Yankees turn back Reds and Royals; Chiefs lead Majors on fifth victory

By RICH REITER

Many games have been played now in the Mountainside Little League 1976 season. The boys have been developing their skills on the field and learning new strategies. They have been gaining valuable experience and have been learning that important aspect of teamwork. After two weeks, we find the standings as follows:

In the American League the Angels are in first place with three victories. There is a three-way tie for second place of teams with two victories each; the Yankees, Reds and Brewers; the Cardinals hold third place with one victory.

The Chiefs hold a comfortable lead in the Major League with five wins. The Blue Stars are in second place with three wins; the Orioles are in third place with two victories.

The Tigers are on top of the Senior League with three wins, while the Twins and Yankees are caught in a tie for second, with two victories each.

The American League Yankees won two games this week, defeating the Reds and the Royals. They squeaked by the Reds, 2-1, in a tight pitching duel. The Yanks' Jeff Burrows, and the Reds' Jeff Ahlholm pitched two innings of no-hit ball. Joey Miskin of the Yanks got the first hit in the fourth inning, and then scored the winning run when, with bases loaded, David Swingle was hit by a pitched ball. Mike Stoffer held the Reds for the last two innings with no-hit pitching.

The Royals were next to be downed by the Yanks, 8-1. The Yankees made use of four pitchers to secure the triumph: Mike Stoffer, Ray Bettymann, Shane Connell and Jeff Burrows. Burrows also helped at bat, with a grand slam home run.

The Angels had a good week, winning two games. They followed the Yankees' performance, also downing the Reds and the Royals. The first game against the Royals was marked by sharp fielding, Chris Carpency made an outstanding catch of Royal Anne Bunin's line drive. David Gagliano hit a home run, and Darren Iaione also hit effectively. Russel Picut hit strongly for the Royals.

Iaione was responsible for the Angels' victory over the Reds. His grand slam home run put them ahead to win, 5-3. Reds' players Jeff Ahlholm and Michael Wood hit well, while John Fischer put in a strong performance behind the plate. Bob Adler was good on the mound. Angels' Brian Miske, Pat Salimbene and Steve Dopen all fielded well.

Strong fielding played a big part again as the Brewers edged the Royals, 2-1. Mickey Tomko doubled in the tying run, and Matthew Miller hit in the go-ahead run. Michael Wachberg pitched strongly, and Anne Bunin, Greg Goldenberg and Greg Torborg were quick at bat for the Royals. Tomko, Vincent Mannion and Steve Sokhoj combined pitching for the win for the Brewers.

Other action saw the Cardinals defeat the Angels, 7-6. The Cards were paced by the five strikeout pitching of Peter Grett, and help from Terry Reardon and Brian Dailey. A bases-loaded home run by Glen Stummer and good hitting by Chris Dooley and Jim Rau all contributed to the win.

The Cards were then downed by one run, as the Reds took in their fair share of victory. A last-inning four-run rally put the game into the Reds' hands, as Pat Donaghy drove in the winning run. The Reds' pitchers were Jeff Ahlholm and George Tannenbaum. Bob Adler hit a homer.

The Chiefs jumped to a quick start in the Major League, winning five games over the past two weeks. In a runaway victory, they beat the Twins, 22-6. The offense exploded, piling up a huge lead. Keith Hannigan pitched three no-run innings, allowing only one hit. Richie Kontra, Stewart Jurzak, Hannigan, Kevin King and Andrew Grett all hit effectively. Grett and King did well on the field, at first base and home plate respectively.

The Mustangs were next to fall to the Chiefs. Powerful hitting led the Chiefs on to the victory, 15-4. Rookie Jurzak hit a home run, and Hanigan, too, wielded a potent bat. The duo also combined for the win, sharing the pitching honors.

The Vikings were successful in holding down the score but not enough, as they, too, fell to the Chiefs. Jeff Wilde pitched a losing battle for the Vikings, and Joe Sefak made a great catch.

The Chief regulars again pulled through with strong performances when they met and downed the Orioles, 12-1. Hannigan earned the win in relief of Jurzak after a crash at home plate, with nine strikeouts and one hit. He also hit an over-the-fence home run. Kevin King and Frank Noll of the Chiefs and Orioles respectively, did a fine job behind the plate.

The Chiefs ran their record to 5-0 when they met and decisively defeated the Braves, 24-4. Richie Kontra was the winning pitcher, and hit well along with three home runs by Hannigan and Grett.

Another team that earned two victories this week was the Blue Stars. The first was a 17-10 triumph over the Dodgers. Frank Gagliano was the winning pitcher. He also had a home run and two hits for three RBI. Kirk Yogy hit a home run and three other hits for five RBI. Other home runs were hit by Schoo Hain and Greg Van Name. Robert Dooley hit a grand slam for the Dodgers.

In the exciting second game, the Cubs held the score tied through two extra innings, after evening it up in the bottom of the sixth. Behind the batting of Yogy, Gagliano and Scholles, the Blue Stars rallied for three runs, and Yogy shot down the Cubs from the mound to end the game. Yogy had relieved Gagliano after six innings.

The Twins jumped to an early lead and continued to build on it, topping the Mustangs, 22-5. Pitcher Jim Postel held the Mustangs scoreless for three innings, and struck out a total of 11 batters. Postel contributed to the triumph with a long hit into the leftfield fence for a triple. Keith Grabowski hit well and came in to pitch in relief. Robert Sokol, Ed Hanbicki and James Dascoll all hit strongly.

The Cubs defeated the Giants, 7-5, on nine hits. M. J. Costello and Jeff Bradshaw each hit in two runs.

In a game called after four innings, the Braves beat the Mets, 16-11. Mike Dalhauser, Jim Cleveland and Chris Martignetti each had two RBI. Steve Solomon, Mark Dougherty and Anthony D'Addano each hit in a run.

The Giants won, 7-6, over the Dodgers when the game was called because of darkness. Dave Crane and Gary Kane combined talents on the mound to win the game. Ronny Zimmerman pitched for the Dodgers.

The Mustangs were victorious over the Mets, 19-9. Robert Casey and Mike Kontra shared the pitching honors. The entire team hit effectively, Casey and Kontra contributed home runs, while Bill Butler hit two home runs, one of them a grand slam.

Red Cross seeks needed donations

Ernest S. Winter, chairman of members and funds of the Westfield-Mountainside Chapter of the American National Red Cross, this week expressed his "sincere appreciation to all residents and businesses of the community who have responded so generously to the annual membership and supplemental fund drive."

Chairman of the March campaign, Michael S. Sgarro of Mountainside, said he was pleased with the prompt response and support given to the local Red Cross Chapter to date. "However," Sgarro said "in order to continue all the essential services for our community, including the new transportation program for senior citizens, it is necessary to reach the goal set. We hope that those who have not sent in their donations will do so at this time."

The local chapter office is at 321 Elm st., Westfield.

Sale of Echobrook delayed by board's lack of a quorum

By KAREN ZAUTYK

Approval of the sale of the Echobrook School to the borough by the Mountainside Board of Education, scheduled to be voted upon at the latter's regular monthly meeting Tuesday night, was delayed when the board failed to obtain a quorum. It will be on the agenda of the rescheduled meeting, debate, this Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Deerfield School.

This week's session was attended by about 50 local residents, but only three board members were present—William Biunno, Walter Rupp, and Peg Reilly. Trudy Palmer was absent because of illness in the family; R. Charles Speth was out of town, attending his son's college graduation; Scott Schmedel was in Denver on business, and Ronald Wood, who was expected to attend, was delayed at a dinner meeting at which he was a guest speaker. Board president Biunno planned to convene the session when Wood appeared, but, under state law, was prohibited from doing so after 9 p.m.

Those citizens who were present, however, were given a 90-minute presentation by superintendent of schools Dr. Levin B. Hanigan on various proposed aspects of the school reorganization plan, to be instituted next September. The position of one vocal music teacher, Lois Harrison, will be eliminated, and Hanigan discussed possible class assignments for the three remaining staff members in that department: Howard Kravitz, Doris Julian and Charles Guinta.

Under the reorganization plan, with Beechwood becoming a kindergarten-through-third-grade facility and Deerfield getting all other grades plus a kindergarten, there will be better opportunity to group students according to achievement levels, Hanigan explained. He said he had met with staff members on the subject, and all agreed the transitional classes, for children requiring special help, should be offered at each grade level where needed.

Also discussed was the school nurse's position, now scheduled as one full-time post covering both schools. Biunno noted the board had asked the Commissioner of Education for a ruling regarding the employment of the tenured full-time nurse, Jane Hummel, if it were decided to hire two part-time nurses to cover both schools during the same hours.

"We were told, if this were the case, we could eliminate the full-time position, but the tenured nurse must be given first crack at one of the part-time jobs, or first crack at a fulltime position, if it were offered again," he noted. This issue and the other aspects of the

"Brahms, His Life and Work" by Karl Gieringer, second edition, discusses various compositions of Brahms that were discovered after the first edition was printed.

"Musical Stages," a heartwarming American success story, is an autobiography by Richard Rodgers, one of the world's most popular composers.

"Music" by Frederic V. Grunfeld, containing over 170 illustrations, paintings and portraits along with text, is not only a history of music but through a five-page chronology relates events in the history of music to other cultural and political developments.

"101 Masterpieces of Music and Their Composers," revised and updated by Martin Bookspan, tells how to listen to the world's most popular classical music combined with concise biographies of the great composers as well as critical evaluations of current records and tapes.

Seventeen phonograph records have also been placed in the collection: "Kismet," "A Little Night Music," "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," "Pippin," "Mary Poppins," "Gypsy," "Funny Girl," "Company," "The Sound of Music," "Show Boat," "The Student Prince," "The King and I," "Fiddler on the Roof," "Man of LaMancha," "Oliver!" and "Once Upon a Mattress."

