sury.

Candy Whitaker and Sharon Connell pulled off a double play for the Bob Squad in the fourth

Insurance change for board argued

Theodore A. White, Mountainside member of the Regional High School Board of Education, last week repeated his opposition to a change in the district's insurance carrier, charging that the board had received insufficient information to make a decision.

Speaking at the board meeting at David Brearley Regional High School, White stated: "Effective July 1, 1975, the Regional District switched its insurance to the American Insurance Company, part of the Fireman's

Fund American Group. On the same date, a new agent was named by the American Insurance Company to service the Regional

"Authorization for this change was granted on Dec. 17, 1974, in Resolution No. 11 which passed to 0 and I abstained. Two members, Mrs. Waldt and Mr. Newman, who was a board member at that time, were absent and therefore did not participate in the voting.

'My reason for abstaining was due entirely to the conviction at that time that there was a lack of sufficient comparative data for me to make a reasonable business decision. That conviction remains today."

Reaction sought on moves to meet school funding cuts

The Mountainside Board of Education, at its monthly meeting Tuesday night in the Deerfield School, opened the door to two major policy changes-but noted citizen input is being requested before any decisions are made.

Board president Dr. Irvin Krause, citing the potential loss next year of $147,000 in state aid to the district because of state budget cuts and the expected implementation of the Botter Decision on school funding as well as contined decreasing enrollment, noted the board is considering both a consolidation of borough schools and a cutback in pupil transportation services, both of which have been mentioned previously and have met with public op-

"Student transportation," he noted, "is one of the most significant costs in the borough and doesn't reflect in any way an educational benefit to the child, except to ensure he gets to school." A proposed plan for the future would reduce the service from a five-bus schedule to four, or possibly three, routes.

The consolidation plan, which was first mentioned last year, would make the Beechwood school a K-3 facility, with the remaining grades put into the Deerfield building. "This is another area where we could conceivably make a saving without curtailing educational advantages," Krause said, noting, it could, however, mean an increased transportation cost. "We want to discuss this with parents. teachers and administrators, since they all will be affected by a decision," he stated.

Beechwood now houses grades K-5, as does Deerfield Elementary School. Grades 6-8 are in Deerfield Middle School,

The board president emphasized that any

Winners named in Independence Day pool contests

Although impaired by inclement weather and extended use of the pool, necessitating rescheduled events, the Mountainside Community Pool's Indpendence Day celebration was termed successful by pool officials.

Commencing after completion of the morning's AAU qualifying swim meet, the events ran throughout the day, finishing with the Octothon event at about 7:45 p.m. Nearly 100 people participated in the various ac

Winners for the day were: Jack Crowley and Barron Jaffe in boys' horseshoes; Marie Elena Tennaro, Carolyn Smancik and Laura Tennaro in girls' shuffleboard; Ron Zimmerman and Barron Jaffee in boys' shuffleboard; Karen D'Amanda, Kim Liddy and Carolyn Semancik in 12-15 potato sack races, and Roy Kurczera, Beth Anne Mortimer and Lynn Kuczera in the under 12 Potato Sack Races. No adults entered the event this year.

In the adult competition, Walt Betyeman led the way in the men's foul shooting with seven out of 10 shots, followed by Chuck Fernicola and Henry Scolnik with five each. The adult shuffleboard saw Bob Zimmerman defeat Barbara DeLuce.

The big upset of the day was Bob Zim merman's defeat of last year's horseshoe champion, Lenny Capriglione, after having edged by John McCarthy in a close semi-final match. The delayed and rescheduled Octothon was held at 6 Sunday night under threatening skies and the sounds of distant thunder.

In the boys' 12-15 year age group, the winner of the eight-event contest was again Jack Crowley, with a tie for second between Bobby Anderson and Jim Knodel, Jean Kascin won the girls' 12-15 event over Karen Crowley. The under 12 event for boys saw David Crane as the victor, with Robert Doole y and Mike Liddy tied for second, and Lisa McCarthy won all eight events for the under 12 girls' to beat Carol Heymann.

After drawing a bye in the first round, the Mountainside team faced Rahway on June 22. Savage pitcher Cathy Clark struck out 12 and walked two in addition to hitting a home run. Diane Kennelly went four for four at bat, with a triple, a double and two singles. An 18-hit attack was responsible for the Savages' 11 runs.

The semi-final game against Westfield on June 20 featured a pitching duel between Cat Clark and Chris Kelly. With Westfield ahead, 1 0, in the top of the fifth inning, Jill Schoenfeld reached first on a walk. Carol Bennett and Ellie Harbt reached base on Westfield errors, with Jill and Carol scoring for Mountainside's first two runs of the game. Debbie Brahm ther drove in the winning run.

In the bottom of the fifth, Westfield scored again and had runners at second and third with two outs when Savage Sue Ellen Huelbig made a spectacular catch on a line drive hit by Westfield's Eileen Rainey. The catch saved two runs. Cathy Clark recorded six strikeouts in the State engineers will study comments raised by public at Route 78 meeting

A N.J. Department of Transportation engineer said his agency "will address ourselves to the questions raised" at the June 26 public meeting on possible alignments of Rt. 78 through Union County and the "No build"

Edward Dayton, a member of the DOT's design staff in Trenton who attended the meeting at Gov. Livingston Regional High School said this week that "there is a lot more information that should be made available for the final public hearing," which is expected to be held this November after the release of a draft environmental impact statément. The environmental report, he said, will survey the impacts of all alternates presented to the public in a series of "information centers" held in Watchung, Mountainside and Berkeley Heights previous to the public meeting.

'It was a very interesting meeting, and one of the largest we've ever held," said Dayton. Close to 1,200 people jammed in the Gov. Livingston High auditorium (seating capacity 900) to hear the engineers explain the options available to them.

The state is seeking to complete Rt. 78 which runs from Phillipsburg to Plainfield avenue in Berkeley Heights. A section of the highway from the Rt. 24 freeway interchange in Springfield to Springfield avenue in Union was opened to traffic one year ago. Students of the Springfield summer school program have the option of taking tennis as a two-hour class for the third year. What started out to be a few students in a single class has grown to be 55 students in four classes with two instructors: Don Wilderotter and James Stamev

The classes are coed and span the ability range from basis learners to advanced students. All classes operate on an individual basis with the stress on improving skills rather than on competition. Cancer Crusade still seeking funds

The 1975 American Cancer Society crusade is in its last few weeks. More than 10,000 Union County volunteers have been distributing information to their neighbors as well as soliciting contributions.

