Council told about allegations against borough policeman

Calling charges made by a Mountainside resident of harassment by police "very, very serious," Mayor Thomas Ricciardi last week told Borough Attorney John Post to allow the resident to use the facilities of his office to press any charges against the police.

Mrs. William Grau of Old Tote road charged to the council at its monthly meeting at the Beechwood School that Officer Wayne Martin has been harassing her children and the children of other residents. Mrs. Grau said the affair came to a head recently when, on Halloween night, Officer Martin allegedly jumped on and knocked to the ground one of her child's friends when some children came to his door for tricks or treats.

Mayor Ricciardi acknowledged that Mrs. Grau had already complained to him about the alleged actions of the officer. At that time a hearing was held by the police commissioner, the mayor said, and the officer denied any of the charges.

When asked by the council why she didn't press charges against the officer, Mrs. Grau said she was afraid of the expense. Borough Attorney Post then said that someone "must come forth to press charges at a borough hearing that I will preside over."

Mrs. Grau also charged that Officer Martin verbally harassed the children of Mountainside, saying, "The words that he used to these children were not becoming an officer or a gentleman."

She also said that when she approached the officer, he denied any of the allegations. Mrs. Grau then said that she feared nothing would happen if charges were pressed because it is "the word of the police against the word of the boys and girls of this town."

Councilman Abe Suckno said that Officer Martin should be reprimanded by the chief, but the mayor then said, "The statements are a very, very serious mark against the police department. I will make the borough council available to you to make any charges against the police department."

IN OTHER ACTIONS TAKEN by the council, a land use ordinance was introduced. It is a comprehensive, 75-page measure that would create, in the mayor's words, "an all inclusive ordinance to meet state laws in a re-definition of the authority of planning boards in Mountainside. It would be a master plan of the borough." The full text will appear Dec. 9.

The council introduced an ordinance that would renovate the Echobrook School in order to make it into a municipal building. The plan calls for the creation of a meeting room, a court room and the renovation of heating and plumbing which would "put Echobrook in working order." The council hopes that the building will be ready for occupation by early 1977. A public hearing will be held on Dec. 21, regarding the completion of the project, on which $50,000 of a maximum of $250,000 has already been spent.

The council also introduced an ordinance that would authorize the improvement of the storm sewer water system of the borough with the construction of drainage facilities for storm water in the Nomahegan Brook. The council is appropriating $300,000 to pay for the cost of the project; the money to be obtained from bond anticipation notes.

School board seeks additional funds from state to ease the budget pinch

The Mountainside Board of Education, caught in a budget squeeze, may be getting some relief from the state; at least for local student transportation costs.

At a special meeting Monday night, the board approved a resolution to appeal to the State Commissioner of Education for an increase of $17,450 in the 1976-77 current expense budget appropriation, an amount equal to that which had been cut from the transportation budget because of state restrictions. Also sought is $1,920 to hire a kindergarten aide, seen necessary because of increased enrollment in that grade.

The resolution was made possible after the board received notice from the state that it was now allowed a $32,130 leeway in its budget cap (the amount of budget increase permitted by the state under the new Thorough and Efficient education law).

Mountainside, in drawing up its current budget, had hoped to cope with the increase limitation by reducing its transportation budget, but later found that a three-bus service would cost as much as the five-bus service now utilized. Leasing buses also would offer no savings.

"This left us in the hole regarding the transportation costs," a board spokesman said. "We would have to pay the transportation costs ourselves, by taking the money from some other part of the budget." State approval of the appeal for the added funds will preclude this possibility.

The board's resolution will now be presented for approval to the Borough Council, which will have 15 days in which to pass its own resolution on the matter. If the governing body approves the board's action, the appeal will then go before the State Commissioner of Education, Fred G. Burke.

Overlook tops figure to retain maternity unit

Overlook Hospital this week announced that 1,749 babies were born in its maternity division last year.

This is well above the minimum birth rate that is under discussion on pending state legislation which may close maternity departments in hospitals with birth rates under 1,000 (or under 500 births at hospitals where travel time to maternity services would take more than 60 minutes).

Reflecting national trends however the birth rate at Overlook has been dropping over the last several years. In 1974, there were 1,817 births recorded, in 1973 the total was 1,909.

The legislation is aimed to cut costs by eliminating unnecessary services that could be more economically consolidated at other institutions, a hospital spokesman commented.

The proposed maternity services regulation will be considered by the N.J. State Health Care Administration Board of which Robert F. Hentzen, Overlook's board president and director, is chairman.

Overlook's women division contains 48 beds and is used both by new mothers and by women who qualify under the state's regulations for gynecological services.

Additionally, Overlook qualifies at the Level II plus category, meaning that it is equipped to care for both normal births and births where there are complications.

Overlook's neonatal intensive care unit provides both the medical and nursing skills and the highly specialized equipment needed to stabilize infants with highly complex birth problems, the spokesman added.

Under the supervision of Dr. Gloria O. Scragger, director of pediatric education, with a staff of pediatric residents and nurse specialists, as well as the pediatric department of the Overlook medical staff, the neonatal intensive care unit has meant life to many infants who would not have survived without such highly specialized care.

Overlook's recent affiliation as the community teaching hospital for the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons keeps the Overlook staff in close touch with pediatric cardiologists, surgeons and other specialists in the pediatric field, offering the availability of constant interchange and referral, as well as faculty status at Columbia for a number of Overlook physicians.

Report from Washington

By Matthew J. Rosaldo

The number of veterans in America has reached an all time high of 30 million — 11 million living in New Jersey.

But, for the first time since 1962, the proportion of veterans in our nation's population has dwindled and, unless a sharp build-up of our armed forces becomes necessary, the trend of proportionally fewer veterans will continue.

This does not mean, however, that veterans will be significantly fading from our midst.

In fact, the percentage of veterans is declining at the barely perceptible rate of 0.1 percent a year. They currently represent an impressive 13.6 percent of the population — a level well above the average of 12.6 percent over the past 20 years.

More than 50 percent of all living veterans are between 40 and 59. The largest five-year age group, 50 to 54 years, contains 4.9 million veterans. By way of contrast, veterans under the age of 20 number only 58,000. There are, however, approximately 4.8 million veterans under the age of 30. Those aged 65 and over number about two million, of which 97,000 are age 85 or older.

Certainly, the debt owed to those who fought for America can never be forgotten or underrated. A welcome era of peace should enhance rather than diminish America's obligation to its veterans.

