Bottoms Up, Streakers, Stingers win in softball

By JOYCE PINKAVA

Despite thunderstorms and wet grounds, Mountainside Womens' Softball League. Bottoms Up beat the Bod Squad, 8-5. In the first inning, Bottoms Up scored two runs on a single by Harriet Gerndt, a double by Kathy Weeks, a triple by Dory Miles and a double by Janice GaNun. Bod Squad came back in the top of the second inning with one run on a double by Penny Meilejohn and singles by Robin Sury, Jude Haseman and Trish Yurochko.

In the bottom of the third inning, Bottoms Up exploded for six runs. Alice Sury, Harriet Gerndt, Kathy Weeks, Dory Miles, Laurel Morse, Sue Faulkner, Carol Wood and Pattie Fernicola singled and Janice GaNun tripled to produce the runs.

The Bod Squad threatened in the fourth inning but an unassisted double play by Kathy Weeks snuffed out the rally.

In the sixth inning, the Bod Squad scored

Schools pledge affirmative action

The Mountainside Board of Education adopted a resolution of equal educational opportunity at the July 8 meeting and named William F. Hummel, principal, Beechwood School, as the affirmative action officer. The resolution stated:

"The Mountainside Board of Education affirms its responsibility to ensure all students in the public schools of Mountainside equa educational opportunity and all employees equal employment opportunity regardless of race, color, creed, religion, sex, ancestry, national origin and social or economic status To fulfill this responsibility, the board shall establish a program to review, and modify as may be necessary, its present school and classroom programs and employment-contract

Alice Viverdito doubled and had five singles and Kathy Brahm doubled and had six singles. Linda Parsons hit six singles. Ruth Wigg had five singles, Betsy Drummond four and Carol Kubjas three. Alice Viverdito and Carol Kubjus starred at second and short respectively.

The Echo Streakers beat the Mountainside Moms, 18-8. In the first inning, the Moms scored three runs on hits by Peggy Brahm, Elaine Ahloholm, Sandy Everly and Vicki Goldenberg. The Streakers scored two runs in that inning. After a double play by Vaughn Cushman and Elaine Ahloholm, Gail Rau singled and Ursy Hartman homored to deep right-center field,

In the second inning, the Moms scored four runs on singles by Lynn yon der Linden, Pat Kelk and Peggy Brahm and a double by Judy Crabtree. The Streakers scored three runs in that inning on singles by Paula Cloutier, Ruth Muttzenbach, Suzanne Piper, Joyce Pinkava, Shirley Palchik, Gail Rau and Ursy Hartman. In the third inning, the Streakers scored another run on a triple by Paula Cloutier and a single by Georgie Kreigsman.

In the fourth inning, the Moms scored their final runs on singles by Pat Kelk, Peggy Brahm, Judy Crabtree and Elaine Ahloholm. The Streakers scored six runs in the fourth to take the lead. JoAnn Sciarillo doubled and Paula Cloutier, Ruth Muttzenbach, Suzanne Piper, Joyce Pinkava, Shirley Palchik singled to produce the runs. The inning ended when Joan Kukan made a spectacular one-handed catch of a hard-hit line drive by Gail Rau.

For the Streakers, Joyce Pinkava had three singles and three RBI, Shirley Palchik had three singles and two RBI, Ursy Hartman had a home run and two singles and three RBI, JoAnne Sciarillo had a double and a single and three RBI, Paula Cloutier had a triple and three singles and Georgie Kreigsman had two singles and four RBI.

For the Moms, Peggy Brahm had three singles and one RBI and Judy Crabtree had three hits, including one double.

Board authorizes $2,035 to repair damage from flood

The Mountainside Board of Education cleared the way Tuesday night for work to begin on damage to the Deerfield School athletic field caused by recent floods and

The board voted 6-0 (Mrs. Gertrude Palmer was absent from the meeting) to approve a quotation of $2,035 submitted by William A. Parkhurst & Sons, Inc., to repair the Deerfield

Dr. Irvin Krause, board president, said, 'This has been a problem of long-standing in Mountainside. This is not the solution, but what we wanted to do, we couldn't. We have tried to go to the Borough Council, to Union County and to the state environmental commission, but have met with little success. This isn't the most satisfactory solution to the problem but it is high time something was done.'

The solution that was approved by the board includes an approximately nine foot wide sluiceway from the tennis courts and the ballfield at Deerfield School. The sluiceway, along with drainage aprons, all paved, should alleviate some of the problems. Dr. Krause said the board wanted to close in the ditch and pipe in water from problem areas in the field. But he said that his would mean changing the lirection of the water flow and the Board of Education cannot do that without proper

Mrs. Patricia Knodel and Charles Speth said they were worrried about cars using the sluiceway and questioned whether or not a larger safety hazzard would be created. On the recommendation of board attorney, Raymond O'Brien, the board voted to rescind payment to the Industrial Resurfacing Co., for work done at Deerfield School last year. Board Secretary John Mc Donough said he received a letter from the company that they would accept a check in the amount of $5,950 under protest because claims by the board that the contractor is liable for damage done to ceilings

MODERN TOM SAWYER?—Carol Wingard recently participated in a scout trip to the home of Tom Sawyer in Missouri and surrounding areas. Part of a national scout opportunity, the trip included visits to author Mark Twain's hometown of Hannibal and participation in the July Fourth festivities there. Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wingard of Mountainside.

Tom Sawyer renewal Carol Wingard on scout trip

Carol, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wingard of Mountainside, has just returned from two weeks in Missouri as part of "Becky Thatcher Beckons," a national Girl Scout

Carol was one of 60 Scouts from across the country who were selected from 500 applicants to be part of the event. She spent two weeks touring, among other places, Hannibal, the site of Mark Twain's boyhood home. There she saw the author's house, the cave where Becky and Tom were lost, and the home of Laura Hawkins (the "real life" Becky Thatcher). Carol also

One of the highlights of Carol's trip was her participation in the Fourth of July Tom Sawyer Days festivities, Carol and three other Scouts paddled a home-made raft down the Mississippi in a four-mile race. The girls were equipped with straw hats, overalls and corn cob pipes for the occasion. Carol reports that it was the nottest Fourth of July recorded in Hannibal, and very humid.

Carol says that she returns to Mountainside with many favorable impressions of the Midwest, "its clean towns, slower pace and friendly people." Of one small disappointment, Carol is emphatic: "I don't like catfish."

Carol has been a member of Washington Rock Girl Scout Council for seven years. She is a cadette scout in Troop 424, Mountainside, and is entering the ninth grade at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

Treatment of breast cancer advances from using pancakes to early detection

By DR. HENRY BIRNE Springfield Health Officer

Less than a century ago, cancer of the breast usually had to progress to the diagnosis of 'hard, caked, or swelled" before treatment would begin. The treatment would sometimes call for hot pancakes made of sour milk, wheat flour, and baking soda to be applied to the affected parts three times daily. This prescription, as the diplomas, were generally written in learned Latin.

Othertimes mashed turnips mixed with oil of roses under flannel compresses would be prescribed for twice a day application.

Or soap and whisky rub-ins with camphor, polecat oil, chamomile tea, and spearmint, would be the formula, When the disease was finally recognized as cancer, it still was not understood enough to predict the course. But doctors began to realize that cure lies closer to early detection than to surgery or chamomile tea. A "caked" or swelled portion, a node, nodule, an unfamiliar feel, began to find acceptance among physicians of the time as cause for quick investigation and actions other than by backwagon huckster remedies.

Now we recognize two vital modernisms. First, we know that cancer of the breast is the main cause of death due to cancer among women. Two, the disease has to be discovered early so that it may be stopped before spreading to other parts of the body.

The armpit nodes act as the first filters to the spread of breast cancer. If these nodes are free of cancer cells at the time of breast cancer diagnosis, the patient has a 75 percent chance of remaining alive after five years. Sixty-five percent of these patients are alive after 10

But once the cancer cells have spread to the armpit nodes at the time of diagnosis, the probability of patient survival to five years drops to about 50 percent. Only 25 percent of these patients will be alive after 10 years.

Statistics are tossed about. They rarely hit home. Health Departments tell people that an estimated 90,000 new cases will turn up in the United States this year. People feel down deep that it will always be the "other person." It is like the soldier entering battle. The probability of being hit by a bullet stays in the cold ab-

Self-identification with risk finally clashed against the parlor doors of every American family when the wives of the President and Vice-President were both stricken with breast cancer. The disease then became All-American public health.

For the past 60 years or more, surgery has been the main method of breast cancer treatment. This meant removal of the breast. the muscles underneath, and the armpit lymph nodes. More recently less tissues have sometimes been removed, but the relative benefit of this method still has to be evaluated.

Several different studies on the use of chemicals to control the disease shows encouraging evidence of holding the disease back and of tumor shrinkage. Experimental data in animals and clinical studies in humans show that a combination of surgery and of treatment with chemicals may provide a somewhat higher survival rate.

The majority of "lump" discoveries of the female breast turn out to be non-cancerous. Yet the breast is too frequently a primary site of generalized cancer, second only to the uterus. Early prevention of uterine cancer may be helped by the pap test. But early prevention of breat cancer depends mostly on selfexamination.

About 95 percent of breast abnormalities are found by women themselves. The home checkup, in the shower or bedroom, may not equal the physician's office, but it enables women to examine themselves routinely, when these women would likely not visit a doctor more than once or twice a year, if that.

For this reason the Summit Regional Health Department is now offering free instruction by film and plastic model, on how and what to look for in self-examination for breast cancer. People of Summit, New Providence, Berkeley Heights, and Springfield may call 277-6464 for an appointment. The demonstrations at 71 Summit ave., Summit, will be given on Tuesday mornings.

Wilson demands action on 2 bills for flood control

"People are sick of words. They want action on flood control," Assemblywoman Betty Wilson declared after touring flood sites in her district. "The same people are hit again and again. Their homes and loves are devastated by repeated incidents of flooding," Mrs. Wilson

"I visited homes where people have annual or even more frequent floods," the assemblywoman said. "These are not just occasional freak storms. They are becoming a terrible way of life. Our residents must not be forced to endure such hardships any longer," Mrs. Wilson declared,

"There is an urgent need for quick passage of two key bills that would establish flood control authorities in our area," the assemblywoman said in a telegram to the chairman of the Senate Energy, Agriculture and Environment Committee. Those bills, the Green Brook Flood Control bill and the Rahway River Flood Control bill sponsored by Assemblywoman Wilson and Assemblyman Joseph Garrubbo, have been held up in the Senate committee since February after unanimous passage in the

"Flood control authorities would provide inter-municipal and inter-county cooperation and action on flood prevention and flood control," explained Mrs. Wilson.