The pages of a newspaper will be turned into song-and-dance production numbers in "Sing Out the News," the Mountainside Music Association's production next Friday and Saturday, May 21 and 22, at Deerfield School gym.

The program will begin at 8:30 p.m. each day. There will also be a special student performance next Thursday, May 20, with tickets at 50 cents each. Special rates are available to senior citizens for the evening shows. Ticket information may be obtained by calling Marilyn Hart at 233-4036.

Local parish joins $6 million drive

Parishioners of Our Lady of Lourdes Roman Catholic Church in Mountainside have major roles in the local church's Lifeline '76 program, a massive, one-day campaign to collect $6 million throughout the Archdiocese of Newark on Sunday.

William J. Biunno, James J. Kellerk and Paul DiMauro are the campaign leaders in an effort that will reach every parish family.

Lifeline '76 is the second annual fund-raising drive designed to maintain uninterrupted operation of spiritual and social services while permitting a systematic reduction of more than $20 million in accumulated debt.

Preparations for this week's appeal have been under way since late last year. These preliminaries will lead to a two-hour effort on Sunday afternoon of May 16 when all those who have not returned their subscription cards will be visited by parish volunteer workers.

Sign-up deadline for 'tennis ladder'

The Mountainside "tennis ladder" program, inaugurated last summer, will have a longer season this year, with play extending from May 29 to Sept. 6 to permit a maximum number of matches.

Beginners through advanced players may sign up in seven categories: men's singles, women's singles, youth singles, men's doubles, women's doubles, mixed doubles and youth doubles. The goal is to work one's way up the "ladder list by challenging and defeating persons ranked higher."

Registrations for the "ladder" will be accepted up to this Sunday. Further information may be obtained from Helen Hewitt, 232-4745.

Udall group picks area coordinator for primary drive

The Morris Udall presidential primary campaign in Union County's District 22, which includes Berkeley Heights, Chatham Township, Clark, Fanwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside, Plainfield, Rahway, Scotch Plains and Springfield, was kicked off this week with a meeting to discuss fund raising strategies and literature distribution within the district, in the four weeks remaining before the June 8 primary.

The Udall delegate slate for the 22nd district consists of David Hull, who is also Udall's state director of field operations, Marcia Forman of Springfield and Cary Toor. Udall literature will be distributed at train stations, supermarkets and shopping centers throughout the district, as part of a concerted effort to bring Congressman Udall's message to the voters. Several fund raisers will be scheduled later this month; the Udall committee said it will bring in members of Congress to speak.

The coordinator for the 22nd District is Marianne Stephen, anyone interested in helping in the campaign effort may contact her at 232-9172. Marianne is a resident of Scotch Plains. She was Garwood coordinator for George McGovern's 1972 campaign and for Ann Klein's campaign in 1973, and she also served as county Election Day coordinator in 1973. She was executive director of Betty Wilson's campaign in 1975.

She has served as a county committeewoman since 1973, is a former vice-president of the Garwood Democratic Club, and is an executive board member of the Union County New Democratic Coalition. She is a member of the steering committee of the Union County Chapter of the New Jersey Association on Corruptions.

Clark man named coordinator for Carter campaign

Gary Darland of Clark has been named District 22 coordinator for the Jimmy Carter presidential campaign.

Darland, a microbiologist with Merck & Co. in Rahway, will direct the Carter campaign in the 10 towns composing the 22nd District. "We will also appoint local coordinators in every town," he explained. "Jimmy Carter's campaign is attracting a large number of voters who are eager to support a candidate who can restore public confidence in government."

Darland's involvement in politics began with the Robert Kennedy campaign in 1968. He lived in Georgia while Carter was governor there. "I've seen first-hand Gov. Carter's ability to tame bureaucracy and make government manageable," Darland said.

"As a scientist, I recognize the importance of Jimmy Carter's stand on environmental and energy issues. In addition, I believe Gov. Carter's commitment to full employment can pull this country out of the recession which has been deepened by the misguided decisions of the current administration."

Both Gary and his wife Pam are devoting most of their spare time to the Carter presidential campaign. "The Carter campaign is particularly exciting because we know we are backing a winner," he said. "I urge everyone who is interested in working for Jimmy Carter to contact state headquarters in East Orange at 678-2140."

Regional coordinators meet PTA members

In an effort to ease the transition of students from elementary school to the Union County Regional High Schools, the Regional District recently sponsored a joint meeting between representatives of grammar school PTAs from the constituent towns and two of the high schools' subject coordinators.

At the session, held in the district's administrative offices in Springfield, Joseph Solt, mathematics coordinator, and Stanley Grossman, coordinator for the industrial education home economics department, discussed available courses and made recommendations on the selection of electives by the future freshmen.

In reviewing the mathematics program, Solt explained that students taking math have the option to choose from one of four patterns. He suggested the incoming ninth grader register for Algebra I if, in elementary school, he or she recorded at least a "B" in math, reads well, likes math, has good work habits, and is college bound. Geometry also is offered to freshmen, if they have already studied Algebra I in the eighth grade.

Solt noted the Regional District also offers a program for college bound students who are weak in mathematics, spreading the Algebra I and geometry lessons over a three-year period. In senior year, the student can take Algebra II and thus meet the math requirements for college entrance.

The college preparatory math program, began in 1960, has been successful in the District and has been duplicated by other districts throughout the nation, Solt said.

Math I is offered non-college bound freshmen who find math a difficult subject. Exploratory algebra and some informal geometry are covered in this course, which emphasizes the type of math used on a daily basis.

Solt also detailed the various math options in the sophomore, junior and senior years, including computer science, statistics and advanced placement college level calculus.

Like the math courses, subjects in the industrial education home economics department also are offered on an elective basis. Subject coordinator Grossman explained all of the courses in his department were coeducational, and with the present job market, a dual program (mixing academics and vocational courses) should be considered by all incoming ninth graders.

Along with the basic ninth grade offerings in wood shop, metal shop, mechanical drawing, graphic arts, electronics and home economics, Grossman suggested all students consider taking the Career Awareness course.

The Regional District's exchange program enables students to take courses not offered in their home schools. They can spend a half-day or the entire day at the exchange school, with transportation provided by the District. This option is widely used in the industrial education area. Auto shop and beauty culture are offered at Arthur L. Johnson and David Brearley; an electronics program is taught at Gov. Livingston, and graphics arts courses are given in the print shop at Jonathan Dayton.

Work-experience programs are a feature of this department, and District students also may attend the Union County Vocational School in Scotch Plains on a half-day basis.

The PTA representatives were invited to tour the Regional District's facilities on May 17. The next discussion meeting will focus on business education and science curricula.

reorganization plan will be on next week's agenda.
Also scheduled to be discussed at the meeting will be state test results; goals of the school district; the proposed Mountainside Music Association-sponsored music summer school; the low kindergarten registration and its implications for staff members; abolition of three staff positions—vocal music teacher at the Deerfield School, a part-time piano instructor and a Spanish teacher; appointment of a board attorney; Hanigan's salary for 1975-76, and the awarding of a school transportation contract for 1976-77.
The long-awaited Echobrook agreement, which will turn over the 1936 portion of the school to the Borough Council for use as a municipal building, is expected to be approved. The school board would retain ownership of the 1903 building, housing board offices, and would grant a revocable license to the borough for use of land adjacent to that structure, the east playground and the recreation field for municipal and recreation purposes.
The board will reserve right of egress and ingress and parking for 10 cars and school buses. The borough would agree to provide custodial services, all utilities, repairs, insurances and all ground maintenance.
If the borough ever ceases to use the building as a Borough Hall, title will revert to the Board of Education.

also, The Tigers held on to a narrow lead to win, 4-3, over the Yankees. Kerry Lesslauer and Gregg Rusbarsky pitched for the Tigers. Timely hitting by Tim Holleran, Keith Mirto and Danny Belenets produced enough runs to take the lead. Mirto made a good catch in foul territory to end the game.
The Tigers next played the Indians. The Indians were up first and jumped to a four-run lead, but the Tigers dazed them by driving in nine in their half of the inning. The final score: Tigers 12, Indians 9. Mirto, Holleran, Rusbarsky and Kevin Iaione all hit strongly and were responsible for 11 of the 12 runs. Steven Gallagher was the winning pitcher.
Other Senior League action saw the Yankees squeeze by the Orioles, 5-4. Tim Harrigan was the winning pitcher in relief, and also hit strongly. Ken Klebous, Bob Raff and Bill Rose all hit well; Rose stole four bases. Tom Huelbig pitched for the Orioles and Matt Kukon played a strong defensive game at shortstop. Adam Williams hit strongly for the Orioles.

Regional students beat state averages in testing

Results of state mathematics and reading tests given to Union County Regional High School District 10th and 12th graders in October 1975 show that the Regional pupils compare well or surpass reference score criteria in most of the skill areas, according to a report released by Dr. Francis Kenny, District director of pupil personnel services.
A total of 1,267 sophomores and 1,250 seniors from the four Regional schools—Jonathan Dayton, Springfield; Gov. Livingston, Berkeley Heights; Arthur L. Johnson, Clark, and David Brearley, Kenilworth—participated in the tests.
Reviewing the results of the 10th grade reading exams, Dr. Kenny reported:
"The reading ability of students who were 10th graders during 1975-1976 in the Regional District is very good. These students demonstrated skills and abilities used in dealing with word recognition, reading comprehension, and study skills commensurate with or above reference scores of other regional districts, high schools in New Jersey or within the district factor grouping to which Union County Regional High School District No. 1 has been assigned for comparison purposes."
"The reading comprehension responses scored consistently above the comparative reference standards in 66 percent of the tested items. The student achievement in this cluster indicated very good skills in identifying main ideas, recognizing supportive details, making inferences regarding what is read, drawing conclusions and dealing with cause and effect relationships."
"Very good skills were also demonstrated in the use of synonyms and antonyms within the word recognition cluster and ability to successfully utilize dictionaries, reference books and the card catalog within the cluster items designated as study skills. The very good results on this test support the continued emphasis on reading skills in the 9th and 10th grade English curriculum," Dr. Kenny said.
"The mathematics ability of students who were 10th graders during 1975-1976 in the Regional District is very good," he continued.
"Students demonstrated skill and understanding in computations with whole numbers, fractions, decimals and percents, algebra, geometry and problem solving consistently higher or commensurate with reference scores. Scores dealing with fractions, decimals-percent and geometry exceed the comparative reference criteria in 87 percent, 94 percent and 88 percent respectively, of the tested items.