With this in mind, it is encouraging to look back at the record of the 94th Congress, which paid a great deal of attention to the needs and concerns of veterans.

Several hundred bills and resolutions directly related to veterans' affairs were introduced in the 94th Congress and 12 major bills benefiting veterans were enacted into law.

The newly enacted Veterans' Disability Compensation and Survivors Benefits Act grants cost-of-living increases in monthly payments to disabled veterans, their dependents and certain survivors of veterans who died of service-connected disabilities.

Cost-of-living increases under this law amounted to 10 percent for veterans with disabilities ranging from 10 percent to 50 percent; and to 12 percent for those with higher rated disabilities. In dollars, the increases ranged from $3 a month for a 10 percent disability to $71 for 100 percent disability.

Another new law provided an eight percent increase in the pension of veterans and their survivors.

Additionally, veterans were aided by new laws providing:

—Extra eligibility for housing benefits, including federally backed home loans.

—Higher per diem reimbursement rates for care in State Veterans Homes.

—A seven percent VA pension increase effective Jan. 1, 1977, for totally disabled war-time veterans and for their widows and orphaned children.

—An increase in the income on which eligibility for VA benefits is computed, a change increasing the eligibility of veterans' families for VA benefits.

—Greater eligibility for VA assistance to disabled veterans in the purchase of an automobile or other equipment needs for transportation.

—Increased vocational rehabilitation allowances and services for disabled veterans.

—An eight percent boost in educational assistance and an extension of the period of eligibility for such aid from 36 to 45 months of VA-supported education.

—Increased VA educational loans from $600 to $1,500.

—A veterans' employment service within the Department of Labor.

—A veterans' health care program with a guarantee that at least 10,000 nursing home beds will be available to veterans by 1980.

All this was justified. The 94th Congress ended, however, with some unmet veterans needs and concerns left for the incoming 95th Congress.

In particular, the new Congress needs to apply itself to extending educational benefits for veterans — allowing them to cope with changing vocational needs in a period of economic distress.

Consequently, a bill I introduced in the 94th Congress to extend the period of eligibility for VA educational benefits will be reintroduced when the new Congress convenes next January.

In this, as in all aspects of the GI Bill, Congress must remain alert and responsive to the justified needs of those who helped lead America into this era of peace.

KNOW YOUR GOVERNMENT

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

Voters in two municipalities out of seven which had governmental form revision referenda on their Nov. 2 ballots approved charter changes, reports the New Jersey Taxpayers Association. Most significant referendum was in Atlantic City where voters approved abolishing the commission form of government, under which the city has operated since 1912, for the mayor-council form of the Optional Municipal Charter Law. On July 1, 1977, the city will shift from a five-member commission elected at-large to a form with a separately elected mayor and a council of seven, three elected at-large and four chosen from wards. Atlantic City will be the 23rd municipality since 1952 to abandon the commission form for one of the more modern Faulkner Act charters. The change question was submitted to the voters on recommendation of a five-member charter study commission elected last year.

Three municipalities had referenda on changing from one Optional Charter Law form to another as the result of direct voter petition. In only one, Highlands Borough (Monmouth County), did voters approve the change — from a small municipality plan which has non-partisan elections to one with partisan elections. Rejection of proposed governmental revisions occurred in East Windsor (Mercer County) to mayor-council plan F, a nine-member council chosen both by wards and at-large, thus retaining the council-manager form; in New Brunswick (Middlesex County) to mayor-council plan B which would have provided non-partisan elections instead of the present mayor-council form with partisan elections.

Two other rejections were in Bradley Beach (Monmouth County), where a change from commission to a mayor-council plan of the Charter Law lost by 12 votes out of 1,718 cast, and Somers Point (Atlantic County), where an 1897 city charter act was retained in place of a proposed council-manager plan. The voters in Ocean City (Cape May County) rejected a special charter recommended by a charter study commission, and approved by the legislature and governor just in time to be placed on the Nov. 2 ballot.

Charter Study Commissions were elected in Cranford Township (Union County) and Edgewater Park Township (Burlington County).

Addition of the November election results to the previous experience brings total Faulkner Act form adoptions to 85 municipalities since 1951.

Mueller accepted by orchestra as lead trombonist

Peter Mueller of Bridle Path, Mountainside, has been accepted by the Florida Symphony Orchestra as principal trombonist starting in November. Mueller has been an assistant instructor in music theory at Indiana University for the past two years, while pursuing his master's degree in music at that university.

Formerly a resident of Cummings street, Irvington, Mueller started his musical career as a piano student of Catherine Carver Burton. He played in several Music Educator auditions and attained the status of young American artist.

When the family moved to Mountainside, Mueller continued his interest in music at Gov. Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights, and was president of the school band. After he was graduated in 1970, Mueller attended Baldwin Wallace College as a music major in the conservatory program and was graduated summa cum laude in 1975, with a degree in music education.

He also participated in semi-professional orchestras performing throughout New Jersey. In the summer of 1975 Mueller was on the staff at Interlochen Music Camp in Michigan. In 1975 he was a member of the American Wind Symphony, touring East Coast cities and playing aboard the vessel Point-Counterpoint under the direction of Robert Boudreau.

While at home this past summer, Mueller attended Mountainside Gospel Chapel and was active in its summer music program.

He said he will be available to answer questions and help clarify state legislative issues of current interest, including the "Thorough and Efficient" law, minimum standards, taxes, spending caps, pensions and penal code.

DiFrancesco said he hopes to encourage communication between himself and the people of the 22nd District in Union County whom he represents in Trenton.

"However, I look forward to this additional opportunity of addressing constituent concerns on a more personal level, and anticipate the possibility of scheduling such exchanges with more frequency in the future should the need be demonstrated. My wish is to foster greater awareness and interest in the State Legislature and an understanding of the effects of its decisions on us all."

DiFrancesco, an attorney, is serving his first term in the legislature. He is on the Committee for Institutions, Health and Welfare, and is also a member of the Task Force for Criminal Justice and Consumer Affairs.

Maguire criticizes legislation revising criminal justice code

Assemblyman William J. Maguire (Republican, District 22) charged this week that the proposed revision of New Jersey's criminal justice code "represents an ill-conceived retreat from strict enforcement policies."

