subject of a resolution passed unanimously by the board. A similar resolution was originally passed by the school board in Ridgewood; and endorsed by Westfield

The statement notes that the primary function of an educational system is to provide quality education for students but that educational funds are now limited by the budget caps under the new "Thorough and Efficient Education" law. It states that under the budget limitations "it is impossible to assume new services and program costs without jeopardizing current educational

The resolution also asks the New Jersey School Boards Association to seek legislation and to lobby for the repeal of the universal lunch statute "which interferes with local school policy and the board's ability to deliver a quality educational program.

An increased enrollment in the system's kindergarten classes prompted the board's hiring of an aide to assist in those classes for the remainder of the school year. The assistant, who has yet to be named, will receive a salary of $2.50 per hour for a total of $1,920. Also to be hired are two part-time aides to assist with reading and mathematics programs in the first grade; their salaries for the remainder of the school year will be $800 each.

A contract for the balance of the 1976-77 year to transport two handicapped students to a school in Livingston was awarded to the Belair Transportation Co., East Hanover, at a fee of $33.75 per day.

The board also approved an in-service training program for borough teachers on "gifted child" instruction, to be conducted Jan. 17, subject to approval by the teachers' committee. The board would assume half of the $150 total cost of the program; the PTA would pay the other half.

The long process of formulating the fiscal 1977-78 New Jersey State budget is underway.

For the first time, spending decisions will be restricted by the newly enacted "State Expenditures Limitation Law" which is already the subject of much controversy and criticism, notes the New Jersey Taxpayers

Technical amendments to the law have been introduced to clarify the formula for deriving

the expenditure "cap" which is tied to growth in State per capita personal income. State finance officials point out that use of a fiscal year two years previous to the budget year as a base year for measuring spending authorization increase is unrealistic. Furthermore, there is also question concerning nature of the data to be used and the method of computing per capita personal income each

Cited as one of the law's inconsistencies, is the fact that operations and capital outlay increases will be limited to growth of per capita restricted. A potential result of the limitation is budget "gimmickry", that is, shifting appropriations which normally would be reported and budgeted as operations to the exempt State aid section. Experience shows the Legislature has given low priority to funds for capital projects in the current budget in the past, accordingly there is less likelihood for increases under the "cap" law. This restriction is expected to lead to increased efforts to finance capital outlay through long term borrowing, since payment of bond principal and interest are exempt from statutory limitations. This involves convincing a reluctant public it should approve bond issues. Continued voter opposition will lead to "backdoor" financing

The State budget caps may only be exceeded under the law by submitting the additional-proposed expenditures to approval at a public referendum in the November general election.

Kotuby said that the association is proud that Gregory, one of the nation's outstanding professional football players, has chosen to support us this year in calling attention to the need to fight lung disease.

'As the parent of a child with a breathing problem," Kotuby continued, "Mr. Gregory knows what an impact such a condition has on family life and the importance of having personnel and facilities available in the ommunity to provide comprehensive treat

"The public's support of the Christmas Seal Campaign," he concluded, "Makes our work possible and helps us to provide vital programs and services for the thousands of children and adults afflicted with lung disease.'

Gregory called on all residents to join in the fight against lung disease by making a generous contribution to the drive.

'Your lungs are for life," he stated, "and a total community effort will result in a successful campaign and assist the association in its year-round effort in defense of our lungs."

tried ideas, but it should at least get the ideas tried. So it is with solar now to work but which, alas, isn't in step with the utility and manufacturing interests which exercise so much lobbying power over our present and future lives.

This point was made at the Newark seminar by David Morris, director of the Institute of Local Self-Reliance in Washington, D.C. Noting that it takes a minimum of 10 years from initial planning to the first kilowatt of power from a nuclear plant, Morris held that solar power may be competitive with nuclear power in another 10 years. Therefore, he reasoned, why not divert more money, time and attention from nuclear power to solar power right now? Sunlight creates no deadly waste byproducts as nuclear power does, and I doubt if we will be any closer to defeating radioactivity threats in 10 years than we are right now.

We have an energy office in New Jersey, too, and it might well be doing more to fulfill public interest in solar power, if only by providing the

Legislator wants to mandate county anti-corruption units

Assemblyman William J. Maguire (R-22) this week announced he has introduced legislation to mandate the creation of governmental corruption units in the prosecutor's offices of all 21 counties in the state. He said he was motivated by the recent dismantling of the Union County unit.