"The last two years have been full of rhetoric and lots of inaction," Assemblywoman Wilson charged, "and the delay has produced the inevitable-another costly, killing flood." "We cannot wait any longer for action on flood control," Mrs. Wilson's telegram concluded, to the needs of the county.' The freeholders also must coordinate flood control efforts on a county-wide basis, recognizing the multi-jurisdictional problems and the limitations of financial resources of the communities involved," he said.

Among other issues, Rosensweig noted, is "a comprehensive solid waste program consistent with present plans for utilizing available technology." He urged extending the life of present landfill sites "until the county can resolve the problem in the way that is least offensive to the communities involved, while keeping in mind the gravity of non-action in solving this serious situation.'

Housing needs also must be faced, he said, calling for "expanded programs to develop housing within the means of middle-income people and senior citizens as well as supplemental health and social services."

Under the charter mandate, he noted, county government can take over only those services which the individual municipalities agree to relinquish or which they do not provide or cannot afford, such as health services, air pollution control, computer services or pooling of equipment.

Looking toward state services, he said the state should assume the full cost of the court system and welfare administrative costs.

"The state should pay its fair share for government buildings in our county," he said. 'At present, it does not pay any compensation for public service.

Computers tighten county government's fiscal controls

Terms like "cash flow" and "in-line" are creeping their way into the vocabulary of Union County's top government officials as court house personnel gear themselves to a new way to conduct the county's daily business.

There are two nerve centers for the new management-oriented executives in the county's Elizabeth offices: the basement of the new annex where the computer center is housed and, two floors above, the offices of County Administrator George Albanese and his

Albanese took over his duties as county administrator last September and was quickly caught in the quagmire of budget preparation When the work on the budget was completed in March, he turned his attention to the longrange task of improving the county's management procedures

Proper papers helps to speed U.S. payments

According to Robert E. Willwerth, Social Security manager in Elizabeth, most people could shorten the time it takes to process a claim for Social Security benefits

'The local Social Security office is ready to assist anyone who does not have evidence readily available," he said. "For most people, the required papers can be brought to the Social Security office on the initial visit."

When you retire at 62 or 65, the following information is required: -Proof of age, birth or baptismal certificate or public record established early in life. -W-2 or tax return for 1974 and an estimate of your 1975 earnings

-Childen under 18 or between 18 and 22 need a birth certificate or baptismal certificate and their social security number.

-An itemized receipted funeral bill for the lump sum payments.

-Information about the deceased worker's earnings for the year before death and the current year if he was working. Remember, being prepared can get money in your hands quicker if you are qualified," said Willwerth. "However, if you do not have all the needed information and will have difficulty obtaining it, do not delay filing. The Social Security office can help you obtain the needed information and or proofs.

improvement, said Albanese. Through computers, he observed, "we can provide the freeholders and department heads with timely, accurate information for better decisions.

"The computer is a magnificent tool for analysis," said Joseph A. Ruoto III, who, with Arthur Grisi, assists Albanese in the big job of modernizing the administration of county government, particularly in the areas of financial management.

The computer, explained Ruoto, who worked for the Chase Manhattan Bank, Western Union and New York City's Human Resources Administration before being recruited by Albanese, keeps track of the expenditures of every county department. For instance, the computer's CRT (cathode ray tube) units can display at the press of a few buttons the total budget of a department, allocations for postage, telephone, salaries, etc.; amount spent so far in the budget year in each of these sub-categories; balance remaining in each sub-category; and percentage of budget remaining. The television-like screens of the CRT units aren't wide enough for all the categories, so they're available in print-out form on paper when needed.

The computer also keeps tabs on the county's income, according to Grisi, who compiled a detailed accounting of Middlesex County's tax ratables when he worked for that county's government in New Brunswick. He's doing the same for Union County.

Grisi and Ruoto are also charged with explaining to the county department heads how to make best use of the computer's capabilities. Many of the county's executives are unfamiliar with computer techniques and modern management science, so Albanese has instituted a series of workshops, funded by the federal government, to improve the department heads' understanding of management, Albanese needs the help of the department heads so he can have the data to feed into the computer. When budget time comes around next season, the computer will be used to analyze the needs of each department. It's expected to save plenty of man-hours in that area alone. Already, Grisi and Ruoto are projecting future budgets with the help of computer analysis.

Computer center chief James Delaney and his staff of programmers, housed in cramped but carpeted quarters in the new annex basement, are eagerly looking for more work. "We're not nearly utilizing the computer to its full capacity," said Grisi

"WE'RE THE FIRST COUNTY in the state to put our general ledger on computer," said Freeholder Harold Seymour of Cranford, chairman of the board's finance and data processing committees.

"The computer keeps us posted daily on the expenditures of our departments. It allows real tight fiscal control. We're going to be operating like a corporation," said Seymour.

The county pays $16,000 a month to the Burroughs Corp. for the leasing of the computer system. That money will be applicable to purchase of the system.. To help defray the costs of the computer, said Seymour, the county will invite municipalities to make use of the system. Rather than contract with banks to

Rain over 4 days hit 9.95 inches

For four days and four nights, it poured over the Central Jersey area, breaking records established even during the August 1973 floods, it was reported this week by Prof. Patrick White of Union College's Meteorological Station, a cooperative station of the U.S. Weather Bureau.

A total of 9.95 inches of rain fell between Saturday, July 12, at 5 p.m. and Wednesday, July 16, at 9 a.m. "An average rainfall for an entire month of July totals only 5.39 inches,"

Typing course offered by UC

A two-week mini-typing course for beginners and those who want to refresh their skills will be offered in early August by Union College's Department of Community Services, it was ted this week by Miss Maurine Dooley coordinator.

The course will be conducted two hours per day, Monday through Thursday, beginning Aug. 4 and continuing through Aug. 14. Classes be held at Union College's Urban Educational Center in Elizabeth from 9 until 11

"Many people could find this mini-course helpful in developing basic typing skills or in brushing up old ones," Miss Dooley said. "With school re-opening in September, many students might also benefit by taking it."

Mrs. Christine Haun, who holds a master's degree in business administration and is a business education teacher, will conduct the

THE COMPUTER has also been a big help to James Carlin, the county's personnel manager. With the computer, Carlin can keep track of employee-related expenses and other personnel matters. Carlin is also busy improving procedures through management techniques and is also preparing an affirmative action plan for the hiring of county workers. Such a plan will insure that the county will not discriminate in its hiring policies and also improve the diversity of its employees.

Albanese has received the full support of the freeholders in his efforts to improve the operations of county government. Freeholder Seymour, said Albanese, has been particularly helpful in establishing the computer center And all the freeholders, he observed, have impressed upon department heads the necessity for more detailed and accurate record-keeping. Only by controlling the financial management of the county, the freeholders believe, can county government efficiently serve its citizens.

Albanese has worked for Union County since the late 1960s, first as a member of the planning board staff, then as director of criminal justice planning until his appointment as county administrator last September,

The county administrator joined the planning board soon after receiving his bachelor's degree in urban planning from Rutgers University. While working for the planning board he began parttime studies at New York University's School of Public Administration, where he earned a master's in 1972 with a concentration in government budgeting, finance and metropolitan government. The demands of the county job, where he puts in a 50-plus hour week, prevent him from going for his doctorate.

The county administrator would like to see the day come when the four main levels of government-federal, state, county and municipal—do the jobs best suited for them. County government, he believes, can provide essential services for its citizens by taking advantage of "the economies of scale." But prior to any expansion of county government's activities there must be a restructuring of how it functions.

"Before we can grow," said Albanese, "we've got to make what we have more ef-ficient." Through computers and mode, n management techniques. Albanese and his staff have taken a giant step in changing the character and operation of county government

BUYING WISELY

From Better Business Bureau anof Metropolitan New York, Inc., Dear Larrie:

I put a $30 down payment on a chandelier for my dining room and had planned to pay this off on a weekly basis. A problem arose when my new dining room set was delivered. I then realized the chandelier I had on layaway would definitely not fit in with the new dining room table. I returned to the store and asked for a refund. The manager refused to refund my $30, saying that it is a store policy that no refunds be made on lay -away items. Larrie, I don't recall the manager saying anything about his store's no-refund policy nor was it noted on the receipt I held. Is it right for this store to keep my without first informing me of my

DISTURBED

Dear Disturbed: No. The store should be subject to civil penalties under the Truth in Lending Act. Regulation Z of this act states that unless the seller makes perfectly clear on the lay-away agreement and on subsequent payment receipts that there will be "no refund," he is obligated to cancel the contract and return all monies at the request of the buyer.

Larrie O'Farrell, Better Business Bureau

I went to a pet shop to purchase a St. Bernard dog and feel the behavior of the proprietor was strange. After looking over several St. Bernard puppies, I saw one that I wanted. While the paper transaction was being taken care of, I asked the proprietor for a record of the vaccinations that had been given to the dog. All he would say was that the dog had been given all the necessary shots and that I needn't worry about a thing. He said I couldn't find a healthier. dog anywhere else. I felt so uneasy with this explanation, that I told him I had a change of heart, and didn't want to purchase the dog after all. Wasn't I entitled to have such information about a puppy I was going to pay $200 for? BACKGROUND

Dear Background: You were entitled to such information. The. purchaser of a dog or cat must be given information about all vaccinations and worming which have been administered as well as a recommendation that the purchaser see a veterinarian for a follow-up examination.

dealer that delivery would be in one month. Four months have now gone by without any definite indication from the dealer when delivery will be made. Is there anything I can do to move things along?

Interminable Wait Dear Interminable:

No. When a car is being ordered from the factory remember that the date you are given for delivery is no more than an estimate. A verbal promise of delivery on or before a specific date is generally not binding unless it is made a part of the written agreement.

A well-planned adult community, one which is big enough to support a complete recreational program and not too large to place an inordinate demand on those facilities, is an ideal active community. A prime example of this is the Villages, the 671unit adult condominium colony in Howell Township. Being developed by Hovbilt Inc., on rolling countryside off Wycoff road and Rt. 9, about four miles south of the Freehold Raceway Circle, the Villages is large enough to support a fully air-conditioned and heated clubhouse, a pitch

Even more important is the fact that the people are ac-tive-not the fact that there are activity facilities.

