No library meeting

The August meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Free Public Library of Mountainside has been canceled, according to Mrs. Johanna E. Chen, director.

BY RICHARD REITER

The Mountainside Little League Baseball season is now ended. The Mountaineer All Star team has played its last game, and ended the season with the best record (8-2) of any Mountainside All Star leam.

Last Tuuesday the team played its last regular season game at home against Maplewood. Winning would mean a tie with Orange for first place in the league and a chance at the championship. The Mountaineers won, 3-2. They then lost to Orange, 15-0, in the final play-off contest. ...

The Maplewood game proved to be a close contest. The Mountaineers scored first on Keith Hanigan's solo nome run. Maplewood tied it up in their half of the inning, and when Mountainside failed to score in the second Maplewood jumped to a 2-1 lead. After that. pitching ace Hanigan held the Maplewood team scoreless until he turned the chores over to

In the top of the fifth, with the score still standing as 2-1, and with two outs, the Mountaineers made a major effort to score. Jimmy Cleveland walked, moved around to third on Jeff Wilde's hit, and scored on Kirk Yoggy's (Continued on page 2)

Council takes step to convert school

Another step in the conversion of the former Echobrook School into a municipal complex was taken at a special meeting of the Mountainside Borough Council Tuesday night with the introduction of an ordinance appropriating $5,000 for professional fees for design of police department facilities.

Also introduced at the session, held in Borough Hall, was an amendment covering rate structure changes in the ordinance regulating costs of treating non-residential sewage, in the Rahway Valley Sewerage

Public hearings on both items will be held at the council's Aug. 17 meeting in the Beechwood

In other action this week, the governing body gave final approval to an 11-home subdivision, to be built by the Brevine Construction Co., Inc., of Millburn on Saddle Brook road.

Dinner to be held at pool on Aug. 14

Reservations are being taken for the adult barbeque dinner to be held at the Mountainside Pool on Aug. 14. Live music will be provided by the Aerial Review, formerly the Coachmen.

Admission will only be by reservations, which are being taken daily at the pool until Tuesday. The price is $15 per couple, $7.50 per single and $5 per couple with no food. The pool will close Aug.14 at 5:30 p.m., and reopen at 7:30 for the party.

Regional Board to transfer 3 coaches to new schools

More than half of a four-hour meeting of the Regional High School District Board of Education, held before 100 people Tuesday night at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, was devoted to disputes within the athletic department at Gov Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights

Following more than an hour of discussion with the public, and then a 93-minute executive session, the board voted to transfer the GI head football, basketball and baseball coaches to other schools within the district, where they will receive teaching assignments with a possible opportunity to coach.

Mike Sorrentino will remain as athletic director at GL, where he had also been head wrestling coach. New athletic policy discourages athletic directors from coaching Most members of the audience Tuesday came to support Sorrentino and to protest preliminary disclosure that he would also be transferred to another school

The moves were in response to complaints that there had been personality differences within the department. Charles Vitale of Kenilworth, board president, said there had been personal problems between coaches as well as between coaches and students, including "some actual physical violence between coaches and students."

In other business, the board approved participation by the Dayton marching band in a band camp Aug. 29 to Sept. 3 at Camp Waywayanda, Frost Valley, N.Y. Participants will include about 70 youngsters and four leachers, headed by Jeff Anderson, band director. There will also be five parent

Costs to the board will be $780 for two buses and $24 to open the school for removeal of instruments. Similar costs have been met by the board for a band camp for David Brearley Regional in Kenilworth. Insurance will be paid by the Dayton Band Parents Association

Board members approved the hiring of six new teachers, including one for Dayton and one for Brearley

James Davitt Jr. of Union will teach mathematics at Dayton at a salary of $14,050. He holds a bachelor's degree from Montclair State College and a master's from Newark College of Engineering and has also studied at Stevens Institute. He taught for eight years at Columbia High School, White Plains High also been a longterm substitute in the Regional District Richard C Dispoto will teach mathematics at Brearley, at a salary of $9,600. A 1976 graduate of St. Peter's College, he has taught at St. Peter's Prep. He will also be able to assist in the athletic program

Teacher leaders were also named for the four Regional schools. At Dayton, they are: Julia Latzer, English; Mary Shanahan, science, and Katherine Vanditti, social studies

Named for Brearley were Diane Coppa

Diane Erdman and Al Czava were appointed administrative interns at Brearley

Several persons asked about the board's position on proposed alignment of Rt. 78 through the Watchung Reservation, skirting the Gov Livingston property. Vitale said the board opposes any alignment which would impair usefulness of the high school.

Franz Skok, board attorney, said the board has gone to court to seek damages for any loss of athletic facilities or for noise or air pollution

Shots required before school

The Board of Education of the Union County Regional High School District this week reminded all parents and students that youngsters enrolled in any of the district's four high schools must have inoculations for polio, tetanus and measles. Students who do not have these vaccinations will be excluded from school. This ruling is in compliance with

New Jersey State Department of Health mandate.
The Regional District conducted an inoculation program during the school year. Student health records were reviewed and the parents of students needing inoculations were notified. Health officials from the state ad ministered the vaccinations.

Students who received their vaccinations over the summer must bring a doctor's note with them to school in September. The note must list the inoculations received and the date the shots were administered.

Moped rider, 26, faces 3 charges following accident

A moped rider, involved in an accident Saturday night on Tanager way, was arrested by Mountainside police on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct, possission of more than five grams of hashish and assult and battery on an officer who came to his assistance.

According to police, Officer William Moylan was on patrol on Tanager way at 10:15 p.m. when he saw a man, later identified as Frederick W. Talcott Jr., 26, of Warren, sitting in the middle of the road, with a moped lying across his left leg. Moylan said Talcott appeared to be suffering leg and head injuries, but the cyclist reportedly insisted he had just fallen off the bike, was not hurt and required no aid. When the policeman moved the bike to the side of the road, Talcott allegedly began shouting and using obscene language. According to police, the refused to produce indentification, and when the officer attempted to reach for Talcott's wallet, he pushed Moylan into the street. Moylan placed him under arrest for assault and disorderly conduct, and Talcott reportedly began trying to hit, kick and bite the officer. Talcott then insisted he be taken to a hospital, and while he was being searched prior to being transported to Overlook by the Mountainside Rescue Squad, the hashish allegedly was found Talcott was later released on $1,000 bail,

Pine Ridge lists

Sales gains for Pine Ridge at Crestwood in excess of 53 percent during the six months ending February 1976 over the same period in 1975 have been reported by Joyce Guerin, sales manager for the adult community of manufactured nomes on Rt. 530 in Whiting.