"Scores in the cluster of algebra exceed the reference criteria on 50 percent of the items, scores in the cluster of problem solving exceed the reference criteria on 57 percent of the items, while scores in the whole number cluster parallel the reference standards. One item indicated deficiency in the location of points in a coordinate plane, which is influenced by the time when this skill is emphasized."
According to Dr. Kenny, strengths shown in 10th grade reading and math were as follows:
"Reading comprehension is at a high level of development. Achievement in each of the skills related to the reading comprehension area is high. Use of synonyms and antonyms is very good. Dictionary, reference book and card catalog skills are very good."
"Ability to deal with fractions, decimals, percents, and geometry-measurement is very good. Understanding and use of the skills required in algebra and problem solving are good."
"The 10th grade reading results as compared to the reference criteria do not indicate any areas of need," he noted, but he did suggest reinforcement in dealing with context clues as a word recognition technique and in dealing with charts as a study skill technique.
According to Dr. Kenny, the 10th grade mathematics results, as compared to the reference criteria, also do not indicate any areas of need, although he believes reinforcement of algebra skills in the areas of translating words to mathematical symbols should be considered.
Discussing results of reading tests given to the seniors, he noted, "The reading ability of students who were 12th graders during 1975-1976 in the Regional District is good. Ability in word recognition, reading comprehension and study skills was commensurate with or above reference scores. The reading skills parallel the reference standards in all clusters and indicate an overall balance between skill clusters."
"Instructional reinforcement may be indicated in the area of study skills on the items dealing with dictionary skills, the use of maps and use of tables of content."
Dr. Kenny reported that math ability of the 12th graders also "is very good. Ability to deal with fractions, decimals-percent, algebra and

Mrs. Bunin leads Freund campaign

Helen Bunin of Mountainside has been named by Howard Freund, Democratic candidate in the 12th Congressional district for the House of Representatives, as his campaign manager in the borough.
"Freund has spoken out vehemently against Communist encroachment in our government, is against a state income tax, and supports a human life amendment against abortion," Mrs. Bunin noted. He is running with freeholder candidates Henry Kielbasa of Linden, Anthony DiMaio of Elizabeth and Donald Silvey of Union under the slogan "Democrats Against a State Income Tax."
Further information about Freund and his campaign platform may be obtained by calling Mrs. Bunin at 232-8571.

geometry is consistently above reference scores.
"In comparison to the reference criteria, scores on working with fractions were higher on 87 percent of the items; decimals-percent scores were higher on 69 percent of the items; algebra and geometry scores were higher on 50 percent and 69 percent of the items, respectively."
Noting seniors' strengths in both areas, he said, "Word recognition skills are good. Reading comprehension is at a good level of development. Ability in the use of reference books and card catalog is very good. Skills in working with fractions, decimals and percents are highly developed. Ability to solve problems in algebra and geometry is very good."
The 12th grade reading and math results, as compared to the reference criteria, do not indicate any areas of need, he added. Reinforcement in dictionary skills, the use of maps and tables of content, calculation skills with whole numbers and skills required in problem solving were suggested.
Other recommendations made by Dr. Kenny were:
—A review of test item results by subject coordinator in reference to curriculum implications.
—Consideration of in-service workshops for teachers on test results as they reflect present classroom emphasis.
—Comparison of state assessment results with the newly-instituted district testing program.
—District level articulation on state assessment results with constituent districts in regard to the influence pre-high school academic experiences have an achievement of secondary school students.

Home health, maintenance services urged at county convention of elderly

Calls asking for the establishment of home supportive services, a maintenance-repair program and home health care were issued at last week's annual convention of the Senior Citizens Council of Union County.

The resolution urging support of home health services says that "a gap in home care services necessitates putting the elderly in overcrowded and expensive nursing homes... it is more economical to maintain older persons in their homes rather than institutionalize them." The resolution said home services "can help the elderly have a life of dignity and independence."

In asking for better housing to meet the needs of the 81,658 elderly persons in Union County, the council said "sources of income for retired people has not kept pace with the spiraling cost of living." Many retired persons, it said, "have remained in their own homes, where property taxes take an inequitable share of income."

According to Evelyn Frank of Union, president of the council, a home supportive services-maintenance program would meet a wide variety of needs. The program would include rehabilitation, therapy, counseling, transportation and other direct personal services. Home maintenance and repair would include helping the elderly "seniorize" their residences—for instance, the installation of grab-rails for safety. Volunteer groups could participate by donating labor time for painting and repairs.

"We do not want to create a new service agency," Mrs. Frank told those attending the convention. "We need services and we are looking to use all available services in existence now. If there are gaps, we will have to accept the gaps now, but a start must be made."

Officers installed included Mrs. Frank, president; Jack Landau, vice-president; Mrs. Alma Zeller, recording secretary; Mrs. Genevieve Botelho, treasurer; Mrs. Madeline E. Lancaster, corresponding secretary; John Murphy, Raymond O'Day, and Mrs. Veronica Kane, trustees.

Eugene Carmody, mayor of Roselle Park, offered the welcome to the group following an opening prayer by the Rev. Alber Beimer, pastor of Community Methodist Church in that community. Peter Shields, executive director of the Union County Office on Aging, conducted the installation ceremony. Others to address the group included Larry J. Lockhart, executive director of the county's Department of Manpower Services; Harold J. Seymour, chairman of the Union County Board of Freeholders; and Mrs. Ann Stevens of the Visiting Nurses Association. The Rev. George Belger of Roselle Park's Church of the Assumption, offered the benediction.

O'Day was chairman of the installation ceremony. Mrs. Margaret Clark was luncheon and reservation chairman, assisted by Mrs. Marguerite Andrews. Hosts and hostesses were Raymond McElroy, Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. Florence O'Day, Mrs. Lancaster, Mrs. Ida Steimle, Mrs. Marion Tamburino, Mrs. Marion Carbone and Mrs. Florence Mead.

Groups represented in the Union County Senior Citizens Council include: Bayway Exxon Annuitants, the Kenilworth Senior Citizens Club, the Linden Golden Age Club, the Linden Active Seniors, the Linden Retired Men's Club, the Linden 50-Plus Club of St. Elizabeth's Church, the Linden Senior Friendship Club, the Linden-Roselle Gold Age Club, the Mountaineer Senior Citizens Club, the Roselle Senior Citizens Club, Roselle Pinewood Hall, Roselle Park Senior Citizens Club, six senior citizen groups from Springfield, the Union Township Senior Citizens Center, the Stuyvesant Village Senior Citizens Club, the Senior Citizens of Union, the Union Elks, Winfield and four United Auto Workers groups.

YM-YW to hold dance for teens

A teen dance will be held at the YM-YWHA on Green Lane in Union from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday, May 22. It will be open to Y members and guests and members of Jewish youth groups.

Tay-Sachs screenings this Sunday in Westfield

Mayors of a number of Union County communities participated recently in the signing of a proclamation designating this Sunday as Tay-Sachs Prevention Day.

Tay-Sachs Prevention Day involves a county-wide blood testing program, to be held at Temple Emanu-El, 756 E. Broad St., Westfield, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The project is sponsored by the Jewish Federation of Central New Jersey in cooperation with the genetics unit of the New Jersey Medical School and the New Jersey Chapter of the National Tay-Sachs and Allied Diseases Association.

The proclamation signed by the mayors states that out of more than 2,000 inherited diseases, Tay-Sachs is one of the few for which science has found the key to prevention.

Further, it says that while the disease is rare, it is always fatal. It affects primarily the Jewish population.

The blood test to be given Sunday will detect carriers of the Tay-Sachs gene.

In addition to proclamations marking the day in towns throughout the Central Jersey area, resolutions have been recorded in the N.J. State Assembly and the Union County Board of Freeholders urging residents to be tested.

Voluntary fee for the blood test is $7.50 per person.

Further information may be obtained from the Jewish Federation at 351-5060.

Prenatal care urged

Healthy Baby Week began on Mother's Day, May 9. The program, with goal of informing pregnant women of the importance of prenatal care, is sponsored by the National Foundation-March of Dimes.

"Many people in Union County would be shocked at the number of pregnant women who don't receive prenatal care until they are in labor," said March of Dimes chapter chairman, Dr. Edward Goodkin. "But early regular care is essential for every woman, no matter how well she feels, or how trouble-free her previous pregnancies were."

"Babies weighing less than five and one-half pounds at birth are 17 times more likely to die before their first birthday than babies who have normal, heavier birth weight," warned Dr. Goodkin.

Holy Cross Church planning 25th anniversary program

The Holy Cross Lutheran congregation at 639 Mountain Ave., Springfield, is preparing for its 25th anniversary celebration this month. The Rev. Joel Yoss and the anniversary committee have planned a program for the members and friends of the congregation.

Holy Cross now serves over 300 members in the area with worship services, a nursery school and numerous educational programs including parent effectiveness training, adult discussion groups, a Family Growth Hour and Life with God programs.

