Police, borough workers to get pay hikes

Board simplifies grievance process

The Regional High District Board of Education Tuesday night introduced new policies bringing about a number of changes in the hearing procedures for grievances filed by students or parents and in the operations of varsity sports. About 20 people attended the meeting at Gov. Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

Little League parade opens 23rd season

The Mountainside Little League parade and opening day ceremonies this Saturday will start the 23rd season of organized baseball in the borough. Mayor Tom Ricciardi will throw out the first ball of the season to begin a full schedule of competition ending June 19.

Marchers will assemble for the parade at 8:45 a.m. at the corner of Wood Valley road and Stony Brook lane. Bill Biunno, chairman of opening day festivities, will lead a parade of Little Leaguers, Girls' Softball League players, fire and Rescue Squad representatives, all accompanied by the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Band.

Paraders will leave the assembly point at 9 a.m., continuing toward Central avenue, right to Wyoming drive, left to Longview drive, right to Sawmill and then to the entrance of the Little League field behind Deerfield School.

After introduction of local dignitaries and speeches by representatives of the Borough Council, Fire Department, Rescue Squad, Board of Education and Little League, Mayor Ricciardi will throw out the first ball and the competition will begin at 10 a.m. The American League games will begin at 10:30 on their field at Echobrook School.

George Yogy, Little League president, announced that the American League is headed by Jack Burrows, Major League by Art Williams, Senior League by Jim Huelbig. Officers of the league are secretary, Julie Rusbarsky; treasurer, Pete Klaskin; umpire in chief, John Kontra; player agent, Bob Ball; field maintenance chief, Chuck Fernicola, and equipment manager, George Crane.

Concert Sunday to feature works of Rachmaninoff

A "Rachmaninoff Retrospective" will be the program Sunday evening at 8 at the Community Presbyterian Church, Deer Path and Meeting House lane, Mountainside. The featured work will be the Concerto No. 3, opus 30. The Sonata No. 2, opus 36, a piano solo and the Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini, opus 43 will also be performed. The pianist is James Leafie, and James Little will play the orchestral reductions.

James Leafie is an American Indian of the Seneca tribe, raised on the Cattaraugus Reservation in Western New York. He has studied at the Juilliard School and with Lillian Carpenter. He has played for CBS-TV soap operas and his own record, "Blue Heron." Leafie presides over the Wurlitzer organ at Long Island University, formerly the Brooklyn Paramount Theater, and is the organist at St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church in Cranford.

Little graduated from Trenton State College as a voice major and has studied with Donald Pearson of Vassar. He is currently on the music staff of the Pingry School in Hillsdale and is the organist and choir director of the Mountainside Presbyterian Church.

This concert is open to the public as one of the Mountainside Community Concert Series. A $1 donation is requested.

Hit and run victim gets homecoming

Mrs. Rose M. Ferry of Apple Tree lane, Mountainside, who was struck by a hit and run driver on Rt. 22 and severely injured on Feb. 14, returned home from Overlook Hospital on Saturday. She is recovering from fractured legs, broken collarbone, head injuries and resultant plastic surgery.

She was brought home by the Mountainside Rescue Squad, which had taken her to the hospital following the accident. Mrs. Ferry and her husband John joined in expressing their thanks to all their friends for messages of good will.

In other business, the board discussed the need for a long-range study of pupil assignment policies. It also voted to change the date of its regular meeting from the third to the first Tuesday of each month. The board met on the first Tuesday for some five years, until switching to the third Tuesday in March.

The board also introduced policies establishing affirmative action procedures and setting out rules for student safety in altering electrical systems. All four will come up for final action on May 18 at a site to be determined.

One major change in the athletic policy will permit athletes to remain on teams even though taking time off for family vacations, provided coaches are given ample advance warning. Athletes may also take part on AAI or other outside teams during a varsity season, if given specific permission by the coach and principal.

The new grievance policy is designed to simplify procedures and shorten the time needed for a final decision. It will permit filing of grievances during the summer vacation, with members of Student Council executive boards available to provide the mandatory student input.

THE ISSUE of future pupil assignments was raised by Dr. Marilyn Hart of Mountainside, who recalled widespread anxiety as students from her community were switched from Gov. Livingston to Jonathan Dayton Regional in Springfield some eight years ago. She recalled the uncertainty which had plagued two of her children—one who had remained at Gov. Livingston nine years ago and the other who had attended Dayton two years later.

She noted a predicted decline in Regional District enrollment from the present 5,200 to 4,200 in the next four years. Dr. Hart urged that students and parents be given clear assurances as to where they will attend high school. She stressed that youngsters in Mountainside and Garwood, the only two communities within the district without high schools inside their borders, must be guaranteed long-range high school assignments.

Dr. Donald Merachnik, superintendent of schools, agreed on the importance of long-range population studies and indicated that he would plan for such a project. He stressed that the district has no plans at all for transfer of Mountainside and Garwood students.

Eugene Fox, a teacher at Gov. Livingston, discussed the problem further during the public discussion period. He proposed that Mountainside students be returned to Gov. Livingston in Berkeley Heights, saying that youngsters from the two communities have "many similarities."

Dr. Hart emphasized after the meeting that she does not propose such a change, but simply that all communities be given a firm commitment for the future.

The vote to change the meeting date back to the first week of the month was seven to two, with William Keyes of Berkeley Heights and Virginia Muskus of Clark opposed. Keyes said that meeting on the third Tuesday permitted more up-to-date financial reports.

Proponents of the change said that sessions on the first Tuesday reduce conflicts with meetings of other governmental bodies and

Young historians set PTA program

The Historian Club of Deerfield School, Mountainside, will stage a program for the Mountainside PTA next Thursday, April 29, at 8 p.m. in the Deerfield School cafeteria. Parents, friends and guests have been invited.

The club members are students from the seventh and eighth grade classes. Under the direction of William Tetley, their moderator, the youngsters have prepared a series of slides and tapes.

The first part of the program, "Revolution in Petticoats," by Mary Levinson, Debby Fleisher and Ellen Weinstein, tells of women's role in the Revolution.

The second is an oral history prepared by Chris Norko and Stuart Smith, in which the boys have taped the recollections of a local couple on the early days of Mountainside.

The Battle of Springfield by Mark Dooley and Glen Mortimer, and the Battle of Trenton by David Klingler, Tommy Hobbs and Peter Bisio and Ted Bowes, will conclude the program.

Square dance at OLL

All Mountainside Junior Girl Scouts have been invited to a square dance with their dads or other escorts on Wednesday, May 5, at Our Lady of Lourdes auditorium. Dress is informal and refreshments will be served. Caller for this annual event will be Len Wingard.