"My observation indicates the Union County unit had been very effective and there was widespread regret and chagrin when it was abolished," the Clark Republican said. "Nothing is more repugnant to our citizens than corruption by elected officials. It is equally discouraging to the overwhelming majority of those officials who are honest and forthright, but assumed to be less than honest simply because they are 'politicians.' All of us

NOVEMBER IS "ENERGY CONSERVATION AWARENESS

It Makes Dollars and Sense for You

With wise energy use and management, America will be able to substantially reduce the amount of energy it must import. And this is where everyone can do his or her part to increase our own country's. supply of energy.

Cold weather is coming and you can begin helping to conserve energy by adequately insulating your home, weather stripping doors and windows and making sure your heating system is clean and working properly. Check your car to make sure it's in good running condition to save gasoline. Think about the many other ways you can save energy. Not only will you be saving fuel but you'll be saving yourself money.

It is up to each of us to do our part to wisely use and conserve our precious energy supply, not only during the month of November but every month of the year. Save energy and serve America. It makes dollars and sense for you.

equipment, etc

In the ladies' magazine I subscribe to, I came upon an introductory offer of a "revolutionary" new line of towels. This advertisement was in the form of a coupon for five free towels in assorted pastel colors. Larrie, am I being silly in believing that these towels are cloth-like? If they are, this is one of the best offers I've come across in a long time

SILLY

Do not expect to receive cloth-like towels that are normally used for bathing, drying dishes, etc. These "towels" are basically non-woven and made by chemical bonding of such fibers as cotton, rayon and polyester. In other words, they are generally known as "wipers."

The Better Business Bureau points out that the best defense is an aware consumer who has learned when to spot an advertisement which is "too good to be true.

Larrie O'Farrell, Better Business Bureau

Dear Larrie:

Although I've known for years that police and government agencies hold auctions on old vehicles, I had no desire to know more about these auctions until now. My friend has aroused my curiousity about a coming auction. While I don't need a car for myself, I'd like very much to buy a used car for my wife. Can you tell me if these public auctions are an excellent way of acquiring a good used car for a bargain

AROUSED

Dear Aroused: Stay away from police and government public auctions. Unless you are an automobile expert, you can get badly stung bidding on old police and government vehicles that have high mileage and rough use. Auctions are no place for neophytes. By bidding you can get into paying several hundred dollars more than the vehicle is worth. What looks like a bargain can be a headache later, in many such cases. Besides, cash-only is the rule at such sales, and you have no recourse if you make a bad buy.

Mr. Greenwalt notes that the fate of animals and that of man are inexorably intertwined. Animals and their habitat throughout the country and the world, he states. must be treated as one total ecosystem valuable to people and to their survival

"We cannot continue to exploit our natural resources with utter abandon, if we want to offer a heritage to our successors that is anything like that we enjoy today. I am quoting Mr. Greenwalt in an effort to further substantiate my position taken during the public hearing in June of 1976. The Watchung Reservation has been defined in the Environmental Impact Statement as "not only a park but also a refuge for wildlife and

Proposals to construct I-78 along either the South of the Park or the Ridge alignment would force wildlife from the undeveloped refuge areas into the more developed areas of the Park. Deer roam the first Watchung range at all times of the year. Construction of the South of the Park alignment would force the deer population from the southern portion of the first Watchung Ridge completely, and would fence off a pond which now provides water to wildlife inhabitants of the area.

In addition to the effect on wildlife, the study conducted by the Department of Transportation neglects to equate the effects upon the human animal whose habitat is on the fringe area of the Watchung Reservation. Although estimates were recorded regarding air quality and noise impact, no determination was made concerning the effects upon the might the inhabitants of Mountainside and Summit become an endangered species? Recent scientific data seems to show a high correlation between New Jersey's air pollution and the high incidence of cancer in the state It is my contention that the Department of Transportation must take into consideration the total environment, including man. The "bog turtle" who was mentioned at least eight times in the study, in spite of the fact that "the presence of the bog turtle today in the reseration has not been confirmed," is protected by Chapter 309 of New Jersey State Law. Neither man nor deer has such a law to protect his species or habitat.