"We are a community which is involved," explains Bernie Garfield, recreation coordinator. "You can have all the amenities in the world, but if they are not used, it's a waste.

Active name of the game at Howell Twp. Villages

Residents at the Villages, who must be at least 52 years old and who pay anywhere from $28,500 to $36,500 for their homes, are indeed active. There are about 550 families at the community engaged in diverse activities.

The swimming pool has a patio and gym with sauna men's dressing area with showers and women's dressing room with lounge and showers. And the golf course and shuffleboard is always being used. Now a bocci court has been opened. Another active area is the barbecue area overlooking the river. But activities are not confined to recreational facilities. Villagers put on an art show at the Club House of the arts and crafts which they have created. There was a Recognition Night at which volunteer workers were honored.

A free show night featured the Show Biz Kids, a group of variety performers from 6 to 60 from Lakewood.

Dancing is extremely popular with Villagers and there's always dancing on weekends. Group dancing is on Friday nights; Sunday nights there's informal dancing. Saturdays are special dancing nights or show nights. Now that warm weather is here, dancing under the stars by poolside is popular.

We have discussion groups which meet monthly, as well as singles who meet monthly and a classical film program which meets one Saturday evening each month for such cinematic greats as "The 39 Steps," "The Blue Angel," etc.," explains Mrs. Garfield. Arts Center site for Scandinavian Festival Sept. 6

The Scandinavian-American Festival '75 will be held Saturday, Sept. 6, at the Garden State Arts Center, Holmdel.

The festivities will begin at 1 p.m. with a full afternoon of outdoor activities followed by a stage program at 8 p.m. featuring Myron Floren, accordionist with the Lawrence Welk Orchestra, and introductions by Gunilla Knutson, TV commercial actress,

Clifford Sjursen of Fanwood, chairman of the afternoon program, has announced that the raising of the colorful flags of all five participating nationalities will signal the start of the second Scandinavian-American festival

Among the events scheduled are a soccer game between the Danish Athletic Club and the crew from the Norwegian training ship "Christian Radich," a woman's team handball game with the Scandinavian Handball Team opposing Adelphi College of Long Island, trampoline performances, music by roving bands of troubadors and traditional folk dances by metropolitan area senior and junior groups

Concurrently, under a hugh mall tent. exhibits will display Scandinavian arts and crafts ranging from contemporary art by talented artists or Nordic heritage to the legacy of Viking lore. In keeping with the theme of America's Bicentennial celebration, all Americans of Scandinavian background are invited to participate in the afternoon program; aspiring musicians, costumed dance groups and gifted individuals with unique hobbies. Space also have been provided for the various Scandinavian fraternities to promote their organizations. Sjursen can be contacted directly or through the Garden State Parkway,

Pick Of The LPs...THE DEADLY NIGHT-SHADE (PHANTOM RECORDS BPL1-0955B) Here's an LP by three talented girls-Helen Hooke, Anne Bowen and Montclair's Pamela Brant—that you'll want to keep in readiness on the turntable for many replays. Numbers composed by the trio include: "Keep On The '.''High Flying Woman,'' "Losin' At Love," "Someone Down In Nashville," "Nose Job," "Sweet, Sweet Music," "I Sent My Soul To The Laundromat," "Shuffle," "Dance, Mr. Big, Dance," "Blue Mountain Hornpipe" and

There is nothing deadly about "The Deadly Nightshade." "Good time" is what they call their music, and a good time it is for audience and performers alike. Quite simply, they love music, all music, in all its many moodsranging from 50s rock to country to "a little number for the Muzak machine." Every song is delivered with the expansive good humor

The group's versatility reflects the varied musical backgrounds and tastes of its members. After their first childhood piano lessons, each took a different direction. Pamela was a musical comedy fan who wanted to be Ethel Merman but settled for folk and classical guitar until, at Mt. Holyoke College someone 'plugged her in.'' Today she plays solid electric bass "as though shooting from the hip" and delivers vocals in the same gutsy style.

Helen, lead guitarist, grew up in Rochester, N.Y., combining classical studies at the Eastman School of Music with an incurable addiction to the Beatles and electric guitar. She doubles on electric violin, eliciting from a $12 fiddle sounds that leave audiences gasping and dancers exhausted. Anne, is the group's rhythm guitarist, peruession from tambourine to Appalachian dancing doll. Like Brandt and Hooke, she does solo vocals and joins them in vocal ensemble. In the spring of 1972, they became "The Deadly Nighshade," and have been playing to increasingly enthusiastic audiences ever since.

FOR HEALTH Creative dramatics has opened doors for children born with a cleft lip and palate. Because the handicap usually makes speech difficult, the children generally show weaknesses in tests of verbal and gestural expression; but after an eight-month program of creative dramatics. children improved greatly in their ability to express themselves. Initially, the three to sixyear-olds were shy and with-drawn "watchers." By the fourth month of the weekly, two-hour sessions, they were working and talking together and depending less and less upon the leader. As they relaxed in the permissive atmosphere of the class, the children participated and spoke more and more. At the same time, their language improved. Instead of short phrases, mostly commands, they used longer and more complicated sentences. By the time they began enacting their own fantasy stories, in the fifth month, their speech became more expressive. During the last two months, the children wanted to act out their own stories almost exclusively. Their plays revealed their inner fears, conflicts, and compassions in fascinating

Alligators, crocodiles, gorillas, and monsters that devoured their victims were main characters in the children's plays. These themes of oral aggression as well as others of bodily injury constantly recurred.

Because these children all had undergone surgery to correct their condition, it was not surprising that hospital scenes, too, were enacted often. Children portrayed animals or people who needed treatment or helpful physicians and nurses. They seemed able to view the hospital situation both from the patient and staff positions. Engrossed in their plays, the children revealed their inner thoughts. One boy disclosed his strong, but hidden fear of the ether mask. He rushed over to another child who was portraying a doctor applying an oxygen mask to a patient, grabbed the mask, and yelled angrily, You're noing to do that to him like you did to me. Later, he said, "That thing chokes you to death." His mother explained that she felt that his 'dread of additional needed surgery had roots in a previous frightening experience in the hospital, but he had not been able to explain his fear previously Caught up in the excitement of drama, he vividly acted out his fear.

Thus, drama not only improved the children's ability to express themselves through speech and gesture, but also provided therapists and parents with a window to each child's hidden feelings.

The drama therapy program for children with cleft lip and palate at the University of Pittsburgh Cleft Palate Center receives support from NIH's National Institute of Dental Research. Members of the staff were so pleased with the outcome of their program, that they want to extend it to children with other handicaps as well.

Gross pay gets tax aid

Gross weekly earnings of factory production workers in the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area rose $1.07 or 0.6 percent to 184.51 in May, according to Herbert Bienstock, the U.S. Department of Labor's assistant regional director for the Bureau of abor Statistics, who heads the BLS office in New York. Tuesday, Aug. 19.

Purchasing power (average weekly earnings adjusted for ederal income and social security taxes applicable to a married worker with three lependents as well as changes in the Consumer Price Index) rose sharply by 4.0 percent over the month.

The increase was primarily the result of tax cuts contained in the Tax Reduction Act of 1975; new withholding rates became effective on May 1: The May average weekly earning rise entirely reflected a four-cent increase in average hourly earnings to 14.78; the eyerage workweek dipped six minutes to 38.6

Interstate 287 is a route that runs through suburban areas of New York and New Jersey north and west of New York City. The Morristown link was completed in late 1974 by the New Jersey Department of Transportation.

Alan Sagner, head of the New Jersey Department of Transportation and a member of the Tri-State Commission, said that the completion of I-287 in Morristown represented the type of highway construction that makes sense for the 1970s. "We shouldn't have an embargo on highway

World Trade Center, New York, N.Y. 10048. Report by USDA on egg marketing sees demand up

Demands for eggs in the first half of calendar 1976 will likely be a little stronger than a year earlier because of increasing real disposable consumer incomes, higher employment and smaller supplies of pork and turkeys. Eggs will face more competition, however, from beef and broilers. These views are contained in the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) publication Egg Marketing Facts-First Half 1976, released this week. As stated in the report, other prospects concerning the egg industry the first half of

-Costs of producing eggs will hinge largely on the outcome of this year's corn and soybean crop. These crops supply the major feed ingredients and are used in large quantities by the egg industry. Other production costs, as well as those for processing and marketing, will also be greater.

-A further reduction in flock size during the second half of 1975 will significantly affect egg production in the first half of next year. The laying flock on Jan. 1 will likely be about three percent smaller than a year earlier. However, reduced culling and increased force molting could keep the flock from decreasing as much as indicated

Recenlty, in organizing representatives from community planning boards for a citizen's participation workshop in water quality, I became aware of just how great this problem is "They're talking a different language," many board members complained regarding presentations by environmenta hearing officers, as well as industry and municipal representatives. "We have such a helpless feeling at these sessions." "We have to wear so many hats!" There is simply a great need for community laymen to have professional help, someone as much a communicator as a scientist, someone who can help them wade through the volumes of technical information and come out the other side with some understanding. Someone who can help community boards advocate projects, not simply turn projects down. If we are going to achieve improvement in community design and planning overall, community boards require the greater efficiency which can result from the presence of professional expertise on issues.

School lunch amendment by Sen. Case gets OK sponsored by Sen Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) to the National School Lunch Act and Child Nutrition Act of 1966 which regulates vending machines competing with the school lunch program.

The amendment restores to the agriculture department the authority to regulate "competitive foods" in the school lunchroom. It includes the admonition of Congress that empty calories or junk foods should not be sold in schools participating in the school lunch program. It also creates a new section in the National School Lunch Act aimed at providing assistance to schools for programs of nutrition

The Case amendment does not ban vending machines, but it does regulate what may be sold in them. Case said he believes that soda, candy and cake sold in some school vending machines are not consistent with the purpose of the school lunch program.

He said he hopes that House and Senate conferees will agree to include his amendment in the final version of the legislation,

"This amendment will go a long way to assure that the federal dollars spent in our school nutrition programs are actually providing the best possible nutrition for the children of our country," said the senator.