The congregation had its beginning on May 20, 1951 with a service held in the Raymond Chisholm School which was attended by 48 residents of the Springfield area. Since then it has become the center for Christian worship for many families of Springfield and Mountaintide and draws members from 15 surrounding communities.

After two years of worship services in the Chisholm School, it purchased property at its present location and converted the building on the property to its first church. In 1953 after expanding its property, the congregation built and dedicated the present brick church edifice together with a parish hall, greatly expanding its capacity for the ever-growing membership. In 1960, Holy Cross Nursery School was started under the teaching of Mrs. Gloria Roerig of Chatham who is still serving. The Nursery School utilizes the original church building on the property for its facilities.

In 1969, a 30-foot cross and a lighted sign in the front of the property were dedicated, aiding in identifying Holy Cross to the community. Two years ago, Mrs. Bette Becker of Westfield, the current organist and choir director, who played the piano at the first service in 1951, assisted in the dedication of the new organ.

Gordon Becker of Westfield, chairman of the building committee in 1963 for the new church building, is serving as co-chairman with Mrs. Egon Stark of Murray Hill of the anniversary committee. Assisting them are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Brumley and Mrs. Frank Musto of Springfield, Donald Halbsgut of Mountaintide and Mrs. Arlene Luedeker of Chatham. Recently Mrs. Elsa Halbsgut of Mountaintide and Mrs. Diane Kauna of Springfield, together with other members of the congregation, redecorated the interior of the parish hall and the offices of the pastor and the secretary in preparation for the celebration.

Officers installed, chairmen named by Foothill Club

The Foothill Club of Mountaintide held its installation luncheon recently at the Tower Steak House. The outgoing president, Mrs. Peter Steiner, installed the new officers: president, Mrs. William Mieke, vice-president, Mrs. Anthony D. Pastore, recording secretary, Mrs. Frank Musso, corresponding secretary, Mrs. Arthur Grande, treasurer, Mrs. Jack McCarthy.

Committee chairmen for the next year are: child care and sunshine, Mrs. Joseph Moran; community services, Mrs. Willis Wells; directory, Mrs. Albert Earle; hostess and decorations, Mrs. James Goense and Mrs. William Ruffel; membership, Mrs. Edwin Sauerberger; publicity and historian, Mrs. James Keller; reservations, Mrs. William Tomko; social activities, Mrs. Van Sellers and Mrs. Karl Heinze; telephone, Mrs. Graham Miller; ways and means, Mrs. Jack Hvizdak.

The club's community services for the past year have included food baskets and financial aid to the elderly in the community, donation toward chemotherapy treatments for a local resident, Millburn School for the Hearing Handicapped, United Cerebral Palsy League of Union, a flag and contribution to the Mountaintide Rescue Squad.

New members joining the club this month are Mrs. Edward Mayer and Mrs. Charles Frank. A silver tea will be held by the outgoing board for the incoming board at the home of Mrs. Peter Steiner on June 7. All members have been reminded that their dues must be paid by May 31; they may forward their checks to Mrs. Jack McCarthy.

McCormack to speak tomorrow in Cranford

Ellen McCormack, Pro-Life presidential candidate, will speak at a rally at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Community Recreation Center, 114 Miln st., Cranford.

The rally will offer anti-abortion advocates a chance to meet a candidate committed to their cause and meet both at-large and local district delegates on her slate. Mike McGuire, co-chairman of the rally, said.

Car costs $3.25 a day

According to the American Automobile Association, it costs the American motorist an average of $3.25 per day to own a car — even if it's never driven — and another six cents for each mile it is driven.

The costs are a national average based on an intermediate size eight-cylinder, two-door hardtop sedan equipped with standard accessories, automatic transmission, power steering, power disc brakes and radio.

Five courses in fine arts on UC summer schedule

Five courses in fine arts will be offered this summer by Union College with the first scheduled to begin on Monday, June 14, at the Cranford Campus.

"Stained Glass Workshop" will be conducted from 7 to 10 p.m. on six Monday evenings and is designed to provide the basic techniques of leaded glass and the Tiffany copper foil method, including designing and pattern-making, cutting, soldering, with participants creating products of their own choice. Kay Weiner of Mountainside, writer for "Creative Crafts" magazine, will be the instructor. Tuition for Union County residents is $36 and $42 for out-of-county residents.

"Landscape Painting on Location" will be taught by Natalie Becker of Westfield, national award winner in landscape painting, and will be held for six Tuesdays from 9 a.m. until noon beginning June 15. The first class will meet in the Art Studio for orientation and to help students with unique problems in painting on location. Other classes will be conducted at scenic sites or in the studio in the event of poor weather. Instruction will deal mainly with broad art principles and will be applicable to any medium (watercolor, acrylics or oil). Tuition is $40 for Union County residents and $50 for those residing out of county.

"Creative Drawing" is a six-session course to be offered on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 10 beginning June 16. Fundamentals of drawing, including instruction in basic composition, proportion and perspective, using pencil, pen and ink techniques, will be stressed. Tuition for this course, to be taught by artist Patricia Conroy of Westfield, is $40 for Union County residents and $50 for out-of-county participants.

"Oil Painting," an opportunity for both novices and experienced students to develop their own painting styles, will be offered from 7 to 10 on six Thursdays evenings starting June 17. Ms. Becker will also instruct this course, featuring fundamentals of form, color, line and pattern. The in-county tuition is $40 and $50 for out-of-county students.

"Vocal Technique Workshop" is available from 6:30 to 9 p.m. for six Thursdays beginning June 17. It is designed for the choir singer, the soloist, or any other vocalist who wishes to develop or improve his or her singing voice. The instructor will be Kathryn Evans Ferrara of Nutley, a professional soloist who has been heard in concert in England, France, Italy and Austria as well as the United States. Tuition is $36 for Union County residents and $42 for out-of-county residents.

Details regarding these fine arts programs and all other non-credit summer offerings at Union College can be obtained by phoning Weyman O. Steengrafe, director of continuing education, at 276-2600, extensions 238 or 239. Many of the classes have participant limitations so early application is advised, he said.

The crafts reception Sunday will include many of the 22 craftspeople whose work is included in the current exhibit.

Memorials boost cancer unit funds

"People who have lost close friends or relatives to cancer often wish to make a contribution to the American Cancer Society as a living memorial," Dr. Herbert W. Samenfeld, president of the Union County Unit of the Cancer Society, said this week. Memorial gifts account for nearly 30 percent of the Union County Unit's annual income, he added.

"Such a gift greatly assists the American Cancer Society's programs of research, education, and service to cancer patients in Union County," Samenfeld said.

"As Memorial Day approaches I hope people will keep in mind this thoughtful method of honoring a loved one by helping others." Each memorial contribution is acknowledged with a receipt to the donor and a memorial card for the family with the name of the person honored and the name or names of the donors. The amount of the gift is not indicated to the family. Each gift is deductible for tax purposes.

The necessary information for processing a memorial include: The name of the deceased, name and address of the person to whom the acknowledgment is to be sent and the name and address of the person to whom the receipt is to be sent.

Arrangements for the memorials may be made by contacting the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society, 512 Westminster ave., Elizabeth, 354-7373.

WILLIAM LIVINGSTON
FIRST GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY

"I should be very sorry to have Clinton recalled through any national resentment against him; because so fertile as that country (England) is in the production of blockheads I think they cannot easily send us a greater blunderbuss, unless it should please his Majesty himself to do us the honor of a visit."

So wrote William Livingston, an Elizabethtown resident and first governor of New Jersey, upon hearing that the British government was considering the removal of General Sir Henry Clinton from command of the British troops in this area.

Livingston's many anti-British essays and statements directed against King George and the British government soon led to the posting of a reward of 2000 guineas and a life pension to any person who would "deliver that damned old rascal, Governor Livingston, dead or alive, to Staten Island."

Upon hearing of the reward, Livingston wrote Clinton to assure the General that he was certain that the General had nothing to do with the price that had been placed on his head, but, at the same time, warned Sir Henry that two could play the game of assassination to which Clinton replied "I should not tarnish myself with so foul a crime to obtain so trifling an end." "Sensible of the power you boast of being able to dispose of my life, by intimates of yours, ready to murder at your command, I can only congratulate you on your amiable connections, and acknowledge myself your most humble servant." Although famous for his wit and sarcasm, Livingston met his master in the General.

William Livingston was born on November 30, 1723, of wealthy parents in Albany, New York, where his father served as mayor. He attended Yale and in 1741 graduated at the head of his class. He then studied law under James Alexander, a noted colonial lawyer who gained fame by defending the patriot printer, John Peter Zenger, when Zenger was charged with seditious libel for criticizing the government. At the conclusion of his studies, Livingston was admitted to the bar and set up a law practice in New York City in 1748.

Early in his life Livingston indicated liberal political views, was a champion of a free press and was opposed to an established religion in the colonies. He often engaged in many heated controversies with the Episcopalians with reference to this subject. In 1752 he founded and edited the weekly Independent Reflection which brought him prominence outside the colony, and was considered one of the leaders of New York's opposition to British colonial policies.

The future governor of New Jersey was 50 years old and one of America's leading lawyers when he retired to Elizabethtown in 1773, and settled his family in Liberty Hall on the Morris turnpike road.

Being an inveterate politician, he came out of retirement to represent New Jersey at the First and Second Continental Congress, and to also command the New Jersey Militia until his election as governor in 1776 at which time he turned over the command to Matthias Williamson, another Elizabethtown resident. At the time of the election, the legislature found it difficult to decide between Livingston and Richard Stockton. When it became known that Stockton refused to allow the army to use his team of horses, the die was cast and Livingston was chosen.