Volunteers fight Watchung blaze

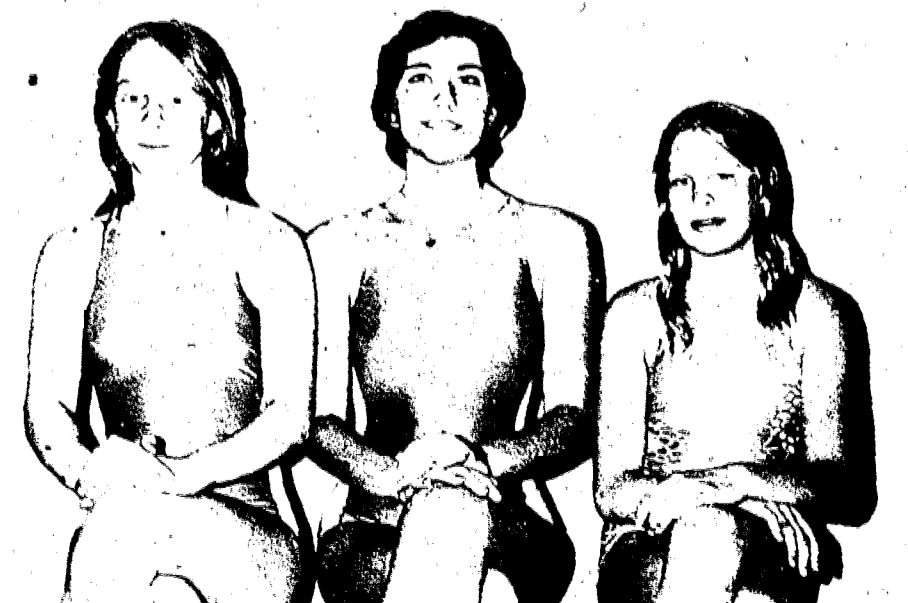

Members of the Mountainside Volunteer Fire Department battled a brush fire in the Watchung Reservation Sunday for nine hours before bringing the blaze under control. Fire Chief Robert Butler reported at Tuesday night's Borough Council meeting.

The blaze, which broke out in the Union County Park Commission preserve at about 2:30 p.m., damaged a large area near the water tower at the eastern end of the parkland. Cause of the fire is unknown, but brush and trees dried out from the weekend's record-breaking temperatures contributed to the difficulty of controlling the flames. A total of 32 volunteer firefighters were at the scene during the nine-hour period, assisted by employees of the park commission.

Butler, responding to a query from Mayor Thomas Ricciardi about an area resident's charge that equipment was not hooked up directly to a fire hydrant, noted there were no hydrants in the immediate vicinity of the blaze.

'Parent Effectiveness' class begins May 12 at Holy Cross

The Rev. Joel R. Yoss, pastor of Holy Cross Lutheran Church, will begin a course in Parent Effectiveness Training on May 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the church, 639 Mountain Avenue, Springfield. He reported that a few openings in the class still remain.

Those interested may apply by sending their names and addresses to the church. The deadline for registration is April 30.

Discussing the course, Pastor Yoss commented: "The name has a forbidding sound: Parent Effectiveness Training. But despite that, this system for teaching parents how to communicate with their children more harmoniously has taken on the proportions of a national movement.

"As of now, more than 250,000 parents have taken the eight-session course, and more than 500,000 of the textbooks have been sold through bookstores across the country.

"PET provides opportunities for parents to grow in specific human interaction skills. The full course of 20 hours of classroom instruction consists of eight 2 1/2-hour classes, meeting once a week. Lectures, demonstrations, and tape recordings are featured, as well as classroom participation experience, role playing and buzz groups."

BUYING WISELY

From Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan New York, Inc.

Dear Larrie:

I'm a young and attractive girl who wishes to embark on a career as a model. I contacted an agency and was a bit discouraged when I was told I would have to pay $1,500 in advance of enrollment for such things as registration, photographs, video tapes, etc. This agency is located in a middle-class neighborhood. My aunt says this fact should be proof enough for me that this agency is reputable. I'm not satisfied with this assumption. Before entering such an agreement, how can I find out if this agency is reputable?

CAREER MINDED

Dear Career:

You can check with your Better Business Bureau for background information on a particular agency you have in mind. We would also recommend you ask the agency for a list of individuals that have used their services. Contact several, if possible, and ask them for their experience with the agency.

No particular socio-economic group is immune from the solicitation of phony talent agencies. Victims can be found in low, middle and upper income neighborhoods.

Larrie O'Farrell, Better Business Bureau

Dear Larrie:

My friend took me to a carpet showroom so I could pick up an excellent value. I'm told this is commercial carpeting that is highly serviceable and of the same quality as sold to commercial establishments, such as hotels, etc. My friend said the reason this carpet company could sell such carpeting at greatly reduced prices is because they are offering the remainder of rolls and leftover yardage from commercial installations. Is this carpeting really desirable for a home? The saving cost didn't seem that substantial to me. Would I be buying carpeting that would be good for my home?

HESITANT

Dear Larrie:

You should buy carpeting offered on its own merits. Do not fall for the "commercial gimmick." It is highly unlikely any special offer is being made.

There are no standard specifications for commercial carpeting of this type, and generally, it is neither necessary nor desirable for home use. Residential carpeting usually is more desirable in styling for home use and suitable for the type of traffic it will get in the home.

Larrie O'Farrell, Better Business Bureau

Dear Larrie:

I called a TV repair shop at 8:30 in the morning and the earliest appointment I could get was for noon the following day. Isn't this a poor way to run a repair business?

DISAGREEABLE

Dear Disagreeable:

It is considered excellent service if a service call is made on the next working day after the request is received. The normal time may vary from two to three working days.

Police arrest wanted cyclist after a four-community chase

A 21-year-old Roselle Park motorcycleist, being pursued down Rt. 22 by police from four communities, was apprehended in Mountain Side April 10 after he crashed into a borough patrol car which had been parked to block traffic on the highway.

According to police, the cyclist, Michael S. Blevis, who was wanted on motor vehicle charges, had fled from police in Warren. They began a high-speed pursuit eastbound on Rt. 22, assisted by police from Scotch Plains and Berkeley Heights and two patrol cars from Mountain Side Borough Officer James Debbie, in a third vehicle, parked his car, with lights and siren on, across the roadway in front of borough hall in an attempt to halt the cycle.

When Blevis reached the area, at 5 p.m., he reportedly attempted to drive around the patrol car, but smashed into the left front fender. He was not hurt, but Debbie suffered minor hand and knee injuries when he fell on top of the cycle while attempting to subdue the suspect.

Blevis was arrested for possession of a controlled substance, a control dangerous substance, and also was issued summonses for driving while his license and registration were suspended, failure to have proof of insurance for his cycle, and reckless driving. He was released on $750 bail, pending an appearance in Mountain Side Municipal Court June 2.

Curb on abortion backed by Foley

Stephen J. Foley, a "pro-life" candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate in the June 8 primary elections, called abortion a "bad medical practice, bad law, bad social policy" in a speech last week at the Columbian Club, Springfield.