"At a time when the rate of violent crime is rising each year, and when the chief justice of the State Supreme Court calls for a crackdown on violent criminals, the Democratic-controlled Assembly has responded by approving legislation easing the penalties for criminal acts," Maguire said. "The logic and wisdom of such an act absolutely cannot be justified."

Maguire supported efforts to amend the legislation and, when the majority defeated the move, opposed the bill in its final form.

"By creating six different degrees of crime, rather than the existing three degrees, the legislation will encourage widespread plea bargaining with resultant lighter sentences and earlier release for those convicted of crimes of violence," the GOP assemblyman said.

The assemblyman said that the proposed revisions could serve to reduce the penalties for such crimes as assault and rape to as little as 18 months in prison.

"And, with an 18-month sentence, the individual could gain a parole and be back on the street within six months," he said.

"Moreover, the highly serious crime of kidnapping, now punishable by life or 30 years in prison, could be reduced to a term of as little as three years and only as great as 15 years," the assemblyman said.

"The proposed code also provides for a review of the sentences for those already in prison, meaning that, should the code be enacted, those now serving in jail can ask to be resentenced under the new law," Maguire said. "It is now difficult to envision the enormous burden such requests will place on an already overburdened court system."

"This general, across-the-board easing of penalties for crimes of violence, coupled with its effect of encouraging greater instances of plea bargaining, will, in its practical application, make the task of law enforcement officers and prosecutors a great deal more difficult," he said.

"Our primary aim should be the removal of the violent criminal from the streets of New Jersey, along with instilling in the criminal element the knowledge that punishment will be swift, severe and certain," Maguire said.

"The proposed revisions of the criminal code not only fall far short of that goal, but actually push us backward and farther away from it," the Republican added.

You can avoid estimated gas bills

Your most recent gas bill gives the exact date when we will next call at your home to read your meter. If we can't get to the meter, we estimate the amount of gas consumed . . . and this can lead to headaches for both of us.

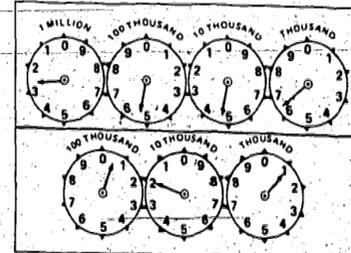

But there are several ways you can avoid estimated bills even if you can't be home when our representative arrives.

For example: (1) If you are not at home, he will leave a meter card; you can easily check the meter yourself and telephone the reading to us, according to the instructions on the card. (2) You can leave your key with a neighbor so that we can borrow it to enter your home. (3) You can let us have a key, with the assurance that it will be perfectly safe in our hands.

How to read your gas meter — Whatever the number of dials on your meter, you read only those that have numbers (not words) printed on them, and you read these numbered dials from left to right.

Almost always, the hand will point between two numbers. The lowest number is the correct one to read.

Write down these numbers . . . there'll be either three or four . . . and telephone them to us. Here are some sample dials for you to test how well you know how to read your gas meter.

Council meets

design must be recomputed because the size of the pipe and engineering requirements must be met. We are six to eight months off of the final design, the bridge portion of which will be paid for by the county.
A public hearing on the project will be held at the next public meeting of the council on Dec. 21.
The council also heard complaints by residents of Coles avenue, who said "We didn't get what we bargained for because we are now compelled to pay interest," referring to the borough's original promise that the residents would not have to pay interest on the assessments they were charged for on the cost of the sewer project.
Borough Attorney Post explained that the council agreed Aug. 17 not to charge interest, but a state law prohibits that kind of action by the borough.
The residents of Coles avenue are complaining because two families who would have been charged for part of the project said their properties would be damaged by the project so the borough agreed to pay them over $3,000 in easements. The other residents say that they must pay now for the easements because that $3,000 was absorbed into the total cost of the project.
The council also heard a request for a zoning variance sought by Robert Forgas, owner of a lawn mower repair business. Post said he had doubts that any variance should be allowed because Forgas' business also deals in the selling of parts, a retail business which is banned in the light industrial area he plans to move to.
Forgas' attorney said that numerous other businesses in the area also are retail businesses, and he asked if the council knew if these businesses had variances. His attorney also said that Forgas must relocate by Dec. 30, and that he has not yet signed a lease for the building he wishes to relocate to. The attorney also claimed that Forgas would have to leave the community if he couldn't get a variance from the zoning restrictions.
The mayor then asked that the council be allowed a week to read the transcripts from the Board of Adjustment concerning the Forgas case, after which the council will reach a decision.

Rutgers prof dies in crash; Roselle driver is charged

A Roselle driver, involved in a fatal accident in Berkeley Heights on Nov. 20, has been charged by police in that community with six violations, including causing death by auto. A Rutgers University professor, returning from a Rt. 78 hearing at the Trailside Museum in Mountaintide, was killed in the crash.
The defendant, Joseph H. Ahrens, 20, of Independence drive, will be arraigned on the charges after his discharge from Overlook Hospital, Summit. He also is charged with driving while impaired, possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana, driving an unsafe vehicle, contributing to the delinquency of minors and having no valid driver's license in his possession.
The accident occurred in Berkeley Heights at Glenside avenue and Glenside road. The driver of the second vehicle, James Anderson, 46, of West Orange, a zoology professor at Rutgers, was killed. He was returning from a lecture at the Trailside Museum in Mountaintide. Officials at Rutgers said Anderson had spoken at a hearing on the proposed completion of Route 78 through the Watching Reservation.
Passengers in Ahrens' pickup truck, which were injured were Jacqueline Dubin, 16, of W. 5th avenue, Chris Lorenzen, 16, of W. 5th avenue, and Anthony Rastolli, 22, of Walnut street, all of Roselle. Helen Chiaruttini, 36, of Washington, D.C., a passenger in Anderson's vehicle, was also injured. All were taken to Overlook Hospital.

Udall encourages environmentalists to 'develop strategy' in anti-I-78 fight

Former Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall last month addressed 350 environmentalists and concerned citizens from all over Union County. Preserving the Watching Reservation from the encroachment of Rt. 78 was the theme at the Trailside Museum in the Reservation. The program was planned by the Watching and Summit Nature Clubs and the Parkland Preservation Fund - a coalition formed to support the legal effort of preserving the park.
Udall encouraged the group to "develop strategy to win this fight just as we won the Great Swamp fight in the early 1960s." While serving as Secretary of the Interior during the Kennedy and Johnson Administrations, Udall took part in preventing construction of the "Great Swamp Jet Port" in Morris County.
Udall compared that fight to the present one against I-78, saying, "Just as the air travel projections were wrong then, so the DOT's (N.J. Department of Transportation) traffic projections are outrageously wrong now." He charged the DOT has not studied traffic properly and has made "basic misjudgments about travel habits, the future of transportation in our country and energy itself."
Udall stated, "The Don't Build alternative is right in terms of history, today, the environment and the people, and we've got to fight to make it win."
He said the state should strengthen existing roads and build up public transportation. Bypassing the park, he said, would protect a refuge for wildlife and people, one of the last areas of its kind in an overpopulated region.