"We're enjoying the best sales year since Pine Ridge opened in 1972," declared Guerin, "and it must be because we're doing something right. While the general business downturn undoubtedly affected other community developers, it has actually helped us. Today, more than ever, buyers in the middle income bracket are looking for exceptional value, and apparently they are finding it here. We can only attribute our success to that. and to the 'Homes for People' concept we introduced this

'Homes for People," sne explained, is a double-edged thrust against the high cost of housing. "It is accomplished first by designing homes to fit today's lifestyles, today's nomically, without wasted space, and, secondly, by building those homes more efficiently in a manufacturing plant with all the skills and tools of modern technology.' She cited the current line-up of nine models at Pine Ridge to illustrate the point. All nine are two-bedroom, ranch-style fully / detached homes-each on its own lot, with off street parking. Priced from $13,450 to $22,450, every home is complete with carpeting, paneled walls, draperies, and appliance-equipped kitchen. Some have two baths, feature walls of mirror or brick, dens with snack bars, and other special features. Where else can middle income families find homes with all these features, still priced to fit their budgets?, asked, remember, we're not talking about a crowded city area We're talking about a wooded and landscaped suburban community, with clubhouses, all municipal-type services-such as water, sewer, street cleaning, bus transportation—and all the amenities of gracious living. When a family moves in, all they have to bring with them furniture and food. Everything else is ready for them here

Pine Ridge at Crestwood. the full-service community for adults over 45, is located on Rt. 530, near Whiting in Ocean County, 12 minutes west of Toms River Exit 80 of the Garden State Parkway. Models and an exhibit center are open Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., but closed Sunday.

We're not holding a Grand Opening-not for a little while.

The grass isn't green enough, the carpeting not all in, and the welcome mat not yet on the doorstep. So, officially, it isn't an "Opening." But those who like to explore today what will be new and exciting in the homes of tomorrow—won't mind a little dust on their shoes. We've built ten great new models, from $17,490 to $42,990, in a new model area for the start of a new Crestwood neighborhood, Vil-

July 4th is gone, but Bicentennial programs roll on

The Fourth of July has come and gone but New Jersey's Bicentennial celebration con

In releasing the Bicenternial Calander of Events for August former Gov Robert B Meyner, chairman of the New Jersey Bicen tennial Commission, said

"We are pleased that New Jersey's Bicen tennial observance did not stop on July 4th. The Declaration of Independence was a beginning of the American Revolution, not the end. Many significant events in the Revolution occurred in New Jersey after July 4, 1776. If the public demonstrates that they want New Jerrey - rich historical heritage commemorated we will continue to do everything possible to assist and stimulate activities at the local price root.

Another in the series of of Ricentennial Sports Classics will take place Aug. 24 and 22 ac Red Bank, when the Eastpoint National Sweepstakes Regatta will be held. More than 100 of the world's fastest hydroplanes will compete during two days of championship races on the Navesink River Weekend ac tivities keyed to the Bicentennial will be held in

There also will be a Recentennial theme to the 14th annual Ocean City boardwalk art show on Aug 6 and 7 Thousands of artists will display their works along 10 blocks of the boardwalk in one of the nation's largest ourdoor art exhibits.

The American Freedom, Frain also will make five stops in New Jersey during August and early September 1t will be in Newark Aug 21 and 23, New Brunswick, Aug. 24 to 26, Trenton Aug 30 to Sept. 1, Asbury Park, Sept. 2 to 6, and Atlantic City. Sept. 8 to 10

Record is broken in blood donations

Orange, collected a record 34,396 donations in the first six months of 1976 for a 6.5 percent increase over the same period a year ago

Out of the whole bloods donated, an additional 13,156 units of components such as fresh-frozen plasma and platelet concentrate were prepared and delivered to 46 northern New Jersey hospitals, for a total of 47,548 bloods and components

"In terms of patient care in our services area," noted Dr. Kamill Gal. medical director. "this means that people are generally receiving only the blood component necessary for treatment of their own medical conditions. That makes other components derived from the same donation available to treat one or two more patients. Component therapy is certainly a good way to stretch our already taxed voluntary donor system

Donors to the North Jersey Blood Center are individuals who give under a comprehensive Blood Assurance Plan which protects family members in any blood emergency and members of donor clubs in communities, fraternal organizations, schools, offices and factories

Teachers sought for Guild classes

The Mount Carmel Guild Apostolate for the Deaf is seeking volunteers to teach religion to hearing impaired children at its five centers throughout the Archdiocese. There are no special requirements other than a desire "to bring the message of Christ to these youngsters so that they too may know His love," said Sister Joan Walters, S.C., M.A., coordinator of religious education for the deaf at Mount Carmel Guild. Volunteers will receive training at a four-part seminar in September.

The centers are located at: Immaculate Conception School, Hackensack; St. Augustine School, Union City; Sacred Heart School, Bloomfield; Holy Rosary School, Elizabeth. and St. Vincent Academy, Newark. Classes are held during the school year on Saturdays from 10 to 11 a.m., except for Newark, where they are held on Thursdays from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Anyone willing to join in this effort has been asked to call Sister Joan at 482-0100, ext. 25, to register for this September's training program.

Benefits, drawbacks seen in state's new land use law

A new Municipal Land Use Law goes into effect in New Jersey on Sunday. Its purpose is to streamline procedures in the application for and granting of site plan approvals, sub divisions and zoning code variances.

One key change affecting Mountainside is that special exceptions, where builders require approval for specific uses spelled out in the zoning ordinance, will be switched from the jurisdiction of the Board of Adjustment to that of the Planning Board.

A use variance, when an owner wants to employ his land for a purpose not permitted in the zoning ordinance, will be decided entirely by the Board of Adjustment. Until now, that board had to present its recommendations on each request to the Borough Council, which made the final decision. So-called minor variances, concerning such matters as side lot setback and frontage, will remain entirely within the jurisdiction of the Board of Adjustment.

Any concerned party, however, will be able to appeal a variance decision of either type to the Borough Council, but the person appealing will have to pay a fee to obtain a transcript of the hearing.

The new law also requires the Board of Adjustment to have either tape recordings or stenographic transcripts of all hearings. In other deliberations, only minutes of the meetings are required

Joseph Coviello, attorney for the Mountainside Board of Adjustment, noted that unit has always made recordings or transcripts of its hearings, "but the question now is to keep Coviello said he sees "some good things" in the new law. "For the right type of application, I could see where there could be some improvements," he noted. "For instance, if a property owner has two lots, one of which is a little substandard in size, and he wants to subdivide, he previously had to go before both the Planning Board and the Board of Adjustment. Under the new law, he can go before either board and have the whole thing done at that point.'