In the audience were Mr. and Mrs. Len Cerefe of Dunn Parkway and Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Dooley of Outlook drive, both Mountain Side.

"A human life amendment is absolutely necessary to restore equal protection to all human lives jeopardized by arbitrary denial of legal personhood," Foley told the audience of several hundred.

Glenn Grabinsky of Mountain Side has been named to the dean's list for the fall term at Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken. Grabinsky is a senior at the school.

Letters to Editor

BOARD 'ABDICATED'

The Mountain Side Board of Education, in signing a contract with the Mountain Side Teachers' Association at last Tuesday night's public board meeting, clearly abdicated its responsibilities to the citizens of our community. Not only did the teachers receive an 8.1 percent raise, but the board dropped its charge of unfair labor practices, which it has filed with PERC.

In addition, instead of docking the teachers for lack of participation in "Back to School Night," as the board was advised to do by the State Commissioner of Education, the board has scheduled, in lieu of this, an evening meeting with parents for the purpose of drafting goals for the school system. Yet the commissioner has advised the board, by letter, that to pay the teachers for lack of performance of duties would constitute a gift of public funds and hence be illegal.

It is amazing that the four board members who campaigned in the last two school elections to maintain local control, could capitulate so readily to the pressure of the state teachers' association N.J.E.A. whose Union County representative masterminded this settlement. That the teachers should be so rewarded for such blatant violation of their contract is an insult to the citizens who pay their salaries.

In a subsequent action taken at the same meeting, the board agreed by a vote of 4-2 to pay the board's professional negotiator a fee of $5,400 even though said negotiator had refused to give a satisfactory accounting of the hours he spent working for the board. He was hired at a rate of $60 per hour. This $5,400 could have been warranted if all the hours were properly accounted for and if it had purchased for the taxpayers of Mountain Side a contract with our teachers that clearly indicated that the schools were controlled by the citizens.

Yes, and there is more to come. At the public board meeting on May 11, the board will vote on a raise for the superintendent of schools. How much more than the $32,300 he now earns can the board justify for a school system with 915 students?

It is actions such as these which cause taxpayers to revolt and cities to go bankrupt. —PAT KNODEL, Knollerest road

Woman injured as car swerves to avoid a deer

A Scotch Plains woman was injured April 14 when her automobile flipped over on Summit lane in Mountain Side after she swerved the vehicle to avoid a deer in the road, borough police reported.

Police said Sheri M. Masters, 35, was driving near the former Nike base when the mishap occurred at 10:35 p.m. She was taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, by the Mountain Side Rescue Squad, treated and released.

At 5 p.m. the same day, a Union woman smashed her auto into a tree while rounding a curve on Blazo terrace near Central avenue. The motorist, Olivia V. Carter, 66, was taken by the Rescue Squad to Overlook for treatment of head injuries.

Also on April 14 at 11:20 a.m., a woman was hurt when the car she was driving was struck in the rear by another auto on Rt. 22 near New Providence road. Police said Joanne Zmuda, 27, of Warren was halted in traffic in the eastbound lanes of the highway when her car was hit by one operated by Rose K. Boornazian, 62, of New Britain, Pa. Mrs. Zmuda reportedly complained of neck pains following the crash and was taken to Overlook by the Rescue Squad. Also transported to the hospital for examination was her 10-month old daughter, Jackie.

Boiler operator course scheduled

Harry E. Linkin, director of adult education for the Union County Regional High School District, has announced that the district will offer a black seal low pressure boiler license preparation program. The program will be conducted on Saturdays, beginning May 1, at the Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School on Westfield avenue in Clark.

Classes will begin at 8 a.m. and run until 12:15 p.m., with a total of eight classes being held. A $19 tuition fee will be charged for this program which will prepare participants to take the black seal low pressure boiler license examination.

Frank Wolf, an experienced instructor in the program, will conduct the class. A similar course is offered in the evenings through the Adult School.

Enrollment will be on a limited basis, anyone interested may call the Adult School office at 576-6454 for an application.

Oral cancer screening

The Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society has announced that the free oral cancer screening at Overlook, Elizabeth General, Memorial General and Rahway hospitals will be held between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. next Wednesday. The program is being conducted by the N.J. Dental Society in conjunction with the Cancer Society.

Rally Sunday protests highway through parkland

"Save Our Watchung Reservation" is the theme of a rally to be held on Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. at Gov. Livingston Regional High School parking lot in Berkeley Heights. The Watchung Nature Club is sponsoring this rally to protest the routing of Interstate Highway 78 through the Watchung Reservation.

An information booth will feature map exhibits. Short guided hikes will be led by club members on a circular trail through the part of the reservation which would be affected by I-78. Free helium-filled balloons will be offered to the children and at 2:15 several hundred balloons will be released on a "balloon blast" to publicize the club's protest.

Petitions will be available to be signed at the rally, and there also will be letters with names and addresses of legislators and commissioners to whom letters of protest can be written.

A spokesman added, "Watchung Nature Club members are all well acquainted with the natural beauty and ecological value of the Watchung Reservation. In all seasons, they have hiked the miles of trails and have observed the many varieties of birds, animals and plants that thrive there."

"They are deeply distressed at the planned route of I-78, which, at the top of the mountain ridge, will spill air and water pollutants into the Blue Brook and Surprise Lake valley below.

"The six-laned asphalt road construction, taking in 110 acres and cutting off another 136 acres, would cause soil erosion and swamp destruction. Noise pollution would detract from the tranquility of the trails and affect the animal wildlife."

Hitchcock has 'Plot'

A new Alfred Hitchcock suspense film, "Family Plot," is being held over for another week at the Maplewood Theater, Maplewood. Hitchcock, who resorts to balancing two separate stories, interlacing them with comedy touches, chases, races and his famous mischievous tactics, has one situation where Barbara Harris as a shady medium and Bruce Dern as her boy friend attempt to locate the heir of a rich old lady who promises a reward. The heir is played by William Devane, and Devane is a criminal who stages kidnapping with the aid of his partner, Karen Black. The picture was photographed in color.

'I Will' film billed at Fox

"I Will, I Will, For Now," romantic comedy with an updated sex theme of a couple who is trying to patch up a relationship by going to a sex clinic—only to find more complications, opens tomorrow at the Fox Theater, Route 22, Union. "The Duchess and the Dirtwater Fox," starring George Segal and Goldie Hawn, and directed by Melvin Frank, ends its run tonight at the Fox. Elliott Gould, Diane Keaton, Paul Sorvino and Victoria Principal star in "I Will, I Will," which was photographed in color and directed by Norman Panama.

Kiddie features are scheduled

Matinee features for Saturday and Sunday have been announced by several theaters this week. The Old Rahway Theater, Rahway, will show "Bugs Bunny Superstar." "Willie Wonka and the Chocolate Factory" is billed for the New Plaza, Linden. "Jack and the Beanstalk" will have daily matinees at 1:30 noon through Sunday at the Five Points Cinema, Union.