"These funds are urgently needed so that the society may continue to provide its free services to the cancer patients in Union County," said Herbert W. Samenfeld, president of the Union County Unit. These services include loan closet items such as hospital beds, wheel chairs and walkers; financial aid for the medically indigent; and educational programs for school and social organizations.

Dr. Samenfeld urged all volunteers in Springfield who have not yet turned in their collection kits to do so immediately. The kits may be returned to the National State Bank on Morris avenue or the American Cancer Society office at 512 Westminster ave, Elizabeth.

For those living on Social Security benefits. increases in payments in recent years have meant little in the face of spiraling prices. For example, the cost of chicken, once the staple of the low-cost diet, has risen more than 244 percent since 1967-and potatoes are up more than 252 percent.

In recent years, increased demand by middle-income consumers for budgetstretching foods has caused the price of chicken to rise two to three times as sharply as the price of beef or veal. But since the elderly poor have been buying low-cost foods all along, they are unable to cushion their budgets against price increases by switching to cheaper foods.

As a result, many of the estimated 300,000 aged poor in New Jersey are forced to do without, living on marginal diets lacking in nutrition. In addition to rising food costs, they are faced with the mounting cost of fuel, utilities and housing. Many are going cold, hungry and without adequate medical at-

A significant number regularly run out of resources to buy food at the end of each month. In a recent report, many said they are often forced to go without food: others explained that they managed to last out the month by eating beans, rice or potatoes and, occasionally, neck bones or canned meats.

Under present law, Social Security benefits are adjusted only once a year, according to the Consumer Price Index. And often the increased payment lags six months behind that, Legislation I am sponsoring would permit these increases to be made twice a year, rather than just once. This legislation would also develop a more accurate measure of the cost of living for the elderly by establishing a special consumer price index for the aged.

The low-income elderly spend a much larger portion of their income on the necessities of life than does the typical American family. And those necessities - food, housing, health care, fuel and transportation- have increased in cost much more than other items in the typical consumer price index. Moreover, limited mobility makes it especially difficult for the aged to shop around for bargains. Thus they are confronted with a higher rate of inflation -23-28 percent higher — than the typical American family.

While the government estimates that less than 25 percent of the income of the average family goes for food, it is estimated that food accounts for 32.4 percent of the budget of a retired couple. A special cost-of-living index for the elderly would more accurately reflect how price increases really affect older Americans.

Social Security touches almost every American family. It must be made more responsive to the requirements of beneficiaries, as well as to changes in our Establishing a cost-of-living adjustment for Social Security benefits was an historic first step to protect beneficiaries from inflation. But it must be made more responsive if the elderly are to have full protection from rising prices.

The post-Watergate suspicions over the abuse of government power have led to charges that the super-secret Cental Intelligence Agency has carried out "massive and illegal" spying operations against American citizens in Did it?

A careful and complete reading of the Rockefeller Commission Report would prove to any fair-minded American that the CIA has not destroyed the privacy of Americans or collected a massive pool of illegally obtained information to be used against dissident political groups in this country. THE STATE WE'RE IN

By DAVID F. MOORE. Executive director, North Jersey Conservation Foundation

This is the season that reminds me that the New Jersey Department of Transportation, carrying on the hard-nosed traditions of its predecessor, the old State Highway Department, could well bestir itself with some public

Public relations in this case doesn't mean trying to brainwash this state we're in with propaganda about the need for more highways, but to beautify existing roads a little bit. I mean with flowers

Since the highwaymen already control a scary percentage of tiny New Jersey's acreage, and since that land isn't all under pavement but includes median strips and grassy roadsides, it seems a splendid and generally-wasted opportunity to beautify our roadsides with wildflowers

Down in Texas, they do what New Jersey could be doing. That state nurtures its own numerous wildflowers along highways so that travellers are treated to a changing panorama of color throughout the growing season. Furthermore, they publish a very handsome wildflower guidebook for visitors.

Let me note that New Jersey does plant vetch on embankments to halt erosion, and it produces nice patches of color at this time of year. Also, a rugged species of tiny white rose planted along some stretches, and honeysuckle is blooming in abundance, either by design or accident. Although the latter two add their own special brands of fragrance to travel, many folks are sorry the highway people introduced them-they have an exasperating tendency to take over everything in their path.

But in spite of its many problems, the Garden State does have great diversity of plant life, covering as it does in a small area the Atlantic plain, the Piedmont and the Appalachian Highlands plus such habitats as bits of tundra in Sussex County and the Pine Barrens in the south. Different zones have differing floral populations—all potential highway decorations.

Despite this opportunity, the Transportation Department has generally lacked the common sense to foster native wildflowers along roadsides. The state-and most counties-mow and spray weed-killer indiscriminately along some of our scenic rights-of-way. Not only is this expensive, it's unattractive and can play havoc with the quality of our surface water supplies when it washes into them.

Why not wait to mow until roadside flowers had a chance to bloom and set seed? Unless mowing is more frequent than now seems possible, roadsides only look unkempt were, by taking a tip from Texas and beautifying our roadsides with our own kinds of wild trees, shrubs and flowers.

And that's not all. Less mowing would save manpower and energy; more vegetation growing in median strips would improve safety by slowing down cars unintentionally crossing those strips. It would also reduce the glare of lights at night caused by oncoming traffic.

trary, the CIA exercised great restraint and caution during its nearly 30 years of operation.

Possibly no other secret government agency in any country has so diligently and effectively carried out its mission in gathering needed intelligence data and at the same time avoided intruding on the political freedom of its citizens. Neither did I find evidence in the Rockefeller Commission Report that the CIA was in the process of forming some kind of phantom government within the United States.

of the information collected on American citizens involved CIA personnel and their contacts, and clearly the agency has a duty to screen its own operatives as rigorously as possible. The biggest exception was "Operation Chaos," which sought to discover whether there was any connection between terrorist underground groups in this country and unfriendly governments abroad. Put in perspective against the backdrop of urban riots, campus bombings, kidnappings and mob demonstrations in the 1960s, and public and Congressional clamor for protection of democratic institutions and individual liberty, the CIA had an obligation to learn whether the financing and other assistance to these terror groups was coming from abroad.