I propose that the Department of Transportation take a stand beneficial to both man and wildlife by constructing the tunnel and cut and cover alternative with no interchanges in the incompleted five-mile stretch. Opponents of the tunnel route object because of the tremendous cost. New Jersey has one of the highest unemployment rates in the country This route would not only become an ecological and engineering feat to be enjoyed by generations to come, but would be a tremendous boost for a faltering New Jersey economy. After all, isn't Conservation, in the final analysis, the highest form of national thrift?

PROFITS UP

Wholesale corporations' after-tax profits for the second quarter of 1976 were $4 billion, up $1.1 billion from the previous quarter.

Medical, hospital plans ease rules covering 19-year-olds

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Jersey have liberalized their rules to allow unmarried dependent children to remain under parental coverage until the end of the year in which they reach the age of 19. Previously, coverage extended only until the end of the month in which the birthday occurred. Starting Nov. 1, a three-month enrollment period opened in which dependent children who have or will become 19 this year may apply for their separate Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage without having to complete a health statement Coverage will become effective Jan. 1, 1977.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield have always permitted dependents, when reaching the cutoff date, to arrange their own coverage without a health statement. This policy will continue. However, dependents whose 19th birthday fell in 1976 who apply for separate coverage after Jan. 31, 1977, will be required to submit a health statement, standard procedure for a regular non-group applicant.

"It is important that 19-year-olds be aware of the regulations governing dependents because the process of conversion to separate coverage for the dependent is not automatic," said a spokesman for the Plans. "We must be notified pefore we can take any action.

The new rule pertains to all Blue Cross and Blue Shield community-rated Family and Parent and Child(ren) contracts. Many experience-rated groups of 100 or more subscribers, which purchase their own programs tailored to their own needs, have different cutoff ages for dependent children. Members of these larger groups are advised to consult their benefit booklets or the person who handles the group's Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage to determine how long a dependent is covered.

Mentally retarded or physically handicapped dependents may remain on a parent's contracts after the calendar year in which they reach age 19 if chiefly dependent on the parents for support and maintenance. Satisfactory proof of incapacity and dependency must be submitted to the Plans by Jan. 31, 1977, for a child who became 19 during 1976.

Dependent children who marry may stay on a parent's contracts only until the end of the benefit month of marriage. If a dependent marries before the end of the year of the 19th birthday, notification should be made preferably before, but no later than 90 days fter, the marriage date.

Information on obtaining separate coverage for dependent children can be obtained at the Blue Cross and Blue Shield office, 33

CARE launches $6 million drive for food program

Launching the holiday season CARE Food Crusade this week, Frank L. Goffio, executive director of the international aid agency, appealed to Americans for $6 million. The money will help provide nourishing food for 19 million people, mostly children, in developing countries where malnutrition and hunger cause intense suffering-even death.

"It is difficult for us to fully understand the meaning of poverty overseas," Goffio said. "We lose sight of high infant mortality rates, the mental and physical retardation of children under five years of age, and the short life expectancy, all widespread in developing countries around the world. It is hard for us to comprehend the extent of human misery caused by food shortages and nutritional deficiencies in nations where millions of people are trying to exist on a per capita income of less than $100 a year."

Care food distribution takes place in nutrition and mother-child centers and primary schools. many of which CARE donors helped build.

CARE food also is provided through such food-for-work projects as the building of dams, irrigation systems and roads, all geared to increase food production. In addition, CARE rushes food and other emergency aid to millions of victims of drought, earthquake, hurricanes and other disasters.

Contributions to the fund drive may be sent to CARE Food Crusade, Tri-State Regional Office, 660 First ave., New York, N.Y. 10016

IS BACKRUE DECEMBER BARCAINS

WASHINGTON, D.C.-Adoption of a national policy to recover, recycle and reuse paper products "now buried, burned wastefully, or scattered as litter on our landscape" has been urged by a Presidential advisory group.

"Adoption of a national policy and programs to achieve these objectives merits priority attention by all levels of government and the private sector. There are important social, environmental and economic benefits to be gained by doing so," according to the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Environmental Full committee recommendations are contained in its new booklet, "A New Look at Recycling Waste Paper.

The committee urged federal action to rectify the inequitable economic relationship between recycled and virgin fibers and recommended that the President establish an interagency task force to pinpoint specific market incentives that would increase the recycling of paper. Among these are tax incentives, low-cost federal loans, a subsidy for stockpiling used paper, and a solid waste disposal charge.

In announcing publication of the booklet committee chairman Henry L. Diamond said, 'It makes environmental and economic sense to stockpile whatever waste-paper we can recover in a manner that will make it readily available for at least three purposes; as a low cost raw material for the recycling industry.