ON TWO SCREENS — Lenny Baker and Ellen Greene are lovers in the Greenwich Village of the early 1950s in Paul Mazursky's "Next Stop, Greenwich Village," being offered this week at Five Points Cinema, Union, and New Plaza, Linden.

'Journey' at midnight
A special midnight screening of Neil Young's "Journey Through the Past," R-rated, will be shown at the Fox Theater, Route 22, Union, and the Fox Theater in Woodbridge tomorrow and Saturday nights. There will be separate admissions for this show at both theaters. The new film by Young has Crosby, Stills and Nash, Carrie Snodgrass and the Buffalo Springfield. DISC 'N DATA

Pick Of The LP's... THE HUNGRY YEARS: by Neil Sedaka (ROCKET RECORDS PIG-2157). Neil's turntable treat of 11 selections include: "Crossroads," "Lonely Night," "Angel Face," "Stephen," "Bad Blood," "Your Favorite Entertainer," "Baby Blue," "Til For Tat," "New York City Blues," "When You Were Lovin' Me," "The Hungry Years," "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do." The hottest singer-songwriter in America today is Neil Sedaka. That's a remarkable statement, but it's even more remarkable when one considers the fact that it was just as true in 1959 as it is today. Between 1959 and 1963, Sedaka sold more than 25 million records. Between 1972 and 1975, Sedaka has placed four albums in the English charts at the same time—all in the top 20; had five hit singles in a row; grabbed a gold album ("Sedaka's Back") and a couple of gold singles in the States; and had his songs recorded by such artists as The Carpenters, Maria Muldaur, The Captain and Tennille, Andy Williams, Bo Donaldson and the Heywoods, and many more. Neil Sedaka began his career by studying classical piano under Artur Schnabel. At the age of 13, he began to write songs, and by the time he was twenty, he was an international pop star. Many of the Sedaka songs from that period have become rock classics: "Oh Carol," "Calendar Girl," "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do," and "Happy Birthday Sweet 16," to name a few. In 1963, The Beatles spearheaded the British invasion and brought with them a new style of rock 'n roll. Sedaka took a self-imposed leave of absence as a performer...but as a writer he was as active as ever, turning out hits for The 5th Dimension, Tom Jones, The Friends of Distinction, Johnny Mathis, Peggy Lee and many others. "Working on a Groovy Thing," "Puppet Man," "One Day of Your Life" and "Rainy Jane" are some of the memorable tunes from that period in his career. And then, three years ago, Sedaka began to record again in England. He promptly took over the charts and—with his signing to Rocket Records—the Sedaka craze reached the States. His first American single in years, "Laughter in the Rain," went gold in a matter of weeks.

Park offers Oscar star

Anne Bancroft, veteran actress, who has the lead in "The Hindenburg," current offering on screen at the Park Theater, Roselle Park, plays opposite George C. Scott, an actor she considers "top rate." Both are Oscar winners. The associate feature at the Park is "Sidecar Racers," starring Peter Graves. In "Hindenburg," a film dramatization of the final voyage and fiery death of the German luxury dirigible, Miss Bancroft plays the Countess. She has made only six films in the last 12 years and she says she selected this movie over other films offered her on the basis of "a combination of reasons." Most important of all was the character—came alive inside of me. There also was the opportunity to work with Robert Wise, the director, whose work I have always admired, and George C. Scott, whom I consider one of America's greatest actors.

On Lynn 'menu'

The Lynn Restaurant, 624 Westfield ave., Elizabeth, will present Neil Simon's "The Odd Couple" by Douglass Dinner Productions Tuesdays and Wednesdays, from May 11 to 24. Dinner will start at 7:15, show at 8:30.

Believe it or not, in North Dakota it's unlawful to serve pretzels with beer. Also, nowhere in California are you supposed to peel an orange in a hotel room. An Oklahoma City ordinance, meanwhile, states that you cannot take a bite of another person's hamburger.

Take free check for oral cancer, governor urges

Governor Brendan T. Byrne this week urged residents of New Jersey to avail themselves of the opportunity to have a free oral cancer screening next Wednesday, a day he officially proclaimed as Oral Cancer Detection Day.

On that day, members of the New Jersey Dental Association, in conjunction with volunteers and staff of the American Cancer Society, will conduct screening examinations in hospitals, clinics and mobile vans throughout the state. The examination is painless and takes only a few moments.

Details as to time and place of the screenings may be obtained by calling the local county Unit of the American Cancer Society's New Jersey Division.

Cancers of the mouth afflict some 24,000 Americans annually and result in death to 8,000 annually. This high percentage of deaths, arising from a site so easily observed, underlines the need for early detection through regular examination by a dentist.

In its earliest stages, oral cancer may be painless and otherwise symptom-free; hence the need for regular dental checkups.

Health products industry prospers in New Jersey

The health products industry "has emerged as a major, positive factor in New Jersey's developing economic recovery," according to statistics revealed this week by Professor Hal P. Eastman of Rutgers University.

Dr. Eastman, analyzing industry data for 1973 through 1975, found significant increases in sales, 25 percent; payrolls, 19 percent; plant and equipment investment, 32 percent; research expenditures, 21 percent; and taxes paid by local health-product manufacturers, 39 percent.

Lawyers willing to address groups

New Jersey attorneys are ready and willing to speak before business, civic and social organizations, according to the N.J. State Bar Association.

New Jersey lawyers have the latest information on current practices and legislation of vital concern and are available upon request, the association said.

Among the topics for consideration are adoption, conservation, ecology, creditor-debtor relations, divorce, estate planning, juvenile delinquency, labor law, landlord-tenant problems, legal assistance for the elderly, pre-paid legal services, public utility, real estate, rights of the mentally handicapped, small business, state constitutional convention, taxation, women's rights, worker's compensation, and zoning.

Organizations interested in obtaining a speaker should write to the New Jersey State Bar Association, 172 West State st., Trenton, 08606, and indicate name, address, telephone number and other specific information about the speaking engagement. Notification should be made three weeks in advance whenever possible.

NJEA to present class innovations at annual meeting

Outstanding New Jersey teachers will demonstrate innovative instructional techniques at the New Jersey Education Association's fifth annual Good Ideas Conference Saturday at Monmouth College, West Long Branch.

Organized by NJEA's Instruction Division, the conference will give about 100 teachers, education specialists and college professors the chance to demonstrate new and effective practices developed and proven in the classroom.

A series of presentations will be specially designed for parents. This training will make them better teachers in the home for their pre-school and in-school children," says Donald R. McNeely, associate NJEA director for instruction. Admission is free; there is no pre-registration.

Conference-goers will be able to attend at least five of the demonstrations during the conference. Subjects vary from such basics as reading, math, discipline and science to enrichment areas such as poetry, film-making, creative writing and the creative arts.