Sunday dinner costs 13c more

The cost of preparing a Sunday roast beef dinner for a family of four in the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area rose 13 cents (1.5 percent) in May to $8.78, according to Herbert Bienstock, the U.S. Department of Labor's assistant regional director for the Bureau of Labor Statistics, who heads the BLS office in New York. The increase largely reflected a sharp 21-cent increase in the price of the three-pound rib roast entree. Its effect was dampened by lower prices for other dinner items, particularly fresh produce

The same dinner, which includes an appetizer, entree, vegetables, tossed salad dessert, beverages and bread and butter, with chicken served as an entree, inched up one-cent to $5.87 in May. The three-pound chicken entree rose nine cents in May; fruit cocktail, served as an appetizer; potatoes; butter; and the Italian dressing used on the tossed salad, each rose one cent. Onions in the tossed salad rose three cents and lettuce was up two cents.

Largely offsetting these increases were lower prices for other salad ingredients cucumbers, down 10 cents, and tomatoes and green peppers, each down one cent. Also down in May were prices for ice cream, cookies and

New regulations to protect patrons of carnival rides

Owners of amusement rides across New Jersey have been apprised of new state rules and regulations which must be observed at their facilities, William J. Clark, assistant commissioner for labor relations and workplace standards, N.J. Department of Labor and Industry, reported this week.

Clark said he and Department Commissioner Joseph A. Hoffman met with a number of owners and operators in Trenton to discuss new laws that went into effect last month under provisions of the Carnival-Amusement Rides Safety Act, Chapter 105 of the Laws of 1975 (c. 5:3-31 et seq.).

"This emergency legislation works for the public benefit," he added. "It is aimed at promoting maximum safety for those who patronize the rides at the various amusements parks and carnivals.

As the enforcement agency of the legislation, the department is responsible for inspecting and licensing all amusement rides in New Jersey and thus has the authority to shut down those installations it considers hazardous or

DAV to promote Bicentennial fund

WASHINGTON, D.C.-The Disabled American Veterans (DAV) has joined with the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) in a national effort to raise money to help fund local, state and national Bicentennial projects, programs and events. This is the first national service organization to implement a Bicentennial project of this magnitude.

"Your Money Comes Marching Home" is the theme of the DAV's door-to-door campaign to sell the official 1975 Bicentennial silver commemorative medal and stamp-medal combination (Philatelic-Numismatic Combination) for two months this fall. Net revenues from the sales are used to support Bicentennial projects and programs throughout the nation.

John W. Warner, Administrator of ARBA, expressed pleasure and appreciation for the DAV efforts: "It is magnificent that so many veterans who have already given so much for their country are volunteering again to undertake this important nationwide project in support of our Bicentennial."

Special anthems, oratorio offered for Bicentennial

Four new anthems and a major oratorio, commissioned by Princeton Theological Seminary, the Bryn Mawr (Pennsylvania) Presbyterian Church and the Brick Presbyterian Church in New York City, are now available for congregations and other groups planning Bicentennial celebrations.

The works were sponsored in conjunction with an anthem-writing contest, announced earlier, designed to provide new musical resources for churches to use in honoring the religious heritage of the nation.

Composer Howard Hanson, long-time director of the Eastman School of Music, has called his oratorio "New Land, New Covenant—Man and the Spirit in '76." The text was compiled by Howard Kee, who is Rufus Jones Professor of the History of Religion at Bryn Mawr College.

The work "celebrates the eternal struggle of man to fulfill his God-given potential, the idealism embodied in the settlement of America and the creation of our political institutions, and the need for continuing renewal of our faith and purpose under God.

Included in the text are portions of the Scriptures, writings from colonial America, 17th and 18th century hymns and the poetry of T. S. Eliot. Premier performances are scheduled for New York City, Bryn Mawr and Princeton in May 1976. Detailed information and sample copies of

I've been engaged to Warren for six months and am already thinking of breaking the engagement. We do have many things in common but Warren has one trait I can't stand. He never looks on the bright side of anything. If we plan a picnic, he will predict rain. If I suggest the beach, he says it is apt to be foggy or that there will be too much traffic on the freeway.

Warren even carries this pessimistic trait to our friends. As an example: My best friend got a much better job and was very pleased and enthusiastic. She asked me to go to lunch the next day to celebrate. Warren said. "Better not celebrate until you've been there six months. You might get fired!"

I find this behavior offensive. What can I say to

The new round of study for the grading system, designed for the coming school year, had been scheduled even before Tuesday's meeting, which was attended by more than 50 persons, most of them interested and highly vocal students from the high schools.

The meeting was conducted by Sonya Dorsky of Springfield, education committee chairman, with a detailed explanation of the proposal by Dr. Martin Siegel, director of instruction. Dr Siegel heads a committee of administrators, teachers, parents and students who have been working on the guidelines since March.

Most of the objections, from board members and students, centered on three aspects of the plan: the exact procedure for determining a minimum passing grade, a mandatory final examination or projects in each course and options for students to take many courses on a pass-fail basis.

The following grades are outlined: 4.0, superior; 3.5; 3.0, above average; 2.5; 2.0, average; 1.5; 1.0; below average, and the minimum passing grade, 0.5, best described as unsatisfactory but not outright failure, and 0.0,

Under the plan, a student receiving an 0.0. or failing grade in the last marking period must fail the course, regardless of marks in earlier

The report stated, "A final examination, product or project is required in all subjects except physical education." It added, "Each coordinator, on a district-wide basis, will determine by course whether an exam, product or project is required." The exam or project will count for one-seventh of the total grade.

The pass-fail option is designed "to encourage the student to explore the curriculum more freely, particularly in areas in which he has less aptitude." It applies to all courses

For Walter E. Ulrich, Republican incumbent seeking a fourth three-year term on the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, "the major campaign issues would appear to evolve around our economy and the concern of our citizens as to their future employment and ability to meet their daily expenses."

Discussing problems of economy on the county level, Ulrich noted, "It is, and has been, of major importance that county government be operated as efficiently, effectively and economically as is possible. The experience, honesty and integrity of those seeking public office is imperative.

"The major challenge to be faced by county government," he continued, "is the proper implementation of the new form of county government mandated by public referendum.

"With reference to the rendering of services most efficiently conducted at the county level, in lieu of either state or municipal operations, it would appear at this time that our best services are being rendered in the areas of health and social services, mental health, aging, drug prevention, youth services, solid waste, flood control and the like. Bicyclist, 11, hurt in collision with car at intersection

A 13-year-old Springfield boy was injured last Thursday morning when his bicycle reportedly collided with an automobile at the intersection of Morris and Warner avenues.

Police said George Pittenger of S. Maple avenue was riding east on Morris at 8:52 a.m. when he reportedly cut in front of an eastbound car, operated by Frank V. Ocello, 50, of Summit. The boy was taken to Overlook Hospital by the Springfield First Aid Squad for treatment of arm and leg injuries. No charges were filed against Ocello.

On July 23, a three-car crash occurred at the intersection of Morris avenue and Caldwell place, but all drivers escaped unhurt.

According to police, Anthony D. Chirichello, 18, of Caldwell place, was driving east on Morris at 11:15 a.m. when he made a left turn in front of a westbound auto, operated by Linda Cohen, 34, of Livingston. Their vehicles collided, and Chirichello's then struck another, driven by Carol Carlucci, 19, of Newark, which was waiting to pull out of a driveway

Irish and Appalachian music enjoyed by pool day campers

As the fourth week of day camp progresses at the Springfield Municipal Pool, children en-tering the third and fourth grades have been involved in such varied experiences as artistic and musical endeavors, games and sports.

From the patio area, strains of Irish folk tunes and Appalachian Mountain blue grass music could be heard. Participating in the music and the exploration of folk and square dance patterns were Rebecca Gabbai, Thea Winarsky, Stephanie Seifert, Shawna Dee Quatrone and Dara Morris.

Creating their own designs, Scott Prager, Anthony Romano, Alan Souza, Robert Grossman and Hal Levine engraved, inked and pressed foam blocks onto paper. The results were original birthday cards.

Ann Schwartz, Allison Keehn, Lauren Schwartz, Jennifer Weinberg, Nicole Jonas and Kara Scheinman made jewelry, using coiled, braided and macramed wire. A future project will be the use of string in the creation of traditional macrame items

The art of sand casting was investigated by Michael Gleicher, Scott Prager, Frank Romano and Eric Tesse. The process involves pouring plaster of paris over designs made in wet sand. When the plaster dries, the children

Amid bankrupcy threat, financial crisis, 'Garbage Power' provokes panic, action

Springfield health officer Political chess is a game with many kings. But it teaches more about health and environment than you can imagine. In New York City, Dr. Bellin, city health commissioner, discovered how "Garbage Power" in political chess provokes its own royal priorities. When the garbage piled up, City Hall called the sanitation men back to work. But the police were still left holding their pink slips.

The chess moves seemed to show that garbage is more important than crime. Maybe this will come to mean a new epidemic of television shows, a new prime-time horror-a city garbage menace. Or a disaster movie call the Towering Can.

Maybe the answer is that garbage is tied to human mass health more than street muggings. If this is the reason for Garbage Power then perhaps the solution is healthy. The sight of garbage building up on a street, in multiples of cans, bags, exploded paper, expanding like bacterial colonies, panics the public. The sight and smells do funny things to decision-makers. They suddenly find new ways to find money to solve the problem.

All government likes to hold secret insurance against disaster. But New Jersey still has to show its cache. Our state administration has cancelled $4.3 million in health aid to the municipalities. Health has been cut, transportation, education, health care institutions. Nobody is alone. But seeing health departments scratched from a funding and support that had long been built into law, hits like a strike of bood-banks. Transportation and education are certainly vital. But have you ever tried sending a sick child to school, even in a state subsidized train?

The relatively small $4.3 million of State Health Aid has always been anemic enough for the need. Every penny had been converted to muscle. The money was constantly watched, audited. The dollars were tightly allowed for spending under guidelines like commandments in rock. The money was then evaluated for effect. It was audited again, argued over. Every squeezed and sweated penny

In cancelling the state health aid the state administration also busted its contract with the municipalities. The contract was set by approval of the aid application under which personnel and programs had to be guaranteed by the municipality in order to obtain the

Then again the state health aid act had been passed by the Assembly and Senate. Unilateral cancellation of that law, as any law, for any reason compelled either by an executive or legislative compulsion that both ignores and violates the legislative process, is just a plain hot illegality iwth the flavor of a power duel in a hungry new world.