The major defect in the Rockefeller Commission Report concerns allegations that the CIA assisted agents in other countries in plotting political assassinations. In particular, the efforts of Cuban nationals to murder Fidel Castro, and the assassination of Dominican Dictator Rafael Truillo, But until the Senate investigations committee studies the full extend of alleged CIA involvement, it would be remature to reach any conclusions

However, I support President Ford's view that our government cannot adopt a policy of condoning political assassinations of political leaders whose nations are not at war with the United States. It would intensify political suspicions, military confrontations and the possibilities of global warfare under the mistaken impression that an unfriendly political leader in another nation was murdered by CIA agents.

Whatever the final outcome of the Senate committee's inquiry into alleged CIA supported assassination plots, we need to improve the agency's operations abroad. The spread of nuclear technology for producing plutonium is proceeding so fast that there already has been a serious weakening of international controls. A few pounds of reprocessed plutonium would be enough to make several small atomic devices. Instead of extremists kidnapping a planeload of passengers, the world may face the possibility of radicals threatening to explode a nuclear device in one of our major

The CIA's mission in a nuclear age should be to prevent just such a calamity from happening. It requires the CIA to covertly work with friendly political groups and leaders abroad. This would comply with the policies that the U.S. State Department has openly pursued through diplomatic and economic channels. But we cannot expect that the secret operations of the CIA should be published on the front pages of our newspapers and brought up for constant public discussion.

What troubles me is that some critics of the CIA may be tempted to over-react to the few abuses that have occurred over the last 28 years. This is not the time to strip the CIA of its authority or to undermine its morale. Soviet and Communist influence and military power are on the rise all over the world. Portugal is coming under a Communist government. Spain and Italy are threatened. The southern anchor of NATO is in disarray because of the Geek-Turkish dispute. Arab extremists in Lebanon and elsewhere in the Mideast are being heavily rearmed for another war that could cripple U.S. oil supplies and the European economy

I cannot think of a worse time for the United States to be mothballing CIA operations or sharply limiting its secret operations abroad. America's security depends on the skills of this vital agency.

Know Your Government

New Jersey continues to have the lowest proportion of state employees to population among the 50 states despite a 21 percent increase in the number of state employees during the first half of this decade, reports the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

The number of full-time and part-time state overnment employees rose from 64,950 in October 1970 to 78,584 in October 1974, according to data in publications of the United States Bureau of the Census. The rate of increase was nearly one and one-half times the rise in total state government employment across the nation of 14.5 percent over that same period. While New Jersey's rank in total state employees rose from 14th to 12th among the 50 states, it remained 50th in number of state employees per 100 population, that ratio being .91 in 1970 and 1.07 in 1974.

New Jersey's monthly state government payroll, ranking ninth in the country in dollar amount in October 1974, has risen at a higher rate than aggregate state government payrolls during the early 1970s. The nationwide rate of increase from 1970 to 1974 was 49.5 percent, while New Jersey's October state payroll rose from about $43.6 million to about $71.7 million, a jump of 64.7 percent.

Average monthly earnings of full-time New Jersey, state employees climbed in national rank from 11th to seventh over the first half of this decade. The dollar increase from $759 to $1,021 per month represented a 34.5 percent

Local government employment and payrolls in New Jersey have experienced comparable increases in this decade, NJTA further notes. New Jersey's ratio of municipal, county, school and special district employees per 100 population increased from 3.39 in 1970 to 4.17 in 1974, while its national rank went from 29th to 26th. The number of local government full-time and part-time employees rose 25.7 percent from 243,022 in 1970 to 305,471 in 1974, half again the rate of increase in aggregate local government employment in the 50 states.

The dollar amount of the total October New Jersey local government payrolls, while holding its position as eighth highest in the nation in 1970 and 1974, increased 62 percent over that period, from more than $156 million to nearly $253 million. The rate of increase in local government payrolls in the 50 states was 49.6 percent. During the same period, average monthly earnings of full-time New Jersey local government employees increased 31.5 percent, from $749 to $985. This average monthly figure brought a rise in the national rankings from 10th to seventh.

In light of this federally-supplied data, the New Jersey Taxpayers Association points out that references to the fact that New Jersey has the fewest state employees per population in the nation, while entirely correct, may be misleading. Because local governments combined have more than three and a half times the number of New Jersey State Government employees, it is important to recognize that economy efforts are as important at the local government level as in state government, concluded NJTA.

New Jersey has the highest percentage of apartment dwellers of any state in the nation. As a result, legislation concerning tenants is always a priority in Trenton. In the past year and one-half, several pieces of legislation designed to protect tenants have been passed and signed into law. These laws, known as the Tenant-Landlord Package, have given tenants increased protection against eviction and require landlords to furnish information about the owners and managers of property and about the availability of crime

Testing available on canner gauges

Pressure canner gauge testing will be conducted by the home economists at the Union County Cooperative Extension Service Office, 300 North avenue, East Westfield, on Mondays during July and August, between 1:30 and 3:30

According to Donna Paterek, Elaine May and Dora Cortada, the home economists, who help Union County homemakers, pressure canner gauges should be tested yearly to assure continued accuracy. Pressure gauges must be accurate because any deviation of pressure from ten pounds can result in under-processing and can result in spoilage and illness The pressure canner must be used for all lowacid foods. This includes all vegetables except tomatoes, meats and soups

Sauer is elected trustee emeritus

The election of George S. Sauer of Jamesburg as trustee emeritus of Union College was announced this week by E. Duer Reeves, board

Sauer was cited for long and conspicuous service to the college. He has been a member of the Board of Trustees since 1941, serving as both assistant secretary and treasurer.

The longest tenured member on the board, Sauer also served as co-chairman of the Cranford Campaign of Union College's Silver Anniversary Development Campaign, which made possible the move to the present campus and the construction of the Nomahegan Building.