Medical college will dedicate 'superblock' campus May 10

The new Newark campus of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, a $189 million complex of six interconnected buildings, will be dedicated Monday, May 10, at a ceremony at which Theodore Cooper, M.D., assistant secretary for health in the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will be the keynote speaker.

The ceremony will begin at 10 a.m. with an academic procession in the spacious plaza of the 46-acre campus—a "superblock" bordered by Bergen and Norfolk streets and 12th and South Orange avenues. Four of the buildings, a dental school, a library, a community mental health center and a power plant, are occupied and in use. The fifth, a nine-level, block-long structure that will house a medical school and graduate-science school is expected to be ready later this year. The sixth building, a college hospital, is scheduled for completion in 1978.

"Piece by piece and block by block we have watched this magnificent complex develop for the last five years," Stanley S. Bergen Jr.,

M.D., president of the college, said "Now it is a virtually complete, breathtaking reality, a symbol of the long stride New Jersey has taken in a relatively short time."

percent. In each case, the increase contrasted sharply with the same economic indicator for the state as a whole.

During the same period, health-product companies posted a modest employment increase of 4 percent, or 1,750 jobs, down from a 6 percent annual employment growth rate through the 1969 to 1973 period. Even this figure, however, reflects a positive effect, since overall manufacturing employment in New Jersey declined by 13 percent in the 1973-75 period, a loss of 110,000 jobs.

According to Dr. Eastman, New Jersey's health products industry, benefiting from the expanding worldwide market for its products, demonstrated strength and growth throughout the generally grim economic climate of 1974 and 1975. "Health products," he said, "continues to grow at a faster rate than any other major manufacturing group in the state."

The Eastman survey shows that New Jersey health-product companies account for about one-fifth of the nation's health product sales. In current dollars, their 25 percent sales increase for the 1973-75 period amounted to $627 million. Over the same period, the production index for all New Jersey manufacturers declined by 17 percent.

Hearings planned on state rent law

The Department of Community Affairs will hold a public hearing in Newark from 1 to 5:30 p.m. Wednesday on the new truth-in-renting law.

The hearing, one of three to be held throughout the state, will be conducted at Rutgers University, Hill Hall, 360 High st. Other hearings will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday at the New Jersey State Museum auditorium in Trenton and the same hours Thursday in the Camden Council Chambers.

After the hearings, the department will submit a statement to the Legislature outlining the legal rights and responsibilities of tenants and landlords of rental dwelling units. This statement will be made available to every tenant and landlord in New Jersey, according to Commissioner Patricia Q. Sheehan.

Those interested in testifying may call the Bureau of Housing, 609-292-6417, or submit a written statement by April 30 to the Department of Community Affairs, Box 2768, Trenton 08625 attention: Bureau of Housing.

SPORTS SPECIAL

SOCCER SCENE

By BILL WILD
 The Elizabeth Lancers are still waiting to find out who their next opponent will be in the National Challenge Cup. The Lancers had been scheduled to play the winner of the Pittsburgh-Cleveland game, which was to be played on Easter Sunday, but the teams will play it this weekend.

The Lancers will meet Croatia in a GASL match this Sunday instead. Gametime will be 2 p.m. at Farcher's Grove with a reserve team list as the preliminary.

Easter Sunday was almost a perfect day for the Wild family. The children rolled out of bed early to find their Easter eggs and bunnies and get ready for church. Today was the day they were going to that Dave Clements of the Cosmos scored the game's only goal the biggest heroes were Pele up front and Bob Smith in back and up front, Oh yes, we can't forget Bobby Smith with the cute face and nice hair. (I was impressed that the girls stayed with the game as long as they did). Rigby played well in goal. The only letdown came when Pele missed a penalty kick in the closing seconds of the game.

The Cosmos will have their home opener in Yankee Stadium on May 2 and their next TV match will be in Hartford against the Bicentennials on May 15. Hartford is coached by Union's Manny Schellscheidt and should draw a lot of interest from soccer fans in our area.

retail distribution. Club license fees remain at $150, the maximum which may be charged. Another ordinance appropriated funds from the capital improvement account for the patching, resurfacing and painting of two tennis courts at the Echobrook School. The $2,480 contract was awarded to R. Spanio, Seal Coating and Top Dressing Corp., Mountainside, the low bidder.

Tentative council approval was given to a request by the Brevine Construction Co. of Millburn to build an 11-lot subdivision in the Saddlebrook area, provided the Union County Park Commission grants approval to the firm to cross a portion of its lands to construct a sanitary sewer line connecting with the municipal system. The borough must also be given approval by the park unit to maintain the link-up before any construction can begin.

Brevine also decided a portion of the tract to the borough to permit placement of an access road to Sylvan lane. No lots may be sold until the governing body gives final approval to the subdivision.

Borough attorney John Post reported a meeting will be scheduled during this week with the local school board attorney to discuss the proposed deed agreement on the Echobrook School. The borough would be given title for $1 to the 1936 portion of the school for use as a municipal building and would provide maintenance of both that building and the older one, housing the school board offices and pay for all utilities and handle maintenance of the entire area. It also would be granted a revocable license to use the east field, playground and all surrounding land, although the acreage would remain board property.

The board accepted the retirement of Stephen Cephegy, a science teacher at Dayton, and Anne Manto, an English teacher at the same school. Both retirements take effect at the end of the current term.

Other votes authorized three workshops in the cultural arts field. A districtwide choral arts workshop will be held May 19 at Dayton. Lenny Plonka of New York, a certified speech and drama teacher and a professional mime, will conduct sessions on dramatic effects through body movement next month at David Breairely in Kenilworth and at Dayton and Gov. Livingston.

A two-part ceramics workshop is planned for next month, with demonstrations at all four schools and then an advanced session at Breairely.

The board also approved a one-day field trip to Boston for Dayton students on May 14.

Elizabeth driver fined $510 for 4 motor vehicle violations

Fines totaling $510 were levied against an Elizabeth man by Judge Jacob R. Bauer in Mountainside Municipal Court April 14 for

3 arrests listed by Mountainside police last week

Arrests for possession of stolen property, possession of marijuana, and for interfering with a police officer were reported by Mountainside police last week.

The first charge was levied against Lawrence D. Wagner, 18, of Manville, who was apprehended at 3 a.m. April 15 by Officer James Debbie at the Malden Mills property on Bristol road.

Wagner had been spotted driving an auto with an open trunk at the rear of the building, police said. When he came around to the front with the trunk of the car closed, he was halted by Debbie, who had been patrolling in the area. The auto allegedly contained an electric motor, two boxes of welding rods and a welding head which police said had been stolen from the factory.

Wagner was released on $500 bail, pending an appearance in Mountainside Municipal Court April 28.