(and) as a source of fuel for United States industrial and electric power plants, when the first two demands are inadequate to utilize the available supply.

Noting that taxpayers now spend at least $26 per ton to burn or bury three tons of paper for every ton which gets recycled, Diamond proposed that a disposal tax be levied by weight on paper products at their points of origin. The tax would be reduced in proportion to the amount of recycled fibers used in manufac turing the product.

The committee stressed in its report to the President that increasing production of paper products made directly from trees results in throwing away valuable fiber resources faster than satisfactory ways to reuse them can be

"As a result, we are spending millions or taxpayer dollars on a process that wastefully destroys forever millions of tons of a valuable resource-a loss that we should not, and need not, tolerate," the committee agreed.

It called for immediate planning toward the time, within 10 years or less, when forest resources will no longer be able to meet worldwide demands for paper fibers, as well as the many other uses to which wood is put. The national interest dictates two immediate steps the committee said. One is to maintain and improve recycling capabilities, and the other is to "develop alternatives to the present in tolerable waste of discarded resources.

Why A Family Financial Center?

We believe that people can be served best by a financial institution dedicated to people only....and all of their financial needs.

We do not want to be a commercial bank. Commercial banks were created to serve the needs of commerce and industry. We were created to serve people.

But we need better tools. We want to offer checking accounts that pay interest. We want to provide trust services for families. For people. We want to be a supermarket-of-financial-services-for-families.

But the bankers are fighting us. They're opposing our efforts to better serve people by lobbying in Trenton and in Washington. Some are opposing us in the courts.

But we will win. Because our cause is just.

Join us. Become part of New Jersey's Billion Dollar Family Financial Center. Together we'll provide the very best in quality family financial services.

Mobilehome community attracts 'empty nesters'

Taking it easy—that's what living is all about in South Wind, an adult mobilehome community on Rt. 528 in Jackson, Ocean County. Nestled in a country setting next to state forest lands, the community is home to nearly 200 families. Most residents are "empty nesters," folks whose children have grown and are on their own. One such couple is Frank and Helen Papiano. Having raised their family as house owners, they moved to an apartment in Princeton-but it just wasn't right for them. They still wanted a home of their own. The Papianos moved to South Wind six years ago, and three years ago, Frank agreed to become resident manager of the community. He's on duty 24

"People who haven't seen a mobilehome before are in awe of all the spaces-a lot more than in small city apartments

Papiano stated

An expanded home could feature a living room of 18 by 20 feet or larger. There's also a formal dining room and an eat-in kitchen with more counter space and cabinet space than many a site-built home. Yet the average mobilehome costs less than $16,000 in New Jersey.

A good percentage of South Wind residents already lived in Jackson. When the community was built six years ago, many local residents decided they'd be better off with the low maintenance, interior styling and economy of a mobilehome, instead of their outgrown or expensive

"People are impressed by the neatness and attractiveness of South Wind," Papiano remarked, pointing to a flower bedecked yard. "That's a direct compliment to our residents. Each home owner has immense pride in his home, his yard, his patio Residents vie to see who can come up with the brightest floral garden; the prettiest landscape arrangements

Since minmum age in South Wind is 55, many of the residents hold full or parttime jobs. The park is seven miles from Lakewood and convenient to numerous expressways and major high-

"Yet we're away from the pollution, noise and clutter of the city," Papiano noted. "We have no stairs, no unclean elevators or dark hallways. It's a good place to live, and a good place to work.

"In some places," Papiano concluded, "the management lives in fear of the telephone. wondering what kind of tenant complaint will come in next. At South Wind, our phone rarely rings. We do things right, the residents appreciate that and we appreciate them.

"Merit Delivers More Taste Than Higher Tar Cigarettes."

-American Institute of Consumer Opinion

Extensive taste testing shows Merit delivers flavor of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

The bottom line was conclusive:

In a series of taste tests conducted for MERIT by the American Institute of Consumer Opinion,* smokers from across the country judged MERIT to have more flavor than five leading low tarcigarette brands.

What's really startling —and of major importance to all smokers—is that MERIT has less tar than these five brands.

That's the report on a remarkable new taste process called 'Enriched Flavor.' A way to pack extra flavor into tobacco without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now smoke the cigarette. MERIT.