Coviello, however, is critical of one aspect of the legislation-requiring Boards of Adjustments to have seven members, with no alternates. The Mountainside unit now has five members and two alternates.

"I thought having the alternates was a good arrangement," the attorney stated. "With alternates, we were, in effect, training persons to become permanent members. Then, when someone retired or moved from the community, we had a qualified individual as a replacement." With the rules change, the board must recruit new members who may have had no previous exposure to the board's problems and procedures

Another change in the Board of Adjustment procedure will be that all variances will require five affirmative votes, or a two-thirds consensus, rather than a simple majority of four. In addition, all appeals to the Borough Council will be entirely on the record of the board hearing, making representation by counsel even more important to an applicant.

Each community's Master Plan, which establishes permitted uses for each part of the municipality, now will be entirely under the jurisdiction of the Planning Board. Until now, it also needed the approval of the governing body The new law also requires the Planning Board to restudy the Master Plan every six years Mountainside's board last adopted a Master Plan in the 1960s, but it was never approved by the Borough Council. The law establishes Planning Board membership at nine, causing no change in the

The firm has already applied to provide cable television service in Union, Springfield, Roselle, Roselle Park, Hillside, Westfield and Summit. If those applications are approved, the firm plans to expand to other Union County communities, including Mountainside, Linden, Rahway and Clark.

In the first game of the week the Moun-tameers traveled to Orange and lost, 3-1

Hearings on the applications will be held Aug. 2 in Union and Aug. 31 in Springfield. Suburban Cablevision also has applications pending in Millburn, Belleville, Nutley and Clifton. Towns already served by the company are Livingston, Irvington, Maplewood and West Orange. Service will begin between now and early next year in West Caldwell, Roseland, Fairfield, Harrison, Orange, East Orange and Bloomfield.

Mitchell Kleinhandler, vice-president of perations and treasurer Cablevision, said the company has a potential of more than 150,000 subscribers in Essex County and 65,000 subscribers in Union County ith the applications now on file or approved About a quarter of a million New Jersey households have already thrown out the rabbit ears and forgotten about rooftop antennas in favor of cable television, which its advocates say improves reception and offers 30 or more channels of video entertainment and information.

Channels now relayed by Suburban Cablevision include 2, 4, 5, 7, 9, 11, 13, 21, 25, 31 from New York, 41, 47, 50 and 68 from New channels offered by cable television. Suburban Cablevision is an outlet for Home Box Office (HBO), which provides first-run movies, sports events and special entertainment programs

nationally through a satellite network

Instead of antennas, cable television perators string wires on utility poles and drop the lines into subscribing households. Signals from over-the-air stations are picked up by antennas on top of tall buildings or hills and fed into the cable system; other programs can originate from the cable companies' studios or from outside sources, such as HBO.

A box with selectors for different program sources is connected with each television set on the Suburban Cablevision system. The firm offers 26 channels but has the capacity for 50. said Kleinhandler.

ESTABLISHING A CABLE SYSTEM is an expensive proposition. More than $3 million has been spent so far by Suburban Cablevision and the firm expects to lay out $8 to $10 million more in the next 12 months just to wire Essex

The meal will include spare ribs with the chicken, corn on the cob, tossed salad, baked beans, potato salad, relish trays, bread and rolls, coffee and dessert.

Live music will be provided by the Aerial Review. Admission will be by reservation only. Reservations are being taken daily at the pool; no reservations will be taken after Tuesday, Aug. 10. The cost is $15 per couple. $7.50 per single and $5 per couple with no food. The pool will close at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday. Aug. 14, and reopen for the party at 7:30.

Music association picks new officers

The Mountainside Music Association held its June meeting at Peg Olsen's home and announced its new officers. The following slate was accepted by the association: president, Judy Williams: vice-president Betsy Zimtbaum; corresponding secretary, Jackie Citron; recording secretary, Peg Olsen; treasurer. Anita Mays.

The first general meeting for the 1976-77 season will be held on Sept. 9 at the home of Judy and Art Williams. The next board meeting will be held at Jackie Citron's home on Wednesday, Sept. 1, at 8 p.m.

Memorial books, garden literature featured at library

Two books have been selected by the garden department of the Mountainside Woman's Club to be placed in the Mountainside Public Library: "The Compleat Vegetable Book," compiled by Lena Sturges, begins with gar dening instructions for vegetables, then instructs the reader on canning, preserving and freezing techniques: it ends with recipes so they can enjoy their homegrown vegetables.

"Flower Arranging." by Helen Chase, is a practical guide to arranging fresh and dried flowers with advice on how to buy flowers from the florist along with a section on how to dry flowers.

Two books are being placed in memory o Christine Hartnett, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hartnett, of Mountainside, by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Krystow: "Beyond the Looking Glass:" edited by Jonathan Cott, contains four complete novels, stories and poems-all examples of fairy tales and fantasy. "The Disney Films," by Leonard Maltin, documents Walt Disney's contributions to both movies and television

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Raison and family have chosen "Folktales Told around the World," by Richard M. Dorson in memory of Christine. This book contains over a hundred tales told orally by storytellers from 46 cultures scattered around the world.

Gift and memorial books will be on display at the Free Public Library of Mountainside today through next Thursday, Aug. 5.

It is an ugly list of brutality Richard Speck eight Chicago nurses butchered to death Charles Manson and his kill-for-thrills clan, at least seven and possibly more than a dozen people killed In New Jersey, the killers of a state trooper and a New York City policeman become publicity symbols for radical groups demanding their freedom

Compassion, understanding and moral standards are in retreat before an advancing tide of violence, crime and public apathy. It is futile to speculate on the reasons for the barbaric behavior. Its origins are lost in a per plexing maze of social, psychological, economic and historic factors, all of which seem to be working now toward the moral and unethical unraveling of the orderly fabric of

Look at the depressing crime figures. In a dozen years, the nation's murder rate is up 98 percent-yet there are many who hold out against the reimposition of capital punishment The death penalty, they claim, is unhuman and barbaric

Last year there were 500 murders in New Jersey. In only 12 years, it has increased by 300 percent. Contrary to the popular conception that the presence of guns is responsible for the wave of murder, only four of ten murders committed in 1975 involved firearms

Even more disturbing is a study by the Rand Institute for the New York Police Department. It showed a 60 percent increase in murder between 1968 and 1974, and found that most of "the murders were not crimes of passion or between friends and members of a family, "We find that the major part of the city-wide rise in homicides since 1968 seems to be deliberate killings," the Rand study concluded. Furthermore, the Rand study estimated that at least 80 percent of the victims or killers had criminal backgrounds.