Arrested April 12 for possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana was Richard R. Davis, 22, of Metuchen, who was apprehended at 1:55 a.m. on Summit road after a motor vehicle check by Officer William Adler. Davis was released on $100 bail, with a court appearance scheduled May 5.

Ronald S. Grant, 32, of Edison was taken into custody at 10:15 p.m. April 11 at the Friendly Ice Cream Shop, Mountain avenue, after he allegedly interfered with Officer William Moylan while he was attempting to eject an unwanted juvenile patron from the restaurant.

At the time of his arrest, Grant reportedly claimed to be a Staten Island resident. When it was learned he lived in Edison, he also was charged with giving false information to a police officer. He was released on $50 bail, pending a hearing May 12.

Volunteers work on program

A group of local volunteers is at work on a countywide Tay-Sachs Prevention Day to be held on Sunday, May 16 at Temple Emanu-El, 756 E. Broad St., Westfield. Included on the committee are Mrs. Joel Painman, Mrs. Miriam Goodfriend and Mrs. Carol Bearson, all of Mountainside.

Tay-Sachs disease is one of the more than 2,000 inherited, genetic diseases. It strikes young children and is always fatal. However, thanks to very recent medical discoveries, it is now preventable. A simple blood test can detect carriers of the Tay-Sachs gene and through amniocentesis, the disease can be screened early in pregnancy.

Sponsored by the Jewish Federation of Central New Jersey as one of its services to the community, the blood testing program is coordinated in conjunction with the genetics department of the New Jersey Medical School under the direction of Dr. Theodore Kushnick and the New Jersey Chapter of the National Tay-Sachs and Allied Diseases Association.

Caused by the absence of a vital enzyme, the Tay-Sachs disease is 99 times more common in Jewish families than among non-Jews. A Tay-Sachs child can be born only when both parents are carriers.

The blood testing that will be done on May 16 can detect carriers of the Tay-Sachs gene. The sponsored urged all Jewish residents over the age of 16 to take advantage of the testing which is being made available to the community by the Jewish Federation. In this way, parents can add this information to their children's medical records.

GENERAL MATTHIAS OGDEN
Elizabethtown Patriot

(Part II)

During the Revolution there was no more patriotic or daring soldier in New Jersey than Matthias Ogden. At the age of 21 he left Elizabethtown and, with his close friend, Aaron Burr, journeyed to Boston to join the embattled farmers of that area in their fight against the British.

Shortly after they arrived in Cambridge, Massachusetts, a call was issued for volunteers to undertake a hazardous march through the Maine wilderness in order to combat King George's army in Canada. Both Ogden and Burr offered their services. Ogden became a captain in a regiment of Grenadiers under Lieutenant Christopher Greene.

Traveling was not easy and after overcoming many hardships, the Americans finally joined General Richard Montgomery and his Army under the cliffs of Quebec. It was here on the night of December 31 that Ogden was wounded in the shoulder while storming the enemy fort. Another of Ogden's friends, William Crane, the son of Elizabethtown Mayor William Crane, was also wounded in this battle.

When the Canadian Campaign was over and the defeated American Army was back in New York, Ogden married Hannah Dayton, daughter of General Elias Dayton. Not long after the marriage Hannah left Elizabethtown for the safety of the interior, and Matthias went to the northern frontier to assist General Philip Schuyler combat the British, Tories and Indians.

Matthias Ogden distinguished himself on many occasions with his exploits. One such time was when he, with a few chosen companions, attempted to capture the Crown Prince of England, afterwards King William IV, in New York City.

William, son of King George, when 14 years old, was appointed a midshipman in the British Navy, and to broaden his knowledge of the sea and distant lands, accompanied Admiral Digby to America. The admiral's fleet arrived in New York in 1779 and remained there for some months.

The Crown Prince, who liked to enjoy himself, was allowed to have his own way in pretty much everything. He spent much of his time ashore having a good time with companions. He went about unattended by pomp, display or guard, and was wasteful in the use of money, with which he was ever well provided.

Knowing of the Prince's presence in New York, Ogden thought it might be possible to capture England's future ruler and bring him to New Jersey as a hostage. He thereupon worked out a plan and submitted it to General Washington in camp at New Windsor on the Hudson River.

"I do not altogether favor such a mode of warfare," said Washington after hearing Ogden's intentions, "but it will give you a little diversion and prove of some value to the cause. You have my permission to engage in the enterprise, but if you succeed in capturing the young man you must treat him with all the honor due his great rank. I cannot but impress upon you the necessity of extreme caution if you wish to escape the fate of Nathan Hale."

Armed with his permission and elated at the outcome of his interview with Washington, Ogden hurried back to Elizabethtown and selected four trusted men from his regiment upon whom he could depend.

Early in the fall the men made their way to Paulus Hook (Jersey City) where they appropriated a skiff suited to their purpose. Weather caused a postponement for two nights. On the third night they set forth on their mission, and, while eluding British vessels lying at anchor, almost reached New York when they were suddenly hailed from an enemy launch filled with soldiers.

Taken unawares and unprepared to return a satisfactory answer to the challenge, Ogden veered off and rowed up the river followed by a hail of bullets. Being unable to find a safe haven for his boat, Ogden made for the Jersey shore and finally reached what is now Hoboken, where he and his men landed safely under a fire which the American outpost located there directed against the approaching British boats that were following in close pursuit.

This adventure or misadventure of Ogden's formed interesting conversation . . . and some laughter . . . in American camps for many months after.

Some years later when William IV heard that Washington had ordered Ogden to treat him kindly, if captured, he remarked: "I am obliged to General Washington for his humanity, but I'm damn'd glad I did not give him the opportunity of exercising it toward me."

While still a young man of 36, Ogden contracted yellow fever and died suddenly on March 31, 1791. He is buried in the First Presbyterian Church graveyard on Broad Street. The epitaph on the stone that marks his grave reads as follows: "If manly sense and dignity of mind, if social virtues liberal and refined nipped in their bloom deserve compassion's tears, then reader weep, for Ogden's dust lies here."

Did You Know

... that Aaron Burr, Matthias Ogden's boyhood companion, classmate and wartime comrade-in-arms, was defeated when he ran for governor of New York because of Alexander Hamilton's control of the Federalist vote in that state. Letters written by Hamilton in which he labeled Burr "a dangerous man" and one of whom he entertained "a still more dispicable opinion" led to a duel between the two men in which Hamilton was mortally wounded.