Once elected governor, Livingston was constantly on the move and saw little of Liberty Hall since it was situated too close to the enemy to allow his staying there for any length of time.

His administration was noted for its vigor in prosecuting the war and for its moderation during the confederation period. Washington ranked Livingston as second only to Governor Trumbull of Connecticut as a patriot among the governors for his unflinching war effort. He headed New Jersey's delegation to the 1787 Constitutional Convention, supporting the "small state" plan of union but accepting compromise to save the convention. His support of the new Constitution was largely responsible for New Jersey's speedy ratification.

With peace and independence a reality, William Livingston remained the most respected man in New Jersey and was reelected governor each year until his death in 1790. During this period he never had more than 8 votes cast against him in the election for the governorship, and as late as 1781 received the unanimous vote of the assembly.

Did You Know

... that Governor William Livingston, like so many of the prominent men of his time, enjoyed working in his garden and orchards. As a man of the soil, he experimented with seeds from all over the world, and had his son, Brockholst, while serving as John Jay's secretary in Spain, send him seeds of shrubs and melons which were likely to grow in this climate. Although he was a skillful writer and a great governor, it pleased Livingston most to be called a New Jersey farmer.

Doctor says state cancer death rate not nation's worst

Labeling New Jersey "Cancer Alley" is not justified if factors other than the raw death statistics of 1950-69 are taken into consideration, Dr. Donald B. Louria, chairman of the Department of Preventive Medicine and Community Health at the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry, reported this week at a medical seminar on "Cancer Risk Identification" sponsored by the New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society.

More than 200 doctors attended a two-day symposium led by national authorities in the field of cancer detection and control. Dr. Louria addressed himself to an "Atlas of Cancer Mortality for U.S. Counties: 1950-1969" issued late last year by the National Cancer Institute. These statistics showed New Jersey leading the nation in deaths due to most forms of cancer.

Dr. Louria's updated study of cancer statistics in Newark (Essex County) and Morris and Hunterdon counties — covering approximately one eighth of New Jersey's population living in diverse sections — shows cancer deaths to be above the national average, but not the highest in the nation in most major categories of cancer. On the basis of Dr. Louria's study, eight states (Arkansas, Florida, Maine, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and West Virginia) and the District of Columbia are likely to show a higher cancer death rate than New Jersey in 1976.

Dr. Louria also challenged the assumption that "most cancer in New Jersey is related to industrial exposure" as "an oversimplification."

Stressing the need for more precise data about cancer, Dr. Louria urged a statewide registry that includes information on incidence and mortality for each malignant tumor; mandatory reporting of cancer and standardization of hospital records.

PS reports hike in state excise tax

Public Service Electric and Gas Company's 1975 state excise tax bill increased 20.5 percent over 1974, to a total of $166,891,981, the utility reported this week.

The increase amounted to $28,357,692 over the 1974 figure of $138,534,289. PSE&G is the largest taxpayer in New Jersey.

These taxes, the company said, comprise a franchise tax, a gross receipts tax and a surtax. In addition, PSE&G pays local real estate taxes.

discussions will be held in the evening and a full day of workshops is scheduled on the subject of "Getting into Print."

Upsala English Professor Del Earisman, director of the program and author of two books, "Hippies in Our Midst" and "How Now is the Now Generation," said the conference is designed for professional writers who want to sharpen their skills and for "closet writers who would like to emerge from the closet to the book shelves."

Conducting the day sessions will be George Woods, editor of the New York Times juvenile books section; David Kaufelt, author of "The Bradley Beach Tamba" and "Six Months With An Older Woman"; Carole Klein, author of "The Myth of the Happy Child" and "The Single Parent Experience," who is the assistant director of the writers' conference; and poet David Ignatow, author of a number of volumes of poetry, editor at large of the American Poetry Review and adjunct professor of the writing division, School of the Arts, Columbia University.

The day sessions will take place from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. after which participants will share their experiences at a wine and cheese party until 5:30 p.m. In the evening lectures and panel discussions will be held on the subjects of "The Woman as a Writer," "The Art of Revision," "Writer's Identity," "Inspiring Creativity in Children" and "The Theory and Practice of Juvenile Writing." These sessions will be open to the public.

The workshops on how to get works published will take place on Sunday, June 27, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. They will be open to the public and conference participants.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Upsala's continuing education office at 266-7102.

Recruiting drive started by Army Reserve Division

The 78th Division (Training), New Jersey's major U.S. Army Reserve organization, this week began an intensive recruiting drive aimed at enlisting nearly 2,500 men and women before October.

Maj. Gen. Howard A. Lauderback, commander of the famed "Lightning Division," is heading up the drive. Col. Carmine P. Giordano of Springfield is the public relations officer. "With a nondraft environment the enlistment program for the Army Reserve has slackened off considerably and we are now going door-to-door in an effort to inform our young men and women and prior servicemen and women of the benefits to be accrued from the Army Reserve program," said General Lauderback.

All Reserve Centers of the 78th Division are being geared to enlist all applicants and to answer inquiries. These centers are situated at Caven Point in Jersey City and Kearny, Lodi, Edison, Fort Hancock, Fort Dix, Northfield, Pedricktown, Trenton and Mount Freedom. The main number for information is (201) 985-6331.

The Reserve program is open to any man or woman, aged 17 to 26, for non-prior men and 18 through 34 for women. The benefits include retirement after 20 years of service, low-cost life insurance up to $20,000 and excellent job training opportunities. Prior servicemen and women are also eligible to join.

Harbor traffic to be limited for naval review on July 4th

GOVERNORS ISLAND, N.Y. — The Coast Guard will impose speed limits, anchorage restrictions, special craft viewing sites and close sections of New York Harbor July 2 to insure the safety of the crews of the some 200 sailing ships, 60 naval vessels and thousands of pleasure boats which will be honoring the nation's anniversary.

Fourth of July marine events will commence July 2 and 3 with the passage of all but the tallest of the Operation Sail 1976 sailing ships from Long Island Sound through the East River to the lower bay. The larger vessels will navigate along the south shore of Long Island and anchor in Sandy Hook and Gravesend Bays July 3. The International Naval Review participants will pass under the Verrazano Narrows Bridge at 8 a.m. July 3 and anchor in the upper bay and the Hudson River.

The parade of sailing vessels will begin July 4 at 11 a.m. under the Verrazano Bridge and proceed north up the Hudson River to the Spuyten Duyvil Bridge. At approximately 1:30 p.m. a naval vessel with the reviewing official aboard will head south from the George Washington Bridge to Staten Island. The ship will pass between the anchored naval vessels along the Manhattan shore and the sailing vessels proceeding north along the New Jersey side of the Hudson.

Following the parade, naval vessels will go to their assigned berths. As the sailing vessels complete the parade route, they will turn south to go to their assigned berths. At 9 p.m. a Bicentennial salute to the nation, including a fireworks display highlighting the Statue of Liberty will begin.

Details on the special regulations may be found in the Federal Register and the Third Coast Guard District Local Notice to Mariners. Additional information can be had by writing the Commander (dpa), Third Coast Guard

District, Governors Island, N.Y., 10004.

To mark the parade route, 96 Coast Guard Auxiliary patrol boats displaying a flashing strobe light as well as USCG auxiliary flags will be stationed at 400 yard intervals from the Verrazano Bridge to the George Washington Bridge. In addition 30 Coast Guard patrol boats will be patrolling for law enforcement and assistance duties. This force will be controlled from a command center on Governors Island.

Due to the large volume of waterborne traffic, boaters are requested to use their marine radios as little as possible. The Coast Guard also recommends that mariners assist one another where possible in non-emergency troubles, such as running out of fuel and engine failure. This will free the Coast Guard to respond to serious distress calls. Boats planning to visit New York harbor during this time should be fully operational and equipped prior to their arrival; services and repairs will be difficult to obtain. The Coast Guard, Operation Sail and the U.S. Navy have developed a set of guidelines to achieve maximum safety while insuring that all will enjoy this Bicentennial event.

Med college dedicates giant campus as beginning new era in health care

Political leaders, educators and hundreds of other friends of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (CMDNJ) helped dedicate the college's new, $189 million Newark campus Monday.

"This encompasses a great deal more than some strikingly beautiful real estate," Dr. Stanley S. Bergen Jr., president of the CMDNJ, told the gathering assembled in the new campus' central plaza.

"It symbolizes the beginning of a new era, not only in the life of the institution but in the health care of the people of New Jersey. This signifies that the college's major building effort is behind us," said Bergen. "We can now turn our complete attention to health education and health services toward a healthier, happier existence for all mankind."

Another who hailed the campus as a major forward step in health care and life-science education in New Jersey was Theodore Cooper, M.D., assistant secretary for health in the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the dedication keynote speaker.

Dr. Cooper was awarded an honorary doctor of science degree by the CMDNJ board of trustees for his "forthright, yet sensitive" leadership and "compassionate" concern for "the well-being of all."

The board's citation, read by Morris F. Shaffer, D. Phil., dean of the CMDNJ-Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences.

"At a time of reassessment of the national health-care delivery system, you have brought to your task a clear-sighted perspective of the basic issues that has contributed immeasurably to keeping the debate on a constructive course."

The new campus is a 46-acre complex of six inter-connected buildings. They are the CMDNJ-New Jersey Dental School, the CMDNJ-Newark Community Health Center, a library, a power plant, a college teaching hospital, slated for completion in 1978, and a basic sciences building which is scheduled to be occupied later this year by the CMDNJ-New Jersey Medical School and CMDNJ-Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences, now housed in interim structures. In addition, portions of the proposed School of Allied Health Professions will be located on the Newark campus.