Safety hints are offered for holidays

"It may be traditional to cook on Thanksgiving," says William E. Early, regional manager for the Allstate Insurance Companies, "but it's more fun if the home fires are limited to the holiday meal, and not extended to the holiday guests. "Thanksgiving is a family gathering time, with many loved ones under one roof. It behooves the homeowner to assure himself that his home is safe, especially from fire." Early urges that the householder take time out DUTRAGEOUS PRICES PAID before the holiday to prepare FOR JUNK CARS refrigerator goes on, wiring may be inadequate. -Overnight guests are reminded of the no-smokingin-bed rule.

-Hair spray and other flammable sprays are not used when smoking.

"Most important," Early concludes, "have the number of the fire department prominently visible on the phone. Many fires can be brought under easy control if help arrives swiftly enough.

"A home fire extinguisher of the type that can douse grease or electrical fires is recommended. Also remember baking soda-not flour, which can flame when clouding in the air-can be used to smother grease flames. Observing these commonsense rules can make all the difference in your Thanksgiving holiday, Early said.

Mayflower pact cited

Governor Brendan T. Byrne has designated Sunday, Nov. 21, as "Mayflower Compact Day," requesting that patriotic organizations, churches, schools and the general public read the historic Mayflower Compact and ponder its significance. New Jersey students in American History classes receive copies of the compact from their teachers, courtesy of the New Jersey Society of Mayflower Descendants. The principal or superintendent of any school, private or public, may receive copies for student use by sending a request on official stationery to Milton E. Terry, 381 Creek Bed rd... Mountainside, 07092.

The 550-member society, comprised of men and women who are lineal descendants of one or more passengers on the Mayflower, will celebrate Mayflower Compact Day with a luncheon meeting at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday, Nov. 20.

Boystown opens drive

New Jersey's Boystown in Kearny has opened its annual Christmas fund drive with an appeal to help its residents become useful citizens, a credit to themselves and to: New Jersey's Boystown."

Monsignor Egan, director of the institution, said boys at Boystown range in age from 11 to 18, attend the Boystown Grammar school and local high schools. Boystown conducts its own vocational school in printing, carpentry and masonry.

It's costing more to be poor, Labor Department reports

The annual cost of maintaining a lower level of living for a four person family in New York-Northeastern New Jersey passed the $10,000 mark between autumn 1974 and autumn 1975, according to an analysis of the latest estimates for three hypothetical family budgets, issued this week by Herbert Bienstock, regional commissioner of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Bienstock noted that at $10,266, the lower level budget for New York-Northeastern New Jersey ranked third highest among 38 mainland areas studied and was $1,854 or 22 percent above the least expensive area, Austin, Texas. Lower level living costs here in autumn 1975 were $678 or seven percent higher than the urban United States average.

At the intermediate and higher budget levels, the living cost gap between this area and others was even wider, Bienstock pointed out. At $27,071, the higher level budget in the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area was above each of the other 37 mainland areas for which BLS family budget estimates are developed. To maintain a comparable level of living in this area, it cost $7,658 or 39 percent more than in Austin and $4,777 or 21 percent more than nationally

Bienstock noted that nearly half the higher level budget living cost gap reflected substantially higher personal igcome taxes in the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area. Higher income taxes result from the impact of progressive federal income tax structures applied to the larger incomes required to

At $17,498, the intermediate budget for New York-Northeastern New Jersey families was $4,076 or 30 percent above Austin and $2,180 or 14 percent above the urban national average, according to Bienstock, Among the 38 mainland areas studied, New York-Northeastern New Jersey was second highest, exceeded only by the Boston area where living costs were $592

Clean water unit seeks more funds

Buoyed by the overwhelming vote in favor of New Jersey's Clean Waters Bond Issue, the Concerned Citizens for Clean Water plans to meet with U.S. Environmental Protection Agency officials and members of Congress early next year to insure a continuing flow of federal monies to Garden State projects.

"The almost 2-to-1 vote in favor of Clean Waters is a mandate from the people of New Jersey to move ahead on programs in every county," said Robert A. Briant, executive director. "We expect to have a broad-based representation from New Jersey visit Washington in January to have additional federal funds earmarked for our state." Briant pointed out that $1 billion in U.S. aid funds have already been applied to clean water projects in New Jersey over the past three years. The remaining $300 million in federal aid will be allocated by January.