Sauer, a native of Elizabeth, has been a practicing attorney in Cranford since 1932. He is a member of the law firm of Sauer & Kervick, Cranford, and previously shared a law practice in Elizabeth with his brothers, Frank and Robert Sauer.

Additional protective legislation currently awaits the governor's signature. These bills include the Truth in Renting Act, A-1060, which would require landlords to post the legal rights and responsibilities of tenants and landlords on the premises and to give a copy to each tenant. The Truth in Real Estate Advertising bill, A-1034, also awaiting the governor's signature. would establish penalties for misleading, deceptive, or fraudulent advertising.

Other pending legislation includes:
-- A bill, A-1252, to allow tenants to repair vital facilities and deduct the cost from the rent. This bill would enact into law the protections won in court in the Marini decision. It has passed the Assembly and now awaits

-The Open Waiting List Act, S-1109, which would require landlords to maintain open waiting lists for housing, has passed the Senate and will soon be voted on in the Assembly.

-Pending bill A-946 would protect tenants when a landlord wishes to convert property into a condominium -A-3074 would require owners of multiple dwellings to post a security deposit to guarantee that they will make reasonable repairs I am currently studying additional proposals for government-sponsored management entities, which could offer the opportunity for more economical and effective building management, and incentive programs, which would encourage landlords to improve maintenance without increasing rents.

Copies of all the bills I have mentioned are available through my district office (phone 322-2339) or from the Legislative Hot Line (toll-free number 800-792-8630). I pledge my unceasing efforts on behalf of legislation to protect all New Jersey citizens who rent their homes.

PEER PRESSURE

PUSHES POT How much is an adolescent's use of marijuana affected by (1) parental drug use, (2) friends' drug habits, and (3) a combination of both?

The answers are (1) a little, (2) a lot, and (3) the most, according to recent studies of drug use among young people. and of the social and psychological influences which cause them to use or not to use drugs.

Parental influence is most notable among adolescents, especially girls, whose mothers use tranquilizers. Among adolescents who report this form of parental drug use, 37 percent are marijuana users as compared to 24 percent who say their mothers do not use drugs.

The role of friends is far more crucial. Among adolescents whose friends report that they have not smoked marijuana, only 15 percent use it themselves, in contrast to 79 percent of those whose friends report having smoked 60 times or more.

The other way around, the proportion of adolescents who have smoked marijuana 60 times or more jumps from 2 percent among those whose friends have never used marijuana to 48 percent. among those whose friends also are 60-times-or-more

When both parents and friends use drugs, the result is the highest rate of adolescent marijuana use found in one extensive study: 67 percent. Although the strong influence of peer pressure on marijuana use is now well documented, many adolescent users are somewhat reluctant to accept the view that their behavior is a function of group pressures, perhaps because they feel it would be an admission of weakness.

Marijuana and Health, a report prepared by HEW's National Institute on Drug Abuse, states that in current studies of the various reasons given for marijuana use by adolescents, 12 categories of motivation recur

They are: curiosity and experience seeking; imitation and peer influences; attainment of a state of well-being; instant achievement; relaxation; recreation or the avoidance of boredom; psychological support to deal with pain and discomfort, real or imagined; rebellion; search for insight or purpose; quest for a mystical-religious experience; supposed aphrodisiac qualities; an adaptive lifestyle which parallels the supposed pursuit by society at large of "instantness' "instant

Unemployment up for summer students at UC

More than 40 percent of Union College's 2,000 summer students are unemployed, according to John Wheeler, director of the Summer

Wheeler said this is the highest level of unemployment among college students since Union College started surveying its students in

"At a time when college costs are soaring, students are reporting extreme difficulty in finding even part-time jobs to help ease fall expenses," Wheeler commented. "And a good number of students add the reason they decided to attend the Summer Session anyway is because they could find no work."

According to the survey of Union College summer students, about half of whom regularly attend colleges and universities other than Union, some 32 percent have part-time jobs while 28 percent are employed full-time.

Those who are working on a full-time basis are generally those who are regularly employed throughout the year and who attend college part-time. Few college students report being able to find work on a full-time basis for the summer

Students who were successful in obtaining a summer job are working at routine jobs that simply bring in money, Wheeler commented. Few of them are working in areas that are related to their course of study or which might help them explore their career objectives.

A few years ago, business administration majors could find office jobs and future nurses or doctors would work as aides in hospitals. Law aspirants could pick up experience assisting an attorney and so on," Wheeler said. "Those days are gone. None of these places is

Union College summer students are mostly working as short order cooks, waitresses, delivery, factory, and domestic workers, groundskeepers, parking attendants, cashiers, lifeguards, playground aides, and office clerks. Because of the tight economy, students who were once able to market a creative personal skill, such as art, music or dance instruction or landscaping are not successful either this summer. training program. For Children's Specialized, this marks the first time the long-term rehabilitation hospital for physically handicapped youngsters has added residents to the medical team, noted Robert F. Ardrey Sr., executive director of the

Some of the finest residency programs in the country are just beginning to involve residents in the broad exposure this program provides, including not only pediatric rehabilitation but the entire spectrum of chronic disease: heart, lungs, neurological, renal, and child evaluation," commented Dr Gloria O. Schrager, director of pediatric education at Overlook. "Most doctors don't have exposure to such problems—we are training a whole new generation of pediatricians."

Overlook, in addition, recently affiliated with Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons as its first community hospital teaching af-

Overlook will assign one of its, pediatric residents fulltime for a period of two months, rotating its various residents through the rehabilitation experience.

In addition, the entire group of Overlook pediatric residents will make rounds at CSH once a week, to follow the progress of the young patients and to be oriented to new ones as they enter CSH.

The young physicians will be particularly involved in initial evaluation of children with birth defects, accident injuries, neurological problems and other long term disabilities, as well as evaluation of children with learning disabilities and perceptual handicaps. Dr. George Nemeth, one of the Overlook residents who has been on assignment at CSH was impressed by the physical therapists' close attention to their child patients.

impressive to see them working with kids with cerebral palsy, flexing their limbs, encouraging them to do the work on their own, keeping up constant supportive conversation as they work out together," Dr. Nemeth commented

"In the general hospital you see the acute phase of a child's illness. Long term therapy is an entirely different exposure," he pointed out.