The same study expressed strong doubts about the effectiveness of tougher gun control laws, warning that murderers would be able to obtain guns illegally or use other weapons.

Those who insist on life terms and rehabilitation are just as unrealistic. The prison population increased by ten percent last year and is the highest in history. There is no room in most prisons. Prison work/release programs. early parole and other rehabilitation measures that were tried in the sixties have largely failed.

Meanwhile, what can society do to protect itself as the innocent become the endangered species in modern society?

One measure seems inescapable: the restoration of the death penalty. The latest U.S. Supreme Court decision gives the states and the federal government the legal standing to reimpose capital punishment-which has been suspended since 1968-provided that it is fairly and justly applied.

Some 35 states already have the death penalty on their books, and New Jersey will open legislative hearings after having tried and failed to reimpose capital punishment for only the most serious crimes. Since less than six percent of convicted murderers are now sentenced to life in prison, only a very small number of the most heinous crimes would come under the new law

Congress is considering extending the death penalty to such crimes as terrorist bombings, assassinations, the killing of federal correction and law enforcement officers, espionage and treason. The federal law would reserve to each state the right to impose the death penalty for premeditated murder, and murder committed in cases of arson, rape, robbery and kid-

Society is not degraded by removing from the population people who wantonly kill in cold blood. It is responding to one of the most basic urges of protecting itself and its citizens from these who create fear, disorder and brutality.

As Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes noted, "The law was not written to inform men of how to act like angels; it was written to inform the bad man of his punishment if he broke the

To those who insist that humanitarian societies find other means of dealing with killers besides the electric chair and the gas chamber, I would just note that Joseph Stalin eliminated capital punishment in the 1920s, and then proceeded to ship Russian citizens to slave labor camps in Siberia where millions died from starvation and deprivation.

The death penalty becomes cruel and unusual punishment, and loses its deterrent value, when courts drag out murder cases on appeal after appeal, and convicted murderers are kept waiting as long as 14 years, such as happened to Edgar Smith in New Jersey. On the other hand, life in prison cannot be construed as evenhanded justice when Charles Manson is eligible for parole in 1978.

win awards at Cranford meet 25 MCP swimmers

Twenty-seven members of the Mountainside Community Pool A swim team invaded Cranford, N.J. last Saturday to participate in the second annual municipal pool invitational individual championships. With awards given for first to sixth place finishes, 25 local swimmers came away with individual awards. MCP swimmers won 51 total awards in the 61 events they entered. No team score was kept.

For the second year in a row, MCP won the Boy's Outstanding Swimmer Award. Following in teammate John Fischer's footsteps from last year's meet, Shane Connel captured three gold medals for first place finishes in the individual medley, freestyle and butterfly events for boys 8 and under. He also established two meet records and missed a third by one-tenth of a second. (100-yard IM, 1:38.0, and 25-yard

Gagliano started the next rally with a walk Cleveland singled and Noll walked. With the bases loaded, Wilde drew a base-on-balls to walk in a run, as did Esemplare. Jim Postell then put a strong grounder to the outfield. which scored Noll and Wilde for two RBI as once again the entire team came to bat in one

In the bottom of the fifth inning the score stood at 11-5. The Mountaineers went through the hatting order again, boosting their lead to

Crane led off with a single and moved on when Hanigan was walked. Andrew Grett, too, drew a walk to load the bases and bring up Wilde. Jeff had been up in a similar situation earlier in the season, and he decided to duplicate his effort by smashing the ball for a grandslam home run. It was his third home run of the season, and his second grand slam.

Lenny Capriglione walked and then scored on roggy's single, to put the final score at 16-8 after Springfield had scored three runs in the sixth. Glen Delaney pitched the last inning for the Mountaineers.

To complete the week's games, the Mountainside team traveled to South Orange. True to style, the Mountaineers immediately jumped to a second-run lead. Yoggy drew a base on balls, and Crane singled. Both stole around the bases. Yoggy stole home, and Crane scored on Cleveland's single. Pitcher Jeff Wilde gave up one run and then held the side. Hanigan pitched the last three innings, allowing only one hit, and was backed up by good defensive fielding.
It was still a close contest at 2-1 until the top of the sixth. Jim Postell drew a walk, and Henry Largy was sent in as a pinch runner. Yoggy walked, and he and Largy stole second and third. Crane got on base on the third baseman's error, and at the same time Largy scored. Hanigan got a pass and loaded the bases. Lenny Capriglione stopped at third with a triple as three men scored. The final tally: ountainside 6, South Orange 1.

The team has only one more game to play, on Tuesday against Maplewood. This will be the deciding game for the Mountaineers' final standing in the league.

engineering, and other investors formed the company and then convinced MacLean-Hunter to back them.

Most of the money the firm spends in coming years will go into capital costs for construction of the system and equipment purchase. The firm operates its own studio with broadcast quality equipment and lends video equipment to groups and schools who produce their own programs for the system's public access channel.

Suburban Cablevision, like most other cable systems in the nation, is required by law to provide the public access channel. Under the Federal Communications Commission regulation, newer cable systems must make available television time for programs produced by members or groups within the communities served by the systems.

The company is also organizing an internship program for schools in communities served Students are already producing programs for the system.

Kleinhandler said cable systems can provide television service that regular broadcasters find economically difficult or impossible. especially in large markets like the New York metropolitan area.

'We consider ourselves 'narrowcasters' rather than broadcasters," said Kleinhandler. "We can do a high school basketball game economically when a regular television station can't. We can cover a council election, local issues and local events.'

Before cable companies can start to build, they must receive permission from the municipality (which receives a return for every set hooked up in the town), the state's Office of Cable Television and the Federal Communications Commission. In both state and federal procedures, the financial health and engineering capabilities of the operator are considered. Subscribers to Suburban Cablevision pay $7.50 a month for the first set and $3 for each additional set. There is an extra charge of $8 a month for Home Box Office. Installation is $15 for the first set, $10 for each additional set: however, the instaallation fee for the first set is waived if the subscriber signs up during the first 30 days service is available.

Della Reese joins cast of 'Chico and the Man'

By NANCY ANDERSON

HOLLYWOOD - Della Reese, who'll be seen in between six and nine episodes of 'Chico and the Man' this fall on NBC-TV, confides that her teenage daughter, Dumpsey. couldn't be more delighted with the assignment if she'd done the casting herself.

"She's going on 17, so she's in love with Freddie Prinze and plans to marry him, Miss Reese explains

'Oh sure, she knows that Freddie already has a wife and a baby, but, when you are going on 17, you can dream these things away.