He said it is "amazing the DOT is still following blindly the highway plan set out 20 years ago." He accused the DOT of "stacking the deck" - they built the road on both sides and just want to connect it - the only logical thing to do."
Udall recommended the group ask the DOT whether I-78 is even needed. He stated Americans have been building up myths about petroleum and the "auto culture" when not a single new oil field has been discovered and the nation has not increased oil production since 1968.
"If I'm right," he said, "we must slow down, drive less, eliminate waste and build public transportation systems that use less energy."
Udall was joined by five other panelists: Dr. James Anderson, professor of zoology at Rutgers University, stressed the "totality of the park." He stated that the ecological balance of the Reservation will be seriously disturbed by the highway, which would destroy the "diversity" and "integrity of the place."
David Sive, attorney for Parkland Preservation Fund as well as for the Township of Springfield, said there are three legal issues involved:
"The Draft Environmental Impact Statement is not sufficient.
"If the basic decision the EIS addresses itself is to build the road, then we must try to prove in court that premise is arbitrary and capricious.

"Section 4f states that no road can be built through a park if there is any feasible and prudent alternative."
David Moore, executive director of the New Jersey Conservation Foundation, stated that any way to prevent destruction of open space should be pursued. He added, "We can still correct the planning mistakes of the past."
Wallace Barnes, President of Union County Park Commission, said the Reservation is the "jewel of Union County's park system" and is a unique and irreplaceable resource.
Martin Barnatz, member of the advisory board to the Park Commission, emphasized that "now is an important time to get involved by questioning the DOT about the need for the highway and demanding the Environmental Impact Statement be done properly."
Speakers declared that donations are needed to help finance the legal battle (checks can be made out now to "Parkland Preservation Fund" and sent to: William Madden, treasurer, Parkland Preservation Fund, 47 Little Brook rd., Springfield 07081, or mailed to any of the local Impact 78 organizations. They said that volunteer help is also needed. Readers may call any of these Impact 78 groups: Berkeley Heights, Elaine Portnoy, 484 5509; Summit, June Leatherbee, 273 7709; Springfield, Joyce Garry, 277-4153.

Dayton ends season with 26-18 loss to W. Orange; record complete at 3-6

By MICHAEL PETRO
The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team completed its varsity season by dropping a 26-18 decision to West Orange at home on Thanksgiving Day. The Dayton Bulldogs' season ended at 3-6.

Three fourth-quarter touchdown passes by Dayton quarterback Bryant Burke were not enough to overcome the West Orange lead.

The two teams were limited to just six points in the first half with West Orange scoring in the middle of the second quarter on a 24-yard touchdown pass to Bob Gamba from quarterback Mike Paladino.

In the second half, the teams exploded for a combined 38 points.

West Orange increased its lead to 12-0 on a 10-yard pass to Tom Dorey from Paladino after the victors had recovered a Bulldog fumble on their 25.

On the next series a blocked Dayton punt set up West Orange on the 34-yard line. On the following play Paladino carried the ball in for the touchdown.

Dayton cut the lead to 20-6 on the first play of the fourth quarter when Burke hit flanker Brian McNany with an 11-yard pass, capping a 10-play 75-yard drive.

The Bulldogs scored again after recovering a West Orange fumble on the 43 during the ensuing kickoff.

Six plays later Burke found McNany again, this time with an eight-yard touchdown pass that cut the West Orange advantage to 20-12.

But West Orange did not falter. Taking the ball on its own 42, West Orange moved to the one in 12 plays and Tony Sparo ran the ball in for the touchdown.

The Bulldogs cut into the West Orange lead again on a 38 yard pass from Burke to Steve Pepe for a touchdown that made the score 26-18. Dayton, though, was unable to get possession of the ball again for one last shot as West Orange ran out the clock for the victory.

Penalties and mistakes contributed to the Bulldog loss. Dayton was able to move the ball well against the West Orange defense in the first half but whenever the Bulldogs threatened, an error would cost them the score.

The final starting lineup for Dayton was on offense: Bob Conte and Andy Herkalo at tackles, Skip Liguori and Joe Ragucci at guards, Don Lusardi at center, Brian Belliveau at tight end, Jim Stadler at split end, Ted Parker and Bob Bohrod at runningbacks, Burke at quarterback and McNany at flanker.

Wrestling team begins practice

By MICHAEL PETRO
The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School varsity wrestling team has begun its practice for the 1976-77 wrestling season.

Head Coach Richard Iacono is hoping to improve on last year's disappointing performance.

The team's leading wrestlers are expected to be seniors Alan Layton, Pat Smith and Mark McCourt and junior John Ferry. Layton, the most impressive of this year's squad, is coming off an 11-8 season and a runner-up berth in the District 14 tournament.

Smith, McCourt and Ferry also are expected to carry the majority of the load this year. Other top wrestlers on the team are expected to be Robert Hudak, Steve Odehoff, Pat Picciuto and Dan Solazzi.

SOCCER SCENE

By BILL WILD
Once again the Union County SC showed their fans they can play well when they defeated the Bergen Kickers, 1-0, in an exhibition match last Sunday at Farcher's Grove. The Kickers are a Major Division team, and the victory was a sweet one for the Second Division Union booters.

Coach Rudy Burkhart wanted to use the game to see what his young bench could do and it seemed to me that some of the starters resented being taken out with still more than 20 minutes to go in the match, but Union held on to the slim lead to win the match. I counted three hits on the crossbar and four times the ball was cleared by someone other than the goalie right on the goal line for Union County. All this happened in the last 20 minutes.

Union County will play host to the Ukrainian Youth this Sunday with game time set at 2:30. The Union booters shook off a 3-1 loss at the hands of Eintracht two weeks ago, and it should be a good game.