THE CANCELLATION of state health aid now also forces local health departments to violate their own health laws, those hard mandates given local health departments by the state. The mandates lie in the Minimum Standards of Performance, a set of laws provided by the Public Health Council in 1959, which have since been the basis for nearly all subsequent legislative health and environmental activity.

Now that State Health Aid is cancelled it would be impossible for any local health department, unless subsidized by local taxes, to continue in the manner demanded by state law. All health departments, including the State of New Jersey, would now be in violation in such areas as air and water pollution control, venereal disease, inspection of food establishments, sanitary control of bathing places, food poisoning controls, housing, insect and rodent control; communicable disease prevention against typhoid, encephalitis, polio, tuberculosis, measles, diptheria, hepatitis, and many others; drinking water inspections, occupational health, sewage disposal, ragweed and polson ivy eradication, radiation protection, drug abuse, solid waste disposal, stream pollution, dental health, maternal and child health, rabies control, mental health, nutrition, health education, chronic illness, safety, and other life-lines between blood, law, money and the unforgetable victim.

Anybody who has ever worked on a budget knows about priority. Any housewife with tight funds will buy whatever would be most necessary to, first of all, keep the family healthy. Ask the housewife, what comes first?

Triage is another way of priority. Here, the bandages are limited. The need is great. There is no fat to trim. Political machismo goes away when the sad choices must be made, of who to neglect first. New Hard rules have to be made. They can never be good because they are set by broken laws and torn contracts, down to the opportunity to vote their support or non-support

There is much confusion in people's minds regarding this legislation. Most citizens and most legislators are in favor of women's rights and so they think that they should support the amendment. I, too, strongly support women's rights and, in fact, am a member of Feminists For Life, but I would urge every voter in New Jersey to vote against the ERA amendment in November, for the following reasons

Women have already achieved all that they want in the way of employment rights by means of the Equal Opportunity Act of 1972. The education amendments of 1972 as implemented by the HEW regulations of 1974 give women everything we want and need in education, and the passage of the Depository Institutions Act of 1974 provides women with the same credit rights as men.

But what the ERA will give women (and men) is the permanent legalization of abortion and homosexuality, and what on earth do they have to do with legitimate women's rights? Once ratified, the Equal Rights Amendment will repeal all and every kind of anti-abortion law we still now have, and will prevent the enactment of any anti-abortion law in the

As the law stands now in this country, abortion is still only a "Supreme Court right" and can still be contested; but, once ratified, ERA will make abortion-on-demand a con stitutional right Furthermore, passage of this amendment will guarantee the legalization of homosexual "marriages" and grant them the legal rights of husbands and wives. Is this the kind of society you want to live in?

There is immense funding from the Rockefeller Foundation and Playboy Magazine to push passage of the ERA, but your votes can stop its ratification and I urge every voter in New Jersey to do just that in November.

We will not be jaded by past experience on the board. I believe in innovative programs. My life style and career have been people-oriented. County government, as all government, must, of necessity, be people oriented."

Mrs. Perselay, a graduate of Elizabeth's Battin High School, received a bachelor of arts degree from Upsala College in 1951. She also studied at the New School for Social Research in New York City and the New York University School of Social Work.

She joined the Union County Welfare Board as a case worker in 1969. In 1973 and 1974 she was assistant director and coordinator of Essex County's Senior Volunteer Program.

Her volunteer work has included service with the American Association of University Women: board membership of the Berkeley Heights United Fund, which she served as treasurer in 1962-64; a block captaincy and the 1970, 1971 and 1972 Muscular Dystrophy campaigns; the co-chairmanship of the Berkeley Heights March of Dimes campaign from 1960 to 1962; advertising journal chair man for the 1972 ball of the Opera Theater of New Jersey, and co-founder of the Berkeley Heights chapter of Deborah.

Mrs. Perselay, a former Democratic county committeewoman, and her husband George, a Westfield attorney, live in Summit. They are the parents of three children: Geoffrey Scott, 22, a Hobart College graduate; Cathie Sue, 20, a student at Wheaton College, Norton, Mass., and Michael Bryan, 13.

Realtor attends RELO meeting

Better service to a growing number of transferees moving from one city to another for business reasons was the prime focus of three days, Westfield Realtor Nancy Reynolds has reported after attending the annual midyear meeting and national educational conference of RELO-Inter-City Relocation Service members in New Orleans.

"RELO members assisted 16 percent more families during June 1975, compared with June 1974," she said. Over 400 leading real estate brokers and sales associates from this country and overseas attended the meeting. Miss Reynolds moderated a panel on advertising.

Many communities in my district suffered severe flood damage as a result of recent heavy rains. Unfortunately, this situation is nothing new. Floods are a recurring problem that will not be solved until we establish regional flood control authorities with the power and the noney to develop and implement adequate flood control programs.

In the meantime, several government and other agencies do provide services to flood

-The local Red Cross will provide aid in relocating people whose homes were destroyed or badly damaged.

-The County Welfare Board and the County Civil Defense Office can provide help and useful information.

-The New Jersey Small Business Administration can grant loans at reduced interest rates to repair flood damage to homes. personal property and businesses in federally declared disaster areas. The governor has applied to the President, who has now officially declared New Jersey a disaster area.

-All flood losses in excess of $100 and in excess of insurance reimbursement are deductible on your 1975 federal income tax return. You should take photographs to document the extent of damage incurred

-Federally subsidized flood insurance now available through commercial channels or residents of municipalities in my district.

While the information I have listed may prove helpful to flood victims, a permanent solution, in the form of flood control, is what we really need. I have introduced legislation to establish a regional flood control authority for the Green Brook sub basin and have cospon sored Assemblyman Joseph Garrubbo's bill to create a similar authority for the Rahway

These bills have passed the Assembly and are now in Senate committee. I have been working very hard to get these bills out of committee and passed in the Senate. I have been assured that the governor will sign them vhen they reach his desk.

Flood waters cross municipal and county boundaries. A regional approach is necessary if we are ever to get out from under the constant threats of floods. We simply cannot wait any longer. Flood control legislation must be enacted and implemented immediately

Future king studies at Union College

A Union College student will one day reign as a king in Africa. Among the criminal justice majors is Prince Omoshola, who will become king of Owo-Ondo Province in Nigeria when his father, Chief Omoshola, dies. At the request of his government, the prince is studying the American judicial system with the hope of eventually returning home with a system tailored to meet the needs of his people who want "the modern way."

Prince Omoshola came to the United States four years ago when he was commissioned to study food processing technology at Farmingdale Community College in Long Island. His plans were changed and criminal justice became his new major. He investigated programs in the area and was referred to Union College's. The prince is presently living in Plainfield with his wife and four of his seven children and attending the main Cranford

'The modern way," which Prince Omoshola hopes to bring home to his native people, means equal justice for the poor as well as the rich, something which does not exist today. He sees in Nigeria what he calls "misplacements of justice" which place extra burdens on the poor in areas such as taxation and housing. "The modern way" also includes signs of growing industry with seaports, factories and cities dotting the landscape, which all add up to greater progress, the prince believes. He also hopes to build more hospitals, clinics, schools and homes

The people need more facilities in order to help themselves," Prince Omoshola said.

What "the modern way" does not include, however, is the abandonment of his country's custom of allowing men to have as many as 60 wives. In the United States, he has only one, who is also a native of Nigeria, but once he returns home, the prince hopes to keep about

"It's surprising American law does not permit me to have as many wives as I want," the prince commented. "In Africa, to be a husband is a big thing. He is looked upon as taking on a big responsibility. Women worship their husbands there as gods and whatever they own they give to their husbands.

Prince Omoshola believes his present wife might prefer to be his only one as a result of her experience in the United States, but he believes his country's tradition is stronger.

"It's difficult for Americans to understand this aspect of our culture but this is how both my wife and I were raised," Prince Omoshola

Contrary to his expectations, Prince Omoshola's experience with American blacks has been favorable. He had heard they would be hostile but discovered this was not the case

"The first American black I met was when stepped off the plane at Kennedy Airport four years ago and was lost," the prince recalls. 'He took me to his home where I spent the night and he brought me to the Nigerian Embassy the next morning.'

Prince Omoshola suggests that American blacks visit Africa in order "to find out what it's all about." As heir to the largest province in Nigeria, the prince has much to show visitors, including the palace his father built which houses over 480 people. "I will return home with many American ways which are attractive to us," the prince commented. "And what better way to increase knowledge and understanding than by having

GOP announces campaign leaders

State Senator Peter J. McDonough and Union County Surrogate Mary C. Kanane will serve as co-managers of the Republican freeholders election campaign this year.

Carmel Jordan of Union will serve as campaign treasurer. Finance chairman-coordinator will be Joseph Triarsi.

Barbara Claman, GOP county chairman. stressed the "need in these difficult times for the valuable experience of government of Heilmann, Uirich and Sinn" and "the necessity of minority Republican representation" on the board, which now consists of six Democrats and two Republicans."

Flea market scheduled

Union Catholic Boys High School will hold its annual flea market on Oct. 4 on the school grounds, 1600 Martine ave., Scotch Plains.

African prince taking criminal justice course

ROYAL STUDENT—Among Union College's criminal justice majors is Prince Omoshola of Owo-Ondo Province in Nigeria, who will one day reign as king following the death of his father. Park Commission takes children to Reservation

Opportunities for children to participate in activities in the Watchung Reservation are being provided by The Union County Park Commission as a part of its program of playground activities. This includes children from 14 Union County communities which responded to the offer from the Park Commission's Recreation Department.

Of 32 trips to the Watchung Reservation on the summer schedule, eight include children attending the four playgrounds operated by the Park Commission, while 24 trips are for children from the various municipalities. Transportation in all cases is by a van, provided by the Park Commission. The visits to the Watchung Reservation include participation in a nature talk at the Trailside Nature and Science Center followed by a nature walk, during the morning. After lunch, in-

Visit by DAV van to assist veterans

A van from the Disabled American Veterans fleet of mobile Field Service Units will be in front of the U.S. Post Office, N. Broad street and Westfield avenue, Elizabeth, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Aug. 8 to help veterans and their dependents seeking assistance.

The Admiral William F. Halsey Chapter 73 of DAV is sponsoring the public service van. The purpose of the van is to carry the free services provided by the DAV to wartime disabled veterans and their families who live at a distance from the Veterans Administration regional offices. DAV national service officers will help veterans in their claims for federal and state benefits to which they are entitled.