Fall injures local youth

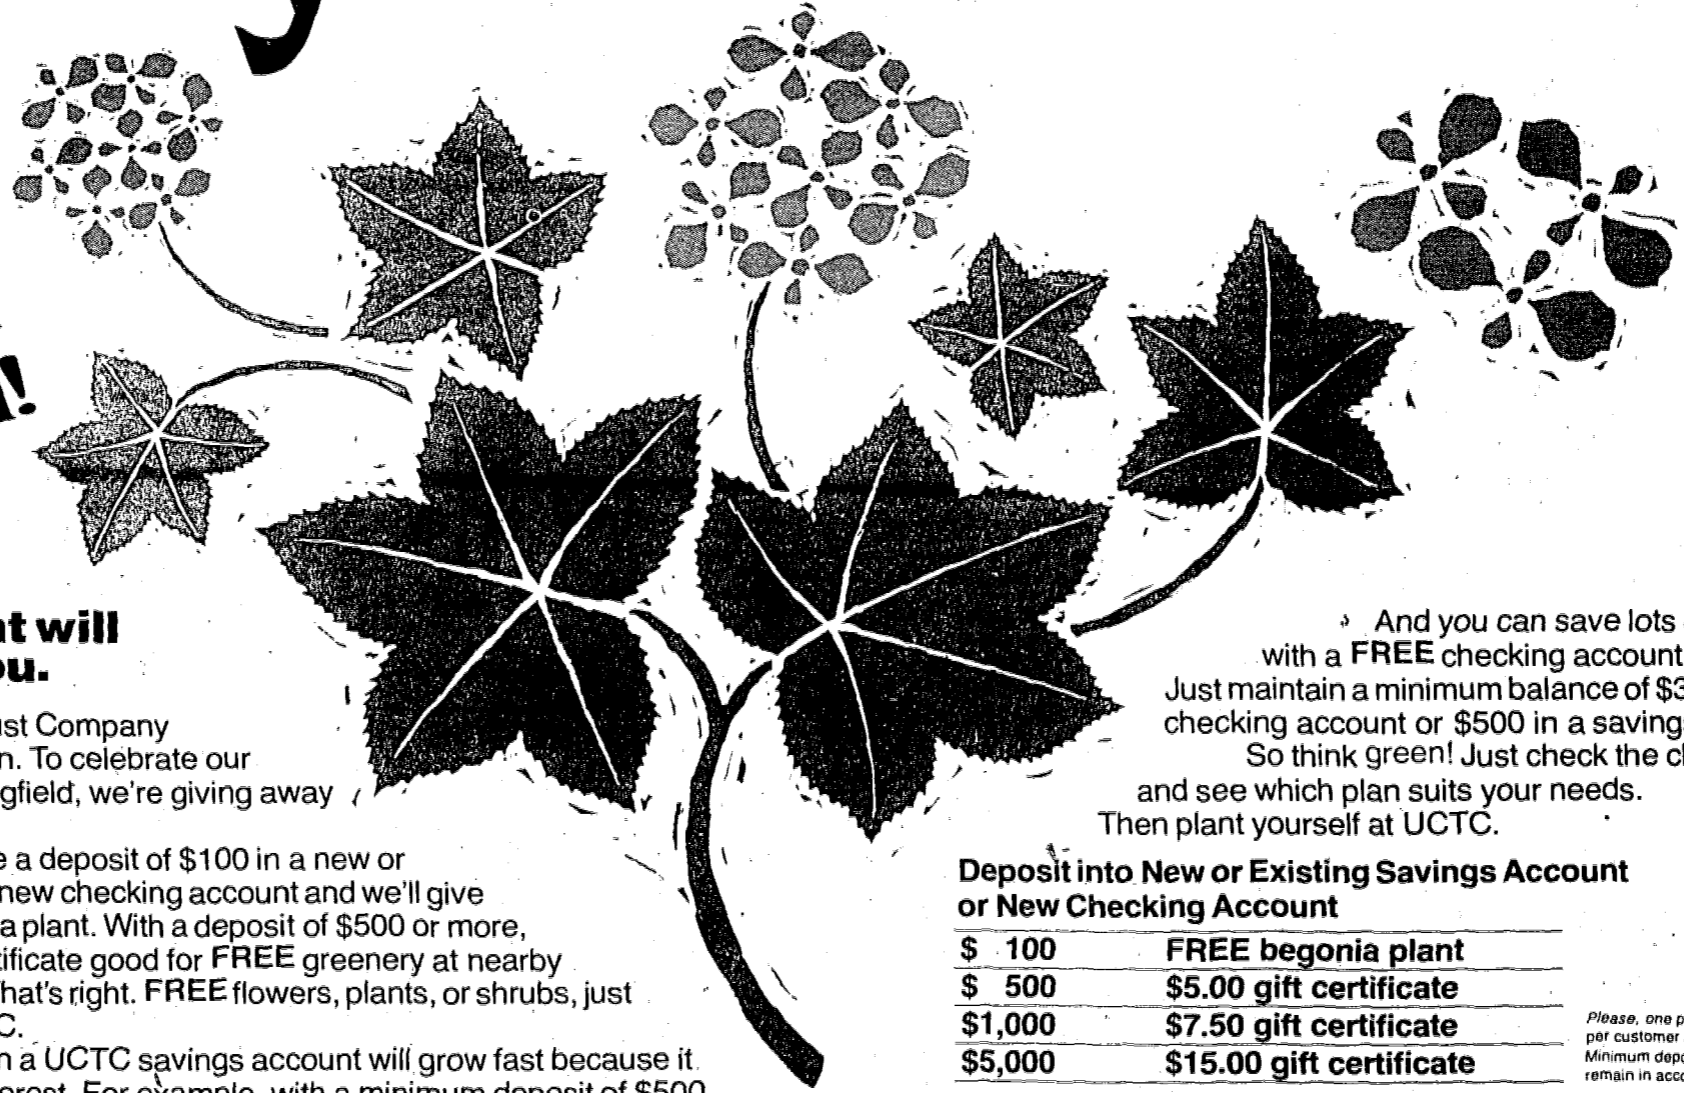

A 16-year-old Mountainside boy was injured Monday evening when he fell off the running board of a Volkswagen on which he had hitched a ride, borough police reported.

According to police, John J. Chambers of Woodvalley road, climbed onto the outside of the auto in a driveway on Timberline road at 8:30 p.m. and asked the driver, David M. Vreeland, 17, of Knollwood road, for a ride. Vreeland backed out of the driveway and had proceeded approximately 100 feet down the road when Chambers lost his grip and fell, sustaining head injuries. He was taken to Overlook Hospital by the Mountainside Rescue Squad and was discharged Tuesday morning.

Vreeland was issued a summons for permitting Chambers to ride on a portion of a motor vehicle not designed to carry passengers.

Walden mobile home park offers fire resistant units

Walden Estates, a new adult mobile home park on Lakehurst Avenue, Jackson Township, is experiencing an influx of prospective mobile home buyers seeking to reduce soaring living expenses.

Nicholas Tuzahov, developer of Walden Estates and other successful mobile home communities throughout the state, said senior citizens especially find mobile home ownership a relatively inexpensive yet comfortable lifestyle. He noted, "Mobile homes provide highly comfortable, low cost housing for budget-minded retirees and include all amenities seniors want for a leisurely way of life."