The Elizabeth Lancers travel to New York to meet Pancyprians. Once again the Lancer undefeated string is on the line, but they seem much stronger than the New Yorkers. The Pancyprians lost last week to the Brooklyn Italians, 2-1, in a Challenge Cup match.

Don't forget the All-star soccer match this week on Channel 13, Saturday at 6 p.m.

The Union Lancer soccer program is still in full swing with the boys due to go indoors soon. You can drop in at Farcher's Grove any Tuesday evening and see about 50 young boys swarming on the field. This is just in the 7-to-10-year-old group. Then there are more older boys at the other end of the field. The boys' team (11-to-13 years-old) is slated to enter two indoor tournaments. There are still openings on the high school junior varsity level.

Prep school gridded

Regional begins basketball practice for season opener against Johnson

By MIKE MEIXNER
The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School varsity basketball team has practiced intensely over the past three weeks with hopes of finding a winning court combination for the Dec. 10 opener against Johnson Regional of Clark. Included among these sessions were two scrimmages against other schools.

Although the squad is stacked with underclassmen (11 Juniors are on the squad), Coach Raymond Yanchus is stressing to his boys that they must look only upon the coming campaign if they wish to succeed in Suburban Conference play. Dayton is hoping to improve greatly over last year's mediocre mark.

Many boys have excelled during the practice sessions. Leading these performers is 6-3 Kevin Doty. Doty, still a Junior, is the club's only three-year starter. His strongest facets are shooting and rebounding. Also shining during practice is point guard John Kronert. Quickness and hustle are his two main fortes.

Other standouts include latecomers Steve Pepe, Brian McNany, and Ted Parker, coming from the football team. All of these boys will play a major role in the 1976-77 season.

Among the juniors are three key members: Willie Willburn, Kenny Baskin and Kevin Walker. Willburn possesses many crowd-pleasing offensive moves. Baskin is a rugged forward, and Walker, a towering 6-5 center, is constantly improving with Coach Yanchus' help.

Peter Jacques, a defensive specialist, will be returning for his second year of varsity play. Pete's offense has also improved considerably.

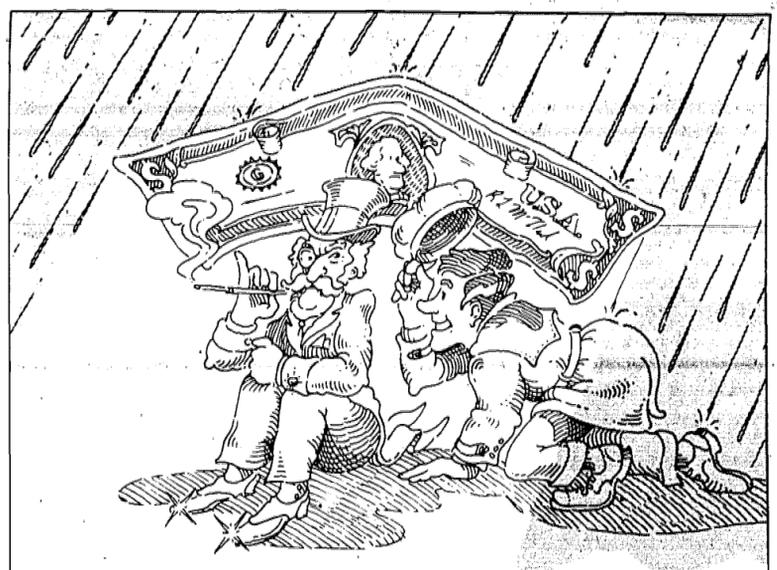

Israel Joseph, a determined junior, will be counted upon to strengthen the bench. Pure shooter Kenny Fingerhut will be counted upon for offensive support.

Three more juniors are also displaying their talents on the court. They are Ernest (Skip) Liguori, David Ironson and Frank Zahn.

Two sharpshooting playmakers, Kenny Feld and Jimmy Siegal round out the youthful squad.

The junior varsity team, directed by Bill McNeese, has also worked out. Coach McNeese now uses a starting lineup consisting of rugged rebounders Dave Barnes and Dave Lauhoff, lefthanded forward Mike Clarke and little sparkplugs Todd Melamed and Steve Geltman.

Help for the future is also provided by Coach Arthur Krupp's freshman squad. Krupp's ace is talented Billy Rose.

Jersey museums to exhibit works at Summit show

A representative selection of works from five New Jersey museums will be displayed in the "Directors' Choice Exhibition," which opens Sunday afternoon at the Summit Art Center. Described as "an exciting concept of artistic and academic collaboration," the works have been selected by the museum directors from their permanent collections as important in the history and development of art. Co-operating in the exhibit are Montclair Art Museum, Morris Museum of Arts and Sciences, Newark Museum, New Jersey State Museum, and Rutgers University Art Gallery.

The show will present primitive artifacts from New Guinea, turn-of-the-century American Impressionist works, nineteenth century French prints, American Modernists, and American folk art. The exhibition was conceived by the Summit Art Center to motivate public interest in New Jersey museums.

The "Directors' Choice Exhibition" will be on view from 2 to 4 p.m. through Jan. 2. The gallery will be closed on Christmas and New Year's Day.

Working parents get break under federal tax revisions

Working parents with young children will benefit from increased child care tax credits under the recently-enacted federal tax revisions, the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants said this week.

Theodore Romak, CPA of Mountainside and president of the society, said that the gains under the new law are limited largely to low-income parents, while those in the medium to upper tax brackets will actually lose some of the deductions they had enjoyed in the past. He explained:

"Because couples with lower incomes usually do not itemize deductions, taking the standard deduction because it saves them tax dollars, they have until now been denied a tax break for child care costs. Now, however, they can still claim child care benefits while using the standard deduction.

"The child care benefits also can be claimed now, even if one spouse works only part-time or is a full-time student.

"Finally, the child care payments can be paid to a relative, providing that relative is not a dependent and that Social Security taxes can be paid on the amount earned by the individual. This is not possible under ordinary circumstances."

The society president noted that the Tax Reform Act of 1976 replaced the child care deduction with a tax credit.

"Now, instead of reducing the amount of taxable income, you subtract a credit from the amount of tax otherwise due. This can range up to $400 per year for one child, or $800 for two or more."

Mrs. Eileen Totten of Summit, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Kay Bahrt of Mountainside, Mrs. Otilia Fonseca of Elizabeth, Larry Herrmann of Clark, Otto Picard of Elizabeth, the Rev. James Roberts of Union and Mrs. Gladys Simmons of Roselle.