"We know that many of these people need assistance in matters relating to disability compensation, insurance, education, hospitalization, employment and other benefits of the U.S. government," said DAV National Commander Walter T. Greaney. "Particular emphasis is being placed on disabled veterans of the Vietnam conflict because many of them are not taking advantage of the benefits, especially education and vocational

Arts and crafts exhibit planned at Warinanco

The annual arts and crafts exhibits of playgrounds in Union County will be the attraction on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Union County Park Commission's Warinanco Park Ice Skating Center, Roselle. The exhibit in the past has been at the Trailside Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation. The exhibit will include results of projects at playgrounds supervised by the Park Com-mission staff as well as those of community

Public health course added to Union College curriculum

Union College has added its first course in public health to its offerings for the fall semester, Prof. Elmer Wolf, dean of the college, reported this week.

Introduction to Public Health is designed for students who are interested in any of the health professions, urban planning, public administration or community development, Wolf said. It will be offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1:30 to 2:50 p.m. and 6:30 to 8:15 p.m. at the college's Cranford campus.

Providing the proper health care services in either an undeveloped or an advanced society depends upon the coordination and cooperation of many different health professions," Wolf explained. "This course is designed to explore the historical, social, economic, and scientific aspects of health care service and to provide an overview and appreciation of the entire health. care system.

Wolf pointed out that Union College presently offers a biology program which features nine different pre-professional and career options. The college, in cooperation with the schools of nursing of Muhlenberg and Elizabeth General Hospitals, also offers a three-year program in professional purposes. professional nursing and a joint program in dental hygiene with Union County Technical Institute and the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry, Union College also offers program options in medical records administration, urban studies and public administration. "In all of these areas, students need a broad understanding of all aspects of the health care—contacting the Admissions Office at 276-2800, system in order to work effectively and improve the quality of service," Prof. Wolf said. 'Introduction to Public Health' is designed to achieve this goal." Among the subject areas to be covered in the development of health services are private medical care, hospitals, private and community health agencies, the drug industry, voluntary and government insurance plans, and current health issues and problems. The course carries three college credits.

Introduction to Public Health will be taught by Dr. Theodore Austin, an associate professor in Union College's biology department and coordinator of the nursing program.

Dr. Austin is a graduate of the Hudson River State Hospital School of Nursing and holds a bachelor of science degree in hospital administration from Northwestern University. He carned a master of business administration degree from Northeastern University, a master's degree in public administration from Harvard University, and a doctorate in education from Boston University.

Prior to joining the Union College staff, Dr. Austin served as associate dean and professor of preventive medicine and public health at the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. He was also an executive officer of the Messing Health and Extended Care Facility, Perth Amboy, the Cambridge City Hospital, and the Jersey City Medical Center.

Additional information about the course in public health or any of Union College's other health-related programs may be obtained by Children who have expressed a desire to participate in such activities but who are unable to provide the fees are considered.

In addition, the van service has been made available to transport senior citizens to Wednesday evening programs of the Summer Arts Festival in Echo Lake Park, and efforts are being made to interest older groups in tours of the Watchung Reservation and garden spots of the county park system.

The county park playground program at four locations also includes visits to the Turtle Back Zoo and, late in August, a trip to the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia. Children participated in county playground olympics. 'Big band' sound will return to the Union County Park Commission's Echo Lake Park, Westfield and Mountainside, next Wednesday when the Link Blakely Orchestra will present a program at 8:30 p.m. Rain date is the following evening.

The band has been acclaimed as one of the best in New Jersey. The program in the Park Commission's Summer Arts Festival repeats appearances in the last two years.

Special "big band" features include the jazz solos of Ed Finkel of Cranford who improvises to create new melodic lines. The band is one of the few to feature four trombones. Some of the musicians have played with the "big bands" in

The music is not all 1930s and 1940s. Some light rock is included, along with ballads, latins, up-tunes and waltzes.

The Link Blakely Orchestra will be presented by the Park Commission in ooperation with the American Federation of Musicians Local 151, through a grant from the Music Performance Trust Fund, a public service organization created and financed by the recording industries under agreement with the Federation

The public may bring lawn chairs or blankets for seating on the slope in the lower pavilion area of Echo Lake Park. Motor vehicles should enter from Springfield avenue and Mill lane. The program the following week in the Park Commission's Summer Arts Festival will be Harry Hepcat and the Boogie Woogie Band on Wednesday, Aug. 13, 8:30 p.m.

Family camping with YM-YWHA

An opportunity for parents and children to camp together will be provided when the New Jersey YMHA-YWHA camps opens its facilities at Milford, Pa. The family camping programs will be open for a seven-day period Monday, Aug. 25. Families can come for all seven days or for part of the period, including the Labor Day weekend.

The post-season family camping program is a continuation of a tradition at the 'Y' camps. Each family takes over a camper bunkhouse and participates in an informal recreation program using all the facilities of the Milford

Morning day-camp activities are provided but families spend time together hiking, swimming, playing tennis, volleyball, baseball and other sports. A chef and a baker take over the cooking chores.

Reservations may be made by writing to the New Jersey YMHA-YWHA Camps, Milford, Pa. 18337. The Eastern Union County YM-YWHA is the local affiliate of the New Jersey YMHA-YWHA Camps.

Federal flood aid totals $400,000 for county projects, says Rinaldo in federal grants to implement five flood nounced this week by Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo,

The Union County lawmaker said recent heavy flooding in the county underscored the need for funding the projects immediately. He described the grants as a major flood control development for the county

The Housing and Urban Development grants are for enginering and design work involving storm water detention basins, including one at Lenape Park to curb flooding danger in Cranford, Rahway, Clark, Kenilworth and Rinaldo said the Lenape Park project, for which a $200,000 grant had been approved, was expected to reduce flooding in Rahway by one third and to almost eliminate the danger of flooding in Cranford.

A $150,000 grant was made for the Tract 19 detention basin project in Plainfield from which flood prevention benefits are also expected to accrue to Scotch Plains and Fanwood. Grants of $20,000 each were made for the

Elizabeth River detention basin project in Hillside and the Carpenter Place detention basin plan in Cranford, The Elizabeth River project is designed to benefit Union as well as Elizabeth. The Carpenter Place control work is designed to also aid Linden, Roselle, Cranford and Roselle Park Rinaldo also announced HUD grants of more than $200,000 for community development programs in Union County.

to supplement other federal and state grants for creation of additional senior citizen centers in the county; $20,000 for improvement of child care services in the county; $10,000 for restoration of a historic 17th century farm house on Madison Hill Road in Clark: $20,000 for land acquisition for open space purposes in Roselle, and $50,000 for acquisition of land and buildings for an urban development program in

McCulloch leaves Scouting position

George McCulloch, acting scout executive of the Union Council, Boy Scouts of America, for the past 15 months, has resigned, it was announced this week.

Activities of the local Scout organization which serves some 7,000 young people through its Cub Scout, Scout and Exploring programs in Eastern Union County, will be directed temporarily by a representative of the Northeast Region, Boy Scouts of America, of which the council is a part, according to Stewart B. Kean, council president.

McCulloch, a resident of Bloomfield, has served the local council for five years, initially as a district executive and later as field director, before assuming the acting council executive post in April, 1974. His resignation was accepted at a meeting of the Council's Executive Board

By MADELINE LANCASTER A bus load of senior citizens from Springfield's five groups and their friends have arrived home safe and sound after a 31-day tour of our marvelous country.

They viewed the splendors of Black Hills Badlands in South Dakota and attended a reenactment of the killing of Wild Bill Hickok at Deadwood Harold Zimmerman of Group 5 and Edward Mueller of Group 2 were picked to serve on the jury for the trial. A verdict of "not quilty" was received, with boos from the

The groups visited the ghost town of Rockville, where beef jerky and buffalo jerky was tasted; then the marvelous sculpture of Mount Rushmore was viewed with awc. Next came a visit to the Custer Battlefield in Montana.

Proceeding on to Billings, Mont., south through Bear Tooth Pass, the snow was higher than the bus. This pass had just been opened the previous day, and snow plows were still clearing the way. We travelled down to the natural wonderland of geysers, mud pots, and waterfalls in Yellowstone Park. Farther south we visited Jackson Hole, Wy., and saw the splendors of the Grant Teton Mountains. In lovely Salt Lake City we toured Mormon Square and heard a organ recital at the Tabernacle, In Winnemucca, Nev., the tourists

Then came a thrilling ride along the rugged beauty of the Big Sur Highway on the coast of the Pacific Ocean, finally reaching San Simeon for a visit to the Hearst castle. Then came a three day stay in Hollywood, where we saw the wonders of movie making at the Universal Studios.

We visited the $17 million extravaganza built by Walt Disney, Disneyland; at 10 p.m. fireworks and a Bicentennial parade were sights to behold. We tasted Boysenberry pie at Knox Berry Farm.

Starting for home, we missed the flood in Las Vegas by one day, marveled at the sight of Hoover Dam and Lake Mead. Then it was Flagstaff, Ariz., and the magnificent beauty of the Grand Canyon. The changing of the colors at sunset was beautiful.

It seemed wonders would never cease, for next' we visited Mesa Verde National Park, viewing the Cliff Palace and ruins that were

Closing cost 🛣 eliminated at Westlake

The Westlake homes in Lakehurst, have just been made more attractive through the elimination of all closing costs on the three bedroom duplex versions. Until Aug. 1, buyers of the newly constructed Lakehurst homes can enjoy the benefits of owning a home while saving the customary red tape expenses of moving in. Just a $190 down payment on the $27,990 pricetag will put purchasers in one of the spacious, two-story units. Full basements are included

Officers of the DeBow Agency, sole sales agency for Westlake, say the peripheral costs of owning a home have been cut to provide more dollars for purchasing prospective homeowners weighed down by the recreational, social and everyday inflationary living expenses. They feel the existing $1,350 tax credit will make the prospects of buying a Westlake home even more economical.

Both comfort and convenience are stressed at the three-bedroom duplex homes in Lakehurst. Homeowners at this uncongested community can enjoy the changing seasons outdoors and in with total aluminum siding, hot air heating, aluminum windows and 100 percent fiber glass insulation. The king-sized kitchens feature a dishwasher, automatic control oven and thoroughly modern step-saving design Model homes are open daily from 10 to 5. Westlake can be reached via the Garden State Parkway or Rt. 9 to Rt. 70. Then west (or east from Philadelphia) on 70 to Cedar street in Lakehurst.