"What we're trying to do is insure an unin-terrupted flow of federal funds for the many vital projects now on the drawing boards in every county and region," said Briant. "Our shore resorts, rural areas, mushrooming Suburban communities and urban centers all

New fee schedule for landfills to aid wastes programs

The State Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) has adopted a new fee schedule for sanitary landfills to fund a statewide solid waste management program and provide grants to the counties.

The new schedule, effective Nov. 1, applies equally to all wastes landfilled in New Jersey no matter what the state of origin

Beatrice S. Tylutki, director of DEP's Solid Waste Administration, said that a little more than half the fees will be raised from waste generated by commercial and industrial concerns in New Jersey. Out-of-state trash and garbage will trigger almost 20 percent of the fees, and about a quarter of the funds will be raised from municipal residential waste in New Jersey

She estimated that the average increase in municipal refuse collection costs would be about 34 cents per year for a typical family of four or about eight cents per person

The fees will raise about $2 million per year about half of which will be used for grants to the counties and the Hackensack Meadowlands Commission to help design local solid waste management programs, Tylutki said

Tylutki said that because of the absence of a udgetary appropriation to fund the program. the Legislature had directed DEP to raise the money through the imposition of fees

In general, there will be a fee of four cents for each cubic yard of solid waste, one-tenth cent per gallon for sewage sludge or septic wastes, and a half-cent per gallon for other waste

Based on the capacity of each vehicle delivering waste to the landfills, the fees will be paid by landfill operators and collected quarterly by the state.

Heart disease breakthroughs aren't imminent -- HEW aide

Medical breakthroughs in the treatment of heart disease are not on the horizon and should not be expected by the public, Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary for health in the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Weltare, said at the Rutgers Medical School of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (ČMDNJ)

Dr Cooper said that more and more reported cases of juvenile hypertension are being reported, disproving the notion that hyper tension is a "disease of adulthood." He also said that women are twice as likely to be aware of the disease, and get treated for it, than men

At a time when "the single most important factor driving all health-care decisions" is cost, health education costs relatively little. Dr Cooper told the CMDNJ-Rutgers Medical School audience. He put the cost of health education to the federal government at bet

Employment rise in Northeast U.S. trails other areas

Since the national employment recovery began in June 1975, employment in the Northeastern United States has remained about unchanged, up less than 0.1 percent, compared with increases of 2 percent or more in each of the other 3 major economic regions of the country (North Central, South and West). The figures were reported by Herbert Bienstock. regional commissioner of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics, this week at a conference of the American Society for Public Administration in Boston.

Bienstock noted that job gains in these regions ranged from 351,000 in the West to 522,000 in the South between June 1975 and June 1976. In the Northeast employment rolls edged up by 7,000 over the year, holding at 18.7

Bienstock pointed out that there has been a considerable long-term lag in job growth in the Northeast as compared to the nations's other regions. Between 1950 and 1975, he said, employment in the South and West more than doubled, with increases totalling more than 20 million jobs. In the Northeast, the job total over the quarter century was up by 30.6 percent, or 4.4 million jobs, while nationally a 70.2 percent rise was reported, or close to 32 million jobs.

Bienstock told the conference that the Northeast registered an above average unemployment rate all throughout 1976 to date. In July, the jobless rate for the Northeast was 8.8 percent (unadjusted) compared to a 7.8 percent national rate, with rates below 7 percent reported in the North Central and Coupled with the lower rate of job development experienced in the Northeast was a higher inflation rate. Bienstock said. Since 1967, consumer prices in the Northeast have risen by 72.9 percent while the lowest rate of increase was the 67.4 percent reported in the North Central region. Nationally, the Consumer Price Index rose 70.1 percent between the 1967 base period and June 1976.

Wage and salary increases in the Northeast lagged behind the rest of the nation in each of the three quarters ending in June 1976. Bien stock said. Recent findings from a new BLS measure of compensation change, the Employment Cost Index, indicate that pay levels of private sector nonfarm workers in the Northeast rose 3.8 percent between September 1975 and June 1976 as compared with a 5.5 percent national rise. An 8.0 percent increase in the West was roughly double the increase for the Northeast. Increases of 5.4 percent in the North Central region and 5.2 percent in the South also exceeded those in the Northeast.