Overlook's nine pediatric residents were unanimous in their enthusiasm for the new affiliation with Children's Specialized. All are looking forward to a more sustained relationship with their small charges.

It is most fortunate that Overlook and Children's Specialized are in such close proximity, providing a rare area combination that will be of benefit to both medical facilities and their patients," Dr. Symonds concluded.

Regional District students rate well in statewide reading, math testing

Students in Union County Regional High School District No. 1 have demonstrated "very good skills" in reading and mathematics commensurate with or above specific reference standards, according to results released Monday of a statewide testing program conducted in October.

The report, in addition to rating the skills, also notes the needs and strengths demonstrated by the 1,353 Regional 10th graders who took the tests, and lists six recommendations for improvement.

According to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Donald Merachnik,

"Reading ability of students who were 10th graders during 1974-75 in the Regional District is very good. Skills and abilities used in dealing with word recognition, reading comprehension and study skills are commensurate with or above reference scores of other regional school districts or high schools in New Jersey, Union County or within the district factor grouping to which the Union County Regional High School national conferences only in the Megalopolis (Boston-to-Washington) area; the superintendent may attend only one national conference within the Megalopolis area and two state conferences per year, with other requests requiring special approval; the secretaxy may attend one state meeting in the spring and one session in the fall; requests by other personnel will be reviewed on an individual basis.

Dr. Krause noted the new trip regulations are part of an overall effort by the board to update its policy book, other aspects of which will be presented at future meetings.

The foreign language program also came under discussion when the president noted the reduced eighth grade enrollment, from a projected 114-117 to 106 pupils, has also reduced the teaching load of the two language instructors. It was suggested that the staff be cut to one-and-a half language teachers, but since no formal motion was made to that end the full-time schedule for both will continue.

Krause said such a change could raise problems with the principals, who are to be notified by the May board meeting of any major organizational changes, and with the teachers, who were guaranteed contracts in April. Despite a 60-day "escape clause" in the later case, board attorney Raymond O'Brien noted the board might be bound by those contracts and an appeal could be made by the teachers involved to the State Commissioner of Education.

Also at the session, attended by approximately 20 borough citizens, Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, superintendent of schools, presented results of state testing conducted on local fourth and seventh graders last year. He said the borough youngsters' results in math and reading "were good to excellent" and "consistent with the high standards the community has set for its schools," however his report did show that although the majority of scores were above the median reference point, there were some equal to or below it. His complete report on the results will be published in next week's Echo.

The board will hold its next public meeting on July 22. At that time a decision will be made on whether or not an August session will be scheduled.

District No. 1 has been placed for comparison purposes.

"The reading comprehension responses scored consistently above the comparative reference standards in 67 percent of the tested items within this cluster group... In comparison to New Jersey students who were tested as 10th graders during 1974-75, the 1,353 Regional District 10th graders compared very well."

The mathematical ability of the tested students also is "very good," he noted. "Utilization and understanding of fractions, basic algebra, percentage problems and decimals are consistently high or commensurate with reference scores... Scores dealing with fractions, basic algebra, percentage and decimals exceed the comparative reference criteria in 80 percent, 68 percent, 60 percent, and 55 percent respectively, of the tested items within the cluster groups.

"Other cluster groups, i.e. graphs and problem solving, measurement and denominate numbers, whole numbers, and geometry, included tested items with scores which closely parallel comparative group reference standards."

Merachnik also cited "exceptional skill" demonstrated in factoring quadratic equations, multiplication in distributive relationships, addition of proper fractions and averaging. "Very good use is made of fractions, basic algebra, percentage and decimals in problem solving," he said.

"Needs shown in mathematics include specific instruction related to the understanding of locating points on a coordinate plane and successful graphing of linear equations. Instructional improvement could be beneficial in dealing with problems concerning volume of cubes, scientific notation, area of circles and application of the Pythagorean Theorem."

Discussing the reading test results, the superintendent cited strengths in the ability to utilize reference book and card catalogs and the use of synonyms and antonyms, as well as "very good results" in most items dealing with reading comprehension skills. "In general, reading comprehension is at a high level of development," he said.

Word analogies, map reading, and reinforcement in dealing with context clues as a word recognition technique were cited as areas where weaknesses were demonstrated. Recommendations were as follows:

Mrs. Wilson sets contributions limit on reelection bid

Assemblywoman, Betty, Wilson, this week announced that she will limit individual contributions to her reelection campaign to a maximum of $250 per person and that she will not accept any corporate contributions.

"Accepting large contributions from wealthy individuals or corporations is unacceptable in my view," Mrs. Wilson explained. "Recent state and national scandals have demonstrated the insidious effect that large sums of money can have on some politicians.

"I believe that those of us who hold or seek public office have an obligation to remove even the appearance of being influenced by 'fat cats' or special interest groups. We cannot do so if we allow our campaigns to be financed by large or corporate contributions."

Assemblywoman Wilson, who has sponsored several pieces of legislation designed to strengthen New Jersey's conflicts of interest law, described public confidence in government as being "at its lowest level in our national history."

"This confidence can be restored," she added, "only if the public is assured that office holders are concerned with the public welfare and not with any private interest."

Mrs. Wilson noted that her campaign support has traditionally come from small contributors. "I prefer to keep it that way," she said. "Small individual contributions cannot be interpreted as incurring any obligation."

BATTLE OF SPRINGFIELD 1780

The translation of a diary kept by a Hessian soldier at the Battle of Elizabethtown - Springfield in 1780 reveals that the encounter was one of the bloodlest of the Revolution and a rousing victory for Continential militiamen.

Pvt. Stephan Popp writes in the diary of the continuing skirmishes and sorties that occured from June 6 to June 23 in that year.

From what he reveals, the Hessians, together with crack. British troops, suffered severe losses. In the June 23 engagement he writes, "We lost 400 to 500 dead and wounded in this action" (Springfield). "On the return," he continued, "we really lost the most men."

Also believed revealed for the first time is the information that 100 Americans were burned to death in the First Presbyterian Church of Springfield, where thay had taken refuge from the battle.

Pvt. Popp's diary refers to this as follows:

"The place (Springfield) was put to the torch and not

"The place (Springfield) was put to the torch and not even a pig-sty was left standing. About 100 men had taken refuge in the church, but they had to burn with it. Their pleas for life were moving, but it did not help them."