Mental health unit to visit facilities in other counties

The Union County Mental Health Board will visit two mental health facilities in neighboring counties on Monday as part of an educational process to acquaint the members with services, facilities and organizational structure elsewhere in the state.

"This trip is the beginning of a systematic attempt to have all members of the county's mental health board physically observe the various components of a mental health system," John Brennan, recently-appointed mental health administrator, said. "We are beginning with some neighboring facilities and then will visit agencies in the county." Brennan, who was appointed in September, formerly supervised the Plainfield Area Drug Abuse Clinic which is operated by the Division of Narcotics and Drug Abuse Control of the State Department of Health.

The two facilities to be visited, the Raritan Bay Community Mental Health Center in Perth Amboy, and the Somerset County Community Mental Health Center in Somerville, are examples of two different types of organizations, Brennan said.

Raritan Bay provides comprehensive services within a service area designated by the federal government. It serves a population of approximately 167,000 in the Perth Amboy area. Within Middlesex County, there are two other federally-funded community mental health centers, Rutgers Community Mental Health Center in Piscataway, and South Amboy Community Mental Health Center.

The Somerset County Community Mental Health Center serves the entire county and receives little federal funding. All mental health services are integrated and implemented through the center.

Members of the Union County board, who are appointed by the Board of Chosen Freeholders, are Craig Exelbirt of Elizabeth; chairman; Junius Jackson of Cranford, vice-chairman;

ADMIRING DISPLAY Children's Specialized Hospital recreation director Linda Tibauda holds a young patient, Mochie, to see the craft work made by patients at the Westfield-Mountainside facility for the rehabilitation of physically handicapped young people. They are viewing the display at Meierderek and Maish, Inc., at 218 East Broad St., Westfield.

Symbolic of therapy Rug feature of hospital addition

When the addition to Children's Specialized Hospital opens next spring, it will feature a unique rendition of the hospital's symbol—a five-foot hooked rug depicting two children under a protective umbrella.

The work, spearheaded by a 16-year-old patient at the rehabilitation hospital for physically handicapped children and young adults, was one of many products of the recreation therapy program recently on display at Meierderek and Maish Realty, Inc., Westfield.

Ceramics, paper mache decorated bottles, baskets, copper tooling and decoupage are among the works on display. Ages of the young craftsmen range from six years to adolescents, according to Recreation Director Linda Tibauda.

The rug, Miss Tibauda noted, was drawn on paper by a staff member and then transferred onto rug canvas by Pamela Jones, 16, of Irvington. Miss Jones, assisted by several other young patients, was in charge of making the rug, and made sure it was completed before she was discharged from the Mountainside hospital recently.

The craft work is enjoyable and gratifying for the patients, said Miss Tibauda. "While having fun, they are also taking part in a form of voluntary therapy as they use their minds and limbs in constructing crafts for their own enjoyment."

Among other recreational activities are photography, cooking, movie viewing and games.

Camp deaths reported

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission reports at least 61 campers died last year of injuries suffered while they handled various types of stoves, grills and other camp equipment.

Brookside draws younger buyers

Brookside Square townhouses, the year's sales success off Rt. 206 in Hillsborough Township, owes its quick acceptance to the "now" generation, according to builders Jack Denholtz and Dave Savage of Red Lion Development Corporation. Homes at the new community are priced from $38,990 to $42,000.

Since its opening in July, 142 of the 198 homes have been sold at the new community. "Young people have responded favorably to our homes which include three ample size bedrooms, formal dining room, large eat-in kitchen, impressive entry foyer, large living room, and a basement larger than those in most homes," according to Denholtz.

"Equally important in their minds is the fact that Brookside Square is also a club which includes swimming pool, tennis courts, clubhouse, garden planting areas and other leisure-time activities.

Services at the new community also rid the homeowner of those nuisance chores such as lawn mowing, snow shoveling and garbage removal. These recreational ad-

Earnings rise at PS

Public Service Electric and Gas Co. has reported that earnings for the 10 months ended Oct. 31 were $129.6 million, equal to $2.23 a share, compared with $101.9 million, or $1.88 a share in the 1975 period.

Earnings for the 12 months ended Oct. 31 increased to $150.3 million, or $2.60 a share from $122.5 million, or $2.28 a share in the year-ago period when there were 4.1 million fewer average shares outstanding.

Robert I. Smith, president, said the improved earnings for the 1976 periods reflected moderate electric sales increases, rate relief, and more effective recovery of higher gas supply costs.

Gambling okay renews interest in Fawn Lakes

Approval of gambling for nearby Atlantic City and recognition of the advantages of the Long Beach Island area have brought renewed interest in the southern Ocean County area where Fawn Lakes, a 45-and-over condominium residential community, is located in Manahawkin.

Fred Duffy, Fawn Lakes sales manager, reports an upswing in both traffic and sales to the community, which offers one and two-bedroom ranch homes priced from $24,950 to $34,750. "Our aim of 40 homeowners by the end of our first six months is well in sight," Duffy says, adding expectation of 50 on-site families by spring 1977.

"In a community like Fawn Lakes that offers clubhouse, swimming pool and varied indoor and outdoor social activities, the more resident families, the more inviting the community is. Our homes are excellent. Fawn Lakes was not designed as a huge community. Our first section comprises only 206 homes." Fawn Lakes homes offer full eat-in kitchens equipped with appliances, countertops and cabinetry, and a 16 cu. ft. refrigerator-freezer. Separate utility rooms include both washer and dryer and are spacious enough for use as hobby or sewing room.

Each home has a formal living room and dining room, leisure room-den which may be used as guest bedrooms, plus bedroom wing with one or more baths. Each home has a garage or carport, ample closet and storage space, and attic storage reached by a fold-down ladder.

Excellent heating and insulation have been built into each home, in the manner that has made the developer, The Mancini Co., successful in the Long Beach Island area for almost a quarter century.

GREENWOOD PARK CONDOMINIUM Townhouses in Bricktown offer prospective owners a chance to enjoy owning a home without the responsibility of maintaining it. The management is responsible for all repairs, landscaping, lawn mowing, snow removal and refuse collection. The Pavilion has year-round recreational facilities, a kitchen, game room, spacious hall, saunas, locker rooms and a nursery for small children. A large swimming pool and a kiddie pool are also available. Townhouses start at $19,990 with five percent down and 7 1/2 percent financing. Greenwood Park is located off exit 91 of the Garden State Parkway

Amenities and upkeep have been carefully planned so that the monthly condominium maintenance fee starts at $29, and covers exterior home maintenance; fire, liability and extended coverage insurance of common elements; landscaping service, snow removal on driveways and walkways; community transportation clubhouse, swimming pool and community offers a very wide range of homes in a price bracket that ranges from $33,000 to about $70,000.