'Man of Aron' on TV

Robert Flaherty's classic 1934 film, "Man of Aran" will be shown Saturday, May 29, at 9 p.m. on Channels 50 and 58. It concerns man's fight against the relentless seas in the barren islands lying across Galway Bay off the coast of England.

At a special ceremony, the new library was christened the George F. Smith Library of the Health Sciences. The late Mr. Smith, who was formerly president of Johnson & Johnson, is regarded as a founding father of CMDNJ. He chaired a gubernatorial fact-finding committee whose recommendation led to the State's assumption, in 1965, of the Seton Hall College of Medicine and Dentistry, CMDNJ's forerunner, and he served as chairman of the new state institution's first board of trustees.

The Newark campus is one of two belonging to CMDNJ. The other, in Piscataway, is the home of CMDNJ-Rutgers Medical School, its Institute of Mental Health Sciences and a community mental health center.

Probably the largest single entity of its kind ever erected, the Newark complex occupies a superb block in Newark's Central Ward, bordered by Bergen and Norfolk Streets and 12th and South Oranges avenues.

Although unified in design and containing centralized services and utilities, the individual buildings vary in size and interior arrangement according to their specific functions.

The CMDNJ-Newark Community Mental Health Center, for example, is a low-lying structure built around a landscaped park-like area at one corner of the campus. It is a bright, carefully furnished building, designed to provide a comfortable, pleasant environment for its patients.

At the CMDNJ-New Jersey Dental School, 10 patient-care educational clinics are arranged around a two-story high lobby-waiting room. The clinics have a total of 301 chairs, 288 of which are in semi-enclosed treatment areas, designed to approximate the atmosphere of a private dental office.

The central core is the nine-level basic sciences building. The library is at one end and dental school at the other, and when the college teaching hospital is complete, its patient-care units will be directly linked to appropriate medical departments in the basic sciences building.

CHILDREN'S PLAY — Members of the P.A.R.T. Foundation, New York Children's Theater Center, rehearse for their production of 'The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere,' to be presented Saturday as part of the Kean College Children's Theater Series. The show will be staged at 11 a.m. in the Wilkins Theater for Performing Arts on Kean's Union campus. Tickets, at $1 each, may be obtained from the college's Office of Community Services, 527-2213.

2 new programs begun to help blind learn living skills

Two federally funded social services programs have been launched in New Jersey to teach the blind basic living skills, Commissioner Ann Klein of the New Jersey Department of Institutions and Agencies announced this week.

One enables the New Jersey Commission of the Blind and Visually Impaired to provide homemaker training to 650 adults living in all parts of the state. The second funds day care services provided by the Mount Carmel Guild in Newark for 36 blind residents of Essex County 45 years of age or older.

"There is an acute need for these services to the blind," Commissioner Klein said. "Statistics show that 70.5 percent of all blind individuals are over 45 years of age. And most of them are blind because of illness or accidents that occurred during adulthood. Both of these programs will help them adjust to the problems of being blind."

The two programs are funded through the Purchase of Service Unit of the Division of Youth and Family Services, a component of the Department of Institutions and Agencies. They are funded under Title 20 of the federal Social Security Act, which makes family and adult social service funds available on a 3 to 1 federal-local matching basis.

Plans under way for Guild benefit

A reception and dinner were held recently at the Canoe Club Country Club to set in motion plans for the Archbishop Peter L. Gerety Gala to benefit the Mount Carmel Guild entitled, "A World of Love with a Heavenly View." Mr. and Mrs. John J. Radigan of Summit were the hosts of the reception.

Radigan, a Merck official, and his wife led preparations for the event. More than 70 business and civic leaders attended the reception along with Archbishop Gerety.

The $100-per-person event, to be held Saturday, May 22, at the Twombly Estate of Fairleigh Dickinson University and surrounding gardens, will include representatives from Bergen, Essex, Hudson and Union counties.

Governor and Mrs. Brendan T. Byrne will serve as honorary chairmen and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferguson and Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Foley will help with the organization. Ferguson is president of the First National State Bank of Newark and Foley is a partner in the law firm of Hughes, McElroy, Connell, Foley and Geiser. He is also commissioner of the New Jersey Sports Complex.

THE CENTENNIAL model at Pine Ridge, manufactured-home adult community on Rt. 530 in Whiting, features appliance-equipped kitchen, arate dining room and pantry. The two-bedroom, two-bath ranch design, priced at $22,450, also includes dressing room, walk-in closets, and shingled roof. To reach the model homes, open Monday-Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., take the Garden State Parkway south to Exit 80 (Toms River); then go west on Rt. 530 to Pine Ridge.

Barrymor communities attract first-home buyers

Morris and Barry Westnak of Barrymor Enterprises, custom home builders, have found that first-home buyers explore every aspect of home ownership with great care.

Also included within the purchase price are deep pile sculptured carpeting, 100 percent vinyl asbestos and ceramic tiles, all wood doors and custom fruitwood cabinets.

Home choices include three ranch styles, a Cape Cod, two bi-levels and two two-story colonials. To reach the model homes, take the Garden State Parkway south to Exit 91; take Rt. 549 to Rt. 526; Turn right on Rt. 526 and follow the Barrymor models on the right.

Barrymor Estates, Barrymor on the Green at Lakewood, Barrymor at Spruce and Barrymor at Cypress, are housing projects which seem to satisfy the wants and needs of many first home buyers, they noted.

"Considered foremost by prospects are initial cost, financing arrangements and quality of construction," they explained.

"Barrymor's five percent down payment offering and 30-year mortgage is probably what initially draws first-home buyers to us, but this alone is not what sells homes."

"The firm's first concern is to build a solid, basic home, at a reasonable price, to which additions and accessories can be added later. As a result, young couples buying their first home can upgrade it as they are able."

All eight models, ranging from ranch type to the Allaire, a custom two-story colonial, feature double-hung windows, double floor construction, heavy insulation in above and below-ground levels and underground utility lines.

QUESTIONS MOST ASKED BY OUR CUSTOMERS:

IF NUCLEAR ENERGY IS CHEAPER, WHY ARE MY BILLS STILL SO HIGH?

It does cost PSE&G less to produce electricity with nuclear energy than with oil or coal, because nuclear fuel is cheaper than oil or coal. At present, about 15 percent of the electricity our customers use is being produced by nuclear energy. This results in savings of millions of dollars in fuel costs—savings that are automatically passed on to our customers.

However, the price of oil and coal, which still produce most of our electricity, remains extremely high. In addition, our expenses for materials, labor, environmental controls, interest and taxes—all the costs of providing you with service—have gone up, resulting in higher rates.

Unfortunately, cheap energy is a thing of the past. This is true all across the nation. It's expensive to generate electricity with oil or coal. It's expensive to generate it with nuclear energy. But at least nuclear energy is less expensive, and our best estimates indicate it will continue to cost less. Planning for the future with nuclear energy means you'll pay less for electricity in the years to come than you would if we relied strictly on oil or coal.

That's why PSE&G is convinced that its nuclear energy program is the best way to meet New Jersey's near-term energy needs and to carry us to that time in the future when other methods of producing energy—such as fusion or solar power—become practical.

"Every day we're asked serious questions regarding energy and the wise use of energy. This series of informational advertisements answers many of the questions we most frequently receive and is designed to make facts concerning energy available to all our customers."

Realtor officials testify on 2 bills before Congress

The National Association of Realtors testified recently in Congress on two major pieces of legislation affecting real estate.

Philip C. Smaby, president of the 500,000-member association, testified before the Financial Institutions Subcommittee of the House Banking Committee.

The association endorsed a number of provisions of a proposed House Financial Reform Act but said it "cannot support the basic thrust" of the bill.

In the Senate, Julio S. Laguarda, chairman of the association's Legislative Committee, testified before the Finance Committee which is holding hearings on tax reform.

Smaby said Realtors strongly back four provisions of the House bill:

- Limiting of bank holding company activities.
- Granting federal credit unions the authority to make residential loans.
- Altering the regulation of mutual savings banks by giving them federal and state charter options.
- Giving savings and loan associations additional powers to make them more competitive with banks.

However, Smaby expressed "grave reservations" about the impact on the supply of mortgage funds other provisions of the bill would have.

In particular, he cited:

- The limited incentive that banks and S&Ls would have to invest in housing. The bill would permit a higher savings interest rate to those institutions investing a prescribed percentage of their assets in housing loans, but they would not be compelled to do so. Realtors would prefer a tax incentive.
- A provision authorizing the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to advance funds to lenders for housing loans. Realtors would prefer that, in addition to the lower-income families the program contemplates, the proposal would include middle-income families. Such families are increasingly being denied home ownership because of high costs and interest rates.

A proposal to permit S&Ls to invest in commercial paper.

"We view this proposal as a very real threat which would allow financial institutions to weather a mortgage downturn by dropping out of home lending and investing their money elsewhere for a better yield," Smaby said.

Removal of the current requirement for investing a minimum percentage of assets in mortgage loans.

Realtors recognize that the broad new powers S&Ls would be given would be highly attractive to them, Smaby said. Without a minimum investment limit for housing, money will be increasingly directed away from residential lending.

Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, Realtors offered a proposal for stimulating real estate investment and, hence, the national economy.

Laguarda called for enactment of provisions which would permit a "real estate entity" to engage in development with the same multiple ownership and the same tax results that limited partnerships have long enjoyed. The entity could be a partnership, a trust or a corporation under the Realtor proposal.

He also recommended, as a means of providing that all taxpayers pay a fair share of tax, a Minimum Alternative Tax (MAT). This approach would curb tax abuses without the overkill contained in the House-passed Limitation on Artificial Losses (LAL). Under the proposal, the taxpayer would pay the greater of his regular tax or the MAT.