The diary appears to sustain the belief of some historians that the Springfield conflict was not a mere skirmish, but was a full-fledged battle with at least 10,000 Hessian and British troops participating. The Continental forces are figured about half of that number. This fact, too, makes the rebels' victory all the more astonishing, historians say.

General von Knyphausen led the Hessian - supported British force into battle. In addition to the Hessians, Knyphausen had at his command the famed Coldstream Guards and Scot Highlanders.

Facing them were about 1800 Continental Army regulars and an undetermined number of militiamen hastily recruited from the area. Any man or boy willing to carry a gun was on the firing line against an enemy force made up of some of the best-trained troops England could muster.

The British troops landed at Elizabethport from bivouacs on Staten Island. They originally were based on Long Island.

It is believed that the landing was made at what is now the foot of Elizabeth Ave. The troops proceeded up Elizabeth Ave., then called Water St., and were engaged by a handful of Continental troops at Union Square in the delaying action. Couriers were sent by the Continentals to warn Washington and his army at

After the skirmish, at what is now the location of Harmonia Savings Bank, the British continued up Elizabeth Ave. to Broad St. There, after some maneuvering in Washington Ave. and Pearl St., they moved to Rahway Ave. and out Cherry St. to what is now Westfield Ave. As near as can be determined, the column moved out Westfield Ave. to Galloping Hilli Road, thence to the Five Points and out Chestnut St. to what was then called Connecticut Farms, now Union.

They burned the Presbyterian Church and other structures there. This was the incident in which Hannah Caldwell, the wife of James Caldwell, pastor of the church, was killed by a soldier.

After this foray, the British pushed on to Springfield, though harassed by delaying actions. At Springfield, the Continentals and militiamen dug in and lought.

The Continentals retired to hills north and west of

The Continentals refired to hills north and west of Springfield to await reinforcements from General Washington at Morristown. When these arrived, they increased fire on the British.

The enemy learned from a spy that additional troops were enroute from Morristown and General von Knyphausen decided to withdraw. As his troops fell back, the Continentals pressed their advantage pouring heavy fire on the retreating Hessians, which resulted in heavy losses for the British torces.

With the ultimate American victory at Springfield followed by the British retreat, New Jersey was never again invaded by the enemy during the war.

Did You Know

That approximately 15,000 men faced each other in combat in the Battle of Springfield ... at least 10,000 Hessian and British troops were engaged by Continental forces that totaled about one-half that number. This engagement was one of the bloodlest and flercely fought battles of the Revolution.

and Did You Know that In 1851 when the "Harmonia Savings Fund" (later to become Harmonia Savings Bank) was founded, the total population of the City of Elizabeth was only 6,000 - less than half the number of participants in the Battle of Springfield.

WORLD: by Sylvia Smith (ABC RECORDS ABCO-876). Sylvia makes her LP debut with ten sizzling vocals: "Original Midnight Mama," "Did I Give Up Too Much Too Soon,"
"Don't Mistreat My Bables," "Shape Your
Arms Like A Cradle," "Breakin' Up A Happy
Home," "Stop! I Don't Need No Symphony," "Superbad." "I Don't Need No Map." "Is This The Way Love's Suppose To Be" and the title tune "Woman Of The World." Sylvia began recording at 15, which is when she started making the rounds of Memphis studios looking for jobs as a background vocalist. Since then, she's been in "more studios than I can remember. There were times I didn't even know who the artist was."

Pick Of The LP's...WOMAN OF THE

However, she adds, "I have always been a success-oriented person. Whatever I'm going to do, I am going to be at the top in it." And her new LP is clearly her first step toward musical heights. Initially, Sylvia had a different goal to work with children as a psychiatric social worker. The third of six children herself, she was raised by a schoolteacher mother who insisted that all her offspring receive a college education, and so in 1966 Sylvia enrolled in Nashville's Tennessee State University as a sociology-psychology major. She stayed to earn a B.A., but after graduation in 1969, when a cousin in Detroit told her that the group the Glass House was looking for a new member, she headed for Motor City.

Her reception when she got there was scarcely what she had hoped for: Having heard her audition, the Glass House's producers, declared that she couldn't sing. Undaunted, Sylvia went to Motown, where immediately she was put to work doing background vocals for Nick Ashford and Valerie Simpson. She stayed at Motown for two years-teaching special education, too, during one of them-and though she was not signed to the label, even began doing some recording as a solo artist.

Then, in 1971, just as Motown was preparing to offer her a contract. Sylvia was called to audition for the Glass House again. "They had no idea that I was the same girl who had auditioned in '69," she says, "and they liked me. I probably would have signed with Motown, but instead I signed a contract with Invictus Records and the next week I recorded "Thanks, I Needed That" with the Glass House.

Disappointment again. The Glass House was mired in familiar ego problems even as "Thanks, I Needed That" was being recorded, and the song turned out to be the group's last For over a year, Sylvia did nothing the praying." Finally, in the summer of 1957 she left Lo. Angeles. she left Detroit, and Invictus, to come to

"I didn't know what I was going to do," Sylvia says. But she succeeded in-getting a contract with ABC and made one single with the group Nature's Gift before beginning to record on her own last year. And making Woman of the World, she says, was "more fun

"I never had any ego problems singing backgrounds," she continues, "because I knew I wasn't developed then. I really got into studio work. But now, if I couldn't sing on my own, I don't know what I'd do. I think I'd just be hungry."

Dear Larrie: I brought a suit to a dry cleaner for cleaning. When I returned to the establishment to claim the suit, I was told it had been damaged. I told the store manager that I wanted a full reimbursement because this was a new suit that I had for only three months. He said if I produced a sales slip for the suit he could then determine the percentage of reimbursement I would be entitled to. I don't have my sales slip on this suit and the dry cleaner refuses to settle my claim. This is the first time I've heard of this procedure in determining a settlement. Is he

To cope with this problem, the industry has developed a "National Fair Claims Guide for Consumer Textile Products," which established the "life expectancy" rate for clothing and household furnishings. The life expectancy, balanced against the age and condition of the item, determines the percentage of reimbursement to which the customer is entitled: Why not simplify your life—keep the sales slip for at least the normal expected life of any items that you intend to have professionally laundered or dry cleaned. He then went on to tell me about all the different kinds of appliances and whether or not I owned any, and if I wanted to own such an appliance. I didn't really mind all these questions until he said he would like to visit me and show me these various appliances. I told him okay, but that I really wasn't in-terested in buying anything. He visited me and tried all means of inducing me to buy a number of items. I finally got rid of him, but I do feel I've been taken advantage of How can I determine if such surveys are legitimate?