DISC 'N DATA HIBY MILT HAMMERIN

Pick of the LP's .. STINGRAY: by Joe Cocker (A&M records sp-4574). Joe's excellent sounding numbers on this LP include: "The Jealous Kind." "I Broke Down," "You Came Along," "Catfish," "Moon Dew," "The Man In Me," "She Is My Lady," "Worrier," "Born Thru Indifference."

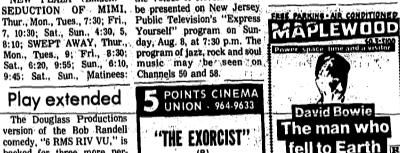

Cocker unquestionably one of the finest interpretive singers rock has produced. Through the force of his vision, Cocker manages to unite and simultaneously express the seemingly polar attitudes of gentle romanticism and raging intensity. By the time a song re-emerges from the filter of Cocker's sensibity, it's been stroked and pummeled, caressed and shaken to its roots. Miraculously, even as he possesses and reshapes it, the song somehow retains its OLD RAHWAY (Rahway)— Last times today: FOOD OF THE GODS, 7:30, 9:15; SQUIRM, Fri., 7, 10:30; Sat., identity as it was written.

The new Stingray may well be the most personal album Cocker has ever made. Its non-original songs - two by (including the Dylan previously unrecorded "Catfish") and individual numbers by Leon Russell, Matthew Moore, Bobby Charles, George Clinton - are sung with such passion and sensitivity that they become Cocker's own. And Joe has never before worked with such sympathetic and capable musicians: The basic band guitarists Cornell Dupree and Eric Gale, bassist Gordon Edwards, keyboard man Tee. drummer Richard Stephen Gadd - is one of the most impressive R&B units ever assembled; and trading licks with this peerless crew are special guests Eric Claption, Albert Lee, and Bobby Bramlett, as well as some friends from Jamaica. Stingray is lean, taut, and utterly captivating.

Moody's gives county bonds an AAA rating

A "Triple A" bond rating that could save county taxpayers $124,480 over the life of $6.3 million in bords sold Tuesday has been awarded Union County by Mondy : Investor-

Freeholder Director Harold J. Seymour Jr. said Union was one of only three counties in the state to enjoy a "Double A" rating for bonds before the announcement. The ounties are Bergen and Morris

The bonds involved are allocated for public improvements, parks, roads and bridges Assistant County Treasurer Theodore Sienicki said he expected interest on the bonds would be a maximum of 5.25 percent. That is a quarter percent lower that the maximum interest rate he expected for the sale of ! Double A bonds

"We're in excellent shape, said Sienicki We bond only what we have to bond. Other wise, we utilize any capital available. Our indebtedness is low. We can borrow up to $143 million, but we only have a $21 million debt

County Manager George Mhanese said that debt is the lowest on a per capita basis among the state's counties.

The largest item under the $4 \( \text{million public} \) improvements section of the bond issue is reconstruction of the county pail $869.055 Another $251,000 will be spent on reconstruction of court rooms in Elizabeth. In Westfield an addition to the county annex building is expected to cost $565,250. And another $800 150 will go for flood control purposes. Road and bridge improvements will cost $1.6 million and $182,000 is earmarked for park improvement and purchase of equipment

Hardwick urges budget hearings

Charles Hardwick of Westfield Republican andidate for Union County Trecholder recently went before the Board of Freeholders to arge that the early budgeting process include public hearings. The freeholders should be inviting public comments now from throughout the county for next year's budget." Hardwick

'Few people realize that county per capital property taxes have increased from 844 in 1970 to $71 in 1975," he said. "Although this is a 60 percent increase in only tive years, the public's opinion of county services and spending priorities are seldom sought

Since the budget is presented to the public only after it is nearly completed, the public hearings mandated by law are "too little" too late" for realistic inputs, he said. "The budget should be built from the ground up by evaluating services, determining priorities and then setting dollar amounts." he added

Medical students aiding in work on child abuse cases

A group of medical students from the Rutgers Medical School, College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (CMDNJ), is spending the summer getting a firsthand look at the problems of child abuse and neglect. The students, all of whom have completed at least one year at Rutgers Medical School, have been to work with caseworkers of the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS), an arm of the New Jersey Department of Institutions and Agencies.

The students are assisting caseworkers in data collection, observing the children's health, assisting in special medical cases, visiting homes and interviewing families under the division's supervision.

Families who are under protective services supervision can receive parent education. counseling, medical care, homemaker services, psychiatric services and referral to other agencies for help in solving problems that lead to child abuse or neglect.

Students participating are paid $100 perweek. The program is part of a statewide program to inform professional groups and the general public of the nature and causes of child abuse and neglect by the Protective Services Resource Institute, a joint venture of DYFS and CMDNJ.

The institute was established in January, 1975, under a $1.1 million federal grant awarded under the federal Child Abuse and Prevention Treatment (Mondale) Act. The grant required no local or state matching

The incidence of reported abuse and neglect in New Jersey has been increasing at an alarming rate over the past three years, according to Division Director James G. Kagen, "There was a 119 percent increase in the division's child abuse and neglect cases between June 1973 and June 1974 and an increase of 81 percent between June 1974 and June 1975. The trend has continued during the 1975-76 fiscal year," he said, noting that preliminary figures show an increase last year of approximately 125 percent.

Gypsy moths' toll dropped slightly, surveys indicate state show that 45,850 forested acres were attacked by the gypsy moth caterpillars this year, according to John D. Kegg, entomologist in the New Jersey Department of Agriculture's Division of Plant Industry. This figure was down slightly from the 55,430 acres defoliated last year.

moth could have easily been twice the present figure if it was not for our increased chemical and biological control efforts used against this serious forest defoliator. The division worked cooperatively with 43 municipalities in nine counties to spray nearly 39,000 acres for control of the gypsy moth. In addition, 837,077 parasites have been released statewide to help stabilize and curb severity of the outbreaks.

Scientist sees relation to weather pattern relationship between ragweed pollen activity

may be less nose blowing and fewer red eyes in New Jersey this year than there were in 1975 if the expectations of a Rutgers University scientist hold true

Dr. Nathan M. Reiss of the State University's Cook College believes that a slightly more severe than normal ragweed pollen season may be expected in the state, beginning in about a month. Last year's season was much worse than usual for hay fever victims in New Jersey. which is regarded by some as the unofficial hay fever capital of the free world.