For just $190 down, July buyers will find comfort as well as savings at Westlake.

arsens realize reputation asset.

"A good reputation is a lasting asset, even unto the fourth generation. The truth of that observation was brought home recently," said John and Lou Larsen, developers of Big Bass Lake, the 800-acre home community in the Poconos at Gouldsboro, Pa.

The Larsen brothers said they take pride in the fact that they are not newcomers in the development of leisure and recreational communities. Their great-grandfather entered the field on the north shore of Long Island after retiring as a sea captain. He passed the business along to his son, and grandson and great grandsons continued the tradition. The Larsens began developing choice property in the Poconos over 12 years ago and since then have sold over 2,500 homesites

"To us, this background is important," John says. "At a time when land development has been invaded by many operators whose practices and product are questionable, we can point out that our family has had a reputation for fair dealing for over 80 years."

"We pride ourselves on conveying true value by having top quality recreational facilities here at Big Bass Lake," Lou declares. People who take the time to compare find that we offer larger parcels of land with superior facilities for less money. Our beautiful property actually sells itself.

The Larsens believe that developing leisure land can never be a mass production business. They are sure that a community like Big Bass Lake has to have the personal touch and the personal attention of developers who, like themselves, are on the site every day and live right in the area

The Larsens claim one of the features of inspecting homesites at Big Bass, according to most buyers, is that there's never any high pressure from the sales representatives. "They are present and pleasant, but not obtrusive. They answer questions, supply information and take visitors on tours of the property," the buyers say. 'Creating a community like this has to be more than a business," Lou says. "A lot of loving care has to go into it. You have to love the land and have a high respect for people and treat them both kindly."

To illustrate what they mean, the developers note social activity has already become one of the important attractions at Big Bass Lake.

From New Jersey and New York, and other areas to the east, the route to Big Bass Lake usually takes in Interstate 80, with a turnoff onto 380 West to Exit 3. From there it's less than two miles on Rt. 507 to the well-marked Big Bass Welcome Center.

A child of Colman's middle years, Juliet knew him only as any little girl knows her daddy before she began work on her book.

"I had a child's image of a father," Juliet says, "but now, through my research, that's been expanded into an image of the man.

"I wrote the book, because (a) I love writing and (b) I didn't know Ronald Colman and wanted to find out more about him.

'The research has made me miss him more than I did. I never saw 'A Tale of Two Cities' when I was growing up, but when I saw it as an adult my father absolutely staggered me.

"He was so good! And I felt sad because I couldn't tell him how good he was," Since the pre-teen Juliet was surrounded by stars and children of stars, she didn't think of her daddy's life-style as anything extraordinary.

"I didn't realize his stardom when we were in Hollywood," she said. "It was only when I stepped outside the club—the circle in which we moved-that I realized there was something different about Dad.

"My childhood was terribly normal, terribly down to earth, though looking back on it from my present perspective I must admit it held

Juliet wrote the final chapters of her book first, presented them to publishers and was advised that her father was passe.

'I thought, 'Well, there goes three years of work down the drain." she says.

She was so discouraged, she was tempted to scrap the project, but because she, personally, was interested in Ronald Colman, she pressed forward and finally completed the biography to the gratification of the William Morrow

Next, she thinks, she will write a book about the house she and her husband occupy in Majorca.

"It would have to be part fiction." Juliet admits, "because I can't get many facts about all the people who've lived there. However, it was a Moorish fortress built on Roman foundations, so we make endless discoveries about

Recital on Nov. 3 for string quartet

The Tokyo String Quartet will appear in a morning recital on Nov. 3 at Kimberley Auditorium, Montclair Kimberley Academy The program is sponsored by Unity Institute, which also announced a morning recital on May 14, 1976, by violinist Mark Kaplan at the Montclair Art Museum

The Toyko String Quartet won the 1970 International Chamber Music Competition in Munich and the 1967 Coleman String Quartet Competition in Pasadena, Calif. They currently serve as artists-in-residence at the American University, Washington, D.C.

Kaplan has appeared as soloist with the Baltimore, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Rochester symphonies. This summer he will perform Bartok's Second Violin Concerto with Lawrence Foster in Cologne, Germany.

Series tickets for the two recitals are $9 with single admission tickets $5. More information may be obtained by contacting Barbara Russell at Unity Institute, 67 Church st., Montclair (744-6770).

Sinclair's 'Oil' slated for movie production

HOLLYWOOD-Upton Sinclair's novel, "Oil," will be brought to the screen by producer Don Devlin for Columbia Pictures during the studio's celebration of its 50th year.

"Oil," which tells the story of the oil industry in Southern California, is set 50 years ago, before and after the Teapot Dome Scandal and uous boom in oil. scheduled for early next year.

TEARDROP FALLS: by Freddy Fender (ABC on this LP with some very, very smo-o-o-th vocals that are sure to please. Especially when you hear his. "Roses Are Red" and the evergreen "I Love My Rancho Grande." Additional selections include: "I'm Not A Fool Anymore," "Please Don't Tell Me How The Story Ends," "You Can't Get Here From ""Wasted Days And Wasted Nights," "I Almost Called Your Name," the title tune "Before The Next Teardrop Falls," "Wild Side Of Life," "After The Fire Is Gone" and "Then You Can Tell Me Goodbye."

(We turn the column over to Freddy at this point)..."My real name is Baldemar G. Huerta. I was born in the South Texas Valley border town of San Benito. I'm a Mexican-American, better yet, a Tex-Mex. I just picked my stage name, Freddy Fender, in the late '50s as a name that would help my music sell better with 'gringos.' Now I like the name.

'Music was part of me, even in my early childhood. I can still remember sitting on the street corner facing Pancho Galvin's grocery store, plunking at my three-string guitar. It didn't have a back on it, but it sure sounded pretty good to me and the crowd of little kids listening. Music kept a lot of us happy, even when it was hard for our mama to put beans on

"When I was 16 I dropped out of high school and joined the Marines for three years. I got to see California, Japan and Okinawa but mainly I got my point of view from the time I spent in the brig. It seemed that I just couldn't adjust myself to such a disciplined way of life. I always liked to play the guitar in the barracks and to drink, so much so that sometimes I forgot where or who I was.

By 1969 I was back in the 'valley,' playing again with a Chicano orchestra and learning new trades. I was beginning to feel that maybe I was getting too old and should go ahead and hang up my 'gloves.' So I went to work as a mechanic and played music on weekends, getting $1.60 a hour and $28 a night picking so that I didn't starve to death. I took the G.E.D. test, received my high school diploma and even went to college for two years. By 1974 I was living in Corpus Christi, Texas, and a friend told me about Huey Meaux, a recording producer from Houston who had produced some big hits on B.J. Thomas, Joe Berry and my good friend Doug Sahm. He accepted my material and we started recording. It was in one of these sessions that I first cut my country and pop hit, 'Before the Next Teardrop Falls', on Huey's 'Crazy Cajun' label. ABC's Dot Records purchased the record and signed me when it started happening on country stations in Houston. I couldn't be prouder.'

Dear Cynthia: Do married people fight? Of course they do. Does this mean they aren't in love? Of course it doesn't. The more you care about another person, the madder you can get with him-at least temporarily.

You may hear about "the patience of a saint" but few saints are married.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I have many books and a friend who constantly borrows them but seldom returns them. Do you have any tricks for gently reminding people to return what they borrow?

C.W. Dear C.W.:

Why be gentle? Give this friend the address of the public library. Then tell this gal that you're not lending any more books.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I am 25 and my mother still insists on running my life. If I'm interested in someone, she starts to find fault with him. If I stay out past 1 a.m., she questions me the next day. I live at home so am an easy target. What shall I say to

Dear Alice:

Don't say anything. MOVE. Your mother does not want to share you with another human being. At 25, you should be making your own decisions.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I am 15 and my friends and I discuss boys. Several of my friends are going steady and some had dated since they were 11. The word "love" is used constantly. Someone is always in love. Do you really think a 15-year-old can love a

These proportions were substantially lower for unemployed workers, Bienstock noted, but even among the unemployed over half were high school graduates and one-sixth had completed a year of college or more.

Musical satire on Jerseyvision

An encore presentation of "Theatre In America-In Fashion," an original musical comedy of manners, will be telecast on Saturday, Aug. 9 at 9 p.m. on Channels 50 and 58.

Based on "Tailleur Pour Dames" by Georges Feydeau "In Fashion" satirizes the mores and morals of late 19th century French society. It features a classic comedy of errors including mistaken identities and misun derstandings.

classified advertising.

I received about a dozen telephone inquiries from such areas as Union, pringfield, Roselle Park and Valisburg.

People seem to have confidence in advertisements in their own homelown newspapers.

State investigates claim settlements on cost of funeral

State Insurance Commissioner James J. Sheeran said this week that he is looking into the claims settlement practices of auto insurance companies in paying funeral expense benefits under the no-fault insurance law.

The law provides for the payment of "all reasonable funeral burial and cremation expenses, subject to a maximum bonefit of $1,000," to the next-of-kin or estate of any person dying from injuries suffered in a private passenger auto accident.

Sheeran said that a "distressing" instance of an unacceptable and insensitive practice by an insurance company had been called to his attention. The commissioner said that the parents of a youth who died as the result of an auto accident had submitted a bill to their insurance company, which included $635 in funeral expenses

The company, Sheeran said, paid only $590, disallowing charges of $20 for an organist at the funeral service, $6 for copies of the death record and $19.60 for newspaper death notices. "The company also lamented the fact that the $590 it paid included an 'inadvertent' allowance of $55 for hire of a limousine for the funeral service," Sheeran said, "The company, it seems, takes a very limited view of what can be considered reasonable or necessary funeral expenses and apparently also will not pay for appropriate burial clothing and a headstone.

"I would hope that this kind of practice is not general in the insurance industry. I plan to find out what the prevailing practices are in settling funeral expenses, and if necessary, I will issue Jersey job count drops by 5.5 pct. in 12 months Employment in Northeastern New Jersey dropped 137,000 (9.3 percent). Factory em-dropped 5.5 percent in the 12 months ending in May, according to Herbert Bienstock, assistant regional director of the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. For the entire New York-New Jersey metropolitan area the job loss for the year was 3.2 percent.