The phony survey approach is used by some firms as a lead in to sell merchandise. This in itself should be your tip-off, because the legitimate survey organizations never engage in sales activity. Labor office says seasonal jobs up less than forecast

Payroll employment in the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area edged up 3,000 in April to 6,377,000, according to Herbert Bienstock, the U.S. Department of Labor's Assistant Regional Director for the Bureau of Labor Statistics, who heads the BLS office in New York.

Employment typically rises in April with expansions in the nonmanufacturing sectors. An over-the-month rise of 13,000 in nonfactory employment was only one-third the anticipated increase based on previous seasonal patterns. A manufacturing employment drop of 10,000 was in line with seasonal patterns.

Between April, 1974, and April, 1975, area employment declined by 189,000, or 2.9 percent, the largest over-the-year decline since April 1971. Payroll employment in New York City dropped 89,000 or 2.6 percent over the year. The Northeastern New Jersey area was down 88,000 or 4.6 percent and the rest of the New York sector (Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester, Rockland and Putnam Counties) declined 12,000 or 1.0 percent.

The area-wide April rise was substantially less than seasonally expected due to the weak performance of each of the major nonfactory sectors. Contract construction, up 10,000; services, up 8,000 and finance, insurance and real estate, up 2,000, all rose less than seasonally anticipated. Industries which typically rise in April, but posted declines included government, down 3,000; transportation and public utilities, down 2,000; and wholesale and retail trade, down 1,000.

State Fair seeks contest entrants

Applications for entrants in the domestic and fine arts competitions at the New Jersey State Fair-to be held Sept. 12-21 in Hamilton Township, near Trenton-are now available. Cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded to first and second place winners.

Domestic arts include bedspreads, quilts, crochet work, tatting, embroidery, knitting, applique, smocking, rugs, weaving, dolls, crewel and wool embroidery, collections, adult sewing (clothes only) and macrame. Other contests open to the public are arts and crafts, fine arts (for semi-professionals, amateurs and students), amateur photography and culinary products (baked goods, candy, canned goods, preserves, etc.)

Entry blanks and further information may be obtained by writing to Lorraine Dobron, Superintendent of Domestic and Fine Arts, 125 Laura ave., Trenton 08619, tel. 609-587-6871. No exhibits will be accepted unless entries have been made before Aug. 31.

WOMEN IN EMPLOYMENT

The U.S. Labor Department reports that in 1974 women accounted for 49 percent of whitecollar workers but only 17 percent of those in blue-collar jobs; in the service sector, 63 percent of jobholders were women.

Perhaps you have been too permissive. Tell Bob he's a big boy now and a new deal is in order. Simply explain that from now on you expect him to earn his spending money. Use firmness and reason. I'm sure you'll see an improvement if your son is forced to earn money in order to function in the style to which he has become accustomed.

Medical Society asks new rules on school bus safety

Disturbed by the continued lack of safety in the construction of school buses, the Medical Society of New Jersey has urged action by Governor Brendan T. Byrne "to correct inadequacies in school buses.'

In a resolution sponsored by Dr. Sheldon N. Feinberg of the Bergen County Medical Society, New Jersey doctors called school bus structure "inadequate". Dr. Feinberg pointed out that school bus bodies have too few rivets and that metal panels in roof, sides and floor separate in a crash, leaving gaping holes with razor-sharp edges. During impact, children sustain severe lacerations and even limb amputations as they are flung against these sharp edges. "A number of states already follow a federal safety recommendation that corrects this problem with more rivets or with other means, but New Jersey has not yet moved to protect its children," said Dr. Feinberg.

The society also criticized school bus seats as being poorly anchored, unpadded and without seat belts. "We doctors ask for only the basic safety, present in even the cheapest car by law since 1968, but not yet available for children in school buses. We demand that seats be padded so that children do not crack their teeth or exposed metal seat bars; we insist upon a higher seat back to prevent whiplash injury, and for seatbelts so that the little ones are not flung the length of a bus in a crash.

The resolution itself expresses "a deep sense of frustration" at the lack of progress by the state in adopting readily available improvements for school buses. Dr. Feinberg pointed out that the society first urged these changes in 1969 and has since been joined by dentists, other professionals and by thousands of petitioning parents.

License fee is waived for disabled veterans

State Insurance Commissioner James J. Sheeran said this week that all disabled veterans of the American armed services obtaining state licenses as fire and casualty agents or brokers are entitled to a waiver of the biennial fee for each license, $70 for a broker and $30 for an agent.

Sheeran said that his announcement should clear up an ambiguity in the state law, which discriminated against certain disabled veterans through its educational requirement. Sheeran said the law grants the waiver to all DAVs who successfully complete an insurance vocational course in a college or school approved by the federal government or the New Jersey Department of Education.

carry pollutant ozone here

State Environmental Commissioner David J. Bardin this week announced the results of a study which indicates that air entering the northeastern New Jersey-New York-Connecticut Air Quality Control Region may already be substantially polluted with ozone.

A report on the study was presented by Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) personnel at a session of the 68th annual meeting of the Air Pollution Control Association in Boston. The study is part of a continuing project being conducted by DEP in cooperation with the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation and the Interstate Sanitation Commission.

The pollutant ozone, a highly irritating gas, is formed by the reaction of hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxides in the presence of sunlight. Besides its irritant properties, ozone even at low concentrations seriously damages many kinds of plants, as well as such materials as rubber, textiles and dyes. Unlike the ozone layer in the rarefied stratosphere, this ozone is concentrated relatively close to ground level and is generated at least in part by man's

Computer locates area blood donors

If you had to find 100 people who would volunteer a pint of blood today, where would you find them? The North Jersey Blood Center, adquartered in East Orange, uses a large IBM computer to solve the problem.