The $29 maintenance fee is for the one-bedroom Pine Bluff model, which is built in a fourplex building. Fawn Lakes also offers duplex and single structure homes, with maintenance costs based on square footage of each home.

The community is on a large tract in the Pine Barrens country, with natural woodland and natural lakes preserved. Homes are built on winding roads and cul-de-sacs for airiness and privacy.

The Fawn Lakes sales and information center is located on Rt. 72 and Meadow road, just 2.5 miles west of the Garden State Parkway exit to Long Beach Island and the Barnegat Bay resort area. Models are open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

About half the sales, according to Duffy, are to people who have frequented the Long Beach Island resort area and recognize the value of resort property which can be utilized for holidays, summers and vacations and for full-time living after retirement. Fawn Lakes requires that a homeowner be 45 years of age.

Shadow Lake community host to English builders

It wasn't exactly a Bicentennial celebration, but England and America shared opinions and views on housing recently when 25 English home builders toured Shadow Lake Village in Middletown. Don Ross, director of sales for Hovnanian Enterprises Inc., acted as host at the adult community.

"They were members of the Northamptonshire Rural Builders Group," Ross reported. "That's a region of the midlands, about 60 miles north of London. While they toured various other residential communities in the region, Shadow Lake Village was especially interesting to them, because the town house concept is firmly entrenched in Great Britain, where space is at a premium."

"Shadow Lake Village gave them a rather comprehensive look at our progress in meeting changing conditions," Ross said. "Our community offers a very wide range of homes in a price bracket that ranges from $33,000 to about $70,000."

Shadow Lake Village is readily accessible from the New Jersey New York metropolitan area. Take the New Jersey Turnpike south to Exit 11, then the Garden State Parkway to Exit 117. Drive south on Rt. 35 for nine miles,

New interest in China spurs study of language at Rutgers

The opening of mainland China to Western visitors in recent years may be the main reason that there are fewer openings for students in Chinese language courses at Rutgers University.

But Ching-tu, professor of Chinese at Livingston College and coordinator of Chinese courses on the State University's campus in New Brunswick, actually sees a number of reasons for increased student interest in what to most of them is a language with few similarities to their native English.

"There seems to be a growing realization among these young people of the value of things Chinese and they hope the study of the language will add to their understanding," according to Tu, who said he has also noted a growing interest among students in oriental religion and cultures.

International politics may have also played a role in attracting students into Chinese courses. According to Tu, the number of students taking Chinese at Rutgers University doubled after former President Nixon made his first visit to the mainland.

Many of these new students didn't last, however. "Relatively speaking, Chinese is a difficult language to master. It's not impossible to learn, of course, but I do feel it takes more time and a definite commitment," Tu said.

The problems in studying Chinese are more or less apparent, even to the non-student. Instead of an alphabet, written Chinese consists of characters, or ideograms, each representing a different word or phrase.

Pronunciation is more difficult as well. The Chinese language employs sounds not common to Western ears and tongues.

But despite the loss of these first-time students, enrollment has steadily climbed in the last three years as interest in China continues to grow in the West. Enrollment has jumped as well in other courses offered by Tu and his colleague, Prof. Peter Li. These are classes in Chinese culture, literature and philosophy, but the language in the classroom is English.

Some students, Tu said, see a potential career growing out of their study of the Chinese language.

"Although the need for Chinese-speaking Americans is still limited, some students do feel that the improvement of Sino-American relations may eventually lead to increased trade between the two nations, creating more jobs for Americans on both sides of the Pacific."

Surprisingly, the study of Chinese is also becoming more popular among second and third generation Chinese-American college students.

"Despite the fact that the language is not used extensively, if at all, in the home, these students are becoming more conscious of their backgrounds, maybe seeking some sort of affinity with the Chinese."

"They realize that they are related to one of the oldest and most significant cultures in the world, and they want to establish ties to that culture," Tu said.

Jobless rate in metro area fell to 8.7 pct. in September

The unemployment rate in the 18-county New York-Northeastern New Jersey area declined from nine percent on August to 8.7 percent in September, dropping below the nine percent mark for the first time this year, it was reported this week by Herbert Bienstock, regional commissioner of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics. The number of jobless area residents declined by 36,000 over the month to 567,000, a 1976 low.

Between August and September, the bulk of the drop in unemployment in the area occurred in Northeastern New Jersey where the number of unemployed was down by 20,000 and the jobless rate dropped from 8.8 to eight percent. In the New York portion of the area, the jobless rate edged down from 9.1 percent in August to 8.9 percent in September as the number of unemployed dipped by 16,000, Bienstock said.

At 8.7 percent, the area jobless rate in September was above the unadjusted national figure of 7.4 percent. However, Bienstock noted, since the spring there has been some local improvement relative to the rest of the nation. The area jobless rate was over one-third above the national in May as compared with less than one-fifth above in September.

Walkers warned to avoid Parkway

The New Jersey Highway Authority announced this week that it has strengthened enforcement measures against hitchhikers and other pedestrians who use the Garden State Parkway as a walkway.

According to Philip J. Felice, operations manager of the Parkway, "It is a violation of Parkway regulations to walk or hitchhike on the parkway as well as to pick up or discharge passengers. So far this year, one fourth of all deaths occurring on the parkway have been pedestrians illegally using the road."

Felice also said that the enforcement measures taken by State Police Troop "F" against pedestrians on the Parkway has resulted in arrests of 150 persons as well as the issuance of 2,425 warnings.

Felice added that, "The Parkway has over 250 entrances and exit ramps which provide access only for vehicles, but because of so many access points, it presents an almost impossible enforcement problem."

"It is the duty," Felice said, "of every person not to walk on the parkway."