Residents of Walden Estates mobile home park enjoy an on-site clubhouse, in-ground swimming pool, billiards, shuffleboard court, horse shoes and other pastimes. Another feature enjoyed by Walden residents is the no property tax advantage afforded to mobile home owners. Water, sewer, trash collection and road maintenance are all included in a monthly payment schedule.

Walden Estates recently introduced this state's first available fire resistant mobile home. The unit is certified Class "A" by the Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute and offers the greatest fire protection of any mobile home on the market in New Jersey.

The walls and ceilings are constructed of gypsum drywall, a fire retardant substance identical in appearance to conventional wood paneling found in mobile homes.

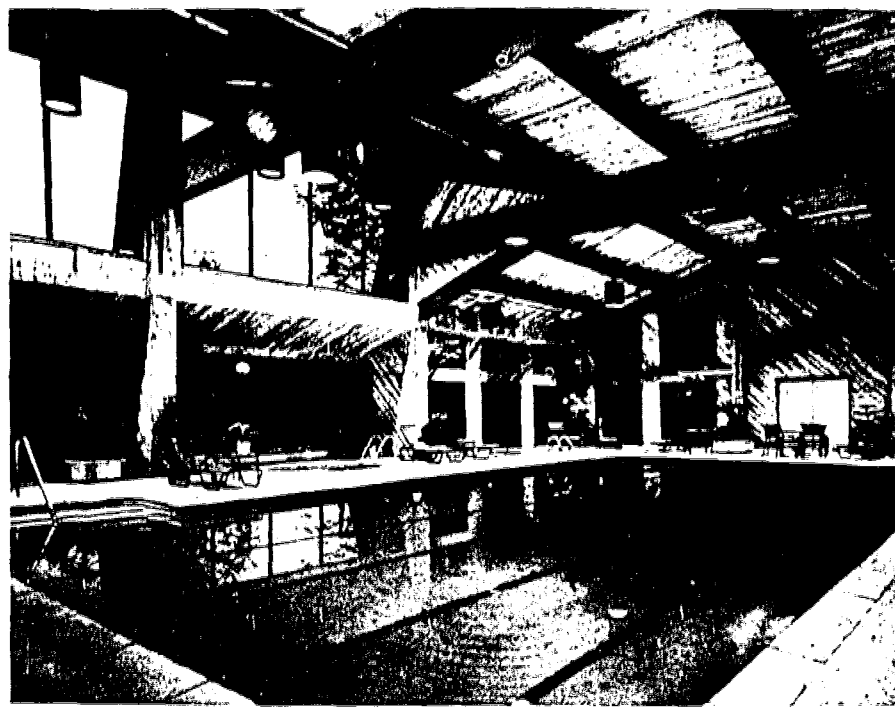

Mobile home models may be seen at the Walden Estates show grounds located on Rt. 9, Toms River, south of Rt. 70, or at the mobile home park, Jackson.

Realty firm taps Seiden

Morris Hammer has announced the appointment of Joel Seiden to the staff of Gebroe-Hammer Associates, a Clifton-based investment realty firm. During the past two and one-half years, Seiden has been responsible for the completion of investment property transactions valued in excess of $20 million. His duties at Gebroe-Hammer will include training and supervision of the company's growing staff of professional representatives. He has been made an assistant vice-president.

Hammer said the firm already has achieved a phenomenal growth rate for a young organization.

LAKERIDGE PRIZE-WINNER—The Lakeridge vacation home community in Burrville, Conn., features this heated indoor swimming pool and whirlpool bath in its West Lodge. This million dollar facility also includes indoor tennis courts, a tennis pro shop, lounge and fireplace, TV room, kitchen, multi-purpose room, saunas and locker rooms. The community recently won an award for its contribution to the housing industry.

Connecticut home unit gets award from landscapers

Lakeridge, a private vacation home community located in the mountains of northwestern Connecticut, has received a Merit Award in the 1976 American Society of Landscape Architects' "Professional Awards Program."

Lakeridge was selected by a panel of judges for its contribution to the housing industry. Excellent site planning, preservation of the existing natural environment, architectural design and general landscape design features were among the factors considered in granting Lakeridge the only award in the housing category.

This is the second occasion within the past few months that Lakeridge has been singled out for national recognition in a major competition, according to George Giguere, president of the $40,000,000 development.

In January 1976, "Better Homes and Gardens" magazine and the National Association of Home Builders recognized Lakeridge as the best second home community in the nation. The project was one of the five communities from across the country which were selected as Grand Award winners for their "demonstrated concern for a comprehensively planned living environment."

The "Sensible Growth Design and Planning Awards" were presented to winning entries at the NAHB annual convention held in Dallas, Texas. The concept of Lakeridge combines superior environmental planning with total year-round recreational living in a mountaintop setting almost entirely surrounded by state forest.

best to preserve the natural characteristics of our 237-acre heavily wooded site. As a result of this effort, we were able to formulate a master plan which utilizes only 20 percent of the land for all roads, townhouses and recreational facilities.

Cole Hayes of the Land Design Associates in Cold Spring Harbor, New York, will receive the latest award at the ASLA national convention in San Diego on July 15. The ASLA is already preparing the winning entries for an award exhibit, which will be displayed during the convention and then made part of a traveling exhibit.

Lakeridge will be featured in the July issue of "Landscape Architecture" magazine, an international publication. "Better Homes and Gardens" is also planning a story on the community in an upcoming issue. In addition, Lakeridge was also featured as "The Holiday House" in the March edition of "Holiday" magazine.

The private onsite recreational facilities at Lakeridge are among the finest in the country. What distinguishes the community even more is the fact that all of the amenities are completed and being used by the first residents.

Some of the facilities include two activity centers, the East and West Lodges, featuring both indoor and outdoor swimming, three indoor tennis courts, numerous outdoor tennis and paddle tennis courts, gyms, saunas, whirlpool bath, lounges, game rooms and arts and craft rooms. There is also a children's club, a restaurant, a mini-lake and riding stables. Lakeridge is bordered by a state-owned lake which provides residents with canoeing, sailing and fishing.

A private ski area at Lakeridge offers a double chairlift, night skiing, snowmaking equipment and a rustic ski lodge. A certified ski patrol and instructors are available for classes and private lessons. For the cross-country skier, there are miles of trails throughout the adjoining 2,000-acre forest.

A maximum of 872 vacation and primary homes are planned at Lakeridge. Architecturally rustic contemporary in design, the spacious townhouses offer a variety of two to four-bedroom models. Priced from $25,500 to $65,000 they all include fireplaces, carpeting and modern kitchens. The community is serviced by underground utilities, municipal water and sanitation systems and fire hydrants.

Giguere feels environmental considerations were the primary factors which earned Lakeridge the distinction of receiving two major awards this year.

Giguere reports that "nearly three years were spent in study and planning of Lakeridge to determine how