The computer provides daily printouts of names of donors who should be eligible to donate again. Information is coded and can be stored by blood type, zip code and alphabetically by name for the staff to use in contacting donors. But names and numbers mean little without a personal message for the donor-information about who needs blood, when and why.

Even with ample information and a personalized message, it takes the Blood Center recruitment staff an average 15 phone calls to make one donor appointment.

Area water study at Kean workshop

Earnings of Public Service Electric and Gas Company available for common stock for the five months ended May 31, were $45,532,000, or 87 cents an average share compared with $59,271,000, or $1.16 an average share, in the corresponding period last year, the company reported last week.

The decline of 29 cents in earnings per share is compared with last year which had 1,298,000 fewer average shares then outstanding was primarily caused by the following: a fall-off in both electric and gas sales, a reduced credit for allowance for funds during construction. greater depreciation and interest costs, and the higher charges for gas supply, including synthetic gas, part of which will be subject to recovery from gas customers in subsequent months under the tariff adjustment clauses.

Kilowatthour sales of electricity in the fivemonth period of 1975 were 3 percent below the similar period of last year; residential and commercial sales of electrity were up slightly but industrial sales were down significantly Gas therm sales declined 4.5 percent in the comparative period largely the result of 86 days of curtailments to interruptible customers versus 39 days last year. Although residential gas sales increased, industrial sales dropped substantially; commercial gas sales were relatively flat.

The company was recently granted an interim rate increase amounting to $99 million, effective June 15, 1975, in addition to $59,5 million granted effective Sept. 23, 1974, and is hopeful that the remainder of an originally requested $257 million will be approved in the near future.

Bureau postpones DEP landfill rule

A regulation of the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) that would have required installation of scales at the larger sanitary landfills by July 1 has been delayed until further notice.

The DEP's Bureau of Solid Waste Management said this week the stay affects about one-sixth of the state's sanitary landfills, each of which receives more than 100 tons or 500 cubic yards of solid wastes per day. About four-fifths of the state's solid waste materials are accommodated by these landfills, according to Bernhardt Lind, supervisor of the Lind said the bureau would propose alternative techniques that might be used in place of scales. These proposals would be discussed at a public hearing expected to be held this summer. "While scales are an accepted means of producing the data needed to administer the solid waste program," said Lind, "savings might be possible for landfill operators through alternative systems."

DEP's action is part of the department's current reevaluation of its regulation of existing sanitary landfills and future proposals for such landfills.

State Museum teams to study New Jersey's geologic past geologic past and continued study of the people and animals that have inhabited the area are the goals of field research projects this summer by the New Jersey State Museum. Personnel from the Bureau of Archaeology-Ethnology and the Bureau of Science will be

In a continuation of a major project begun last summer, Dr. Lorraine Williams and Anthony Puniello of the Bureau of Achaeology-Ethnology will head a study team seeking new information from excavation of Late Woodland Period (900-1700 AD) Indian campsites in the Upper Delaware Valley. This project is being conducted in cooperation with the National Park Service of the U.S. Department of the

Dr. Williams said one of the goals of the study is to determine more specifically the relationship between Indians of the area and other tribes living north and south of them. The fieldwork is being conducted by a crew of 25 college and graduate level archaeology

Also in the Upper Delaware Valley, personnel from the Museum's Science Bureau will be seeking new vertebrate and invertebrate fossil localities while surveying the populations of currently endangered species of amphibians, reptiles and mammals. In South Jersey, much of which was once covered by shallow seas, Museum paleontologists will be continuing their probe of 70 million-year-old Cretaceous marine deposits in search of significant vertebrate fossils. In recent years, according to Raymond J. Stein, curator of science, these deposits have yielded the remains of plesiosaurs and mosasaurs (ancient swimming reptiles) and prehistoric crocodiles. Every new discovery, Stein says, is like finding a piece that fits into an incredibly huge and complicated jigsaw puzzle of New

Governor is urged to halt Tocks dam

New Jersey's statewide citizens' environmental organization has called upon Gov. Brendan T. Byrne to take a firm stand against the Tocks Island dam because it would cost too much without adding any water supply, recreation or flood control benefits.

David F. Moore, executive director of the

New Jersey Conservation Foundation, urged the governor to oppose such a costly project at a time when capital funds are desperately needed for construction of housing, energy systems, sewers, mass transit and clean air and water facilities—"useful construction jobs," he declared, which "pay the same wages as make-work projects like the dam."

At the same time, Moore advocated furtherance of a projected national recreation area along the Delaware River "on a reduced "The prevailing shortage of capital funds," he asserted, "must mandate establishment of a system of priorities. Those priorities surely do not include construction of an artificial beach 70 miles from the Atlantic Ocean," far from the people who need it most.

May meat prices up 3.7 percent; other foods down

Prices paid by consumers for food purchased for home consumption rose .4 percent in May, reflecting a sharp 3.7 percent rise in the meats, poultry and fish component, according to Herbert Bienstock, the U.S. Department of Labor's assistant regional director for the Bureau of Labor Statistics who heads the BLS office in New York.

Higher average prices were reported in May for 25 of the 29 meat, poultry and fish items priced for the index. Dampening the effect of these increases were price drops for a number of other food items, particularly dried beans, eggs, sugar, milk and several fresh produce

The May rise brought the food-at-home index to 176.2 (1967-100). In other words, the area consumer now has to spend $176.20 to purchase the same grocery basket of about 90 items that cost $100.00 in the 1967 base period. Between April and May, 48 of the market basket items rose in price, 38 decreased and 5 remained unchanged.

The May increase was the largest monthly rise for the meats, poultry and fish index since August 1974 when it rose 4.0 percent. Almost two-thirds of the meats, poultry and fish index rise was due to higher beef prices. Beef cuts with sharp per-pound average price increases included round steak, up 13 cents; ground chuck, up 5 cents; rump roast, up 13 cents; chuck roast, up 8 cents; and porterhouse steak, up 21 cents. Higher pork prices were also reported, with pork chops up 8 cents a pound and bacon up 4 cents a pound. Frying chicken was up 3 cents a pound, and tuna fish rose 4 cents to 66 cents for a 6-1/2-ounce can.