Department of Meteorology and Physical Oceanography, Dr. Reiss has been looking for a relationship between weather patterns and the clivity of ragweed pollen, the major cause of by fever problems, and he thinks he's found it He isn't offering any kind of cure for hay fever but he feels that someone having the problem might be able to avoid a lot of unpleasantness if he or she had a warning of when the pollen season was going to start and how severe it might be Others have attempted to predict the severity of the ragweed season before," said the Highland Park resident, "but they used arbitrarily selected meteorological parameters such as temperatures in March or rainfall amounts in April, which yielded in Working for a year with S. Robert Kostic, a graduate student from Williamstown, Dr. Reiss first computerized data on maximum tem peratures for the week beginning March 1, the start of the growing season, and tried to correlate that with ragweed pollen counts for each year since 1967, the first year for which such data were available in Central Jersey.

He said the "pollen count" is the number of grains of pollen in a cubic meter of air. The figures were supplied by Walter Jinotti. Middlesex General Hospital technologist and inventor of the technique used in measuring pollen counts

The researchers then added data from the week beginning March 8 and tried to correlate that, adding weeks as they went along until they reached the end of the ragweed pollen season in the fall. Then they started the process again, beginning with the week of March 8, and again with March 15, and so on.

The same procedure was followed for minimum and average temperature figures and for rainfall amounts as well. Out of the tremendous number of combinations resulting. Dr. Reiss found a couple of key periods which he feels are the most useful for predicting pollen activity well in advance of the hay fever The most important of these," he said.

include average temperatures for April 26 to July 4 and daily minimum temperatures from mid-June to mid-August."

He said there is a consistent positive and temperature.

Ragweed pollen down from 1975

The results indicate what he calls the "pollen potential" for a given year, but he hastened to add that the potential might not be realized

'If you have a rainy period around Aug 23 when ragweed is blooming, you won't get much of a hay fever season because the rain will keep the pollen from getting into the air, despite all the potential," said Dr. Reiss.

In general, ragweed is favored by warm spring and summer temperatures and isn't too concerned about precipitation. It grows well in places having good soil and no other established ground cover, such as vacant lots or farm fields that have been harvested not replanted

The spread of ragweed pollen depends on several factors," he said. "These include the number and size of such plants, the amount of pollen per plant, wind activity and the amount of sunshine, which dries the pollen and makes it easier for it to get airborne

Now that Dr. Reiss feels he has a valid technique for forecasting pollen potential, his next aim is the development of a method for predicting day-to-day pollen counts within the hay fever season, but that could be even more difficult than the original study

Med center will report N.J. daily pollen count

A daily pollen count, beginning Monday, Aug 9, and continuing until the sneezing season ends with the first frost, will be issued by the laboratory at Saint Barnabas Medical Center. Livingston, it was announced this week by John D. Phillips, executive director

The daily count for the New Jersey metropolitan area will be issued at 10 a.m. and will be broadcast by several radio stations in the area. It will tell the severity of ragweed

"We can get a good estimate of pollen potential but we can't yet forecast pollen counte ar in advance because of the inability to make long-range predictions of the weather during the pollen season, when so much depends on rain," he said Funded through the State University under biomedical sciences support grant from the 'S Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the study and its findings are presented in the June, 1976, issue of the Journal of Allergy and Climeal Immunology, and Dr. Reiss "A person with hay fever becomes sensitized to the presence of pollen in the air at the start of the season when counts jump high," he said The sensitivity is long-lasting, so they continue to feel it even after pollen counts drop below the level of irritation, which is a count of shout 50

So, he said, about the best thing a hay fever sufferer can do is not be where the pollen when the high counts start '

He recommends a stay at the Jersey shore or anywhere else having prevailing ocean breezes, such as the south shore of Long Island

"The trick is to avoid air which has traveled over land, he said. 'It's also a good idea to slow down activity in the ragweed season. Deep or rapid breathing such as follows, exercise isn't a good idea for a hay fever sufferer at that

Grains of pollen are tiny, so air conditioners equipped with standard filters won't help much unless they're set to circulate air already in a room and the windows are kept closed, be added

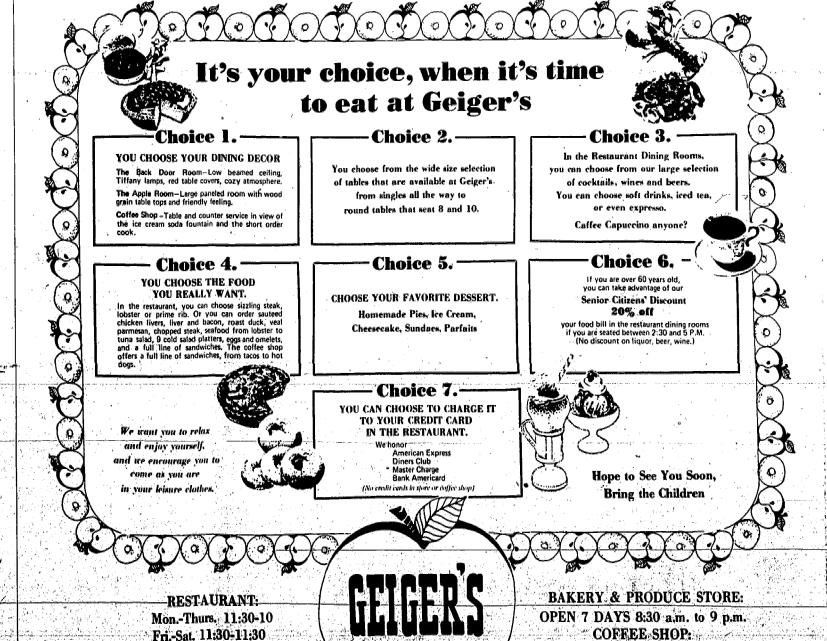

Physicians may have some medication for hay fever victims, but Dr. Reiss said the effectiveness of these varies from person to person and the matter is best left to the hay fever sufferer and his or her doctor to decide Dr. Reiss has been a member of the Cook

College faculty since 1972 and no, he doesn't

Old New Brunswick road and Old New Brunswick Road will 'Sale-a-Bration' listed for Clearbrook buyers

Four years ago this July. Clearbrook, the planned condominium community in Monroe Township for people 48 and over, initiated its sales campaign. Now, more than 1,000 residents later, it is marking its fourth birthday with a "sale-A-bration" and gifts for all who purchase either a plaza unit or garden home during the month.

The 560-acre community is located off Exit 8A of the New Jersev Turnpike, approximately halfway between New York and Philadelphia.

With sales now closing out in a current section of the community, buyers who purchase a plaza unit at Clearbrook during July will receive as a gift a $500 appliance package. The units sell from $34,500 to $45,900. Those who buy one of the remaining garden homes will receive a $600 credit toward the purchase price, which starts at $29,190.