Bienstock reports white-collar jobs offer highest pay

Professional and technical workers, with average weekly earnings of $256, and managers and administrators, who reported earnings of $289 per week, continue to be the highest paid full time wage and salary workers in the United States, Herbert Bienstock, regional commissioner of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics recently told a fall conference of the National Association of Academic Administrators at Drexel University in Philadelphia These two occupational groups provide the bulk of employment opportunities for college graduates.

Weekly earnings also exceeded $200 a week for craft workers ($239) and transport equipment operaters ($214). Bienstock said weekly carnings for sales workers averaged $198; operatives, $162, laborers, $161; clerical workers. $158; service workers (excluding private household), $134; and private ousehold workers, $60

Earnings for professional and technical workers, Bienstock said, were up by $10 a week or 4.1 percent between May 1975 and May 1976, while managerial and administrator earnings rose by $15 a week or 5.5 percent.

Bienstock noted that between May 1975 and May 1976 when the national unemployment rate fell from a recession peak of 8.9 percent to 7.3 percent, the unemployment rate for professional and technical workers edged down from 3.2 percent to 2.9 percent. That for managers and administrators was also 2.9 percent last May, about unchanged from the year before. In both periods these rates were the lowest for any major occupational group.

Bienstock told the administrators that compared with an anticipated 20 percent increase in jobs for all occupational groups between 1974 and 1985, those for professional workers are expected to increase by almost 30 percent and for mangers and administrators by almost 22 percent. Other occupational groups in which above average job growth is expected are clerical workers and service workers. Below average growth is expected for salesworkers, operatives, and laborers, while farm workers are expected to decline by almost 40 percent.

EARTHBOUND

The critical nuclear responsibility of the presidency for the next four years has fallen to Jimmy Carter of Georgia. No decisions affecting the environment are more important than those critical ones which must be made now in the nuclear field, for these decisions can mean life or death for many millions of Americans. The opportunities in this area, if we move now, are great. If we do not move decisively, the hazards stagger the imagination

Fortunately, Jimmy Carter is familiar with some of the mechanics of nuclear technology. He has worked as a nuclear engineer and can bring some of this experience to his decisionmaking rather than entirely depending on advisors I look forward to an administration with a leadership reflecting disciplines other than those of the legal profession. It is my view that the country needs a President now with a somewhat wider scope of vision and sensitivity to the environment than we have had in recent years. A man who has been both a farmer and an engineer can perhaps fill this need.

One of the most immediate questions which must be answered in the coming administration regards the treatment of plutonium, a man-made element that builds up in spent reactor fuel rods. Twenty-eight countries are now in the process of constructing nuclear reactors. These reactors produce plutonium, and apart from the environmental consequences of this material, it is the substance used in atomic bomb explosions. This is the ultimate ecological threat.

President-elect Carter has developed a comprehensive program for getting the nuclear proliferation problem under control. He has now been given the electoral mandate to put this program into effect and he should go

Chamber to hold meeting Nov. 22 on state's schools

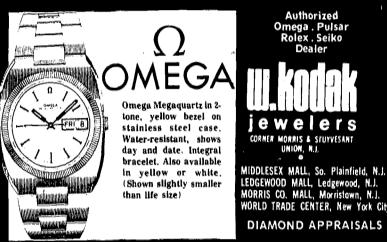

Noting that the business community pays some 35 percent of the cost of New Jersey' public schools, the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce has announced plans for a Schools Are Also Your Business'' conference on Monday, Nov. 22, in Clark.

Keynoting the half-day session will be Robert Braun, education editor of the (Newark) Star-Ledger. John J. Daily, a businessman who serves on the Westfield Board of Education; Thomas Henderson, field representative of the New Jersey School Board of Association; Steven B. Hoskins of the Newark law firm of McCarter & English, and James Moran, executive director, New Jersey Association of School Administrators, will comprise a panel that will discuss how schools are presently run and whether they could-or should-be run as businesses are run.

"Within the business community there is every reason for concern about our public schools," said Donald H. Scott, president of the Chamber. "Business people have a stake not only as parents but also as the future employers of a majority of the young people who pass through the system. There is also the question of school costs and whether the young people are receiving maximum benefit from the taxpayers' extensive investment in the "One particular area of concern to us is the increasing pressures of teacher and school employee unions for a major voice in school operations and spending. Many local school systems today have school employees serving on their boards, a few with as many as five such board members

"New Jersey schools are definitely big business. We hope, through this conference, to encourage business people to become per-sonally involved in the affairs of their local school system", Scott stated.