While the Sand Dollar is one of the most widely known and popular of all shells, few people are aware of the pretty little legend attached to it. Legend has it that these shells tell the story of Christ's suffering and his glory. The five holes represent the five wounds of Christ. On the front the Easter Lily—its center, a five pointed star representing the Star of Bethlehem. On the back the outline of the Christmas Palm tree reminds us of His birth. When the shell is broken open, five doves of Peace and Good will appear. This fascinating creature is often referred to as the Holy Ghost shell. A beautiful story, beautifully told in sterling silver. $25.00

Suit seeks to end bias in pensions against females

The New Jersey Department of the Public Advocate has filed a legal challenge aimed at ending pension discrimination against some 143,000 female state employees and public school teachers in New Jersey.

The U.S. District Court civil complaint seeks an injunction against the practice of requiring women in the public employee and teacher pension systems to make higher contributions than men in order to obtain identical monthly retirement benefits.

"The practice of charging women more is clearly illegal," Public Advocate Stanley C. Van Ness said in announcing the suit. "Contributions rates under the Public Employees Retirement System (PERS) and the Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF) ought to be set without regard to the sex of the employee."

Van Ness said the department moved to sue only after receiving a ruling from the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission that indicated the disparity in deductions is illegal and a subsequent right-to-sue notice from the U.S. Department of Justice.

The Public Advocate said the state has contended that a higher contribution rate for females is justified by statistics that females as a class live longer than males as a class.

Thus justification is unsound because people should be treated equally without considering their sex," Van Ness said. "There is no reason for the majority of female employees to be penalized because some women outlive men."

Van Ness also pointed out that the state does not use sex-based mortality factors in calculating contribution rates for other state benefits including the contributory life insurance program where such factors would require higher contribution rates for male employees.

Under the state pension system, women are obligated to pay between 33 percent more than men at the entrance age of 16 and 1.06 percent more at the entrance age of 59 for the same retirement benefits.

IRS announces seasonal openings

The Newark Area Office of the U.S. Civil Service Commission this week announced opportunities for seasonal taxpayer service representatives in the Internal Revenue Service. Positions are in various locations of the state.

The commission said that a successful applicant must be available for a full eight-hour day during the training period and also the tax filing period which usually begins in late December and ends in late April of each year. The applicant must also be available to work intermittently at other times as determined by the volume of work.

A successful applicant must pass a written test and have a minimum of two years of college or two years of responsible experience or a combination of both totalling two years. Taxpayer service representatives provide information to the public on agency programs that involve tax documents. The starting salary is $4 per hour.

Further information may be obtained from the Internal Revenue Service in Newark, or by writing, visiting or calling the Newark Federal Job Information Center, Room 127, 976 Broad St., Newark, phone 800-242-5870.

Show at Whitney spans 4 centuries

The exhibition of over 240 works, representing a broad range of periods, styles and techniques, supported by a grant from the NEA. It will present works by colonists of the 17th century as well as those by contemporary artists.

The Whitney Museum is open weekdays, except Monday, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Sundays and holidays from noon to 6 p.m.; Tuesday evening, until 10 p.m. Admission is $1.50, except Tuesday evening, when it is free.

A VISIT TO THE PRESIDENT

Ford autographs baseball of Susan Lynette Berger, 12, of Sussex, N.J., new 1976-77 National Epilepsy Poster Child. Susan, who plays second base with local boys Little League team, extended a thank you to the President at the White House on behalf of the Epilepsy Foundation of America for his statement in recognition of National Epilepsy Month. The youngster represented the New Jersey State Chapter of the Epilepsy Foundation of America before becoming the National Poster Child.

Flu vaccine study at St. Barnabas

A special research study to evaluate influenza immunization for persons 18-24 will be undertaken at Saint Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston, it was announced this week.

In the research study, all participants will receive two doses of vaccine, one month apart. Half the group will receive 0.50 cc subcutaneously; the other half will receive 0.10 cc intradermally. In all participants both the "regular" type A Victoria flu virus and the new swine flu virus will be included in the vaccine.

Blood specimens will be drawn before each injection and one month following the second injection. These specimens will be analyzed by the New Jersey State Department of Health Laboratories and a determination of the antibody response will be made for each participant.

The age group, (18-24) was selected because within it the immunity response to the standard one-dose routine has been unsatisfactory in many individuals.

This bivalent vaccine provides broader influenza virus immunity than the routine vaccine, which is aimed only at swine flu and does not include the type A Victoria strain. If the immunity studies indicate that in any individual the response is less than adequate, an additional dose will be offered.

Dr. William Weiss, president of the medical staff at Saint Barnabas and chairman of the special research project, said, "This is an opportunity for those people who have missed the regular flu clinics to still be immunized against both strains of influenza. At the same time, it is an important research study."

"The program will start immediately and all persons interested in receiving influenza immunization may call the Medical Center (533-5042) or Dr. Weiss (992-4171) to register for the special study. The project will be in progress for the next two months. The program is voluntary and there is no charge.

All health officers in surrounding areas have been alerted and a special mailing to all hospital personnel will be forwarded to individuals in the age group at once.

MILT HAMMER
A resident of Fort Lee, Patricia Ernest was a winner last year in the Young Artists' Competition, sponsored annually by the Music Committee of the YM-YWHA. The competition is open only to classical musicians who are bonafide residents of New Jersey and who plan to undertake, or are presently engaged in, a professional musical career.

Flu vaccine study at St. Barnabas

A special research study to evaluate influenza immunization for persons 18-24 will be undertaken at Saint Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston, it was announced this week.

In the research study, all participants will receive two doses of vaccine, one month apart. Half the group will receive 0.50 cc subcutaneously; the other half will receive 0.10 cc intradermally. In all participants both the "regular" type A Victoria flu virus and the new swine flu virus will be included in the vaccine.

Blood specimens will be drawn before each injection and one month following the second injection. These specimens will be analyzed by the New Jersey State Department of Health Laboratories and a determination of the antibody response will be made for each participant.

The age group, (18-24) was selected because within it the immunity response to the standard one-dose routine has been unsatisfactory in many individuals.

This bivalent vaccine provides broader influenza virus immunity than the routine vaccine, which is aimed only at swine flu and does not include the type A Victoria strain. If the immunity studies indicate that in any individual the response is less than adequate, an additional dose will be offered.

Dr. William Weiss, president of the medical staff at Saint Barnabas and chairman of the special research project, said, "This is an opportunity for those people who have missed the regular flu clinics to still be immunized against both strains of influenza. At the same time, it is an important research study."

"The program will start immediately and all persons interested in receiving influenza immunization may call the Medical Center (533-5042) or Dr. Weiss (992-41