Laguarda cited the MAT plan as being equitable because it treats all industries in the same manner. He contrasted it with the LAL, which would prevent a developer from deducting construction expenses as an offset against income from other sources. Realtors believe LAL would discriminate against the real estate industry and discourage investors from helping to revive the sagging housing market.

Laguarda also was critical of a provision in the House bill limiting to $12,000 the amount of personal interest that an individual may deduct.

"Such a limitation on home mortgage interest deductions is a foot in the door to the possible entire elimination of home mortgage interest deductions," he told the senators.

Firm sells properties

Gebroe-Hammer Associates, the Clifton-based realty firm, has arranged the sale of five adjacent apartment properties fronting on Union and Fullerton streets in Montclair at a value of more than $1 million.

According to Gebroe-Hammer representative Norman Lizi, the buildings, with a total of 52 units, were owned by Anthony Ferro. The complex was sold and its sale was facilitated through a purchase-money mortgage arranged with Ferro by Gebroe-Hammer Associates.

Lizi notes that the buildings, ranging from two to eight stories in height, feature large, spacious apartments. Most units contain five, six or seven rooms. Some include wood-burning fireplaces. The complex is within walking distance of downtown Montclair.

Gebroe-Hammer Associates is involved in investment and commercial real estate on a nationwide basis.

Realty firm buys office

Sterling Thompson and Associates real estate company has purchased the Bellaire Realty in Branchburg Township, Somerset County, increasing to 12 its residential sales offices throughout central New Jersey. This is announced by G.J. Sterling Thompson of Middletown, president of the firm.

The acquisition of the new agency, now covers the five counties of Monmouth, Ocean, Somerset, Middlesex and Hunterdon. Its corporate headquarters are at 1250 Rt. 35, Middletown.

FOR RESIDENTS ONLY—Maple Glen Clubhouse features lounge, kitchen and laundry facilities as well as shuffleboard court. Maple Glen is an adult mobile home community located in Jackson Township just six miles off Rt. 9. All facilities are for the exclusive use of residents. Mobile homes are priced from $30,900.

Recreation emphasized by Holly Lake planners

"A total recreational environment for a residential community" is the concept behind Holly Lake Park, a planned condominium community in Little Egg Harbor Township, southern Ocean County.

The first phase of the recreation complex, which has already been completed, includes a nine-hole golf course, a community clubhouse with golfers' lounge, and a swimming pool.

In the planning stages are a deepwater marina, with approximately 175 berths; several more swimming pools; another community clubhouse on the other side of Holly Lake; pavilions to be built around the lake; carriage house; studio for the arts; tennis and shuffleboard courts; stables; and nature trails.

"The community planners reason that having all these recreational facilities at one's disposal means they can be conveniently enjoyed by friends and neighbors, with no need to join outside sport and recreational organizations," a spokesman said.

"This atmosphere of community privacy and completeness is another added advantage to having these facilities in one's own backyard that a public facility cannot offer," he added.

Architect sponsor Joseph Courter cited the open spaces of the community's southern Ocean County location as making it possible for Holly Lake Park to become a forerunner in the field of recreation-residence development.

Courter noted that "within the last few years, many condominium communities have offered 'recreation' with a clubhouse and swimming pool for residents; however, Holly Lake Park wants to expand this concept to new dimensions."

Priced from $24,900 to $33,900, each apartment includes a private carport, kitchen, living room, patio area, family room, master bedroom and guest room. Units include from 900 to 1,300 sq. ft. of space.

To reach Holly Lake Park, take the Garden State Parkway south to exit 58; follow the Tuckerton signs to Rt. 9; make a right on Rt. 9 to the lake, take the left fork, Great Bay boulevard, and follow to models.

Rally by Red Sox nips Angels, 10-9, in girls' softball

The first two games of the 1976 Springfield Girls' Softball American League for grades 4-6 were cancelled by poor weather conditions, but the Red Sox spirits were not dampened when they came from behind to defeat the Angels 10-9. Jackie Pecararo was the winning pitcher and leading fielder with help from Donna Alberti, Sharon Rothspand and Diane Grieco. Linda Graziano led the batting with a clutch triple that scored two runs. Although the Red Sox won the power belonged to the Angels with five home runs, two by Karen Hudgins and one by Lynne Murray, Debbie Vogt and Barbara Mariani.

In the second game, the White Sox nipped the Yankees, 8-7. Maria Sannino and Cara Novich combined for five strikeouts and no walks. Leslie Grant led the batting and Maria Sannino added a home run. The Yankees fell one run short in the sixth inning when Karen Wisniewski homered with two men on before the final out was made.

On Monday, Karen Wisniewski pitched well for the Yankees and led the team with 7 RBI in a 25-9 rout of the Royals. Lynda Marcantonio, Adele Doerler and Jill McShea led the batting for the Royals.

The White Sox registered a decisive victory over the Indians with all the White Sox batting and fielding well. Roth Brown and Cathy Markwith hit home runs for the Indians while Joanne Vasselli starred for the Indians.

The Royals defeated the Indians, 22-4 Monday. Dolores Scoppetolo and Jane Austin shared pitching duties for two no-hit innings, while Kathy Erhardt and Mary Walsh led the batting with a home run each. Kim Reimann had an unassisted double play for the Indians in the fifth inning. Nancy Kennedy led the fielding and came up with three hits.

The Angels lost to the Yankees, 5-0, Barbara Hammer and Diane Torrisi combined to shut out the Yankees. They were helped by Suzy Tesse, Mary Ann Boogar and Cheryl Pittenger's hot bats. Anna Marie Cook and Theresa Defino both doubled to lead the hitting for the Angels.

Two three-hitters mark week's play in Senior League

Superior pitching, displayed by two three-hitters, one by Carter Bell and the other by Burger Express, highlighted this week in the Springfield Senior League.

Burger Express, behind the pitching of Ed Graziano and Danny Pepe, defeated Carter Bell, 6-3. Ed Graziano, the winning pitcher in relief, gave up one hit to Frank Zahn and no runs. Danny Pepe allowed only two hits, triples by Frank Zahn and John Lamotta in the third inning.

Burger Express came from behind with two runs in the second on a triple by Mike Wittenberg, who scored on an error. Willie Wilburn, who had a fine game behind the plate for Burger Express, scored the second run of the inning on Steven Kessler's infield grounder.

Burger Express scored three more runs in the fifth, highlighted by Danny Pepe's long triple to right, Willie Wilburn's single, Bob Markstein's second single and a sharp single by Joe Demark. Craig Clickenger and Ed Graziano also had hits for Burger Express.

Carter Bell beat Ward and Company, 9-1, as Barry Sherman, Mike Clarke, and Mark D'Agostini combined for a three-hitter. Mark D'Agostini struck out six in three innings. Carter Bell's hitting attack was led by Frank Zahn (two hits and one RBI) and John Lamotta (two hits and one RBI). Jeff Knowles and Randy Bain also had two hits each, while Rich Cederquist had a single and two RBI and Don Zahn added an RBI single.

The STP-6 and Red Barons won while the Green Dragons and Silver Hawks tied in the fourth week of action in Dayton Regional Daily Intramural Program Physical Education Recreation (DIPPER) early morning floor ball in the boys gym last week.

The Barons (4-0-0) remained on top in league play as they posted a 7-2 victory over the Blue Castaways (0-4-0) with Gary Scheich slammng in four goals and Harry Irwin a hat trick for the Barons. Steve Schindler, Van Vitale, Bryant Burke and Steve Hechtie played excellent ball for the winners while Gregg Moroz and Bruce Davison scored single goals for the Castaways.

Robert Kozub, Steve Matysek and Steve Cohen tallied two goals each and Brian Kukon and Rick Iacono added single scores to enable the STP-6 (3-0-1) to post an 8-0 triumph over the Gold Rushers (1-3-0) who received some good play from Mike Wittenberg, Jeff Lubash, Mike Jacobs, Steve Geltman, Todd Melmed, Joe and Tony Sangregorio despite the loss.

Down 3-1 in the first half, the Green Dragons (1-1-2) came roaring back to eke out a 4-4 tie over the Silver Hawks (1-2-1) in the most exciting game of the week. 7-1 track squad beats Verona, slips in tourney

By AMY GELTZELER

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School track team raised its dual meet record to 7-1 last week by whipping Verona, 95-36, but placed only fifth in the Suburban Conference championships held Saturday. The Bulldogs will face Madison today, and they will compete in the county championships on Saturday.

Hugh Cole led the way against Verona, winning both dashes — the 100 and 220. Steve Pepe won the intermediate hurdles and Frank Ruggieri placed first in the high hurdles.

Billy Bjorstad won the half-mile, with Jim Stadler second. Brandon Gambee took the shot put, and Andy Herkalo led in the discus. Vic Vitale and Carmen Appicella were first and second in the pole vault, and Bobby Conte won in the javelin throw. Brian Belliveau was second in the long jump, and he tied with Kevin Doty for first in the high jump.

Dayton did well in the field events in the conference meet, leading all teams with 21 one-third points in the morning competition, but could add only six points in the afternoon running events.

Bob Potomski in the discus and Brandon Gambee in the shotput were the teams' only individual champions. Potomski also placed second in the shotput to lead the team with 10 points. Conte had his personal best throw of 170 feet to place third in the javelin. Fifth place points went to Doty in the high jump, Herkalo in the discus and Vitale in the pole vault.

The only men to score in the running events were Billy Bjorstad, second in the two-mile; Charlie Kief, fifth in the mile, and Harry Kish, fifth in the 440.

Coach Martin Taglienti voiced his displeasure with the team performance. He said, "The senior prom the night before was a prime factor in the poor performance of the team. The boys can't expect to do both and have a successful day. I hope this will be corrected in the future, and the prom will not be the night before a championship meet."