Current prices will remain in effect only until a new section opens in August, when an increase is anticipated, reports John G. Andreissen, director of sales and

Multiple responsibilities face Crestwood 'official'

Mike Kokes, Herb Wishnick, Jan Kokes and Jerry Kokesthe builders of Crestwood Village and Pine Ridge, retirement communities on Rt. 530 in Whiting.

But there is another community "official" whose name is not so well known. If the others can be compared to the "mayor" and "councilman" of a typical city, this man would hold the title of "city manager." He runs the "city" after it's built, having charge of all the municipal-type services that maintain the grounds and buildings.

His name is Martin Blashinsky, and he's the general manager of the Zimko Management Co., a division of Crestwood Village set up specifically to maintain the community as a retirement showplace in South Jersey. Together with Paul Ken-assistant general two other assistants, eight supervisors, five office aides and numerous other employees, he surveys a four-acre domain at the foot of Schoolhouse road that includes storage facilities., offices, garages, repair shops for hundreds of vehiclesincluding tractors, trucks and buses-and machinery, a gas station, and a warehouse that stocks thousands of items ranging from faucet washers to huge tractor tires. He also runs the community bus system

Part of the monthly maintenance fee that each resident pays goes into the $112 million annual budget that covers the routine maintenance in contracts negotiated with Zimko by Village trustees. These include, snow removal, trash collection, lawn cutting and fertilizing, tree surgeon work, repainting and repairing garbage cans; repairing and mailboxes. repairing driveways; pest control; street cleaning; TV antenna repair; exterior painting and repairing of mes: caulking windows repairing roofs and leaks. The contracts also cover main-the homeowner after his home is out of guarantee, are provided at minimum charge. These include repairing doors and broken windows or screens, supplying and installing additional appliances supervising the installation of patios, interior repair and electrical replacement, fixing interior nlumbing problems (leaks. clogged drains, toilets) moving or providing ad-

or broken interior items, such as kitchen counters. Blashinsky: "We average, between phone calls and written requests. approximately 40 service calls per day- and this is over and above our regular routine maintenance programs. In 1974, we responded to over 14,000 such service calls, including emergency and night service, replacement of worn

calls. Marty, as he is known to his associates, is especially proud of his 24-hour emergency service. "We have a night man on all the time, and he has access to successive layers of skilled employees and supervisors to accomplish his mission, depending on the gravity of the call. We'll take on the little things, too, such as a householder who has accidentally locked himself out of the house. But it's not all 24-hour worrying and take-home work this car and all vehicles in the department, are connected two-way radio headquarters). There are lighter moments, as when residents complain of invasions of their property by small game, and ask that Marty pull some magic out of a hat to control them.

There was the time when squirrels came into the village_strewing_pine_cones all over the grounds, recalled with a chuckle. "And the rabbits, they're un-many traps-but after that what can you do?"

The department gets many letters from residents, and classifies them into two kinds.
"'Attaboys'," explains Marty, "are letters of praise for doing something right.' The other kind are called: 0-("expletive deleted") and are complaints when something goes wrong. The men in the department maintain a tally of both kinds and they say it takes 10 "Attaboys" to make up for one of the other kind. Blashinsky joined the Crestwood Village team in 1970 as a one-man maintenance department, with one supervisor and no office. He handled his own typing and filing. In 1973, he was promoted to general manager of Zimko Management; at the same time, Kennedy was appointed assistant general manager. For the latter, Marty has nothing but praise. terming him a "good guy," one who rates high in what he describes as "the give-a-damn factor.

Whether it's because of the example he sets of devotion to duty, some other reason, he says the same of most all his employees: "They care." And this applies to the some 40 fulltime employees, as well as the 90 or so parttimers, many of whom are residents supplementing retirement incomes with jobs riding the lawn mower, as custodians. drivers, or night bus emergency men.

Zimko's responsibilities, and hence Blashinsky's, do not stop at Crestwood Village borders. To the more than 3,000 homes he services in the Village, must be added the more than 300 householders of Pine Ridge, Crestwood's sister community, located one mile east on Rt. 530, for whom he performs many of the same services.

Before joining Crestwood, Marty was owner of his own construction firm and gained his experience dealing with customers, employees and lives in Lakewood with his wife and two sons.

Gebroe Associates of Clifton Professional

Management of Wayne, two of New Jersey's best known real estate investment firms, have merged into Gebroe-Hammer Associates, to be based in Clifton, it was announced by Melvin Gebroe and Morris Hammer, principals of the new organization.

Formation of the new firm reunites Gebroe and Hammer, who spent many years as members of J.I. Kislak, Inc. Gebroe was president of that organization when he left to establish Gebroe Associates in 1973; Hammer was a senior vice-president when he decided to form his own company.

Drew lists ballet group

Stars of Ballet Hispanico of New York are the next attraction in the 1976 Monday Night Specials series at the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival at Drew University in Madison. Seven leading dancers of Tina Ramirez' company will present one performance only the Mon dav.

Ballet Hispanico was in 1972 by Venezeulan-born Tina Ramirez, daughter Mexican bullfighter former member of a Spanish gypsy flamenco troope, graduate of Xavier Cugat's traveling show, to give an outlet to the professional Hispanic dancer

Since then, the company has earned support from the National Endowment for the Arts and has traveled coast to coast, performing in streets, parks, colleges, at I recoln Center, before more than 200,000 people in the best control alone.

2 records set in Upsala drive

Upsala College's annual alumni find-raising drive set two records in the 1975-1976 year, alumni director William M. Foster of Madison reported this week.

Giving individual sums up to $10,000, a total of 2,472 alumni contributed $126,991 to the college, exceeding a goal of $125,000. It was the largest number of alumni and the largest dollar total in one year since alumni fund raising began at the 83-year-old East Orange college in 1953. Last year's contributions totaled $112,882 from 2,397 donors.

area, issued today by Herbert Bienstock

He noted that pay gains of Newark area workers were largely offset by consumer price increases. Between January 1975 and January 1976, consumer prices, as measured by the New York Northeastern New Jersey area Consumer Price Index, rose 6.7 percent. Real pay gains adjusted for consumer price change, were reduced to 0.7 percent for office clerical workers and 19 percent for skilled plant workers. Real pay levels of electronic data processing and unskilled plant workers inched up over the year by 0.3 and 0.1 percent respectively Among the numerically important white collar occupations studied, average weekly salaries of secretaries rose $14 or 7 9 percent to $191.50, Mr. Bienstock said. Average weekly salaries of class B accounting clerks increased 9 1 percent from $142.50 to $155.50

For electronic data processing occupations Bienstock indicated that average weekly

Standards booklet for meat products

A wise food shopper knows what he or she pays for at the check-out counter, especially for processed meat and poultry products

To help spread shopping wisdom to the public, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service is offering a consumer reference list of more than 200 popular meat and poultry products. The list briefly describes standards required of items tederally inspected and specifies the amount of meat or poultry each product must contain

To cite a few- meat pies and chili con carne with beans must have at least 25 percent meat. a high meat dinner for babies must have 30 percent meat (65 percent for a meat and broth and broth baby food item+; corned beef hash must have at least 35 percent meat and no more than 15 percent fat; condensed chicken soup must contain at least four percent chicken meat; and Sloppy Joe sauces with meat are required to contain at least 35 percent meat

A copy of the complete Consumer Reference List may be obtained from: Information Division, APHIS, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 26 Federal Plaza (Room 1653). New York, N.Y., 10007.