At 1,817,000, employment in Northeastern New Jersey accounts for 28 percent of the area's jobs, said Blenstock. A May 1974-May 1975 employment loss of 107,000 in Northeastern New Jersey accounted for more than half of the region's job drop, and was close to double the New Jersey sector's share of the area's employment.

Wage and salary employment in New York City fell 93,000 over the 12-month period. In the rest of the region (Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester, Rockland and Putnam counties in New York) the job total was down 12,000 over the Almost seven-tenths of the region's job losses ployment was down 78,000 (12.5 percent) in Northeastern New Jersey, 45,000 (7.3 percent) in New York City and 14,000 (6.1 percent) in the rest of the New York area outside New York

Private nonfactory job losses in the region totaled 84,000 for the 12-month period. The region totaled 84,000 job losses (2.1 percent). New York City lost 45,000 (2.0) percent) of its non-factory jobs; the New Jersey job loss in this category was 38,000 (3.6 percent) and the rest of the New York area dipped by 2,000 jobs

Government employment was the only major job sector which rose over the 12 months ending May 1975, up 9,000 or 0.9 percent. The government job total rose 3.3 percent in Northeastern New Jersey and 1.8 percent in the New York area outside the City. In contrast, in New York City, public sector employment was down 4,000 or 0.6 percent over the year.

The May monthly employment rise in the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area was centered in government, up 12,000, largely reflecting gains in New York City. Wholesale and retail trade employment in the area was up 4,000 and services up 3,000; both increases were seasonal. Partially offsetting these increases was a decline of 5,000 in manufacturing, and a 4,000 drop in construction employment that in part reflected strikes in Northeastern New package names on sausage labels

The standardized names "pork sausage," "beef sausage," and "breakfast sausage" may not be combined on a label, for example, as "beef breakfast sausage" or "breakfast pork sausage," the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) said this week, clarifying its inspection regulations.

In other words, two or more standardized product names may not be used on the same label to identify another federally inspected meat or poultry product, USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) said.

According to APHIS officials, packers of these sausage products will have until Dec. 31, 1976 to deplete existing stocks of such labels, after which all labels must be in full compliance with the clarified regulation. This compliance date will allow packers time to secure replacement labels and also will provide an uninterrupted availability of such sausage products to consumers.

The Federal Meat Inspection Act prohibits the practice of combining names for which definitions and standards of identity or composition have been prescribed by meat inspection regulations, APHIS said.

Federal composition standards for each of these fresh sausage products differ. Consequently, consumers may be misled by combinations since it would not be possible to determine by the name the standard of composition with which the product should comply.

Mortgage relief ready in 12-county flood zone

Commissioner Richard F. Schaub of the N.J. Department of Banking announced this week that he has invoked emergency provisions of the banking Act which allow state chartered financial institutions to "refinance, compromise, adjust or otherwise relax provisions of mortgage loans on property" ocated within disaster areas, including the reduction of the interest rate and extending the term of residential mortgage loans.

On July 13-15 and 20-21 storms and floods of such severity struck much of New Jersey that Gov. Brendan Byrne issued a general declaration of emergency. On July 23, President Ford declared 12 counties within the state to be disaster areas. These counties are Bergen, Burlington, Cumberland, Essex, Mercer, Middlesex, Morris, Passaic, Union, Salem, Somerset and Sussex,

The commissioner said that "I have investigated and reviewed the conditions in the disaster areas and have concluded that much damage and destruction has occurred to real property subject to existing mortgage liens securing mortgage loans by the state's financial institutions. It is in the interests of the disaster victims, the welfare of the public and the safety of the financial institutions involved that I have invoked the provisions of a regulation dealing with emergency measures to taken concerning mortgage loans in Disaster Areas. For this reason I have today mailed notice to the state's financial institutions that the emergency provisions are in effect as of

The regulations which the commissioner invoked allow financial institutions to:

-Grant an additional mortgage on a one family dwelling which along with the unpaid balance of the initial loan would not exceed 160 percent or the appraised value of the real property.

-Grant an additional mortgage on a one to four family dwelling which along with the unpaid balance of the initial loan would not exceed 100 percent of the appraised value of the property,

-Grant an additional loan for home improvements which along with the initial home improvement loan does not exceed 133 percent of the appraised value of real property,

-Extend existing mortgage loans despite existing limitations in the mortgage agreement up to the original principal amount of the loan, -Grant a mortgage loan on real property which is subject to a mortgage loan held by another financial institution, -Reduce the rate of interest on mortgage

-Extend the term of an existing mortgage loan up to two times the term of the original mortgage. The comissioner concluded that, "The state's financial institutions now have the power, as well as the moral duty, to assist those persons who have suffered extensive damage to their real property secured by mortgage loans. This regulation is especially important to our state's home owners who can find little relief from the federal government's program which are designed to assist communities, businesses and

Walter T. Peters Jr., executive director of the New Jersey Bicentennial Commission, has been elected chairman of the Bicentennial Council of the 13 Original States.

Peters' term will be for the key Bicentennial year, which began this month and will run to the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1976.

The council was organized in 1970 to help coordinate Bicentennial activities in the 13 original states, particularly those of regional impact, and to serve as a clearinghouse for information. It is made up of representatives of the Bicentennial Commissions in each State and operates with private funding.

In addition to New Jersey, the member states are: New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

JONATHAN MEETS JONATHAN — Jonathan Levine, 7 months old, of Denville gives the impression that he isn't pleased with sharing his stroller with Turtle Back Zoo's Jonathan Seagull. The confrontation crose at the Turtle Back Zoo's education building where a lecture on New Jersey wildlife was being held. After Jonathan Seagulf was removed from the stroller, Jonathan Levine changed to all smiles and continued on his visit to see the rest of Turtle Back Zoo's, 1,000 animals. The zoo is located at 560 Northfield Ave., West Orange. The hours are from 10 to 5, Monday through Saturday and from 11 to 6 on Sundays and holidays.

Recovered patients sought to aid program at burn unit

Recovered burn patients of New Jersey have been asked to participate in a special program sponsored by the National Burn Victim Foundation, based in West Orange.

The formation of a Burns Recovered program for the State of New Jersey, said the Foundation's president, Harry J. Gaynor, will provide assistance to current burn victims and their families. "Unless" he said, "you or a member of your family has experienced a serious burn, it is difficult to relate to the traumatic experience encountered." The National Burn Victim Foundation Burns Recovered program can, according to Gaynor, provide hope and reassurance to burn victims and their families during the initial and reconstruction stages of treatment. "Nurses who specialize in the care of burn patients play a major role in the emotional outlook of the victim," Gaynor said, "There is a great need for current burn patients and their families to talk to others who have gone through the ordeal."

Walter Reardon of Rahway, a member of Burns Recovered was burned on 50 percent of his body in an industrial accident two years ago. He was treated in a burn center in Boston

"I wish," said Reardon, "there had been a Burns Recovered' organization to help me and my family during those nightmarish days and nights. My family and I want to help current burn patients; we know their needs.

Recovered burn patients can write to the NBVF at P.O. 462, West Orange 07052 or telephone 731-3112. The foundation hopes to activate a New Jersey State Burn Center this year at St. Barnabas Medical Center in deciding on a size of color!

If you have small to medium size rooms the color of your rug is the best guide. By using a color drape the same as the rug you will give the rooms an overall larger look. By using contrasting colors they lend to enclose and cut down the room size. Or course, personal taste still is the most important factor to consider. You must like the color because you are going to have to live with it! Antique satin is still the best fabric to consider. No material "hengs" as well and no fabric "drapes" as well, we have in stock! many colors including moss, antique gold, red, white and royal in single width, one and one half width, double width and triple width in 63" to 95" lengths. The apiarian bug bites Hobbyists learn bee-keeping

Want a fascinating new hobby, an opportunity for spare-time or full-time income and a chance to add to the nation's food supply? That's what 120 students took away from a three-day course at Rutgers University's Cook

College last month. The students learned how to produce the world's oldest known sweet-honey-and in the process discovered the basic importance of honeybees to New Jersey and world agriculture and to the New Jersey and world food supply. New Jersey, incidentally, has the second largest number of honeybee colonies per acre

The course, Cook's annual offering in "Beginning Beekeeping," is being followed this year for the first time by an advanced course,

Students in the beginner's course, ranging in age from very junior (10-year-olds) to very senior (70-plus) citizens, came from widely scattered parts of New York and New Jersey. They learned about bees, honey, winemaking and candle-dipping, and the problems and rewards of what is a hobby for more than 5,000 New Jersey residents.

If any students were apprehensive about getting stung, they gained a noticeable degree of self-confidence rapidly. On the first day, a demonstration of beehive manipulation had everyone wearing protective veils. The next day, at a demonstration of hiving a swarm. only a few students bothered to don veils, but nobody was stung.

Despite a "warning" from Dr. Radelyffe Roberts, technical director of the course, that getting stung was a requirement for completing the course and obtaining a certificate, none was able to produce the "necessary," sting. "You'll just have to 'complete' that course requirement back home with your own bees," he told the students.

Even if there were no honey produced by bees, the insects would be valuable for their role in fruit production, a major source of income to New Jersey farmers. Apples, blueberries, cranberries and cucumbers could not be worth growing if bees were not around to carry pollen from one blossom to another to "set" fruit in abundance the instructors repeatedly emphasized.

Out of approximately 55,000 colonies of bees in New Jersey, more than 99 per cent are operated by hobbyists working from one to 10 colonies each. About a half-dozen beekeepers operate commercial enterprises ranging from 600 to 1,200 colonies, primarily for pollination of

Bird import rules listed

If you're planning to travel abroad soon and expect to bring back a pet bird, you may run into a few problems unless you take 'the necessary precautions spelled out in a brochure issued recently by the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

According to the booklet, you're allowed to bring in no more than two birds after you sign a sworn statement to the effect that they have been in your possession for the previous 90 days, isolated from all other birds, and show no signs of illness.

In addition, the birds must be kept in isolation for a period of 30 days to make sure that they did not enter the country with a disease that could possible pose a serious threat to the bird and poultry population in this country.

These and other useful facts are contained in "Bringing A Pet Bird Into the U.S.A.?" A single free copy may be obtained by writing to the Information Division, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 26 Federal Plaza, Room 1653, New York, N.J., 10007.