Key Club 3-hits Elkay, 13-1; Park Drugs beats Sam's, 8-5

As the second week of the Springfield Minor League came to a close, a three-hitter by Key Club's Jim Pabst and Michael Jernee was the highlight.

Superior pitching control by the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Key Club pitchers Jim Pabst and Michael Jernee limited Elkay Products to three hits, as the Key Club overpowered Elkay, 13-1. Lee Polikoff had a perfect day at the plate, with three hits, two home runs and a double. Michael Jernee contributed two doubles and scored twice. For Elkay, Buddy Pinkava walked twice and scored the only run when David Corey drove him in with a triple to right field. Eric Eidelman and Socrates Kryptis also had singles for Elkay.

Sam's Friendly Service lost its first game of the season to Park Drugs, 8-5. Park Drugs scored four runs in the top of the first on a grand slam home run by Kevin Jelinek after Scott Klink, Walter Clarke and Jim Steive had walked. In the second inning, Park Drugs scored three runs on a single by Elinor Sadin, a walk to Maury Jayson, a single by Scott Klink, a double by Paul Steive, a walk to Walter Clarke and a single by Jim Steive. Park Drugs' final run, in the third inning, was fashioned on a walk to Benjamin Rubin and a triple by Daniel Klein. Jim Steive and Paul Steive handled the pitching for Park Drugs.

Sam's never gave up while continuing to chip away runs. Led by two RBI singles by Elliott Wolfson and a sacrifice by Brandt Feuerstein, the score became 8-3. In the bottom of the fifth, walks to David Lubelink, Michael Orlando and Stephen Littenberg loaded the bases for Brett Walsh. Walsh then tripled into left field to score two. In a close play, Stephen Littenberg was thrown out at the plate.

Good relief jobs by Steven Stickler and Jon Lesnik kept Park at bay over the last three innings. The play of the game came when Elliott Wolfson made a diving catch of a drive by Scott Klink to save three runs from scoring.

The Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association lost a close game to Prince's Farm, 3-0. Both teams played well, but a couple of first-inning errors cost FMBA the game. Doing the pitching for FMBA were Wesley Peterson and Jay Siegel. Playing in the infield were Brian Bantel, John Baber, Jay Siegel, John Beigleiter and Leon Liem. In the outfield were Howard Haimowitz, Mitchell Cutler, Bill Cieri, Wesley Peterson and Howard Wolston. Again behind the plate was Mark Tabakin. Jay Siegel, Brian Bantel, Howard Haimowitz, Wesley Peterson and Mark Tabakin all contributed to the FMBA attack.

Kean will present summer class on Revolutionary era

Men and women who wish to study the history and culture of the Revolutionary era on a comprehensive level may participate in a six-week Bicentennial Workshop during the summer session at Kean College.

"Perspectives on the Revolutionary Era," for which six graduate credits will be granted, includes regular sessions each morning, Monday through Thursday and a tour to Williamsburg, Jamestown, Yorktown, Monticello, Washington and Philadelphia July 18 to 22.

Dr. Irving Lascombe, professor of history, will be director of the workshop, which will include at least one field trip within New Jersey, visiting lectures and a final luncheon.

Dr. Lascombe, a specialist in colonial history and the history of the American Revolution, has taught at Kean College for 25 years. Last fall he lectured for the Consortium of East Jersey on the topic: "Yankee Doodle was a Dandy," a subject he is expanding into a monograph. He was awarded the Founders Day Award at New York University, where he had obtained his Ph.D.; he is also an alumnus of Harvard and the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts.

The workshop will include analytical study of the origins of colonial ideals and the revolution, new interpretations of the nature of the revolution, direct examination of colonial life and culture and biographical study of the participants.

Tuition and fees are $235. The price of the tour ($225 based on double occupancy) includes hotel accommodations, breakfast and dinner each day, sightseeing tours, tips and taxes on accommodations and meals. For more details readers may write Dr. Irving Lascombe, Department of History, Kean College, Union, 07083, or call the Department of Summer Session and Special Programs, 527-2163. Registration deadline is June 1.

Rally on Tuesday to salute Judaism

The Lubavitch Student Organization of the Chabad Lubavitch Campus, Morristown, will hold a "Salute to Judaism" outing and rally at Mountain High School Stadium, West Orange, Tuesday at 5 p.m. All Hebrew day and afternoon schools have been invited to participate.

A clown show, circus act, musical program and refreshments will be available at no cost to educational institutions.

Shaya Gansburg, director of the student organization, stated, "Rabbi Menachem M. Schneerson, has proclaimed this the 'Year of Jewish Education: calling upon rabbis, community leaders and the community at large to help make Jewish education available to every Jewish child. This prompted the student organization to mobilize a series of programs to publicize and implement this endeavor."

The program will include an afternoon of folk music, dancing and vocals; a Mass starting at 5 p.m., and an evening of classical and semi-classical music. A Bicentennial exhibit also will be presented.

The evening program, which will open with the American and Polish anthems, will include Chopin's Polonaise in A major, with special Bicentennial lyrics, sung by the Aria Chorus under the direction of Professor Jerzy Garbien. A concert selection, "Katon" by Rozycki, and an aria from "Halka," a Polish opera by Moniuszko will be sung by Miss Paula Keller, of Edison, Polish-American soprano.

Frank J. Narucki of Nutley will offer "Concertina for Clarinet" by Garbien. Stanley Pele will direct the Polish-American Polka Dance Company, accompanied by a choir and orchestra, in "Mazurek" from "Straszny Dwor" by Moniuszko. The first half of the program will end with "200 Years of American Music" by the folk dance company.

Entertainment during the last half of the evening program will include a medley of Polish songs by Jaworski and his orchestra; an old fashioned Polish wedding with bilingual narrations by the Polonaise Dance Group directed by Carole Golis; vocal selections by Miss Regina Kujawa of New York, and a singalong with the audience, singers and dancers.

Tickets may be reserved through Walter Kross, Polish Bicentennial Festival, Rt. 35 and Woodland avenue, Morgan 08879.

Panel to discuss public transport

The controversial topic of rail and bus subsidies in New Jersey will be probed on "New Jersey News: Special Report-You Can't Get There From Here" which airs tonight at 8 and Sunday at 5 p.m. on New Jersey Public Television Channels 50 and 58.

New Jersey News reporter Betty Adams will lead the discussion with participants Alan Sagner, New Jersey commissioner of transportation; Assemblyman Kenneth Gewertz of District 4; Senator Frank Dodd of District 26, and John J. Gilhooley, president of Transport of New Jersey.

The panel will explore the state of transportation in New Jersey and examine whether subsidies should be granted and who should receive them.

Dennis Day to appear in Arts Center festival

Dennis Day will be at the Garden State Arts Center on Sunday, June 13, for the sixth annual Irish Festival.

Festival Chairman John J. Brown announced this week that Day, who starred in the 1975 event, was invited to return and serve again as master of ceremonies and principal performer in the main part of the program.

Air show at McGuire Memorial Day open house

One of the greatest air shows ever — including winged aircraft, helicopters and demonstrations by sky divers — will be at McGuire AFB's Memorial Day open house, Monday May 31.

Among the participants to be seen from 12 to 4 p.m. without charge will be the Thunderbirds, the Air Force's precision flying team; the Golden Knights, the Army's parachute demonstrations; and the Silver Eagles, the Army's helicopter team.

Also scheduled are tactical demonstrations by F-105 fighter-bombers and C-7 assault transports of the New Jersey Air National Guard and flights of radio-controlled airplanes by the American Model Airplane Association.

The purpose of the Open House is to display and demonstrate aircraft. The public will be able to see and inspect aircraft ranging from some of the world's largest to smallest; the fastest to the slowest; the most modern to vintage. There will also be a variety of ground displays, entertainment and refreshments.

McGuire is 17 miles south of Trenton, off Exit 7 of the New Jersey Turnpike.

The workshop will consist of in-the-field instruction including the following courses: wildlife management principals and population dynamics, methods of catching and tagging animals for study of movements and populations, birdwatching, wildlife materials, deer management, warm-water and cold-water fisheries management, habitat manipulation, beaver management, and wildlife problems simulation.

The instructors will be professional wildlife and fisheries biologists from the division.

Coffee got his goats

Coffee was first discovered in Ethiopia in the middle of the ninth century. Legend has it that a goatherd saw his goats acting very frisky. He joined them in eating the berries of wild coffee trees and felt frisky as well.

Fenwick to speak at commencement at Drew May 29

Drew University, Madison, will hold its 108th commencement Saturday, May 29, graduating some 450 candidates in an outdoor program featuring an address by Congresswoman Millicent Fenwick from New Jersey's Fifth District.

The Saturday morning ceremony will be held on the lawn behind Mead Hall at 10:15. In case of rain, it will be held in Baldwin Gymnasium.

The baccalaureate service is set for Friday, May 28, in S.W. Bowne Great Hall. Fr. Gabriel M. Coless, O.S.B., visiting lecturer in church history in the Theological School and Catholic chaplain of the college, will conduct the service.

On Saturday, about 315 Bachelor of Arts degrees will be conferred, together with 71 doctor of ministry degrees, 19 master of divinity, 28 master of arts, 11 doctor of philosophy, seven master of theological studies, and one master of sacred theology. Drew — which consists of a liberal arts college, a theological school and a graduate school — has been granting divinity degrees since 1869, doctoral degrees since 1918, master's degrees since 1922, and bachelor's degrees since 1932.

Mrs. Fenwick first entered public life as a member of the Bernardsville school board and later served six years on the Borough Council. She was then elected and re-elected to the State Assembly; she resigned in 1969 to accept an appointment as director of the State Division of Consumer Affairs, a post she held until election to Congress in 1974.

In addition to serving as the state's consumer affairs director, she has also been vice-chairman of its U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, has chaired the Governor's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity.