U.S. to purchase ground beef for feeding programs

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz an nounced this week that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (L'SDA) is starting a beef purchase program.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service will purchase ground heel for distribution to schools, institutions and elderly feeding programs. In announcing the program, Butz said "this is a very opportune time for USDA to enter the market. The ground beef will be available for delivery to schools shortly after they reopen this tall

Fed cattle prices have been under considerable pressure for several weeks and the USDA Cattle on Feed report, released July 19. indicates that marketings will continue large for some time. The specification for groound beef provides for a wide selection of grades and wholesale cuts in preparing the product USDA officials indicated that because of the present price and supply situation they expected processors to rely heavily on wholesale cuts from fed beef in making the ground beef

Two separate purchase programs are being started, one for bulk ground beet and one for ground beef patties. Funds for the purchases are provided under Section 32 Public Law 74

The USDA is also issuing a special "food marketing alert" on beef. This will call consumers' attention to the availability of beef and urge retailers to continue beef promotional efforts as a means of increasing movement of beef through normal channels of trade

Services building planned for Drew

Construction has begun at Drew University Madison, on a $750,000 services building that will bring more than a dozen plant and service functions, now scattered across campus, under one roof Designed by Madison architect Harry E. Weaver, the structure will be located on Lancaster road (the campus extension of Elm street), several hundred feet off Madison avenue (Rte. 24). Completion is set for early next year.

Besides providing office space for plant officials and facilities for maintenance per sonnel, groundsmen, and security forces, the building will house all specialized shops, a unified storage facility, a compactor for the temporary deposit of trash, a garage, security communications equipment, and an improved telephone service center

June increase in price index is .6 percent

Consumer prices in the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area, typically stable in June, rose 0.6 percent over the month, it was reported this week by Herbert Bienstock, regional commissioner of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Bienstock indicated that the June rise reflected price increases for a wide variety of goods and services including food, housing, gaand electricity, medical care and gasoline Apparel prices were down seasonally over the month. Over the year ending in June 1976, the overall area Consumer Price Index was up 6% percent

Seasonally adjusted, the index was also up sharply by 0.6 percent in June. Bienstock noted that increases of 0.6 percent in each of the last two months compared unfavorably with the experience of the preceding three months. The index was up 0.3 percent in April, 0.2 percent in March and edged down 9.1 percent in February. In the preceding six months in creases averaged 0.7 percent

The housing index was up 0.7 percent bet ween May and June, according to Bienstock largely reflecting a sharp 5-2 percent rise in the gas and electricity component. The bomeownership component was up 0.8 percent reflecting increases for maintenance and repair services, such as furnace repair, house residing, and sink replacement, as well as higher home purchase and related finance charges Residential rents, surveyed every two months, rose by 0.7 percent between April and June. In contrast there was a decline of 0.4 percent in the household furnishings and operations index.

The food index, which typically remains unchanged in June, rose by 0.7 percent over the month. The June rise, Bienstock indicated, largely reflected a sharp 1.3 percent increase in the meats, poultry and fish component. The other foods at home index, which includes eggs. cooking oil, sugar and nonalcoholic beverages. was also up by 1.3 percent between May and June, largely based on a rise in coffee prices. The cereals and bakery products index was up 0.6 percent over the month and the dairy products index rose 0.5 percent. The fruits and vegetables index, typically up in June, edged down 0.1 percent

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the food index was up sharply by 0.7 percent, following increases of 0.7 percent in May and 1.0 percent in April. Bienstock noted that increases averaging 0.8 percent during the April-June quarter were in sharp contrast with declines averaging 0.6 percent during the first quarter

Retail gas prices take upward swing in northeast area

Average retail gasoline prices in New York Northeastern New Jersey turned up sharply in May following seven consecutive months of decline, it was reported yesterday by Herbert Bienstock, regional commissioner of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics Regular gasoline was up 14 percent and premium rose 1.2 percent over the month In the preceding sever months. Sept. 1975 April retail gasoling prices were down 70 percent for regular and LR percent for premium Bienstock noted that at the wholesale level, gasoline prices in the Middle Atlantic States were up for the second consecutive month rising 3.4 percent for regular and 3.7 percent for premium between April and May. In contrast, in the preceding six month period, Sept 1975 to March 1976, wholesale prices were down 7.1 percent for regular and 7.3 percent for premium

Bienstock indicated that between April and May, the average retail price of regular gasoline in the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area rose 0.8 cents to 57.6 cents a gallon; premium was up 0.8 cents to 63.5 cents a gallon Nationally, over the month increases were about in line with the area's, with regular gasoline up by 0.9 cents or 1.5 percent to 57.6 cents a gallon and premium up 0.7 cents or 1.2 percent to 62 1 cents a gallon in May. Unleaded regular gasoline prices, which first became available in January 1976, were up 0.9 cents or 1.4 percent over the month to 60.9 cents a gallon in the area, and rose 0.8 cents or 1.3 percent to 60.0 cents a gallon, nationally

A $16,900 grant to Upsala College, East Oragne, by the National Science Foundation will pave the way for a pioneer program in which an audio tutorial approach will be used for introductory biology sutdents who are not science majors.

Purpose of the new program is to improve student un-derstanding of the nature of scientific inquiry and to develop students' skills of procedure and manipulation. Professor Edward Kubersky, project director. said the program will be tried for a year after which evaluation will be made whether to continue it in biology and to expand it to other sciences such as physics and chemistry.

The audio-tutorial approach is a study system whereby students work independently in an integrated lecturelaboratory context aided by the audio-taped guidance of the insturctor. The focal point of the program will be a learning center equipped with individual student carrels, each of which will contain a tape recorder, slide and film projectors, a microscope and appropriate materials.

Students will be permitted to learn at their own pace rather than at a group pace and will have the advantage of receiving more individual professorial assistance than in the traditionally constructed
